MEDICAL REPORT.

ANOTHER year continues to show the Aberdeen Asylum to be under the extent required by the necessities of the district, for which it has so long furnished sufficient accommodation. The cases refused have not been much under the number of those received.

By reason of the condition of the Hospital, the number of new cases has had to be regulated by the number of deaths and dismissals. The admissions and removals have almost exactly balanced each other,—the number of the former having been sixty-one, and of the latter sixty. The inmates under care and treatment at the commencement of the year were two hundred and seventy-eight, and at its conclusion two hundred and seventy-nine. The average number of patients during the period was two hundred and seventy-four. Nine patients died; thirty-one were dismissed completely recovered; and twenty others removed in various conditions of improvement.

These are, in several respects, different from ordinary results, and from the usual history of the Asylum. For many a preceding year had the dismissals continued to be much under the number of admissions; and also, for the first time, has the mean number of residents declined below the average of the antecedent year. The recoveries have been at the rate of upwards of fifty per cent. on the admissions,—the average rate of the Institution being but forty-five. But the most characterising feature in the medical history of the year is the small proportion of deaths in relation to the cases treated. While the last Annual Report had the peculiarity of representing the number of recoveries as higher than known in any previous statement of the results of medical treatment in this Institution, in the present Report is exhibited the smallest number of deaths that has hitherto been recorded in its history,—the mortality of the year having been less than half what was to have been looked for from past experience.

There have been no accidents of a serious or unusual kind, except two fractures of the arm—one from an accidental fall in an elderly person, and another from the sudden and unexpected assault of a violent patient. Though an increased amount of freedom is allowed to orderly inmates, there have been only two successful attempts at escape;—one by a male patient, from the outer grounds of the Hospital; and one by a female, chiefly through the carelessness of an attendant. Both escaped in the evening;—the latter was recovered on the same night, and the other on the subsequent day.

No epidemic has affected the patients. One case of scarlet fever occurred in a servant of the house, and was immediately removed before occasioning the infection of any other inmate.

The following alterations and improvements in the buildings have been carried out since last Report:—The addition of improved sets of bed-rooms for noisy and helpless patients; the establishment of two sick wards or infirmaries; the extension of Perkins's Heating Apparatus to almost all the sleeping apartments of the Hospital; the building of a commodious hall and its occupation as a chapel; the addition of workshops; and the removal of various walls, interfering with a better arrangement of the patients and with improvements in the airing-yards.

Opportunity has also been taken to draw out an ample code of directions for the Attendants in the performance of their duties, which, having received the approbation of the Managing Committee, has been printed accordingly. At the same time, for the guidance of the Matron and House Steward, the dietary of the Hospital has been revised, and its various scales exhibited in tabulated forms, readily intelligible and easy to be practically worked.

It is not improbable that the increasing size of the Establishment may render some alteration desirable in the number and the arrangement of duties of its resident officials.

In addition to the ordinary inspection of the Visiting Committee, as also of the Sheriff, the Asylum has this year been visited, among others, by Mr. WESTON MILN, President of the Managers of the Dundee Lunatic Asylum; by Dr. JOHN WEBSTER, one of the Governors of Bethlem Hospital, well known by his writings on Lunacy matters; and on several occasions, by members of the Lunacy Commission, recently appointed by Her Majesty to inquire into the condition of the public and private Asylums of Scotland, to whom the fullest information and every means of investigation have been afforded.

ROBERT JAMIESON, M.D.
