ANNUAL REPORT.

MY LORDS AND GENTLEMEN,

THE official year of this Institution being now terminated, it becomes my duty to present a report of the leading proceedings; and also direct the attention of the Visitors to a few alterations that it is believed would further improve the present Establishment.

First, then I would notice that in the early part of the year, it was decided that a boundary wall, adjoining Mr. Wagstaff's land, should be built, which has been done, and by using our own bricks has only cost £63. It is found to be a great improvement on that side of the property.

Several windows have also been lowered, that obstructed the light, and a new one opened, at the detached building No. 5, on the side of the house occupied by the males. The house has also been painted internally and externally, at an expense of £160.

A "post mortem" room has also been added to the "dead house," a convenience that had long been required.

The airing courts, on both the males' and females' sides of the house have been enlarged, by throwing two of them into one; and the single rooms and dormitories in the old building, have had ventilators and air bricks of an improved construction introduced.

Early in July, it was found that owing to the large increase in the number of male patients, the Asylum was overcrowded. In the midst of the hot summer weather, and at a time when there were some cases of small pox in the house, it was necessary that steps should be at once taken to remove a number of them, for a time until arrangements could be permanently made for additional accommodation. This was done in the first place, by sending during July and August, to the Buckingham County Asylum, sixteen of the male patients, and contracting with the Governors of that Institution to receive as many as twenty patients, at a charge of 11s. 9d. per week each. It was also unanimously decided by the Visitors, to obtain plans and specifications for extending the building on the men's side, to accommodate forty additional male patients; which were accordingly prepared by the architect, and forwarded to the Commissioners in Lunacy for their sanction. This has been given, and the plans have also been approved by the County Justices at the Quarter Sessions, and the Town Council. A contract has also been entered into for the completion of the same by June next, by Messrs. James Hill and Co., at an expense of £1,537. From this sum a portion will have to be deducted for bricks, the contractor will use from stock we have on hand. This extension is progressing satisfactorily.

It will be seen by the accompanying statement of accounts, that our financial position is sound; although, in the early part of last year, we returned to the County and Borough £1,500 which they had advanced two years ago (as working capital), and reduced the charge for patients from 10s. to 9s. for males, and 9s. to 8s. for females. We may now with safety again reduce the charge, from 9s. to 8s. 6d. for males, and from 8s. to 7s. 6d. for females, unless (as I would strongly recommend) the cost of furniture and bedding be added to the maintenance account, which would be in accordance with the spirit of the Act of Parliament, and the custom generally pursued by other similar Institutions; in that case, we might with safety reduce 3d. per head, for both sexes, per week.

At the close of last year, we had a balance in the treasurer's hands of £243 6s. 2d. This year, we have £643 5s. 9d. But on looking over the assets and liabilities of last year, it will be found there was in favour of the Institution £1,805 10s. 7d.; the same comparison this year, shows the sum of £3,221 9s. 1d. in favour of the Asylum, being a saving this year of £1,415 18s. 6d.

Additions have been made to the Library, a Harmonium and a Bagatelle Board have been purchased, a Skittle Alley has been formed, and these, with the usual Concerts (at which some of the Visitors, along with myself, attended), have added much to the gratification and comfort of the patients.

It affords me pleasure to report that the Rules and Regulations have been faithfully carried out, and that the general management is efficient and economical, the conduct of all the servants orderly and attentive, and the vigilance of our Medical Superintendent worthy of all praise.

In conclusion, allow me to recommend to the Visitors the propriety of providing an Infirmary on the female side, for contagious diseases; also on the male side, for the same purpose.

The women's dining room also requires enlarging, which may be done as soon as the private patients are removed.

It would greatly improve the external appearance of the front of the general building, and add much to the light and ventilation in the inside, if the blank windows were removed, and complete ones introduced.

Immediate steps should be taken to plant a portion of the ground just enclosed by the wall (in front of Mr. Webster's dressing rooms), with Italian poplars, or other quick-growing trees.

I have the honour to be,

My Lords and Gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

RICHARD BIRKIN,

CHAIRMAN.

JANUARY 19TH, 1859.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT

TO THE VISITORS.

(READ THE 19TH OF JANUARY, 1859.)

MR. CHAIRMAN, MY LORD AND GENTLEMEN,

THE following Table shows the number of admissions of Patients and the removals by recovery, death, or otherwise, during the year 1858.

				M.	F.	T.
Patients remaining December 31, 1857	130	117	247
Ditto admitted during 1858	55	59	114
Total under Treatment	185	176	361
				M.	F.	T.
Discharged recovered	...	22	14	36
„ relieved	...	27	9	36
„ not improved...	...	3	1	4
Died	...	8	18	26
				60	42	102
Remaining December 31, 1858	125	134	259

The total of 361 forms the largest number of Patients that have yet come under treatment during any one year.

The admissions have also been more numerous than hitherto, with the exception of the year 1846, when the operation of a recent Act of Parliament created an artificial increase.

There are now on the Registers 9 above the prescribed number, namely 1 male and 8 females—exclusive of 16 men temporarily accommodated at the Buckinghamshire Asylum, who are awaiting the removal of the private Patients in order to be readmitted. During the present, and for several years past, the male Patients have been in excess in the Asylum. This county however forms no exception to the general rule of the existence of a greater number of female lunatics,—the discrepancy is accounted for by the fact that 117 lunatic women are confined in the workhouses, against 75 men only.

The admissions were generally of an unpromising character, when the conduct of the Patients, and the threefold frequency of physical causes acting in the production of the disease, as compared with the moral, are taken into consideration. I find that 32 were stated to be both dangerous and suicidal, 21 suicidal, and 35 dangerous to others—or 88 out of 114. From this it may be inferred that in the majority of cases, the fear of the Patient committing some criminal act operated as the stimulus for his consignment to the Asylum, rather than the paramount duty of placing him under treatment with a view to recovery during the early stages of the malady.

Thirteen of the Patients were epileptics, and 7 were afflicted with general paralysis. Of the gross number remaining, 215 are deemed incurable, and 44 curable. The recoveries amounted to 36, of whom 34 were discharged during the first year of their residence. The particulars of the causes of death are given in the Obituary. Thirteen, or one-half the deaths, were occasioned by Epilepsy (5), General Paralysis (3), Apoplexy (2), and Consumption (3).

Owing to a sudden influx of Patients in the month of July, the Asylum was closed for a few days, and 3 men and 1 woman were refused admission. Steps were at once taken to remedy the inconvenience, and 16 men were removed to the Bucks Asylum. In addition 13 harmless chronic lunatics were discharged on trial, of whom 2 were refused by the parishes, 9 were kept, and 2 were returned. Five out-county Patients have been sent to their settlements, and 5 allowed to go home, upon the application of their friends, under the 81st section of the Lunacy Act.

In July the small pox broke out, when the inmates on each side exceeded the allotted number of beds. An Irishwoman was first attacked, and subsequently a second female Patient, both unprotected by vaccination. On this occasion the necessity for an Infirmary or special apartment for contagious diseases became apparent—every other part of the Asylum being occupied by ordinary cases.

I have completed a series of Tables illustrating the progress of the Institution since the opening, on the 12th of Feb., 1812, which will be found useful for future reference.

The readmissions have been 427, namely 227 males and 200 females. The averages are very favourable—especially the death rate. It should be borne in mind that there has been no exclusion or selection of cases during the period; but those afflicted with paralysis, incurables, idiots, the aged and sick have been freely admitted. Nor has advantage been taken of the 53rd section of the Act of Parliament, which permits the reservation of beds for curable cases.

This Table throws light upon the question of the increase of lunatics, which has of late years, on account of its social importance, engaged a share of public attention. On reference to the column for the year 1828, it will be seen that there remained 81 Patients in the Asylum, and that in 1858, one generation later, they had increased to 259, upwards of three times the former number. The disparity would have been still greater but for the discharge of all harmless chronic cases to the workhouses, of out-county Patients to their respective settlements, the restriction of admissions to this county, and the maintenance of several in licensed houses. The increase is mainly due to the gradual accumulation of lunatics in one establishment during a lengthened period, and to the increased longevity consequent upon their being under proper care.

A reference to the next Table, representing the new cases, still shows a disproportionate increase between the lunatics and the general population.

This Table is confined to the new cases arising in the county. The average annual number of admissions thirty years ago was 28; during the last five years it has been 64;—an increase of 128 per cent. in one generation. The general population in this county has increased only 44 per cent. during the thirty years preceding the last Census.

A great proportion of this increase is undoubtedly due to subsequent legislation, which requires that all lunatics, whether paupers or not, who are not properly taken care of shall be sent to the County Asylum for treatment.

This Table and the next show a relative decrease in the admissions of the more educated class, compared with the paupers.

It would be difficult to affirm in the face of these figures that there has been no increase of insanity—on the contrary, there is some reason for supposing that there has been an increase. Every one is aware of the wonderful progress made in the science of medicine during the last century. The prevention of small pox, that most loathsome of pestilences, is reduced to a mere matter of precaution; ague can be both prevented and extinguished; scurvy has only to be detected in order that the cure may commence. These and other discoveries have prolonged the duration of human life, and enabled many to attain adult age, at which there is an increased proclivity to insanity, consumption, cancer and certain constitutional disorders: so that by a process of displacement, some other diseases affect at a later period of life many individuals who have escaped maladies in their youth to which they would have been otherwise liable.

It by no means follows that the increase must continue. A reference to the causes of insanity demonstrates that it is in a great measure a preventable disease. Intemperance, poverty and ignorance, favour its development, and these all tend to decline. Another fertile cause, the hereditary predisposition, dies out naturally. The brain and mental faculties are strengthened by culture and exercise—upon these, and a progressive civilization which shall improve the physical condition, and promote the moral elevation of mankind, we must rely to remove the grounds of fear in those who anticipate a mental degeneracy of the human race.

* Inquests were held upon the above two cases. The first, a Female, who had been in the Asylum upon the last occasion 11 years and 252 days was found dead in bed, in an associated bed room. A post mortem examination revealed a large hydatid cyst of the liver pressing upon the heart. Verdict—"Found dead in bed from Hydatids of the Liver." The second, a determined suicide, after three months' watching contrived to borrow a neckerchief from another patient, threaded it through his stock, and suspended himself to a steam pipe on the stairs, during the temporary absence of the Attendant. Verdict—"That the deceased hung himself, he being at the time a Lunatic."
