e ☞ Gardein, custos. G. Gardién, and yet the German Warden is more true it. It is yet stild generally him that hath the charge or custodie of any person or thing, but most notoriously him that hath the education or protection of such people as are not of sufficient discretion to guide themselues and their owne affaires, as children and idiots, being indeed as largely extended, as both * tutor & curator among the Civilians. For whereas tutor is he that hath the government of a youth, until he come to fourteene yeeres of age, and curator he that hath the disposition and ordering of his substance afterward, until hee attaine to one and twentie yeeres, or that hath the charge of a franticke person, during his lunacie, the Common Lawyers vse but only Gardien or Gardian for both these. And for the better understanding of our Common Law in this thing, you must know, that as tutor is either testamentarius or à prætore datus ex l. Atilia, or lastly legitimus, so we have three sorts of Gardeines in England, one ordained by the Father in his last will, another appointed by the Iudge afterward, the third cast vpon the minor by the law and custome of the Land. Touching the first, a man having goods and chattels neuer so many, may appoint a Gardian to the bodie or person of his childe, by his last will and testament, until he come to the age of fourteene yeeres, and so the disposing and ordering of his substance, until what time he thinketh meet, and that is most commonly the age of one and twentie yeeres. The same may be doe, if he haue lands to neuer so great a value, so they hold not in capite of the King, nor of any other Lord by Knights seruice. And in the former case, if the father appoint no gardein to his childe, the ordinary may appoint one to order his mouueables and chattels, until the age of fourteene yeeres, at which time he may chuse his guardian himselfe, accordingly as by the Ciuill Law he may his curator. For one rule with the Ciuilians in this case is held, and that is, * Iouito curatore non datur. And for his lands, if he hold any by copie of court roll, commonly the Lord of the Fee appointeth him a Guardian, vntill hee come to the age of fourteene yeeres, and that is one, next of Kind to the minor of that side, that can hope for least profit by his death. If he hold by charter in socage, then the next of Kinde on that side, by which the land commeth not, is the Guardian, and he vpon called Guardian in socage. And that which is said here of Socage, seemeth to be true likewise in petit sergeantie ann. 28. Edw. 1. Stat. 1. And the reason of this * ¶ Fortescue giueth in his booke intituled, a Commendation of the politike law of England, cap. 44. viz. because there might be suspicion, if the next kinsman on that side, by which the land descendeth should haue the custodie and education of the childe, that for desire of his land he might be intised to worke him some mischiefe. Lastly, if a man die seised of lands, holding by Knights seruice, leauing his heire in minoritie, that is, vnder one and twentie yeeres, the Lord of the Fee hath by law the custodie both of the heire and his land, vntill he come to age. Vi. Stat. 1. ann. 28. Edw. 1. And the reason of this Fortescue likewise giueth, for that hee to whom by his tenure hee oweth Knights seruice, when he can performe it, is likeliest to traine him vp in martiall and ingenuous discipline, vntill he be of abilitie. But ¶ Polidor Virgil in his Chronicle, lib. 16. saith, That it was nouum vectigalis genus excogitatum, to helpe Henry the third, being oppressed much with pouertie, by reason he ruined the Kingdome much wasted by the warres of his Ancestours, and therefore needing extraordinary helpe to vphold his estate. Yet the 33. chap. of the Grand Custum. maketh mention of this to haue beene vsed by the Normans. Here is to be obserued, whether land in Knights seruice held in capite, or of another Lord, or some of the King, and some another. If of the King, whether of the King alone, or not, all is one. For the King in this case is Guardian to the heires both person and land by his prerogatiue, ¶ Stawnf. proreg. cap. 1. If he hold of a common Lord, it is either of one alone or more. If of one only, then is hee Guardian of both person and lands; if of more, then the Lord of whom he holdeth by the elder tenure, is Guardian of the person, and carry one of the rest hath the custodie of the land holden of himselfe. If the priorities of the tenure cannot be discerned, then is he Guardian of the person that first happeth him, ¶ Term. of the Law, & Stawnf. f. 19. which maketh mention of Gardein in feit, and Gardein in droit, that is, in deed, and in law. I take the first to be him that purchased or otherwise obtained the ward of the Lord of whom the land holdeth. The second him, that hath the right by his inheritance and seigniorie, ¶ Old Nat. br. f. 94. Then is there Guardein per cause de gard, who is he that hath the wardship of a minor, because he is Guardian of his Lord, being likewise in minoritie, ¶ Stawnf. f. 15. b ☞ Gentlemen, (Generosus) seemeth to be made of two words, the one French. (Gentil, i. honestus, vel honesto loco natus) the other Saxon, (Man) as if you would say, a man well borne. So that Gentlemen be those, whom their blood and race doth make noble and knowen. ἐυγενεῖς in Greeke, in Latine nobiles, ¶ Smith de Repub. Angl. lib. 1. cap. 20. Vnder this name are all comprised that are aboue Yeomen: so that Noblemen be truly called Gentlemen. But by the cause and custome of England, * Nobilitie is either maior or minor: the greater containeth all titles and degrees from Knights vpward: the lesser all from Barons downeward, ¶ Smith vbi supra, cap. 21. The reason of the name groweth from this, that they obserue gentilitatem suam, that is, the race and propagation of their blood, by giuing of armes, which the common sort neither doth, nor may doe. For by the coat that a Gentleman giueth, he is knowen to be, or not to be descended from those of his name, that lined many hundred yeeres since. Herebart, that this is neglected, where substance faileth to maintaine the countenance. For many of great birth fall to poore tie, whose posteritie hating and labouring in vaine, haue small incouragement to looke after the tales of their ancestors, and so in time slip into the number of the ignoble sort: yet if they by their vertue or fortune, can againe aduance themselues to sufficient abilitie, the Herald out of his obseruations, can restore them to the coat of their progenitors, and now and then helpe them to one, that their ancestors neuer wore. Gentiles homines, sic in * Tiraquel. de Nobilitate cap. 2. pag. 53. Tully in his Topicks thus saith of this matter. Gentiles sunt, qui inter se eodem sunt nomine ab ingenuis orundi, quorum maiorum nemo seruitutem seruiuit, qui capite non sunt diminuti. And in the first booke of his Tusc. Questions, he calleth Tullum Hostilium, one of the Kings of Rome, Gentilem suum.

Why a Knight should be termed in Latine Miles, a Souldier, may be for that in the declining time of the Roman Empire, the denomination of Milites, i. Souldiers, was transferred to those that conuersing neere about the Princes person, bare any of the greater offices in the Princes court or traine: or rather among vs so called, for that they held lands or inheritances, as Tenants in fee by this tenure, Knights seruice, to serue in the warres: for those lands were termed Knights fees, for that they receiued those lands or Manours to serue them in the warres, of whom they receiued such lands: whereas others who serued for pay, were called Solidarij, Souldiers, ¶ Camd. * Knights of the Garter. c ☞ Knights of the Garter, Equites Garterij, dicti à G. Iartiére or Iartiér, i. periscélide, fascia poplitaria. It signifieth with vs both in diuers statutes and otherwise, one especiall Garter, being the ensigne of a great and noble Societie of Knights, called Knights of the Garter. And this is καθ' ἐξοχὴν, proper excellentiam, as Poeta among the Grecians was Homer, among the Romans Virgil, because they were of all others the most excellent. This high Order (as apparently by Mr. Camden and many others) was first instituted by that famous * King Edward the Third, vpon good successe in a skirmish, wherein the Kings garter (I know not vpon what occasion) was vsed for a token. But I know that Polydore Virgil calleth it another fashion of the original: his grounds by his owne confession grew from the vulgar opinion: yet as it is, thus take it as I haue read it. Edward the Third, King of England, after he had obtained many great victories, King Iohn of France, King Iames of Scotland, being both prisoners in the Tower of London at one time, and King Henry of Castile, the bastard expulsed, and Don Pedro restored by the Prince of Wales, and Duke of Aquitanie, called the Blacke Prince; did vpon no weighty occasion first erect this Order in Anno 1350. viz. * He

* Edw. 3. first instituted this Order.

* The occasion of the Institution dancing with the Queene and other Ladies of the Court, took up a garter that happed to fall from one of them: whereat some of the Lords smiling, the King said unto them, that ere it were long, he would make that Garter to be of high reputation, and shortly after instituted this Order of the Blew Garter, which every one of the Order is bound daily to weare on the left legge being richly decked with gold and precious stones, with a buckle of gold, and having these words written, or wrought upon it: * Honi soit qui mal y pense: which is, Shame take him that thinketh euill. M. Fearne in his glorie of generositie agreeth with M. Camden, and expresseth at large the victories, whereof this Order was occasioned. Whatsoever cause of beginning it had, it need not seeme a base originall, seeing as one saith, Nobilitas sola est atque unica virtus, Nobilitie lies vnder loue. The order is inferiour to none in the world, consisting of * 26. martiall and heroicall Nobles, whereof the King of England is the chiefe, and the rest be either Nobles of the Realme, or * Princes of other Countries, friends and confederates with this Realme, the honour being such, as Emperors and Kings of other Nations have desired and thankefully accepted it. He that will reade more of this, let him repaire to M. Camden, and Polidore, and M. Ferne, fol. 120. * The Ceremonies of the chapter preceading to election, of the investures and robes, of his installation, of his vow, with all such other obseruances, set in Sir William Segars new booke, intituled Honour militarie and ciuill, li. 2. ca. 9. fol. 65. There are depending on this honourable order * 26. poore Knights, that have no other sustenance or means of liuing but the allowance of this house, which is given them in respect of their duly praier, to the honour of God, and (according to the custe of those times) of S. George. There be also certaine Officers belonging to this Order, as namely the * Prelate of the Garter, which Office is inherent to the Bishop of Winchester for the time being, the Chancellor of the Garter, * the Register, who is * alwaies Deane of Windsour. * The principall King at armes, called Garter, quem vide in Herold, whose chiefe function is to manage and marshall these solemnities at their yearely feasts and installations. Lastly, the Vsher of the Garter, which (as I haue heard) belongeth to an Vsher of the Princes chamber, called Blacke rod. The seat of this College, is the Castle of Windesour, with the Chappell of S. George * erected by Ed. 3. and the Chapter-house in the said Castle. * Holpinian in his booke de origine & progressu Monachatus, maketh mention of this honourable Order, taxing it by ignorance of our tongue, Ordinem Cartteriorum Equitum, and Charteriorum Equitum: which you may reade cap. 307. as also Bernardus Giraldus in his historie, lib. 15. c. 185. * Garter signifieth also the principall King at Armes among our English Heroldes, Created by K. 8327 ☞ Moyzgage. G. Mort-gage, Mort-gaige, Morteum vadium vel hoc gagium, is compounded of two French words (Mort, i. mors, & Gage, i. pignus, vinculum) It signifieth in our Common Law a pawne of Land or Tenement, or any thing moueable, sold or giuen for money borrowed, borrowed, peremptorily take the creditors foe euer, if the money be not payed at the day agreed vpon. And the creditor holding Land or Tenement vpon this bargaine, is in the meane time called tenant in mortgage. It seemeth that the cause why it is called Moet-gage, is for that it standeth in doubt, whether the feoffor or the borrower, (as you may call him) will pay the money at the day appointed, or not. And if he faile to pay, then the Land which he laid in gage, vpon condition of payment of the money, is gone from him for euer, and so dead to him vpon condition. But if he pay the money, then is the gage dead to the feoffee or tenant, and for this cause called Mortuum vadium, Mortgage, ¶ New Termes of Law.

Mullet, quid.

8390 ☞ Mullet, it a word vsed in the common Law, but how aptly, as the Author of the new Termes of Law saith, he could not tell. For according to the proper signification, Mullet is a dessed woman, as Vlpian saith, or rather a woman that hath had the companie of a man, &c. but in our Common Law is otherwise taken for one that is lawfully begotten and borne, and is alwayes vsed in comparison with a bastard, only to shew a difference betweene them. As for example; A man hath a sonne of a woman before mariage, and that is called a bastard, and vnlawfully and after hee marieth the mother of the bastard, and they haue another sonne, this second sonne is called Mullet, that is to say, lawfull, and hee shall be heire vnto his father: but that other cannot be heire to any man, because it is not knowne nor certaine in the iudgement of the Law, who was his father, and for that cause it said to be no mans sonne, or * the sonne of the people. And alwaies you shall finde this addition to them, Bastard eldest, and Mullet youngest, when they be compared together. Why he should be called Mullet, it may be that the Latine word Mullier, which is generally for a woman, &c. vt supra, hath beene restrained and applied as the Spanish Mugér, the Italian Moglie, comming of the Latine Mulier, and the French Femme comming of the Latine Femina, which three words in those three tongues are only vsed for a wife, as in Spanish Mi Mugér, in Italian Mia Moglie, in French Ma Femme, i. in Latine Mea Vxor, my wife, and not mea Mulier, mea Femina, my woman: so this word in the Common Law, Mullet or lawfull begotten, by Synecdoche, signifies, this is the wifes or my wiues, when as the other, viz. the bastard, was the femina, or my woman or my wenches childe, i. a bastard borne out of wedlocke or lawfull mariage.

8624 ☞ Non distringendo, is a writ comprising vnder it diuers particulars, according to diuers cases: all which you may see in the table of the Regist. Orig. verbo, Non distringendo.

8625 ☞ Non est culpabilis, is the generall answer to an action of trespasse, whereby the defendant doth absolutely deny the fault imputed vnto him by the Plaintiffe, whereas in other especiall answers, the defendant graunteth the fact to bee done, and alledgeth some reason in his defence, why he lawfully might doe it. And therefore, whereas the Rhetoricians comprise all the substance of their discourse vnder three questions * An sit, quid sit, quale sit: this answer falleth vnder the first of the three: all other answers are vnder one of the other two. And as this is the generall answer in an action of trespasse, that is, an action criminall ciuilly prosecuted; so is it also in all actions criminally followed, either at the suit of the King, or other, wherein the Defendant denieth the crime obiected vnto him. See the new booke of Entries, tit. Non culpabilis, and Stawnf. Pl. cor. lib. 2. cap. 61.

* An sit, quid sit, quale sit.

8626 ☞ Non est factum, is an answer to a declaration, whereby a man denieth that to be his deed, whereupon he is impleaded, ¶ Brooke, hoc titulo.

8627 ☞ Non implacitando aliquem de libero tenemento sine breui, is a writ to inhibite Bayliffes, &c. from distraining any man without the Kings Writ, touching his free hold. Regist. fol. 171. b.

8628 ☞ Non intromittendo quando breue præcipe in capite subtracto impetratur, is a writ directed to Iustices of the Bench, or in Eyre, willing them not to giue one hearing, that hath vnder the colour of intruding the King to land, &c. as holding of him in Capite, deceitfully obtained the writ called Præcipe in capite: but to put him to his Writ of right, if he be thinke good to vse it. Regist. Orig. fol. 4. b.

8629 ☞ Non mercandizando victualia, is a writ directed to the Iustices of Assise, commanding them to enquire, whether the Officers of such a Towne doe sell victuals in grosse or by retaile, during their office, contrary to the Statute, and to punish them, if they finde it true, ¶ Rastall, fol. 184.

8630 ☞ Non molestando, is a Writ that lieth for him, which is molested, contrary to the Kings protection granted him, ¶ Regist. fol. 24.

8631 ☞ Non omittas, is a Writ lying where the Sheriffe deliuereth a former Writ to a Bailiffe of a franchise, within the which the party, on whom it is to be serued, dwelleth, and the Bailiffe neglecteth to serue it: for in this case, the Sheriffe returning, that he deliuered it to the Bailiffe, this shall be directed to the Sheriffe, charging him himselfe to execute the Kings commandement, ¶ Old. nat. br. fol. 44. Of this the Reg. Orig. hath diuers sorts, fol. 82. b. & 151. & Reg. Iudic. fol. 5. & 56.

For in the Forest of Sheerewood, it is 25. foot, fol. 224. M. Skene, de verb. signif. verbo Particata terræ saith that Particata terræ is a Rood of Land, where he hath also these words in effect: three barly cornes without tailes, set together in length, make an inch, of the which cornes one should be taken of the middle ridge, one of the side of the ridge, and the other of the furrow: twelue inches make a foot of measure, three foot and one inch make an eleue: fix eleues long make one fall, which is the common lineall measure, and fix eleues long, and fix broad, make a square and superficiall fall of measured land. And it is to be vnderstood, that one rod, one raipe, one lineall fall of measure, are all one. For each one of them containeth fix eleues in length: howbeit a rod is a ſtaffe or pole of wood, a raipe is made of tow or hempe. And ſo much Land as ſhall lie vnder the rod or raipe at once, is called a fall of measure, or a lineall fall: because it is the measure of the Line or length only: Like as the ſuperficiall fall is the measure, both of length and breadth. Item, ten falls in length and foure in breadth make a Roode, foure Roodes make an acre, &c. This is the measure of Scotland, where-of you may reade more in the ſame place.

10095 ☞ Premunire, is taken either for a writ, or for the offence whereupon the Writ is granted. It is therefore to be noted, that the Church of Rome, hauing heretofore supremacie and the dignity of S. Peters chaire, heere in England, so that Benefices, Bishoprickes, Abbacies, or such like Ecclesiasticall liuings, were at the disposing of the Pope. In so much as for the most part, he granted out Mandates of Ecclesiasticall liuings, to certaine persons by his Bulles, as hauing care to haue the Church prouided of a Successour against it needed. Where it grew, that these kinde of Bulles were called (* Gratiæ expectativæ, or Prouisiones) whereof you may reade a learned Discourse in * Duarenus, a great Ciuill Lawyer, in his Treatie De Benefic. lib. 3. cap. 1. and in his Treatie, De Immunitate Ecclesiæ Gallicanæ, ☞ Vi. Prouision. These prouisions * K. Stat. 2. cap. 1, 2, 3. and 4. to the like effect: whereby he greatly restrained this libertie of the Pope. Yet such was the perseuerance that grew out of his power, and the patience of Princes in those daies, that he still procecded the continuance of the prouisions: in so much as * King Richard the second made likewise a Statute against them in the twelfth yeere of his raigne, cap. 15. and the ¶ 13. yeere, Stat. 2. cap. 2. making mention of the said first Statute of King Edward the third, ratifying the same, and appointing the punishment of those, that offended against it, * to perpetuall Banishment, forfeiture of their lands, and tenements, goods and cattels, as by the same doth more at large appeare. And against in the sixteenth yeere of his raigne, cap. 5. he expresseth the offence more particularly, and setteth the same punishment to it, that he ordained in the last former Statute, for there toward the end he hath these words: If any purchase or pursue, or doe to be purchased or pursued in the Court of Rome, or elsewhere, any such translations, processes, and sentences of excommunication, Bulles, instruments, or any other things, &c. After him Henrie the fourth in like manner, the second yeere of his raigne, cap. 3. and 4. addeth certaine new tasks, and layeth vpon the offenders in them, the same censure, whereunto for shortnesse sake, I referre you: to which likewise you may adde the Statute, An. 9. eiusd. cap. 1. and An. 7. cap. 9. and 8. and An. 9. eiusd. cap. 8. and An. 3. H. 5. cap. 4. Of this you may reade * Sir Tho. Smith, De Repub. Angl. lib. 3. cap. 9. in these words, Whosoeuer sueth for any thing to Rome, or in any spirituall Court, for that Cause or Action, which may be pleaded in the temporall Court of the Realme, by an old law of England, he falleth into a Premunire, that is, forfeiteth all his goods to the Prince, and his body to remaine in prison, during the Princes pleasure, and not that onely, but the Iudge, the Scribe, the Procurer, and the Assistor, or Abettor, which receiueth or maintaineth that vsurped pleading, doth incurre the same danger, ¶ Sir Thomas Smith, eodem loco, vt supra. Some later Statutes doe cast this punishment vpon other offenders: as namely, the Statute, An. 1. Eliz. ca. 1. vpon him that denieth the Kings Supremacy the second time, &c. and the Statute, An. 13. Elizab. cap. 2. vpon him that affirmeth the authority of the Pope: or that refuseth to take the Oath of Supremacy: and the Statute, ¶ An. 13. Eliz. cap. 1. such as bee seditious talkers of the inheritance of the Crowne, or affirme the Kings Maiesty to bee an Heretike. And the word is applied most commonly to the punishment first ordained by the Statutes before mentioned, for such as transgressed them. Now touching the * Etymologie of this word (Premunire) thus affirmeth Sir Tho. Smith, that it is so called of Premunizing and fortifying, and strengthening the Crowne by the former Statutes, against the vsurpation of forren and vnnaturall power: which opinion may receiue some ground from the Statute, ¶ An. 25. 10754 ☞ Recouerie, Recuperatio. It signifieth in our Common Law an obtaining of any thing by iudgement or triall of Law: as * Euictio doth among the Ciuilians. But you must vnderstand, that there is a true recouerie, and a fained. A true recouerie, is an actuall or reall recouerie of any thing, or the value thereof, by iudgement: As if a man sued for any land, or other thing moueable or immoueable, and haue a verdict, and iudgement for him. * A fained recouerie is a certaine forme or course set downe by Law, to be obserued, for the better assuring of lands or tenements to vs. And for the better vnderstanding of this, reade ¶ West. part. 2. symb. tit. Recoueries, sect. 1. who saith, that the end and effect of a recouerie, is to distinguish and destroy Estates, Tailes, Remainders, and Reuersions, and to barre the former owners thereof. And in this formalitie there be required three parties, viz. the Demaundant, the Tenent, and the Vowchee. The Demaundant is he that bringeth the Writ of Entrie, and may be termed the Recouerer. The Tenent is he, against whom the Writ is brought, and may be termed the Recoueree. The Vowchee is he, whom the Tenent voucheth or calleth to warrantie, for the land in demaund, ¶ West. vbi supra. In whom you may reade more touching this matter. But for example to explaine this point: A man that is desirous to cut off an estate taile in lands or tenements, to the end, to sell, giue, or bequeath it, as himselfe seeth good, vseth his friend to bring a Writ vpon him for this land. He appearing to the Writ, saith for himselfe, that the land in question came to him or his ancestors from such a man or his auncestor, who in the conueyance thereof, bound himselfe and his heires to warrant the title to him or to them to whom it was conueyed. And so he is allowed by the Court to call in this third man, to say what he can for the vpholding of his right to this land, before he is conueyed it. The third man commeth not: whereupon the land is recouered by him that brought the Writ, and the tenent of the land is left for his remedie to the third man, that was called, and came not in to defend the tenent. And by this meanes the estaile which was made by the tenent or his auncestor, is cut off by iudgement hereupon giuen: for that he is precluded to haue no power to entaile that land, whereunto he had no iust title, as now it appeareth: because it is euicted or recouered from him. This kinde of recouerie, is by good opinion, but a deuice to deceiue the people, ¶ Doct. & Stud. cap 32. require a powerfull Coadjutor. The wise Duke of Saxonie, through all these faire pretences, saw the maine plot, which was to make Germanie Vrias quasi familiæ hereditatem: and therefore hee first flatly denied to yeeld to any such institution. Then he motioned, that there might be an oath made to prohibite the continuance of the Imperiall authoritie longer in one Family, then for three successions: But prevailing in neither, he left the Election, by whom Ferdinand was chosen, and not long after crowned at Aken alias Aquisgrane in Germany, the fifteenth of January 1531. This Policie hath beene continued ever since by his Successours, to which the Germans are more willing, because the Austrian Princes are natives of the Countrie, and able to out-backe the Emperour in his compleat countenance of Maiestie, ¶ Herbyn. An. 6. H. 6. c. 5. It is probable to bring this word from the French Issir, to issue or come forth, or issue, an issue or going forth: as if we should call them Issuers, because they giue issue or passage to the water, or by prothes. by putting a letter, viz. S. to the French, easier, i. a sewar or sinke, dict. ab exo, i. aqua, of drowning away the water. And the Latine word Sectatoriam: I find in these Commissions, for these draines, is a competent reason for this coniecture. Vide ¶ Fitzh. nat. br. in Oyer and Terminer. For the former word, Sewar, I haue heard of an old French booke, containing the Officers of the King of Englands Court, as it was anciently gouerned, that hee whom in Court we now call Sewar, was called Asseour, which commeth from the French Asseoir, to set, settle, or place, wherein his Office in setting downe the meat is well expressed. And Sewer, as it signifieth an Officer, is by Fleta Latined Assessor, a setter downe, lib. 2. cap. 15.

Anglor. cap. 9.) which the Ciuilians call Actionem sine formulam. But Actio signifieth rather the parties whole suit, and Breue it the Kings Precepe, whereby any thing is commanded to be done touching the suit of Action: as the Defendant to be summoned, a distresse to be taken, a disseisin to be redressed, &c. And these Writs are diuersly diuided in diuers respects. Some in respect of their order, or manner of granting, are termed Originall, and some Iudiciall. * Originall Writs bee those that are sent out for the summoning of the Defendant in a personall, or a Tenent in a reall action, or other like purpose, before the suit beginneth, or to beginne the suit thereby. Those be Iudiciall, that be sent out by order of the Court where the cause dependeth, vpon occasion growing after suit begunne, ¶ Old nat. br. fol. 51. And Iudiciall is then by one figure knowne from the Originall, because the Teste beareth the name of the chiefe Iustice of that Court, whence it commeth, where the Originall beareth in the Teste the name of the King. Then according to the nature of the action, they be Personall or Reall: and Reall bee either touching the possession, called Writs of Entrie, or the propertie, called Writs of right, ¶ Fitz. nat. br. Spatium per totum. Some Writs be at the suit of a partie, some of Office, ¶ Old nat. br. fol. 147. Some ordinarie, some of priuiledge.
