The above table shews how large a proportion of the patients admitted in 1864 had either never possessed any intelligence, or had through long courses of mental decay, been gradually reduced to the like condition, as if they had been born Idiotic. Every effort is made to raise these sorely afflicted patients to states of comfort and usefulness.

The Attendants and Nurses are apt to regard such unhappy persons as beyond amendment or improvement; for although they may have known examples of astonishing success, yet the apparently hopeless condition of many who are brought to the Asylum, seems, in spite of the satisfactory, bright, and pleasurable results in former cases to damp their hopes and to almost, as it were, forbid efforts being made for the amelioration of the abject plight of such patients. The greater the despair and the less the hope on the the part of the subordinates in an Asylum, the greater must be the resolution and the firmer must be the determination of the several officers to overcome (no matter how many difficulties present themselves) all obstacles, all misgivings, all doubts, and to place prominently before the eyes of the servants, the good to be effected and the blessings which are sure to follow a faithful and strenuous discharge of duty. Discouragement may not unnaturally gain a footing, either through the absence or destruction of the mental power of the patient, or by the state of bodily decrepitude; or it may be engendered by the contraction of vicious and revolting habits; and the use of disgusting, violent, and obscene language. In some instances, years elapse ere any marked change for the better is produced; for these miserable sufferers have often been so unaccustomed to kindness and sympathy, and have received so little attention, that they are entire strangers to any benevolence, and do not, for a long time, understand the friendly acts or intentions of those under whose care they are placed. Every interference with the use which has grown into a "second nature" is a fresh cause for outbreak and abuse. The "let alone" system would almost seem to be justifiable, and does find some excuse; but all experience proves how demoralizing and injurious a "do nothing" course is, not alone to the worst classes of patients, but how calculated it is to do damage to others, and more especially to those whose Insanity is of a confirmed and chronic character; whilst on the other hand, by successful treatment, they may create new hopes in the minds of the desponding, establish confidence with the timid, give strength to the faithless and doubting; and lastly, teach the friends and relations of the inmates what rich rewards may be reaped by their putting trust and relying with confidence in the well-tried efforts, management and discipline, to change the habits and tempers of their unfortunate connexions.

As is stated in the second table, 31 male and 18 female patients died in 1864. The causes of death have been as follow:—

In the month of January, diarrhœa attacked the more feeble male patients in No. 4 Ward. An immediate investigation discovered that rats had torn away the cement around the junctions, between the soil and fall pipes, and the drains. A soaking had gone on until the rubble and earth under the floor of the small carpenters' shop had been more or less saturated. This was immediately removed, but notwithstanding that removal, the poison of diarrhœa had taken hold of the more feeble male patients, and gradually spread the disorder throughout the Asylum, attacking in its course many of the attendants and servants, some of the officers not escaping:—6 male patients and 1 female died; all of them were persons extremely feeble or afflicted with epilepsy and palsy:—62 males and 24 females were attacked during the months of January and February:—1 other male and female died during the year from diarrhœa and other complications which arose from natural failing of power.

The mortality, although still comparatively low, reached 8 per cent. of the whole number under treatment.

Having described the disheartening condition of a large proportion of the patients received during 1864, it cannot but excite wonder that so many as  $43\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. upon the fresh admissions recovered, and were restored to their families and friends. 2 other males and 5 females, although not coming under the category of recovered patients, left the Asylum improved. 2 males left unimproved. The management of so large an Institution, containing a population averaging daily 500 insane and idiotic inmates, numbers of whom are highly dangerous both to themselves and others, involves risks and responsibilities not generally appreciated or understood.

The regular and punctual performance of each duty, from early morn till night, can alone be satisfactory when nothing has been omitted. The thousand and one calls are for every day; there can be no cessation, and there is no time when anxiety for the welfare of so dependent a household ceases. Night and day are alike; Sunday brings no relief. The charge is unchanged; the liabilities and perils ever continue; there is no freedom from them. Whether in the execution of ordinary tasks, or planning for the entertainment, delight, and pleasures of the insane; they all engross so large an amount of thought, solicitude and care, that they are never from one's mind. The very confidence placed in patients, the liberty granted and the trust reposed in them, the latitude given to the more trustworthy and intelligent, for the exercise of their abilities and ingenuity, conspire to cause anxiety. Every officer and servant need be thoroughly self-possessed, and requires for consolation and succour a firm trust and faith in the beneficent and providential care bestowed on their charge. With deep gratitude I have no accident to record.

The entertainments customary at the various seasons were all enjoyed with the usual hilarity and gratification. Upwards of 400 of the patients have been assembled together on these inspiriting occasions. The summer out-door parties are always particularly agreeable, and are invariably looked forward to with joy. A plentiful supply of fresh fruit is then given to the patients.

The contemplated dissolution between the two Ridings of the Union, which gave birth to this Asylum and has fortunately continued long enough to develope its resources, and the benefits it has conferred on 1897 lunatic patients, cannot but call up feelings of regret on the part of officers who, from its foundation, have taken the deepest interest in the well-doing, not only of the patients entrusted to their care, but for the general prosperity and yearly advancement which its increased and enlarged boundaries and liabilities brought with them.

That the establishment of an East Riding Lunatic Asylum may prove not only advantageous to the insane poor of the Riding, but likewise to the ratepayers of the East Riding, is sincerely hoped. No doubt an extension of the area to be devoted to the insane, will, in the course of a few years, prove a great gain, not alone to the insane patients, but to the East Riding itself. Unavoidable expenses have always had to be paid on the first opening of a County Asylum; but after the countless details are mastered, and organization is established, those expenses will gradually diminish, and then the good to be derived will be tangibly experienced in a fuller freedom for the patients, and an unrestricted opportunity for healthy and remunerative employment, to the relief of the rate payers as well as to the patients' comfort and happiness.

Of the many works in progress since the date of the last Annual Report, the chief of importance are—the erection of a large Steam Boiler and Engine House for a 12 horse-power engine, to drive four powerful pumps in flood times, and other machinery, when required; these additional pumps, it is presumed, will even in heavy rain-falls and rapid thaws, keep, together with the present ones, the large area within the embankment free from back water; any collection of which is so injurious to the drains of the establishment; and another essential work, for protection and safety, is the erection of a high larch wood palisading, to extend all along the river side of the estate and also the north boundary. It will be many months before these works are completed. An open palisading on the Ings side is the only kind of fence at all likely to stand. The old hedge has been stubbed up, and a new one planted in its place. The space, in places, several yards wide between this new hedge and palisading, is planted with larches and oaks, for the double purpose of forming a living breakwater, and ensuring a supply of home grown larch for rails and pailings, and of oak for posts some 30 or 40 years hence.

The cost per week of each patient has not been met by the charge of 7s. 7d. The beef and mutton have entailed an outlay of £420 more in 1864 than in 1863. Calico and linen fabrics have been dearer, whilst the coals used were more in quantity, mainly through the large consumption caused by pumping the backwater for 50 days and nights over the embankment at various intervals. The consequence has been that each patient has cost 5d. per head per week more in 1864 than 1863. I do not, however, at present recommend the weekly charge to be raised for patients coming from the Ridings, but it can hardly be reasonable the Institution should suffer loss for the maintenance, &c., of out County or private patients; and therefore the boroughs of Scarborough and Ripon should be forthwith apprised of their liability to pay at the rate of 12s. 10d. per week for the year 1865. A step has already been taken in respect to the private patients, in accordance with the instructions I received at the last Christmas Meeting.

I have the honour to subscribe myself

Your very faithful and obedient Servant,

SAMUEL HILL.

P. S. The prudence of having a Fire Engine, Hose, &c., at the cost of £164 5s. 6d. on the premises, can hardly be doubted. By the rules, the patients and servants are to practise once every fortnight, so that should an emergency occur, there may be no impediment to the immediate use of the Fire Engine. As a preparation in case of accident, the means for a plentiful supply of water are being made into large underground tanks, close to which the Fire Engine can be brought. The patients are already tolerably used to the pumping, and give evidence of how capable they are of prowess, in the moment of danger. There is nothing new in this feature of their character, for on several occasions they have volunteered their services with good effect, not only for the saving of their own Asylum, but also for the extinguishing of large fires in the neighbourhood.

N. B. For those who cannot take gruel, 67 oz. tea, 124 oz. coffee, 30 lbs. sugar, are weekly given out. Butter is also given for each patient.

Great additions are made to the above table; as for example, those patients who do not eat pease soup and irish stew, on Mondays and Thursdays, are allowed rice and suet pudding, and all epileptic, palsied, aged and weakly patients, are allowed extra diet, consisting, according to circumstances, of beef-tea, mutton broth, egg pudding, bread, rice, sago and arrow-root puddings, mutton chops, minced meat pie, porter, port and sherry wine.

The idiotic classes are allowed a pint of good meat broth, with bread and vegetables, every morning at half-past ten o'clock, together with the fireman, bakers, house cleaners, &c.

* On Thursday, two ounces of cheese are substituted for the male patients, in lieu of butter for supper.

Indulgences consist of tobacco, beer, tea, &c., and may be said to be enjoyed by nearly all the patients; since but few are, at any time, unemployed.

The pease soup and irish stew are made with legs of beef and necks of mutton, Scotch barley, vegetables, herbs, &c.
