A LITTLE DIALOGVE BEtweene Soarenes, and Chirurgi. Soarenes.

Ow our old Freindes have done all their long talke veryprofitable to each other, a alfo to as many as have heard them. I truft we that fpende the tyme to the like effect, with no leffe profite, tha Marcellus and Hilarius, which had comfort in feeling forth the fweete flowers of fun-Day Chapes in the fyeld, to their no fmall delyte, all this laft Sommer. But now the hozie, from w, darke wins ter weather approacheth nere, as Perfius fapth: Admouit iam brums foco te. Baffe Sabino. Baffus, cold womter Doth Diaw thee to the fyre, in the 900ms tapne called Sabinus, fapth be. Colo weather fapth be, Draweth nere, Flora is fledd , Boreas, perceth, and cauleth al beaftes to tremble, bereuinge theyin of their pleafant Somer fhoudes, buder the fweete leaves of greene Tres. Sabiusa fas The Carth is new couered with whyte Snowes, hard craking Jce, and mous spounhouve froftes. Byzdes do quiuer and quake, lurbing in the holes of Bockes Flora a Gob and olde Barnes, for their reliefe. The Beaftes with fiender empty bellies' bes of flos mersa harlot and cold tremblyng Carkaffes. Doe clufter in flockes. or floond them felues of flome. buder the naked Bulhes , with their faces from the fierce wyndes. Thele Borias the thost Dayes , and long nightes , caufe both man and beaft to Diaw togeas wenter ther in warme places, and close houles, now the pope Bees, if they labous red wel in Sommer, haue their clofe fweete Delptes in warme Dyues in winter. Thus both Pature geue prouidence to fondy creatures, to forelee Daungers to come , as honger, cold ,forme . furthermore, God & Pature, have from the beginning, taught both man and beaft, not onelye to reliene themfelues in health . but in the tyme officknes, and Soarnes: each of the are taught how to correct, ftop, a purge fuch humonrs, as bo offend nature. Thus man artificially, and beaftes naturally, haue a wonderful prouts

Dence, whereby the glory of our Lozd, and God both appear of no final 98a fefty, and deupne power: which prepared his incentible creatures, as Man, Bealt. fylb, foule, Serpentes.ac. and one of them to be both meate and medecine for an other. Dis name be prayled therfore. Amen, Chirurgi.

Di beit good biother you haue reuerently fpoken , of the Dinine pionidence. I perceine you did heare and marke wel, what end out good frend Hilarius made, prayling God with the holye prophete Dauid. Dfal ciu.

Soarenes.

forfooth, although J be fore in body, pet I truft to beginne with good comfort, with a pleafaunt Comodpe, and notend in a featful Tragedies be Tragidye, for I have hard fap in the wrytying of the holy Cuan-gell, which reporteth from the mouth of God, faping: before al thin end the fame. ges feeke the bingdome of God, and then thall all thinges begeuen buto pou. 318.2

The fymple bouble of com is where no fubfraunce is loft, and is enfounded & cus pound, red with one intencion alone. Ind of this, wee thail make no further adoe, becaule of the facility therof. for why? Coblers , Carters , and women bee able to cure fuch woundes pow that which is properly called a copounded. would is where fome fubftaunce is loft, and neceffarily requiseth opuers intentions in the cure, as thus. To buite that which was feperated, to reftore that was loft, and to difplace an apoftumation, if it bee concurraunt with the fame. But here note, that amonges woundes, fome be bucurable. And it is not inconvenient to begin at the barte, as the cheefe forte and principal part of the body .

Then we fap, that every wounde, annoying and perifbing the fubftance of the harte, it is deadly and bneurable. for why as Aucen farth the harte durying the natural lyfe . may not fuffer any breache of continnance. And therfoze to knit by much in one knot, fuch woundes as geue let, and im= be mostall peachment, to the bertue , which is necellary to lyfe, take mankynd away, without remedy. For my felfe lawe thys in a valyaunt Captaine, at Barwicke, who had a wound in the Acche Anda certayn Philicion toke the man in hand , and wylling to halt the helping of the wound, which ought to have ben kepte open, he cloted it by with a feame: whereupon, the patient fell into ettreme. paine, and as it were, into a continuall conutilion, infomutch, that if a cuns ning Chirurgian, called Date Dardie, a Stot. had not put to hys Band the foner.he had bome his owne mellage to y bead. But to out purpole, where I layd, not with flanding, they be cured by the fysit intencion, this is buder ftanded, that is where there is no loft fub ftauncesne wly produced in them. and fecond ins for if there were, the cured fould be after thefecod intencion. and where any fubftaunce is loft, and ought newly be produced, fewing that be righte ftraunge and bntoward for why, it can not other wyle be well cured , but court digettio by the fecond. for nature feeketh euer reflitucion of the loft part , weth no leffe carefulneffe, than the mother her onely loft Sonne. Wherefore, if wee minde to reffore that, we may not fowe by the wound, of it be recourted. If the wound be deepe, and greatlie altered, by the receipt of the ayie, think of no lewyng. for matter is now fecretly cauled, by realo of the agre, which cryeth out for Digettion, and absterlion. And if the impericke , whome pee know of, had thus handeled the matter, the honeft man ye wote of, had ben pet a line. for when he had taken a large galh in his Legge, and long had left it open to the ayze, thynking to be notablye well cured: caufed a Chirurs gian to be fent for, which immediatly in all the haft (a Gods name ) feweth bp the wound. what woll ye more? And in cafe the wound come by meanes of a bule then attempt not to few it. for without boubt, ye that thortly perceive, that ve labour in vavne.

Whereof Galen gineth bg a warning word, fayinge: that it foloweth of nes cellity, that a bule thould putrifie, and tourne to corruption. And by the reason of thys, we thall calely know the correction of bleers, which thying as we take it confifteth in knowledge of the caufes, rectification of complexions.and comforting of members. Dow Sanies is nothing els, but corrupted foode or nourifyment whych nature was not as ble to Digelt, nep ther turne into the fecond humours, which they cal alew, Dewe, and the humour bunamed : Sanies is cauled and generated, when nutrityde matter, comming og all ready comelto a member, may not be cos perfed into the nature of a member, by reafon of the weaknes of p fame, or superfluityes of other members approching together. for as Galen with teth, the firong members boe oppreffe the weake, and put of they fuperflutties to them, whych be turned into Sanies, or birulency moherefore, whe we purpole to cure any weake meber, we mult endenour our felues worth all pollibility, to ftregthen it wyth fome ABedicine cofortative, that it may put of ftraige fuperfluities. But yet or ever we take the cure in hand, I think it mutch appertayning to our duety, to thewe what way we mynde to follow in the cures. for 3 have found two, after Auicen, whereof the one doth only moulte, and the or ther only day. But to fay truth neyther of them liketh me, by it felfe alone. fortf I bled the way of moulting, in a brute. I might well doubt of putrefaction, because thys way greatly promoteth putrefaction . for it is Done wyth oples, and polkes of Egges, whych caule puttefaction in a baus when to bay a fed place. On the other part, the way of Dipuyng downe, with Aqua vita, a mound in y the pouder, whych Auicen Deferibeth in the Chappter, Deincifione cutis, befoge head. alledged, both not fully content me, though it have two parts: whereof the one Defendeth from putrefaction, but fother parteth not the baufed. Reyther muft you maruayle at the matter, my frend Soareneffe, and your felowes, as byd one, when he heard a man lay, that Hony wasmoult infeeling, and Dyping in bettue and workping. Merely of hys corpulency, if I may to fay, it moyfleth, but as touching his qualityes a vertue, hys operacion is byging. But it was no wonder, that the young phylolopher, dyd not perceyue the matter : Alag he had not yet read ouer bookes of limples, nepther the Bynciples of 10hilolophy. Lady Janozaunce cauled him to mule, but not to learch the caule, as did the 19 hylolophers, as Anflotle wigteth, in his supernaturals. De woulde not haue maruspled, if hee had read Ariftotle concerning the mynglinge of the Clementes : whereby hee foulde haue cafely percepued, that Dony is of the Qualityes, whereof I reported it to be, by reason of the complection in mynglyng, if it bee aduitedly confydered, according to his effence and Mature. And if there fhall bee any man, whych thall not percepue throughly, the Bature of the Symples, contayned in Dedicines, pet let hym affuredly perfwade hymfelfe, that I well belezybe no other way of Cure, than I have wyptten, and have not thereby, both profpt and good well fpent tyme : yee have beard the cautelles and prouitions, whych I recken neceffary. D what Jelouffe was betweene Infiopa, and Licus ber hulband, the The Icloude Sping of Egypt, and what a cruell Murther came thereof, I neede not to ferch no more Gramples from old, of the forgotten world, and time paft. for thys Cuyll is to common, as wee do fee by dailye experience, and a APerueplous plague, both pypuate and publique: the effects thereof are no> thong but miferable beracion, Dolour, Care, Agonie, and Difpappe. Ind this is to conclude, there is no remedye, but paryence perforce: for the olde Dzouerbe is, that Derefie, frenfpe ; and Jeloufie, be fo bied by the 28one; that they wyll neuer out of the fleth, therefore ble no Philicke for it.

There is allo an other cupil, topned to conditions of wyched Spen. whych is none of the pallions of the Dynte, not yet an infirmitre of Pature : but rather to bee numbed among the fynnes Doutall, whych is Telonde. an euvil mott intollerable , and mofte obious of all bnto a good fa Ingratitude tute, whych is called Ingratitude, churlifbnes.oz bubyndneffe.
