PREFACE.

IN compiling this list of Reference Books, an endeavour has been made to provide British librarians, library assistants, and research workers generally, with a guide to the books which should find a place in a well-selected reference library. Special prominence has been given to British and American publications, but the more important reference works in the chief European languages have also been included.

It owes its origin to Mr. John Ballinger, Librarian of the National Library of Wales, at whose request I had delivered an annual course of lectures on Books of Reference at the Aberystwyth Summer School of Library Service in 1926-1928. Mr. Ballinger urged me to undertake its compilation for the benefit of workers in this country for whose needs the only available text-book, namely, the American Library Association's Guide, prepared by Miss Isadore G. Mudge, does not specifically cater.

The classification adopted is that of the Institut International de Bibliographie, Brussels. The class marks of the Library of Congress classification have been added at the end of each entry, so far as the schedules already published permit. I am greatly indebted to Mr. Ballinger, Mr. W. Williams, and Mr. J. J. Jones, Misses O. B. Bertie, H. M. Harvey, G. B. Jones and E. M. Williams of the staff of the Printed Books Department at the National Library of Wales, where that system of classification is used, for so kindly undertaking this service for me. I have to thank Mr. Williams in particular for many important additions whereby the usefulness of the list has been much enhanced. The Classification Décimale has not been rigidly adhered to. For example, instead of placing all subject bibliographies together under 016, the bibliography of a subject has been placed with the subject, and the number (016) has been added to the heading to separate the bibliography from other aspects of the subject. Under history, county histories have been arranged alphabetically: the class marks have been retained in the heading.

All books listed have been personally examined where practicable, and full bibliographical particulars are given. When not otherwise stated, the place of publication is London, and the size demy 8vo or under.

My obligations to other workers in the field are many and various, and I have availed myself freely of their labours. I am specially indebted to the Publishing Board of the American Library Association for permission to make use of the bibliographical particulars and annotations to a number of entries in Miss Mudge's "New Guide to Reference Books" and other A.L.A. publications in cases where I have been unable to see copies of the works mentioned. Much use has been made of the following works: Miss Mudge's work above mentioned, the British Museum List of Books in the Reading Room, the British Museum Subject Index, the British Museum General Catalogue, the London Library Subject Index, Miss Edith M. Coulter's "Guide to historical bibliographies," A. Esdaile's "Sandars Lectures on the sources of English literature," R. A. Peddie's "National bibliographies," Swan Sonnenschein's "The Best Books," and Nelson's "Standard Books."

Professor Henry Lewis, Swansea College, and Mr. W. Ll. Davies, National Library of Wales, have given me much assistance with Welsh literature. Professor A. R. S. Kennedy, Edinburgh University, has kindly prepared the section on Semitic literature. I am indebted to my colleagues, Mr. G. A. Stephen, Norwich, Mr. G. T. Shaw, Liverpool, and Mr. H. Tapley-Soper, Exeter, for supplying particulars of bibliographies of their respective localities; to Mr. E. A. Savage, Hon. Secretary of the Library Association, for many valuable suggestions, and to Mr. Stephen for welcome assistance in many ways. To the librarians and staffs of the National Library of Scotland, the National Library of Wales, the Edinburgh University Library, and the Edinburgh Public Library, my cordial thanks are given for unfailing response to the many calls I have made upon them for loans of books. I am also under great obligation to Mr. A. Mill, Mr. J. S. Robertson, Mr. J. A. Christie, and Miss Kate Martin of the Signet Library staff, all of whom have made useful suggestions and have given me much help.

I have to thank Colonel J. M. Mitchell, Secretary to the Carnegie United Kingdom Trustees, for his kindly interest in my work, and the Trustees themselves who, in accordance with their enlightened policy of helping to make known the resources of libraries, have rendered its publication possible by a substantial guarantee against loss to the Library Association as its publishers. I have also to thank the Council of the Association for undertaking its publication, and Messrs. Simson & Co. Ltd., Hertford, for the great care they have exercised in its production.

In the preparation of such a work as this, with its multiplicity of detail, one cannot hope to avoid errors or omissions, and notice of any such will be welcome. It is hoped they will not prove so numerous as to interfere with its usefulness.

JOHN MINTO.

Innes (C.). Lectures on Scotch legal antiquities. xv, 326 p. Edinb., Edmonston & Douglas, 1872. K(or DA770)

The scope of the work is wider than its title seems to indicate. The introductory lecture deals with Scots leading antiquaries and their works. It is followed by an admirable exposition of Scots charters and their contents, explaining the terms used. Lecture 3 gives the history of the Scots Parliament. Other lectures treat of the history of the church in Scotland, old forms of law, and its tenures, and notes on reference books indispensable to the historical student.
