Auing feene (iudicious Reader how carefully in other Kingdomes, the Monuments of the dead are preferued, and their Infcriptions or Epitaphs registred in their Church-Bookes; and having read the Epitaphs of Italy, France, Germany, and other Nations, collected and put in print by the paines of Schraderus, Chytraus, Swertius, and other forraine Writers. And also knowing withall how barbaroufly within these his Maiesties Dominions, they are (to the shame of our time) broken downe, and vtterly almost all ruinated, their brasen Inscriptions erazed, torne away, and pilfered, by which inhumane, deformidable act, the honourable memory of many vertuous and noble perfons deceased, is extinguished, and the true vnderstanding of divers Families in these Realmes(who have descended of these worthy perfons aforefaid) is fo darkened, as the true courfe of their inheritance is thereby partly interrupted : grieuing at this vnfufferable iniurie offered as well to the liuing, as the dead, out of the respect I bore to venerable Antiquity, and the due regard to continue the remembrance of the defunct to future posteritie; I determined with my felfe to collect fuch memorials of the deceased, as were remaining as yet vndefaced; as also to reuiue the memories of eminent worthy perfons entombed or interred, either in Parish, or in Abbey Churches ; howfoeuer fome

A funerall Elegie vpon the death of Sir Robert Cotton Knight and Baronet.

He tooke to wife Elizabeth, one of the daughters and heires of William Brocas Efquire, by whom hee had iffue, onely one Sonne, Sir Thomas Cotton Baronet, now living; who married Margaret, Daughter of the Lord William Howard, grandchild to Thomas Duke of Norfolke, by whom hee hath iffue, one Sonne, named Iohn, and two Daughters, Lucie and Francis.

But to returne: I haue had many helpes, I confeffe, from Sir Henry Spelman, Knight, and Iobn Selden Elquire, the moft learned Antiquaries now liuing of ourtimes : nor haue the helpes beene few which I haue long receiued from the well furnitht, and daily increasing Librarie of Sir Simonds D'Ewes Knight, whole iudicious directions, and ready affiftance, were as often vouchfated vnto mee, as I had occasion to request, and whole long fludied, and still intended labours for the publique good, though in another kinde, may in due time make his memory and themselues deare vnto posteritie: Diuers of the Heralds haue much furthered these my intended designes; namely, Sir Richard, and Sir Henry SaintGeorge, Knights. Iobn Pbilipot, and William Le Neue, Esquires, which I shall cuet acknowledge, as occasion prefents it felfe.

Venerable Bede, when hee compiled the Chronicles of the English Saxons, had all the helpe that might be of the Bishops and learned men of this Land. Cymbertus wrote vnto him all that was done in Lincolnshire: Nothelmus also fent vnto him all that he had gathered together in Suffex, Surrey, and Kent. Alcuinus gaue him his labours and collections for the Province of Yorke. Daniel of Winchester made him privie of all that was done amongst the west Saxons : And from all other quarters of the Land, were Letters, Scrowles, and writings, direded vnto him by messens, to aide and affist him in his enterprise, as he doth himselfe acknowledge in his Epistle Dedicatory to Ceolmulpb, King of the Northumbers.

Now generous Reader, as hee had these helpes for the perfecting of his Ecclesiafticall Historie, and as I haue had the acceptable assistance of many of my good friends, studious in this kinde, for the finishing of this first part, and the rest of the worke now in hand, which is already in a good forwardness.

to the Reader.

let me intreate thy furtherance in the fame thus farre, that, in thy neighbouring Churches, if thou fhalt finde any ancient funerall Inferiptions, or antique obliterated Monuments, thou would the pleafed to copie out the one, and take fo much relation of the other as tradition can deliuer; as alfo to take the Inferiptions and Epitaphs vpon Tombes and Grauestones which are of these times; and withall to take order that fuch thy collections, notes, and observations may come fafely to my hands; and I shall rest euer obliged to acknowledge thy paines and curtes.

And I would earneftly defire the Tombe-makers of this Citie of London, and elfewhere, that they would be fo carefull of pofteritie, as to preferue in writing the Infcriptions or Epitaphs which they daily engraue vpon Funerall Monuments, from whom I fhall expect the like kindneffe, and to whom I will ever remaine alike thankfull. For, I intend, God willing, hereafter to publish to the view of the world, as well the moderne, as the ancient memorialls of the dead throughout all his Maiefties forefaid Dominions, if God spare me life; if not, it is enough for me to have begun, as Camden faith in his Epiftle to the Reader of his booke Britannia, and I have gained as much as I looke for, if I shall draw others, when I am dead, into this argument ; whose inquisitive diligence and learning, may finde out more, and amend mine.

It may feeme, peraduenture, vnpleafing to fome, for that I do fpeake fo much of, and extoll the ardent pictie of our forefathers in the creeting of Abbeyes, Priories, and fuch like facred Foundations.

To the which I answer with Camden, that I hold it not fit for vs to forget, that our Ancestours were, and we are of the Christian profession, and that there are not extant any other more conspicuous and certaine Monuments of their zealous deuotion towards God, then these Monasteries with their endowments, for the maintenance of religious persons, neither any other feed-plots besides these, from whence Christian Religion and good literature were propagated ouer this our Island. Neither is there any other act of pietic more acceptable A in ation for their finnes, an errour in point of Diuinitie) these facred ftructures howfoeuer confectated to the feruice of Almighty God, could not ftand faft, nor continue in one and the fame ftate for many ages; therefore I thinke it meete and expedient to difcouer and lay open to the world, the manifold enormities of the profeffed votaries refiding in fuch religious foundations; that it may euidently appeare that it was not the finnes of the Founders (of whole pious intentions we ought to haue a more reuerend opinion) that their donations were of no longer continuance but that the delinquencies of the religious Orders themfelues, were the fole caufe of their owne vtter fubuerfion.

I may, perhaps, be found fault withall, becaufe I doe not chorographically and according as Churches stand, neare or further remote in one and the fame Lath hundred or wapentack, emprint and place the Funerall Monuments in this my booke; but flip fometimes from one fide of a County to another before I emprint an Epitaph. To which give me leave to make this answer, that having found one or two ancient Funerall infcriptions, or obliterated Sepulchers, in this or that Parish Church, I haue ridden to ten Parish Churches distant from that, and not found one. Befides I have beene taken vp in diuers Churches by the Churchwardens of the Parish, and not suffered to write the Epitaphs, or to take view of the Monuments as I much defired, for that I wanted a Commission; which would greatly have encouraged me (and fill it would) as that of Henry the eight did Iohn Leyland, in the prolequation of this businesse.

I conclude the Epitaphs and Funerall inferiptions in this booke as I finde them engrauen, with a cuius anime propitietur Deus: or with God pardon his foule; which fome may fay might have beene as well left out of my booke, as they are in many places for aped out of the braffe: And I write the Latine in the fame manner as I finde it either written or imprinted, as capud for caput, nichil for nihil, and the like; as alfo E vocall, for E dipthong, dipthongs being but lately come into vfe. And now I hope that neither the conclusion of the one, nor ter-A 2 mination mination of the other will feeme any way offen fiue to my intelligent Reader.

I likewile write the Orthographie of the old English as it comes to my hands, and if by the copying out of the fame it be any manner of wayes mollified, it is much against my will, for I hold originalls the best; whereby some may object the fimplicitie of my valaboured stile, and the rough heven forme of my writing. To which I reply, that this my kinde of Argument is incapable of all eloquent speech.

When I cite Ouid or Lucan, I vie those exquisite translations of George Sandys, and Thomas May Esquires.

Some will fay, that the Epitaphs of London are already printed, and true it is that fome are, especially fuch as are of later times, with which I do not meddle at all, onely I set downe those of more antiquitie, which haue either beene omitted in the collection, or for which I haue fome historicall elucidations, for the better vnderstanding of the qualities of the parties defunct and interred.

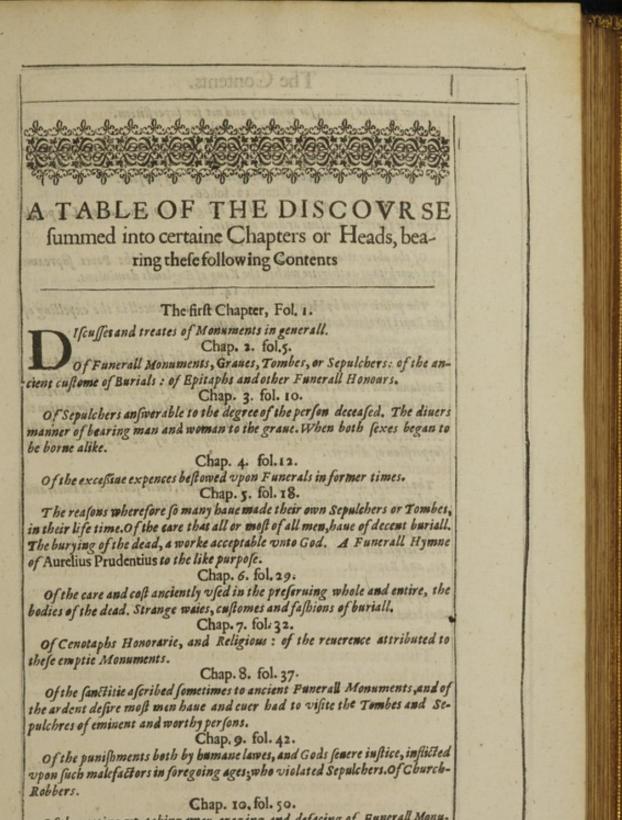

Having had the helps and collections of many, my Reader may finde errours in fome, which hereafter I shall studie to amend; intreating in the meane time a fauorable construction.

Many are the errataes, I am afraid, which will be found in the printing, the greateft I have met withall I have amended, not doubting but fome alfo of confequence have escaped mee; and for those of leffer note, I have patied them over, defiring my Reader to correct and pardon.

Thus, curteous Reader, fubmitting my felfe, and this worke, to thy learned and friendly cenfure, I take my leaue. From my Houfe in Clerkenwell Clofe, this 28. of May 1631.

Of Monuments in general.

Monument is a thing crefted, made, or written, for a memoriall of fome remarkable action, fit to bee tranfferred to future pofterities And thus generally taken, all religious Foundations, all fumptuous and magnificent Structures, Cities, Townes, Towers, Caftles, Pillars, Pyramides, Croffes, Obeliskes, Amphitheaters, Statues, and the like, as well as Tombes and SepulI chres, are called Monuments. Now aboue all remembrances (by which men haue endeuoured, euen in despight of death to giue vnto their Fames eternitic) for worthinesse and continuance, bookes, or writings, haue euer had the preheminence.

Marmora Maony vincunt monimenta libelli-Viustur ingenio, catera mortis crunt. The Mules workes ftone-monuments out laft; 'Tis wit keepes life, all elfe death will downe caft. A Discourse 4 Or fire, or ftormes, their glories do abate, Or by age thaken, fall with their owne waight. We have many examples here in England of the fmall continuance ( as I may fo call it) of magnificent ftrong buildings, by the fudden fall of our re-ligious houles, of which a late nameleffe verfifier hath thus written: What facred ftructures did our Elders build, Wherein Religion gorgeoully fat deckt? Now all throwne downe, Religion exild, Made Brothell-houfes, had in bale refpect, Or ruind fo that to the viewers eye, In their owne ruines they intombed lie. The marble vrnes of their fo zealous Founders Are digged up, and turn'd to fordid vfes: Their bodies are quite caft out of their bounders Lie vn-interr'd. O greater what abufe is? Yet in this later age we now live in, This barbarous act is neither fhame nor finne. Of walls, towres, caftles, croffes, forts, rampiers, townes, cities, and fuch like monuments, here in great Britaine, which by age, warres, or the malignitie of the times, are defaced, ruined, or utterly fubuerted, you may reade in learned Camden : onely thus much out of famous Spenfer , perfonating the Genius of Verlame, or Verulam, fometimes a citie neare to S. Albons. Ruines of I was that Citic which the garland wore Time, Of Britaines pride, deliuered vnto me, By Romane victors, which it wonne of yore; Though nought at all but ruines now I bee, And lie in mine owne afhes as ye fee. Verlame I was, what bootes it that I was, Sith now I am but weeds and waftfull graffe? Another English muse (now living) vnder the name of Watling, one of the M. Drayton, Pol.Song.xvi. foure imperiall high wayes fings thus of the ruines of this citie. Thou faw'st when Verlam once her head aloft did reare, Which in her cinders now lies fadly buried here: With Alabafter, Tuch, and Porphery adornd, When (welneare) in her pride great Troinouant the fcornd. Likewife vpon this forgotten Citie a nameleffe late writer hath made this Epitaph. Of Funerall Monuments, Graues, Tombes, or Sepulchres. Of the ancient custome of burialls. Of Epitaphs, and other funerall honours.

Now to speake properly of a Monument, as it is here in this my enfuing Treatile vnderstood, it is a receptacle or sepulchre, purposely made, erected, or built, to receiue a dead corps, and to preferue the same from violation. Nam monumentum Sepulchri, est, quod causa muniendicing loci factum sit, in quo corpus impositum sit, unde Monumentum quassi munimentum dicitur.

And indeed these Funerall Monuments, in foregoing ages, were very fittingly called muniments, in that they did defend and fence the corps of the defunct, which other wife might have beene pulled out of their graves by the fauage brutishness of wilde beasts: for as then none were buried in Townes or Cities, but either in the fields, along the high way side (to put passengers in minde, that they were like those so interred, mortall) vpou the top, or at the feet of mountaines. Tables. Hominem mortuum in wrbe ne sepelito neve write: to bury or burne any within any Towne or Citie.

For the ancient cuftome of buriall amongst the Iewes, wee reade, that Abraham was buried with Sara his wife, in the caue of Machpelah in the field of Ephron, Gen.cap. 25.

And Vzziah king of Iuda, flept with his fathers, and they buried him with his fathers, in the field of the buriall which pertained to the kings. 2. Chron. cap. 26.

The lepulchre of Lazarus was without the citie of Berhania and fo was that of Isleph without Ierufalem.

Sandys in the relation of his long journey, tells us, that hee was thewed the Tombe of the Prophet Samuel, as alfo the Sepulchre of the feuen brethren (who were tortured to death by Antiochus) fenced about with a pile of ftones, fquare, flat, and folid, both of them being on the top of two mountaines, neare vnto the citie of Emmaus; and in the vincyards on the North-weft fide of the faid citie, fundry places of buriall, hewne out of the maine rocke, amongft the reft, one called the Sepulchre of the Prophets.

And those Egyptian lofty proud Pyramids (the barbarous wonders of vaine cost) fo vnuerfally celebrated, being the Regall sepulchres of the Ptolomees, were erected farre out of all cities, as the faid Traueller tells vs, who did see fo much of the ruines thereof, as time hath not deuoured.

The Athenians buried fuch as were flaine in battell, and other honourable perfonages, in a place without the Citie called Ceramnicus.

So here in England, the interments of the dead were anciently farre out of all Townes and Cities, either on the ridges of hills, or vpon fpatious plaines, fortified or fenced about, with obelisks, pointed ftones, Pyramids, pillars, or fuch like monuments; for example, Englands wonder vpon Salisbury-plaine, called Stonehenge, the fepulchre of fo many Britaines, who by the treachery of the Saxons, were flaine there at a parley. That of Wada the Saxon Duke neare to Whitby in Yorkfhire, and those of *Garti*germe the Britaine, and Horfa the Saxon, neare to Ailesford in Kent.

It was a thing viuall among our old Saxon anceftours (faith Verflegan) as by Tacitus it alfo feemeth to have beene among the other Germans, that the dead bodies of fuch as were flaine in the field, and buried in the fields, were not layed in graues, but lying upon the ground, were couered ouer with turues, clods, or fods of earth; And the more in reputation the perfons had beene, the greater and higher were the turues raifed ouer their bo. dies: and this fome vfed to call Byriging, fome Beorging, and fome Buriging of the dead, which wee now call berying, or burying of the dead, which properly is a fhrowding or an hiding of the dead bodie in the earth: Of these kinde of funerall monuments you have many ypon Salisbury-plaine, out of which the bones of bodies thus inhum'd are oftentimes digged vp, which the Inhabitants thereabout call Beries, Baroes, and fome Burrowes, which accordeth with the fame fence of Byrighs, Beorghs, or Burghs. From whence the names of diuerfe Townes and Cities are originally derived; Places first to called, having beene with wal's of turfe or clods of earth, fenced about for men to bee fbrowded in, as in forts or Caffles.

Reutha

Reatha, King of that neuer-conquered terrible, fierce Nation of the Scots (who flourilhed about they care of the world 3784. and before the birth of our bleffed Sauiour, one hundred eightie and feven yeares) ordained, That fuch Noblemen which had atchieued any notable exploit in defence of their countrey, flould bee had in perpetual memorie, and buried, in folemne wife, in fepulchres aloft vpon hills, or mountaines, vpon which were fet fo many Obelisks, pillars, or long-pointed flones, as they had flaine enemies in the warres. Whereof fome remaine (faith Heffor Boethius in the life of the faid King) there to be feene euen to this day.

Sepulchres of this ftately kinde of ftructure for perfons of eminent ranke and qualitie, were fometimes (howfoeuer) crected within the cities: for wee reade in the firft booke of the Maccabees, Chap. 13. that Ionathan the valiant (brother to Iudas the worthie) being flaine in battell neare to Bafchama, and there buried, Simon fent to take the bones of his brother Ionathan (I will vfe the words of the Text) And they buried him in Modin his fathers city. And all Ifrael bewailed him with great lamentation, and mourned for him verie long. And Simon made vpon the Sepulcher of his father, and his brethren, a building high to looke vnto, of hewne ftone behinde and before. And fet vp feuen pillars vpon it, one againft another, for his father, his mother, and foure brethren: And fet great pillars round about them, and fet armes upon the pillars for a perpetuall memorie, and carued fhips befide the armes, that they might be feene of men failing in the fea.

In like manner the Romanes (notwithstanding their fecond law of the twelue Tables) did fometime entombe their dead within the Citie (but that was but feldome;) for the bones and albes of Trajan the Emperour, were put into a golden vrne, and fet in the Market-place, vpon the top of a pillar, of one who'e peece, being one hundred and fourty foothigh.

And Galbaes bodie long neglected (faith Tacitus) and in the darke defpightfully intreated; Argius his Steward, one of his principall bondmen, buried with fmall ceremonie in his private garden. But this was not vfuall amongft them.

Hofpinian lib. 3. cap. I: out of Durandus, Vlpian, and other Authours, giues this reafon : wherefore both the Iewes and Gentiles vied to burie their dead, without the gates of Townes and Cities. It was a cuftome in times of old (faith he) that men and women were buried in their owne priuare houles, or within their owne private gardens ; but afterwards for the noyfome favour, and contagious flinke of the dead carkafes fointerred, it was enacted, That all burials should bee without Townes and Citics, in fome convenient place appointed for that purpole. And howfocuer that this order was observed by the Gentiles upon this reason onely, Scilicet of in vrbibus mundicies feruaretur, & aer minus inficeretur, ex cadauerum pu trefcentium fatore; Yet the true Christians, and fuch as by their lively faith were adopted the children of God, had a further mysterie in this their manner of interments; for by the carriage and buriall of their dead corps without their citic walls, they did publikely confirme, and witneffe, that the parties decealed were gone out of this world, to bee made free denizons of another citie, namely, Heauen, there to remaine with the bleffed Saints in eternall happineffe.

This order or custome of buriall without cities, continued amongst the Christians, vntill the time of Gregory the great, for as then the Monkes, Friers, and Priests (faith my forelaid Authour) began to offer facrifice for the foules departed; so that, for their more easie and greater profit, they procured first, that the places of sepulture should be adioyning vnto their Churches, and afterwards they got licence to burie within Churches. Vponthis reason out of the faid Gregory 13. q. cap. 2. Cum grania peccata non deprimant (faith hee) tune prodest mortuis si in Ecclesis sepeliantar; quia corum proximi, quoties ad eadem sara loca veniunt, suorumque sepulturam aspiciunt, recordantur & pro eis Domino preces fundant.

A Discourse

Antiquitus tantum extra vrbem in cæmiterijs hominű corpora sepeliebantur, pace Ecclesia data intra vrbes, ad Templorum limina, postea etiam in ipsis templis sepeliri mos inualuit. Constantinus in porticu Templi Apostolorum, Constantinopoli : Honorius in porticu Templi S. Petri Roma, eius vxor intra idem Templum sepulti sunt.

Anciently the bodies of the dead were buried onely without cities in Coemiteries or fleeping places, vntill the reforrection (as the word fignifies) but perfecution being ended, and peace giuen to the Chriftian Church, the manner grew in vie to burie within Cities, at the entrance into their facred temples, yea and afterwards in the verie Churches themfelues. Conflantine was buried in the porch of the Apoftles in Conflantinople. How rises in the porch of S. Peter in Rome; and his wife (the Empreffe) within the faid Church. But to come nearer home, Auftime the first Archbilhop of Canterbury, fent hither by the forefaid Gregory, was interred in the porch of Saint Peter and Paul, commonly called Saint Auftins neare vnto Canterbury, a religious houle of his owne foundation, and together with him fixe other Archbilhops who next fucceeded him: whole reliques afterwards were remoued into the Abbey Church, of which I fhall fpeake hereafter.

Cuthbert or Cudbright th'cleuenth, Archbishop of that Province, obtained from the Pope a dispensation, for the making of Coemiteries or Churchyards within Townes, and Cities, whereas, here in England, vntill his time, within the walls thereof none were buried. These following are the words in the Appendix to the booke of Rochesster a Mill, in Sir Robert Cottons Librarie.

Cuthertus Archiepiscopus Cant. xi. ab Augustino cum Roma videret plures intra Giuitates sepeliri, rogauit Papam ut sibi liceret Camiteria facere, quod Papa annuit, reuer suitaque camiteria vhique in Anglia fieri constituit.

This order of buriall being thus begun here in England, it likewife followed, that Graue-ftones were made, and Tombes crected with inferiptions engrauen upon them, to continue the remembrance of the parties deceafed, to fucceeding ages; and thefe were called Epitaphs: now, an Epitaph is a fuperfeription (either in verfe or profe) or an aftrict pithie Diagram, writ, carued, or engrauen, vpon the tombe, graue, or fepulchre of the defunct, briefly declaring (and that fometimes with a kinde of commiferation) the name, the age, the deferts, the dignitics, the flate, the praifes both of body and minde, the good or bad fortunes in the life, and the manner and time of the death of the perfon therein interred.

Of all funerall honours ( faith Camden) Epitaphs haue alwayes beene moft most respective; for in them love was shewed to the deceased, memorie was continued to pofteritie, friends were comforted, and the Reader put in minde of humane frailtie : and indeed the frequent viliting, and aduited reuiewing of the Tombes and monuments of the dead (but without all touch of fuperflition) with the often reading, ferious perufall, and diligent meditation of wife and religious Epitaphs or inferiptions, found vpon the tombes or monuments, of perfons of approued vertue, merit, and honour, is a great motiue to bring us to repentance. The invention of Epitaphs proceeded from the prefage or forefeeling of immortalitie, implanted in all men naturally, and is referred to the Schollers of Linus the Theban Poet, who flourished about the yeare of the world 2700) who first bewailed this Linus their mafter, when he was flaine, in dolefull verfes, then called of him Ælina, afterward Epitaphia, for that they were first fong at burialls, after engraued vpon the fepulchres. Funerall monuments then of coftly workmanship, with curious engrauen Epitaphs, were called Sepulchra, id eft, femipulchra, halfe faire and beautifull; the externall part or fuperficies thereof being glorioufly beautified and adorned; and having nothing within, but dreadfull darkneffe, loathfome ftinke, and rottenneffe of bones, as it is in the Gofpell, Mar. 23. And they are fometimes called memories, à memoria vel a monendo, in that by them we are put in minde, and warned to confider our fragile condition; for they are externall helpes to excite, and ftirre vp our inward thoughts, habere memoriam mortis femper pre oculis: to have the remembrance of death ever before our eyes, and that our brethren defunct, may not be out of minde as out of fight.

Non ob aliud, faith S. Auflin in his booke De cura pro mortais, vel memoria vel monumenta dicuntur, ea qua infignita fiunt Sepulchra mortuorum, nifi quia eos, qui vinentium oculis morte fubtracti funt, ne obliuione etiam cordibus fubtrabantur, in memoriam reuocant, & admonendo faciunt cogitari : Nam & memoria nomen id apertifime oftendi:, & monumentum eo quod moneat mentem, id est admoneat nuncupatur.

In the Register of the Gray Friers London, I finde this definition of a funerall monument much what to the fame effect.

Monimentum est quasi monens mentem, & fic solet à doctoribus etymo logiari : monet namque bifarie humanam mentem, cum aut mortis memoriam incutit visis precedentium sepulchris; aut eisdem conspectis, mentes moneantur sue moucantur carorum, ad reddend. suffragia pro ipsis.

These tombes or sepulchres were also named, Requiatoria, Offuaria, Ci neraria, domus aterna, Grc. as you have them with their severall significations in Kirkman, De Funeribus Romanorum.

Tertullian (in his booke De Refurrectione carnis, cap. 37.) calls these monuments of the dead, Cadauerum stabula, stables or stalls of carcales. Nemo iam poteris aliud mortuos interpretari, qui sunt in monimentis, nisi corpora de carnem, quia nec ipsa monimenta aliud, quam cadaverumstabula: which Lucian scotsingly termed campes and cottages of carcases.

But to conclude this Chapter; the place of buriall was called by S. Paul, Seminatio, in the respect of the assured hope of refurrection: of the Greekes Camiterion, as a fleeping place vntill the refurrection: and of the Hebrews, The

CHAP. III.

Of Sepulchres answerable to the degree of the person deceased. The diuers manner of bearing man and woman to the Graue. When both Sexes began to be borne alike.

S Epulchres fhould bee made according to the qualitie and degree of the perfon deceased, that by the Tombe every one might bee differend of what ranke hee was living : for monuments anfwerable to mens worth, ftates and places, have alwayes beene allowed, and ftately fepulchres for bale fellowes haue alwayes lien open to bitter iefts; therefore it was the vie and cuftome of reuerend antiquitic, to interre perfons of the rufticke or plebeian fort, in Christian buriall, without any further remembrance of them, either by tombe, graneftone, or epitaph. Perfons of the meaner fort of Gentric, were interred with a flat graueftone, comprehending the name of the defunct, the yeare and day of his decease, with other particulars, which was engrauen on the faid ftone, or vpon fome plate. And Gentlemen, which were of more eminencie, had their effigies or reprefentation , cut or carned vpon a Terme or PedeRall, as it were of a pillar, raifed fomewhat about the ground, vmbelico tenus : and this image had no armes, but was formed from the wafte vpwards vpon a Terme, which did beare a true refemblance of the fauour of the partic defunct Vpon the faid terme (commonly) were inferted, the name, progeny, match, iffue, vocation, and imployment of the defunct, with the day, yeare, and place of his death.

Noble men, Princes, and Kings had (as it befitteth them, and as fome of them haue at this day ) their Tombes or Sepulchres raifed aloft aboue ground, to note the excellencie of their flate and dignitie; and withall, their perfonages delineated, carued, and emboft, at the full length and bigneffe, truly proportioned throughout, as neare to the life, and with as much flate and magnificence, as the skill of the Artificer could poffibly carue and forme the fame: the materials of which were alabafter, rich marble, touch, rauce, porpherey, polifht braffe or copper, like vnto that made to the memorie of King Henry the feuenth in Weftminfter, who dwelleth more richly dead (faith Vifcount Saint Alban in his hiftory of that kings raigne) in the monument of his Tombe, then hee did aliue in Richmond or any of his palaces, it being the flatelieft, and moft curious daintie monument of Europe, both for the Chappell, and for the Sepulchre.

And as flately monuments were not due, nor allowed, to euery man that was of ability to crect the fame; fo fwelling titles, lofty inferiptions or epitaphs, were prohibited to bee inferib'd, infeulpt, or engrauen vpon the fepulchres of men of meane defert : but onely vpon the monuments of fuch as were of vertue, wifedome, and valour : as martiall men, or perfons of eminent place of gouernment in the weale publike. ributed to a rich quondam Tradefman, or griping vfurer, then is given to the greatest Potentate entombed in Westminster : and their tombes are made fo huge great, that they take vp the Church, and hinder the people from diuine Seruice. Belides if one Ihall ferioufly furuay the Tombes creded in these our dayes, and examine the particulars of the perfonages wrought vpon their Tombes, hee may eafily differne the vanity of our mindes, vailed vnder our fantafticke habits and attires, which in time to come will be rather prouocations to vice, then incitations to vertue; and fo the Temple of God fhall become a Schoolchoufe of the monstrous habits and attires of our prefent age, wherein Taylors may finde out new falhions. And which is worfe, they garailh their Tombes, now adayes, with the pi-Aures of naked men and women; raifing out of the duft, and bringing into the Church, the memories of the heathen gods and goddeffes, with all their whirligiggs : and this (as I take it) is more the fault of the Tombe-makers, then theirs who fet them aworke.

There was likewile made a difference of perfonages in the carriage of their dead bodies to the place of fepulture, according to their flate and dignitie. Great men of birth or qualitie were carrried in charlots drawne with horfes, trumpets and feuerall forts of muficall inftruments founding before the corps; mourners, and likewife many who fung mournfull dit. ties in praise of the defunct: to whole further honour they did also fet vp in their Temples, and other publike places, certaine ornaments, as feutcheons, crownes, and fuch like: of which pompous progreffion more in the next Chapter. Now fuch as could not be interred with all this maieflicke folemnitic, although they were of high parentage, for that the charge was very great, were buried in the evening by certaine men who had that charge, who were called Vefpillons.

Men of meaner ranke, howfocuer neuer fo rich, were not allowed this princely kinde of production to their graues; for their corps were borne vpon their feruants fhoulders, whom they had manumitted a little before their deaths, with a Trumpet onely founding before them, and fome lights, according to this of Perfins, Satyre 3.

liues,got fuch an honourable effecme in the world, that they were thought no leffe worthie of honour, in that kinde, then men; and when as a widow died having hid but one husband, they carried her to her grave with a crowne of chaftitie vpon her head.

Condemned perfons (as they are now adayes) were carried in waines or carts, becaufe they were thought vnworthy to bee borne by men, who, by their wicked demerits, had procured the hand of inflice to cut them off, by vntimely death, from the focietie of men.

CHAP. IIII.

Of the excessive expenses bestowed at Funeralls in former times.

I Might include within this Chapter, and not impertinently, to thefe contrents, the ancient cuftomes, and manners of burying the dead, in all Nations, throughout all the habitable world: but that would make the gate bigger then the citie, this difcourfe of a greater bulke, then all the reft of the booke befides: you may finde this Treatife touched vpon, in the Volumne of the Eftates, Empires, and Principalities of the world; as alfo in the Treafurie of Ancient and moderne Times, the fixth booke; where hee fpeakes of diuers cuftomes and fafhions of buriall, of ancient obfequies, and their ceremonies; onely then a little of for much, becaufe I would not firay beyond my limits.

The ancient Romanes did vie them that were dead after two manners, and they had two kindes of oblequies: the first and most ancient was to couer the dead with earth, and to bury them as we doe; the other, to burne their bodies, but this manner did not continue long. Sepeliri antiquius fuiffe quam cremari. Plin.lib. 7. cap. 54. Cremari apud Romanos non fuit veteris instituti, terra condebantur : at postquam longinquis bellis obrutos erus cognouere, est institutum, & tamen multa familia priscos seruauere vitus. Manut. de leg. Rom. fol. 125. Numa Pompilius was the inuenter of oblequics, and hee inftituted a high Prieft, who had the charge. The first honour which they vied to performe in the oblequies of famous perfons, was to commend the partie by an Oration. Valerius Publicola made a funerall oration on the death and in the praile of Brutus. In like manner Julius Cefar, being but twelue yeares old, commended his grandfather: and Tiberius at the age of nine yeares praifed his father. The fecond honour was to make Sword-players to fight. Marcus and Decius fonnes to Junius Bratus, were the first that did practife this, in honour of their father. The third honour was, to make a feast of magnificent furnishment. The fourth was a distribution of meat to all the common people. And fuch (as I have faid before) as could not be buried with the like, and lo great pompe (for the expenses were infupportable) were buried in the night time, by the Vefpillons clothed all in white, who carried the dead body to his graue. They had likewife an order, that within fome while after the oblequies, they would firew diuers flowers, and fweet odours, upon the fepulchre, as the Romane people did vpon the funerall monument of Scipio. And alfo they accuftomed yeare y, to garnifh, decke, and adorne, the tombes or graues of the dead, with poefies, crownes, and garlands of all forts of flowers. Husbands (faith Saint terom ad Pammachum) were wont to ftraw, fpread, or featter ouer, and vpon the graues and fepulchres of their deceafed deare wines, violets, rofes, hillies, hyacinths, and divers purple flowers : by which vxorious office, they did mitigate, and leffen the griefe of their hearts, concerned by the loffe of their louing bedfellowes. The like expression of mutual loue wives fhewed to their buried husbands.

Now aboue all flowers in these ceremonious observances, the Rose was in greatest request, and had the sole preheminence. Romani (faith K.rkman de Funeribus Romanorum, lib. 4.cap. 3) verò Rosarum fuere studiosi, vi ijs post mortem monimenta sua spargi supremo iudicio nonnunquam iusserint, legato ad hane rem relicto, cui plerumque bas erat conditio (ut in Rauennati inscriptione legimus) vi quotannis Rosas ad monumentum eius deserrent, ibig epularentur. To which 10. Passerius in his Rosa, thus alludes.

Manibus est imis Rofa grata, & grata Sepulchris, Et Rofa flos Florum.

Vnto the Tombes and Spirits of the dead The Rofe is gratefull, of all flowers the head. And Anacreon in praife of the Role thus fings in one of his odes: I will vie the Latine tranflation.

Rofa, bonor, decufque florum Rofa, cura amorque veris Rofa, calitum voluptas:

And in another ode in commendation of the Role more aptly to this purpole, thus.

> Medicatur hac & egris, Defendit hac fepultos. The Role fullmany griefes doth cure, Defends corps laid in lepulture.

The ancient Ethnicks did hold the foringing of flowers, from the grane of a dreafed friend, an argument of his happinefle; and it was their vniuerfall with, That the Tombe flones of their dead friends might bee light vnto them; and that a perpetual foring-tide, of all kinde of fragrant flow ers, might incircle their verdant graues. According to this of Perfus.Sat.7.

The magnificence in burning the bodies of the dead, did farre exceed in charges all other kindes of funerall; for which the bodies of perfons of principall regard (as you may reade in the Trauelles of George Sandys) they burnt rich adours, gold, iewels, apparell, heards of cattell, flocks of fheepe, horfes, hounds, and fometimes the concubines and flaues whom they moft respected, to fupply their wants, to ferue their delights, and attend vpon them in the lower fhades. 	Lamentin

Lamenting loud is made, then cloje his limbes in bed, or floure, They crouch with weeping teares, and purple weedes on him they throw: His robes, his barneis bright, and enfignes all that men may know. In mourning fort fome beaue on fhoulders high the mighty Beere, ( A dolefull feruice (ad) as children doe their father deere, Behinde them holding brands, then flame vprifing broad doth foread, And oiles and dainties caft, and Frankincence the fire doth feed. When falme his cinders were, and longer blafe did not endure; His religues and remaines of dust, with wine they washed pure, Then Choriney his bones in brafen coffin bright did clofe. And fprinkling water pure, about his mates three times he goes. And drops of facred dew, with Oline palmes on them did fbake, And compasse bleft them all, and fentence last he fadly spake : To fields of iny thy foule, and endleffe reft we doe betake. But good Ancas then, right buge in beight his Tombe did rere, And gaue the Lord his Armes, bu Ore and Trumpet fixed there, On mountaine neare the skies, that of Milenus beares the name, And everlasting shall from world to world retaine the fame.

Many more ceremonies were observed in the magnificent ordering of both kindes of Funeralls, as well of fuch as were buried in the earth, as of these burned in these costly piles of wood. The custome of burning the dead bodies continued among the Romanes, but vntill the time of the Antonine Emperours, An Do 200. or thereabouts : then they began to burie againe in the earth. Manutius de leg. Rom. fel 125. 126.

They had, at these burials, suborned counterfeit hired mourners, which were women of the loudeft voices, who betimes in the morning did meete at appointed places, and then cried out mainly, beating of their breafts, tearing their haire, their faces, and garments, ioyning therewith the prayers of the defunct, from the houre of his nativitie, vnto the houre of his diffolution; ftill keeping time with the melancholicke mulicke. (This is a cuftome observed at this day in lome parts of Ireland, but aboue all Nations the Jewes are beft skilled in these lamentations, being #### Fruitfull inteares : teares, that fill ready fland To fally forth, and but expect command.)

Amongft thefe women there was ever an old aged Beldam, called Prafica, quafin her ipfa munus prafecta, a superintendent aboue all the rest of the mourners : who with a loud voice did pronounce these words : 1 licet, or, Ire licer ; as much to fay, He must needs depart : and when the dead corps were laid in the graue, and all ceremonies finished, the deliverd the last adieu in this manner, Vale, vale, vale, nos te ordine, quo natura permiferit, cuncti fequemur : Adieu, Adieu, Adieu, wee must follow thee, according as the courfe of nature shall permit vs.

The manner of these lamentings (faith George Sandys in his Iournall) may of old appeare by this ironicall perfonating of a father following the exequies of his fonne, introducted by Lucian in thefe words : O my fweet fonne, thou art loft, thou art dead : dead before thy day, and haft left mee behinde, behinde, of men the most miferable. Not experienced in the pleasures of a wife, the comforts of children, warfare, husbandrie, nor attained to maturitie. Henceforth, O my fonne, thou shalt not cate, nor loue, nor bee drunke amongst thy equalls. They had likewife their Libitinary (and thole many in number) which were the prouiders of all things necellarie for the Funeralls; and their Pollinctores, which were those that anointed, embalmed, and inuefted the defunct, with mirrhe, aloes, falt, honcy, waxe, fweet odours, pretious oyles, perfumed fereclothes, fine Aromaticke Sindon, and the like. The mourners were exceeding many, ( of which I have partly fpoken before) with Trumpeters, and Mulitians of all forts, moft dolefully founding, and warbling forth their lamentable notes : the corps of the defunct being garded, and attended vpon, with troupes of horfemen, which was accounted an extraordinarie kinde of honour done to the deceased: then last of all, Funerall Games, Bonefires of most pretious woods, Orations, magnificent, fumptuous, and moft royall feafts and banquets were ordained.

But thefe exceffine charges, thefe fuperfluous and impertinent cofts of funerall expenses, were by certaine Lawes restrained, both by the Romans, and Grecians, and funerall charges proportioned, according to the worthiness of the perfon deceased, and his meanes; answerable to the valuation of his yearely recences, or the generall estimate of his substance,

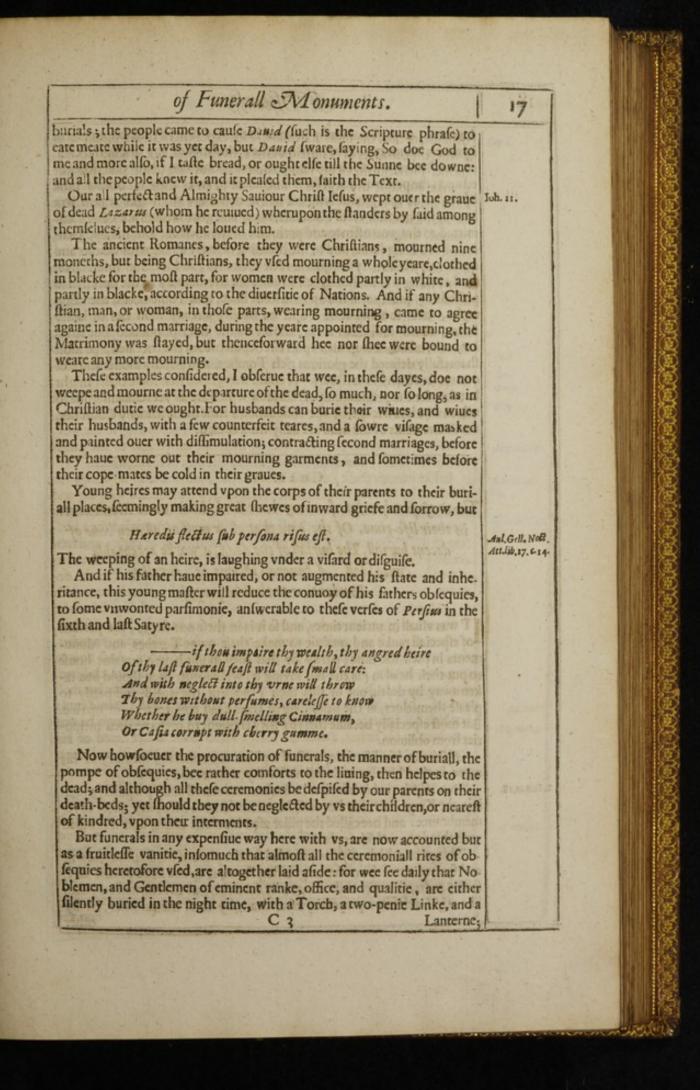

In like manner these Ethnicke lamentations, and fearefull howlings for the dead, by hired mourners, were prohibited ; yet moderate weeping and mourning at Funeralls, was neuer diffallowed, nay it hath been euer highly commended, accounted the chiefe grace of Funerals, promifed for a bleffing to the godly, and the want thereof, a malediction or curfe; and moderately to mourne after the interment of our friends, is a manifeft token of true loue; by it wee expresse that naturall affection wee had to the departed, with a Christian-like moderation of our griefe, whereby our faith to God-ward is demonstrated. For as God hath made vs living, so hath he made vs louing creatures, to the end we fhould not be as ftocks and ftones, voide of all kinde and naturall affection, but that liuing and louing together, the loue of the one fhould not end with the life of the other. And now to go a little further, I fay, that to mourne and forrow for parents, children, husbands, wines, kindred and friends, is not any matter of noueltie but moft ancient. Abraham mourned and wept for his wife Sarah : Danid could not hide his fatherly affection toward his fonne Abfolon; although he was a traitour to his father, David the King : for fo foone as hee heard of his death, he went up to the chamber ouer the gate (as the text is) and wept: and as hee went, thus he faid, O my fonne Abfolon, my fonne, my fonne Abfolon, would God I had died for thee, O Abfolon, my fonne, my fonne.

Danid also hearing of the death of murdered Abner, whom he respected as a deare friend : faid vnto Ioab (who flew Abner) and to all the people that were with him, Rent your clothes and put on fackcloth, and mourne, before the corps of Abner : and king Danid himfelfe followed the Beere. And when they had buried Abner in Hebron, the king lifted vp his voice, and wept befide the Sepulchre of Abner, and all the people wept. Now, it being the custome of the Israelites to feast and banquet at their

So that now by reafon of this generall neglect of Funeralls, and the fleight regard wee haue of the needfull vie of Heraulds, many and great errours are daily committed, to the great offence and prejudice of the ancient Nobilitie, and Gentrie of this Kingdome, and to the breeding of many ambiguous doubts and queftions, which may happen in their Defcents, and iffues in future ages: And nothing will be fhortly left to continue the memory of the deceafed to posteritie; pilfery and the opinion fome haue, that Tombes, and their Epitaphs, tafte fomewhat of Poperie, having already most facrilegioully ftolne, erazed, and taken away, almost all the Inscriptions and Epitaphs, cut, writ, inlaid, or engrauen vpon the Sepulchres of the decealed; and most fhamefully defaced the glorious rich Tombes, and goodly monuments of our most worthy Ancestours. It could bee wished that some order might betaken for the preferuation of these few which are as yet remaining: for to mincowne knowledge, by the obferuation I haue made in many Churches, the Monuments of the dead are daily thus abufed.

T was vfuall in ancient times, and fo it is in these our dayes, for perfons of especial ranke and qualitie to make their owne Tombes and Monuments in their life-time; partly for that they might have a certaine house to put their head in (as the old faying is) whenfoeuer they should be taken away by death, out of this their Tenement, the world; and partly to please themselues, in the beholding of their dead countenance in marble. But most especially because thereby they thought to preferue their memories from obliuion.

Absolon in his life time, crected a pillar, to retaine the memory of his name, in that his iffue male failed. Will you heare the Text.

Now Abfolon in his life-time had taken, and reared him vp a pillar, which is in the Kings dale: for hee faid, I have no fonne to keepe my name in remembrance. and hee called the pillar after his owne name, and it is called vnto this day, Abfolons place.

This pillar, which Abfolon intended for the place of his fepulture, hewne and framed out of the rocke or growing ftone, is to bee feene at this day, faith Sandys, all entire and of a goodly fabricke. A Discourse

This care of buriall moued Anguftus Cafar to build his funerall monument, in the fixth yeare of his Confullhip; for himfelfe, and the fucceeding Emperours.

The like reafon moued Hadrian to build his Tombe or Sepulchre neare vnto the bridge Ælium, for the Maufolcum of Augustus was full; as Xiphilinus writes in the life of Hadrian.

And to bring you this honie example, the like confideration moued King Henry the feuenth, in the eighteenth yeare of his raigne, to build that glorious faire Chappell at Weftminfter, for an houfe of buriall, for himfelfe, his children, and fuch onely of the bloud-royall, as thould defeend from his loynes; forbidding thet any other of what degree or qualitie foeuer, fhould euer be interred in that facred mould; as appeares by his laft Will and Teftament.

Saint Augustine faith, that the Funerals of the righteous, in the times of old, were performed with a zealous care, their burials celebrated, and their Monuments prouided in their life time.

Great hath been the care of buriall (faith Camden) euer fince the first times, infomuch that Fathers would lay charges vpon their children, concerning the buriall, and translating of their bodies, euery one being defirous to returne, in Sepulchra materum, into the sepulchres of their Ancestours.

Iacob at his death charged his fonne Iofeph to carry his body into the fepulchre of his fathers. And Iofeph himfelfe commanded his brethren that they fhould remember and tell their poficritie, that when they went away into the land of promife, they fhould carry his bones thither with them. Abraham, Ifaac, Iacob, Sarab, Rebecca, Leab, and Iofeph, were buried together in one Sepulchre.

The kings of Ægypt accultomed to awe their fubiects by threatning to depriue them of buriall. And it was a penaltie of the law amongft the Romanes. He that doth this, or that, let him be call forth vnburied; and foin the declamations; He that forfakes his parents in their necefficies, let him be call forth vnburied; An Homicide, let him be call forth vnburied. And fo fpeakes Cicero to the peoples humour for Milo, when hee affirmes his carcale to be more wretched, because it wanted the folemne rites of funerall.

Commanders in warres vied to terrific their enemies with the want of buriall, according to this fpeech of Hector in the fifteenth booke of Homers Iliads.

Then Hector cridout, take no spoile, but rush on to the fleete, From whose assure (for spoile nor flight) if any man I meete, He meetes his death : nor in the fire of holy funerall, His brothers nor his sisters hands shall cast within our wall, His lothed body; but without, the throtes of dogs shall grave His manless.

A Discourse

De terra interram, & quauisterra Sepulchrum. From earth to earth wee go; Each earths alike graue fo.

Lucius Scipio likewife, being ouerthrowne at the battell of Thapfus, where hee was Generall, fled dilguifedly by fea for his owne fafety, but being driuen by a ftorme into the Bay of Hippo, where Cefars Nauie lay to guard the fhores, and perceiuing them himfelfe and his Barke both loft; he ftabbed himfelfe with his ponyard, leapt ouerboard, and drowned himfelfe in the maine: vttering vpon his-inftant refolution certaine words in difdaine of buriall. Thus exquifitely deliuered in verfe by my worthy Friend the continuer of Lucans Hiftoricall poeme.

> My courfe is runne; and, though this armed band Shall testifie I could have di'd by land, The Ocean likes me best; within the maine Vnknowne for ever Scipio shall remaine: O let my floating carcase never come To land, lest Affricke should bestow a Tombe, And to her somes in after ages show A Monument of vanquisht Scipio.

Loath he was that his dead bodie (hould either fuffer defpight, or receiue fauour from his enemies; fo that I thinke no otherwile of his imprecations then I do of C elars.

These carelesse Mecanas-like resolutions, make so many (I beleeue) of especial note amongst us; who either vpon a sparing or precise humour, are content to commit to the earth, their parents, wiues, children, and the nearest vnto them, in tenebris, with little better than Sepalchra asinorum.

This office of burying the dead, this laft dutie done to our deceafed friends, hath ever had the prime place of commendation by Lucan, lib. 18. for that he, fo folicitoufly tooke care to give all funerall dues, to the headleffe Trunke of great Pompey, cut off by the treachery of the vngrarefull bafe Ptolomey; vpon whom he is made in the faid booke to befrow this Epitaph.

Here the great Pompey lies, so Fortune pleasde, To instile this stone; whom Castars selfe would have Interr'd, before he should have mist a grave.

And Virgil makes buriall an honour to fuch as are flaine in battell, and fo confequently of others.

Meanewhile th'unburied bodies of our mates Giue wee to graue, fole honour after fates. Go bonour those braue foules, with their last dues, Who with their bloud purchasd this land for vs.

Toby his burying of the dead was acceptable vnto God, as the Angell teftifieth. And the Lord himfelfe, being to arife againe the third day, commended that good worke of those religious women, who poured those pretious ointments, with fweete odours, vpon his head and body, and did

Of the care and cost anciently vsed in the preserving whole and entire the bodies of the dead. Strange wayes, customes, and falbions of buriall.

AS in former times the most of all Nations were ardently defirous of decent buriall, to Histories doe thew that the Ancients, and namely the Egyptians, were no leffe carefull, and curious to preferne whole and entire, the bodies of the dead laid within their Sepulchres, and to keepe them from putrifaction, fo much as they could poffible, which they did by this meanes. So foone as any one amongst them (efpecially of exemplary note) was dead, they would draw out the braines of the defunct, at the noftrils, with an inftrument of iron, replenishing the fame with preferuatine fpices; then cutting vp the belly with an Æthiopian ftone, called Laigne, and extracting the bowels, they cleanfed the infide with wine, and fluffing the fame with a composition of Caffia, myrrhe, and other odours, closed it againe. The like the poorer fort of people effected with Bitumen (as the infide of their skuls and bellies yet teftifie, faith Sandys, lib. 2 who faw fuch their ftrange embalmed bodies) fetcht from the lake of Afphaltis in Jury. So did they by theinvce of Gedars, which by the extreame bitterneffe and ficcatine qualitie, not onely fubdued (for thwith) the caufe of interiour corruption, but hath to this day (a continuance of aboue three thousand yeares) preferued them vncorrupted. Within their bellies (belides their odorous compositions) they enclosed certaine painted papers; and ftrange shapes of their Gods, in little models of flone or mettall : this done, they wrapt the bodie with linen in multitudes of folds, befineared with gumme in manner of a feare-cloth, fwathled with bands of the fame; ftaining their breafts with Hicrogliphycall characters; and fo laid them downe in fuch vaults, as did belong to every mans particular familie.

Camerar. in his Hift. Meditations, faith, That the Ancients fixed nailes of braffe; within their dead bodies knowing well that braffe is a mettal very folid and lafting, in which qualitie both Horace and Virgil do commend it: that it keepeth a long time from ruft and corruption, and that it is endued with a particular vertue against putrifaction. And not long fince (faith he) there there was found in a certaine wood neare to Nuremburgh very ancient Tombes, and amongft the bones of the dead, nailes and buckles of braffe.

It is reported by Fulgofus, and other forraigne Authours, as alfo by our owne countrey-men, William of Malmesbury, and Matthew of Weffminfter; that in the yeare of Grace, one thousand thirty and fenen, the bodie of Pallas, the fonne of Euander, flaine by Turnus in fingle combar, was found, and taken vp in Rome, intire and found in all parts, to the great aftonishment of the beholders, in that it had triumphed so many ages ouer all corruption. At his head was found * a burning lampe, which could not bee extinguisht, neither by violence of blaft, nor by as then found.

Filius Enandri Pallas, quem laurea Turni Mulitis occidit; more suo iacet bic. Pallas Enanders sonne, by Turnus speare In combate slaine; on this wife lieth here.

Within the Parifh of Stepney in Midlefex, in Radcliffe field, where they take ball aft for fhips; about fome fourteene or fiftcene yeares agoe, there was found two Monuments, the one of flone, wherein was the bones of a man, the other a cheft of lead, the vpper part being garnifhed with Scallop fhels, and a crotifter border. At the head of the coffin, and the foot, there were two Iars, of a three foot length, ftanding, and on the fides a number of bottles of gliftering red earth, fome painted, and many great viols of glaffe, fome fixe, fome eight fquare; hauing awhitifh liquour within them. Within the cheft was the body of a woman, as the Chirurgians iudged by the skull. On either fide of her, there was two fcepters of Iuory, eighteene inches long, and on her breaft a little figure of Cupid neatly cut in white ftone. And amongft the bones two printed peeces of lett, with round heads, in forme of nailes three inches long.

It feemeth (faith Sir Robert Cotton, from whom I had this relation) thefe bodies were burned about the yeare of our Lord 239 being, there were found divers coines of Pupienus, Gordian, and the Emperours of that time. And that one may coniccture by her ornaments, that this laft body flould be fome Princes or Propretors wife here in Britaine; in the time of the Romane gouernment.

In the North ifle of the Parifh-church of Newport-painell in Buckinghamfhire, in the yeare 1619. was found the body of a man whole and perfect; laid downe, or rather leaning downe, North, and South: all the concauous parts of his body, and the bollowneffe of euery bone, as well ribs as other, were filled vp with follid lead. The skull with the lead in it doth weigh thirty pounds and fixe ounces, which with the neck-bone, and fome other bones (in like manner full of lead) are referued, and kept in a little cheft in the faid Church, neare to the place where the corps were found; there to bee fhowne to ftrangers as reliques of admiration. The reft of all the parts of his body are taken away by Gentlemen neare dwellers, or fuch as take delight in rare Antiquities. This I faw.

Thus you fee by the premifes, how magnificent our Ancients were in the ordering and expenses of Funerals; how fumptuous in their houses of death or fepulchres; and how carefull to preferue their dead carcales from putrifaction; for fo much as the foule, faith Sandys, knowing it felfe by diuine inftinct immortall, doth defire that the body (her beloued companion) might enioy (as farre forth as may be) the like felicity, gluing, by crecting lofty Monuments, and thefe dues of Funerall, all poffible eternitie.

But now iudicious Reader vnderftand, that howfoeuer I have fpoken, or whatfoeuer I (ball fpeake hereafter of buriall, and the ceremonies thereunto belonging yet I speake now out of Saint Augustine and Ludonicus Vines his Commentor, that it is not preiudiciall to a Chriftian foule to bee forbid. den buriall. For although the Pfalmift complaines (as I haue faid before) how that none would bury the dead bodies of Gods feruants ; yet this was fpoken to intimate their villany which did it ; rather then their mifery which fuffered it. For though that vnto the eyes of man, thefe acts feeme bloudy and tyrannous, yet precious in the fight of the Lord is the death of his Saints. And our faith, holding faft the promife, is not fo fraile, as to thinke that the rauenous beafts can deprive the body of any part to bee wanting in the refurrection; where not a haire of the head shall be miffing; a new refittution of our whole bodies being promifed to all of vs in a moment, not onely out of the earth alone, but even out of the most fecret angles of all the other elements, wherein any body is or can bee poffibly included. A bad death neuer followes a good life, for there is nothing that maketh death bad, but that eftate which followeth death. What power then hath the horrour of any kinde of death, or the want of buriall, to affright their foules that have led a vertuous life? Quo loco, quo modo, quo tempore, fiat hac emigratio, quid interest ? undique Christi fidelibus ad calestia regna patet aditus.

The familie of the gorgeous rich glutton, prepared him a fumptuous funerall vnto the eyes of men, but one farre more fumptuous, did the miniftring Angels prepare for the vlcered begger, in the fight of God. They bare him not into any Sepulchre of marble, but placed him in the bofome of Abrabam.

Lucans Pharfalia, the ninth booke, fpeaking of great Pompey, who wan ted a Tombe, tells vs how that his fpirit afcended vp to the heauens; to which habitation few come that are entombd in rich and fumptuous monuments, thus.

> The eternall Spheres his glorious fpirit doth hold; To which come few, with incenfe burid, tomb d in gold.

And the faid Lucan in his fcuenth booke, fpeaking of the dead, that Cafar forbad (hould be burned, or buried, after hee hath brought forth many graue fentences concerning this matter of buriall, at length thus concludes, fpeaking as it were pathonately vnto Cafar.

This anger booses thee not; for tis all one Whether the fire, or putrefaction Diffolue them; all to Natures bosome go, And to themsfelues their ends the bodies owe. If now these Nations, Cæsar, be not burnd, They shall, when earth and seas to slames are turnd; Deciuit. Dei. cop. 11.

A Discourse 32 One fire shall burne the world, and with the skie Shall mixethefe bones : where erethy foule shall be, Their foules shall goe; in aire thou shalt not flie Higher, nor better in Auernus lie. Death frees from fortune: Earth receines againe What ever the brought forth: and they obtaine Heavens couerture, that have no vrmes at all: So Virgil who appoints a place of punishment in hell for the vaburied, Æn.1.6; yet in Anchifes his words, he fhewes how fmall the loffe of a graue is. But to conclude with mine Authour Saint Angustine. If the necessaries of mans life, as meate, and cloathing, though they be wanting in great extremitic, yet cannot fubuert the good mans patience, nor draw him from goodnelle; how much leffe power thall those things have, which are omitted in the burying of the dead, to afflict the foules that are already at quier in the fecret receptacles of the righteous. And whereas in the bloudy ouerthrow of many fierce battels; in the facking and fubuerfion of many Townes and Cities, the bodies of the Chriftians have wanted the rites and ceremonies of buriall; it was neither fault in the liuing that could not performe them, nor hurt to the dead that could not feele them. Yet notwithftanding all this which I have fpoken, the bodies of the dead are not to be contemned, and caft away, especially of the righteous and faithfull, which the holy Ghoft hath vfed as Organs, and inftruments vnto all good works; for if the garment or ring of ones father, be fo much the more effected of his posterity, by how much they held him dearer in their affection ; then are not our bodies to bee defpifed, being wee weare them more neare vnto our felues, then any attire whatfocuer. CHAP. VII. Of Cenotaphs, Honorarie and religious. Of the reverence attributed to thefe emptie Monuments.

A Cenotaph is an emptie Funerall Monument or Tombe, erected for the honour of the dead, wherein neither the corps, nor reliques of any defunct, are deposited, in imitation of which our Hearfes here in England are fet vp in Churches, during the continuance of a yeare, or for the space of certaine moneths.

Octauis the fifter of Angustus, buried her sonne, young Marcellus, that should have beene heire in the Empire, with fixe hundred Cenotaphs or hearles: and gaue to Virgil more then five thousand French crownes, in reward; for the writing of fixe and twentie Hexameters in her sonnes commendation: all which you may have for nothing, in the latter end of the fixth booke of his Æneidos.

These Cenotaphs were of two forts: they were made either to the memory of fuch as were buried in some other remote funerall monument; or to such which had no buriall at all : The first kinde of these Cenotaphs are called by Suetonius in the life of Clandius, Honorarie tombes; erected Honoris vel memorie gratia. Such as the fouldiers made to the memorie of Drufus, neare vpon the river of Rhine, howfocuer his body was carried to Rome, and there interred in Campo Martio.

Alexander Seuerus (flaine by the treacherie of certaine feditious French fouldiers, about the yeare of grace 238) An Emperour (faith Sir Thomas Eliot, who tranflated his ftory out of Greeke) whofe death all Rome lamented, all good men bewailed, all the world repented, whom the Senate deified, noble fame renowned, all wife men honoured, noble writers commended) had his Cenotaph erected in France neare vnto the place where he was flaine; but his body was carried to Rome, and there interred vnder a most rich magnificent fepulchre, as Lampridius affirmes.

Septimius Seuerus the Romane Emperour died in Yorke, in the yeare of mans faluation 212. out of which Citie his corps were carried forth to the funerall fire, by the fixth Legion of his fouldiers, called Victrix; after the militarie falhion, committed to the flames, and honoured with iufts and Turneaments, in a place neare beneath the Citie Weftward, where is to be feene a great mount of earth raifed vp as for his Cenotaph. But his affes, being beftowed in a little golden pot, or veffell of the Porpherite ftone, were carried to Rome, and fhrined there in the Monument of the Antonines.

Conflantine, or Conflantins, the younger fonne to Conflantine the Great, who is fuppoled to be the builder of Silcefter in Hamplhire, died at Mopfueftia in Cilicra, and was interred in Conflantinople in the Sepulchre of his Anceftours. Yet he had a Genotaph, or emptie monument, built to his memory, in the faid now-ruined Citie of Silcefter. And many there were that, in honour and remembrance of them, had fuch monuments built, about which the fouldiers were wont yearcly to inft, and keepe folemne Turneaments in honour of the dead.

The fecond kinde of Cenotaphs were made Religionis caufa, to the memory of fuch whofe carcafes, or difperfed reliques, were in no wife to bee found, for example, of fuch as perifhed by fhip wracke, of fuch as were flaine, cut, mangled, and hew d apeeces in battell, or of fuch that died in forraine nations; whofe burials were vnknowne. For in ancient times it was thought, that the Ghoft of the defunct could not reft in any place quietly, before the body had decent buriall, or the performance thereof, in as ample manner as could poffibly be imagined.

Aneas (as it is fained) by the helpe of Sibylla Camea, defcending into hell, found Palinarus his Ihipmafter (drownd not long before) among many more wandring about the lake of Styx, becaufe his body was vnburied : which kinde of punifhment is thus related by the Propheteffest haers tranflation.

This prease that here thou seest beene people dead, not laid in graue, A pitious rable poore that no reliese nor comfort baue: This Boate-man Charon is. And those whom now this water beares, Are bodies put in ground, with worship due of weeping teares. Nor from these fearfull bankes, nor rivershoarce they passage get: Till under earth in graues their bodies bones at rest are set. Some fay hee was flaine here in England, fome others in the Citie of Mentz in Germany.

A Discourse 30 The Primitiue Chriftians did exhibite a religious honour to the Cenotaphs of holy men (to whole memory many in thole dayes were crected) which for the profession of the Gospell had suffered martyrdome, or vndergone thole variety of torments, which were as then inflicted upon the faithfull: as you may reade in Theodoret. lib. de Martyr. and in these Saphicks of Aurelius Prudentius. It was, and is the vie in most countries, to inferibe these emptie monuments, as reall fepulchres, with the names and titles of the defunct, to whole honour they were intended. As in Ouid. Meta, lib. 11. fab. 10. Seas fright me with their tragicall alpect, Of late I faw them on the flore eiect Their feattered wracks, and often I haue read Sad names on Sepulchres that want their dead: And a little after in the fame fable, where Alcyone mournes for her drownd husband Ceix, thus. -would I with thee Had put to fea : a happie fate for me; Then both together all the time affignd For life had liu'd; nor in our death difioynd Now here, I perifht there: on that profound, Poore I was wrackt; yet thou without me drownd. Though one vrne hold not both, one Sepulchre Shall ioyne our titles : though thy bones from mine The feas diffeuer, yet our names shall ioyne. Death choakt the reft.-Our Ancients accustomed likewife to garnish, decke, and adorne these cenotaphs, as other tombes or fepulchres; and that with all kinde of reuerence : and whofoeuer did deface, or breake downe, any of these Honorarie void Monuments, exemplarie punifhment was inflicted vpon the partie fo offending, as vpon your Tumboruchoi or graue-diggers. But I will conclude this chapter with this difference of Sepulchres and Cenotaphs; as I finde it recorded by Scipio Gentilis, Sepulchrorum fanctitas, faith he, in ipfo Jolo est, quod nulla vi moueri neque deleri posest. And fuch a holineffe, as I have faid before, quod nulla vi moueri neque deleri poteff; and more especially in that ground, wherein the bodies of Christians were interred, by reason of the fanctified corps that it received.

It is an vie in fome parts of Ireland (as yet not altogether abolifhed) for children to fweare by their forefathers hand, or by their Lords hand. And in the countrey where I was borne, the vulgar fort especially, doe most commonly fweare by the croffe of their owne Parifh Kirke, as they call it, and in ancient times children vfed to fweare, by the Sepalchres of their parents. Others by the lepulchres of fuch perfons, who in their life time were reputed honourable amongft them, either in regard of the worthineffe of their perfon, or of the eminence of place of gouernment which they held in the weale publike. And by these oathes (the things themselves being reuerently effeemed, and accounted facred) their affertions or affeuerations were alwayes holden the better to be beleeued. I reade in the Storehoufe of Times, 16.8. cap. 12. Part. 1. that a Mafter bearing his Slave neere to the Temple of Apollo; the Slaue fled from him, and knowing that the Tem. ple afforded refuge, ranne thereinto, and mounting vp to the Altar embraced the image His Lord purfued him, and having forcibly recovered him from the Statue without any reuerence of the place, began againe to give him many Baftonadoes. The fernant fled from him once more, and ranne to faue himfelfe at the Tombe of his Lords deceafed Father: but then, in meere paternall dutie, he left punishing him any more, and pardoned him the fault which hee had committed. In fuch renerend and religious regard the very Pagans had the Tombes of their Anceftours.

But, with vs, in thefe dayes, I fee no fuch reuerence that fonnes haue to their fathers hands, or to their Sepulchres. I heare no fwearing by Kirkes, Groffes, or Sepulchres. A fight which brings delight and admiration, and strikes a religious apprehension into the mindes of the beholders.

We defire likewife to behold the mournfull ruines of other religious houles, although their goodly faire ftructures bee altogether deftroyed, their tombes battered downe, and the bodies of their dead caff out of their coffins; for that, that very earth which did fometimes couer the corps of the defunct, puts vs in minde of our mortalitie, and confequently brings vs to vnfained repentance. Neither can we paffe by, but with yearning hearts looke vpon that fatned foile (the ferrile feed-plot of the Ghurch) which in former times hath beene fprinkled with the bloud, blackt with the cinders, and ftrawne with the afhes, of those bleffed Saints, who for the profeffion of the Gospell, by fword, fire, and fagot, haue fuffered most cruell martyrdome : giuing reuerence and honour to their memories, because by their fufferings true Religion was propagated, and all idolatrie demolissed: which we may lawfully do, as vnto Gods chiefe champions ftanding vnto death for the truth. ### GHAP. IX.

Of the punishments both by humane lawes, and Gods Seuere suffice, inflicted wpon such malefactors in foregoing ages, who wiolated Sepulchers. Of Church-robbers.

Those (in foregoing ages) which did violate, misuse, or distaine tombes, graues, sepulchers, or any of these funerall Monuments, were punished either with death, perpetuall exile, condemnation to the mines, banishment for a time, payment of money, forfeiture of goods, loss of members, or the like, according to the qualitie of the person, and circumstance of the fact. To begin with the Clergie.

A Prieft found guiltie of this execrable act (being fo much more odious, by how much his place was reputed more honourable and religious) was degraded from his Priefthood, his goods fet to open fale, and forfeited, and himfelfe condemned to perpetuall banifhment.

If a man of eminent place, of great riches, ranke, and qualitie, did with an armed hand, defpoile any Tombe or Sepulchre, Latrenis more, after the manner of an high-way robber, that man by the Law was put to execution; if vnarmed, then the Iudge did fend him to the Mines, or to banifhment, or punifh him with fome pecuniarie mulct, to the value, most commonly, of halfe his goods, and branded him with eternall infamie.

If a Seruant, or a man of meane fortunes, was knowne to pull downe, or deface any funerall Monument, without his mafters priuitie, hee was condemned to the Mines; if hee had beene vrged thereunto by hismafter, then he was adjudged for a time to be banifhed; if he did digge vp, and draw out of the graue, the body or bones of the defunct, then his indgement was death.

If any man did deface, or cut away any part of the Effigies or reprefentation of the defunct, caru'd, engrauen, or embolt, vpon any graue-ftone, tombe, or fepulchre, that man by the law was to lofe his hand.

Wholoeuer in the repairing of any ruinous decayed Sepulchre, did any way vndecently touch the body of the dead perfon, therein laid downe to his eternall reft: that party fo offending, was commanded by the Law, Decem pondo auri Fifco inferre, to bring ten pound weight of gold into the Exchequer:

But the most execrable and hellish abuse of all other offered to the dead, is effected by witchcraft, incantation, and Art-magicke; an art, faith Quintilian, Declam. 15. which is faid to disquiet the Gods, to trouble and displace the starres, to fearch into the graues and sepulchres of the dead, to mutilate, differenter, and cut off, certaine parts of the carcases therein inhumed, and by those pairings and cuttings, together with certaine horrid enchant.

To the dire witch Erictho, Sextus goes, This fatall warres fad iffue to difclofe: She quickens a dead carcafe, which relates To Sextus eare, his and his Fathers Fates, And crawing then deaths freedome to obtaine, Is by a magicke fpell diffolti d againe. whin the booke following, Lucan makes young Sextus thus to woes, follicite the old witch Erictho, for the fpeedic knowledge of the warres the foreknowne all things to come, and turne away The conrect of definy, tome(1 pra)	Lucan So 6.

Thronghout all ages, and bestow on thee Such funeralls, with charmes so burne thy bones, Thy ghost shall beare no incantations. Let this the fruit of thy reminall be, No spects, no herbs shall dare to take from thee Thy long safe rest, when I have made thee die, The Gods, and Prophets answer doubtfully; But he, that dares enquire of ghosts beneath, And boldly go to th'oracles of death, Is plainly told the truth; spare not, but name Plainly the things, and places all, and frame A speech, wherein I may conferre with sate: Adding a charme to make him know the state Of what so ressent to the specific to the second The weeping carcase space.

The deuill in his conference with the Sompner (who to tell you by the way,

Is a renner up and down With maundements, fornicatioun And is y beat at every townes end) Amongst other his subtilities relates this for one; by way of interrogation, thus.

Yet tell me (quoth this Sompner) faithfully, Make ye you new bodies thus alway Of elements? the fiend answerd nay: Sometime we faine, and sometime we arife With dead bodies, and that in fundry wise, And speake as renably, saire and well As the Phitones did to Samuel.

This violation or fearefull diffurbance of the dead, was punished with extreme tortures, and afterwards by decollation.

Kelley (otherwife called Talbot) that famous Englifh Alchymift of our times, who flying out of his owne countrey (after he had loft both his eares at Lancafter) was entertained with Rodolph the fecond, and laft of that Chriftian name, Emperour of Germany : for whom Elizabeth of famous memory, fent (very fecretly) Captaine Peter Gwinne, with fome others, to perfwade him to returne backe to his owne natiue home; which hee was willing to doe: and thinking to efcape away in the night, by ficalth, as he was clammering ouer a wall in his owne houfe in Prague (which beares his name to this day, and which fometime was an old Sanctuary)he fell downe from the battlements, broke his legges, and bruifed his body; of which hurts within a while after he departed this world.

Sed quorfum bac, you will fay: then thus, This diabolicall queflioning of the dead, for the knowledge of future accidents, was put in practife by theforefaid Kelley; who, vpon a certaine night, in the Parke of Walton in le dale, in the county of Lancaster, with one Paul Waring (his fellow companion in fuch deeds of darknesse) inuocated fome one of the infernall regiment, The definition of a Sompner, Ubancer in the Friers Pro-Jogue.

Chancer in the Friers cale,

A Discourse 46 ment, to know certaine paffages in the life, as alfo what might bee knowne by the deuils forelight, of the manner and time of the death of a noble young Gentleman, as then in his wardfhip. The blacke ceremonies of that night being ended, Kelley demanded of one of the Gentlemans feruants, what corfe was the laft buried in Law-church-yard, a Church thereunto adioyning, who told him of a poore man that was buried there but the tame day. Hee and the faid Waring intreated this forefaid feruant, to go with them to the graue of the man fo lately interred, which hee did ; and withall did helpe them to digge up the carcale of the poore caitifie, whom by their incantations, they made him (or rather fome cuill fpirit through his Organs) to speake, who delinered strange predictions concerning the faid Gentleman. I was told thus much by the faid Seruingman, a fecondarie 0000000000000000 actor in that difmall abhorrid bufineffe : and divers gentlemen, and others, are now living in Lancashire to whom he hath related this ftory. And the Gentleman himfelfe (whofe memorie I am bound to honour) told me a little before his death, of this conjuration by Kelley; as he had it by relation from his faid Seruant and Tenant; onely fome circumftances excepted, which he thought not fitting to come to his mafters knowledge. ************* Thefe iniuries done against the dead, who ought to fleepe in peace vntill the laft found of the Trumpet, have ever beene, even amongst the very Pagans themfelues, effeemed execrable. Infomuch that if any man that was knowne to haue committed fuch an hainous offence, and did by chance escape the hand of humane Iustice, yet he could not (in their opinion) audid the punifhment of the diuine powers. Whereupon they vied to make their imprecations to Ifis, or fome other of their gods or goddeffes ; againft fuch as fhould any wayes violate and breake downe their Sepulchres or eternall houles of reft. As in this old Infeription. Sceus qui fecerit; mitem Ifidem iratam fentiat; & fuorum Offa eruta, atque dispersa vident. We reade in holy Writ that the king of the Moabites was fo fauagely cruell, cuen after death, against the king of Edom; that he tooke his body out of the Sepulchre, and burnt his bones into lime; for which barbarous rage, vpon the facred remaines of a kings body, hee and his people were punished of God : these are the words of the Prophet. Thus faith the Lord, for three transgreffions of Moab, and for foure, I Amos 22 will not turne to it, because it burnt the bones of the king of Edom into lime. Therefore will I fend a fire vpon Moab, and it shall deuoure the palaces of Kerioth, and Moab shall die with tumult, with shouting, and with the found of a Trumpet. And I will cut off the Iudges out of the midft thereof, and will flay all the Princes thereof with him, faith the Lord. Amongst the Christians, adeo flagitiofum hoc fcelus habitum fuit, vt etiam inter causas relatum sit, sur vxor à marito diuortere posset, si nimirum Sepulchrorum diffolutorem effe probanerit : faith Kirkman, De funeribus Rom. J. 2 cap. 26. out of Theodofius and Valent. Emperours, Cod. de repudijs, And of this barbarous kinde of cruelty against the dead, Camden in his Remainer. Remaines gives you these words following, out of Newel. Leg. Valent. Aug. de de Sepulchris, Tit. V. Nimis barbara est, & vesana crudelitas, munus extremum luce carentibus innidere, & dirutis per inexpiabile crimen Sepulcbru, monstrare calo corum reliquias humatorum. And the heathens (laith he) did account and verily beleeue, that those qui in patrios cineres mir xiffent ; hoc eft, qui patrium Monumenta violassent: which had pift vpon their fathers alhes, that is to fay, those which had violated the Monuments of their Anceftours, elders, or forefathers, to be no otherwife then Patricides or murtherers of their fathers or deare friends; and that fuch should be ftrucke to death by lightning from heauen ; & after death that they fhould be frightned, toft vp and downe, and tormented in hell, with burning torches by the hands of the furies; whereupon Horace de Arte Poetica ver fus finem.

Nec fatis apparet cur versies factitet, vtrum Minxerit in patrios cineres ; an trifte bidental Mouerit inceftus.

Ad Viatorem. Si pia maiorum violas monumenta, viator; Vitrices Furias experiere breui.

As it was holden vnlawfull and punishable, in former times, for any one to piffe, in or against the walls of any religious structure (a custome (to our (hame) too commonly vied of vs in these dayes, of which I thall have often occafion to fpeake hereafter) fo, you may thinke, that it was holden to bee an impious and hainous offence for any one, to pollute with vrine, the tombes, or graues of their parents, predeceffours, friends, or any other whofocuer. Which to preuent, they were wont to make a deprecation, or ear neft fute, in fome part of their funerall Inferiptions, on this manner.

Hofpes ad hunc tumulum ne mtias, Offa precantur tecta hominis.

For indeed fuch as had their graves, tombes, flatues, or reprefentations, thus flained and defiled, were thought to have paffed out of this world with fhame and ignominic.

I cannot without griefe remember (faith Camden) how barbaroufly and vnchriftianlike fome not long fince haue offended by the abufing of thefe Monuments; yea some mingendo in patrios cineres; which yet wee haue feene ftrangely reuenged.

Now as the violation of Sepulchres, fo the depredation of Churches, Church robbing, or Sacriledge, was in all ages accounted most damnable. De Ecclesia qui aliquid furatur, Iuda proditori comparatur: He that steales any thing from the Church, may be compared to Indas the traitour. Aliquid inde subtrabere, omnium prædonum enpiditatem superat; to hooke or Hieron, Ep. 34draw any thing from thence, is a finne, which exceeds the most detestable defire of all other forts of robbers.

Amongst those caytines darke and loud with voice to them doth rore, Learne Iustice now by this, and Gods about despise no more.

This Phlegyas king of the Lapithes(a people dwelling in a part of Theffalie) having done infinite dammages in Greece, furprizing many Townes and Cities : became in the end fo ouer-weening, and toolilh bold, that hee facked the forefaid Temple of Apollo in Delphos, and flue Philamon, that cunning Harper, the fonne of Apollo, who brought an armed power to refcue his fathers oracle. Vpon which facriledge and contempt of the gods, all the countrey of the Phlegyans was vtterly ruinated with an earthquake, and flaming arrowes fhot from heaven, which killed moft of the people, and the few that remained died of the plague; and for this high. handed offence, their forefaid king is ftill plagued in hell. Which vertes of Virgil, to that purpofe, thus paraphraftically tranflated, will it pleafe you to reade ouer againe :

> Phlegias king most wretched in that place; Forewarmeth all of his great misery, And as sad witnessed of his pitious case, In those dimme shades he cries out wofully: Learne to doe Iustice: and by my contempt, Of the high Gods, doyoulike sate prevent.

Hiftories affoard infinite examples of this kinde in all forts of Religions: yea Chriftian kings, and other Potentates in all ages have mifprifed the true, onely, all-fauing God, by the facrilegious taking away of the rights, riches, and ornaments of holy Church ; yet it hath beene obferued , that they feldome or neuer efcaped fcotfree as : the fequele of this worke will fnew.

Seuere punifhments haue formerly beene inflicted vpon Church 10bbers of the meaner ranke, by the flrictneffe of our Lawes here in England. For an inflance, in the twentieth yeare of Edward the fourth, on the 22. day of February, flue notable malefactors were put to death at London, for robbing of Churches and other places; elpecially the collegiate Church of Saint Martins le grand in London; for the which three of them were drawne to the Tower-hill, and there hanged and burnt, the other two were preffed to death.

Wee haue not heard of the hanging of any fuch Church robbers in thele our dayes, for Sublata caufa tollitur effectus; the caufe taken, or, it you will, ftolne away, the effect will confequently ceafe : For what man will venture a turne at the Gallows, for a little finall filter chalice, a beatenout pulpit cufhion, an ore-worne Communion-cloth, and a courfe Surpliffe? thefe are all the riches and ornaments of the moft of our Churches; and thefe are more, by the Surpliffe, then by fome of the Parifhioners may bee thought perhaps fitting, to be allowed : fuch is now the fleight regard we haue of the decent fetting forth of facred Religion. Elizabeth, certaine perfons of euery County were put in authority to pull downe, and caft out of all Churches, Roodes, grauen Images, Shrines with their reliques, to which the ignorant people came flocking in adoration. Or any thing elfe, which (punctually) tended to idolatrie and superstition. Vnder colour of this their Commiffion, and in their too forward zea'e, they rooted vp, and battered downe, Croffes in Churches, and Church-yards, as alfo in other publike places, they defaced and brake downe the images of Kings, Princes, and nobleeftates; creeted, fet vp, or pourtraied, for the onely memory of them to posterity, and not for any religious honour; they crackt a preces the glaffe-windowes wherein the effigies of our bleffed Sauiour hanging on the Croffe, or any one of his Saints was depictured ; or otherwife turned vp their heeles into the place where their heads vfed to be fixt; as I have feene in the windowes of fome of our countrey Churches. They defpoiled Churches of their copes, veftments, Amices, rich hangings, and all other ornaments whereupon the ftory, or the pourtraiture, of Chrift himfelfe, or of any Saint or Martyr, was delineated, wrought, or embroidered ; leaving Religion naked, bare, and vnclad ; as Dionyfins left Inpiter without a cloake, and Afentapins without a beard. It will not feeme diftaftfull diftaftfull, I hope, to my Reader, nor impertinent to this purpofe, if I fhall relate the ftory.

Dionyfine a Tyrant of Sicilie, spoiled the Churches, and tooke away a cloake of gold from Inpiter, faying (fcoffingly) a cloth-cloake was lighter for Summer and warmer for Winter; he tooke likewife away from Afen-Lapins his golden beard, faying it was a faucie part for him to have a long beard, and his father Apollo to haue none. But this his fcotting facriledge was punished in his fonne Dionyfius, who was enforced to flie out of his owne kingdome; to trudge vp and downe like a runneagate, and in the end to leade a private life at Corinth. Seldome faith one, the children of them profper, that fcorne the falle Gods, and beleeue not in the true God. And how the posteritie of these Commissioners have prospered upon earth, or how punished after death, God knowes all, howfocuer by men fomewhat in their paffages hath beene obferued. For thefe hote-burning in zeale of- canal in suff ficers, got cloakes to hide their knauery, and beards to vifard their hypocrific, and thereby vnder a goodly pretence of reforming Religion, they preferred their private respects, and their owne enriching, before the honour of their Prince and countrey ; yea and before the glory of God himfelfe.

But the fouleft and moft inhumane action of those times, was the violation of Funerall Monuments. Marbles which couered the dead were digged vp, and put to other vfes (as I have partly touched before) Tombes hackt and hewne apeeces; Images or reprefentations of the defunct, broken, crazed, cut, or difmembred, Inferiptions or Epit phs, especially if they began with an orate pro anima, or concluded with cuius anima propitietur Deus. For greedineffe of the braffe, or for that they were thought to bee Antichriftian, pulled out from the Sepulchres, and purloined ; dead carcafes, for gaine of their ftone or leaden coffins, caft out of their graues, notwithftanding this requeft, cut or engraven vpon them, propler milericordiam lefu requiescant in pace. Thele Committioners, thele wuld apoper, thele Tombe-breakers, thefe graue. diggers, made fuch deepe and diligent fearch into the bottome of ancient Sepulchres, in hope there to finde (behke) fome long hidden treasure; having heard or read that Hircanus ex Danidis Lifeh Antiq. Sepulchro tria millia auri talenta eruit: That Hircanus tooke three thou. Not fo much for taking out the money, for Aurum Sepulchris iuffe detrahitur, whi Dominus non ba- contal La. berur, as for the drawing out, and difperfing abroad the bones, afhes, and other the facred remaines of the dead. And hereupon the graue-takers, thefe gold-finders are called theeues, in old Inferiptions vpon Monuments.

But I have gone further then my committion, thus then to returne. This barbarous rage against the dead(by the Commillioners, and others animated by their ill examp'e) continued vntill the fecond yeare of the raigne of Queene Elizabeth, of famous memory, who, to reftraine luch a fauage crucity, cauled this Proclamation (following) to bee published through-F 2

ELIZABETH.

A Proclamation against breaking or defacing of Monuments of Antiquitie, being set vp in Churches, or other publike places, for memory, and not for superstition.

'He Queenes Maieftie vnderstanding, that by the meanes of fundrie people, partly ignorant, partly malicious, or couctous ; there hath been of late yeares spoiled and broken certaine ancient Monuments, some of metall, fome of ftone, which were crefted vp afwell in Churches, as in other publike places within this Realme, onely to fhew a memory to the pofterity of the perfons there buried, or that had beene benefactors to the building or dotations of the fame Churches or publique places, and not to nourilh any kinde of fuperstition. By which meanes, not onely the Chur, ches, and places remaine at this prefent day spoiled, broken, and ruinated, to the offence of all noble and gentle hearts, and the extinguilhing of the honourable and good memory of fundry vertuous and noble perions decealed; but alfo the true vnderftanding of diuers Families in this Realme (who have defeended of the bloud of the fame perfons deceafed) is thereby lo darkened, as the true courfe of their inheritance may be hereafter interrupted, contrary to luftice, belides many other offences that doe hereof enfue to the flander of fuch as either gaue, or had charge in times paft onely to deface Monuments of idolatry and falle fained images in Churches and Abbeyes. And therefore, although it be very hard to recouer things broken and spoiled : yet both to prouide that no fuch barbarous diforder bee hereafter vled, and to repaire as much of the faid Monuments as conveniently may be: Her Maieftie chargeth and commandeth all manner of perfons hereafter to forbeare the breaking or defacing of any parcell of any Monument, or Tombe, or Graue, or other Infeription and memory of any perfon deceafed, being in any manner of place; or to breake any image of Kings, Princes, or nobles Effates of this Realme, or of any other that have beene in times past crected and set vp, for the onely memory of them to their pofferity in common Churches, and not for any religious honour; or to breake downe and deface any Image in glaffe-windowes in any Church, without confent of the Ordinary:vpon paine that whofoener fhal herein be found to offend, to be committed to the next Goale, and there to remaine without baile or mainprife, vnto the next comming of the Iuflices, for the delivery of the faid Goale ; and then to be further punifhed by fine or imprisonment (belides the reflitution or reedification of the thing broken) as to the faid Iuftices shall feeme meete; vfing therein the aduife of the Ordinary, and if neede shall bee, the aduife also of her Maiefties Councell in her Starre-chamber.

And for fuch as bee already spoiled in any Church, or Chappell, now franding ftanding : Her Maieftie chargeth and commandeth, all Archbilhops, Brfhops, and other Ordinaries, or Ecclefiafticall perfons, which have authoritieto vifit the Churches or Chappels; to inquire by prefentments of the Curates, Churchwardens, and certaine of the Parilhoners, what manner of spoiles haue beene made, fithens the beginning of her Maiefties raigne of fuch Monuments; and by whom, and if the perfons be liuing, how able they be to repaire and reedifie the fame; and thereupon to conuent the fame perfons, and to enioyne them vnder paine of Excommunication, to repaire the fame by a conucnient day, or otherwife, as the caufe fhall further require, to notifie the fame to her Maiefties Councell in the Starre-chamber at Weftminfter. And if any fuch shall be found and conuicted thereof, not able to repaire the fame; that then they bee enjoyned to doe open penance two or three times in the Church, as to the qualitie of the crime and partie. belongeth vnder like paine of Excommunication. And if the partie that offended bee dead, and the executours of the Will left, having fufficient in their hands vnadministred, and the offence notorious; The Ordinary of the place (hall also enioyne them to repaire or reedifie the fame, ypon like or any other conuenient paine, to bee deuifed by the faid Ordinary. And when the offendour cannot be prefented, if it be in any Cathedrail or Collegiate Church, which hath any revenue belonging to it, that is not particularly allotted to the fuftentation of any perfon certaine, or otherwife, but that it may remaine in diferction of the gouernour thereof, to beftow the fame vpon any other charitable deed, as mending of high-wayes, or fuch like; her Maieftic enioyneth and ftraightly chargeth the gouernours and companies of every fuch Church, to employ fuch parcels of the faid fums of any (as any wife may be spared) upon the speedy repaire or reedification of money fuch Monuments fo defaced or fpoiled, as agreeable to the originall, as the fame conveniently may be.

And where the couetoufneffe of certaine perfons is fuch, that as Patrons of Churches, or owners of the perfonages impropriated, or by fome other colour or pretence, they do perfwade with the Parfon and Parifhioners to take or throw downe the Bels of Churches and Chappels, and the lead of the fame, conuerting the fame to their private gaine, and to the fpoiles of the faid places, and make fuch like alterations, as thereby they feeke a flanderous defolation of the places of prayer: Her Maieffie (to whom in the right of the Crowne by the ordinance of Almighty God, and by the Lawes of this Realme, the defence and protection of the Church of this Realme belongeth) doth exprelly forbid any manner of perfon, to take away any Bels or lead of any Church or Chappell, vnder paine of imprifonment during her Maieffies pleafure, and fuch further fine for the contempt, as fhall be thought meete.

And her Maieftie chargeth all Bifhops and Ordinaries to enquire of all fuch contempts done from the beginning of her Maiefties raigne, and to enioyne the perfons offending to repaire the fame within a conucnient time. And of their doings in this behalfe, to certifie her Maiefties privic Councell, or the Councell in the Starre-chamber at VVc@minfter,that order may be taken herein.

A Discourse

God fane she Queene.

Imprinted at London in Pauls Churchyard by Richard Iugge and Iobn Cawood, Printers to the Queenes Maieftic.

Cum privilegio Regia Maiestatis.

This Proclamation was feconded by another, to the fame purpole, in the fourteenth yeare of her Maiefties raigne, charging the Iuffices of her Affile to prouide feuere remedie, both for the punilhment and reformation thereof.

But these Proclamations tooke fmall effect, for much what about this time, there forung vp a contagious broode of Scifmatickes; who, if they might have had their wills, would not onely have robbed our Churches of all their ornaments and riches, but also have laid them level with the ground; choosing rather to exercise their devotions, and publish their erronious doctrines, in some emptie barne, in the woods, or common fields, then in these Churches, which they held to be polluted with the abhominations of the whore of Babylon.

Befides about that time thefe forefaid wilfull Sectaries did penne, print, and fpread abroad certaine feditious Pamphlets (as ftill they doc) againft our booke of Common Prayer, againft all Ecclefiafticall gouernment, and againft all the rites and ceremonies vfed in this our orthodoxall Church of England; inuenting, out of their owne corkie braines, a new certaine noforme of Liturgie to themfelues; thereby to bring into the Church all diforder and confusion. Thefe Renegadoes are (at this day) diuided, and fubdiuided into as many feuerall Sects, as there be feuerall Trades in the greateft Market-towne. As into Brownifts, Barowifts, Martinifts, Prophefiers, Solifidians, Famelifts, rigid Precifians, Difciplinarians, Iudaicall Thraskifts, &c.and into a rable, numberleffe.

In the three and thirtieth yeare of Queene Elizabeth, the fixteenth day of July in the morning, Edmund Coppinger and Henry Arthington, repaired to one Walkers house neare vnto Broken warfe of London, where conferring with one of their Sect, named William Hacket of Own. dale in the County of Northampton, Yeoman, they offered to anoint him king : But Hacket taking Coppinger by the hand, faid, You fhall not need, for I haue beene already anointed in heauen by the holy Ghoft him. felfe. Then Coppinger asked him what his pleafure was to be done: Go your way both (faid he) and tell them in the citie, that Chrift Iefus is come with his fanne in his hand to judge the earth. And if any man aske you where he is, tell them he lies at Walkers house by Broken-wharfe; and if they will not beleeue it, let them come and kill me if they can : for as truely as Chrift Iefusis in heauen, fo truely is he come to judge the world. Then Coppinger faid it fhould be done forthwith : and thereupon went forward, and Arthington followed, but ere he could get downe the flaires, Coppinger bad begun below in the houfe, to proclaime newes from heaten of exceeding of Funerall Monuments. 55 great mercy : that Chrift Jefus was come, &c with whom Arthington alfo cried the fame words aloude ; following him along the fireets from thence by Watling ftreer, and Old Change toward Cheape; they both adding beyond their commiffion, Repent England, repent. After they had both thus come (with a mightie concourse of common multitude) with an vniforme cry into Cheape neare vnto the Groffe, and there finding the throng and prease of people to increase about them, in such fort as they could not well paffe further, nor be conveniently heard of them all as they defired : they got them vp into an emptie peale cart ; wherein they flood not onely vpon the words of their former crie, but reading fomething out of a paper, they went more particularly ouer the office and calling of Hacket, how he reprefented Chrift, by partaking a part of his glorified bodie, by his principall fpirit, and by the office of fenering the good from the bad. And that they were two Prophets, the one of mercy, the other of judgement, called and fent of God, to affift this their Chrift Hacket in his great worke. These men were apprehended the same day. The 26, of July Hacket was arraigned, and found guiltie, as to have spoken divers most falfe and traiterous words against her Maiestie; to haue razed and defaced her Armes, as allo her picture, thrufting an iron inftrument into that part which did reprefent the breaft and heart. For the which he had iudgement, and on the 28. of July, hee was brought from Newgate, to a gibbet by the Croffe in Cheape; where being moued to aske God and the Queene forgiueneffe, he fell to railing and curfing of the Queene, and began a most blasphemous prayer against the diuine Maiestie of God. They had much ado to get him vp the ladder ; where hee was hanged, and after bowelled and quartered. His execrable fpeeches and demeanure as well at his arraignment, as death, vtterly diftained and blemilhed all his former feeming fan ditie, wherewith he had throudly poffeffed the common people. Thus you fee how cafily ignorant people are feduced by falle new doctrines, how fuddenly they fall from true Religion into herefie, frenfie, and blafphemie; robbing the Church of all her due rites, and (as much as in them lies) God of his glory ; which abule, of these times, I leaue to be reformed by our reuerend Clergie. On the next day (to make an end of the Story) Edmund Coppinger ha uing wilfully abstained from meat, and otherwife tormented himfelfe, died in Bridewell. And Henry Arthington lying in the Counter in Woodfreet, fubmitting himfelfe, writ a booke of repentance, and was deliuered; fuch was the end of thele men (faith mine Authour) of whom the fillie neffe and found doctrine. And in the yeare 1612. Aprill 11. Edward Wightman, another peruerfe heretique, was burned at Lichfield. This Wightman would faine haue made the people beleeue, that he himfelfe was the holy Ghoft, and immortall, with fundrie other most damnable opinions, not fit to bee mentioned amongst Christians. Yet for all this, this heretique had his followers. It is much to be wished that all backfliders from our Church, should be well looked vnto at the first: and not to runne on in their puritanicall opinions.

CHAP. XI.

Of the conversion of this our Nation from Paganisme to Christianity, including generally the Foundations of religious boules in the (ame; and the pietie in the Primitiue times; both of religious and Lay perfons.

F the conversion of this our Island, from Paganisme to Christianity, diuers authenticall Authors, both ancient and moderne, haue written at large : a little then of fo much will fuffice for this prefent Difcourfe.

Christiana doctrina sexaginta octo plus minus annorum spacio, post pasfionem Domini nostri lefu Christi, totum fere orbem peruagata est; within the fpace of threefcore and eight yeares, or thereabouts, after the death and pattion of our Lord and Sauiour Iefus Chrift, Chriftian Religion was fpread almoft ouer the face of the whole world. And fo fruitfull and famous was this fpreading of the Golpell, that Baptifta Mantuan, a Christian Poer, compares the increase thereof with that of Noah, thus alledging vnto it.

> Sicut aquis quondam Noe fua misit in orbem Pignora fedatis, ut Gens humana per omnes Debita calituum Patri daret orgia terras; Sie fua cum vellet Deus alta in regna reuerti, Discipulos quosdam transmisis ad vitima mundi, Littora, docturos Gentes, quo numina ritu Sint oranda, quibus calum placabile Sacris. As Noab fent from the Arke his fonnes, to teach The Lawes of God vnto the world aright; So Chrift his Seruants fent abroad to preach The word of life, and Gospell to each wight: No place lay fhadowed from that glorious Light. The fartheft Ifles, and Earths remoteft bounds. Embrac'd their Faith, and ioy'd at their fweet founds.

Now to fpeake of the conversion of this Island out of a nameleffe Au. A Manuferint thour, who writes a booke De regnis & Gentibus ad Chrisli fidem conuerfis, thus:

Prima Proninciarum omnium (ficut antiquisimi Historiarum Scriptores memoria prodidere, quoram etiam authoritatem M. A. Sabellicus inter nostra atatis recentiores est seguutus ) Britannia Insula, publico consensu, Christi fidem accepit.

The first of all Provinces or farre countries (as ancient Historiographers have delivered to memory; whole authority M. A. Sabellicus, one amonght the late writers of our age, doth principally follow) this Island of Britaine, by common confent, received the Christian faith. The glorious Gospell of Icfus Chrift (faith Gildas Albanius, furnamed the wife, the most ancient of our British Hiftorians) which first appeared to the world in the later time of Tyberius Cafar, did euen then fpread his bright beames vpon this frozen Ifland Ifland of Britaine. And it is generally receiued for a truth, that Iofeph of Arimathea (who buried the body of our Sauiour Chrift) laid the foundation of our faith in the Weft parts of this kingdome, at the place, or little Ifland, as then called Aualon, now Glaftenbury; where he with twelue difciples his affiftants, preached the Gofpell of life vnto the Iflanders, and found meanes there to build a Church or Oratorie of wreathen wands, as alfo a little cell thereunto adioyning; and this was the firft religious houfe dedicated to the feruice of the true God in all Britaine : and thefe religious men the firft beginners or founders of that tamous fenny-feated Monaftery, which is partly ftanding at this day, of which more hereafter, when 1 come to fpeake of the religious Foundations in Somerfetfhire. In the meane while will you reade what our countreyman Iohn Capgraue (in his Catalogue of Englifh Saints) writes of Iofephs comming into this kingdome. Thus in Englifh.

Isfeph with his fonne isfephes (faith he) and ten more of his affiftents, fent hither by Philip the Apostle out of France, for the inhabitants faluation, preached zealoully, and without feare, the true and linely faith; Arairagus as then fwaying the Scepter of this land. The which Arwiragus, howfoeuer he was vnwilling at the first, to give them entertainment, or to heare them preach any doctrine repugnant to the traditions of his predeceffours, yet becaufe they came from tuch a farre remote countrey as the holy Land, and that he faw their civill behauiour, their fanctitie, and strict course in the manner of their life and conversation, he gaue them a certaine Island to inhabite, in the Weft part of his dominions, all compassed about with lakes and standing waters, called Ynswirim, or the glassifie Isle; of which (faith he) a certaine Metrician made this Tetraftich.

> Intrat Analoniau duodena caterua virorum, Flos Arimathie Iofeph est primus eornm. Iofephes ex Iofeph genitus patrem comitatur, Hijs alijfque decemius Glasconie propriatur.

George Owen Harry, in his Pedigrees, vpon report from others, faith, Iofeph brought ouer with him his fifter Eurgaine, who afterwards married a Britaine, whofe name was Starklos.

Iohn Harding, in his Chronicle of England, will have fourteene to accompany Iofeph in this iourney, and that amongft many Britaines converted by them to the Chriftian faith; Arwiragus the king was one, to whom Iofeph gaue a shield of the Armes, which now we call S. George his Armes; fuch are the rimes in the English of those dayes, two hundred yeares fince or thereabouts.

the forme of which you may reade hereafter : but the most of these their important writings were in profe, and many of them wondrous fhort. For example, King Athelfton giues a certaine plow-land and other profits to the Prieft of the Church of high Bickington in Denshire, in these words which I had from my friend, Mafter Triftram Rifdon that countrey man.

> Ich Athelfton Konyng, Grome of bys home, Tif and grant to ye Prestes of thus chyrche, On Tok of my lond freliche to hold : wodd in My holt hous to build; bit gras for alle bys beaftes, * vewel for hys herth * pannage For Sow and Puggis World out end.

To the gouernment of these forefaid holy Fabricks, and their revenues, fuch men were chosen as were the best learned, and most eminent for integritie of life. The Priefts confecrated by the impofition of hands; and appointed to fay prayers, administer the Sacraments, instruct the Christians which daily increased; and to execute all fuch offices as belonged to a facred Bifhop or venerable Paftour, were in fuch high and holy repute amongst the laypeople, as that when any of them were efpied abroad, they would flocke prefently about him, and with all reuerence humbly befeech his Benifons, either by figning them with the croffe, or in holy prayers for them. And further (faith Bede) it was the manner in those primitive times, of the people Lib.4 (ap. 27. of England, that when any of the Clergie, or any prieft came to a village, they would all by and by, at his calling, come together, to heare the word, and willingly hearken to fuch things as were faid, and more willingly follow in workes, fuch things as they could heare and vnderftand. A wonderfull order of pietic both in prieft and people.

Chaucer in the prologue, to his Canterbury Tales, gives vs the character of a religious and learned prieft, who in his holy actions did imitate the example of the Clergie of thefe times, whereof I have fpoken ; but fuch were not tobe had by the dozensin his dayes, as by his writings appeares.

for the receiuing and entertainment of the worfhipfull and wealthy, who neuer came then to Church, but onely to pray and heare the word of God. The King himfelfe, when occafion ferued to come thither, came accompanied onely with flue or fixe perfons, and after prayer ended, departed. But if by chance it fortuned, that any of the Nobilitie, or of the worfhipfull, refreshed themfelues in the Monasteries, they contented themfelues with the religious mens fare and poore pittens, looking for no other cates aboue the ordinary and daily diet. For then those learned men and rulers of the Church, fought not to pamper the panch, but to faue the foule; not to please the world, but to ferue God.

Wherefore it came then to paffe, that even the habite of religious men was at that time had in great reuerence; to that where any of the Clergie or religious perfon came, he fhould bee ioyfully received of all men, like the feruant of God. Againe, if any were met going on journey, they ranne voto him, and making low obeyfance, defired gladly to have his benediction either by hand or by mouth. Allo if it plealed them to make any exhortation as they paffed by, every man gladly and defiroufly hearkened vnto them. Vpon the Sondayes ordinarily the people flocked to the Church, or to Monasteries, not for belly-cheare, but to heare the word of God: And if any Prieft came by chance abroad into the village, the inhabitants thereof would gather about him, and defire to have fome good leffon or collation made vnto them. For the Priefts, and other of the Clergie in those dayes, vied not to come abroad into villages, but onely to preach, to baptife, to vifit the ficke, or (to fpeake all in one word) for the cure of foules. Who also at that time were to farre from the infection of concroufnelle and ambition, that they would not take territories and poffeffions toward the building of Monasteries, and crecting of Churches, but through the earneft fuite, and almost forced thereunto by noble and wealthy men of the world : which cuftome in all points hath remained a long time after (faith he) in the Clergie of Northumberland.

No leffe feruent in deuotion, and auftere in ftrictneffe of life, in thefe dayes, were the religious Votaries of the female fex. I had almost forgotten (faith Capgraue) (in the prologue to his booke of the English Saints) the company of facted virgines, which like lillies amongst thornes, defpising all carnall pleasures, with all the great pompe and riches of the world (many of them being kings daughters) did in all chastitie, pouertie, and humilitie, adhere onely to their Sauiour Iefus Christ, their celess they did vndergo many exquisite torments, and in the end were glorified with a crowne of martyrdome. Deus exfexu elegens infirmiore vt fortia mundi confunderent.

In a Lieger booke belonging fometime to the Abbey of Rufford, I finde these verses following of the constant sufferings of certaine virgine martyrs.

Quid de virginibus dignum loquere, affice fidem, Fides ob veram fert mala multa fidem, Huic ardens lectus folidum fubuertere fidem Nec mors ipfa potest, cui Deus ardor inest. Tecla feras, Agathes Ergastula, vulnera vicit Margarita, truces virgo Lucia duces, G 2 Mf. in bib. Cotton.

C. in Chefhire.	But I will conclude this Chapter with the words of Camden , fpea of the Monafticall life and profefion. The profefion of this Monafticall life (faith he) began when Pagan rants enraged againft Chriftians, purfued them with bloudy perfecuti For then good deuout men, that they might ferue God in more fafety fecurity, withdrew themfelues into the vaft wilderneffes of Egypt, and (as the Painims are wont with open mouth to giue it out) for to env themfelues willingly in more miferies becaufe they would not be in mit Where they feattered themfelues among mountaines and defarts, hi in caues and little cells, here and there in holy meditations. At firft fol and alone: whereupon in Greeke they were called Monachi , that is, Mon but after they thought it better (as the fociable nature of mankinde re red) to meete together at certaine times to ferue God, and at length began to cohabite and liue together for mutuall comfort, rather then wilde beafts to walke vp and downe in the defarts. faire buildings, proud furniture, and ample reuenues, fo they daily increafed in all kindes of diforders; which was no fooner perceiued, but put in practife by the Laitie : our kings declined from their former fancitie, and (which the worft was) after their examples, many others (effective) of the Nobilitie) did follow their licentious traces. Examples of Princes being alwayes of greater force then other lawes, to induce the people to good or to euill. Nam bac conditio Principum, vt quicquid faciant pracipere videantur.

To proue as much as I have spoken. In the yeare of Grace, 747 Cmb. bert Archbilhop of Canterbury, by the counfell of Boniface Bilhop of Mentz, called a Conuocation at Cliffe befide Rochefter, to reforme the manifold enormities wherewith the Church of England at that time was ouergrowne. Our kings forfaking the companie of their owne wines, in those dayes delighted altogether in harlots, which were for the most part Nunnes. The reft of the Nobilitie following their example, trode allo the fame trace. The Bilhops likewife, and other of the Clergie, that fhould have beene a meanes of the reforming these faults in others, were themselves no leffe faultic; fpending their times either in contentions and brables, or elfe in luxurie and voluptuoufneffe, having no care of ftudy, and feldome or neuer preaching. Whereby it came to paffe, that the whole land was ouerwhelmed, with a moft darke and palpable mift of ignorance, and polluted with all kinde of wickedneffe and impietic, in all forts of people. In which Conuocation, after long confultation with thole his Bilhops, or Suffraganes, and the reft of the Clergie which were holden in greateft effectme for their learning, in number thirtie, for the reformation of these horrible abufes, endeauouring thereby (like a good Paftour) to turne away the wrath of God which feemed to hang ouer this land, and to threaten those plagues which not long after fell vpon it, when the Danes inuaded the fame.

Edgar, furnamed the peaceable, King of England in the yeare, 969. called together his Bilhops, and other of his Clergie, to whom hee made this or the like Oration, as followeth.

Forfomuch as our Lord bath magnified his mercy to worke with vs it is meete (most reuerend Fathers) that with worthy workes we answer his innumerable benefits: for neither by our ownefword poffeffe we the earth, and our owne armes hath not faued vs; but his right hand and his holy arme; for that he hath beene pleafed with vs. Meete therefore it is, that we fubmit both our felues and our foules to him, that hath put all things vnder our feet; and that we diligently labour that they whom he hath made fubicet voto vs, may bee made fubicet voto his lawes. And truly it is my part to rule the Laitie, with the law of equitie, to doe iust iudgement betwixt man and his neighbours, to punish Church robbers, to represse rebels, to deliuer the weake from the hands of his ftronger; the poore and needic from them that spoile them. And it also belongeth to my care, to haue confideration to the health, quietneffe, or prace of the Minifters of the Church, the flocke of Monkes, the companies of Virgines, and to prouide the things needfull for them. The examining of whole manners belongeth vnto you, if they liue chaftly, if they behaue themfelues honeftly towards wards them which bee abroad, if in diuine feruice they bee carefull, if in teaching the people diligent, if in feeding fober, if moderate in apparell, if in iudgement they be different. If you had cured thefe things by prudent ferutinie (by your licence I fpeake O reuerend Fathers) fuch horrible and abhominable things of the Clerkes had not come to our cares. I omit to fpeake, that their Crowne is not large, nor their rounding conuenient, but wantonneffe in apparell, infolencie in behauiour, filthineffe in words, doe be wray the madneffe of the inward man. Furthermore, how great negligence is there in the Diuines, when in the holy Vigils, they will fcarce vouchfafe to be prefent, when at the holy folemnities of the diuine-feruice, they feeme to bee gathered together to play and to laugh, rather then to fing.

I will (peake that which good men lament, and cuill men laugh at. I will speake with forrow (if so be it may be spoken) how they flow in banquettings, in chambering and wantonneffe, that now Clerkes houfes may bee thought to be brothell houles of harlots, and an affembly of plaiers. There is dice, there is dancing and finging, there is watching till midnight, with crying and fhouting. Thus the patrimony of Kings, the almes of Princes, yea (and that more is) the price of that precious bloud is ouerthrowne. Had our fathers therefore for this purpole emptied their treasures? bath the Kings bountifulneffe giuen lands and poffettions to Chriftian Churches for this end? that Clerkes harlots fhould be pampered with delicious dainties, that riotous guefts may be prepared for; that hounds and hawkes, and fuch like toyes may be gotten. Of this the Souldiers cry out, the common people murmure, the iefters and fcoffers fing and dance, and you regard it not; you fpare it, you diffemble it. Where is the fword of Lewy, and zeale of Simeon, which killed the circumcifed Sichimites, being the figure of them that defile the Church of Chrift, with polluted acts, abufing lacobs daughter as an harlot ? Where is the fpirit of Mofes, that fpared not his houfhold, kinsfolke worthipping the head of the calfe? Where is the dagger of Phinees the Prieft, who killing him that played the harlot with the Madianite, with this holy emulation pacified Gods wrath ? where is the fpir t of Peter, by whole power couctoufnelle is deftroyed, and Simoniall herefie condemned? Endeauour to imitate, O ye Priefts in God: It is time to rife against them that have broken the Law of God. I have Constantines, you haue Peters fword in your hands, let vs ioyne right hands, let vs couple fword to fword, that the Leapers may bee caft out of the Church, that the hallowed place of our Lord may bee purged, and the fonnes of Leui may minister in the Church. Go to carefully, I befeech you, left it repent vs to haue done that which we haue done, and to haue giuen that which wee haue giuen, if we shall fee that not to be spent in Gods feruice, but on the riotousnelle of most wicked men, though vnpunished libertie. Let the reliques of holy Saints, which they forne, and the reuerend Altars before which they rage, moue you : Let the maruellous deuotion of our Anceftours moue you, whole almes the Clerkes furie abuleth, &c. To you I commit this bufinefle, that both by Bilhoplie cenfure, and kingly authority, filthie livers may be caft out of the Church, and they that live in order may be brought in.

Not

Not long after, to wit, in the raigne of Etheldred, commonly called, The Hen. Hunting. vnready, it was forecold by an holy Anchorite; that forfomuch as the peo-4.6. ple of this Nation were given over to all drunkennelle, treafon, and carelefneffe of Gods houle; first by Danes, then by Normans, and last of all by the Scots they fhould be ouercome. Of which hereafter,

Edward the Confessor, whilest he lay ficke of that ficknesse whereof he died, after he had remained for two dayes speechlesse, on the third day lying for a time in a flumber, or fost fleepe, at the time of his waking, he fetch. ed a deepe figh, and thus faid. O Lord God Almightie, if this be not a vaine fantafticall illufion, but a true vision which I have feene, grant me space to vtter the fame vnto thefe that ftand here prefent, or elfe not. And herewith having his fpeech perfect, he declared how he had feene two Monkes fland by him, as he thought, whom in his youth he knew in Normandie to have lined godly, and died Chriftianly. Thefe religious men (faid he) protefting to methat they were the mellengers of God, fpake thefe words. Becaufe the chiefe gouernours of England, the Bifhops, and Abbots, are not the mini. fters of God, but the deuils, the Almighty God bath deliucred this kingdome for one yeare and a day into the hands of the enemy, and wicked fpirits shall walke abroad through the whole land. And when I made answer that I would declare these things to the people, and promised on their behalfe, that they fhould doe penance in following the example of the Nininites: they faid againe, that it would not be, for neither thould the people repent, nor God take any pitie vpon them. And when is there hope to haue an end of these mileries? faid I: Then faid they, when a greene tree is cut in funder in the middle, and the part cut off, is carried three acres breadth from the ftocke, and returning againe to the ftoale, Iball ioyne therewith, and begin to bud and beare fruit after the former manner, by reafon of the fap renewing the accuftomed nourilhment, then (wee fay) may there bee hope that fuch cuils shall ceafe and diminish. With these words of the dying king, though many that flood by were ftrucke with feare ; yet Stig and the Church-chopper, Archbilhop of Canterbury, made but a left thereof, faying, that the old man doted, and raued now in his fickneffe. Neuertheleffe within the fame yeare the truth of this propheticall dreame or vifion did plainly appeare. When the conquerour William feized into his hands, to glue vnto the Normans, the most part of euery mans posseffions in England, tooke from the Bifhops Sees all their ancient priviledges and free. domes, bereaued all the Monasteries and Abbies of their gold and filuer, Iparing neither Shrine, nor Challice, appropriating the faid religious houfes, with their revenues to himfelfe, dugrading and depriving as well Bithops, as Abbats of their feats and honours, and detaining many of them in prifon during their lines, that others of his owne followers might bee placed in their roomes. By which meanes there was fcarce left any man in authoritie of the English nation to beare rule ouer the reft, infomuch that it was counted a reproach to be called an Englishman.

men had committed aboue an hundred murthers in his raigne: Of which nine yeares were, as then, fcarcely expired. And in the 23. of his raigne, the Nunnes of Amesbury were thruft out of their houfe, becaufe of their incontinent lining. Rog. Houed.

Richard Cordelion, king of England, being told by a certaine Prieft called Fulco, a Frenchman, that he kept with him three daughters, namely, pride, couetoufneffe, and lechery, which would procure him the wrath of God, if he did not fhortly rid himfelfe of them: anfwered, That he would prefently beftow his three daughters in marriage; the Knights Templers (faid he) fhall haue my eldeft daughter Pride: the white Monkes of the Cifftenx order, Couetoufneffe: and my third daughter Lechery, I commit to the Prelates of the Church, who therein take moft pleafure and felicitie. And there you haue my daughters beftowed among you.

In the raigne of Henry the third, the Templars in London being in great glory, entertained the Nobilitie, forraine Emballadours, and the Prince himfelfe very often, infomuch that Matthew Paris, Monke of Saint Albans, who lined in those dayes, cried out ypon them for their pride, who being at the first fo poore as they had but one horfe to ferue two of them (in token whereof they gaue in their feales two men vpon one horfebacke) yet fuddenly they waxed to infolent, that they difdained other orders, and forted themfelues with Noblemen. But this their infulting pride had a quicke period: for fhortly after, to wit, in the beginning of King Edward the feconds raigne, in the Councell at Vienna, this their fo highly effeemed order, was, vpon cleare proofe of their generall, odious, abhominable fins, and incredible Atheisticall impieties by them practifed, vtterly abolished throughout all Chriftendome: And by the confent of all Chriftian Kings, deposed all in one day ; taken all and committed to fafe cuftody : And thus being politikely apprehended, their lands and goods were feifed vpon : the heires of the Donours here in England, and fuch as had endowed thefe Templars with lands, entred vpon those parts of their ancient patrimonies after this diffolution, and detained them vntill not long after they were by Parliament wholly transferred vnto the Knights of the Rhodes, or of S. Iobn of Ierufalem.

A little before the vniuerfall extinguishment of this order of the Templars, Philip the French King caused 54. of that Order with their great Master to be burnt at Paris; for their hainous vngodlinesse.

In the raigne of Edward the third, the Clergie of England exceeded all other Nations in the heaping vp together of many Benefices, and other fpirituall promotions; befides, at that time, they held the principall places both of truft and command in the kingdome. Some of them had twenty Benefices with cure, and fome more, and fome of them had twenty Prebends, befides other great dignities.

William Wickham at the death of William Edington Bilhop of Winchefter, was made generall Administratour of spiritual and temporall things, pertaining to that Bilhopricke, and the next yeare was made Bilhop of Winchester. This Wickham besides the Archdeaconry of Lincolne, and Prouostship of Welles, and the Parsonage of Manihant in Deuonschire, had twelue Prebends.

Not long after, it was enacted, that appeales, fich as had been vied to be purfued to the See of Rome, should not be from theneforth, had, neither vied but within this Realme; and that euerie perfon offending against this Act, should runne into the dangers, paines, and penalties, of the Eflatute of the Prouision and Premunire, made in the fiue and twentieth yeare of the raigne of King Edward the third; and in the fixteenth yeare of King Richard the fecond.

And thortly after this, it being thought by the ignorant vulgar people; that to fpeake againft any of the lawes, decrees, ordinances, and confitutions of the Popes, made for the aduancement of their worldly glorie and ambition, was damnable herefic; it was enacted that no manner of fpeaking, doing, communication, or holding againft the Bilhop of Rome, called the Pope, or his pretenfed authoritie or power, made or given by humane lawes or policies, and not by holy Scripture; nor any fpeaking, doing, communication, or holding againft any Lawes, called Spiritual Lawes, made by authoritie of the See of Rome, by the policie of men, which were repugnant and contrariant to the Lawes and Statutes of this Realme, or the Kings Prerogatiue royall, fhould be deemed, reputed, accepted, or taken to be Herefie.

It was also enacted that no manner of appeales, should be had, prouoked, or made, out of this Realme, or any the Kings dominions to the Bishop of Rome, or to the Sec of Rome, in any causes or matters, happening to be in contention, and having their commensement and beginning in any of the Courts within this Realme, or within any the Kings dominions, of what nature, condition, or qualitie focuer they were.

A Discourse

It was affirmed in this Parliament, that there had been paied to the Pope of Rome onely for Bulls, by our English Bilhops, and other of the kingdome, fince the fourth of Henry the feuenth to that time, threefcore thoufand pound sterling.

The next yeare following, in a Parliament begun at Weltminster, the third of Nouember, the Pope with all his authoritie was cleane banilhed this Realme, and order taken that he fhould no more bee called Pope, but Bilhop of Rome; and the King to be taken and reputed as supreme head in earth of the Church of England, called Anglicana Ecclefia. And that hee their Soueraigne Lord, his heires and fucceffours kings of this Realme, fhould have full power and authoritie, from time to time, to vifit, reprefic, redreffe, reforme, order, correct, reftraine, and amend all fuch errours, herelies, abufes, offences, contempts, and enormities whatfocuer they were, which by any manner spirituall authoritie or iurifdiction, ought or might lawfully bee reformed, repreffed, ordered, redreffed, corrected, reftrained, or amended, most to the pleasure of Almighty God, the increase of vertue in Chrifts religion, and for the conferuation of peace, vnitic, and tranquilitie of this Realme, any vlage, cuftome, forraine lawes, forraine authority, prefcription, or any thing, or things, to the contrary thereof notwithftanding.

In this Parliament alfo were granted to the King and his heires, the firstfruits and tenths of all spirituall dignities and promotions.

His file of fupremacie was further ratified, and declared to bee fet downe in this forme and manner following : in the Latine tongue by thefe words.

Henricus octanus Dei gratia, Anglia, Francia, & Hibernia Rex, Fidei defensor, & in terra Ecclesia Anglicana & Hibernica supremum caput. In the English tongue by these:

Henry the eight, by the grace of God, King of England, France, and Ireland, defendour of the faith, and of the Church of England, and alfo of Ireland in earth, the fupreme head.

Which file was enacted, to bee vnited and annexed for euer to the imperiall Growne of this his Highneffe Realme of England.

Vpon the first expulsion of the Popes authoritie, and King Henries vndertaking of the Supremacie; the Priests both religious and fecular, did, openly in their Pulpits, fo farre extoll the Popes iurifdiction and authority, that they preferred his lawes before the kings; yea and before the holy precepts of God Almighty. Whereupon the King fent his mandatory letters to certaine of his Nobilitie, and others in especial office, thinking thereby to restraine their feditious false doct ine and exorbitancie: And here let me tell you that amongst many letters of important affaires, which I found in certaine Chandlers shops of our Parish, allotted to light Tobacco pipes,

Shewing and declaring alfo to the people, at your faid Seffions, the treafons treacheroufly committed against vs., and our lawes, by the late Bifthop of Rochefter and Sir Thomas More knight, who therby, and by diuerfe fecrete practifes of their maliciouse mynds against vs, entended to feminate, engender, and brede amongst our people and fubgicets a most mischieuous and fediciouse opynyon not only to their own confusion, but also of divers others, who lately have condignely fuffered execucion, according to their demerites : And in foche wife dilating the fame with perfuscions, to the fame our people, as they may be the better rixed, established and fatisfyed in the truth ; and confequently that all our faythfull and true fubgiects may therby deteft and abhorre in their hartes and heads, the most recreaunt and trayterouse abutes and behaviors of the faid maliciouse malefactors as they be most worthy. And finding any defaulte, negligence, or diffimulacion in any maner of perfon or perfons, not doing his duty in this partie. Ye immediatly doo advertife vs and our Counfail of the defaulte, maner and facion of the fame, Lating you witt, that confidering the great moment, weight, and importaunce of this matter, as wherevpon dependeth the vnitie, reft, and quietnes of this our Realme, yf ye shuld contrary to your duries, and our expectation and trust, neglect, be flake, or omytte to doo diligently your duties, in the true performaunce and execucion of our mynde, pleafure, and commaundement as before; or wold haulte, flumble at any parte, or specialtie of the fame; Be ye affured that we, like a Prince of Iuffice, will fo punythe and correct your defaulte and negligence therin, as it that be an example to all others how contrary to their allegiance, othes, and duties, they doo fruftrate, deceiue, and difobey the just and lawfull commaundement of their fourraigne Lord, in fuch things, as by the true harty and faithfull execucion whereof, they thall not only prefer the honor and glory of God, and fett forth the maieftic and imperiall dignitic of their foueraign Lord, but also importe and bring an ineftimable vnitie, concord, and tranquillitie of the publike and common flate of this Realme; whereunto both by the lawes of God, and nature, and man, they be vtterly obliged and bounden. By the King:

Rufty and welbeloued we grete yow well; And whereas we chiefly and principally regarding and tendring the quiet, reft, profperite, and tranquillite of our Nobles and Commons, and their confervacion no leffe then our own, directed lately our letters vnto you and other luftices of our Peace throughout this our Realme, conteyning our admonicion and gentill warenyng, to haue fuch special regard to the dewties of your offices accordyng to the truft we have in yow ; that not only for thymportance it is both vnto vs and our common welth, ye thuld fee our high dignite of Supremacie of our Church (wherwith it hath pleafed almighty God by his moft certain and vndoubted word to endowe, and adorne, our auchtorite, and Corone imperiall of this our Realme) to be let forth and imprefied in all our Subjects harts and mynds, and to forfee that the mayntenors of the Bifthop of Roomes vfurped and fayned auctorite, with all his Papifticall superficions and abuses, wherwith he hath in times past abused the multitud of our fubgiects (of whole yoke, tyranny, and skornefull illufion we haue by Gods porveiaunce deliuered this our realme, and of other his Satellites whiche fecretly did vphold his faction) fluid be by yow diligently ferched, enquired, and tried owt, and fo broughte to our luffices to receaue condigne puny hement, according to their demerits; but alfo that tale tellers about the cuntrice, and fpraders of rumours, and falle inventors of newes, to put owr people to feare, and ftirr them to fedicyon, shulde be apprehended, and punylhed to the terrible example of others. Alfo that vagabonds and valiant Beggers (halbe avoyded and have worthy corrections. And for the lame purpole to kepe watches, and to fee commen Iuflice with indifferency, and without corrupcion to be obferued and miniftred, vnto all owr Subgiefts like as by the porporte and contents of our faid Letters ye may more amplie perceiue. We have thervpon ben credably enformed that fondry of yow haue, for a time, fo well done yowr dewties, and endeuoired your felues in fulfilling our admonitions, and caufed the cuill doers to be puny fhed according to their demerites, that our louing Subgiects have not ben difquieted of a long feafon, vntill now of lare that fum vngracious, cankred, and malicioufe perfons haue taken boldnes to attempt, with fondry diuelifh perfuafions to moue and feduce our trewe fubgiects, vfingfalfelies, and most vntrewerumors; And amonst them we vnderstand, fondry Parfons, Vicars, and Curats of this our Realme to be chieffe, which to bring our people to darkenes, of their own perverfe mynde, not only to blynde our Commons, do rede fo confulely, hemming and hacking the word of God and foche our Iniunctions, as we have lately fet forthe, that almost no man can vnderstand the trewe meanyng of the faid faid Iniunctions, but alfo fecretly haue fuborned certeyne fpreders of Rumors and falle tales in corners, which doo interpreat and wraft our trewe meanyng and intention of owr faid Iniunctions to an watrewe fease. For wheras we have ordeyned by owr faid Iniunctions for thavoyding of fondry ftriues, proceffis, and contentions, rifyng vpon aege, vpon lineall difcents, vpon title of Inheritances, vpon legitrimation or Baltardie, and for knowlege whither any perfon is our fubiect borne or no; Alfo for fondry other caufes, that the names of all childer chriftened from hensforth with ther birth, ther fathers and mothers names, and likewife all mariages, and burialls, with the time and date thereof fhuld be registred from time to time in a boke in every Parifh Church, furely and fafely to be kept. They have bruted and blowen abrode moft failely and vntrewely that we doo entende to make fome new exactions at all chriftenyngs, weddings, and burials: The whiche in no wife we cuer meaned or thought vpon, alleging (for to fortefy and color there falle and manifest lies) that therin we go abowt to take away the liberties of the realme. For confervacion wherof they fayne that Billhop Beckett of Canterbury, which they have tofore called Saynt Thomas, died for where in dede there was neuer foch thing done, nor ment in that time nor fithens. For the faid Beckett neuer fwarved nor contended with owr progenitor Kyng Henry the fecond, but only to lett that those of the Clergie (huld not be puny (hed for their offences, nor infty fyed by the Courts and lawes of this Realme, but only at the Biffhops pleafer, and after the decrees of Roome. And the caufes why he died, was vpon a wilfull reskewe and a fray by him made and begon at Canterbury; Which was neuertheleffe after ward alleged to be for loche liberties of the Churche which he contendyd for, during his life, with tharchbifihop of Yorke : chiefly to haue foche priuiledge that no Kyng of England ought ever to be crowned by any other Biffhop but oonly by the Bifhops of Canterbury. Yea and in cafe he fhuld be ablent or fugitiue out of the Realme, the Kyng fhuld neuer be coroned by any other, but conftrayned to abide his retorne. These and foche other deteftable and vnlawfull liberties of the Church, nothing concerning the common weale, but only the partie of the Clergie; the faid Thomas Becket most arrogantly delyred, and trayterouflye lewyd to haue, contrary to the law of this our Realme. To the which most falte interpretacions and wrafting of our trewe meanyng, they have ioyned fuch myfcheuous lyes and falle tales for markyng of catals, and like feditious deviles; wherevpon owr people were lately ftirred to fedition, and infurrection, to ther viter ruyne and deftruction; onles almighty God (who by his diuine prouidence gaue vnto vs habundance of force, as he alwaies dothe vnto rightfull Princes) had fo with clemencie illumyhed vs, that where as we with thedge of the fwerde, and by our lawes might have ouerthrowen and deftroyed them, there wyues, children and pofterite for ever, we nevertheleffe, as ye can right well remember, extended vpon them at that time, our benigne and mercifull pardon. These miserable and Papifticall superfititious wretches, nothing regarding the fame, nor caring what danger and myschiefe our people shuld incurre, haue both rayfed the faid olde rumors, and forged new fedicious tales, intendyng, afmoche as in them lyeth, a new commotion, and all to fatisfye there cankred harts. Wherfore and for the imminent

A Discourse 88 imminent daunger to yow, and all our good fubgicets, and the troble that might enfewe, onleffe good and erneft prouifion to repreffe them, be taken thervpon; We defyre and pray yow, and neuertheleffe ftraytly charge and commaund yow, that within the Precinct and lymyts of yowr charge; ye Ihall not only endeuor your felf, and employ your most diligence, to inquyre and fynd owt fuch cankerd Parfons, Vicars, and Curats, which doo not trewly and fubstancially declare our faid Iniunctions, and the very worde of God, but momble confulely, feying that they be compelled to rede them; and bydd ther Parifhens neuertheleffe to doo as they did in times palt, to lyue as ther fathers, and that the olde fathion is the beft, and other crafty fedicious parables. But alfo with your most effectuall vigilancy, doo enferche and trie owt fuch fedicious tale tellers, and fpreders abrode of fuche brutes, tydings, and rumors, touching vs in honor, or furctic of the flate of our Realme, or any matacion of the lawes or cuftomes therof, or any other thing which might caufe any fedicion. And the fame with ther fetters for the, maintenors, counfaylors, and fautors with all dilygence to apprehend, and commytt to warde and prifon without bayle or maynprife, till vpon euidence to be geuen against them, at tharrivall of our Iuflices in that cuntrey, or otherwife vpon yowr advertisement to vs, or our Counfaill to be geuen, and our further pleafer knowen, they may be punyfhed for their feditious demerites, accordyng to the law : to the fearfull example of all other. Imploying and endeuoring yowr felfes therunto fo erneftly and with foche dexterite, as we may haue caufe to thinke that ye be the men, which aboue all things defyre the punyfhment of evill doers and offendors. And will lett for no trauaile, to fett forthe all things for the commen peace, quiet, and tranquillite of this our Realme. And like as the daunger is imminent no leffe to your felf and your neighbours then to other; fo ye of yowr owne mynd fhuld procure and fee with celerite our Injunctions, lawes, and Proclamations, afwell touching the Sacramentaries, and Anabaptifts, as other to be fett for the to the good inftruction and con. fervacion of our people, and to the confusion of those which wold fo craftely vndermine our common welth, and at the laft deftroye bothe yow and all other our louing fubgicets, although we shuld geue vnto yow no fuch admonicion. Therfore faile ye not to follow theffect, admonicion, and commaundement both in our faid letters, and in these prefents conteyned, and to communicate the hole tenor of these our letters, with soche Iuffices of our Peace, your neighbors and other in that fhire, and to gene vnto them the trewe copye thereof : exhorting them, like as by thefe prefents we defyre, and pray them, and neuertheleffe fraytly charge and commaund them, and every of them, that they will fbew their diligence, towardnes, and good inclinacion to ioyne with you and other of your forte, And that every of yow for his own parte fee the fame put in execucion accordingly, as yeand they tendre our pleafur, and will deferue our condigne thankes. #### CHAP. XIIII.

Of the policie ofed by King Henry the eighth, and his Councell, in the expelling of the Popes authoritie out of his Dominions.

'Hus you have feene the abrogation and extinguishment of the Popes vfurped authoritie here in England, & the effablishment of that power in the Crowne imperiall, which was not rally attempted by his Maieflie; but vndertaken vpon mature deliberation, and proceeded in, by the aduife, confultation, and judgement of the moß great and famous Clerkes in Chriftendome : amongft which number, was that pure Orator and learned diuine Philip Melanchton; whole prefence here in England (after his opinion) the king much defired; as by this letter following, fent to Secretarie Cromwell from the Duke of Norfolke, and Vifcount Rocheford appeareth.

Mafter Secretary after our most harty commendacions, ye shall vnder- Our of a Ma ftand that having receyued the letters fint vnto yow from Sir John Wallop, and thewed the lame vnto the Kings Maieftie, his pleafure therevpon was tous Library. that we should dispatch these owr letters incontynently vnto youe con. cernyng thaccomplifhment and doing of these things enfuing. First, his graces pleasure is that youe shall immediatly vpon the receipt hereof, difpatch Barnes in Poft with Deryk in his company into Germany, comman ding him to vie fuch diligence in his iournay, that he may, and it be poffible, mete with Melanchton, before his arryuall in France, and in cafe he fhall fomete with him, not onely to difuade his going thither, declaring how extremely the French king doth perfecute all those that will not grant vnto the Bilhop of Romes vlurped power, and iurildiction; vlyng in this parte all perfuations, reafons, and meanes that he canne deuife, to empeach, and let his faid iornay thither, layeng vnto him how moche it shald be to his fhame, and reproche, to vary and goo nowe from that true opinnion wherein he hath fo long continued. But alfo on thother fide to perfuade him all that he may to conuert his faid iournay hither, flewing afwell the conformity of his opinnion and doctrine here, as the nobilitie and vertues of the Kings Maieftie, with the good entretaynement which no doubt he fhali have here at his grace hand. And if percafe the faid Barnes Iball not meete with him before his arrivall in France ; thenne the faid Barnes proceeding himfelfe forth in his Iournay towards the Prynces of Germany, ihall with all diligence returne in poft to the Kings highnes the faid Derik, with the advertifement of the certainty of Melanchtons commyng into France, and fuch other occurrants as he thall then knowe. And if the faid Derik be not now redy to go with him, the Kings pleafure is, you fhall in his ftede appoint and fende fuche one other with the faid Barnes, as you fhall thinke mete for that purpole.

And when the faid Barnes Ihall arrive with the faid Princes of Germa. ny, the Kings pleafure is, he shall on his grace behaulfe as well perfuade 13 them

nufcript in Sir Robert Cet-

A Discourse them to perfift and continue in their former good opinion concerning the denyall of the Bilhop of Romes vlurped authoritie, declaring their owne honor, reputacion, and furety to depend thereon, and that they nowe may better may ntain their faid iuft opinion therein then euer they might, having the kings Maieflie, oon of the mooft noble and puiffant Princes of the world, of like opinion and judgement with them, who, having proceeded therein by great aduife, deliberacion, confultacion, and iudgement of the most parte of the greate and famous Glerkes in Christendome, will in no wife relent, vary, or alter in that behalfe, as the faid Barnes may declare and fhew vnto them, by a booke made by the Deane of the Chappell, and as many of the Bilhops Sermons as ye haue, whiche booke ye fhall recevue herwith, the copies wherof, and of the faid Sermons, ye must deliner vnto the faid Barnes at his departure, for his better remembrance and inftruction on. To whom alfo his graces pleafure is, ye shall thew as moche of Sir Iohn Wallops letter which we fend you alfo again, as ye shall fee drawne and merkt with a penne in the mergent of the tame. As also exhorte and moue them in any wife to beware howe they commyt any of their affayres to thorder, direction, or determinacion of the French King, confideryng he and his counfail be altogether Papift, and addict and bent to the mayntenance and confirmacion of the Bilhop of Romes pretended authoritie. Furthermore the Kings pleafure is, ye shall vpon the receipt herof immediatly caule Mafter Haynes and Christofer Atount in post to repaire into France to Sir John Wallop, in as fecrete maner as they canne, as cummyng like his friends to vifite him, and not as fent by the King. And in cafe they (hall by him or otherwife lerne and knowe that Melanchton is there arryued, then his grace wold that the faid Haynes and Mount Ihall, in fuch fort as they be not moche noted, reforte vnto him, and for the difuading of his continuance there, or alteration of his opinion, and alluring of him hither, to vie fuche reafons and perfuations as be before written, with fuche other as they can further deuile for that purpole. To the which Haynes and Mount the Kings pleafure is, ye thail deliuer like copies of the faid Deanes booke, and Bilhops Sermons to be thewed vnto the faid Melanchion, or otherwife vfed, as may be moft expedient for thachycucment of the Kings purpole in that behaulfe. Ye shall also vnderstande that the kings pleasure is, ye shall write to Sir Iohn Wallop, and fend vnto him therwith like copies; willing him in cafe he

90

I ohn Wallop, and fend vnto him therwith like copies; willing him in cafe he fhall haue certain knowledgethat tharticles be true written in thefe his letters concernyng the French Kings fending into Germany, for the continuance of the Bilhop of Romes pretended fupremacie, to repaire with the faid copies to the French King, and not only to fet the fame furth with fuch reafons as he can deuife in that part, flewing how moche it fhalbe againft his honour, both to geue himfelfe fubiect to the faid Bilhop, and moue other to doo the femblable, but alfo to declare vnto him, that the Kings highnes remembring his old frendly promifes concernyng the mayntenance of his caufe, and of his procedyngs touching the fame, cannot thinke it a lite ftrange that the faid French King (feing his Maieffie hath in his doings touching the faid Bilhop of Rome, moued neyther his nor any Princes fubiects) will meucand ftyr the Germayns to condefcende vpon a contrary contrary opinion, both to themfelfs, and to his grace in this behalfe; And that his Maieftie muft nedes thinke this Amytie moche touched in that he fhuld moue any flate or cuntrie to doo that thing, whiche is fo moche againft the Kings highnes and his owne promes, vfing all the waies to difuade him from the diffionorable obedience of the faid Bifhops See, mouing him to inclyne to the Kings iuft opinion touching the fame.

Finally the Kings pleafure is, ye fhall write an other letter to the Bifhop of Aberden, fignilying that the Kings Maieftie taketh it very vnkindly that the King his Nephicu wold now embrace without his aduife or countail, being his dereft frend and Vncle, and now in liege and Amytie with ham, the mariage of Mounfieur de vandous daughter, wherevnto he wold geue non care at his graces ouerture hertofore made of the fame. In your feid letter imputing a great negligence therein to the faid Bifhop and other of his Mafters counfail, feing their Mafter theweth not in the doing therof fuche amytietowards the Kings highnes, as the frend hip betwene them doth require. And to make an end, his grace will in no wife that Barnes or Haynes (ball tarry for any further inftruction of the Bilhop of Canterbury, or any other, his grace having determyned to fende the fame after by Mafter Al. moner and Heth: but that he, Mafter Haynes, and Mount thal with all poffible diligence departe immediatly in poft without lenger tarying thenne for this their depeche shal be necessary, foo as their abode empeche not the Kings purpole touching the faid Melanchton. And thus fare youe moft hartly well. From Langley in moche haft this Monday at iii of the clocke at after none.

Yourlonyng Frends,

T. Norffolk. George Roch ford.

Allo, before the beginning of that Parliament wherin the Popes fupreme authoritie here in England was abolifhed, thefe remarkable Iuductions following were fet downe, and commanded by the King and his Conneell to be fuddenly put in execution.

Firft, to fend for all the Bifhops of this realme, and speciallie for such as be nereft to the Courte, and to examine them a parte, whether they by the law of God can proue and iustifie, that he that now is called the Pope of Rome is about the generall Counfaile, or the generall Counfail about him; Or whether he hath gyuen vnto him by the law of God any more auctority within the realme, then any other foreyn Bishop.

Item, to deuife with all the Bilhoppes of this realme, to fet furth, preach, and caufe to be preched to the Kings people, that the faid Bilhop of Rome called the Pope, is not in autoryte about the generall Counfell, but the generall Counfell is about him and all Bilhops. And that he hathe not by Goddes law any more iurifdiction within this realme then an other forraine Bilhop, being of any other realme hath. And that fuch auctority as he before this bath vfurped within this realme, is both againft Gods taw, and alfo againft the generall Counfalles, Which vfurpation of auctoritie onely hath growen to him by the fufferance of Prynces of this realme, and by none auctority from God.

Item, therefore that order be taken for fuch as shall preach at Paules

Crofle

Croffe from henceforth, shall continually from Sonday to Sonday preach there, and alfo teach and declare to the people, that hee that now calleth himfelfe Pope, nether any of his Predeceffours is and were but onely the Bishops of Rome, and hath no more authoritie and iurifdiction by Gods law within this realme, then any other forraine Bishop hath, which is nothing at all. And that such authoritie as hee hath claimed heretofore hath been onely by vsurpation and sufferance of Princes of this realme. And that the Bishop of London may bee bound to suffer none other to preach at Paules Croffe, as hee will answer, but such as will preach and fet forth the fame.

Item, that all the Bifhops within this realme bee bound and ordered in the fame wife, and caufe the fame to bee preached throughout all their Dioceffes.

Item, that a fpeciall practife be made, and a firaight commandement giuen to all Prouincialls, Miniflers, and rulers of all the foure Orders of Friers within this realme, commanding them to caufe the fame to be preached by all the Preachers of their religions, and through the whole realme.

Item, to practife with all the Friers Obferuants of this realme, and to command them to preach likewife; or elfe that they may be ftayed, and not fuffered to preach in no place of the realme.

Item, that every Abbot, Prior, and other heads of religious houfes within this realme, fhall in like manner teach their Convents and brethren, to teach and declare the fame.

Item, that every Bilhop Ihall make fpeciall commandements to cueric Parfon, Vicar, and Curate within his Dioceffe to preach and declare to his Parifhoners in likewife.

Item, Proclamations to be made throughout the realme containing the whole Act of Appeales; And that the fame Act may bee impreffed, tranfumed, and fet vp on euery Church doore in England, to the intent that no Parfon, Vicar, Curate, nor any other of the Kings fubiects fhall make themfelues ignorant thereof.

Item, the Kings prouocations and appellations made from the Bifhop of Rome vnto the generall Councell, may alfo be tranfumed, impreffed, publifhed and fet vp on euery Church-doore in England, to the intent that if any cenfures fhould be fulminate againft the king or his realme, that then it may appeare to all the world, that the cenfures be of none effect, confidering that the king hath already, and alfo before any cenfures promulged, both prouoked and appealed.

Item, like tranfumpts to bee made, and fent into all other realmes and dominions, and fpecially into Flanders, concerning the kings faid prouocations and appellations, to the intent falfehood, iniquitie, malice, and iniuffice of the Bifhop of Rome may thereby appeare to all the world. And alfo to the intent that all the world may know that the Kings highnes flanding vnder those appeales, no censures can preuaile, neither take any effect against him and his realme.

Item, a letter to be conceiued from all the Nobles, as well Spirituall as Temporall of this Realme, vnto the Bilhop of Rome, declaring the wrongs iniuries, and vfurpations vfed against the kings highnes and this realme.

This could not well be done before the Parliament,

of Funerall Monuments.

Item, to fend exploratours and efpics into Scotland, and to fee and perceine their practifes, and what they intend there ; And whether they will confederate themfelues with any other outward Princes.

Item, to fend letters for that purpose to the Earle of Northumberland, my Lord Daves, and Sir Thomas Clyfford.

Item, certaine difference and graue perfons to bee appointed, to repaire into the parts of Germany, to practife and conclude fome lege or amitie with the Princes and Potentates of Germany, that is to fay, the King of Pole, Iohn of Hungary, the Duke of Saxony, the Duke of Bauyere, Duke Fredericke, the Landegraue Van Helfe, the Bilhop of Magous, Bilhop of Treuers, the Bilhop of Collene, and other the Potentates of Germany, and allo to enfearch of what inclination the faid Princes and Potentates be of towards the King and this realme.

Item, like practife to be made and practifed with the Cities of Lubeke, Danske, Hambourgh, Bromefwicke, and all other the fleads of the Haunfe Tutonyk; and to enfearch of what inclination they bee towards the King and this realme.

Item, like practife to be made and practifed with the Cities of Norimbourgh, and Aughsbrough.

Item, to remember the Merchants aduenturers, haunting the dominions of Braband, and to fpeake with them.

Item, to fet order and establishment of the Princes Dowagers house, with all celeritic, and also of my Lady Maryes house.

To these (or some of these) purposes, the King dispatched messes to all his Embassian and Agents beyond seas, having before that sent the Duke of Norfo'ke, Viscount Rocheford, Sir William Pawlet (afterwards Marquesse of Winchesser) and others, to the Pope, the Emperour, and the French King, being all three together at Nice. He also caused his Secretarie to write in this manner to James the sifth, King of Scotland.

Mofte excellent, myghtye and victorious Prynce, Pleafith your Mageflie that by the commaundment of my moft dread Lord and Soueraigne Kyng of England, your graces moste dere Vncle, I haue in charge, vndre commyflion, certeyn specyall maters concernyng his highnes pleasure, secreatly to be fignyfyed vnto your grace, whereis not only as a naturall Coufyne. of your royall confanguinity; but as a mofte loueing Father entierly ten. dryng your worthyc honor, no leffe defirous hercof, then regardyng his owne peculyer profperyte, vnfaynedly accomptyng your graces aduancement his moste conformable confolacion. les Prynce Childeviews King of France, was extremely handelyd of his owne fervant Pspyne, beryved of his Kyngdome through the inffigacion of the Bushop of Rome. And no marvaill though he hath thus encroched vpon Prynces, being men; wheras he hath exalted hymfelf agaynft God, thruftyng him out of his roome, and fetlyng hymfelf in Gods place, the confcience of Christian people, of whole vsurped power, S. Paul prophecyeng, Theffall. 2. chap. 2. callyth him the finfull man, the fonn of perdicion, qui est aduer farius & effertur adver sus omne quod dicitur Deus, adeo vt in templo Dei fedeat. Doth not he fytt in the temple of God, by dampnable difpenfacions, by dyfceyvable remyffions, by lyenge myrracles, by fayhed reliques, by falle religion, &c. And as he hath avoyded God out of the confcyence of Chriftian people, fo hath he defeated Prynces of ther iurifdictions, and debarred euery commen weale from ther politick gouernaunce, bringyng in his lawleffe Canons, and deteftable decrees, fupplantyng the devyne ordynaunce of power yeuen to Pryncely rulers. And the caufe why they have bene fo deceyned, S. Paul declaryth, Eo quod dilectionem veritatis non acceperant. This legally confideryd of your mofte prudent, finguler, and high politike diferention, af well by probable experience within your Domynyons, as by cuident examples of other Chriftian regions, wher the Popisshe vnruly regiment hath raigned with intollerable vsurpacion, tyrannoullyc defacing all power of Prynces.

It may pleafe your gracious benygnytie to aduertice the entier intent, the louyng mynd, and vnfayned hart of my Soueraigne, your moft dere vncle, fo fervently moued with a faithfull loue, vnable to be expressed, to allure your graces affection toward the fauourable embracement of Gods worde; wherein, his highnes only ereioyfinge, ardently defyreth to imparte the fame, his fpeciall ioye, with your most excellent grace, which shuld be greatly thadvauncement of your estate royall, the quietacion of your louing Subiects, and most highlie the pleasure of God.

Now to make the Pope more odious, his Kinglie power, and deliberate proceedings in thefe his weightie caufes of greater validitic, and more warrantable, as well by the lawes of God, as generall Councells; he caufed to be pend, and published abroad, here, and beyond feas, to the fame effect in thefe words.

If mortall creatures to theyr hedds, fournignes, and naturell Princes, be cheeflye bounde next vnto God, fpecially where they as molte carefull fathers and Tutors, prudently and fagely rale and gouern the great numbers and multitudes of men, commytted to theyr obedyence; And where they in their royall perfons often forgetting the regard of theyr Princely mageflies, valyantly withftand, abyde and refift, whatfocuer troubles, daungers, perells, affawrs, wrongs, iniuryes, or difpleafures myght at any tyme happen, chaunce, threten, or be incident vnto theyr people, or countries, befyds many and innumerable other difpleafures and troubles, which dailie and heurely for the defence mayntenaunce and fupportacion of theyr realmes, people and cuntryes, fecretly happen, and chaunce them, theyr people feldome, or at no time pryvey thervnto; wherby of good congruence, all Subiects become moft bounden to theyr foueraignes and Prynces, and them ought moft feithfully to loue, honour, obeye, ferue and dreade, and and theyr magefties to mayntayn, support, and defend with all theyr powre, myghte, ftrength, and habilitie. Then let no Englysfheman forgett the most noble and louyng Prynce of this realme, who for the godly enfample of his people, the love and dread he hath to God, and obferuance of his most reuerend lawes, hathe to the evydent knowlege of all his welbelouyd Subjects long endured and abyden, to his ineftimable coffe, charge, trouble, vexation, and inquyetnes, * the triall of his great caufe : And at laft after innumerable most famous learned mens judgements on his fyde therin gyuen. Yet for all that most wrongfully judged by the great Idoll and most cruell envinye to Christs law and his religion, which calleth himfelfe Pope, And his most iust and lawfull prouocacion and appellacion from the fayd enemye of Chrifts law to the generall counfail made, alfo refuled, denyed, and forfaken; Wherfore and to thintente all men may know the abhominable wrongs, which our most noble and gracious Prynce doth fufteyne by fo vnlawfull intreatyngs, Therfore are thefe few articles hereafter following prefented vnto thole, that shall both defyre to knowe the truth, and in truth shall thyrste and couct feythfully to alfyst, maynteyn, supporte, defende, and stand by theyr Prynce and Souerayn, in his most just, lawfull, and right wife caufe.

A Dilcourle, Orc.

First that the generall Counfail lawfully gathered is and ought to be fuperiour to all Iurifdictions, either vfurped and fuffred (as the Papall) or iuftly holden as kings in all matters concerning the feythe and direction of the whole Churche of Chrifte. And allo ought to be indged thereby, and by the decrees of the fame only, and by none other, they being conformant to the law of Chrifte.

Secondly, that Prynces have two wayes principally; when none other can prevayle to attain right thone against thother; that is to fay, in cawfes concernyng the fowle beyng mere spirituell, appellacion to the generall counfail. In temporal cawfes the fword only, except by mediation of frends the matters may be compounded; So that whose wolde go about to take away these naturell defenses from Prynces, is to be manly withstood, both by the Princes and their Subjects. And therto all Christien men shuld be anymated by the words of our Lord Iefa Christe, which are, Obey ye Prynces aboue all; and then theyr deputyes or mynysters, not gevyng powre to forreyns wythin theyr rules and domynyons.

Thirdly, that dyuers generall Counfaills have determyned, that cawfes of ftrife or controuerfie beyng ones begonne in any Regyon, fhall there, and in the fayd Regyon be finally determyned, and not elfewhere. Vpon which grounde the Kings highnes, hisnobles, both fpirituell and temporall, and Commons by one hole confent, vpon diuers moft prudent, wyfe, and polytike reafons, and weyghty confideracions, agreable to the feyd generall Counfaills, have made a Law, by the which good people, lyving within the lymets of true and lawfull matrymonye, fhall not by malice or evill will be folong deteyned and interrupted from their ryght, as in tymes paffyd they have byn. Neither vnlawfull matrymonye thall have his iniuft and inceftuous demoure and contynuance, as by delayes to Rome it was wont to have; Which now may evydently appere, by that, that our Prynces weyghtye and long protracted caufe of matrymonye hath his finall finall and prosperous end, accordyng to the lawes of God, with briefe fucceffe of lifue alredy had, and other like to follow, lawdes be to God, thonly werker of the fame.

Forthely, that our fayd Prynce and Soueraigne, accordyng to the libertie and lawes of Nature, and conftitucions of generall Counfaills (as afore) hath both prouoked and appeled from the moft iniuft and vnlawfull fentence wrongfully geuen against him, by the Bulhop of Rome, to the generall Counfaill next enfying, and lawfully congregate, that is to fay, from the fentence of the vsurper of Goddes lawes, and intringer of generall Counfells, which callyth himfelfe Pope. In the which our fayd Prynces doyings, all iuft and true Chriftien men, specyally his most louyng Subiects I doubt not will supporte and maynteyne him : Which prouocacions and appellacions alfo flandyng in force, and beyng intimate to the perfon of the faid Vfurper (as indede they be) and by him denyde and refufed, fequeftreth him rightfully from all maner of Proceffes belongyng, or in any wyfe apperteynyng to the fayd fact or matter; other Diabolike acts and ftatuts by fome of his predeceffors to the contrary made notwithftandyng. Wherfore what cenfures, interdictions, or other his curfed invencions fo cuer they be, fulminate or fet forthe by the fayd vfurper, the fame ought not only to be abhorred and defpyfed, but manfully to be withftood and defended. And who fo doen fball haue for theyr bukler the latter and better parte of this verfe enfuyng, and the maligners the forparte, which is, Quoniam qui malignant exterminabuntur, sustinentes autem Domini ipsi bereditabunt terram.

Fyftely, that where indede by holy Scripture and Chrifts lawe, there is none authoryte nor Iurifdiction graunted more to the Bulbop of Rome, then to any other Bulhop, extra Provinciam, yet because that fufferaunce of people, and blyndnes of Prynces with theyr supportacion hetherto hath fufteyned the fame, doyng themfelffs thereby to great iniurye and wrong; It is now thought therfore not only conucnyent, but alfo moche more then neceffarye, to open the fame vnto the people, to thyntent they fhulde from henceforth no longer be difteyned in honouryng him as an Idoll; which is but a man vfurpyng Goddes powre and auctoryte: And a man neither in life, learnyng, or conuerfacion like Chrifts minifter or difciple: yea a man alfo (though the See Apostolike were neuer of fo high auctoryte) vnworthy and vnlawfull by theyr owen decrees and lawes to occupye and enioy that vfurped place. For first he is both bale, and also come to that dygnytic by Symonyc. And now by denying the Kings lawfull pronocacion and appele, and in supportyng that Diabolike decree of his predeceffor Pinn, is determyned by a generall Counfaill a very Heretike. Wherfor all true Chriftien people (except he amend) ought to defpife both him and all his facts, and be no lenger blynded by him, but geue themfeliffs entierly to the obferuaunce of Chriftes lawes, in which is all fwetenes and truthe; and in the other nothing elfe but pompe, pride, ambycion, and wayes to make himfelfe riche : which is moche contrarious to theyr profeffion. Our Lord amend them.

It was generally conceined (and truly as I thinke) that these politike wayes for the taking away from the Pope his vnlimited authoritie here in England, as alfo in the Suppression of religious houses (of which in the next Chapter) were principally deuifed by Secretarie Cromwell, afterwards Earle of Effex, which may appeare both by the premifes and fequele of this my difcourfe, as also by the intimation of Nicholas Shaxton Bifhop of Sarum, in a letter fent vnto him the faid Cromwell, thus worded.

But howfoeuer the honour of this act, as allo of the diffolution of Abbeys be principally attributed to Cremwell and his complotments ; yet at the fame time there was others of the privie Councell, as forward, and as able for their fingular endowments, to conclude a matter of that confequence as ever was Cromwell. I meane Thomas Cranmer, Archbilhop of Canterbury, whole zeale and abilities are generally knowne to all that ever heard of the booke of Martyrs. Sir Thomas Audley Knight, fpeaker of the Parliament, for his demerits created by Henry the eighth, Baron Audley of Walden, and also aduanced to the honour of the Chancellor thip of England. Sir William Pawlet Knight, Comptroller of the Kings houfe, who, for his wifedome, the faid King created Lord S. John of Bafing, and Knight of the Garter, whom Edward the fixt made great Mafter of his houfhold, Prefident of his Councell, and Lord Treasurer of England; whom he created Earle of Wiltshire, and Marqueffe of Winchester; to whom Queene. Elizabeth committed the keeping of the great Scale. Who lined to fee one hundred and three perfons iffue out of his loynes, who died at Bafing in Hampfhire the tenth of March, 1571. where hee was honourablie buried, when he had lived eightic feuen yeares. Another pillar of the State at that time, was that wife and iudicious gentleman, Sir Richard Rich, Lord Chancellour of England, under King Edward the fixth, who in the hrft yeare of his raigne, aduanced him to this office, and created him Baron Rich of Leez in Effex. These and other more of the Nobilitie had both their hands and heads in this bufineffe, yet Cromwell, Andley, and Rich, were thought to be the onely men; who, for their religious paines, ranneinto great obloquie with the common people; infomuch that the Commons of Lincolnthire finding themselues fore troubled with this flrange alteration, and rifing in rebellion, prefented diuers articles of aggricuances to the Kings Maieftic!

thumberland, and the countries adiacent, at the conference holden at Doncafter, betwixt Thomas Duke of Norfolke, Generall of the Kings Armie, and certaine Commillioners on the partie of the faid Captaine Aske, and his fellow rebels. Thus it was propounded by their Speaker, Sir Thomas Hyl. ton Knight.

The fowrt that Thomas Cromwell, nor any of his bande or fecte, be not at our metinge at Doncaftre, but abcent themfelfe from the Councell.

Alfo to have the Lord Cromwell, the Lord Chancellor, and Sir Ryc. Rich to have condigne puny hment, as fubuerters of the gud lawes of the reame, and ouetemers of the flefe fecte of theys fals Heretykes, first inuenters and brengers of them.

Likewile Doctor Leyton, and Doctor Lee, who had bene ioyned in commiffion with Cromwell for the vilitation of religious Foundations (of which hereafter) were maliciouflye detracted, by this demand of the Commons in the forefaid conference.

Alfo that Doctor Lee, and Doctor Leyton, may have condigne puny fhment for theyr extortions, in time of vifitation, in brybes, of fome religyous houles, x. lib.xx.lib. and for other fummes, belyde horfys, vowfens, leafes, vndre Gouent Seallys, by them taken, and other abomynable acts by them committed and done.

I might have occasion here to speake of the abrogation of the Popes authoritic, of the fubuerfion of religious foundations, of the fuppreffion of religious Votaries, and of the reformation of Religion in that neuer-conquered Nation of Scotland, where, at this time, Religion is double refined, pure and spotlesse without ceremonic, and plaine as a pike staffe without a furplife.But I will referue this narration till I come to fpeake of the conuerfion of Scotland to the Christian faith. As also of the Funerall Monuments which are there to be found, which will be but a few, if Sir Robert Cottons Librarie do not helpe me, for by my owne observation, in the famous maiden citic of Edenborough, and in the Parish Churches of other Townes, the Sepulchres of the dead are fhamefully abuled, or quite taken away, yea and the Churches themfelues, with religious houfes, and other holy places, violated, demolifhed, or defaced. mexelollowing, a P. . #### CHAP. XV.

The policie vsed by the King and his Councell, for the diffolution and extirpation of Religious Foundations, and Religious Orders, within this Realme of England and Wales. The reformation of Religion. Of Inscriptions in Churches. The Kings warrant for the surrender of Religious Houses. An information made to Queene Elizabeth of the several abuses done vnto the State generall, and Crowne, by the corruption of such as were imployed by her Father vpon the suppression of Abbeyes.

HEnry the eighth having (as ye have heard) thus fetled the Suprema-cy where he would have it, either by the adulfe of politick Cromwell, or by the example of proud Wolfey, or elfe of himfelfe (hee being nothing fo fcrupulous in confcience, nor fo ftayed in facred refolutions as was Henry the fourth) vpon a greedie defire to enrich his coffers, began now to lay plots, deuifes, and proiects for theytter fubuerfion of all Abbeyes, Priories, Nunnerics, and other religious foundations; within this his kingdome of England and Wales: and first for an induction to the bufineffe, He put in Commiffion his feruant Cromwell, Thomas Lee, and Richard Laiton, Do-Aors of the Ciuill Law, Thomas Bedell, Deane of Cornwall, Thomas Bartlet publike Notarie, and others, to visit all the forefaid religious Houses, and to make inquirie of their Orders, Founders, walues, debenters, reliques, pilgrimages, and other Queres: but most especially they were to make diligent ferutinie, and to learne, vijs & modis omnibus, by all manner of meanes the wicked abufes of those times, practifed amongst the Fraternitic, and Sifterhood of each feuerall Couent. Which with their Committion they returned; making a fhamefull difcouerie of the bestiall fenfualitie of Monaflicke profeffion.

This generall vifitation began in the moneth of October, and in Februarie next following, a Parliament vpon prorogation was holden at Weftminfter, in which these vnspeakable crimes of all the Gouents were certified by the Commission to the King, and that high Court. Vpon the reading whereof, because their offences werefound to be many and odious, or that King Henry would haue it fo (which I rather beleeue) it was enacted by both houses in that prefent Parliament, that all religious houses of and vnder the yearely value of two hundred pound, within the whole Realme of England and Wales, should be given and granted to the King and his heires for ever: with all and singuler the lands, tenements, rents, reuersions, goods, cattels, debts, ornaments and iewels, with all things elfe thereunto, or to their Orders, in any wife appertaining or belonging.

The number of these houses then suppressed, were three hundred seventy fixe. The value of their lands, yearely as then easily rated, was twentie nine thousand fourtie one pounds three pence halfe penie qua : others, for thirtie two thousand pound, and more, the moueable goods as they were, fold, fold, Robin Hoods peniworths, amounted to more then one hundred thoufand pounds, the religious perfons that were put out of the fame houfes, were in number about ten thoufand.

It was a pitifull thing to here the lamentation that the people in the countrey made for them, for there was great hospitalitie kept among them, and as it was thought more then ten thousand perfons, masters, and feruants, had lost their liuings, by the putting downe of those houses at that time.

Before the diffolution of these religious houses, the plot was laid for the suppreffion of the reft. For first of all, for an introduction to that which followed, Cromwell and the reft of the Vifiters, in their vifitations, put forth of their Couents all religious perfons, that defired to be eafed of the burdenous yoke of their profeffion, to whom the Abbot or Prior was to give to fuch fo departed for their habit, a Priefts gowne, and fourty fhillings of money. The Nunnes to have fuch apparell as fecular women wore, and to go whither they would. They put forth likewife all religious perfons that were vnder the age of foure and twenty yeares, and afterwards clofed vp the refidue that would remaine, fo, that they could not come out of their places; and tooke order that no man should come to the houses of women, nor women to the houfes of men, but onely to heare their feruice in the Church. This little bondage, after fo long and fo licentious a time of libertie, could not be endured ; which being perceived by the Commiffioners, with faire promifes of other preferments, or competent yearely penfions, they fo wrought with the Abbots, Priors, and Prioreffes, and the reft of the Couents, that diuers of them furrendred vp their houles with the appurtenances into the Kings hands, before the fitting of this Parliament, as by thele words in the forefaid Act doth plainly appeare.

And alfo be it enacted, that his Highnes (hall haue to him and his heires all and fingular fuch Monafteries, Abbies, and Priories, which at any time within on yeare next before the making of this Act, hath beene giuen and granted, by any Abbot, Prior, Abbeffe, or Prioreffe, vnder their Couent Seale, or that otherwife hath beene fuppreffed or diffolued, and all and fingular the lands, tenements, goods, &c. interefts and hereditaments, &c. to the fame appertaining and belonging.

Now (by the example of thefe, or by what other meanes I know not) the reft of the Abbots, Priors, Abbeffes, and Prioreffes, at other times, with vnanimons confent of their Couents, in great compunction of fpirit, contrition of heart, and confeffion of their manifold enormities, did feuerally giue and grant to the Kings Maieffie, and to his heires, all their right and intereft which they had in their Monafteries, lands, goods, or hereditaments; by certaine inftruments or writings vnder their hands and Seales, of which I will fet downe one or two for example, which I had from my louing friend, Mafter John Mafters, Mafter of the Augmentation Office; in forme as followeth.

But first will it pleafe you reade the copie of the Kings Warrant, to fuch his Commiffioners as were to take the Surrenders of Religious houses. The forme of which thus followeth.

Heury the eighth, &c. To our truffic, &c. Forafmuche as we underftand that the Monaftery of S. A. is at this prefente in fuch flate, as the fame is neither vied to the glory of God, nor to the benefyte of our Comon welth, We let you wit, that therfore being mynded to take the fame into our owne hands for a better purpole; like as we doubt not but the head of the fame wilbe contented to make his furrender accordingly, we for the spefyall trufte and confydence that we have in your fydellity, wifdomes and diferecions, haue, and by these prefents, doo authoryfe, name, alfygne, and appoynte you, that immediatly repayring to the fayd Howfe, ye Ihall receave of the fayd Head fuch a wryting vnder the Couent Seale, as to your diferetyons shall feeme requifite, meete, and conuenient, for the due furrender to our vle of the fame, and thervpon take poffeflyon therof, and of all the goodes, cattelles, plate, Juelles, implements and ftuffe, being within, or apperteyneng thervnto. And forther caufyng all the goodes and implements to be indifferently fold, either for reddy money, or at dayes vpon fuffyciente fuertyes; fo that the fame day paffe not one yere and a halfe. Ye thall deliuer to the faid Head and Brethren, fuche parte of the fayd money and goodes, as ye by your diferefyons shall thinke meete and conuenyente for their despeche. And forther to see them have convenyente penfyons, by your wyfdomes affigned accordyngly : which done, and moreouer feeing the rightfull and due debts therof payd and fatyffyed, as well of the revenewes as of the fayd ftuffe, as to reafon and good confeyens apperteyneth, and your charges reafonablie allowed, ye shall proceed to the diffo'utyon of the fayd howfe : And forther in your name take poffeffyon of the fame to be kept to our vfe and profyte. Ye shall furthermore bringe and convaye to owr Tower of London after yowr fayd difereffyons all the reft of the fayd money, Plate, Iuelles, and ornaments that in any wyfe shall come to your hands by meane of the premyfles, or of any parte therof. Straitely charging and commandynge all Maires, Sheryffes, Bayliffes, Conftables, and all other our Officers, Minifters, and Subjects, to whom in this cafe it shall apperteyne, that vnto you, and every of you in execution herof, they be helpinge, aydinge, fauoring, and affifting, as they will answer vnto vs to the contrary at their vttermoste perrilles. ### The Surrender of the Warden and Friers of S. Francis in Stanford.

For as moche as we, the Warden, and Freers, of the howfe of Sayne Frances in Stannforde, comenly callyd the gray Freers in Stannford in the County of Lincoln, doo profoundly concider that the perfeccion of Chriftian liuyng dothe not concifte in dome ceremonies, weryng of a grey cootte, difgealing our felffe aftyr ftraunge faffions, dokyng, and beekyng, in gurdyng owr felffes wyth a gurdle full of knors, and other like Papifti. call ceremonyes, wherin we have byn mooft principally practyled, and miffelyd in tyngs paft; but the very tru waye to pleafe God, and to live a true Chriftian man, wythe owte all ypocrafie, and fayned diffimulacion, is finceerly declaryd vnto vs by owr Mafter Chrifte, his Euangelifts, and Apoltoles. With the like petition and recognition of their feuerall delinquencies, the Prior and Couent of the White Friers Carmelites in Stanford, the Abbot and Couent of our bleffed Lady of Bidlefden, the Warden and brethren of the grey Friers of Couentrie, Bedford, and Alesbury, furrendred vp their houfes into the kings hands.

Battaile Abbey in Suffex, Martine Abbey in Surrey, Stratford Abbey in Effex, Lewis in Suffex, Saint Auflines in Canterbury, the new Abbey at the Tower hill, the Minories without Aldgate, the Nunnery at Clerkenwell: The Hofpitall of Saint Thomas Akers, the Blacke-Friers, the VVhite-Friers, the grey Friers, and the Charterhoufe Monks in London, with the moft, or all other, were furrendred after the fame manner.

In September the fame yeare. Viz. An. 30. Hen.8. by the fpeciall motion of great Cromwell, all the notable images, vnto the which were made any efpeciall pilgrimages, and offerings, as the images of our Lady of VValfingham, lpfwich, Worcefter, the Lady of VVilfdon; the rood of Grace, of our Ladie of Boxley, and the image of the rood of Saint Sauiour at Bermondley, with all the reft, were brought vp to London, and burnt at Chelfey, at the commandement of the forefaid Gromwell, all the Iewels, and other rich offerings, to thefe, and to the Shrines, (which were all likewifetaken away or beaten to peeces) of other Saints throughout both England and Wales, were brought into the Kings Treafurie.

In the fame yeare alfo the Abbey of Westminster was furrendred, being valued to dispend by the yeare three thousand foure hundred and feuenty pound, or by some 3977.1. 6.s. 4.d. ob. q. as in the Catalogue of religious houses; the Monkes being expelled, King Henry placed therein a Deane and Prebendaries, and made the last Abbot, whole name was Bewson, the first Deane; in the time of Edward the fixth it was made a Bishops See, thorrly after (the benefits of the Church being abridged) it came againe to a Deane and Prebends; Againe Queene Marie ordained there an Abbot and his Monkes, who continued not many yeares, but were againe cut off by Act of Parliament. And lastly Queene Elizabeth (that wonder of the world) made it a collegiate Church, or rather a Nurfery for the Church, faith Norden, for there the ordained (to the glory of God, the propagation of twe Religion and good literature) a Deane, twelve Prebendaries, an

Thus you fee the interchangeable viciffitude of her foundation, and if it had not beene for the reuerend regard they had of the Sepulchres, inauguration and vnction here of their famous Anceftors, thele forenamed Kings (if I may ground my reafon vpon the paffages of those times) had taken her commings in, to haue inricht their owne coffers, despoiled her of her vnualuable wealth and ornaments, and battered downe to the ground her facred Edifice.

A Discourse, Gc.

The fifth of December in the forefaid yeare, the Abbey of Saint Albans was furrendred, by the Abbot and Monkes there, by deliuering the Couent Seale into the hands of The. Pope, D. Peter, Mafter Canendifb, and others the Kings vifiters.

Now all, or the most of all, the religious houses in England and Wales, being thus furrendred, the King fummoned another Parliament at Weftminfter; for howfoeuer thefe forenamed religious orders, and other more, of their owne free and voluntary mindes, good wills, and affents, without constraint, coaction, or compulsion (as are the words in the Statute) of any manner of perfon or perfons, by due order of law, and by their fufficient writings of Record, under their Couent, and common Seales; had alreadie giuen, granted, and confirmed, renounced, left, and forfaken, all their religious houfes, with their lands, and all other the appurtenances to the fame belonging; vnto the King his heires and fucceffors for cuer. Yet it was thought neceffarie by the King and his Councell, that thefe their voluntarie donations flould bee further ratified by authoritie of that high Court; whereupon it was enacted, that all Monafteries, with their Scites, circuits, and precincts; lands, Lordfhips, and all other franchifes, not onely those which were furrendred or diffolued, before the felfion of this Parliament, but alfo fuch as were to bee furrendred or diffolued hereafter, fhould bee vefted, deemed, and adjudged to be in the very actuall and reall feafon, and poffcfion of the King his beires and fucceffors for ever.

The religious Order of Saint Johns of Ierufalem, whole chiefe manfion house was in the precincts of Clerkenwell Parish, within the County of Middlefex, confifting of gentlemen and fouldiers, of ancient families and high fpirits, could by no means be brought in, to prefent to his Maieftie any of these puling petitions, and publike recognitions of their errors, thereby, like the reft, to give a loafe, and beg a fhine, to turne themfelues out of actuall poffeffion, and lie at the Kings mercie for fome poore yearely penfion. But like frout fellowes flood out againft any that thought to enrich themfelues with their ample reuenues, vntill they were caft out of their glorious ftructures, and all other theireftates, for thefe caufes following alledged againft them in open Parliament; as appeares by the flatute beginning thus. The Lords Spirituall and Temporall, and the Commons of this prefent Parliament affembled, having credible knowledge, that divers and fundrie the kings fubicets, called the Knights of the R hodes, otherwife called Knights of Saint Johns; otherwife called Friers of the religion of S. ### A Discourse, Grc.

the paraies of beyond the fea, and having af well out of this Realme, as out of Ireland, and other the Kings dominions, yearely great jummes of moncy for maintenance of their liuings, Haue vnnaturally, and contrary to the dutie of their alleageances fuftained, and maintained, the vfurped power and authoritic of the Bilhop of Rome, lately vied and practifed within this Realme, and other the Kings dominions, and have not onely adhered themfelues to the faid Bilhop, being common enemy to the King our foueraigne Lord, and to this his Realme, vntruely vpholding, knowledging, and affirming malicioufly and traiteroufly, the fame Bifhop to bee fupreme, and chiefe head of Chrifts Church, by Gods holy word. Entending thereby to fubuert and ouerthrow the good and godly laws and flatutes of this realme, for the abolifhing, expulfing, and vtter extincting of the faid vfurped power and authoritie : but alfo haue defamed and flandered as well the Kings Maieftie, as the Noblemen, Prelates, and other the Kings true and louing fubicits of this Realme, for their good and godly proceeding in that bchalfe.

Vpon these causes and other confiderations, it was enacled, That the Corporation of the faid Religion, as well within this Realme, as within the Kings dominion, and Land of Ireland, fhould be veterly diffolued, and void to all entents and purpofes. And that Sir William Wefton Knight, as then Prior, of the faid Religion, of this Realme of England, fhould not be named or called from henceforth, Prior of Saint Johns of Ierufalem in England; but by his proper name of William Wefton Knight, without further addition touching the faid Religion. And that likewife Sir John Ranfon knight, being then Prior of Kilmainam in Ireland, thould not bee called or named from thenceforth, Prior of Kilmainam in Ireland, but onely by his proper name of Iohn Raufon, knight, without farther addition. And that none of the Brethren or Confriers of the faid Religion within this Realme of England, and Land of Ireland, fhould bee called Knights of the Rhodes, or knights of Saint Johns, but by their owne proper Christian names, and furnames of their parents without any other additions.

And furthermore it was enacted vnder a great penaltie, that they fhould not weare about their necks, in, or vpon any apparell of their bodies, any chaine with a Ierufalem Croffe, or any other figne marke, or token theretofore vfed, and deuifed, for the knowledge of the faid Religion, and that they should not make any congregations, chapiters, or affemblies touching the fame Religion, or maintaine, fupport, vle, or defend any liberties, franchifes, or priniledges, theretofore granted to the faid Religion, by the authoritic of the Bilhop of Rome, or of the Sec of the lame.

Laftly, it was granted by the authoritie of the faid Parliament, that the Kings Maieftie, his heires and fucceffors, fhould haue and enioy their faid manfion houfe in the Parifh aforefaid, within the County of Midlefex; and alfo the Holpitall of Kilmainam in Ireland, with all their appurtenances for cuer.

Yet it was prouided by the faid Act, that Sir William Wefton and Sir. Iohn Raufon Priors, as alfo fome other of the Confriers, fhould have a certaine annuall penfion during their liues, with fome reafonable proportion of their owne proper goods. And this was done (faith the words in the ftatute) tute) by the agreement and affent of the Kings moft excellent goodnes. Sir William Wefton had given vnto him one thoufand pound of annuall rent or penfion. Sir Iohn Raufon five hundred Markes. Clement Weft Confrier, two hundred pound. Thomas Pemberton, fourcloore pound. Gyles Ruffell, one hundred pound. George Ailmer, one hundred pound. Iohn Sutton, two hundred pound. Edward Bellingham, an hundred pound. Edward Browne fifty pound. Edward Bellingham, an hundred pound. Edmard Browne fifty pound. Edward Huffe, an hundred Markes. Ambrofe Caue, an hundred Markes. Thomas Copledyke, fifty pound. Cushbert Leighton, threefcore pound. Richard Broke, an hundred Markes. Henry Poole two hundred Markes. William Tyrell, thirty pound. Iohn Raufon, Confrier, two hundred Markes.

To Anthony Rogert, Ofwald Maßingberd, Iames Huffe, Thomas Thornell, Nicholas Hopton, Philip Babington, Henry Gerard, Dunftan Nudegate, Nicholas Lambert, and Dauid Gonfon, being Confriers professed, and having no certaine living, was given ten pound a prece of yearely pension.

And if any profeffed in the faid Religion were negligently forgotten, or omitted out of that prefent Act, for lacke of knowledge of their names; yet it was ordered by the fame, that they fhould have fuch honeft, convenient, and reafonable yearly penfion, and portion of goods, as fhould pleafe the Kings Maieftie to limit and appoint.

And by the faid Act Io'n Mableflon, Subprior of this Hofpitall in England, William Ermefled Mafter of the Temple of London: Walter Lymfey, and Iohn Winter Chapleines; were authorized to receive and enioy, during their natural lives, all fuch manfion houfes, ftipends, and wages, in as large and ample manner, as ever they did before the fitting of that Parliament.

What other penfions were giuen, or how much the value in money was of the yearely profits of thefe foure laft remembred, I do not reade. But the annuities or penfions appointed to the faid two knights, and the Confriers, amounted to the fumme of two thousand eight hundred and feuenty pound the yeare, iffuing out of the lands to this Holpitall appertaining. And I finde that at the very fame time of the diffolution of this Fraternitic, certaine Jufts and Tourneaments being holden at Weftminfter, wherein the challengers against all commers were, Sir John Dudley, Sir T bomas Seymor, Sir Thomas Poinings, Sir George Carew, knights, Antony Kingfton, and Richard Gromwell, Elquires. To each one of which, for a reward of their valiantneffe; the King gaue an hundred Markes of yearely revenues, and an houfe to dwell in, and both of them, to them and their heires for euer, out of the lands and liuings belonging to this Hofpitall. Of fuch a large extensure were her poffeffions. And much what after this manner, the reft of the Manors, honors, lands, tenements, rents, and reverfions, were beftowed; and likewife at that time vpon fmall confiderations, the feite and lands of all other Monasterics were begged, bought, and alienated by fuch who respected their owne profit about the feruice of Almighty God. Albeit it was then declared, faith Camden, that fuch religious places, being of most pious intent confecrated to the gloty of God, might have beene according to the Canons of the Church, beftowed in exhibition and almes for Gods Minifters, reliefe of the poore, redemption of captines, and repairing of Churches.

A Discourse, Oc.

All Monafteries being thus fupprefied ; it followed that (vnder a faire pretence of rooting out of fuperflition) all Chanteries, Colledges, and Hofpitals, were likewife by Act of Parliament left to the dispose and pleasure of the King : And all these Monuments (atorefaid) of our forefathers pietic and deuotion, to the honour of God, the propagation of Chriftian faith and good learning, and alfo for the reliefe and maintenance of the poore and impotent (if without offence I may speake the truth.) All thefe, I fay, for the moft part, were flortly after; to wit, within the remainder of his raigne, and the fhort time of his Sonnes, King Edward the fixth: every where pulled downe, their reuenues fold and made away: and those goods and riches which the Chriftian pietie of our English Nation had confectated vnto God, fince they first professed Christianity, were in a moment, as it were, difperfed, and (to the difpleafure of no man be it fpoken) profaned.

Thus have you feene, by degrees, the facall and finall period of Abbeyes, Priories, and fuch like religious Structures; with the caffing out to the wide world of all their religious Votaries : chiefly occasioned by their owne abhominable crying finnes, more then by any other fecondarie meanes; as plainly doth appeare by the premiffes All which Queene Mary attempted to haue reftored to their priftine effate, and former glory. But all in vaine; for these religious Edifices with the lands and poffeffions thereunto belonging, were fo infringed, alienated and transferred, that neither the power of Maieftie, nor the force of Parliament, could reduce them againe to the proper vie, for which by the Founders they were intended.

Howfocuer the (being a Prince more zealous then politike) refigned, and confirmed by Parliament, to God and holy Church, all those Ecclefiafticall reachues, which by the authoritie of that high Court, in the time of her father King Henry had beene annexed to the Crowne, to the great diminution and impouerithing of the fame. And this the did frankly and freely, moued thereunto by her owne confcience, faying (with a Chriftian and princely refolution I must confesse) to certaine of her Counfel'ours, that albeit they might object againft her, that the flate of her kingdome, Holing pa 1127 the dignitie thereof, and her Growne imperiall, could not bee honourably maintained and furnished, without the possessions aforefaid; yet the fet more by the faluation of her foule, then fhe did by ten kingdomes.

And whereas in the raigne of King Edward the fixth, it was enacted, that all the bookes, called Antiphoners, Miffales, Grailes, Portuaffes, and Latine Primmers, vled for feruice in the Church, in the time of Poperic, (hould be clearely abolifhed; All images grauen, painted, or carued, taken out of any Church or Chappell, with the forefaid bookes, should bee defaced or openly burned. She being now more forward then wife to obferue the rites and ceremonies of the Romanifts, caufed the like bookes and images to be bought, and brought againe into all the Churches within her dominions. Holy water, Pax, and cenfers were commanded to be employed at the celebration of Malles, and Mattens, Oyle, Creame, and Spittle, vled in the Administration of the Sacrament of Baptifme. Altars furnished with pictures, coftly couerings, and the Crucifix thereon folemnly placed : Vnto whom Lights, Candles, and Tapers, were offered The reftauration and dispose of these, as also of all other matters concerning the Church, shee committed to the Pope, and Gardinall Posle his Legate, by whole authoritic and meanes by all probabilitie, all Statutes made in her father and brothers raigne against the See of Rome, the Pope and his Supremacie were altogether repealed; and the fixe bloudie Articles enacted by Henry the eighth tyrannically put in execution; by force of which (fhee being ouerfwayed by the authoritie of Church men, for of her felfe the was of a more facile and better inclined disposition) fo many, in leffe then foure yeares continuance, were confumed with fire, for the testimonial of their confciences in that cafe;

In the heate of whofe flames were burned to alhes fiue Bifhops, one and twentie Diuines, eight Gentlemen, eightie foure Artificers, one hundred husbandmen, feruants and labourers, twentie fixe wiues, twentie widowes, nine Virgines, two boyes, and two Infants, one of them whipped to death by Bonner, alias Sauage, Bifhop of London; and the other fpringing out of his mothers wombe from the flake as fhe burned, was by the Sergeants throwne againe into the fire. Sixtie foure more, in those furious times were perfecuted for their profeffion and faith, whereof feuen were whipped, fixteene perifhed in prifon, and twelue buried in dunghills, many lay in captiuity condemned; but were releafed, and faued by the aufpicious entrance of peaceable Elizabeth, and many fled the Land in those dayes of diffres, which by her vpon their returne home were honourably preferred, and prouided for according to their worthes.

Queene Mary now dead, and Elizabeth of famous memory proclaimed Queene, poffeffed of her lawfull inheritance, placed in her glorious Throne, and crowned with the imperiall Diadem ; prefently after followed a Parliament, wherein the title of Supremacie, and all ancient iurifdictions were againe reftored, all forraine power abolifhed; and for the more augmentation and maintenance of her State royall, it was ordained and effablifhed, that the first-fruits and Tenths of all Ecclefiafticall liuings, with the lands and Scites of Monafteries, giuen away by Queene Mary, thould be vnited and annexed againe to the Growne; that all Statutes thould bee repealed, which were enacted by the faid Queene Marie, in fauour of the Romith Religion, and that the booke of Common Prayer, vfed in King Edwerds time, for an vniforme celebration of Gods dinine feruice in the Englith Churches, thould bee ratified and authorifed againe by this prefent Parliament.

This Parliament ended vpon the eight of May, vpon the fourteenth day of the fame moneth next following, being Whitfonday, diuine Seruice was celebrated in the Englifh tongue, whereby Gods word might be heard in a perfect found, and the prayers of the Congregation vttered with an vnderftanding heart.

Soone after in the fame yeare certaine Commiffioners were appointed in feuerall places, for the eftablishing of Religion throughout the whole Realme; then all the religious houses which were reedified, erected, or reftored by Queene Mary, as the Priory of Saint Iohus Ierusalem; the Nuns and Brethren of Sion and Sheene, the blacke Friers in Smithfield, the Friers of Greenwich, with all other of the like foundation were veterly suppressed. Hanc videas, et mente colas quod cernis in illa.

Sum Rex cunctorum caro factus amore reorum. Ne desperetis venie dum tempus habetis.

To the picture of Chrift, speaking thus to man in the agonic of his Paffion.

> Alpice mortalis, fuit vnquam paßo talis? Peccatum (perne, pro quo mea vulnera cerne. Alpice qui transis, quia tu mibi causa doloris.

And thus, exhorting man to amendment of life.

Aspice Serue Dei sic me posuere Indei. Aspice deuote, quoniam sic pendeo pro te. Aspice mortalis, pro te datur bostia talis. Introitum vitereddo tibi, redde mihi te. In cruce sum pro te, qui peccas define pro me. Define, do veniam, dic culpam, corrige vitam.

The Knights Templers before they came to that houfe, now called the Temple, had an houfe in Holborne, which is now Southampton place, where in their Chappell was a reprefentation of Christs Sepulchre, with these verses brought from Ierusalem.

> Vita mori voluit, et in hoc tumulo requieuit, Mors quia vita fuit nostram victrix aboleuit. Nam qui confregit nigra inferna ille subegit, Educendo suos cuius Dux ipse cohortis: Tartarus inde gemit, et mors lugens spoliatur.

Another Infcription vpon the fame.

Hac sub claussura recubat Christi caro pura, Sub cura semper stat nostra figura. Est Deus hic tantus natus de Vigine quantus, Militie caput hic, mundi medicena iacet hic.

Another:

Sum Deus, ex quo carnem fum fi, sed fine neuo: Plebs mea me ligno fixit pendente maligno; Aspice plasma tuum, qui transis ante sepuichrum. Qui triduo iacui cum pro te passus obiui. Quid pro me pateris, aut qua mihi grata rependis? Sum Deus et puluis, sed regnes si modo serues. Pro te passus tu prome prospera vita. Pro te plagatus pro me tu pelle reatus.

A Discourse, dro.

For the power of holy water fprinkled vpon the people vpon their en-, trance into the Church, these Inferiptions.

Organs, Pulpits, Portals, Croffes, Candlefticks, Roods, Crucifixes, and what elfe of that kinde were likewife thus inferibed, all which with the reft, were erazed, fcraped, cut out, or taken away by the Commiffioners, and in ftead of them certaine fentences of the holy Scripture appointed to be painted or difpenfild in euery Church.

Thus indicious Reader thou maieft by this Chapter vnderftand, how, by Gods diuine prouidence, and the depth of flate pollicie, first of all, the authoritie of the Pope here in England was abrogated, the Supremacie of the Church in our Kings inuefted Abbeyes, and all other fuch like religious houfes fubuerted, Superflition and Idolatrie rooted out and suppreffed; and how this kingdome, from all Papall infection cleared, and with the Sunnethine of the Golpell enlightned, the true worthip of the cuerlining God was eftablifhed. Which onely true worfhip that it may continue in our Church without Schifmes, rents, and diuifions, vnto the end of the world, let vs all with vnanimous confent both of heart and voice, pray vnto him who is Truth it felfe, and the Authour of all vnitie, peace, and concord.

Now gentle Reader giue me leaue to adde vnto this Chapter (howfocuer thou wilt fay (perhaps) it is too long, already) the copie of the Kings Warrant to Commiffioners, to take the furrender of Religious houses, as alfo a copie of an Information to Queene Elizabeth, of the frauds and corruption of fuch fo imployed by her Father ; being in my judgement coincident with the Contents of the fame. ### The time of the institution of Religious Orders. Their feuerall names and Authours, and the infinite encrease of their Fraternities and Sisterboods.

"He Popes of Rome challenging a fucceffion from Saint Peter, and feeking to imitate the Hebrewes, began to inflitute Offiaries, Acolites, Exorcifts, Readers, Subdeacons, and Deacons.

The Office of the Offiarie was to open and fhut the Church doores, to looke to the decent keeping of the Church, and the holy ornaments laid vp in the Veftrie; which is now the charge of the Vergers (as I take it) in Cathedrall Churches.

Acolites, or Acoluthites, were to follow and ferue the Bilhop or chiefe Prieft, to prouide and kindle the lights and lamps of the Church; and to regifter the names of fuch as were catechized.

Exorcifts had the power given them to expell vncleane fpirits; and by fafting and prayer, to free fuch perfons as were fo poffeft.

Readers, quos Pastores à pasco nominatos putat Ambrosius, matutino tempore Prophetarum Apostolorumque scripta legebant, ac populum divinis lectionibus quasi pascebant. Which Saint Ambrose supposeth to be called Paftours, by the Apoftle Paul: did reade the writings of the Prophets and Apoffles, at the time of morning prayer, and did feede, as it were, the people with fuch diuine leffons.

The office of the Subdeacons was to fet and give out the Pfalmesin folemne tunes, to receiue the oblations of the faithfull, to write the liues and Agons of the Martyrs, and to declare, or make more plaine vnto the peo. ple the Epiftles of the Apoftles.

Deacons had the charge to releeue widowes and orphans, and other poore faithfull people; and to diffribute v nto them the almes which deuout Chriftians had given to that intent. They were allo allowed to preach the Golpell, to interprete the Scriptures, and appointed to adorne the facred Altars, and helpe the Prieft in divine Service (a place officiated now by our like D. Parifh Clerkes) thefe were chofen to bee men full of religion, integritic of life, faithfulneffe and bountie, after the example of the Churhes of Ierufa. lem and Antioch, who were called Clerkes; fome of thefe were made by the impolition of hands Priefts, others Deacons : to the end the Bilhop of Rome

Rome might imploy them to inftruct the Chriftians which then increafed, and were fo many, as he could not alone execute the charge. To thefe Priefts he gaue the chiefe care of foules, to the end that administring the Sacraments to the people of God, they might with the Bilhop attend prayer and preaching. Presbyterorum vero munus erat baptifare, Epifcopis adeffe confilijs, orationibus effe intentos, frangere panem in commemorationem Christi, annunciando mortem cius, orare super infirmos, vngentes cos oloo in nomine Domini. The office indeed of Priefts was to baptile ; to be affiftant to the Bilhops in Councell, to be attent and earneft in prayer, to breake the bread of life in remembrance of Chrift ; preaching or declaring his death and paffion: to vifite and pray for the ficke, giuing them extreme Vaction in the name of the Lord. And Presbyter, faith one, dicitur quafi prabens iter; as fhewing the way of faluation to the ignorant people. They were likewife, faith the fame Author, called Sacerdotes, men confectated to God in refpect of their facred orders, and pious imployments : which by him is thus deciphered. Quinque enim sunt dignitates Sacerdotum pre ceteris. Primo dicitur facerdos quasi facris dotatus, scilicet facris ordinibus, quia ipfe eft in fummo gradu, qui eft Sacerdotum. Secundo, Sacerdos quafi facris deditus, id est facramentis; ad facrificanda facramenta ; nam ipje facrificat facrosanctum corpus Domini cum verbis, signis, prodigijs, & catera sacramenta. Tertio, dicitur Sacerdos quafi dans Jacra, dat enim Baptismum, confessionem, pænitentiam, indulgentiam, Eucharistiam, benedictionem, & extremam unctionem. Quarto dicitur Sacerdos, quasi sacra docens : docet enim verba fancti Euangely, & articulos recta fidei. Quinto, dicisur Sacerdos, quasi facer dux, quasi ducatum prabens, & iter populo ad regna calorum, verbe fane doctrine, et vite bone exemple. Whereupon this Diffich was compiled:

Sacris dotatus, et facris deditus, atque Sacra docens, facra dans, et dux facer eflo Sacerdos.

Vpon the diuifion of Prouinces into Parifhes (of which hereafter) and building of Churches (which worke was effected with chearfull deuotion) the fitteft men out of this holieft order, were chofen and appointed to confecrate the diuine Mieftries of the Church. To fuch, or fuch particular congregations as were committed to their charge, and of whole foules they had the cure. And fuch Deacons, which, as Parifh Clerks, did helpe the Priefts in the execution of their facred office; did moft commonly after a fhort time, enter into the order of Prieftood, and tooke vpon them the cure of foules, and the benefit of a fat Parfonage, if they could procure it; in which promotion, if this or that Deacon carryed himfelfe proudly, or any wayes not to the contentment of his Parifhioners: fuch was the common faying, make Saint Augustine the chiefe Author of this inflitution, who when hee had gathered together a companie of godly men, who lined religioufly, farre from the noife and trouble of the multitude, being made a Bilhop, he built a Monasterie for Clerkes and Priefts within his pallace, with whom he might liue in common. Onufrius Panuinus Writes, that Pope Gelafius the first, about the yeare 493. placed the regular Chanons of Saint Augustine an Latran in Rome; Pope Boniface in the yeare 1298. placed there Chanons fecular; Gregorie the twelfth reftored the regu'ar. Califtus the third brought in fecular Chanons againe; and Pope Paul, the fecond of that name, difpoffeft them, and reftored the regular. They were wont to fleepe vpon mattreffes, and had blankets of wooll, they fafted much, vied great filence, and liued in common, having nothing proper to themfelues : they vied ex. ercifes two houres in the day, and at the end of the yeare they made their proceffion. They did not admit any one to the habit vntill hee were feuenteene yeares old; and they gaue them felues to ftudie and preaching. The rule of these Chanons (confirmed by many Popes) confisted chiefly vpon three points, to have nothing of their owne, to bee chafte, and to keepe their cloifters. Which rule is deciphered in the old cloifter of the Monaferie of Saint John Lateran, in riming verfes, now hardly to be read, thus.

> Canonicam formam fumentes difeite normam, Quam promififis hoc clauftrum quando petifis, Difeite fic effe tria volis adeffe neceffe; Nil proprium, morum caftum portando pudorem, Claufiri fiructura fit volis docta figura : Vt fic clarefeant anime, morefque nitefeant Et flabiliantur animo qui canonicantur. Vt coniunguntur lapidsfque fic poliuntur.

Thus regular in holineffe of good life, and alfo in learning, both Priefts and Chanons were of ancient times, but how irregular afterwards, let *Chan*cer tell you.

> Popes, Bifhops, and Cardinals, Chanons, Parfons, and Vicare In Goddes fervice I trow been fals, That Sacraments fellen here, And been as proud as Lucifere. Eche man looke whether that I lie, Who fofpeketh ayenfte her powere It fhal be holden herefie.

But to returne to the first of the foure orders, which is that of S. Bafill, (howfoeuer as I conceine the order of Saint Dominicke was accounted one of the foure here in England) this B fill furnamed the Great, for his great learning, lined about the yeare of Grace 300. he was a Prieft in Cæfaria, the chiefe Citie of Cappadocia where he was borne, and whereof afterwards he was cholen Bilhop. He was the Authour of building of Monasteries, whereas many might line together, for before his time the Monkes dwelt in caues and cels alone, in defarts and folitarie places, from the which hee drew them into Cœnobies or Couents : and instituted a difcipline, by the which they should no more wander, but bee alwayes bound by one forme	The order of S.Baff.
of Religion. These Monasteries were schooles, in the which the arts, and Philosophie, together with Diuinitie, true Religion and pietie were taught, to the end there might be learned and fit men alwayes readie to gouerne the Church ; it is faid that he built fo great and spatious a Monasterie in Armenia, as it contained aboue 3000 Monkes; and in the end reduced all the religious men of the East to a good forme of life. He died in the yeare 379, full of yeares as of vertues, when Damasus the first of that name held	and the second

This order of this holy man doth flourifh at this day in Italy, efpecially in the dominions of Venice, although all the Monafteries there which are of this order, doe acknowledge the Abbey of Grottaferata, twelue miles diftant from Rome for their mother. I doe not finde that any of this rule liued euer here in England : which makes me beleeue that this was none of the foure Orders before fpecified.

A Dilcourle, Oc.

The next Monasticke Order confirmed by the Church of Rome, was that of the Doctor of all Doctors, namely, Saint Augustine; He was borne in the Caftle of Tegastin Carthage, about the yeare of our redemption 258. his Fathers name was Patricius, his Mothers Monica, by whole intreaties, mingled with teares, and the learned Sermons of Saint Ambrafe, hee was drawne from the errours of the Manachies ; from Saint Ambrofe as then Bilhop of Millan in Italie, he returned into his owne countrey, where hee obteyned of the Bilhop of Hippo (whereof he was afterwards Bilhop himfelfe) a garden without the Towne, caufing a Monaftery to be built there, in which he liued of the labour of his hands in all integritie, according to the inflitution of the Primitiue Church. He died of a feuer at Hippo, when he had fitten fourty yeares in his Bilhopricke, being feuenty and fix yeares of age, on the fifth of the Kalends of September, leaving to posteritie, two hundred and thirty bookes of his owne writing. This order multiplied greatly throughout the whole Chriftian world, howfocuer branched into many feuerall orders, differing both in habit and exercises, as also in rule and precepts of life.

An Epitaph to the memorie of Saint Augustine which I found in the booke of Rufford Abbey.

Omnis plorat homo mox matris vt exit ab aluo, Et merito, quoniam venit in vallem lachrimofam. Solum nafcentem rififfe ferunt Zoroaftrem, Ergo monstrosum crede rifum liquet istum; Primus enim rerum fuit inventor magicarum. Hoc Augustinus testatur vir preciosus. Vir doctus, vir magnificus, vir quippe beatus.

The order of S. Fenct.

About fome fourtie yeares after the death of Saint Angustine, Saint Bemedict, vulgarly called Benet, appeared to the world, who is accounted the Patriarch and Father of all the Monkes of Europe. Hee was borne in Vmbria, a region in Italy, of the noble familie of the Regards, his Fathers name was Propre, his Mothers Abundantia, hee was fent to Rome at the age of ten yeares to learne the liberall Arts, but being wearie of the tumults and warre during the raigne of Institution the Emperour, hee went from thence into a defart neare vnto Sublacke, a Towne fome fourtie miles from Rome; where he continued the fpace of three yeares or thereabouts: doing very auffere penance vnknowne to any faue one Monke called Roman; but being afterwards difconered by certaine Shepherds, the people (by reafon of the great fame of his integritie and holineffe of life) flocked from all parts to fee him; who had fuch force to perfwade them to abandon the world, as in a fbort time they built twelue Monafteries, and having given to every one of them a good Superiour or Abbot, defiring folitarineffe, he retired himu felfe with a good number of his belt disciples, to the mount Calfin, neare to the Towne of old called Caffina. Where having ruined all the idolations Temples, and broken downe their Images ; hee built him a Monafterie. which hee dedicated to Saint John the Baptift, with a Chappello to Saint Martin, Drawing all the Monkes, difperfed in Italy, into one focietie and companie, to whom he gaue a certaine rule in writing, by the which they and their fucceffours fhould gouerne themfelues, according as Saint Baffill had done before him; and withall bound them to three feuerall vowesp Chaftirie, Pouertie, and Obedience to their fuperiours, which decree was ratified by the Church of Rome for an Euangelicall law. This congregation of the Benedictines grew by little and little to bee fo great throughout all Chriftendome, as is almost incredible. Nulla Monafteria mili Benediffina erat apud Anglos ab atate Edgari v fque ad regnum Gulielmi primi. There was no Monafteries, faith a late Writer, amongst the English from the time of King Edgar, till the raigne of William the Conquerour, but Benedictines. This order, faith the fame Authour, came first into England with Auftin the Monke, Bilhop of Canterbury. Hee the faid Saint Benet? died about the yeare of our Lord fine hundred and eighteene, and was bus ried in his owne Oratorie confecrated to Saint Iohn : where as before was wont to be the Altar of Apollo. He lived 63 . yeares.

Saint Francis was borne in the Towne of Affile in the Duchie of Spolet The order of tum in Italy; in his young yeares he dealt in the trade of Merchandife, but by reafon of a great fickneffe, at the age of two and twenty yeares, he contemned all worldly dealings, and gaue himfelfe wholly to heauenly meditations ; he put a thirt of haire vpon his bare skinne, and a facke vpon it, girding himfelfe with a cord, going allo without hole or shooes, Et victus offiatim emendicans, begging from doore to doore; fo as the fame of him being foread ouer neighbour countreys, many drawne by his holineffe abando. ned the world, and became his difciples, making profethon of powerty, but yet to labour and take paines for a poore liuing. For thefe he built an Abe bey in the Towne where he was borne, and wrate a rule, as well for this which were vnited vnto him, as for fuch as fhould come after him, which was approued and confirmed with many Indulgences, Priniledges, Graces, and Pardons, by Pope Innocent the third, and Honorius that fucceeded him; After the confirmacion whereof, he ordained that his Friers (bould be called, Fratres minores, or Minorite Friers, to withelle their greater huether, norl wading th militic,

This Scraphicall Saint Francis died the fourth of October, 1226, and was canonifed by Pope Gregorie the ninth, ann. 1276. Ann. 1224 About two yeares before the death of Saint Francis, thele Friers Minorues came into England, Et benigne à Rege Henrico tertio funt fuscepti, dy Cantuar: collocati fuerunt: They were gracioully received of Henry the third, and placed in Canterbury. And afterwards, anno 1269, one of the Anceflours of Sir Dudley Digge, commonly called Digges, Emit Infulam vocatam Bynnewyght in Cantuar. et locum Porte fuper flonestreete ad opus Fratrum Minoram, et tempore oportuno transfulit Fratres ad illam, bought an Island in Canterbury called Bynnewyght, and the place of a gate over Stone-streete for the vse of the Friers Minorites, to which hee transflated themin convenient time.

The Friers Minors (faith Stow) first arrived in England at Doner, nine in number, fiue of them remained at Ganterbury, and did there build the first Couent of Friers Minors that ever was in England; the other foure came to London, and lodged at the preaching Friers the space of fisteene dayes, and then hired an house in Cornhill of John Travers, one of the Sheriffes, they builded there little cels, wherein they inhabited, the denotion of the Citizens toward them, and also the multitude of Friers so increased, that they were removed by the Citizens to a place in S. Nicholas Shambles, which John Ingm Citizen and Mercer of London, appropriated who the Communalty of the Citie, to the vse of the faid Friers, and became himselfe a lay Brother.

Contemporarie with Saint Francis was Saint Dominicke, a Spaniard, borne in a Towne called Calogora, in the Dioceffe of Ofma. His fader was namyd Felix, and his Meder Iohane, faith an old Agon : from Calo. gora hee came into Galcoigne, where hee continued ten yeares preaching, and drawing Chriftian Princes into armes against the Albigeois, certeyne Heretiques, Qui damnato matrimonio vagos fuadebant concubitus ; atque esum carnium prehibebant. Who condemned Matrimonie, perswaded incentious copulations, and forbad the cating of flefh, whole errours hee repreffed by his Sermons. From thence he went to Rome to the Councell of Lateran, under Innocent the third, where hee obtained licence of the faid Pope, to put himfelfe vnder what rule he fhould like beft, that was allowed by the Church: whereupon he made choile of that of Saint Antonie, with fixteene of his difciples, and having made certaine conflications, it was confirmed by Honorius the third; about the yeare of our Lord, 1206. Then going to Tholoufe he exhorted his Friers, and fent them to preach, two and two together, perfwading them to bee preachers both in deed and name; Thefe Friers Preachers came first into England in the yeare 1221. where they had louing entertainment and houses built. Of the gluttonic and drunke meffe of this order which fo farre declined, like others, from the first institution; one of their owne fide thus writ.

All things degenerate in time, and ftray in a manner from the right courfe; for example, the order of Saint Benet which had flourished a long fpace with great reputation of holineffe, differed fo much from the firft inflitution of their Founder, that neither the decrees and authoritie of holy Fathers, generall and provinciall Councels could reforme or draw them to their first principles, vntill the fanctitie of one Odo, or Otho, Abbot of Cluni in Burgundy, and one of Saint Benets order, reuiued in a manner from death to life this Monafticall profeffion, forcing them to obferue, and obferuing himfelfe from point to point all that was practifed in the time of S. Benedict. So as many of their Abbots which were drawne by his good example, reformed alfo their Abbeyes, not onely in France, but as well in Spaine, Germany, Italy, and England; and for that this reformation had his first beginning at Cluni; the vnion of fo many Abbeyes was called the congregation of Gluni, and every yeare, by the Popes permillion and authoritie, all the Abbots of this congregation met at a certaine place, and they called it the generall Chapter, whereas they treated of the order and life of Monkes, putting out, and punishing fuch as had offended. This ode lived in the yeare of our Lord, 913.

It was no long time after, cre that these Benedictines fell againe to their old vomit, their great wealth hauing made them, proud, idle, luxurious, careless of Gods house; and in most or all of their actions, extreamely vitious. Whereupon one Robert Abbot of Molessme a Towne in Burgundy, perceiuing that the BenedictinesMonkes of his owne house (as of all other Monasteries) had almost quite left and forfaken the ancient rule and discipline that Benet had given them; he left his owne house, taking with him one and twenty of the honesself Monkes he could finde, to a folitarie flupendious, and neuer inhabited place, called Ciffeux, or Ciffercium, neare to Langres, in the faid Duchie of Burgundy, where hee erected a new Abbey for his new companions, whom hee called Ciffercians, of the place where the Abbey was feituated.

The liberties, immunities, and priviledges of this Order was generally confirmed by Alexander the fourth, Bilhop of Rome, circa An 1258.

Ex vet.M∬.in bib. Cos. This Ciftercian Brotherhood was first established here in England by one Walter Espeke, who founded the first Abbey of the faid Order at Riuaux, or Rivall in Yorkeshire, about the yeare 1131. according to this old Distich, sometimes depicted upon the wall at the entrance into the faid Abbey.

Some fifteene yeares after this foundation, and about the yeare 1098. S. Bernard furnamed the Mellifluous, a man noblely defeended, borne at the Caftle of Fountenay in Burgundy, with thirtie of his companions, amongft which three were his owne brethren, became religious men in this Monasterie. This Bernard in short time became very famous, as well for his learning (of which his diuine writings full of fweetneffe beare witneffe) as for the holineffe of his life, in regard of which hee was fent by his fuperiour to lay the foundation of that great and famous Abbey of Clarenaux, or Claravallenfis, neare to the river Aulbe, about Langres; which Abbey a Nobleman of the countrey had then lately built; and thus began the Monkes of the Order of Saint Bernard, which is all one with the Ciffercian Monkes, fauing a little difference in the habit, both of them obferuing the rule of Saint Benet. This good man Saint Benet came to the Abbey of Cifteux, when he was eighteene yeares old, at the age of 25. he was confectated Abbot of Claravall : Et diuino magis inflinctu, quam humana industria legem Domini didicit, quam tanta doctrine munificentia, et eloguij fuavi. tate enarrauit, vt communi Doctorum confensu Melliflui Doctoris cognomen fit adeptus, faith Opmer. The Archbishoprickes of Genua and Millan hee refuled, and onely contented himfelfe with the gouernment of this Abbey of Claravall, in the which he continued 38. yeares. Hee died the fifth of November, about the yeare of Grace, 1160. and was buried in his owne Monafterie, when he had lived 63, yeares. He built the Monafterie of Saint Vincent and Anaftafius in Rome, to the gouernment of which he preferred one Peter Bernard, his Scholler, who was afterward Pope of Rome, by the

Within one hundred yeares after the first fpreading abroad of these Ci-Celeftin Monkes. ftercian and Bernardin Monkes; the Benedictines wanted another reformation ; which was attempted by Peter, one of the fame Order, furnamed Moren, of a Mountaine to called; at the foote of which he liued in a caue for the space of three yeares, doing daily penance. Vpon this mountaine he built a little Church, which he called of the holy Ghoft ; he ware alwayes a chaine of Iron vpon his bare field, and vpon it a fhirt of haire, being in continuall prayer, and reforming the rule of Saint Benes, which was then much degenerated. Hee obtained of the Pope a confirmation of his rule, ypon which hee celebrated the first generall Chapter of his Order: After which in the feuentic ninth yeare of his age, he was chosen Pope, about the yeare of our redemption, 1294. by the name of Celeftin the fifth, wherevpon this reformed order were called Celeftins : the number of which increaled to fail, that he himfelfe confecrated for them fixe and thirtie cloi-Rers in Italy, wherein were fixe hundred Monkes; amongft others this was one of Celeftin the Popes caucats for his new reformadoes. Tunc Celestinus eris si celestia mediteris. If heau'nly things thoult meditate, Then thalt thouline in heuenly ftate. Their first comming into England was much what about the yeare 1414. The fanctitie of the Francifchan Minorite Friers growne cold, one Bernard of Sienna, a gentleman of a noble extraction, moued with an holy and Obferstant zealous deuotion, laboured much for the reformation of that Order, which Friers. he with fome affiftants effected, taking away the abufes which were crept in, and caufing the Friers to liue in common, and to have nothing proper to themfelues, following fimplie the inflitution of their father Saint Francis Thefe were called Obferuant Minorite Friers, becaufe they were obfernantienes Ordinis S. Francisci & propterea meliores : more observant to keepe the rules and orders of Saint Francis, and therefore the better. This Order began in the yeare of Jubile, 1400. or thereabouts: it was first confirmed by the Councell of Constance, afterwards by Engenins the fourth, and other Popes : King Edward the fourth brought them into England, and Henry the the feuenth auhmented their numbers: in whofe time they had fix famous Cloifters here in this kingdome. Many other reformations have beene from time to time of the Francifcans, as by the Minims, Recollects, Penitentiaries, Capuchins, &c. and by many others, which happened fince the diffolution here in England, or much what thereabours.

One Norbert Archbilhop of Magdebourgh, leauing the world, retired himfelfe with certaine companions into a certaine place called Premontre, of which this order tooke denomination, where hee fquared out a rule for himfelfe, his fellowes and fucceflours to obferue, much what after the order of Saint Augustine; which was approued and confirmed by Calietas the fecond. Honorius the fecond made them regular Chanons. Their Abbots were perpetuall, and euer confecrated by Bilhops. They had power to conferre their leffer Orders to their Monkes, and to bleffe all the ornaments of the Church, and to do all other ceremonies, but where as confecration is required in the bleffing; yet they might celebrate folemne and publike Maffe, with the myter, crofier flaffe, cappe, and other ornaments , which belong to the Epifcopall order and dignitie.

The first institution of this order was about the yeare 1120. their first house here in England was at Newhouse in Lincolnshire.

These Votaries pretend to have had their first institution at mount Carmel in Syria, where Elias and other heretofore lived folitarily, and that the place being inhabited by many Hermites ; Almericke Bilhop of Antioch drew them together, living difperfed about the mountaine, and built for them a Monasterie in that mount neare vnto a fountaine. They fay alfo that one Albert Patriarch of Ierufalem, a very famous man, fet downea ruie from the life of Elias, out of a certaine Greeke booke of the inflitution of the first Monke, and from the rule of Saint Bafill the Great, giving it to keepe to one Brocard, who was Prior of Mount Carmell, and to his Hermits, which rule of Albert they vowed to oblerue, which was afterwards confirmed by Pope Honorius the third. They affirme that the Virgine Mary appeared vnto one of their order, and prefented vnto him a * Scapularie, faying, Receiue, my beloued, this Scapularie which I gine vnto thy order, in figne of my fellow thip. Whereupon they when pe the title of Fratres Ordinis beata Maria Virginis de monte Carmelo : Friers of the Order of the bleffed Virgine Mary of mount Garmell. Their first apparition into the world was about the yeare 1170. Their entrance into England, and feating themfelues at Newenden in Kent, of which hereafter, was about the midft of the raigne of King Henry the third. Thefe, like as other Orders, haue beene diuers times reformed, euer as they did degenerate from their primitiue fincerity: at this day they are called Carmes difealeed, or bare footed Friers, by a certaine conflication confirmed by the Apoftolique authoritie, in a generall Chapter held at Alcara de Henares, in the yeare of our redemption, 1581. There were likewife Carmelin or Carmelineffe Nunnes here in England:

Ishn Bale who writ of the writers and the beft learned men of great Britaine, writ alfo a large Treatife of this Order of Carmes, or Carmelites: whole antiquitie, inflitution, and progreffe he fets downe in one of his paffages, as followeth.

He fpeakes much in the honour of this religious Order, of which hee was a member in the Monasterie of the Carmes within the Citie of Norwich; and findes himfelfe much aggricued at a certaine Lollard, as he calls him, and a Frier mendicant, who made an Oration and composed certaine virulent meeters against this and other of the Religious orders; which hee caused to bee fpread abroad throughout the most parts of England, in the yeare 1388, and here will it please you reade these his cursing rimes.

These Sathanicall strong lines (as the phrase is now) did at the first greatly distaste my reuerend Author John Bale, being one of the Fraternitie: Sed postes cum deformitatem fuam videbat, but asterwards when as he faw his owne deformitie and blindnesse, exuebat habitum fue professionis; he put off the habite of his cloissered profession; he rooted out, erazed, and defaced the maleuolent character of Antichrist (as hee faith himselfe) and consequently embraced the reformed Religion; and writ many most bitter Inuectiues against all forts of our English Votaries.

This Bale flourished in the raigne of King Henry the eighth, and was liuing in the second yeare of Edward the fixth, about which time he writ his Centuries.

Thus much (which is more then I determined to have fpoke) touching the order of the Carmes.

The order of Grand Mont was inflituted at Grand Mont in Limofin in France, about the yeare of our redemption, one thousand feueptie fixe, vnder the rule of Saint Benedict, by Stephen a gentleman of Auuergne, who being fent by his father to Molon Bilhop of Beneuent, to bee inflructed by him, he spent twelue yeares learning the inflitutions and rule of Saint Benedict. Going from thence, and having duely observed the lives of many Hermites, and Monkes, and feene what was worthie of imitation, in the end he fetled himfelfe vpon the top of an high hill in Limofin, being at that time thirtie yeares old, whereas hee built a little cottage. Hee preferibed a rule of Saint Benedict to his disciples, himfelfe living with bread and water, and died being eightie yeares old.

I finde very few Couents of this religious Order here in England, one there was at Abberbury in Shropshire confirmed by the Bull of Gregorie the ninth, Bishop of Rome: as followeth.

hold that Cleuss, Saint Peters disciple and Bishop of Rome, was the first founder of this order. It is received for more truth, that one Cyriacus Pa. triarch of Icrufalem (who fnewed S. This holy order came into England in the yeare of our faluation, 1244. their first Cloifter was at Colchefter, their greateft Monafterie was neare vnto the Tower hill London, as yet called by the name of Cruched Friers. They did not of late as at the first institution, carry the Croffe in their hands, but ware a croffe of red cloth or skarlet fixed to their habit on their breaft.

A Discourse, Oc.

About the yeare 1357 the order of the Trinitarian Friers came into England; an order whole chiefe charge was to go and gather money to redeeme Chriftians that were captiues vnder the tyranny of the Turkes and Infidels; whereupon they were called Monachi de Redemptione captinorum, Monkes of the redemption of captiues. This order was inflituted by a Frier, called Iohn Matta, and Felix Anachorita, who lined a folitarie life in France, and were warned in their fleepe (as the tale goes) to repaire to Rome to the Pope, and to feeke for a place of him, to build them a cloifter. Which they did, and their petition being to them granted, they laid the foundation of the Monafterie now called Saint Thomas of the Mount, in mount Celia Rome; wherein Frier Iohn died, and was buried, as appeares by an Arch or ancient Sepulchre of matble in the little Church of the faid Church, on the which this Epitaph or Infeription is engrauen.

Yet for all this these Trinitarians say, that the holy and bleffed Trinitie, and not Frier Iobn, neither any of the Saints, gaue them this their rule and order, to which effect in all their Couents these Rimes are painted or engrauen.

the great emolument and profit of these Good-men the religious Votaries. The superiour of this Order was called a Rector, or a Father Guardian.

About the yeare 1257, the Bethlemit Friers had their dwelling in Cambridge, who thould be the first institutor I do not reade; their rule and habite was much what like that of the Dominicans; fauing that they wore a starre in their breast wrought vpon their habite, in memoriall of the starre which appeared at the time that our Sauiour was borne in Bethlem. This Order was extinct before the suppression.

This religious Order was first instituted in the yeare of our Lord God, 1080. vpon this occasion (the ftory is frequent) a Doctor of Paris, famous both for his learning and godly life ; being dead and carried to the Church to be buried, when as they fung oner his bodie the lefton which begins, Refonde mihi quet babes iniquitates, Anfwer me how many iniquities thou haft, the bodie, fitting vp in the coffin, anfwered with a terrible voice, Juffe Dei indicio accusatus sum : I am accused by the iust indgement of God : at which voice all the companie being much amazed, they deferred the interment vntill the next day, at which time vpon the rehearfall of the fame words, the body did rife in like manner, and faid, Infto Det indicio indicat us fum, I am judged by the juft judgement of God. The third day hee raifed himselfe vp as before, faying, Iusto Dei iudicio condemnatus fum, I am condemned by the juft judgement of God. Amongst many Doctors which affifted thefe Funeralls, one Brune, a German, borne at Colleyn, of a rich and noble familie, Chanon of the Gathedrall Church of Rheimes in Champaigne, being ftrucken and fearfully affrighted at this ftrange and neuerheard of spectacle, began to confider with himselfe, and to revolue and iterate very often thefe words following, Si inftus vix falvabitur, impins or peccator whi erit : If fuch a pious man as hee was in the opinion of the world, be damned by the iuft iudgement of God (thinkes hee) what will become of me and many thoulands more, farre worfe and more wicked in the eye of the world then this man was. Vpon this deepe confideration, Brune departed from Paris, and tooke his journey together with fixe of his Schollers, to liue folitarily in fome wilderneffe ; and not long after came to the Prouince of Dolphine in France, neare to the Citic of Grenoble, where hee obtained of Hugh Bilhop of that Citic, a place to build him a Monafterie, on the top of an high ftupendious hill, called Carthulia, from whence the Order tooke the name. They gaue themfelues to filence, and reading, and feparated themselves by little Celsone from another, left they should interrupt one anothers quiet. They fpent fome houres in the labour of their hands, and fome in the writing of godly books, both to relieue their wants, and to do feruice to the Church of God. Many workes of theirs are fill extant ; out of which, tending to mortification, the Ieluite Parfons collected the Refolution.

They did macerate their bodies by fafting and difcipline, and in the end refolued to eat no flefh, during their lines.

This donation of Bilhop Hugb (who became himfelfe one of their order) was confirmed by Hugb Bilhop of Lions, and afterwards by Pope Vrban the fecond. The faid Pope Vrban (as the flory, which I have read, depicted

The which when one Roger the Prince of that countrey vnderftood, he went to vifit this holy man Brane, and gaue to him and his focietie all that defart; whereas they built a Church, in the which Brune remained alone, where his companions liued, and in that place hee died, ann. 1102. and there was buried. Vpon whole Sepulchre this Epitaph was infculped.

He was canonized in the yeare 1520.

Priors of their grand Monasterie at Carthulia from Bruna the first, till Bruno d'Affrinques, who gouerned that houle, ann. 1611. haue beene fourty and foure.

This order came into England about the yeare 1180, and at Witham in Somerfetshire built their first cloifter. Afterwards they came to London and had a faire fumptuous house neare vnto Smithfield London, which is' now Suttons Hofpitall; another they had called Sein or Shene, in the countie of Surrey, now beft knowne by the name of Richmond.

There were foure Orders here in England of begging Friers, who did Begging Friers challenge for their Patrons S. Augustine, S. Francis, S. Dominicke, and Saint Bafill, but in their difcipline and rule of life, they came farre fhort of their first Institutors, who both tooke paines with their hands as labourers, and as learned writers, as their workes do teffifie ; of all Orders these Mendicants have ever been most bitterly inveighed against by their owne writers : as I fhall fhew hereafter.

Quidam nouss ordo Fratrum Londini apparuit, de incognitus. Papale tamen autenticum palam oftendens ; ita vt tot ordinum confusio videretur. A certaine new and vaknowne order of Friers appeared in London; flewing openly the Popes authenticall Bull for their admiffion; fo that then there feemed to be a confusion of fo many Orders, faith Paris. Thefe were In An 1257. called Fratres de panitentia lefu, or Fratres de Sacca : Friers of the repentance of lefus, or Friers of the Sacke, for that they carried facks, and for that they were clad in fackcloth. These had their first house a little without Alderigate London; and obtained licence of King Henry the third in the fifth yeare of his raigne, to remoue from thence vnto any other place, and withinfome two years afterwards hee gaue to them the lewes Synagogue in Colman-

Hee went ouer into Fra where by his fludy in the liberall Arts, he obtained both the name and gree of Mafter : and comming home, hee inftructed both the boyes girles of his owne countrey in the fame difciplines. inftitute the like order (as aforefaid) of Monkes and Nunnes, which was confirmed by Gregorie the eleuenth; in the first yeare of his Popedome. She obtained of the faid Pope, that the Monasteries of her faid order should bee common as well for men as women : yet there fould bee fuch a feparation by walls, as the one fhould have no meanes to come vnto the other, but vpon great neceffitie. She would also haue but one Church for both fexes, and that the Monkes as Ministers of facred things should bee below, and the Nunnes aboue, to fay their feruice and prayers ; but the Lady Abbeffe fhould have power to command both: yet men fhould have charge of that which did belong to the Diuine Seruice, and to the ornaments of the Church, and that there fhould be one amongft them that fhould be called Prior, or Confeffour. She alfo ordained, that they (hould have lands and polleffions wheron to liue, but the fuperintendance to prouide for all things that should be needfull, for the one and the other, as well for victualis, as appareil, fhould belong vnto the Abbeffe. That it fhould not bee lawfull for either men or women to go out of their Monasterie, without great neceffitie, and then they fhould demand leaue of the Abbeffe. They held the rule of S. Augustine, with certaine Articles added by this famous Queene. Some are of opinion, that this forme of Religion was first invented in Greece, but that the Fathers had ordained, that the men (hould, remaine feperated from the women, left they should give occasion of deandall: wherefore Saint Brigide defiring to reuiue this order, fhe found meanes how without any fuspition, the Church and house should be common to both. She ordained that they fhould weare a ruffet habit, with a cloke of the fame colour, with a red croffe vpon their breafts. Shee would have but fixtie Nunnes, and fiue and twentie Monkes in euery Monasterie : that is to fay, thirteene Priefts, according to the number of the thirteene Apoftles, comprehending Saint Paul. Then foure Deacons ; who might allo be Priefts, and reprefented the foure Doctors of the Church: and eight Conuerts, who might alwayes be readie to labour for the affaires of the houfe; fo as the Friers and Nunnes all together, made the number of the thirtcene Apofiles, and the feuentie two Difciples of our Sauiour : And to the end they might be diffinguished one from another, the Priefts carried a red Croffe vpon the left fide of their cloke, vnder which croffe they put a little peece of white cloth, as broad as a wafer, which they offered vp in reuerence of the holy Sacrament. And the foure Deacons, for a difference from the Priefts, carried a round wreath of white cloth, which fignified (as they gaue out) the fapience of the foure Doctors, whom they reprefented, and vpon it they put foure little peeces of red, made like vnto tongues, to fhew that the holy Ghoft inflamed their tongues to deliuer the facred myfteries of Diuinity. The Conuerts wore 2 white croffe vpon their clokes, to fhew the innocencie of their liues, vpon which there were fue peeces of red, in commemoration of the fiue wounds of our Sauiour.

At the diffolution there was a Couent of this Order, at Sion in Midle. fexe; now a manfion goodly faire houle belonging to the right honourable the Earle of Northumberland.

This holy Lady Brigid died at Rome, and her daughter Katherine, Princeffe of Nerice, caufed the rule, after her death, to be confirmed by Pope 03 Vrban

Clares,

A Discourse, Ge.

Vrban the fifth : She came to Rome at the age of two and fourtie, where the continued eight and twentie yeares, the was canonized in the yeare of Grace 1391.

There was another S. Brigid of Ireland, farre more ancient.

It is faid that the image of our Sauiour Ipoke to this pious Queene of Sweden, as the was faying her orizons before the high Altar in the Church of Saint Paul in Via Ofliensi Rome: as appeares by an infeription vpon a table banging in the fame Church, which I have feene.

As many orders, or neare thereabouts, as were of Friers, fo many were of Nunnes here and beyond Seas, for men in the feruencie of deuotion did not precede the weaker fex of religious women. The flricteft Order of Nunnes is that of S. Clare; A Lady who liued in the fame time, and was borne in the fame Towne of Affile with S. Francis, Which Towne to this day brags of the birth of two fuch worthic perfons. These Clares observe the rule of their Patron S. Francis, and weare the like habit in colour. They are neuer rich, and therefore to this day wherefoeuer they doe inhabite, they are called the poore Glares. This Saint Clare was the first Nunne of Saint Francis Order, and her Mother and Sifter vndertooke the fame vow.

Sanëta Clara que in vita & in morte mirabiliter miraculis claruit. Beata Agnes foror fanëte Clare, & beata Ortulana mater corundem fuere ordinis Francifcorum. Saint Clare, who both in life and death was wondroufly famous by her miracles. S. Agnes her fifter, and Ortulana hermother, were of the order of S. Francis. This S. Clare, (faith her Legend) touching the world was of right worthy and honourable linage: and, as touching the fpirit to the regard of the flate of vertues, and holy manners towards God, of right noble reputation.

Hauing fpoken already of fuch religious perfons as I finde to haue liued here in England in Coenobies or Couents, at the time of the generall diffolution: it remaines now, to fay fomewhat of Hermits and Anchorites, who had at that time their folitarie little cells or cabbins in diuers places of this kingdome, which carrie ftill the name of Hermitages, in and about the countrey, and Anchor-holds, in Parida or Abbey Churches. They were called Hermites, or Eremites, for that they lived folitarily in defarts and wilderneffes; and Anchorites becaufe they liued alone without all company; immured betwixt two walls, in the our fide of fome Abbey, or Parifh-Church, in which, by their rule, they were to liue, die, and to bee buried. Whole exercife was feruent prayer, handy labour, digging and filling vp againe their graues, which were to be within their lodgings. Of the beginning and first Authors of the Hermites life there is great queffion, which I leaue vnto the learned; and adhere to the common received opinion, which affirmes that the times of perfecution were the first caufe of this kinde of life. For when as in the time of Decises and Valerianus, Emperours, about two hundred fiftie and two yeares after Chrift, they prepared horrible torments against the Christians, many distructing the weaknesse of the flesh, and fearing to denie the name of God by their intollerable perfecutions, thought it fitteft to fecke their fafetie by flight : Wherefore many leaving Townes, friends, and all their wealth, retired themfelues into defarts, and held held themfelues in folitarie places and caues, where they built poore cottages. Yea many times they went wandring vp and downe in thicke woods left they fhould bee taken. But when the furie of their tyranny cealed, they returned not vnto the world, but liued voluntarily in defarts, fo being accustomed to divine contemplation, and a quiet kinde of life, they continued in the courfe vntill death. Among the first which entred into this courfe of life, was Paul of Thebes, who lived in a caue at the foote of a rocke ; about the yeare of our redemption, 260. The fecond was Saint An. tonie of Ægypt, who built himfelfe a cottage vpon the top of an high hill, where he died having lived one hundred and five yeares, in the yeare 245. S. Hierome of Stridone in Dalmatia, that learned and religious Doctor, led the like life in the defarts of Syria, not farre from Jerufalem : In quo loco deferto se ieiunijs macerabat, plangebat, orabat, studebat, atque etiam com mentabatur. In which vninhabited place, he maccrated, or made leane, his bodie with faftings; he lamented and bewailed his finnes, he prayed, he fudied, and writ certaine Comments vpon the facred Scriptures: Many other workes he writ before his death, which happened about the yeare of our Lord, 388.

But to come nearer home where the repute and godlineffe of thefe Hermites or Anchorites (for both of them living from the companie and conuerfation of men; were called fometimes by the name of Hermites, and fome other time of Anchorites) was likewife had in venerable regard, for we reade that when feuen Britilh Bilhops, with other learned men of the Monasterie of Bangor, were to meete Auflin the first Archbishop of Canterbury, concerning certaine points tending to the Catholicke vnitie and concord, they came first (faith venerable Bede) to a certaine holy and wife man, which liued thereabout an Anchorites life, to aske his counfell, whether they ought at Auftins preaching and exhortation, to leave their traditions, or no: And we reade, in the faid Authour, that Cuthbert Bilhop of Durham (enforced thereto by the King) increasing in the merit of religious and holy deuotion, came alfo to the fecret filence of an Anchors life and contemplation: that by prayer he brought forth water out of a ftonie ground, and alforeceived graine by the labour of his owne hands, and that out of all feafon of fowing.

And I haue feene the Pfalter translated out of Latine into English, by one Richarda religious Hermite, the antiquitie whereof may be gathered by the character of the English, of which I will give you an Effay, of certaine parcels.

We heryen ye God, we knowlechen ye Lord: Alle ye* erye worfchips ye euerlafting fader. Alle aungels in heuens, and alle ye poures in yis warld. Cherubin and Seraphin cryen by voyce to ye vnftyntyng.

Here the more willingly (to vie the words of the transcriber of these Pfalmes) I have inferted thefe parcels of the Pfalter, that by this occafion my Reader might palliate his tafte with an Effay of our Anceftors old Englifh, as well in the curte composition of their profe, as in the nearnelle of their holy meeters, which howfoeuer abounding with libertie, and the character of their times, yet haue, I confelle, my admiration.

And (for a conclusion) we reade in Henry Archdeacon of Huntington that a certaine Anchorite, or quidam vir Dei, as he calls him, prophefied in King Etheldreds dayes, that forfomuch as Englishmen were given over to all drunkenneffe, treafon, and carelefneffe of Gods houfe, first by Danes, then by Normans, and a third time by the Scots they fhould be ouercome.

To this retyred holy Order aforefaid, women were admitted as well as men. For I reade in an old Lieger booke that one Ifold Heren widow (vnlike in conversation to these Anchorites I have spoken of, or the Anchoresses in the Primitiue times) made fute to King Henry the fixth, that thee might be an Anchoreffe, or vowed reclufe, in that part of the Abbey of Whally, anciently ordained for that purpole ; which was granted and thus confirmed.

But

But this religious Votareffe tooke no great delight in her ftraight lodging, as appeares by the ftory: for within a fhort time after, fhe being defirous of more libertie, broke out of her cage (as other fuch like holy Sifters had done before her) and flew abroad in the open world. Whereupon the Abbot and Couent of the faid Monasterie, made this certificate following to the King.

To the Kyng owr fouereigne Lord, &c.

Be hit remembryd that the pleafe and habitacion of the feyd Reclufe is within place halowed, and nere to the gate of the feyd Monaftre. And that the weemen that haue been attendyng, and acquayntyd to the feyd Reclufe haue recorfe dailly into the feyd monaftre, for the linere of brede, ale, Kychin, and other thyngs, for the fultentacion of the feyd Reclufes, accordyng to the composicion endentyd above reherfed. The whyche is not according to be had within fuche religyous plafes. And how that dyvers that been Ancores and Recluses in the feyd plase afore tyme contrary to theyr own oth and profeffyon, haue brokyn owt of the feyd plafe wherin they wer reclufyd, and departyd therfrom wythowt eny reconfilyatyon. And in efpecyal how that now Ifeld of Heton that was laft Reclufed in the feyd plafe at denominacion and preferment of owr fourreigne L. and Kyng that now is, is broken owt of the feyd plafe, and hath departyd therfrom contrary to her own oth and profellyon, not willyng nor entendyng to be reftorydageyn, and fo liuyng at her own liberte, and large by this two yer and mor like as Iche had neuer bin profeffyd. And that diuers of the wymen that haue been feruants ther and attendyng to the Reclufes afortym have been mifgouerned and gotten with chyld wythin the feyd plafe halowyd to the grete displefaunce of hurt, and disclander of the Abbey aforefeyd, &c. Please hit yowr highnes of yowr especial grafe to grant to yowr orators, the Abbat and, &c.

This Anchoreffe having taken vpon her fo ftrict a vow, and being thus loofe in her life and converfation, fome may very well imagine that Nuns, which had more libertic allowed them by their rules, were farre more licentious; and indeed the Author of Piers the Ploughman fpeakes (in the perfon of the Frier VVrath) fome what reprochfully of his Aunt a Nunne and an Abbeffe. As also of other like Votareffes and Votaries, which with his introduction followeth.

CHAP. XVII.

Of the fundrie wayes and meanes by which Religious Votaries, and others of the Clergie, enriched them felues, and other Churches. Of Pardons, Pilgrimages, and Romejcor.

A Ll Churches are either Cathedrall, Conuentuall, or Parochiall. Ca-thedrall, is that Church, where there is a Bilhop feated, fo called, à Cathedra, the chaire or feat, Conuentuall, confifteth of regular Clerkes, profelling fome order of Religion, or of Deane and Ghapter, or other Colledge of fpirituall men. Parochiall, is that which is inflituted for the faying of Diuine Seruice, and ministring the holy Sacraments to the people dwelling within a certaine compasse of ground neare vnto it. Of which more in the next Chapter. I will begin with Conuentuall Churches:

As the number of Religious Orders increafed, and as Religious houfes were daily more and more replenished, infomuch that the donations of their Founders were not thought (by themselues) sufficient, they deuised other meanes to increase their liuelihood, and the better to maintaine their high ftate and comportement; and one was, by the admittance of lay-people into their Fraternities: the forme whereof was after this manner follow. ing, as I have it out of the collections of Nicholas Charles Lancaster Herald, deceafed.

I finde in the golden Register of Saint Albans (a Manuscript in Sir Robert Cottons Librarie) aboue two thousand men, women, and children, lay-perfons of the Nobilitie and Gentric of this kingdome, to have beene thus admitted into that one Monasterie : all of which gaue either lands, goods, iewels, iewels, plate, copes, vestments, or fome ornament or other to the Church and Couent.

A Discourse, Oc.

The religious Votaries likewife, either by themfelues, or their friends, gaue fomewhat or other vpon their firft admittance into any of thefe Monafteries : of which I could giue many examples, but in place take one for all, which I haue read in the Lieger booke of Saint Maries the Nunnery at Clerkenwell. Where Sir William de Sancto Georgio, or Saint George knight (one of the Anceftors of Sir Richard, S. George Clarentieux now liuing) giues to the Prioreffe and her Sifters of the forefaid Saint Maries Clerkenwell; with Mabell his daughter, vpon her admittance into their Nunnery, halfe a Verge of land in Kingftone in Cambridgelhire. Teft. Willelmo de Bans. Roberto de S. Georgio. Roberto de Haffelingtonfeld, & c. a deed fans date.

And by another deed the faid Sir William Saint George giues to the faid Priorie of Clerkenwell, for the foules health of himfelfe, his father, his mother, and his wife; and with Albreda his fifter, who was to be a Nunne of the faid houfe, his land in Haffelingfeld, within the forefaid Countie of Cambridge, which Robert Russis held in pratis in pascui, cgc. Test. Eustac. de Bancis, Willelmo de Bancis, Roberto de Santto Georgio, cgc.

And many others having large portions in their owne polleffions, out of zeale and deuotion, would give all, with themfelues, to fome Cloiffer or other, and therein take vpon them the habite of Religion. As many Englifh doe in these dayes vpon their admission into religious Orders beyond Seas.

They were wondroufly enriched by the burials of great perfonages, for in regard of buriall, Abbeyes were most commonly preferred before other Churches whatfoeuer : and he that was buried therein in a Friers habite, if you will beleeue it, neuer came into hell

Vpon their visiting and confessing of the ficke, they euer vsed fome perfivaline argument or other, that it would please the ficke perfon to beftow fomewhat more or leffe (according to his or her abilitie) towards the maintenance of their Fraternities, or the repairing of their Monasteries; and that he would bequeath his bodie to be interred in the Church of their Couent, with a promise that they would daily fay prayers and make interceffion for his foule. They got likewife by conteffing such as were in perfect health, giuing them absolution, and enioyning them penance, according as they receined gratuities. Of all which, will it please you reade these passages following, copied out of the Author of Piers Plowman, and Geffrey Chancer. And

First Piers the Plowman, Paffus vndecimus, speaking how Friers court to burie men for their goods, Go confesse to fome Frier, and shewe him thy synnes, For while Fortune is thy frend Friers will the loue, And fetch the to their Fratemitie, and for the besche To her Prior Prouinciall, a Pardon to haue; And pray for the pole by pole, if thou be pecuniosus. Sed pena pecuniaria non sufficit, pro spiritualibus delictis.

Item, in the Chirch of Seynt Eufface you may have relyfe and pardon of all fynne.

And he that is fhrenen and repentant of his finne he hath a M.yere pardon, and as many karynes.

My Author having fpoken of the Indulgences and priviledges granted to thefe principall Churches, and the great benefit which deuout pilgrimes receive which come to vifit thefe facred flructures, and highly reverence the holy reliques therein contained, he proceeds in this place (according to his promife) to give his Reader knowledge what a karyne is.

A karyne (faith he) is too goo wulward vii yere. Item to faften bred and watter the Fryday vii yere. Item, in vii yere not too flepe oon nyght there he flepith a nother. Item, in vii yere not to com vndir noo coucred place, but yf it bee to here Maffe in the Chirch dore or porche. Item in vii yere nott to ete nor drynke out of noo veffel, but in the fame that he made hys avow in. Item, he that fulfillyth all thes poyntis vii yere duryng;doth and wynnethe a karyne, that ys to fey a Lentdum.

Thus may a man haue at Rome (as he concludes) gret pardon and Soul helth; bleffyd ben thoos pepull and yn good tyme borne that reffayveth thes thes graces, and well kepith them. Of the which pardon and grace, our Lord Ihefu Cryft mot grant to euery good Cryften man. Amen.

Then follow the Indulgences granted to other lower Churches in Rome: but by thefe you may imagine the reft. And by both iudge of the Pardons granted by feuerall Popes to the Cathedrall, Conuentuall, and Parochiall Churches of England. And thinke what concourfe of pilgrimes and other people daily vifited the forefaid Churches; which will hereafter appeare within each feuerall Dioceffe.

And here giue me leaue a little to speake of a certaine generall Pardon or Indulgence granted by Alexander the fixth, Bishop of Rome, to this Realme of England. By which he enriched himselfe, and the Church-Ministers, and emptied the purses of many of the Kings subjects.

Towards the latter end of the yeare, one thousand fine hundred, being the yeare of Iubile (fo called, for that it is the yeare of ioy or delinerance) the forefaid Bilhop of Rome fent hither to King Henry the feuenth, one Iaster Powe or Pows, a Spaniard, a man of excellent learning, and most civill behauiour, to distribute the Heauenly Grace (as hee termed it) to all fuch as (letted by any forcible impediment) could not come to Rome that yeare to the Iubile which was there celebrated. The Articles contained in the Bul of this great Pardon, or Heauenly Grace, were as followeth.

The Articles of the Bulle of the holy Iubiley of full remiflyon, and gret ioy graunted to the Relme of Englond, Wales, Irelond, Gernefey, and Garnefey, and other places vndre the fubicction of oure Soueraygne Lord King Henry the feuenth to be diffributyd accordyng to the trew meanyng of our holy Fader vnto the Kyngs Subiects.

Ower most holye Fader the Pope, Goddes Vicar in erthe, of hys holye and gracyous disposycion, faderla beholdyng the hole flok of christen peple comitted to hys cure and charge, daylie ftudyeth diligently the helth and welfar of yowr fowles : And in as moche as in his holynes prouydeth for all foche perelles and icoperdies as may fall to the fame, by grauntyng of gret Indulgence, and remishyon of fynnes and trefpasses.

Where as the holye yere of grace now of late paffyd, that ys to fay, the yere of remilhyon of all fynnes, ye yere of ioye and gladnes, was celebrare devowtely, and folenly keped, by grete and infenite nombre of Criften pepull in the Cowrte of Rome. Ower faide most holie Fader the Pope, as well confideryng the infenite nombre of criften peple bothe fpyrituall and temporall which was defirous to have had the fayd remifhyon and Grace, and wold have viferted the fayd Cowrte of Rome, faue only that they were lette, cyther by fikeneffe, febleneffe, pouerte, long diftance, and gret icoperdie; or befines and charges of fpirituall or temporall occupacions, or at that tyme purpoled not to optaine and perchafe the layd Grace, and now be in will and defire to haue the fame. As willy ng, and effectually defiring to prouyde and withftond the most cruell purpose, and infenyte malice of our moft cruell enemyes of our criften feithe the Turks whiche continually ftudieth, and gretely inforceth hymfelfe with alle hys myght and ftrenght to fubuert and vtterly deftroye the holye Religion of our Soucrayne Crifte. 	Pilgrimage what it is.	Pilgrimag e, is called of the Latines, Peregrinatio , quafi peregre abitio, a going into a firange countrey; for a flort pilgramage is not worth a pin: neither is that Image in fo much honour or refpect in that countrey where it is, as in farre countries. For example, the Italians, yea those that dwell neare Rome, will mocke and scoffe at our English (and other) pilgrims that go to Rome to see the Popes holinesse, and Saint Peters chaire, and yet they themselves will runne to see the Reliques of Saint Iames of Compostella in the kingdome of Colling is a set of Saint Iames of Compostella in the kingdome of Galicia in Spaine, which is aboue twelue hundred English miles. And fo the Spaniards hold Rome to be a very holy place, and there- fore spare no cost or labour to go thither. And so of other pilgrimages. Pilgrimage was also called Romeria , quia Romam vt plarimum peregri- nationes, because pilgrimages forth most part were made to Rome. Now having acquainted my Reader (omitting many particulars, I con- fesse, which will more plainly appeare in the sequele) by what deuises and meanes, the Religious Votaries and others of the Clergie within this king- dome, as also the Bishop of Rome (who most commonly went away with the best share) augmented their revenues, and deceived the poore Com- mons. I am here to speake of a yearely tribute paied onely to the See of Rome (which many times I obuiously meete withall) from the payment whereof.

whereof, neither the King nor the Clergie, nor any houtholder either in England or Ireland were priviledged, and this was called Romefcor; which is a Saxon word compounded of Rome and Scot, as you would fay, the tribute due to Rome, or an Apostolicall custome, or the fee of Rome, Rome penning, or Denarij Sancti Petri, Peter pence: From which payment, faith Mathew the Monke of Weftminfter, neither the King, nor the Archbi-(hop, Bilhop, Abbot, nor Prior, were exempted. The first Founder of this Tribute was Inas, or Ina, king of the Welt-faxons. Of which the forefaid Mathew thus writes.

Ins the pious and potent king of the Weft Saxons, leaving his tempo rall kingdome (thereby to gaine an eternall) to the gouernment of his kinfman Ethelard, trauelled on pilgrimage to Rome, where in the faid Citie by the permiffion of Gregory the fecond, hee built an houfe which he called, The English Schoole ; vnto which, the kings of England, and the Regail linage, as alfo Bilhops, Priefts, Clerkes, and others might repaire, to bee inftructed in good literature, and in the Catholicke faith, left that any thing in the English Church might be finisterly expounded contrary to the vniuerfall vnitie, and fo, being cftablifhed in the orthodoxall and right receiued Faith, they might returne backe againe into their owne countrey. For the doctrine and Schooles of the English Nation fince the time of Arch bilhop Auftin, had beene interdicted by diuers Romifh Bilhops, for certaine herefies which daily appeared after the comming in of the Saxons into Britaine, by reafon of the commixture of the misbeleeuing wicked Pagans, with the Chriftians of holy conuerfation. Hee alfo cauled a Church to be crefted neare to the forefaid house or Colledge, which he dedicated to the honour of the bleffed Virgine Mary; in which fuch of the English as came to Rome might celebrate diaine Seruice, and that therein, if any of the faid English there happened to depart this world, they might be interred. And all thefe, that they might for euer be more firmly corroborated, it was ordained by a generall decree, throughout all the kingdome of the Weft-Saxons, that in cuerie familie one pennie fhould be yearely collected and fent ouer to bleffed Saint Peter and the Church of Rome, which in Englifh Saxons was called Romefcot; that the Englifh there abiding might by that meane have fufficient to live vpon. Thus farre Mathew of Weftminfter furnamed the Flower-gatherer. The which in fubftance is thus delinered by a late writer, yet in a different manner.

He (meaning Ina) inflituted alfoa certaine yearely payment to the See of Rome, enioyning every one of his Subjects that poffeffed in his houfe of speed. 12.99. one kinde of goods to the value of twentie pence, that he fhould pay a peny to the Pope yearely vpon Lammas day; which at that time was contributed vnder the name of the Kings Almes, but afterwards was called and challenged by the name of Peter-pence.

And it was one of the lawes of Edward the Confession, that every householder which had triginta denariatas viua pecunia in domo sua de proprio (40, Thirtie pence of ready money, or of any kinde of cattell in his houfe of his owne proper, fhould by the Law of the English give a pennie to Saint Peter, and by the Law of the Danes halfe a marke ; which pennie was to be demanded at or vpon the feaft of Saint Peter and Paul, and to be collected before the feaft of Saint Peter * ad vincula, and not to be deferred to any further day : And if any withheld the payment thereof any longer time, complaint was to be made to the Kings Officers, for that this penny was the Kings Almes. And that the partie fo offending, fhould bee conftrained by iuffice to make payment thereof, on paine of forfeiting his goods. Now if any man had more dwelling houses then one, hee was to pay onely for that house where he should happen to be refiant, at the faid feast of Saint Peter and Paul.

Henry the fecond vpon his conquest of Ireland, imposed this tribute vpon that kingdome, onely to curry fauour with the Pope, who as then was Adrian the fourth, called before his inthronization, Nicholas Breake-(heare, borne at Abbots Langley in Hertfordfhire. For hee (faith Speed in the life of the faid Henry) knowing how great and dangerous tumults the Popes had raifed vpon fmall occafions, thought his way would bee much eafier, if he went on ward with the Popes good fauour, which he eafily obtained for a fee, viz. a penny yearely to bee payed to Saint Peter of cuerie Mat. A Parish is faid to bee a place in which people doe liue affigned to fome Chriftian Church, and limited by certaine bounds.

Euariftus the first, Bishop of Rome, who suffered martyrdome vnder Traian the Emperour, about the yeare of our redemption, one hundred and ten, ordained Curates, and disposed of them to certaine places, that they might administer the Sacraments to such people as were committed to their charge; and withall he ordained that theie Curates should bee nourifhed and maintained by those people of whose soules they had the cure; whereupon they were called , Parochi Sato a musiquer à prebendo, vel amu. tua alimentorum prabitione, Parochians, or Parilhioners of the mutuall exhibition, and giuing of nourifhment one to another; the Prieft for the foules of his people, and the people for the maintenance of their Prieft.

Dionifus, that bleffed Martyr, Bifhop of Rome, circa ann. 266. did attempt to doe the like throughout the whole Chriftian world, appointing by diffribution certaine places, to which he affigned Ecclefiafticali perfons, there to administer the Sacraments, pray, and preach the word, and to receive the tenths of the poffeffions contained within the limits of the forefaid places.

Honorius Archiepiscopus Cantuar. circa annum à salute reparata 626. Angliam primus in Parochias distribuere cepit.

Honorius Archbilhop of Canterbury, about the yeare of our faluation, 636. began first to divide England into Parishes.

But this opinion is controuerted by a late learned Antiquary, and by him plainly approued, that Honorius was not the first that made this diuision here in England, but that Parifhes were diuided, and Parifh-Churches built long before his time; euen in the Primitiue Hierarchie of the Britaines. And that in the time of King Arthur, about the yeare of our Lord 490. when Dubritius was made Archbishop of South Wales, divers Churches with their endowments of Tithes, oblations, and other profits, were appropriated to him the faid Dubritius, and his fucceffours. And that in those times Churches were built here no doubt can bee made. Neither is it to bel be conceiued how Chriftianitie could be in any nation, faith my Author, much ancienter (if generally received, or by any number) then Churches, or fome conucnient houles, or other places in the nature of Churches, ap. pointed for the exercise of deuotion. And expresse mention is made of a Church (of which I have fpoken before) built in Canterbury in the time of the Romanes, to the honour of Saint Martin, in which Augustine and his followers when they came first from Rome, made their holy affemblies.

After that the flormes of Diecletians perfecution were overblowen, faith Bede, which was circa Ann. 290. the faithfull Chriftians, who in time of danger lay hid in dennes and deferts, came forth, and thewed themfelues abroad, renewed their Churches, which before were ouerthrowne flat to the ground, founded, builded, and perfited new Temples, in honour of the holy Martyrs, celebrated holy dayes, confectated the holy mysteries, with pure mouth and heart, and euery where as it were difplayed their enfignes in figne of Conquest.

Aligundo Parochia dicitur totus Episcopatus, faith one, and Parochia etiam Diacefis Episcopalis dicitur, laith another. Sometime a Parilh is faid to be the whole Bilhopricke, and fometime the Epifcopall Dioceffe.

In the yeare 680. Merciorum Prouincia in quinque Parochias est dinifa: The Prouince of Mercia was diuided into five Parifhes, that is, into five Bilhopricks: and thus Honorius may be faid properly to have beene the first under whom his Prouince was divided into fuch Parifhes or Bilhop rickes.

Anno Dom. 747. in the raigne of Ethelbald, king of the Mercians, in a Synod holden at Clouelho, it was decreed, Vt finguli Epifcopi omni anno Parochias faas circumirent : That every Bilhop thould go about or vifit his Parifhes once eucry yeare.

And in the first Synod or Connocation of the English Church, holden at Hereford, Ann. 670, it was determined, Vt nullus Epifceporum Farochi. am alterius inwadat, fed contentus fit gubernatione credite fibi plebis : That no Bilhop (hould have ought to do in anothers Patifh, but bee contented with the charge of the people committed vnto him.

Kenulph, King of the Mercians, in his Epiftle to Leo the third, Bilhop of will staled, de Rome, writes, Quod contra Canones à Patre Gregorio conflitutas auctoritas & fis R.g. li.t. Dorobernensis Metropolitani in duas feinditur Parochias, cuiss ditioni duo decim fubiacere debent Epifcopi. That contrary to the Canons of Saint Gregory the iurifdiction of the Metropoliticall See of Canterbury was divided into two Parilhes, to whole authoritie twelue Bilhops ought to be fubiect. Since vs his kinglie waies Mulmutuus firft began From Sea againe to Sea, that through the Hand ran. Neare fiue hundred yeares before this King Mulmatius (take it vpon be credit of the Britilh Story) conflituted duerfe lawes; effectially that hurches, Ploughs, and high-wayes fhould haue liberties of Sanctuary, by o authoritie violable. Hereupon he called the Temples which hee built, the Temples of peace d concord: one of which was in London, where now Blackwell Hall is, other in Fleete fireet, as yet called the Temple Church, wherein (or in me of them) himfeife, Gorbom annus, and other of the British kings, were terred, as by supposition it is delinered. Lucius , king of the Britaines, having abundantly distributed and given apple polleffions, and revenues to Churches and Clergie men, ordained at Churches with their Coemiteries or Church-yards, should have this	Flores. be free and fafe there from the danger of the law; in which was crected a chaire of ftone with this Infeription.

This feat of Stone is called Freed ftool, that is, the chaire of peace, vnto which what offender foeuer flieth, and commeth, hath all manner of Securitie.

Of the Sanctuary at Westminster, first granted by Sebert King of the East-Saxons, encreased by Edgar King of the West-Saxons, and confirmed by the Charter of King Edward the Confessor, I have spoken before.

If any one guilty of offence flie from any place for refuge to the Church, Church-doore, to the Parfon or Vicars houle, or into any part of his bafe or inner Court (prouided that the faid houfe and courts bee within confecrated ground) it fhall not be lawfull for any to take him from thence, faue onely the Bilhop or fome of his Officers. Now if this malefactour bee a filching knaue, or an high-way robber, and be taken with the bootie, or if his thecuilh purchafe be altogether exhaufted and fpent, yet if he haue any meanes other wayes of his owne, he fhall make fatisfaction to the partie, or parties whom hee hath fo wronged ; and if hee ftill continue to play the thiefe, and make a cuftome of this manner of flight to Churches and Priefts houfes, after reflitution made, he fhall abiure the countrey ; and if he giue not fatisfaction to the parties, whofe goods hee hath taken and purloyned, no man fhall dare to giue him lodging or entertainment, without the kings fpecial licence firft obtained.

If a Clergie man bee taken for felonie, delinered to the Ordinarie, and breake prilon, and flie to the Church for fanctuarie or refuge, he shall bee taken from thence, and put into the same prilon out of which he escaped; for the Church ought not to defend him, nor any publike males action, Si ad pacem Regis venire noluerit.

But ftay, for if robbing from other mens works, to embellifh my owne writings, be an offence, it is high time for mee to take Sanctuarie : yet give me leauc to go a little further in my courfe, and to fpeake formewhat, out of other Authors, of the Ecclefiafticall ftate of England, of which you may reademore at large in Camden his diuifion of Britaine, and know more by Speed in his Type of this flourifhing kingdome.

The Ecclefiafficall flate of England is diuided into two Prouinces or Archbifhopricks; vi2. of Canterbury, and of Yorke. The Archbifhop of Canterbury ts ftiled, Metropolitanus et Primas totius Anglie ; and the Archbifhop of Yorke, Primas Anglie. The Archbifhop of Canterbury hath vnder him within his Prouince, of ancient and late foundations. Rochefter his principall Chaplaine; London his Deane; Winchefter his Chancellour, and all the reft of the Bifhopricks, foure excepted, viz. Chefter, Durham, Carlile, and the Ile of Man, which are annexed to the Archbifhopricke of Yorke.

Euery Dioceffe is diuided into Archdeaconries, and the Archdeacon is called Oculus Epifcopi, The eye of the Bifhop. And euery Archdeaconrie is parted into Deanries, and Deanries againe into Parilhes, Townes, and Hamlets.

The Bishop is called the Ordinarie, in the Ecclesiastical Law, Quia habet ordinariam inriscultionem in iure proprio, et non per deputationem: for for that he hath ordinarie iurifdiction in his owne proper right, and not by deputation, in caules Ecclefialticall.

All the Archbishops and Bishops of England have beene founded by the Kings of England; and do hold of the King by Baronie, and have been all called by writ to the Court of Parliament, and are Lords of Parliament.

And the Bilhopricks in Wales, were founded by the Princes of Wales, and the Principalitie of Wales was holden of the King of England, as of his Crowne. And the Bilhops of Wales are alfo called by Writ to Parliament, and are Lords of Parliament as Bilhops of England be.

There were within the Realme of England one hundred and eighteene Monafteries, founded by the Kings of England, whereof fuch Abbors and Priors as were founded to hold of the King per Baroniam, and were called to the Parliament by Writ, were Lords of Parliament, and had places and voices there. And of them were twenty fixe Abbots, and two Priors, as by the Rolles of Parliament appeare: yet if you reckon the Abbot of Feuerfham in Kent, founded by King Stephen, there were twentie and feuen, which fome do, faith my learned Author, warranted by these words in the Cartularie: Et dedit Abbati, et Monachis, et fuccessories f is Maneriam de Feuersbam, Com. Kanc. fimul cam Hundredo, & tenend. per Baroniam. But (laith he) albeit this Abbot held by a B ronie, yet because he was neuer (that I finde) called by Writ, he neuer fat in Pathament.

Bilhopricks in England, with that of the Ille of Man, are 27. whole extents I let downe in the pallage of this worke. Deanries 26. whereof thirteene were ordained by Henrie the eighth, in the greater Cathedrall Churches after the Monkes were thruft out. Archdeacouries threefcore: Dignities and Prebends fiue hundred fourty foure.

Numbred alfo there are Parifh-churches vnder Bilhops 9284. of which 3845. be Appropriat, as I finde in a Catalogue, faith he, exhibited to King lames. Now, Appropriat Churches, thofe are called, which by the Popes authoritie comming betweene, with confent of the King, and the Bilhop of the Dioceffe were vpon certaine conditions tyed, or Inftruments-vnited, annexed, and incorporate for cuer, vnto Monasteries, Bilhopricks, Colledges, and Hofpitals, endowed with fmall lands, either for that the faid Churches were built within their Lordlhips and Lands, or graunted by the Lords of the faid Lands. Which Churches afterwards when the Abbeyes and Monasteries were fuppreffed, became Laye Fees, to the great damage of the Church.

Henry the eighth, prefently vpon the suppression of Monasteries, and his ordination of certaine Gathedrall and Collegiate Churches, fet downe by the aduice of his Counsell, a number of Rules and Statutes to be obserued by the Officers and Ministers residing in the same. As appeares by this Record following, which I thought to transcribe.

Dat. gc.

The Statutes, rules and orders were annexed hereunto; which were very many, and more then can conueniently be included in this flort Treatife, and more I thinke then were well performed. As may partly be proued by an Iniunction from the Queenes Maieftie to the Archbilhop of Canterbury, Mathew Parker, in these words.

ANCIENT FVNERALL MONV-MENTS WITHIN THE Dioceffe of Canterbury.

The Foundation of Christ-Church in Canterbury.

Hriftian Religion (of which 1 have fpoken before) which prefently after our bleffed Saujours paffion, was both preached, and planted in this Ifland, by Iofeph of Arimathea, and his aflociates, and after that advanced, and increafed by Lucius King of the Britaines, and his famous Clerkes; being darkened, ouerclouded, and almoft totally eclipfed, with the contagious fmoke ariling from fuch abhominable facrifices as were offered here vnto ftrange Idols; was againe illumined, and recomforted with the glorious beames of religious light by Augustine the Monke, and his fellow-labourers in Chrifts vineyard. Which Augustine ( fent hither from Rome by Gregory the great) when he had found fach fauour in the fight of King Ethelbert , that he might freely preach the Gofpell in this his countrey ; hee chole for affemblie and prayer, an old Church in the East part of this Citie, which was a long time before builded by the Romanes, and hee made thereof (by licence of the King) a Church, for himfelfe and his fucceffours, dedicating the fame to the name of our bleffed Sauiour Chrift, wheroof it was alwayes afterward called Chrift-Church. And by the meanes of the faid Pope Gregory, hee translated the Metropolitan See from London (the Cathedrall Church being then at Saint Peters in Cornhill) to this his newly confectated Church here in Canterbury: whereof he was the first Archbilhop. By these proceedings the prophetic of Merlin was fulfilled, which foretold that Chriftianity thould faile, and then reviue againe, when the See of London did adorne Canterbury. Of which out of an old * Manufcript these following Rimes.

And now, if you will giue me leaue a little to digreffe; I will tell you a tale (beleeue it as you lift) reported by the faid T homas Breket himfelte, how that being in banifhment, our bleffed Lady gaue him a golden Eagle, full of precious ointment, inclofed in a ftone velleil, commanding him to preferue it; foretelling withall, that the kings of England, which thould be therewith anointed, thould be ftrong champions, and ftout defendours of the Church that they fhould be bountifull, benigne, and fortunate, and that they fhould peaceably recour fuch lands or territories, as had beene before loft by their predeceffours; fo long as they had this Eagle, with the viall or facred veffell in their cuftody, telling him withall, that hee fhould bee a Martyr. This vision happened to him (forfooth) at Sens in France, in the Nunnes Church confectated to Saint Columbe, in which Citie hee found Pope Alexander the third, a man, like himfelfe, of an ambitious and turbulent

Henry the first Duke of Lancaster, vnder Edward the third in the warres of France, had it delivered to him by an holy man (say they) which found it by revelation. But of this enough, if not too much. This Archbishop Becket, being recalled from exile, and restored to his former honours and revenewes, carried himselfe more obstinately then be- fore, perturbing the whole State with curses and excommunications in maintaining of Ecclefiafticall liberties (as he pretended) but moft of all this kinde of dealing grieued the King, who curfed the time that ever he made him Archbi/hop. Which is thus explained in old rimes. For

The body of this murdered Bilhop was buried first in the vndercrost of the Church, but shortly after it was taken vp and laid in a most fumptuous Shrine in the East end, at the charges of Stephen Langton his fuccessfour: being matriculated by the Pope a glorious Saint and Martyr. To this new shrined Martyr, people of all degrees, and from all parts, flocked in pilgrimage : as Chancer thus hath it in his Prologue to his Canterbury tales.

> ______fro energy fhires end Of Englond, to Canterbury they wend: The holy blisfull Martir for to fecke, That hem hath holpen wher they were feke.

They loaded the Shrine with fuch large offerings, that the Church did all round about abound with more then Princely riches, whole meaneft part was pure gold, garnifhed with many precious ftones. Whereof the cheefeft was a Regall of France, or a rich gemme, offered by King Lewis, who asked, and obtained (you may be fure, he buying it fo deare) that no paffenger betwixt Douer and Whitefand, fhould perifh by fhipwracke. Such preffing there was to touch him, and fuch creeping and kneeling to his Tombe, that the prints of their deuotion in the marble ftones remaine to this day. Euery pillar refounding the miracles of this reputed Martyr, and the Church it felfe, dedicated to Chrift, forced to giue place to the name of Saint Thomas. His bloud was as then almost matched in vertue with our bleffed Sauiours, and his old fhoe deuoutly kiffed by all paffengers. The building of this fhrine is thus briefly defcribed by that painfull Antiquarie Io. Stow. It was built (faith he) about a mans height all of ftone, then vp. ward of Timber plaine, within the which was a cheft of iron, containing the bones of Thomas Becket, Skull, and all, with the wound of his death, and the peece cut out of his skull laid in the fame wound. The timber worke of this Shrine on the out fide was couered with plates of gold, damasked and emboffed with wires of gold, garnilhed with broches, images, Angels, chaines, precious ftones, and great orient pearles, the fpoile of which Shrine (in gold and iewels of an ineftimable value) filled two great chefts, one of which, fixe or eight ftrong men could do no more then conucy out of the Church : all which was taken to the Kings vie, and the bones of Saint Thomas (by commandement of the Lord Cromwell) were then and there burnt all to alhes. Which was in September, the yeare 1528. Hen.8. 30.

Robert the first Earle of Dreux, and the fourth fonne of Lewis the groffe, King of France, laid the foundation of a Collegiate Church, to the honour of this fuppoled holy Martyr, called, S. Thomas du Louwre in Paris, the renenues whereof were augmented by his wife Agnes, Counteffe of Bray, and confirmed by the Bull of Clement the third, Bilhop of Rome, in thefe termes.

These donations were afterwards, viz. Ann. 1428. augmented by John Duke of Britaine, Montefort, and Richmund, as appeares by his Charter which I haue read.

Many other religious fructures, Churches, Chappels, and Oratories in forraine parts were crected, and endowed to the memory of this our English Martyr.

Neare to the Galleric of the Louure, and adioyning to the Collegiate Church, is a prettie faire fireet, which at this day is called, La rue de S. Thomas du Louure, the fireete of S. Thomas at the Louure.

Richard the first, King of England, after the furprisal of Acrres, inflituted an order of Knights, which he called, The Order of Saint Thomas; they held the rule of Saint Augustine, and tooke for their Patron the forefaid Thomas Beeket, Archbishop of Canterbury, as you may reade in the Theater of Honour, lib.9. cap.11:

The life and death of this Archbishop Lanfranck is fet downe at large by William Malmsbury, Io. Capgrane, Nicholas Harpsfeild, Archdeacon of Canterbury, Mathew Parker, Archbilhop, with others, and out of them all by Francis Godwin, now Bilhop of Hereford. Yet for method fake thus much, becaufe I find his body (by a Table inferibed which hangs upon his Tombe) to be here interred. He was borne in Italy, at Pauia, fome twenty miles from Myllaine, brought vp in the Monasterie of Becco in Normandie, under Herlewin the learned Abbot of that house, of which he became Prior: from whence, in regard of his fingular wifedome, and great knowledge in all good literature, he was called by William the Duke of Normandie to be Abbot of Saint Stephens in Cane, a Monasterie that the faid Duke had founded. And in the fifth yeare after his conqueft of England, he promoted him to this Archbilhopricke, which he laudablie gouerned the space of eighteene yeares. It is faid (an action which much obscored all his former praifes) that he perfwaded the Conquerour to leaue the kingdome. of England to his younger fonne William Rufus : which they faid William thus requited ; the Bilhop (as the King thought) being fomewhat too bufie in reprehending his manifold vices, and exhorting him to godlineffe and vertue; he fo bitterly fell out with him, that he banifhed him the Realme; the poore old bifhop trauelled to Rome; and wandred vp and downe many countries, till by interceffion of friends hee was fuffered to returne home; and foone after died of an ague, according to his owne defire. Solebat enim Deum rogare vt velex diffenteria vel ex febri diem fuum obiret, propterea quod bi morbi nec memoriam, nec loquelam auferant. He would often defire God that he might take his end either by a fluxe, or an ague : for that in tholekinde of infirmities men are wont to have the vfe both of fpeech and memorie to the last cast His death happened the 14 of May, Ann. Dom. 1089. He bestowed much vpon the fabricke of this Church, and the houfing of the Monkes: he built in a manner all the Archbishops pallace, hee founded two Holpitals adioyning to this Citie, hee gaue great fummes of money

Here is the Tombe of Archbilhop Anfelme, borne in Augusta a Citic of Burgundie, who followed his predeceffours steps almost foot by foot. First he came to Beeco upon the like errand as Lanfrank had done, which was to obtaine knowledge in all good learning: Lanfrank being called away to Cane, he was made Prior of Becco in his place, and afterwards Abbot, in which he continued 15. yeares, until at the request of Hngh Earle of Che- fter, he came ouer into England; and had this Bilhopricke beftowed upon him, fome foure yeares after the decease of Lanfrancke (for so long the king purfed up the profits thereof) by William Rufus; who prefently after his confectation fell out with his new Bilhop, and banished him the king- dome; in which he trauelled up and downe as an exile. during the Kings life, until by his brother King Henry the first, he was called home, and re- fored to all hisformer dignities. But not long after he was likewise banish- ed the Realme by the faid Henry, falling out with him concerning the dif- poling of Bilhoprickes at the Kings pleasure, guing inucstiture, and pol- lefton of them by the faide art Alice, Counteffe of Blois, the Kings fi- fter, he was reflored, not onely to his place, but to all his goods and fruits gathered in the time of his ablence. dictine Monke, Prior of the Monasterie of Saint Martins in Douer, a man very liberail, gentle, and wife; for hee fo handled the matter, that in all his time he neuer was at odds, or out, either with the Pope or King. The Pope he entertained with often gifts and money, the Kings fauour he retained by yeelding, and conforming himfelte to his pleafure. This man continued in his gouernment, about the fpace of ten or eleuen yeares. In ail which time there happened not any thing of him worthie of memorie ; except the controuerfie, ftirre, and tumult betweene him and the Archbilhop of Yorke for primacie and the ordaining of three Archdeacons for his Dioceffe, which ever before his time was content with one. An ill husband bee was for his Church, if wee may beleeue this my old Authour. The first preferment hee obtained was the Deanrie of Yorke, thence hee was called by King Richard the first, vnto the Bishopricke of Salisbury. Whom he attended in all that long and dangerous voyage into the holy Land; as a Commander, or Colonell of fome English forces, by whole valour and his owne, he performed admirable feruice at the fiege and furrender of Acon, and other fortified places, for which, and for his diffreete handling the matter, in procuring 250000. Markes of the Clergie, for the ranfome of his Mafter King Richard, the faid King knew not how to heape honours fufficient vpon him; fo that at one time he was Archbishop, the Popes Legate, Lord Chancelor, Lord chiefe luftice, and high immediate Gouernour vnder him of all his Dominions, both in Wales and England : he was much blamed (and peraduenture not vnworthily) for vndertaking fo many great offices; For Plaribus howfocuer, neuer any man vied his authoritie and power more moderately ; faithfull and loyall he was cuerto his Prince, loving and very cateful of his countrey, in which he cauled many excellent Decrees and Lawes to be eftablished. His house keeping was such, as the expense thereof was thought to be little inferiour to the Kings ; hee built a Monafterie at Dur. ham, the place of his birth, began another at Wulferhampton, encompassed the Tower of London with a ftrong wall; and a deepe Moat, he encircafed the revenewes of his See, adorned it with many fumptuous and flately buildings, and procured divers notable priviledges for the Tame; and to repaire the bookes and Library of this Church, he gaue the Church of Halegaft: he finished a Collegiate Church at Lambeth, of Canons regular, begun by Baldwin his predeceflour. Which vpon the complaint of the Monkes of Canterbury to the Pope, was pulled downe to the ground. Ma ny oppositions were betwixt him and the Pope, and many times he was difcountenanced by King Iohn, yet (apparently) he died in both their fauours, at his Manor of Tenham, July 13. 1205. Having fat Archbilhop twelie yeares fauing foure moneths.

Here lieth entombed the body of Stephen Langton Archbilhop, whole election to this See, against the Kings will, was the cause of many calamities within this kingdome, the greatest part whereof fell vpon the Clergie; Of which heare my Authour.

> Billiop Hubert of Canterbury tho died, Wherefore Kyng John vnto the Couent fente, To chofe his * Clarke, whych they refuted and denied, Wherefore the kyng was wroth in his cutente; For they difobeyed the lettre whych he fente,

For they had cholen Mayfter Stephan Langton; An worthy Clarke, of all difpoficion. Whom kyng lobn then wold not admytte For Romayn Bull, ne for the Prelates prayer, But priloned fome, and fome to death commytte, Some he exiled, and theyr eyen clere, And all perfounes and Prelates in fere He then put out, and feazed they r benefice Through all the lande, as his mortall enemyes. The Romyth Bythoppe curfled hym openly And all the realme fully did enteraite, That Sacraments none, therin thould occupie.

But howfocuer thefe mifchiefes happened vpon his admittance, yet the man (in regard of his many excellent gifts both of body and minde) was no way to be milliked, but much to be commended, for his religious wife carriage, litting vnder fo violent a King. And in fuch troublefome vngodly times, to whom this Diffichon, taken out of Martials Epigrams, to Traian warfaring vnder Diocletian, was applied.

He repaired his pallace, with 1101.1. and odde money, which he recovered of Andrew Wfford, Archdeacon of Midlefex, administratour of Iohn Wfford his prede ceffour, for dilapidations, hee built and endowed with good possefilions a Colledge in this Citic, which is now become a parcell of Christ-church in Oxford. He bequeathed to his Church a thousand theepe, his vestments which were all cloth of gold, a very fumptious Coape, and much plate he was a very frugall and sparing man, neuer effecting pompe nor out ward brauery, which he shewed at his end, defiring to be buried obfeure ly to auoid superfluous expence.

land, were haled to the Tower-hill, by the Rebels of Kent, and Effex, with infernall fhours and yells, and there vniuftly (Nam ius calcatur violentia cum dominatur) and horriblic hackt, hewed, and in that barbarous manner beheaded by thefe arch Traytours, lune the fourteenth, the yeare of our Lord, 1281, and of the raigne of that vnfortunate King Richard the fecond, the fourth; having fate Bifhop about fix yeares. Which lamentable ftorie the Chronicles at large declare. When these burlies were at an end, the body of this good Archbishop was conneyed to bis owne Church, and there honourablie interred vpon the South fide of the Alter of Saint Dunftan. This Bifhop built the Weff-gate of this Citie, and the wall from that gate vnto the North-gate, commonly called by the name of the long wall, and would have done likewife about all the Towne, if hee had lined.

The Maior and the Aldermen once a yeare vied to come folen nly to his Tombe to pray for his foule, in memory of this his good deed to their Citie, faith Leland in his Commentaries.

It was the cuftome of old, and fo it is in these dayes, for men of emiment ranke and qualitie to have Tombes crected in more places then one; for example and proofe of my speech, I finde here in this Church a Monument of Alabaster, at the feete of the blacke Prince, wherein, both by tradition and writing, it is affirmed that the bones of William Courtney (the fonne of Hugh Courtney, the third of that Christian name, Earle of Deuonshire) Archbifhop of this See, lies entombed. And I finde another, to the memory of the fame man, at Maidstone here in Kent, wherein (because of the Epitaph) I rather beleeue that his body lieth buried; Of which hereafter when I come to that Towne.

Here lieth interred vnder a faire Monument, Thomas Fitz-Alan, or Thomas Arun Arundell, the third fonne of Richard Fitz-Alan, Earle of Arundell, Warren, and Surrey, by Eleanor his wife, daughter of Henry Plantaginet, Earle of Lancaster, as I have it in the Catalogue of Honour. Who at the age of two and twenty yeares was confectated Bifhop of Ely : which hee Anold Bifhop. laudablie gouerned (confidering the greenneffe of his age) the space of fourteene yeares, three moneths, and eighteene dayes. In which time hee was Lord Chancellour of England; from Ely he was translated to Yorke; leaving for an implement at his house of Ely, a wonderfull sumptuous and coffly Table, adorned with gold and precious flones, which belonged firft to the King of Spaine, and was fold to this Bifhop by the blacke Prince for three hundred Markes. Hee also beftowed the building of the great Gatehouse of Ely house in Houlborne : during his abode at Yorke, which was about eight years, he beftowed much in building vpon diuers of his houfes, and voto the Church. Befides many rich ornaments, he gaue two great Bafons of filuer and gilt, two great Cenfers, two other Bafons of filuer, and two Grenetts; he gaue to the Vicars, a filner cup of great waight, and a maffie bowle of filuer to the Canons. From Yorke he was remoued hither to Canterbury, and here he fate one moneth about feuenteene yeares. In which time, at the Weft end of his Ghurch, hee built a faire fpire fleeple, Henry Chuchley, Bilhop of this See, lies here on the North fide of the Presbitery, in a Tombe built by himfelfe in his life time: hee was borne at Higham/errys in Northamptonthire, where he began the foundation of a goodly Colledge, and an Hofpitall, which were finished by his two brethren, his Executours. Hee was brought vp in New Colledge in Oxford, where he proceeded Doctor of Law, and where he founded two Colledges, one called Bernard Colledge, renewed by Sir Thomas White, and named Saint Johns Colledge : and all Soules Colledge, which yet continueth in the fame effate he left it, one of the faireft in that Vniuerfitie. Hee was employed much in embaffages by King Henry the fourth, who preferred him to the Bilhopricke of Saint Dawids; where he fate fue yeares, and was then tranflated hither by his fonne King Henry the fifth. He was a man happie, enioying alwayes his Princes fauour, wealth, honour, and all kinde of profperity many yeares, wife in gouerning his See worthily, bountifull in beflowing his goods to the behoofe of the common-wealth. And laftly, flout and feuere in due administration of iuffice. When hee had gouerned this See 29. yeares (a longer time then cuer any did in five hundred yeares before him) he died April 12. Ann. 1443. Vpon whole Monument I finde this Epitaph.

I finde not that euer any English man continued fo long a Bilhop, or that any Archbilhop, either before or after him, in eight hundred yeares enioyed that place fo long. And to adde more honour to his Grace, and money to his purfe, he was about two yeares Lord Chancelour of England, and Cardinall tt. S. Ciriaci in Thermis, yet all this time for all thefe great and eminent promotions, he left nothing behinde him to continue his memorie, but an old rotten cheft in the congregation house at Cambridge, called Billing/worth and Bow/er, into which (for the vse of the Vniuerfitie) Billing/worth before him had put in one hundred pounds, and he (forfooth) imitating that munificent example, put in one hundred and twenty pounds. He died March 30. 1486. as appeares by this Infeription vpon his Monument.

A man fo well deferuing both of the Church and common-wealth, that all honours and offices were too little which were conferred vpon him: of a piercing naturall wit he was, very well learned, and honorable in behauiour, lacking no wife wayes to winne loue and fauour, by whose deepe wisedome and pollicie, the two houses of Yorke and Lancaster (whose titles for a long time had mightily disquieted the whole kingdome) were happily vnited; but our English Chronicles are fo full and copious in this Bilhops commendation, as that I know not where to begin with him, nor how to take my leaue of him. Whileft he was Bithop of Ely (which was about eight yeares) hee beflowed great coft vpon his houfe at Hatfield in Hertfordlhire, (now the manfion place of that right honourable Lord, and one of the privie Councell, William Cecill, Earle of Salisbury) and at Wisbich Caftle in Cambridgefhire (a houfe belonging to that See) all the bricke-building was done at his charges. And in the time of his Primacie in this Church, he beflowed great fummes in repairing and augmenting his houfes at Knoll, Maydftone, Alington Parke, Charing, Ford, Lambith, and Canterbury. He bequeathed by his laft Will, in a manner, all that hee had, either vnto good vfes, or to fuch of his feruants as he had yet beene able to do nothing for.

Hic sub marmore iacet corpus reuerendismi in Christo patris et Damini D. Henrici Dene, quondam Prioris Prioratus de Lanthona; deinde Bangorens. ac successive Sarum Episcopi. Postremo vero buius Metropolitice Archiepiscopi; qui diem suum clausit extremum apud Lambith, 15. die mens. Feb. Ann. Domini 1502. in secundo Translationis ann. Cuius anime propitietur altistimus.

William Warlann Archbelhop;

Godneine.

Mat. Parher. Antiq. Britan.

In a little Chappell built by him elfe, lieth William Warham, Archbifhop of this See. A gentleman of an ancient houfe in Hampfhire, brought vp in the Colledge of Winchefter, and cholen thence to the new Colledge in Oxford, where he proceeded Doctor of Law. Prefently vpon which, he practifed as an Aduocate in the Arches, then hee was Parfon of Barley in Hertfordfhire as I finde in that Church-windowes, and Mafter of the Rols. He was fent Embasfadour by Henry the feuenth, to the Duke of Burgundy, concerning the two counterfeits, Lambert, and Perkin Warbeck, which the Ducheffe his wife had fet vp against him. In which busineffe hee behaued himfelfe fo wifely, as the King highly commended him, and preferred him vpon his returne, to the Bishopricke of London; and vpon the death of Henry Deane, to this of Canterbury. He was also made Lord Chancellour of England by the fame King; in which office he continued, vntill hee was wrung out by Wolfey, the feuenth of Henry the eight. The ceremony of his inthronization to Canterbury was performed in a most magnificent manner : the Duke of Buckingham, and many other great men of the kingdome being that day his officers. In his folemne and fumptuous feaft, all his honours and offices were drawne, depicted, or delineated, after a ftrange manner, in gilded Marchpaine vpon the banqueting difhes : and first becaufe he was brought vp in the Vniuerfitie of Oxford, the Vicechancelour with the Bedels before him, and a multitude of Schollars following him, were defcribed to prefent to the King and the Nobilitie, fitting in Parliament, this William Warham with this laudatoric Tetrafticon.

The croffe was delinered vnto him by a Monke of this his Church in these words.

Reuerend Father, I am the meffenger of the great King, that doth require and command you to take on you the gouernment of his Church, and to loue and defend the fame, in token whereof, I deliver you this his enfigne. But I doubt I am tedious, I will draw to his end, which happened, August 23, 1532, after hee had continued Archbishop eight and twentie yeares, and was buried without any great funerall pompe, mourning clothes being giuen onely to the poore. Hee purchased much land for his kindred, and bestowed very much in repairing and beautifying his houses with faire buildings, euen to the value of thirtie thousand pounds, as hee professes the protect of the point of the pallace, which was, Auxiliam mean à Domino.

I finde no more Archbishops to bee here buried, faue Cardinall Poole, whom I referue for another booke.

Sir William Septuaus knight Bundella indenturarum Guerre 10.cb 11. Sir Williä Septbaus Knight and Elecabeth his wife, Here fometimes was a monument crefted to the memory of that valiant Knight, Sir William Melynenx, of Sefton in Lanchilhire, who at the battell of Nauarret in Spaine, was made knight Banneret, by Edward the black Prince, Anno 1367. vnder whofe command he ferued in those warres, as alfo for a long time, in the warres of France. From whence returning homewards, he died here at Canterbury, Anno 1372. Whose Epitaph I have out of the pedegree of that honourable worthy gentleman, Sir Richard Melynenx of Seston, Knight and Baronet, and Viscount Marybourgh in Ireland, now liuing, who from the faid Sir William is lineally descended.

> Miles honorificus Molyneus fubiacet intus; Tertius Edwardus dilexit bunc vt amicus; Fortia qui geßit, Gallos, Nauarofque repreßit, Hic cum recessit, morte feriente decessit, Anno milleno trecento feptuageno, Atque bis iunge duo : fic perit omnis bomo.

Lawrence (by allufion to his name called Lauriger) thus confectated, fueceeded the faid Augufline, & being Archbifhop, labourea by words of holy exhortation, by works of charicie, and pious deuotion, and by example of a godly life, to continue and encreafe the number of Chriftian beleeners. And like a true Paffour, and Prelate, folicitoufly cared, not onely for the Church of the Englithmen, but alfo for the old inhabitants of Britaine, of Scotland, and Ireland, amongft whom the fparkles of Chriftianitie were alreadic kindled. The foundations of this Church being now well and ftrongly layed, the maine thing that thwarted his religious defignes, was, that Edbald king of Kent, would not with all his godly exhortations (being a vitious young man) be brought from his Paganifme, to beleeue in the onely eucrlining God. And that his people following the example of their king, returned likewife to the filthie vomit of their abhominable Idolatrie. Lawrence perceining at laft, that neither his reprehensions nor faire words tooke any effect, but rather incited the King and the Subject to a more defperate hatred of him, and of his Religion, determined to depare the kingdome, to follow Bilhop Jufto and A. ellite before banilhed, and to recommend the charge of his flocke to God, the carefull Shepherd of all mens foules. But the night before the day of his intended departure (faith Beda) Saint Peter appeared vnto him in his fleepe, and reprehended him (harply, for purpoling to runne away, and to leave the theepe of Jefus Chrift, befet in the iniddelt of fo many Wolfes; hee challenged him with Apoftolicall authoritie, argued with him a long while very vehemently, and, among all, fcourged him naked to terriblic, as when he waked, finding it more then a dreame, all his body was gore bloud. Thus, well whipped, he went to the king, thewing him his ftripes, and withall related vnto him the occafion of thole fo many fearefull lathes : which ftrucke fuch a terrour into the king, as by and by he renounced his Idolls, put away his incefluous wife, cauled himfelfe to be baptized. And for a further tellimonie of his vnfained conuerfion, built a Chappell in this Monafterie of Saint Peter. Of which I have fpoken before Of which morefuccinely thus in my nameleffe Manufcript.

Here fometime lay interred the body of Nothelme, Archbilhop, who for that he well and wifely gouerned his Sec, was called, Noble helme. Hee was borne in London; and was one of the Priefts of Saint Pauls, a great louer of venerable antiquitic he was, and one to whom Bede acknowledgeth Beda in his himfelfe to be much beholding for divers matters ; which, vpon his report, he inferted into his Ecclesiafticall Hiftory. He died October 17. An. 740. His Epitaph was after this manner.

> Hac fcrobe Nothelmus iacet Archiepifcopus almus, Cuius vita bono non est indigna patrono. Cunctusifte bonus par in bonitate Patronus Protegit bic iustos vigili munimine Custos.

A man much blamed in our ancient Hiltories, for perfwading with his countreymen to buy their peace with the Danes (who had inuaded Kent and Eflex) with the price of fixteene thoufand pounds. Wulfrike Elmer, a man of great holineffe, from hence aduanced to the Bilhopricke of Sherborne, and after fome yeares (falling blinde) gaue ouer that gouernment, returned to this Abbey, wherein all the reft of his dayes he led a private life. * Elflan firft Prior of this houfe, whom king Knute would have preferred to the Bilhopricke of Winchefter, which hee denyed, neither would hee have taken this, but by the importunate fute of his brethren.

Thele Abbots (aboue named) fome twenty eight in number, fucceeded one another, of whom albeit we may beleeue that many memorable and good actions were performed : yettime, which weareth all things out of remembrance, hath left little of them remarkable to this age.

Wulfrike the fecond fucceeded Elstan, Vir probiconfilij, and often employed vpon Embafies to the Pope. He tranflated the body of Saint Mildred into another place of the Church : hee dyed fuddenly, ann. 1059. by the iuft iudgement of God (faith the ftory) because he neglected the beau tifying of our Ladies Chappell, being thereto commanded by S. Dunstan who had conference in a vision with the bleffed Virgin concerning that matter.

Vpon the death of Wulfrike, one Egelfine fucceeded, and received benediction from Archbilhop Stigand, about the yeare 1063, he was fent about I know not what Embafie to Pope Alexander the fecond, to whom the Pope gaue this honour, That it fhould bee lawfull for him and his fucceffours to vfe the Mytre and Apoftolike Sandall. But prefently vpon his returne home, he fled ouer Seas into Denmarke, for feare of William the new Conquerour. And being no fooner thus gone (without licence first obtained) his goods were confifcate to the King: and one Scotland, by birth a Norman, inuefted in his place.

This Abbot received many gracious favours from the Conquerour. He recovered much land vniuftly taken from his Monafterie, with divers immunities. He was a great caufe for the confirmation of the ancient Franchifes and liberties of Kent; he built a great part of his Church anew, and removed the bones of Adrian, and other Abbots, with the bodies of foure Kentilh kings, being but obscurely buried, and entombed them in the Quire of the Church vnder princely Monuments; hee dyed the third day of September, ann. 1087. and was buried in a vault vnder the Quire in S. Maries Chappell.

Hunc statuit poni tumulum mors atra Widoni Cui stans sede throni superi det gaudia doni.

One Hugh de Flori, or Floriaco, a Norman borne, neare a kinne to the Conquerour, vnder whom and his fonne William Rufus (being a ftrenuous and an expert Souldier) hee had ferued in the warres both of Normandie and England, who comming with William Rufus vpon a time to vifit Saint Auftines Shryne, would needs be made a Brother of this Fraternitie; which being granted, he fold forthwith all his lands in Normandie (hauing neither wife nor childe) and tooke vpon him the MonaRicall habite : This Hugh had scarce continued one yeare of probation, when as the forefaid Abbot Wide departed the world ; vpon whole death the Monkes of Saint Auftines comming to William Rufus to obtaine licence to elect a new Abbot, the king fworeby Lukes face that he would have no election at all, for he intended to take all the fpirituall liuings of England into his owne hands; Well, for this time they went away with each one a flea in his care, yet afterwards it was decreed, that two circumspect graue Monkes, together with this Hugh de Flori, fhould be fent to the king to procure his fauour for an election, either by petition, or price; when these prefented themfelues vnto his fight, and that he faw his cofin, who before had ferued him in the brauerie of a Souldier, to bee now clothed in the habite of a Monke ; he was fo difmayed in minde, that gulbing out with teares , hee faid, I do grant you this Cofin of mine to be your Abbot, and at your petition I do giue him the gouernment of the Abbey of Saint Augustine, neither do I permit you to choole any other, whom, vnleffe you do prefently receiue, I will thortly burne your Abbey to afhes. Then the Monkes feeing no remedie, fubmitted themfelues to the kings will in the premifes. But the forefaid Hugh refuled the dignitie, faying, That he was a man in a manner vnlettered, and one that had very little skill, as well in religion, as in Ecclefiafticall ordinances; yet the king and the Monkes enforced him to accept of the honour offered, neither would the king fuffer him to depart from the Court, before he was confecrated Abbot, which was folemnized in the kings Chappell at Westminster, by Mauricius Bilhop of London. I haue beene fomewhat long in this narration, yet, I hope, nothing at all troublefome, or tedioufly impertinent. This illustrious Abbot did many laudable acts to the great commoditie of his Church ; and diffributed all his goods in workes of charitie. He dyed full of yeares as of goodneffe, the 26. of March, ann. 1120. and was buried on the North fide of the Chapterhouse built by himselfe from the foundation: for whom this honourable remembrance was engrauen.

this Monaftery, William then Archbifhop taking part with those angrie Votaries of his owne house, denyed Abbot Hugh Benediction; which he was glad to obtain from Seffrid the first, Bifhop of Chichester. This man brought in againe the old number of his Monkes, which were threefcore profess, beside the Abbot. He founded an Hospitall neare to his owne Abbey, which he dedicated to the honour of Christ and Saint Lawrence: to the maintenance whereof he gaue nine Acres of ground, vpon which his Hospitall was to be crected, and all the Tithe of the Lordship of Langport in this County, with other possession, rated at the dissolution vnto 31.1. 7.5. 10.d. of yearely reuenue.

This Hofpitall was ordained and appointed effectially for this vfc, That if it fhould to happen that any profeft Monke of this Monaftery, fhould be infected with any contagious difeate, but aboue all with the Leprofie, by realon of which ficknelle, or infectious maladie, he could not line within the precincts of the Abbey, without preiudice and fcandall to the reft of the fraternitie, that then he flould be prouided for in this Hofpitall of a conuenient chamber, of meate, drinke, and apparell, in as full a meafure as any one of his Brethren lining in the Monaftery.

Alfo, if it fhould fo happen, that the father, the mother, the fifter, or brother, of any Monke of this Monastery, should come to such great want and indigencie as that (to the reproach of any of these Brethren) he, or she, beforced to aske at the gates, the almes of the Fraternitie, that then such of them so asking, should be prouided for in this Hospitall, of sufficient fuftentation, according to the abilitie of the house, by the aduise and confideration of the Abbot of Saint Austins, and the Master of this Hospitall, for the time being, as further appeares by his Charter, confirmed by many of his Successors. This charitable Abbot dyed the yeare 1151. and was buried in the Chapter house by his Predecessor.

Siluefler, the Prior of this Monaftery, being elected Abbot vpon the deceafe of Hugh, was denyed Benediction of Archbilhop Theobald, objecting against him, that he was a man defamed with many notorious offences, but clearing himfelfe before the Pope (by what meanes or money I know not) of all those enormous imputations laid to his charge, vpon the fight of the Popes letters, the Archbilhop durst not but give him admittance. This Siluesser instituted, that every yeare during the time of Lent, fo many poore people should be provided for of meate and drinke fufficient, at his and the charges of the Abbey, as there were Monkes in the Couent. He dyed ann. 1161. and was buryed by his predecessor.

One Clarembaldus (a lay-man I thinke, for he neuer wore other then a fecular habite) by the kings regall authoritic, did now irregularly intrude vpon the poffeffions, goods, and gouernment of this Abbey, which by maine violence he extorted, and mifapplyed for the space of 15. yeares, vn-till he was elected: and one Roger a Monke of Saint Trinitie, and keeper of an Altar in Christ-Church, was elected to his place.

This Roger within a flort time came greatly into the kings fauour, who reftored vnto him all the lands and poffeffions which Clarembalde had wickedly wrefted from his Monastery. He was confectated by Pope Alexander the third in his owne perfor at Tufculane, neare to Rome; to whom Z 2 and Ancient Funerall Monuments 258 This man is commended by Pope Clement the fifth (as I finde it in the Mff.in bib. cot. redde booke of Canterbury) to haue beene Abbatem Religionis feruidum, Zelatorum morum, et etatus granitate decorum, scientia preditum, in spiritualibus prouidum, et in temporalibus circumspectum. In the fame yeare, the first of March, Thomas Poueyn, Doctor of Diui-Thomas Foucyn the ss. nitie, was cholen Abbot of this Monasterie; he tooke his iourney for benediction, to the Popes Court, which then lay at Aumion in France, the nine and twentieth of the fame moneth of March, whither hee came vpon Saint George his Euc following : hee had his admittance and bleffing at the hands of Pope John the two and twentieth, the day after the feaft of Saint Barnabie; he flayed at Auinion vntill the feaft of S. Lawrence, from whence taking his journey for England, he landed at Douer vpon S. Gregories day. Now if any man of his coat, dignitie, and reachue, be defirous to know the expences of a journey to Aminion, here he may have it, taken out of the red In bib. Cot. booke of Canterbury, to a fingle halfe-pennic. His expences from Douer to Animon, which hee performed in three weeks and three dayes, came to the fumme of 21. 1. 18.s. 2. d. his expences ftaying there, from S. George his Eue, vntill the Eue of S. Lawrence, 18.1. 4.5. 5.d. ob. and in his voyage backe to this Monafterie, his expences came to 28 1.8.d. About fome nine yeares after this trauell, he made an end of all his trauels by death, on the day of the translation of Saint Augustine, ann. 1343. being all his time a carefull Shepherd ouer the flocke committed to his charge: he was entombed by his predeceffour. Homers noble little Captaine Tydeus, corpore paruns ingenio pugnax. Maior in exiguo regnabat corpore virtus. For to enlarge the reuenues of his Church, he was euer wondrous folicitous, and in defence of her liberties ftout and magnanimous : perfifting ftill as deuoute and watchfull in his Ecclefiafticall contemplations, as hee was wife and circumspect in his temporall employments. In S. Anns Chappell within the Church of this Monastery, lay fometime buried the body of Inlian, the daughter and heire of Sir I bomas Leyborne, knight. The widow, faith Vincent, of John Lord Haftings of Aburgameny, and mother of Lawrence Hafting, Earle of Pembroke and after that, wife of William de Clinton, Earle of Huntington, and Lord high Admirall of England, who dyed about the yeare 1350.

But of all thefe and thoulands more here interred (whofe names I cannot learne) not one bone at this time lies neare another, nor one ftone almost of the whole fabricke flands vpon another : therefore I will take my leaue of this Abbey with these words of a late writer: This Monasterie (faith he) as all the reft did, came to her fatall period in the dayes of king Henry the eight, whole vncouered walls flood fo long languilbing in time, and flormes of weather, that daily increased the aspect of her ruines, till now laftly, they are made fubicat to other publicke vies, and the whole tract of that moft goodly foundation in the fame place no where appearing. Onely Ethelberts Tower in memorie and honour of the man, as yet hath efcaped the verdict and fentence of deftruction ; whole beauty, though much de faced and ouerworne, will witheffe to fucceeding ages the magnificence of the whole, when all flood compleate in their g'ory together. At the vpper end of the South-ifle in this Church, I faw a Monument of an antique forme, mounted with two spires. Wherein (as the Inhabitants haue it by tradition) the body of one Ethelbert, a Saxon king, who had his pallace royall here in Reculuer, lieth entombed, and the Annals of Canterbury affirme as much: And true it is that Ethelbert the first, and first Christian king, built here a Princely manfion for himselfe and his succesfours; wherein divers of the Kentilh kings fometimes kept their courtly refidence.But whether he be this Ethelbert the fecond, or Ethelbert furnamed Pren, that lieth here interred, it is not much materiall, for they both dyed without any memorable act, either of themselues, or their kingdomes affaires : and fo dyed Cuthred and Baldred their next fucceffours, and the laft kings of Kent. Which kingdome crefted by Hengift, the yeare of mans happineffe 455. continued her gouernment 372.and ended her glory in the yeare 827. being made a Prouince to the Weft-faxons.

It is faid by fome, that when Thunner had ginen his wicked command to king Egbert, his horfe fell prefently a curueting, caft him off his backe, and broke his necke : and that be lyeth buried in the Ifle of Tenet, vnder a great heape of ftones, which the Inhabitants to this day call Thunniclan.

Mildred the daughter of Domneua, and Merwald, a Prince of Weff-Mercia, fucceeded in her mothers place; in which fhee continued a long time: dyed in the raigne of King Wightred, was interred by her mother, and afterwards canonized a Saint. Ethelbald the Mercian king, confirmed by his charter to this Mildred and her Couent, the cuftome of the fhips which arrived in the publicke Port of London, as appeares by his charter.

Canutus king of England, gaue by his Charter the body of this Mildred, with the lands belonging to this Priory, to the Abbey of S. Auflins, in thefe words.

Notum sit omnibus, &c. me dedisse Augustino, & fratribus eiusdem Monasterij, corpus beate Mildrede gloriose Virginis; cum tota terra sua infra Insulam de Thanet, & extra, cum omnibus consuetudinibus suis.

The tranflation of Mildred.

The yearc 1030 her body was translated by Abbot Elftan, as I have faid before, and after that by his Succeffour Wulfrike, to another place of the Church. Her reliques were laid in a leaden coffin, whereupon this Epitaph was infculped.

Clauditur boc faxo Mildreda facerrima virgo. Cuius nos precibus adiuuct ipfe Deus.

The bodies of the most effecemed godly in former ages, tooke the least reft in their graues, for they were still remoued, and their bodies clattered together from one place to another; as it doth, and will appeare, both by the premisse and fequele of this my Treatife. You have read before how often the body of Saint Augustime was tost from porch to pillar, and besides his Reliques were divided, and subdivided into certaine vessels. For the day after the folemnitie of Prior Marifes (before remembred) vpon the finding out of his Stone.coffin, there was found, vnlooked for, a Lead of feuen foot long, having this Infeription.

Hic habetur pars offium & cineris beati Augustini Anglorum Apostoli, qui olimmisfus à beato Gregorio, gentem Anglicam ad sidem Christi conuertit, cuins preciosum capud, & ossa maiora, Guido Abbas bonorifice transfulit, sicut tabula plumbea cum eisdem offibus posita indicat.

But Henry the eight made an end of all this vnneceffarie trouble', and charges, by removing once for all, as well Reliques, as Religious houfes. Now to returne.

Ethelinga the third Prioreffe of this houfe, feeing the Church builded by her predeceffour Domneua, not capable to containe fo many holy Virgins; built another Temple farre more fumptuous then the firft, which was confecrated by Archbilhop Cuthbert to the honour of S. Peter and Paul. She dyed ann. 75 t. and was buried in her owne new Church.

Sexburga (faith the booke of Saint Augustine) the daughter of Anna, king of the East Angles, the wife of Ercombere, the mother of Egbert, and Lotbaire, all kings of Kent; after the death of her husband tooke vpon her the habite of a Nunne, and was admitted and confectated Prioresse of this place,

In her time those furious Beare-whelps, Hungar and Hubba (Nam vt fertur filij fuere cuius dam vr si, qui illos contra naturam de filia cuius (dam Regis generabat) two Dansch Pagans with a fierce armie first inuaded this kingdome. She dyed about the yeare 797. and was buried in this new Church. Capgraue faith at Ely.

Seberitha was the first Votarie admitted, and confectated Lady Prioreffe of this houfe, by Ethelard Archbishop of Canterbury; who was no fooner well fetled in her gouernment, then that the Danes came backe againe, and in their fauage furie ouerwhelmed the Island of Tenet, deftroyed, and vtterly demolithed this Monasterie; and her, with her holy Sisters, inclosed in fecret caues for feare of the enemie; they found out, and burned them all to ashes.

Capgraue, a Kentilh man borne, reporteth that Eadburgh the daughter of good king Ethelbert, by his vertuous Queene Berta, was brought vp a Nunne in this Monafterie, vnder the foundreffe Domneua, that fhe fucceeded Mildred in the Monafticall gouernment; that fhee was buried here in this Church, and that long after, her reliques (the chiefe and moft frequent way in those times to enrich any new built Church) were remoued by Lanfrank, Archbishop of Canterbury, to the Church of Harbaldowne of his owne foundation, and there had in great veneration. But Camden, to whom I must needs give more credit, speaking of S. Eadburghs VVell at Liming in this Tract, will have her to be the first veiled Nunne in all England. And that the lived here in a Monastery of her owne building, that here state dyed, and here at Lyming was buried, faith Speed, that the was furnamed, Tare, a fit name for a woman, and that the had beene the wife of Edwin king of Northumberland.

Sandwich:

Before the generall suppression here, was a religious house of white Friers Carmelites, founded by one Henry Cowfeld an Almaine, Ann. 1272. and an Hospitall founded by Thomas Rabyng, William Swanne, Clerkes, Iohn Goddard and Richard Long.

In a booke of this order of Carmes, written by Iobn Bale, of which I have fpoken in the prefixed difcourfe, I finde the Foundation of this Religious ftructure, as alfo certaine Epitaphs made to the memorie of divers of the Fraternitie therein interred; in this manner following.

bricke to the honour of Saint Peter, and S. Eaufwid. Whole reliques they tranflated, into their new built Church; there they were glorioully enfhrined, and fhe honoured for a Saint. Of whom the credulous common people did report many firange wonders: As that fhee lengthened a beame of this her religious building three foot, when the Carpenters (miffing their meafure) had made it fo much too fhort: That fhee haled and drew water ouer the hills againft nature: That fhee forbad certaine ranenous birds the countrey, which before did much hurt thereabouts: That fhe reftored the blinde, cafe out the deuill, and healed innumerable folkes of their infirmities. And therefore after her death, fhe was by the policie of the Church of Rome, and the Popifh Priefts, canonized; and by the folly of the common people (faith Lambard) honoured for a Saint.

And no maruell at all (faith hee) for it was vfuall amongft the Clergiemen in those dayes, not onely to magnifie their Benefactours of all forts; but to deifie alfo fo many of them (at the leaft) as were of noble parentage, knowing that thereby triple commoditie enfued; the first, for as much as by that meanes they affured many great Perfonages vnto them : fecondly, they drew (by the awe of their example) infinite numbers of the common people after them : and laftly, they aduentured the more boldly (vnder those honourable and glorious names and titles) to publish their fained miracles. And this furely was the caufe that Sexburga in Shepie, Mildred in Tanet, Etheldred at Elye, Edith at Wilton, and fundrie other fuch women of royall bloud in each quarter, were canonized Saints : for generally the Religious of those times were as thankfull to their Benefactours, as ever were the heathen nations to their first Kings and Founders. The one for fanctifying fuch as did either build them houfes, or deuife them Orders; and the other deifying luch, as had made them Cities, or prefcribed them lawes and gouernment.

This was it that made Saturne, Hercules, Romulus, and others moe, to have place (in common opinion) with the Gods about the flarres: and this canfed Dunfean, Edgar, Ethelwold, and others, first to bee shrined here in earth, and then to fit amongst the Saints in beauen. This Nunnery was valued at the fatall ouerthrow of all such edifices, at 63.1.7.5. per annum. It was furrendred 15. Nouemb.27.H.8.

Bilfington. A Priory likewife built by the faid Iohn Maunfell, for King Henry the third, and Eleanor his wife, and dedicated to the bleffed Virgine Mary, wherein he placed blacke Canons; which was valued amongst the rest of the suppressed houses, at 8.1.1.s.6.d. of yearely commings in. This house was surrendred 19. Ianuar. 36. Hen. 8.

But to proceed a little further with this Iohn Maunfell, his Ecclefiafticall and Temporall dignitics; who befides being Prouoft of Beuerley, was Treasurer of Yorke, Parson of Maidstone, in this County, and Parson of Wigan in Lanchilhire, to whom king Henry the third did grant that his Towne of Wigan thould be a Burrow. Hee was chiefe luftice of England, one of the privic Councell to the faid King, his Chaplaine, his Embaffador into Spaine, a worthy Souldier, In armis fremuse, & animo imperterritus. who with his owne hands, in a battell betwixt the English and the French, neare to Tailborge in France, tooke Prifoner one Peter Orige, a gentleman of eminent place and qualitie : He was croffed to go to Ierufalem. He feafted at his house in Tole-hill field, at one time, two kings, two Queenes, with their dependances, 700. melle of meate fcarce feruing for the first dinner. About the 31. yeare of King Henry the third, at the inftance of the faid king, he was first made keeper of the great Seale, as Vicechancellour. For, faith Paris, Cuftodiam Sigilli regij accepit Cancellarij vices acturus et officium : and afterwards Lord keeper in plenarie office and authoritie ; yet for all this glorious pompe, and great promotions, I finde his end to be poore, wretched, and miferable, beyond Seas; but I finde no place of his death nor buriall : of all which, may it pleafe you to reade thus much out of an old Manufcript in the fame language it was to me delivered.

Albford. Here is likewife a Collegiate Church of Priefls founded by Sir Ro. Fogge knight, wherein many of that ancient and noble Familie lye interred; there hang in the Quire the Achieuements of fixe of them that haue had their funerall obfequies (an honour to the dead now most fhamefully neglected) attended with Heralds of Armes.But that which prefenteth the greateft glory and antiquitie to this Church, is the Monument of the Countefle of Atholl in Scotland: whole Epitaph in old French, as alfo the Banners in her hands, fhew her to be the daughter of the Lord Ferrers.

Icy gift Elizabeth Comite D'athels la File Sign. de Ferrers .... Dieu afoil. Que morust le 22. iour D'october L'an de Grace, M.CCC.LXXV.

She was wife to David de Strabolgie, the fourth of that Chriftian name, Earle of Atholl, and the daughter of Henry Lord Ferrers of Groby, and being fecondly married to Iohn Maleweyn of this County, here dyed in this Towne.

Here lyeth Sir Francis Fogge, who flourished tempore Hen.2. Sir Anthony Fogge, a knight of the Rodes. Sir Iohn, and Sir Iohn Fogge with many more of the family.

Here are many goodly pourtraitures in the windowes. As of Edward the third, of the blacke Prince, Richard Duke of Glocefter, Richard Earle Riners, the Lord Hastings, the Lord Scales, Sir William Hawte, Valoins, and his two wives, the first the daughter of Hawte, the scond of Bogge.

In this little Illand, containing fome twenty miles in compasse, are the remaines of a ruinous little Monastery, now called Minster, built by Sex- burgh the wife of Ercombert, king of Kent, Ann. 710. wherein shee placed Nunnes, which was valued at the fatall period of all such foundations, at 129.1.7.5.10. d. ob. per annum. Some part of it is now conuerted into a Parish Church, in which are divers funerall Monuments, which have beene removed (as I conceive) out of the Ghappell adioyning: some of which make a shew of wondrous great antiquitie. Io. Sellenger and Margerie his wife. Raph Sellenger and Anne his wife, of the Mannor of Shurland, hereunto adioyning: of whom the inhabitants have many ftrange relations not worth remembring. Sir Robert Shurland flourilhed in the raigne of king Edward the first.

Hic iacet Dominus Thomas Cheyne inclitisimi ordinis Garterij Miles: Guardianus quinque Portuum, ac Thefaurarius Hospitij, Henrici octaui, ac Edwardi sexti, Regum: Reginaque Maria, ac Elisabetha, ac eorum in secretis Confiliarius, qui obijt...mensis Decembris: Ann.Dom. M.D.L I X. ac Reg. Regina Elisab. primo.

This Sir Thomas Cheyne was also Constable of Queene-borough Castle, a ftrong fortress in this Ille, pleasant for fight, built by King Edward the third; to the terrour of his enemies, and solace of his people; which he adioyned a Burgh, and in the honour of Philip the Queene his wife, called it Queene-borough, as one would fay, the Queenes Burgh. This hath beene an office euer thought worthy of many great personages; as appeares by their Catalogue, which I copied out of the Collections of Glover, alias Somersfet.

Iohn Foxley was the first Constable: Iohn of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaster, the second: Arnold Sauage knight, the third: Thomas Arundell, Archbishop of Canterbury, the fourth: Robert de Veere, Marquesse of Dublin, and Earle of Oxford, the fifth: Iohn Cornwall, Baron Fanhope, the fixth: Gilbert V.mfreuill the second Will. le Scrope, Sonne of the Lord Scrope, the eighth: Humphrey, Duke of Buckingham, the ninth: Iohn Norwood, Efquire, the tenth: George Duke of Clarence, the eleventh: Sir Thomas Wentworth the thirteenth: Sir William Cheyneie the fourteenth: Sir Francis Cheyneie the fifteenth: this Sir Thomas Cheyneie the fixteenth: Sir Richard Constable the second + Sir Edward Hoby the eighteenth: Philip, Earle of Mountgomeric now living, Ann. 1630. the nineteenth.

The Mannor of Shurland feated Eaftward from hence, belonged to thefe Chepneies, and now to the faid Philip, Earle aforefaid, whom King Iames created Baron Herbert of Shurland, and Earle of Mountgomery, vpon one and the fame day, viz. the fourth day of May, 1605. And whom King Charles, our dread Soueraigne, hath made Lord Chamberlaine of his Houfhold. And to whom at this day, by the death of his thrice noble Brother, William, Earle of Penbroke, are added the honours and titles of Earle of Penbroke, Baron Herbert of Caerdiffe in Wales, Lord Parre and Ross of Kendall, Marmion, and S. Quintin.

I haue the rather inferted this Bull, for that it may bee the more plainly vnderflood; how the most of all causes in those times concerning the Clergie, were arbitrated not alwayes by the authority of the learned Bishops of this land, but by Commissions purchased from the Bishops of Rome. This Priory was valued in the Records of the late suppression, at three hundred fourescore and two pounds of yearely reuenue.

Lambard speaking of Motindene (which name hee derines from two Saxon words, Moo and Dene, which is the proud valley, a name imposed as he thinkes for the fertilitie thereof ) faith, That hee hath not heard, nor hitherto found any thing touching the Religious Houfe of Motindene in Hetcorne, faue onely that the head thereof was called Minifter, and that the Houfe it felfe was of the yearely value of fixty pounds. Neither would I (faith he) have affoorded it fo much as paper, or place here, but onely that you might vnderftand, with what number of buildings, variety of fects, and plenty of poffeffions, Popery was in old time prouided for, and furnished. No corner (almost) without some Religious house or other: Their feets and orders were hardly to be numbred ; and as for their lands and retienues, it was a world to behold them. I finde that the yearely extent of the cleare value of the Religious liuings within this Shire, amounted to fiue thouland pounds : Bilhoprickes, Benefices, Friaries, Chaunteries, and Saints-offerings not accounted. Which thing also I do the rather note, to the end that you may fee, how iust cause is given vs, both to wonder at the hote zeale of our anceftours in their fpirituall fornication, and to lament the coldneffe of our owne charity, towards the maintenance of the true Spoule of Iclus Chrift: For, if euer, now most truly is that verified, which the Poet long fince faid, Probitas landatur et alget.

William de Ipre (a Towne in Flanders) the bale fonne of Philip Vifcount de Ipre, Lieutenant to king Stephen, in the warres againft Maud the Empreffe : for which feruice the king created him Earle of Kent, founded this Abbey, Ann. 1 146. which he confecrated to the bleffed Virgine Mary, and planted it with a Couent of white Monkes, of Saint Barnards order, which he tranflated hither from Claravall in Burgundie, which as good children, were to follow and obey the rules and ordinances of the Abbey of Claravall in all things. Thefe are the words in the inftitution.

Anno 1146. fundata est Boxleia in Cancia, filia Claravallis propria. And further, Quod ipsa Abbathia sit subdita Abbathie de Claravalle, Soc.

It was ordinarie both beyond Sea and here in England, for one religious houfe to beget another, as will appeare by the fequele, for not many yeares after her first foundation, this Abbey it felfe was the mother of Robertfbridge in Suffex. The yearely value of this house was effected at the supprefilm to be worth 218.1.19.5.10.d.

This Monastery in former times was famous for a woodden Roode, by which the Priefts for a long while deluded the common people, vntill their fraud and Legierdemain was detected.

At Botton Malherb, faith learned Clarentieux, hath dwelt a long time the familie of the Wottons, out of which in our remembrance flourifhed both Nicholas Wotton, Doctor of the Lawes, who being of the privie Councell to king Henry the eighth, King Edward the fixth, Queene Mary, and Queene Elizabeth, fent in Embalfage nine times to forraine Princes, and thrice chofen Committee about Peace betweene the Englifh, French, and Scottifh: lived a goodly time, and ranne a long race in this life with great commendation of pietie and wifedome: and alfo Sir Edward Wotton, whom for his approved wifedome in weightie affaires, Queene Elizabeth made Controller of her houfe, and King Iames created Baron Wotton of Merley. If you would know any more, reade Hollin/head, who hath written a Treatife of this family from Richard Wotton, who flourifhed in the raigne of King Edward the firft, who these Wottons, who yet do live in our memory.

This Church is honoured with the fepulture of many of this noble progenie, but I have no infeription nor Epitaph for any, faue onely for him who was twice Lord Maior of London. The first time in the third yeare of king Henry the fifth: the fecond in the ninth of king Henry the first.

This Towne harboured the first Carmelite Friars that ever were in this kingdome, for about the midst of the raigne of king Henry the third, this order came over the Sea, arrived in this land, and made their nest here at Newenden; which was at that time a wooddy and folitarie place, and therefore (in common opinion) the more fit for religious perfors to inhabite; C c they

O Lord my Saujour and hevenly Maker, Haue mercy on Elifabeth Graiftock and Daker.

In what kings dayes this Lady might flourish, I have not made much fearch; the character of the Infcription feemes to be ancient, and fo are the families of the Nevils, Dacres, and Greyftocks : as alfo of fignall note, and exemplarie nobleneffe in many parts of this kingdome; with the two first Surnames I do often meet. Thus much here then of Grey flocke out of Camden, as followeth.

By Peterill, belide Petriane (faith hec) ftandeth Greyflock, a Caffle belonging, not long fince, to an honourable houfe, which derived their firft defcent from one Ranulph Fitz-walter : of which line William, called de Greyflock wedded Mary, a daughter, and one of the coheires of Sir Merley, Lord of Morpath : and hee had a fonne named lohn, who being childleffe, by licence of king Edward the first, conveyed his inheritance to Raph Grantherpe, the fonne of William, and his Aunts fonne by the fathers fide; whole male progenic flourished a long time in honour, with the title of Lord Greiflock: but about king Henry the feuenth, his dayes expired, and came to an end, and fo the inheritance came by marriage vnto the Barons of Dacree : and the female heires generall of the laft Baron Dacre, were married vato Philip Earle of Arundell, and Lord William Howard, fonnes of Thomas Howard, late Duke of Norfolke.

Pluckley, anciently written Plokele.

This Townelhip or Parilh was by Archbilhop Lanfrancke (in the time of William the Conquerour) given vnto one lohn de Cobham, whole pofterity affuming a Surname from the place, did flourish here by the space of two hundred yeares, vntill the daughters of SirWilliam of Pluckley knight, became the coheires of this Mannor. Amongst whom, shee that onely is knowne to haue had iffue, was married vnto John de Surenden, alias Sarenden, who vpon the old feate, new founded the Mannor houfe, (a faire one at this day, and by the antiquitic thereof feemes to have beene the like, or much fairer at her first building) which stands vpon the very forehead of that hill which from this place doth reach Weftward into Surrey. From the owner it then received, and fill retaines, the name of Surenden, although from that family it did immediatly by a daughter paffe to the Noble and fpreading houfe of Haute, whole firft childe, being daughter and coheire, Chriftian, was married vnto Iohn Dering, fonne of Richard, fonne of Sir Iohn Dering of Weftbroke, knight. And through many defeents (hauing beene at no time bought nor fold) the gift of Lanfranke now refleth in perfon of Sir Edward Dering, knight, and Baronet, Lieutenant of his Maieflies Caftle of Douer, and of his Ginque ports; the third of that name and family of Dering, which haue enjoyed this Office, being a place of effectial truft, of honour and command.

In this Church, dedicated to S. Nicholas, and in our Ladies Chappell there, now belonging to Sir Antony Dering of Surenden Dering knight, and founded by Rucha d Dering Efquire, in the raigne of king Henry the fixth, (as appeares by his Armes carued on the bottome of the Arches, which are Or, a Salter fables, and Dering and Haute quartered Or, a Salter fables, and Or, a croffe engraled gules, thereon a creffant Argent) are feuerall graueftones very fairely figured, with pourtraitures in armour to the length; firft one for Iohn Dering of Surenden Efquire, who liued in the dayes of King Richard the fecond, Henry the fourth, and Henry the fifth; fome of the braffe is torne away, that which remaines is accordingly as followeth.

This riming Epitaph is inlaid with braffe about the Verge of this Monument.

In the yeare 1590. this Church was with fire confumed all but the very ftones; which fire it caught from a peece difcharged at a Pigeon then vpon the Church. The windowes and the Grauestones (wherein divers of the ancient and worthy family of Brent were memorized) at that time were defaced: yet on the outfide of the Bellfree do remaine carued in ftone, the badge of Edward the fourth (being a Rofe within the Sunne-beames) and a Wyner being the Armes of Hugh Brent Efquire; who in the raigne of Edward the fourth, was the principall Founder of that Bellfree, which was before of wood. From the time of Henry the fixth, the family of Brent (being branched out of the ancient flocke of Brent in Somerfetshire, of which house Sir Robert de Brent was a Baron of the Parliament in the time of Edward the first) hath flourished here as the prime name of this Parish, vntill Thomas Brent Efquire (the laft male of this line) did remove to Willifborough, where he dyed iffueleffe.

On the South fide of the Chancell here, and annexed to the Church, is a conucnient Chappell founded by Amy Brent widow of William Brent Efquire, who dyed in the raigne of Rie. the third ; this (with the Church) being fired, is now in the hands of workmen to bee repaired, by Sir Idward Dering knight and Baronet, to whom the right of this Chappell is terios

ARCHBISHOPS OF CANTER-BYRY CANONIZED SAINTS.

S. Auftin Archbithop.

Nd first to begin with the first, which was Auftin the Monke, famous for the many miracles which he wrought, if we may beleeue the Legend. Amongst which, this following is faid to be one.

Saynt Auflyn entryd into Bogletlhyr (give me leave to vie the character of my old Agon) and came into a town wher as wer wyched peple, and refulyd bys doctryn and preching biterly, and droof hym out of the town, caffyng on hym the tayles of Thornback, og like filhes. wherfog hee bylought almyghty God to thew hys Judgement on them: And God cent to them a thameful token. Fog the chyldgen that were bogne after in that place had tayles, as it is faid, tyl they repentyd them.

It is leyd comynly that this fill at Strode in kent, but bleffyd be God at thys day is no fuch defozmyte.

The first of these fables is likewise written by Alexander Effeby, faith Lambard, and the later by Polydore Virgil, who fathers it vpon Thomas Becket (handling that hot contention betweene king Henry the second, and Thomas Becket) faith, that Becket (being at the length reputed for the kings enemy) began to be so commonly neglected, contemned, and hated, that when as it happened him vpon a time to come to Stroude, the inhabitants thereabouts (being defirous to despite that good Father) sticked not to cut the tails from the horse on which he roade, binding themselues thereby with a perpetuall reproach: For afterwards (by the will of God) it fo happened, that euery one which came of that kindred of men which had played that naughty pranke, were borne with tailes, cuen as brute beafts be.

Thus Polidore Virgils Hiltory (howfocuer if you refpect the file, method, and matter, a good worke) is blemilhed with this, and other old wiues tales and follies. For as hee was by office a collectour of the Peterpence to the Popesgaine and lucre, fo fheweth he himfelfe throughout by practife, a couctous gatherer of lying fables, fained to aduance, not Peters, but the Popes owne Religion, kingdome, and Miter, faith my forefaid Authour.

The day of the Translation was anciently kept holy, the 26. day of May.

His tyranny,

In predict.lib. Monaß, de Wauerley. man. Hereupon the Monkes appealed to Rome, which the Archbilhop understanding of, hasted him thither alfo. Otto the Legate endeauoured to ftay him at home, and failing thereof, did his errand fo well at Rome, as not onely in that fuite, but another also which hee had againft Hugh Earle of Arundell in another caufe of appeale, he was ouerthrowne, and condemned in a thousand Markes charges to his great difgrace and impouerishment. Being at Rome, hee had complained of many great abufes in England, and amongft the reft, of the long vacancie of Bilhoprickes. The Pope feemed willing to redreffe thefe things, and namely, concerning that matter, fet downe this order, That if any Cathedrall Church continued voide aboue fixe moneths, it fhould be lawfull for the Archbifhop to conferre it where he lift, as well as any fmaller Benefice. The procuring of this order coft him a great fumme of money. Yet no fooner was his backe turned, but the Pope, at the kings requeft, reuoked the fame. Being thus continually vexed, thwarted, and difgraced, hee departed into voluntary exile, and there bewayling the mifery of his countrey, fpoyled and wafted by the tyranny of the Pope, fpent the reft of his dayes in continuall teares. Through extreame griefe and forrow, or (as fome thinke) too much fafting, hee fell firft into a Confumption, and after into a ftrange kinde of Ague. Whereupon he thought good to remoue from the Abbey of Pontiniac in France (where he had layen cucr fince his comming out of England) and there departed this life the fixteenth of the Kalends of December, 1242. His heart and entrailes were buried at Soiffy, his body at Pontiniac.

Sanctus Edmundus Cantuarie Archiepiscopus, plenus virtutibus, et sanetitate migrauit ab hoc seculo, X V I. Kal. Decemb. et apud Pontiniacum sepultus est ; Cuius merita miracula testantur.

> Hic erat Edmundus anima tum corpore mundus, Quem non immundus poterat peruertere mundus: Anglorum Genti faucas Edmunde petenti.

Within fix yeares after his death he was canonized a Saint, by Innocentins the fourth, who appointed the forefaid day of his death for euer to be kept holy in memory of him. Lewes the French king caufed his body to be tranflated to a more honourable Tombe then it was first laid in, and beflowed a fumptuous Shrine vpon him, couered with gold & filuer, and richly adorned with many pretious stones: where our Lord (faith his Legend) hath she wyd many a fayre myracle for his holy fervaunt Saynte Edmonde.

This Edmand is the laft Archbilhop of Canterbury that I finde to have beene canonized; howfocuer I dare pronounce, that fince his dayes to thefe prefent times, wherein we live ; we have had many Archbilhops both for life and learning, as worthy the honour of canonization, as was himfelfe, or any of thefe by me before remembred.

Thus much of this Diocelle vntill I be further ftored of funerall Monuments, or other matters therein according to my method, either by my felfe, or my friends ; onely let me tell you for a conclusion, that the whole Prouince, ### within the Dioceffe of Canterbury.

Province of this Bilkopricke of Canterbury : which first of all was apparelled by Auftin the Monke with the Archbilhop of Londons Pall (as 1 have in part touched before) was at the first divided by Tbeodore (feuenth Bilhop) into five Dioceffes onely; howbeit in proceffe of time, it grew to twentie and one, belides it felfe, leaving to Yorke (which by the first institution should have had as many as it) but Durham, Carleil, and Chefter onely (except you reckon the Ifle of Man.) And whereas by the ordinance of Pope Gregory, either of these Archbishops flould have under him twelue inferiour Bilhops, and that neither of them fhould beefubieft, or of leffe grace and dignitic then other; Lanfrancke (thinking it good reafon that he thould make a Gonqueft of the English Clergie, fince his Mafter King william had vanquilhed the whole Nation) contended (at Windfore) with Thomas Norman (Archbilhop of Yorke) for the Primacic, and there by judgement before Hugo the Popes Legate, recoured it from him; fo that ener fince the one is called, Totius Anglia Primiss and the other, Anglie Primas: without any further addition.

Moreouer, whereas before time, the place of this Archbilhop in the generall Councell, was to fit next to the Bilhop of Saint Ruffines. Aufelme (the fucceffour of this Lanfranke) (for recompence of the feruice hee had done in oppugning the matriage of Priefts, and refifting the king, for the inueftiture of Clerkes) was by Pope Vrbane endowed with this acceffion of honour, that hee and his Succeffours, thould from thenceforth haue place in all generall Councels, at the Popes right foote, who then faid withall:

Includamus hunc in orbe noftro, tanguam alterius orbis Papam, A

Let vs include this Bifhop in our owne Orbe, as it were the Pope or Father of another world.

In former ages (faith Camden in this traft) during the Romane Hierarchie, the Archbilhops of Canterbury were Primates of all Britaine, Legates to the Pope, and as Vrbane the fecond faid, The Patriarkes, as it were, of another world.

And thus the Archbilhops of Canterbury, by the fauour which Auflin had with Gregory the Great, by the power of Lanfranke, and by the induftrie of An(elme, were much exalted : but how much that was to the griduous difpleafure, and pining enuie of the Archbilhops of Yorke, you thall perceiue by that which followeth.

King Henry the first, kept vpon a time his stately Christmas at Windfore, where (the manner of our kings then being at certaine folemine times to weare their Crownes) Thurfime of Yorke having his Croffe borne vp before him) offered to fet the Crowne vpon the kings head. But William of Canterbury withfrood it froutly, and fo preuailed by the fauour of the King, and the helpe of the ftanders by, that Thurfline was not onely difappointed of his purpole, but he (and his Croffe alfo) thruft quite out of the doores.

William of Yorke (the next in fucceffion after Thurftime, both in the See and Quarrell) perceiving that the force of his Predeceffour preuailed nothing, attempted by his owne humble meanes (first made to the king, and after to the Pope) to winne the Coronation of king Henry the fecond, from Theobald

Theobald the next Archbishop of Canterbury. But when he had received repulse in that fort of fuite also, and found no way left to make avengement vpon his enemy, he returned home all wroth, and (as it was suspected) wreaked the anger vpon himselfe.

After this another hurly burly hapned in a Synode affembled at Weftminfter, in the time of King Henry the fecond, before Cardinall Huge (Pope Alexanders Legate) betweene Richard and Roger, then Archbilhops of thefe two Sees, vpon occasion, that Roger of Yorke comming of purpole (as it (hould (ceme) first to the affembly, had taken vp the place on the right hand of the Cardinall: Which when Richard of Canterbury had efpied, hee refused to fit downe in the fecond roome; complaining greatly of this preiudice done to his See. Whereupon after fundrie replyes of fpeech, the weaker in disputation (after the manner of Schoole boyes in the ftreets) descended from hote words, to hastie blowes : in which encounter the Archbilhop of Canterbury (through the multitude of his attendants) obtained the better. So that he not onely plucked the other out of his place, and all to rent his cafule, Chimer, and Rochet, but alfo diffurbed the holy Synode therewithall; in fuch wife, that the Cardinall, for feare, betooke him to his feete, the company departed, their businesse vndone, and the Bifhops themfelues moued fuite at Rome, for the finishing of their controucrfie. By thefe, and fuch other fucceffes, on the one fide, the Bilhops of Canterbury following, tooke fuch courage, that from thenceforth they would not permit the Bilhops of Yorke to beare wp the Croffe, either in their prefence, or Prouince.

And on the other fide, the Bifhops of Yorke conceiued fuch griefe of heart, difdaine and offence, that from time to time they fpared no occasion to attempt both the one and the other.

Whereupon, in the time of a Parliament holden at London, in the raigne of King Henry the third, Boniface, Archbilhop of Canterbury, interdicted the Londiners, because they had suffered the Bishop of Yorke to beare vp his Croffe whiles he was in the Citie. And much adoe there was (within a few yeares after) betweene Robert Kilwarby of Canterby, and William Giffard of Yorke, because he of Yorke aduanced his Croffe, as hee paffed through Kent towards the generall Councell.

The like happened alfo, at two other feuerall times, betweene Frier Peckham, Archbifhop of Canterbury, and William Wickwane, and tohn de Roma, Archbifhops of Yorke, in the dayes of King Edward the firft. At the length, the matter being yet once more fet on foote, betweene Simon Iflip (the Archbifhop of this Prouince, and his aduerfarie the incumbent of Yorkefor that time) King Edward the third, in whofe raigne that variance was reuined, refumed the matter into his owne hand, and made a finall composition betweene them. The which hee publifhed vnder his broade Seale to this effect. Firft, that each of them fhould freely, and without impeachment of the other, beare vp his Croffe in the others Prouince; but yet fo, that he of Yorke and his Succeffours for euer, in figne of fublection, fhould within two moneths after their inthronization, either bring, or fend to Canterbury, the image of an Archbifhop bearing a Groffe, or fome other Iewell, wrought in fine gold, to the value of fourty pounds, pounds, and offer it openly there vpon Saint Thomas Beckets Shryne: then, that in all Synodes of the Clergie, and affemblies where the King fhould happen to bee prefent, hee of Canterbury fhould have the right hand, and the other the left. Finally, that in broad ftreets, and high-wayes, their Croffe-bearers fhould go together, but that in narrow lanes, and in the entries of doores and gates, the Crofier of Canterbury fhould go be. fore, and the other follow, and come behinde.

Thus (as you fee) the Bilhops of Canterbury elermore preuailing by fauour, or other meanes; they of Yorke were driven in the end, to give ouer in the plaine field.

His Bilhopricke is fo ouerfhadowed by the nearneffe and greatneffe of the See of Canterbury, that it lookes but like a good Benefice, for one of his Graces Ghaplaines; yet for antiquitie and dignitie of a long fuccelfion of reuerend Lord Bilhops, it may equally compare with its neighbour of Canterbury: For they had both one Founder, to wit, Ethelbert king of Kent, who built

Anni funt rati Domini Super aftra regentis, Quadraginta dati quatuor cum fex quoque centis. Paulinus being dead, Honorius Archbilhop of Canterbury, aduanced one Ithamar, a Kentilhman borne, to his place, the first Englishman of this Nation that was a Bilhop. A man nothing inferiour either in life or learning to Paulinus, or any of his Italian predeceffours. Hedeparted this life about the yeare 656. Many miracles are faid to be wrought by this religious Ithamar, and great concourse of people frequented the place of his buriall, which was (at the first) in the body of the Church. But afterwards his reliques were remoued by Bifhop Gundulph, and enfhrined ; and after him by Iohn Bilhop of this Church : who by his prayers at his Shrine was Ithumari. cured, ab acerrime oculorum delore, of a gricuous paine in his eyes. For this and many other fignes and tokens of his fanctitie, hee was canonized (if we may beleeue Capgrane) and the fourth of the Ides of lune folemnized to his memory. Of whom a late writer, thus.

> Of Rochefter, we have Saint Ithamar, being then In those first times, first of our natiue English men Reliding on that feate.

Before I come to Gundulphus, I will take Tobias by the way, an Englifiman, the ninth Bilhop of this Dioceffe: in whole commendations Nicholas Harpsfeld, fometime Archdeacon of Canterbury, thus writeth. I will vfe his owne language.

Tobias a Brithwaldo Archiepiscopo consecratus, vir ampliore, & bonoratiore fede (fi locus hominem, et homo locum non commendaret) dignisimus, qui Theodori & Adriani discipulus fuit. Quantum vero sub his praceptoribus profecerit : luculenter oftendit Beda, qui eumomnium humanarum, diuinarumque rerum scientisimum fuisse, de Latinam Gracamque linguam, tam accurate, atque maternam callui ffe affirmat. Hee dyed about the yeare 726.

Herelyeth interred Gundalphus, a Norman by birth, the thirtieth Bilhop of Rochefter, a man not greatly learned, but very wife and industrious : for he handled the matter fo, as hee procured not onely his Church to be new built, but alfo the reuenues to be encreafed. He recoured diuers lands and poffeffions encroched vpon, and taken away in former times by Odo, Earle of Kent. And belides divers fummes of money, which hee contributed, he bought a certaine Mannor called Heddre, and gaue it to this his owne /ul. Ang. Church. In all these matters hee was much helped by Lanfranke, Archbithop of Canterbury, who cauled him to take into his Church, not fecular Priefts, as before had beene accuftomed, but Monkes Benedictines. Gun dulph himfelfe being a Monke of that order, vpon his first admittance to this See, he found onely fixe fecular Priefts in the Church, who were endowed fcarcely with fufficient meanes to live according to their place and callings. Before his death he encreafed his Church-reuenues to that height, that it did and was able to maintaine fifty Monkes, fome fay threefcore. The yearely value of this Monastery at the suppression amounted to 486.1. s.s. The donations to this Monastery were confirmed by Pope Vrban the fecond, in these words following.

Gundulphus Episcopus mandato Willelmi Regis magni prefuit operi magne Turris London, quo tempore hospitatus est apud quendam Edmerum Bargenfem London. This Bilbop built a great part of the Caftle of Rochefter, namely, the The Hofpital! great Tower which yet ftandeth. Gilbert de Glanuil (before mentioned) a gentleman of an ancient family, was confecrated to this Bifhopricke, September 29. Ann. 1185. Betweene this man and his Monkes of Rochefter was long and continual debates by occafion whereof, hee tooke away from them all their moucable goods, all the ornaments of their Church, their writings and euidences, yea and a great part of their lands, poffeffions and priviledges ; wanting money to follow their fuites againft him, they were forced to coyne the filuer of Saint Paulinus Shryne into money. Thefe controuerfies were ended no otherwife then by his death, which happened, June 24. 1214. having ruled his contentious charge 29. yeares. But the hatred of thefe Monkes againft him was fo dying with him, as they would afford him no manner of Obfequies, but buried him moft obfcurely, or rather bafely, without either ringing, finging, or any other folemnitie; and furthermore abufed him with fach like rime.doggerell.

Thefe blacke Monkes (whom I thinke, if the matter were well examined, would proue to be in the fouler fault) were too malitious to remember that this Bifhop founded S. Maries Holpitall at Strowd, neare adioyning to this Citie, called the New worke, and endowed it with a liuelihood of 52: 1. of yearely profits, which it now enioyeth.

Hayma de Heath, or Hythe, fo named of Hithe, a Towne in this traft, where he was borne, lyeth buried by the North wall: he was Confeffour to King Edward the fecond. This man built much at his Mannor houfes of Trofcliffe and Hawling. In the Towne of Hithe before named, he founded the Hofpitall of Saint Bartholomew, for reliefe of ten poore people, endowing the fame with twenty Markes of yearely reuenue: He refigned his Bifhopricke into the Popes hands, of whom he had receiued confecration in the Court at Rome, Ann. 1352. and liued about fome fix yeares after that a private life with the Monkes in this Priory. This Bifhop (faith the booke of Rochefter) bought a precious Miter which was Thomas Beckets, of the Executours of the Bifhop of Norwich, which hee offered at the high Altar, on S. Pauls day, 1327. John de Shepey, fo likewife furnamed from the place of his birth, vpon

John de Shepey, fo likewife furnamed from the place of his birth, vpon Haymo his relignation, was by the Pope elected to this Bifhoprick ; hee was Lord Treafurer of England, in the two and thirtieth yeere of King Edward the third, in which office he continued about three yeeres, euen vntill his death, which happened the nineteenth of October, 1360. His portraiture is in the wall ouer his place of Buriall.

Here, ouer againft Bilhop Merton, lieth buried, ynder a faire Marble Tombe, the body of Iohn Lowe, Bilhop of this Dioceffe, borne in Worcefterfhire, and brought vp in Oxford, where he proceeded Doctor of Diuinitie. He liued for a time in the Abbey of the Friers Augustines in Worcefter, of which order he was Prouinciall; Vir atate fua ab omni parte do-Gus: So that in regard of his greatlearning, and painfulnes in preaching, he was preterred first to the Bilhoprick of Saint Alaph, by King Henry the fixt, and after that translated to this of Rochefter; hee writ diuers learned works, and was a carefull fearcher after good bookes, fo as gliuers copies of fome ancient F athers had vtterly perilhed but for his diligence. Hee died the yeere 1467. hauing gouerned the See of Saint Alaph foure yeeres, and and this of Rochefter foure and twenty. The infeription vpon his Tombe is almostall gone, only thefe words remayning,

I doe not finde the certainty of any other of the Bilhops of this Dioteffe to have bin buried in this Cathedrall Ghurch; for most commonly in ancient times, as now, they departed from this place, before they departed from the world, this Eccletiasticall preferment being but a ftep to fome higher aduancement. A word therefore or two of Saint William here enfhrined, and the like of the Priory, and fo I will take my leave of this most ancient, and no leffe reverend Episcopall Chaire; and goe to Gillingham; for the reft of the funerall Monuments in this Church, are of later times; which I referve for another Volume.

This Priory crefted by Gundulph, and the number of her religious Votarics, taries, encrealed by him from fixe fecular Priefts, to threefcore blacke Ca-Priory of Ronons or Monkes, with ample reuenues for their maintenance, was, within chefter. the compaffe of one hundred yeares; what by cafuall fire, what by the falling out of the Monkes, and Bilhop Glanvill, and what by the calamities it fuftained in the warres of King Iohn, brought to that ruine and pouerty, that the beauty of all her goodly buildings was altogether defaced, her Church burned, her facred Vtenfiles, by robbery and fuites in law, embezelled, mifpent, and confumed, and the whole Couent greatly indebted.

Anno, 1179.3. Id. Aprilis Rofenfis Ecclefia cum omnibus officinis, de cum sota wrbe infra dy extra muros combusta est, anno 97. ex quo Monachi in cadem Ecclesiainstituti sunt.

It was now therefore high time, faith Mafter Lambard, to deuife fome way whereby this Priory and Church of Rochefter, might be, if not altogether, reftored to the ancient wealth and effimation, yet at the leaft fomewhat relieved from this penury, nakedneffe, and abiection. Therefore Lanrence of Saint Martins, Bilhop of this Church, and Councellour of King Henry the third, perceiuing the common people to bee fomewhat drawne (by the fraud of the Monkes) to tuinke reuerently of one William, that lay buried in the Church, and knowing well, that there was no one way, fo compendious to gaine, as the aduancement of a Pilgramage, procured at the Popes Court, the canonization of the faid William, with Indulgence to all fuch as would offer at his Tombe, vnderpropping by meanes of this new Saint, fome manner of reuerend opinion of the Church, which before (through the defacing of the old Bilhop Paulinus his Shrine) was declined to naught.

This Saint William was by birth a Scot of Perthe, by trade of life a Baker of bread; in charitie fo abundant, that hee gaue to the poore the tenth loafe of his workmanship, in zeale fo feruent, that in vow he promifed, and in deed attempted to vifit the holy Land, and the places where Chrift was converfant on earth. In which iourney, as he paffed through Kent, he made Rochefter his way, where after that he had refted two or three dayes, he departed toward Canterbury, but cre he had gone farre from the Citie, his feruant that waited on him, led him (of purpole) out of the high-way, and spoyled him both of his money and life. This done, the feruant efcaped, and the Mafter (becaufe he dyed in fo holy a purpole of minde) was by the Monkes conueyed hither to Saint Andrewes, laid in the Quire, and promoted by the Pope, as you have heard, from a poore Baker to a bleffed Martyr. Here (as they fay) he fhewed miracles very pientifully, which made people of all forts offer vnto him wondrous liberally, euen vntill thefe latter times; infomuch, that with two yeares oblations at his Shrine, one William de Hoo, a Sacrift, or keeper of the holy treasures, of this Church, built the whole Quireas it now flands.

Richard Walden a Monke and facrift, built the South Ifle, Richard Eaftgate, a Monke and Sacrift, began the North Ifle of the new worke, towards Saint Williams gate, which Frier William de Axenham almost finished.

Geffery de Hadenham Prior, payed thirteene hundred pounds in one day, to certaine creditours, to whom this Church flood indebted, fince the time of her troubles, the fame man bought certaine lands in Banerkin, and Darent,

To which, or rather to the high Altar, Hayme, Bilhop of this Dioceffe, offered vp a pretious Miter, which fometime belonged to Archbilhop Becket, and which hee bought of the Executours of Iohn Bilhop of Norwich. Thus by the gaines of William, the Bakers Shrine, and by the pious endeauours and bounteous donations of diuers well disposed perfons, this Monastery was in short time reedified, adorned, and aduanced to her former height, glory, wealth, and effimation. So that it was valued by the Committioners of the late fuppreffion, at foure hundred eightie fixe pounds, eleuen fhillings, fiue pence, by yeare.

Sir Philip Sidney knight.

The Epitaph for Manf. Beniuet:

from William de Sidney, Chamberlaine to king Henry the fecond. Out of which came (faith Camden) Sir Henry Sidney, that renowned Lord Deputy of Ireland, who of the daughter of Iohn Dudley, Duke of Northumberland, and Eatle of Warwicke, begat Philip and Robert, whom our late Soueraigne Lord King Iames created Baron Sidney of Penfhert, Vifcount Lifle, and Earle of Leicefter. And to giue more luftre to these foresaid honours, he was elected knight and companion of the honourable Order of the Garter, at an extraordinarie Chapter holden at Greenwich, the day of May, Ann. 1616. and enstalled at Windfor the feuenth of Iuly next following. This Earle dyed the day of .... Ann.

But here I cannot paffe ouer in filence Sir Philip Sidney the elder brother, being (to vfe Camdens words) the glorious flarre of this family, a liuely patterne of vertue, and the louely ioy of all the learned fort, fighting valiantly with the enemy before Zutphen in Gelderland, dyed manfully. This is that Sidney, whom, as Gods will was, he fhould be therefore borne into the world, euen to fhew vnto our agea fample of ancient vertues : fo his good pleafure was, before any man looked for it, to call for him againe, and take him out of the world, as being more worthy of heauen then earth. Thus we may fee, perfect vertue fuddenly vanisheth out of fight, and the beft men continue not long.

Seigneur Des Accords in his booke entituled, Les Bigarrures (a mifcellanie or hotch-potch of fundry collections) amongst many choice Epitaphs, hath one, felected out of the works of Ifaac du Bellay, the French Poet, excellently composed, to the memory of Sieur de Boniuet, a great Gommander in the warres; which by fome English wit was happily imitated, and ingeniously applyed to the honour of this our worthy chieferaine Sir Philip; written vpon a Tablet, and fastened to a pillar in S.Pauls Church London, the place of his buriall, as the fequele will more plainly shew.

La France, et le Piemont, les cieux, et les Arts, Les Soldats, et le Mondeont fait comme fix parts, De ce grand Bonniuet : cor vne fi grand chofe, Dedant vn feul tombeau ne pouuoit estre enclose.

La France en ale corps, que elle aurit essene: Le Piemont a le ceur, qu'il anoit esproune: Lescieux en ont l'esprit, et les Arts la memoire, Les Soldats le regret, et le monde la gloire.

In English as followeth.

France, and Piemont, the Heauens, and the Arts, The Souldiers and the world haue made fixe parts, Of Great Bonniuet: for who will fuppole, That onely one Tombe can this man enclose?

France hath his body, which the bred and well loued, Piemont his heart, which his valour had proued. The Heauens haue his foule, the Arts haue his Fame, The Souldiers the griefe, the world his good name.

within the Dioceffe of Rochester.

A briefe Epitaph vpon the death of that most valiant, and perfect honorable Gentleman, Sir Philip Sidney, knight, late Gouernour of Flushing in Zealand, who received his deaths wound at a battell neare Zutphen in Gelderland, the 22. day of September, and dyed at Arnhem the 16. day of October, 86. Whole Funeralls were performed, and his body interred, within this Cathedrall Church of Saint Paul in London, the 16. day of February next following in the yeare of our Lord God, 1586.

England, Netherland, the Heauens, and the Arts, The Souldiers and the world haue made fixe parts, Of noble Sidney: For who will fuppole, That a finall heape of ftones can Sidney enclose?

Sit Philip Sidneys Epit.

England hath his body, for fhe it fed, Netherland his bloud in her defence fhed : The Heauens haue his foule, the Arts haue his Fame, The Souldiers the griefe, the world his good Name.

These Elegies also following, penned in the praise of the faid Philip, by our late Soucraigne Lord King Iames, that fole Monarch of many Nations, giue a glorious lustre to his Heroicke actions.

In this ruinous Church, which (like the Caftle) carries with it a flew of venerable antiquitie, I finde no funerall Monument of elder times remarkable; in the north window onely are depicted the pourtraitures of the Lord Hugb Stafford, kneeling in his coate-armour, and his Bow-bearer Thomas Bradlaine by him, with this infeription.

Orate pro animabus Domini Hugonis Stafford, et Thome Bradlaine Ar-

This Hugh Lord Stafford, afterwards Earle of Buckingham, was Lord of this Mannor of Tunbridge, by his grandmother Margaret, the onely daughter and heire of Sir Hugh Audley, Earle of Glocefter; of whom hereafter, when I come to Stone in Staffordfhire, the place of his buriall:

Neare to the ruinous walls of the Caftle, flood a Priory pleafantly feated, which in the fhipwracke of fuch religious ftructures, was dafht all a peeces: founded by Richard de Clare, Earle of Gloucefler, about the yeare 1241. for Canons of Saint Augustines order, and confectated to S. Mary Magdalen: Which Priory was valued by the Committioners at the fuppreffion to be yearely worth 169.1. 10.5.3.d.

This Richard the founder dyed at Emmersfield, in the Mannor-houle of Iohn Lord Crioil here in Kent; 14. Iulij, Ann. 1262. his bowels were buried at Canterbury, his body at Tewsbury, and his heart here in his owne Church at Tunbridge. Sir Henry de Cobbam knight, Lord of Roundall, a Mannor within this Parifh ; where now fcarce the ruines appeare, to direct one where the house ftood. Hee is buried croffelegged, with his coat-armes on his robe, about whofe Tombe in an old Character thus much may be read.

Icy gift Sir Henri de Gobeham Sheualer Signeour de Roundall.Dieu de fa .....

The Lieger booke of Feuersham makes mention of one Henry Lord Cobham, who liued in great honour in the raignes of Edward the first, and Edward the fecond: thefe are the words, but I thinke this is not the man which lyes here entombed.

Regnante Edwardo cius nominis primo etiamque secundo floruit Henricus Dominus de Cobham, primus totius Anglie Iusticiarius, nec non Dorentium Caftrorum, Roucestrie ac Tunbridge Prefectus & quinque Portuum Gardianus, vxorem duxit Iohannam filiam & vnam Heredum Domini Stephani de Pynchester militis, qui vero Stephanus prius Castri Dorensis gubernationem ante Cobhamum tenuit. Alicia vero natu minor Stephani de Pynchester filia, & vna Heredum in virum accepit Dominum Philippum de Columbaris militem, ex qua duos suscepit filios, Stephanum & Thomam, qui fine herede Patrimonium omne à patre acceptum reliquit. Hiis testibus. Dom. Gualfride Domino de Say, Ottone de Grandisono, Rogero de Hengham, Gulielmo de Cheynie, Gulielmo de Owre, Radulpho de Sauage militibus.

Thus have you partly feene the honours and honourable marriages, the height and downfall of an eminent and right ancient family : Of which no more vntill I come to Lingfield, and the Parish Church of Sterborrow in Surrey.

This Priory (for fo it was called by the Founder) was taken (as all the reft) into the hands of king *Hen*ry the eight: of which he made a fit dwelling place for himfelfe, and his Succeffours, which remaines to this day, howfocuer fomewhat ruinous. But will it pleafe you perufe this Memorandum, not impertinent to this matter, in the vifitation of Kent, and Suffex, made by Clarentieux Beuolt, the 21. yeare of king Henry the eight, Dame Elizabetb Crefner being Lady Prioreffe of Dartford at that time.

Memorand. that the faid Lady doth witneffe, that king Edward the third was firft Founder of the faid place: and the fecond Founder was king Richard the fecond. And in the faid place lieth buried the Lady Bridget, daughter to king Edward the fourth, a religious woman in the fame place. Alfo Dame Ioane, daughter to the Lord Scrope of Bolton, and Prioreffe of the fame place: and Dame Margaret daughter of the Lord Beaumont, alfo fometime Prioreffe of the fame place. And alfo there lyeth daughter and wife to Sir Maurice Berkeley.

This Lady Bridget here interred, was the fourth daughter of Edward the fourth, by his wife Queene Elizabeth, fhe was borne at Eltham, here by, the tenth of Nouember, 1480. She tooke the habite of Religion when fhe was young, and fo spent her life in contemplation vnto the day of her death: which happened about the yeare 1517. the eight of King Henry the eight.

The finall diffolution of Pri-ories Aliens.

This Parifh Church is confectated to the honour of Saint Alphege, fometime Archbilhop of Canterbury, who fuffered martyrdome muchwhat about the fame place where it now frandeth. Which Alphege (borne of great parentage, brought vp in good learning, preferred first to the Bihopricke of Winchefter, then to this of Canterbury ; a man admired for his ftrict manner of life, and holy exhortations, by both which hee conuerted many vnto Chrift) was cruelly put to death by the Danish Pagans, with many exquifite torments, in the yeare of our Lord, a thouland and twelue. Of which, in William Malmesbury, Camden, and the Catalogue of Bifhops, you may reade more at large. It was long before thefe bloudy exc. cutioners would fuffer his bodie to bee committed to the earth, after the manner of Christian decencie; yet at length that fauour was obtained, and his body here first buried; from whence within a short time after, his reliques were remoued to Saint Pauls London, and from thence (at the commandement of king Knute) to Canterbury. He was canonized; and the 19. day of Aprill allowed for celebration of his memory.

Some write, that like another Stephen, he was ftoned to death, that like him he prayed for his enemies ; and that Turkill (general of those Danes) was concerted to the faith, at the fight of his constant martyrdome.

Here fometime flood an houle of obferuant Friers, which came hither about the latter end of the raigne of King Edward the fourth, at whofe hands they obtained a Chantrie, with a little Chappell of the holy Croffe, a place yet extant in the Towne; and king Henry the feuenth builded for them an houfe adioyning to the Pallace, which is there yet to be feene.

Here in this Towne was another Monastery of Friers Minorites, and Aliens, founded by King Edward the third, and the forefaid Iohn Norbury: Gg 2 which Chetham. And here give me leave(curteous Reader) to turne backe to this Church fituate neare Rochefter, onely to fet downe a ftrange buriall in this Churchyard, thus related by Lambard in his perambulation of Kent.

Although (faith he) I have not hitherto, at any time, reade any memorable thing recorded in Hiftory, touching Chetham it felfe, yet, for fo much as I have often heard (and that conftantly reported) a Popifh illufion done at that place; and for that alfo it is as profitable to the keeping vnder of fained and fuperstitious religion, to renew to minde the Priestly practifes of old time (which are declining to obliuion) as it is pleafant to retaine in memory the monuments and Antiquities of whatfocuer of other kinde: I thinke it not amifle, to commit faithfully to writing, what I have received credibly by hearing, concerning the Idols, fometime knowne by the names of our Lady, and the Roode of Chetham and Gillingham. It happened (fay they) that the dead corps of a man (loft through thipwracke belike) was caft on land in the Parifh of Chetham,& being there taken vp, was by fome charitable perfons committed to honeft buriall within their Churchvard: which thing was no fooner done, but our Lady of Chetham finding her felfe offended therewith, arole by night, and went in perfon to the houfe of the Parifh-Clerk (which then was in the ftreet, a good diffance from the Church) and making a noife at his window, awaked him. This man at the first (as commonly it fareth with men disturbed in their rest) demanded, fomewhat roughly, who was there : But when he vnderftood by her owne answer, that it was the Lady of Chetham, he changed his note, and most mildly asked the caufe of her comming. She told him, that there was lately buried neare to the place where the was honoured, a finfull perfon, which to offended her eye with his gaftly grinning, that, vnleffe he were remoued, fhe could not, but (to the great griefe of good people) withdraw her felfe from that place, and ceafe her wonted miraculous working in that place amongft them. And therefore fhe willed him to go with her, to the end that (by his helpe) fhe might take him vp and caft him againe into the River. The Clerke obeyed, arole and waited on her toward the Church : but the good Lady (not wonted to walke) waxed weary of the labour, and therefore was enforced, for very want of breath, to fit downe in a bufh by the way, and there to reft her. And this place (forfooth) as alfo the whole track of their journey (remaining euer after a greene path) the Towne-dwellers were wont to thew. Now after a while, they go forward againe, and comming to the Churchyard, digged vp the body, and conucyed it to the waters fide, where it was first found.

This done, our Lady thranke againe into her Shrine, and the Clerke packed home to patch vp his broken fleepe, but the corps now effloones floated vp and downe the Riuer, as it did before. Which thing being at length effied by them of Gillingham, it was once more taken vp and buried in their Church-yard. But fee what followed vpon it, not onely the Roode of Gillingham (fay they) that a while before was bufie in beftowing miracles, was now deprined of all that his former vertue : but alfo the very earth and place, where this carcafe was laid, did continually for euer after fettle and finke downeward.

This tale received by tradition (faith my forefaid Author) from the Elders, was long fince both commonly reported, and faithfully credited of the vulgar fort, which although haply you fhall not at this day learne at every mans mouth (the Image being now many yeares fithence defaced) yet many of the aged number remember it well, and in the time of darknes, Hac erat in toto notifima fabula mando.

Orford.

The fields about this Village are filled with the dead bodies of many brane Souldiers, here flaine in two famous fet battels : whereof the one happened amongst the Saxons themselues, contending for glory and fupreme Soueraigntie. The other betweene the Danes and Saxons, ftriuing for lands, lines, and libertie. In the first offa the king of Mercia (hauing already joyned to his Dominion the moft part of Weltfex, and Northumberland, and feeking to have added Kent alfo) preuailed against the Inhabitants of this countrey, not without great flaughter of his owne fubicets. alrick the king of Kent was here flaine by the hands of Offa himfelfe. Whole ouerthrow was the leffe difhonourable, for that hee had the courage to withftand in fingle opposition, fo puiffant and impugnable an enemy. This Alrick was the laft Kentish king that held the Scepter in a lineall fucceffion; the reft that followed, both got and enioyed it by tyranny and vfurpation. Hee is faid to have raigned 34. yeares; and to have beene thus vanquilhed in the yeare of Grace, 793. The place of his buriall, whether here with his difcomfited fouldiers, or at Canterbury with his royall Anceftours, is to me vucertaine:

In the fecond battell, Edmund the Monarch of the Englishmen (furnamed for his great firength Ironfide) obtained against Canutus the Dane, a most honourable victory, committing v pon the Danes such flaughter, and bloudy hauocke, that if they had not better trusted to their heeles then to their hands (flying toward the Isle of Shepey) hee had that day made an end of the whole Danish armie: and by all likelihood the warres had ceased betwixt those two Nations for euer. In this battell Canute lost foure thoufand and fiue hundred men; and king Edmund onely fix hundred. It was fought in the yeare, 1016.

One Bartilmew (faith Lambard) a Saint, was holden in great veneration at this Towne of Otford. His feaft day was kept folemnly here, both with a faire and good fare, euer vpon Saint Bartholomewes day : he was much frequented (by the Parishioners and neighbours about) for a most rare and fingular propertie that he professed. For the manner was, that if any woman (conceiued with childe) defired to bring forth a male, the should offer to Saint Bartilmew a cocke-chicken: and if her wish were to be deliuered of a female, the should then prefent him with a Hen. This Saint questionlesse was a good Purucyor of Poultrie for the Parson of the Towne,

Not farre from Otford, in the fame valley, called Holmes Dale (that is to fay, the Dale betweene the wooddie hills) many expert worthy Com- manders, and valiant common fouldiers lie interred: For here the people of Kent being encouraged by the profperous fucceffe of Edward their king (the fonne of Æl/red , and commonly furnamed the Elder) affembied themfelues, and gaue to the Danes, that had many yeares before afflicted them, a moft fharpe and fierce encounter, in the which after long fight they preuailed, and the Danes were ouerthrowne and vanquilhed, in the yeare of Grace, 904. This victory (faith Lambard ) and the like cuent in another battell giuen to the Danes at Otford, which alfo ftands in the fame valley, begat, as I geffe, the common by word, vfed amongft the inhabitants of this vale cuen till this prefent day, in which they vaunt after this manner. #### Ancient Funerall Monuments 340 Of all the English Shires be thou furnamd the free, And formoft euer plac't, when they fhall reckoned bee, And let this Towne, which chiefe of thy rich countrey is, Of all the British Sees be still Metropolis. Of their throwing off the Norman yoke, his learned Illuftrator Selden thus (peakes. To explaine it, faith he, I thus English you a fragment of an old Monke: When the Norman Conquerour had the day, hee came to Douer Caffie, that he might with the fame fubdue Kent alfo ; wherefore Stigand, Archbilhop, and Egelfin Abbot, as the chiefe of the Shire; obferring that now whereas heretofore no Villeins (the Latine is, Nullus fuerat ferum, and applying it to our Law phrase I translate it) had beene in England, they thould bee now all in bondage to the Normans, they affembled all the County, and lhewed the eminent dangers, the infolence of the Normans, and the hard condition of Villenage : they refoluing all rather to die then lofe their freedome, purpole to encounter with the Duke for their countries liberties. Their Captaines are the Archbishop and the Abbot. Vpon an appointed day they meete all at Swanefcombe, and harbouring themfelues in the woods, with Boughs in cuery mans hand, they incompatie his way. The next day, the Duke comming by Swanefcombe, feemed to fee with amazement, as it were a wood approaching towards him; the Kentilh men at the found of a Trumpet take themfelues to Armes, when prefently the Archbishop and Abbot were fent to the Duke, and faluted him with thefe words: Behold, Sir Duke, the Kentish come to meete you, willing to receive you as their Liege Lord, vpon that condition , that they may for euer enioy their ancient Liberties and Lawes vied among their Anceftors; otherwife, prefently offering warre; being ready rather to die, then vndergo a yoke of bondage, and loofe their ancient Lawes. The Norman in this narrow pinch, not fo willingly, as wifely, granted the defire : and hoftages given on both fides, the Kentishmen direct the Normans to Rochester, and deliuer them the County and the Caffle of Douer. Againe for this honour of the Kentish in having the foremost place in Io. Sarisbur. de euery battell, he delivers thus much out of an old Author, who writ in La-Nugis Curial. i.6 ca 18. tine about the time of Henry the fecond. by English valour, is apparant in that vntill this day, the Kentish men for their fingular vertue then flowne, have prerogative alwayes to bee in the a peece out of Gamden, the like in effect as before.

The fame commendation of civilitie and curtefie (faith he) which Cafar in old time gaue the Inhabitants of Kent, is yet of right due vnto them: that I may not speake of their warlike prowelle, whereas a certaine Monke hath written; How the Kentilhmen fo farre excelled, that when our armies are ready to ioyne battell, they of all Englishmen, are worthily placed in the front, as being reputed the most valiant and refolute fouldiers. Which

Iobn of Salisbury verifieth alfo in his Polycraticon. For good defert (faith he) of that notable valour, which Kent flewed fo puiffantly, and patiently against the Danes, it retaineth ftill vnto these dayes, in all battels, the honour of the first and fore-ward, yea and of the first conflict with the enemy. In praise of whom William of Malmesbury hath likewife written thus. The countrey people and Towne-dwellers of Kent, aboue all Englishmen retaine still the refent of their ancient worthiness. And as they are more forward, and readier to giue honour and entertainment to others, fo they are more flow to take reuenge vpon others.

Lambard in his perambulation speaking of the Estate of Kent, faith, The people of this countrey confisteth chiefly (as in other countries also) of the Gentrie and the Yeomanrie, of which the first be, for the most part, Gouernors, and the other altogether gouerned: whole posses also were at the first distinguished, by the names of Knights fee, and Gauelkinde : that former being proper to the warriour, and this latter to the husbandman. But these tenures long fince haue beene so indifferently mixed and confounded in the hands of each fort, that there is not now any note of difference to be gathered by them.

The revenues of the Gentric are greater here then any where elfe, which thing groweth not fo much by the quantitie of their poffeffion, or by the fertilitie of their foile, as by the benefit of the fituation of the countrey it felfe. Which hath all that good neighbourhood, that Mare, Cate, and other old Authors in husbandrie, require in a well placed Graunge, that is to fay, the Sea, the River, a populous Citie, and a well traded high-way, by the commodities whereof, the fuperfluous fruites of the ground be dearely fold, and confequently the land may yeeld a greater rent.

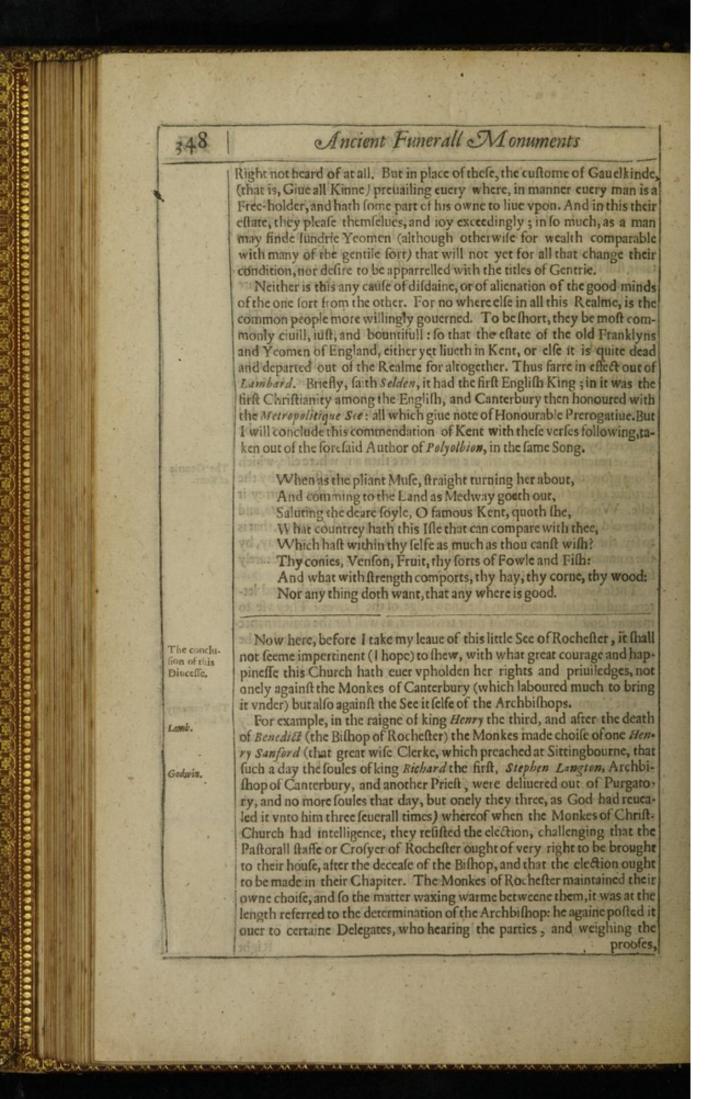

These Gentlemen bee all (for the most part) acquainted with good letters, and especially trained in the knowledge of the Lawes : They vse to manure some large portion of their territories, as well for the maintenance of their families, as also for their better increase in wealth. So that they be well employed, both in the publique service, and in their owne particular, and do vse hawking, hunting, and other disports, rather for their recreation, then for an occupation or passime:

The Ycomanrie or common people (for fo they be called of the Saxon word gemen, which fignificth common) is no where more free and iolly then in this Shire : for befides that they themfelues fay in a clayme (made by them in the time of king Edward the first) that the Communaltie of Kent was neuer vanquished by the Conquerour, but yeelded it felfe by composition: And belides Gernasius Dorobernens. (or Gernus a Monke in Canterbury, who flourished in the raigne of king Henry the first) affirmeth that the fore-ward in all battels belongeth to them (by a certaine preheminence) in right of their manhood. And it is agreed by all men, that there were neuer any bondmen (or villaines as the law calleth them) in Kent. Neither bee they here fo much bounden to the Gentrie by Copyhold, or cuftomarie tenures, as the Inhabitants of the westerne Countries of the Realmebe, nor at all indangered by the feeble hold of Tenant Right, (which is but a defcent of a tenancie at will) as the Common people in the Northerne parts be : for Copyhold tenure is rare in Kent, and Tenant Right proofes, gaue fentence with the Monkes of Rochefter, and yet loft (as they thought) good loue and amity among them. But (as the Poet faith) Male farta gratia, nequicquam coit, fed refeinditur: Fauour that is cuill pecced, will not ioyne clofe, but falleth afunder. And therefore this their opinion failed them, and their cure proued but to be patched : for foone after, the fore brake out anew, and the Canterbury Monkes reviued their difpleafure with fuch a heat, that Hubert of Burgh, Earle of Kent, and chiefe Iuflice of England, was driven to come into the Chapter house and coole it, and to worke a fecond reconciliation betweene them. Neither for all that (as it may feeme) was that flame quite extinguished. For not long after, viz. Ann. 1238. the Monkes of Chrift-Church feeing that they themfelnes could not preuaile, intituled their Archbishop Edmund, with whom alfo the Rochefter Monkes waged law at Rome before the holy Father (as touching the election of Richard Wendeover, whom they would have had Bifhop) by the fpace of three whole yeares together : and at the length, either through the equitie of the caufe, or the weight of their purfe (faith my Author) ouerthrew him, vpon Saint Cutbberts day, in ioy whereof, Lamb. they returned home with all haft, and enacted in their Chapter houfe, that from thenceforth, for euer, Saint Cuthberts feaft (as a Trophey of their vi-(tory) fhould be holden double, both in their Church and Kitchin.

And not thus onely, but otherwife alfo, hath the See at Rochefter well holden her owne : for during the whole fucceffion of fourefcore Bifhops and one (as I haue faid before) which in right line haue followed Iuffau, the hath continually maintained her chaire at this one place: whereas in moft parts of the Realme befides, the Sees of the Bifhops haue fuffered fundrie tranflations, by reafon that in the Conquerours time, order was taken, that fuch Bifhops, as before had their Churches in countrey Townes and Villages, fhould forthwith remoue, and from thenceforth remaine in walled Townes and Cities: which ordinance could not by any meanes touch Rochefter, that was a walled Citie long time before king Williams gouernment.

Sir Philip Ballet knight, gaue Drayton to the Deane and Chapter, to the entent that they fhould pay 15.1. for ever to three Chapleynes, for the like feruice of faying Maffe, and his Executours gaue Hayrstead, out of which there was yearely spent five pounds for an Obit.

The Executors of lohn of Gaunt, Duke of Lancafter, gaue to this Church the Mannors of Bowes, and Peclelhoufe in Midlefex, for the maintenance of certaine Priefts, to fing Maffe for his foule. And of these Mannors the Church was poffelt vntill the latter end of king Henry the eight.

The Churches of Willefdon, Sunbury, Brickefley, Rickling, and Aueley, were impropriated to the Deane, and Chapter, by diuers Bifhops; the Impropriations whereof were theirs at that time.

Besides their lands and reuenues in the countrey, these Churchmen had diuers houses in the Citie, which were granted sometime Deo et Santie Paulo, sometime Deo et Santi Pauli servientibus, sometime Santie Paulo et Canonicis. Of these I have seene many deeds, among which one is most remarkable, dated in the yeare I 141. the fixth of king Stephen, and fastened with a labell to the end of a flicke, of what wood I know not, howsocuer it remaines to this day free from worme holes, or any the least corruption, not fo much as in the barke. Whereby one Robert Fitz-Gousbert, for his sould be health, gives vnto this Church a certaine parcell of land, or an house, containing eight foot in breadth, and fixe in length. Vpon which wood, or sticke, these words following are very faire written, Per hoc lignum oblata est terra Roberti filig Gousberti fuper altare Santii Pauli in fesse amnium Santtorum. Testibus, dec.

But to make an end of this discourse. Primitiua Ecclesse Sancti Pauli London fundatio (faith the Lieger booke) confisti in Episcopo, triginta maioribus Canonicis, duodecim minoribus, et triginta vicarijs : which difters from her present state, hauing at this time for her gouernours, a Bishop, a Deane, a Precentor, a Chancellour, a Treasurer, and five Archdeacons, viz of London, Middlesex, Effex, Colchester, and S. Albons, and thirty Prebendaries; and besidesto furnish the Quire in divine service, Pety-Canons twelve, Vicars Chorall fix, and ten Queristers, &c.

This Bithopricke comprehends the Citie of London, with the counties of Middlefex, and Effex, and the Deanries of Saint Albans, and Braughing in Hertfordfhire. And is valued in the kings bookes at 1119.1. 3.5 4.d. and yeelded the Pope from euery Bithop at his first entrance 3000. Florins, befides fixteene pounds ten fhillings for Rome-fcot, or Peter pence. But now to the Monuments.

Richard Firz-Iames Bithop of London. wich (yet I finde no fuch Bilhop of that See in the Catalogue) fometime Archdeacon of Midlefex, and Chancellour of England. Much what about that time, a man that lived in the hatred of most people, whom the old Englifh Chronicle calleth a faile peeld Prieft: thefe are the words ; Robart Balbos his falle pilide Chanceler (being as then Chancellour to Ed. ward the fecond) and in another place, De pilide clerk Robart Baldoh, pe fals Chanceler, Yet this pilide fals clerk was euer trew to the King his Lord and Mafter : for which he was taken and imprifoned in Newgate London, wherein he milerably ended his dayes. Of which thus writeth the Author of the booke of Durham. Robertus de Baldock Cancellarius 1325. captus cum Hugonibus de desper sers, quia Clericus fuit & Sacerdos in noua porta Londiniarum poni fecit Edwardus Princeps et Ifabellamater eines, vbi pro nimia miferia mortuus fuit infra breue. But to returne to Raph (for I have fomewhat digreffed from the matter) Bilhop of this Dioceffe, who, when from his first confirmation by Robert of Winchelley, Bishop of Canterbury, he had fate about eight yeares, died on S. James his Euc, 1212. at Stell.

Here lyeth buried Michaell Northbrooke, Bilhop of this See, Doctor of Law, who had his election confirmed Iuly 7. 1355. and died of the plague, Septemb.9. 1361. at Copford. This Bilhop gaue a cheft with a thouland Markes; which money was to bee lent to the poore vpon fecuritie: as appeares by his will.

Michael de Northburghe nuper Episcopus Lond, legauit in testamento suo, sic. Item lego ad faciend. Unam cistam que stabit in Thefauria Sančti Pauli mille Marcas in eadem includend. de quibus possit quilibet pauper & plebeus sub bona & excedenti pignore mutuo recipere decem libras, 1. Pars. Pat. Ann. 49. Ed.3. M.30.

Here lieth interred vnder a marble flone, neare to the Monument of Sir Chriftepher Hatton, the body of Richard Clifford, Archdeacon of Canterbury, from which dignitie he was preferred to the Bifhopricke of VVorcefter, which he enioyed about fix yeares; and from thence tranflated to this See of London, which hee laudably gouerned thirteene yeares, and fome moneths: and died, Auguft 20. 1421. This Bifhop in the yeare 1414. trauelled to the Councell of Conflance, and preached in Latine before the Emperour, and other Eftates there affembled. In this Gouncell the long fchifne was ended, and Martin the fifth, called before Othe Celamna, Cardinall of Saint George, was cholen the fole Pope. The Councell thinking it meete that thirtie perfort fhould be added to the Cardinals in this election; this our Richard Clifford was one of that number. In which alfo there were fome that named him to the Papacie. Himfelfe was the first that named the Cardinall Columna: who thereupon, thereft confenting, was immediately elected.

Betweene the two pillars, next vnto the Steeple, on the North fide of the body of the Church, vnder a marble ftone, ouer which was built a kind of Tombe, or Chappell of wood, that by the burning of the fteeple was confirmed, and quite defaced; the body of *Rich. By his first wife Margaret (daughter and heire of William Longspee, grandchilde of William Longspee Earle of Salisbury) he had two fonnes, Edmand drowned in a Well in Denbeigh Castle; and Iohn, who died young : both of them dead before their father. And one daughter named Alice, married to Thomas Plantaginet, Earle of Lancaster. He died at his house, now called Lincolnes Inne in Chancerie-lane London, Feb. the fifth, 13 10. being threefcore yeares of age, as I haue it out of the booke of whalley, in these words. Ifte Henricus Comes Lincol. obijt Anno etatis Ix. Ann. Domini. M. CCC. X. in fefto Sancte Agathe Martyris circa gallicinium.

In the fame Chappell, dedicated to S. Dunftan, lieth Laurence Allerthorp, fometimes Canon of this Church, and Lord Treasurer of England, with this Infcription.

Hic iacet Laurentius Allerthorp quondam Thefaurarius Anglie, Canonicus de Stagiarius istins Ecclesie, qui migrauit ex hoc seculo mens. Iulij die 21. 1406.

This Allertborp being a man of no more eminencie in the Church then a Canon relident, was neuer thought of, or not beleeued, by the * Collector of the Lord Treasurers, to have alcended to such an honour, to that he lies here in a darkfome roome, as a facrifice to obliuion; fmall notice taken of him, except by fome few of the Churchmen. Now give mee leave to tell you, by way of digreffion, that howfocuer this Allerthorp was but one of the Canons relident, yet he was folely the one, and had most or all the reucnues of the reft in his hands; for (as the Records of this Church doe approue) those thirtie Canons vpon the primarie institution, called Canons Regular (because they led a regular life, and were perpetually refident) and afterwards huing abroad, and neglecting the bulinefie of their Ghurch, became to be called Canons lecular, contenting themfelnes with the title of Canon, and fome prebend affigned vnto them. Which annexing of lands to the Prebendarie was not till a long time after the first foundation: whereupon Pope Lucius by his Bull ordained, that the Ganons non-refident, fbouid not partake of the profits of the lands affigned to the common affaires of the Church, but onely fuch as were refident (the diuifion of the Churches lands having beene made before in the time of the Conquerour) and this Laurence Allerthorp, at and before the time of his Treafurship, was folus refidentiarius, and had the whole revenue of the reft at his owne difpoling, by way of Option, as it is called in the Lieger booke. But of this enough, if not too much. Then to conclude, howfocuer this Allerthorp be altogether excluded out of the Treatile of the Treasurers, and Sir John Northberie, knight, kceper of the privie Garderobe in the Tower, faid to be Lord Treasurer in the first, second, and third of king Henry the fourth: in which time the faid Allerthorp fhould enjoy that office, or not at all. Yet these words in his Patent, together with this Epitaph, do approue him to Edward the blacke Prince tooke fuch affection to this Sir Simon Burley for his valour, wifedome, and true feruice, that he committed to his gouernance his onely fonne (then living) Richard of Burdenx; who, being afterwards king of England, by the name of Richard the fecond, aduanced him to high honours, offices, and promotions : and nothing was done in matters of State without his appointment and direction. Thus hee continued alwayes loyall to his Soueraigne Lord the king ; yet liued in the hatred of the Peeres of the Land, as allo of the common people, for that he leaned to the partie of Robert de Veere, Earle of Oxford, Duke of Ireland, and the Stow. This flower of our English Garden, this learned father of the Law, this bleffed man (as this Epitaph would make him) was no better then a bribing Judge; for, being a chiefe Commiffioner for the gouernment of the kingdome, in the absence of Edward the first, he, with many others of his profellion, were, at the kings returne, found guiltie by act of Parliament, Iudges fined of manifest corruption, in their administration of Iustice, and deeply fined for briberie for fuch their intolerable extortions. This Sir Raph Hengham was a Norfolke man borne, as I haue it out of an old Record; these are the words. Disce mori mundo, vinere disce Deo.

Vnder his liuely pourtraiture, alluding to his artificiall Askelliton thefe words. Ifine recidit gloria carnis. Loue and liue.

His Monument is lately reuiued by the Companie of the myftery of Mercers, to whole charge he committed the ouerfight of S. Pauls Schoole, with lands worth an hundred and twenty pounds or better, of yearely value: for the maintenance of a Mafter, an Vlher, and a Chaplaine; to teach and inftruct one hundred fiftie and three poore mens children freely, withont any reward. And (as I am told) Vijs & modis, more comes to the Schoolemafter at this day, then the whole endowment.

Isom Bale faith, that of twenty and two children which his father Henry Collet (Mercer, and Lord Maior of London) had by Chriftian his wife, he was the onely childe liuing at his fathers death : that he died of the fweating fickneffe, aged fixtie three yeares : that he was brought vp in Oxford, that he trauelled into France and Italie ; that he difputed with the Sorbonifts in Paris, from whole Tenets hee much diffented ; that hee inuayed againft Monkes which did not leade an Euangelicall life; and Bilhops, Qui pro Paftoribus lupos agebant: that he was eraditione facundus ; that he write many Treatifes left in loofe papers, which, but by himfelfe, could not bee made perfect : That hee taught in his Sermons that it was vnlawfull for a Clergie man to accumulate riches, and for any man to worthip Images: that by Richard Fitz-Iames, then Bilhop of London, and two Minorites, Bricot and Standifb, he was accufed of herefie, and that his corps had beene caft out of his Tombe and burnt, if an vnexpected accident had not preuented his enemies defignes.

Gulielmo Lilio Paulina Schola olim preceptorio primario & Agneta Coningi, in facratifimo huius templi Camiterio, hinc a tergo nunc destructo consepultis : Georgius Lillius buius Ecclesie canonicus Parentum memoria pie consulens Tabellam hanc ab amicis conferuatam bic reponendam curauit. Obijt ille G. L. Ann. Dom. 1522. V. Calend, Mart. vixit annos 54.

This man, integer vita scelerisque purus, as Bale faith, lived for a certaine time in the Isle of Rhodes, and some yeares in Italie, where hee instructed himselfe in all good literature, and made himselfe perfect in many languages: withall he was quicke, apprehensive, and ingenious : and therefore entirely beloued of Sir Thomas Moore. He write divers bookes, but he is best knowne by his Grammer. Hee was borne in the Towne of Odiham in Hampshire.

I have read these rimes following, engraven in braffe, vpon a marbleftone, in the body of the Church, now stolne away.

> Istuc qui graderis paulum te sistere queso Et rogitans quid eris in me, nunc vermibuseso. Esto memor mortis, meditare frequenter Iona: Mors latet in portis, non est enitabilis hora. Essente loculos, pro Christo despice mundum. Clarificans oculos, vt cernas quo sit eundum. Nam quod quisque serit presentis tempore vite, Hoc sibi messis erit, cum dicitur, ite venite.

The fleight regard of the houfe of God, was a maine caufe of this kingdomes fubuerfion, as I have shewed before vpon the Epitaph of king Etheldred; and it hath ever beene, and more especially is in thefe our times, an vie for beaffly and vncleane perfons, to pollute and bedaube the doores and walls of the place where God is to be worfhipped, with piffe, or fome other more naftic excrements; againft the like irreverence to this goodly confectated Edifice of Saint Paul, divers prohibitions vpon certaine penalties have beene, and are daily, published in print, and passed vp in divers places, in and about the Church. And anciently this Atheisticall vncleanness (if I may so call it) was forbidden by a verfe depicted at every doore of this C hurch; fome part of which at the great South doore is yet remaining, which in my time might perfectly be read. Thus it runnes.

> Hie Locus hie facer eff, hie nulli mingere fas eff. This houfe is holy here : vnlawfull ti's For any one, here on her walls to piffe.

And ftrict orders were likewife published against Beggers, and bearers of burdens, in and thorow the Church : of the later fort these foure lines were fometimes fixed to a pillar, ouer an iron boxe for the poore.

> All those that shall enter within the Church doore, With burden or basket, must give to the poore. And if there be any aske what they must pay, To this Box a penny, ere they passe away.

It could be wilhed, that walking in the middle Ifle of Paules might be forborne in the time of Diuine feruice.

Richard the fecond, king of England, Ann. Reg. 8. made the pettie Canons here twelue in number, a Colledge, or fellow thip daily to meete and diet together in one Hall, whereas for a long time before they liued differfedly, and could not be fo ready to ferue the most Higheft in their holy exercifes. ### Ancient Funerall Monuments 374 for the foules of his and her progenitors, parents, and anceftors, and of all the faithfull people deceated. Howfoeuer the Story of Brute be denied by fome learned Authors, or Polyol. 1. Song. not permitted but by coniecture; as Seiden hath it in his Illustrations vpon Leland. ad Cyg. Cant. this verfe of Michaell Drayton, which now the envious world doth flander for a dreame. Yet because I finde him, in our Annals, to have beene buried here in this Citic, of his owne foundation, as both by reafon and authority it is ftrongly argued by a most indicious Antiquarie of the last age; I think it not amisse to fpeake fomewhat of him (efpecially) in this place, as the truth of the ftorie is generally received. Brate (the fonne of Silning, the fonne of Afcanius, who was the fonne Brute King of of Eneas the warlike Troian) being deliuered from the long captinitie vngreat Britaine. der the Grecians, with his wife Innogen and his people, departed from the coafts of Greece, and arrived in an Ifland, where they confulted with an Oracle, facred to Diana. Brute himfelfe kneeling before the Idoll, and holding in his right hand a boule prepared for facrifice full of wine,& the bloud of a white Hinde; made his imprecation to the Goddeffe to this effect in English. Thou Goddeffe that doeft rule the woods and forrefts greene, Gildas Cambrines And chafeft foaming boares that fly thine awfull fight: Thou that mayeft paffe aloft in acrie skies fo fheene; And walke eke vnder earth in places voide of light: Difcouer earthly ftates, direct our courfe aright, And thew where we thall dwell, according to thy will, In feats of fure abode, where Temples we may dight For Virgines that Ihall found thy laud with voices Ihrill. After this prayer and ceremonie done, according to the Pagan rite and cuftome, Brute abiding his answer, fell alleepe : in which fleepe appeared to him the faid Goddeffe vttering this anfwer. Brute, farre by Welt beyond the Gallike land is found An Ifle, which with the ocean feas inclosed is about. Where Giants dwelt fometime, but now is defart ground, Moft meet where thou maieft plant thy felfe with all thy rout. Make thither wards with fpeed ; for there thou Ihalt finde out An euer-during feat, and Troy shall rife anew, Vnto thy race, of whom shall kings be borne, no doubt, That with their mighty power the world shall whole subdew. Brute was no fooner awaked then that he related this his dreame or vifion to fuch of his companie, as he thought requilite to be acquainted with fuch a matter of importance; after great reioycing and ceremonious thankf giuing, they ioyntly refolued to fecke out this fortunate Ifland, and fo returned to their fhips, with great ioy and gladneffe, as men put in comfort to finde out the wilhed feats for their firme and fure habitations, prophefied Brute having taken a view of this Ifland, and deftroyed all fuch as flood against him, commanded that the Isle should be called Brutaine (which before was called Albion, peopled with gyants) and the inhabitants thereof Britaines, or Brutaines, allufiuely after his owne name. Within a fhort time after his arriuall, he laid the foundation of a Citie, which he named Troynouant, or new Troy (now London) vpon a plot of ground lying on the North fide of the river of Thames, which he built in remembrance of that noble City of Troy, from whence hee and his people were defcended, as alfo to bee the feat Royall, and chiefe Chamber of his imperiall kingdome. He alfo built a Temple to the honour of his Pagan Gods and Goddeffes. Which flood (by coniecture) in the fame place where now this Cathedrall Church of Saint Paul is creeted: in which idolatrous Archflamen he bequeathed his body to be buried. Here in his new Citic, when he had established certaine lawes, teaching his people to live after a civill order and fashion ; also to build townes and villages, to worthip the Gods, to till and plow the carth, to weare apparrell, to anoint and trimme their bodies : and to be fhort, to live after an humane manner, and had holden the regiment of this kingdome night nobly the space of twenty and source yeares, hee departed the world. Having parted his dominions into three parts, amongh his three fonnes, Locrine, Camber, and Albanact: with condition, that the two younger brethren fhould hold of the eldeft, and to him doe homage and fealtie.

But to returne backe againe to the ftory of the martyred boy, in derogation and delpite of Chriftian Religion.

Vpon the day of the Kalends of August, 1223. Ann. Reg. Hen. 3: the body of a young boy, in the Church-yard of S. Benet at Paules-wharfe, was found buried, vnder whole paps certaine Hebrew letters were infcribed: vpon his body diuers prints, markes, cuts, and rents, cauled by rods and whip-cords, belides many other fignes of various torments, by the faid boy fustained, were easie to be difcerned. The name of the boy was found out by those Characters; and withall, how that hee was fold by his Christian parents : but by whom, or to which of the Iewes hee was fold, or to what end, could neuer be knowne. Howfocuer it was concluded, that the buyers of the boy intended to have had him crucified. Yet crucified he was not; in regard no print of the nailes, either in his hands or feet, or any wound in his fide appeared. Many miracles were faid to be wrought at the graue, and by the reliques of this young innocent Martyr. Whereupon the Canons of Saint Pauls Church, tooke forcibly away the facred remaines of this holy Martyr, out of the faid Church-yard, and folemnly enfhrined them in their owne Church, not farrefrom the high Altar.

On the North fide of this Church was fometime a great Cloyfter, inuironing a plot of ground, called, Pardon Church-yard, whereof Thomas More, Deane of Pauls, was either the first builder, or an especiall benefactor, and was therein buried.

In this Gloyfter were buried many perfons; fome of worfhip, and fome of honour. The Monuments of whom (faith Stow in his furuay of London) in number and curious workmanship, passed all other that were in the great Church.

About the Cloyfter, was artificially and richly painted the dance of Death, commonly called, the dance of Pauls, the Picture of death leading all cftates:

In the midft of this Pardon Church-yard, was a faire Chappell, first founded by Gilbert Becket (Portgraue and principall Magistrate (as now the Lord Maior is) of this Citic, father of The. Becket the Martyr, Archbilhop of Canterbury) who was therein buried; in the raigne of King Stephen. Thomas More Deane of Pauls, before mentioned, reedified, or new builded this Chappell, and founded three Chaplaines there in the raigne of Henry the fifth.

In the yeare 1549. on the tenth of Aprill, the faid Chappell, by commandement of Edward Duke of Somerfet, Lord Protector, was begun to be pulled downe, with the whole Cloyfter, the Tombes and Monuments: fo that nothing of them was left, but the bare plot of ground, which is fince converted into a garden, for the Petty Ganons.

There was a Chappell at the North doore of Pauls, founded by Walter Sherington, Chancellour of the Duchie of Lancaster, by licence of King Henry the fixth, for two, three, or foure Chaplaines, indowed with fourty

There was on the North fide of Pauls Churchyard, a large charnellhoufe for the bones of the dead, and ouerit a Chappell, founded vpon this occafion as followeth.

In the yeare 1282, the tenth of Edward the first, it was agreed, that Henry Walles, Maior, and the Citizens, for the cause of Shops by them builded, without the wall of the Church-yard, should affigne to God, and to the Church of Saint Panl, ten Markes of rent by the yeare for euer, towards the new building of a Chappell of the bleffed Virgine Mary, and alfo to affigne fine Markes of yearely rent to a Chaplaine to celebrate there.

And in the yeare 1430, the 8. of Henry the fixth, licence was granted to lenken Carpenter, Towne-clerke of London (Executour to Richard Whittington) to eftablifh vpon the faid Charnell, a Chaplaine to hane eight Markes by the yeare. There was also in this Chappell two Brotherhoods.

Sir Henry Batton knight (the fonne of Henry Batton of Mildenhall in Suffolcke) Lord Maior of London, in the yeare 1427. Robert Batton, and Sir T bomas Mirfin knight (fonne to George Mirfin of Ely in Cambridgeihire) Lord Maior of this Citic, the yeare 1518. were entombed with their pourtraitures of Alabaster ouer them, grated, or coped about with iron, before the faid Chappell; all which with many other Tombes ann Monuments of the dead, were pulled downe, together with the faid Chappell; at the commandement likewife of the forenamed Duke of Somerfet.

The bones of the dead couched vp in the Charnell-houfe, vnder the Chappell, were conuayed from thence into Finsbery field, amounting to more then a thousand cart load (faith Store) and there laid on a moorish ground; in there store after raifed, by foilage of the Citie vpon them, to beare three Mills. The Chappell and charnell-house were converted to dwelling houses, warehouses, and theds before them for Stationers in place of the Tombes.

Neare vnto this Chappell was a bell houfe with foure Bells, the greateff in London, they were called lefus Bells, and belonged to lefus Chappell, the fame had a great fpire of timber, couered with lead, with the image of Saint Paul on the top; which was pulled downe by Sir Miles Partridge knight, in the raigne of Henry the eight. The common fpeech then was (faith Stow) that this Sir Miles Partridge did fet an hundred pound vpon a caft at dice against it, and fo wonne the faid Bell-houfe and Bells of the King: and then caufed the Bells to bee broken as they hung, and the reft pulled downe.

This Sir Miles was hanged on the Tower-hill the 26. of February, in the fixth yeare of Edward the fixth, for matters concerning the Duke of Somerfet: howfoener guiltleffe of any offence, either against the king, or his Gouncell, as he tooke it vpon his death.

There was a faire Chappell of the holy Ghoft, on the North fide of Pauls Church, founded in the yeare 1400. by Roger Holmes, Chancellour and Prebendary of Pauls, for feuen Chaplaines, and called Holmes Golledge. Their

Their common Hall was in Pauls Church yard on the South fide. This Colledge was suppressed in the raigne of Ed, the fixth.

In this Chappell were buried Adam de Bury, Alderman, and Lord Maior of London, in the yeare 1364.

Anne, the daughter of Iohn, Duke of Burgundy, the first wife of Iohn Plantaginet (third fonne of king Henry the fourth) Duke of Bedford, who died in the yeare 1433.

Sir Iohn Poultney knight, foure times Maior of London, in the yeare 1337. builded a faire Chappell on the North fide of Pauls Church; wherein he was buried. He founded a Colledge in the Parifh Church of Saint Laurence, called Poultney. Hee builded the Parifh Church of little Alhallowes in Thames fireet, and the Carmelite Friers Church in Couentrey. He gaue releafe in Newgate, and in the Fleet; and ten fhillings a yeare to Saint Giles Hofpitall by Oldborne for euer. And other Legacies (faith Stow, fpeaking of the Honour of Citizens) too long to rehearfe. He died about the yeare 1348. But of him I hauefpoken fomewhat before.

Vnder the Quire of Pauls, is a large Chappell, dedicated to the name of Iefu, by whom founded I do not know. But it was thus confirmed in the 37. of Hen. the fixth, as appeareth by his patent thereof, dated at Crow-downeto this effect.

Many liege men, and Chriftian people, having begun a Fraternitic, and Guild, to the honour of the moft glorious name of Iefu Chrift our Sauiour, in a place called the Crowds of the Cathedrall Church of Pauls in London, which hath continued long time peaceably, till now of late. Whereupon they have made requeft, and wee hauc taken vpon vs the name and charge of the foundation, to the laud of Almighty God, the Father, the Sonne, and the holy Ghoft, and efpecially to the honour of Iefu, in whofe honour the Fraternitic was begun, &c.

It was likewife confirmed by Hes. the 7. the 22. of his raigne, and by H. 8. the 27. of his raigne.

In this Chappelllieth buried, Margaret the eldeft daughter and coheire of Richard Beauchampe, Earle of Warwicke, fecond wife of Iohn, Lord Talbot (the Terrour of France) first of that Surname, Earle of Shrewsbury: But of her I haue spoken before.

Many haue beene here interred, as 10bn of London, vnder the Northroode, 1266. 10bn Louell; 10bn of Saint Olaue, and Sir Allen Boxhul; with others, as you may reade in the Suruay of London. This Sir Allen Boxhul was knight of the Garter, in Edward the thirds dayes, and neare vpon the first foundation of that honourable order. He was Constable of the Tower, custos of the Foress, and Parke of Clarendon, the Foress of Brokholt, Gronell, and Melebet, a man highly in fauour with the faid king Edward. Hee was buried by Saint Erkenwalds shrine; about the yeare 1380. And here I think it will not bee vnsitting to set downe the number of the Shrines sacred to the honour of diuers Saints in the Cathedrall Church, as they stood in the yeare 1245.

Here fometimes was a Shrine, with a portable coffin, in the fame place where Sir William Cockaines Tombe is created; with an Altar, built to the honour of God, the bleffed Virgine, S. There was likewise a Chantrie with an Altar facred to the bleffed Virgine Mary, contiguous to the Bishops pallace, and the body of the Church, founded by Sir Gerard Braybroke knight, Edmand Hamden, John Boys, Efquires, and Roger Albrighton, Clerke: for one Chantrie Priest daily to fay Masse, and pray for the foule of Robert Braybroke, Bishop of London, then huing, and for his foule whenfocuer he should passe out of this world. I gather by the premiffes, howfocuer I may be miltaken, I confelle, that the Court of Delegates is kept at this day, in the very place of the old Chantrie:

Many Chantries, Chappels, Oratories, Altars and Shrines, more then I have notice of, were erected, honoured and founded within the spacious vaft Fabricke of this Episcopall Chaire : the beauty whereof is fo magnificent (faith Malmesbury) that it deferueth to be numbered in the ranke of most excellent Edifices. It containeth in length fixe hundred and ninetic foot, the breadth thereof is one hundred and thirtie foot; the height of the West arched roofe from the ground, carrieth an hundred and two foot: and and the new Fabricke from the ground is fourefcore and eight foot high. The ftone worke of the Steeple from the plaine ground rifeth in height two hundred and threefcore foot: and the timber frame vpon the fame is two hundred feuenty foure foot high,&c. It was no leffe then fiue hundred and foure and thirty foot high from the ground, before that in the yeare of our Lord, 1087. it was fet on fire with lightning, and burnt with a great part of the Citie.

Noftre Dame, the Cathedrall Church in Paris, is much fpoken of for her magnitude, whole dimensions are there engrauen to shew the greatness thereof, in these verses following.

> Si tu veux scanoir comme est ample De Nostre Dame le graud Temple: Il a dans œuure pour le seur; Dix et sept toises de baulteur, Sur la largeur de vingt quatre: Et soixante cinq sans rabattre, A de long. Aux tours bault montees Trente quatre sont bien comptees Le tout fondé sur pilotis, Ainsi vray que ie te le dis.

Thus, in effect, in English.

If you would know the greatneffe of the great Church of our Lady, the roote thereof is feuenteene fathome high; it is twenty and foure fathome broad, fixtic and fiue fathome long; the two Steeples are thirtie and foure fathome high about the Church, and all founded vpon piles.

Now I leaue it to my Reader (taking a fathome for an Ell) to make the difference betwixt the ample extensure of these two religious fluctures.

Since the building and foundation of this Church and Bifhopricke of London by King Ethelbert (which is much-what about a thouland and twenty fixe yeares ago) eightic and nine Bifhops have fucceeded one another in this Hierarchie or holy gouernance, which at this day is right worthily ruled, ouerfeene, and guided by the right reverend Father in God, and prudent Statef-man, William Land, one of his Maiefties most honourable privic Councell.

And thus I will take leaue of this facred Edifice, and make a few fleps downe into the Parifh Church of Saint Faith; commonly called, S. Faiths vnder Pauls; wherein I do not finde any ancient funerall Infeription much remarkable, excepting one engrauen vpon the marble, which couers the body of one William Weft, a Canon of Saint Pauls, a Cardinall of the fame Church, a good companion, a man vniuerfall, affable, and curteous, a Fellow of faire demeanour amongst his Brotherhood, as hee is here stilled to his great commendation.

Now a word or two before I fet downe his Epitaph, of the title of Cardinall; Which is derived from the Latine word Cardo, the hooke or hing of a doore for as the doore hangs and depends on the binges, fo the Church on the Cardinalls. Or veluti Cardine regitur oftium, its Ecclefia regitur beno corum confilio: As the doore is ruled by its Hinges, fo the Church is governed

Ancient Funerall Monuments 384 gouerned by their good counfell. They are alfo accounted, by fome, ho. Pierius & alij. nourable increasers, Rulers and preferuers of all fuch matters which conduce to Chriftian pietie, and the defence of the Bilhops power and au, thoritic. In the See of Rome, at this day, they have the chiefest charge, and are diuided into three orders, that is to fay, of Bilhops, Priefts, and Deacons : not that the Cardinals Priefts be no Bifhops, or that the Deacons be not Priefts and Bilhops, but for that their first institution was such, some to carrie the titles of Bifhops, others of Priefts, and fome of Deacons. The Cardinalls which are Bilhops, fit neare vnto the Pope, when hee doth celebrate Feftiuall dayes : The Cardinalls Priefts affift him when he faith Maffe : and the Deacons attire him, and ferue him at the Altar. They have there their Colledge, whereof the Pope is head ; the number of them hath not beene certaine in our dayes : at this time there are about fixty and eight; although we find that in former ages, they were but twelue, after the example of the Apoftles: They affemble themfelues together once or twice a weeke, as affaires of importance come to their confiderations; and this their affemblie is called the Confiftory ; where they treat (or at leaft they ought to treat) of all things, which belong vnto the faith and Religion; to the peace of Christians, and to the prefervation of the temporall cftate of the Church. I finde nothing of Cardinalls vntill the dayes of Gregory the Great. Que Sir Hen. Speltempore Episcopi indifferenter Cardinales faciebant, et Papa Cardinales in man Gloff. tu.C. Episcopos promouebat. Yet some are of opinion, that the first beginning of Cardinals was in the time of Pontianus the Pope, which was circa Ann. 231. and Marcellus after him, circa Ann. 304. ordained fifteene, or rather twenty five Cardinals in the Citie of Rome, propter Baptifmata et fepulturas bominum. And when as first these Cardinals were instituted in the Romane Church, Pauperculi erant Roma in fuis titulis babitantes. They were poore and neceffitous, living at Rome in their owne titles. And Gregory the Great, in one of his Epiftles to Maximian the Bilhop of Syracufa, writes the like of the pouertie of one Felix, a Deacon Cardinall. For whole fuftentation he thus prouides! Sustentationem eius pietatis intuitu prouidentes, in tua Ecclesia Syracu-Regift. lib. 3. Epift. 14. lana, eum premidimus cardinandum, Erc. fiue vt officium Diaconatus expleat, se certe vt fola einsdem officij, pro sustentanda paupertate sua, commoda confequatur. Howfoeuer then, that the Cardinals of Rome at this day doe abound in all affluence of riches; and like ftately Cedars, looke ouer the fmaller fprigs of the Clergie: yet confidering the Primitiue times, our Cardinals of Saint Pauls are not to be contemned for their meane competencie of lively hood: having fufficient to maintaine their reuerent comportment. Of whom give me leaue to speake a little out of the Records of the Church. The Church of Saint Paul had before the time of the Conquerour, two Cardinals of S. Paul. Cardinalls, which office still continues. They are chosen by the Deane and Chapter, out of the number of the twelue petty Canons, and are called Gardinales chori: the Cardinals of the Quire. Horum

Thefe two Cardinals doe minister Ecclefiasticall Sacraments to the Minifters of the Church and their feruants, as well to the healthfull as to the ficke.

They heare Confeffions, and appoint comfortable Penance : and laftly they commit the dead to conuenient Sepulture.

Not any Cathedrall Church in England hath Cardinals excepting this; neither doel finde any beyond Seas, to be dignified with this title, fauing the Churches of Rome, Rauenna, Aquileia, Millaine, Pifa, Beneuentana, in Italy, and Compostella in Spaine.

These Cardinals hauethe best preheminence in the Quire, aboue all, next to the Subdeane, and the beft Stalls.

But at the length let me defcend into Saint Faiths, and to the Graue-ftone of my Canon and Cardinall William Weft.

This was a large Church, richly furnished with ornaments, and honoured by the burials of many great Perfonages: diuers Parliaments and other great meetings have beene holden in this Monasterie, which is now altogether demolifhed, and other new buildings crected in the fame place. This order of blacke Fryers Predicants were remoued hither from Oldbourne, where they had continued 55 yeeres. The revenewe of this house was valued at 1941. 15 s. 5 d per annum, being furrendred into the Kings hands, 12 of November, the 30 of Henry the 8. Perfons of kingly, princely, and noble defcent, of eminent high place Survey of London and qualitie, to the number of fiftie and vpwards are reckoned by Io. Stow (out of the Register of this house) to have bin here entombed, to whole relation I leane my Reader, onely give me leave to fpeake of one. Vpon a Table fastened to a pillar, this infcription was not long fince here to be read, as I have it out of the collections of The. T albet. Here lyeth the body of the Lady Elizabeth, the daughter of Sir Bartho-Elizabeth Counteffe of lomen Balitifmere, wife of William Boban, Earle of Northampton, and mo-Northampton, ther of the Earles of March and Northampton, and of Elizabeth, Counteffe of Arundell. was conuayed from Flodden Field (where he was flaine in battell, the ninth of September being Friday, 1513.) by Thomas Howard, Earle of Surry, Lieutenant Generall of the English Army, to this Citie of London, prefented to Queene Katherine, and from hence fent to the Monastery of Shine in Surrey, where it was regally interred. Since the diffolution of which house, in the dayes of king Edward the fixth, I have beene shewed (faith hee) the fame body fo wrapped in lead, throwne into a wafte roome, amongft old timber, ftone, lead, and other rubble : and further (to fhew the occafion of the buriall of his head, here in this Church) he declareth that the fernants of Lancelot Young, Glafier to the late Queene Elizabeth, being at Shine, in new glafing the windowes, either vpon a foolifh pleafure, or defire of the lead, cut the head from the reft ; but fmelling the fweete perfumes of the balmes, gaue it to their Mafter; who opening the head, found therein the head of a man retaining fauour ; though the moyflure were cleane dried vp, whole haire both of Head and Beard was red : which, after he had well viewed, and a while kept, he caufed to bee buried in Saint Michaels Woodftreet, London, the Church of the Parifh wherein himfelfe dwelled.

That the Head of this valorous King lieth here inhumed, wee muft belecue the words of the Relator, for I finde no Monument or outward apparance of it in the Church. That his body (not found till the day after the battell, and then not knowne or deferied, becaufe of his many wounds, faue onely by the Lord Dacres) was interred amongft the Carthufians in the Priory of Shine at Richmond, I haue, out of an old Manufeript, the teftimony of a man which faw his Sepulchre, the fame yeare of his death in the faid religious houfe : thefe are his words, out of the Lieger booke of Whalley Abbey.

Yet notwithstanding all this, Iohn Lefley, Bishop of Ross, affirmeth that it was held for certaine, that the body thus found by the Lord Dacres, was the body of the Laird Bonebard, then flaine in the battell : and that King Iames was scene aliue the same night at Kelso, whence he passed to Ierusalem, and there spent the rest of his dayes in holy contemplation. And another of later times also affirmeth the place of this kings buriall to bee as yet whitowne. King Hemry the eight (faith hee) who subureted for many Ghurches, Monuments and Tombes, lyeth inglorious at Windfor, and neuer had the honour, either of the Tombe which hee had prepared, or of any Epitaph that I now remember. But his Brother in law King Iames the fourth of Scotland, flaine at Flodden, though the place of his buriall is vnknowne, yet had this honourable Epitaph.

Guild Hall Chappell.

This Chappell or Colledge of our Lady, Mary Magdalen, and of all Saints, was founded about the yeere 1299. by Peter Fanclore, faith Stow, Adam Francis, and Henry Frowike, whole reuenew was much augmented by K. Richard the fecond, K. Henry the fixt, and diuers citizens of London; fo that at the fuppreffion it was endowed with fufficient maintenance, for a Cuftos, feauen Chaplaines, three Clarkes, and foure Quirifters, at which time it was valued at xiil xviijs ix d per an. Here haue beene many Tombes, and marble ftones inlaid with braffe; whofe inferiptions and portraitures are all either worne out with time, torne out, or quite defaced, onely this Epitaph remaining.

En Thomas Frances, pius bic qui lustra per otto Custos extiterat, iacet, & semper requiescat ob. Mar. 4. 1488.

Ouer the doore of the Councell Chamber in Guild hall was, and yet is, as I thinke, this Diffich.

Carolus, Henricus, Vinant, Defenfor vterque Henricus Fidei, Carolus Ecclefie. Long profperity To Charles and Henry, Princes molt puiffant Chofen defendant.

These verses were depicted, here and in other places about this Citie, the yeare 1514. when Charles the fift Emperour was here in England; to shew in what golden bands of loue these two potent Monarches were enlinked; for that amongst other couenants (then concluded and confirmed betwixt them by corporall Oathes) one was, that the Emperour promised to ftay for, and take to wife the young Princess Lady Mary, King Henries then onely daughter, afterwards Queene of England.

Why the Titles, defender of the Church and Faith, were attributed vnto these two Princes, is vulgarlie knowne, because Charles chosen Emperour rour, to purchafe the Popes fauour, directed forth a folemne Writ of Outlawry againft Martin Lather, who then had giuen a great blow to the Papall Crowne; And King Henry likewife was renowned in Rome, for writing a booke againft the faid Lather; vnderpropping the tottering or downe-caft countenance of the Popes Pardons, which Lather florewdly had fhaken. The Pope therefore, to flew himfelfe a kinde Father vnto thefe his fonnes, gaue them thefe Titles; which were in truth none other, then the fame which they fware vnto, when the Crownes of their Empires were first fet vpon their heads.

This Holpitall was founded by Thomas Fit2-theobald de Heili, and Agnes his wife, Sifter to Thomas Becket Archbilhop of Canterbury, in the raigne of Henry the fecond, and dedicated to Saint Thomas of Acon or Acars in the holy land. They gaue to the Mafter and Brethren of this houfe, the lands with the appurtenances, that fometimes were Gilbert Beckets, father to the faid Thomas, in the which he was born, there to make a Church. This Holpitall was valued at the superfilm to difpend yeerely 2771. 3s. 4d. it was furrendred the 30 of Henry the 8. the 21 of October, and was fince purchafed by the Mercers, by meanes of Sir Richard Grefbam.

Here lyeth entombed Iames Butler, Earle of Ormond, and Dame Ioane his wife; he died Anno Dom. 1428. and the 1430.

The Anceftors of thefe Earles (faith learned Camden) were in old time the Butlers (an honourable office) in Ireland, and from thence came this Surname Le Boteler or Butler imposed vpon them : and certaine it is that they were linked in most neere alliance vnto Saint Thomas Becket Archbifhop of Canterbury (as who deriue their defcent from his fifter) (which was a great motiue to make them choose this place for their buriall) and that after he was murdered, they were by King Henry the fecond removed into Ireland, who supposed that he should disburden himfelfe of the worlds hatred, for that fact, in case hee advanced the Kinsfolke and Allies of the laid Thomas to rich revenues, and high honours.

The first Earle of Ormond (faith he) in this familie, was Iames, fonne to Edmund, Earle of Caricke, who wedded the daughter of Humphrey Bohum Earle of Hereford, whom he had by a daughter of King Edward the first. And here was his first step vnto this honour; hereupon Iames his fonne by this marriage, came to be commonly named among the people, The noble Earle. The fifth Earle of these named Iames (that I may not stand particularly.vpon euere one) received at the hands of King Henry the fixth, thetitle and honour of Earle of Wiltshire, to him and to the heires of his body, who being Lord Deputie of Ireland, as divers others of this race, and Lord Treasurer of England; standing attainted by King Edward the fourth, was streight waies apprehended and beheaded: but his brethren, Iohn and

This Richard Lion here interred (whole corporall proportion is engrauen wondrous curioully vpon his Graue frome) was a famous Wine-merchant, a skilfull Lapidarie, fometime Sheriffe of London. Hee was drawne and hailed out of his owne houle by Wat. Tyler and other Rebels, and by them beheaded in Cheape, the yeare 1381.

Not many yeares fince, here flood a monument in the North wall, ereeted to the memory of Sir George Stanley, Knight of the Garter, and Lord Strange (in right of his wife Ioan, daughter and heire of Iohn Lord Strange of Knocking) fonne and heire of I homas Stanley, Lord Stanley of Lathum in Lancashire and Earle of Derby: which George died before his Father at Derby house (now the Heralds Office) Anno 1487. the third of Henry the feuenth. And neere to the fame place Elianor his mother Countefle of Derby, the daughter of Richard Neuill Earle of Salisbury, was likewife entombed. This Church was honoured with the monuments of many worthy perfonages, of which no mention is now remayning.

Saint Michaels Pater Nofter in the Royall:

This Church was new builded, and made a Colledge of S. Spirit and S. Mary, founded by Richard Whitington Mercer foure times Maior, for a Mafter, foure Fellowes, Mafters of Art, Clarkes, Conducts, Quirifters, &c. and an Almes house, called Gods house, or Hospitall for thirteene poore men, one of them to be Tutor, and to have xvi.d. the weeke, the other twelue, each of them to haue xiiij. d. the weeke for euer, with other necelfary prouifions. Thefe were bound to pray for the good effate of Richard Whitington and Alice his wife, their Founders, and for Sir William Whitington Knight, and Dame Ioan his wife, and for Hugh Fitz-Warren, and Dame Maud his wife, the Fathers and Mothers of the faid Richard Whitington, and Alice his wife; for King Richard the fecond, and Thomas of Woodftocke, Duke of Glocefter, fpeciall Lords and promoters of the faid Richard Whitington. The licence for this foundation was granted by King Henry the fourth, the eleuenth of his raigne, and confirmed by King Henry the fixt, the third of his raigne. This Richard Whitington (faith my Author Stow) was three times buried in this his owne Church : first by his Executors vnder a faire monument, then in the raigne of Edward the fixt; the Parfon of the Church thinking fome great riches (as hee faid) to be buried with him, caufed his monument to be broken, his body to be fpoyled of his leaden fheet, and againe the fecond time to be buried. And in the raigne of Queene Mary, the Parishioners were forced to take him vp, to lap him in lead as afore, to bury him the third time, and to place his monament or the like ouer him againe : whereupon this Epitaph is engrauen, partly erazed and imperfect. Guitelnius the thirteenth Archbilhop, trauelled ouer Seas to the king of little Britaine, to craue his aide againft the Scots and Picts, which mightill infefted this kingdome, infomuch that the Romanes rather chofe to remit the Britaines their tribute, then to afoard them any more aide. Of which this Bilhop made an oration to his countriemen a little before his depar- ture, who at that time (like the Romanes) were wearied out with their of ten incurfions, and altogether afraid to encounter with the enemie , tha fierce valiant Scot. Imagine his words were wondrous old, from our times and that they were deliuered in this Dialect.

So it followes how this Bilhop went into little Britaine, and entreated Aldreennus the king there, to fend ouer Conftantine his brother, with a certaine number of men, by whole helpe the enemie might bee expelled, which was granted, and performed accordingly.

Fastidius Priscus fucceeded him in the gouernement of this See, who writ divers bookes of divine learning, mentioned by Bale. Hee was a fincere expositor of the facred Scriptures, and a painefull Preacher throughout the whole kingdome. Cui abunde suppeditebant, cum perbenigno ingenio excellens memoria: morum integrites et wita incorrupta, quibus cumulatifsime cateros sue gentis pracedebat verbi Pracones. He flourished vnder Honorius and Theodossis Emperours, 420. By an old namelesse Chronicle which I have read, one Ternekine succeeded Fassidius, a piercing wife Prelate into matters of state, and inspecial favour with Aurelius Ambrose King of great Britaine : but Vodinus followeth next in the catalogue, a man of singular deuotion and good life, who for reprehending King Vortigers vnlawfull marriage with Rowenna, Hengists daughter (his lawfull wife being then living) was barbarous Perfons, circa an.452.

After the comming of the Saxons, the fucceffion of Archbifhops was fill continued in London for the fpace of many yeares (but fecretly) even vntill the time that S. Gregorie fent Augustine hither. I finde onely one of them named, to wit, Theonus who with Thadiocus or Tadiacus (of which I have spoken before in Rochester) Bishop of Yorke, taking their Clergie with them, got them into Wales and Cornewall, to the rest of their countrimen, whom the Saxons had lately driven thither: this mandid not write himselfe Archbishop, which is one cause of some controversite amongst our Historiographers.

This religious houfe was founded (in the well meaning deuotion of former times) by Humphrey Bohan the fift of that name, Earle of Hereford and Effex, 1253. and was afterward reedified by Humphrey Bohan, the ninth of that name, Earle of Hereford and Effex, Lord of Brecknocke, and Conftable of England, who died Anno1361. and was buried in the Quire of this Church. This Frierie (dedicated to the honour of Saint Augustine) was valued vpon the furrender to King Henry the eight, to 57 1. 4s. per annum.

Here fometime did lie entombed the body of Richard Fitz-Alan, the fourth of that name, Earle of Arundell and Surrey, who with Thomas Duke of Glocefter, Thomas Earle of Warwicke, Henry Earle of Derby, afterwards King of England, and others, combined and fware each to other, againft Robert Vere, Duke of Ireland, and Michael de la Pole Duke of Suffolke, for abufing and mifleading the King; for which and fome other caufes which Richard the fecond obiected againft them, fome of them were banifhed, others condemned to perpetuall imprifonment : and this Richard beheaded on the Tower hill, Septemb. Anno1397. the conftancie of whofe carriage at his arraignement, paffage and execution (in all which he did not once difcolour the honour of his bloud with any degenerous word, looke, or action) encreafed the enuy of his death vpon his profecutors.

William Lord Berkeley of Berkeley Caftle; honoured with the titles of Viscount, and Marquesse Berkely, Earle of Nottingham, and Earle Mar-Iball of England, was here inhumed; who died, Ann. 1492.

This William (as I had it from my decealed friend, Aug. Vincent) by his deed dated the third of Nouember, Ann. 6. Hen. 7. gaue one hundred pounds to the Prior of this houle, for two Maffes to be faid prefently, and for euer, at the Altar of our Lady, and Saint Iames. Betweene which Altars the body of his wife Ioan (who liued but a few dayes with him, and is not at all mentioned in the Catalogues of Honour) was buried, who was the widow of Sir William Willoughbie, before the marriage with the Marqueffe. And to pray for the profperous effate of the faid Marqueffe, and of Anne his then wife, and of Edward Willoughby, Richard Willoughby, Anne Beauchampe, and Elifabeth Willoughbie, with all the iflue of the faid William and Ioane; and effecially for the foules health of the faid Ioane, and of Katherine her mother, Ducheffe of Norfolke.

Here fometime lay fumptuoufly entombed, the body of Edward Stafford, Duke of Buckingham; who by the fleights and practifes of Cardinall Welfey, fell into difpleafure with king Henry the eight; and being condemned of high Treafon, for that (among other matters) hee had confulted with a Monke (or wizard) about fucceffion of the Growne, was beheaded on the Tower hill, May the 17. 1521. He was a noble Gentleman, exceedingly much lamented of good men.Of whofe death, when the Emperour Charles the fifth heard, he faid that a Butchers dogge (meaning the Cardinall, a Butchers fonne) had deuoured the faireft Buck (alluding to the name of Buckingham) in all England.

Here was interred the bodie of Edward, the eldeft fonne of Edward the blacke Prince, by Ioan his wife, furnamed the faire Maide of Kent; who was borne at Angolefme, Ann. 1375. and died at 7. yeares of age.

Many of the Barons flaine at Barnet-field, vpon Eafterday, 1471, were buried here in the bodie of the Church; but now their bodies, with thefe before remembred, and the bodies of an hundred more (mentioned by Stow) of exemplarie note and knights degree, are not onely defpoiled of all outward funerall ornaments, but digged vp out of their Requietories, and dwelling houfes raifed in the place, which was appointed for their eternall reft. Some part of this Church is at this day yet flanding, but in that no monument of this kinde is remaining; for it is concerted into a Church for the Duch-Inhabitants of this Citie: who, in that kinde, can hardly brooke any reuerend Antiquitie.

Ancient Funerall Monuments

Sir Will, Weffon knight, Lord Prior of Saint Jebus Ieraf.

4.30

In the North wall of the Chancell is a faire marble Tombe, with the portraiture of a dead man lying vpon his fbroud: the moft artificially cut in ftone that euer man beheld; all the plates of braffe are ftolne away, onely fome few peeces remaining, containing these words.

> ..... Hofpitalitate inclytus, genere preclarus..... Hanc V rnam offcij caufa : Ecce quem cernis tuo nomini femper deuotum Sufcipe in finum Virgo Maria tuum. Spes me non fallat quam in te femper babebam Virgo da facilem. !

This Monument was crected to the memory of Sir William Wefton knight, Lord Prior of Saint Iohns Ieru/alem, at the time of the diffolution of the faid Priory, to whom Henry the eight for his maintenance had allowed one thousand pound of yearely pention during his life. Of which fumme he received neuer a penny: for foit fortuned, that vpon the feuenth day of May, 1540. being Alcention day, and the same day of the diffolution of the house, he was diffolued by death, which stroke him to the heart, at the first time when he heard of the diffolution of his order.

All the Funerall Monuments of Antiquitie in this Church (which were many) as you may reade in Stowes Suruay, are quite defaced.

This Priory was valued at the suppression to be possent of 282.1. 16.5. 5. d. of yearely reuenues.

Within 'the clofe of this Nunnery is a faire fpatious houfe, built of late by Sir Thomas Challoner knight deceafed : vpon the Frontifpice whereof these verses were depensild, now altogether obliterated.

> Casta sides superest, velata teëta sorores Ista relegata desuruere liset: Nam venerandus Hymen bis vota iugalia seruat Vestalemque socum mente souere studet.

The Nunnery (now the inheritance of the right honourable Sir William Cauendifb knight, Lord Ogle, Vifcount Mansfield, and Earle of Newcaftle) being opposite to this new braue building, ministred (belike) occasion and matter for the making of this faid Infeription.

This Hexamiter following is painted vnder a Sunne diall in the entrance vnto the Nunnery.

dation, 1371. His death was much lamented, by the King, the Nobilitic, and commons of all England; for, with fingular commendations, hee had for a long time ferued vnder Edward the third in the French watres, and was employed by him vpon feuerall Embafics, and his truth and good councell was ever much availeable to the whole flate of the kingdome. His obfequies were performed with great folemnity; King Edward the third, and all his children, with the greateft Prelates, and Lord Barons of the kingdome, being there prefent. His wife Margaret, was here entombed with him; by whom he had iffue, Thomas Manye, who in his youth was drowned in a Well at Detford in Kent, and Anne, then his onely daughter, and here, married to lohn, Lord Haftings, Earle of Penbroke:

Margaret, Lady Manye, faith Iohn Stow, here interred, (yet the Catalogue of Honour will have her to be buried in the Miuories) died the 24. of March, 1399. The was the onely daughter of Thomas of Brotherton, Earle of Norfolke, and Marfhall of England, fecond fonne of King Edward the first, and her fathers onely heire after the death of her brother Edward, which happened in the fame yeare that his father departed the world. She was for the greatness of her birth, her large revenewes and wealth, created Dutchesse of Norfolke for terme of life: the had beene hrst married to John Lord Segrame, and her last husband was the forefaid Sir Walter Manny.

Here fometime was interred the body of Philip Morgan, Doctor of Law, Chancelour of Normandy, and Bifhop of Ely; a very wifeman, who with great commendations gouerned that See nine yeeres fixe mo neths, and foure daies, and departed this life at Bifhops-Hatfield, October 25. 1434.

This religious houfe is now turned into an Holpitall, confifting of a Mafter, a Preacher, a Free Schoole with a Mafter and an Viher, fourefcore de caied gentlemen Souldiers, and forty fchollers, maintained with fufficient cloathing, meate, drinke, lodging, and wages; befides Officers and Minifters to attend vpon them all; fo that the whole number now in the houfe with the attendants, is one hundred and fourefcore. The greateft gift that euer at any time in England, no Abbey (at the firft foundation thereof) excepted, or therewith to bee compared, being the gift of one man onely, whole name was T homas Sutton of Caftle Campes, in the County of Cambridge Efquire, borne at Knaith in the County of Lincolne, who liued to the age of 79 yeares, and deceafed the 12.day of December, 1611. fomewhat before this his famous Foundation was fully accomplifhed.

Great Saint Bartholomewes.

This Priorie was founded by one Rahere, a pleafant conceited wittle gentleman, and a Courtier in the raigne of King Henry the first, which he dedicated to the honour of God and Saint Bartholomen, and placed therein blacke Canons, or Canons regular; himselfe became their first Prior; his foundation was confirmed in these words.

Here he died, and was here buried in a faire monument, renewed by Prior Bolton, which Bolton was the laft Prior of this houfe; a great builder and repairer of the Priorie, and the Parifh Church, and of divers lodgings belonging to the fame : as allo of new he builded the Mannor of Canonbury (now called Canbury) at Iflington, which belonged to the Canons of this houfe. This Bolton and the reft of his brethren were portraied vpon a Table fometimes hanging in this Church, now it is in Sir Robert Costons Librarie, holding vp their hands to the Crucifixe, vnder whom, thefe verfes were depenfi'd.

Gulielmo Bolton precibus succurrite vestris Qualis erat pater hic, Domus hec, & cetera monstrant.

He died at his Parfonage houfe at Harrow vpon the hill (as I haue it by relation) the fourth of Edward the fixt, and was there interred.

He furrendred vp this his Priorie the 30 of Henry the 8. which was then valued at 7571.8 s. 4 d. ob q. by yeere.

Here fometime lay entombed the body of Roger Walden, Bilhop of London. Neuer had any man better experience of the variable vncertaintic of worldly felicity, then he; for from the effate of a very poore man, he was fuddenly railed to be Treafurer of England (hauing beene firft Secretarie to the King, Deane of Yorke, and Treafurer of the towne of Calis) and then made Archbilhop of Canterburys which honour he enioyed not paft two yeares, but was remoued from the fame, and forced to leade a prinate life a long time. At laft being once more lift vp to the honour of this Bifhopricke of London, he left this prefent life within the compafie of the yeere following. Of this man thus writeth Thomas Walfingham, who liued in those times, and much what to the fame effect. I will vse his owne language.

Here fometime lay entombed in a goodly Monument of Alabaster, the body of Robert Mafcall, Bilhop of Hereford, a man for his good learning and good life admired, and beloued of all men : He was often employed by Henry the fourth (to whom he was Confession) vpon Embassics to forraine Princes; and in they care 1415. fent with two other Bishops to the Councell of Constance. Hee built the Quier, Presbytery, and Steeple of this Church; and gaue many rich ornaments to this religious house, wherein he died, 22. Decemb. 1416.

William Lord Montacute Earle of Salisbury, and king of the Ifle of Man, was here entombed. Whole noble Acts (faith Walfingbam) to write worthily were a commendable matter. He founded the Abbey of Bifham Montague in Bark(hire, and died at a Iufts and Turney at Windfore, in the yeare 1343.

For the reft hereinterred, I referre my Reader to the Suruay of London. This houfe was valued at 26.1. 7.5.3.d. and was furrendred the teath of Nouember, the 30.0f king Hen. the eight.

Since the writing of the premiffes, I chanced to have the perufall of a Manuscript, penned in the praise of this religious Order; out of which I collected diuers Epitaphs, which in times paft had beene engrauen vpon the Sepulchers of certaine Carmelites, here in the Church of this Priory interred. And first, I finde that Stepben Patrington, vir omnibus prestantioribus animi dotibus, omnibus virtutibus preditus, et multiplici doctrine varietate instructus, was here buried in the body of the Quire. He was borne in the County of Yorke, and brought vp in the Vniuerlitic of Oxford, where he proceeded Doctor of Diminitie. He writ many learned bookes, and was an admirable Preacher, to whole Sermons alwayes came an incredible concurle of people, faith Leland. Hee was for the space of fifteene yeares Prouinciall of the Carmelites : Confessor he was to king Henry the fourth, and held of him in great estimation, as also to his Queene, and his eldeft fonne Henry Prince of Wales; who when he came to the Crowne, preferred him to the Bilhopricke of Saint Dauids in Wales. Being at the Councell of Constance, he was, by the Pope, translated to Chichester ; not long after which he departed this world: and as it is in the Records in the Tower before his translation could be perfected in the yeare 1417. the 22.

go Earle of Kent, was an efpeciall Benefactor: giuing vnto them that noble Pallacqat Weftminfter, now called White Hall: Thus Habert was a faithfull feruant to King tohn, and to his fonne Henry the third, a carefull Patriot of the State, and one who vnfainedly loued his Country, who when he had made triall of the variable changes of Fortune, as being feldome, or neuer, but either highly in the Kings loue, or in the Subiects hatred, or in the Kings heavy difpleafure, and the peoples generall applaufe; laftly, being full fraught with yeers, as he was with many eminent vertues, he died, in the fa. uour of God, the King, and all good men, at his Mannor of Banfted in Surrey, the Ides of May, Anno 1243. Hee was firft here intombed, but afterwards (as though he had beene fatally ordained to take no more reft in his graue, then quictneffe in his worldly employments) his body was tranflated, at the fame time when thefe Friers were remoued from Oldborne into London, to that houfe now called the blacke Friers, neere vnto Ludgate : where belike it takes no better reft, then others haue done fo buried.

Hic iacet Iobannes Gyles nuper vnius Clericorum parue Bage cancell. Dominorum H. Regum feptimi et octaui, ac cuftos fiue clericus Rotulorum et Recordorum in Turri London remanentium qui obijt vltimo die Feb. Anno 1523. cuius.

Clericus parue Bagis or Clarke of the Petit Bagge, is an Officer in the Chancerie, of which fort there be three, and the Mafter of the Rolles is their chiefe. Their Office is to record the returne of all Inquifitions, out of euery Shire, all Lineries granted in the Court of Wards, all enfer les maines, to make all Patents of Cuftomers, Gawgers, Controllers and Aulnegers; all Conge d'eflires for Bifhops, all Liberateis vpon extent of Statute Stapies; the recouery of Recognifances forfeited, and all Elegits v pon them; the fummons of the Nobilitie, Clergie, and Burgeffes of the Parliament, Commiffions directed to Knights, and other of euery thire, for feaffing of the Subfidies, Writs for the nomination of Collectors, and all trauerfes vpon any Office, bill, or otherwife, and to receiue money due to the King for the fame.

This Officer is mentioned, Anno 33. Hen. 8. cap. 22. and it is like hee had first this denomination and stile of Petic Bagges, because having to doe with so many Records of divers kindes, as above mentioned, they were put in fundry leather Bagges, which were not so great as the Clarke of the Hamper now vseth, and therefore might be called Petits Bagges, small or little bagges.

This Iohn Gyles was also keeper or Clerke of the Rolles and Records in the Tower of London; an Office generally well knowne throughout all England; the mafter whereof at this day is that learned Gentleman, Sir Iohn Borrowes Knight; vnder whom my vnderstanding friend Will. Coller, and my industrious country-man, Will. Riley, alias Rouge-Rose, Pursinant at Armes, doc officiate the place.

The Temple Church.

The first Founder hereof is not certainely recorded, fome hold that it was built by Dunwallo Mulmutius, about the yeare of the worlds creation, 4748 the precincts whereof, he made a Sanctuary, or a place of refuge for any perfon therein to be affured of life, liberty, and limbs, of which I have fpoken elfewhere.

Befides thefe priuiledges vnto Temples, hee conffituted diuers good lawes. Of which he writ two bookes, the one called Statuta municipalia, the other Leges iudiciaria, which is as much to fay, as the ftatute Law, and the common Law. Cooke Reports 3 part ad Lett out of Bale cent. I. Hauing reduced his Realme into one Monarchie, being before by ciuill warres and diffention, feuered and brought into diuers dominions. Hee raigned 40. yeares, died the yeare of the worlds creation, 4768. and was buried in this place, with other of the Britifh Kings. But it appeareth by this infeription following ouer the Church doore in the ftone worke, that this holy Strufure was newly founded of farre later times, and dedicated to the honour of the bleffed Virgine: yet I thinke it is farre more ancient.

Knights Templers were the laft Founders of this houfe, which at the firft were certaine noble Souldiers religioufly bent, who bound themfelues by vow in the hands of the Patriarke of Ierufalem to ferue Chrift after the manner of Regular canons, in chaftitie and obedience, and to defend Chriftian Religion, the holy land, and Pilgrimes going to vifite the Lords Sepulchre, they flourifhed for a time in high reputation, for pietie and deuotion, but as they increafed in wealth, fo they fell to wickedneffe; infomuch that in the yeere 1308. all the Templers in England, as alfo in other parts of Chriftendome, were apprehended and committed to diuers Prifons, and

This Potent Peere of the Realme (faith Mathew Paris, in Ann. 1241.) proclaimed a Turnament (in fcorne of the kings authoritie; whereby fuch disports were forbidden) to be holden at Hertford in the County of Hertford; to which place, when many both of the Nobilitie and Gentrie were affembled; it happened that himfelfe running, by the flinging of his horfe was caft out of his fadle; and the horfe gaue him fuch a blow on the breaft, that he died the fame day, being the fifth of the Kalends of July, 1241. as aforefaid. His bowels were interred in the Abbey Church in the Towne of Hertford, with the bowels of one Sir Robert de Say knight, a gallant gentleman, flaine in the fame exercife.

These kinde of lusts or Turnaments were brought in with king Stephen, and practifed in many places of England, in fuch an outragious manner, and with fuch flaughter of Gentlemen, that to suppresse fuch an heathenish dilport, it was decreed by Parliament, that wholocuer therein were flaine, (hould want Chriftian buriall; and their heires be difinherited.

Saint Stephens Chappell.

This was a religious Structure, first begun by King Stephen, and afterwards finished, and her reuenewes greatly augmented by King Edward the third; in which he placed a Deane, twelue Canons fecular, as many Vicars, and other Ministers, who had their lodgings in Canon Row, now the habitations of diuers Noblemen and Gentlemen. These are the words of King Edwards Grant.

In dei nomine Amen, Edwardus dei Gratia, der Salutem. Capellam quandam speciosam in Palatio nostro apud Westmonasterium situatam, in honorem beati Stephani Prothomartyris, per progenitores nostros nobiliter inchoatam, nostris sumptibus regijs fecimus consummari; in qua ad honorem omnipotentis dei, et specialiter beatissime Genetricis eius Marie, et dichi Martyris, ordinamns, volumns, constituimus, et aucthoritate nostra regia perpetuo stabilimus, Quod fint exeuntes Decanus vnus, et duodecim canonici feculares, cum totidem vicaras, et alijs ministris. Some fayd that that mylhappe fell for foltneffe of the Englyfhe men. And fome faid that it was goddis owne werche as the prophecye fayd. That Englyfhe men fholde be defiroyed by Danes, by Freuthemen, and by Scottes.

Of this propheticall prediction I have fpoken elfewhere, which (hke as that of the marble ftone) vpon the inauguration of our late Soucraigne Lord King tames, of happie memory, in his Regall Chaire of Imperiall gouernment, had full accomplifhment.

The period of the dayes, as alfo the character of this magnificent Monarch Edward, are thus deliuered by a late Writer.

In Iuly, 1307 although he found himfelfe not well, he enters Scotland with a frelh Army, which he led not farre; for falling into a Difference, he dies at Borough vpon the fands, as if to fhow on what foundation bee had built all his glory in this world : having raigned thirty foure yeares, feuen moneths, aged fixty eight. A Prince of a generous fpirit, wherein the fire held outcuen to the very laft : borne and bred for action and militarie affaires, which he mannaged with great indgement : cuer warie and prouident for his owne bufineffe : watchfull and eager to enlarge his power: and was more for the greatneffe of England, then the quiet thereof. And this we may inftly fay of him, that neuer king before, or fince, fled for much Chriftian bloud within this Ifle of Britaine, as this Chriftian warrior did in histime, and was the caufe of much more in that following.

By our great and iudicious Antiquary Camden, he is thus deportrayed, as followeth.

For no one thing was this little Burgh vpon Sands more famous, than, that King Edward the first, that triumphane Conquerous of his enemies, was here taken out of the world by vntimely death A right noble and worthy Prince, to whom God proportioned a most princely prefence and perfonage, as a right worthy feat to entertaine fo heroicall a minde. For he not onely in regard of fortitude and wifedome, but alfo for a beautifull and perfonall prefence was in all points answerable to the height of Royall Maieflie, whom fortune alfo in the very Prime and flower of his age, inured to many a warre, and exercised in most dangerous troubles of the flate, whiles the framed and fitted him for the Empire of Britaine, which be, being once crowned King, mannaged and gouerned in fuch wife, that having subduced the Wellh, and vanquished the Scots, hee may most infly bee counted a chiefe ornament and honour of Britaine.

Amongst other admonitions and precepts, which he gaue to his sonne Edward (after him king of England) vpon his death-bed he charged him, that he should carry his Fathers bones about with him in some Coffin, till Rr 3 he he had marched through all Scotland, and fubdued all his enemies, for that none fhould bee able to ouercome him while his Skeleton marched with him : thinking, belike, that the care to preferue them from enemies would make a Sonne fight nobly. Moreouer he commanded the faid Prince, That, whereas himfelte, by the continuall new attempts of Brace, king of Scotland, could not in perfon (according to his vow) make warre in the Holyland, therefore he fhould fend his Heart thither, accompanied with fesenfcore knights, and their retinues, for whole fupport he had prouided thirty and two thoufand pounds of filuer. Laftly, That vpon paine of eternall damnation, the faid money fhould not be expended vpon any other vfes. Sed filius immorigerus patris mandata megligit : But the difobedient Sonne little regarded the commandement of his Father.

He died the feuenth of Iuly, the yeare aforefaid; his body was conuayed to this Abbey, and accompanied moft of the way with the Popes Legate, the reucrend Bifhops, and moft of the English Nobilitie, where it was interred with that ftate as became the perfon of fo potent a Prince; And fuch was the care of his Succeffours, to keepe his body from corruption, as that the Searcoloth wherein his embalmed body was enwrapt, was often renewed, as doth appeare vpon Record thus.

raigne. First his love of Juffice, was feene by the many Statutes hee made His Iuffice. for the due execution thereof, and the most ftraight binding oath, hee ordained to be minifired write his Iudges and Iufticiars : the punifhment inflicted on them for corruption in their offices, caufing fome to be thruft out, and others gricuoufly fined. He bettered allo that forme of publique Iuflice which his Grandfather first began (and which remaines to this day) making alfo excellent Lawes for the fame. His regard to the obferuation of Order among his people, fo many Lawes do witheffe, as were made to reftraine them from Excelles in all kinds. His loue to his Subjects, was express in the often eafing of their grieuances, and his willing neffe to give them all faire fatisfaction, as appeares by the continuall granting of the due obferuation of their Charters in moft of his Parliaments. And when ( Ann, Reg. 14 ) they were icalous, upon his affuming the title of the kingdome of France, left England thould thereby come to bee vinder the fubication of that Crowne, as being the greater, he to cleare them of that doubt, paffed a Statute, in the firmeft manner could bee deuifed, that this kingdome thould remaine intire as before, without any violation of the rights it had. Provident he was in all his actions, neuer vnder-taking any thing before he had first furnished himfelfe with meanes to performe it.

For his gifts we finde them not fuch as either his owne fame and reputation, or any way diffalted the State. To be fhort, hee was a Prince who knew his worke, and did it : and therefore was he better obeyed, better refpected and ferued, then any of his Predeceffours.

His workes of Pictic were great and many, as the founding of Eaft-minfter an Abbey (of the Cifteux order) neare the Tower. An Abbey for Nunnes at Dartford in Kent (of both which I have already written) The Kings Hall in Cambridge for poore Schollers. An Hofpitall for the poore at Calais. The building of Saint Stephens Chappell at Westminster, with the endowment of three hundred pound, per annum, to that Church. His augmenting the Chappell at Windfore, and prouisions there for Churchmen, and twenty foure poore knights, &c. Thefe were his publique works, the best Monuments and most latting to glorific the memory of Princes. Befides thefe, his private buildings are igreat and many; as the Caffle of Windfore, which here edified and enlarged. 113 3

His magnificence was thewed in Triumphs and Heafts, which were fumptuoufly celebrated, with all due rites and ceremonies, the preferuers of Reuerence and Maieffier To conclude, he was a Prince, whole nature agreed with his office, as onely made for it. go and HOHET Z

On this manner, as he was in the firength of his yeares, and in the height of his vigorous actions, his character is expret by many Authors. Now may it pleafe you in this place to takea view of this the mighty great Monarch of England, France, and Ireland, as he was wrinkled with age, weakened with a fore lingring difeafe, and laid downe vpon his Deaths-bed.

When he hudattained so the age of threefcore and five yeares, or thereabouts, and wraftled with a ficknelle which gaue him the ouerthrow ; lying in the bed, and at the point of death, his eyes darkened, his speech altered, and his naturall heate almoft extinguilhed, one, whom of all other he mole entirely affected, tooke the rings from his fingers, which for the royaltic altie of his Maieftie he was wont to weare, fo bad him adiew ; and withdrew her felfe into another roome (a woman the was, inuerceanda pellex, as Walfingham calls her, whofe name was Alice Piers) neither was heeleft onely of her the faid Alice, but of other the knights and Efquires, who had ferued him, allured more with his gifts then his loue. Amongst many there was onely prefent at that time a certaine Prieft (other of his feruants applying the fpoile of what they could lay hands on) who lamenting the kings mileric, and inwardly touched with griefe of heart, for that amongft fo many Councellers which hee had, there was none that would minifter vnto him the word oflife, came boldly vnto him, and admonifhed him to lift vp the eyes as well of his body, as of his heart, vnto God, and with fighes to aske mercy of him, whole Maieftie he well knew he had grieuoufly offended. Whereupon the king liftened to the words of the Prieft, and although a little before he had wanted the vfe of his tongue, yet then taking ftrength to him, hee feemed to fpeake what was in his minde. And then what for weakneffe of his body, contrition of his heart, and fobbing for his finnes, his voice and speech failed him, and scarce halfe pronouncing this word lefu, he gaue up the Ghoft, at his Mannour of Sheene (now Richmount) as aforefaid.

If you will heare any more of this Martiall king, you must have the patience to trouble your felues in the reading of these obfolete old rimes.

It is reported of this Queene (faith Milles) that when the perceived her life would end, the requetted to fpeake with the King her husband, who accordingly came to her in great heanineffe: being come, the rooke him by the hand, and after a few words of induction, thee prayed him that hee would in no wife deny her, in three requefts. First, that all Merchants and others to whom the ought any debt, (whether on this fide or beyond the feas) might be payd and discharged. Secondly, that all such promises as the had made to Churches, as well within the realme as without, might be performed. Thirdly, that hee would be pleafed (whenfoeuer God fhould call him,) to chufe none other Sepulchre, but that wherein herbody fhould be layed : all which were performed, and fo I leave them both lying in one Graue, expecting a loyfull refurrection.

Ancient Funerall Monuments 470 Here lieth buried in one of the flatelieft Monuments of Europe, both for Henry the fethe Chappell, and for the Sepulchre, the body of Henry the feuenth, King uenth king of of England, the first begotten Sonne of Edmand, Earle of Richmond, by England. Margaret, daughter and heire to Iohn Duke of Somerfet. This glorious rich Tombe is compassed about with verses, penned by that Poet Laureat (as he ftiles himfelfe) and Kings Orator, John Skelton : I will take oncly the fhorteft of his Epitaphs or Eulogiums, and moft to the purpofe. Septimus hic fitus est Henricus, gloria Regum Cunctorum, ipfins qui tempestate fuerunt, Ingenio atque opibus gestarum & nomine rerum, Accessere quibus nature dona benigne: Frontis honos, facies augusta, beroica forma, Iunstaque ei suanis coninx perpulchra, pudica, Et fecunda fuit : felices prole parentes, Henricum quibus octanum terra Anglia debes. He deceased at Richmond the 22. of Aprill, 1509. when hee had raigned 23. yeares, and fomewhat more then feuen moneths, and liued fifty two yeares. Whofocuer would know further of this king, let him reade his Hiftory, wherein hee is delineated to the life, by the matchleffe and neuer enough admired penne of that famous, learned, and eloquent knight, Sir Francis Bacon, not long fince deceased, Lord Verulam, and Viscount Saint Alban. It is fcarce credible (faith Godwin now Bilhop of Hereford in his catalogue de presulibus Anglie) that is reported of his wonderfull bounty and liberality to this monaftery. When hee was first made Abbot, he bestowed all that he had gathered together, being Monke and Prior, in paying the debt of the houfe, which was to the value of two thousand and two hundred markes; and discharged divers other summes of money alfo, which particular Monkes did owe : he purchaled good land which he gaue vnto them. When hee went out of England, hee left them bookes to the value of 830 pound, and Copes, Vefiments, and other ornaments for the Church, worth 437. pound. At his death, he bequeathed vnto them, all his plate, prifed at 2700. pound, and all his debts any where due, which amounted vnto 3954. pound, thirteene fhillings and foure pence. He alfo fent vnto this Abbey, the fumme of one thouland markes, to buy forty markes a yeare land, to encrease the portion of foure Monkes, that daily fhould fay Maffe for the foules of himfelfe, and his Parents. The money that he beftowed vpon this Abbey one way or other, is reckoned by a Monke of the fame, to be no leffe then 10800 pounds who thereupon compiled this Diftich.

The, Ruthell Bifhop of

Durham,

Not long after this, their Hoftage was demanded by Iabn Duke of Lancafter, in the Kings name, whom they denyed to deliuer, for which they were clapt in the Tower; from whence elcaping, here they tooke Sanchuary; to whom Sir Raph Ferreis, and Sir Alan Buxhull, with fifty armed men, were fecretly fent to doe this mifchiefe; who finding them at high Maffe; firft drew Schakell by a wile, out of the priviledge of the Ghurch, then offering to lay hands on Hawley; he manfully refifting, with his fhort fword made them all flie off. But in the end he was flaine in the Chancell, commending himfelfe, in his laft words, to God, the revenger of fuch iniuries, and to the liberty of our holy mother the Church. With him was flaine a feruant of his, thruft into the backe with a lauelin; and a Monke who intreated for him in refpect of the holineffe of the place. This wicked act was perpetrated; the 11. of Auguft, 1378. the fecond of Riehard the fecond. Thefe words following now onely remaining vpon his Monument.

Me dalus ira furor multorum; militis atque in boc gladijs celebri pietatis afylo; Dum leuita Dei fermonis legit ad aram: Prob dolor ipfe meo Monachorum fanguine vultus Afpersi morieus, chorus est mibi testis in evum. To this fhort Infeription, Gedwin in his Catalogue addeth a long ftory of the life and death of this Bifhop. Who was borne in Cicefter (faith he) in the County of Glocefter, and brought vp in Cambridge, where he proceeded Doctor of Law. He was preferred to the Bilhopricke of Durham by King Henry the fenenth ; after whole death hee was made one of the privic Councell vnto the young King, Henry the cight, who effected great ly of him, for his wifedome and learning; and imployed him often in ambaffages, and other bufineffes of importance. Amongft the reft it pleafed the king one time, to require him to fet downe his iudgement in writing concerning the effate of his kingdome in generall, and particularly to enforme him in certaine things by him specified. This discourse the Bishop writ very carefully, and caufed it to be bound in Velime gilt, and otherwife adorned in the best manner. Now you shall vnderstand, that it chanced himfelfe about the fame time, to fet downe a note of his owne prinate eftate, which, in goods and ready money, amounted to the fumme of one hundred thousand pounds. This account was written in a paper booke of the fame falhion and binding that the other was, which was prouided for the king. Whereby it happened that the king fending Cardinall Welfey for the other draught, which he had fo long before required of him; the Bithop militaking, delivered that which contained an effimate of his owne in. finite Treasure. This the Cardinall foone espying, and willing to doe the Bilhop Bifhop a difpleafure, deliuered it as he had received it vnto the King, fbewing withall, how the Bilhop had very happily miltaken himfelte; for now (quoth he) you fee where you may at any time command a great maffe of money, if you need it : As foone as the Bilhop vaderitood his errour, the conceit thereof rouched him to neare, that within a fhort fpace after hee died, at his house here in the Strand. His intention was to have repaired the Church of CiceRer, to have built Bridges, as he had begun that over the River of Tyne, and to have done many other deeds of charitie, if hee had not beene prevented by death.

Here lieth the body of Sir William Truffell knight, and Speaker of that Sir william Parliament, wherein Edward the fecond, king of England, religned his Diademe, and all enfighes of Maieffie, to Edward his eldeft Sonne. This Truffell (faith an ancient Author) was a Judge, who could fit the house with quirks of Law, to colour fo lawleffe and treafonable an act, as the depofing of a lawfull king. And thereupon was chosen in the behalfe of the whole Realme, to renounce all homage and obedience to the Lord Edward of Carnarvon, his Soueraigne Lord and King. The forme of which renunciation was by him the faid Truffell pronounced at Kenelworth Caffle the 20. of January, 1326. in these difgracefull words which you may finde in Polychronicon.

I William Truffel, in the name of al men of the lond of Engelond, and of the Parlaiment Prolocutor; refigne to the Edward the homage that was made to the fomtym, and from this tym forward now folowyng, I defye the, and prive the of al royal Powyr; and thal neuer be tendant to the as for Kyng aftyr this tyme. The time of this Truffels death I cannot learne.

Here lieth interred before the Communion Table, the body of Richard Rich. de Ware de Ware, or Warren, Abbot of this Monastery, and sometime Lord Treafurer of England. Who going to Rome for his confectation, brought from thence certaine workmen, and rich Porphery ftones; whereof and by whom hee made that curious fingular rate pauement before the high Altar : in which are circulary written in letters of braffe thefe ten verfes following, containing a difcourfe (as one faith) of the worlds continuance.

Isom Ifip, Abbot of Weitminiter, a man of great authoritie and speciall truft with King Henry the fcuenth, lieth here interred. He built the Deanes houfe as now it is, and repaired many other places in this Monasterie: in the windowes whereof (laith Camden) he had a quadruple deuice for his single name, for somewhere hefet vp an eye with a flip of a tree: in another place, one flipping boughes in a tree; in other places, an I with the faid flip; and in some places, one flipping from a tree with the word, Iflip. I cannot learne the time of his death by his Tombe, yet I finde in a Manu fcript, (wherein are divers funerall collections, and other Inferiptions of this Abbey, which were gathered about the time of the diffolution) that he died the fecond of Ianuary, in the yeare 1510, the fecond of Henry the eight; and allo that in the Chappell of Saint Erasimus, where he lieth buried, vpon the wall over his Tombe, was the picture of our Sauiour Chrift, hanging on the Croffe, feeming to call and to give good councell vnto mankind in thefe rimes.

> Affice ferue Dei fic me posuere Iudei. Aspice deuote quoniam fic pendeo pro te. Aspice mortalis pro te datur Hostia talis. Introitum vitereddo tibi, redde mibi te. In cruce sum prote, qui peccas define pro me, Desine, do veniam, dic culpam, corrige vitam.

Raph Selby.

Here lieth entombed, the body of Raph Selby, defeended from the ancient family of the Selbies of Billefdun in the County of Northumberland, a Monke of this fraternitie, a learned Doctor in the ciuill and canon lawes, and one exceedingly beloued and fauoured of King Henry the fourth, and Henry the fift<sub>3</sub> in the eight yeare of whofe raigne, hee departed this world, Anno 1420. as by this Epitaph appeareth.

Not farre from this Selby, lieth buried vnder a marble ftone, the body of Iohn Windfare, one of the noble familie of the Windfares, fometime refiding at Stanwell in this County; a great commander in the warres of Ireland, vnder Richard the fecond, and in the battaile of Shrewesbury, vnder King Henry the fourth : who died in the fecond yeare of King Henry the fift vpon Eefter Euc, the feuenth of Aprill, 1414. as this Epitaph sheweth.

> Est bis septenus M. Christi C quater. annus, Vespera Paschalts dum septima lux sit Aprilis Transijt a mundo Io. Windsfore nomine notus, Corde gemens mundo, confession, crimine lotus : Fecerat heredem Gulielmus auunculus istum. Miles et Armigerum dignus de nomine dignum. Dum iuuenilis erat bello multos perimebat: Postea penituit & eorum vulnera stenit. Recumbens obÿt, hic nunc in carcere quiescit : Vinat in eternum Spiritus ante Deum.

But now I will conclude the functall Monuments of this Abbey, with the death and buriall of our most learned English Poet, Geffery Chancer, whose life is written at large, by Thomas Speght, (who by old copies, reformed his workes) which the Reader may see a little before the beginning of his bookes. He departed out of this world, the 25. day of O ctober, in the yeare of our Lord, 1400. after had lived 72. yeares. Thus writeth Leland: Chancer lived till he was an old man, and found old age to be grieuous: and whiles the followed his causes at London, he died, and was buried at Westminster. The old verses which were written on his grave at the first were these.

Galfridus Chaucer vates et fama Poesis Materne, hac sacra sum tumulatus humo.

Thomas Occleue or Okelefe, of the office of the prime Seale, fometime Ghaucers Icholler; for the loue he bare to the faid Geffray his mafter, caufed his picture to be truely drawne in his booke De Regimine Principis; dedicated to Henry the fift; according to which, that his picture drawn vpon his Monument, was made, as allo the Monument it felfe, at the coft and charges of Niebolas Brigham gentleman, Anno 1555. who buried his daughter Rachell, a childe of foure yeares of age, neare to the Tombe of this old Poet, the 21.0f Iune 1557, fuch was his loue to the Mules. But to returne againe to Chancers picture, to which these verses were added by the faid Occleue.

This Church hath had great priviledge of Sanctuarie within the precinct thereof (as Stow faith in his Surnay of London) to wir, the Ghurch, Churchyard, Clofe, and all that which is ftill called the Sanctuarie. Which Priviledge was first granted by Sebers king of the East Saxons, the first Founder thereof. Since encrealed by Edgar King of the West Saxons, renewed and confirmed by King Edward the Confession, as appeareth by this his Charter following.

Edward by the grace of God, king of Englishmen : I make it to bee knowne to all generations of the world after me, that by efpeciall commandement of our holy Father Pope Lee; I have renewed, and honoured the holy Church of the bleffed Apoffle, Saint Peter of Weltminfter; and I order and eftablish for euer, that what perfon, of what condition or eftate focuer he be, from whencesoeuer he come, or for what offence or cause it be, either for his refuge into the faid holy place, he be affured of his life, liberty, and limbes. #### Chappell of our Lady in the Piero.

Neare vnto the Chappell of Saint Stephen, was fometime a fmaller Ghappell, called our Lady of the Piew: but by whom first founded I cannot finde. To this Lady great offerings were vfed to be made. Richard the fecond after the ouerthrow of Wat. Tilar (as I haue read) and other the Rebels, in the fourth of his raigne, went to Westminster, and there giving thankes to God for his victory, made his offering in this Chappell. By the negligence of a Scholler, forgetting to put forth the Lights of this Chappell, the Image of our Lady, richly decked with Iewels, precious stones, Pearles, and Rings, more then any Ieweller (laith he) could indge the price, was, with all the apparell and ornaments belonging thereunto, as also the Chappell it felfe, burnt to affes. It was againe reedified by Antony Widewile, Earle Rivers, Lord Scales, Vncle and Gouernour to the Prince of VVales, that should haue beene King Edward the fifth Who was vniustly beheaded at Pomfret by the procurement of Richard Crook-backe, Duke of Glocester, then Lord Protectour, the 13. of Iune, 1483.

Whofe Monument with that, to the memorie of her first husband William Conton, Elquire, I have here expressed.

The inheritance of this Lady, was the Lordship of Connington in Huntingtonlhire. The feate once of Turketell, the Dane, Earle of the Eaft Angles, who inuited ouer Swain King of Denmarke, to inuade this kingdome. He exit'd with most of his Nation, by Saint Edmond the Confesior. This his feate, with other his large poffellions, were given by the fame King to Waltheof Earle of Northumberland and Huntington, to whom the first William gaue in marriage, the Lady Indithe, his fifters daughter. This Lordship with the Earledome of Huntington, by the marriage of Mary that Earles daughter, to David the fonne of the first Malcelme, King of Scots, and the holy Margaret his wife, Neece to Edward the King, Confeflor, Grandchilde to Edmond, furnamed Ironfide, King of the English Saxons, and fifter and heire to Edgar furnamed Ethelinge, by which marriage, the Stemme Royall of the Saxons, became vnited into the bloud Royall of the Scottish Kings; in whole male lyne, that Earldome, and this Lordship continued vntill Ifabell, the daughter and heire of Dauid Earle of Huntington, and brother to Malcolme, William, and Alexander, fucceffine Kings of that kingdome, brought them both by her marriage to Robert de Brus, into that family.

She leauing the luft clayme of the Crowne of Scotland, to Robert her eldeft fonne, whole fonne Robert the third, thereof obtained full poffetfion : in right from whom, our facted foueraigne King Charles is lineally to the fame Crowne defeended. And to her fecond fonne, Bernard de Brus, fhee gaue this Lordfhip of Connington, with other large poffetfions in England, which after foure defeents in that Stemme, was by marriage of Anne, the daughter and heire of Sir John de Brus, to Sir Hugh Welengham, brought into that family, who after three defeents by the marriage of Mary, the daughter and heire of the laft of that furname, it came to William, fecond fonne of Sir Richard Cotton of Ridware, in the County of Stafford. From whom Sir Robert Cotton, Knight and Baronet, is lineally to that Lordfhip of Connyngton now defeended.

Hereby appeareth the much miftaking of many, who hold that the first King of the Norman race, cancelled with his fword, all claime of Inheritances before his entrance, whereas in truth hee neither altered the fundamentall lawes or liberties of the Kingdome, or fortunes of any, but of those that fided with Harrold against him in his claime. I finde in the collections of Mafter Camden, that there was fome vnkinde paffages betwixt this Poet laureat Skelton, and Lily our fole authenticke allowed Gramarian; in fo much, that Skelton carping against the verses of the faid Lily, is (bitterly) by him thus answered.

Almes bouses of Henry the 7.

On the South fide of the Gate-houfe, King Henry the 7. founded an Almef-houfe for thirteene poore men, one of them to be a Prieft, aged fiue and forty yeares, a good Gramarian: the other 12 to be aged fiftie yeares, without wives: every Saturday the Prieft to receive of the Abbot or Prior, foure pence by the day, and each other, two pence halfe penny by the day for ever, for their fuftenance; and every yeare to each one, a Gowne and a hood ready made. And to three women that dreffed their meat, and kept them in their fickneffe, each to have every Saturday fixteene pence, and every yeare a Gowne ready made. More to the thirteene poore men yeerely, fourefcore quarters of Goales, and one thoufand of good Fagots to their vfe. In the Hall and Kitchin of their manfion, a difcreet Monke to be overfcer of them, and he to have forty fhillings by the yeare, &cc. and hereunto was every Abbot and Prior fworne.

An Almef. hon fe founded by Margaret, Counteffe of Richmond.

Weftward from the Gate house, was an old Chappell of Saint Anne, ouer against the which, the Lady Margaret, Countesse of Richmond and Derby, and mother to King Henry the feuenth, erected an Almes house for poore women, which was after wards turned into lodgings for the Singing men of the Colledge. the place wherein this Chappell and Almes house stood, was called the Eleconominary or Almory, now corruptly the Ambry, for that the almes of the Abbey was there distributed to the poore.

An Hofpitall founded by Lady Anne Dacre.

At the entry into Totchill field, was fometimes an old building, called Stourton houfe, which Giles, Lord Dacre of the South, purchafed and built new, whole Lady and wife Anne, Sifter to Themas Lord Buckhurft, the first of of that Familie, Earle of Dorfet, left money to her Executours, to build an Hofpitall there for twenty poore women, and fo many children to bee brought vp vnder them. For whole maintenance the affigned Lands, to the value of one hundred pounds by the yeare.

Almes-houses founded by Cornelius Van Dun.

In the fame field, vpon Saint Hermits hill, and neare vnto a Chappell of Saint Mary Magdelen, now wholly ruinated ; Gornelius van Dun borne at Breda in Brabant, a Souldier with King Henry the eight at Turney, yeoman of the Guard, and Viher to the faid King Henry, Edward, Mary, and Elizabeth, Kings and Queenes of famous memory: built certaine Almes-houles for twenty poore widowes to dwell in rent free. He died in September, An. 1577.aged 94.yeares.

The Hermitage, Hofpitall, and Free-Schoole at Highgate-bill.

In ancient times vpon the top of this hill was an Hermitage; one of the Hermites whereof, caufed to bee made the Caufway betweene Highgate and Iflington, taking the grauell from the top of the hill, where now is a ftanding pond of water.

One William Pock Yeoman of the Crowne, founded the Hofpitall below on the hill, in the raigne of King Edward the fourth.

The free Schoole was built by Sir Roger Cholmundely, or Cholmeley, knight, fometime Lord chiefe Iuftice of the Kings Bench; about the yeare 1564. the fixth of Queene Elizabeth. The Pencion of the Mafter is vncertaine (laith Norden) there is no Viher, and the Schoole is in the difposition of fixe Gouernours, or Ouerfeers:

Our Ladies Chappell of Musivell, or Monsfewell bill.

Here was, in ancient times, a Chappell bearing the name of our Lady of Mufwell ; in the place whereof Alderman Roe crefted a faire houfe. The place taketh name of the Well, and of the Hill; for there is on the hill a fpring of faire water, which is now within the compaffe of Sir Nichelas Roes Cellar, in the faid house. Here was fometime an Image of our Lady of Muswell, whereunto was a continuall refort, in the way of pilgrimage, growing (as it goes by tradition from father to the fonne) in regard of a great cure, which was performed by this water, vpon a king of Scots, who being ftrangely difeafed, was (by fome diuine intelligence) aduifed to take the water of a Well in England, called Mufwell ; which, after long fcrutation and inquifition, this Well was found, and performed the cure. Abfolutely to deny the cure (faith Norden) I dare not, for that the high God hath given vertue vnto waters, to heale infirmities, as may appeare by the cure of Naaman the Leper, by walking himfelfe feuen times in lordan; and by the Poole Bethelda, which healed the next that ftepped thereinto, after the water was moued by the Angell. #### The Hermitage at Kilbourne.

In the time of King Henry the first, Herbert Abbot of Westminster, by permission of Gilbert Bilhop of London, and by confent of the Couent, granted to three Maides the Hermitage of Kilbourne, with all the land of that place; which Hermitage one Gorbone had builded long before.

The Hofpitall of S. Giles in the Fields for Leprous people.

This Hofpitall was founded by Queene Mande, wife to king Henry the first, in the yeare 1117. and was a Cell belonging to Burton Lazers of Ierufalem, in the County of Leicester; as may appeare by a deed dated the 24 of Hen. 7. in these words.

Thomas Norton knight, Mafler of Burton Lazers of Ierufalem in England, and the brethren of the fame place, keepers of the Hofpitall of Saint Giles, without the Barres of the old Temple of London, haue fold to Geffrey Kent, Citizen, and Draper of London, a meffuage or house with two Sollars aboue, edified in the Parish of Alhallowes Hony-lane in Westcheape, adioyning to the West part of a Tenement, called the Goate on the Hope, pertaining to the Drapers of London, for 31.1.

At this Hospitall the prifoners, conucyed from the Citie of London towards Teyborne, there to be executed, were presented with a great Bowle of Ale, thereof to drinke at their pleasure.

The Hofpitall of Saint Mary Bethlem, commonly called Bedlam.

In the yeare 1247. Simon Fitzmary, one of the Sheriffes of London, founded this Holpitall for lame and indigent people, which afterwards was conuerted to that vie, which the Citie now makes of it, vpon this occasion.

In the Parifh of Saint Martins in the field, there was an houfe wherein fometime were diffraught and Lunaticke people; of what antiquitie founded, by whom, or what time fupprefied, faith Stow, I haue not read. But it was faid, that a King of England, not liking fuch a kinde of people to remaine fo neare his Pallace, caufed them to be remoued further off, to Bethlem without Bilhopfgate of London, and to that Hofpitall the faid houfe by Gharing-croffe doth yet remaine.

He was a man in great effimation with Margaret Counteffe of Richmond, by whole exhortation fhee built and endowed two Colledges in Cambridge, S. Johns, and Chrift Colledge; the made him one of her execurours. He lived likewife a long time in great fauour with her Grandchild King Henry the eight; even vntill his marriage with Anne Bullein; which he ever feemed to difallow. Whereupon he was fufpected, and accufed, to be of councell with Elizabeth Barton (commonly called the holy Maide of Kent) a Nunne of Saint Sepulchres in Canterbury, who by fundrie fuggeftue revelations gaue out, that if the King proceeded in divorce and fecond marriage, he fhould not raigne in his realme feven moneths after, nor reft in Gods fauour the sculed himfelfe by his letters to the Kings Maieffie.

To the Kings most gracious Highnes.

Pleafe it your gracioule Highenes benignely to heare this my moft humble fute, which I haue to make vnto your grace at this time, and to pardon me that I come not my felfe vnto your grace for the fame. For in good faith I haue had fo many periculoufe difeafes, oone after another, which began with me before Advent; and fo by long continuance hath now brought my body into that weakeneffe, that withouten perill of defiruction of the fame (which I darr faye your grace for your foueraigne goodnes wold not) I may not as yet take any traueyling vpon me. And foo I wrote to Maifter Cromwell your mooft truftie Councellor, befeeching him to obtayne your gracioufe licence for me, to be abfent from this Parliament, for that fame caufe, and he put me in comforthe footo doo.

Now thus it is (moft gracioule foueraygne Lord) that in your moft high Court of Parliament is put in a bill againft me, concerning the Nunne of Canterbury, and intending my condempnation for not reuelyng of fuch wordes as the hadde vnto me towchyng your Highnes. Wherein I mooft humblie befeech your grace, that without difpleafor I maye thew vnto you, the confideration that moued me fo to doo; which when your mooft excellent wifdome hath deaplye confidered, I truft affuredlie, that your charitable goodnes will not impute any blame to me therfore.

A trowth it is, this Nunne was with me thries in commyng from London by Rochefter, as I wrote to Mafter Cromwell, and fhewed vnto him the occasions of her commyng, and of my fendings vntyll hir againe.

The first tyme the came vnto my houfe, vnfent for of my partye, and then the tolde me that the hadde bene with your grace, and that the hadde thewed vnto you a reuelation which the hadde from Almighty God (your grace I hope will not be difpleafed with this my rehearfall thereof) She fayd that if your grace went forth with the purpote that ye intended, ye thold not be King of England feuen moneths after.

I conceaued not by theis wordes, I take it vpon my foule, that any malice or euill was intended or ment vnto your highnes, by any mor all man, butt oonly that thei were the threattes of God, as the than did affirme.

And though thei were feaned, that (as I wold be faued) was to me vnknowen. I neuer counfailled hir vnto that feanyng, nor was privaye thervnto, vnto, nor to any fuch purpofes, as it is now fayd thei went aboute. Neuertheleffe if fhe hadde told me this Reuelation, and hadde not alfoo told me, that fhe hadde reported the fame vnto your grace, I hadde bene verylie farre to blame, and worthy extreame punyfhment, for not difclofing the fame vnto your highenes, or elfe to fome of your counfaill; But fithen fhe did affure me therewith, that fhe hadde playnelye told vnto your grace the fame thynge, I thought doubtleffe that your grace wold have fufpected me that I had commy n to renewe hir tale agayne vnto yow, rather for the confermyng of myn opinion, than for any other caufe.

I befeech your highenes to take no difpleafor with me for this that I will faye. It flykketh yet (mooft gracioufe Soueraygne) in my hart, to my no little heuyneffe youre greeuous letters, and after that youre mooft fearfull wordes, that your grace hadde vnto me for fhewyng vnto yow my mynde and opinion in the fame matter. Notwithftandyng that your highneffe hadde foo often and foo ftraytly commanded me to ferch for the fame before. And for this caufe I was right loth to haue comyn vnto your grace agayne, with fuch a tale pertayning to that matter.

Meny other confiderations I hadde, but this was the very caufe why that I came not vnto your grace. For in good faith, I dradde left I shold therby have provoked your grace to farther displeasor agaynste me.

My Lord of * Ganterbury alfo which was your great Counfaillor, told me that the hadde bene with your grace, and hadde thewed yow this fame matter, and of hym (as I will antweare before God) I learned greatter thynges of her pretented vitions than the told me herfelfe. And at that fame tyme I thewede vnto hym, that the hadde bene with me, and told me as I haue written before.

I trust now that your excellent wildome and learnynge feeth there ys in me no defawte, for not reuelynge of hir wordes vnto your grace, whan the hir felfe did affirme vnto me that the hadde foo done, and my Lord of Canterbury that then was, confermed alfoo the fame.

Wherfore mooft gracioule Soueraygne Lord, in my moft humble wife I belech your highenes to dimiffe me of this trouble, whereby I (hall the more quietly ferue God, and the more effectually pray for your grace; This, if there were a right great offence in me, fhold be to your merite to pardon, but much rather taking the cafe as it is, I truft veryly yow will fo doo.

Now my body is much weakened with meny difeafes and infirmities, and my foule is much inquieted by this tronble, fo that my harte is more withdrawen from God, and fro the deuotion of prayer than I wold. And veryly I thinke that my lyve may not long continewe. Wherfore eftfoones I befech your mooft gracious highenes, that by your charytable goodnes I may be deliuered of this befyneffe, and onely to prepare my foule to God, and to make itt ready agaynft the commyng of death, and no moore to come abroode in the world. This moofte gracioufe Soueraigne Lord, I befech your highenes, by all the fingular and excellent endewments of your moft noblebodic and fowle, and for the loue of Chrift Iefu, that foo dearly with his mooft precioufe bloode redeamed yowr and myn. And duryng my lyue I fhall not ceafe (as I am bownden) and yett now the more centearly

Your most humble Beadman and Subject, Io. Roffe.

He writ likewife to the high Court of Parliament (then fitting) to the fame effect : but before this bufineffe wasfully finished, another came vpon him, which was the oath of Supremacie; the refuting whereof, being tendered, was adjudged high treafon. This oath, or fome part of it, he denies, whereupon he is committed to the Tower, from whence he thus writes to Cromwell.

After my most humble commendations, where as ye couet that I should gx fit in Bib. write vnto the Kings Highneffe, in good faith, I dread mee that I cannot course be foo circumfpect in my writing, but that fum word thall efcapeme, wherwith his grace thall be moued to fum further difpleafure against me, wherof I wold be veray fory For, as I will answer by for God, I wold not in any manner of poynte offend his grace, my duty faued who God, whom I muft in every thyng prefer. And for this confideration, I am full loth and full of feare to wryte vnto his highneffe in this matter. Neuertheleffe fythen I conceyue that it is your mynd that I shall foo doo, I will endenor mee to the best that I can. But first here I must befeeh yow gode master Secretary, to call to yowr remembrance, that at my laft being befor yow, and the other Commiffioners, for taking of the othe concerning the Kings moft no ble fucceffion, I was content to be fworne vnto that parcell concerning the fucceffion. And there I did rehearfe this reafon, whiche I fade moued mee. I dowted not, but that the Prynce of eny Realme, with th' affent of his no bles and commons, myght appoynte for his fucceffion Royall, fuch an order as was seen vnto his wyfdom moft accordyng. And for this reason, I fade, that I was content to be fworne vnto that parte of the otheras concernyng the fucceffion. This is a veray trowth, as God help my fowl at my most neede. Albeit I refused to fwear to fome other parcels, bycause that my confeience wold not ferueme fo to doo. Furthermor 1 byfeche yow to be gode mafter vnto me in my neceffitie, for I haue nether Shirt, nor Suie, nor yet other clothes that ar neceffary for me to wear; but that bee ragged and torne to fhamefully. Notwithftandyng I myghte eafily fuffer that, if thei wold keep my body warm. But my dyetrallfo, God knowes, how flen. der itt is att meny tymes. And now in myn age, my ftomake may not a way but with a few kynd of mears, which if I want, I decay forth with, and fall into coffes and difeafes of my body, and cannot keepe my felf in health. Thus our Lord haue you euer in his conferuation. From my Maner at Croydon, the xvii day of Aprill.

Your own affured euer, Thomas Cantuar.

Here in this letter is to be feene the wifedome and policie of this prudent Archbilhop, who could make fuch auaileable vieto the flate, of the flrong opinion, which most men conceiued, of the profound indgement of these two perforts.

This Sir Thomas More was pregnant of wit, eloquent, wife, and learned, as by his bookes ftill extant doth appeare: and befides thole mentioned by Bale, which we have in print. During the time of his imprilonment, which was foureteene moneths (faith Pitfeus) he writ an hiftoricall exposition of the Paffion of our Lord and Sauiour Iefus Chrift, according to the foure Euangelifts. Which I can hardly beleeue: for I finde, that when he was in prifon, his bookes and all his papers were taken away from him. Whereupon he flut vp his Chamber-windowes, faying, When the wares are gone, and the tooles taken away, we must flut vp flop. Thus would he lofe his light before he would lofe his ieft; for that he would neuer lofe nor leaue off, vpon the leaft occafion offered, vntill he had loft his head.

He was twice married, first, (faith Erasmus his intimate deare friend) Virginem duxit admodum puellam, claro genere natam; Hemarried a Maide very young, borne of a noble Familie, whom he tooke care to haue instructed in all good literature, and to be expert in all forts of Musicke; by her he had foure children; one Sonne named Iohn, and three daughters : Margaret, Alice, or Aloysia, and Cicely.

God (faith Leland that reuerend Antiquarie, that liued in his dayes) extraordinarily bleffed thefe his children, and namely, his three daughters, to whom he had giuen an admirable dexteritie, in the fcience of Songs and Arts : which he noteth in this his learned Epigram.

His fecond wite was a widow, of whom he was wont to fay, that the was, nec bella nec puella. Who as the was a good hufwife, fo was the not voide of the fault that often followeth that vertue, fomewhat threwd to her feruants. Vpon a time Sir Thomas found fault with her continuall chiding, faying, If that nothing would reclaime her, yet the confideration of the time (for it was Lent) thould reftraine her. Tufh, tufh, my Lord (faid the) looke here is one fteppe to heauen-ward, thewing him a Friers girdle. I feare me, faid he, this one fteppe will not bring you vp a fteppe higher.

One day when the came from thrift, the faid merrily to her husband; Be merry, Sir Thomas, for this day was I well thriuen, I thanke God, and purpofe now therefore to leaue off all my old threwdneffe. Yea (quoth he) and to begin afreth.

This man thus much giuen to a certaine pleafure in harmlelle mirth, facetious iefts, and prefent wittle anfwers, was wonderfull zealous in Religion, and deuout: in fo much that diuers times in his Chancelloutfhip, he would put on a Surplife, and helpethe Prieft to fay and fing diuine Seruice; for which being reprehended by Fhomus Duke of Norfolke, who told him that it was a difhonour to the King, that the Lord Chancellor of England fhould be a Parith Clerke. Hee thus anfwered, Now truly, my Lord, I thinke, and verily beleeue, that when the King thall heare of the care I haue both to ferue his Mafter and mine, he will accept and take me for a faithfull Seruant. Which he might well fay; for vpon his firft comming to his feruice, the King gaue him this godly leffon : Firft looke vnto God, and then after vnto me. Vpon which religious and Princely leffon, he grounds a reafon, and pleads a libertie, to vfe his owne proper conficience in the Kings moft weightie affaires; as you may perceiue by this part of a letter following written to Cromwell.

Right worthipfull, &c. it pleafed the Kyngs highnes to fend me in the companie of my Lord of London, now of Durefme, in embaffiate aboute the Peace that at our being there was concluded at Cameray, betwene his highnes, and themperour, and the French Kyng. And after my comyng home, his highnes of his onely goodnes (as far vnworthy I was thereto) made me (as you well knowe) his Chauncelor of this Realme : fone after which time, his grace moued me agayne yit-eftfonys to loke and confidre his great matter, and well and indifferently to pondre fuch things as I thould fynde therin. And if it fo were, that therevpon it thoulde happen me to fe fuch things as fholde perfuade me to that parte ; hee wolde gladly vie me among other of his Counfailors in that matter; & neuertheleffe gracyoufely declared vnto me, that he wolde in no wife that I tholde other thing do or fay therin, than vpon that that I shold perceiue myn owne confcience (bold ferue me; and that I (holde fyrft loke vnto God, and after God vnto hym. Which mooft gratioufe wordys was the fyrft leffon alfo that euer his grace gaue me at my fyrst comyng into his noble fervyce,&c. This learned Chancellour with much labour and earnest fuite to the King. got leave to leave his office, before hee had continued therein fully three ycarcs.

of the Romanes, to burne their dead, to put their Afhes in an Vrne, and then burie the fame with certaine ceremonies, in fome field appointed for that purpofe, neare vnto their Citie.

Euery of these pots had in them (with the alles of the dead) one peece of Copper-money, with the infeription of the Emperour then raigning; fome of them were of Claudius, fome of Vefpafian, fome of Nero, fome of Antonius Pius, of Traiane, and others. Besides those vrnes, many other pots were found in the same place, made of a white earth, with long neckes and handles, like to our ftone lugs: these were emptic, but seemed to be buried full of fome liquid matter, long fince confumed and foaked through. For there were found diuers vials, and other fashioned Glasses, fome most cuaningly wrought, such as I have not seene the like, and fome of Chrissall, all which had water in them, nothing differing in clearness, tafte, or fauour, from common spring water, whatsoeuer it was at the first. Some of these Glasses had oyle in them very thicke, and earthy in fauour. Some were supposed to have Balme in them, but had loft the vertue : Many of these pots and Glasses were broken in cutting of the clay, fo that few were taken vp whole.

There were also found divers Difhes and Cups, of a fine redde coloured earth, which thewed outwardly fuch a thining fmoothneffe, as if they had beene of currall. Those had (in the bottomes) Romane letters printed; There were also Lampes of white earth and red, artificially wrought with divers Antiques; about them, fome three or foure Images, made of white earth, about a fpanne long each of them. One, I remember, was of Pallas, the reft I have forgotten. I my felfe have referved (amongft divers of those Antiquities there) one vrne, with the afhes and bones, and one pot of white earth very fmall, not exceeding the quantitie of a wine pint, made in thape of a Hare (quatted vpon her legges, and betweene her cares is the mouth of the pot.

There hath alfo beene found (in the fame field) diuers coffins of ftone, containing the bones of men : thefe I fuppole to be the burials of fome fpeciall perfons, in time of the Brittaines, or Saxons. Moreouer, there were alfo found the fculls and bones of men without coffins, or rather whole coffines (being of great timber) were confumed. Diuers great Nailes of Iron were there found, fuch as are vied in the wheeles of fhod carts, being each of them as bigge as a mans finger, and a quarter of a yard, the heads two inches ouer. Thole Nailes were more wondred at then the reft of the things there found; and many opinions of men were there vitered of them; namely that the men there buried, were murthered by driving thole Nailes into their heads, a thing vnlikely : for a fmaller Naile would more aptly ferue to fo bad a purpole; and a more fecret place would lightly be imployed for fuch buriall.

But to fet downe what I obferued concerning this matter, I there beheld the bones of a man lying (as I noted) the head North, the feet South, and round about him (as thwart his head, along both his fides, and thwart his feet) fuch Nailes were found. Wherefore I coniectured them to be Nailes of his coffin. Which had beene a trough, cut out of fome great tree, and the fame coucred with a planke of a great thickneffe, faftened with fuch Nailes, and therefore I caufed fome of the Nailes to be reached up to mesand found vnder the broad heads of them, the old wood, Icant turned into earth, but full retaining both the graine and proper colour. Of these Nailes (with the wood vnder the head thereof ) I referued one, as allo the nether law bone of the man, the teeth being great, found, and fixed, which (imongft many, other Monuments there found) I have yet to fhew : but the nayle tying dry, is by fealing greatly wafted. ### Certaine Burials of Britifb Kings in and about London, the places of their interments voncertaine.

And first to begin with Guentoline, the fonne of Gurganstus, King of Guenteline king Britaine, who flourished about the yeare of the world, 3614. Who was a wife Prince, graue in counfell, and fober in behauiour, and fludied, with great care and diligence, to reforme anew, and to adorne with iuftice, lawes, and good orders, the Britilh common wealth; by other Kings not fo framed as ftood with the greatneffe thereof. But as he was bufie in hand herewith, death tooke him away from their worldly employments, when hee had raigned 27. yeares.

He had a wife named Martia Proba, a woman of perfect beautie, and wifedome incomparable, as by her prudent gouernment, and equall adminiftration of iuffice, after her husbands deceafe, during her fonnes minoritie, it most manifestly appeared.

She was a woman expert and skilfull in diuers fciences, but chiefely, being admitted to the government of the Realme, the fludied to preferue the common wealth in good, quiet, and decent order; and therefore deuiled, eftablifhed, and writ a booke in the British tongue of profitable and conucnient Lawes, the which after her name were called Martian Lawes. Thefe Lawes afterwards Gildas Cambrius, the Hiftoricall Welch Poet, tranflated into Latine and a long time after him, Alured, King of the Weft Saxons, holding these lawes necessarie for the preferuation of the common wealth, put them into English Saxon speech, and then they were called after that tranflation, Marchenelagh, that is to meane, the Lawes of Martia adding thereunto a Booke of his owne writing of the Lawes of England, which he called, A certaine Breuiarie extracted out of diuers Lawes of the Troians, Grecians, Britaines, Saxons, and Danes. Sheflourifhed before the birth of our Lord and Saujour, 248. yeares, or thereabours.

Her fonnes name was Sicilius, who vpon the death of his Father was but young : for I reade that Martia his mother, deliuered vp the gouernment of the kingdome to her fonne when he came to lawfull age, which the had right politiquely guided, and highly for her perpetuall renowne and commendation, the space of fourteene yeares. He died when hee had raigned feuen yeares, fome fay fifteene yeare :.

Of Bladud, king of Britaine, the fonne of Lud burdibras, many incredible paffages are delinered by our old Britilh writers, and followed by fundric Authors offucceeding ages, which fay, that he was fo well feene in the Sciences of Aftronomic and Necromancie, that thereby hee made the hote Yy (prings his full purpose to drive them out, and from the seventh years after their first entrance, for twentic years continuance, fought many battailes with them, and foure of them with great puissance in the open field; in the first whereof, they departed with like fortune, and losse of the Generals brethren Horfa and Latigern: in the other three, the Britaines went away with victory, and so long, vntill Vortimer was taken away by fatall death.

It is recorded of him, that after he had vanquifhed the Saxons, and difpoffeffed them of all their footing in the Continent, yea, and often affailed them in the Ifle of Tannet : the Church of Chriftianitic being ruinated by the Pagan marriage of Rowena with his Brother, as aforefaid, that he reftored the Chriftian Religion, as then forely decaied, and new built the Churches that his enemies, the misbeleeuing Saxons had deftroied.

It is also reported by Nemnius of Bangor, in the historie of his countrie, that after his laft victorie ouer the Saxons, he caused his monument to be erected at the entrance into Tanet, and in the fame place of that great ouerthrow, which by the faid Author, is called Lapis Tituli, of vs the Stonars where for certaine, it feemes, hath beene an hauen. In this monument, hee commanded his body to be buried, to the further terror of the Saxons, that in beholding this his Trophie, their spirits might be daunted at the remembrance of their great ouerthrow. As Scipio Africanus conceited the like, who commanded his Sepulchre to be so for the further terror to the Carthaginians. But how that defire of Vortimer was performed, I finde not, fatth a late writer: but rather the contrarie; for an old Manuscript I haue, that confidently affirmeth him to be buried in London, which agreeth with these old Rimes of my reuerend Monke of Glocefter.

King Edward the fourth: Edward, the eldeft fonne of King Edward the fourth, by Queene Eli. zabeth his wife, fay our English Writers, was borne in the Sanctuary at

The uncertaine buriall of Edward and Richard, the fonnes of Weftminfter, the fourth of Nouember, and yeare of grace, 1470 being the tenth of his fathers raigne, at that time expulled the Realme by the powerfull Earle of Warwicke; but fortune being changed, and the father reftored, the fonne in Iuly following, the fixe and twentieth day, 1471. was created Prince of Wales, and Earle of Chefter; and afterwards vpon the eight of Iuly, in the 19 yeare of his faid fathers raign, he was by Letters Patents, dated at Effhamfted, further honoured with the Earledomes of Penbroke and March. He was proclaimed King, but neuer crowned, yet had not the ambitious hand of his Vncle beene defiled in his innocent bloud, hee might haue worne the Diadem many yeares, whereas he bare the title of King no longer then two moneths and eighteene daies.

Richard, furnamed of Shrewsbury, becaufe he was there borne, the fecond fonne of Edward the fourth, by his wife Elizabeth, as aforefaid, was affianced in his infancie, to Anne the onely daughter and heire of Iohn Lord Mowbray Duke of Norfolke; hee was honoured by the titles of Duke of Norfolke, Earle Warren, Earle Marthall, and Nottingham; alfo Lord Baron of Mowbray, Segraue, and of Gower, as Milles will haue it; but inioying neither wife, title, or his owne life long, was with his brother, murthered in the Tower of London, and in the prifon of that Tower, which, vpon that moft finfull deed, is euer fince called the bloudy Tower, their bodies as yet vnknowne where to haue buriall. The florie of whofe death, and fuppoled interment, extracted out of authenticall Authors, is thus deliuered by Iohn Speed.

Prince Edward and his brother (faith hee) were both fhut vp in the Tower, and all attendants remoued from them, onely one called Blacke-Will, or William Slaughter excepted, who was fet to ferue them, and to fee them fure. After which time the Prince neuer tied his points, nor cared for himfelfe, but with that yong Babe his brother, lingred with thought and heauineffe, till their traiterous deaths deliuered them out of that wretchedneffe: for the execution whereof, Sir Iames Tirrill appointed Miles Forreft, a fellow flefhed in murther before time: to whom he ioyned one Iohn Digbton his horfe-keeper, a bigge, broad, fquare knaue.

About midnight (all others being remoued from them) this Miles Forreft, and Iohn Dighton, came into the Chamber, and fuddenly wrapped vp the fely children in the Bed-clothes where they lay, keeping, by force, the featherbed and pillowes hard vpon their mouthes, that they were therein fmothered to death, and gaue vp to God their innocent foules, into the ioyes of heauen, leaving their bodies vnto the Tormentors, dead in the bed which after thefe monftrous wretches perceived, firft by the ftrugling with the paines of death, and after long lying ftill to bee thorowly difpatched, they laid their bodies naked out vpon the bed, and then fetched Sir Iames Tirrill their infligator, to fee them, who caufed thefe murtherers to bury bury them at the ftaires foot, fomewhat deepe in the ground, vnder a great heape of ftones. Then rode Sir Iames in hafte to the King, vnto whom he fhewed the manner of their death, and place of buriall; which newes was fo welcome to his wicked heart, as hee greatly reioyced, and with great thankes dubbed (asfome hold) this his mercileffe Inftrument, Knight.But the place of their buriall he liked not, faying, that vile corner fhould not containe the bodies of those Princes, his Nephewes, and commanded them a better place for buriall, because they were the Sons of a King. Whereupon the Prieft of the Tower tooke 'vp their bodies, and fecretly interred them in fuch a place, which by the occasion of his death, could neuer fince come to light.

The continuer of tobn Harding tels vs from the report of others, that King Richard cauled Sir Robert Brakenburies Prieft to clofe their dead corpes in lead, and fo to put them in a coffin full of holes, and hooked at the ends with two hookes of iron, and fo to caft them into a place called the Blacke deepes at the Thames mouth, whereby they fhould neuer rife vp, or be any more feene.

To which effect I have seene their Epitaph written by Thomas Stanler, Bishop of Man, Parson of Winwicke, and Wigan in Lancashire, who flourished in the severall raignes of King Henry the eight, Edward the fixt, Queene Mary, and Queene Elizabeths thus it runs in his Lancashire rimes.

> In Londons Coure in one plate or anoder Interryd lay kyng Soward and his Broder, who by there wicked * Ame were guyltles fleyne, And bately beryd, yet tooke by ageyne And caff into the blacke deepes at Coms mouth. Now whether wrecht, or toff from North to South, Cheir reliques are, it recks not; ther foules reft In Heu'n amangit Sods children euer bleft.

They weren murdered in July, 1483. Edward being thirteene yeres old, and Bichard about fome two yeres yonger.

The iuft iudgement of God feuerely reuenged the murther of thefe ionocent Princes upon the malefactors . For first to begin with the Ministers; Miles Forreft at Saint Martins, peece-meale rotted away; Sir lames Tirrill died at Tower hill for treason committed against Henry the feuenth; Dighton indeed (faith my Author, who lived in those times) walketh on alive, in good poffibility to be hanged ere he die, liuing at Calleis, no leffe diffained and hated, then pointed at of all. King Richard himfelfe was flaine in the field, hacked and hewed of his enemies hands, harried on a horfe backe naked, being dead, his haire in defpite torne and tugged like a curre dogge. And the milchiefe that he tooke, was within leffe then three yeares of the mifchiefe that he did, and yet all the meane time fpent in much paine and trouble outward, and much feare, anguish, and forrow within. For I haue heard by credible report of his Chamberlaine, that after this abhominable deed done, he neuer was quiet in his minde: he neuer thought himfelfe fure, for where he went abroad, his eyes cuer whirled about, his body was priuily Yy 3

Saint Albans Abbey.

I thinke it not much amiffe to speake a little of this Protomartyr of England, Saint Alban, whole reliques lie here interred, to whole name, and for his eternall commemoration, both this Towne and Monastery were built and confectated.

He was a Citizen and a Knight of that famous Citie Verulam, (which ftood hereby beyond the little riner) who giving entertainement at his own houfe, to Amphibalus a Chriftian, and one of the Clergie, was by him his gueft, converted from Paganifme, to the true profeffion of Iefus Chrift : and when Disclefian (who made Maximian his companion in the Empire) went about by exquilite torments, to wipe Chriftian Religion quite out of the memory of men, was the firft in Britaine, that with invincible conftancie and refolution, fuffered death for Chrift his fake : of which perfecution, as alfo of his Martyrdome, my often alledged Author, Robert of Glocefter, fhall tell you in his old verfe.

Two Emperors of Bome wer on Diocleffan, And anoder hys felaw that het Maximian. And wer both at on tym, the on in the Effe ende, The oder in the welt of the woy d. alle criftendom to thende. for the inther Maximian weftwarde hider foughte, And chailten men that he fonde to fir ang beth he broughte. Thurchen he pulde a donn, ther ne mofte non ftonde, And al the bokes that he mighte fynde in eny londe, De wolde late berne echon, amydde the heygh ftrete, And the chaiftenmen alle, and non alvue lete. Suth God was ybor byon cuiltendom. Such perfection as ther was hadde ther be non. for your a monethe ther wer feuentene thoufend and mo, I martred foz our Lozdes Loue: nas ther a grete boe sayth oute ober grete halwen that hit heold longe in tozment. He fuffered martyrdome in the yeare of Chrift, lath Stow, 293. the twentieth day of lune, faith Bede, howfoeuer the two and twentieth day of the fame moneth, was appointed by the Church, to be kept holy to his memory, as we have it in our English Calender.

Many Miracles are faid to be wrought by this facred Martyr, both liuing and dead, but I will leave them, (for that they will be thought incredulous in this age) and come to the foundation of this Abbey.

The foundation of S. Albans Abbey.

The Sepulchres of holy Saints, the reliques of bleffed Martyrs, and the very places of their martyrdome, did kindle, in times paft, no fmall heate of diuine charitie in the mindes of our first Christian Saxon Kings; which made offa the glorious King of the Mercians, to recall himfelfe from the trace of blondy warres, in great deuotion to goe to Rome, and to obtaine of Pope Adrian the first, the canonyzation of this martyr Alban; in honour of whom, and first to our Lord Iefus Christ, he founded this monastery, about the yeere 795. (the Church whereof still remaineth, which for bigneffe, beautic, and antiquity, is to be had in admiration) in the very place where the forefaid Alban fuffered his martyrdome. He endowed this his goodly fabricke, with fufficient reuenues for the maintenance of one hundred blacke Monkes, Benedictins, and caufed the reliques of his new Saint to be taken vp, and put in a fhrine, adorned with gold and pretious ftones of ineftimable value; which was further enriched by his fonne Egfrid, and many other fucceeding Kings and Princes, but now at this day, nothing is remaining of this rich Shrine, faue a marble ftone, to couer his facred Afhes; ouer against which, on the wall, these verses are lately depicted. onely to tell vs that fuch a man there was, to whole memory a Shrine was erected.

> Renowned Alban knight, firft Martyr of this land, By Disclefian loft his life through bloudy hand. Who made him foueraigne Lord, high Steward of this Ifle, And Prince of Britaine knights to dignifie his ftile, He veritie embrac't, and Verulamforfooke, And in this very place his martyrdome he tooke. Now hath he his reward, he lives with Chrift aboue, For he aboue all things, Chrift and histruth did loue. Here Offa, Mercians King, did Albans bones enfhrine, So all things were difpos'd by providence divine. Nought but this marble ftone of Albans Shrine is left, The worke of all forme elfe, hath changing time bereft.

I have read in an old Mff. in Sir Robert Cottons Librarie, that this following, was anciently the Infeription vpon his Shrine.

Here lieth interred, the body of Saint Alban, a Citizen of old Verulam, of whom this towne tooke denomination, and from the ruines of which Citie, this Towne did arife. He was the first Martyr of England, and fuffered his martyrdome the xx. day of June, in the yeare of mans redemption, interred the body of Vmfrey Plantaginet, furnamed the Good, fourth fonne of King Henry the fourth. By the grace of God (for fo begins his fule by Charter) fonne, brother, and vncle of Kings, Duke of Glocetter, Earle of Miller Caral, Henault, Holland, Zeland, and Pembroke, Lord of Frifeland, great Chamberlaine of England, Protector and defender of the Church and kingdome of England. Thus great, thus glorious, by birth, creation, and marriage, was hee in his honourable titles and Princely attributes ; but farre more great, and illustrious, in his vertuous endowments, and inward qualities: But in his praife, may it pleafe you reade learned Clarentieux, in his tract of Suffolke, where he writes of the Abbey of Bury: thefe are his words. That father of his countrey, Vmfrey Duke of Glocefter, a due observer of Juffree, and one who had furnished his noble wit, with the better and deeper kinde of Studies, after he had, vnder King Henry the fixth, gouerned the kingdome fiue and twenty yeares with great commendations ; fo that neither good men bad caufe to complaine of, nor cuill to finde fault with, was here in Saint Sautours Hofpitall brought to his end, by the fpightfull enuie of Margaret of Lorain, who was wife to Henry the fixth his Nephew. But his death was the ftroke of an cuill Angell, which was fent to punish Eng- speed. land, and to roote out all her Nobles.

Saith the Abbot of this house Io. Whetham fled; yet for all this was he arrefted of high Treafon, in the yeare 1446 and within few dayes after ftrangled to death; without any triall. Some fay he died for forrow, because hee Store Annal. might not come to his answer. Hee built the Divinitie Schoole in Oxford, and was an efpeciall benefactour to this Abbey. Here is an Epitaph penfild on the wall neare to his Tombe, to the fame effect; with an Item of the miracle which he wrought vpon the blinde imposture. The ftory is frequent.

9. Eadmer his Succeffor went forward with the worke that Ealized began, and his pionersouerthrew the foundations of a pallace in the midft of the old Citie: And in the hollow place of a wall, as it were in a little clofet, they happened vpon bookes, couered with oaken boards, and filken firings at them : whereof one contained the life of Saint Alban, written in the Britifh tongue; the reft, the ceremonies of the Heathen. When they opened the ground deeper, they met with old tables of ftone, with tiles alfo and pillars, likewife with pitchers and pots of earth, made by Potters and Turners worke : veffells moreouer of glaffe, containing the alhes of the dead, &c. To conclude, out of these remaines of Verulam, Eadmer built anew the moft part of his Church and Monasterie; with a determination to haue finished all: Sed tamen morte preuentus, faith the booke, propositum fuum men est affecutus.

10. Leofricke was preferred to the Archbishopricke of Canterbury, who departing with the benediction of his brethren, left his Monastery abundantly rich. This man is omitted in the Catalogue of Bishops, or otherwise Aluricius or Alfricus is set in his place.

11. This Alfricke or Aluricke was the eleventh Abbot, and brother by the mothers fide to his predeceffour Leefricke; he compiled an Hiftorie of the life and death of Saint Alban, and hee, together with his brother, got and gave nine villages to this Abbey.

12. Leofftane procured many great and important liberties to his Church, of Edward the Confession, whose Chaplaine and Confession the faid Abbot was; and who, betwixt the King and his Queene Editha, was Casti confilij feminator.

13. Fredericke the bold and rich Abbot of Saint Albans (for fo he was called) fucceeded Leofftane, descended from the Saxons noble bloud, as likewife from Canntus the Dane: this man opposed the Conquerour William in all his proceedings, plotted against him in divers conspiracies, and told him frontly to his face, that he had done nothing but the dutie of his birth and profeffion; and if others of his ranke had performed the like (as they well might and ought) it had not beene in his power to have pierced the land fo farre. But this, and other his ouer bold answers, did so offend the King, that he tooke from him this Abbey of Saint Albans, with all the lands and reuenues belonging thereunto, which lay betwixt Barnet and London-ftone. Whereupon, without delay, hee called a Chapter of his Brethren, fhewing them their approaching dangers, and to auoide the prefent ftorme, went himfelfe to Ely (where he defifted not from his wonted machinations against the Conquerour) and there ended his dayes, in magnamentis amaritudine (faith mine Author) postquam multis annis huic Ecclesie nobiliter prefuisset.

14. Paul a Monke of Cane, vpon his death, was made Abbot, who in fhort fpace by the counfell and aide of Lanfranke, Archbifhop of Canterbury, builded very fumptuoufly a new Ghurch, with a Cloifter here, with all offices; and adorned the fame Church with many good bookes, and rich ornaments. He procured his lands and reuenues backe againe from the Conquerour; and by himfelfe, and his forcible perfwafions with others, he did further enrich his Abbey with many faire poffeffions.

15. Ri-

15 Richard fucceeded him, who folemnly & magnificently did confecrate the Church, which his predecessour Paul had finished, and built a Chappell of himfelfe to the honour of Saint Cuthbert, in which hee was entombed, with this Epitaph.

> Abbas Richardus iacet hic, wt piftica vardus Redolens virtutum floribus et meritis. A quo fundatus locus est hic, edificatus Ingenti studio nec modico precio. Quem nonas decimas Februo promente Kalendas, Abstulit vltima sors, et rapuit cita mors.

16 Geffrey the Abbot gaue many rich ornaments to this his Monastery, with a Challice and a couer all of maffie pure gold, which afterwards hee fent to Pope Celestine the second, vt ipfius sedaret auaritiam, volentis hanc Ecclestian appropriare; that he might appeale or mitigate the couetous field of his holy father of Rome, who was willing (and went about) to impropriate this Abbey.

> Abbas Galfridus Papa cui fuit ipfe molestus Hic iacet innocuus, prudens, pius, atque modestus.

17 Raph his fucceffor, built anew the lodgings for the Abbots, and gaue divers rich Copes and Veftments for the ornament of his Church.

18 Robert was the next Abbot who procured the Church of Luton to be annexed to this, and deliuered his Monastery from the service of the Bishop of Lincolne, which was a controuersie of long continuance, and in the end agreed vpon by composition; which agreement was confirmed by Alexander the third, Bishop of Rome, about the yeare 1178. as by his Bull to that purpose appeareth.

About twenty yeares afterwards, (vpon fome new quarrels, belike, arifing betweene the two forefaid Churches) this composition and transaction was againe confirmed by Clemens the third, in these words.

Clemens Episcopus seruus seruorum dei; dilectis filijs Abbati et conuentui Sancti Albani, Salutem et Apostolicam ben. Cum inter vos ex vna parte et Ecclessam Lincolnien. et Capitulum eius ex altera controuersia verteretur, super eo quod Copitulum ipsum Ecclessam vestram proponebat Ecclesse Lincolnien. de iure este subiectam, inter vos concordia de assensum intercesserie. 19 Symon Abbot caufed many bookes to be written for the vfe of the Couent; in his time, one Adam, Steward of the monastery, made the Kitchin much more large, and gaue both money and lands to the Couent and Monastery, ideo (faith my Author) ob preclara eius merita inter Abbates in capitulo fepulturam meruit optimere; therefore for his good deferts, hee deferued to be buried in the Chapter-house amongst the Abbots.

20 Carine caufed a coffin and a Shrine to be new made, wherein he put the reliques of Saint Amphibalus. Richard Cordelion, King of England, being taken prifoner by Leopold Duke of Auftria, and his ranfome fet at one hundred thouland pound, commandement was directed from his Iuffices, thatall Bifhops, Prelates, Earles, Barons, Abbots, and Priors, fhould bring in the fourth part of their reuenues towards his deliuerance: at which time the fhrines in the Churches were fleeced, and their Chalices coined into ready money, yet this Abbot (quia Regi erat amicifimus) redeemed the Chalices, and all other the rich offerings to the glorious fhrines within his Church, for two hundred markes. This Carine was the first Abbot of this houfe, that was dignified with Miter and Croifier.

22 William, amongft many of his pious acts, reedified Saint Cuthberts Chappell, being as then ruinous and ready to fall downe, which hee new made in the honour of Saint Cuthbert, Saint Iohn the Baptift, and Saint Agnes the Virgine; vpon which dedication he caufed these verses to be infeulped ouer the high Altar.

Gonfessor Cushberte Dei Baptista Iohannes, Agnes virgo, tribus vobis hec ara sacratur.

23 John of Hertford was a great benefactor to this Abbey.

24 His

24. His fucceffor Roger did wondroufly loue the beautie of the houfe of God, which he cuidently did demonstrate by the great cost and charges he bestowed vpon this his owne Church: belides, he caused to be made, three tunable Bels for the Steeple, two to the honour of Saint Alban, and the third to Saint Amphibalus, which he appointed to be rung at nine a clocke cuery night; whereupon it was called the Corfue, or couer fire bell.

25 After Roger, fucceeded John of Berkamstede, of whom because hee did nothing memorable in his lifetime, nothing shall be spoken in this present page; Sed taman Lectorem monemus (faith the Booke) vt connertatur ad pietatis opera, et omnipotenti deopro eins anima preces sundat.

26 Iobn Marines gaue a Cenfer to his church, of a great price, befides many other neceffaries.

Quid fuit, est, et erit, cur non bomo discere querit ? Spuma fuit, fumus est: putrida fiet bumus.

28 Abbot Richard, endued with all kindes of learning, both morall and diuine, fuffered great tribulation in his time, in the defence of the rights of his church. He gaue a clocke to the fame, the like of it was not in England.

29 Of Michael the Abbot I have fpoken before.

30 Vpon the death of Michael, Thomas the Prior of Tinmouth was preferred to this monasterie: he fustained innumerable crosses and perturbations, during the time of his being at Tinmouth, as also here at Saint Albanes: yet brought all to a prosperous end, and adorned his church more richly, then any one of his Predecessers; the particular gifts that he gaue to the fame, cost him aboue foure thousand pound.

> Est Abbas Thomas, tumulo presente reclusus Qui vite tempus sanctos expendit in vsus.

31 The next Abbot was John Moot, qui multa fecit diebus fuis memoranda, faith my Author, of whom this Epitaph.

> M. C. quater vint. quint. Claudis heic membra Ioannis, Qui dignis laudibus veteranis occidit annis : Intus confratres bene rexit, post fuit Abbas Constans vt Iosua, Zelans legem vt Helias. Simplicitas vite qua noscitur esse columbe. Simonis et Iude (pie pastor) cras rapuit te. Omnem patratum Christus purgando reatum, Nobis sublatum te muneret hus sociatum.

32 William his next fucceffour, was vir fuis in temporibus sam deo delettas quam quam hominibus, and performed many great workes of piette. Hee died about the yeare 1434. for whom I finde this Epitaph.

Conditus hic resubat fatali forte Guilelmus Albani Paftor qui gregiu aptus erate Reperit illuftrem celesti munere famam, Quam nequit in tanto mors abolere viro.

33 Bat now I come to lobn of Whethamstede, (a village in this shire, plentifull in wheate) (wherein the faid lohn was borne, and thereupon had his denomination,) who was Abbot of this house, in the raigne of Henry the fixt, a man much renowned for his due defert of learning, for his godly life and conversation, for his pleasant disposition, and for the charges he was at, and the meanes he made, to adorne and enrich his Church and monastery. Out of a Manuscript in Sir Robers Costoms rich Librarie, inituled, Gesta paucula Abbatia Iobannis Sexti, I collected thus much of his particular actions.

Ishn, the fixt Abbot of this houfe, of that chriftian name, that he might outwardly fhew, faith the booke, how inwardly hee loued the beautie of the houfe of God, and how much he defired to decke and embellifh the habitation of the moft holy; first hee caused our Ladres chappell to bee new trimmed, and curiously depicted, with stories out of the lacred word: vpon the fouth fide whereof, these verses were curiously depended in gold.

> Dulce pluit Manna partum dum protulit Anna, Dulcius ancila dum Chriftus crenit in illa.

He built a little Chappell in the fouth part of the Church for his owne buriall place, in which vnder certaine pictures in the windowes, he caufed these verses to be inscribed.

> Bropicij Patres, compaßine quoque matres Orat, ut oretis, fua quod fit paufa quietin Vester adoptatus his filius intumulatus.

The north part of his Church being fomewhat darke, hee caufed new windowes to be made, and glazed, to make it appeare more light and glorious; and in the glaffe, vnder the images of certaine heathen Philosophers, which had testified of the incarnation of Iefus Christ; these Hexameters were inferibed.

And that he might further illuminate his Church, he cauled a faire large window to be made anew in the Weft end of the faid North Ifle. Vpon the crection of which these rimes were composed.

> In patria boree quo plus durabilis in fe, Fertur petra fore factor fuit ipse femeftre, Que nunc erigitur in ea quoque parte locatur; Totius Ecclesie que fertur clarior este, Eius & occiduam bene ditat lumine finem.

He made a reuerend kinde of imbroidered vefture, for himfelfe and his fucceffours, to vie when they were to enter into their Santtum Santtorum: he made a new Miter, and a Paftorall staffe. Vpon which this metre was carued.

For the vse and honour of the holy Altar, he made a Chalice of pure gold, a paire of filuer cenfers, a paire of filuer Balons gilt. Vpon which were engrauen the fimilitudes of a Lambe and an Eagle, with these riming verses.

Vpon the pictures of Chrift, the bleffed Virgine, Saint Alban, and the facred Hoft, as they were to be carried in the Cloifter, or into the Towne; he caufed diuers verfes to be written, to bring the people into a reuerend regard of the fame.

Of all his pious acts which he performed for the ornament of his Church, thus much is written (briefly) in the fame booke.

> In cappis, casulis, Albis, fimul & tunicellis, Inque bonis alijs varijs magis ac preciosis; Precessit patres pater bic cunttos preeuntes. Plus coluit que Deum, cur recolamus cum.

After this manner did he adorne, new build, and enrich both his Church and Abbey; and in all his new buildings or repairings, hee caufed the pictures of a Lambe and an Eagle to be thereupon drawne or depicted with these verses following; which you may reade vpon the roose or top of the Quire in the Abbey Church at this day.

> Dic vbicunque vides sit pictus vt Agnus & Ales Effigies operis, sexti sunt ista Iobannis Parte vel in toto iuvisse, vel in faciendo Est opus hoc vnum causauit eum faciendum.

He built much at his Mannor of Titten-Hanger not farre from hence, and in his Studie there inferibed thefe verfes.

> Ipfe Iohannis amor Whethamstede vhique proclamor, Eius & alter bonor hic lucis in ange reponor.

In a Chappell there which he much enlarged, he caufed to be painted vpon the walls the fimilitudes of all the Saints of his owne Christian name of Iobn: with his owne picture, which feemingly thus prayeth.

> Cum fero par nomen, par ferre precor fimul omen; Tum paribus que pari, licet impar, luce locari.

He repaired or rather built anew the Church of Redburne, and confectated the altar againe: ouer which these verses were written vpon the wall.

> Ecce pecus mundi tollens peccata rotundi. En et auis, celi referans arcana fideli. En pecus en et auis, opus en fextique Iohannis.

He built a Librarie in the Monkes Colledge in Oxford, to which he gaue many bookes, in fome of which he writ these verses.

> Fratribus Oxonie datur in munus liber iste. Per patrem pecorum Prothomartyris Angligenorum. Quem siquis rapiat ad partem sine reponat. Vel tude laqueum, vel furcas sentiat Amon.

He built alfo a Ghappell adioyning to the Librarie, and in the principall window vnder the pictures of the Crucifix, the Virgine Mary, and Saint Iohn Baptift, he caufed these deprecatory rimes to be put in the glasse.

> Mors medicina necis ; via vite, pax populatus, Sis (pes prompta precis, lex cure, laus Monachatus.

Matris mesticia, mors prolis, vulnera quina, Sint mea leticia fati pulsante ruina.

Virginis imbutor, fidei fortißime tutor, Nominis vt reputor feror omnis oro fecutor.

He beftowed great charges upon the Abbots lodging-houfe in London.

By his wifedome he did fo mediate with Vmfrey, Duke of Glocefter, that he gaue to this Church (ornatus veftimentorum) a fuite of veftments worth three thousand markes; with the Mannour of Pembroke in South Wales, for that the Monkes should pray for his soule; and chose this Church for the place of his buriall. Vpon which, these rimes.

> Vltra iam dičta, que sunt numero satis ampla, Diues item cella Penbrok à plebe vocata: Per patris media suit Ecclesie propriata; Osfategique sua legit, Propriator, in ipsa.

He gaue much to the Churches of Winflow and Newenham, and other Churches in London. He gaue a challice of pure gold and of great waight to the Priory of Tinmouth, where he was brought vp as a Scholler, a Challice to Wallingford, another to the Church of Worcefter. An effimate of his charitable and pious deuotions to this and other Ghurches, you may fee in thefe two lines, befide what money and goods he bequeathed vpon his death-bed.

firmatione regni sui, de sua prosperitate, nec non pro salute paterne sueque anime, de antecessorum suorum; Ecclesiam suam per omnia salubriter protegendo: saith the golden Register of this Abbey.

The first buliness that this King vndertooke after hee came to the Crowne, was the restauration of ancient priviledges to the Church, and great hope was conceived of his further proceedings, had not God cut him off by vntimely death, the 17. day of September, in the yeare of our Lord God, 796. and in the first of his raigne having had neither wife nor iffue. His bodie with all due obsequies was here Princely interred neare to the Shrine of S. Alban.

This Abbey Church was likewife honoured with the Sepulture of Robert Mombray, Earle of Northumberland: whole florie out of many writers is in this manner extracted.

This Robert Mowbray, a most valiant Souldier, feeing his countrey deftroyed, and ouerrunne cuen vnto Alnewicke caftle, by Malcolme King of Scotland and his armie, made head against the faid Malcolme (not staying for directions from his King William Rusus) and fo fore and suddenly distreffed his forces, that both king Malcolme himselfe, and his sonne Prince Edward were there flaine.

Hereupon this Earle growing proud, and greatly fulpected by King William, began to fortifie the Kings Caftles, with munition for Armes against the like inualion, and indeed against the Kings will; who fent him word fomewhat roughly, to defiss from his doings, and prefently to repaire to his prefence; which whiles the lingered and neglected to do, king William fent his brother Henry to fpoile Northumberland, and immediately followed after himfelfe, where without much adoe, he tooke the Earle, and committed him prifoner to Windfor Caftle.

This Robert Mowbray and William of Anco, with others, confpired to deprive the King both of Crowne and life, and to have fet vp Stephen de Albamarle his Aunts fonne, as Houseden and Walfingham will have it. But I reade in an old Manufcript that he favouring the proceedings of Anfelme, Archbilhop of Canterbury, Pro amore & bono Ecclefie innocentem vitam finiebat. Cuius anime propisietur Deus. As the words are. Rex ipfum cum alijs decollari mandauit: The king commanded that he, with others, lbould be beheaded; his companion Anco being punished with losse both of his eyes, and his virilitie.

He died in prison, faith one writer, In ipso Ergastulo deficiens mortuus est, regnante Henrico Rege. Whole Lands in Normandy, as also, for the most part, here in England, the faid King Henry gaue to Nigell de Albeney, viro probo et illustri.

Another writer tells vs, that he married Maud, the daughter of Richering de Aquila, a potent man in the Conquerours dayes, and that after foure and thirtie yeares of imprifonment, hee died without iffue: in these words.

Mathildis autem potenti viro Roberto de Molbraio Comiti Norhandum. brorum nupfit, qui codem annocontra Willielmum Rufum Regem Anglorun rebellauit. Sed paulo post captus, fere 34. annis in carcare prafati Regis, & Henrici fratris eius fine proleconfenuit.

But it is high time to take leaue of the Abbey, which at the first (as you may perceiue by the premiffes) was endowed with much land, and many large priviledges, and daily augmented, and fucceffuely confirmed by the charters of many of our English and Saxon Kings and Princes; and much enlarged in all by fundrie Abbots, and other fincere well-affected perfons. So that before the diffolution fuch were the priviledges of this place, that the King could make no fecular Officer ouer them but by their owne confent they were alone quite from paying that Apoftolicall cuftome and Rent; which was called * Rom-fcot or Peter-pence: whereas neither King, Archbilhop, Bilhop, Abbot, Prior, nor any one in the kingdome was freed from the payment thereof. The Abbot also (or Monke appointed Archdeacon vnder him) had pontificall iurifdiction ouer the Priefts and Laymen, of all the poffethions belonging to this Church, fo as he yeelded fubiection to no Archbilhop, Bilhop, or Legate, faue onely to the Pope of Rome. This Abbot had the fourth place among the Abbots, which fate as Barons in the Parliament houle. Howlocuer Pope Adrian the fourth, whole furname was Breakefpeare, borne hereby at Abbots Langley, granted this indulgence to the Abbots of this Monasterie; that as Saint Alban was diffinctly knowne to be the first Martyr of the English Nation : fo the Abbot of this Monasterie should at all times among other Abbots of England, in degree of dignitie, be reputed first and principall. The Abbot and Couent of this house were acquitted of all Toll through England. They made Iuftices, ad audiendum & terminandum, within themfelues ; and no other Iuflice could call them for any matter out of their libertie. They made Bayliffes and Coroners: They had the execution, and returne of all Writs, the goods of all out-lawes, with Gaole and Gaole deliuerie within themfelues. And received to their owne proper vie the Rom-fcot (before fpoken of) throughout all the County of Hertford. This Abbey was furrendred vp, by the Abbot and Monkes there; by deliuering the Couent feale into the hands of T. Pope: D. Peter : Mafter Gauendifb, and other the Kings vifiters, the fifth day of December, 1539. It was valued, at a farre vnder rate, to bee worth of yearely reuenue, two thouland five hundred and ten pound, fixe fhillings, penny halfe penny, q:

Saint Peters Church in Saint Albans.

This Church and Churchyard was fluft full with the bodies of fuch as were flaine in the two battells, fought here at Saint Albans. In which I finde a funerall Monument for my valiant countreyman, Sir Bertin Entwifell, who fighting on the Kings partie, died of a wound received in the first battell. Vpon whole Tombe this Infeription, inlayd in braffe, is yet to be read.

Here lyth Syr Bertin Entwifel knyght, which was borne in Lancafter Shyre, Shyre, and was Vicound and Baron of Brykbeke in Normandy, and Baliffe of Conftantin. Who died the xxviii of May, M. cccc.lv. on whof fowl Iefu have mercy.

Of which Sir Bertin, thus speaketh Leland in his Commentaries. Ther is a Viscownt of Brykbek in Normandy, faith he, callyd Bertyme, or Berframe Cnitwefell, that cam into England, and was much on the factyon of kyng Henry the fixth, and flayn at on of the Battels at Saint Albons, and beryed in the Peroche Chyrch of Seynt Peter, where the plase of the Lectorium in the Quyre, wheras a memoriall of hym ther yet remeyneth. Ther wasa dawghter of this Viscount callyd Lucy, of whom Master Bradene of Northamptonshyre is descendyd; and in the same Shyre is a mean gentylman of that name:

These Entwijells were gentlemen of good respect in our countrey in our fathers dayes, whose mansion house retaines the name of Entwijell to this house : The last heire of which house (as I haue it out of the collections of M. Daltan, alias Norroy king of Armes) was one Wilfred Entwisell, who fold the land that was left him, and ferued as a Lance at Muselborrowfield, in the second yeare of the raigne of king Edward the fixth; after that he ferued the Guyes in defence of Meth. After that he was one of the foure Captaines of the Fort of Newhauen; where being infected with the plague, and fhipped for England, was landed about Portsmouth, and being vncertaine of any house, died vnder a hedge, in September, Ann. 1549.

Raph Bapthorpe the father, and Raphe the fonne, of Bapthorpe in the Eastriding of Yorkelhire; which for many defcents hath yeelded both name and habitation to that knightly familie; fighting in this Towne vnder the banner of King Henry the fixth, lost their lines, and here lye buried together; with this Epitaph.

Saint Germans.

About the yeare of the worlds redemption, 429. when as the Pelagian Canad. in Here. herefie budded forth afrelh in this Illand, and fo polluted the British Churches, as that to auerre and maintaine the truth, they fent for German, Bithop of Auxerre, the place of his birth (a man of moche noble lygnage, raught and enformed wel in the Artes liberalle, lerned in the feyence of the Decretees droytes and lawe, faith his Legend) and Lupus Bilhop of Troies out of France : who by refuting this herefie, gained vnto themfelues a reucrent account among the Britains . but chiefly German, who hath at this day thorowout all this Ifland many Churches dedicated to his memorie, Now, vnderftand, that neere to the walls of the old Gitie Verulam, was, as then, a plot of confecrated ground, wherein the bodies of fuch as had profeffed Christianitie, and fuffered martyrdome vnder the perfecution of the Romane Emperours, were interred. In which the faid German openly (out of the pulpit) preached Gods word to the people; where afterwards many Chinfi the beleeuing Christians built this Chappell, and dedicated it to his honour; for that by his doctrine, and other good meanes, hee had converted many thousands to the true profession of Christian Religion. This German commanded the Sepulchre of Saint Alban to be opened, and therein beflowed certaine reliques of Saints, that those whom one heauen had receiued, fhould alfo be in one Sepulchre together lodged. Thus much (faith camd, in Here, Camden) I note by the way, that ye may observe and confider the falhions of that age. This Chappell, or rather the ruines of it, are remaining at this day, and put to a prophane and beaftly vie.

The foundations of Sopwel, S. Iulians, and Saint Mary Pree.

About this Towne of Saint Albons, the Abbots of the Monasterie in a pious and deuout intent crefted a little Nunnery at Sopwell, valued but at threefcore and eight pound eight fhillings, per annum.

Saint Iulians Spittle for Lepers, and another named Saint Mary de Pree, or Saint Mary in the Medow, for difeafed weemen. Neere vnto which they Gorambery. had a great Mannour, named Gorombery: where Sir Nicholas Bacon knight, Lord Keeper of the great Seale of England, a man of rare wit and deepe experience (father of Sir Francis Bacon knight, Lord Verulam, Vifcount Saint Alban, Lord Chancellour of England, lately deceased, one that might iuftly challenge, as his due, all the beft attributes of learning) built an house befeeming his place and calling ; and ouer the entrance into the Hall caufed these verses to be engrauen.

Redborne.

This Redborne in times paft was a place renowned, and reforted vnto, in Amphibalas. regard of Amphibalus the Martyrs reliques here found. Who inftructed S. Alban in the Christian faith (as I have faid before) and for Christs fake fuffered death vnder Dioclefian. He was furnamed Deuanius ; for that he was borne vpon the ritter of Dee in Wales, the fonne of a Prince, faith his Legend. A man (faith Bale) both for learning and good life vnmatchable, Bale cent. 2. preaching (and that with happie fucceffe) the glad tidings of the Gofpell, throughout all the parts of Britaine. For, to cleape the execution of the Edict of the Emperour, hee fled from Verulam (with a great number of fuch as he had converted) into the kingdome of Scotland, and into the Ifle of Anglefey in Wales; whereof hee was made Bilhop, preaching in all places the true and lively word, difputing and writing against the worship. pers of faile Gods. But being afterwards apprehended, he was brought to the fame place where his Scholler Saint Alban fuffered martyrdome, and whipped about a ftake, whereat his intrailes were tied: fo winding his bowelsout of his body, was laftly froned to death, like another Stephen. For whole body fome of the perfecuted Christians got a stolne buriall here at Redborne; from whence it was remoued with all celebritie, and enfhrined by the reliques of (his Scholler) Saint Alban; in the yeare of Grace 1178. the 25. day of lune. Nullum unquam tam incundum tam falutarem diem widit Verulamium (faith Harpsfeeld) occurrebat enim Martyr martyri, Magistro discipulus, hospes Hospiti, & calestis ciuis concinicalesti. The Co. uent of Saint Albans had fuch a care that his reliques should bee deuoutly preferued, that a decree was made by Thomas then Abbot; that a Prior and three Monkes should be appointed for fo facred an office ; for which they were to receive twenty pounds yearely allowance. Such was the price and effimation in those dayes, of the bones and alhes of religious perfons, remarkable for their holineffe. This Amphibalus was a rare Linguist, and a profound Dinine for thole times. He writ a booke against the errours of the Gentiles, and certaine Homilies vpon the foure Euangelifts, with other learned works mentioned by Bale.

Sir Richard Read knight, lieth here entombed. Of whom hereafter, according to my method.

He married Ifabell, fecond daughter and one of the heires of Peter, King of Caftile and Leon, who died before him in the yeare 1393 and was buried in this Friery 5 by whom hee had iffue Edward Earle of Rutland, Duke of Albamarle and Yorke; Richard Earle of Cambridge, and a daughter, whofe name was Conftance. He had a fecond wife whofe name was Ioane, daughter of Thomas Holland, Earle of Kent; who after his death was married to William Lord Willoughby of Eresby, to Henry Lord Scroope, and to Henry Bromflet, Lord Vefey. He is reckoned for one of the Knights of the Garter, and in the abfence of his father in France, is faid to be Protectour of the Realme of England. Hee is much commended for his affabilitie and gentle deportment, as alfo for this

In the Quire of this Church lieth entombed the body of Sir Raph Sadleir, the lait knight Banneret of England; priuye Counfellor to three Princes. A man fo aduanced (faith Camden) for his great Services and flayed wildome. Hee was brought vp vnder politicke great Gromwell, Earle of Effex (as appeares by the profe and verfe engrauen vpon his Monument) who, when he came to mans effate, employed him as his Secretary. But Henry the eight conceiued fo good an opinion of his diferent comportement, and ingenious pregnancie, that he tooke him from the feruice of the fayd Cromwell about the twentie and fixt yeare of his raigne, made him his principall Secretary; and vied his aduice in matters of greateft truft and importance, efpecially in the affaires and paffages betwixt the two Realmes of England and Scorland. He continued his lone towards him to the end of his life; and for the fpeciall truft and confidence hee had in his approued wiledome and fidelitie, together with the Earle of Arundell, the Earle of Effex, and others, he made choife of him for the ayding and affifting of the Executors of his laft Will and Teftament; by which his laft Will (the copie whercof I haue in my cuftody) he gaue him two hundred pounds as a Legacie,

In the first of Edward the fixt hee was chosen Treasurer for the Armie fent into Scotland, vnder the conduct of Edward Duke of Somerset, Protector, and Iohn Earle of Warwicke; where, in the battell of Musselborrow, he shewed great manhood and proweffe.

His great diligence, faith Hollinshead, in bringing the scattered troopes into order, and ready forwardnesse in the fray, did worthily merit no small commendacions; After which Battle he with Sir Francis Brian, Captaine of the light horsemen, and Sir Raph Vane, Captaine of all the horsemen, were honoured for their valiant good scruice, with the dignitie of Knights Bannerets.

In the tenth yeare of the raigne of Queene Elifabetb hee was preferred, and aduanced by her, to the Chancellourfhip of the Dutchie of Lancafter. But his honours and offices are most fuccincity engrauen vpon his goodly Tombe, in these Hexameters.

Radulphus Sadlier titulum fortitus Equestrem, Principibus tribus arcanis, a sensibus onus; Auspiciis sum Cromwelli deductus in Aulam Henrici octaui ; quem Secretarius omni Officio colui, Regique gregique fidelis, Vexillarum Equitem ine Musselburgia vidit; Ecc, 3 Sir Raph Sadleir knight Banneree.

In a chird place are reputed younger fonnes of the eldeft fonnes of Barons, and of other Nobles in higher effate; and when fuch heires males faile, together with them also the title faileth.

In a fourth ranke are reckoned thole, vnto whom the King himfelfe, together with a title, glueth Armes, or createth Efquires, by putting about their necke a filuer collar of * S S, and (in former times) vpon their heeles a paire of white fourres filuered : whereupon at this day in the Weft parts of the kingdome, they be called White-fpurres, for diffinction from knights, who are wont to weare gilt fourres : and to the first-begotten fonnes onely of these doth the title belong.

In the fifth and laft place be those ranged, and taken for Efquires; whofocuer haue any superiour publicke Office in the common weale, or serve the Prince in any worshipfull calling.

But this name of Elquire, which in ancient time was a name of charge and office onely, crept first among other titles of dignitic and worship (fo farre as I could euer observe, faith Camden) in the raigne of Riebard the fecond.

In ancient deeds we finde little mention made of gentlemen or Efquires, but fince the time of Henry the fourth thefe additions to names haue beene vlually inferted in writings, by reafon of the Statute of the first of Henry the fifth eap: 5. that in all cafes wherein Proceffe of Outlary lieth, additions fhall be made of the estate, degree, or Misserie of which the parties fued ars.

Which word fignifieth a Banner or Enfigneearried in warre; or a little Streamer worne on the top of a lawnee by a Horfeman. A word borrowed from France: for Penon in French fignifieth the fame thing.

And being by our Anceftours honoured lo. Capgyant; for a Saint, Richard de Beaveyes Bilhop of London, in her memoriall, built here a religious house, of Regular Chanons, about the yeare 1120. in the raigne of King Henry the first. His grant I have read in the Records of the Tower, beginning thus. Richardus Dei gratia London Episcopus, erc. Saln-Cart. Antiq. lit. tem. Sciatis quod ego dedi Ecclesie Santte Ofithe virginis de Ciz. ecclesias de Sudemenestra et de Clachentona cum omnibus que ad illas pertinent, dec. King Henry confirmes and augments this donation by his Charter dated at Roan in the ninetcenth yeare of his raigne. And many others fo added to the reuenues of this Monaftery, that at the time of the fuppreffion, it was valued at 758. pound, fiue thillings eight pence. This Bithop, the founder, was divers times about to refigne his Bilhopricke, that he might become a regular Canon in this his owne new built Monafterie; and that the rather, because being taken with an irrecouerable Palfie, he well knew his time to Godwin. de be thort. But he folong deferred the execution of this intent, that he was Preful. Angl. furprifed by death before he could performe it, the fixteenth day of lanuarie, 1127. He was Warden of the marches of Wales, and gouernour of the County of Salop, he fate Bifhop twenty yeares, in which time (befide the building of this Monastery) he purchased divers whole streets, and much houfing neere to his Cathedrall Church of Saint Pauls. All which he pulled downe, and leauing the ground vnbuilt for a Gemitery or Churchyard, enclosed the fame with a wall, which for the most part remaineth ; but at this day fo coucred with houfes, as it can hardly be feene. The Canons of this house defired his body to be here buried : which they entombed vnder a marble Monument with this infeription.

Aubrey de Vere the fonne of Aubrey, Chamberlaine vnder King Henry the first, or Camerarius Anglie, as I finde it in old Cartularies, having lost this his Office of great Chamberlaine, and other dignities, in the turmoiles betweene King Stephen and Maude the Empresse, was by the faid Empresse and Henry the fecond (as you may have it more fully in Vincents difcouery of errours) reftored to all his former honours, and withall created Earle of Oxford. He died in the yeare 1 194. the fixth of king Richard the first, and was here buried by his father. His wife Agnes or Adeliza lieth buried by him, who was the daughter of Henry of Effex, Baron of Ralegh, the Kings Conftable.

Such was the Epitaph or infeription vpon his Tombe, as it is in the book of Colne Priory.

Aubrey de Vere, the fonne of the forefaid Aubrey, fucceeded his father in all his dignitics; I finde little written of him in our Hiftories, faue that out of his Christian pietic he did confirme the gift of feptem librat. terre which Aubrey his father gaue to the Chanons of Saint Ofith here in Effex, adding thereto fomething of his owne. He dyed in the yeare of our Lord, 1214. and fleepeth now in the fame Bed, with three other Aubreyes his Anceftors. To whom this Epitaph vpon Conrad the Emperour at Spires in Germany may be fitly applied.

Bugh de Vere the fonne of Robert the first of that Christian name, Earle of Oxford, and Lord great Chamberlaine of England, was here entombed with his Anceftors, who died in the yeare 1263. He had the title of Lord Bolebeck, which came by his mother Ifabell de Bolebeck, daughter and heire of Hugh de Bolebeck, a Baron, who was Lord of Bolebeck Caftle in Whitechurch within Buckingham Ihire, and of Swaffam Bolebeck in Cambridgelhire. Hee had to wife Hamifia the daughter of Saier de Quiney, Earle of Winchefter, as appeares by this Infeription fometime infeulpt vpon their Tombe.

Here lyeth entombed Robert de Vere , Richard the feconds Mignion; who to adde to his honours created him Marquefic of Dublin, a title not knowne before that time in England, and in the yeare following Duke of Ircland, with commission to execute most infeparable prerogatiucs royall. Thefe Stiles were of too high a nature, and therefore infinitely fubiceted to enuy. Whereupon, like a fecond Gauefton, he was hated of the Nobilitie. especially for that he was a man nec prudentia, cateris proceribus, nec armis valentior, as Walfingbam faith, 9. R. 2. But it was not long before he was banifhed England by the Barons, for abufing the Kings care to the burt of the State. He had to wife a young, faire, and noble Lady, and the Kings neare kinfwoman (for the was grandchilde to King Edward by his daughter Ifabell) he put her away, and tooke one of Queene Annes women, a Bo. hemian of bale birth, Sellarij filia, faith Walfingham, a Sadlers daughter, fome fay a loyners, an act full of wickedneffe and indignitie. Yet this intollerable villanic offered to the bloud royall, King Riebard did not encounter, neither had the power, fome fay, who deemed that by witchcrafts and forceries (practifed vpon him by one of the Dukes followers) his judgement was fo feduced and captinated, that he could not fee what was honeft or fit to doe. But where Princes are wilfull or flothfull, and their Fauorires flatterers or time-feruers, there needs no other enchantments to infatuate, yea and ruinate the greateft Monarch. Vpon his banifiment he went into France, where he lined about fine yeares, and there being a hunting, he was flaine by a wilde Boare, in the yeare 1392. King Richard hearing thereof, out of his loue, caufed his body to be brought into England, and to be apparrelled in Princely ornaments and robes, and put about his neck a chaine of gold, and Rings upon his fingers, and fo was buried in this Priory ; the King being there prefent, and wearing blackes. yel an cales, great Chamberlaine, and Lord high Admirall of Eugland. Who ied the fourth of Henry the eight, 15 12. having beene Earle of Oxford all fifty yeares; a long time to tugge out, in the troublefome raignes of fo hany kings, effectially for men of eminent places and high fpittits, euer apt to take any occation to thew their manly proweffe: which fire of honour amed in this Earles breaft, at Barnet field, where (in a mift) the great Earle (Warwickes men, not able to diftinguifh betwixt the Sun with ftreames pon King Edwards livery, and the Starre with ftreames on this Earles li- ery, thot at this Earles followers; and by that mifprifion the battell was off. After which he fled into Cornwall, and feized vpon Saint Michaels Mount. But Edward the fourth got him in his power, and committed him rifoner to the Caffle of Hames beyond the Seas, where he remained for the fpace of twelue yeares, wrill the firft of King Henry the feuenth, with whom he came into England, and by whom he was made Captaine of the tracters at Bofworth. field, where after a flort refiftance hee difcomfitted he Foreward of King Richard , whereof a great number were flaine in the hafe, and no fmall number fell vnder the victors flort. This Earle gaue a rear contribution to the finithing of Saint Maries Church in Cambridge; its hofpitalitie, and the great port he carried here in his country, may be athered out of a difcourfe, in that exquifite Hiftory of Henry the feuenth, enned by that learned and indicious Statefinan, Sir Framein Bacon , Vifcount aint Alkan , lately deceafed. The laft Earle that I finde to be here entombed of ancient times, is John Evere , the fourth of that chriftian name, Earle of Oxford, Lord Bulbeck amford and Scales, Lord great Chamberlaine of England, and Knight of he Garter; he was commonly called little John of Campes, Caffle Cam- es, in Cambridgefhire, being the ancient feare of the Peres , where this is alle vfed much to refide; He married Amne , daughter of T homast Howard Duke of Norfolke, and died without iffue the 14 of Iuly, 1526. I finde in a booke of Dunmow, in bib. Cot. that Maud, the wife of Iohn de Vere the feuenth Earle of Oxford, lyeth here intombed : fhee was the daughter of Bartholomew, Lord Badelifmere, Baron of Leedes in Kent; and one of the heires of Giles Lord Badelifmere her brother. She was first married to Robert, fonne of Robert Fitz-Paine. She outlined her later huf- band fome few yeares, and died the 24. of May, 1365.

After the death of Robert Duke of Ireland, who died without iffue, his Nephew Aubrey de Vere fucceeded him in the Earledome of Oxford , he enioyed his honours not paffing eight yeares, but dyed die Veneris in fefto Sancti Georgij, Ann. primo Hen. quarti, 1400. and lieth here entombed with his worthie Anceftors.

Here lieth buried in this Priorie John de Vere, the third of that Christian name, and the thirteenth Earle of Oxford, Lord Bolebecke, Samford, and Scales.

Foundation of Coggethall Abbey. Mff in bib, Cott

Here in this towne of Coglhal was fometime an Abbey built, and endowed by King Stephen, and Mand his Queene, in the yeare 11 40.the fift of his raigne, according to the booke of Saint Auftins in Canterbury, Anno M. c. xl. faëta est Abbathia de Cogesbal a Rege Stephano et Matilde Regina, qui primo fundauerunt Abbathiam de Furnesse, Abbatiam de Longeleyrs, et postea Abbathiam de Feuersham, & c. this house was dedicated to the bleffed Virgin Mary, wherein were placed white Monkes Cluniackes; the reuenues of which were valued to be yearely worth 298.1.8.s. it was furrendred the 18.of March, 29. Hen.8.

Adioyning to the Rode called Coccill-way, which to this towne leadeth, was lately found an arched Vault of bricke, and therein a burning lampe of glaffe couered with a Romane Tyle fome 14 inches fquare, and one Vrne with afhes and bones, befides two facrificing diffes of fmooth and pollifhed red earth, having the bottome of one of them with faire Romane letters inferibed, COCCILLI.M. I may probably coniecture this to have beene the fepulchrall monument of the Lord of this towne, who lived about the time of Antoninus Piue, (as by the coyne there likewife found appeareth) the affinitie betweene his and the now townes name being almoft one and the fame. Before thefe times, in a place called Weftfield, three quarters of a mile diffant from this towne, and belonging to the Abbey there, was found by touching of a plough, a great brafen pot: The ploughmen fuppofing to have beene hid treafure, fent for the Abbot of Cogelhall to fee the taking vp of it, and he going thither, met with Sit Clement Harlefton, and defired him alfo to accompany him thither. The mouth of the pot was clofed with a white fubftance, like paft or clay, as hard as burned bricke : when that by force was removed, there was found within it another pot, but that was of earth; that being opened, there was found in it a leffer pot of earth, of the quantity of a gallon, couered with a matter like Veluet, and faftened at the mouth with a filke lace, in it they found fome whole boncs, and many pieces of fmall bones wrapped vp in fine filke, of frefh colour, which the Abbot tooke for the reliques of fome Saints, and laid vp in his Veftuary.

Cand.in Elsex

This Towne was famous in times paft, (faith Clarentieux) for a Caffle of the Magnanilles (which now is almost all vanished out of fight) and an Abbey adioyning, founded in a place very commodious, in the yeare 1136. wherein the Magnanilles, founders thereof, were buried. The principall and first founder hereof, was Geffrey Magnanile, or Mandeuill the first Earle of Effex, with Robelia or Role his wife, daughter of Anbrey de Vere, chiefe Iustice of England, who confectated this their religious Structure to the honour of God, the bleffed Virgin Mary, and Saint James the Apossible, endowed it with large reuenues, and placed therein blacke Monkes; to which effect will it please you reade a few words out of his deed of Grant.

Gaufridus de Mandeuilla comes Effex, &c. falutem. Ad vniuersitatis vestre noticiam volo peruenire me fundasse quoddam monasterium in vsus Monachorum apud Waldenam, in honore Dei, et sancte Marie et beati Iacobi Apostoli, pro salute anime mee et omnium parentum, antecessorum & succesforum meorum, &c. To which by the same deed hee giueth the Churches of Walden, Waltham, Estrene, Sabridgworth, Thorley and others. This house was valued at the suppression, to be yearely worth, source hundred fixe pounds, fifteene shillings and cleuen pence.

This place is now called Audicy End, of Sir Thomas Andley Lord Chancelour, (of whom I have [poken before) who changed the Abbey into his owne dwelling houfe; whole fole daughter and heire Margaret, was fecond wife to Thomas Howard Duke of Norfolke, and mother of Thomas Lord Howard of Walden, Earle of Suffolke, lately deceafed, who lived to finish here a most magnificent building, belonging at this prefent to that worthy gentleman Theophilas his fonne and heire, Lord Walden and Earle of Suffolke.

Ceffrey de Mandeuill the founder aforefaid, a man both mighty and martiall, was fhot into the head with an arrow, a quodam pedite vilisimo, faith Houeden, out of the Caftle of Burwell in Cambridgelhire; of which wound, after certaine daies hee died, being at that time excommunicated. Lying at the point of death, ready to give his laft gaspe, (faith Camden out of the Register booke of Walden) there came by chance certaine Knights Templars, who laid vpon him the habit of their religious profession, figned with a red croffe, and afterwards when he was full dead, taking him vp with them, enclosed him within a coffin of lead, and hung him vpon a tree in the Orchard of the old Temple at London, in the yeare 1 144. for in a reuerend awe of the Church, they durft not bury him, because he died excommunicated, to fearefull in those daies was the fentence of excommunication: a violent inuader he was of other mens lands, and polleffions, and therefore juftly incurred (faith the fame Author) the worlds cenfure, and this heavy doome of the Church : but I must leave him, where buried, or where not buried, God knowes:

As the Church of this monafterie was honoured with the funerall monuments of the Mandewills, fo was it with those of the Bohuns, Earles of Hereford and Effex, of which you may reade in the Catalogues of Nobility.

It was also honoured with the Sepulture of Humfrey Plantaginet, Earle of Buck-

Walter of Clare or Walter Fig: Robert. this village, in the beginning of the raigne of Henry Beauclerke, and entreated Mauricius, Bilhop of London, to dedicate the Church to the honour of the virgine Mary, to which, the fame day, the gaue halfe a Hide of land. Her fonne and heire Geffrey Baynard placed blacke Chanons therein, by the confent of Anfelme Archbilhop of Canterbury. This houfe was valued at the fuppreffion to be yearely worth 173.1.2.5.4.d.

The Church of this monaftery is as yet flanding, in the Quire whereof, betweene two pillars, lieth the body of Matilda the faire entombed, who was the daughter of Robert Fitz-water, the moft valiant knight of England. About the yeare 1213 faith the booke of Dummow, there arofe a great difcord betwixt king John and his Barons, becaufe of Matilda furnamed the faire, daughter of Robert Fitz-water, whom the King vnlawfully loued, but could not obtaine her, nor herfathers confent thereunto. Whereupon, and for other like caufes, enfued warre through the whole Realme. The king banifhed the faid Fitz-water amongft other, and caufed his Caffle, called Baynard, and other his houfes to be fpoiled. Which being done, he fent a meffenger vnto Matilda the faire, about his old Suit in Loue, Et quia noluit confentire toxicanit eam. And becaufe the would not agree to his wicked motion, the meffenger poifoned a boiled, or potched Egge, againft fie was hungrie, and gaueit vnto her, whereof the died, the yeare 1213.

In the yeare following after her death, her banilhed father was reflored to the kings fauour, vpon this occasion. It happened in the yeare 1214. king lohn being then in France, with a great armie, that a truce was taken betwixt the two Kings of England and France, for the terme of fue yeares: and a river or arme of the Sea, being betwixt either hoft, there was a knight in the English host, that cried to them of the other fide, willing fome one of their knights, to come and inft a courle or two with him. Wherupon without ftay Robert Fitz-water, being on the French part, made himfelfe ready, ferried ouer,& got on horfeback, and fnewed himfelf ready to the face of his challenger, whom at the first course, he stroke to hard with his great speare, that horfeand man fell to the ground; and when his Speare was broken, he went backe againe to the king of France. Which king John feeing, by Gods tooth, quoth he, (fuch was his vfuall oath) hee were a King indeed, that had fuch a knight. The friends of Robert hearing these his words, kneeled downe, and faid, O king he is your knight, it is Robert Fitz-water; whereupon the next day he was fent for, and reftored to the kings fauour. By which meanes peace was concluded, and he receined his livings, and had licence to repaire his Gaftle of Baynard , and all his other Gaftles. After which, this ftrenuous knight, this Mars of men, this Marshall of Gods Armie and holy Church (for fo he was enfilled, by the common multitude) lined in all affluence of riches and honour, the fpace of fixteene yeares; deceased in the yeare 1234 and lieth here entombed by his daughter. Thus faith the booke, Ann. 1234. This Earle had three wines, whole portraitures are cut here yoon the Tombe, by all of which he had iffue. By his first wife Eliz abeab, who was the daughter of Henry Stafford Duke of Buckingham; hee had Henry, after him Earle of Suffex, here intombed; George Radsliffe, and Sir Humfrey Ratcliffe of Elneftow. By Margaret his fecond wife, daughter of Thomas Lord Stanley, Earle of Darby, he had Anne, married to Thomas Lord Wharson, who lieth here buried by her father, and Iane maried to Sir Antony Browne, Knight, Vifcount Mountague, By his third wife, the daughter of Sir John Arundell of Lanherne in Cornwall, Knight, he had iffue, Sir Iobn Radcliffe, Knight, who died without iffue, in the yeare 1566. and lieth buried in Saint olanes Hart-Streete, London.

Henry Radeliffe, Earle of Suflex, fonne of this Robert as aforefaid, was one of the privic Councell to Queene Mary, as I finde it in her Grant of liberty made vnto him for the wearing of Coyfes or Cappes in her prefence, which I coppied out of the Originall amongft the Euidences of Robert late Earle of Suffex decealed; expressed in these words following.

Mary the Queene:

Mary, by thegrace of God, Quene of Englonde, France, and Irelonde, defendor of the Feythe, and in Earthe, of the Church of Englonde and Irclonde fupreme Hede. To all to whom this prefent wryting fhall come, fendeth greting in our Lord euerlasting. Know ye that wee do gyue and pardon to our welbeloued and trufty Colen, & one of oure privey Counfell, Henry Earle of Suffex, Vilcount Fitz-water, Lord Egremond and Bur- ed before her nell.

Plefby:

This Collegiate Church was founded by Thomas of Woodflocke, Duke of Glocefter, for Canons regular: which was valued in the Kings bookes to be yearely worth one hundred thirty nine pounds three fhillings ten pence. The vpper part of which Ghurch, within thefe few yeares, was taken downe; and as I was told in the Towne, the Parifhioners (being either vnwilling or vnable to repaire the decayes) carried away the materials which were employed to other vfes. This part of the Church was adorned and beautified with diuers rich funerall Monuments, which were hammered a peeces, beftowed, and diuided, according to the difcretion of the Inhabitants. V pon one of the parts of a difmembred Monument, carelefly caft here and there in the body of the Church, I found thefe words.

Here lyeth Iohn Holland, Erle of Exceter, Erle of Huntington, and Chamberleyne of England. Who dyed. .....

This John was halfebrother to King Richard the fecond, and Duke of Exceter. From which dignitie he was depofed, by Act of Parliament in the first yeare of King Henry the fourth, whose fister he had married : and in the fame yeare beheaded in this Towne for a feditious confpiracie (faith Camden) and in the very place where the Duke of Glocester was arrested by King Richard, which was in the base court of the Castle of Pleshie (now quite ruined) that he might feeme (faith he) to have beene iustly punished by way of fatisfaction, for the foresaid Duke of Glocester; of whose death he was thought to be the principall procurer. He was beheaded the third day after the Epiphanie, 1399. 1. Hen. 4.

Vpon a broken peece of a faire marble ftone, reared to the fide of a pillar, whereupon were the pictures in braffe of an armed knight and his Lady, this enfuing difficke was engrauen.

Vnder this ftone (if Tradition may go for truth) Sir Edward Holland, Earle of Mortaigne, fonne of the forefaid John Holland, beheaded; with his Lady were entombed.

Such was the end of this royall Prince, fonne to a King, and vncle to a King: who by our writers is difcommended in this, that he was ever repining against the King in all things what focuer he wilhed to have forward : Brat enim vir ferocifimus & precipitis ingeni) (as Polidor cenfures him) a most fierce man, and of an headlong wit ; who thinking still that those times, wherein he had mastred the King, were nothing changed, though the King was about thirty yceares old, forbare not, roughlte, not fo much to admonish, as to check and schoole his Soucraigne.

	This towne of Vpmenfter or Vpminfter, as it is diuerfly written, lying three miles from Rumpford, requireth fome large remembrance from meet in refpect that it hath enjoyed within little more then the fpace of three hundred yeares, diuers eminent families, who haue beene Lords of the fame, or at leaft of the Mannor of Gains, called alfo the Mannor of Vp menfter, lying within the fame, to which mannor, as long tradition hat ab, nihin Stare	left to posteritie, there is a little Isle or Chappell, standing on the north Isl of the Chancell of the fame Church, belonging, and time out of minde, ap pendant to the Mannor of Gains aforefaid, and appropriated to the Lord of the fame for their particular place of buriall for themselues and their issues.

ancient firname of Engaine (whether thence drawne or no, I leaue to others to coniecture) and it is warranted by a long tradition that Sir 16hn Engain Knight, the fonne of Vitalia Engain being * Lord of the faid Mannor, did build the before mentioned Ghappell, which fince hath receiued its denomination from the bleffed Virgin. This family ended in the male line, when Sir Thomas Engayne Knight, fonne of 10hn Engayne Elquire, and grandchilde to the former Sir 10hn, left his three daughters, his coheirs, of whom 10cofa the eldeft was wife of 10hn de Goldington. Elizabeth the fecond, was married to Sir Lawrence de Pakenbam knight: and Mary the third daughter and coheire, was wife of Sir William de Barnake knight. There is no tombe or graueftone left of this familie, but onely their coat-armour in the Eaft window of the aforefaid Chappell.

This Mannor of Gains, alias Vpmenster, was afterwards severally in the possession of Symon de Hauering (* who I conceiue was but the Feosse in trust of Sir Iohn the sonne and heire of Iohn Engayne) of Alice de Perrers, * afterwards attainted by Act of of Parliament in A.I.R.2. and of Henry de la Felde; whose further mention, leaving the first two in filence, ferneth onely to this present Narration.

The faid Henry de la Felde did by his Deed indented, A.9. H.4. entaile the faid Mannour vpon Richard, Walter, and Iohn his fonnes, each after other vpon the default of iffue; and laftly, vpon Iohn Deincourt and Elizabeth his wife, the daughter of the faid Henry de la Felde, in whofe right afterwards it fhould feeme he came to be Lord thereof; and there lieth buried together, with his wife, vnder a faire Tombe, placed iuft vnder the Arch which diuideth the faid North Chappell or Ifle from the Chancell of Vpmenster Church.

And about the tombe, though fomewhat mutilated, is written this Epitaph!

The next owner of this Mannor of a new firname, I finde to have beene Nicholas Wayte, of whom or his familie, I can fay little; onely by his fale it came to be the inheritance of Ralph Lathum Efquire, a lyneall defeendant in the male line, from a younger branch of the ancient familie of Lathom of Lancafhire, who were Lords of that place in the faid Countie (as all the received defeents of that familie warrant) from the time of King R.I. vntill the latter end of E. 3. when Ifabel the fole daughter and heire of Sir Thomas Lathom Knight, was married to Sir Iohn Stanlye knight, from whom the now Earle of Darbie is lineally defeended, and (as I conceive) is from the right of this intermarriage, Lord of the Mannor of Lathom at this day: Kkk 2

The next familie to whom by the fale of William Lathom, fonne and heire of the aforefaid Ralfe Lathom, the before mentioned Mannour of Gains did appertaine, was the familie of Dewes, (from whom alfo it was againe at laft repurchafed by Lathom) for Adrian Dewes being defeended of the ancient ftemme of Des Ewes, Dynafts or Lords of the Dition of Keffell in the Dutchie of Gelderland, fetling and marrying in England not many yeares after the beginning of the raigne of King Hen. 8. had iffue, Gerardt Dewes his fonne and heire, who hauing purchafed the faid Mannor of Gains as aforefaid, was after his death, according to the former vfage, buried in the faid Chappell, appendant to the faid Mannor, as other Lords of the fame had beene, whole Epitaph, becaufe it is replenilhed with many particulars touching the antiquity and enfignes of this familie, I haue beene more exact in the full delineation thereof in the figure following.

A great parish, so called from King Canutus the Dane, who kept his Court here ; unde Canuti domus. The Mannor houfe hath beene double trenched, and fenfed after the oldeft falhion. In the fame are other Mannors exceeding ancient : as that of Clarendon Hall, the old feat of the Chancenx, many of them were knights ; as Sir Giles Chancenx, in Edward the first his time ; many of them lie buryed in the Church, with their coax Pictures, Scutcheons, and French Poefies all defaced. Another Mannor called Breamftons, or rather Beanftons, honoured by knights, defcended of Barthelomew a yonger fonne to the Earle of Ewe in Normandy ; it hath beene inhabited by a knight or more of the name of Scot. Another Mannor called Apton Hall, and another called Pinerfey Hall, whereof Sir John Greyton was Lord in Edward the first his time. One of the best called Lamberne Hall, whereof one Lamberne vnder Swaine was Lord in the Conqueft time, and fo continued till Richard the fecond, at which time his daughter Thamafin carried all to Totcham, and from thence to Barington, and from thence to Lum(ford a Squire of Suffex, that being better planted in his native Country, vieth this for a Farme : as I thinke it was in Lambernes time.

So many Lordships in the parish have caused so many of their owners to honour this Church with their Sepultures, but to whole memory, in particular, any one of these monuments were erected, cannot bee difcerned, they are all fo fhamefully abufed.

Now here I haue iuft occafio giuen me, to fet down the manner of the creation or crowning of Garter, principal K. of Arms, & of *Clarentieux & Nor*rey, Prouinciall Kings of Armes; as also the creation of Heralds, & Purfuiuants of Armes: which anciently was done by the King, but of later times is performed by the Earle Marshall, hauing an especiall Commission therefore figned figned by the King for euery particular Greation. And first I will begin with Garter, and shew what necessfaries are to be prouided for him, at the time he shall be crowned, which are these following.

A Booke and a Sword to be fworne vpon.

A Growne guilt.

A Collar of Effes.

A Bowle of wine, which Bowle is fee to the new created King.

And a Coat of Armes of veluet richly enbroydered.

The creation or crowning of Garter, as well anciently as in these daies, was, and is on this manner. I will instance with Sir Gilbert Dethick knight, whowas created Garter principall king of Armes, on Sunday the twentieth day of Aprill, in the fourth of Ed, the fixt.

First, the faid Garter kneeled downe before the Kings maieflie, and the Kings Sword was holden on a booke, and the faid Garter laid his hand vpon the booke, and alfo vpon the fword, whiles Clarentieux, king of armes, read the oath. And when the oath was red, and the faid Garter had kiffed the booke and the fword, then the faid Clarentieux read the letters patents of his office; (which were dated the 29. of April in the yeare aforefaid) In the reading whereof, as the words doe follow in order, fo did the Kings maieflie first take the cup of wine, and pouring it on his head, named him Garter. After that, his Maieflie put on him his coat of Armes, and the collar of SS about his neck, and laftly the crowne vpon his head, and fo finished the ceremony.

The oath of Garter principall King of armes at a Chapter bolden at Greenwich in the 28 years of King;. Henry the eight.

Ye shall take the oath that ye shall obey first of all the supreme head of this most noble Order, and after him, the other knights of the same, namely, in such things as shall belong to your office, and shall bee sound reasonable. And because ye be taken in here, as to be privile of counsell here to bee taken. Ye shall sweare that ye shall be a man of silence, true and faithfull in all things here to be done, and shall in no wife disclose any part thereof.

Ye thall fweare alfo, that yee thall faithfully and diligently, fulfill performe and execute all fuch things as thall be committed, put in credit, or charge vnto you. And ye thall diligently enquire of all noble and notable acts of any, and of euery of the Knights of this moft noble Order ; and yee thall certifie the Register thereof, that he may the better defcribe and commend the fame to memory.

Moreouer, if any Knight of this order die, yee shall incontinent vpon knowledge thereof, caule the Soueraigne, and after him the other Knights, then aliue, to be afcertayned thereof.

And finally, ye shall fweare, that ye shall truly and faithfully, vie and exercife this fame your office. So God you helpe, and this holy Euangely.

Necesfaries to be prouided for the Creation of an Herald of Armes.

Firft, a Booke, whereon he must take his oath:

Item, a Sword, which must be drawne.

Item, his Letters Patents, which must be read by an Officer.

Isem, a Collar of SS of filuer, to put about his neck.

Item, a Bowle of wine to poure vpon his head, which Bowle the new Herald is to haue.

The manner of the Heralds creation.

The Herald of Armes is brought into the prefence of the King or his Earle Marthall, or the Earle Marthals Deputy, by two of the eldeft Heralds, the Kings of Armes going before them, and all the Heralds and Pur fuiuants following, all making their due reuerence. Then hee kneeleth downe, and his oath being read by Garter, he fweareth to the contens by kiffing both the Booke and croffe of the Sword hilt. The Patent is read by one of the Heralds, and at Inveftimus, the king or the Earle Marthall turneth the Coat Sleeues to the fides, and putterth the Collar of SS about his neck, whereby he is created an Efquire ; but of late times the Coate is carried in by an Herald of Armes, and after by him prefented to the Earle Marthall, who immediatly inuefteth the new Herald there with; and at Nomen imponimus, he poureth the wine vpon his head, and calleth him by his name, as Lancafter, or otherwife, as his office doth require.

The Oath of the Herald at the time of his creation before his Soueraigne.

Firft, ye shall fweare that ye shall be true to the most high and mighty Prince the King, our Soueraigne Lord. And if you have any knowledge, or heare any imagination of treason, or language, or words that might found to the derogation or hurt of his estate and highness (which God defend) ye shall in that case as hastily, and as soone as it is to you possible, discourr and shew it vnto his highness, or to his noble and discreet Councell : and to conceale it in no wife.

Alfo, ye fhall promife and fweare that ye fhall bee conuerfant, and feruiceable to all Gentlemen, to doe their commands to their worfhip and knighthood, by your good counfell that God hath fent you, and euer ready to offer your feruice vnto them.

Alfo ye shall promife and sweare to be secret, and to keepe the secrets of Knights,

Knights, Elquires, Ladies, and Gentlewomen, as a confession of armes; and not to discouer them in any wife, except it bee for treason, as it is before faid. 667

Alfo ye shall promife and sweare, if fortune fall you in divers Lands and Countries wherein you goe or ride, that you finde any gentleman of name, and of armes, that hath loss this goods in worthip and knighthood, in the Kings service, or in any other place of worthip, and is fallen into povertie, ye thall aide, support, and succour him in that ye may, and if he aske you of your good to his sufferance, ye shall give him part of such good as God hath sent you, to your power, and as you may beare:

Alfo ye thall promife and fweare, if you be in any place, that you heare any language betweene party and party, that is not worthipfull, profitable, nor vertuous, that you keepe your mouth clofe, and report it not forth, but to their worthip, and the beft.

Alfo ye fhall promife and fweare, if fo be you be in any place, that you heare any debate or language diffioneft betweene gentleman and gentlewoman, the which ye be printy to, if fo be ye be required by Prince, Iudge, or any othere to beare witheffe, vnleffe that the law will needs compell you fo to doe: you fhall not without licence of both parties; and when yee haue leaue, ye fhall not for any fauour, loue, or awe, but fay the footh to your knowledge.

Alfo ye thall promife and fweare, to be true and fecret to all gentlewomen, widdowes, and maydens, and in cafe that any man would doe them wrong, or force them, or difinherite them of their Liuelyhood, and they haue no good to purfue them for their right to Princes, or Iudges : if they require you of fupportation, ye thall fupport them, with your good wifedome and counfell to Princes and Iudges.

Alfo ye thall promife and fweare, that you thall forfake all places of difhonefty, the play of Hazardy, and the common haunt of going vnto Tauernes, and other places of debates, efchuing vices, and taking you to vertues to your power. This article, and all other articles aboue faid, ye thall truly keepe, fo God you helpe, and holydoome, and by this Booke, and Croffe of this Sword, that belongeth to Knighthood.

And first, The Succession of the principal Kings of Armes.

Garter is the principall King of Armes (as I have written before) and gotth firft as the onely ring-leader of them all: not fo much for the antiquitie of his Creation, as for the fupereminence of the Order of the Garter: for he was but inflituted by King Henry the fifth. His peculiar Office is (which partly you may reade in his oath) with all dutifull feruice to attend vpon the Knights of the Garter at their Solemnities : To aduertife them which are cholen of their new election, to call them to bee enftaulled at Windfore; To caufe their Armes to be hanged vp vpon their Seates, and to marfhall the Funerall Rites and Ceremonies of them, as alfo of the greater Nobilitie, as of Princes, Dukes, Marqueffes, Earles, Vifcounts, and Barons: and to do many other feruices vnto the King and State.

Sir William Brugge or Brugges knight, was the first King of the name Garter, in the raigne of Henry the fifth, as aforefaid; His Patent was confirmed by Henry the fixth in the foure and twentieth yeare of his raigne, as it is in the Patent Rolls of that yeare, the eleventh membrane, Ishin Smert fucceeded Sir William Brugge in the faid Office Patent, Ann. 39. Hen. 6. Member 14. In the fourteenth of Edward the fourth, he was imployed with a defiance to the French King Lewis the eleuenth; The which no little abalhed the faid King. Yet neuertheleffe following the faid Officer of Armes directions, obtained by that meanes a Peace which he much coueted. And Edward the fourth as willingly affented, becaufe he was deceived by the Duke of Burgundy and the Conftable of France, who failed him in their promifed aides. The French King gaue vnto the faid King of Armes vpon his returne three hundred French Crownes, and a peece of Veluet of thirty yards long.

And after his depofing Sir William Segar Knight (now living, Ann. 1631.) was created Garter: he hath written a learned booke called Honour Militarie and Civill.

A Succession of the Prouinciall Kings of Armes.

Provinciall Kings of Armes are, at this day, onely two, Clarentieux, and Norrey. Clarentieux was ordained by Edward the fourth: for he obtaining the Dukedome of Clarence by the death of George his brother, who was fecretly mardered in the Tower of London, made the Herauld which properly belonged to the Duke of Clarence, a King at Armes, and called him Clarentius, Clarentius, or Clarentieux : but in whofe time, or vpon what occafion this name, and Office of Clarencieux began, I do not finde, faith Sir Henry Spelman, Gloßlit H. but certainly it was of greater Antiquitie then from Edward the fourth, and might be called South-Roy, of his Province of South, as North-Roy or Norroy of the North parts. His proper Office is to Marfhall and difpole the Funeralls of all the leffer Nobilitie, as Knights and Efquires, thorow the Realme on the South fide of Trent.

The office of Norrey (the time nor the reason of his Creation and Title I do not know) is the fame on the North fide of Trent, that Clarentieux hath on this fide, as may well appeare by his name, fignifying the Northerne King, or King of the North parts.

Thefe two (faith Milles) have by Charter power to vifite the Noblemens Families, to let downe their Pedegrees, to diftinguish their Armes, and in the open Market place to reproue fuch as fallely take vpon them Nobilitie or Gentrie. William le Neue, aforcfaid Yorke. This William le Neue Yorke Herauld, was imployed into France the first yeare of his Maiestie, and from thence attended our Queene into England; who, with Sir Henry St. George, Richmond Herald, were royally rewarded by her Maieftie, with the gift of a thousand French Grownes. He was also employed to attend vpon his Maiefties Embaffage which was fent in the yeare 1629. vnto the French king Lewis the thirteenth, and at the Ceremonies done thereat, he there performed his office in his Coat of Armes, as appeareth in a French relation lately printed; at his returne from thence the King rewarded him with a Chaine of gold of good value, and a Medalle of his pourtraiture : And further gaue him his Royall letters Mandatory, vnto all his Officers and Subiects therein, fignifying that (let me vie part of the Kings owne words) le Sieur Guillaume le Neue Escuyer Herault Darmes du Roy de la grand Bretagne (nostre trescher, et tresame bon frere et beau frere) par luy envoye vers nous pour faire fa dicte charge D'Herault D'armes aux Ceremonies du ferment de la paix faite entre nous de nostre ditt frere, de la quelle il sest digne. ment acquitte a nostre contentement, seu retournant vers son Maistre. Nous voulons, nous mandons et tresexpressement enioignons par an presents fignees de nostre main, de. Commanding by the faid Inftrument all his faid Officers and Subjects to give the faid Herauld all manner of aide, and affiftance in his returne, or not to moleft or trouble him in his free paffage or transportation of any of his goods. And therein alfo prayed, and required all Princes and States to do the like, as a due vnto Heraulds fo imployed : And as they would have him to doe the like at their requeft. But no earthly powers can command the mercileffe ragings of the Sea. For the faid Herauld in his returne was fhip-wracked vpon the coaft of Douer, and very dangeroufly elcaped with the loffe of most part of his goods ; excepting the forefaid Chaine and Medalle which after two dayes remaining in the fea was walhed vp on thore, euen in view of the place where he then remained.

In this Catalogue I observe that Thomas Holinfworth, Yorke Herauld, and William Wriothesserve, Yorke Herauld, (fonne of the forefaid Sir John Wriothesserve) and others are omitted, which with all other omiffions in this particular discourse, I referre to the indicious reformation of the Colledge of Heraulds.

William Ryley, Range. Rofe, extr. Greated 31. Julij 1630.

Noblemen and Peeres of this Land, in ancient time had their Heralds peculiar vnto themfelues, faith Milles. For Chefter the Herauld, and Falco the Purfuiuant, liued at the command of the Prince of Wales, and ferued him : Hamfrey Duke of Glocefter, and Earle of Penbroke, had the Herald Penbrooke, his domefticall Seruant. Richard alfo Duke of Glocefter, having now obtained the kingdome, would needs have his Herauld Glocefter to be called King of Armes for all Wales. Charles Brandon Duke of Suffolke, retained Suffolke Herauld, and Marlein Purfuiuant. The Marquelle of Dorcefter, kept Groby Herauld. The Earle of Northumberland, Northumberland Herauld, and Efferance Purfuiuant. Arthur Plantaginet Vifcount Lifle, tooke vnto himfelfe Lifle Purfuiuant, and Baron Haftings, Hafting Purfuiuant. But the condition of the Seruant is made better by the dignitie of his Lord and Mafter, fo thefe forenamed Heraulds lined not with like authoritie or priviledges with the Kings.

And here now giue me leaue to speake a little more of the Ætymologie, Antiquitie, and dignitie of Herauldsin generall.

Herald, Herold, or Herault, dicitur quasi Hornes altus, a high Maister: For this Officer was of great authoritic amongst the Romanes, who plurally called them Feciales, a faciendo, quod belli pacifque faciende penes cos ins erat, or Fediales a fadere faciendo. And fo with vs the word fignifieth an Officer at Armes, whole function is to denounce warre, to proclaime peace, or otherwise to be employed by the King, in marciall melfages, or other bufiness; and fo they are called Internancij vel pacis, vel belli ferendi. Mcf. fengers to carrie and offer either warre or peace:

Heralt, faith Verstegan, in the Title of Honours and Offices, is meerely a Teutonic or Duytch word, and in that tongue and no other, the true Æ tymologie thereof is onely to be found.

To begin then with the first fyllable thereof, which is Here, though in composition abridged to Her, it is the true and ancient Teutonic word for an Armic, the fame that Exerciting is in Latine; and in that fence it is yet yied vled in Germany. And whereas the Germanes doe n ow vle Here alfo for Lord, yet anciently they fo vled it not. And although the Teutonic be more mixed with other ftrange languages; yet this word Here, as they vle it for Lord or mafter, hath crept into their language from Herew in Latine, after that the Latine tongue became knowne vnto them.

The Ærjmologie, Anuquity, and Dignity of Heralds.

A Healt in the Teutonick, is a most couragious person, a champion, or an especial challenger to a fight or combat, of the weapon that such sometime most vsed, called a Healtbard, because it was borne by a Healt, we yet, though corruptly, retaine the name of Holbard, and the Netherlands make it Heilbard.

Here-healt by abbreuiation Heralt, as alfo Herald, doth rightly fignific, the Champion of the armie. And (growing to be a name of Office) he that hath in the armie the effeciall charge to challenge vnto battell or combat: in which fenfe our name of Herald doth nearest approach vnto Fecialis in Latine, as I haue touched before.

The Feciales amongst the Romanes, faith one, were Priefts. For Numa Pompilius (who flourished circa ann. mundi 3283.) the fecond King of the Romanes, divided the inftitution of divine honour into eight parts, and fo inftituted and ordained eight feuerall orders of Priefts; and endowed the Golledge of these Feciales or Heralds with the feuenth part of this his facred conflitution. Their Colledge at Rome was compoled of twenty Heraulds, cholen out of ancient and eminent families, the chiefe whereof (for excellence) was called Pater Patratus, because by being chiefe of that companie, he ought to have children, and his owne Father yet liuing. Their chiefe office was, To take care that the Romanes did not commence, and make vniuft warre againft any confederate Citie, and that if any fuch a city had committed any thing against the conditions of the confederacie, truce, and entercourfe, then they were to go as Emballadours, first to challenge their right in milde words; which if denyed, then to proclaime warre, Neque iustum aliquod bellum fore censebatur, nisi id per Fectales esset indictum: Neither was any warre thought to be iuft and lawfull, but that which was denounced by thefe Feciales, or Heralds.

In France (faith Andrew Favine) Heralds have ever beene in high effective, and not onely the King of Armes, Mont-ioy, S. Denis, but alfo the other Heralds, and Purfutuants, were of noble extraction : and Mont-ioy could not be admitted without making proofe of his Nobleneffe by three races, as well of his Fathers flocke, as by his mothers fide. There was two thoufand pounds of rents in Lands and free tenure, allowed for the faid Mont-ioy particularly, and athoufand pounds of annuall penfion, befides other rights. As for the other Heralds, they have a thoufand pounds in penfion, with other rights and priviledges.

Now for fuch rights and priviledges as were granted to kings of Armes and Heralds, fome doe afcribe them to the King and Emperour Charle maigne: others to Alexander the Great of Macedon, and others to the Emperour of Germany, Charles king of Bohemia, fourth of that name, nourifhed from his youth in the Court of the Father of Chevalrie, Philip de Valoys, king of France, fixth and laft of that name, as here followeth the tenure in these words.

Heralds Priefts Rofinus Ant. Rom, 4.3.6.11.

Heralds of France of noble defeent.

The Priniledges granted to Kings, and Heralds of Armes, translated out of the French in the Theater of Honour.

My Souldiers, you are and Ihall bee called Heralds, Companions for kings, and Iudges of crimes committed by Noblemen; and arbitratours of their quarrels and differences. You must liue hereafter exempted from going any more to warre, or militarie factions. Councell kings for the beft, the benefit of the weale publique, and for their Honour and Royall dignitie. Correct all matters vile and difhoneft : fauour widowes, fuccour orphanes, and defend them from all violence. Affift with your counfell fuch Princes and Lords in whole Courts you shall abide, and freely and without feare, demand of them whatfoeuer is needfull for you, as food, rayment, and defrayings. If any one of them thall deny you, let him bee infamous, without glory or honour, and reputed as criminall of high treafon. In like manner alfo, haue you an efpeciall care, to keepe your felues from vilifying your noble exercife, and the Honour wherewith you ought to come neare vs at all times. See there be no entrance into Princes Courts, either of drunkenneffe, ill speaking, flattery, babling indifcreetly, ianglery, buffonnerie, and fuch other'vices, which loyle and thame the reputation of men. Giue good example euery where, maintaine equitie, and repaire the wrongs done by great men to their inferiours. Remember what priviledges we have granted you, in recompence of the painfull trauells in warre, which you endured with vs. And let not the Honours which we have beftowed on you, bee conuerted to blame and infamie by difhoneft liuing: the punifhment whereof we referue to our felfe, and to the Kings of France our Succeffours.

Seuen Danifh Kings, befides fome of Norway, and Sweden, haue had for their proper appellation the name of Herald, or Harold, which is all one with Heralt, faith Verstegan. So honourable was it accounted of in old time, that fo many Kings thereby were called, in regard as it appeareth, that themfelues might be honoured and respected as the most couragious of the armie.

Heralds (faith Stow) (out of an old Hiftory, written aboue fixe hundred yeares fince, which he found in the Reuestrie or Treasurie of Saint Pauls Church) be they which our Elders were wont to call Heroes, that is to fay, those which were greater, or furpaffing all men in Maieftie, and yet inferiour to the Gods. For, whom the people of antiquitie did perceiue to be notable, and furmounting all others in his acts and feates, renowned in vertues, and friendly or gracious vnto them; him would they magnific, and exalt in the highest degree, and as it were, with their good words make him cofin to love the omnipotent. Placing fuch amongst the Gods, if it fo were, that they had wrought fome miraculous feate aboue the common courfe of Nature. But if there were no fuch miraculous or wonderfull deeds, but that through their vertues they feemed wonderfull and honourable, then thought they to call fuch perfons, not altogether Gods, nor yet fimplie men, but inuented out a meane word and name for them, calling them Heroes, as it were halfe-gods, and of this word Heroes, or Heros, groweth by corruption of vie this name Herald.

Where as it pleafed youre hyghneffe vpon very iuft confideratyons to encourage mee, by the authoryte of youre mofte gracioufe Commyffion, to perufe and dyligently to ferche all the Libraries of Monafteries and Collegies of this youre noble Realme, to the entent that the Monuments of auncyent Wryters, as well of other Nacyons, as of your owne Prouynce, myghte be brought out of deadly darkeneffe, to lyuely lyght, and to receive lyke thankes of their pofteryte, as they hoped for at fuch time, as they employed their long and great fludies to the publique wealthe.

Yea, and furthermore, that the holy fcripture of God might both be fincerely taught and learned, all maner of fuperflicion and crafty coloured doctrine of a rowte of romane Bilhops totally expelled oute of this your moft Catholique realme. I thinke it now no leffe, than my very dewtie, breuely to declare to your Maieftie, what frutes haue fpronge of my laborioufe iourney and coftly enterprife, both roted vpon your infinite goodneffe and liberalite, qualitees, right highly to be effemed in al Princes, and moft fpecially in yow, as naturally your owne wele knowne proprietes.

First I have conferued many good authors, the which otherwise had ben like to have perifhed, to no small incommodite of good letters. Of the which, parteremaine in the most magnificent libraries of your royall Palaces. Part also remaine in my custodie, whereby I trust right shortly, so to describe your most noble Realme, and to publish the Maiestie of the excellent actes of youre progenitors, hitherto fore obscured, bothe for lacke of emprinting of such workes as lay fecretly in corners.

And alfo becaufe men of eloquence hath not enterprifed to fet them forth in a floridhing ftile, in fome times paft not commonly vfed in England of Writers, otherwife wele learned, and now in fuch effimacion, that except itruth be delicately clothed in purpure, her written veritees can feant finde a Reader. That all the world fhall enidently perceiue, that no particular region, may infly be more extolled, than yours for true nobilitie and vertues at all points renoumed.

Farther

Farther, more part of the exemplaries, curioully fought by me, and fortunately found in fundry places of this your dominion, hath bene emprinted in Germany, and now be in the prefles chefely of Frobenus, that not alonly the Germaines, but also the Italianes themfelfe, that count as the Grekes ded full arrogantly, all other Nacions to be barbaroufe and vnlettered, faning their owne, thal! haue a direct occasion openly of force to fay: That Britannia prima fuit parens, altrix (addo boc etiam & iure quidem optimo) conferuatrix cum virorum magnorum tum maxime ingeniorum: Britaine was a mother, a nurfe, and a maintainer, not onely of worthy men; but also of most excellent wits.

And that profite hath rifen by the aforefaid journey, in bringing full many things to light, as concerning the vfurped autorite of the Bifhop of Rome and his complices, to the manifeft and violent derogation of Kingly dignite: I referre my felfe most humbly to your most prudent, learned, and high iudgement, to difcerne my diligence in the long Volume, wherein I haue made answer for the defence of your supreme dignitie, alonly lening to the ftrong pillor of holy fcripture, against the whole Colledge of the Romanifts, cloking their crafty affections and arguments, vnder the name of one poore Pighius of Vltraiect in Germany, and ftanding to them as to their onely anker, hold against tempests that they know will arife, if truth may be by licens lette in to haue a voyce in the generall counfell.

Yet herin only I have not pytched the fupreme worke of my labour, wherunto your grace, most like a kinglye Patron of all good lernyng, ded animate me. But also confidering and expending with my felfe, how great a number of excellent godly wittes and writers, lerned with the beft, as the times ferued, hath bene in this your region; Not onely at fuch times as the Romane Emperors had recourse to it, but also in those daies that the Saxons preuailed of the Britaines, and the Normans of the Saxons, could not but with a feruent zele, and honeft corage, commend them to memory. Els, alastike to haue bene perpetually obfcured, or to haue lightly remembred as vncertaine fhaddowes.

Wherfor I knowing by infinite varietie of bookes, and affiduoufe reading of them, who hath bene lerned, and who hath written from time to time in this realme, haue digested into four bokes, the names of them, with their liues and monuments of lerning, And to them added this title. De viris illustribus, folowing the profitable example of Hierome, Gannadie, Caffiodore, Seueryane, and Trittemie, a late Writer. But al way to handling the matter, that I have more exspaciated in this campe, then they ded, as in a thing that defired to be fomewhat at large, and to have ornature. The first boke beginning at the Druides, is deducted vnto the time of the comming of S. Augustine into England. The fecond is from the time of Augustine, vnto the aduente of the Normans. The third from the Normans, to the end of the moste honourable reigne of the mightie, famoufe, and prudent Prince, Henry the feuenth your Father. The fourth beginneth with the name of your Maiefte, whole glory in lerning, is to the world fo clerely knowne, that though emonge the liues of other lerned men, I have accurately celebrated the names of Bladud, Mulmutius, Constantinus Magnus, Learned Prin-Sigebert, Alfridus, Alfridus magnus, Atbelflane, and Henry the first, ces. A Booke of the Topographic of England. Now farther to infinuate to your grace, of what matters the Writers, whole liues I have congefted into foure bookes, hath treated of I may right boldly fay, that befide the cognicion of the foure tongues, in the which, part of them bath excelled, that there is no kinde of liberall fcience, or any feate concerning learning, in the which they have not fhewed certaine arguments of great felicitie of witte. Yea, and concerning the interpretation of holy Scripture, both after the ancient forme, and fens the fcholaflicall trade, they have reigned as in a certaine excellency.

And as touching hiftoricall knowledge, there hath bene to the number of a full hundreth or mo, that from time to time hath with great diligence, and no leffe faith, wolde to God with like eloquence, perferibed the actes of your noble predeceffors, and the fortunes of this your Realme, fo incredibly great, that hee that hath not feane, and throughly redde their workes, can litle pronounce in this parte.

Wherfor, after that I had perpended the honeft and profitable fludies of thefe Hiftoriographers, I was totally enflamed with a loue, to fee througly all thofe partes of this your opulent and ample realme, that I had redde of in the aforfaid Writers. In fo much that, all my other occupacions intermitted, I haue fo traueled in your dominions, both by the fee coaftes and the middle parts, fparing neither labour nor cofts, by the fpace of thefe fixe yeeres paft, that there is almoft neither cape nor baye, hauen, creke, or pere, riuer, or confluence of riuers, breches, walhes, lakes, meres, fenny waters, mountaines, vallies, mores, hethes, foreftes, woodes, cities, burges, caftels, principall manor places, monafteries, and colleges; but I haue feane them, and noted in fo doing a whole world of things very memorable.

Thus inftructed, I truft fhortly to feethe time, that like as *Carolus Mag*nus had among his treafures, three large notable tables of filuer, richly enameled; one of the fite and defeription of Conftantinople, another of the fite and figure of the magnificente Citee of Rome, and the third of deferypcyon of the world. So fhall your Maieftie haue this your world and impery of Englande, fo fet forth in a quadrate table of filuer, if God fend me life to accomplifh my beginning, that your Grace fhall haue ready knowledge at the firft fight of many right delectable, fruitfull, and neceffary pleafures, by contemplacion thereof, as often as occasion fhall moue you to the fight of it.

And becaufe that it may be more permanent, and farther knowne, then to haue it engraued in filuer or braffe; I entend by the leaue of God, within the space of twelue moneths following, such a description to make of your realme in writing, that it shall be no mastery after, for the Grauer or Painter to make the like by a perfect example.

Yea, and to wade farther in this matter, where as now almost no man can wele geffe at the shadow of the ancient names of hauens, rivers, promontories.

tories, hilles, woods, Citics, Townes, Caffles, and varyete of kyndes of people, that Cefar, Liui, Strabo, Diodorus, Fabius, Pittor, Pomponius Mela, Plinius, Cornelius Tacitus, Ptolomeus, Sextus Rufus, Ammianus Marcellinus, Solimus, Antoninus, and diuerfe other make mencyon of. I truft fo to open this wyndow, that the lyght shall be seene, so long, that is to say, by the space of a whole thousand yeeres stopped vp, and the old glory of your renowned Britayne to reflorish through the worlde.

This done, I haue matter of plenty, already prepared for this purpole, that is to fay, to write an Hiftory, to the which I entend to afcribe this title, De Antiquitate Britannica, or elfe Civilis Hiftoria. And, this worke I entend to diuide into fo many bookes, as there be Shyres in England, and fhires and great dominions in Wales. So that I effecme that this Volume will enclude a fifty bookes, whereof each one feuerally fhall containe the beginnings, encreafes, and memorable acts of the chiefe Townes and Caftles of the Prouince allotted to it.

Then I entend to diffribute into fixe bookes, fuch matter as I have already collected, concerning the Ifles adiacent to your noble realme, and vndre your fubicceyon. Wherof three shall be of these Ifles, VeEta, Mona, and Menavia, fomtime kyngedomes.

And to fuperadde a worke as an ornament and a right comely garlande to the enterprifes aforefaid, I have felected fluffe to be diffributed into three bookes, the which I purpole thus to entitle, De Nobilitate Britannica. Wherof the firft fhall declare the names of Kynges and Quenes, with their children, Dukes, Earles, Lordes, Capitaynes and rulers in this realme to the commynge of the Saxons and theyr Conqueft. The feconde fhall be of the Saxons. The thirde from the Normans to the reygne of your moft noble grace, defeending lineally of the Brytayne, Saxon, and Norman kynges. So that all noble men fhall clerely perceyve their lyneall parentele.

Now, if it fhall be the pleafure of Almighty God, that I may lyve to performe thefe things that be already begonne, and in a great forwardneffe, I truft that this your realme fhall fo wele be knowne, ones paynted wyth his native colours, that the renowne thereof fhall geue place to the glory of no other region. And my great labours and coftes, procedynge from the moft habundant fountayne of your infinite goodneffe towards me your pore fcholar and moft humble fervaunt, fhall be euydently feane to have not only pleafed, but alfo profyted the fludyoufe, gentill, and equall reders. This is the briefe declaracyon of my laborioufe iourney, taken by mocyon of your hyghneffe, fo much fludying at all houres, aboute the frutefull preferment of good letters, and auncyent vertues.

Of the Diocesse of London, the Battels therein fought, and of the Burialls of the Dead slaine in those terrible conflicts.

Now as I haue before fpoken fomewhat of the Bilhoprickes of Cant. and Rochefter, follet me here fpeake a little of this Dioceffe of London, which extendeth fo farre in circuit, as the Site of the Eaft or Middle Saxons kingdome anciently comprifed; which was bounded on the Eaft with the Ocean; on the South with the Thames, on the Weft with the Colne, and on the North with the River Stowre; within the limits whereof, Midlefex, Effex, and a part of Hertfordfhire are contained. The glory of which Dioceffe is principally Midlefex, in regard of the far-famed City of London, the Metropolis of England (of which I haue fpoken before) and the chiefefeat of her facred Bilhops : as alfo in regard of the River of Thames, the king of all our Rivers. Of whom, and of the rare profpects he views in his paffage betweene Windfore and London Bridge, a late Poet thus verifies.

But now this mighty Flood, vpon his voiage preft (That found how with his ftrength, his beauties still increasily From where, braue Windfore flood on tiptoe to behold The faire and goodly Thames, to farre as ere be could, With kingly houles crownd, of more then earthly pride, Vpon his either Bankes as he along doth glide) With wonderfull delight, doth his long courfe purfue, Where Otlands, Hampton Court, and Richmond he doth view. Then Westminster the next great Tames doth entertaine, That vaunts her Pallace large, and her most fumptuous Fane : The Lands tribunall feate that challengeth for hers, The crowning of our kings, their famous Sepulchres. Then goes he on along by that more beautious Strand, Expreffing both the wealth and brauery of the Land. (So many fumptuous Bowres, within fo little fpace The All-beholding Sunnefcarfe fees in all his race) And on by London leads, which like a Crefcent lies, Whofe windowes feeme to mocke the Star-befreckled skies. Befides her rifing Spyres, fo thicke themfelues that flow, As doe the briftling reedes, within her bankes that grow. There fees his crouded Wharfes, and people-peftred fhores, His bofome ouerfpread with fhoales of labouring ores: With that most costly Bridge, that doth him most renowne, By which he cleerely puts all other Rivers downe.

Midlefex (faith Camden) is for aire paffing temperate, and for foile fertile, with fumptuous houfes, and prety Townes on all fides pleafantly beautified : and euery where offereth to the view many things memorable: Whereupon a Germane Poet thus verified.

Claudius the Emperour (faith S. Danyel) had the honour of taking the whole Ifle of Britaine to the Romane Empire, which though thus wonne, was not, till a long time after, ouercome. For now the Britaines (vnderftanding the milery of their diffociation : how their fubmillion brought but the more oppreffion) colleague themfelues against the Romanes, taking their occafion vpon the outrages, committed on the perfon and flate of Queene Vaodicia, or Boudicea, widow of Prasus king of the Icenians, (the Inhabitants of Norfolke, Suffolke, Cambridge, and Huntington(hires) a great and rich Prince, who (at his death) had left Nero his heire, and two daughters, hoping thereby to free his houfe from iniuries. But it fell out contrary; for, no fooner was he dead, but his kingdome was fpoiled by the Centurions, his houfe ranfackt by flaues, his wife beaten, and his daughters rauilhed. Belides the chiefe men of the Icenians (as if all the region had beene giuen in prey) were reft of their goods, and the kings kinfmen efteemed as captiues : with which contumely, and feare of greater milchiefe, they confpire with the Trinobants (the Inhabitants of Midlelex and Effex) and others (not yet inured to feruitude) to refume their liberty. And firft fet vpon the Garrifons of the Veteran Souldiers (whom they moft hated) defeited the ninth Legion, whereof they flew all the foote, forced Cerealis the Legat, and leader to flight, and put to the fword feventy thousand Romanes and affociates, inhabiting this municipall Towne Camolodunum, now Maldon, as alfo London and Verulam; before Suctonius the Gouernour of the Prouince could affemble the reft of the difperfed forces, to make head against their armie, conducted by Vasdicia, who, (with her two daughter brought into the field to moue compation and reuenge) incites them to that noble and manly worke of liberty. Which to recouer, the protefts to hold her felfe there but as one of the vulgar (without weighing her great honour and birth) refolued to winne, or dye. Ellitus the first Bilhop of this See, after the remouall of the Archbilhopricketo Canterbury, had a shrine erected to his honour in this Church, as I have touched before. In his time, and partly by his instigation, this Cathedrall Church was built by Ethelbert King of Kent. He was confectated Bilhop of London by Saint Austin, Archbishop of Canterbury, the yeare 604. In the gouernment whereof hee continued nineteene yeares; in which time and about the fourth yeare of his confectation, he went to Rome to conferre with Boniface the Pope about diuers things, and was by him honourably entertained. A yeare or two after his returne, died both Ethelbert King of Kent, as alfo Sebert of the Eaft Angles, whom he had conuerted to the Chriftian Faith.

King Sebert left behinde him three wicked fonnes, that being neuer baptized, came not with fanding one day into the Church at Communion time, and asked the Bilhop what hee meant that hee deliuered not of that fame fine bread vnto them as he was wont to their father Sebert, and did yet vnto the reft of the people. He answered, that if they would be walhed in the water of life, as he was, and the reft of the people there prefent : then would he deliuer vnto them of this bread alfo: but otherwife, neither was it lawfull for him to deliver, nor them to receive it. This notwithftanding they would have enforced him, and when they could not preuaile, were fo enraged, as they expelled him their dominions, hardly holding their hands from doing him violence at that time. Hee, being thus exiled, went first vnto Laurence Archbishop of Canterbury, and finding him in little better cafe then himfelfe was at London, departed into France, together with Influs Bilhop of Rochefter. Being fent for foone after by Laurence, it happened the fame yeare that the fame Lawrence died, and hee was appointed to fucceed him: where he fate about fiue yeares, euen vntill the day of his exfpiration. Mellitus quenched by his prayer, the fire burning the Citic of Canterbury, It is written of Mellitus, that when vpon a certaine time the Citie of Canterbury was by negligence fet on fire, and began to wafte and confume away by much increasing of the flames, so that no helpe of man, nor cafting of water thereon, was able to quench or flay the fame, the greatest part of the citie being at length almost burnt, and the furious flashes extending themfelues even write the Bilhops place: this good Bilhop feeing mans helpe now to faile, and trusting onely in the aide and fuccour of almighty God, commanded that he might be carried out of his house, and fet against these fierce flames of fire, piercing and flying all round about.

Now where the greateft rage of this burning was; there was the place of Martyrdome of the foure holy crowned Saints. Whan then the Bilhop by his feruants was brought forth, and fet in this place, here he began with prayer (ficke as he was, for he was often troubled with infirmities of body, and much grieued with the Gowte, notwithstanding euer whole and found of minde) to driue away the perill of the fire : which the flout ftrength of ftrong men with much labour could not before bring to paffe. And behold the winde that blew from the South, whereby this fire was first kindled and blafted abroad (now fuddenly bent againft the South) firft tempered his blaßs; for feare of hurting the places right ouer in the other fide, and after quite quenching the flames, ceafing and extinguilhing the fire, made all calme and well againe. And truly this good man of God which did feruently alway burne with the fire of inward charity, and was wont with his often prayers and holy exhortations to drive from himfelfe, and all his, the danger of ghoftly temptations, and trouble by fpirits of the aire, might now iultly preuaile against the winde, and eafily cease these temporall flames, and obtaine that they flould neuer hurt him nor his, See more of him before in Canterbury.

Seas to King Henry the fecond, fearing that fome etiill would be prepared againft him, if the Church fhould haue fent any thither before him : At whole comming to the King, he accufed the Monkes of Ely of many things, and did therewith fo edge the King againft them, that the King fending into England, charged by Wunnecus, one of his Ghaplaines, that the Prior of Ely fhould be deposed, and the Monkes with all their goods to be proferibed and banifhed.

This man being Treasurer to King Henry the fecond, the treasure of the faid Henry the fecond at his death, came vnto one hundred thousand markes; notwithstanding the excession charges of the King many wates.

This Richard (being Bilhop of London, by the name of Richard the third, and the Kings Treafurer) was cholen for the gouernement of this See in the yeare of our redemption, one thouland, one hundred, eighty and nine, being the first yeare of King Richard the first, and was confecrated Bilhop at Lambeth, by Baldwine, Archbilhop of Canterbury, in the yeare of Christ, one thouland, one hundred, ninety : he died thefourth of the Ides of September, in the yeare of grace, one thouland, one hundred, ninety and eight, being the ninth yeare of King Richard the first, as I haue it out of the Catalogue of Treasures of England, collected by Francis Thinne.

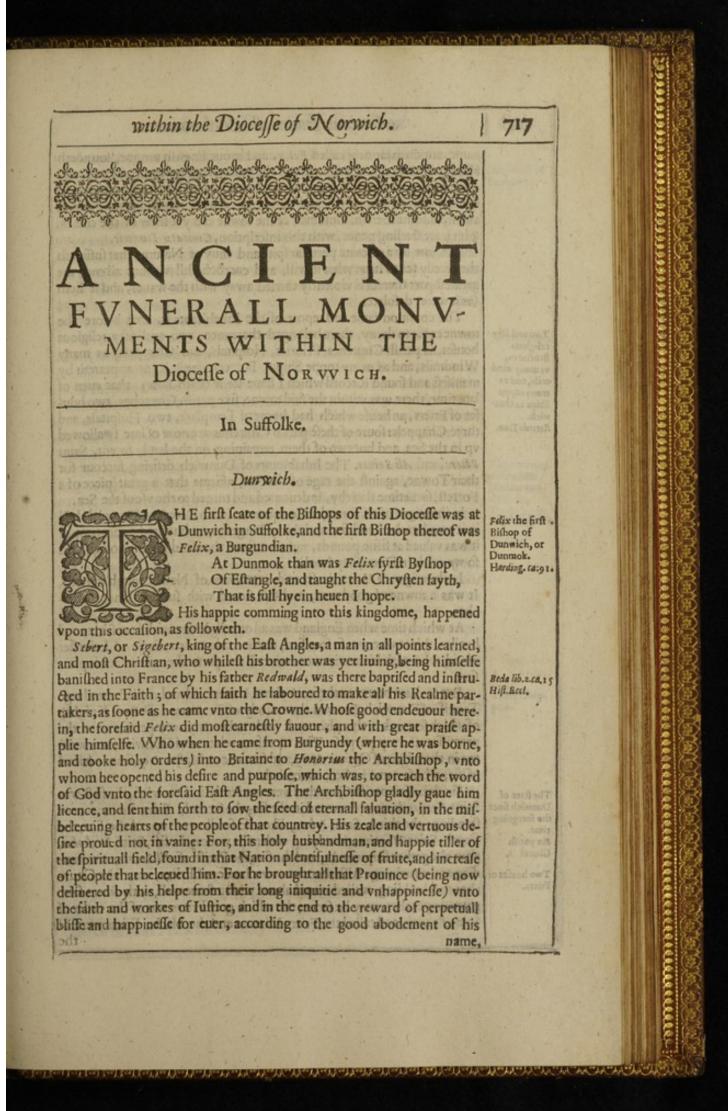

He beftowed much vpon the building of bis Church, S. Pauls, as alfo vpon other Edifices belonging to his See, which was the caufe, I coniecture, wherefore the Shrine was crected to his memory.

Many miracles (laith Mat. Paris) were wrought at the tombe of Roger, S.Roger. firnamed the Blacke, the foure and forrieth Bilhop of this Dioceffe, who lieth buried neere to the preaching place in Saint Pauls Church, vnder a monument of grey marble, of which, as allo of him, I have partly fpoken before. Godwin, Bilhop of Hereford, out of the forelaid M. Paris faith, that this Roger was a reuerend man, religious, learned, painfull in preaching, cloquent, a great Houfe-keeper, and of very gentle and curteous behauiour: whereunto he might have added (as it is in my Author) that hee was alfo fout and couragious. For, Ruffandus the Popes Nuntio being carneft in a connocation for fetting forward a certaine prolling denife to fcrape vp money for his mafter, he not onely withftood him openly, but cried out vpon the vnreafonable and thameleffe couctoufneffe of the Court of Rome, and was the onely means of flaying the courfe of that exaction. For reuenge hereof, not long after they began to frame an acculatio against him at Rome, alledging matters altogether falle and friuolous. It forced him to trauell thither, and coft him great fummes of money before he could rid his hands of that brable.

The yeare 1233. Walter Mauclerke, Bifhop of Carlile, taking thip to palle ouer the feas, was hindered by fome of the Kings Officers, for that he had no licence to depart the Realme. These Officers for fo doing, hee excommunicated, and riding ftraight vnto the Gourt, certified the King what he had done, and there renewed the fame fentence againe.

	About the fame time, the King gaue commandement for the apprehen- ding of Hubert de Burgo Earle of Kent, who having fodaine notice thereof at midnight, got him vp,and fled into a Church in Effex. They to whom the bulinefle was committed, finding him vpon his knees before the high Altar, with the Sacrament in one hand, and a croffe in the other, carried him away neuertheleffe vnto the Tower of London. The Bishop taking this to bee a great violence and wrong offered to holy Church, would name, which in latine is called Felix, and in our English tongue, soundeth Happy. He was made Bishop about the yeare of our redemption, 630. and chose Dunwich for his Episcopall Chaire; being a Citie in foregoing ages, spacious, much frequented, and well peopled with inhabitants. Famous also for a Mint therein, some men of the towne can yet shew of the coines, which are sterling pence, with this infeription, Cimitatis Dunwic.

But now by a certaine peculiar fpite and enuy of Nature, that fuffereth the greedy fea to have what it will, and encroch ftill without all end, the greateft part thereof is violently carried away with the waves, and it lieth (as it were) defolate:

The common fame and report of the Inhabitants is, that before the towne came to decay, there belonged thereunto, two and fifty religious houfes, as parifh Churches, Priories, Hofpitals, and Chappels, as many Windmils, and as many toppe Ships. But certaineit is, as appeareth by manifeft and found Record which I have feene (faith Stow) that even of late time, there was within the faid towne, fixe parifh Churches, two houfes of Friers, an houle which had beene of Templars, two Hofpitals, and three Chappels: foure of thefe parifh Churches are now of late fwallowed vp in the Sea, and but two of them remaining on the land, to wit, Saint Peters, and All Saints. The Inhabitants of Dunwich defiring fuccour for their Towne, againft the rage of the Sea, affirme that a great [piece of a Forreft, fometime thereby, is deuoured and turned to the vfe of the Sea.

In the raigne of William the Conquerour (faith Camden) Dunwich had in it two hundred and fixe and thirty Burgefles, an hundred poore people: it was valued at fiftie pounds, and threefcore thousand Herings of gift, for fo we reade in Domefday booke:

In the raigne of Henry the fecond, as William of Newborough writeth, It was a towne of good note, and full flored with fundry kindes of piches.

At which time when England was all on a light fire with new flirres and broiles, this towne was fo fortified, that it made Robert, Earle of Leicefter afraid, who with his armie ouer-ranne all the parts thereabout at his pleafure.

But to draw neerer to these our times, I have read and copied out a large Treatife of Dunwich, (now in the custody of Sir Simonds D'Ewes Knight) of which some his place as I finde to bee any way pertinent to the premisses, and my purpose. This treatife or relation of Dunwich, was written in the raigne of Queene Mary, and sent to one Master Dey, from a friend of his, whole name is there concealed.

Sir, &c. Sixe parifh Churches were anciently in Dunwich, the first was Saint Leonards, now drowned in the fea; the fecond, Saint Peters, now ftanding; the third, Saint Iohns, likewife fwallowed vp of the Sea; the fourth, Saint Martins, now lying vnder the waues; the fift, Saint Nicholas, now altogether thipwrackt; and the fixt, the Parifh of All Saints, now ftanding and remaining. Alfo there was two houfes of Friers, very faire Churches and building, walled round about with a ftone wall, with diuers faire gates, as yet there may be feene; the which grey Friers was of the order of Saint Francis, and called the Friers Minors: and the blacke Friers were of the the order of Saint Dominicke, (and were called the Friers Preachers.

Alfo there was in the faid Towne, an ancient and very old Church, cal- One house of led the Temple of our Lady; the which Church, by report, was in the lewes time, and was valted ouer. And the roofe of the fame Church, and alfo the Ifles, were leaded all ouer. And it was a Church of great priniledge and pardon in those daies, and was indowed with diners Rents, Tenements, Houfes, Lands, and other profits and commodities, both free and coppie: as well in Donwiche, Weftelton, Dyngle, &c. as alfo in diuers other places, &c. And commonly there was kept a Court, called Donwiche Temple Court, on the day of All Soules, for the leuying and gathering vp of the yeerely reuenue of the fame.

Allo there is in the faid Towne, two Hofpitals, the one is called Saint Two Hofpitals lames, which Ghurch is a great one, and a faire large one after the old falhion, and divers tenements, houfes, and lands to the fame belonging, to the vie of the poore, ficke, and impotent people there. But now lately, greatly decaied and hindred by cuill Mafters of the faid Hofpitall, and other cuilly difpofed couctous perfons, which did fell away diuers lands and rents from the faid Hofpitall, to the great hinderance of the poore people of the faid Hospitall, as plainely it is to be proued.

The other Holpitall was of the holy Trinitie, and was, and is, called the Mafon Dien, whereof the Church is now pulled downe, and decaied by the meanes of fuch cuill Mafters and concrons perfons, as decayed the other Hofpitall. But there is yet divers tenements, houfes, lands, and rents, remaining to the vie of the poore of the fame Hofpitall. The which Mafon Dieu was an house of great priviledge, and a place exempt, and there was a very little proper house, and a proper lodging for the Masters of the fame, for the time being to dwell in. As there hath beene mafters of the fame Mafon Dien, in times paft that bath beene worfhipfull, viz: one there was of late daies, a Mafter of Arte, and another that was a Squyre, and fuch like, &c. I would to God thefe initiries and wrongs done to thefe two poore Hofpitals might be reftored, and reformed againe to their former effate. For, furely, whofoeuer shall doe it, shall doe a good worke before God; I pray God bring it to palle, Amen.

Alfo there was in the faid Towne of Donwiche, three Chappels, wher- Three Chapof one was of Saint Antony, another of Saint Francis, and a third was of Saint Katherine. The which three Ghappels were put downe, when all the houfes of Religion were put downe.

But you shall further vnderstand, that the common fame of a great number of credible perfons is, and hath beene for a long time paft, that there hath beene in the Towne of Donwiche before any decay came vnto it, fiftie and two parifh Churches, houfes of Religion, Hofpitals and Chappels, and other fuch like; as many wind-mils, and as many toppe Ships.

Alfo I thinke you doe remember the manner, forme, and faihion of the building and making of Saint Johns Ghurch, and Saint Nicholas Church, how they were close fled both North and fouth, and the freeples in the middeft like Cathedrall Churches now vied, and as it feemeth, as the old manner of Gathedrall Churches then was. And moft likeft fo was the Church of Saint Felix: for certainly one of these three Churches, was the Bilhops

And although these aforefaid three old Churches were not sumptuous, great, & very faire, after the manner & falhion of Cathedral Churches now vled, yet it feemeth they might ferue in those daies very wells for it plainely appeareth in the book of the description of England, and in the title of Bifhoprickes and their Sees, the thirteenth chapter, whereas thefe words following are laid. Take beede, for in the beginning of holy Church in England, Bilhops ordained, and had their Sees in low places and fimple, that were conueniable and meete for contemplation and denotion, &c. But in King William the Conquerours time by doome of Law Canon, it was otherwise ordained, that Bishops should remoue, and come out of small townes, and to haue their Sees in great Cities. By meanes whereof, it feemeth that the towne of Donwiche being then greatly decayed, and alfo then likely more and more to decay (as it hath done indeed) from a great citie (as fome doe fay) or at the leaft from a very great ancient Towne, to a little small Towne, the Bishops seat of Donwich, was remoued from Donwich to Elmham, and Thetford, and afterward to the Citie of Norwich, whereas it yet remaineth.

There was a Mint in Dunwich; for, one Mafter Holliday told mee that he had a grote, whole superscription on the one fide, was Cinitas Donwic. Diners other things he told me of to make it a citie. The Treatife is much longer, but enough is already delinered.

The fucceffion of the Bilhops of Dunwich, is fet downe by Bilhop Godwin, to which I refer my Reader.

The foundation of the Blacke Friers in Dunwich.

This religious Structure was founded by Sir Roger de Holishe, Knight, of the order you have heard before, of the time, dedication, value, or surrender, I finde not any thing. Persons of note buried in the Church of this Monastery, were as followeth:

Sir Roger de Holishe, Knight, the foresaid founder. Sir Raufe Vfford, and Dame Ione his wife. Sir Henry Laxiffeld Knight. Dame Ione de Harmile. Dame Ada Crauene. Dame Ione Weyland, Sister of the Earle of Suffolke. Iohn Weyland, and Ione his wife. Thomas, sonne of Richard Brews, Knight. Dame Alice, wife of Sir Walter Hardishall. Sir Walkin Hardessield. and Alice his wives. Sir Henry Harvold Knight and Fryer.

The grey Friers of Dunwich was founded first by Richard Fitz-John and Alice his wife, and after by King Henry the third: of which I have no further knowledge.

Herein lay interred the bodies of Sir Robert Valence, the Heart of Dame Hawife Ponyngs. Dame Iden of Ylketilhall. Sir Peter Mellus, and Dame Anne his wife. Dame Dunne his mother. Iohn Francans, and Margaret his wife. Dame Bert of Furniual ... Auftin of Cales, and Ione his wife. Iohn Falleys, and Beatrix his wife, Augafline his fonne ... Walexnes. Sir Hubert Dernford. Katherine, wife of William Phellip, Margaret, wife of Richard Phellip. Peter Codum.

I had the notes of these buried in these Monasteries, as also of divers of ther Monasteries in Suffolke and Norfolke, out of the painefull collections of William le Neue Esquire, Yorke Herauld, truely copied out of the ancient originals thereof, remaining in his custody.

Bury Saint Edmunds, of Saint Edmundsbury.

This Town feemeth (faith Camden) to have been of famous memory, confidering that when Chriftian Religion began to fpring vpin this tract, king Sigebert here founded a Church, and it was called Villam Regiam, that is, a royall towne. But after that the people had translated hither the body of Edmund, that most christian King, whom the Danes with exquisite torments had put to death, and built in honour of him, a very great Church, wrought with a wonderfull frame of timber: it began to be called Edmandi Burgus, commonly Saint Edmundsbury, and more thortly, Bury. But efpecially fince that King Canatan, for to explate the facrilegious impletie of his Father Suenus against this Church, being often affrighted with a vifion of the feeming-ghoft of Saint Edmund, built it againe of a new worke, enriched it, offered his owne Crowne vnto the holy Martyr, brought vnto it, Monkes with their Abbot, and gaue vnto it many faire and large Mannors, and among other things, the Towne it felfe full and whole : ouer which, the Monkes themfelues by their Senefchall had rule and jurifdi-Ation. Thus Knuts Charter began.

In nomine Poliarchie Iefu Christi faluatoris. Ego Knut Rex totius Albionis Infule aliarumque nationum plurimarum, in Gathedra regali promotus, cum concilio & decreto Archiepiscoporum, Episcoporum, Abbaium, Comitum, aliorumque omnium fidelium meorum, elegis fanciendum & perpetis stabilimento ab omnibus confirmandum, vt Monaslerium quod* Budrices Turthe nuncupatur sit per omne cuum Monachorum gregibus deputatum ad inhabitandum, &c.

After a long recitall of his many donations, corroborations, priniledges, and confirmations of former grants, he ends with an Additament, of fifh and fifting.

Notwithftanding this oath, the Townefmen, now and then, fell fo foule vpon the Abbot and Couent, that they imprifoned the Abbot, ftrucke the Monkes with the Bailiffes and Officers belonging to the Abbey, affaulted the Abbey gates, fet fire on them, and burned them with diuers houfes neere adioyning, that belonged to the Monafterie. They burnt a Mannor of the Abbots, called Holderneffe Barne; with two other Mannors, called the Almoners barne, and Haberdone, alfo the Granges that flood without the South gate, and the Mannor of Weftlie, in which places they burnt in come and graine, to the value of a thoufand pounds. They entred into the Abbey court, and burnt all the houfes on the north fide; as Stables, Brewhoufes, Garners, and other fuch neceffary houfes: They burned the Mote hall, and Bradford hall, with the new hall, and diuers Chambers and Sollers to the fame halls annexed, with the Chappell of Saint Lawrence, at the end of the Holpitali hall; alfo the Mannor of Eldhall, the Mannor of Horninger, with all the corne and graine within and about the fame.

Affembling themfelues together in warlike order and aray, they affaulted the faid Abbey, brake downe the gates, windowes, and dores, entred the houfe by force, and affailing certaine Monkes and feruants that belonged to the Abbot, did beat, wound, and euill intreat them; brake open a number of chefts, coffers, and forffets, tooke out Chalices of gold and filuer, bookes, veftments, and other ornaments of the Church, befide a great quantity of rich plate, and other furniture of houfehold appareil, armour, and other things, befide fiue hundred pounds in ready coyne, and alfo three thoufand Florens of gold. All thefe things they tooke and carried away, together with diuers Charters, Writings, and Miniments; as three Charters of King Kmite, foure Gharters of King Hardicanute, one Charter of King Edward the Confeffor, two Gharters of King Henry the firft, and other two Charters of King Henry the third; which Charters concerned as well the Foundation of the fame Abbey, as the grants and confirmations of the poffeffions and liberties thereunto belonging.

Many more are the outrages committed at feuerall times by the Townefmen, againft these cloiftered brethren; which are recorded in the forefaid Lieger booke of S. value of this Religious ftructure may be partly gathered by the premiffes; it was replenished with Monkes Benedictines, or as fome fay, Cluniacks: it was furrendred into the Kings hands the fourth of Nouember, in the one and thirtith yeare of Henry the cight.

Amongst other Reliques, the Monkes of this Church had Saint Edmunds thirt; certaine drops of Saint Stephens bloud which fprung from him at fuch time as he was ftoned, and fome of the coles with which Saint Laurence was broiled.

They had certaine parings of the flefh of diuers holy Virgins, and a finew of Saint Edmund laid vp in boxes.

They had fome Skuls of ancient Saints and Martyrs, amongft which was one of Saint Petronill, or Pernell, which the country people were taught to lay to their heads, thereby to be cured of all kinde of agues. They had the bootes of Saint Thomas of Canterbury, and the fword of Saint Edmund.

It was in vie here amongst the Monkes, as often as they defired raine, to carry with them, in their Proceffions, a coffin wherein the bones of Saint Botolph were inclosed, hoping thereby the fooner to have pleafant fhoures to refresh the drie parched earth.

They had certaine waxe candles, which euer and onely they vied to light in wheat-feeding; thefe they likewife carried about their wheat grounds, beleeuing verily that hereby neither Darnell, Tares, nor any other noifome weedes would grow that yeere amongft the good corne.

Thefe Reliques they had, and many more, which wrought many ftrange effects, by their owne relation. The Abbots of this houle were Barons of the Parliament.

But now to come to the burials of certaine worthy perfonages in this Abbey Church of Bury, and firft.

Here lay fometimes enfhrined, the facred Remaines of Edmund, King of the East Angles, and Martyr; who was the sonne of one Alkmund, a Prince of great power in these parts. In the raigne of this King Edmand, Hungar, & Hubba, two Danilh Captaines, with an innumerable multitude of Heathen Danes, entred the Landat the mouth of Humber, and from thence inuaded Nottingham, Yorke and Northumberland, where (without refpect of age or fexe) they laid all waft, and left the Land, whence they departed, like to a defolate wilderneffe. From thence they came with the like furie into Edmunds territories, and facked Thetford, a frequent citie in those daies : but hee not able to withstand their violence, fled into his Caftle at Framingham, wherein he was of them belieged, and laftly taken in a village, then called * Heglifdune, of a wood bearing the fame name, or rather yeelded himfelfe to their torments, to faue more chriftian bloud; for it is recorded, that becaufe of his moft conftant Faith and profeffion, those Pagans first beat him with bats, then foourged him with whips, he still calling vpon the name of Iefus: for rage whereof, they bound to a ftake, and with their arrowes that him to death; and cutting off his head, contemptuoufly threw it into a bulh, after he had raigned ouer the Eaft Angles the fpace of fixteene yeares.

Giuen at the fiege before Yorke. Alban being a man of an high fpirit, and defirous to gouerne the Province entirely which he had received, built a ftrong Gaftle by Gillingham (a village which he pofleffed) by which he might defend himfelfe, not onely againft the Englifh, who were fpoiled of their goods and lands, but alfo againft the fury and inuafions of the Danes. When the worke was finished, he gaue it the name of Richmond, of purpole, either for the greatneffe and magnificence of the place, or for some Caffle in little Britaine of the fame name.

Here fometimes, under a goodly Monument in the Quire of this Abbey Ghurch, lay interred the body of Thomas, furnamed of Brotherton, the place of his birth, the fifth fonne of Edward the firft, after the Conqueft, king of England, by Margaret his fecond wife, the eldeft daughter of Philip king of France, furnamed the Hardy.

He was created Earle of Norfolke, and made Earle Marshall of England, by his halfe brother King Edward the fecond, which Earledomes Roger Bigod (the last of that furname Earle of Norfolke, and Earle Marshall) leauing no iffue, left to the disposition of the king his Father. This Earle died in the yeare of our redemption 1338.

Herelay buried the body of Thomas Beauford (fonne of Iohn of Gaunt, begotten of the Lady Katherine Swyneford his third wife) who by King Henry the fourth was made Admirall, then Captaine of Calis, and afterwards Lord Chancellour of England. He was created by the faid King Earle of Perch in Normandy, and Earle of Dorfet in England. And laftly in the fourth yeare of King Henry the fifth, he was created Duke of Exceter, and made knight of the order of the Garter. He had the leading of the Rereward at the battell of Agincourt, and the gouernment of king Henry the fixth, appointed to that office by the forefaid Henry the fifth on his death-bed. He valiantly defended Harflew in Normandy (whereof he was gouernour) againft the Frenchmen, and in a pitched field encountring the Earle of Armiguar put him to flight. He died at his Houfeof Eaft Greenwich in Kent, vpon Newycares day the fifth of Henry the fixth: for whom all England mourned, faith Milles:

The body of Mary Queene of France, widow of Lewis the twelfth: daughter of King Henry the 7. and fifter to king Henry the eight, was here in this Abbey Church entombed. After the death of Lewis (with whom the liued not long) the married that Martiall and pompous Gentleman, Charles Brandon Duke of Suffolke. She died on Midfomer Ecue, 1533.

Iohn Boon, Abbot of this Monasterie, had his tombe and interrement here in this Church; who died in the beginning of February, in the ninth yeare of the raigne of king Edward the fourth, as appeares by the faid kings Conged ellire or permiffion royall to the Prior and Couent of this House to make choise of another Abbot, as followeth.

Edward Montbermer,

Lionell Duke of Clarence, & Elif. his wife. The body of toun of Acres was here entombed, as you have already read: She was the fecond daughter of king Edward the first, and Queene Eleanor, borne in the first yeare of her fathers raigne, at a City in the Holy Land, fometime named Ptolomais, commonly called Acon, Aker, or Acres, where her mother remained during the warres that her father had with the Saracens. She was married at eighteene yeares of age, and outliving her first husband (nominated in the Roll) she degenerated to farre in the election of another, as that the made choife of one Raph de Monte-hermer sometimes her husbands and her feruant. She died here at her Mannour of Clare the tenth of May, in the yeare 1305.

Here likewise in the Austime Friars by his mother was interred the body of Edward Mont-hermer, eldest some of the foresaid Raph Mount-hermer (who having obtained the kings fauour, had the title of Earle of Glocester and Hertford) and Ioan of Acres. Hee died without issue, the time vncertaine.

Lionell, or Leonell Duke of Clarence, and Earle of Vlfter in Ireland, was buried in the Chancell of this Priorie Church, together with his firft wife Elifabeth, daughter and heire of William de Burgb, Earle of Vlfter aforefaid, as appeareth in the parchment Roll. She departed this world in the yeare 1363. And hee about fine yeares afterwards, as I shall hereafter thew.

This Lionell, furnamed of Antwerpe, the place of his birth, was the third fonne of king Edward the third;

Harding c. 187.

The charafter of Leonell Duke of Clarence. In all the world was then no Prince hym like Of hie ftature, and of all femelineffe Aboue all men within his bole kyngrike By the fhulders, he might be feene doutleffe; As a mayde in halle of gentilneffe, And in all places fonne to Retorike, And in the feld a Lyon marmorike.

Not long after the death of his wife Elifabetb, hee was remarried vnto Violenta the fifter of John Galesa, Duke of Milain, with whom hee was to receive a wondrous great Dowrie; and in that regard he made a journey to Millain, attended with a chofen companie of the English Nobilitie, where in most royall manner he espoused the faid Lady. Of which his journey, and marriage, may it pleafe you reade these following measures.

Hard.ca 186. 187. The kyng his foomne-fir Leonell create Duke of Clarence, and to Melayn him fent. With chiualrie of fame well ordinate, And fquyers frefh, galaunt and fufficient With officers and yomen as appent.

But Stow, out of Paulus Iouins, writes more fully of this marriage.

In the moneth of Aprill, faith he, Leonell Duke of Clarence, with a chofen companie of the English Nobilitie went towards Millaine, there to marrie with Violentis the daughter of Galeafins the feeond of that name, Duke of Millaine, at whofe comming to Millaine, fuch abundance of treafure was in moft bounteous manner spent, in making most fumptuous feafts, fetting forth stately fights, and honouring with rare gifts aboue two hundred Englishmen, which accompanied his some in law, as it seemed to surpass the greatness of most wealthie Princes; for in the banquet whereat Francis Petrarch was prefent, amongst the chiefest guests, there were aboue thirtie courses of some intermixed, all which, John Galeafins, chiefe of the choise youth, bringing to the table, did offer to Leonell.

There were in one onely course feuenty goodly horses, adorned with filke and filuer furniture : and in the other filuer veffells, Falcons, hounds, armour for horfes, coftly coates of mayle, breaft plates gliftering of maffie fteele, helmets and corfelets decked with coftly creftes, apparell diffinct with coffly Iewells, fouldiers girdles : and laftly, certaine gemmes, by curious Art fet in gold, and of purple, and cloth of gold for mens apparell in great abundance. And fuch was the fumptuoufneffe of that banquet, that the meates which were brought from the table, would fufficiently have ferued ten thousand men But not long after, Leonell living with his new wife, whileft after the manner of his owne countrey, as forgetting or not regarding his change of ayre, he addicted himfelfe ouer-much to vntimely banquetings, fpent and confumed with a lingting fickneffe, died, at Alba Pompeia, called alfo Languvill, in the Marquifat of Mont-ferrat in Piemont, on the Vigill of Saint Luke the Euangelist, 1368. in the two and fortieth yeare of his fathers raigne. First he was buried, faith Camden in the Annalls of Ireland, in the Citic of Papie, hard by Saint Augustine the Doctor : and afterward enterred at Clare in the Conent Church of Auflin Friers in England. He had iffue onely by his first wife one daughter, named Philip. Of which you may reade before in the printed copie of the parchment Roll: and in the Chronicle of John Harding, as followeth.

> His wife was dedde, and at Clare was buried, And none heire he had, but his doughter faire, P bilip that hight, as Cronicles fpecified,

And fo he goes on, exclaiming against the fauage barbarous field of the Rebels, and this their excerable horrid act.

Sir Robert Hales, Lord Prior of Saint Johns Terufalem, netre Clerkenwell, and a great many of others, that day tafted of the fame cup the Archbifhop had done. The chiefe leaders of this damned crew, were Wat Tyler of Maidftone in Kent, whom Walf.cals the Idoll of Clownes; John Wraw, a Prieft, Jack Straw, John Littiffar a Dier in Norwich, who tooke vpon him at Norwalfham in Norfolke, the name of the King of the Commons, Robert Weftborne, who didthe like in Suffolke, &c. and thefe had a Chaplaine as graceleffe as themfelues, one John Ball, an excommunicated Prieft, who with his wicked doctrine nourifhed in them their feditions furies.

This rebellious infurrection is exactly, and to the life express, by my forenamed Author Io. Gower, in the forefaid booke, the eleventh chapter, where in a vision he faignes to have seen and heard certaine spirits of their Pleu doProphet Ball (perfonating hereby these and all other Rebels) calling one vpon another to rise vp in commotion, as followeth.

The faid Sir William Waldegraue died at Callys in France, where his body is buried in Saint Maries Church there.

Here lye buried, (as I haue it by relation) Sir Thomas Eden Knight, and Themas Eden, Clerke of the ftarre Chamber, both vnder one monument.

I read, that Alexander Eden, Efquire, Sheriffe of Kent, tooke Iacke Cade, Captaine of the Rebels, in the 29. of Henry the Sixt, priloner, for which, and for other his good feruices against the faid Rebels, he was made Custos or keeper of the Castle at Rochester.

Of this firname is that learned Doctor of the Lawes, Thomas Eden, one of the mafters of the Chancerie, and mafter of Trinity Hall in Cambridge; of whole Familie I shall have occasion to speake in another place. And so I will take my leave of this Towne, with the words of Camden in this County.

Stour, the river, paffeth on, and commeth to Sudbery (faith he) that is to fay, the South Burgh, and runneth in manner round about it, which men fuppole to have beene in old time, the chiefe towne of this Shire, and to have taken this name in regard of Norwich, that is, the Northren Towne. Neither would it take it well at this day to be counted much inferiour to the Townes adioyning: for, it is populous and wealthy, by reafon of clothing there, and hath for the chiefe Magiftrate, a Maior, who every yeare is chofen out of feuen Aldermen.

Chriftopher Willoughby and his wife. interred, but I finde no flew of it in the Church; as alfo the bowels of Raph de Vfford, Lord chiefe luftice of Ireland : of whom the Annales of Iteland speake thus as followeth. Vpon the 13. day of July, 1343, the Lord Ralph Vfford, with his wife, the Counteffe of Vlfter, came Lord chiefe luftice of Irelands upon whole entring, the faire weather changed fodainly into a diffemperature of the aire, and from that time there enfued great ftore of raine, with much abundance of tempeftuous ftormes, vntill his dying day. None of his Predeceffors in the times paft was, (with griefe be it (poken) comparable vnto him. For, this Iuflicer bearing the Office of Iuflicelhip, became an oppreffor of the people of Ireland, a robber of the goods both of the Clergic and Laitie, of rich and poore alike: a defrauder of many vnder the colour of doing good : not observing the rights of the Church, nor keeping the law of the Kingdome: offering wrongs to the naturall inhabitants: ministring iuffice to few or none, and altogether diffrufling (fome few onely excepted) the inborne dwellers in the land. Thefe things did he ftill, and attempted the like, mifled by the counfell and perfwafion of his wife.

Thus he continued his rigorous gouernement for the fpace almost of three yeares: and vpon Palme funday, 1346. which fellout to be the ninth day of Aprill, went the way of all fleth. For whofe departure, his owne dependants, together with his wife, forrowed not a little: for whofe death alfo the loyall fubiects of Ireland reioyce no leffe : the Clergy and people both of the Land, for ioy of his departure out of this life, with merry hearts doe leape, and celebrate a folemne feaft at Eafter. At whofe death, the flouds ceafed, and the diffemperature of the aire had an end, and in one word, the common fort truely and heartily praife the onely fonne of God. VVell, when this Iuftice, (now dead) was once faft folded within a fheet and Coffin of lead, the forefaid Gounteffe (with his treafure not worthy to be beftowed among fuch holy reliques) in horrible griefe of heart, conucied him ouer into England, there to be enterred.

On a time a Gentleman of Northampton being at the figne of the Growne in Sudbury, and hauing conference with mafter Edward Waldgrame of Billton, in Com. Suff. Elquire, did make vnto him a very credible report of one Waldegraue in Northamptonshire, affirming that he heard it reported of old time, that these Waldgraues were of a very ancient anti-Ttt. quitie

Here fometimes ftood a Colledge or Chantrie, by whom founded I have not yet found out. But the de la Poles, Earles of Suffolke, were the Patrons of it. Valued it was at the diffolution to amount to fifty pounds three Ihillings fiue pence halfe penny, of yearely reuenues. Surrendred 36 H.8.

In this Colledge was buried the body of William de la Pole, Lord Wing-field, Earle, Marqueffe, and Duke of Suffolke, as alfo Earle of Penbroke. After all these honours given him, he was banished England for five yeares, for being too familiar with Queene Margaret, privy and confenting to the yeelding and loss of Aniou and Mayne (as also to appeale the murmuring of the people for the murthering of the Duke of Glocester) and as he was taking of thip to passe for France, he was supprised and taken on the sea, by a spin of warre, called the Nicholas, belonging to the Duke of Exceter, then Constable of the Tower of London, and there prefently beheaded, and his body cast into the sea, which was after found, and taken vp againe at Douer, brought to this Colledge, and here honourably interred, faith Hall, as also the Gatalogue of Honour by Brooke. This happened in the yeare 1450.

Lohn de la Pole fonne and heire of William aforefaid, after the death of his Father Duke of Suffolke, was likewife buried here at Wingfield. Of which he was Lord and owner. He died in the yeare 1491.

man, called Far feus, came thither out of Ireland, a man notable both for his fayings and doings, of great vertue, and much defiring to wander and trauell in Gods quarrell, wherefoeuer occafion ferued. Comming therefore to the eaft coafts of England, hee was reuerently received of the faid King, where purfuing his godly defire of Preaching the word of God, hee both conuerted many Infidels, and confirmed the faithfull in the faith and loue of Chrift, by his painefull Preaching, and vertuous examples. Where falling into fickneffes, hee had from God a vision by the ministery of Angels, wherein he was warned to goe forward cheerefully in his painefull Preaching of the Golpell, and to perfeuere in his accuftomed watching and praying, because his end and ideath was certaine, though the houre thereof was most vncertaine, according to the faying of our Lord. Watch therefore, ye know not the day nor the houre. With this vision being much confirmed and encouraged, he haftened with all speed to build vp the Monasteric in the place king Sigebert had given vnto him, and to instruct it with regular difcipline. This Monastery was pleafantly situated for the Woods and Sea adioyning, being crected in the village of Gnobersburg, and enriched afterwards by Anna, King of that prouince, and many other Noble men, with fundry faire houfes, and other ornaments. This Monaftery was founded about the yeare of our Lord, 636. and demolifhed long before the violent deluge of fuch buildings, which happened in the raigne of King Henry the eight.

Rombuth, or Rombrughe. A Priory of blacke Monkes dedicated to Saint Michaell.

Saint Genouefa Fernham.

This village is in this regard memorable, for that Richard Lucy Lord chiefe Iuftice of England, and Protectour of the kingdome in the abfence of king Henry the fecond, tooke prifoner here in a pight field, Robert furnamed Blanchmame, Earle of Leicefter, together with his Amazonian proud Counteffe, Petronell, or Pernell; and withall put to the fword aboue ten thoufand Flemmings, which the faid Robert had leuied and fent forth to the depopulation of his countrey: all, or the moft, of which number, were buried in and about this the forefaid village of Fernham, in the yeare of our redemption, 1173. in the twentith of Henry the fecond.

Of the valourous atcheeuements and pious actions of this worthie Knight, and religious Votarie, I haue related fomewhat before within the Dioceffe of Rochefter, where I write of the diffolued monaftery of Lefnes, an Abbey of his Foundation, where in the place where the Church thereof fometime ftood (which had laine a long time buried in her owne ruines, and growne ouer with Oke, Elme, and Albe trees) certaine workemen appointed, by the owner of the mannour, Sir Iohn Epfley knight, to digge amongft the rubbifh of the decayed Fabricke for ftones, happened vpon a goodly Funerall monument, the full proportion of a man, in his coate armour cut all in freeftone; his fword hanging at his fide by a broad belt, vpon which the Flower de luce was engrauen in many places (being as I take it the Rebut or name-deuife of the Lucies) this his reprefentation or picture fus the fourth Bilhop of the Eaft-Angles, waxing old and fickly, diuided his Dioceffe into two parts; whereof the one hee appointed to bee the Iurifdiction of a Bilhop that fhould have his See at North Elmham in N otfolke : in the other at Dunwich aforefaid he continued himfelfe, as alfo did others of his Succeffours, to the number of eleven.

Elmham pagus obscurus et ignobilis : an obscure little village, and of no effimation, faith Harpsfield, Sacul. 8. cap. 9. was thus honoured and enriched with the refidence of many reuerend holy Bilhops, fucceffiuely from Baldwin who was the first, vntill by reason of the great troubles of those times in the Danish warres, this See, as also the other at Dunwich, flood voide almost an hundred yeares, vntill King Edwy, the twentic ninth Monarch of the Englishmen , about the yeare 955. preferred one Athalfe to this Bilhopricke of the Eaft Angles, who gouerned the whole Dioceffe alone, and conftantly kept his abode here at Elmham aforefaid; after whom fucceeded Alfrid, Theodred, and Theodred, Atbelftan, Algar, Alwyn, Alfricke, and Alfrey, after him Stigand, who enioying the place but a fhort time, was deprived; the like happened to Grinkesell his fucceffour, who being conuicted to have vfed vnlawfull meanes in obtaining this Dignitie, was likewife deprived, and Stigand reftored to it againe. From whence he was aduanced to the See of Winchefter, and after to the Archbifhopricke of Canterbury; and being fo preferred, hee found the meanes to procure this Bilhopricke of the Eaft-Angles, vnto Egelmare his brother. All thefe Bifhops vntill the time of William the Conquerour, had their Sees here at Elmham.

The faid C onquerour fubfituted his Chaplaine Arfastus in the place of Egelmare, by whole aduice the See was translated from Elmham to Thetford, a man very vnlearned, and of no extraordinary parts at all being Chaplaine to the Conquerour, who was then but Duke of Normandy, he would needs make a journey to Becco in Normandy, where Lanfranke (afterwards Archbilhop of Canterbury) was then Abbot, as allo where Arfastus had beene a Monke, and well effected of for his learning, because that before Lanfranks comming, he was Lusces inter Strabones amongs a number of drones meerely vnlearned, onely a little fmattering of learning he had, with which he made a faire flow. But now by this time, by Lanfranks meanes, the monastery of Becco was become euen a very Vniuers, flow in all knowledge of good letters.

Hither Arfastus coming, after a pompous and bragging manner, attended with a great troupe: Lanfranke, who by and by atthe first blush espied Arfastus his ignorance, caused an Abcee to be laid before him, ferociam hominis Italica facetia illudens, mocking the pride of the man with an Italian wittie ieast: which ieast or itering fcoss, Arfastus fotooke to heart, as hee neuer lynne till he had caused the Duke to banish Lanfranke out of Normandy. Erranimus iunenes. Emendemus fenes : thus much out of an old Manufcript of the Abbey of Euclham, anciently put into English by the Translator of Polychronicon, as followeth. Abowte that time, Derbert Lolange that had ben fomtyme 2b- Heiert, the bot of Kamlay, and was thenne Bythop of Tedford was a grete noury for Simony, for he had boughte the Bythoppyehe of the kynge. But after warde he was fory, and bywept the bushylfull reft of his youth. And toke the waye to Kome, and came home a= gapne, and chaunged and torned his See from Tedford to Morwyche. And he founded a folempne Abbaye with his owne catayle, and not with the catayle of his Bythop yche. But at Tedford he ordained Monkes of Cluny that were ryche in the world, and clere of Religion to Sodward: And had ofte in mynde the world of Therom, That fayd, we erryd in our yougth, amende we bs in our age. His repentance doth alfo appeare by the context of his Charter, beginning thus.

In nomine Patris et filij & Spiritus fancti, Amen. His donations to this his mother Church of Norfolke and Suffolke, follow, which are many and great, for he endowed it with as much lands, as mightfufficiently maintaine threefcore Monkes, who had their faire and fpatious Cloifters. But after they were thruft out by King Henry the eight, there were lubftituted for them, a Deane, fixe Prebendaries, and others.

Witneffes to this his Charter, were King Henry the first, and Mand his Queene; eleuen Bilhops, and foure and twenty Earles, Lords, and Abbots: to euery name, the figne of the crosse.

Norwich.

The first stone of this religous Structure, was laid by Herbert himselfe, in the yeare after Christs natiuitie, one thousand ninetie fixe : with this infeription.

Dominus Herbertus posuit primum Lapidem, In nomine Patris, Filij, et Spiritus Sancti. Amen.

Lozd [Bilhop] Herbert, laid The first Ston In The Mame of The Father, The Sonne,

This Bilhop was borne at Orford in Suffolke, his Fathers name was

Robert de Lofing. Hee was Prior of the monasterie of Fiscane in Normandie, and came backe into England at the requeft of William Rufus, and li-

uing in the Court for a time, behaued himfelfe in fuch forr, that hee was much fauoured of the King, and obtained diuers great preferments at his hands, whereby it came to paffe, that within the space of three yeares, hee had so feathered his neft, as he could buy for his Father, the Abbacy of Winchefter, and for himfelfe, the Bifhopricke of Thetford, which I have partly touched here, and in another place. Hauing finifhed this pious Fabricke, according to his minde, hee then determined to build an houfe for himfelfe (for as yet he had none in Norwich, the See being fo lately remoued from Thetford) and therefore on the north fide of the Church, hee founded a ftately palace. And more (fuch was his repentance for his Simony committed) hee built five Churches; one ouer against the Cathedrall Church, on the other fide of the river, called S.Leonards, another in this Citie alfo, another at Elmham, a fourth at Linne, and a fift at Yarmouth. He was an excellent Scholler for thole times, and writ many learned Treatifes, mentioned by Pitfeus, in his booke de illusser Anglie Scriptoribus Etat. duodecima: where he cals him, vir omnium virtutum, et bonarum literarum studijs impense deditus, mitis, asfabilis, corpore venusso venus decoro, moribus candidus, vita integer.

A man earneftly addicted to the fludies of all vertues and good learning; milde, affable, comely of perfonage, gracefull of countenance, blameleffe in his carriage, pure, innocent, and fincere in the courfe of his life. The Monkes of Norwich made great meanes and fute to have this Herbert a canonifed Saint, but fuch impediments were alwaics in the way, that it could not be obtained.

He departed this life the two and twentith of Iuly, in the yeare ofgrace, one thousand, one hundred and twenty, and was buried in this Church of his owne Foundation, by the High Altar, to whose memory, these verses following were engrauen vpon his monument.

One Egerard, who next fucceeded Herbert, lieth here interred, who although, faith Godwin, he enioyed this Bilhopricke for a long space, yet time the deuorer of all things, hath left nothing of him to our remembrance, but that when he had gouerned his Church 29 yeares, hee ended this life, Octob. 15. 1150.

Here in the Presbyterie lay buried the body of Bilhop Turbus, a Norman by birth, being in his youth, a Monke, and afterwards Prior of this monasterie. In his time, this Cathedrall Church was burned by cafuall fire, be died in the 25-yeare of his confectation, the 17.0f Ianuarie.

Neere vnto the high Altar, lieth buried the body of John of Oxford, fometimes Deane of Salisbury, and Bilhop of this Dioceffe. This man finifhed the Church which Herbert (being prevented by death) had left vnperfected, and repaired that, which by fire was lately defaced. He built diuers Holpitals for impotent and difeafed people. Hee founded Trinitie Church in Ipfwich, and reedified diuers houfes which were by fire decaied. He was chaplaine to King Henry the fecond, and with him, in efpeciall fauour, euer firmely adhering to his partie againft Thomas Becket, who had ftubbornely opposed himfelfe against his faid Soueraigne Lord and Master. He was employed in divers Embafics, as to Rome, to Seines in France, and to Sicily, about the marriage of Isane, the third and yongest daughter of the faid King Henry, to William, the fecond of that name, King of Sicill, Duke of Apulia, and Prince of Capua. In the foliditie of good doctrine, in the maturitie of indgement, and in all the graces of rhetoricall speech, hee did wondroufly abound. He was quicke and dexterous in the managing, and profperous in the difpatching of waightie affaires. He writ a Hiftory of the Kings of Britaine, as alfo a Booke, Pro Rege Henrico contra S. Tho mam Cantuarien fem, for King Henry against S. Thomas of Canterbury, befides, a treatife of his journey into Sicily, and certaine Orations and E. piftles to Richard, Archbifhop of Canterbury.

He died the 26 yeare of his confectation, the fecond of Iune, in the fecond yeare of King Iohn.

Ichn de Grey, entirely beloued of King Ichn, who preferred him to this Bilhopricke, was here entombed: in whole commendations, Bale and Pirfess doe in effect, thus agree. Vir erat falici et faceto ingenio, eruditione infignis, confilio expeditus, et quantumus in dietis facetus, in factis tamen, obi res postulabat, fenerus, virtatum omnium amator et cultor, omnium vitiorum ofor et exterminator. good literature excellent, in counfell ready and intelligent, and how focuer in his words merrie and iocond; yet in his actions, as occafion did require, he was feuere and rigorous: a louer and reuerencer hee was of all vertues, and a defpifer and rooter out of all vices.

He was a gracious Fauourite to King Iohn, euer vnder him in great authoritie, and honoured with offices of effectial truft and confidence. Nam cum Rex rebelles Hibernos compescuisser erumque vires fregisset, bunc Gra ium tanquam virum streum magna prudentia, fidelitatis explorate, reliquit ibi supremum Presidem, vt eos auctoritate sua in officio contineret. For when the King, had repressed the rebellious Irish, broken & dispersed their forces; he left this Grey as an hardie able man, of singular wisedome, and tried fidelitie, Prorex or Lord Deputie of Ireland, that by such his power and commission, he might keepe that stiffe-necked nation in obedience.

He was well feene in the lawes of the Realme, faith Godwin, wife and of great integritie; in regard whereof the King was very defirous to have made him Archbilhop of Canterbury (of which I have fpoken fome what before) to which Grace indeed he was folemnly elected, and his election publifhed in the Church before the King, and an infinite number of people: But by the exorbitant authoritie of the Pope, this election was difamiled, whereupon much mifchiefe enfued. He built that goodly Hall at Gay wood neare Linne in Norfolke, and the reft of the Fabricke adioyning. Having fate about fourteene yeares, hee died neare Poytiers in his returne from Rome: Obijt codem anno guo Rex Iohannes, faith Bale, in the fame yeare in which King Iohn decealed, the firft of Nouember. Whofe body was conueyed to this his owne Church. He was an Hiftoriographer, and writ a booke which he called Schalecronicon, as alfo other workes mentioned by Bale in his Centuries.

Die vero Sancti Vlstani decimo tertio Calendas Iunii, obijt Episcopus Norwicensis Vualterus cognomento de Suseld apud Colecestriam, & delatum est corpus eius ad Norwicensem Ecclesiam suam Cathedralem, honoristice tumulandus, ad enius tumbam miracula dicebantur coruscare. Hic namque in vsus pauperum, instante tempore famis, omnia vasa sua, & coclearia cum toto thesauro suo pauperibus erogauerat. Mat. Paris, Ann. 1257.

Vpon the Feaft day of Saint Wolftan, the thirteenth of the Calends of Iune, Walter furnamed de Swfield, Bifhop of Norwich departed this world at Colchefter, from whence his body was conueyed to this Cathedrall Church, here to be honourably interred. At whole Tombe many miracles are reported to be wrought, which are afcribed to his holineffe; For it is remembred of him, that in a time of extreme famine hee fold all his plate, and diftributed it to the poore euery pennyworth. Helieth buried in our Ladies Chappell, which was of his owne building. He founded the Hofpitall of Saint Giles here in the Citie, endowing it with faire poffeffions, infornuch that it was valued at the fuppreffion to be yearely worth fourefcore and ten pounds twelue fhillings.

Simon de Wanton, fometimes the Kings Chaplaine, one of his Iuflices, and Bifhop of this Dioceffe, was here interred by his predeceffour, Walter de Sufield. He died about the yeare 1265, having fate eight yeares, and obtained of the Pope licence to hold all his former livings in Commendam for foure yeares:

In the fame Chappell, as I take it, Roger de Sherwyng was entombed, who died about Michaelmas, 1278. having fate thirteene yeares. Of whom I finde little remarkable; yet he is memorable, for that in his time by an incendiarie outrage, the Gitizens fet fire on the Priorie Church. The ftory is thus delinered by our late writers, taken out of Rifhanger, the Continuer of Mathew Paris his Hiftory, in the laft year of King Henry the third.

About the moneth of lune, in a Faire that was kept before the gates of the Priory, there fell great debate and difcord betwixt the Monkes of Norwich and the Citizens there ; which increafed fo farre, that at length the Citizens with great violence affaulted the Monaftery, fired the gates, and forced the fire fo with reed and drie wood, that the Church with the books and all other ornaments of the fame, and all houfes of Office belonging to that Abbey were cleane burned, wafted, and deftroyed, fo that nothing was preferued except one little Chappell. The King hearing of this deteftable and facrilegious deuaftation, rode to Norwich, where beholding the deformed ruines, he could hardly refraine from teares : and caufed enquirie to be made of the fact; whereupon thirty young men of the Citie , as alfo a woman that first carried fire to the gates, were condemned, hanged, and burnt:

It is thought, faith Hellin/head, that the Prior of the houfe, whofe name was William de Brunham, was the occafion of all this mifchiefe, who had got together armed men, and tooke vpon to keepe the Belfray and Church by force of armes; but the Prior was well enough borne out and defended by this his Bilhop. The Monkes for their part appealed to Rome, and fo handled the matter, that they not onely efcaped punithment, but alfo forced the Citizens to pay them three thoufand Markes, after fue hundred Markes a yeare toward the reparation of their Church, befides they were adiudged to give to the vfe of the Church, Vnam cuppam de pondere decem librarum auxi, by valore centum librarum argenti, A Cuppe weighing ten pounds in gold, and worth an hundred pounds of money. Whereby you may note, faith Speed, the proportion then betweene the value of gold and filuer. This end was made by King Edward the firft (his Father being now dead) at the requeft and folicitation of this Bilhop.

His next fucceffour William Midleton was alfo interred in this Church. He reedified the fame, being fo deftroyed and profaned as you have heard before, and hallowed or confectated the whole Fabricke anew in the prefence of King Edward the first, and many of his Nobles. He departed this life the last of August, Ann. 1288. in the eleventh yeare of his Confectation.

Iobn Salmon, placed in this See of Norwich by the Pope, was here entombed; he was Lord Chancellour of England for the fpace of foure yeares. This Bifhop built the great Hall, and the Chappell in the Bifhops pallace, and a Chappell at the Weft end of the Church, in which he ordained foure Priefts to fing Maffe continually. He died Iuly the fixth 1325.

William Ayermin likewife by the Popes authority was preferred to this Bilhopricke, as appeares by the fequele.

In the yearc 1 3 19, faith F. Thinne, in his Catalogue of Englands Chancellours, and out of an old anonimall Latine Chronicler, this Will. Agremin was keeper of the great Seale, and that he was taken prifoner by the Scots: the words of his Author are in effect thus in English.

The Countie of Yorke and the countrie adiacent having received ineffimable damages by the Scots, William de Melton, Archbilhop of Yorke, John Hotham, Bilhop of Ely and Treasurer, the Abbot of Saint Maries Yorke, Sir William Ayremin Prieft, Chancellour of England, Deane of Yorke, the Abbot of Selbie, and Sir John Pabeham knight, allembled together an armie of eight thousand to represse the violence of the enemie; this armie confifted of Clerkes, Monkes, Canons, and other fpirituall men of the Ghurch, with Citizens, and Husbandmen, and fuch other vnapt people for the warres. With these, the Archbilhop came forth against the Scots, and incountred with them at a place called Mitton, a little village vpon the River of Swale. Over which River the Englishmen were no fooner paffed, but that the expert warlike Scots came vpon them with a wing in good order of battell, in falhion like to a Shield, cagerly affayling their encmies, who for lacke of good gouernment were eafily beaten downe and difcomfited, without fhewing any great reliftance. Corruerunt ex nofiris tam in ore gladij quam aquarum . scopulis suffocati plusquam quasuor mille bominum; there were flaine by the fword and drowned in the River of our partie aboue foure thousand perfons, faith the Manuscript, and the relidue lhamefully put to flight.

The Archbilhop, the Bilhop of Ely, the Abbot of Selbie, and diuers other, with helpe of their swift horses, escaped. The Mayor of Yorke named, Nicholas Fleming was flaine. Et capti funt Domini, Iohannes de Pabebam miles, & Dominus Willelmus de Airemin, Canc. and Sir Iohn de Pabebam, and Sir William Ayremin Priest, were taken prisoners.

John Harding who feldome gives condigne praise to the valiant doughtie Scot; thus writes of this battell.

But the King, vpon pretence that he had not obeyed his royall Mandate, by which he required him, (before he transported) to returne, for a while feised vpon all his Temporalities; to which he found grace with the King to be reftored, at the special fute of Thomas Arundell, as then Bishop of Ely. On the wall by him is a monument with his atchieuement, cut, with helme, coate, mantle and creaft: his Creaft is a bonch of broome greene, with golden flowers on a wreath.

Next him, lies vnder an arched monument, the body of one Befuile, or Bofwell, fometime Prior of this Church, with this Infeription on the vpper part of the Arch.

O tu qui transis, vir, aut mulier, puer an fis Respice picturas, apices lege, cerne figuras : Et memor efto tuis fic bene difce mart.

Vnder it, are three pictures of dead mens skuls, one with teeth, another without an vpper chappe, and onely two teeth in the nether; and the third without either chaps or teeth, betweene each of which is written, O morieris. O marieris. O morieris.

degree, as it will appeare in many places of thele my enfuing labours : of which in this place, and vpon this occasion, I will onely gine a little touch.

In the Church of Seuenoke, within the County of Kent, remaine the achiucments and Funerall rights of Raphe Bofvile of Bradburne in the faid Parifh of Seuenok, Efquire, Clerk of her late Maieflies Court of Wards and Lineries, Grandfier of Sir Raphe Bofvile, now of Bradburne, and Sir Henry Bosvile of Eynsford in the forelaid County, Knights, descended lineally from the Bofviles of Erdfley, and Newhall in the County of Yorke.

The inhabitants of Seucnoke fay, that whilft the faid Raph Befwell lived, being employed vpon many occafions for the publique; hee deferued and had the reputation of a most worthie Patriot, and out of his particular to their Towne, hee procured of Queene Elizabeth a Charter of Incorporation, for the fetling and gouernment of Lands formerly giuen for the maintenance of a Free-Ichoole, and thirteene Almes people in the faid Parifh. For the more entire eftablishment whereof, Sir Raph his Grandchilde, cooperating with other noble friends in fo charitable a fuite, obtained an Act of Parliament in the 39. of Queene Elizabeth, befides other benefites procured by him in behalfe of this Corporation and Parilh. Whereupon a well withing verifier alluding to the Crefte of this Familie, which is an Oxe comming out of a Groue of Oakes, tooke occafion to expreffe his affection in this Diffich.

Vnder a monument in the South Croffe Ifle lieth one Bacomthorp a Prior of this Church, the Infeription is worne or torne out of the frone.

I will not fay that this Prior was John Baconthorp, the Refolute Doctor who flourished in the raigne of King Edward the third. For I finde that he was buried amongst the Carmelites at London; how focuer he was borne at Blackney in this County, brought vp at Oxford and Paris in France; and fo exceeding deeply learned he was as well in Diminitie, as in both the Ciuill and Canon Lawes, that he proceeded Doctor in either faculty, in both the faid Vniuerfities, and got the furname Doctoris refoluti, of Refolute or Resoluing Doctor; Nemo doctius confundebat Indaos; nemo neruofins confutabat T 19 3

No man more learnedly confounded the lewes; no man more pithilie confuted the Turkes, or any other Infidels; no man more profperoufly conuinced the Heretickes; no man more folidly declared the truth of Chrift; no man more manifeftly difcouered the deceits and iuglings of Antichrift, nor fo painted him out in his proper colours; No man more fubtilly refolued hard queftions; and neuer any man more clearly expounded, explaned, or laid more apertly open, the hidden fenfe, the fecret myfteries, and the obfcure places of the facred Scripture, faith Pitfeus.

He was like another Zacheus, little of ftature, but immenfe in wit and vnderftanding, infomuch as it was a wonder to know fo many vertues inhabite together in fo fmall a manfion. He writ fo many exact learned Volumes, that his bodie could not beare what his wit brought forth. Nam, fi moles librorum eius, composita farcina, auttoris humeris imposita fuisset, homulum fine dubio comprimere suffecisset. For, if the bulke or pile of the bookes which he writ, had beene put into a bagge, and laid vpon his shoulders, questionleffe it would have preft the slender shourd warfe to death, faith my forefaid Author.

Much more might bee faid of this little-great man, but I am called for my felfe to the Preffe; and to fpeake more then I have done in the praife of little men, I may be thought to flatter my felfe.

He died in the yeare 1346. in the twentieth of the raigne of King Edward the third, I read in a booke of the order of Carmelites (of which Fraternitie he was one, as also Prouinciall of them all throughout all England) penned by Iohn Bale before his conversion, a part of an Eulogium compofed to the memory of this Baconthorpe, which may ferue for an Epitaph. Thus.

Let it be the greateft honour to this noble deceafed Knight, for that he was great Grandfather to the most renowned and victorious Princelle Elizabeth, late Queene of England, which will best appeare by the Light of Great Britaine, learned Camden, in his Introduction to the History which he writ of her long and prosperous raigne: beginning as followeth.

The Linage and delcent of Elizabeth Queene of England (faith he) was by her Fathers fide truly Royall : for daughter fhe was to King Henry the eight, grand daughter to Henry the feuenth, and great grand-daughter to Ed the fourth. By the Mothers fide her defcent was not to high : howbeit noble it was, and fpread abroad by many and great Alliances throughout England and Ireland. Her great grand lathers father was, Jeffrey Bolen, a man of Noble birth in Norfolke, Lord Maior of the Citie of Lon don, in the yeare 1457. and at the fame time honoured with the dignitic of Knighthood. An vpright houeft man, of fuch eftimation , that Thomas Lord Hoo, and Haflings, Knight of the Order of Saint George, gaue him his daughter, and one of his heires, to wife; and of fuch wealth, as he matched his daughters into the Noble houles of the Cheineys, Heydons, and Fortescues, left his sonne a goodly inheritance, and bequeathed a thousand pounds of English money to bee bestowed upon the poore in the Citie of London, and two hundred in Norfolke. This mans fonne William Bolen was chosen amongst eighteene most choice Knights of the Eath at the Coronation of King Richard the third: to whom Thomas Earle of Ormond (who was in fuch fauour with the Kings of England, that hee alone of all the Noblemen of Ireland, had his place and voice in the Parliaments of England, and aboue the Barons of England alfo) gaue his daughter and one of his heires in marriage. By her (befides daughters married to Shelton, Calthorp, Clere, and Sackwill, men of great wealth and noble defcent, and other children) hee begat Thomas Bolen, whom being a young man, Thomas Howard Earle of Surry, who was afterward Duke of Norfolke, a man much renowned for his worthic feruice, and atchiucments in the warres, chole to be his fonne in law, giuing vnto him his daughter Elizabeth in marriage : and Henry the eight, after he had performed one or two very henourable Embafies, made him first Treasurer of his Houshold, Knight of the Order of Saint George, and Viscount Rochford, and afterwards Earle of Wiltfbire and Ormond, and made him Lord Keeper of the privie Scale. This Thomas, among other children, begat Anne Bolen, who in her tender yeares being fent into France, attended on Mary of England, wife to Lewis the twelfth; and then on Claudia of Britaine, wife to Francis the first ; and after the was dead, on Margaret of Alencon, who with the first fauoured the Protestants Religion Springing vp in France. Being returned into England, and admitted amongst the Queenes Maides of Honour, and being twenty two yeares of age, King Henry in the thirtie eight yeare of his age, did for her modeftie, tempered with French pleafantneffe, fall deeply in loue with, and tooke her to wife, by whom he had iffue Elizabeth aforefaid Queene of England.

Frater Gilbertus de Norwico Episcopus Hamensis, obijt Anno Dom.1287. 9 die Octobris.

Frater Iohannes Leycester Archiepiscopus Smirmanensis, obijt Anno Domini 1424.6. Nonembris.

Frater Vmfridus Netton, obijt, 1303.

Umpbrey Ne-Ilon.

Ro.Walfingham.

806

This Netton was Doctor of Diuinitie in Cambridge, and Profession. Erat vir solide doctus, disputator subtilis, Concionator vehemens : He was a man solidly learned, a subtle disputant, a very earnest Preacher, faith Pisseus of whom Leland hath left this Distichon.

Laudibus Humfredum meritis super astra feramus, Cui data Grantena laurea prima schola.

He writ divers bookes mentioned by Bale, as also by Pitfeus. Frater Andreas Felmingham.

Frater Robertus Walfingham, obijt 1310.

This Walfingham, faith Pitfeus, was, Vir acuti ingenij, folidi iudicij, bone vita, magne doëtrina: A man of an acute wit, a found iudgement, a good life, ot great learning. And Bale speaking of him, faith, He was a man of great repute in the Vniuerstite of Oxford for his Quodlibets, ordinary questions, and his Interpretations of the facred Scriptures, which he made manifest to the world.

Frater Galfridus Stalham.

Frater Galfridus Mylfam obijt anno Dom.1346.5. Ianuar.

Frater Adam Saxlingham.

Frater Iohannes Folsham Prior Prouincialis Anglie, obijt 1348. April 18.

In. Folfbam.

This Folfham proceeded Doctor of Diuinity in Cambridge; Pitfeus giues him his praife in a graue ftile, Bale (ironically) faith, that indeed he was a Doctor, and none of the meaneft : for, by his chopping of Logicke hee could turne blacke into white, men into Affes, and Schoole-diuinitie into naturall Philosophie. He writ many learned workes.

Frater Ricardus Euges ob. 4. die Iulij 1361.

Frater Willelmas de Santta fide ob.25. April, 1372.

Frater Thomas Ziburgh obijt 24. Inlij 1382.

The Booke of Woodbridge faith, that Sir William Mortimer Knight, Lord of this Mannor, here founded a Chappell of the holy Croffe, who died on Tuefday the 12 of November, 1297. and was buried in this his owne Chappell: others fay that Sir Robert Mortimer, and Margery his wife, were the founders of a Colledge here, which they likewife confectated to the honour of the holy Croffe, valued in the Kings bookes, at twenty one pounds, fixteene fhillings, halfe pennie.

Burials in the Chappell of this Colledge, were as followeth. Sir William Mortimer, as before: Sir Robert Mortimer, who died at Attilburgh, the 25 of September, 1387. Sir Thomas Mortimer : Mary Fallfalph, who was wife to Sir Thomas Mortimer, who died the fecond of May, 1406. Sibill Mortimer died the 9 of Nouember, 1334. #### Windbam.

William d'Albiny, Butler to King Henry the first, founded here a Priory, of which, thus much out of his Charter, as followeth.

Notum sit. Gc. quod Ego Willelmus de Albeneyo Pincerna Domini Regu Henrici primi do concedo, Gc. Priori et connentui de Wymundeham in liberam, puram, et perpetuam eleemosinam pro falute anime mee, et vxoris mee patrismei & matrismee, et omnium parentum meorum totam Ecclesiam de Wymundeham cum omnibus pertinencijs, Gc. Test. Rog. Bygoth, et filij eius, Gc.

He endowed this his religious edifice, with faire poffeffions, confecrated it to the bleffed Virgin Mary, placed blacke Monkes therein, and gaue it to the Abbey of Saint Albans for a Cell: it was valued in the Exchequer, to be yearely worth feuentie two pounds, fiue fhillings, foure pence.

From a Cell to Saint Albans, it was aduanced to an Abbey, vpon the occafion following fet downe by John Wheathamstead.

Iohn, the feuenth of that Christian name, Abbot of Saint Albans, could not endure a certaine Monke of the houfe, whom hee had made Archdea con, whofe name was Stephen London, because hee would tell him sometimes of his faults.

> Ordine feptenus dum rexit onile Iohannes, Et baculum gesit, cetumque gregis benedixit, Nunquam pacifico bene cernere sciuit ocello Quendam confratrem quem fecerat Archileuitam.

Therefore to be rid of his company, whofe lookes and admonifhments were fo diffaftfull, the Abbot perfwades the Archleuite or Archdeacon to take vpon him the charge of this Priory of Windham, as then void of a Gouernour, in thefe or the like words:

> Ecce Prioratus Wymundam nomine ditfue, Iam wacat absque patre, wacans stat et absque Priore : Huic te prefectmus, in prepositumque creamus, Zzz 3

Cur te disponas illuc cito quoque pergas, Est locus insignis apud et nos grandis honoris.

The Archdeacon Stephen accepts of this promotion, which is thus in the faid Manufcript express.

Aduertens Frater quod er at sibi victricus alter, Pastor et ille sibi quasi prenignus stomachanti, Censuit expediens per tempu vt absoret absens, Quam male sub curuo sic vincre semper ocello, Illius in placitum nec stexum cernere vultum; Pergere consensit illuc properans et adiuit.

This Stephen pleafed both his flocke and Founder, wondrous well, but difpleafed his Father the forefaid Abbot, John of S. Albans, who within the yeare, fent expressed commandement to discharge him of his Priorship, which was hainously taken both by himselfe and his Patron or Founder, whole name, faith my Author, was one Andrew Ogard.

The time of this alteration was in the beginning of the raigne of Henry the fourth, as it is explained thus by the faid Whethamstead.

And now here give me leave to fpeake a little more, which I had omitted, out of Camden. A man, faith he, in that age of fuch varietie and depth withall, of excellent learning, that he was had in exceeding great admiration among the Italians, and commonly called the Refolute Doctor. Whence it is, that Paulus Panfa thus writeth of him.

If thy minde ftand to enter into the fecret power of the Almighty and most mercifull God, no man hath written of his Effence more exactly. If any man defireth to learne the caules of things, or the effects of Nature ; if he wilh to know the fundrie motions of heauen, and the contrary qualities of the Elements, this man offereth himfelfe as a florehouse to furnish him. The armour of Christian Religion, of better proofe and defence then those of Vulcans making against the Iewes, this resolute Doctor alone hath deliuered.

Here is incient monument in this Church to the memory of one of the Shornborns or Shernburns, but fo fouly defaced, as nothing remaines to know the man who lies vnder ir, faning a Vulture fplaid, which is the Creft of the Shernborns. Many other Crefts and Coate Armes are there also, which I meddle little withall; yet to vse Camdens words, I doe not see how this Church could have bin omitted, for that Falix the Burgundian, (Bishop of this Diocesse) who first brought the East-Englishmen to the Christian faith, and state of perpetual felicitie, built in this place, the second Ghurch of Ghristians in this Country, for the first he founded at Babingley where he landed.

The found sti- on of the Au- guiltine Frietz.	The Friers Augustines in this Towne was founded by John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaster, and Blanch his wife: others say, by Henry Earle of Lancaster and Leicester. It was valued at three hundred twelue pounds, foureteene shillings foure pence. Here lye buried Dame Margery Toden- ham, Dame Elisabeth, wife of Sir Thomas Hengrane, daughter of Sir John Harling, with many other, you may imagine, whole names I have not.
The foundation of the Blacke Friers.	The blacke Friers here was founded by Sir Edmond Genvile, Lord of Lirlingford in this County, Parfon of Terington, and Steward with Iohn Earle Warren, and with Henry Duke of Lancaster. It was dedicated to S. Sepulehre, The value I have not learned. Buried in the Church of this mo- nastery were, Sir Iohn Brett knight, Dame Agnes Honell, Dame Mand Tal- bot, wife of Peter Lord of Rickinghill, Dame Anastistia, wife of Sir Ri- chard Walsingham.
 Foundation of the Priory of Canons.	A Priory of blacke Canons dedicated to Saint Mary, and Saint Iohn was here founded by one of the Bigods, or Bigots, Earle of Norfolke. Valu- ed at fourty nine pounds eighteene thillings and a penny. Surrendred the 16. of February, 31. Hen. 8.
The Nunnery:	Here was a religious ftructure for blacke Nunnes, confectated to the honour of God and Saint Gregory, but by whom founded I do not know; It was valued in the Exchequer at fifty pound nine fhillings eight pence.
The Colledge at Therford.	Here fometimes ftood a Colledge or gild dedicated to the bleffed Vir- gine Mary: valued at the fuppreffion to be yearely worth one hundred nine pounds feuen fhillings.
The foundatio of the great Monaftery at Therford.	Hugh Bigod or Bigot, Steward of the Houfe to King Henry the first, built, and endowed a religious Houfe here, for blacke Monkes Benedi- ctines or Cluniacks. These words following are in the Instrument of his Foundation.
Camd, in Norf.	I Hugh Bigod Steward to King Henry, by his grant, and by the aduice of Herbert Bilbop of Norwich, haue ordained Monkes of the Order of Cluny, in the Church of S. Mary, which was the Epifcopall feate of Ther- ford, which I gaue vnto them, and afterwards founded another more meet for their vlc, without the Towne. This Monaftery was found at the fup- prefion to be in the Kings bookes, foure hundred eighteene pounds fixe thil ings, three pence halfe penny, of yearely reuenues. This Hugh the Founder was created Earle of Norfolke by King Stephen in the firft yeare of his raigue. He died very aged in the 24. yeare of King
	Henry the fecond, and was buried in this Priory of his owne foundation, to whole memory this Infeription was engrauen vpon his Funerall Mo- nument.

Orate pro anima teligiofifimi viri Hugonis Bigod Fundatoris buius Monafterij, Semeschalli Hospitij prepotentifimo Principi Henrico Conquestoris filio Anglie Regi, et Comitis Norfolcie, qui quidem Hugo obiit pridie Kalend. Martii anno milesimo centesimo septuagesimo octauo. Propter misercordiam lesu requiescat in pace.

Anno 1107. Optimates Anglie Richardus de Radvarijs, & Rogerius cognomento Bigotus, mortui sunt, & in Monasteriis Monachorum sepulti sunt, que in propriis possibus ipsi condiderunt. Ragerius antem apud Thetsfordum in Anglia, Richardus vero tumulatus apud Montisburgum in Normannia. Super Rogerium Claniacenses Alonax di tale scripserunt Epitaphium.

Diuitia mentes fubuertunt, erigat ergo Te pietas, virtus, confiliumque Dei. Soli mærebat virgo ter noctibus octo, Cùm foluis morti debita morte tua.

It fhould feeme by the premiffes that this Roger Biget, who was Sewer to King Henry the firft, and Father of the forefaid Hugh: was the firft founder of this religious Edifice, or at leaft wife of fome other in this Towne, for Monkes of the order of Cluny. And Stow in his Annalls agrees with my Author Ordericus.

This yeare, faith he, Maurice Bilhop of London, Robert Fitzhamon, Roger Biget, founder of the Monastery of Monkes at Thetford, Richard Redvers Councellours to the King, Milo Criffen, and many other Noblemen of England deceased.

Roger Bigot, the fecond of that furname, Earle of the East Angles, or Norfolke. He died about the yeare 12 18. and was here interred.

Hugh Bigot, fonne of the forefaid Roger, Earle of Norfolke, lay here buried, who died the ninth of Henry the third, 1225:

Roger Bigot fonne and heire of Hugb aforefaid, Earle of Norfolke, and first Marshall of England of that Family was here entombed, if his last will and Testament was performed. Of which fo much astends to that purpose.

In Nomine Patris, et Filij, et Spiritus Sancti. Amen. Ego Rogerus Bigot Comes Norfolcie et Mareschallus Anglie in bona prosperitate constitutus condo Testamentummeum sub bac forma. Roger Bigot the laft of that Familie, Earle of Norfolke, and Marshall of England, was here buried, together with his first wife Alina, Alyva, or Adeliza, daughter of Philip Lord Baffet, and widow of Hugh de Spenser, Iuffice of England: she died in Aprill, in the ninth yeare of Edward the first, and he in the 35. of the faid Kings raigne.

Iohn Lord Mowbray, Duke of Norfolke, Earle Marshall of England, Earle of Nottingham, Lord and Baron of Segraue, and of Gower, sonne and successfour of Iohn, the first Duke of Norfolke in the dignities aforesaid, was here entombed with his wife Elianor, daughter of William Lord Bourchier, and fister of Henry Bourchier, Earle of Effex. He died in the first yeare of King Edward the fourth.

Sir Iohn Howard knight, (sonne of Sir Robert Howard knight, and of Margaret his wife, daughter and coheire of Thomas Mowbray Duke of Norfolke) first made Baron by king Edward the fourth, 1461. Quiapostea constituit eum Capitaneum Armate potentie super mare, Test. Rege apud West. Pat. anno 10. Ed. 4. M. 13. was here interred, as I finde in the Collections of Francis Thinne Lancaster Herald. In the yeare 1483, he was created Duke of Norfolke by King Richard the third, in whose aide he was flaine at Bosworth field on Monday the two and twentieth of Aug. 1485. He was warned by diners to refraine from the field, infomuch that the night before he should set forward toward the King, one wrote this rime vpon his gate:

Jack of Aozffolk be not too bold fo: Dikon thy Mafter is boght and fold.

Yet all this, notwithstanding, he regarding more his oath, his honour, and promife made to King Richard, like a gentleman, and as a faithfull fubie to his Prince, absented nothimselfe from his master, but as he faithfully liued vnder him, so he manfully died with him, to his great fame and laud. And therefore though his feruice was ill employed in aide of a Tyrant (whom it had beene more honourable to haue suppressed then supported) yet because he had vpon his fealtie vndertaken to fight in his quarrell, he thought it leffe losse of life and liuing, then of glory and honour; so that he might haue faid in respect of his loyaltie, and promifed truth testified with constancie to the death;

Est mihi supplicium causa fuisse pium.

Sir Thomas Howard, Knight of the Garter, Earle of Surrey, and Duke of Norfolke, fonne and heire of the forefaid Iohn, thus flaine, was here likewife entombed: who died in the fixteenth yeare of the raigne of King Henry the eight, 1524.

This Thomas was with his father in the forefront of the forefaid Battell, where he had the leading of the Archers, which King Richard fo placed, as a bulwarke to defend thereft. The martiall prowelle of this Earle in the pight field, and his refolute braue carriage being taken prifoner, are delineated to the life by my faid Author Sir Iohn Beaument, the particulars wherof, if they may feeme as pleafing to you in the reading, as they were to me in the writing, cannot be any way tedious here to fer downe : for they are finnewy frong liues, and will draw you, no doubt, with them along.

Couragious Talbot, had with Surrey met, And after many blowes begins to fret, That one fo yong in Armes, fhould thus vnmoou'd, Relift his ftrength, fo oft in warre approou'd. And now the Earle beholds his fathers fall, Whole death like horrid darkeneffe frighted all : Some give themfelues as captives, others flie; ipiters the But this yong Lion cafts his gen rous eye On Mowbrayes Lion, painted in his fhield, And with that King of beafts, repines to yeeld. The field (faith he) in which the Lyon flands, Is blood, and blood I offer to the hands Of daring foes; but never shall my flight Dye blacke my Lyon, which as yet is white. His enemies (like cunning Huntfmen) ftriue, In binding fnares to take their prey aliue, While he defirest'expose his naked breft, And thinkes the foord that deepeft ftrikes, is beft. Although no Subscription now remaineth vnder this portraiture, yet by the impalement of the Armes of Howard, and Scales on the fide thereof, it is manifest that this was made for Robert Lord Scales, whose daughter and Co-heire Margaret, was married vnto Sir Robert Howard, Knight, eldest fonne of Sir Iohn Howard, Knight, who in the one and twentieth of Edward the Third, was made Admirall ab ore Aqua Thamefis versus partes Boriales quamdia Regi placuerit. And this Sir Robert was great Grandfather to Iohn Howard Duke of Norfolke.

This Sir Thomas Wiat, the Translatour of Danids Pfalmes into English, died of the peftilence in the Weft countrey, being on his journey into Spaine, whither he was fent Emballadour from the King vnto the Emperour, in the yeare 1541.

But to returne, this Earle had, together with his learning, wifedome, fortitude, munificence, and affabilitie; yet all these good and excellent parts were no protections against the Kings displeasure. For, vpon the twelfth of December, the laft of King Henry the eight, he with his Father Thomas Duke of Norfolke, vpon certaine furmiles of Treafon, were committed to the Tower of London, the one by water, the other by land, fo that the one knew not of the others apprehension ; The fifteenth day of Ianuary next following, hee was arraigned at Guild Hall London, where the greateft matter alledged against him, was, for bearing certaine Armes, that were faid belonged to the King and Prince; the bearing whereof hee iuftified. To be fhort (for fo they were with him) hee was found guilty by twelue common Iuriars, had iudgement of death, and vpon the nineteenth day of the fame moneth (nine dayes before the death of the faid King Henry the eight) was beheaded at Tower Hill. He was first interred in the Chappell of the Tower, and afterwards, viz. in the raigne of our late drad Soueraigne King lames, of famous memory, his remainders of alhes and bones were remoued to this place, by his fecond fonne Henry Earle of Northampton: as appeares by the forefaid Infeription.

Many more goodly Tombes and Grauestones (but without Infcriptions) are in this Church, made for the remembrance of this Heroicall Progenic of the Howards and their Matches (who have here a faire and beautifull Caftle, fortified with a banke, ditch, and walls of great thickneffe; wherein are thirteene Towers, inwardly furnished with buildings right commodious and neceffarie ) the refemblances and figures whereof had been cut and delineated, if the haftineffe of the Preffe would have permitted. Their originall indeed is from that Towne of Heueningham in Suffolk, which is poffelfed by them to this day. Where, in a particular Chappell, adioyning vnto the Parifh Church, lie three flattees cut out of the heart of Oke, of their Anceftours, of great antiquitie, in their full poflures. G.Glanuill, and feated on the fharpe top of an hill, the croffe whereof our anceftors had in holy reuerence, I know not for what miracles.

Thom as Rudborne, Bilhop of S. Danids, who flourished in the raigne of Henry the fourth, hath (in his history) these words to the same effect.

Capulanus quidam portanit quandam crucem ligneam in Angliam, quam affirmauit effe de ligno in quo pependit Christus et Monachis de Bromholme obtulit et postea locus coruscabat miraculis.

A certaine Prieft, brought ouer with him, faith he, a woodden Croffe into England, which he affirmed to be the Croffe whereupon our Sauiour Chrift was crucified; which he deliuered to the Monkes of Bromholme, after which the place did fhine glorioufly with miracles.

But the flory of this holy Croffe is more fully delivered by Caparane, on this manner. Saint Helene, faith he, having found the Croffe, did divide it into nine parts, according to the nine Orders of the Angels : of one part thereof (which was most besprinckled with Christs bloud, his hands and fecte being thereto nailed) the made a little croffe, which the inclofed in a boxe of gold, befet with precious frones, and gaue it to her fonne Confian. tine the Emperour, which went fucceffiuely from one Emperour to another, vntill it came to Baldwin, who kept a Chaplaine to fay daily maffe before this facred Relique; the faid Chaplaine being dead, one Hugb a Prieft, borne here in Norfolke, was preferred to his place. Baldwin, fo long as he carried this Croffe with him to battaile, had ever the vpper hand of his enemies, but forgetting it, hee was forthwith flaine, vpon which his Chaplaine Hugh ftole fecretly away with the faid Boxe and Croffe, came to this Monastery of Bromholme, and bestowed them both here vpon the Monkes, for which fo ineffimable a gift, he with his two fonnes (which he had by his wife before he entred into holy orders) were kept of the Monkes with all things neceffary, vntill the death of Hugh the father, and the preferment of both his fonnes. By the vertue of this holy Croffe, Cooperante Domino, God affifting, thirty and nine perfons, were raifed from death to life; and ninteene which were blinde, received their fight, befides many other miracles which it wrought, if you will beleeue my Author.

Hie apparuit multa superstitio circa crucem que vocatur, the holy Crosse of Bromholme, et dieunt illis se habere Zonam beate marie et las eiusdem, et fragmenta crucis sancti petri et sancte Andree, saith a booke in the treassury of the Exchequer of the visitation of Abbeys.

Cand, in Norf.

Erafinus of the pilgrimage to Wallingham; This village was much renowned throughout all England for a Pilgrimage to our Lady, the Virgin Mary: whom he who had not in that former age vifited, and prefented with offerings, was reputed irreligious. But this fhall Erafmus, an eye witneffe, defcribe in his owne very words.

Not farre from the Sea, faith he, about foure miles, there flandeth a Town, lining almost of nothing elfe but upon the refort of Pilgrimes. There is a Col. ledge of Canons, yet fuch, as wnto whom the Latinsfts have given the addition of Regulares; a middle kinde, betwixt Monkes and those Canons, whom they terme Secular : This Colledge hath fear fe any other revenues, than from the liberality of the faid Virgin. For, certaine of the greater Prefents and Obla tions are laid up and preferued. But if there be any money offered, or ought elfe, of small value, that goesh unto maintenance of the Couent, and their Head or Prefident, whom they call Prior. The Church is faire and neat: yet in it the Virgin dwelleth not: that bonour, for footh, shee bash done wato her Sonne: The hath her Church by her felfe, but fo, as that the may be on the right band of her Sonne. Neither doth the dwell herefor all this, for why, the building is not yet finished, and the place bath a through light and ayre on all fides, with open dores, and wide open windowes; the Ocean Sea withall, the father and foster of all winds is hard by. In that Church which I faid was wnfinilbed, there is a Imall Chappell, but all of wood, whereunto on either fide at a narrow and little dore, are such admitted, as come with sheir denotions and offerings. Small light there is in it, and none other in manner, but by Tapers or waxe Candles, yeelding a most deynty and pleasant smell. Nay, if you looke into it, you would fay it were the babitation of beauenly Saints indeed; fo bright Shining it is all over with precious stones, with gold and filuer.

But within the memory of our fathers, faith Camden in the fame place, when King Henry the eight had fet his minde and eye both, vpon the riches and possession of Churches, all this vanished quite away.

Marbam.

Marham Nunnery.

In dib. Cott.

Here was a religious little honfe of white Nunnes, valued at thirteene pounds, fixe fhillings, pennie halfe penny! The firft Founder hereof was Ifabell Counteffe of Arundell in her widowhood, the wife of Hugh de Albeney, Earle of Arundell and Suffex : as by thele words following extracted out of the booke of Wauerley in Surrey will appeare. Ifabella Comitiffa Arundell, morum quidem grauitate non mediocriter adornata, circa falutem anime fue diligens & follicita, divina vt creditur infiratione preuenita; Abbatiam Monialium ordinis Ciftercen. Marbam vocatam cum fumma devotione hoc anno, viz. 1252. confiruxit. Cuius rei caufa Abbatem nofirum duxit confulendum, ac permissione Dominispfius domum nofiram intranit, focietatem ordinis in capitulo nofiro deuote petiit et obtinuit. Quatuor Marcas & vuum Dolium vini Conventui ad pitancias donauit. And thus religious orders were enricht, and made great feafts by the admittance of lay perfons into their Fraternities and Sifterhoods, as I haue touched before in my my difcourfe, cap. I finde that William, Bifhop of Norwich, gaue vnto the MJ.in bib. Sy Abbey of Nunnes in Marham the appropriation and patronage of the Pamonets D'erres rifh Church of Saint Peter in Rockland, within the Dioceffe of Norwich, Eq. ourat. Anno Christi 1349.

Shouldham.

A Priory confectated to the holy Croffe and the bleffed Virgin, reple nifhed likewife with white Nunnes Gilbertines. The valuation of whofe endowments amounted to bee yearely worth an hundred feuenty and one pound fix Ihillings 8. pence. It may very well be that Robert de Monte alto or Monthault was the Founder: for I finde in the Abbey booke of Langeley that he lieth here buried. An honorable Familie anciently in this tract, and in divers other places of the kingdome.

> The flory of Hiljifrick, here buried.

The firange & valiance of Hilifrick.

The firange admenterous braue acts of stay, and his two fonnes.

So called of a fmooth plaine or Common thereunto adioyning, fome two miles in extensure: Pinguis adeo & luxurians of Paduana pajena videatur superasse: So abundantly fertile, that in fatnesse of soile it doth exceed the pastures about Padua in Italy. For, it ferues, and that sufficiently, for the grazing of all the greater fort of cattell of seven Towness, to the same neare scituated, besides the feeding of thirtie thousand sheepe.

In the Churchyard is a ridg'd Altar, Tombe or Sepulchre of a wondrous antique fashion, vpon which an Axell-tree and a cart-wheele are infculped; Vnder this Funerall Monument, the Towne-dwellers fay that one Hikifricke lies interred; of whom (asit hath gone by tradition from Father to the Sonne) they thus likewife report : How that vpon a time ( no man knowes how long fince) there happened a great quarrell betwixt the Lord of this land or ground, and the Inhabitants of the forefaid feuen villages, about the meere-markes, limits, or bondaries of this fruitfull feeding place; the matter came to a battell or skirmish, in which the faid Inhabitants being not able to refift the Landlord and his forces, began to give backe ; Hikifricke, driving his cart along, and perceiving that his neighbours were fainthearted, and ready to take flight, he shooke the Axell-tree from the cart, which he vied in fread of a fword, and tooke one of the cart-wheeles which he held as a buckler; with these weapons (in a furious rage, you must imagine) he fet vpon the Common aduerfaries, or aduerfaries of the Common, encouraged his neighbours to go forward, and fight valiantly in defence of their libertics ; who being animated by his manly prowelle, they tooke heart to graffe, as the prouerbe is, infomuch that they chafed the Landlord and his companie, to the vtmost verge of the faid Common ; which from that time they have quietly enioyed to this very day.

The Axell-tree and cart-wheele are cut and figured in diuers places of the Church, and Church windowes, which makes the flory, you muft needs fay, more probable.

This relation doth in many parts parallell with that of one Hay, a ftrong brane fpirited Scottifh Plowman, who vpon a fet battell of Scots againft the Danes, being working at the fame time in the next field, and feeing fome of his countreymen to flie from that hote encounter, caught vp an oxe yoke, (Boething faith, a Plough-beame) with which (after fome exhortation that they fhould not bee faint-hearted) hee beate the faid ftraglers backe againe to the maine Army, where he with his two fonnes(who tooke likewife fuch weapons as came next to their hands) renewed the charge fo furioufly furioully that they quite difcomfited the enemy, obtaining the glory of the day and victory, for their drad Lord and Soueraigne Kennetb the third, King of Scotland: and this happened in the yeare 942. the fecond of the faid kings raigne.

This you may reade at large in the Hiftory of Scotland, thus abridged by Camden as followeth.

Where T 47 now growen bigger enlargeth himfelfe (faith he) there appeareth ouer it Arrol, the habitation of the noble Earles of Arrol, who euer fince the Brwifes dayes, have beene by inheritance the Conftables of Scotland : and verily they deduce an ancient pedegree from one Hay, a man of exceeding ftrength and excellent courage: who together with his two fonnes, in a dangerous battell of Scots againft the Danes at Longcarty, caught vp an oxe yoke, and fo valiantly and fortunately withall, what with frighting, and what with exhorting, reenforced the Scots at the point to fhrinke and recule, that they had the day of the Danes, and the King with the States of the kingdome afcribed the victory and their owne fafety vnto his valour and proweffe. Whereupon in this place, the moft battle and fruitfall grounds were affigned vnto him and his heires, who in teffimony hereof, haue fet ouer their coat a yoke for their Creaft.

Of which memorable exploite, to the further honour of this ancient and Princely great Family, John Ionfton of Aberdon, that ingenious learned Diuine and Poet hath written, as followeth.

The Succession, names and number of the right reverend Fathers in God, Lords and Bifhops of Dunwich, Elmham, and Norwich, and of such of them as I finde to bane beene reputed Saints.

F the Bilhops of Dunwich and Elmham, I have already written; of which number, Felix the first Bishop was the first Saint.

Hard.cap.91:

868

In the yere vi. hundreth thyrty and two Kynge Edwyne, by holy doctryne, Of Saynt Felix, an holy Prefte that was tho, And preachyng of the holy archby fhop Paulyn, Of Chryftes worde, and verteous difcyplyne Conuerted Edordwolde, of Eftangle the kyng, And all the realme, where Felix was dwelling.

Capgraue in vita Felicis Epifcopi et confesso-Tit.

S.Felix, his bo dy bursed in three places.

M.D. Polyol. Cant.24.

This facred Bilhop Felix was borne, brought vp, and fublimated with an Epifcopall Mitre, in the parts of Burgundy; which worldly pompe and honour, together with his owne Countrie, hee forfooke, onely to propagate the Gofpell, and came into England to preach the word of God, in the daies of Honorius Bilhop of Rome, Honorius being as then Archbilhop of Canterbury. He was a man euery way learned, & what he daily taught, hee carefully put in practife by his holy conucrfation, and charitable good workes. He delivered the word with great mildneffe and pleafant elocution, whereby the more eafily he fubiugated his Auditors to the yoke of Icfus Chrift. Having gouerned the Eaft Angles 17 yeares, he died at Dunwich, his Scat, the eight of the Ides of March, Anno 647. where in the Church of his owne Foundation, he was first buried; but after a time, his bones were taken vp and conuaied to Some in Cambridgefhire, and there folemnly encoffined in the Chancell of the Church there, which hee likewife built. And afterwards, in the raigne of King Cannte, his facred re. liques were remoued from thence to the Abbey-Church of Ramley in Huntingdonfhire, by the procurement of Ethelftan, at that time Abbot of the faid Monastery.

The next Bilhop that I finde, was Humbyret, or Humbert, who kept his See at Elmham, and being reputed holy, was reckoned for a Saint, of which a late writer.

> The See at Norwich, now eftablisht (long not stird) At Eltham planted first, to Norwich then transferd, Into our bed-roule here, her Humbert in doth bring, (A Counfellour that was to that most martyred king Saint Edmand) who in their rude maffacre then flaine, The title of a Saint, his Martyrdome doth gaine.

Now to come to Norwich, the first Bilhop of Norwich was William Herbert: the fecond, Enerard: the third, William Turbus: the fourth, John of Oxford: the fift, lobn de Grey : of thefe I have written before.

The

The fixt, was Pandulfus, the Popes Legate, hee was confectated at Rome, by Honorius the Third, Bifhop of Rome, and died the fift yeare of his confectation, 1227.

The feuenth was Thomas de Blundenill, an officer of the Exchequer, preferred thereunto by Hubers de Burge, the famous chiefe Iuftice of England: he died, August 16. 1236.

The eight, Radulph, who died, An. 1236.

The ninth was William de Raleigh, who was remoued to Winchefter.

The tenth was Walter de Sufield; the cleuenth, Simon de Wanton; the twelfth, Roger de Sherwyng; the thirteenth, William Middleton, of whom before.

The fourteenth was Raph de Walpeole, translated to Ely. The fifteenth was Iohn Salmon; the fixteenth was William Ayermin, of whom before.

The feuenteenth was Antony de Becke, Doctor of Diuinitie, a retainer to the Court of Rome, and made Bilhop by the Popes Provisorie Bull. Hee Godwinde had much to doe with the Monkes of his Church, whom it leemeth hee v- prijul Aug. fed too rigoroufly. He alfo withftood Robert Winchelfey, Archbifhop of Ganterbury, in his vifitation, appealing from him to Rome. This boifterousvnquiet humour, it feemes, was his death; for it is faid, that hee was poifoned by his owne feruants.

The eighteenth Bilhop was William Bateman, who died at Auinion, in the yeare 1354. and was there buried, of whom hereafter.

The ninteenth was Thomas Piercy: The twentieth was Henry Spencer : The one and twentieth was Alexander, of whom before.

The two and twentieth was Richard Courtney, Chancellour of the Vniuerfitie of Oxford, a man famous for his excellent knowledge in both lawes. A man of great linage, great learning, and great vertue, and no leffe beloued among the common people. He died of a Fluxe in Normandy, at the fiege of Harflew, Septemb. 14. 1415. in the fecond yeare after his confecration. His body being brought into England, was honourably interred at Westminster.

The three and twentieth, was John Wakering, of whom I have fpoken before.

The foure and twentieth was William Alnwick, translated to Lincolne, of whom hereafter in his place of buriall,

The fine and twentieth was Thomas Browne, Bishop of Rochefter, who being at the Councell of Bafill, had this Bifhopricke caft vpon him, before euer he vnderftood of any fuch intent toward him. In his time, the Citizens of Norwich (vpon an old grudge) attempted many things against the Church: but fuch was the finguler wifedome and courage of this Bifhop, that all their enterprifes came to none effect; he fate nine yeares, and died anno 1445. where buried, I doe not finde,

The fixe and twentieth was Gualter Hart, or Lyghart. The feauen and twentieth was Iames Goldwell. The eight and twentieth was Thomas Ian. The nine and twentieth was Richard Nyx, of whom before.

The thirtieth, was William Rugge, alias Reps, a Doctor of Divinitie in Cambridge. He fate 14 yeares, and deceafed anno 1 550.

The one and thirtieth was Thyrlbey, a Doctor of Law of Cambridge, the firft

The two and thirtieth was Ichn Hopton, a Doctor of Diuinity of Oxford, and houfhold Chaplaine to Queene Mary, elected to this Bilhopricke in King Edwards daics. He fate 4 yeares, and died in the fame yeare that Queene Mary did, for griefe as it was fuppofed.

The three and thirtieth, was John Parkburft, who lieth butied in his Cathedrall Church, vndera faire Tombe, with this Infeription.

Viro bono, dočto, 4c pio Iohanni Parkhursto Episcopo vigilentisimo, Georgius Gardmer posuit hoc monumentum.

The foure and thirtieth was Edmund Freake, Doctor of Diuinity, who was remoued from hence to Worcefter.

The five and thirtieth was Edmund Scambler, houlhold Chaplaine for a timeto the Archbilhop of Canterbury : hee was confecrated Bilhop of Peterborough, Ianuary 16. anno 1560. and vpon the translation of Bilhop Freake, preferred to this See, where hee lieth buried vnder a faire monument, having this Infeription or Epitaph.

Edmundi Scambleri, viri reuerendissimi, et in ampliss. dignitatis gradu dum inter homines ageret locati corpus in hoc tegitur tumulo, obijt Non. Maij anno 1594.

Viuo tibi, moriorque tibi, tibi Chrifte refurgam, Te quia iustifica Christe prebendo fide. Huic abeat mortis terror, tibi viuo redemptor, Mors mihi lucrum est, tu pie Christe falus.

The fixe and thirtieth was William Redman, Archdeacon of Canterbury, confectated Ianuary 12. an. 1594. He was fometime fellow of Trinity Colledge in Cambridge, and befrowed 100. markes vpon wainfcotting of the Library there. Hee died a few daies before Michaelmas, Anno 1602.

The feauen and thirtieth, was Iohn Iegon, Doctor of Diuinity, and Deane of Norwich, fellow fometimes of Queenes Colledge in Cambridge, and afterwards mafter of Bennet Colledge: of the time of his death, or how long he enioyed this high dignitie, I haue not learned.

The eight and thirtieth was John Overall Doctor of Diuinitie, fometimes Fellow of Trinitie Colledge, Mafter of Katherine Hall, and the Kings Profeffor in Cambridge; afterwards, Deane of S. Pauls, a learned great Schooleman, as any was in all the kingdome: how long hee fate, or when he died, I doe not certainly know.

Samuel Harfenet, Doctor of Diuinity, fometime Mafter of Penbroke Hall in Cambridge, Bifhop of Chichefter, and now graced with the metropoliticall dignity of the Archbifhoprick of Yorke, was the nine and thirtieth Bifhop of this Dioceffe. Which at this time is gouerned by the right reuerend Father in God;
