

The fardle of facions conteining the aunciente maners, customes, and lawes, of the peoples enhabiting the two partes of the earth, called Affrike and Asie / [Johann Boemus].

Contributors

Boemus, Joannes, approximately 1485-1535.

Josephus, Flavius. Antiquitates Judaicae.

Waterman, William, active 1555?

Publication/Creation

Printed at London : By Ihon Kingstone, and Henry Sutton, 1555.

Persistent URL

<https://wellcomecollection.org/works/jtp7twqs>

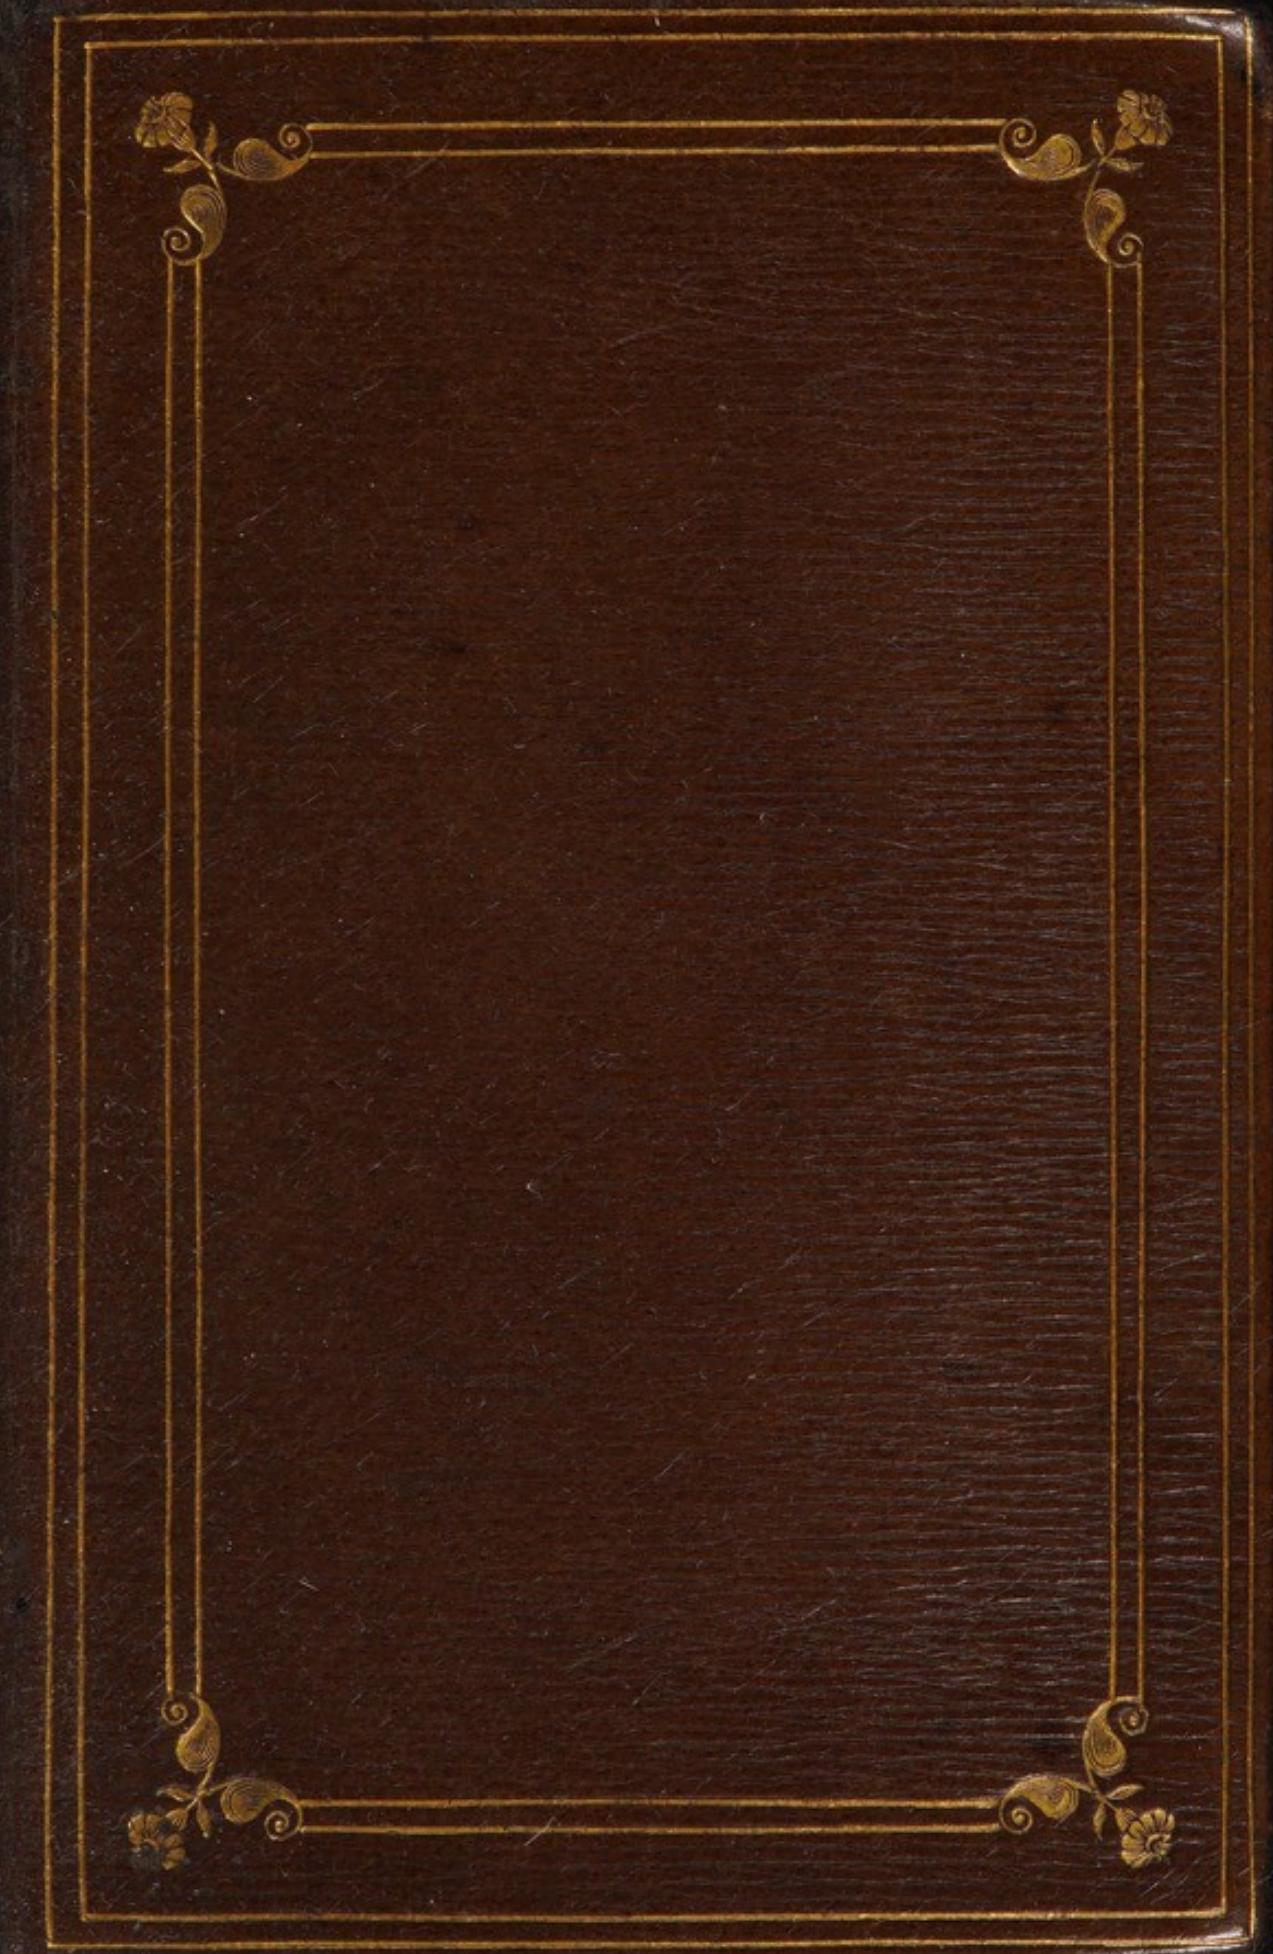

License and attribution

This work has been identified as being free of known restrictions under copyright law, including all related and neighbouring rights and is being made available under the Creative Commons, Public Domain Mark.

You can copy, modify, distribute and perform the work, even for commercial purposes, without asking permission.

Wellcome Collection 183 Euston Road
London NW1 2BE UK
T +44 (0)20 7611 8722
E library@wellcomecollection.org <https://wellcomecollection.org>

THE FARDLE OF FACIONS

M D I V

9 31 A O. [x]
16/5

625 [WATREMAN (William, fl. 1550)]. ¶ The Fardle/ of facions,/ conteining the auncient maners, customes,/ and Lawes of the peoplyes inhabiting the/ two partes of/ the earth/ called/ Affrike and/ Asia. Black Letter, title within woodcut border, woodcut initials, margins of some leaves repaired, affecting one or two letters of text; tiny wormhole; sm. 8vo., straight-grain green morocco gilt extra, g. e., a tall copy.

[Cophophon]: ¶ Imprinted at London/ by John Kyngston and Hen-rie Sutton. The xxii daye/ of December.
Anno Domini. M.D.LV. [1555]. £18 18s.

This work has been reprinted in Hakluyt's Voyages, and contains numerous anecdotes, and an account of the customs of Africa and Asia.

931 A O. [x]

16/6

by Joannes Boemus

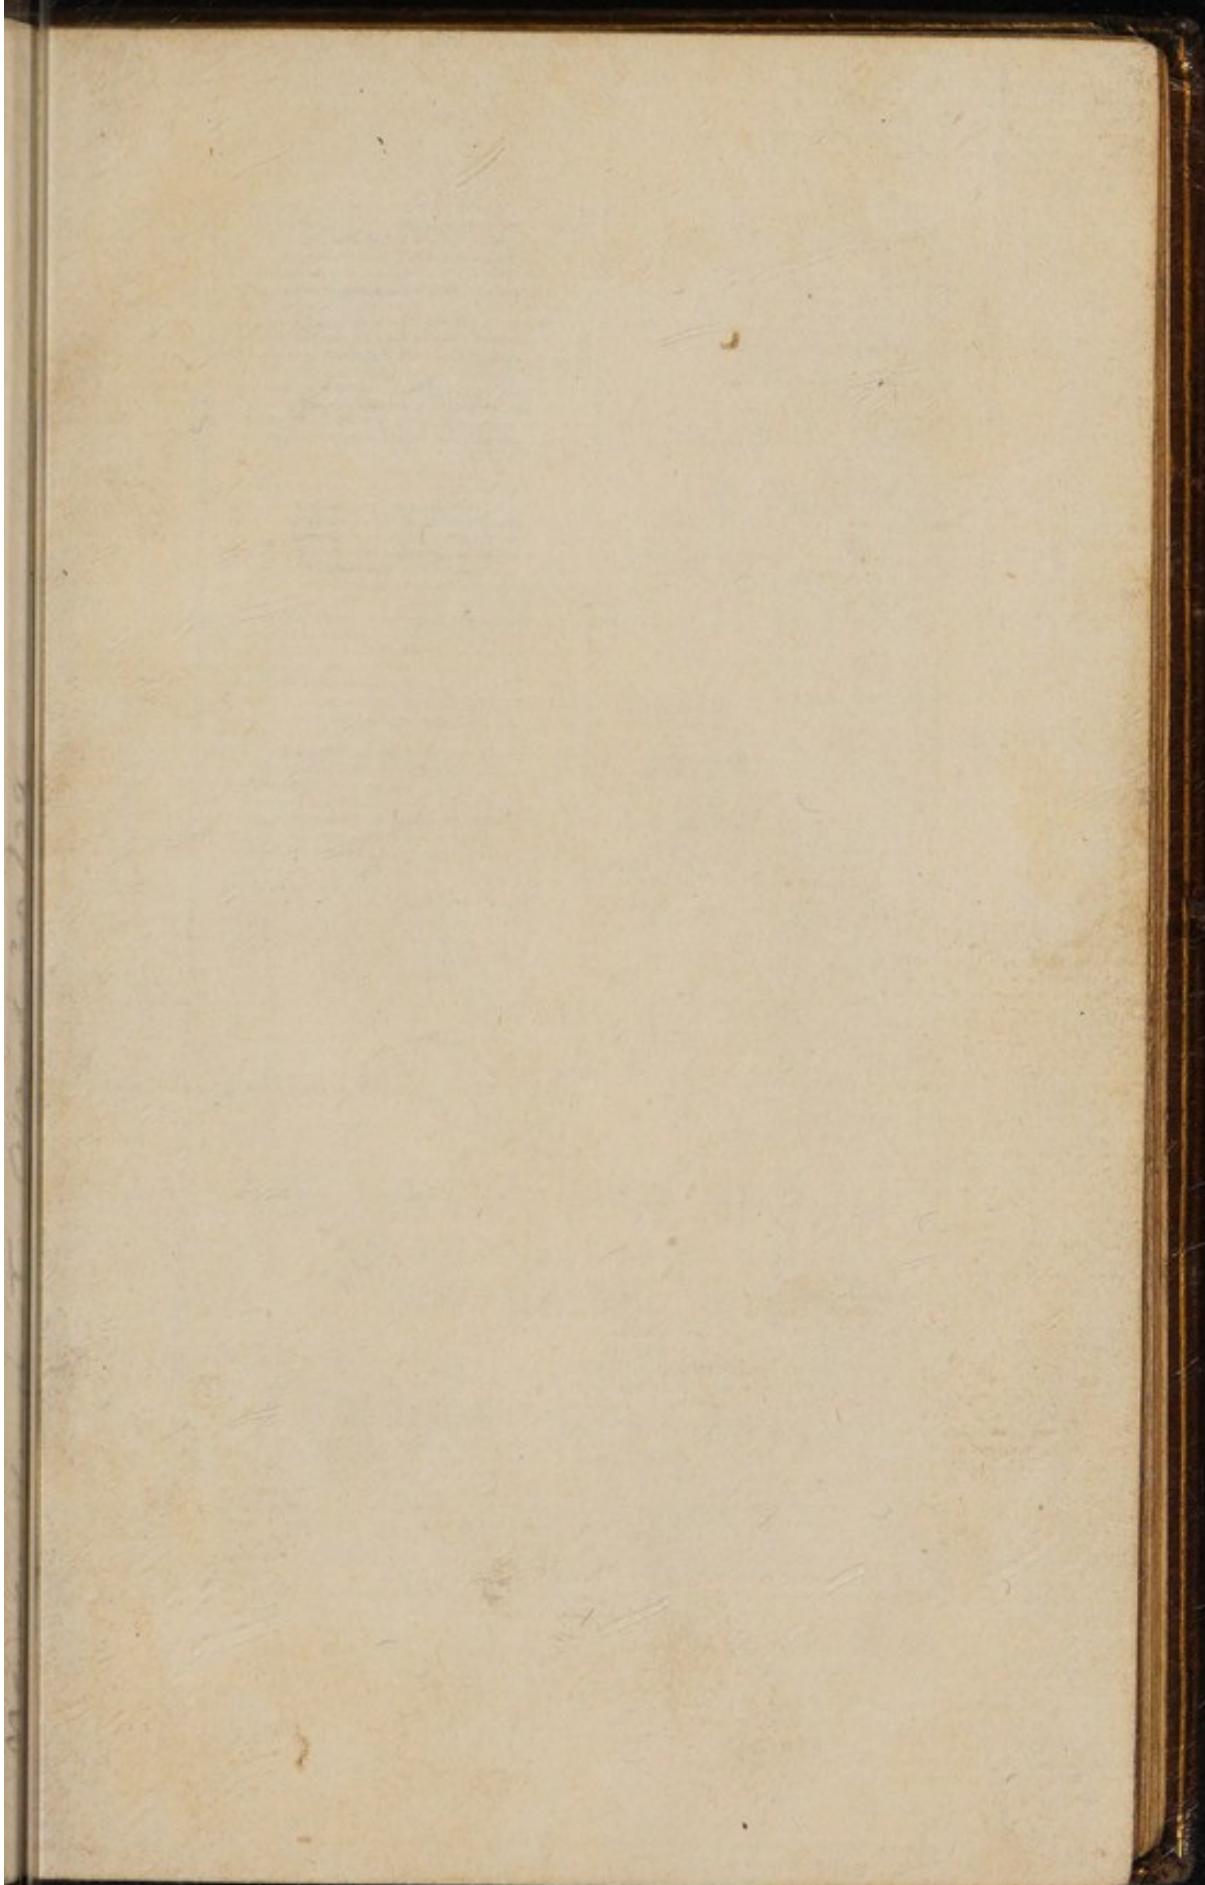

S.T.C. 3197

5192 ~~4986~~

1620. ard Whitakers . . .
ke Glasse of Humours," a fore-ru m Gilead, to Recouer Con Ward . . . Preacher of Ipswi d by the author, sm. 8vo. bf. on and William Bladen. . . . been committed to prison for offen ed his talents as a designer to the

y. By H. W. Gent. (Title sh
r. 1693.

47753

The Fardle of factions

contesining the anci-ente maners, customes, and Lawes, of the peoples inhabiting the two partes of the earth, called Affrike and
Asie.

Printed at London, by Ihon Kingstone, and Henry Hatton.

1555

Is it not time now to begin to do good?

१५. वास्तविकता की दृष्टि से वा वास्तविकता को लेकर वास्तविकता का विषय

To the righte honourable the Erle of Arundel, Knight of the ordre, and Lorde Heward of the Quienes maiesties moste honourable house, holde.

Ifre what tyme
The barrein tra-uetles of longe seruice, had dri-ue me to thinke libertie the best rewarde of my simple life, right honorabile Erle and that I had determined to leue wraſſlyng with fortune, and to givē my self wholie to līne vpon my studie, and the labours of my hand: I thought it moste fittynge with the duetie that I owe to God and manne, to bestowe my time (if I could) as well to the profitte of other, as of my self. Not co-nuyting to make of my floudde, a nother manes ebbe (the Lancre of all commune wealthes) but rather to sette other aſſoſe, where I my ſelf ſtrake on ground. Tour-ning me therefore, to the ſearche of wiſe-

*.ii. dome

The lettre dome and vertue, for whose sake either we tolle, or oughte to tolle so many papers and tonges: although I founde a-boute myself, verie little of that Threasu-re, yet remembred I that a fewe yeres past, at the instance of a good Lisezein (who myght at those daies, by anchouer commaunde me) I had begonne to translate, a little booke named in the Latin, Omnium gentium mores, gathered longe sence by one Iohannes Boemus, a manne as it appereth, of good iudgemente and diligence. But so corrupted in the Printing, that afte I had wraffled a space, with sondrie Printes, I rather determined to lose my labour of the quartre tran-slacion, then to be shamed with the haulf.

And thowring it a side, intended no further to wearie my self therwithall, at the leasse vntill I myghte finde a booke of a better impressio. In searching wherof at this my resourne to my studie, although I found not at the full that, that I sought for: yet vnderstanding emong the booke sellers (as one talke bringes in another.) that men of good learning and eloquence, bothe in the ffrenche, and Italien tonge, had not thought shynge to bestowe their time

3 dedicatorie.

time abouste the transacion therof, and that the Emperours Matestie that now is, bouchedaulse to receiue the presenciacion therof, at the ffrenche translatours hande, as well appereth in his booke: it kundled me againe, vpon regard of mine owne profite, and other mennes mee, to þing that to some good pointe, that earst I had begonne. For (thought I) seing the booke hath in it, muche pleasant varietie of thinges, and yet more profite in the pitche: if it faile to bee otherwise rewarded, it shall it thanckefullly of the good be regarded. Wherefore setting vpon it a fresshe, where the booke is deuided acording to chaunciente demision of the earth, into thre partes, Affrique, Asie, and Europe: having brought to an ende the two firste partes, I found no persone in mine opiniō so fitte as your honour, to present theim vnto. For seing the whole processe ronneth vpon gouernance and Lawes, for chadministracion of commune wealthes, in peace and in warre, of aunciente times tofore our greate graundfathers daies: to whom mighe I bettre present it, then to a Lordē of verie nobilitie and wisedome, that hath bene highe Mār-

*.iii. viii.

The lettre dedicat orie.

Whalle in the fielde adrode , deputie of the locke and keie of this realme, and a counsailour at home , of thre wor希ie princes.
Exercised so many waies in the waues of a fickle Commune wealthe : troubled sometyme , but never disapointed of honorabile successe . To your good Lordshippe then I yelde & committ, the firste fruictes of my libertie, the firste croppe of my labours, this firste daie of the Newe yere: beseeching thesame in as good parte to receitie it , as I humblie offre it , and at your pleasure to vnsfolde the fardle, and consider the stuffe. Whiche ever the farder in , shall sieme I trusste the more pleasaunte and fruictefull . And to conclude, if I shall andezstaide, that your honor delighteth in this , it shal be a cause sufficiente, to make me go in hande with Europe , that yet remaineth untouched .
Almighty God giue unto your Lordshippe prosperous fortune, in scunde honor and healtche.

Your Lordshippes moske humblie at commaundement.

W illiam W ateman.

The Preface of

the Aushour.

H A V E songhe out at times, as lasure hath ser-ued me, Good reader, the ma-ners and faciess the Lawes, Lu-stomes and Rites, of all suche peoples, as semed notable, and worthy to be put in remembrāce, together with the situaciō & descriptiō of their habitaciōs; whiche the father of Storiedes Herodotus the Greke, Diodorus, the Siciliane, Berosus, Strabo, Solinus, Trogus Pompeius, Ptolomeus, Plinius, Cornelius the stille, Dionysius the Africane, Pōponius Mela, Cæsar, Iosephus, and certein of the later writers, as Vin-centius, and Aeneas Siluius (whiche afte-ward made Pope, had to name Pius the seconde) Anthorie Sabellicus, Iohn Nauclerus, Ambrose Alepine, Nicholaus Perotte, in his cornu copie, and many other famous writers eche one for their partie, as it ware skatered, & by piece meale, set

A.J. surthe

The Preface

furthe to posteritie. Those I saue haue I sought out, gathered together , and acordyng to the ordre of the storie and tyme, digested into this little packe. Not for the hongre of gaine, or the ticklyng desire of the peoples vaine brute, and unskilfull commendacion : but partly moued with the oportunitie of my laisure, & the worthiful profit and pleasure , that I conceined in this kinde of studie my self, and partly that other also delightyng in stories, might with litle labour, finde easly when thei would, the somme of thynges compiled in one Booke , that thei ware wonte with tediousnes to sieke in many.
And I haue shoked them vp together, as well those of aunciente tyme, as of later yeres, the lewde, aswell as the vertuous indifferentlie, that vsyng the as present examples, and paternes of life, thou mafest with all thine endeour folowe the vertuous and godlie, & with as muche warenes eschewe the vicious & bngodly.
Pea , that thou maest further, my (reader)learne to discerne, how men haue in these daies amended the rude simplicitie of the first worlde, frō Adam to the floud and many yeres after , when men liued skaterystig

The Preface

skaterypng on the earche, without knowlege of Money, or what coigne ment, or Merchaunces trade : no maner of exchāuge, but one good tourne for another Whēn no man claimed aught for his seueralle, but lande and water ware as cō-mane to al, as Ayer and Skie. Whē theſe gaped not for honour, na hūnted after richesse, but eche man concended with a little, paſſed his daies in the wilde fielde, vnder the open heauen, the couerte of ſome shadowie Tree, or ſlendre houelle, with ſuiche companion or companidz as ſeimed them god, their diere babes and children aboute them. Sounde without carcke and in reſtfull quietneſſe, eatyng the fruictes of the fieldes, and the milke of the cattle, and drinking the wacres of the chrifalline ſpringes. First clad with the ſoſte barche of trees, or the faire broade leaues, & in proceſſe with rawe felle and hide, full unworkemanly patched together. Not then enironed with walles, ne pente vp with rampers, and ditches of deapthe, but walking at free ſkope i móx the wanderyng beaſtes of the fielde, and where the night came upon them, there eabyng their lodgyng without feare of

A.ij. murtherer

The Preface

murtherer or thief. Mery at the fulle, as without knowledge of the euilles y astre ensued as y worlde wared elder, through divers desires, and contrarie endeouirs of menne. Who in processe for the insufficiencie of the fruictes of the earthe, (whiche she tho gaue vncilled) and for default of other thynges, ganne falle at disquiete and debate emong themselues, and so auoted the inuasion of beastes, and menne of straunge borders, (whom by themselues thei could not repelle) gathered into companies, with commune aide to withstande such encursions and violence of wrong. And so ioynyng in confederacie, planted themselues together in a plotte, assigned their boundes, framed vp cotaiges, one by anothers chieque, diked in the selues, chase officers and gouernours, and deuised lawes, that thei also emong theimselues might liue in quiete. So beginningnyng a rough paterne of countes and of Cites, that astre ware laboured to more curiosus finesse.

A N D now ware thei not contented, with the commodities of the fieldes and cattle alone, but by divers inuencions of handecraftes and sciēces, and by sondrie labours

of the Authour.

labours of this life ; thei sought how to winne. Now gan thei attempte the seale with many deuices , to transplante their progenie, and offspiring into places vnenhabited , and to enioye the commodities of eche others countrie , by mutuall trafique . Now came the Dre to the yoke , the Horse to the draugh , the Metalle to the stape , the Apparel to handsonnes , the Speache to moze finesse , the Behauour of menne to a moze calmenesse , the Fare moze deince , the Builtynge moze gorgeous , thenhabitours ouer all became milder and wittier , shaking of (men of their owne accord) the bruteshe outrages and stearne dealinges , þ shamefully mought be spoken of . Nowe refrained thei from slayng one of a nother , fro eatyng of ech others flesh , from rape and open defiling of mother , sister , and daughter indifferetly , and fro many like abhominacions to nature and honestie . Thei now marieng reason , with strength : and policie , with might : where the earth was before for- geden with bushes , and wooddes , stuf- fed with many noisome beastes , drowned with meares , and with marsh , vnfitte to be enhabited , waast and vnhandsome in

A. lliij. every

The Preface

every condicson: by wittie diligence, and labour, ridde it from encombraunce, planed the roughes, digged vp trees by the rootes, dreted awaite the superfluous waters, brought all into leauelle, banished barreinesse, and vncouered the face of the earth, that it might fully be sene, con-uerced the chameyne to tillage, the plai-nes to pasture, the valley to meadow, the hilles ther shadowed with wooddes and with Mynes. Then thruste ther in cultre and share, and with wide woundes of the earthe, wan wine and corne plenteously of the grounde, that afore scarcely gaue them Akornes and Crabbes. Then enhabited ther moze chicke, and spred them selues ouer all, and buylee euery where.
Of Townes, ther made cities, and of villages, Townes. Castles vpon the rockes, and in the valleis made ther the temples of the goddes. The golde graneled springes, ther encurbed with Marble, & with trees right pleasantlie shadowed them aboutt. From them ther dertued into cities and Townes, the pure freshe waters a greate distaunce of, by conduite of pipes and troughes, and suche other conveyaunce. Where nature had hidden the waters

11

of the Authour.

waters, out of sighte, thei sancke welles of greate deapth, to supplie their lackes.
Riuers, and maigne stoudes, whiche afore with vnbredied violence, oftymes overflowed the neigboured aboute, to the destruction of their cattle, their houses, and themselues; thei restrained with bancques, and kept them in a course. And to che ende thei might not onely be vadable, but passed also with drie foote, thei devised meanes with piles of Limbre, and arches of stone, maulgre the rage of their violent streames, to grounde brydges vpon them. Pea, the rockes of the sea whiche for the daungier of the accesse, thoughte themselues exempte from the dunce of their hande, when thei percevued by experiance thei ware noyous to sa-liers, with unspeakable labour did thei uerchrowe & breake into gobettes. Hewed out haunes on every strand, enlarged criegues, opened rodes, and digged out herborowes, where their shippes myghte ride saulfe fro the stoyme. Finally thei so laboured, beautified, and perfeighted the earthe, that at this daie compared with the former naturalle forgrown waster-uelle, it might well sieme not to be that,

A. 1553. but

The Preface

but rather the þat adise of pleasure, out of the whiche, the first paternes of man-kynge (Adam and Eve) for the transgression of Goddes precept, ware driven.

MEN also inuented and founde many wittie sciences, and artes, many wondrefull workes, whiche when by practise of lettres, they had committed to booke, and laied vp for posterite, their succe-sours so wondered at their wisedomes, and so reverenced their loue and endewours (whiche they spied to be meant toward them, and the wealth of those that shuld folow of thē) that they thought they not blessed enough, with the estate of men mortalle, but so aduanced their fame, and wondered at their worthinesse, that they wan them the honour and name of Goddes immortall.

THO gan the Prince of the worlde, when men so gan to delight in thadour-ning of the worlde, to sowe vpō the good fiede, the pestilente Dernell, that as they multiplid in nombre, so iniquitie mighē encrease, to disturbe and confounde this blessed state.

FIRST, therefore when he had with all kynge of wickednes belimed þe world, he

of the Authour.

he put into their heades , a curios sear-che of the highest knowledge , and suche as dependeth vpon destenie of thynges.
And so practised his pageauntes , by obscure and doubtfully attempzed Respōcions, and voices of sptridges, that after he had fetterred the worlde in the trauers of his totes , and launced into their hartes a blinde supersticion , and feare: he trained it whole to a wicked worship of many goddes and Goddesses, that when he ones had wiped cleane out of mynde the knowlege and honour of one God ever-lastyng , he might practise vpon manne, some notable mischief . Then sette he vp pilgrimages to deuilles, foreshewers of thynges, that gaue aduertisemente and answere to demaundes in sondrie wise.
In the Isle of Delphos one , in Euboea another , at ~~N~~asamone a thirde , and emong the Dodonians, the famous okes, whose bowes by the blastes of the winde resounded to the eare, a maner of aduer-tisemente of deuellishe delusion . To the whiche Idolles and Images of deuelles he stirred vp men to do the honour (He-las) due onely to God. As to Satyrne in Italie, to Jupiter in Lande, to Juno in A.v. Samos,

The Preface

Samos, to Bacchus in India, & at Thebes: to Iris, and Osiris in Egipte: in old Troie to Nesta: aboute Tritona in Afrique to Pallas, in Germanie and Fraunce to Mercurie, vnder the name of Theuthe: to Minerua at Athenes and Hymetto, to Apollo in Delphos, Rhodes, Chio, Patara, Troade and Eymbra. To Diane in Deles and in Scythia, to Venus in Paphos, Cyprus, Gnydon, and Cithera. To Mars in Thracia, to Priapus in Lampasacho of Hellespontus, to Vulcane in Zypara and Lenos, and in diuers other places to sondrie other, whose remembrance was then moste freshe in the memoire of their people, for the benfaictes and merueilous iuencions bestowed emong them.

AFTERVVARD, also when Jesus Christe the verie sonne of the almighty father, shewyng hymself in the fleshe of our mortalite, was conuerstaunte in the worlde, pointyng to the same, as with his fingre, the waie to immortallite, & endelesse blessednesse, and bathe with woode and example, exhorted and allured them to vprighenes of life, to the glorie of his father, sending his disciples and scolers into

15

of the Authour.

into the uniuersall worlde, to condemne Superstition and all errour of wickednes, with the mosse healthsome woordes: to plante true Religion, and geue newe preceptes, and directions of the life, and had now set the matier in suche forwardnesse and poincte, that the Gospell beyng genetally of all nacions receiued, there lacked but continuaunce to perfeite fellicitie: The deuell estesones retournyng to his naturall malice, desirous to repossesse that, that constrainedly he forsooke, betrapping again the curious conceipte of man, some he reuersed into their former abuses and errours, and some with newe Heresies he so corrupted, snarled, and blynded, that it had bene muche bet-tre for them, neuer almosse to haue known the wate of truthe, then after their entraunce, so rashely and maliciously to haue forsaken it.

AT this date in Asia the lesse, the Ar-menianes, Arabians, Persians, Sirias, Assirians, and Meades: in Aphyrique, the Egyptians, Numidians, Libens, and Moores. In Europe, the whole countre of Grecia, Mysia, Thracia, & all Turquie throwyng awaist Christe, are become the folcwers

The Preface

followers and worshippers of Mahomet and his erroneous doctrine. The people of Scithia, whom we now cal Tartaces (a greate people and wide spred) parte of them worshippe the Idolle of their Em-perour Kanime, parte the Sonne, the Moone, and other Starres, and part according to the Apostles doctrine, one one-ly God. The people of Inde, & Ethiopia, under the gouernance of Presbiter Joh perleauer in Christiane godlinesse, howbeit after a sort, muche different frō ours.

The sincere and true faithe of Christ, Wherwith in time it pleased God to illumine the worlde, remaineth in Germanie, Italy, France, Spaine, Englande, Scotland, Irelanck, Denmarke, Linon, Pruse, Pole, Hungarie, and the Isles of Rhodes, Sicilie, Corlita, Sardinia, With a fewe other. This bytter enemie of mankinde hauyng thus with his subtilties enuesled our mindes, and disseuered the christia unio, by diversite of ma-ners and factions of belief, hath brought to passe thorough this damnable Wykednes of Sacrifices, and Rites, that whilst every people (vndoubtedly with religious entent) endeouour them selues

17

of the Authour.

To the worshippe of God, and echeone dasketh vpō him to be the true and best wor-shipper of him, and whilest echone thinkē theim selues to treade the streight pathe of eaerlastyng blessednes, and contēdeth with eigre mode and bitter dispute, that all other erre and be ledde farre a wizē and whilest every man strugglethe and striveth to spred and enlarge his owne secte, and to ouerthowse others , thei doe so hate and enue, so persecute and annoy ethone an other , that at this daie a man cannot safely trauaill from one countrie to another : yea , thei that would aduenture safelē or unsafelē, be almost euer where holde out. Wherof me thinkes I see it is like to come to passe, that whi-lest one people scant knoweth the name of another, (and yet almost neighbours) all that shall this daie be written or reported of theim , shalbe compted and refused as lyes . And yeat this maner of knowledge and experiance, is of it self so pleasant, so profitable & so praise worthy, that sundrie (as it is wel knownen) for the onely loue and desire thereof, leauyng their native countrie, their father , their mother , thei r wifes and their children, yeas,

of the Authour.

yea, throwyng at their heles their sauf-tie and welfare, haue with greate troubles, vexations, and turmoilynges taken upon them for experiance sake, to cutte through the wallowyng seas, and many thousande miles, to estrange theimselues fro their home. yea, and those men not in this age alone, but even from the firste hatchyng of the worlde haue been reputed and founde, of moste wisedome, authoritie, and good facton, lonest chosen with all mennes consent, bothe in peace & warre, to administre the cōmune wealth as maistres and counsaillours, Judges and Capitaines. Suche ware thancient sages of Grece and of Italy, Socrates, Plato, Aristotle, Antisthenes, Aristippus Zeno, & Pythagoras, who through their wisedomes and estimacion for trauailes wan them greate nombrs of folowers, and brought furthe in ordre the seutes named Socratici, Academici, Peripateci, Cynici, Cyrenaici, Stoici, and Pythagorici, echone chosyng name to glorie in his maister. Suche ware the prudente lawe-makers of famous memorie, Minois and Rhadamanthus emong the Cretenses, O-pheus emong the Thraciens, Draco and Solon

19

of the Authour.

Solon emōg the Athenienses, Picurgus emong the Lacedemoniās, Moses emōg the Jewes, and Zamolxis emong the Scythians, & many other in other stedes Whiche dreamed not their knowledge in the benchehole at home, but learned of the men in the worlde moste wise, the Chaldeies, the Brachmanns, the Gymnosophites & the priestes of Egypce, with whō they had soz a space bene couersanc.
Like glorie, by like trauaill happened to the worthies of the worlde, as to Jupiter of Crete (reported five times to haue surued the whole worlde) and to his twoo sonnes Dionisius (otherwise called Bacchus) and Hercules the mightie. Likewise to Theseus and Jason, and the rest of that voyage. To the vnlucky sailer Ulisses, and to the banished Eneas, to Ly-rus, Ferres, and Alexander the Greate, to Hanniballe and Mithridate, kyng of Pontus, reported able to speake fiftie sodrie languages, to Antiochus, the greate and innumerable Princes of Roome, bothe of the Scipioes, Maris, and Lentuli.
To Pompeius the greate, to Julius Cesar, Octavian, and Augustus, to the Constantines, Charles, Conrades, He-riches,

of the Authour.

rickes and ffrederickes . whiche all by their exploites vpon straunge nacions, haue gotten their immortall and euerlastyng renoume. Wherefore, seyng there is in the knowledge of peoples, & of their maners and facions , so greate pleasure and profite, and every man cannot, yea, fewe men will go traueile the countries themselues: me thinkes gentill reader, thou oughtest with muche thanke to receyue at my hande these bookes of the maners and facions of peoples most notable and famous, togyther with the places whiche thei enhabite : And with no lesse cherefulnes to embrase them, then if beyng ledde on my hande from country to country, I shold poynt the at eye, how every people liueth, and where they haue dwelte, and at this daye doe.
Let it not moue the, let it not withdrawe the, if any cankered reprehendour of other mens doynges shall saie unto the :
It is a thyng hath bene witten of, many yeares agone, and that by a thousand sondry menne, and yet he but borowyng these woordes, bryngeth it foorth for a mayden booke, and nameth it his owne.
For if thou well considre my trade, thou shalt

of the Authour.

Shalt fynd, that I haue not only brought thee other mennes olde strore, but opened thee also the treasury of myne owne witte and bookes, not euery where to be found, and like a liberall feaster haue set before thee much of myne owne, and many thynges newe. Farewell and thanke.
Fully take that,
that with labour is brought thee.

W.S.

Affrike.

C The first Chapter.
C The true opinion of the device, concerningyng the begynnyng of men.

Ahen God had
 in. V. daies made per-fecte the heauens and the earth, and the furniture of bothe; whis-che the latines for the goodnesse and beau-tie therof, call Mundus, and we (I knowe not for what reason) have named the worlde: the fyrst daie, to the entent there myghte be one to enioye, and be Lorde over all, he made the mooste notable creature Man. One that of all earthly creatures alone, is endowyd with a mynd and spirite from aboue. And he gaue hym to name, Adam: accordyng to the colour of the molde he was made of. Then brewying out of his side the woman, whilist he slept, to thende he shold not be alone, knitte her unto hym, as an vnseparabile compaignon, and therwith placed them in the mooste pleasant plot of the earth,

B.ij. Fostered

Affrike.

fostered to flourishe with the moisture of floudes on euery parte. The place for the fresshe grienesse and merie shewe , the Greques name Paradisos. There lyued they a whyle a mosse blessed life withoute bleamishe of wo, the earth of the own accorde bringing forth all thing. But when they ones had transgressed the precepte, they ware banysched that inhabitaunce of pleasure and driven to shife the world.
And fro thenceforth the graciousnes of the earth was also abated, & the francke fertilicie therof so withdrawen, that labour and swete, now wan lesse a greate deale, then ydle lokynge on before tyme had done. Shorly crepte in sickenes, and diseases, and the broyling heate and the nipping cold began to assaile their body-es. Their first sonne was Laym, and the seconde Abell, and then many other. And as the world grewe into yeares , and the earth began to ware thicke peopled, loke as the nombre did encrease, sodices grew on, and their lyuing decased euer syng woors . For giltelesse dealyng , wrong raine in place, for denoutenesse, exempte of the Goddes , and so farre outraged their wickednes, that God scarcely syn-dyng

Affrike.

Sing one susse Moha on the earth (whom he sauued, with his housholde, to repayre the losse of mankind and replenyshe the worlde) sente a floude vniuersall, whiche couering all vnder water, killed all fleshe that bare lyfe vpon earth, excepte a fewe beastes, birdes, and wormes that ware preserued in the mistical arke. In the ende of ffeue Monethes astre the floude began, the Arke touched on the mountaines of Armenia. And within fourre Monethes astre, Noas and all his beyng restored to the earth, with Goddes furtheraunce in sherte space repropled the worlde. And to thende the same myghte euery wheare again be enhabited, he dispersed his yssue and kyndredes into sondrie coastes. After Berosus oppynion he sent Cham otherwyse, named Lamezes and Chamesenus with his offspring, into Egypce. Into Lybia and Lirene, Triton. And into thz whole residewe of Afriske the ancient Iapetus called Accalus Briscus. Ganges he sent into Easte Asia with certeine of the sonnes of Comerus Gallus. And into Arabia the fertile, one Sabus, surnamed Thurifer. Duer Arabia the waaste he made Arabus gouernour,

B. iii. nour,

Affrike.

now, and Perretus ouer Betrea. He gave unto Canaan, all that lyeth fro Damasco to the ouermost bordre of Palestine. In Europe he made Tuisco king of Sarmatia, from the stonde of Tanais unto the Rhene. And there were ioyned unto him all the sonnes of Istrus, and Mesa, with their bretzhen, fro the mounteyne of Adula to Melerberia pontica.
Archadus and Emathius governed the Tirianes, Comerus Gallus, had Iralie and Fraunce, Samothes, Breteigne and Normandie, and Jubal, Spayne. That spiedie and varipe putting forth of the children from their progenitours, before they had throughly learned and enured them selues with their factions and maniers, was the cause of all the diversite that after ensued. For Cham, by the reason of his naughty demeanour towarde his father, being constrained to departe with his wyfe and hys chylde[n], planted him selfe in that parte of Arabia, that after was called by his name. And leste no trade of religion to his posterite, because he none had learned of his father. Wher of it came to passe, that when in processe of tyme they ware increased to so many

Affrike.

ny for that londe: beyng sent out as it ware, swarne astre swarne into other habitations, and skatered at length into sondry partes of the worlde (for this banisched progeny grewe aboue measure) some fel into errours wherout thei could never vnsmalle themselves. The tongue gan to altre & the knowledge of the true God and all godlie worshippe vanished out of mtd. In so muche that some lived so wildeley (as astre thou shalt here) that it ware harde to discerne a difference betwixt them and the beastes of the felde. They that flied into Egipt, wonderyng at the beautie and course of the Sonne, & the Moone, as though there had been in them a power deuine, began to worship them as Goddes: calling the lesse, Iisis and the bigger Osiris. To Jupiter also they sacrificed, & did honour as to þ principall of life. To Vulcan for fire, to Pal-las, as Lady of the skie, to Ceres as go-urneresse of the arth, and to sondry other for other sondry considerations. Neþ ther staied that barkenesse of iniquitie in Egipte alone, but where so ever the progeny of Cham stepte in from the begynnyng, there fell true godlines, all oute of

W. liij. mtd

Affrike.

minde and abōdage to the deuell entred his place. And there never was countrie, mother of moe swarmes of people, then that part of Arabia, that he, and his, chase to be theirs. So greate a mischief did the vntymely banishemente of one manne, bring to the whole. Contrarily the progenie of Japheth, and Sem, brought vp so full yeres vndre their elders, and rightly eastructed: contentyng the selues with a little circuite, strated not so wide as this brother had doen. Wherby it chaunced that the zeale of the truthe, (I meane of good layng and true worshippe of one onely God) remained as bidden in one onely people, vntill the tyme of Messias.

The seconde Chapstre.

The false opinion of the Philosophers concerning the beginning of man.

At the aunciente Philosophers, whiche without knowledge of God, and his truthe, many yeras ago, wrate vpon the natures of thinges, and histories of times had another opinion of the originall

29

Affrike.

originall of man. For certain of them, believed the worlde euer to haue been, and that euer it shold be, and man together with it to haue had no beginnyng. Certayne did halde that it had a beginnyng, and an ende it shold haue, and a tyme to haue been, when man was not. For saie they, the begynner of thynges visiblē, wrapped vp bothe heauish and earth at one instant, togither in one paterne, and so a distinction growyng on betwixte these meyntē bodies, the worlde to haue begon in suchē ordre as we see. The aire by nature to be continually mouyng, and the mosst̄ firſt̄ parte of the ſame, for the lightenesſe thereof, moſt̄ highe to haue climbed. So that ſonne and Moone, and the planetes all, participatyng of the na- ture of that lighter ſubstaunce: moue ſo muche the falſter, in how muche theſt̄ are of the more subtle parte. But that whiche was mixed with waterie moisture, to haue reſted in the place, for the heaui- nesse therof, and of the watery partes, the ſea, to haue conten: and the matter moſt̄ compacte to haue paſſed into a clammi- nesse firſt̄, and ſo into earth. This earth then brought by ſeate of the ſonne into
B. v. a

Affrike.

a more fasseneſſe. And after by the ſame power puffed and swollen in the upper moſte parte, there gathered manye humours in ſondry places, which drawing to ripenelle enclosed them ſelues in ſynges and in filmes, as in the maresſes of Egift, and other ſtondynge waters we often ſe happen. And ſeynge the heate of thair lokyngh warmeth the cold ground and heate meint with moiſture is apt to engendre: it came to paſſe by the gentle moiſture of the night aire, and the conforing heate of the dacie ſonne, that thofe humours ſo riped, drawing vp to the rinde of the earth, as though their tyme of childbirthe ware come, brake out of their filmes, and delinered upon the earth all maner of liuyng thinges. Embg whiche thofe that had in the moſte heate, became foules into the aire: thofe that ware of nature moſe earthie, became wormes and beaſtes of ſondrie kindes: and where water ſurmounted, thei drewe to the elemente of their kinde, and had to name filches. But afterwarde the earth beynge moſe parched by the heate of the Sonne, and the drouthe of the windes, ceaſed to bring furthe any mo greate beaſtes: and thofe

Affrike.

These that ware already brought furthe, (saie thei) maintained, and increased by mutualle engendzure, the varietie, and nombre. And they are of opinion that in the same wise, men ware engendred in the beginning. And as nature putte them forth emong ocher beastes, so liued they at the first an unknowen lyfe wyl-dely emong them, vpon the fruictes, and the herbes of the fieldes. But the beastes astre a while waxing noysome vnto them, they ware forced in commune for eche others saufte to drawe into companies to resistre their annoyauice, one helping another, and to sieke places to make rheir abiding in. And where at the firste their speache was confuse, by little and little they sayed it drewe to a distinctione, and perfeighte difference; in sorte that they ware able to gyue name to all thinges. But for that they ware diuer-sely sparckled in diuers partes of the worlde, they holde also that their speache was as diuers and different. And herof to haue astreward risen the diuersite of lettes. And as they firste assembled into bandes, so euery bande to haue broughte forthe his nacion. But these men at the firſt

Affrike.

firſte vnde of all helpe and exþerience of Ituyng, ware bitirly pinched with hon-gre and colde, before thei could learne to reſerue the ſuperfluuous plenty of the Sonne, to ſupply the lacke of w̄inters barreinelle, whiche bitter blaſtes, and hogrie pinpongēs, conſummed many of them. Whiche thing whē by exþerience d̄ere bought, thei had learned: thei ſoughte bothe for Laues to defende them fro colde, and began to hōurde fruites. Then happe foud out fire, and reaſon gaue rule of profitē, and diſprofitē, and neceſſitie toke in hand to ſette w̄itce to ſchoole. Who gaþeryng knowledge, and percepuyng hymſelf to haue a helpe of his ſences, more ſkilfull then he thought, ſet hande a woorkē, and practised connyng, to ſupplie all defaul-tes, whiche rōgue and lettres did enlarge and diſtribute abzode.

THEI that had thiſ opinion of the originall of manne, and ascribed not the ſame to the prouidence of God, affirmeded the Eþopians to haue bene the firſte of all menne. For thei conjectured that the grouind of that countrie lying nerell the heates of the Sonne muſte nedes ſit of all other ware warme. And the earth acthas

Affrike.

that tyme beyng but clammie and softe, through the attemperaunce of that moystre and heate, man there firsst to haue bene founred, and thereto haue gladlier enhabited (as natuue and naturall unto hym) then in any other place, wher all places ware as yet straunge, and unkno- wen, whiche astre men loughte. Begin- nyng therfore at them, after I haue shewyd how the worlde is devyded into thre partes (as also this treatise of myne) and haue spoken a litle of Aphrique, I wyll shewe the situacion of Aethiope, and the maners of that people, and so forthe of al other regions and peoples, with suche diligence as we can.

C The thirde Chapitre.

C The devision and limites of the Earthe.

Hose that haue bene before our daies, (as Drosius writeth) are of opinion, that the circuite of the earth, bordered about with the Ocean See: dis- roundyng hym self, shooteth out thre corner wise, and is also diuided

Affrike.

divised into thre severall partes, Afrike, Asie, and Europe. Afrike is parted from Asie with the floude of Nilus, whiche comyng fro the Southe, ronneth through Ethiope into Egypce. where gently shea-dyng hymself ouer his bancques, he leaueth in the countrie a merueilous fertilitie, and passeth into the middle earth sea, with seuen armes. From Europe it is seperate with the middle earth sea, whiche beginning fro the Occean aforesaid: at the Ilande of Gades, and the pilours of Hercules, passeth not tenne miles ouer. But further entryng in, semeth to haue shoued of the maigne lande on bothe sides, & so to haue won a more largenesse. Asie is devideid from Europe, with Tanais the floude, whiche comyng fro the North, ronneth into the marche of Meotis almoste midwate, and there sinking himself, leaueth the marche and Pontus Euxinus, so; the rest of the bounde. And to retourne to Afrike again, the same having Nilus as I saied on the East, and on all other partes, bounded with the sea, is shorter then Europe, but broader towarde the Occean, where it rileth into mountaigne. And shorynge towarde the West,

Affrike.

Wesse, by litle and litle wareth more streighte, and cometh at thende to a na-tome peince. Asinuche as is enhabited herof, is a plentuous soile, but the great parte of it liech waste, voide of enhabi-tauntes, either to whote for menne to abide, or folt of noisome and venomous vermine, and beastes, or elles so whel-med in sande & granell, that there is nothing but mere barreiness. The sea that liech on the Northe parte, is called Libi-cum, that on the Southe Aethiopicum, and the other on the West Atlanticum.

AT the first the whole was possest by fower sondrie peoples. Of the whiche, twaine (as Herodotus writeth) ware founde there, syne out of minde, and the other twaine ware alienes and incom-mes. The two of continuance, ware the Poeni, and Ethiopes, whiche dwelte, the one at the Northe of the lande, the other at the South. The Alienes, the Phoenices the Grekes, the old Ethiopians, and the Aegyptianes, if it be true that thei report of theselues. At the beginnyng thei ware sterne, and vnruly, and brutishely liued, with herbes and with fische of wilde beastes, without lawe or rule, or factō of life, railing

Affrike.

roslyng and rowmyng upon heade, heather and thether without place of abode, where night came vpon them, there lat-yng their bodies to reste. Afewerwarde (as thei late) Hercules passing the seas out of Spaine, into Libie (a countrie on the Northe shore of Afrike) and bringynge an ouerplus of people thence with hym, somewhat bettre facioned and manered then thei, trained them to muche more humanitte. And of h[im] troughe thei came ouer in, made themselves cotages, and began to plante in plompes one by another. But of these thinges we shall speake here afirme more at large.

Afrike is not in euery place a like enhabited. For toward the Southe it lieth for the moste part waste, and vnpopled, for the broilyng heate of that quartre.
But the part that lieth ouer against Europe, is verie well enhabited. The frutefulnessse of the soile is exedyng, and to muche merueillous: as in some places bringynge the siede with a hundred folde increase. It is straunge to beleue, that is saide of the goodnessse of the soile of the Moores. The stocke of their vines to be more then two meyne can sadome, and theire

Affrike.

thes clousters of Grapes to be a cubite long. The coronettes of their Wasnepes, and Gardein Thistles (whiche we calle Mortichockes) as also of their Fenelle, to be twelue Cubites compasse. Thei haue Canaes like unto those of India, whiche may contain in the copasse of the knot, or foynt, the measure of. ii. bushelles. Ther be sene also Sparagi, of no lesse notable bigguenesse. Toward the mounte Atlas trees bee sonnde of a wondrefull heighth, smothe, and without knaggue or knotte, vp to the hard toppe, hauyng leaues like the Lypres, but of all other the mosse noble Citrus, wherof the Romaines made greate deince. Affrike hath also many sondrie beastes, and Dragones that lye in awaite for the beastes, and when thei see time, so bewrappe and wreache them aboue, that takyng fro theim the vse of their ioyntes, thei wearie them and kille theim. There are Elephantes, Lyons, Bugles, Pardales, Roes, and Apes, in some places beyonde nombre. There are also Chamelopardales and Rhizes, like vnto Bulles. Herodote writh, that there be founde Asses with hornes, Hienas Porpetines, wilde Rambes, a beast L.i. engendred

Affrike.

engendred of the Hicene and the Woulfe named Thoas, Panthers, Stoerches, Distruches, and many kindes of serpentes, as Cerastes, and Aspides, against whom nature hath matched the Ichneu-mon (a verie litle beast) as a mortall enemie.

The. iiiij. Chapitre.

¶ Of Ethiope, and the auncient maners of that nation. Cap. iiiit.

Wo countreis there ware of that name Overlanders, and Netherlanders. The one pertaining to Aphrique, the other to Asie. The one whiche at this daie is called Inde, hath on the east the redde sea, and the sea named Barbaricum, on the northe it coucheth vpon Egypte, and vpon that Libie that standeth on the utter border of Afrike toward the sea. On the west it is bounded with the other Libie that sta-deth more into the mayne londe. The residue that runneth toward the south, ioy-neth vpon the netherland Ethiope, whiche

Affrike.

The lyeth more southerly, and is muche greater. It is thought that these Ethiopes take name of Ethiopus Vulcanes sonne, that (as Plinie saith) was gouernour there. Dzels of the Greke wordes aythoo and ops, whereof the former signifieth to broyle, or to bournie vp with heate, and the other, in th^e eye oz sight. Whiche sheweth in effecte, that the countreie lyeng in the eye of the Sonne, is must nedes be of heate almost impossible. As in diede it lyeth in the full course of the sonne, and is in continuall heate. Toward the west it is hilly, in the middes grauell and sande, and on the easte waste and deserte. There be in it dyuers peoples of sondry phisonomy and shape, monstrous and of hugly shewe. They are thought (as I saied) to haue bene the syrst of all men, and those whiche of all other maye truelyest be called an home-borne people. Neuer vnder the bondage of any: but euer a free nacion. The first waie of worshippynge God (say they) was deatised and taught emonge theim: with the maners and ceremonies there to appertinent. They had two kyndes of letters, one whiche ware knownen ouely to

L. ii. their

Affrike.

their preastes for matters of Religion, whiche they called mistical, and another for the vse of the people hidde fro none.
Peat ware not their Letters facioned to ioyne together in sillables like ours, but Ziphres, and shapes of men and of beastes, of heades, and of armes, and arti-ficers tooles, whiche signified in sondrie wise echone accordyng to his propertie.
As by the picture of an hauke swiftnes and spiede, by the shape of a crocodile displeasure or misfortune, by the figure of an eye, good watche or regarde, and so forth of other. Among their preastes, loke whome they lawe startle aboue as haulfe wood, him did they iudge of all other mooste holy, and making him their king, they fall downe and worship hym, as though he there ware in him a Godhead, or as though at the least he ware by goddes prouidence givien them. This king for al that, must be gouerned by the lawe, and is bounde to all thinges after thordre of the contray. He his selfe maye neither panishe or guerdon any manlie.
But loke vpon whome he wyl haue execution done, he sendeth the minister appointed for the purpose, to the person with

Affrike.

With a token of deathe: whiche when he hath shewed, the officier retourneith, and the persone what soever he be, inconsinent fordoeth him self. So greatly ware they giuen to thee honour of their kynges, such a seruencie had they towarde them, that if it fortuned the king through any mishap, to be maymed, or hurte in a ny parte of his bodye, as many as ware towarde him, namely of householde, voluntarily woulde giue them selues the lyke hurt, thincking it an unsittynge thing the kyng to lacke an eye or the vse of a legge, and his frindes neither to halt, ne yet to lacke parte of their sight. They say it is the maner also, that when the king dieth, his friendes shuld wilfully dis-patche them selues and die with hym, for this compe they gloriounes and a testimony of very frenndship. The mosse parte of them, for that they ly so vnder the Sonne, go naked: couering their principes with shipes caples. But a fewe of them are clad with the rawe felles of be-astes. Some make them bretches of the heares of their heades vp to the waeste.
They are comonly bretchers and grasers in commyne together. Their shepe be of codrois

L.iii. very

Affrike.

very small body, and of a harde & roughe coate . Their dogges also are never a whitte bigger, but thei are fierce and hatie. They haue good store of gromel and barly, wherof they vse to make drincke.
All other graine and fruictes thei lacke, excepte it be dates whiche also are verye skante. Some of them lyue with herbes and the tender rootes of cannes or Rie-des. Other eate fleshe, milke, and chese.
Meroe, was in tyme past the heade citie of the kyngdomme, whiche stondeth in an Isle of the same name factoned like a shield, stretching it selfe thre thousand furlong alongest by Miles. Aboute that Islande do the cattle masters dwelle, and are muche giuen to hunting, and those that be occupied with tilthe of the grounde haue also mines of gold. Herodotus writeth that thechiopians named Macrobij, do more esteeme latton then thei do golde whiche thei put to nothyng that thei cōpt of any price . In so muche that the Ambassadours of Cambises, when thei came therer, found the prisoners in the gaole fettered and tied with Chaines of golde.
Some of thesim sowe a kinde of graine called Sesamus , and other the delicate Lothon,

Affrike.

Lothō. Thes haue greate plenty of Hebes num, a woode muche like Guaiacum, and of Siliquastrum. Thes hunte Elephantes and kyll them to eate. There be Lions, Rhinocerotes, Basiliskes, Wardales, and Dragones, whiche I said enwrappe thelephantes, and sucke them to death, for their bloude. There be found the precious stones called the Jacinthe, and the Prasne. There is also cinamome gathred. They occupie bowes of woode sea-ned in the fire, of four cubites log. Women be also trayned to the wartes, and haue for the moste parte a ring of latten hanging throughe their lippe. Certaine of theim worshippe the Sonne at his up-risse, and curse him moste bittrely at his doun gate. Divers of the throwe their dead into Rivers, other cofer them vp in earthen cofres, some enclose them in glasse, and kepe them in their houses a peare, and in the meane season worship them devoutly, and offre vnto them the first of all their encrease. In the naming of a newe king, they giue ther voice chiefly to him that is moste goodly of stature, moste conning in breding of cattle, and of strengthe and substance passing the

L. iii. reast.

Affrike.

reas. The lawe hath bene, that the priefes of Memphis shoulde hane the au-thoritie to sende the Kingz the token of deathe, & to set vp another in the place of the deade, whome they thoughte good.
They haue an opinion that ther are two Goddes, one immortall, by whome all thinges haue their beginning, and continuance vnder his gouernement, and another mortall, and he is vncerteine.
Their king, and him that best deserueth of the city next vnto him, they honour as Goddes. This was the state of Ethiope from the beginning, and many yeares sence.

B V T at this daye as myne Author Sabellicus saith y he learned of those that are enhabitantes in y contrey: The king of Ethiope (whome we commonly calle Pretorianes or Presbiter Ihon) is a man of suche power, that he is reported to hane vndre him thre skore and two other kinges. If the heade Wysshoppes of the Realme desire to do, or to hane aughte done, al is referred vnto him. Of him be gauen al benefices, and spiritual promiscions, which prerogative the Pope hath gauen, to the maiestie of kinges. Yet is he

Affrike.

he hym selfe no priest, ne hath any maner of ordres. There is of Archebisshoppes (that is to say of superior and head bishoppes) a great nombre, whiche haue every one vndre them at the least twenty other. The Princes, Dukes, Earles, and head Bisshoppes, and such other of like dignite, when they come abrode, haue a crosse, & a basine of golde filled ful of earthe caried before them: that thone maye put them in remembraunce that earth into earth must again be resolued, and þ other renewe the memory of Christes suffering. Their priestes to haue yssue, mary one wyfe, but she ones beynge dead, it is unlawfull to mary another.
The temples & churches ther, are muche larger, much richer, and more gorgeous then ours, for the mosse part boulted fro the floore to the coppe. They haue many ordres of devout men, moche like to our ordres of Religious: as the ordre of S, Anthony, Dominique, Calaguritani, Augustines, and Machareanes, whiche are bound to no colour but weare some suche one as Tharchebysshoppe shall al-lowe. Mert vnto the supreme and sou-reigne GOD, and Mary the virgin his L.b. mother,

Affrike.

mother, they haue moſte in honour Thomas ſurnamed Didimus. This King, of all other the worthiest, whome they call Gias (a name giuen him of his mighti- nesse and power) is of the bloud of Dauid, continued from one generation to another (as they are perſwaded) by ſo many yeres of ſucceſſio. And he is not as the moſte of the Ethiopians are, blacke, but white. Garama the chiefe citie, and as we termē it the chābre of the king, ſtone- deth not by building of masonrie, & car- pentrie as ours, but ſtricted with tentes and pavillons placed in good ordre, of heluet and ſaten, embraunded with ſilkes and purples of many diuers ſortes. By an auncient ordre of the realme, the king liueth euer in presence and ſighte of his people, and neuer ſoiourneth within the walles aboue two daies. Either for that they iudge it an uncomely thing, and a token of delicate ſlouthfulnes, or elles for that ſome lawe doth forbide it. His army in the warres is ten hundred thouſande men, five hundred Elephantes, and hor- ſes, and Cameles, a wonderfull nomber, and this is but a meane preparacion. Ther are througheout the whole nation certeine

47

Affrike.

certesne houles and stockes, that are pēcioniaries at armes, whose issue is as ic ware branched with the marcke of the croisse, y skinne beyng pretely sittē. Thei use in the warres, Bowe, Pique, Ha-bregeson, and helmette. Their highest dignicie is priesthode, y next, thordre of the Sages, whiche theical Bannamates, and Lāquates. They attribute moche also to the giltelesse and upzighte dealing man, whiche vertue they estieme as the firste staier to climbe to y dignicie of the sages.
The nobilitie hath the chirde place of dignicie, and the pecioniaries aforesaid, the fourthe. Whē the iudges haue giuen sentence of life, or of deathe, the sentence is brought to the headborough of the Cittie (whom we call the Mayour) and they Eicomagia; he supplieth the place of the King. Lawes written thei occupy none, but iudge accordyng to reason and cōscience. If any man be coniict of adulterie he forfeiceth the fourtieh parte of his goodes, but that adulteresse is punished achomē, according to the discretion of the partie offended. The men giue dowrie to those whom thei mary withal, but not to those y thei purchase besides. Their womens

Affrike.

mens attire is of Golde, (whereof that country hathe plentie) of pearle, and of Sarlenette. Bothe men and women are apparelled in long garmentes downe to the foote, sliued, and close rounde about of al maner of colours, sauig only blacke for that in that contrys is proper for morning. They bewasle their dead. xl. daies space. In bancquettes of honour, in the place of our fruite (which the latine calleth the seconde boorde) they serue in rawe fleshe very finely minced and spiced, wherupō the gestes siebe very licouricely. They haue no maner of wollen webbe, but are eyther cladde in sarsenettes, or in linnen. One maner of speache serueth not througheout the whole contrys, but sondry & diuerse, as wel in phrase as in naming of thinges. They haue twise in the yere haruest, and twise in the yere somer. These Ethiopians or Indianes excepted, al the reste of the people of Africa Westward, are worshippers of Mahomet, and lye astre the same sorte in maner, that þ Barbariens do in Egypce at this present, and are called Maures, or Moores, as I thincke of their outleapes and wide rowming. For that people was

Affrike.

Was no lesse noysome to Lybse in those cursed tymes. (when so greate mutacion of thinges happened, when peoples ware so chaunged, suche alteration of seruice, and religion broughte in, and so many newe names ginen vnto countries) then the Sarasens ware.

The. v. Chapster.

Of Aegipte, and the auncient maners of that people.

Egipte is a Countrie lyng in Affrike, or as some hold opinio, boþ deryng ther bpõ, so named of Aegiptus, Da-naus brother, where afore it was called Aeria. This Aegipte (as Plinie recordeth in his fuent boke) toucheth on the East, vpon the redde Sea, and the land of Palestine. On the West fronteth vpon Lirene, and the residue of Afrike. On the South it stretcheth to Ae-thiope: And on the Northe is ended with the sea, to whom it guent name.

The notable Lities of that Countrie, ware

Affrike.

were in tyme past, Thebes, Abydos, Alexandria, Babilon, and Memphis, at this daie calld Damiate, alias Thairus or Alkair, and the seate of the Solda, a citie of notable largenesse. In Aegipt as Plato affirmeth, it was never sene rain. But Nilus suppling that defaule, perely aboute sainte Barnabies tide, with his overlownges maketh the soile fertile. It is nombrd of the moste parte of watters, among the Ilandes: For that Nilus do parteth hymself aboute it, that he facioneth it triangule wile.

The Aegipians firste of all other, devised the names of the twelue Goddes, bulite vp Altares, and Images, erected Chappelles, and Temples, and graued in stone the similiude of many sondrie beastes. All whiche their doynges, dooe manifestly make, that ther came of the Aethiopes, who (as Diodore the Sicilian saith) ware the firske inuenctors of all these. Their women in old tyme, had all the trade of occupying, and brokage abrode, and revelled at the Taverne, and kepte lustie chiere: And the men saue at home spinning, and woozyng of lace, and suche other thynges as women are wonte

Affrike.

Wombe. The men bare their burdeins on the heade, the women on the shulder. In the easemente of vrine, the men rowked doun, the women stooode vprighte. The easemente of ordure thei vsed at home, but commonly feasted abrode in the stre-tes. No woman cooke ordres, either of God, or Goddesse. Their maner of ordres, is not to make severally for every Goddesse and God, a severall priest, but al at a shaffe, in generall for all. Among the whiche, one is an heade, whose sonne enheritech his coume by succession. The men children, euен of a custome of that people, did with good wil kepe their fathers and mothers, but the women children (yf they refused it) ware compelled.
The mosse part of men in solempne bu-rialles, shauē their heades and let theyr beardes growe, but Thegipcians shauēd their beardes and let their heades grow.
They wrought their doughe with their fete, and their claye wch their handes.
As the Greciens do beleue, this people, and their offspring, are they that vsed circumcision. Thei ordre their wryting frō their right hande towarde their left, contrary to vs. It was the maner emonge them

Affrike.

them, that the menne shold weare two garmentes at ones, the women but one.
As the Aethiopes had, so learned they of them, two maner of lettres: the one seve-rall to the priestes choicer vsed in commune. Their priestes, every thirde daye shaued their bodies, that there might be none occasio v[er] filthinesse wh[en] they shold ministre, or sacrifice. They did weare garmentes of linnen, euer cleane wasshed, and white: and shoes of a certeine kinde of rusches, named Papyrus, whiche afcre became stiffe, to geue name to our paper.
They neither sette beane their selues, ne eate them where soever they grewe: no the priest may not loke vpon a beane, for that it is iudged an uncleane puls. They are wasshed every daye in colde water thise, and every nighte twise. The hea-des of their sacrifices (for that they vsed to curse them with many terrible woozdes) did they not eate, but either the priestes solde them to such strangiers as had trade emonge them, or if there ware no suche ready in time, they thrawe them in to Pilus.

All the Egypcians offer in sacrifice, neither cowe, ne calfe, because they are halowed

53

Affrike.

Hallowed to Isis their goddesse, but bulles, and bulle calves, or oxen, and stieres. For their meate they use, moche a kynde of pancake made of rye meale. Ifor lacke of grapes they use wyne made of Barly. They live also with fishe, either dried in the Sonne and so eaten rawe, or elles kept in piske. They fiede also vpon birdes, and foules, fritte salted, and then eaten rawe. Quaile, and mailard, are not bus for the richer sorte. At all solempne suppers, when a nomber is gathered, and the tables withdrawen, some one of the company carieth aboute in an open case, the image of death, caruen out of wodde, or drawen with the pencille as nere to the vine as is possible, of a cubite, or two cubites long at the mosse. Who shewynge it aboute to every of the gesses, saith, loke here: drinke, and be mery, for aftre thy death, suche shalt thou be. The yonger yf they miete their auncient, or bettre, vpon the waye, giue them place, going somewhat aside: or yf the aunsiente fortune to come in place where they are sitting, they arise out of their seate. wherin they agre with the Lacedemonies. Wher he thei miete in the waye, they do reverence to ech other.

D.J. ther

Affrike.

ther, bowing their bodies, and letting fal their handes on their knres. They weare longe garmentes of lynnен, demmed about the skirtes beneth, whiche they calle Lassilras: ouer the which they thowen on another white garment also. Wollen apparelle thei neither weare to the churche, ne bewry anyenan in.

Nowe forasmuche as they afore time that euere excelled in anye kinde of learning, or durst take vpon them to prescribe lawe, and rule of life unto other, as Orpheus, Homere, Museus, Melampode, Dedalus, Licurgus, Solon, Plato, Pithago-ras, Samolxis, Eudoxus, Democritus, Ino-pides, and Moses the Hebrue, with ma-nye other, whose names the Egypcians glorie to be cronicled with theim: trauestled first to the Egypcians, to learne em-gest them bothe wisedome, and politique ordre (wherein at those daies they passed all other) me thinketh it pleasaunte and necessarie also, to stande somewhat vpon their maners, ceremonies and Lawes, that it may be knowen what they, & son-dry moe haue borowed of the, and translated unto other. For (as Philip Beralde writeth in his commentary vpon A-puleius

Affrike.

55 puleius booke , entituled the Golde Alse) the mosste parte of the deuices that we vse in our Christian religion,ware borrowed out of the maner of Thegiptians. As surpluis and rochet , and suche linnen garmentes: shauen crownes , tourninges at the altare,our masse solempnites,our organes,our knielinges,crouchinges,prayers , and other of that kinde . The kinges of Egipte(saith Diodore the Sicilian in his seconde booke) lited not at rouers as other kinges doe,as thonghe me lusteth ware lawe, but bothe in their monie collections , and dailly fare and apparel, folowed the bridle of the lawe. They had neither slauie that was homeborne, ne slauie that was forein bought, appointed to attende orawaite vpon them. But the sonnes of those that ware priestes of honour, bothe aboue thage of twentie yeares, & also singulerly learned . That the king hausing these attendant for the body both by daie and by night, restrained by the reuerence of the company about hym night commit nothing that was vicious, or dishonourable . For men of power are seldome euil, where they lacke ministres for their unlawfull lustes . There ware

D.ij. appointed

Affrike.

Appointed houres, bothe of the daye and the night, in the whiche the kinge myghte lawfully doe, what the Lawe did permis.
In the morning, assone as he was ready, it behooved hym to peruse al lettres, supplications, and billes: that knowing what was to be done, he myght giue aunswere in tyme: that all thinges myght rightlie, and ordrely be done. These being dispatched, whē he had washed his bodie emōg the Preleres of þ Realme, he put on some robe of estate, and Sacrified to the god-des. The maner was, that the Primate, or head of the spirituality (þe beastes appointed for the sacrifices being brought harde to the altare, and the Kynge standing by) should with a loude voice, in the hearing of the people, wylshē to the king (that bare hym selfe fustely towarde his subiectes) prosperous healthe, and good fortune in all. And should further particularly recite the vertues of the king, his deuoutnes and reuerence towarde God, and clemency towarde men. Commende him as chaste, feste, and vpright: of noble and great courage, sothfaste, liberal, and one that well brideled al his desires. Pur-nishing thoffendour vnder his descrees, and

57

Affrike.

and rewarding the well doer aboue his merites. Making a processe of these, and such other like in the ends with the rehersalle of the contrary vices , he cursed the wicked & euil. Then absoluing the King of his offences, he laied all the faulie vpon the ministres, and attendauntes, y shold at any tyme moue the king to any thing vnright, or vnlawfull. These thinges beinge done, he preached vnto the King the pleasure of the goddes, and exhorted him thervnto : as also to frame his maners & doinges vnto vertue, & not to giue eare to that, that leude me shold counsaile him, but to followe those chynges that led vna-to honour and vertue. In thende, whant the King had sacrificed a bulle, the prieſt declared certain preceptes and examples of excellente, & moſte worthy men: written in their holy scripture. To thende that the Rynge admonished by the example of them, might ordre his gouernaunce iustlye, and godly , and not geue hym ſelſe to coultonis cloſynge , and houydynge of treſure. He neither ſatte to iudge, ne toke his vacacion, ne walked abrode , ne walched at home , ne laye with his wifene , ne fi-

D. iii. nally

Affrike.

nally did any maner of thing, but vpon the prescripte of the lawe.

Their fare was but simple, nothing but beale, and goose, and their wine by measure appointed. So that thone shoulde nether ouerlade the bealy, ne the other the heade. To conclude, their whole life so bounde vpon empraunce, that it might be thoughte rather to haue bene prescribed them by a discrete Phisican to preserue helthe, then by a politique Lawyer.
It semeth wondrefull that the Egyptians myght not rule their owne priuate life, but by the Lawes. But it semeth more wonderfull that their King had no liberty of hym selfe, either to sitte in iudge-ment, to make collections of money, or to punishe any man, vpon wilfulness, stoute Comacke, angre, displeasure, or anye viniuste cause: But to be holden vnder lawe as a commune subiecte, and yet not to be agreed therwith, but to thincke them sel-ues mosse blessed in obeyeng & folowyng the lawe, and other in folowing their lu-ffes most vnhappy. As besyng led by them into many daunglers, and damages.
For suche oftentimes, euuen when they know them selues to do euil, either ouer-come

39

Affrike.

come with malice, and hatred, or some other mischiefe of the minde, are not able to withholden hem selues from the euille. But they which by wisedome and discrecion, gouerne their lynes, offend in fewe thinges. The kinges vsing iuste an equi-te, and vprightnes towarde their subdi-ties, are so tendred againe of them, that not onely the priestes, but all the Egiptians in generall, haue more care for the health and the welfare of the King, then for their wifes, their chldren, or any other princes.

He that to his death continueth in this goodnesse, him being dead, do they in general lamente. They teare their clothes, they shut vp ychurche dores, they haunte no place of wonke comune concourse, they omyte all solempne holy daies: and girding them selues vnder the pappes with brode Ribbond of Sarseret, two or thre hundred on a company, men and women together, renewe every daye twise, thre skoze & .xxii. daies together, the buriall bewailing, casting dirre on their heades, and singing in rithme the vertue of the Kinge. They abstaine from al fleshe of beastes, all meates y touche fire, all wine

D. iiiij. and

Affrike.

and all preparation of seruise at the table. They bathe not, they smel of no swieres, they goe to no beddes, they pleasure not in women: but as folkes that had buried their beloued childe, all that costimaunce of time they lamente. During these seuenty and two daies (hauyng prepared all thinges necessarie for the funerall pompe: the laste daye of all, the bodie beynge enbaulmed and cofred, is sette before the entrie of the Toombe. There, aftre the custome, one redeth an abridgemente of all the thinges done by the king in his life. And if there be any man disposed to accuse the deade, libertie is giuen him. The prestes are present, & euer give praise to his well-doinges, as they be rec-red. Ther sondry also rounde about the Toombe a multitude of the communes, whch with their voices allowe as muche as is crewe, and crie out upon that, that is false, with vehement gainsaienges. Wher-by it hath happened, that sondry kynges by the repugnynges of the people haue dien vroombed: and haue lacked the ho-noure of bewrialle, that the good are wonte to hane. That feare, hath driven the kynges of Aegipte, to live iustly, and uprightly,

Affrike.

Up rightly, lesse the people afstre their dea-thes, might shewe them suche dishonour, and beare them perpetuall hatred. This was the maner specially, of the auncient kynges there.

The whole realme of Egypce was diuided into Shieres: and to every Shiere was appointed a Presidente, whiche had the gouernance of the whole Shiere.
The reuenewes of the realme ware diuided into. iii. partes: wherof the companie of the priestes had the first parte, whiche ware in greace, estimacion, emong them, bothe for the administracion of Goddes Seruice, and also for the good learnyng, wherin they brought vp many. And this portion was given them, partly for the administracion of the Sacrifices, & partely for the vse and commoditie of their priuate life. For they neither chinke it mete, that any parte of the honour of the Goddes shoud bee omitted, or that they, whiche are Ministres of the commune counsaill and profete, shoud be destitute of necessary commodities of the life. For these menne are alwaie in matters of weighe, called vpon by the nobles, for their wisedome and counsaile: And to shewe

Affrike.

She we (as thei can by their conyng in the Planettes, and Starres, and by the maner of their Sacrifices) the happe of thinges to come. Thei also declare vnto the, the storie of men of olde tyme, regested in their holy Scripture, to the ende that accordyng to the the kynges mate learne what shall prestighe, or disprefighe. For the maner is not emong them, as it is emong the Grecians, that one manne, or one woman, should attende vpon the sacrifices and Ceremonies alone: but thei are many at ones aboute the honour of their Goddes, and teache the same ordre to their children. This sorte of menne is pruileged, and exempte from all maner of charges, and hath next vnto the kyng, the second place of dignitie and honour.

The second porcion cometh to the king to mainte in his owne state, and the charges of the warres: and to shewe liberaltie to men of prowesse according to their worthinesse. So that the Communes are neither burdoned with taxes nor tributes.

The thirde parte do the pensionaries of the warres receive, and suche other as vpon occasions are mustered to the warres,

Affrike.

res: that vpon the regard of the stipende, thei maie haue the better good wille and courage , to hasarde their bodies in bat-talle. Their communaltie is deuided in to thre sortes of people . Husbande men, Brieders of cattle, and men of occupaciō The Husbandmen buyeng for a litle money a piece of grounde of the P̄iestes, the king, or the warriour: al daies of their life, euen from their chidhode, continually applie that care. W̄ h̄ereby it cometh to passe , that bothe for the skoolyng that thei haue therin at their faihers handes, and the continuall praeslyng fro their youthe , that thei passe all other in Husbandrie.

The Brieders, astre like maner,learnyng the trade of their fathers , occupie their whole life therabout. We see also that all maner of Sciences haue bene muche bettred, yea, brought to the toppe of perfection, emong the Egiptians. For the crastes men there, not medlyng with any commune matiers that myghte hin-dze theim, emploie theim selues onely to such sciences as the lawe doeth permit them, or their faiher hath taught the. So that thei neither disdaine to be taughte,

Affrike.

nor the hatred of eche other, ne anything elles withdraweth them fro their crafte.

Their Judgementes and Sentences of lawe, are not given there at aduenture, but vpon reason: for thei surely thought that all thinges well done, miche nedes be profitable to mannes life. To punishe the offendours, and to helpe the oppresed, thought thei the best waie to auoide mischiefes. But to buye of the punishmente for money or fauour, that thought thei to be the very confusion of the commune welfare. Wherfore thei chase out of the chief cities (as Heliopole, Memphis, and Thebes) the worthiest men, to be as Lordes chief Justice, or Presidents of Judgements, so that their Justice benche did seme to giue place, neither to the Areopagites of the Athenienses, ne yet to the Senate of the Lacedemonians that many a daie after theim ware iusticed. After what tyme these chief Justices ware assembled (thirtie in nombre) thei chase out one that was Chauncellour of the whole: and when he failed, the citie appointed another in his place. All these had their liuynges of the kyng: but the Chauncellour moze honorably then
the

Affrike.

the rest. He bare alwaies about his necke a tablette, hangyng on a chaine of golde, and sette full of sundrie pretious stones, whiche they called Veritie and Truthe.
The courte beyng set and begunne, and the tablet of Truthe by the Chauncellour laid furche, & the eight bookees of their lawes (for so many had they) brought furth into the middes emong them: it was the maner for the plaintife to putte into wri-tyng the whole circumstance of his case, and the maner of the wrong doone unto him, or how muche he esteemed himselfe to be endamaged thereby. And a tyme was giuen to the defendant to write answere again to euery pointe, and either to deny that he did te, or elles to alledge that he rightfully did it, or elles to abare the estimate of the damage or wrōg. Then had they another date appointed, to saie finally for the selues. At the whiche date whē the parties on bothe sides ware herd, and the judges had conferred their opinions, the Chauncellour of the Judges gave sentence by pointing with the tablet of Ve-ritie, toward the parte þ seemed to be true.
This was þ maner of their judgements.
And forasmuche as we are fallen into menctione

Affrike.

mention of their iudgements, it shalb not be unsyntyngh with myne enterprise, to write also the aunciente Lawes of the Egypcians, that it maie be knownen how muche they passe, bothe in ordre of chynges, and profite.

If yrr to be persured was headyng: for they thought it a double offence. One in regarde of cosciēce not kept toward god, and an other in gyuyng occasion to destroy credite among men, whiche is the chiekest bonde of their felowship. If any wayfaryng man shuld espy a man sette vpon with thieues, or otherwyse to be wronged, and dyd not te his power succour & ayde hym, he was gyltie of death.
If he ware not able to succour and to reskewr hym, then was he bounde to bittre the thieues, and to prosecute the matter to enditement. And he that so dyd not, was punyshed with a certayne nombre of stripes, and was kept thre days without meate. He that shuld accuse any man wrongfully, if he fortuned afterward to be broughte into iudgement, he suffered the punishment ordeyned for false accusers. All the Egypcians ware compelled to bryng every man their names to
the

Affrike.

the chieke Justices, and the faculte or sentence wherby they liued. In the which behalfe if any man lyed, or lyued with unlauffull meanes, he felle into penaltie of death. If any man willyngly had slaine any man free or bond, the lawes condemned hym to die, not regardyng the state of the man, but the malicious purpose of the diede, wherby they made men afraid to doe mischief, and death beyng executed for the death of a bondman, the free myght goe in more laufstie. For the fathers that lewe their chyldren, there was no pnyshement of death appoynted, but an insunction that they shoulde stande thre daies and thre nyghtes together at the graue of the deade, accompanied with a common warde of the people to see the chyng done. Neyther dyd it semme them fylle, that he that gaue life to the childe, should lose his life for the childes death, but rather be put to continual sorowe, and to be pyned with the repentence of the diede, that other myght ther by bewitchdawen from the like wyckednes. But for the chyld that kyllled either father or mother, they denised this kynd of synguler torment. They thruste hym through

Affrike.

through wch riedes sharped for the nos-nes, in every toynt all ouer his body, and caused hym quicke to be throwen vpon a heape of Thorne s, and so to bee burned.
Judgyng that there could not be a greater wicchednes cunong men, then to take awaie the life, from one that had giuen life vnto hym. If any woman with child ware condempned to dye, thei abode the tyme of her deliueraunce notwithstanding dying: for that thei judged it farre from all equitie, that the gilteles should dye together with the gilte. Or that ii. should be punished, where but one had offendid.
Who so had in battaille or warre, with-drawen hymself from his bande, forsak-ken his place in the arraie, or not obeied his capitaigne: was not condempned to dye, but suffered for his punishmente a notable reproche smōg the whole armie.
As estiemed but a villaine, vntill with-his forswardnes and wel doyng, he could weare into estimacion again, & at length be restored to his former estate. And that law so grew into memries stonacques that thei thought suche kind of reproche, of all punishmentes the woorste, & more greuous then death. Who so had disclosed.

Affrike.

Sed any secrete to the ennemise, the Lawe commaūded his tongue to be cutte out of his heade. And who so clipped the coigne or countrefacted it, or chaunged the stāpe or diminished the wrighte: or in lettres and writinges, shoulde adde any thing, by entrelinyng, or otherwise: or shoulde guilde out any thyng, or byng a forged evidence, Obligacion or Wille, bothe his handes ware cutte of. That suche parte of the bodie as had offended, mighie for euer beare the punishmente therof: and the residue takyng warnyng by his example, might shonne the like.

There ware also sharpe punishmentes constitute, in offences concerningyng wo-men. For he that had deflowered a free woman, had his membris cutte of, be-cause in one offence, he had committed thre no smalle wickedneses. That is to say, wrong, made the woman an whoze, and brought in a double the laufulnes of her issue. But they that ware taken in adulterie, bothe partes byeng agreed, the man was whippēd with a thoulande stripes by tale: and the woman had her nose cut of, wherwith beside þ shame she had, the whole beautie of her face was disgraced,

C. i. and

Affrike.

and disfigured.

The Lawes that apperteigned to the trade and occupieng of men, one with another: ware made (as thei saie) by one Bocchorides. It is commaunded in them, that if money haue bene lent any manne without wryting, vpon credite of his woord: if the borower deny it, he shoulde be put to his othe, to the whiche the cedour muste stande. For thei so muche esteemed an othe, that thei thoughte no man so wicked, as wilfully to abuse it. And again, because he that was noted to sware very ofte, lost viterly his credite, and name: many menne affirme, that for the regard of their honesties, it happened very seldomme, that any man came to his othe. Their Lawe maker also, iudgyng that vertue was the engēdzer of credite, thoughte it good by good ordres to accusome men to good liuyng and honestie, vpon feare to sieme vnworhie of all reputacion. He thought it also to be against conscience, that he that without an othe had borrowed, shoulde not nowe for his own beleuued with an othe. The forfeit for non payment of the lone, mough not bee aboue the double of the somme that was

Affrike.

Was borowed. And payment was made only of the goodes of the borower, the body was not arrestable. For the Lawes maker thought it conueniente, that ones ly the goodes shold bee subdice to the debte, and the bodies (whose seruice was required bothe in peace and in warre) subiecte to the citie. It was not thoughte to bee Justice, that the manne of warre, whiche hasardeth his bodie for the sauf-tie of his countrie, shold for an enterest of lone, bee thrownen into prisone. The whiche lawe, Solon stementh to haue translated to the Athenienses, vnde the name of the lawe, Sisarea decreeyng that the body of no citizein, shold for any maner of enterest be empsoned.

The egyprians also for theenes, had this lawe alone, and no people els. The lawe commaunded that as many as would steale, shold entre their names with the chief Prieste: and what so ever was stollen, incontinente to carry the same unto hym. Likewise, he that was robbed was bovind to entre with the said Chiefe Priest, the daie, time and houre, when he was robbed. By this meanes the thefie being easely founde out, he that was rob-

E.ij. b:d

Affrike.

ved, losse the fourthe parte and recevued the residue, the whiche fourthe was giuen to the thiefe. For the Lawe maker (seing it was impossible utterly to be withoute thieues) thought it moche bettre by this meanes that men bare the losse of a piece then to be spoiled of the whole.

The ordre of Mariage emong the Egyptians is not vniiforme, for the priest micht mary but one onely wife. All other haue as many as they wille, according to their substance. Ther is no child emong them, though it be borne of a bought woman slave, that is compted illegitimate.
For they onely conte the father to be the authour of his kynde, and the mother onely but to gene place and nourishement to the childe. When their childe be borne they bring them vp with so lycle coste, as a man would skantly belseue. They fiede them with the rootes of mererushes, and other rootes, rosted in the embries, and with marshe Lanbois, and colewortes which partly they seathe, and partly they rost, and parte giue them rawe. They go for the moste parte withoute hosen or shoes, all naked, the contry is so temperate. All the coste that the Parentes befowe

Affrike.

Fowe on their children til they be of age to shifte for themselues, surmounteth not the somme of a noble.

The priestes bring vp the childre, both in the doctrine of their holpe scriptures, and also in the other kindes of learning necessary for the commune life, and chiefly in Geometry and Arithmetique. As for the ronghe exercises of wraesteling, ronning, daunsing, playeng at weapons, thowyng þ barre or suchelike, thei train not their youth in, supposyng that the daily exercise of suche, shoulde be to ronghe, and daungerous for them, and that they should be an impeiryng of strenght. Musique they doe not onely compte vnyprofistable, but also hurtful: as making mens courages altogether womanlyke. When they are sick, they heale them selues, ey-ther with fasting or vomiting: & that ey-ther every eche other daye, or every third daye, or fourthe. For they are of opinion that all diseases growe of superfluite of meate, and that kinde of cure therfore to be bette, that riddeþ the grunde of the griefe. Men goyng to the warres, or travellinglyng the countrie, are healed of free-cost. For the Phisicens, & Chirurgiens, E. iii. haue

Affrike.

hane a stpende allowed them of ordena-ry at the charge of the communes.

In curing, they are bounde to folowe the preceptes of the auncient and allowed writers, regestred in their holy scripture. If a man folowing the prescripte of the scriptures can not so heale y sick, he is not blamed for that: But yf he fortune to heale him by any other meanes then is in the scripture appointed, he dieth for it. For the lawe giuer thoughte that it was harde to finde a bettre waye of curing, then that which of suche anquarie was by longe practise founde oute and allowed, and deliuered unto them by suche a continuance. The Egypcians do worship aboue measure certeine beautes, not onely whilst they be onlie, but also when they are dead. As the Catte, the Inewmon the dogge, the hauke, the woulfe, the Locodrille, and many other like. They are not onely not ashamed to professe the worship of these openly, but setting them selues out in the honouring of them to the vttermosse: they compe it asmuch praise and glory to them selues, as yf they bestowed the like on the God-des. And they go about on processio with the

Affrike.

the propre Images of them, from cese, to citie, and from place, to place: holding them vp and shewing them a farre of vnto other, which fall on their knees, and euery one worship them. When any one of them dieth, they couer it with Sarce-net, and houling, and crieng, and bearing of their brestes they all to bestrawe the carckesse with salte. And astre they haue enbalmed it with the licour of the Ledze and other fragraunt oyntmentes, and oyles, to preserue it the longer: then bew-rye it in holy sepulture. If a man haue ayne any of these beastes willingly: he is condemned to death. But ys he haue slaine a catte or a snyte, willingly or unwillingly: the people ronneth vpon him vpon heapes, and withoute all ordre of Justice or lawe, in moste miserable wise torment him to death. Upon feare of the which daungier who soever espieth one of those lyng dead: standing a farre, he howleth and crieth professing that he is not giltie of y death. These beastes with great attendaunce and chardge are kept vp aboute che cloistres of the Temple, by men of no meane reputation: whiche slede them with floure and otemeale,

E. iiiij. and

Affrike.

and divers deinties, soppes and steepes in milke. And they set every daie before them goose, bothe loddē and rostē. And before those that delight al in raw meate they sette birdes and rawe foules . Finally as I said they kiepe them all with great diligence and coste. They lament their death as moche as the death of their owne children, & bury them more sumptuuously then their substance doth stretch.
In so moche that Ptolomeus Lagus reigning in Egyp̄t, when there chaunced a cowe to die in Memphis, for very age; he that had taken charge of the kepyng of her, bestowed vpon the buriall of her (beside a greate somme of mony that was givēn him for the keping) fiftie talentes of siluer, that he borrowed of Ptolome.
Peraduenture these thynges will seme vnto some men to wondreful: but he wil wondre as moche yf he consider what com-munely is done emonge euery of the Egyptians in the funeralle of their deade.

When any man is departed his lyfe, all his niere friendes and kindessoske, þrowing dircē vpo their heades, go wri-ping and wailing rounde about the citie vntile the Corps be buried . And in the meane

Affrike.

ane ane season they neyther bathe, ne drincke wine, or eate any meate, but that that is most base & vile, ne weare any ap-parell that is gorgeous or faire. They haue thre sortes of Sepulchres, Humpu-ous, meane, and basse. In the firste sorte they bestowe a talence of siluer. Aboute the seconde, twenty Markes, and aboute the thirde litle or nothing. There be certaine Pheretrers, whose facultie it is to sette forthe burialles, whiche learne it of their fathers and teache it their childre.
These when a funeral happeneth, make vnto him that is doer for the deade, an estimate of the exequies in writing, whiche the doer may at his pleasure enlarge or make lesse. When ther are ones fallen at appoynte, the bodye is deliuered to the Pheretrer to bee enterred acordyng to the rate that they agreed vpon. Then the bodie being laid foorth, commeth the Pheretrers chiese cutter, and he ap-pointeth his vndrecutter a place on the side haulfe of the paunce, wher to make incision, and how large. Then he with a Sharpe stone (whiche of the country fro whence it cometh, they call Echiopicus) openeth the lef side as farre as the lawe

C.v. permitteth,

Affrike.

permitteth. And streight with all spede ronneth his waye fro the company standing by, whiche curse him and revile him and chrowe many stones astre him. For they thinke there yet remaineth a cer-teine hatre due unto him that wondeth the body of their frinde. Those that are the sealoners and embalmers of the body (whome they calle poulderers) they haue in greate honour and estimacion, for that they haue familiarite with the priestes, and entre the temples together with them. The bodye nowe commen to their handes, one emong all (the reste standing by) unlaceth the entrailes, and draweth them out at the foresaide incision, all sauynge the kidneis, and the harte.
These entrailes are taken by another at his hande, and wasshed in wine of the country Phenicea, wherin are enfused many soote odours and drugges. Then enolincte they the whole bodye ouer, firsst with Cedre, and then with other oynctemetes. xxx. daies & aboue. Then do they ceare it ouer with Mirrhe & Linastome and suche other thinges as wil not onely preserue it to continuaunce, but also make it soote smelling. The Corps thus being trimmed

Affrike.

ermined, is deliuered to þ kindesfolke of þ deade, euery parte of it kepte so whole (not an heare of his browes or eye liddes being hurte) þ it rather lieth like one be- ing in sliepe then like a dead corps. Be- fore þ body be enterred, þ kindesfolke of the deade signeþ to the iudges, and the frendes of this passed, þ day of þ burial. Whiche (according to the maner then basd) thei terme the deades passaige ouer the mere. The maner wherof is this.

The iudges, aboue. ri. in nomber, sit- tinge on the farther side of the mere, on a copassed benche wheling hauke roude and þ people standing about them: The body is put into a little boate made for the nones, and drawen ouer to the iudges by a chord. The body then standing be- fore the iudges in the sight of the people, before it be cofred, if ther be any manne that haue aught to saye against the dead, he is permitted by the lawe . If any be proued to haue lined euyll, the iudges geue sentence that the bodye shall not be buried . And who so is founde vniusfre- lye to haue accused, suffreth greate pu- nishmente therfore. When no manne wyll accuse, or he that accused is knownen to

Affrike.

to haue slaunderously done it, the knyng folke endyng their mournyng: tourne them selues now to the prayse of þ dead, nothing astre the maner of the Grecians, for that the Egyprians thinke them selues all to be gentlemen alise. But beginnyng at his childehode, in the whiche ther reherse his bringing vp, nourcering and scholyng, thei passe to his mannes age, their commending his godlines, his iustice, his temperaunce, & the residewe of his vertues. And calling vpon the vndeare earthe, goddes, they beseche them to place him emonge the godlye and good. To the which wordes allthe whole multitude crieth Amen: shalwyng oute, and magnifieng the glorie of the deade, as though he they shoulde be with the vnder earth goddes, among þ blessed for euer. This done euery man burleth his dead, some in Sepulchres made for the purpose, and other that haue no suche preparation, in their strongest wall at home in their house, setting vp þ cofre ther tabernacle wyse. But they that for some offence, or debte of enterest, or suche like, are denied their bewtall, are sette vp at home without any cofre, vntile their successours

Affrike.

ressours growyng to abilitie canne dis-chardge their debtes and offeces, and honourably bewrie them.

There is a maner emong them, somestyme to borowe money vpon their par-tes corpses, deliueryng the bodies to the creditors in pledge. And who so redemeth theim not, ronneth into vtter infamie, and is at his death, denied his bew-riall. A manne (not altogether causeles) micht merueile, that thei could not becontente to constitute lawes for the fra-myng of the maners of those that are onlyve, but also put ordre for the exequies, and Hearses of the deade. But the cause why thei bent them selues so muche her-vnto, was for that thei thought ther was no bettre waie possible, to draine men to honestie of life. The Grekes, which haue set furthe so many thynges in fained tales, and fables of Poetes (farre aboue credite) concernyng the rewarde of the good, and punishment of the euill: could not with all their deuices, drawe men to virtue, and withdrawe them from vices.
But rather contrarwaise, haue with them that be leudely disposed: broughte all together in contempte and derision. But amonge

Affrike.

mong the Egypciāns, the punishment due unto the wicked and lewde , and the praise of the godlie and good , not heard by tales of a cubbe, but sene dately at the eye: putteth both partes in remēbraunce what behoueth in this life, & what fāre and opinion thei shall leave of them sel-ues, to their posteritte . And heroppon ic riseth, that every man gladly emong thē, ensueth good ordre of life : And to make an ende of Thegipciās, me siemeth those Lawes are of very righte to be compred the besse, whiche regardē not so muche to make the people riche , as to aduaunce theim to honestie and wisedome , wheres riches of necessitie must folowe.

C The. vi. Chapitre.

C Of the Poeni, and thother peoples of Aþrique.

If the Penois there are many and sondrie naciōs. Adrimachidæ leng toward Egypce, are like of maners to Thegipciās, but their apparell is like to the other Penois. Their wives

Affrike.

Wines haue vpon ethel legge, a houpe of Latton. Thei delight in long heare, and ooke what lyce it fortuneth any of them to take aboute them: thei bite theim, and thowre theim awate, the whiche proprie-tie, thei onely of all the Woent haue. As also to present their maidens that are vpon mariage, to the kyng, whiche choo-syng emong them the maiden that liketh hem beste, sieketh in her lappe, that astrecan never bee founde. The Nasamones (a greate and a terrible nacion, spoilers of such Shippes as fortune to bee thro-wen vpon the Sandes in the Streightes) towarde Sommer, leauyng their cattle upon the Sea coaste, goe downe into the plaine countrie to gacher Dates, whiche are there very faire, and in greate plen-tie. Thei gather the boughes with the fruite, not yet perfectly ripe, and lase them a Sonnyng to ripe. Afterward thei stiepe theim in Milke, and make soupinges and potages of theim. It is the maner emong theim, for euery man to haue many wines: and the felowship of their wines, that other vse in secrete: thei vse in open sight, in maner astre the facion we could not understand vnd 100 shillings that they had

Affrike.

that the Massagetes vse. It is also the maner of the Nasamones, when any man mariech his first wife, to sende her about to every one of the ghesutes, to offer hym her body. And as many as receiuē her into armes, and shewe her the curtesie she comes for, must giue her some gifte, whiche she hath borne with her, home to her house. Their maner of takyng an othe, & foreshewynge of thynges to come, is thus.

Thei sweare by the menne that ware (by reporte) the best and mosse iustement emong thē, layeng their handes on their Graues, or Tumbes. But for the fore knowledge of thynges, thei come to the Graues of their kyndreade, and there when thei haue prayed their stinte, laye them doune vpon them to slepe: and looks what thei dreame, that doe thei folowe. Where in confirming of our promise, we vse to strike hādes (as we calle it) thei vse to drincke one to another: or elles if thei lacke liuour, to take dusse fro the earth, and one to licks parte of that to another. The Garamantes shonne the felowship and the sighte of all other peoples: and neither vse any kinde of weapon, or armour, ne yet dare defende them selues against

Affrike.

gainsst other that vsed them. They dwelt somwhat aboue the ~~Nasamones~~, moze vp londe. Aboue the sea coaste towarde the weste, ther bordereth vpon them the Maces: whiche shauie their heades in the crowne, and clyppe them rounde by the sides. The Gnidanes (nexte neighbours to the Maces) when they gane battaylle to the ostriches, their barding vnder the grounde, are armed with rawe felles of beastes. Their women ware prettye weales of leather, every one a greate manye whiche (as it is sayde) they begge of sache menne as haue lien with them. So that the more she hath, the more she is esteemed, as a deinty derling beloued of many. The Machlies dwelling aboue the mershe of Tritonides, vse to shauie their foreparte of their heade, and the Anses their hindre parte. The maydens of the Anses, at the yerely feastes of Minerua, in the honoure of the goddesse their countrywoman: dividing them selues into two companies, vse to give batteile; one parte to another with staves, and with stones: sayeng that they obserue the maner of their country in the honoure of her that we calle Minerua. And the

F. i. maiden

Affrike.

maiden that departeth the battayle with out wounde, ther holde her for no maide.
But before ther battayle be fought, they determine that what mayde so euer beareth her selfe mooste valeaunte in the fielde, all the other maydens with commune consente shall garnishe her, and arme her, bothe with the armour of Gre-cia, and the helme of Lorinthe. And that sette her in a chariot, & carpe her rounde about the mershe. The same menne bsen their women as indifferetly commune, as kyn to the bulle. The children re-maine with the women until they be of some strengthe. Dnes in a quartre the men do assemble wholy together, & then ooke with whome the childe fantasieh mooste to abyde, hym do they compye for his father.

There is a people named Atlantes, of the mounte Athlas, by the whiche they dwell. These give no names one to another as other peoples do, but eche man is namelesse. When the sonne passeth ouer their heades, they curse him, and rayple him with all woordes of mischiefe: for that he is so brouling hote, that he destroi-eth bothe them and ther countrey.

They

Affrike.

They eate of no kynge of beaste, neither dreame in their sliepe. The Aphres (whiche are all brieders of catteile) live with fleshe and milke, and yet abyteine they fro cowes milke, and all cowe fleshe, according to the maner of the Egypcians, and therfore kepe they none vp. The wemen of Lytene thincke it not lawfull to strike a cowe, for Ihs sake that is honoured in Egyp, to whome also they appoinete fasting, and feastfull daies, and obserue them solemynly. But the wome of Barcea abyteine bothe fro cowe fleshe and sowen flesh. When their chyldeyn are iiiii. yeare olde they vse to canterise them on the coron baine (and some on the temples also) with a medecine for that purpose, made of woolle as it is plucked fro the shiepe: because thei shold not at any tyme be troubled with rheumes or posies, and by that meanes they say they liue in very good health. Thei sacrifice after this maner. When in the name of their firsste frutes they haue cutte of the eare of the beaste, they thowen it ouer the house. That done, they wring the necke on the one syde. Of all the goddes they offre sacrifice to no more but Sonne & Mone.

F.ij. All

Affrike.

All the Aphres burye their deade as the Grecians doe, sauing the Nasamones, which bury them as though they ware kiting: waptyng well when any man li-eth in drawing on, to set him on his tasse, leaste he shold giue vp the ghoste lieng upright. Their houses are made of wic-kers, and withes, wrought aboute trees, moch like vnto thole that we calle frāckenēce trees, and in suche sorte that they may courne them rounde every waye.
The Maries, haue the leste side of their heade, and lette the heare growe on the right. They die their bodie in radde, and vaunte that they come of the Troianes.
The women of the Zabiques (which are the nextneighbours to the Maries) drinē the cartes in the warres, in the which the men fight. Ther are a people called Zi-gantes, wher beside the great plensye of hony that they gather fro the Wies, they haue also certeine men that are makers of honye. They all die them selues with red, and eate apes fleshe, wherof thei that dwel in the mountaines haue great plen-sye. These al being of the part called Li-bye, liue for the moste parte a wilde lyfe abrode in the fieldes like beastes, making

Affrike.

King no household prouision of meate, ne wearing any maner of apparel but go-ges felleis. The gentlemē, and men of honour emong thē, haue neither cities nor townes, but Turrettes builte vpon the waters syde, in the whiche they laye vp the ouerplus of that that they occupy. They sweare their people every yere to obeye their Prince, and that they that obey in die de, shoulde loue together as felowes and companions: but that the disobedience shoulde be pursued like felons and traitours. Their armour and weapō, are bothe according to the nature of the country and contrimen: for wher thei of them selues are very quicke, and deliure of bo-dye, and the country champaigne, and playne, they neither use swarde, dagger, ne harness, but onely cary thre Ja-uelines in their hande, and a nombre of pisted and chosen stones, in a case of stiffe leather hāgging aboute them. With these they use bothe to fight and to skirmishe.
 In his coming towarde the ennemy, he throweth his stome, fetching his ronne, and maketh lightlye a narowe mysse, though he it be a good waye of: suche continuall practise they haue of it. They

I. iii.

Kiepe

Affrike.

siepe neither lawe ne faiche.

The Troglodites (whiche are also named of the Grecians pastours, for their feeding and brieding of catteille) a people of Ethiope, do lyue in companies, & haue their heade ouer them, whome they call Tiraunte. But not meaninge in him so much tirany in diede, as some time some of our gouernours vndre a fayrer name do execute. None of them hathe any severall wife, and therfore no seueral children, but bothe those in commune, the tiraunte excepted : who hathe but one wyfe onely. To the which ys any manne do but approche or drawe nigh : he is condemned in a certeine nombre of catteille to be paied to the Tiraunte.

From þ beginning of July vntill about midde August (at þ which time thei haue great plenty of raine) thei nourishe them selues with milke, and blounde, sodden a little together. The pasture vplōd being, dried away with the heate of the Sonne: They sieke downe to the marshes, & lowe groundes, for the whiche onely they be often at debate. When their catteil wareth olde or sicke, they kyll them, and eate them, & altogether live vpon such. They do

Affrike.

do not gine the childe the name of the fath̄er, but name him afre a bull, a rambe or an eawe. And thos call hei fath̄er (the beastes I meane of the masle kindē) and thother of the femel kynde, they call mother, because ther dally sode is giuen by them. The people called Idiote, vse for their drincke the iuyce of a whinne named Paliurus. But the men of worshyp and gentlemen vse the iuce of a certeine floure they haue emonge them, whiche maketh drincke moche like the worste of y Renishe musse. And because thei carpe great droves of cattle with them, they chaunge their soile often. Their bod̄es are all naked, sauing their priuities, wh̄e they hide with selles of beastes. All the Troglodites are circūcised after the maner of the Egyprians, sauing only the Claudians: which they so terme of clau- dicacion or limping. They onely, dwel- linge from their childehode within the country of the Hesternes, are not tou- ched with rasour or knife. The Troglo- dites that are called Magaueres, carpe for theyz armour and weapon, a rounde buckler of a rawe ore hide, and a clubbe shodde with yron. Other haue bowes, &

F. lxxii.

Javelins

Affrike.

Gaulines. As for graues or places of buriall, they passe not. For they binde the heade, and the fete of the dead together with witthes of Palurus, & then setting it vp vpon some hilly place, haue a good spore to all to bethwacke it with stones, vntle they lie heaped ouer the corps. Then lape they a goates horne on the toppe and departe, biddinge sorrowe go plaine him. They warre one with another, not as the Griekes vpon rancour and Am-bicon, but onely for foode sake. In their skirmishes, firste they go to it with stones, as afore ye haue hearde, vntle it fortune some nombre to be hurte. Then decipieng the bowes (wherin they are very sure handed) they kille one another vpon hepes. Those battayles are attoned by the women of moolte auient age. For when they be ones comen into the middle emonge them (as they maye do with-oute harme, for that is compred abhominacion in any wise to hurte one of them) the battaille sodenly ceaseth. They that are nowe so siebled with age, that they can no longer folowe the heard: winding the tayle of an ore aboue their throte choke vp & die. But he that differreth so rydde

Affrike.

ridde hym selfe in ths sozre: It is laweful for another(astre a warninge)to doe it.
And it is there compted a friendly bene-faicte. Men also diseased of feures, or a-nye other incurable malady, they doe in lyke maner dispatche: iudginge it of all griefes the woorste, for that manne to live, that canne nowe nochinge doe, why he shoulde desyre to lyue. Herodore writheth, that the Trogloides myne them selues caues in the grunde, wherin to dwell. Men not troubled with anye desire of riches, but rather giuing them selues to wilfull pouretie. They glory in nothing but in one litle stone, wherin appere thre shore sondry colours: which we therfore calle Exaenthalitus. They eate sondry kindes of venemous vermyne.
And speake any distinrete wörde they can not, but sieme rather to busse or churre be-twene the tethe, then to speake.

There is another people dwelling in that Lichepe that lyeth aboue Egipce, called Ryzophagi, whiche bestowe muche time in digging up of the rootes of Rie-des growing nere aboue them, and in washinge and cleansing of the same. Whiche afterward they bruse betwixt stones

Affrike.

til thei become clāmie, & so make swete cakes of thē, muche factored like a brick a hande broade. Those bake thei by the Sonne, and so eate them. And this kinde of meate onely serueth them all their life tyme, plentifully and enough, and never wareth fulsome vnto theim. Thei never hane warre one wth another, but wth Lions, whiche comyng out of the deserts there, partly for shadowe, and partly for to pracie vpon smaller beastes, doe oftymes wourte diners of the Aethiopes, comyng out of the fennes. In so muche that that nacion had long sences bene vt-erely destroied by the Lions, excepte nature of purpose, had shewed thē her aide.
For toward the dogge daies, there come into that coaste, infinite swarmes of Gnattes, without any drifce of windē to enforce them. The men then flieng to the fennes, are not harmed by thē. But thei drie the Lions with their stinging and terrible husyng, cleane out of that quartre. Nere vpon these, bordre the Ilophagi and Spermatophagi, the one liuyng by suche fruite as falleth from the trees, in Sommer, and the residew of the yere by suche herbes as thei picke vp in the shadowed

Affrike.

sowed groundes. The other, the Ilophasi, sickynge to the plaines with their wifes and their chldren, climbe trees, and gather, eate, and cary home: the tendre croppes and buddes of the boughes. And thei haue by continualle practise, suche a nimblenes in clmbynge, that (a wondrefull chynge to be spoken) thei wille leape from bough to bough, and tree to tree like Lasses or Squirelles, and by reason of their slendrenes and lightenes, wille mounte up on braunches and twigges, without daunger or herte. For though thei flete slippe, yet hang thei fast by the handes: and if thei bothe faile theim, yet falle thei so ligh, that thei be harmeflesse.

These folkes go naked, and hold their wifes and chldren in commune. Among them selues they fighte for their places without weapon: but against foreiners with staves. And wheare thei ouercome, there chalenge thei Lordeshippe. Thei communely dye for hongre, when their sight faileth theim: whiche was their onely instrumente to finde their foode. The residewe of the countrie there aboute, do those Aethiopians holde, whiche are named Cynecy, not very many in nombre, but

Affrike.

but muche differing in life from the rest.
For their Countreie beyng wooddie, and wilde, full of thicquesces, and brante of watre, thei are forced by night, for feare of wilde beastes, to liepe in trees; and toward the morning, all weaponed together, to drawe doun to the waters, wher thei shroude them selues into couert, and so abide close till the heate of the daie. At the whiche tyme the Bugles, Pardales, and other greate beastes, what for the heate, and what for thriste, stocke toguether to the watteres. Al alone as thei haue druncken, and haue well laden their bea-ties with watre, the Ethiopes startyng out vpon them with stakes, sharpened and hardened in the fire, and with stones, and with arrowes, and suche like weapon, at this aduaantage staken them vpon heapes, and devide the carkeses by compaignies to be eaten. And somelyme it happeneth that thei them selues are slaine by some beast of force, howbeit very seldomie. For thei euer by their pollicies and traines, doe more damage to the beastes, then the beastes can do vnto them. If at any time thei lacke the bodies of the beastes, then take thei the rawe hides of suche as thei latelie st

Affrike.

lateltest before had slasne, and clensyng them cleane fro the heare, thei lokynge laiē them to a softe fire, and when thei be thoroughly hette, deuide them emong the compaignie, whiche very grievedly sille them selues of them.

They exercise their children whilst thei be boles, to thow the darte at a sette marke, and he that hitceth not the marke receiveth no meate. By the whiche maner of trainyng, hogre so woxketh in the boies, that thei become excellent darters

The Acriophagie (a people borderyng vpon the deaserte) are somewhat lower of stature then the residue, leane, & exceding blacke. In the Spring time, the west, and Southwest winde, bringeth vnto them out of the Deaserte, an hongre nombre of Locustes, whiche are of verie greate bodie, and of wynges very filthily coloured. The Ethiopians well accusmed with their maner of flighte & trade, gather together into a lōg slade betwixte two hilles, a great deale of rubbeshe and mullocke, from places nighe hande, apte for firyng, and all the grasse and wiedes there aboute. And lateng it ready in heapes aforeshande, a long the slade, whē theſe ſee

Affrike.

seeþt Locustes come wþch þe windë like clouðes in the airc, þei set al on ure, and so swelte þeim in the passyng ouer, that þei bee skante full out of the flade, but þei fall to the grounde in such þe plentie, that þei be to all the Acridophagi, a sufficiënt viciuallynge. For þei pouere them wþch salte (wherof þe countrie hath plé-tie) and so continually from yere to yere, live by none other foode. For þei neither haue any kinde of carreille, ne fylle can haue, bþyng so farre fro the sea. And this maner of meate siemeth to þeim, verste pleasaunce and fine.

Of bodie þeit are very lighte, swifte of foote, and shorte liued, as not passyng xi. yeres, he that liveth longest. Their ende is not more incredibile, then it is miserable. For wher þei drawe into age, their bredeþet a kinde of winghed lice in their bodies, of diuers colours, and very horrible, and filthie to beholde: whiche firste eate out their bealies, and then their brest, and so the whole body in a little space. He that hath this diseale, first as though he had on hym some tickelyng piche, all to beskratcheth his bodie wþch such þe pleasure, as is also mingled wþch some smare

And

Affrike.

99

And within a little while after, when the lyce beginne to craule, and the bodie beginneth to marte, enraged with the bittenes and grief of the disease, he teareth and mangleth his whole bodie with his nayles, putting furth in the meane while many a greuous grone. Then gusheth there out of hym, suche aboundinge of lice, that a manne would thinke they had bene barelled in his body: & that the barel now broken, the swarme plomped out. And by this meanes, whether throughe the infectious arte, or the corruption of their feeding, thei make a miserable ende.

Upon the Southe border of Affrike, dwel there menne called of the Grekes Cynamie, & of their neighbours Saulvages: Bearded, and that with abundance of heare. Thei kiepe for the saufegarde of their lynes, greate compaignies of wilde Mastives: for that from midde June, till midde winter, there entreth into their countrie, an innumerable sorte of Ryn of Inde. Whether thei flie thether to sauue them selues from other beastes, or come to sieke pasture, or by some instincte of nature unknownen to manne, it is vncertaine. Against these, when the menne

Affrike.

men of their owne force, are not able to resist: thei defende thē selues by the helpe of their dogges, and take many of them.
W^e herof thei eate parte whilost thei are freshe, and parte reserue thei in pouldre, for their afre nede. Thei eate also many other kindes of beastes, whiche thei hunt with their dogges.

The laste of all the Affriens Sowthe-warde , are the Ichthiophagi . A people bordezynge vpon the Trogloides , in the Boulfe called Sinus Arabicus : whiche under the shape of man, liue the life of beastis . Thei goe naked all their life tyme, and make scope of their wifes and their children in commune . Thei knowe none other kindes of pleasure , or displeasure , but like unto beastes , such as thei fele: neither haue thei any respecte to vertue , or vice , or any discernyng betwixte good or badde . Thei haue litle Cabanes not farre from the Sea , vpon the clieues sides : where nature hath made great car-fes , diepe into the grounde , and hollowe Gutteres , and Crikkes into the maigne lande , bowlyng and compassyng in and out , to & fro , many sondrie waies . Whose entrances thenhabitantes vse to stoppe

Affrike.

By with great heapes of calion and stones, wherby the crikkes serue them now in the stede of needles. For when the sea floweth (which happeneth there twise in the daye, aboue the houres of thre, and of nyne) the water swelijeth so highe, that it overfloweth into the maygne shore, and filleth those crieques with the sea. And the fylle following the tide, and dispersinge them selues abrode in þ maigne londe to seeke their foode: at the ebbe when the water withdraweth, recyting together with it alway to the dieper places, and at lasse remaining in these gutters & crieques, they are stopped in with the stome heapes, and at the lowe water lyde drie. Then come the enhabitantes with wyfe and children, take them, and laye them oute vpon the roques against the midday sonne, wher, with þ broiling heate of the same, they be within a while skorched and parched. Then do they remoue them, and with a litle beating separeate the fylle fro the bones. Then put they the fylle into the hollowes of the roques, and beate it to pomdis, mingling therewith the stede of the whynne Paliurus. And so facion it into lumpes

G. I. muche

Affrike.

much like a bricke, but somewhat longer. And when they haue baken them againe a little by the sonne, they sittē them downe together, and eate by the bealy. Of this haue they alway in store, accordyng to the plenty that Neptune gyuereth them. But when by the reaso of tempest the sea overfloweth these places aboue his naturall course, and tarrieth longer then his wonne, so that they can not haue this benefite of fylling, and their store is all spent: they gather a kynde of great shelle fyshe, whose shelles they grase open with stones, and eate the fyshe rawe, in taste muche like to an oyster. If it fortune this overflowing by the reason of the winde, to continue longe, and their shellefyshe to fayle them: then haue they recourse to the fyshebones (which they do of purpose reserue together in heapes) and when they haue gnabeled of the softest and gristly partes with their tieche, of those that are newest and besse, they beate the harder with stones into pieces, and eate thē. They eate as I haue said in the wilde field together abrode, rejoising with a semblaunte of meruelles, & a manner of singynge full vntuned. That done

they

Affrike.

they falle vpon their women, even as they come to hande withoute any choyse: vterly vnde of care, by reason they are alwaye sure of meate in good plentye.
Thus fourre daies ever continual, busied with this bealy bownsing chiere, the v. daie ther flocke together to go drinke, al on a droue, not unlike to a heard of biene to the waters, houting as they go with an yrishe whobub. And when they haue dronke till their bealies stonde a strunce, so that they are skāt able to retourne: eis rye bodie layes him downe dronckardelike to reste his water bolne bealy, and that daye eateth nothynge. The next daye agayne they fall to their syfthing: And so passee they their lyfe continually.

Thei seldom falle into any diseases, for that they are alway of so vniiforme diete Neverthelesse they are shoter luyed then we are. Theyr nature not corruptid by any persuasyon taken of other, compreth the satiffing of hogre, the greatest pleasure in the world. As for other extraorde-nary pleasures, they seke them not. This is the maner of living propre unto them that lye within the boosome of the sayde Arabicus sea. But the maner of them

G. II, that

Affrike.

that dwell without the bosome, is moche more merueilous. For thei never drinke ne never are moued with any passion of the mynde. These beyng as it ware by fortune thrownen oute into the desernes, farre from the partes miere to be enhabited, give them selues altogether to fyshing, which they eate haulfe rawe. Not for to auoyde thirste (for they desire no myste thinges) but rather of a nature faulnage and wilde, contented with such dictialle as commeth to hande. They cōprie it a principal blessednes to be without those thinges what so euer they be, that bringe sorowe or griesse to their haunders. Thei are reported to be of such patience, that though a manne strike them with a naked swerd, thei wil not shonne him, or flye from him. Beate them, or do thei in wronge, and they onely wil looke vpon you, neither shewinge token of wrache, nor countenaunce of pitie. Thei haue no maner of speache emong them: But onely shewe by signes of the hande, and nodding with the heade, what they lacke, and what they would haue. These people with a whole consent, are mainteners of peace towarde all men, straunger,

Affrike.

gee and other. The whiche maner althoughe it be wondrefull, they haue kept tyme oute of mynde. Whether throught longe continuance of custome, or diuen by necessite, or elles of nature: I can not saye. They dwell not as the other, Ictiophagi doe, all in one maner of ca-banes, but sondry in diuers. Some haue their dennes, and their cabanes in them opening to the North: to the ende they migh be by that meanes be the bettre shadowed fro the sonne, and haue the colder ayre. For those that are open toward the southe, by the reason of the greate heate of the sonne, caste forthe such a breathe, soynas like, that a manne can not come nere them. They that open towarde the northe, builde them prety Cabanes of the ribbes of whales (whiche in those seas they plentuously finde) compassing them aboute by the sides, accordyng to their naturall bendinge, and fasseninge them together at bothe endes with some maner of tyenge. Those do they cener with the woole and the wiedes of the sea tempered together. And in these they shroude them selues fro the sonne: nature by necessite deuising a way how to

G. iii. helpe

Affrike.

helpe and defende her selfe.

Thus haue ye hearde the lyfe of the Ichtiophagi, and now remaineth there for Appique onely the Amazones to be spoken of, whiche menne laye in the olde tyme dwelte in Libye. A kynge of warlike women, of greate force, and hardiness, nothing lyke in lyfe vnto our women. The maner amonge them was to appoincte to their maidens acertein space of yeres to be trayned, and exercysed in the ffectes of warre. Those beyng expirid, they ware ioyned to menne for yssures sake. The women bare all the rule of the commune wealthe. The women ware princes, lordes, and officiers, Capistaines, and chieffaines of the warres. The menne had noughte to doe, but the drudgery at home, and as the women woulde appoincte them. The children assone as thei ware borne, ware deluered to the men to nouryshe vp with milke, and suche other thinges as theyz tendrenes required. If it ware a boye, they eyther brake the right arme assone as it was borne, that it myghte never be fyte for the warres, or slue it, or sente it oute of the countrey. If a wenche, they st freighte

Affrike.

Wreight ceared þ pappes, that thei might not growe to hindre them in the warres Therefore the Grecians called theim Amazones, as ye woulde saie, pappelesse.
The opinion is, that thei dwelt in the I-londe named Hespera, which lieth in the marslhe, named (of a riuier that ronneth into it) Tritonis, toyning vpon Ethiope, and the mounte Atlas, the greatest of all that lande. This Ilonde is very large and greate, hauyng plentie of diuers sortes of fruities, whereby the inhabitauntes liue. Thei haue many flockes of shiepe, and goates, and other smalle cattelle, whose milke and flesche they eate. They haue no maner of graine, ne knowe what to doe ther-
with.

109

Of Asie, the seconde parte.

The first Chapitre.

Of Asie and the peoples moste famous therin,

Sie, the seconde part of the thre wher in we haue said that the whole earth is diuided:
ooke name as some hold opinion, of the dough-

ter of Oceanus, and Tethis, named Asia, the wife of Japhetus, and the mother of Prometheus. Or as other affirme, of Asius, the sonne of Maneye the Lidian.
And it stretcheith it self from the Scyth, bowtyng by the Caste into the Noxhe: hauyng on the west parte the two floud-des, Nilus and Tanats, and the whole Sea Eurimum, and parte of the middle earth sea. Upon the other thre quarters, it is lysed in with the Ocean, whiche where he cometh by Caste Asie, is called

G. b. Eons

Aſie.

Eous (as ye woulde ſate toward the daw-nyng) by the South, Indicus (of the coun-trie named India) and after the name of the ſtoure Scithiane, vpon the Northe Scythicus. The greate mountaine Taurus ronnyng East and West, and in a maner equally partyng the lande in twaine: lea-ueth one parte on the Northe ſide, called by the Grekes the outer Aſie: and another on the South, named the inner Aſie.
This mountaine in many places is foſide þre hundred. lxxv. miles broade: and of length equalle with the whole countrie.
About a þue hundred þre ſkoze and þre miles. From the coaſt of the Rhodes, vnto the farthest part of Inde, and Scithia Eastwarde. And it is deuided into many ſondrie partes, in ſondrie wiſe named, wherof ſome are larger, ſome leſſe. This Aſie is of ſuche a ſize, as authours holde opinion, that Aſtrike and Europe ioyned together: are ſcante able to matche it in greatnes. It is of a temperate heate and a fertile ſoile, and therfore full of all kin-des of beaſte, foule, and worme, & it hath in it many countries and ſeignouries.

On the other ſide of the redde Sea, ouer againſt Egypce in Aſtrike: lieth the tripartite

Asie.

terparte region, named Arabia, whose partes are, Petrea; boundyng West and North the bpon Siria; and right at fronte before hym Eastwarde, Deserta: and Arabia felic by Southe. Therein wytters also adioyne to Arabia; Pancheia, and Sabea. It is iudged to haue the name of Arabus, the sonne of Appollo & Babilone.

The Arabiens being a greate people, and dwellyng very wide, and brode: are in their living very diuers, and as sondrie in religion. Thei vse to go with long heare unrounded & forked cappes, somewhat mirre like, all astre one sorte, and their beardes partie shauē. Thei vse nos as we doe, to learne faculties and sciencies one of another by appreticehode, but looke what trade the fader occupied, the same doeth the sonne generally applie hymself to, and continue in. The mooste aunciente and eldell fader that can be founde in the whole Countrie, is made their Lord and Kyng. Looke what possessions any one kindrede hath, the same he commune to all those of that bloude. Yea one wife serueth them all. Wherefore he that cometh firste into the house, laieth downe his faulchō before the dore,

Asie.

as a token that the place is occupied. The seniour of the stocke entoiceth her alnight.
Thus be thei al brethren and sistren one to another, throughout the whole people.
Thei abstaine fro the embrassinges neither of sister ne mother, but all degrees are in that poynt as indifferent to them, as to beastes of the fieldes. Per is adulterrie death emong them. And this is adul-terie there: to abandon the body to one of another kindred. And who so is by suche an ouerthwarte begottenis judged a bastard, and otherwise not. Thei bancquet not lightly together, vndre the nombre of thritie persones. Alwaile foreseen that, two of the same nombre at the leaste, be Musicens. waiters haue thei none, but one kinsman to minister to another, and one to helpe another. Their countes and cities are wallesse, for thei live quietly & in peace one with another. Thei haue no kinde of oyle, but that whiche is made of Hesama, but for all other thynges, thei are most blessed with plentie. Thei haue Shiepe greater then Rien, and verie white of woulle. Horses haue thei none, ne none desire, for that their Chamelles in all nedes serue thei as well. Thei haue silver

Aſie.

ſluer and golde plentie, and diuerſe kin-des of ſpices, whiche other coutries haue not. Laton, Brasse, Iron, Purple, Sa-fron, the precious rote costus, and all coruen woorkes, are biought into theim by other. Thei bewrie their kyng in a dong-hilie, for other thei wille ſkante take ſo muche laboure. There is no people that better kiepeth their promeſe and couenant, then thei do, & thus thei behight it

When thei wille make any ſolempne promeſe, couenaunte, or league, the two parties commyng together, brynging with them a thirde, who ſtandynge in the mid-des beſtwirke theim bothe, draweth bloud of eche of them, in the palme of the hand, along vnder the rote of the fingers, with a sharpe ſtone: and then pluckynge from eche of their garmencies a little ſaggue, he enoynteth with that bloude ſeven other ſtones, lieng ready betwix theim for that purpose. And whiileſt he ſo doeth, he calleth vpon the name of Dionisius and Mrama, whom thei accompt emong the nombre of goddes, reuengers of faiheleſſe faiches. This done, he that was the feuereſter of the couenaunte, becomeþ ſurette for the parties. And this maner of contrate

Asie.

contrarie, he that standeth moste at liber-tie, thinketh mette to be kepie.

They haue no firyng but broken endes & chippes of Myrre, whose smoke is so vnholosome, that excepte they with-fode the malice therof with the perfume of Styrax, it would briede in them vnucable diseases. The Cynamome whiche groweth emong the sunne, none gather but the priestes. And not they neither, before they haue sacrificed unto the goddes. And yet further they obserue, that the gatheryng neither beginne before the Sonne risyng, ne contynue astre the going downe He that is lord and gouernour emong them, when the whole gather is brought together, deuideth out vnto euery man his heape with a Janelines ende, whiche they haue ordinarily consecrate for that purpose. And emongest other, the Sonne also hath a heape deuided out for hym, whiche (if the devision be iuste) he kinde-leth immediatly with his owne beames, and brenneth into ashes. Some of the A-rabiens that are pinched with penurie, without all regard of body, life, or helth, doe eate Snakes, and Addres, and such like vermine, and therfore are called of
the

Assie.

the Brekes Ophyophagi.

The Arabiens named Nomades, do cupie mach Chamelles, bothe in warre, and burden, and all maner cariage, farre and nigh. The floude that ronneth a-longe their bordes, hathe in it as it wate lismall of golde in great plentie. whiche they neuer cheles for lacke of knowledge do neuer fine into malle.

Another people of Arabia named Des-boe, are for the great part shepmasters, and brieders. Parte of thē notwithstandinging, occupie husbandrie, & tilthe. These hāue suchē plētie of gold, that oftentimes emōg the cloddes in the fieldes they finde little peables of gold as bigge as akecornes, whiche they vse to set finely with stones, and weare for swches aboute their necke & armes, with a vry good grace.
They sell their golde vnto their borderers for the thirde parte of Laton, or for the halfe parte of siluer. Marly for that they nothing esteime it, and specially for the desire of the thinges that foreiners hāue. Merre vnto them lie the Sabais, whose riches chifely consisteth in en-cense, Myrtle and Cynamome, howbeit some holde opinion alio that Baulme groweth

Afie.

groweth in some places of their borders.
They haue also many date trees very volente of smelte, and the roote called Lalamus.

There is in that contray a knde of serpentes lurking in the rootes of trees, of haulfe a foote lengthe, whose bitinge is for the moste parte death. The plenty of swete odours, and sauours in those quarters, doeth vtrely stiffe y smelling. And to abyde that incommodite, they often times vse the fume of a stincking gone, and gores heare chopped together. Ther is no man that hath to do to gine sentece vpon any case but the king. The mooste parte of the Sabets apply husbandrye.
The residewe gatheringe of splices, and drugges. They sayle into Ethiopia for trade of marchaundise, in barkes coured with leather. The refuse of thes namome and Cassian they occupy for firing. Their chiefe citie is called Saba, and stondeth vpon a hyll. Their kynges succeede by descent of bloude, not any one of the kindred certeine, but such as the people haue in moste honour, be he good be he badde. The king never dare be seruite of his Palace, for that there goeth an 119

Asie.

an olde prophete among them of a king that shoulde be stoned to deathe of the people. And euery one feareth it shoulde lighte on him seise. They that are about the king of the Sabeis: haue place bothe of siluer and golde of all sortes, curiou-ly wrought and entallied. Tables, four-mes, trestles of siluer, and all furniture of household sumptuous aboue measure.
They haue also Galeries buylte vpon great pilloirs, whose coronettes are of golde and of siluer. Cielinges, voutin-ges, dores and gates couered with siluer and golde, and set with precious stones; garnishinges of ynorpe, and other rare thinges whiche among men are of price.
And in this bounteous magnificece haue they continued many yeres. For why the greedy compasse how to accepne honoure with the vnuste rapine of other mennes goodes, that hath tumbled downe headeling so many commune wealthes, never had place among them. In richesse equal vnto them, are the Barrei, whose implements of household are all of golde and siluer. and of those and yuorpe together, are their portalles, their cielinges, and ropes, made The Nabatheens of all other Arabiens are the besse husbands, and chrfciest sparers. Their caste is wite in winning of ſubtaunce, but greater in kepinge it. He that appaſteth the ſubtaunce that was leſte him, is by a commyne lawe puniſhed: and contrariwife he that increaſeth it, muche prayſed and honoured.

P. 1. ther

Aſſie.

The Arabiens vſe in their warres ſwerde, bowe, launce, ſlinge, and batte are. The rable of helhoundes (whom we calle Sarafines) that peſtilent murreine of mankinde, came of this people. And as it is to be thoughte, at this daye the great parte of Arabia is degenerate into that name. But chei that dwelle towarde Egypce, kepe yet their olde name, & lyue by butin, like prickers of þy boordre, wherin, the ſwiftenes of their camelles doeth them good ſervice.

C The ſeconde Chapitre.

C Of Panchaia, and the maners of the Panqueis.

Anchata (a countrie of Arabia) is iudged of Diodore the Siciliano to be an iſlonde of. rr̄. miles brude. It hath in it thre noble cities Dalida, Hyracida

14

Aſſe.

Hyracida, & Oceanida. The whole contrie (ercepte a little baine of sandie grauelle) is fertile and plenteous: chieſely of wine and encense. Whiche groweth ther in ſuche aboundinge, that it ſufficeth the whole worlde for the francke ſume offeringe. There groweth also good ſtore of Myrrhe, and diuers other redolente thinges, whiche the Pāqueis gather, and ſelle to the merchauntes of Arabia.
At whose hande other buienge them againe, tranſpoſte them into Egipte, and Sirie. And fro thence they are ſpred abrode to al other peoples. The Pāqueis in their warres uſe wagons aftre the maner of menne in olde time.

Their commune wealth is deuided into thre sondry degrees. The firſte place haue the prieffes, to whom are foyned the artificers. The ſeconde the houseband men. And the thirde the menne of warre: with whom the catteile maifters or brieders be coupled. The prieffes are þ hea-des, and chiefe of all the reſideſte, and haue auuthoritie aſwell in ſentence of laſte, as to put ordre in al cluſte affaires: the ſentence of deaſte onely excepted.

The housebandmen, till the grounde,

D. I. and

Aſie.

and attende upon the ſcuites, and bringe all into the commune ſtore. And they that halbe founde moſte diligent in that la- boure and occupation: are chosen by the preſtis (but not aboue the nombre of certayn one time) to be iudges ouer the diſtri- buſion of the ſcuites, upon conſideracion that other by their aduaancement might be ſtirred to like diligencie. The catteile maſters, yf ther be any thing either ap- pertaining to the ſacrifices, or commune affaires, touching nombre, or weight, do it with all diligencie.

No man amonge the Panchaſſ hath any thinge that he can call proprely his owne: his house, and his gardein excep- ted. For bothe the cuſomes, & reuenew- es, and all other profeſtes, are deliuered into the preſtis handes. Who acor- dinge as they finde neceſſarie and expe- diente, iustely diſtribute them. But they them ſelues are graunted double ſhare. Their garnyentes by the reaſon of the finelle of the wolle of their ſtiepe ſpe- ciallyl above other, are verye ſofte and gentle clothe. Bothe menne and women vſe ther, to ſette oute them ſelues with fuelles of golde, as cheynes, bracelet- tes, res, eareringes, tablettes, swches, ringes, Annuletes, buckons, broches, and hoes embraundred, and spangled with golde, of diuers colours. The menne of warre serue onely for the defence of their country.

121

Afie.

The p;iestes abone all other, giue them selues vno plesaunte liffe, fine, nette and sumptuous. Their garmetes are rochete-res of fine linnen, and sometime of the deintiest wollen. Upon their heades they weare mitres embraundred, and garnished with golde. They vse a kinde of boi-ded shoers (whiche afterwarde the Grieques toke vp, and called sandalium) very finely made, and of sondry colours. And as the women weare, so do they, all maner of Juelles sauing earinges. Their chiesse occupaciō is to attende vpon god-des seruice, settinge forthe the worthe diedes of the goddes, with hymnes, and many kindes of commendacion. If they be founed without the halowyd grounde, it is lawfull for any manne to slea them.
They saye that they came of the bloude of Iupiter Manasses, at suche time as he came firste into Panchaia, havinge the whole worlde vndre his dominion. This

H. iii. country

Aſte.

couerrie is full of golde, siluer, lattone, tinne, and yron, of the whiche it is noe laweful to cartie any one out of þ realme.
The giftes both of siluer & golde, whiche in greate nombre of longe time, haue bene offred to their goddes, are kepte in the temple: whose dores are by excellenc workmanship garnished with golde, sil uer and yuorie. The couche of their God is. vi. cubites longe, and foure cubites brede, all of golde, gorgeous of worcke, and goodly to beholde. And by that, is there sette a table of like sorte in euerie poincte: for stice, stiffe, and gorgeouſnes.
They haue but one temple, all of white stone, bulite vpon pilours, grauen, and embossed, thre hundred and .xxxviii. cap lours yardeſ square, that is to saye, euen of lengthe and brede, every waye so muche. And somewhat acordinge to the syse of the temple, it is sette full of highe ymages very precious: cornen and gra uen. Rounde about the temple haue the preſtes their habitacion. And all the grounde aboute them. xxv. myle com paſſe: is halowed to theſt goddes. The ye rely rente of that grounde is beſtowed vpon ſacrifice.

The

123

Asie.

The. iij. Chapstre.
¶ Of Assiria and Babylonia, and the maners of those peoples.

Saieth saint Augustine, the countreie called Assiria, was so named of Assur, the sone of Sem. And at this daie, to the ende that time myght be founde an appaire of al thin-ges, with the losse of a sillabe is becomen Siria: Hauyng for his bounde, on the East, the countreie called Inde, and part of Media. On the West the floude Tygris, on the Southe Suisiana, and on the Northe the malgne mountaigne Caucasus. It is a deintie to haue in Assiria a shower of raine: and therfore are thei constrained for the due moistyng of their lande, to tolle in the riuers by pollicie of trenching and damming: wherwith thei so plentifie their grounde, that thei com-munely receiue two hundred bushelles for a bushell, and in some speciall veine, three hundred for one. Their blades of H. iij. their

Aſie.

their Wheate and Barlie are ſowze fingers brode. Their Sesamum, and Milium (Homer cornes) are in groweth like unto trees. All the whiche thinges Herodus the hiftorien, though he knoweth the (as he writeth) be to vndoubtedly true, yet would he that men take aduimente in the reþozynge of them: for that they mighte ſieme unto ſuche as never ſaw the like, incredible. They haue a tree called Palma, that beareth a kinde of ſmall Dates. This fruictethe ſiede muche upon, and out of the bodie of the tree, they draw at one time of the yere a liquor or ſappe, wherof they make bothe wine and hony. In their fresh waters they uſe boates ſaktioned round like a buckler. Which the Armenians that dwelle aboue them, do make of ſalowe wakers wrought one within an other, and couered with rawe leather. The apparelle of the Aſſyrians is a ſhirte downe to the foote, and ouer that a ſhort garment of wollen, and laſt of al a faire white pleicte cassaque down to the foote agayne. Their ſhoes are not fastened on with lachettes, but lyke a poumpe close about the foote. Which alſo the Thebans dydde uſe, and but they twaine

Afie.

wayne, no moe. They suffre theyr hea-res to grove and couer them with pcety forked cappes somwhat mytrellyke.
And when they goe abroade, they be-sprinkle them selues with fragrauncyles, to beswete at the smelle. They haue every man a ryng with a signet, and also a sceptre finely wrought vpon whose toppe they vse to sticke either an apple, or a rose, or a lillye, or some lyke thynge.
For it is a dishonour to beare it bare.

Mongest all the lawes of that people I note this chiefly as worthie memorie.
Whē their maidens came to be mariage-able, they ware frō yere to yere, brought soorth into the Marquette, for suche as would buye them to be their wifes. And because there ware some so hard fauoured, that menne would not onely be loth to gine money for them, but some menne also for a little money to take them: the fairest ware first solde, and with the prices of them brought into the commune Treasourie, ware the fowler bestowed.
Herodote writeþ that he heard by rea-porte, that the Heneti (a people on the bordre of Italie towarde Illiria) ware wonte to vse this maner. Wherupon Sabellicus

H.b. takinge

Aſie.

takynge an occation , wrſteth in thiſ maner . whether there ware ſuſhe a maner viſed enongh that people (ſaieth he) or noſ I haue liſle moze certaintie to ſaiſ for my ſelf then Herodote had . But thus muſhe am I able to ſaiſ : that in Vlenice (a citie of famous worthines, and whose power is well knownen at thiſ date, to be greate, bothe by ſea and by lande) ſuſhe maner as I ſhall ſaiſ , was ſometyme uſed . There was in the Cittie of Vlenice, a place dedicaſte , as ye would ſaiſ to our Ladie of Pietie . Before whose doores it happened a chyld or twaine , begotten by a ſkape (whiche either for shame or neceſſitie could finde no mother , or for the nombre of parteners , no one propre faſher) to bee laide . And when by the good Litezeins ſuſhe tendrenes had been ſhewed to two, or thre, as the mothers loked for , and manhode (to ſaiſ the truthe) doth require : the doore of pitie became ſo fruit full a mother , that ſhe had not now one or twoo in a yere, but three or four in a quarter . Whiche thyng when the gouernours of the citie perceiued, they tooke orde by commune conſente, that fro thens foorth ſuſhe women children onely , as ſhould

127

Aste.

Should fortune so to bee offred to Pletie, Should bee nourished at the commune charge of the citie, & none other. And soz those acordyngly, thei ordeined a place wher thei ware brought vp, hardly kepte in, and diuersly enstructed acordyng to their giftes of witt and capacite, vntill thei ware mariage able. At the whiche tyme, she that had beautie and good qualities bothe, found those a sufficient dowrie to purchase her choyse of husbandes.
And she that hadde but beautie alone, thoughe her qualities ware not so excellete, yet for her honestie that beside forth was singuler in them all, founde that beautie and honestie could not be vna-ried. These therfore ware not permitted to every mannes choyse, but graunted to suche as ware thoughte menne worthie of suche women. If there ware any that lacked the grace of beautie, yet if she ware wittie, and endelwed with qualities (together with her honestie) a small dowrie purchased her a husband in good tyme.
But if there ware any in whō there happened neither commendacion of beautie nor wit, but onely bare honestie: for her bestowyng was there a meane found by waye

Asie.

waſe of denociō, as we terme it whē we ſignifie a reſpecte of holines in the diſeſte.

Menne unmaried beyng in daungier upon ſea or on Lande, or beyng ſore diſtressed with ſickenes, makyng a bowe for the recouerie of healthe, where unto thei holde them ſelues bounden in conſci-ence (if it fortuned thei at that tyme to be deliuered) for ſatisfactiō of their bowe in that caſe not uprightly perſourmed, uſed to take for their wiues, ſuche of the ſimpleſt as other had leſt. So that in pro-ceſſe thei alwaie founde husbandes, and the commune wealth a diuinifhyng of charge.

Another Lawe of the Babſlouſans there was, moze worthe of memorie a greate deale, for that it impted moze weight. And that was this. Thei had fro thei beginning no Whiſcens emong thei, but it was enacted by the conſente of the Realme, that who ſo was diſeased of any malady, ſhould comon with other that had bene healed of the like afore.
And acordyng to thei counſaile, practiſe upon himſelf. But he that uſed or attempted any other waſe, to be puniſhed for it.
Other write that the ſicke ware brought out

29

Aſie.

out into the Marquet place, where ſuche as had bene delinuered of the like grieſ afoxe; ware bounde by the lawe, to go fro perſone to perſone, and ſhewe them by what meaneſ thei had bene remedied.

Thei bewrie their dead in Housie, and obſerue the ſame maner of mournyng that the Egypciāns do. If any man haue medled with his wiſe in the nighte, neſther of theim bothe toucheth any thyng the next morning, before thei be waſhed:

There was in Babilon a Temple dedicate to Vlenus, & it hath bene the maner in tyme paſſe, that when thei came any ſtraunger to viſite this Temple, all the women of Babilon ſhould come vñ-to hym or them, with greate ſolempnitie and freſhely appareiled, every one hauing a garlande on her heade, with ſome ſeveralle knowledge of diſtinction one fro another, and offre theiſc ſeruice to the ſtraunger. And looke whom he liked, he muſt laie downe in her lappe, ſuſe ſome of money as pleased him. That done thei bothe withdraw themſelues fro the temple a greate diſtance, and laie together.
That money was conſecrate to Vlenus.

There ware cerſein kindredes emong theim

Aste.

them, that lsued with none other thyng but fylle dried against the Sonne, and brused in a Mortare, and so laied vp till niede ware. And then did thei mingle it, and kneade it with water into a maner of paaste, and so baked it, & eate it. There ware thre sortes of menne that bare rule and office emong them. The king, the nobles with the Seniours, and those that had serued in the warres and ware now exempte. Thei had also menne skilfull in the secretes of nature, whiche thei calle Magi, and Chaldei, sache as ware the priefes of Egypce, institute to attende vpon the service of their Goddes. These men all their life daies, lsued in the loue of wisedome, & ware connyng in the cours of the Steires. And sometyme by fore-kenyng of birdes flight, and sometyme by power of holy verses and nombrēs, tour-ned awaie the euilles fro menne, and be-neficed the with thinges that ware good.
Thei could expounde Dreames, and declare the significacions of uncoorth wondres. So that men ware certain of suchē successe, as thei had foreshewed. Thei wente not into straunge schooles to learne their knowledge, as the Grecians doe, but

131

Aſſie.

but learned the ſcience of theſe thynges at their fathers hādes, as heititage from one generacion to another, euen from their chilhode at home in their houses.
Wherēby it came to paſſe that beynge ſo-kingly learned, it was bothe the more groundedly learned, and alſo without tediousnes. Thei had one vniforme and conſtaunt waie of teaching, and one conſtantnes of doctrine, not waueryng and almoſte contrary to it ſelf, as the doctrine of the Grekes: where eche Philofopher almoſte had his waie, and iudgemente, of the principles and cauſes of thynges.
But theſe menne agre al in one, that the worlde is eternall and euerlastyng, with out beginnyng and without ende. And that the ordre of the whole, was diſpoſed by the prouidence of the highest. The bodies aboue to haue their course, not at all aduentures and without rule, but by an inuſolable lawe of God, acordyng to his ordenaunce and will moſte certein. Thei haue learned by long markyng and notyng of thynges tymē out of mynde, one aſtre another: how by the course of the Starres, to prognostique, that is to foreſhewe unto men, many thynges to come Thei

Aſſe.

Thei holde that of all other ſterres, the planetes are Strongest of Induence, namely Saturnus. To the ſonne thei attribute brightnes and vertue of life. Mars Jupiter, Mercurie, and Venus, thei obſerue moſte (for that thei haue a course propre by them ſelues) as interpretors of the mindes of the goddes to foreſignifie thinges unto men. wch opinion is ſo grounded in them, that they haue called all thole fourre planetes, by the one name of Mercurias. as ye woulde ſaye commune currours or meſſengers. Thei also do warne menne of many thinges, bothe hurtfull and availeable: by the marking, and knowledge of winde and weaſter, of raine and drough:e, of blaſing ſterres, of the eclipses of the Sonne and Mone, of earthquakes, and manys ſuche like.

Furthermore thei ymagine in the firmament other ſterres, ſubiecte in influence vnto cheſe former. wherof ſome are in the hauleſe heauen continually in our ſighte, and ſome in the other hauleſe continually oute of our ſight. And as the Egypciens haue ſigned them ſelues. ri. goddes, ſo likewylle haue thei. To euerie

of 133

Asie.

of the whiche they referre one moneth, and one signe of the Zodiaque. Thei hane prophecie vnto kinges, many aduentu-res. As vnto Alexandre victor, when he made his explotte towarde Darius.

Likelwise to Hiranour and Seleucus, and other the successors of Alexandre, prophecie thei many thinges: As also to the Romaines, which had most sure succelle. Thei make compte also of, xxxiiij. other starres: without, and beside the waie of the zodiaque, xii. towarde the nozthe, and the residew towarde the southe. Of the whiche, so many as appiere in sight, they iudge to apperteigne to the quicke, and the other to the dead. These troublesome males haue thei broughte into the worlde more then enoughe, beside the accompte that thei make of their obseruations, and deuinacions from their begin-ninge to Alerandres time: nombringe them thre thousande and fourty yeres (a shamefull lie) excepte thei wil entreprete their yeres by the Mone, as the Egypci-ans doe, comptinge every monethe for a yere.

The. lvi. Chapter.

I. I.

¶

Aſie.

C Of Jewry, and of the life, maners, and Lawes of the Jewes.

Aleſtina, whiche also is named Judea, beinge a ſeveralle prouince of Siria, lieth betwixte Arabia Petra, and the countrie Cœlosiria. So bordering upon the Egyptian ſea on the weſt, and upon the floude Jordan on the Easte, that the one with his waues walſhet his clieues, and the other ſometime with his ſtreame ouerfloweth his banckes.

The Bible, and Josephus by example therof, calleth this londe Cananea: a countrie renouned for maniſtolde ſtaunce. Fertile of ſoyle, well watered with riuers, and ſpringes, and rich with precious balme. Lienge in the nauelle of the world, that it neither might be broyled with heate, ne froſen with colde. By the reaſon of the which mildenes of aier, it was iudged by the Iſraelites or Hebreus, (and rightlye ſo iudged) to be the country that God promised vnto Abraham

Asie.

ham, Isaac, and Jacob, flowinge in abundance of milke and honie. Upon the hope of enioyenge of this londe, followed they Moles oute of Egypce for yeres wandering in Lampe. And before thei ware broughte into Cananea by Joshua, his substitute, overcame with strong hande, one and thirsy kinges.

This is the people that onely of all other may chalenge the honour of ancientie. This is the people alone y mighē haue glorified in the wisedome, and unmedled partie of Language, as beinge of all other the firsste. This is the people that was mother of lettres, and sciences. Amonge these remained the knowledge of the onely and euerlīnige God, and the certeintie of the religion that was pleasaunte in his eies. Among these was the knowledge, and forēknowledge of al, sausinge that Helas, they knewe not the visitour of their wealthē, and the ende of their wo, Iesus the saviour of all that woulde knowe him, and sieke life in his deathe. But him whome thei knew not, when by reason thei shold: him shal thei yet ones knowe in time when the father woulde.

I.ii. The

Aſie.

The Iſraelites, the Hebrewes or the Jewes (for all in effecte soundeth one people) live afte the rule of the lawes, whiche Moses their worthy duke, and deuine chieftaine, declared vnto them. without the whiche also or anye other written, they liued holily, hundred of yea- res before attaininge to the truches hid- den from other, by a singuler gifte aboue other. That Philosophie of Philosophers, and deuine of deuines, Moses the merueilous, waieng in his insight, þ no multitude assembled, coulde be gouerned to continuance without ordres of equi- tie, and lawes: when with rewardes to the good, and reuenge upon the euill, he had sufficiently exhorted, and trained his people to the desire of vertue, and þ hate of the contrarie: at the last beside the two tables received in the mounte Sinah, ad- ded ordres of discipline, and ciuile gouer- naunce, full of all goodlines and equitie. whiche Josephus, the Jewe, (a manne of greate knowledge, and eloquence, as wel in the Hebrewe, his natural tongue, as in the Grieke, amonge whome he li- ned in notable fame not a fewe yeres) hath gathered, and framed into one ſeue- rall

187

Asie.

xall treatise. Out of the whiche, because I rather fasse, if I maye with like commodite, to folowe the fountaines of the first Anthours, then the brokes of abredgers, which ofte bring with them much puddle: I haue here translated, and annexed to the ende of this booke, those ordres of the Jewes commune welthe, seving the for the reste to the Bible. And yet notwithstanding, loke what I soude in this Abredger, neither mentioned in the bible, nor in that creatise, the same thus ordredly foloweth.

The heathen writers, and the Christi-anes, do muche diffre concerninge the Jewes, and Moyses their chieftaine.
For Cornelius the Stylle, in his firste booke of his verey expletives, called in Latine Annales, dothe not ascribe their departure oute of Egypce to the power and comandement of God: but vnto ne-cessitie, & constrainte, with these wordes:

A great skaruines, and an ytre safeth he, beinge risen throughe oute Egypce, Bocchoris, the king sekinge remedye in the Temple of Jupiter Hammon, was willed by responce to clense his kingdome: And to sende awaye that kinde of

J. iii. people

Aſie.

people whom the goddes hated(he mea-neth the Jewes) into some other countrey.
The whiche when he had done, and they (as the posunpe of al skuruines, not knowing wher to become) laye cowring un-dye hedges, and busshes, in places desert, and many of them dropped away for so-rowe and disease : Moyses (whiche also was one of the outcastes saith he) counseled them not to sitte ther , away-inge afstre the helpe of God or of man, whiche thei ware not like to haue; but to folowe him as their capteine, and lodes-man, and committe them selues vnto his gouernaunce. And that her vnto thei all agreinge ; at wilde aduentures , with oute knowing what thei did , tooke their torney. In the which thei ware soze troubled, and harde bestadde, for lacke of water. In this distresse, whē thei ware now ready to lye them downe, & die for thirſt, Moyses espienge a great heard of wilde Chamelles comming fro thair fiedinge, and going into woddie place ther beside, folowed them . And iudginge the place not to be without watre, for that he sawe it fresshe and grene , digged and founde plenty of watre . Wherwith when theſ had

Aſie.

had celeued the ſelues, thei paſſed on vi. daies tourney: and ſo exployted that the ſeuenth daye thei had beaten out all the enhabitaunies of the contry, where thei builte their Cittie, & their temple. Moyses then to the entent he might ſatle the peoples hartes cowarde him foꝝ euer: deuiled them newe ordres, and ceremoniis cleane contrary to all other nacions. Foꝝ (ſaith Cornelius) Looke what ſo euer is holy amouge vs, the ſame is amouge them the contrary. And what ſo euer to vs is vnlawfull, that ſame is compled lawefull amouge theim. The ymage of the beaſte that ſhewed them the waye to the waters, and the ende of their wanderinge: did thei ſet vp in their chambres, and offre vnto it a rambe, in the deſpit of Jupiter Hammō. whom we worship in the fourme of a Rambe. And because the Egypciāns worſhippe their goddeſſe Apis in the fourme of a cowe, therfore thei vſe to ſlea alſo in ſacrifice a cowe. Swines fleſſe thei eate none, foꝝ that thei holde opinion that thiſe kynde of beaſte, of iſelfe beinge diſpoſed to be horule, miſt be occaſion againe to effeſte them of newe. The ſeuenth daye thei

Aſie.

thei make holy day. That is to say ſpende awaie in ydlenes and reſt: for that on the ſeuenth daye, they founde reſte of theyz wandering, and miſery. And when they had caughte a ſavour in this holye daye loptering: it came to paſſe in procesſe of tyme, that thei made a longe holydaye alſo of the whole ſeventyere. But other holde opinion that thei do obſerue ſuche maner of holye daies, in the honour of Saturne the god of fasting and famine: with whose whyppe thei are lothe againe to be puniſhed. Thei breaſt is vneau-ned. Theſe ceremoniſes and deuiles, by what meanes ſo euer they ware brought in amonſe them, thei do ſtiffly defende.
As thei are naturally giuen, to be ſtiffe in beliefe, and depe in loue with thei owne althoughe towarde al other thei be moſt haſfull enemis. So that thei neither will eate ne drinke with them: no nor lye in the chambre that a ſtraunger of a nocher nacion lyeth in. A people altegether giuen vnto leachery, and yet abſet-ting from the embrasinges of the ſtraunger. Emonge them ſelues thei iudge no-thinge unlaſtfull. Thei deuiled to roude of the ſoreſkinne of their yarde (whiche we

Asie.

we call circumcision) because thei would haue a notable knowledge betwene the, and other nations. And the firste lesson thei teache vnto their chldren, is to despise the goddes. The soules of those þ die in tormentes, or in warre, thei judge to be immortall. A continuall feare haue thei, & a regard of heauen and helle. And where the Egypcians honour many similitudes and Images of beastes, and other creatures, whiche thei make them selues: the Jewes onely doe honour with their sprite and minde, and conceine in their vndestrandyng, but one onely Godheade. Judging all other that worshippe the Images of creatures, or of manne: to bee vngodlie and wisked. These and many other thinges doth Cornelius write, and Trogus also in his. rrrbi. booke.

There ware amonge the Jewes thre severalle sectes, differing in lffe from the reast of the people. The Phartseis, the Sadduceis, and the Esseis. The Phartseis vsed a certeine rough solempnesse of appareille, and a very skante fare: determining the Tradicions of Moyses, by certain ordenaunces and decrees, whiche thei them selues sette vp.

Lv. pon

Aſie.

pon their foreheades, and on chesr leſte armes, pretie billettes of Paper, facio-ned for the place, wherein ware written the tenne preceptes of þ two Tables. And this did they for that the lord saieth: And these shall thou haue (meanyng the commaundementes) as a remembraunce ha-ging before thine eyes, and alwaſe ready at thine hande. These ware called their Whilacteries, of these two woordes Phylexi and Thorat, wherof the former signi-fieþ to Kſepe, and the other, the Lawe.
These menne also hauyng vppon their skirtes muche broder gardes then other, ſtacke them full of Thornes, whiche beatyng and prickyng them on the hieles as they wente, might putte them in remembraunce of the comaunderementes of God.
They attributed all thynges vnto God, and deſſenie, whiche they call Emarmeni.
Nevertheles they graunted, that it laye muche in the free choise of manne: either to doe, or not to doe the thinges that are iust and godlie. but yet deſſenie to helpe in al cases. Whiche deſſenie they thought to depende of the influence of the bodies aboue. Looke what their ſuperiours and Elders had ſaid, or anſwered to any demaunde

Asie.

maunde, thes never woulde contrarie it.
 Thei believed that GOD shoulde come to Judge the worlde, and that all soules ware everlastynge. And as for the soules of the good, thei helde opinion, that thei passed from one bodie to another, vntill the daie of the generall resurrection. But the soules of the wicked, to be plonged in to euernlasting prison & dōgeō. The name of Pharisei was givē unto them for that thei ware disguised fro þō mane maner of other, as ye woulde saie, Sequestred.

The Sadduceis denied that there was any destenie, but that God was the beholder of all, and that it late in the chiose of manne, to doe well or evill. And as for soye or sozowē that the soule shoulde suffre afstre this life, thei denide. Neither belieued thei any resurrection: because thei thoughte the soule died with the bodie.
 Thei would not believe that there ware any sp̄ites, good or bad. Neither would thei receive moze of the Bible, then the ffe bookeſ of Moses. Thei ware sterne men, and uncompaignable: not so muche as ones kepyng felowshippe one with a nother. For the whiche sternewſſe, thei named theiſ ſelues Sadduceis, that is to saie

Aſie.

ſaie, iufte menne.

The Esseis ware in all pointes verie like vnto our cloisterers, abhorryng ma-riage and the comparie of women. Not for that thei condemned Marriage, or the procreacion of iſſue, but for that thei iudged a manne ought to be ware of the intemperauncie of women. And that no woman kept her ſelfe true to her hufbāde Whi ſhameful opinion, and muſche better to be reported by the dead, then to be credited of the quicke, bee it neuer ſo true.
Thei poſſeſſed all thiſſes in commune.
As for cheekeſ or reuilinges, was to the muſke and Honie, and ouenly vndaſt-neſſe, a greate comelinelleſſe. So that thei ware alwaie in a white ſurcoate, all was well. Thei had no certaine abiding in any one citie: but Celles ouer all, where ſo e-uer thei became. Before the riſyng of the Sonne, thei ſpake nothing that touched any worldly affaire: but p̄raied the ſonne to riſe. Aſtre whose vpriſſe thei laboured vntill eleuen of the clocke. And then, waſhyng firſte their whole bodie in water: thei ſatte doun together to meate, in ſolempne ſilence euery manne. Swearing thei compted for ſwearyng. Thei admisted

Aſſie.

led no manne to their ſecte, vndre a yere of probation. And aftre what time thei had received him: yet had thei two yeres more to proue his maners and condicions. Suche as thei tooke with a faulte, thei drane fro their compaigne. Enioyned by the waie of penaunce, to go a grasing like a beaſt, vntill his dieng daie. When tenne ware ſette in a compagnie together, no one of them ſpake without the conſeſſe of the other nyne. Thei would not ſpitte within the precincte of the compagnie emong theim, ne yeat on their righte ſide.
Thei kept the Sabbath with ſuche a pre-cisenesse, that thei would not that daie, eafe nature of the belte burden. And whē upon other daies, nature forced theim to that eafemente, thei caried with theim a little ſpade of woodde, wherwith in place moſte ſecrete, thei uſed to digge a little pit, to laie their bealie in. And in the time of doyng, thei alſo uſed a very greate cir-cumſpection, that their clothes late close to the grounde rounde aboute theim, for offendyng (ſaid thei) of the Maieſtie of God. Upon whiche reſpecte, thei alſo co-uered and bewyted it, alſone as thei had done that nature required. Thei ware of verie

Aſie.

verle long life, by the reason of the vniſourme diete that thei vſed, alwaie after one rate of fare : whiche was onely the fraſte of their countre Palme. Thei occupied no money. If any manne ſuffered for wel doyng, or as wroghfully condemned, that thoughte thei the beltē kinde of death. Thei helde opinion that all ſoules ware made in the beginnyng, and put into bodies from tyme to tyme , as bodies did niede theim. And for the good ſoules beyng ridde of their bodies againe , theſ ſated there was a place appointed beyond the weast Occean, where thei take repose. But for the euill , thei appointed places toward the East, as more ſorme colde, & vnpleaſante . Ther ware amōge them that prophecieſ things . Some of them gaue themſelues to wedlocke: leaſt if thei ſhould be of the oppinion that men oughte to abſteine bttrely from women, mankindē ſhould fade, and in proceſſe be extinde. yett vſed thei the compaignie of their wiues nothing at riote.

The lande of Siria (whereof we haue named Jewre a parte) is at this tate enhabited of the Grekes , called Grifhones, of the Jacobites, Nestorians, Saracenes

Asie.

147

Saracenes, and of two christian nacions, the Siriāns and Marouines. The Siriāns use to saie Massē, astre the maner of the Grekes: and for a space ware subiecte to the churche of Rome.

The Marouines agre in opinion with the Jacobites. Their lettres and congue are al one with the Arabique. These christianes dwelle at the Mounte Libanus.
The Sarracenes, whiche dwelle aboute Jerusalē (a people valeant in warre) de-lighte muche in housbandrie and tilthe.
But contrary wise, thei that inhabite Siriā, in that poincte are nothing worth.
The Marouines are feawle in nombre, but of all other thei are the hardieste.

¶ The. v. Chapitre.

¶ Of Media, and the ma- ners of the Medes.

Media (a countrie of Asia) as Solinus writeh, toke the name of one Medus, the sonne of Medea & Egeus, kyng of Athenes. Of whō the people ware also called Medes.

But Josephus affirmeth that it was so named

Asie.

named of Medius, the sone of Japheth. This countrie as it is sene in Colonie, hath on the Northe, the sea named Hircanum, on the West Armenia, and Assiria, on the Southe Parthia, and on the all Hiccania and Parthia. Hauing that betwixte Parthia and it, there ronneth a mountaigne, that separeteth their frontiers. The feates that thei mooste exercise, are shooptyng and ridyng. Wherein thei be righte experte, & almooste (for those quartres) without matche or felowe. It hath bene there a longe continued and aunciente custome, to honour their kynge's like goddes. The rounde cappe, whiche thei cal Tiara: and their long sliued garmentes, passed from them to the Perians together with the Empire. It was a peculer maner vse d of the Kynges of the Medes, to haue many wiues. Which thyng was astrewarde also taken vp of the communes: so that at lengthe it was thought unmitete to haue fewer wiues then seuen. It was also a goodlie thyng for a woman to haue many husbandes: and to be without ffe at ones, was compred a miserabile state. The Medes entre leagues and conenauntes, both atre the maner inaner of the Grekes, and also with drawing bloud vpon ſome parte of the arme aboute the Shoulde, one of another, whiche they uſe to liche eche of others body. All that parte of the countrey that lieth towarde the Northe, is barren and unfruitfulle. Wherefore they uſe to make ſtoke of their fruites, and to dry them, and ſo to woorke them into a masse or lampes for their foodde. Of froſted Almondes they make their breade: and their wine of the rootes of certein herbes. They eate great plente of the fleſhe of wilde beaſtes.

Aſie.

The. vi. Chapitre.

¶ Of Parthia, and the manner of the Parthians.

Certeine nombre of Duclawes and Banished menne, called Parthie, gaue name to this Countrie: Attre ſuche tyme as by trayn, and stealth they had gotten it. On the Southē it hath Larmania, on the Northē Hircanum, on the Westē the Meades,

R.J. and

Afie.

and on the easte the country of Arabia.
The countrie is hilly , and full of wooddes, and of a barreine soyle . And a people which inche time of the Assiriens, and Medes , ware scante knownen, and litle estiemed. In so moche that when y highe gouernance of the whole (whiche the Grekes call the Monarchie) was yelded into the hâdes of the persians: thei ware made a butin, as a nombre of raskalles without name. Lasse of all thei ware slaves to the Macedonies. But afterward in processe of time, suche was the baleauenes of this people, and such successe had thei: that thei became lordes, not ouer their neighbours onely rounde aboune theim, but also helde the Romaines(the conquerours of the wold) suche tache, that in sondrie warres they gaue them great ouerthowes , and notablye endamaged their power. Plinie reherseth. riis kingdomes of the partians . Trogus calleth them Imperours of the east part of the worlde . Althoughe they , and the Romaines holding the weste, had deuided the whole betwixte theim.

Astre the decaye of the Monarchie of the Macedonians, this people was ruled led by kinges. Whome generally by the name of the first king, they termed Arla-ces. Merte vnto the kinges maiestie, the communaltie bare the swaye. Duke of whome they chasse bothe their Capteignes for the warres, & their gouernours for the peacetime. Their language is a speache mixte of the Scichians, & Me-des. Their apparel at the firsste, was aftre their faction unlike to all other. But when they grewe vnto power, louse and large, & so thynne: that a man myghte see therougher it, afre the faction of the Me-des. Their maner of weapon, & armour, was the same that the Scichians vsed.

Afie.

But their armies ware altogether al-moste of slaues and bondemen, contrary to the maner of other peoples. And for that no manne hath auuthoritie amonge them to giue fredome vnto anye of this bonde offspring: The nombre of them by continuance, came vnto a greate multitude. These do they bringe vp, and make of as deerly, as they do of their owne children: teachinge them to ride, to shote, to throwe the darte, and suche like feates, with great diligence, and handsonenes.
The communer ther, according to his sub-

R. H. Staunce,

Afie.

Faunce, findeth a greate nombre of these to serue the kinge on horsebacke, in all warres. So that at what time Anthonie the Romaine made warre vpon the parthians wher they mette hym with syfis thousande horsemen: there ware of the whole nombre but eyghte hundred freborne. They are not skylfull to fighthe it oute at hande stripes, ne yeat in the maner of besieging or assaulting: but all together astre the maner of skirmishe, as they spie their aduaantage. They vse no trompet for their warninges or onsettes but a dromme: neither are they able to endure longe in their fighthe. For yf they ware so good in continuance, as they be violente at a brunte: ther ware no multitude able to susstaine their force. For the moste parte they breake of, when the skirmiche is euен at the whottest. And within a while astre they feigne a fighthe, wher with they beginne againe a new onsette.
So when thou thinkest thy selfe moosle sure of the honour of the fielde, the arte thou at the poinct of the hardest hasarde.
Their horsemen vse armour of mayle entrelaced with fetheres: bothe for their owne defens, & the defens also of their horses.

153

Aſſie.

hōſes. In times paſſed theſe occupied no golde ne ſiluer, but only in their armour. Upon regarde of chaunge in their luſte, thei mary echeone many wiues. and yet puniſhe thei none offēce ſo greuously as adultery. For the auoyding wherof, thei doe not onely forbide their women by generall reſtrainte from all feaſtes, and banckettinges of men: but also from the ſighte of them. Some neuertheleſſe do wrighte, amoungē the whiche Strabo is one, that thei uſe to giue their wiues ſometime to their friendes, as in y waye of mariage, that thei maye ſo haue iſſue. Thei eate none other fleſhe but ſuſhe as thei kylle at the chace. Thei be euer on horsebacke, whether thei go to the fiedle or the banket, to bye, to ſelle, to comune of aughte with their friende, or to do any thing that is to be done. Pea thei diſpatche al commune and priuate affaires, ſittinge on horsebacke. And this is to be underſtonden of the fre borne: ſo the ſlauies are alwates on foote. Their buriall for all menne (ſauinge the kinge) is the dogges bealy, and the kytes. But when thei or ſuſhe like haue eaten of, the fleſhe, the couer thei the bare bones with earth.

R. iii. Thei

Asie.

Thei haue great regarde vnto their goddes, & the worship due vnto them. Thei are men of a proude nature, busie meddlers, and sedicious, craftie, deceiptfull, malaparte, and vnshamefaced: for they holde opinion that it becometh the man aswell to be sterne, as the woman to be mylde. They be enet in some stirre, either with their neighbours, or elles amonge them selues. Men of fewe wordes, and readier to doe, then to saye. And therfore whether it go with them or against them they lappe it vp in scilence. They obey not their superiours for any reverencce, but for feare. Altogether giuen to lechery, and yet skante in fiedinge. No farther crewe of worde or promesse, then semeth them expedience for their owne behoue.

C The. viii. Chapter,

C Of Persia, and the maners and ordinances of the Persians.

Persia (a countrie of the easte) was so called of Persius the Sonne of Jupiter and Danae . Of whome the chiese citie of the kingdome also, was named Persepolis. Whiche 153.

Asie.

the in Englishhe soudeth Perseborough (or as we corruptly terme it) Persebu-rie, and the whole naciō Persiens. This countrie as Ptolome writeþ in his fi-ueþ booke, hath on the norþe, Media: on the west, Susiana: on the easse, the two Carmantes: and on the souþe, an inshot of the Sea, called the Bosome of Parchia. The famous cities therof, ware Axiana Persepolis and Diopolis.
By the name of Jupiter thei vnderstode the whole heauen. Thei chiefely honour the Sonne, whom thei calle Mitra. Thei worshyp also the Mone, the planet Mer-curius, the fyre, the earthe, the water, and the windes. Thei neither haue aultare nor temple, nor ymage, but celebrate their deuine seruice vndre the open heauen vpon some highe place for that purpose appoincted. In doinge sacrifice thei haue no farther respecte, but to take awaie the life from the beast. As haing opinion, that forasmuche as the goddes be spritis, thei delighte in nothinge but the spiritual parte, the soule. Before they slea it, thei set it aparte by them, with a corroke vpon the heade, and heape vpon it many bittere banninges and curses.

R. iiiij. Some

Asie.

Some of the nacion notwithstandinge, when thei haue slaine the beaste : vse to laye parte of the offalle in the fire.

When thei sacrifice unto the fire, they climbre vp drye stickes together, cleane withoute pille or bareke. And after what time thei haue powred on neates tal-lowe, and oyle, thei kindle it. Not blowing with blasse of blowesse or mouthes: but makinge wylde as it ware with a gentile, or trenchour, or suchelike thinge.
For yf any manne either blowe into it, or caste in any deade thing, or any durtre, or puddle, it is deathe to the doer. The Persians bearre suche reverencie to their floudes, that thei neither walthe, pylle, nor thowte deade carcasse into them. No not so muche as spitte into the: But very reverenclye honour their water after this maner. Comminge to lake, mere, flonde, ponde, or springe: thei trenche out a little dicke, and ther cut thei the throte of the sacryfice. Being well ware, that no droppe of blode sprinkle into the water by. As though he all water ware polluted and unhalowed ouer all: yf that shold happen. That done their Magi (that is to say men skylsull in ysecretes of nature) layeng

layeng the flesh vpon a heape of Myrcus, or Laurelle, and tymbryng smalle wandes about, sette fyre theron & brenne yt. And pronouncing certaine curses, they myngle oyle, mylke, and hony together, and sprinkle into the fyre. But chele cur singes make they not against the fyre ne water. But against the earthe, a greate whyle toguether: holding in their hande a boadle of smalle myrtle wandes. Their kinges reigne by successio of one kinred or stocke. To whom who so obeyeth not, hath his heade & armes striken of: and so wþout buriall is thowþe out for karene. Policritus sheweth that every king of the Persians, buyldeþ his howse vpon a greate hille: and ther hondeþ vp all the threasure, tribute, & tare that he receyued of the people: to be a recorde after his deathe how good a husbonde he haþ bene for þe comune wealthe. Suche of the subiectes as dwelle vppen the sea coast, are tared to pase money. But those that inhabite toward the mydde loude: suche comodities as the quattro beareth or hath wher they dwelle. As apothecary druggues, woolle, coulours, & suche like, and catteille accordingly. He is not permitted any one cause, to putte any man to death.

Asie.

Neither is it lawfull for any other of the Persians to execute any chyng against any of his house or stock, that maie semme in any wyse cruelle. Every one of them marie many wifes: & holde many concubines also besyde, for the encrease of issue.

The king Proclameþ rewarde unto him, that within one yere begetteth most children. Five yere astre thei are begotten, thei come not in the fathers sight, by a certein ordenaunce vsed emong thei[n]: but are broughte vp continually emong the women. To the ende that if the chylde fortune to dye in the tyme of his infancie, their fathers grief mate be the lesse. Thei vse not to marie but in one tyme of the yere: toward midde Marche. The bridegrome eateth to his supper, an apple of that countrey, or a litle of the maribone of a Chamel: and so without any farther banquetyng goeth to bedde. From five yeres olde, to twentie and towre, thei learne to ride, to throwe the Dart, to shooe, and chessy to haue atongue boide of all vncruth. For their nourisuryng and trainyng in good maners, thei haue appoineted thei Masters of greate sobrenes

157

Asie.

bzenes and vertue, that teache them dices, and pretie songes, conteyning either the praises of their Goddes, or of some worthy Princes. Whiche sometime they sing, and sometyme recite without note: that so they mighte learne to confourme their lynes vnto theirs, whose praises they sieme them selues to allowe. To this lesson assemble they alwaie together, at the calle of a Trompett. And as they growe into yeres, an accempt is required of them how well they haue borne awaie the lessons of their childehode. They vse to ronne the race, & to course, bothe on horsebacke and on foote: at the leadyng of some noble mannes sonne, chosen for the nones. The field for the race, is at least thre miles and thre quarters longe. And to the ende that heate or colde shuld the lesse trouble them, they vse to wade ouer brookes, and swimme ouer riuers, & so to rawme and to hunte the fieldes, and to eate & drinke in their armour, and wette clothes. The fruytes that they eate are akecornes, wild Peares, and the fruite of the Terebinthine tree. But their daintly foode after their runnyng, and other exercises of the bodie, is hard Bisquette, or a like cruffie bzeade,

Asie.

bread, Mortechocques, Gromelle sede, a little roste fleshe or sodden, whether thei lust: and faire water their drincke. Their maner of Huntynge, is with the bowe, or the Darre on horsebacke. Thei are good also in the slynge. In the forenoone thei plante and graffe, digge vp settes, stubbe vp rootes, make their owne armour, or fleshe and foule, with the Angle or nette.
Their children are decked with garni-shynges of golde. And their chief iuelle is the pretious stonye Piropus, whiche thei hauie in suche price, that it mase come vp pon no deade corps. And that honour giate thei also to the fire, for the reverence thei beare there vnto. From twentie, till fiuetie: thei folowe the warres. As for by-eng and sellyng, or any kinde of Lawe prattle, thei vse not. Thei cary in their warres, a kinde of sheldes factoned like a losenge, a quire with shaftes, & a curt-lace. On their heades a copintancke, em-batled aboute like a turrette, and a bressplate emboussed, of skaled wooze. The princes and menne of honour did weare a treble Anaxirides, factoned muche like a coate armour, and a long coate doun to the knets, with hangyng slieues acordyng.

Asie.

dyng. The outside colours, but the lining white. In Somer thei weare purple, and in Wintre Medlets. The abillementes of their heades, are muche like the front-lettes that their Magj doe weare. The comune people are double coated doun to the midde Legge, and haue about their heade a greate rolle of Sendalle.
 Their beddes and their drinking vessell, are garnished with gold. Whē thei haue matier of moste importaunce to common of, thei debate and cōclude in the middes of their cuppes: thinkyng it muche surer that is so determined, then afte any other sober sorte. Acquaintaunce meeting of equall degré, griete one another with a kisse. But the inferiour mettyng with his bettre, enclineth his bodie toward with lowe reuerence. Thei bewrie their corpses in the grounde, carayng them all ouer with waxe. Their Magicens thei leare unbewried, for the soules to dis-speche. The children there, by an orde-naunce no where eiles vled: doe carnally knowe their mothes. Thus haue ye heard what the maners of the Persians ware sometyme.

Herodotus reherseth certeine other,
 thei

Asie.

ther fations not vtrely vnworthe the tellynge. That thei compted it vilanie to laughe, or to spitte before the kyng. Thei thought it sondenes in the Grekes, wotthie to be laughed at, to imagine goddes to be sprong vp of menne. What so euer was dishoneste to be done, that thoughte thei not honest to be spoke. To be indebt was muche dishonour, but of all thinges moste vile for to lie. Thei vse not to bew-rie their deade bodies, vntill thei haue bene torne with dogges, or with fowles.
And the parentes brought to niediness, vse there to make cheutsance of their doughters bodies, whiche emong no nation elles was euer allowed. Nowbeit some holde opinion, that it was also the properte of the Babilonians. The Persians at this date, beynge subdued of the Saracenes, and bewitched with Mahometes brainiske wickednesse, are cleane out of memorie. a people in those dates, whiche through their greate hardinesse and force, ware of long tyme Lordes of the Calle parte of the wroide. But now tumbled cleane from their aunciente renowne, and bewried in dishonour.

¶ The

163

Afie.

The viii. Chapstre.

COf ynde, and the uncouthe des and makers of life of the people therin.

Inde, a Countre also of the Easte, and the closyng vp of Asia toward that quartre: is saied to be of suche a maigne syse, that it mait be copared with the thirde parte of the whole earth. Pomponius writheth, that a-lō ge the shore, it is fowrtie daies sailynge the nighre also comprised therin.

It cooke the name of the floude called Indus, whiche closeth vp the lande on the Weste side. Beginning at the Southe sea, it stretcheth to h Sonne risyng: And Northward to the mont Caucasus. There are in it many greate peoples: and Lounes and Cities so thicke, that some haue reported them in nombre five thousande.
And to saie truthe, it oughte not to seme greatly straunge vnto folkes, though the coutrie be reported to haue suche a nombre of Lounes, or to be so populous: consideryng

Asie.

sideryng that of all other, the Pudens alone, never discharged them selues of any ouerplus of issue, as other haue done: but alwaite kepte their owne offspynaing at home in their owne countrie. Their principall floudes are Ganges, Indus, and Hypanis. But Ganges farre passeth in greatness the other twaine. This lande by the benefice of the battling breathe of the gentle west winde, reapeth corne twise in the yere. And other west intre hath it none, but the bittre blastes of Theasterly windes called Etesiae. Thei lachte wine, and yet some men reporte, that in the quarte called Musica, there groweth a good wine grape. In the Southen parte thereof, groweth Nardus, Cinnamome, Pepper and Calamus aromaticus: as doeth in Arabia and Aethiope. The woodde Ebeneum (whiche some suppose to be our Guayacum) groweth there, and not elles where Likewise of the Popinjaye and the Unicorn. As soz precious stones, Beralle, Prasnes, Diamantes, firie Carbuncles and Pearles of all sortes, be found there in greate plentie. Thei haue twoo Summers, softe pimpelyng windes, a milde aier, a rancke soile, and abundaunce of water.

103

Aſie.

Watſe. Diuerſe of them therefore haue an hundred & thirtie yeres. Namely among the Mūſicaneſ. And among the Herites, yet ſomewhat longer.

All the Pndians generally, weare long heare: died either aſtre a bright as the coour, or elles an Orange tawnie. Their chief iuelles, are of Pearle and precious Stones. Their appareilte is verie diuers: and in ſelue, one like another. Some go in Mantles of wollen, ſome of Linnen, ſome naked, ſome onely breeched to couer the priuities, and ſome wrapped aboute with pilles, and lithe barches of rees. They are all by nature blacke of hewe: euē ſo died in their mothers wōbe acordyng to the diſpoſitiō of the fathers nature, whiche ſiede alſo is blacke: as like wiſe in the Aethiopians. Talle men and ſtrongly made. They are very ſpare fieders, namely when they are in Campe. Neither delighte they in muche pzeſſe. They are as I ſaid, greate deckers and trimmers of them ſelues, haters of theſt. They live by lawe, but not written. They haue no knowledge of lettres, but admitt- niſter altogether without booke. And for þ they are boide of guile, and of very ſobre.

L. J. Diteſe:

Afie.

victore: all theng prospereth well with thei.
Thei drinke no wine, but when thei haue cryste to their goddes. But their drincke is a bruage that thei make sometyme of Rize, sometyme of Barlie. Their meat for the mooste part is soupynges made also of Rize.

In their lawes, bargaines, and couenances, their simplicitie and truse mea-nyng well appeareth: for that thei never are mucche contentious aboute thei. Thei haue no Lawes concernyng pledges or thynges committed to another mannes kierping. No witnessynges, no handwrit-ynges, no sealynges, ne suche like tokes of trecherie and vntrust: but without all these, thei truste and be trusted, thei be-lieue and are belieued, yea, thei oftetimes leave their houses wide open without keper. Whiche truely are all greate signes of a iuste and vprighte dealyng emong them. But this peraduenture can not seatle well with every mannes fan-tase: that thei shold lise eche manne aparte by hymself, and every body to dine and to suppe when he lust, and not all at an howre determined. For indeede for the felowshyppe and ciuitie, the contrary is more

103

Afie.

More allowable. Thei commede and occupie muche as a commune exercise, to rubbe their bodies: specially with skrapers made for the nones. After whiche, thei smooche them selues again with Eborium, wherof I speake afore.

In their Coumbes, and Bewzalles, very plaine and nothyng costlie: But in trimming and arraing of their bodies, to, to, gaude glorioous. For there aboute thei neither spare gold, ne precious stome ne any kinde of silke that thei hane. Thei delighte muche in garmentes of white Sarcenet. And for that thei sette muche by beaultie, thei cary aboute with thei phanelles to defende them fro the sonne, and leauue nothyng vndone, that maketh for the bettre grace of their faces. Thei sette asmuche by truthe alone, as by all other vertues together.

Age hath there no prerogative, except thei winne it with their wisedome, and knowledge. Thei haue many wifes, whiche thei vse to buye of their parentes for a yoke of Oren. Some to serue them as their vndrelynges, and some for pleasure, and issue. Whiche male nevertheleſſe vſe buttoke banquetyng abzode (for any lawe or custome there is to restraine them) excepte their housebandes by faine force, can compelle them to kepe close.

L.ij. any

Aſſie.

No one emong the Pndians either sacrificeth coroned, ne offreth odours, ne liquours. Thei wounde not their Sacrifice in no maner of wise: but smore hym by stopping the breath. Least thei should offre any mangled thing vnto God, but that that ware in every parte whole. He that is conuict of falle witnesyng, hath his fingres cutte of by the toppe ioinces. He that hath taken a limme from any manne, suffreth not onely the like losse, but loseth also his hande. But if any man haue taken from an accidet, his hande, or his eye, it litch hym vpon his heade.

The kyng hath a garde of bought wemen: who take chardge of his bodie, and haue the trimmyng and orderyng thereof, the residue of the armie, remaining without the gates. If the Kyng fortune to be droncken, it is not onely lawfull for any one of these women to sea hym: but she shall also as in the waie of rewarde, be coupled in mariage to the nexte king, whiche (as is saied) is one of his sonnes, that afore enioied the Croune. It is not lawfull

1169

Asie.

lawful for the king to slepe by base tyme and yet in the night tyme to auoide tre-cherie, he is forced euery houre to thauge his chambre. When he is not in campe, he ofte tymes cometh abroade: bothe to giue sentence, and to heare matters dependyng in question. And if it be tyme of daie to trimme his bodie: he bothe heareth the pleaes & is rubbed in the meane season with the skrapers afore mencio-ned, by thre of his women. He cometh furthe also to Sacrifices, and to hunting: Where he is accompanied with a cable of women, in as good ordre as ours ware wonte to be vpon Hocke mondays.
His waie is ranged with ropes, and his garde of menne abideth without. But if it fortune any to steale in, to the women (whiche is contrary to their ordre & due-tie) he loseth his heade for it. There go afore hym Tabours and Belles. Where he hunteth in places fensed aboute, two or thre armed women stande prest, for his aide, and defence. But when he hunteth in open place, he is caried vpon an Eliphante: & euен so sittynge on his backe hooteth, or throweth the darte at his game. Some of his women ride vpon

L. iii. 101s

Asie.

Horses, some vpon Clephantes. As likewise in the warres, where thei fight with all kinde of weapons skilfully.

Suche menne also as haue gathered thinges into writynges, recorde that the Pndians worshippe as their goddes the father of raine Jupiter: Ganges their Roudre, and the familiar spirtis of their countrie. And when their kyng wash ch his heade, thei make solempne feast, and sende his highnes greate giftes, eche man enuyenge other, who maye shewe hym self molte riche, and magnifcent.

The commune wealthe of the Pndians, was sometyme deuided into seuen states or degrees. The Sages (whiche other calle Philosophers) ware of the firſt ordre, or state: the whiche although thei ware in nombre fewer then any of the rest: yet ware thei in honour and dignitie aboue the kyng, farre aboue all other. These menne (pruiledged seem all busines) neither be troubled with office, ne be at any mannes commaundemente: But receiue of the communes liþe thinges as serue for the Sacrifices of their goddes, and are requisite for bewrialles. As though thei ware bothe well acquainted,

and

171

Aſie.

and beloued in heauē, and knewe muche of the trade in helle. For this cause haue thei bothe gifteſ and honour largelij gi-uen thei. And in very die de thei do muche good among the people. For in the beginning of yere, assembling together, thei foreshewe of raine, of drouthe, of winde and of sickenesse: and of ſuche like thyn-ges as maie to profeight be foreknowen For aswell the kyng as the people, ones vndreſtādynng their foresaues, and knowyng the certaintie of their iudgementes by former expeſience: shone the euil-les, and are preſte to attende vpon that, that is good. But if any of their ſaid Ha-ges ſhall fortune to erre in his foreshiȝt: other punishment hath he none, then for ever after to holde his peace.

The ſeconde ordre is of housebande menne, whiche beyng more in nombre then any of the other ſtares, and exempte fro the warres, and all other labour: be-lowe their tyme onely in housebandrie.
No enemie ſpoileth thei, none troubleth them: but refraineth fro doing them any hurte or hinderaunce, vpon respect of the profeighte that redoundeth to the whole, throughe their traualles. So that thei,

L. liij. hauyng

Asie.

Having libertie without all feare to followe their busines, are instrumētes and meanes of a blessed plenteousnesse. They with their wifes and children, dwel al-waie in the countrie, without resortynge to the tounes or citte. They pate rente to the Kyng (for all the whole Countrie is subiecte to their kyng) neither is it lawefull for any of the communes to occupie and possesse any grounde, without paiesyng rente. And the housebande men beside this rente, yelde vnto the Kynges maiestie, a fuent of their fruities verely.

The thirde ordre standeth all by brieders and fieders, of all sortes, whiche likewise neither inhabite tounes ne villages: but with tentes, in the wilde fieldes. And these with hantynge and soulyng in son-drye wise, so kiepe vndre the beastes and hurtefull soules: that whear other wise the housebande menne shold in fiedetyme, and cowarde harueste, be muche acloped and hyndered by the fowles, and theim selues alwaie by the beastes, the countrie is quiete fro al suche annoyace.

In the fourthe ordre are Artificers, and handicrafstesmen, whiche are denis-ted, some into Smithes, some into Armouters,

173

Assie.

monours, some for one purpose, some for another, as is expediente. These doe not onely live rente free, but also haue a certayne of graine allowed them at the kynge's allowaunce.

In the fifteth ordre are the menne of warre, a greate nombre dately exercised in armes, bothe on Horsebacke, on Elephantes, and on foote. And all their Elephantes, and horses mette for their warres, are found of the kynge's allowaunce.

The sixteth ordre is of Surueiours or Masters of reporte, whiche haue the oversighte of all chynges that are done in the realme, and the charge to bryng reporte vnto the kyng.

In the seventh place, are thei that be Presidēces, and heades of the commune cōsailles, very fewe in nombre, but worthi me for their nobilitie and wisedome. Out of these are chosen counsailours for the kynges Courtes, and officers to administrē the commune wealth, and to determine controvuries: yea, capitaines for the warres, and Princes of the realme.

The whole state of ynde beinge deuided into these ordres or degrees: it is alsoordeined, that a man shall not marie ouer

Aſie.

of the ordre, wherin his calling lſeth, ne chaunge his trade. For neither maie the ſouldour occupie housebandrie thoughe he woulde: ne the artificers entremedle with the doctrine of the Sages.

There are also amoung the Pndians, persons of honour appointed to be as it ware Tutours of Straungiers, to ſee that no wronge be done them, to put or-die for their kepyng, and Whisicke, if any falle ſickē. As alſo (if it fortune any of the co dte) for the bewyting of them, and to deliuer their goodes, and money to their nexe friendes.

All cauſes are broughte afore the iudges, who heare the parties, and punylſſe the offendours diligently. Ther is no flauery amoung the m. Pea, thei haue a certaine ordinaunce, that none ſhalbe ſlauie or bonde amoung them, but all fre, and of equalle auuthoritie and honour. For thei holde opinion that who ſo accuſto-meth hiſ ſelſe neither to be Lord euer other, ne to wrōge any bodie; y man hath prepared hiſ ſelſe laufcie and eafe what ſo euer shall happen hym by any adver-tice. And a fonde thing ware it to make the lawes indifferente for all, and no to make

175

Afie.

make the states of the men indifferente.

But because ther are in Inde manye sondrie contrries, diuerse bothe in people and tongue (as in so large a thing miche redes happen) ye shall vnderstonde that thei do not all alike bse suche trade as I haue described, but in somr places somwhat worse.

Of those that lie towarde the Caste, some occupie brieding, and some do not. Other dwellinge in the merche, and fenes vpon the riuers side:occupie fiddling, and liue by the same all rawe. And the bettre to worcke their seate, thei make them selues boates. of suche canes as growe ther, of a wonderfull biggenes. So, that so muche of the cane as is betwixt ioynte and ioynte, is a iuste proportion of timbre for one of their boates.

These of all the other Indians, are apparelled in matte, made of a certayn softe kinde of mere rushes. Which when thei haue gathered out of the fioude, and sliced oute in maner of lace: they braude together muche like oure figge fraile, or suche like kinde of mattinge, & make them selues ierkins therof.

Those that be yet by Caste of them, are brieders

Asie.

brieders of catasle : and live alto gether with rawe fleshe, and haue to name Padians. Whose condicions are sayde to be suche.

As often as it fortuneth any of their citezeins to be sicke, yf it be a manne; his merest friendes, and those that are moste aboute him , kylle him by and by . leaste (saye thei) his fleshe shuld ware worse.
Pea , thoughe he woulde dissemble the matier , and denie himself to be sicke , it boteth not . For withoute pardon, they kille him , and make a feaste with him.
If it be a woman, looke how the menne did by the manne, so do the women by a woman. Likewise do thei with bothe sores, when thei ware crooked for age, or become impotente: where throughe , what by the one meanes and the other, none of them die for age.

Ther is another sorte of the Indians that kille no liuinge thing, ne plante nor sowe, nor builde house: but live with her-bes, and a certeine sede whiche groweth there of the owne accord, muche like unto gromelle. whiche thei gather with the cuppe or shelle that it groweth in, and so seeth it, and eate it. If any of these falle sicke,

Asie.

Sick, he wandereth forthe into some deserte place, and ther lateth hym downe: no manne taking hede either to his lieng or to his dienge.

All these Pndians that I nowe haue spoken of, in quenching of natures heate, vse their women as secretly as beastes do their females.

These Pndians haue a kinde of sages, that the Grieke calle Gimnosophiltæ, whiche as the worde Sophilla soundeth now, might merily be interpreted brie, chelesse bablers. But as Sophilla did signifie then, naked Sages: or to gine one Grieke worde for a nother, naked Philosophres. These (as Petrarche writeth) haunte the outemolte borders, and shadowie partes of that countrie, wadering naked accordinge to their name, vp and downe, heather and the ather, studienge, and searching the natures of thinges, the course of the heauens, and the secretes of knowldege. They continued sometime al the whole daye from the sonne rising, till his downe goinge; beholdinge the same with stedfaste eye, never tourning away the head: (alough he it be ther molte fuenly hote) searching and spienge astre viii

Asie.

certaine secretes in the body thereof.

At another time thei passe the day like-wyse, standing one while on one legge, another while on another in þy broilinge lande of that contrie. Froste nor snowe, nor frite heate greued not thei.

Amonge thei, is ther a people called Brachmanes, whiche (as Diodorus thei king wrate vnto Alexander when he wetc aboute to subdue them) live a pure and simple life, led with no likerous lasses of other mennes vanities. This people logeth for no more then nature requyret naturallye. Thei are content with such foode as commeth to hande, desirynge no such as other menne courne the worlde almost vppside downe to haue, leauing no elemet vncansaked to geete a gowbin for their glotonous gorge: but such as the earth vnplooughed, or vndoluë, yeldeth of her self. And because thei ar queinte not their table with surfeit, in dede thei knold not so many kindestes of sickenesses, ne so many names of diseases as we doe: but thei bettre knowe what sounde healthe meaneth, and staied continuaunce of the same then euer we are like.

Thei haue no nede to craue one another

179

Asie.

ther's helpe and relife, wher no mannes maketh clayme by(thine) and by(myne) but every manne taketh what he lusteth and lusteth no more then he needeth.
Envie cannot dwelle ther, ne none of her impeis, wher all be equalle, and none above other. and all alike poore, maketh all alike riche. They haue no officers of Justice among them, because they do nothing that ought to be punished. Ther can no lawe appiere, because none offeis appeareth.

The whole people hath one onely lawe, to do nothinge against lawe that nature prescribeth. To cherishe labour, to barre out ydlenes, and banishe colle couetyse.
That lechery likke not away the vigour of their spirites, and strength: nor lacke thowte menne into desperate doompes.
That every manne hath enoughe, wher no manne covettes more. That never content, is of all other the moste cruell res-les plague. For whome she catcheth, she throweth a foote beneth beggery, whiles they canne finde none ende of their scrattinge, but the more they haue, the seltier gnaweth their longing.

They warme by the Sonne, the deawe

Aſſe.

is their moſſure, þ river is their drinke, the faire grounde their bedde. Ware breaketh not their ſleape, Compaffing of vanities wearieth not their minde. Pryde hath no ſtroke ouer them, among whiche ther is no diuerſite. Neuer is their any kinde of bondē knownen amouge them: but the bondage of the body to the minde whiche thei onely allowe to be iuste.

For the building of their houles, they ſende not ouer ſea for ſtone, thei burne no Calion to make lime to tempre their mortre, thei bake no bricketes, nor digge no ſande. But either make them caues in the earthe, or take ſuiche as thei finde ready made in the ſides of the mountaines and hilles. Ther dwelþe without feare of rage or ruine, of weather or of winde.
He thincþe him ſelf ſauſter fencid fro showres with his caue, then with a ſewe riles: and yet hath by it a double commo-ditie. A house while he liueth, & a graue ready made when he dyeth. Ther is no glittering apparell, no ratteling in ſyl-kes, no ruffeling in veluettes, but a licle brieche of brawded ruffhes, & rather a couering of honeſte shamefacedneſſe.
The women are not ſette oute to allure,

Asie.

ne pinched in to please, ne garnished to gale at. No heare bled, no lockes outlated, no face painted, no skinne slicked, no countrefeite countenaunce, nor mynsing of passe. No poticary practise, no ynckehorne termes, nor pithlesse pratlyg. Finally no colours of hypocritise, no meanes to set oure more beautie then nature haue ghauē them. Thei ioyne not in engēdure for likerous lustre, but for the loue of ysselme and succession. Thei kepe no war-res, but mainteine peace: not with force, but with peaceable behauour and ma-ners. The father and the mother folowe not the childe to þy bewysalle. Thei builde no tounbes for the deade: more like unto chirches then graues. Thei bewry noe þy their ashes in pottes dasched full of pearle and precious stonye. For why they estieme in these, neither the honour of the quicke, ne the pleasure of the deade: but rather the trouble and paine of bothe.
Pestilence or other diseases (as I haue sayd) the Abrahamanes are not annoyed with, for thei enfecte not the aper with any filchye doinges. But nature alwaye with them, keapeth accorde with the season: and every elemente his tourne, with

M. L. oure

Asie.

oute stoppe or barre. Their Phisicque is abstinence, which is able not only to cure the maladie already crepte in: but also to holde oute suche as otherwise myghte entre. Thei couette no sightes, nor shewes of misrule: no disgossinges nor entrelu-des. But when thei be disposed to haue the pleasure of the stage, thei entre into the regestre of their stories, & what thei finde theremosse fit to be laughed at, that do thei lament & bewaile. Thei delights not as many do, to heare olde wiues tales, and fantasies of Robin hooode: but in studious consideracion of the wondreful workmanship of the world, & the perfect disposinge of thinges in suche ordre of course and degree. Thei crosse no sease for merchaundise, ne learne no colours of Rethorique. Thei haue one kinde of plaine eloquence commune to them all: tongue, & harte agreinge in truthe. Thei haue neither moote halles, ne uniuersities, whose disagreeable doctrine more leaning to apisshē arte, then natural reason and experiance, never bringeth anye stave, or certeintie of thinges. One part of this people iudgeth manes perfeteste blessednes to stands in honestie. And a nother

Afie.

Rather in pleasure . Not in the tickelings of the taile , or pamperinges of the bealy, more bittere then pleasure as thou maye ose them: but to lacke nothing that perfecte nature desireth, ne nothing to do that perfecte nature misliketh . They thincke it no honour to God, to slea for him an innocēte beast: yea they say he accepteþ not the sacrifice of men polluted with bloode, but rather loueth a worship woerde of all bloodsheade . That is to saye the humble entreatie of woerde, because that propretþ only (to be entreated with woordes) is commune to God and to manne. With this therefore saye they he is pleased, because we somewhat resemble him self therin. And this was the life of þ þnchristened Brahmanes, wher with we christianes are so farre out of loue, that we are afraide leaste any man shold beleue it to be true .

The þndians called Lathets, haue eche man many wiues. And assone as anyone husbande fortuneth to die, his whole no-ber of wiues assemble before the chiefeſt judges of the citie, and there eche for her self, sheweth and alledgedh her welle de-seruinges towarde her housebande: how

M.ij. verely

Aſie.

derely ſhe loued him, howe muche ſhe tendered & honoured him. And ſhe that is by them iudged to haue borne her ſelf beſte in that behauſe, and to haue bene dierest to her hufonne: ſhe in the beſte maner and moſte gorgeouſe that ſhe can deuife, triumphing and reioyſinge, getteth her vp vpon the funeralle pyle, wher her houſebandes corps lieth ready to be breſte, and ther kiſſinge and embracinge the deade body, is burried together with her houſebāde. So gladde is ſhe to haue the vicerie in the conuencon of wiuely chaſtitie, and honeſte behauour toward her hufonne. And the other that lyue, thincke them ſelues diſhonoured: and escape not without ſpotte of reproche as longe as thei liue. Their childdre in their infancie, are not nouriſhed vp at the libertie and will of the parentes: but cer-teinether are appointed to diue the children: whiche yf thei ſpie unlowardnes in the infancie, deſormie, or latke of lymmes, commaunde it to be ſlayne.

Thei ioyne not mariages for nobilitie of birth, or aboundinge of ſubſtance, but for beaultie, and rather vpon regarde of frute, then of luſte.

Certaine

Asie.

Certaine also amonge the Indians haue this custome, that yf thei be of such pouertie that thei be not able to marye once their daughters: even in the flour of her age thei bringe her, or them, furthe into the marcate with trumpet & drōme, or such other their noyses of warre: And their, astre the multitude is comen together, the maiden first vncouereth her self wholie vp to the harde sholders, on the backe haulfe, to be sene starke naked, and astre that likewise on the bealy. Yf the multitude finde no faulce, but allowe her as worthye to please for her bodye, then marrieth she to some one ther, whome shē beste liketh.

Megasthenes wriseth that vpon diuerse mountaines in Pnde, are people with dogges heades, and lōge clawes, cladde in hydes of beastes, speakinge with no boyce like unto manne, but barking only, muche like unto dogges, with mouthes roughe like a grater.

Thei that dwelle aboute the heade of Ganges, haue no nede of anye kinde of meate: for thei live by the sauour of their frutes. And yf thei fortune to torney, so that thei thincke to fayle of the sauour

M. iii. when

Asie.

when thei would haue it, they cary woth theim to smelli to, at times as thei faine te.
But if it fortune those to smelle any horrible stincke, it is as present deathe vnto theim, as popson to vs. It is recorded in writynge, that certayne of those ware in Alerandres campe.

We rede also that there are in Inde mē with one eye and no mo. And certain so notably eared that thei hange dewne to their hieles, with suche a largenesse that thei may lye in either of them as vpon a pallet: and so harde, that thei maye rende vpon trees with them. Some other also having but one legge, but vpon the same such a foote, that when the sonne is hote, and he lacketh shadowe, lyenge dowone vpon his backe, and holdinge vpon his foote, he largely shadoweth his whole bodie.

It is reddē that in Clessia certain women haue but ones childe in all their life time: and the children assene as thei are borne, immediatly to become hocheded.
Againe, that there is another nacion, much lō ger liued then we are, whiche in their youth are hozeheared: and in theſe age, their heare wareth blacke. They affirme

Aſie.

107

affirme also that ther is another ſorte of women that conceiue at fyue yeres olde, and liue not aboue the age of. viii. yeres. Ther are also that lacke neckes, & haue their eyes in their ſhoulders. Ther are also beside theſe, certeine ſaluages with dogges heades, & ſhacke heared on their bodies, that make a very terrible char- ringe with their mouthes.

But in theſe and ſuiche like tales of the Indians, and their countrie: for that a manne had neide of a redie beliefe that ſhould take theim for truthes, one had not neide to bee to large: conſiderynge ſpecially that inenne nowe a daies, will ſkante beleue the repozte of other mens wrtinges, in the chinges that almoſt lye vndre their noſes.

Ther is a place betwift Gedrosia and the floude Pndus which is called Cathai- nus of the Cathaiens that enhabyte it. This people ware an offſpring of þ Scythias, muche altered from their naturall conditions, and wonted maners, if that that Aitone the Arminiane wrteth of them in his ſtorie, be true.

Thei paſſe (ſateth he) all other men in quicke ſmelling. And thei ſaye of them
M. iiiij. ſelues

Aſſie.

Celues, that though all other menne haue two instrumentes of sight, yet do none ſe with both two in dede, but thei: all other men in cōparison eicher to haue no ſight, or elles as it ware but with one eye.
Their wittinesſe is greate, but their botinge greater. The whole nacion of thei is perſwaded, that thei muſte paſſe all other men in knowledge, and the subtileſſe of ſciences. Thei are all of colour ſhining white, ſmalle eyed, beardeleſſe by nature. Their letters are aſtre the facio of the Romaine, all in ſquares. Thei are diuerſely ledde with fonide ſuperſticions, ſome aſtre one ſorte, and ſome aſtre another. But thei are all voyde of the true knowledge which is in Ieſus Chriſte.
Some worſhip the ſonne, ſome ymcone.
Other, ymages of poten metalle, manie of them an ore. And thus to ſondry ſuche other monſters, hath this peopple in ſon-dry wyſe deuſded it ſelſe in ſuperſtition.
Thei haue no maner of written lawes, nor knowe not what we meane whē we ſpeake of faithfulnesſe or truſtinesſe. And wher (as I ſaid aforē) thei haue in al hād worckes a paſſing subtilitie of witte, yet in the knowledge of heauenly thinges, thei

109

Asie.

they are altogether to learne : that is to saye, they are vitterly ignorant. A cowardly people and very feareful of death. Yet exercise they a maner of warre , but that they handle rather by witte, and policie, then by strength and hardinesse. In their fighte they vse a kinde of shaftes, and certaine other weapons of fight, unknownen to other countries.

Their money is a piece of square paper, with their Rynges Image vpon it.
And because it cannot be durable : ordre is taken, that when it is soiled or dusked muche, with passing from man to man, they shall bring it to the coignyng house, and make exchaunge for newe. All their utensiles and necessaries of house, are of golde, siluer, and other metalles. Dile is so deince emong them, that the kyng only vseth it , as it ware for a precious ointement. Thus haue we treated of the Pndians , and now to their borderers, the Scithians.

C The ix. Chapstre.

¶ Of Scithia and their uerne maners .

M.v. Scithia

Asie.

Lithia (a countrie lyeng by North) is said of Herodotus, to take the name of Scitha Hercules sonne. Or as Berossus Judgeth, of an other Scitha, borne of oure greate graundame Arare, Noahes wife, that dwelt first in that countrie. This people in the beginning, pente within narowe boundes, so in processe by litle and litle, through their valeauntnes and force enlarged their limites: that thei became lordes of many countries aboute, and grawe into a great gouernaunce and renoume. Thei nestled first vpon the flonde Araris so fewe in nombre and so base: that no manne thought theim worthie the troublyng or talkyng of. But gettyng unto them a certain king, hardie, of great courage, and notable experiance in the warres: thei enlarged their land so, that thei made it stretche on the one partie (whiche is altogether Hille, and Mountaigne) unto Caucasus, and ouer al the plain unto the Ocean, & unto the greate marshe of Meotis, and Tanais the flonde. From whence

191

Asie.

Whete the countrie of Scithia now stret reth all along toward the East. And be cause the mounteigne Imaus, runnyng along as the countrie coasteth, deuides it in the middes into two haulues : the one haulfe is called Scithia within Imaus, and the other without (as ye would saye) on this side the Mounte, and beyonde.
There never medled any power with theim, that was able to conqueretheim; or muche to endamage theim. Thei forced Darius, the Rynge of the Persians, with greate dishonour to fye their coun-trie. Thei sue Cirns with all his armie.
Thei made an ende of Alexandre with al his power. The Romaines sente theim threates thei would warre with theim, but thei proued in fine bac wordes. Thei are a people not tameable with any toile bittre warriours, and of greate strength of bodie. At the first very rawe, and without any ordinarie trade of life : neither knowyng what tillage meant, ne yet ha-uyng any houses or cotages to dwell in.
But wandryng vp and doun the wilde fieldes and dryuyng their catteille afore theim, their wifes and their children ri-dyng in wagons by them. Thei obserued justice

Aſie.

ſtifice, without constraint of lawe. Theſe compted none office more heinous, then theſte. As folke that had nothyng vndre locke nor keye, barre, nor bolte: but altogether in the open fielde. Theſe necher occupied golde ne siluer. Their chief foode was milke and Honey. Againſt colde and other ſormes, thei wrapped their bodies in felles, and hides of beaſtes, and mice ſkinnes. Thei knewe not what wolleſſe meante, ne any facion of garmente.

This maner of life was in many of the Scithians, but not in all. A greate nombre of them, as thei muſche diſſered in diſtance of place fro other, ſo diſſered thei also from other in maners: and uſed a certeine trade of liuyng emong them ſelues, wherof we aftreward will entreate, when we haue ſated ſomewhaſt moze of their facions in generall.

¶ Many of the Scithians delight in maſlaughter. And the firſte man that he taketh in fight, his bloud drinkeſſeth he: and offreth unto his Rynge the headeſ of all thoſely he ther ſleaeth. For when he hath ſo done, he is admitted to be partaker of the butine what ſo euer it be, whereof he ſhould be otherwise partles. He cutteth of

Aſſie.

of the heade astre this sorte. Firsſt, with his kniſſe he maketh in it a gaſhe roude aboute like a circle, vndre the eares: then takeſt he it by the heare of the croune, & ſtriketh it of. That done, he ſleaeth it, and caueth the ſkinne betwixte his han- des, vntill it become very ſouple and ſoſte and kieþet it for a hande kercher. This will he hange vpō the reine of his horſe, and glorieth not a little in it. And he that hath moſte of ſuſche hādkerchers, is coni- pted the valeaunteſt manne. There are many alſo that ſowe together theſe ſkin- nes of menne, as oþer doe the ſkinnes of beaſtes, and weare them for their clo- thyng. Some of them ſlea the right hand of their enemis beþyng ſlaine, ſo that the nailes alſo remain upon the fingres, and make couers of them for their quiuers.

Many of theſe ſea the whole bodie, and ſtreſche out the ſkinne vpō certaine ſtie- kies fittid for the noſes, and ſo ſprede the vpon their Horſe. Of the ſkulles of the headeſ thus ſlaine, they make maſures to drincke in: coueryng them on the outside with rawe Neates leather, and gilding them on the inside, if he be of habilitie. And when any gheſte of estimation com- meth

Aſſie.

meth unto theim, thei offre the to drincke in asmany as thei haue, and declare for a greate bragge of their valeauntnesse, that so many thet haue slaine with their owne hande.

Dnes every yere, all the chiefe heades of the Scithians, kepe a solempne drinke-kyng. At the whiche the maner is, out of one of theſe Skulles, as out of a wassai-ling boule, to gree all thone the wine that haue slaine an enemie. But he that hath done no ſuche notable aſte, taſteþ noe therof, but ſitteth aparte in a corner with out honour: which iſ iudged among the a greate reproche. But thei that haue achieued many slaughters, thei drincke of two Goblettes together, which thei haue ſoꝝ that pur poſe.

The goddes whom thei worſhippe and doe Sacrifice unto, are theſe: firſte and chiefly unto Vesta, then to Jupiter, and the goddeſſe of the grounde: for that thei take her to be Jupiters wife. Merrie unto Appollo and Venus, Mars and Hercules. Yet erecte thei no Chapelle, Altare, nor Image to any of theſe: but onely to Mars: to whom thei offre of every hundred prisoners that thei take, one for a ſacrifice.

193

Afie.

erifice. To the other thei offre bothe hōses and other beastes, but specially hōses. Swine thei so little estieme, that thei neither offre them to any of their goddes ne bouchesauke to kiepe theim in their Countrie. Looke whom the kyng punissheth with death, his chldren he also commaundeth to be slain, as many as be males, but the women are pardoned.

With whom the Scichians couenaūe or make League: after this maner thei doe it. Thei fille an earthen panne wiþ wine, and of the parties that shall strike the League or couenaunte, thei drāwe a quantitie of bloude, whiche thei mingle therwith. Then diepe thei into the panne their Curtilasse, their shaftes, their ars, and their darte. That done thei wishe vnto them selues many terrible curses and mischieses, if thei holde not the league or couenaunte. And then drānike thei the wine. And not thei onely that strike the couenautes, but also those that are moste honourable in their compaignie.

The bewrall of their kynges is astre this maner: where the Kyng dieth, those that are of his bloude, rounde his heare, cutte of one of his eares, slice his armes rounde

Aſſie.

rounde aboute, all to begatſhe his bozeheade and his noſe, & ſhoote him through the liſte hande, in thre or fourre places.
Then laie thet the corps in a Carte, and cary it to the Gerrites, where the Sepulchres of all their Kynges are. And thei dwelle vpō the hounde Worithenes, about the place wher it becometh firſt latteable.
This people when thei haue received it, trenche out a ſquare plotte in the ground very wide and large. And then rippe the beaſy of the corps, and bowelle it cleane: clensyng it and dryeng it from all filthe, and fille it vp with Siler Montanum, Frantkencenſe, Smallache ſiede, and Anife ſiede, beaten together in a Mortre.
And when thei haue ſowed it vp againe cloſe, thei ceare the whole bodie, and con-ueigh the ſame in a Carte, to the nerke people vndre the gouernauce of the Sc-chiās, whiche with honour receiue it, and conueigh it vnto the nerke of their dominion: and ſo from one to another, vntle it haue paſſed rounde aboute, to as many peoples, as are of their dominion, and be-comen againe to the place of bewiaile emong the Gerrites, whether it is accompanied with a certain of all the peoples, 107

Asie.

to whom it hath comen, as they gathered encreace from place to place. Then, after what tyme they haue laied the corps, co-phine and all, vpon a bedde of state, amid the square afore mentioned: sticke doun their iuelines and speares aboute him, and with sticke lated ouer from one to another, frame as it ware a Catelyng, whiche they couer with a funeralle palle.
Then in the reste of the boide space, that yet remaynes in the Cophine made for the nones: they beweire one of his dierest leymans, a waitynge manne, a Cooke, a Horsekeper, a Lacuite, a Butler, and a Horse. Whiche they al first strangle, and thruste in, together with a portion of all sortes of plate, and of euery suche thyng as apperteined to his houshalde, or body.
And when the yere comes about, then do they thus. They take of those that ware nerest aboute the Kyng (now there are none aboute the king, but they be Scithians free borne, and suche as his self doth commaunde: for he maie be serued with no bought slau) of those take they fuetie and as many of his best horses. And whe they haue strangleled bothe the men and the horses, they bowell the Horses, stiffe

M. i. their

Asie.

ther beales againe wch Chasse, and sowe them vp close, and sette the menne vpon their backes. Then make thei a boule ouer rouē about the bordre of the greate square, and so dispese these horse menne eniron the same, that thei semme a farre of, a troupe of liuyng horsemen gardyng the kyng.

The communes hane also a maner of bewrialle after a like sorte. When one of theim dieth, his nerte neighbours and kindsfolke late hym in a Carte, and cary hym aboue to every of his frindes: whiche at the receipte of hym make a feaste, as well to the kindsmen, as to all the residewe that accompagne the corps. And when thei haue thus caried hym aboue by the space of fowretene daies, he is be-wried. All the braine of his heade beyng first piked out, and the skulle rinsed with water cleane. Aboue the bodie thei sette vp three sparres of woodde slopyng, and restyng one vpon another at the toppes.
Rounde about these sparres, thei straine cappyng wollen, packyng theim as close as thei can. And within betwixt the sparres, as it ware in the middest over the deade, thet set a crate or shalowe trough, where

199

Asie.

where in to thet caste a kynke of stones, that glistereth by fire light.

The menne emong the Scithians, do not vse to washe the selues. But the women vse to powre water vpon their own bodes, and to rubbe themselues against some roughe stone: and then with a piece of a Lipresse, Leadre, or Encence tree, to grate their whole bodie, vntill it be somewhat bollen or swollen. And then enoint thei bothe that and their face, with certaine medicines for the nones: whereby thei become the nexte daie a of very good smell, and (when the medicine is washed awaie) sickle and smoche.

Their commune othe, and the othe of charge in matiers of concrouersie, or judgemente, is by the kynges clothe of estate: by the whiche if a man shalbe tried to haue forsworne hymself (as their enchauntours haue a maner to trie with sa-lowe roddes whether thei haue or not) by and by without respighte, he loseth his heade, and all his goodes. whiche tourne to the vse of them that haue preued hym perjured.

The Massagetes, a people of Scithia in Asie, beyond the sea called Caspiū mare

Asie.

in apparellle and luyng, muche like to the Scithians, and therefore of some so called: vse to fighete bothe on horsebacke and on fote, with suche actiuite and force, that they are almoske invincible in bothe.
Thei r weapons are bowes and arrowes, Launces and Armyng swordes. Their beltes aboute their waste, the ornamant of their heades, and their pollerone, are garnished with golde. Their Horses are barbed on the brest, with barbes of gold.
Their renes, bridles, and trappour are all of golde. The heades of their Launces are of Brasse, and their Muires armed with Brasse. As for Siluer and Iron they occupie none. Eche manne ma-riteth one wife, and yet are the wifes of them all, commune one to another. Which thyng is not vsed emong any of the other Scithians. When so ever any man lusteth for the compaignie of his womā, he hangeth vp his quiver vpon the carte wherein his wife is carued by hym, and there openly without shame coupleth.

When any one of this people wareth very aged, his friendes, acquaintance, and kindesfolke assēbled together, make a bralie Sacrifice of hym: sleayng alma-

Asie.

ny shisepe besides, as will serue for the fyn nesse of the nombre. And when thei haue dressed them, eate parte and parte like, the one with the other. And this kinde of departyng is compted emong them, of all other mosse blessed. If any fortune to pine awaie of sickenesse, hym eate thei not: but put in a hole, and thowre earthe vpon him. Sorry for the losse, that he came not to the feaste.

Thei neither lowe nor mowe, but liue by fleshe of suche beastes as thei haue, and suche fishe as Arare the floude doeth pleteously minister vnto them: and with drinckynge of Milke, wherof thei make no spare. Thei knowe no goddes but the Sonne: In whose honour thei offre vp Horses in Sacrifice, as beyng in swifte-nesse mosse like vnto the Sonne.

The Heretines are a debonaire people, and suche louers of quietnesse, that thei shone to entremedle with any other people. Merchautes passe their outmoss floude toward them, but thei mase come no nigher. Along the banques there, thei sette out suche thynges, as thei are disposed to selle. Not the Merchautes, but the indwellers of the Countrie. For thef

N. iii. selle

Asie.

selle to other, and buse of none. And they sette them in ordre as they judge them in price. The buyer cometh, and as he indigeth them by his eye to be worthe, without further trade or feloweshippe betwixt them, so lateth he doun. And if they receive it, he departeth with þ ware.
Among them is there neither whore nor thief, nor adultereþe broughte to iudgmente. Neither was it ever hearde, that there was a manne slaine among them.
For the feare of their Lawes woorketh more strongly with them, then the influences of the Starres. They dwelle as it were in the beginning, or entryng of the worlde. And for that they liue afre a chast sort: they are neither skourged with Blastynges, ne Hatle, ne Pestilence, ne suche other eutilles. No manne toucheth a woman there, afre she hath conceiued, ne yet in the tyme of her flowres. They eate none vncleane beastes, ne knowe what Sacrifysing meaneth. Every man there is his owne Judge, acordyng to Justice. Thereforoþ are they not chastised with suche corrections as happen vnto other for synne, but bothe continue long in life, and die without grise.

The

Asie.

The Taurischithias (so called for that they dwell aboue the mountaigne Taurus) offre as many as fortune to make Shipwrecke vpon their shoze: to the virgine, whose name ye shall after heare. And if it fortune any Greke or Grekes, to be driven therer, him doe they Sacrifice after this maner.

Astre what tyme they haue made pray-yer after their maner, they strike of his heade with an hachet. And (as some late) tumble dounethe carkeſſe into the ſea, (for this Virgine hath a Chapelle vpon the toppe of a high clieue, hangyng ouer the ſea, where this feate is doone) and naile vp the heade vpon a Gibet. In this pointe of nailyng vp the heade, all the writers agre, but in comblyng doun the body, not ſo. for ſome affirme that the body is bewyzed. The Virgine Deuille, to whom they Sacrifice: is laied to be Iphigenia Agamēnons daughter. Their en-emis as many as they take, thus they handle. Every manne cutteh of his pri-ſoners head, and carieth it home: and fa-ſteneth it vpon the ende of a long pole, & ſetteth it vp: ſome vpon their house toppe ſome vpō their chimneys as high as they

M. lliij. can.

Asie.

ean. And no merueile though thei set the so that thei might well see stande about theim: for thei late: thei are the wardens and kepers of al their whole house. Thei lue by spoile, and by warre.

The Agathirsians are menne verie meate & fine, & greate wearers of golde in thei appareill. Thei occupie their women in commune, so that thei seeme all of one kindred, and one householde: never strynyng nor grudgyng one with another, muche like in body vnto the Thra-cians.

The Neurians use the maners of the Scithians. This people the somer before that Darius set furthe, ware constrainned for the greate multitude of Serpentes þ ware bredde in their quartres, to chaunge their dwellyng place. Thei versly doe believe, and wille sware it: that every yere ones for a certaine daies, thei become woulues, and retourne againe into their former shape and state.

The Antropophagites (so called for that thei lue by mannes fleshe) of all menne, are the wroste cōditioned, without lawe, or officer, apparesilled like the Scithians: but in language like vnto no bodye but them

Asie.

them selues.

The Melanchleni do all weare blacke, as their name dothe signifie . And of these also are eaters of mannes fleshe: so mane as folowe the trade of the Scithians.

The Budnes are a great nacion, and a populous, graye eyed, & redde headed al.
Their heade citie is Gelone, wherof thei are also called Gelonites. Thei kepe eue-ry thirde yere a reuelle in the honour of Bacchus : whereat thei make reuelle in dede, yea, reuell route. Thei ware some-tyme Grike, whiche put of fro their countrie, seatled them selues there. And by processe, losyng the propriedie of their owne tongue, became in language haulfe Grikes, and haulfe Scithians. Yet are the Gelonites bothe in language and lusinge, different from the Budnes. For the Budnes being native of the place, are briesders of Cattesle : The Gelonites, occupieng tylle : live by corne, and haue their frute yarde. Meyther lyke in colour ne countenaunce to the other. All their quartres are verye full, and thicke of trees . It hathe also many meres and greate . In and about the N. v. whiche

Asie.

Whiche thei take Dittres, and Beauers, & many other beastes: of whose skinnes they make them pilches, and Perkins.

The Lirceis live by woodmanshippe, and huntinge, and astre this maner. Their countrie beinge also very thicke of trees, thei vse to climbe suche as siemeth them beste: and there awaite their game. At the foote of euery mannes tree lieth a dogge, and a horse well taughte to couche flatte on the bealy, as lowe as can bee. When the beaste cometh within daungter, he shotheth. And yf he hitte, he streighte commeth downe, taketh his horse backe, & followeth with his hōride.

The Argippians dwell vndre the foote of the highe mountaines. Men whiche fro their birthe are balde, bothe the males and the females. Their noses tourne vp like a shoinge horne, and their chynnes be great out of measure. The sounde of their voice unlike to all other: ther apparel astre the sorte of the Scithians.

Thei haue small regarde to brieding: by the reason wherof thei haue smalle store of cattaille. Thei lie vndre trees, which in the wintre thei couer ouer with a white kynde of felte, and in the somer take the same same awaye, and lie vndre the open tree.

Asie.

 Ther is no manne that wil harme them for that thei are compted holy halowed: neither haue thei anye kinde of armour, or weapō of warre. These men haue the arbitrement of their neigbours controversies rounde aboute And as thei determine so are thei ended. w^eho so flieth vnto them, is saufe as in sanctuary.

The Isedonnes haue this propretie.
 When so euer any mannes fater ther, diech: all his kinsfelke bringe euery man one beast or other to the house of y sonne that keþeth the funeral. Whiche whē thei haue killed and minshed: they minse also the body of the deade. And bothe the flesshes beinge mingled together, thei fall to the banker. Then take thei the dead mannes heade, & pike the braine oute cleane, and all other moistures and ragges, and When thei haue guilte it, thei vse it for a representaciō of the partie departed. Solempnisinge every yere furthe, the me-moriall, with newe ceremonies, and mo-This dorthe the sonne for the fater, and the fater for the sonne, as the Grekes kepe their birthe daies.

These are also sayde to be verye iuste dealers

Afie.

dealers, & their wiues to be as valeaunte and hardie as the husbādes. Suche haue the maners of the Scithians bene. But afterwarde being subdued by the Tartares, and weareing by processe into their maners and ordinaunce s: they nowe live all after one sorte, and vndre one name.

C The x. Chapiter.

C Of Tartarie , and the maners and power of the Tar- tarians .

Artaria , otherwyle called Mongal : As Vincentius wþyteth, is in that parte of the earthe where the Easte and the northe joyne together . It had vpō the easte, the londe of the Katheorines and Solangores, on the South, the Saracenes: on the weste the Naymaniens, & on the northe is enclosed with the ocean. It hath the name of the floude Tartar that ronneth by it . A country very hilly, and full of mountai-nes. And wher it is chame in, myngled with lade and grauelle. Barreine, except it

Asie.

It be in places where it is myssed with floudes, which are very fewe. And therfore it is muche waaste, and thinly enhabited. Ther is not in it one Cittie, ne one village beside Cracuris. And wood in the moste parte of the country so skante, that the inhabitautes are faine to make their fyre, and dresse their meate with the drie dunge of neate and horses. The ayer in temperate and wonderfulle. Thondre, and lightening in somer so terrible, that sondry do presently die for very feare.

Nowe is it brosling hote, and by and by bittre colde, and plenty of snowe. Suche strонge windes sometime, that it staieth horse and man, and bloweth of the rider: seareth vp trees by the rootes, and doeth muche harme. In wintre it never raineth ther, and in Somer very often. But so slendrely, that the earche is skante wette with al. And yet is ther great store of Lattaile: as Camelles, neate, &c. And horses and mares, in suche plencie, as I beleue no parte of the earth hath againe. It was first enhabited of fourre peoples. Of the Ieccha mongalles that is to saye, the greate mongalles. The Sumongalles, that is to say the watre mongalles, which^s

Asie.

the called them selues Tartares, of the clonde Tartar whose neighbours they are.

The thirde people ware called Mer-chates, and the fourthe Metrites. There was no difference betwixt them eyther in body or lāguage, but al astre one sorte and facion. Their behavour was in the beginning very bruse, and farre oule of ordre, without lawe or discipline, or any good facion. They lined amonge the Scithians, and kept herdes of cattle in very base state and condition: and ware tributaries to all their neighbours.
But within a while astre, they deuided them selues as it ware into wardes, so every of the which was appointed a captaine: in whose deuises and consentes co-sisteth ordre of the whole. Yet ware they tributaries to the Maimānes (their next neighbours) vntyll Langusta by a certaine propheetie was chosen their kyng.
He astone as he had received the governance, abolished all worshippe of devil-les, and commaunded by commune decree that all the whole nacion shold honour the highe godeuerlasting: by whose prouidence he would seeme to haue recei-ued

Asie.

ned the kingdome . It was further decreed that as manye as ware of age to beare armour, shold be prest, and ready with the kyng at a certeyne daye.
The multitude that serued for their war-res, was thus distributed . Their capitaines ouer ten (which by a terme borowed of the frenche, we calle Diseners, are at the comandemente of the Centurians .
And the Centurians obeyed the Millenarie, that had charge of a thousande . And he againe was subiecte to the grande Coronelle that had charge ouer ten thousand : abone the whiche nombre they mounted no degree of captaines .

This done, to proue the obedience of his subiectes, he comauanded seuen sonnes of the Princes or Dukes whiche before had gouerned the people: to be slaine by the handes of their owne fathers, and mothers. Whiche thinge althoughe it ware muche againste their hartes, and an horrible diede, yet did they it. Partely vpon the feare of the residue of the people: and partely vpon conscience of their obediēce.
For why, the people thoughte when they sawen him begyn astre this sorte: they had had a god amongest them. So that in obsobeyng

Asie.

sobeyng of his commaundemente, thei thoughte thei shold not haue disobeyed a king but God him selfe.

Canguista takinge stonake with this power, firste subdued those Scithians that bordred vpon him, and made them tributaries. And where other afore had bene tributaries also vnto them: now re-ceiued he in that one peoples righte, ttri-butie of many. Then settinge vpon those that ware further of, he had suche prospererous successe that from Scithia to the sonne risinge, and fro thence to the middle earthe sea, and beyonde: he broughte all together vndre his subiection. So that he moughte nowe worthely wryte him selfe highe Gouernour, and Empe-rouer of the Caste.

The Tartares are very deformed, little of bodie for the mosse parte, hauyng great stiepe eyes: and yet so heary on the eyeliddes, that there sheweth but little in open sight. Platter faced and beardlesse, sauyng vpon the upper lippe, and a litle about the poincte of the chinne thei haue a swarte heares as it ware pricked in with Bodkins. Thei be communely all, slendre in the waste. Thei haue the hindre haulfe

26

Afie.

Hauke of the heade, rounde aboute by ths croune, from one eare to another: compas-passyng towarde the nape of the necke after suche a facion, that the polle behinde sheweth muche like the face of a bearded mann. On the other parte, thei suffre thei heare to growe at lengthe like our women: whiche thei deuide into two tresses, or braudes, and bryng aboute to fasten behinde their eares. And this maner of shauyng, do thei use also that dwelle among them, of what nation so euer thei be. Thei theim selues are very light and nimble: good on Horsle, but naughte on foote. All from the molte to the lealste, as well the women as the menne: doe ride either upon Geldynges, or Rien, where so euer thei become. For stoned Horsles thei occupie none, ne yet Gelding that is a Striker, and lighte of his heles. Their bridelles are trimmed with muche gold, siluer, and precious stones. And it is com-pied a ioly chyng emong theim: to hane a great sorte of siluer sounded belles, gyngglyng aboute their horse neckes. Their speache is very chourlishe and loude.
Their singyng is like the bawlyng of Woulves. When thei drinke, thei shake

D.J. the

Asie.

the heade: and drinke thet do very often euen unto drockennesse, wherin thei glo-tche muche. Their dwellyng is neither in lounes ne Bouroughes. But in the feld-des abrode, astre the maner of chauncet Scithians in tentes. And the rather so, for that thei are all mosse generally catteill mastes. In the wintre timethei are wōc to drawe to the plaines, & in the Somer season, to the mountaignes & hillie places for the better pasture. Thei make theim Tentes, or elles rounde cosages of wickres, or of felte vndersette with smothe poles. In the middes thei make a round windowe that giuech the lighte, & lettech out the smoke. In the middes of the Tent, is their fire, aboute the whiche their wife and their children doe sittē. The menne delight muche in dartyng, shootyng, and wrastelyng. Thei are merueilous good hunters, to the whiche thei go armed at all pieces. And assone as thei espie the beaste, thei come costing togeher rounde aboute and enclose her. And when euery manne hath throwen his darte, or shotte his arrowe: whilst the beast is troubled & amased with the stripes, thei steppe in to her, & slay her. Thei neither vse breade ne

Afie.

ne bakyng:table clothe ne napkin.

Thei believe that there is one GOD that made all thynges, bodily & ghostly, sene or unsene, and hym thei honour: but not with any maner of Sacrifice or cere-monie. Thei make theim selues litle papettes of silke or of felte, or of chun. me, like unto meane: whiche thei sette vp vpon eche side of their Tentes, and do thei muche reverence, beseching them to take hede to their catteille. To these thei offre the first milke of all their milche catteill, of what kinde so ever thei be. And before thei begin either to eate or drinke aught, thei sette a portion thereof before theim.
Looke what beaste thei kille to be eaten, thei reserue the harte all nighthe in some couered cuppe, and the nexte mornynge seach it and eate it.

Thei worship also and Sacrifice to to the Sonne, Moone, and elementes so-lore. To Cham also their Lord and Kyng, thei do very deuoute honour and Sacrifice: supposyng him to be the sonne of god, and to haue no pierre in the whole worlde: neither can thei abide to heare any other manne name hym.

This people so despiseth al other men,

V.iij. and

Aſie.

and chyncke theim selues so farre to ſat-mouſe them in wiſedome and goodnes : that thei abhorre to ſpeakē to theim, or to compaignie with theim. Thei calle the Pope and all christen menne, Doggues and Idolatres : becauſe thei honour ſtones and bloques. And thei theim ſelues (beyng giuen to deueliſhe ſuperiſtions) are markes of dreames, & haue dreame readers emong theim : as well to enter-prete their ſweuens, as to alſe knowe-ledge of Idolies. In whom thei are per-ſwaded that God ſpeaketh : and therfore acordyng to their anſwertes, frame them ſelues to do. Thei make many ſeasons, and ſpecially haue regarde to the chaunges of the Moone. Yet make thei for no feſon, ne chaunge, any ſingular holiday or obſeruance: but ilike for them all in-diſferently. Thei are of ſo gredie a couetiouerneſſe, and deſire, that if any of them ſe aughte, that he couereth to haue, and cannot obtein with the good wiſe of the owner: if it apperteigne to no Tartarre, he will haue it by force. And thei chyncke (through a certein ordenaunce that their Ryng made) thei offend not therin. For ſuche a commaundement had thei of Languista

217

Asie.

Languissa, and Cham, their firsse Rynges: That if it fortune any Tarcarre, or Tarcarres seruaunce, to finde in his waie, horse, man, or womā, without the kinges lettres or his saulscōduice: he shold take it, him, her, or them as his owne for euer.

To suche as lacke money thei lende, but for shamefull gaines: that is to saye, two shillynges of the pounde for euery Monethe. And if it fortune ye to faile to make paimente at the daie: ye shall also be forced to paye the enterest, according to the rate of the Ulurie. That is to saye, of euery tenth penie, one.

Thei do so polle and oppresse their tributaries, with subsidies, tares and talla-ges, as never did people bat thei, that e-uer manne redde of. It is beyonде belief to saye. Thei ene couete, and as Lordes of all, do rape, and rende from other, and never recompence aught. No, the begger that lieth on almose, getteth not an aguelette of hym. Yet haue thei this one praise worshipe propretie, that if he fortune to finde them at meate: thei neither shutte the doore against hym, ne thruste him out, if he be disposed to eate, but charitably bidde them, and parte with them

D.iii. suchē

Asie.

Suche as thei haue. But thei siede the bren clenkest in the worlde, as I haue said, Without table clothe, napkinne, or towell to couer the borde, or to wipe at meate, or astre. For thei nether washe hande, face, ne body, ne any garmete that thei weare, Thei nether eate bread, nor make bread, nor sallettes nor potage, nor any kinde of Pultz. But no maner of fleshe cometh to them amisse. Dogges, Cattes, Horses and ratten. Pea, sometime to shewe their crueltie, and to satissie their vengeaunce, the bodies of suche their enemies, as thei haue taken, thei use to roste by a greate fire: and when thei bee assembled a good nombre together, thei teare theim of the spittes like woulues, with their teeth, and deuoure the. And afterward drinke up the bloude, whiche thei reserue afore hande for the nones. Otherwile thei use to drinke Milke. Thei haue no wine of the countrie it self, but suche as is brought into the thei drinke very greedilie. Thei use to lowse one anothers heade, and e-uer as thei take a lowse to eate her, sat-eng: thus wille I doe to our enemis. It is compted a greate offence emong them to suffre drinke, or a piece of meate to be lost

Aſie.

loſte. Thei never therfore giue the bone to the Dogge, till thei haue eateu out the marrowe. Thei never eate beaste (ſuche vile niggardes thei are) as long as the ſame is loude & in good likynge: but whe it fortuneth to be hurte, ſicke, or febled by age, then bewize they it in their bralles.
Thei are greate ſparers, & contente with ſmalle chaunge, and licle foode. Thei drincke in the morwyng, a goblet full of Milke or rawaine, whiche ſerueth them ſomeyyme for their whole daies foode.

The men and the women moſte community are appareilled ylike. The men weare upon their headeſ ſhallowe copin-tackes, comyng out behinde with a taile of a handefull and a haulfe long, and as muſe in breaþth: whiche thei falſen vn-drie their chinnes, for falling or blowing of, with a couple of ſtrynges of ribbande lace, as we doe our nighte cappes. Their marfed wemen weare on their headeſ, ſine wickre Basquetteſ of a ſooie and a haulfe long: round, and flatte on the toppe like a barrelle. Whiche are either garniſhed with chaungeable ſilkes, or the gaieſt parte of the Pheacockes featheres, and ſette with golde and ſtones of sondrie ſortes.

D. illj. As

Asie.

After the residue of their bodie, they weare according to their abilitie, bothe men and women, Scarlet or Meluet, or other silkes. They weare coates of a straunge faction, open on the left side, whiche they put on accordingly, and fasten with sowze or fine Buttons. Their somer wiedes are all communely blacke: and those that they weare in Wintre and soule weather, white: and never lower then the knee.
Wearing surres (wherin they muche delight) they weare not the surre inwardre, as we communely doe: but contrariwise the heare outwardre, that they mait enioye the pleasure of the shewe.

It is harde to discerne by the appareile the mande, fro the wife, or the woman fro the manne: so like arayed doe the menne and the womē go. They weare bretches, the one and the other. When they shal go to the skirnisse, or to battaille, some cou-uer their armes (whiche at all other tymes are naked) with plates of iron, bue-keled together alonge, in many pieces, that they may the easeliter sturre their armes. Some doe the same with many fol-des of Leather: wherwith they also arme their head. They cannot handle a target:

Aſſie.

nor but fewe of theim a launce or a long swēard. Thei haue curtilasses of iij. quarters longe: not double edgēd but backed.
Thei fighte all with a quarter blowe, & neither right downe, ne foyning. Thei be very redy on horsebacke, and very skilful archers. He is compted moſte valeaūte, that best obſerueth the commaundement and the obedience deſte to his capitaine.
Thei haue no wages for their ſouldie, yet are thei preſt, and ready in all affayres, and all commaundementes. In bat-tayle, and otherwile wher oughte is to be done, very politike and experte. The princes and capitaines entre not the battle, but ſtanding aloofe, crye vnto their men, and harten them on: lookinge diligently aboute on every ſide what is nedefull to be done. Sometime to make the armys ſieme the greater, and the more terrible to the ennemy: thei ſet vp on horsebacke their wiues and their children, yea and men made of cloutes. It is no vilany amonge them to fyfe: if any thinge maye eyther be ſaned or wonne by it. When thei will ſhoote, thei vnarme their righte arme, and then let thei fyfe with ſuche violence, that it pearreth all kinde of ar-

D.b. mour

Asie.

mon. Thet glie the onset flockinge in plumpes, and likewise in plompes they die. And in the flichte thei so shoote backe warde behinde them, that thei slea many of their ennemis pursuinge the chase.
And when thei perceiue their ennemis dispersed by pursuinge the chase, or not to fighte any thing wholie together: soudeinly retourninge, thet beginne a newe onset with a hayle of shotte, neither sparing horse ne man. So that oftentimes thet ouercome when thei are thoughte to be viquished. When thei come to enuade any quartre or countrie, thei densde their armis, and sette vpon it on euery parte: so that the inhabitours can neither haue lasure to assemble and resiste, ne waye to escape. Thus are thet alway sur of the victory, whiche thei knytc vpp with moste proude crueltie. Neither sparinge mannie woman ne childe, olde ne younge sauing the artifcer onely, whome thei re-serue for their own bles. And this slaug-ter make thei astre this maner. When thei haue all taken them, thei distribute them to their Centurians: who committe them againe to the slaves: to every one fewer or moe acordinge to the multitude

Afie.

multitude. And when the slaues haue all slayne them as bouchers kylle hogges : then for a terroure to al other ther about ;
of euery thousande of y dead thei take one , and hange hym vp by the heles vpon a stake , amyddle these deade bodies ; and so ordre his heade as though it appiered by his facion or maner of hanginge , that he yet bothe harkened the complainte of his felowes , and lessoned them againe . Many of the Tartarres when the bodies lie fresche bledinge on the grunde , laye them downe alonge , and sucke of y bloud a full glouce .

Thei kepe faithe to no manne , howe depely so euer thei binde them selues thervnto . Thei deale yet wourse with those that thei overcomie with force . The maidens and younge women thei deflowre , and defile as thei come to hande , neither do thei iudge it amy dishoneste . The beauifuller sorte thei leade away with thei and in extreame misery , constraine them to be their slaues all their lyfe longe .

Of all other thei are molle vnbrydeled in leachery . For althoughe thei marye as many wiues as thei luste , and are able to kepe no degré prohibited , but mother daugther ,

Aſie.

daughter, and ſister: yet are theſe as racke bouguers with mankindē, and with beaſtes, as the Saracenes are, and no puniſhment for it amoung them. The woman that theſe marie, theſe never take as wife, ne receue any dowrie with her, vntill ſhe haue borne a childe. So that if ſhe be bar-ren he maye caſte her vp, and mary another.

This is a notable meruaile, that though amoung theſm manye women haue but one manne: yet theſe never lightly falle out, ne braule one with another for him.
And yet are the menne parcialle in theyz loue: ſhewing muche more fauour to one then another, and goynge fro the bedde of the one, ſtreigthe to the bedde of an other. The women haue their ſeverall tetes and householdes: And yet live verye chaffely, and true to their housebandes.
For bothe the manne and the woman taken in adulterie, ſuffre deaſh by the laſwe.

Those that are not occupied for y war-res, dwiue the catteile a fielde, and there kepe them. Thei hunte, and exercise them ſelues in wrangling, other thing doe theſe not. The care of prouision for meate and drinke, appareilſe and houſeholde, they betake

Asie.

betake to the women. This people hath many superstitious cōvēys . It is a heynous matier with them , to touche y fier, or take flesshe out of a potte with a kniſe.
Thei he we or choppe no maner of thing by the fire , leasse by any maner of mea-nes, thei might fortune to hurtē the thing which alway thei haue in reuerence, and iudge to be the clenſer, and purifier of al thinges . To laye them downe to rest þpon the whippe that thei stirre theyz horſe with (for spurres they vſe none) or to touche their ſhaftes therewith, in no wyſe thei wylle not . Thei neither kille yonge birdes, ne take them in the nesse or otherwātes. Thei beate not the horſe with the bridle. Thei breake not one bone with another. Thei are ware , not to ſpill any ſpōne meate , or drincke , ſpecially milke. No manne pitteth within the compaſſe of their ſotourning place. And if any one of ſelf wiſled ſtubbornesse ſhould do it, he ware ſure withoute all mercy to die for it. But if neceſſitie conſtraine the to do it (as it often happeneth) then the tentē of hym that did it , with all that is in it, muſte be clenſed and purified afte this maner . They make two fires, thre ſtrides

Aſie.

ſtrides one from another. And by eche ſtre thei pitche downe a Jaueline. Upon them is tied a lyne ſtreching fro the one to the other, and couered ouer with buc-kerame. Betwene theſe. ii. Jauelins, as throughe a gate, muſte all thinges paſſe that are to be puriſied. Two women (to whome this office beſongeth) ſtande, on eicher ſide one, ſprinkeling on watre, and mumbinge certaine verſes . No ſtraugier, of what dignitie ſo euer he be , or of howe greate importaunce ſo euer the cauſe of his comming be: is admitted to the kinges ſighte before he be puriſied He that treadeth vpon the threſhholde of the tente wherin their kinge, or anye of his chiefeines lyeth, dieth for it in the place. If any manne bite a gobet , greater then he is able to ſwallowe, ſo that he be constrained to put it out of his mouth againne : thei by and by make a hole vn-die the tent, and ther drawe him out, and cruelly ſlea him . No any other thinges ther are which thei compre for faultes be yonde all forgiuenesse. But to ſlea a man, to enuade a nother mannes countrey, co-trary to all righte and reaſon, to bereue them of their goodes and poſſeſſions, to breake

22

Aſte.

breake the preceptes of God, theſt items as nothinge. Thei haue a beliefe that after this life thei ſhal live for ever in another worlde (but what maner of worlde thei cannot tell) & ther receiue rewarde for their well doinges. When any of the faileth ſicke, & lieth at the poine of death, thei ſtiche vp a Jaueline with a piece of blacke clothe at the doore of the ſete wher he lieth, that none come in as they paſſe by. For no manne when he ſeeth this, dare entre thether vncalled.

Aſtre what time the ſicke is deade, his whole house gather together, and priue-ly conueighe the corps into ſome place Without the ſente, chosen for þ purpose.
Thei cut they out a frenche, b̄reade and diepe enoughe to ſette vp another lyttle tent in: ſo that the toppe of the tent maye be well within the grounde. In that thei prepare a table wiſh a banquet: at the whiche thei ſette the deade bodye in his beste appareille. And ſo together, as it ware with one hāde, cover all with earth againe. Thei bewy with him alſo ſome beaſte of boorden, and a horſe ready ſad-led and appointed to ride. The gentlemeny theſt life tyme, appointe out a ſlave whome

Afie.

(whome thei marke with their bronde) to be specially bewyred with him when he dieth. And this do thei upon perswassion of a life in a nother worlde, wher thei woulde be loth to lacke these necessaries. Then doe the deades friendes take another horse, and slea him. And when they haue eaten the fleshe, thei stuffe the hide full of haye, and sowe it againe together and sette it vp ouer the grane upon fourre poles, in remembraunce of the deade.

The bones do the two ordinarie women burne, for the clensinge and purifieng of the soule. But the gentlemen, and thei of higher degree, handle the hide astre another maner. Thei cut it out into very fine thonges, to asmuche lengthe as thei can, and measure out asmuche grounde aboue the Sepulchre as the thonge wille stretche unto. for so muche grounde thincke thei shall the deade haue in a nother worlde. At the thirtieth daye thei ende their mourning.

Certaine of the Tartarres, professing the name of Christe, yet farre from his righteousness: when their parentes ware aged, to hasten their death, crame thei with gobins offatte. Whene thei die thei burne them

Afte.

them to pouldre, whiche thei reserve as a precious Jewelle, to straive vpon thei meate every daie. But to declare with what solemnite and iossulnes thei sette up their newe Ryng, afstre the death of tholde: because it ware to longe a thyng, bothe for the reader & writer to set out at length, I will shewe you in bries the effecte Abrode in the fieldes, in a faire plaine ordenary for the purpose: all the Dukes, Erles, Barons, Lordes, and the resse of the nobilitie, together with the people of the whole kyngdome, do assemble. Then take thei hym, to whom the crowne is due, either by succession, or by election. And when thei haue set hym up in a thron of Golder: thei all fall doun on their knees, and together with one voise criе out a loude, afstre this maner. We require the yea, we will and commaunde the, to take the rule & gouernaunce of vs. He answere reth, if ye will haue me doe so, then must ye of necessite be redy to do whatsoeuer I commaunde ye. To come when I calle ye, to go whether so euer I sende ye, to lea whom so euer I commaunde ye, without waveng or stakering. and to put the whole kingdome and rule in my handes.

W.j.

Wher

Aſie.

when theſe haue aunſwered, we are conſent: ſaieth he againe, from hence furthe then the ſpeache of my mouth, ſhalbe my ſwearde. To thiſ the people pealde with greate ſhoutes, and reioynges. In the meane while the princes and the nobles, taking the kynge out of his thron, ſpread abrode on the grounde a piece of felte: vpon the whiche, theſe cauſe hym in ſimple ſoſte to ſitt doun, and thus ſat to hym. Looke vp, and remembre G·D·D aboue the. And now looke doun also, and behold thiſ felte vndre the. If thou gouerne welle, thou ſhalte haue all euē as thou wouldest wiſſe it. But if contrarywile, thou ſhalt ſo be broughte doun againe, and ſo nighe be bereued of all: that thou ſhalte not haue ſo muſche, as thiſ poore felte leſt the. wherupon thou ſittest. Thiſ ones ſaid, thei ſette in to hym, of all hiſ wiues the diuerſe derlyng. And lifting vp the felte aloſte, haile hym by the name of Emperour, & her by the name of Empresse. Then come there preſetes ſtreighs from al countries, and peoples of hiſ do-minion: and all the Threasoures that the kyng, hiſ predecessor leſte, are broughte hym. Of the whiche he giueth giſtes to al the

Aſte.

the p̄ſſices and high estates: comandeyng the reſte to be kepte for himſelf, and ſo diſſolueth the Parlament as it ware.

In his hande and power is then altogether, no manne can: or though he can, he dare not ſaie this is myne, or this is his. No man maie dwelle in any parte of the lande, but in that wher unto he is appointed. The Emperour hymſelf ap-pointeth the Dukes: the Dukes, the Millenaries: the Millenaries, the Len-curianes: and thei the Disniers: and the Disniers the residue. The ſeale that he vleth hath this ſuperſcripcion. G.D in heauen, and Churcuth Cham in earth, the force of God, and Emperour of all menne. He hath five armes of greate multitude and force: and five chiefeines, by whom he ſubdueþ all that ſtande a-gainſt hym. He hymſelf never ſpeaketh to any foreine ambadouors, nor admiſſeth thei to his presence, as is abouesated: exepte bothe thei and their giftes (without the whiche ſpecially thei maie not come) bee purifiſed by the ordenarie women. The Kynge aunſwereth by another mannes mouthe. And the perſone by whom he aunſwereth, be he neuer ſo ho-P.ſſ. notable

Asie.

glourable, for the tyme that he becometh the kynges mouthe, kneleth on his knees and giueth so diligent eare, that he swar-neth not from the Ryng in one woerde.
For it is not lawefull for any manne, to chaunge the kynges woordes: ne for any man in any wise, to replie against suche sentence as he giueth. He never drincketh in open presence, but somis body first sing so hym, or plaie vpon some instrumente of Musicque.

The gentlemen and menne of honour when thei ride, haue a phannell borne afore them, on a Javelines ende, to kiepe awaite the Sonne. And as it is saied, the wome likewise. These ware the maners and facons of the Tartarres, for a two hundred yeres past.

The Georgias, whom the Tartarres aboure the same tyme did subdued: ware Christians, aftre the fourme of the Greke Churche. Thei ware neighbours to the Persians. Their dominios stretched out a great length, from Palestine in Jewrie to the mountaignes called Caspiz. Thei had eightene Bishopries: and one Ca-tholicque: that is to say, one generall bishoppe, whiche was to them, as our Me-tropolitane

Asie.

metropolitane to vs. At the firsste thef ware subjecte to the Patriarche of Antioche.
Menne of greate courage and hardinesse. Thei all shaued their crownes: the Paietis square, the Clercques rounde.
Their women (certeine of them) had the orde of Knighthode, and ware trained to the warres. The Georgianes when thei ware sette, ordered, and raunged in the fielde, and ware at point to ioyne the batteill: vsed to drincke of a gourdfull of strong wine, aboute the bigguenes of a mannes fist. And to sette vpon their ennemis: muche amended in courage.

Their Clercques, whiche we calle the Spiritualtie, myghte vse bothe Simonie and blurie at their wille. There was continuall hatred betwixte Tharmenians and them. For the Armenians ware also christians, before the Tartarres had subdued the Georgianes and the. But thei differed in many thinges, from the belief and factions of the true Churche. Thei knewe no Christemas daie, no vigilles, nor the fowre quartre fastes, whiche we call Embryng dates. Thei fasted not on Easter eue, because (sate thei) that Christ rose that daie aboute euene tide. Upon e-

P. lli, ueryp

Afie.

very Saturdate, betwixte Easter and Whitsontide, they did eate fleshe. They ware greate fasters, and beganne their Lent thre wekes afore vs: and so streightly fasted it, that vpon the Wednesdaye and Fridaye, they neither eate any kinde of fleshe, ne aughte wherin was wine, or oyle. Believing that he that dranke wine on these twoo daies: sinned worse then if he had bene at the stewes with a whore. On the Mondaye they abstained from all maner of meate. On Tuesdaye and Thursdaie, they did eate but one meale. Wednesdaye and Fridaye, nothingynge at al. Saturdaye and Sundaye, they eate fleshe and made lustie chiere. Thoughe their whole Lent, no manne said Masse but on Saturdayes and Sundayes. Nor yet on the Fridayes throughoute the whole yere: for they thought then, that they brake their fast. They admitted to the house ale, as welch childdren of two monethes olde, as all other indifferently. When they went to Mass, they vsed to put no warre in the wine. They abstained from Hares fleshe, Beare's fleshe, Crows, and suche other as the Grekes did, and Jewes do. These Chalices ware of Glasse, and of Tree.

Some

Aſie.

Some ſaid Maſte without either albe or veſtiment, or any maner ſuche ornamēt.
Some onely with thornamētes of Deacon or Subdeacon. Thei ware all buſie buſurers, and ſimoniſes: bothe ſpirituall and Temporall, as the Georgianes ware.
Thei prieffes ſtudied Sochelſaieng and Nigromancie. Thei ſpiritualtie vſed Juncketlyng oftener then the Latetie.

Thei maried, but afte the death of the wife, it was not lawefull for the housebande to marie againe, noꝝ for the wife, afte the death of the housebande. If the wife ware a whoze, the Bishoppe gaue hym leauue to put her awaie, and marie another. As foꝝ the fire of Purgatorie thei knewe nothing of it. Thei denied alſo verie ſilfy, that there ware two natures in Chritte. The Georgianes ſaid that thei ſwarued from the truthe of Chrittes Religion, in thirre pointes or articles.

C The. xi. Chapitre.

C Of Turcquie, and of the maners, Lawes, and Ordeneances of the Turcques.

P. llii. The

Aſte.

THE lande, whiche now is called Turcquie: hath on Theaste Armenia the moze, & conneth endelong to the ſea of the Cilicians: hauyng on the Northe, the ſea named Euxinus. There are in it many coutries contained. As Pichaenta, whose heade citie is Iconium. Lappadocia with her heade citie, named Celarea. Iſauria, whiche hath for the chief citie Seleucia. Li-ria, whiche now is called Biquia. Ionia: now called Muisquian; in the whiche standeth Ephesus. Paphlagonia, and in it Germanopolis. And Leuech: that hath for the heade Little Trapezus. All this coutrie that now is called Turcquie, is not enhabited by one ſeverall nacion, but there be in it Turques, Brekes, Armenians, Saracenes, Jacobites, Nestorians, Jewes and christians. Whiche liue for the moſte parte, according to the Traditions and Ordinaunces, that Mahomet the countrefeid Prophet, gaue unto the Saracenes (a people of Arabie) the pere of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christe.

Aſſie.

Chrifte. vi. hundred and. xxx. A manne whome I can not telle whether I maye calle an Ar abiane or a Persia. For ther be aucthorities of writers on either be-haulfe. His father was an idolastre after the maner of the heathen. His mother an Iſmalite leaning to the lawe of the Je-wes. And whilſt in his childehode, his mother taught him afre one sorte, & his father afre another: they printed in hym ſuche a doubtfull b̄: lief, y when he came to age he cleaved to neither. But as a manne of subtyle and guilefull witte, aftre what time he had bene longe conuer-taunce amongest menne of the Christian religion: he draue a drife, devised out of both lawes (the olde and the newe) how he mighte notably enfecte the worlde.

He ſaid the Jewes did wickedly to dene Chrifte to be borne of the virgine Mary, ſeinge the propheſes (me of great holinesſe, & enſpired with the holy ghost) had foreshewed the ſame, & warned me of many yeres paſſed to looke for him.
Contrariwyſe he ſaid to the Christians they ware very fonde to beleue that Jesus, ſo dierly beloved of God, and borne of a virgine, would ſuffre thofe vilanies

P. b. and

Aſie.

and tormentes of the Jewes.

Martinus Segonius nouomoranus, in his booke of the Sepulchre of Chritte our king, wriceth that the Turkes, and Saracenes by an auncient opinion receiued from Machomet: do laughe Chritian menne to ſkorne, that ſeke therer with ſo greate reverence. Sayeng that Chritte h prophet of all prophetes endewed with the ſpirite of God, and boyde of all earth ly corruption: had ther no ſepulchre in verie diede, for that he being a ſpirituall body conceiued by the breathe of þ holy ghost coulde not ſuffre, but ſhould come againe to be iudge of the Gentiles. This ſaieth Segonius, and many other thinges ſounding to like effecte: whiche the Mahometaines are wōrie to chrowe out againſte the chritians, bothe fooliſhely and wickedly. When this countrefeict prophet had laufed his ſecce with theſe wicked opinions: he gaue them his lawe, and ſorte of religion. Againſt the whiche leſſe any man of righte iudgemente ſhould aftewarde write or diſpute(as againſt a peſilent and filthie perſuasion) he wrote a lawe in his Alcozane that it ſhoulde be deathe to as many as ſhould reaſon or diſpute

Asie.

dissapeare vpon ic. & hereby he entenclie declared, that ther was nothing godly or goodly therin. For why shold he eiles haue so raked it vp in the ashēs, and for-bidden it to be examined: so that the people coulde never come to knowledgē what maner of thinge ic is that they be-lieue in. In the giving of his lawe, he vled muche the counsele & helpe of the mōcke Sergius: of the wicked secte of the Ne-storians. And to the ende ic might please the more vniuersalitē: he patched it vp together with peces of all maner of sectes.
 He thoughte it good to sette out Christe with the beste, affirminge that he was a manne excelling in all holinesse and ver-tue. yea he extolled him to a more heighth then was applable to the nature of man, calling hym the woordē, the sp̄rite, the soule of Ḡ D̄ D̄, borne out of a virgines wombe, whome he also with many wondresfull prāises magnified. He confirmed with his consentē, the miracles, and story of the gospel, as farre as it varieþ noe from his Alcorane.

The Godspelles said he ware corrupte by the disciples of the Apostles. And therfore it behoued his Alcorane to be made, for to correcte and amende them. Thus fauoring into fauour with the christians, he would haue bene christened of Sergius. Then to procure, & moue other also to fauonor his procedinges: he denied with the Sabellians the Trinitie. With the Manicheis he made two goddes. With Eunomius, he denied that the father and the sonne ware equal. With Macedonius he said that the holy ghoſte was a creature, or ſubſtance created. With the Nicholaites he allowed the hauinge of many wiues at ones. He allowed also the olde teſtament. Althoughe ſayd he, it ware in certain places faultie. And theſe ſondenesſes diſ he beſwete with a wondrefull lure of the thinges that menne in this lyfe mooſte deſire. Lettinge loule to as many as helde of him, the bridle of al lechery and luſte. And for that cauſe doth this congaſious euil ſprede it ſelf ſo wide into innumerable contries. So yif a man at this day compare the nombre of them that are by him ſeduced, with the other that remaine in the doctrine of faith: he ſhal easeli perceiue the great oddes, ware it but herin. That wher Europe alone, (and not al that by a great deale) ſtādeth in

Afie.

Asie.

In the belles of Christe : almosse all Asie, and Aþrtque, yea and a greate pece of Europe standeth in the Turkissh belief of Mahomet.

The Saracenes that firſte receyued the brainesicke wickednesse of thiſ countrēſeſte prophete, dwelte in thiſ parte of Arabia, that is called Petrea: wher it entre-communeth with Jewry on thiſ one ſide, and with Egyp̄t on thiſ other. So named of Sarracum, a place neare vnto thiſ Mahabethis, or rather as thei woulde haue it them ſelues, of Sara, Abrahams wife.
Wherupon thei yet ſtiche falſe in thiſ opinion, y thei onely of al mē are the law-full heires of goddes behelle. Thei gaue them ſelues to ſilthe, and cattle, and to the warres. But the greater parte to the warres. And therfore at what time they ware hired of Heraclius in the warres againſte the persians: when he had gotten the victory, and thei perceiued them ſelues to be defrauded by him: kindled with the angre of the villanye thei had had done vnto them, by the counſell and perſwasion of Mahomet (who tooke vpon him to be their captaine) thei forſtoke Heraclius. And going into Siria, enuaded

Aſſe.

uaded Damasco. Wher when theſe had encreased themſelues bothe in nombre, and puruaunce neceſſary for them, theſe entered into Egypce. And subdued firſte that:then Persis, then Antioche, & then Jerusalem. Thus their power and fame daſily ſo encreased, and grewe: that men muſche feared, that any thing afterwarde houlde be able to reſiſte them. In the meane ſeaſon, the Turkes: a ferre and a cruell people, of the nacion of the Scithi-ens, druen out by their neighbours fro the mountaines called Caspis, came downe by the paſſage of the mounte Ca-casus, firſte into Asia the leſſe, then into Armenia, Media, and Persis. And by ſtronge hande wanne all as they came.
Againſt theſe the Saracenes went forth as to defende the bordres of their gouernance. But forasmuche as this newecome power was to harde for them, the Saracenes within a while felle into ſuch despaire of their ſate: that vpon condition that the other would receive Mahometes belief: theſe ware content thei hould reigne felowlike together with them, in Persis. Wherto when theſe had agreed, it was harde to ſaye whether of the people

Asie.

yles had receiuued the greater damage.
The Saracenes, in yelding to them the haulf right of their kingdome: or the other, whiche for courteousnes therof pelled them selues to so rancke, and wicked a popson of all vertue and godlynnes.

One bonde of belief then so coupled and soyned them: that for a space it made to them no mater whether ye called them all by one name, Saracenes, or Turkes.
But nowe as ye se, the name of the Turkes hath gotten the bettre hande, & the other is out of remembraunce. This people beth moe kindes of horselme the one.
Thei haue Thimarceni, that is to saye Pencioners, aboute a fourre skoze thousande. These haue gauen unto them by the kinge, houses, villages, and Castles euery one as he deserueth, in the steade of his wages or pencion. And thei attende vpon the Hensacho, or capitaine of that quarter, wher their possessions lye. At this daye the Turkes are deuided into two armies: the one for Asie, and the other for Europe. And either hath a chie-feine, at whose leading thei are. These chessfeimes in their tongue be called Bassay. Ther are also another sorte much lyke

Afie.

Iyke to our aduenturers, that serue wth oute wages, called Aconizie. And these ever are spoiling afote when the campe is yet behynde. The fifteth parte of their butins is due vnto þ king. And these are aboute a fourty thousande. Their thirde sorte of horsemen is devide into Charipos Spahiglanoſ, & Solupharos. The beste, and worthiſt of these, are þ Charipie: of an honourable ordre of kniȝtehode, as it ware for the kinges body.
And thole be euer about him, to the nombre of eyghte hundred, all Scithians and Persians, and elles of none other kinde of menne. These, when nede is, being in the sighte of the kinge: fight notably, and do wondrefull feates on horsebacke.
Spahy, and Soluphtary be thole whiche haue bene at the kinges bringing vp fro their childehode, to serue his filchy abhominacion. And when they are come to mannes state, they marye at the kynges pleasure: And be enriched bothe with the dowery of their wife, and a ſtipende.
These for the moſte parte ſerue for em-bassadours, deputies, lieutenantes and ſuche other dignities, and are nerſe vnto the kinge on boþe ſides of him, when he goeth

245

Asie.

goeth any whither as a garde. Thes are in nombre a thousande and thre hūdred.

Among the footemen are thre sortes, Janizarie, these be chosen all the Empyre ouer, of. xii. yeres of age, or there aboue, by certain that haue Commission for the purpose: And are for a space enstruced in the feastes of warre, in communitie schoo-les. And then afterwarde are thei chosen into souldie, and haue giuen them a shorter garmente, and a white cappe, with a tarfe tourned upwarde. Their weapon is a Targette, a Curtylase, and a Bowe.
Thei office is to forstie the Campe, and to assaulte cities. Thes are in nombre above twentie thousande.

The seconde sorte are called Alappi, and are all footemen of light harnesse, wea-poned with swerde, carget, and a kinde of long Janizaries, wherwith thei slea the horses of their enemies, in the skirmishe and battaile. These, to be knownen fro the Janizaries, weare redde cappes. These are appointed in nombre, accordyng as the case shall require. But thei are euer at the leaste fourtie thousande. When the warres are finished, for the whiche thes ware hired: these are no longer in

Dij. wages

Aſſe.

wages. Tharmie roialle hath about two hundred thousande armed menne, besyde a greate rable of foote men aduenturers, that take no wages, and ſuche other as be called out of Garrisons. And amonge theſe, Pioners and Cookes, Carpenters, Armourers, and ſuche other as they muſt needes haue to make the waye, wher the place is combresome: to drefſe viualles, to amende harnelle, to make b̄edges ouer floudes, to trenche aboute their enemies, to plante batteries, make Ladders, and ſuche other thinges neceſſarie for the ſiege. Ther foloweth the armie also, sondrye ſortes of money Masters: ſome for lone, ſome for erchaunge, ſome to buy thinges. And sondrye ſortes of occupiers, ſuch as be thought nedful in ſuch caſes.

But there is nothing in all that nacion moare to be merueiled at, then their ſplendinelle in doeypng of thinges: their conſtantnes in perilles, and their obediencie and precise obſeruinge of all comman- demētes. For the leſt faulc, of goeth the heade. Ther paſſe ouer raginge floudes, mountaignes and rockes: roughes and plaines, thicke and ſane, iſ ther be commaunded. Not haſing reſpecte to theiſ life,

247

Asie.

Ipe, but to their rulers. No men make awaie with more wachte, no men with more hongre. Among them is no mutinyng, no vproures, no sturres. In theyz fyght thei vse no cries, nor shoutes, but a certeine fiercenes of brayeng. Thei kepe suche precise scilence in the night, throught out their campe: that thei wil rather susfere such as they haue taken prisoners, to run their waie, then to make any sturre.
Of all the peoples at this daie, thet one-ly doe warre, acording to the ordre of armes. So that no manne needeth to mer-vayle howe it cometh that no people this two hundred yeare and aboue, haue had like successe vnto them. Pea, it may true-ly be sayd, that excepte it be by some plague or mutreyn, or discorde among them selues, they can not be subdued. The ap-parail that the soldiours do vse, is most comely and honeste. In their sadles and bridles, there is neither curiosite, ne yet superfluite. No man among them weareth his Armiour, but when neede is to fight. They carry their harnesse behynde theim, at their backes. They vse neither banner, standerde, ne flagge: but cer-tein Javelins that haue streamyng out

M. II fro

Aſie.

fro the coppe, diners coloured chydes, by the whiche every hande knoweth his capiteine. Thei vſe a drōme and a ſiphe, to assemble their Bandes, and to ſurre them to the batteile. When the batteile is done, all the armie is presented to the Regesfour (whiche is ſome one of the nobles) bothe that it maye bee knownen who is alain, and what nombre: and that newe may be entred in their places. In all assemblies and mietinges, feaste, or other: thei p̄aze for their ſouldiours, and menne of warre. But ſpecially aboue all other, for thofe that haue ſuffered death for the commune quarelle of their countreies: calling them happy, fortunate, and bles-ſed, that thei yelded not vp their liues at home, amidde the lamentacions and be-waiſynges, of their wiues and chldren, but loſte them abrode, amouge the ſhoures of their enemis, & the ratling of the Harnets, and Launces. The victories of their forefathers and eldres, thei put into Walade, and ſing them with greate honour and praises: for that thei thinke the courage of the ſouldiours and menne of warre, be muſche quickened, and kindled therby.

Theſe

Aſſie:

Their welling houses are communly of timbre and clate, very fewe of ston: for of them are the noble mennes houses their temples, and Bathes. And yet are there amonge the communes, men able of them self alone, to set furthe an whole armie, furnished at all poinctes. But because thei are naturally giuen to sparing and to abhorre all sumptuousenesse, embrasing a lowe and simple state: thei walke this voluntarie pouertie, and rude, homelinesse. For this cause also, doe thei not set by any kinde of Painters Imagerie. As for the other imagerie of cornē grauen, or molton worke, thei do so hate and abhorre: that thei call us Christians for delighting so muche in them, verie Idolatours and Image worshippers. And do not onely so calle vs, but wil earnestly argue, that we are so in dede. Thei vse no Seales to their Lettres, of what sorte so euer thei be, the kynges or other. But they credite the matier, alstone as thei haue red the superscription, or heard the name of the sender. Thei occupie no belles, nor suffre not the christianes that dwelle amōg them to do. Thei game not for mone y, or any valeswē elles. And if it

D., III. fortune

Aſie.

fortune that any manne be founde to do, in many ſudrie wise thei reule him, and baite him with shames and reproche.

No man among them, of what degree or dignitie ſo euer he be: requireth ſo grete chaire, ſtoole, or other kinde of ſeate to ſitte vpon. But foldinge bothe him ſelue and his clothes, aftre a mooste comely ſorte: rucketh downe vpon the grounde, not muche unlike to the ſitting of our getiewomen ofte tymeſ here in Englaude.
The table wherupon thei eate, is for the mooste parte of a Bullockes hide, or a Hartes skinne. Not drefſed, but in the beare, facioned rounde, beyng a fowze or five ſpanne ouer, and ſo ſet rounde about on the bordre, or verge, with ringlettes of iron: that putting a couple of ſtringes throughe the ringes, it maye be drawen together, and shutte and opened like a purſe. Houſe, or Churche, or any other place wher they entende to ſitte, no man entreteth with his ſhoes on. For it is comped a very diſhonest and an unmanerly faction, to ſitte ſhoed. Wherefore they vſe a maner of ſlippe ſhoes, that may lightly be putte of and on. The place where thei ſitte, either at home, or at Churche, is in ſome

Asie.

some place matted, and in some place overspzed with courie woollen Carpette. And some places also, either for the lownes, moistenes, or uncleanelnesse therof are plancked with boorde.

The garmentes aswell of the menne, as the women, are large and longe, and open afore: that thei may the moze honie stie and couertly hide all, when nature craueth to be eased. And in doeyng those niedes, thei take greate hiede, that their face be not into the Soutche, as it is whe thei praye. As also that thei discouer no priuie parte, that any man myghte fortune to see. The menne make water sittynge, aswell as the women. For if a man amonges them, ware sene to make water standing: he shold be iudged of all, a foole, or an heritique.

From wine (as from a prouoker of al sinne and unclennesse) thei absteine by their lawe. And yet eate they the Grapes, & drincke moste. Thei also forbeare to eate any thinge, that commeth of the Hogge: or any thinge elles that dieth of sickenesse, or by aduenture vslain. But any other thinges, being mannes meate, thei refuse not to eate. Thei worshippe
 M. iiiij. the

Asie.

the ffridaye, laieng all labour and busynesse aparte, with as greate solemnite and deuotion, as we doe the Sondaye, or as the Jewes doe the Sabboih daie. In euery citie there is one principall or head Churche. In the whiche vpon the ffridaye at astre Moone, thei all assemble together. And astre solempne prayers, heare a sermone. Thei acknowledge one God, to whom thei make no liske, nor equalles; and Mahomet to be his trustie and welbeloued Prophete. All the Saracenes are bound to praie ffeue times on the daie, with their faces toward the South. And before thei so do, to the ende thei mate be cleane from all filthe of bodie: to washe them selues toppe and taile, heade, eares, eyes, nose, monthe, armes, handes, bealy, coltions, legges and stete. Speciailly, if he haue bene late at the sole with a woman or stouped on his taile to vnburden his heale. Except he haue some lette of tourne, or sickenesse. But if he lacke watre to doe this withall (as that seldome or never can happen, for that thei haue in all cities, bathes ordenarie for the purpose) thei supplie the defaulce with the moulde of fresshe cleane earthe, wherewith thei rubbe

Afie.

253 cubbe ouer thei whole bodies. Who so is polluted in any maner wise: suffreth no man before this clenking, to speake with hym, or to see him, if it be possible. Every yere for the space of five wikeis continually together, thei faste al daie as presice-ly as is possible, bothe fro meate, drincke and women. But afre the sonne is ones doun, till the next daie he riseth, thei neither spare eatyng ne drinckyng, ne pres-syng of pappes. In thende of their lente, and againe the fiftieth daie afre: Thei kiepe their passeouer or Easter, in remebraunce of the Rambe shewed unto Abraham, to be Sacrificed in the steade of his sonne, and of a certayne nighte in the whiche thei doe beleue that the Alcorane was ginen them from heauen.

Euery yere ones , the Saracenes also are bound of duetie to visitte the house of God , in the citie of Mecha : bothe to ac-knowlege their homage, and to yelde vnito Mahomete his verely honour at his Sepulchre there . The Saracenes com-pelle no man to forslake his opinion or belief: ne yet labour so to perswade any coutrie to do . Although their Alcorane com-maundes them to tredre doun and de-

D. b. froie

Asie.

stroye all menne of the contrary beleue peachem & their prophete. But through this suferaunce, ther are to be founde en-habiting in Turkie, peoples of all opinions, and beleue: euery man vsinge such kinde of worshippe to his God, as to his religion apperteineth. Their priestes do not muche differ from the commune people, nor yet their churches from their dwelling houses. If thei knowe the Alcorane, and the praiours and ceremonies of their lawe, it suffiseth. Thei are neither giuen to contemplacion ne yet schole study. For why thei are not occupied with any churche seruice or cure of soules. Sacramentes haue thei none, nor reliques, nor halowinges of fontes, Aulters, and other necessaries. But prouidinge for their wifes their children, and householdes, thei occupie their time in husbônde marchaundise, hantinge, or some other meane to get the penie, and mainteyne their living, euен as the temporall mendrie. Ther is nothing forbidden them, nothing is for them unlawfull. Thei be neither burdoned with tillage, ne bondage. Thei be muche honoured of al m̄, for that thei are skilfull in the ceremonia-

Aſte.

es of the lawe, teache them to other, and be the gouernours of the churches.

They haue many schooles and large,
In the which great nombrēs are taught the lawes there giuen by kinges, for the ciuile gouernauice and defence of the Reialme. Of the whiche some are afterwarde sette fourth to be men of the churche, and some to be tempozalle officers.
Their spiritualitie is deuided into many and sondry sortes of religions. Of the whiche some liue in the wooddes & wyldernes shonnyng all compayne. Some kiepe open hospitalite in cities, and yet lione by almosē them selues. These if they lacke meate to refreshe the nedye straunger and pellsgrine, yet at the least waie they give him herbour and lodgyng. Other, roumyng the cities vp and downe and caryeng alway in bottles faire watre and fresche, if any man be disposed to drinke, biasked they willingly proffre ic him, and refuse not to take, if he for their gentlenesse offre aught vnto them agayn Otherwile they craue nothyng, but in al their woordes gesture, behauour, & die-des: shewe them selues aungelles rai-ther then menne. And every one of theſe hath

Asie.

hath one knowledge or other, of differēce from the reaste. The Saracenes or Turkes are very p̄ecise executors of Iustice. Who so committeth bloudshed: hath in like sorte his owne shedde againe. Taken in adultery, both parties are streight without mercy stoned to deathe . They hane also a punisshement for fornicatio, whiche is to the manne taken with the diede, fourre score ierkes or lasshes with a skourge. A thief for the first and the seconde time, escapeth with so many strapes. But at the thirde time, hath his hāde cut of , and at the fourthe his foote . He that endamageth any manne:as the losse or hinderance shalbe valeded, so muste he of force recompence . In claiming of goodes, or possessions, the clamer muste proue by witnesse that the thing claimed is his:and the denier shalbe tried by his othe. Witnesse thei admitte none , bue persones of knownen honestie, & suche as mighthe be believed withoute an othe .
They haue also certaine spiefaultes or dinarislye appointed (muche like to our Honpnours) that spie in every shiere for suche as be negligent, and let slippe suche orassons, and seruice as thei be bounde to

Those

259

Asie.

Those if thei fortune to finde them : do thei punishe astre this maner. Thei hāge a borde about their neckes, with a great many of sore tailes, and cogginge them vp and downe the stretes: all ouer the citie, thei never lette them go vntyll they haue compounded by the purse. And in this also nothing vnlke to our Sompnours. It is lawfull for no manne , beinge come to mannes state, to liue unmaried. It is compted amonge them as lawfull to haue. iiiij. wifes, as it is amonge vs to haue one. Marie what soever is aboue this nombre (as thei may if thei list, and be able to kepe them, no degree excepted, but mother and sister, marie a hundred) thei are not iudged so lawfull. The chil- dren that thei haue bothe by the one, and the other haue equalle porcion in the sa- thers enheritaunce. Sawing that. ii. wo- men children are compted in porcion but for one man childe. Thei haue not. ii. of their wifes together in one house, ne yet in one citie. For the busnes, & disquietinges that might happen therby, but euery wife in a severall towne. The houseban- des haue liberte to put the away chise, and chise to take them againe. But yet when

Asie.

when he hath ones putte her awake, if any manne haue taken her, and she lust to abide with hym, she mate.

Their women are moste honestlie appareiled. And vpon their heades doe vse a certeine attire, not muche unlike the veluet bonette of olde Englande: wherof the one lappe so hangeth vppon whiche side semeth her good: that when she is disposed to go out of the doores, or to come amongest menne within the house, she maie hide cherwith by and by her whole face, sauynge her eyes.

The Saracenes woman, never dare shewe her self wher ther is a company of menne. To go to the marchate to occupy byeng or sellyng in any wise: is not syc-tyng for their wome. In the head church they haue a place farre a part fro þ men: so close that no manne canne looke into them. Into the whiche notwithstanding it is not lawfull for every mans wyfe to entre: but for the nobilitie onely. Ne yet for them neyther, but on friday, at the onely houre of noone praser: whiche as I haue aforesayd, is kept amoung them high and holy.

To see a man and a woman talke to g ether.

257

Asie.

ther ther, in the open strete or abyde: is so straige, and so unwonte a thing, that in a whole yere it skate happeneth ones.
For a man to sitte with his wyfe in open sighte, or to ride with any woman behinde him: amongst them ware a wondre.
Maried couples never dally together in the sighte of other, nor chide or falle out.
But the menne beare alwaies towarde the women a manly discrete sobernes, and the women towarde them a demure womanlie reverence. Greate menne, that cannot alwaies haue their wifes in their owne eye, appoincte redgelinges, or guelte menne to awaite vpon them.
Whiche waite them in diede so narrow lye, that it ware impossible for any man beside the housebande to speake with the wyfe vnsene: or the wyfe by any stealth to false her trouth and honestie. Finally the Saracenes do so full and whole be leue their Mahomete & his lawes: that they doubt no whitte, but the kepers of them shall haue euerlasting blessednesse That is to saye, after their opinion, a paradise of pleasure, a gardeyn plotte of delighte, full of swete rindles of Chys alline watre. In whose botomes y gras uelle

Afie.

uelle, popleth like glisseryng golde. The ayre alwaies so attempre and pure, that nothyng can be more swete, more pleasaunte nor healthsome. The grounde couered and garnished with natures Tappesserie, neither lacking any colour that pleasaunte is to the eye, or sauour that maie delight the nose. Birdes syngyng with suche armonie, as never mortallic eare heard. Briefly flowing in all pleasure that any harte can affre thincke. Dishes for the mouthe, of all deinties. All maner of Silkes, Mellettes, Purples, Skarlettes, and other precious apparelle. Godly younge damoselles, with gracie rowlyng eyes, and skinne as white as Whales bone, softe as the Silke, and breathed like the Rose, and all at their becke. Messelles of siluer and golde. Angelles for their Butlers that shall bryng them Milke in Goblettes of golde, and redde wine in siluer. But contrariewise, they threaten vnto the breakers of them, helle, and everlastyng destruction. This they also beleue, that be a manne wrapped in never so many synnes, yet if at his death, he beleue vpon God, and Mauchamete, he shalbe saued.

The

Aſie.

CThe. iij. Chapitre.

COf the Christians, of their firſte comyng vp, their Ceremonies, and ordenaunces.

Christe Iesu, the eter-nalle and verie sonne of thalmightie fathir, the ſeconde perſone in the holiſe inseparabile, equalle, and euerla-ſtyng Trinitie: Of a ſette purpose, and ſpi-rituallle ſecrete, not revealed from the begynnynge of tyme, & aboue mannes capacitet: was by the meane of the holy ghost, conceiued and borne manne. In Iewrie, of a Virgine, of the ſtocke of Dauid, a thouſande fine hundred, and twentie yeres*gone. To ſette vs miſerable, and unhappie menne on foote againe, whiche ware in Adam and Eue, by the ſinne of obſtinance ouerthrowen. And to bryng us againe, unto our heauenlie native coutrie, from the whiche we hane by ſo many ages, for that preſumption bene banished. Finally, to repaire and ſupplie in heauen againe ones, the ruine and fal-

It appereſt by this placthat this was written. xxx yeres gone.

M. J. 8.

Asie.

of those sp̄ites, whiche a space afore our creation, ware churste doun fro thence.
For the whiche purpose, we chiefly ware made. This Iesus, from thirtie yeres of age, vntill thirtie and fowze (in the whiche, throughe the malitiousnes of the Jewes, he suffred on the galowe tree) trauailing all Jewrie ouer: first moued and exhortēd the Jewes, and then other peoples, from the olde Lawe of Moses, and their wicked Image worshippe, to his newe ordenaunce and crade. And as many as would folowe, and doe astre hym, he called them his scholers or disciples. Out of the whiche, he gaue vnto. ri-that he had specially chosē, Comission aftre his death (when he had appered to thē on līue again, as he had forewarned thē þ he would) to go as Legates, or Embassatours into þ whole world, & to preache vnto all creatures, what so euer they had sene or learned of him. Simon Petre (to whom longe afore he had surrendred the gouernaunce and chieftainshippe of his Churche, as in reveretion afstre hym) whē afstre the comyng of the holy ghoſte ſome wente into one coſte, and ſome into another, euery manne his waie, as they ware allotted

Asie.

allotted and commaunded:came first vnto Antioche. And there setting vp the first and chies chaire of the Churche , kepte a counsaille with the other Apostles , whiche ofteyn tyme came to hym . In this Counsaille among other thinges it was decreed , that asmany as shold receive , and cleave vnto the doctrine , and righte perswasion of Christes godlines: shold fro thence furthe be called Christianes . This Seate of superiorite, beyng afterwarde translated to Rome: bothe he and his Successours , cooke it for their chies charge and businesse , to put the rude and rawe sorte of their Christe , and the followers of the same , in some good ordre and trade of gouernaunce . Bothe astre the maner of Moses Lawe (whiche Christe came not to breake , but to consummuate and finishe) and the state of the Romaine gouernaunce , the Greke , and Egypcian : and also by paterne of the Ceremonies , obseruaunces , lawes , and ordenances Ecclesiasticalle and Temporalle , of many other peoples : But specially astre the doctrine , of Christe Iesu , and the woorkyng of the holy ghoste , to byynge them in to frame and facton . When the ware en-

R.ij. tred

Asie.

freed in the mattier: As theis salve that me not among the Hebrewes alone, but among other peoples also, ware devyded into Ecclesiasticalle and Tempozalle, Spiritualtie and Latetie: and eche of them in moste goodly wise, into their dignities and degrees (The Romaine Emperour then being gouernour of the whole worlde alone, to haue Consulles, Fathers or Senatours: at whose becke all thinges ware devised and doone: And in the residewe of the earthe to bee many Kynges, many Dukes, Crles, Presiden-tes, and Deputies of countries, and their Lieutenantes: Mareschalles of the fielde, and highe Constables for the comunes, Precours or Prouostes, Standerdbearers roialle, Centurianes, and Dissners, Serieantes, Constables, Collectours, Surveiours, Porters, Scribes, Listers, and many other persones Without office, bothe menne and women.
And in the Temples of their Goddes, a Sacrificer roialle, whiche is to saie in effecte, a highe Prieste of the dignitie of a kyng. Archeflamines, Flamines of honour, and other flamines inferiour and laste in degree their Priestes. And by like

Asie.

Iske ordre emong the Hebrues: an highe Bisshoppe, and inferiour Preestes, Le-uites, Nazareis, candle quenchers, commaunders of Spirites, Churche War-deines, and Syngers, whiche wee calle Chauntours astre the frenche. And among the Grekes: Capiteines, or heades ouer a thousande, ouer an hundred, ouer fiftie, ouer tene, and ouer five. And that there ware yet beside these, bothe emong the Hebrues, and the Romaines, many couentes, or compaignies of menne and women Religous. As Haddaceis, Esleis, and Phariseis emong the Hebrues: Salios, Diales, and Nestalles, emong the Romaines: The moste holy Apostles did all consent, that Petre, and thei that shold folowe him in the seate of Rome, shold for euermore be called Papa. As who would say, father of fathers, the uni-versalle, Apostolische, moste holy, and moste highe bisshoppe. And that he shold at Rome be Presidente ouer the universalle Churche, as the Emperour there, was ruler of the universall worlde. And to matche the Consalles (whiche ware euer twayne) thei appointed sowe head Fathers, in the Greke named Patriarches,

R. iiiij. ches,

Aſie.

ches, one at Constantinople, another at Antioche, a thirde at Alexandrie, and the fourthe at Hierusalem. In the place of the Senatours, they tooke the Cardinalles. To marche their kynges, whiche had three Dukes at commaundement, they deuised Primates: To whom ware subiecte thre Archebizophpes. So that the Archebishoppe or Metropolitane, standeth in the place of a Duke. For as the Duke had certain Erles or Barones at his commaundement: so haue the Archizophpes, other inferiour Bishoppes at theirs. whiche also by reason muste countreuaile an Erle. The Bishoppes coadiutor or Suffragane, came into the Presidences place. Thordenerie into the Deputies, then did the Officiale marche with the Mareschalle. And with the high constable for the comunes, the Bishoppes Chauncelour. And for the Prebour or Provouſte, they ſette vp an Archedeacō. In ſtede of the Ceturiane, was a Deane appointed. And for the Disnere, the Perſone or Vicare. For the Aduocates, crept in the Parolle Prieste, Houle Prieste, Chauncerie Prieste, Morolle Maſſe Prieste, and ſuche other. The Deacon ſtanderþ

Asie.

standeth for the Surveyour. The Sub-deacon, for the Seruaunte. For the two Constables, came in the two Commaunders of Spirates, called Exorcistæ in the Greke. The Collectours office, was matched with the Churche wardenes. The Porter became the Seruante. The Chauntour, Scribe, and Lister, kepe stille their name. The Acholite, whiche we calle Benet and Cholet, occupieth the roume of Candlebearer.

All these by one commune name, thet called Clerj, of the Greke woord Cleros, that is to saie, a Lotte. For that thei ware firste from among the people, so allotted vnto God. Thereof cometh our terme Clerque, and his cosine Clergie. Neverthelesse, this name Clergie, was not so commune vnto all: but that it siemed moste proprely to reste in the seuen degrees, that the Pope of Rome vised for his Ministres, when he sated Mass in persone him self. That is to saie, the Bishoppe, the Priest, the Deacon, & subdeacon, & Acholite, and the Chauntour. Unto every of these gaue thei in þ church their severalle dignities officies, & apparell.

To the Bishoppe was given authori R. iiiij tie

Aſie.

That is to ſue, to make Domes,

tie, to ordeine and make other Clerkes.
To enueile virgines, & to hallow them.
To consecrate their likeſ, and their ſuperiours also. To laie handes vpon thē. To confirme and Bifhoppe chilđe. To hal-lowe Churches. To put Prieſtes from their Prieſthode: and to degrade them, when they deserue it. To kepe Convoratiōs and Sinodes. To make holy oile: to hallowe the ornamentes and vſellies of the churche. And to do alſo other thinges, that the iſerisur Prieſtes doe. To enſtrute thole that be newly come to the ſatthe. To Christiane, to make the Sa-cramente of the Altare, and to giue it to other. To abſolute the reþtaunte of their ſinnes, and to ſettre the ſubberne moze ſtreighte. To ſhewe furthe the Gospelle.
To enþoyne all Prieſtes to ſhaue their headeſ in the croune, like a circle of. iſſ. ingres brode, aftre the maner of y Maza-reis. To kepe their heare ſhorte, to weare no bearde. And to liue chaalſe for euer.

Their liuyng onely to riſe of the firſte fruictes, tenthes, and offringes: and vtre ly to be vnde of all temporalle and Laiemennes cares and busynesse. To be hone-ſtie appareled, and accordyngly to vſe their

Asie.

their passe and conuersacion. Onely to serue God and the churche. Willigely to plye the reading of holy scripture, y they them selues myghte perfectly knowe all thinges perteining to Christian religio, wherin they are boud to enstrucce other.
 The companies or conentes of religious, as wel men as wemen: are Benedictines, Preachers, Franciscans, Angustines, Barnardines, Anthonines, Iohannites, Cisternois, and innumerable other. whi che al haue their habite, and maner of liuing by them selfe: accordinge to the rule that echeone priuately prescribed to them selues. And liued for the mosse parte a solitary life, professing, chastite, pouretie, and perpetuall obedience. And for their solitarines the Greke called them Mo-nachi. Some of these haue for their hea-des Abbes, some Prioris: habiche are either subiecte to the Pope onely, or to the bishoppes. Al these vsed coules, much astre one facio, but in colour divers, & abstained fro fleshe. The bishoppes when they say masse, haue xv. holy garmentes, astre y maner of Moyses lawe, for y per-fectio of thē. His boatewes, his Amice. an Albe, a Girdle a Stole, a Maniple, a Tu-nicle

R. v. nicle

Asie.

tle of violette in graine fringed, his gloves, ringe, and chesible or vestimente, a callith it a Sudarie, a cope, a mitre and a * crosse Gypte hooke, staffe. And a chaire at the Aultares ende, wherin he sitteth. Of the whiche vi. are commune to every inferiour prieste: the Amice, the Albe, the girdle, the stole, the Maniple, and the vestiment. But ouer, and aboue allibele the Pope, by the gifte of Constantine the greate, hath libertie to weare al the ornamente Imperialle.
That is to saye a kirtle of scarlet, a robe of Purple, a sceptre, and a close corone.
With the whiche astre he hath rauished him selfe in the vestrie, vpon solempne feastes, when he entredeth to do masse: he commeth forth to the aultare, having on the right side a prieste, on the lefste side a Deacon, a Subdeacon going before him with a booke fasse shutte, two candle bearers, and an encensour with the censoure in his hande smoking. When he is come to the grasinges, the stayers, or foote of the aultare: putting of his mitre, he maketeth open * confession of his sinnes together with his company.

That done he goeth vp to the aultare, openeth the booke, linge vpon the lefste corner

Asie.

corner of the same, kylleth it, and so pro-cedeth in the Solemynisacio of y Malle.
The subdeacon readeth the epistole, and the Deacon the godspelle. Priests of al degrees, are charged to prayse God seuen times a day, and to praye with ordenarie oraisons. Towarde the eueninge, euensonge: and compline more late. In a-tines in the morninge, and incontinent prime, and holyses, in ordre of cyme, as Hora prjthei stande in ordre of name. And this ma, tertia, humbly before the aultare, if he maye sexta, nona. conueniently, with his face towarde the Caste. The pater nostre and the Crede said thei, onely at the beginnyng of their service, as the commune people do nowe a daies also. Saincte Jerome, at the vrg-ent request of Pope Damasus, parced out the Psalmes acording to the dates of the wieke. And appoincted for euery houre a porcio of propre psalmes. For the nighte houres on the holy daye. ix. and on the workingdaye. xii. For laudes in the morning. vi. for euensonge as many, and for eche other houre but thre. He also or-desined the Epistles, Godspelles, and other service, vsed to be red out of the olde or newe testament, in maner altogether, sausing

Asie.

Sauing þ note. The Anthemes (which Am brose, Wyshoppe of millayne wrate, and endited) Damasus put ordre that the quiere shoule sing side afstre side, & added to every psalmes ende. Gloria patri. &c.
The lessons and Hymnes that go before eche one of the howres did þ couces-les of Thoulouse and Agathone auchorise. The orisons, the grailes, the tractes, the Alleluya, choffertozie, the Communiions in the Masse, the Anthemes, Versicles, repitions, and other thin-ges, either songe or redde by nyghte or by daye, to the beautifieng, and pray-sing of God: did Gregorij, Gelasius, Ambrose, and many other holy fathers, denise, and put furthe. not at one time but at sondry. The Masse (so terme thei the sacrifice) was firste vsed to be done in suche simple sorte, as yet is accustomed, vpon good friday, & Easter euен, with certeine lessōs before it. But then Pope Celestinus put to the office of the Masse.
Thelesphorus, Gloria in excelsis: But Silarus of pictavia made the Et in terra. Simachus ordeneid it to be songe. The Salutacōs, whiche by þ terme of Dominus vobiscum, be made seuen tymes in a Masse

Asie.

Masse, ware taken out of the booke of Ruthe, by Clemente, and Anaclete, and put in, in their places. Gelasius made vp all the rest to the Offertory, in the same orde thei be vsed. Excepte the Sequences and the Crede: wherof Nicolas put in the firste, & Damasus the nexte: acor-dinge to the Sinode of Constantinopie.
The bidding of the beades, with the collacion that was wonte to be made in the pulpste on Sondais, and halydates: rai-ther grewe to a custome by the example of Nehemias, and Esdras, then was by any auchorised. In this collation at the firste comming vp therof, when so many as ware presete at the Masse did receiuue the communion, according as was ordyned by a decree: thei that ware at any discorde ware exhorted to concorde, & agremente. And that thei shold receive the sacrament of the auiter cleane from the sylthe of sinne, vpon the whiche consideration at this daye it endeth with confi-teor, or an open confession. There ware thei wonte to teache the instrumentes of the olde lawe, and the newe. The ten commaundementes. The xii. articles of our beleue. The seuen sacramentes, holy folkes

Asie.

kes liues, and Martirdomes, holy dayes, doctrines, and disciplines: vertues, and vices, and what soever are necessary beside forthe, for a christiane to knowe. Gregory lunched on the offertorie. Leo the prefates. Gelasius the greate Lanõ, & chelesse. The Sanctus blessed Surtus. And Gregory þ Water noster out of the Gospell of sainte Mathewe. Marialle the scholer of blessed Peter, deuised that Byshoppes should gyue their benediction at the Agnus. And as for other infeour priests, Innocentius commauded them to giue þ pare, that is to saye peace. Sergius tacked on the Agnus, and Gregory the poste communion. The closing vp of all with Ite missa est, Benedicamus, Deo gratias: was Leoes inuencion.

The rit. articles of our beleue, whiche the blessed Apostles would every manne not onely to confesse with mouthe, but to beleue also in harte, are these.

Firste that ther is one God in Trinitie, the father almighty maker of heauen and earthe. The seconde, Jesus Christe his onely sonne our Lorde. The thirde the same beinge conceiued of the holye ghoste, to haue bene borne of þ Virgine Marie.

276

Asie.

Marie, The fourthe, to haue suffred vns dys Poncē pilate, to haue bene crucified, deade, bewried, and to haue descended in to helle. The fifteth, to haue risen agayne the thidde dape fro the deade. The sixteth to haue ascended vp into the heauens, and to sittē on the right hande of God the father almighty. The seventh, that he shall come fro thence like a triūpher, to iudge the quicke and the deade. The eight, that ther is an holy ghoſte. The ninth, þer is an holy churche vniuersalle, the communion of the godly and good. The ten-the, forgiuenesse of ſinnes. The eleuenth, the riſing againe of the ſeſſhe. The twelueſt, aftre our departing, life in another worlde euerlaſting.

The tente commanndementes, which god wrate with his owne ſingre, and gaue vnto the Israelites by Moiſes, whiche thapostles willed vs alſe to kepe The firſte, thou ſhalte haue none other Goddes but me. The ſeconde, thou ſhalte not make the any graue Image, or likenede of any thing that is in heauen aboue, in the earthe beneathe, or in the water vnder the earthe, thou ſhalt not bowe downe to them, nor worshippe them. The third, thou

Aſſie.

thou ſhalt not take the name of thy lord God in vaine. The fowrthe, remembre that thou kiepe holte thy Sabbath dñe.
The fifteth, honour thy father & mother.
The ſixteth, thou ſhalte doe no muide.
The ſeventh, thou ſhalte not commit adulerie. The eight, thou ſhalte not ſteale.
The ninth, thou ſhalt beare no false witneſſe againſt thy neighbour. The tenth, thou ſhalte not defyre thy neyghbours houſe, his wifſe, his ſeruaunte, his maide, his Dre, nor his Aſſe, nor any thing that is thy neighbours.

The ſeven Sacramentes of the churche, whiche are conteined in the five laſte Articles of our beleue, and commaunded vs by the holte fachers to be beleued.

The firſte, dipping into the water, called Baptiſing aftre the Greke. This, by canonicalle decree, in time paſte was not wonte to be giuen (excepte greate nece-ſtie ſoner required it) bnt to thofe that had bene ſcholers a ſpace afore, to learne the thinges appertinet to chriftendome.
Pea, and that aftre thei had bene excea-dingly welle enſtructed in the faſher and proufe taken of their profitynge, by ſeven erauinations. whiche ware made upon ſeven

Aſſe.

ſeven ſeveralle dais in the Lente, and ſo ware thei Baptiſted vpon Easter euē, and Whitesondaiē euē. Upon whiche dais, thei ware accuſtomed to hallowe the christening watre, in every Paroche.
But because this ſpecially of all other, is chiefly neceſſarie vnto euerlaſting ſalua-tion: leaffe any bodie ſhould die without it, thei decreed that aſſone as the childe was borne, godfathers ſhould be ſouȝe for it, as it ware for witneſſes or ſureties whiche ſhould bryng the childe vnto the Churche doore, and there to ſtande without. And then the Prieſt ſhould enquire, befoře the childe be dieped in the fonte, whether it haue renounced Sachan and all his pompe and pride. If it beleue cer-tainely and wholie, all the Articles of the Chriftiane faſte. And the Godfathers answeryng, yea: foř it, the Prieſte breathyng chrise vpon his face, exorciſeth it, and cathechifſeth it. Afteř that, doeth he ſeuen thiñges to the childe in ordre. Firſte, he puſſeth into the mouth hallowed ſalt.
Secondely, he mingleth earthe and his ſpatte togueher, and ſmereth the eyes, eares, & noſethrilles of the childe. Thirdly, giuing him ſuſhē name as it ſhall euer

S. J. aftee

Asie.

astre bee called by : he marketh it on the breast and backe with holie oile, astre the faction of a crosse . Fourthly, he dypeth it thrise in the watre , or besprinkleth it with warre thrise,in maner of a crosse, in the name of the holie Trinitie, the facher the sonne, and holie ghost. In the whiche name also, all other Sacramentes are ministred. Ffifthly, wetting his thumbe in the holie ointement, he maketh therewith a Crosse on the childe's foreheade.
Sixthly, he putteth a white garment up-pon it. Seuenthly, he taketh it in the hāde a Candle brennyng. The Jewes before thei be Christened (by the determinacion of the counsaile holden at Agathone, are cathechised, that is to saie, are scholers at the enstruacion of our beleue, nine mone-thes. And are boūd to fast fourtie daies: to dispossesse them selues of all that euer thei haue , and to make free their bondes men. And looke whiche of their children thei haue Circumcised, according to Moses lawe: hym are thei bounde to banishe their compānie. No merueile therfore if thei come so unwillingly to christēdome.

Bishopping, whiche the Latines calle Confirmacion, a confirming, a ratifieng establishing

Asie.

establishyng, auauthorysyng, or allowyng of that went before : is the second Sacra-mente. And is giue of the Bishoppe one-ly, before the Aultare in the Churche, to suche as are of growē yeres, and fallyng (if it mate be) after this maner. As many as shalbe Confirmed, come all together with every one a godfather. And the Bishoppe after he hath said one oraison ouer the all, wetynge his thumbe in the ho-lie oyle, maketh a crosse vpon eche of their foreheades : In the name of the fater, sonne, and holie ghoste. And giueth hym a blowe on the lefte cheke, for a remembraunce of the Sacrament, that he come not for it againe. The godfathers, to the ende the enoilyng should not droppe a-wate, or by negligence bee wiped awate, clappe on a faire filette on the foreheade. whiche ther iudge to be unlawfully take awate, before the seventh daie. The holie fathers esteemed this Sacrament so highly, that if the name given to the childe at his Christendome, siened not good: the Bishoppe at the giuyng hereof mighthe chaunge it.

The thirde Sacramente is holie Drydes, whiche in the firste Churche, was S.ij. giuen

Asie.

gauen likewise of the Bishoppe, onely in the monethe of Decembre . But now at sire seueralle tymes of the yere: that is to sate , the fowre Saturdayes in the embre wekes (whiche ware purposelyordeined therefore) vpon the Saturdaye, whiche the Charche menne calle Sitementes, because the office of the Masse for that daie appointed, beginneth with that woordes, and vpon Easter euyn . This Sacrament was gauen onely to menne: and but to those neither, whose demeanour and life, disposicio of bodie, and qualite of minde, ware sufficiently tried and knowen . Aftre the opinion of some, there ware seven ordres, or degrees, wherby the holy fathers would vs to beleue that there ware sene speciall influences , as it ware printed in the soule of the receyver, wherby eche one for eche ordre, was to be compred an hallowed manne . Aftre the mindes of other there ware nine . That is to sate, Musicens (whiche encludeth singing and plai-eng) Doore kiepers, Reders, Exorcistes Acholites, Subdeacon, Deacon, Prieſte and Bishop . End for all this, it is cōpced but one Sacramente, by the reason that all these tende to one ende, that is to sate,

Asie.

to consecrate the Lordes bodie. To every one of these, did the Counsaile of Toledo in Spaine, appointe their severalle liueries, and offices in the Churche. The Doozekepers had the office of our Common Service, to opē the churche dores, to take heede to the churche, and to shutte the dores. And had therfore a keye giuen unto them, when they ware admitted to this ordre. The Reader, in signe and token of libertie to reade the Bible, and holie stories, had a greate booke giuen him. The Exorcistes, serued to commaunde euill spicices out of meyne, and in token therof, had a lesse booke giuen them. The Acholite, had the bearyng and the ordeyng of the Tapers, Candelstickes, and Cruettes at the Altare: and therfore had a Candlesticke, a Taper, and two empie Cruozettes deliuered hym. The Subdeacon, myghte take the offring, and handle the Chalice, and the Patine, carie them to the Altare, and fro the Altare, and giue the Deacon Wine and water, out of the Cruettes. And therfore the Bishoppe deuicereth hym an empie Chalice with a Patine, and the Archedeacon one Cruet full of wine, and another full of watre,

S. iii. and

Assie.

and a Towelle. To the Deacons, is the Preaching of Goddes Gospelle to the people committed, and to helpe the priest in al holy ministracion. He hath the Gospelle booke deliuered hym, and a towell hanged vpon his one shoulde, like a yoke. The Prieste hath power to consecrate the Lordes bodie, to praise for sinners, and to reconcile the againe to God by Penaunce entoined them. He hath deliuered hym a Chalce with Wine, the Patine, with a singynge cake, a stole vpon bothe sholdres, and a Chesible. What Ornamentes the Bisshoppe hath giuen vnto hym, ye haue heard afore. He maie not be made Bisshoppe, but on the Sondaye about the. iii. houre after Prime, be cloene choische of the Masse and the Gospelle: at the whiche tyme twoo Bisshoppes, and a Metropolitan, lase their handes vpon his heade and a booke. The Bisshoppes in the firsste Churche, did little or nothyng diffre from other Priestes, and ware ruled by the commune Counsailes of the Churche, before that dissencion and devision entred emong the people, causing theim in sondrie sortes, to cleave vnto sondrie names, every sorte as thei for cuned

Asie.

tured to be conuerted and Chrysened of a sondrie persone. As whom Paule Baptised, thei wold be called Paulines.
 Whom Appollo, Appollonians. Whom Cephas, Cephites, and so of other. To auoide therefore these breaches of concorde, and for an vntiformitie, the holy fathers ware dcsuen to decree and stablish that as many as should afreward be baptised, should be called Christianes of Christe. And that ouer euery Countie or Shiere, there should be sette one Preste or moe, acordyng to the greatnessse of the same, such as ware best tried. Whiche should haue to name, Duersears in Englishe: in Greke, Episcopj. Whom we cal Bishopes, by chaungyng of. P. into. B. and leauing out the. E. for shorthenes, acordyng to the nature of our tongue. These myghte not then gouerne their Clergie, and other their Diocelans, at their owne pleasure, as thei did before: but according to the decrees of the Churche of Rome, and the holie Counsailes of the fathers assembled. Then began thei firste (by the suffraunce and helpe of devoute princes) to deuide all Chrysendum into Dioceses, and the Diocesse into Convocations

S. iiiij.

or

Aſſie.

or Chaptres, and those againe into Paroches, and to set that goodly ordre, that yet continueth, aswell among the clergie as the laicte. That the pariche should obey their lawfull Persones, the Persone the Deane: the Deane, the Bishoppe: the Bishoppe, the Archebishoppe. The Arch-bishoppe, the Primate or Patriarche: the Primate or Patriarche, the Legate: the Legate, the Pope: the Pope the generalle Counſale: the generalle Counſale, God alone.

For the fourthe Sacramente it is holdeyn, that every prieste rightly priested, accordyng to the keies of the Churche, having an entente to consecrate, and obseruyng e the forme of the woordes: hathe power, of wheaten breade to make the very bodie of Christe, and of Wine to make his very bloude.

Christe our Lord hym selfe, the daye before he suffred, kepte it solemnly with his disciples, and consecrated, and ordeneid it continually to be celebrated, and eaten in the remembraunce of hym selfe. And about this mattier a man had neide of a great faythe. Firſte to beleue the breade to be chaunged into the body, and the

Aſſe.

the wine into the bloude of Chritte. Againe thoughē this be done every daye that yet Chritte for all that shoulde growe neuer a whitte the bigger for y making, nor the lesse for the eatinge. Thirdeyl that the Sacrament being denyded into many partes, Chritte shoulde yet remayne whole in euery cromme. Fourthly that thoughē the wicked eate it, yet shoulde not it be defiled. Fiftethly that it bringeth to as many euyll as receiuē it, death: and to the good euerlasting life. Sixtly that it tourmeth not into the nature of the eater to his nourishemente as other meat dothe: but turneth the eater contrariwise into the nature of it selfe. And yet being eaten, that it is rapte into heauen, vnturte or vntouched. Seuently that in so smalle a syse of breade and wine, the infinit, and incomprehensible Chritte, God and manne shoulde be comprehended. Then, that one, and the self same boordye of Chritte, at one very instance, shoulde be in many places, and of many menne received at ones, and in sondrye parcelles. Ninechly y thoughē the bread it selfe be chaunged into the very fleshe of Chritte, and the wine into his bloude,

S.v. that

Aſie.

that yet to all the ſences thei remaine breade and wine, and neither fleſſe ne blond. Further that all theſe cōmodities cōtained in theſe verſes folowing ſhould happen vnto thoſe that worthely eate it.

It putteth in mynde and kindleth, en-creaſeth hope, and ſtrengtheneth.
Maintaineth, cleaneſt, reſtoreth, giues life, and uniteſt.

Stabliſheth beliefe, abates the foode of ſinne, and all vncleſſe quencheſt.

Finally, to be very profitable for the ſaluacioñ aswell of thoſe liuyng as deade, for whō it is ſpecially offred by the priēſt in the Malle. And therefore to haue to name Euchariftia communio.

In the beginning of the Chriſtiane faſte (and yet amonge certeine ſchisma-tiques as thei ſay) one whole loſe was conſecrated, of ſuiche bigguenesſe, as whē the Priēſt had broken it in a platter into ſmalle pieces, it miȝtſe ſuffiſe the whole muſtitude that ware at the malle to paricipate of. For in time paſte the Chriſti-anes came every day to communicate by a ſpeciall commaundemente, and orde-naunce. Afterwarde but ones in a wieke and that on the Sonday. But whan ic began

Asie.

began to be skant well kepte vpon the Sonday neither:then was it commaunded that euery manne shold receive it chrisie in the yere, or ones at the leaste, at every Easter . And that euery christiani manne, whan he stode in any daungier of death,beynge whole of minde, shuld receive it as a waifaring viande, so staye him by the waye:with as good preparation of bodye and soule , as he possibly mighie.

Matrimonie (whiche is the lawefulle coupling of the manne and the woman) broughte in by the lawe of nature , the lawe of God, the lawe of all peoples, and the lawe esule, is the fiue th sacrament.
The holy fachers woulde haue but one marriage at ones, & that not in secrete but with ope solemnite eyther in þ churche, or in the churche porche , and so that the priest be called to the matter. Who shold firste examine the man, and then the womanne, whether thei bothe consent to be maried together. If thei be agreed (whiche is chiefly in this case requisite) he taking them bothe by the right handes: coupleth them together in the name of the holy and vnseperable trinitie, the father,

Aſie.

ther, the sonne, and the holy ghoſte. And commaundeth, and exhorteth them that thei alwaye remembryng this their coupling of their owne free wille & consent: as longe as thei live, never forſake one another, but loue & honour one another, be debonaire and buxome one to another, giuing them ſelues to procreacion, and not to lecherous luſte. And that thei honestly and diligenty bringe vp, ſuche children as God ſendeth them of theyz bodies. Aſtre that he affiaunceſt the both with one ringe. And ſprinckling holy waſter upon them, reacheth them a ſtole, and leadeth them into the churche. where (yf thei ware not bleſſed afore) he bleſſeth them knieling before the altare. The wo man hath on a redde fillet or frontelette, and ouer that a white veile, withoute the whiche it is not lawfull to her fro that daye forwarde, to go oute of doores abyode, or to ſitte by any manne. Twelue thinges ther be, whiche the holy fathers woulde haue to barre persons from contracting of matrimonie, and to diſteuer them agayne, yf thei be contracted. Errour of person, that is to ſaye, miſtaking one for another. A betrowthing vpon a condicōn

Asie.

condicōn, Cōsanguinitie or kīndred, An opē crime Diuersitie of sects, force, or cōstrainte. Holy ordres, a Wōde or former contracie, Commune or open honestie, Affinitie, and Dishabilitie of engēd;ure,

The fifteth Sacramente is penaunce or repentaunce, giuen of Chritte as it ware for a wracke boorde, wherby men are preserved fro drowninge. Eche christian oughte undoubtedly to beleve that this consisteth in fourte poinctes. To saie, in Repētaunce of our sinnes, Canonicalle cōfession, Absolucion, and Satisfaction, or amendes. Firsste let him sorowe, not with a lichte forthimkinge, but with a mooste earnest and bittere repentaunce in the botome of his conscience: for the pur-tie and innocencie that he had gotten ey-ther by baptisme or þ benefice of former repentaunce, and nowe hathe estones losse, and forgone throughe sinne. And let him hope with this repentaunce, to be reconciled to the fauour of God againe And let him humbly, and truly wth his owne mouthe, confesse to a wise prieste, in the steade pf God: all those offences wherwch he knoweth hym selfe to haue losse his innocencie and cleannessse, and to haue

Aſie.

hanc prouoked the wrath of GOD againſte him ſelue. And let him assuredly beleue that the ſame priefe, hath power giuen him of Chriſt (as beinge his vice, or deputie on earthe) to abſolute him of all his ſinnes. Finally for ſatisfaction or amendes making for the faulte: lette him not with grudginge, but cheerfully, and gladly doe, what ſo euer he ſhalbe comanded. Beleuiig with vndoubted faith, that he is abſolued, and quyte of all, alſone as the prieff in deſte forme of wordes, hath pronounced the abſolucion.

The ſeventh, and the laſte Sacramēt is the laſte enoynting, by an oyle that is made to this uſe, by the biſhōpe in every diocelle, by an yerely cuſtome vpon maundy thurſdaie, like as the chriſmatory oyle is. And this by the precepte of ſainte James the Apoſtle, and by the ordinaunce of ſainte Peter: was giuen only to them that laie in dyng, being of full age, and requyting it. Thei uſe to enoynte with a preſcripte fourme of wordes, and with often invocation of ſaintes: thofe partes of the boode, wher our five wifteſ or ſenſes; the hearing, ſeyng, ſmelling, taſting and

Aſte.

and touching, beare moſte ſtroke, & with whiche man is iudged chiefely to ſinne.
That is, the eares, the eyes, the noſethril-les, the mouth, the handes, and the ſete.
Wherby the holy fathers would vs to be leue, that there was not onely purchased cleane forgiuenesse of all ſmaller offences, or venialle ſinnes: but also either preſente recouerſe, or a riper and gentler deathe'. All the feaſtes and holydaies, througheout the yere, whiche the churche hath commaunded to be obſerved & kept: beginne at the Aduente, or approche of Chriffe our Lord. Whiche Peter the Apoſtle iſtituted to be obſerved in Decembre, with fasting and prayer, thre we-kes and a halfe before Christemas, whē we close vp the laſt. viii. daies of that mo-neth, with great ioye and feaſte. Theſe de-uided the yere into two & fiftie wekes, and xiij. ſeveral monthes. The monthes comonly into. xxx. daies. The firſte daye of January the churche recordeth howe Chriffe was circumciſed acordinge to Moyſes lawe. The. iiii. daye aftre, howe he was worshipped of the thre Sages, with thre ſondry preſentes: and howe being baptiſed of John in Iordan the ſloude,

Aſte.

floude, he laide the foundacion of the newe Lawe. The ſeconde of februarie, how his mother vnpotred, obeyeng the maner of her country: brought him into the temple, and ſuffered her ſelfe to be purifiēd or cleſed, whiche we calle churching of childe. In memorie wherof the church vſeth that daye, ſolempne proceſſion, and halowing of candles. The five and twen tith of Marche, howe þ aungel brought woorde to the virgin Marie, that Chriſt ſhoulde be borne of her, being conceyued in her wombe, by the ouershadowing of the holy ghoſte. At the whiche time they willed vs to faire the fourtie daies that he faſted him ſelfe, being with vs uppon earth, and to renewe the remembraunce of his paſſion, and deathe, whiche he wil lingly ſustained to deliuer vs fro þ yoke and bondage of the deuell. The laſte day of that faire, which oftentimes falleth in Aprouille, to celebrete the highest faire in all the yere: in remembraunce howe he ouercame deathe, descended into helle, banquished the deuell, and returned a gaine on thie, and appeared in gloriouſ wyſe vnto his ſcholers, or diſciplines.
In Maye, howe all thone his ſcholers lo king

Aſie.

King vpō him, he by his owne vertue and myghte, stied vp into the heauens. At the whiche time, by thordenaunce of ſainte Maurete, bishoppe of Mienne: there be made gainginges with the leſſe Letanies from one Churche to another, all Chriſtendome ouer. In June, and ſomtime in Maie, how the holy ghoſte, promiſed to the diſciples, giuen from aboue; appered to them like glowing tongues: and gaue them to vnderſtande, & to ſpeakē the con-ges of al naciōs. The iight date folowing, Trinitie Sondate. The fiueſt date afte that, how Chriſte in his laſte ſupper, for a continual remembraunce of himſelf, iuilitated the moſte holſome Sacramēte of his bodie and bloud, vndre the fourme of breaſt and wine, leauyng it to be ſene and eaten of hiſ. The fiueteneſt of July, how the bleſſed Apoſtles, acordyng as they ware comauinded, the twelueſt yere afte the Aſcenſion of their Maſter into heauen: wente their waies into the univerſall world, to Preache unto all people. The depaſyng of Chriſtes moſher out of thiſ life, the fiueteneſt date of Au-gusṭe. And her Natiuitie, the iight of Septembre. And thone and twentie of No-vembre,

L.J. nembre,

Aſie.

tembre, how ſhe from thre yeres of age (at the whiche tyme ſhe was preſented to the temple) vntill ſhe was mariage able, remained there ſeruynge God ſtil a peace And the eight of Decembre, how ſhe was of her parentes begotten, that longe afore had bene barrenne. The ſecond day of Julie, how Elisabethe paſſyng the Mountaines, viſited her kindewoman.

There ware also certeine holiue daies appointed to the . xiij. Apoſtles. To cer-teine Martyres, Confeſſours, and Virgines. As the fowre and twentie of February to ſainte Matthie. To ſaints Marke the Euangeliste, the . xxv. of Aprille. Upon the whiche daie, Gregorius ordeined the greate Letanies to be ſonge.
The firſte of Maie is hallowed for Philippe and James the moze. The . xxiiij. of June, for Petre and Paule: & the . xxxijij. of the ſame, for the Matuitie of S. Iohn Baptiſte. The . xxv. of July, for James the leſſe. For Bartholomewe the fowre & twentie of Auguft. For Matheuē, the one and twentie of Septembre. And the eight and twentie of Octobre, for Simō and Jude. The laſt of Nouembre, for S.
Andrews. The one and twentie of Decembre,

265

Asie.

Nouembre, for sainte Thomas. And the vij. and twentie of the same moneth for Ioh the Euāgeliste. The dñe before, for Stephin the first Martire. And the dñe after for the Innocentes. The tenth of August for saint Laurence. And the thre & twen-tie of Ap̄ille, for sainte George. Of all the Confessours, there are no moe that haue holidates appointed, but S. Martine and sainte Nicholas. The firſte, on the eleuenth of Nouembre: and the other the sixtē of Decembre. Katherine the virgine, the ſiue and twentie of Nouem-bre, and Marie Magdalene the twentie and two of July. There is also vndre the name of sainte Michael alone, the xix. of Septembre: a holy dñe for all blessed Angelles. And one other in commune for all the saintes, and chosen of ḠD̄, the firſte of Nouembre.

They would also that every ſenente dñe, ſhould be hallowed of the Chriſtianes, by the name of Sondate, as the Je-wes doe their Sabbath: reſtyng from all worldly woorke, and beynge onely occu-ped with praſing of ḠD̄, and the deuine Seruice in the Churche. To learne by the Prieſtes preachyng, the Gospelle L. ii. and

Asie.

and the commaundementes of our fathir.
And by what meanes so ever we thinke in our conscience we haue prouoked the wrathe of God against vs all the wicks afore: that, this daie to amende , to sett clere, and aske pardone for. In time past euery Thursdaie also was kepte as the Sondais. But because we myghte siene therin, somewhat to gracie the Heathen(whiche that daie kepte solempne ho-lie daie , to Jupiter their Idolle) it was laied downe againe. More ouer the clerkes and the people, bled bothe Thursdaie and Sondais before Masse, to go round aboute the Churche a Procession , and the Preeste, to sprinkle the people with holy water. Agapitus instituted the one, and the other. The Thursdaie, in remembraunce of Christes Ascencion , and the Sondais, of his glorioius Resurrection: whiche we celabrate fro Sondais to So-dais continually, ones every eight daies.
The nighthe afore every ordinary holidais or feastefull daie: the whole clergie, and the people, ware bounde to kiepe Vigilie in every churche. That is to saye, to wake all nighthe, in devine seruice and prayer.
But vpon consideracion of many flaun-derous

277

Aſie.

derous crimes and offences, that ware by diuers naughte and malicious persones committed, by the oportunitie of the darke: this maner was taken awaie, and ordeined that the daie before the feaste, should be fasted, whiche yet kēpeth ſtille the name of Vigile. The fathers decreed that the churche in the whole yere ſhould renue the memorie of five thynges.

Fro the Sondaye called Septuagesima (because there are ſeventie daies, be-twene that and the octauae of Easter) they would vs to renue the memorie of Christes Faking, Paſſion, Death & Rewrialle. The miserable falle also of our firſt parents, and thofe extreme errours of mankindē, by the whiche they ware ledde awaie fro the knowledge and wor-hippe of one verie GOD: to the wicked ſuperſtition and honour of Idolles and Devuelles. And further, the greuous and intollerable bondage that the people of Iſraell ſuffered vndre the Pharaoh of E-gipte. Upon whiche conſideracion, the bookes of Genesis and Exodus be redde in the ſervice of the churche. Whiche ſheweth then in all her demeanour, and ap-pareilynge, heauynesse and ſorowe.

L. lliij. From

Aſie.

From the octauaes of Easter, to the octauaes of Whitsontide, Chritſes Reſurrection, and Ascencion, with the commyng of the holy Ghofte. And together with that, the redempcion, reconciliacion, and at onement of mankinde with God the fathur, throughe Jesus Chritte: and the restoryng againe of the childdren of Iſraell, to the lande of heſte. Wherein was preſtigured our reconciliacion and redempcion aforſaid. For that cauſe is all the ſeruice out of the newe Testamēt, and al thinges done with ioy & gladnes.

From the octauaes of Whitsontide, till Aduent, xx. wiekes ſpace, and more, cheſt would haue to bee celebrazed the conuerſacion of Chritte here in the worlde, with his miracles and woorkes of wonde. And ouer and beſide that, the longe pilgrimage that mankinde, by longe reuolution maketh, from one generation to another, from the tyme of our redempcion, ſaluation and ſauyng, vntill the laſte date of time. Wherefore duryng this while, vpon conuerſacion of the diuerſe happe and haſarde, wherwith the Churche is tolled, like a ſhippe in the troubled Seas, ſhe neither greatly refolleth,

Asie.

ne soroweth, but redeth greate chaunge of bookeſ, out of the olde and newe Te-ſamente: to the ende ſhe maie walke the warelier, and the bettre wiſhde her ſelf out of the ſormes, that are ready to aſ-ſale her.

From Aduente to Chriftemas, to remembre the tyme from Moſes, to the commyng of Mefias. In the whiche rankinde certefied of ſaluation, bothe by the lawe and the Prophetes, awaſed with moſte earneſte deſires for his com-ming, and the kingdome that he ſhould haue Wherfore thei ordained that the Prophecies ſhould be redde, and laſting exercised. That the churche the bettre enſtructed, and abled by theſe, mighte the wor-thelie receiue the Birthe daie of Chrift her Lord (whiche euer falleth the fo-werch wieke afte) and from thens holde on with feaste, and continuall gladneſſe, untill Septuagesima. Reioyning that he was now come: whiche ſhould bee the ſauſour of the worlde. Their oracorics Temples, or places of praier (whiche we calle Churches) might not be buiilt without the good will of the Bishoppe of the Dioceſe. And when the Timbre was re-

Tith. dy

Aſte.

By to be framed, and the foundation di-ged: it behoued them to ſende for the Bithoppe, to hallowe the firſte corner ſtone of the foundacion, and to make the ſigne of the crosse therpon, and to laie it, and di-recte it iuste Eaſte and weſte. And then micht the Maſons ſetton upon the reſte, but not afore. This Churche did thei uſe to builde, aftre the ſation of a crosse, and not bulike the ſhape of a manne. The Chauncelle (in the whiche is conteined the highe Altare and the Muere) directeſ full into the Eaſt, repreſenteth the heade.
And therfore ought to be made ſomwhat rounde, and muche ſhorter then the body of the churche. And yet upon reſpecte that the heade is the place for the eyes, it oughte to be of moze ligheſt, and to bee ſeparate with a partition, in the ſteage of a necke, from the body of the Churche. This partition the Latine calleth Cancelli: and out of that cometh our termi, Chauncelle.
On eche ſide of this chauncelle peradueture (for ſo fitteth it beſte) ſhould ſtand a Turret, as it ware for two eares. And in theſe the Belles to be hanged, to calle the people to Seruice, by day and by night.
Undre one of theſe Turrettes, is there commonly

2021

Aste.

Commonly a vaulce, whose doore openeth into the quiere. And in this are laid vp, the hallowed vesselles and ornamentes, and other viesnites of the church. we calle it a vestrie. The other parte oughte so to be fitted, that having as it ware on eche side an arme, the reste maye resemble the bodye with the face stretched in breadthe, and in lengthe. On eche side of the bodye the pillers to stonde. Upon whose coronettes or heades the vaulce or rophe of the churche maye rest. And to the foote beneth, auters to be ioyned.

Those auters to be ordrely alway couered with two auter clothes, and garnished with the crosse of Christe, or some little cofre of reliques. At eche ende a candlestickke: and a booke towarde the mydes. The walles to be parieted without, and within, and diversly painted. That they also shoule haue in every parisshe a fasse sounde stone, made holowe, and fitte to holde water; in the whiche the wafer consecrate for baptismme, may be kept for the christening of chylldren. Upon the right hande of the highe auter, that ther shoule be an almorte, either cutte into the walle, or framed vpon it; in the whi-

T. v. the

Asie.

the chel woulde haue the Sacrament of the Lordes bodye , the holy oyle for the sicke, and the Chrismatorie, alwaie to be locked . Furthermore chel woulde that ther shold be a pulpite in the middes of the churche , wherein the prieste maye stonde vpon sondays and holidays , to teache the people those thinges that it behoueth them to knowe. The Chauncelle to serue onely for the priestes , and clerkes . The rest of the seporalle multitude to be in the body of the church. Seperate notwithstonding, the men on the ryghte side , and the women , on the leste. And eche of them to be sobre and honest in apparelle and behavour. vs hatsoever is co-trary to good facion or christiane religion, with greate diligence to shonne it. It was the maner in the first churche, both amonge men and women to lette their heare growe , to shewe out their naked skynne, and very litle or nochtng to dresse in apparellie. Sainct Peter put first ordre , that women shold couer their hea-des, and menne rounde their heare, and either of them to go in seueralle and son-drye apparellie. Moreouer that to every churche shold be laid out a churcharde,
of

Aſie.

of the grounde adioyning, in the whiche all christen mennes bodies myghte indifferently be bewried. The same to be consecrate, or halowed by the bishoppe, and to enioye all the priuileges that the churche may enioye.

The funeralle for the deade, theſt kepe not in euery place ylike. Some mourne and kepe dirige and Malle ſeven daies continuall together, ſome .ix. ſome .xxx. or fourtye ſome, fiftie, and a hundred, and other a whole yere, wrapped vp in blacke. Th: couſeile of Toledo ordeined that the corps beinge firſte waffhed, and then wrapped vp in a ſhete, ſhoulde be caried forth with ſinging by menne of his owne condicione or ſorte, clerkes by clerkes, and laye menne of laye menne.
And aftre what time the prieſt hath ſen-ſed the corps, throwen holy water vpon it, & ſaid certeine prayers, to laye it into the graue with the face upwarde, and the heade into the weaste. Then to thowen the earth again, and in token that ther is a christia ther bewried, to ſette vp a croſſe of wodde, garniſhed with ydie, cipres, or laurelle. These be the ordres and facions of the Christiane religion.

F I N I S.

305

The treatise of Iosephus, conteyning the ordres, and Lawes of the Jewes commune wealthe.

To the Reader.

His lytle treatise, good Reader, haue I translated out of a Lat ine texte, laid worde for woord, answe ringe to the Grieke (for in that tonge Josephus compiled it) as nere as it was possible. And looke howe scrupulous myne Author was in matching the latine: so scrupulous haue I also bene in devising myne englysshe.
Remembryng alway, that though in o ther wrstinges of mennes deuyse, an enterpretour maye, eyther to giue lichte to the sentence, or to obserue the natu ralle phrasē of the tonge that he enter preteth

Aſie.

pretech in (ſpecially wher ther lieth matier of importance or controuerſie) vſe a more libertie of woordes and ſentence: yet in theſe holy writtinges deliu-red vs fro G D D, in them I ſay, and every braunche of them, we oughte rather to ſhonne then to ſeke ſuche libertie, aſmuſhe as we maye. Studienge nowe not ſo muſhe to flouriſhe in painted penning, as ſobrelly, and ſenſiblly to gſue the meaninge of thoſe infinite threasoures, with ſuche wordes as falle moſte ſeling-lie for them, ronne thei neuer ſo roughe in the proſe, or be they neuer ſo ſimple and harde framing with our phrase. If my doinges therfore herin ſhall ſeme to the in certeyne places, more Grekishe then Englyſſhe, or liker the maner of the Latine then of our owne londe: impute it to the reverence that I owe to theſe maner of Authours.

The

Asie.

He Moses had gouerned the Israelites, by the space of fowȝtie yeres, but .xxx.
daies lackyng:
He assebled the people harde vpon Jordane, where theronne now stondeth, that is called Abila (so named of the plentie of Abeles, theraboute growing) and all the people being gathered together, he spake vnto them in this wylle. Fellowes & compansons of my long trauelles, sozasmuche as it pleaseth God that I departe this life, and myne age is now comen to the nombre of an hundred and twentie yeres: and for that I can be no helpe, ne aside vnto you, in þ thynges ye shal haue to do on the other side Jordaine (the Lord restraynyng me) I thought it not misete, no not euuen now at the lasse caste, to slacke myne endeour to warde you for the aduauncement of your wealth But to studie how to purchase aswell to you

Assie.

you eternalle enjoyng of prosperite, as to myself perpetuall memorie emongest you, when ye shall haue optained plentie of al blessednesse. So to then, astre what time I shall haue declared, how bothe ye your selues maie be blessed, and leue vnto to your posteritte an everlasting possession of the same, I will so departe this life.

And truely I am worthye me thinckes to be credited, and belieued of ye, bothe for the earnest sticking in your quarelle son-dry tyme heretofore, and also for that the soules of men brought vnto the laste caste are then most streightly allied and knitte with all vertue.

O Israelites, a fauourable GOD, is the onely cause of all the good thinges that men possesse. And he alone can giue vnto the worthy, and take fro the wicked.
If ye shewe your selues towarde him, suche as he requireth, and suche as I perfectly knowinge his wille and pleasure admonyshe pe to be: he shall never withdrawe himself from you, neither shal ye at any time cease to be blessed, & honorable ouer all. Pe the wealth that ye now possesse, shall remaine sure your owne: and that that is promised ye in time to comy

A good man at no time dissembleth, and muche lesse
when he lieth at the poincte of deathe.

Asie.

come, shall spedely be givene ye. So thas ye obeye the thinges, whiche God would ye to obeye: and preferre no trade of Liuile ordre or gouernance, before the lawes that I presently give you: ne strake vnto straunge maners, contempnyng the loue and feare, whiche ye now hane vnto the Lorde. And in folowyng these, ye shal be of all menne moste strong and valiaunte in fight, and vanquisheable to none enemis. Nether is it mete that ther shoulde feare any manne: for whose helpe God hath armed hymself to bataile.

Create rewardes are laied before ye for vertue: if duryng your life she dwelle continually in you. For firsste, she her selfe of all goodnes is the best: and purchaseth haboundance of all other thynges that good are. She cruelly, vsed emong ye, that give vnto you a blessed life: make ye so be prassed aboue all foorne nacions, and cause ye to be renouned emong those that shalbe astre your daies. All these thinges maie ye obteine, if ye bee obedient and kepe well the lawes whiche I haue giuen ye from the mouthe of God, and exercise your mindes in the vnderstanding of the As for my self, I departe gladde of your

W. J. prosperite,

Aſie.

prosperite, commandingyng ye to the rule of sobre discretion, and to thole honeste ordres and Lawes, that I leauē among ye: and to the vertue of your chieftaines, to whom the aduaancement of your co-modities and profites shalbe committed.
God also, that hetherto hath gouerned you, & by whose wille I haue bene your profitable minister: shall not yet cease to provide for ye. But euē as long as ye your selues shall wilche to haue him your gouernour & helper (continuyng in your earneste zeale of vertue) so long shall ye be sure that he wille foresee to deliuer ye from daunger. And the high Preſte Eleazar, and Iosua, the counſaile, and the Officers of the Tribes: shall declare and open vnto you, what is beste to be done.
Whiche if ye followe, ye shall haue blessed wealth amoung you. Obey ye them therefore withoute grudge. vnderstandyng, that the menne whiche praise worthely canne obeye: shall also haue knowe-ledge howe praise worthely to rule, if thei shal ones come to that prerogative of dignitie. And iudge it to be franke libertie, not to repine against the thynges wher-vnto your Capteines shall require ye.

ffor

Aſte.

For now ye take this to be libertie. If ye maie hurte thone that haue done good vnto you: and sette noughe by them, whiche are your welwillers and friendes. The whiche cuill, if ye shall from hence furthe auoide: the worlde shall go the bettre with you. Beware I require you, that ye never entreprise ſuche outrage againſt them, as ye haue ofte attempted againſt me. For ye knowe that I haue bene oftener in hazard of my life, thorough you, then by mine enemies. Wherein I wold ye ſhould not thynke, that I meane in any wiſe to attwighte ye, or taunte ye. For ioche woulde I be, by this my rehersalle of thinges past, to leaue in your mindes any diſpleaſure againſt me, now, at my departing. Being that euē then, when ye thus dealte with me: I ſhewed none angre againſt ye. But by thiſ, to giue ye warnyng that ye vprightly behaue your ſelues hereaſtre, and offre no iniurie to your ſuperiors for riches ſake. Whereof ye ſhall haue plentie, beynge ones paſ-ſed Jordane, and hauyng achiued Chasnaan. But if thorough theſe, vertue ſhall become contemptible and fulſomie vnto you, ye ſhall loſe alſo the favour of God.

M.ij. Who

Aſſie.

Who becomen your enemis, ye shall also lose the lade whiche ye shall posseſſe: with Shame enough ouercomen of your enemies in the field. And being ſkatered th̄s worlde ouer, ye ſhall be as challes and bondemen, in euery coaſte and countrie, by ſea and by lande. And as for the remembrance, and repentaunce of the lawes not obſerued: ſhall then, when ye thalbe fallen into thofe culles, ſtande ye to none effecte. Wherefore, if ye entendis to conſerue theſe lawes: leauē ye not an enemis on liue, when ye ſhall haue vanquished them. But iudge it neceſſary for your welfares, to deſtroye them euery mothers childe. Leſſe iſ they be ſuffered to liue: ye take ſauour in their maners, and corrupce your owne countrie diſci-pline & ordinaunces. I counſaile ye alſo that ye hewe downe their groves, throwe downe their Altares, and what ſo euer Churches they ſhall haue: and abolishe with fire, the memoriale of them, and their people. For by that, and none other meanes, ſhall ye ſtablishe your ſelues a ſure quiete, in your bliſſe. And that your nature leade ye not to the worse, for lacke of knowledge of the bettre: I haue bothe made

Asie.

Be vnto you Lawes, as I learned thē he mouthe of the lordē, & also an ordre publique discipline. Acordyng to the cōnaunces whereof, if ye shall direete your lues, ye shalbe iudged of all people the mosse happie.

Hauyng spoken these thynges, he des-liured vnto thē the lawes, and the ordre of their cōmane wealth, writte in a boke.
But thei uniuersally wepte, and greatly lamented the departore of their capitein that so fast approched. Remēbring whate Daungiers and carcke, he had suffred for their laufte: & mucche distrustyng what should afterwarde come of theim. As the people that never was like to haue suchē a gouernour again. And mucche fearyng least God wold withdrawe his tendre-nes towardē theim: when there lacked a Moses to entreate. And thei bewailed with greate repentaunce, the thynges, whiche in their angre thei had done vnto hym in the deserte. So that the teares of the people, their dole, and sobbyng com-plaintes: ware greater then could be recomforted with wordes. Although Moses d̄d what in hym lase, to perswade thē that there was no cause why thei should

Cl. iii. bewastle

Asie.

bewaile hym : But rather remembrie put in use the ordre of the cōmune wel that he had giuen them. And so he disso ued the assemblie.

These woore Now then asir what tyme I shall es be spokē haue shewed ye thordre of the commune. in the person wealth, miete for the worthines and ver e Josephus tue of Moses , and shall haue described thesame, that it mate appere vnto al men (beyng willing to reade) what our state hath bene in times past: I will procede to the declaracion of the other chynges.
With suche fathe , that I neither wille penne any chyng other wise then he leste it , ne adde (either for settynge out of the matier , or other wise) any tule of myne owne . Sauyng onely those that he leste written by piecemeale, as he received the at the mouthe of God: we haue framed toguether into one ordenarie treatise.
Wherof I thought good to give warnig, least some of our bloude happenyng vpon these, might by occasion saie that we had swarued from the truthe

The lawes then perteynyng to the in stitution of our citie, are suche as followe.
But suche as he leste vs cōmune among our selues : those haue I deferred vntill

Asie.

I putte furthe my booke, De moribus & ~~booke~~³ of causis, whiche I haue purposed God wil- Josephus lyng, to go in hande with next after this. so named.

* What time then ye shall haue achiue Moses speas ued the land of Chanaan, and as menne keith againe, that haue founde laisure to vse their goddes, shal determine from thencefurthe to builde cities: if ye shall accomplishe these thinges, ye shal bothe haue done a thing acceptable vnto God, and shal winne to your selues a grounded wealthe.

See that there be one holte citie, in the mooste goodlie place of all the lande of Chanaan. See that ther be but one churche in it, and one altare: of stones neither squared nor karued, ne yet framed by Masonrie, but handesomely heaped together, as they be gathered. And lette the same be so plastered ouer, that it maie appere to the sighte, a platne and comely Altare. But se there be none ascencie ther unto by staiers, but onely a faire vp goynge, by a slope bancque of Turfes. In any other of your cities, se there neither be Churche, ne Altare. for God is but one, and the people of the Hebrues but ones Whosoever shal haue spokē villanie a- Blasphemye against God, let hym be stoned, and hanged

v. iiiij.

Asie.

ged fro morowe till nighte, and vileyly be bewyed, withoute anye solempnitie.
Thysse a yere the people shal asseble into the citie wherethe churche is: fro farre, and nere, through the whole lande that the Hebrewes shal possesse. Bothe to rendre thanckes to GOD, for that he shall hau sent them: & to make supplicaciō for thinges that are to come. And further, to thende that with often hauneyng one with another, and festing together: there maie be a friendship engēdred emongest them. For truely it is mīere that menne of one nacion, and bloude, and coupled in one trade of lawes: shold be acquein-ced one with another (as by suchē fellowshippit shal come to passe) and that thei shold cause a remembrance to remaine one of another emō gest them with suchē repaire, and cōpanieng together. Without the whiche ye shall seme one to a nother moste straunge.

Ye shall also reserue aparte, a tenthē of all the fructes of the earche: beside the tenthe appointed to be gluēn to the priestes, and Levites. The whiche ye shall selle eche man at home in his countrie: But the profecte comyng thereof, shalbe spence

Assie.

spent vpō the feastes, and sacrifices to be made in þ holy citie. For so is it mete that men take parie of the fruictes comming of the londe whiche the Lord shall giue them, to the honour of the giuer . The price that commeth of the commune harlot , shalst thou not conuerte vnto the vse of Sacrifice. For God delighteth not in the fruictes of any kinde of iniquitie: and nothing is more abhominable then such lewdenes of the body. Likewise yf anye manne require eyther thy dogge for the folde, or for the chace to lime his bische , the p̄ice comming therof shalce thou not conuerte to the sacrifice of the Lord. No man shall raple against those that other cities holde for their goddes . Neither shall ye spople or robbe , churche or cha-pell of any foreine Idolle , ne take away any ḡste consecrate to them . See that none of you be apparelled with a garmente* of linnen and wollen meince; for Linsy wolsy, that apperteineth onely to the p̄iestes.
 And when the multitude shalbe assebled into the holy citie, to celebrate the sevēn peres sacrifices, at suche tyme as the feast of the Bowches draweth nigher: lette the bysshoþpe, standing in some place alofte

¶.v. made

Aſie.

made for the purpose, fro whence he may wel be harde, recite the lawes vnto them all. withholdinge neither woman, ne childe: no not the bondeman from hearing of them. For it behoueth them to haue them written in their hartes & min-des: that thei may be kepte, never to perishe. For by that meanes shall it come to passe that thei shall not offend, when thei shal haue none ignorance to excuse them in the ordinances and lawes: and the lawes shal haue þ greater authoritie þpon the offendours, in that thei haue warned them afore of the penaltie, and þy hearing haue grauen in their mindes what thinges thei commaunde. That thei maye haue the effecte of their mea-ninge, euē dwelling within them. The whiche neglegeth: thei shal offend, and be the cause of their owne euilles. Pea, and let the very children learne the lawes fro theſt youthe, as being a mēſt good lye discipline, and the cause of blessed wealthe. Twise a daye also, bothe in the morning, and at the houre of bedtime, let them testifie to the Lord, his bounteuous goodnes from the time of their deliueraunce oute of Egypce. For alſムche as thanckes

3107

Asie.

thāckes glūinge of very nature is dese: and is had aswell to yelde recōpence for the benefites pastē, as to allure the like in time afterwarde. Let them also write vpon their doores, eche most notable be- nefite received of God: and what soever may set forthe his power and fauour to warde them. Lette them beare them for broches on their cappes, and braselettes on their armes, and let them shew: them to all menne: that goddes tendzenes to warde thē may on euery side be apparāt.

Lette there be chosen for every citye, seuen rulers, exercised in all vertue, and in the waye of equitie . And to euery of those let ther be givē two ministres, of the Tribe of the leuites. And let those whiche are appointed to ministre the lawes to the citie: be had in all honour, and reuerence. So that no man be bolde to speake any wordes of dishonestie, ther being present:ne to behauē him self malapertly . That this thēir reuerence to warde men of dignitie: may make them more fearde to offendē against God. And let the judges haue power to pronounce their sentēce, excepte any man can shewe that they are corrupted with mony to peruerte

Asie.

peruerte the lawe: or can bring any other cause to conuince them not to have iudged a righte. For it is not mete that such shoule sitte in iudgement , as will leane to lucre or dignitie: but such as preferre equitie before all other thinges . For so might God seeme to be smallie repused amonge you, and to be iudged of lesse authoritie then they : to whose sentence ye shoule yeide your consent, for feare of power . The power of G D D is equitie. He then that beareth in anye pounce with them that are of power, for dignities sake : enhaunseth their power aboue the power of G D D.

But if the judges be not able to determine, in some case brought afore the (as amoge men it oftentimes happeneth) let the remitte þ whole cause to þ holy citie. And let the highe priest, the prophete and the counsell assebled, give their sentence. Cleave not to the Testimoniie of one witnes. But of thre, or twaine at the leaste: such as haue so lived, that for their honestie thei maye be reputed credite worthy. The woman shal not be admitted as a witnes, for the lightenes, and dishonest boldenes of that kinde. No the bondma shall

Asie.

Shall haue no voise in matser of witnes, for that he lacketh the frantque noble-nes of minde: & either for lucre or feare, is like to testifie vntruthes. If any shalbe giltie of false witnes, convicted therof: let him suffre the same that the personne should haue suffred agaistis whome he wypnised.

If ther shall haue bene in any place a murder committed, and neither the doer can be founde, ne anye man suspected vpon malice to haue done it: lette serche be yet made for the doer with al diligēce, appointing rewarde to him who so ever shall detecte him. But if then neither, no man shal disclose it: the officers of the townes nexte unto the place wher the murdere was done, shall measure the distaunce fro the plotte where the deade lieth. And looke what towne shalbe founde nexte therunto, the rulers of the same shall leade a boughte cowe into a valleyn and place, neither fitte for ploughē ne plantē, and shal cutte in two the senowes of the beaste in the houghes. And the priestes and leuites, and the counseille of that towne: washinge over the heade of the ore, shall with loude voice protest that their

Asie.

they nether did it, ne ware present at the diede. And to desire God to forbeare his wrathe , and that never ther happen so heinous a diede in the londe agayne.

At this present ye are not gouerned by any kinge, or any one man alone:but by a nombre of the beste, chosen out among ye. The whiche of all gouernaunces iss the beste:and to live vndre it, passing all other lues. Wⁱs^e ye not then for anye other trade of comune wealth^e,but be ye cōctected with this:accōpli^{ng} your lawes; for your lordes, & doyng al thinges acordig vnto thē. For god is sufficiēt enoughe to be your ruler. But if ye shalbe at anye time desirous to haue a king ouer ye :let him be of your bloude, and suche a one as estiemeth righteusnes, and all other vertues . And let him nat sticke to his owne wisedome, but ordre all matters of waight by the lawes, and the lord e. And let him do nothinge withoute the hyghe priest, and the sentence of the counseille.
Neither let him be giuen to many mar-ages, ne to seke abondaunce of money and horses. Whiche hating obteined, he maye ware full of the lawe , and vterly contempne it. And if ye perceste that he busily

Afie.

bussly seketh suche thinges : lette him be tutte shorter , that his power encrease not more thā is expediet for you . It shal be lawful for no man to remoue hym bōnde either of his owne londe , or of other men nes , with whome ye haue peace . But let it be sene to , that they maye continue in their stades , as the faire markes of god , ther placed for ever . For therof com me the warres , and sedisyon : when the couestous manne will encroche beyonde his boundes . Pea who so thus ouerlea peth the bounde , will n̄ gretly sticke to ouerleape also the late .

He that planteth an hortevarde , if he sette s bring frute before the fourth yere : let him neither yelde unto God the first linges thereof , ne occupie them to his owne vse . For thei are comen in vndue time , and soner then their nature permit teth . And be nether miete for God , ne the owner . But in the fourthe frute haruest (for then are thei seasonable) lette him bearre the whole gather into the holy cfty , and let them be spente together with the tenths of all other frutes : festing with his frindes , the fatherles childe , and the wi dow . And in the v. yere , he shall haue li berty

Aſſie.

bertie to take to him ſelfe the profeſſes of his planteſ. Lette not the vineyarde be planted or ſowen with aught elies. For it is enoughe for the grounde to nouriſhe the vine, & to be free fro the labour of the plonghe. Let the grounde be tyld with oxeſ, and let none other beaſte be yoked with them. Pea let the plonghe be hande ſomed for them alſo, according to their ſortes. Lette your ſiede be moſte piked and cleane, pure, and bunningled: nor lete them not be ſowen by two or by thre ſortes together. For nature liketh not ſuche fellowship of sondry kindes. Neither ſhall ye put to your caſtaile a male of adiuerte, or contrarye kinde. For it is to be feareſ, leſt therby the vnkindlie couplings againſt kinde, paſſe alſo at lengthe vnto men: beginning at thinges of ſmalle regarde, and ſo cripling on further. Leſte ther is nothing to be ſuffered for other to folowe: wherof miſtige proceſſe anye chaunge of your ſtate. But it behoueth you (for aſmuſche as the lawes haue takē charge of the weightyer thinges) to foreſee with all diligencie, that nothinge be blame worthy in theſe ſmaller. He that reaþeth his co;ne, and gathereth it into theſe:

Asie.

Hene : shall not glene vp the eares as he goeth. Pea, let him leaue some of the gauelles vngathered : that the niedie maie finde and be relieved by . The clusters of grapes also, by chaunce (as it happeneth) ouersene in the gatheryng : halte thou leaue to the poore . See also of thine D- ilue gather, that thou leaue somewhat to them that haue not of their owne . For there cometh not so greate profite to the owners by the nighe gatheryng : As there shall come good wille, at the hande of the poore . And the goodnes of the lordes shal encrease the goodnesse of the soile, that the fruictes maie abounde : if menne shal not onely haue regard to their owne priuate profitte , but also to the sustentation of other . Thou shalte not moldseale thine Dre in the floore, whilst he trea-deth the eares . For it is vnmiete to hurt them fro the fruictes : that haue holpen and laboured for the obteinynge thereof . Neither shal ye prohibite the waifaryng ma-to taste of the fruictes that be ripe : but ye shal suffre him to eate his fille (as if they ware his owne) whether he be an indweller of the lande, or a foreiner . Reioysing in so sufferyng hym to take his pleasure,

X. J. 86

Asie.

of suche as be ripe, but none shall he carp awaie. Neither shall the Grapes gatherrers, for bidde suche as thei miete: to eat of the Grapes thei beare to the P̄esse. For unsittynge it is, to grudge the giftes whiche the lord hath giuen to the mainrenaunce of our life: to suche as desire to take pleasure of their seasonablenes, b̄yng now at the highest, and sone ready to decaie, as it pleaseth God to ordeine. P̄ca, if any man of a shamefaid mindenes, for lacke of audacitie, shal strain courtesie to take theim, ḡtly prouoke ye thei. If thei be Israelites, in the name of to pants or maiter for your bloudes sake. But if thei be foreiners, as willing them to take part of suche ghesstan cōmodities as God hath giuen ye, for the time of the pere. For it is not to bee iudged as cosse, that thou sufferest a man to take of ḡtlenes: God sending ye plentie and enough of all good thinges. Not for your owne use & welfare alone: but also that ye mate liberally giue unto many. To thend that he myghte this waie declare unto other, his fauour and plentuous hande toward you in suche largenes: That of the ouerplus, ye mate also participate unto many
And

827

Aſſe.

And he that shall do contrarie hereunto, let there bee gauen vnto hym by the commune Sergeant of the barre. xxxix. scri-pes with a waster. And lette hym suffre this moſte diſhoneste punishmente, foſ asmuche as wher he was fre by nature, he hath diſminished his owne dignitie, in becomyng ſlave vnto lucre. And a goodly thing is it, and conueniente foſ you that haue ſuffered miſerie in Egypce, and in your paſſyng the wildernesſe: to regarde theim that ſuffre the like. And ſeyng that ye by the mercifull prouision of ḠD̄D, haue obtained plentie: to geue parte of thesame vnto the nedie, moned with like pitie and mercie.

Beside the two tenthes whiche I haue commaunded ye perely to pate (the one to the Leuites, and the other to the fea-tinges) lette there be a thirde tenth ab-ſo given the thirde yere, to be diſtributed to all wiſowes and fatterles that lacke.
The firſte of all ripe thynges that shall happen to euery manne to come farther: let them beare into the house of the lordē And there (hauyng giuen thanckes vnto ḠD̄D, foſ the grounde that bare them, whiche he gaue theim to posſeſſe; and the X.ij. holiſe

Asie.

holde Sacrifices beyng finished: let them give the firste handseale of the chynges that the lawe comandeth them to bring, to the Priestes. And when any man shal have thus done with his fructes, and tithes, aswell perteyning to the Levites, as other: and shall haue banquetted with his firstlynges acordingly, and is aboue to retourne home to his swne: then standing against the Tabernacle of witnessesse let hym givie thankes vnto God, that he hath bouchedaulfe to deliuer them from the oppressions of the Egypcianes, and to givie them a good lande and a large to-occupie, and vse to their commodite and pleasure. And protestinge that he hath yel-ded his tithes acordingyng to the Lawes of Moses: let hym beseeche God to be always mercifulle and fauourable to hym.
And that it maie please his goodnesse, to continuue indifferently to the vniuersalle numbre of the Israelite: those benefites and commodities, that he hath alreadie giuen them, and to heape vnto the wherso euer more ouer maie be giuen.

Let suche as are come to yeres of ma-riage, marie with maidens free borne, and of good parentage or honeste stocke.

And

Asie.

And who so refuseth to mary wiche a maden, let hym not couple to hym one that hath liued with another manne: neither suche a one as hath forsaken her former housebande. But lette not the free boorne couple with the bond, although some one amonge ye sieme forced thereto, with feruencie of loue. For it is meete that menne should bridle their desire: and it maketh for your honour. Furthermore, let there be no mariage made with the commune harlotte: whose Matrimoniall Sacrifices God wil not admit, for the dishoneste reproche of her body. For by this meanes the natures of your childe[n] shal be disposed to honest courage, and towarde to all virtue: if they shall not be begotten of dishoneste mariages, neither of the luste of engendzure with thosse that are bonde.

If any man hauyng betrouthed hymself to one whom he taketh for a maiden, shall afterwarde finde her to bee none: it shalbe lawfull for hym before a Judge to accuse the wenche, vsyng suche proues as he can alledge. And the father or brother of the maide, or he that shal seeme next of her kynde, shall defende her. And if it shall be Judged that the maide hath

X. iii. not

Asie.

not offended, lette her remayne with her accuse, now hauyng no power to putt her from hym, excepte she giue vnto him greace and vehement causes, suche as can not be gainesaid. But if he haue lased this crume vpon her, of an vnshamefaced boldenes, and without cause: let hym receive for punishment, xxiij. stripes, and pate vnto the fether fiftie & Sicles. But if he shall conuince the maiden, to haue lost her maidenheade: if she be one of the communaltie, let her be stoned, for that she did not prudently defende her Virginitie, vntill her lawfull marriage. But if she bee a Priestes daughter, lette her bee burnte quicke. If any manne haue two wifes, and the one is with him in greate estimacion and fauour, either for loue, or beaultie, or other cause: and the other in worse condicō or state: If the child borne of the beloued (beyng younger then the child before borne of the other) would enioye the prerogative of age, for the same fauour of his father toward his mother: and so enioye a double parte of his fathers substance (acordyng to that I haue apponmented in the Lawes) let hym not be suffered so to doe. For it sitteth not with equitie

's some ake compt,
route tenne
. sterlyng.

Afie.

equitie, that the elder shold be putte beside the enheritaunce of his father, because other passeth him, by the mothers side.

Who so defloureth a maide, betrouweth to another, she beyng afore perswaded, and consenting to the same: let the bothe dye together. Because thef are bothe indifferetly wicked. He for his perswasion of the maide, to suffre so filthie a dishonour, and to preferre that wickednes before lawful mariage: and she for that she consented to abandon her bodie to dishonestie, either for pleasure or lucres sake. But if the manne haue done this die de, hauyng gotten her alone in some place where she could haue no defendour, lete him alone die. Who so defloureth a Virgine not yet betrouweth to another, lete the same marie her. But if the father be not contented to knitte her with hym, let The Sicle the transgressor pate fiuetie ^x Sicles, as is iudged. u a dime tared for the iniurie done. s. sterlyng.

He that will be deuorced frō his wife, dwellyng with hym, for what so ever cause it be (as there happen many unto men) let hym confirme by writing, that he never had diede of matrimonie with her. That is to saie, that he never carnally

X. iiiij. knewe

Aſſie.

Anewe her, and so shall ſhe receiue power to dwel with another, whiche afore ware wickednes. And if alſo ſhe agree not wel with the ſeconde, or that he beyng deade, the former world marie her againe: let it not be lawfull for her to retourne vnto him. The housebande of one that lacketh issue beyng deade: let his brother marie the widowe. And the childe betwene them borne, let hym nouriſhe vp to the ſuccesſion of the enheritaunce, namyng hym aſtre the name of the dead. For iſ ye shall doe thus, it ſhall make muſche for your commune wealthe, in that the name of the kindredes ſhall neuer be extinde: and the poſſeſſions ſhal alwaies remaine vnto the bloud. And it ſhall be a comforde of ſorowe vnto the woman, now dwellyng with the nexte kindeſman of her formeſ housebande. But iſ the brother wille not marie her, let the widowe before the ſenate or couſaile, thus teſtifie. That where ſhe was willyng to remaine ſtille in the liȝnage, and to beare childdren by him, he will not admit her. But rather findeþ in his harte to offende againſt the name & memorie of his brother. And the Courſalle demaunding for what cauſe he abhorreth

Assie.

xeth the mariage: whether he shall shewe a cause of weight, or of no weight, lete them encline therunto . But as for the widowē of his brother, plucking of his shoēs, and spittinge in his face: lete her saye unto him that he is worthie to suffre this ignomynie at her hande, for that he hache founde in his harte to hindre and empaire the name, and memoriālle of the deade . And lete him thus departe out of the senate, having this reproche during his lyfe: and let her mary to whome soever she wille, that shall afferwardē require her. If any manne shall haue taken prisoner in the warres, a mayden, or maried womā, and be desirous to haue her fellowshippe of bodie: let him not touche her bedde, or body, beforē that she(being tonsed, and hauling taken on her mourning wiede) hane bewonēd her kinsfolke, and friendes that perished in the warre. That when she shall hane satisfied and appeased the dolour that she cōctained for thē: she may then conuerte her selfe to the baquet and mariage. For it is a goodly and a decent thing, for a mā that goeth about to get him selfe an honeste wife: to seke

X. v. how

Asie.

how to curz her greued minde: and not to neglecte her fauour, in pursuing only his owne pleasure. And thirty daies beinge ones passed thus (for that is enough) to those that are of discretio to bemoaner euен their dearest beloued) let her then go to and mary. But if he, at the first having satissied his luste, ware full of her, and refuse her to wyse: let him not haue power to make her bonde, but lette her go wher she wille at free libertie.

If ther shalbe founde any younge men contempninge their parentes, or not yeldinge dewe honour vnto them, either of shamefacednes or sette purpose of despighte: firste for that the parentes are wonte to be fittest iudges ouer their children, lette theyr fathers, with woordes correcte them. Sayeng that theyr ioyned not matrimonye betwene their mothers and the, for pleasures sake, or to encrease their substance in layeng eche others goodes together in commune: but to opteine children that myghte nourishe the in their age, & ministre vnto them what they lacke. After thou warte ones come in to this worlde, swē diligētly brought y vp with gladnes, & greate thākes vnto god for

Afie.

for the , sparinge nothinge that myghte sieme in any wyse to make for thy lauftie, profite, and i. struction in all honeste knowledg e. Nowe therfore (for that it is micer for men to beare wth the faultes of yowthe) lette it suffice the hether to haue neglegeth thy dewe reuerence unto vs: and come againe nowe into the right waye. Considering that God hym self ha-nously taketh y that is committed against the father : for that he hym selfe bringe father of all mankinde siemeth to be offended whē offence is committed against those that beare the name of father wth him : and can not haue of their children that whiche is dewe unto them. And the law against all suche is an unmercifulle tudge : the whiche we wylle childe thou shouldest not proue. And if by these admo-nitionis, the lewdeneſſe of the younge man shalbe redreſſed and amended: lette them be quyte of reproche for their misdeameour, and offences. For by this meanes bothe the law maker shal become commendable, and the fathers fortunate: whiche shall neither see sonne ne doughter punished. But if the parentes woordes, and good enſtruction to amende, shal not avalle

Asie.

abastle, but that thei wyll with continual dishonours, and oultrages against them, make the lawes their implacable enne-mies, lette him be broughte forthe of the Cittie by the parentes them selues, and the multitude folowing, and lette him be stoned to death. And when he hathe lyen all the daye, for all menne to loke vpon: lette him be buried in the nighthe. So lese them also be handeled that are cōdempned of any capitall crime by the lawe, as tre what sorte so ever it be. Lette evyn the very enemie be engraued, and lette no corps lie withoute burtall. For that ware a punishment beyonde cōscience,

It shall not be lawfull for ye to make any lone to any of the Hebrewues, either for vslury or gaine. For it is not sittinge that menne of one lignage shold se ke gaine with that, that God sente them. But to judge it rather gafne, to haue holpe his necessitie, and to chinke that he shall so bothe deserue his thancke, and be required of God for his gentlenesse. Thei that haue borrowed eyther siluer, or any par-cell of myste frutes, or dr̄ted: let the(re-ferringe the matier to their conscience that lent them) paye againe their ledgers with

Assie.

With good will, and gladnesse: thensching that the thing so restored is laide vp eum in theirowne house and custodye . And that it shalbe at all times ready agayne for then when they lacke it . But yf they shalbeshamelis in profering, & payenge it hym againe: lette them not so muche as go home for a gauge, before sentence be giuen vpon them by the iudge .

And as for the gauge lette them requyze it of some neighbour abrode, and let the debtour him self without contradiction, bringe it to the creditour nowe enterprising vpon him with the aide of the lawe.
And if he that hath gauged be a manne of substance: lette the creditour kepe the gauge vntle the restituicō of the lone be-made. But if he be poore , let him rede-luer it before the sonne set. Specially, if the pledge be a garmente, that he maye haue it to slepe with, according to goddes tendzenesse that naturally pilieth the poore . As for his querne or any toole of his . Shalce y not take to pledge:lessethes should also be diffurnished of the instrumentes perteyninge to the necessarie of their liuinge, and so be driven for niedinesse to greater inconuenience.

Let

Assie.

Let him that hath robbed a man be punisched with deathe. But lette him that shall haue picqued either Golde or siluer to paye the double. Who so ever shal haue slayne the chese in the robbing of his house, lette him be unpunisched. But al thought he ware but vndermininge his house, or making his entry therinto.

He that hath stollen any maner of beast let him restore the value. iiiij. folde. But if the same be a labouringe ore: he shall restore the value. v. folde. And he that shal not be able to paye the somme dewe for the damage: shalbe bonde unto them to whome the beasts stollen shalbe knownen to apperteine. A manne sold e unto his kindesman, shalbe bonde to him six yeres, and the seventh yere he shalbe free againe. But if he shal forture to haue a childe by some bondewoman ther, and for the loue and fauour of her, and his childe, be content to serue sylle: lette him be made free in the yere of Jubiley (whiche is the fiftieth yere) & be delivered with his wife and children free also.

If any manne shall finde in the hogher way, either golde or siluer, let him shew the place where he founde it, and sclanger after astre him that losse it, restore it him againe. Judginge the prouighte which redoundeth vnto him by another mannes losse, not to be good. Likewise shall be done with any kinde of catteille that a man shal fortune to fynde a fraye in any place. And if the owner of the same shall not straight waye be knownen, lette him kepe it with him at home saulfe. Protesting G.D.D., that he intended not to tourne aside, or hide out of the waye, any thing that is another mannes. Lette it not be lawfull for any man to passe by a beaste in any sorte eail bestadde, or falle in the myre: but let him helpe and relieve it, iudginge it to be his owne propre grief. Let them also shew the waye vnto them that are ignorauite, and not go aboute to make them selues game in settinge them wronge, and so hinderinge their comodicie. In like maner lette no man saye euil against him that is absent or deafe. A man hurte in a fraye where ther was no weapon vsed: shal incōtinēt be reuenged, he that hurte him bvinge made to suffre the like. But if he shalbe caried home vpon the hurte, and astre he hath lien sicke a good space, shal fortune to

Asie.

Aſſie.

to die therof, lette him that hurte him bſ vnpunished. But if he recover, and haue spent muche in his sickenes, lette hym thē repare vnto him the wholē charges alſwell of his lyng, as to the Phisicen, and Surgien. He that shall haue wth his foote striken a woman wth childe : if the woman therupon be vntimely diſburdened: the iudge shal ſet a forſeicee of money vpon his heade. As one that hath diminished the people in ſo marringe the frute in the mothers wombe. And he ſhal give also priuatly a piece of mony to the hubbade of the womā ſo grieved. But if ſhe die of the ſtripe: let him die alſo, acozding to þaſwe that puniſheth life for life.

No Israelite ſhall haue any medecine of death, ne otherwile made to do anye maner of hurt. And if ther be any one founde to haue, lette him dñe for it: ſuf-ſing the ſame, he mente vnto them, for wholē deſtructiō h̄ medicine was prepared. Who ſo malineth let him ſuffre the like, beynge deprived of the ſame mēbre, that he him ſelf deprived the other of. Excepte the maymed be content to receive recompence in money: wherin the laſwe permiſſeth hiſi to valewe the recompence him sie.

his self, except he therin sa muche excede.
 The Meate that nourisched with the horne Shall the owner kille. And if it shall fortune suche Meate to haue slaine in the floore, any man with his stroke, let him bestoned to death, not so muche as iudged to be mannes meate. Yea, if the owner be tried to haue knownen in the beast this propretie afore, and not to haue take hiede to him, ne kept hym vp:let hym also die himself, as the cause of the mannes death thus slaine. If the Meate shal haue slaine a bonde seruaunte, the Meate shal bestoned to death, and the owner of him shall paie vnto the Master of the seruaunte, thirtie + Sicles. But if it shall fortune one Meate, thus to be striken of a nother, so that the one die therof:let them bothe be folde, and the owners daide the prises euuen betwene thenselues.
 Who so maketh a welle or pitte, lette them bee circumspete and take good heve, to kepe it couered. Not to withholde the watre, or commodityse of the from any manne, but to the ende that no manne by falling in, take hurte. And if it fortune any beaste of any mannes, by suche default of leauing opē the place

P.J. 10

Asie.

to falle in, and be marred: let hym in wh^s the faulne is, paie the worth of the beaste to the owner. Let them be fensed also aboute, to kiepe of liche thinges as otherwise by sliding or rolling, might perishe.

Wh^o so euer hath taken any thing of another mannes so kepe; let hym kepe it eus as a relique. And let no persone consente to defraude any manne of thing so beaken to his trusste. Neither manne nor woman, no though he might gaine by it thousandes of poundes: as beyng sure that no witnesse could chardge him with all. For out of all peraduenture, it behoueth every man to deale justly, euен for conscience sake: as hauing himself a full witnesse against himself. Let every man therefore doe those thinges, that mate cause him to be praised of other: hauyng before him principally the reverence of God. From whom no lewdenesse can be hidden. But if it shall fortune this man so put in trusste, to lose the thing committed to his custodie, and cannot be founde to meane any practise of knavery, or deceipe in the matier: Let hym go unto the seuen Judges, and there sweare by God that nochtyngh therof was losse by his wille, or through

Asie.

throughe his defaulte , nor no piece of it occupied for him , and so let him departe acquited therof. But if he haue occupied neuer so litle a part of the thinge , so delivered to his custodie , and haue so lost the same : lette him be condemned to make recōpence for the wholle that he received.

Like as I haue saied for the saulfe keping of thinges , if any manne shall withholde the hire of the labouryng manne , that toileth and drudgeth with his body : let hym rememb're that the wages of the poore , ought not to be keptē backe . As the thing whiche god hath givē him (knowe thou well) in steade of lande and other possessions . Furchwith therefore conteine him , without delate the same daie . For God wille not haue the labourer defrauded of the profite of his labours .

Vnushe not the sonne , for the fathers faulte : but let the childe[n] rather that are founde vertuous , be tended and pitied for that they haue so leude fathers or mothers , and not hated because their paren-tes be vicious . No , the naughtines of the sonne , is not to be imputed to the paren-tes neither : consideryng that young men will doe many thinges , contrarie to the P. ss. discipline

Asie.

discipline of their parentes, vpon a self-willed wilfulnesse, that thincketh scorne to be taught. Also the redgeling or guelde persone, lette him be abhorred, and his compaignie shunned of al menne: as one whose manhode is (as a manne would saye) curtailed or clipped awate, and the fruide of engendzure, whiche God gaue unto man for the encrease of our kinde, for his parte destroyed. Pea, let them bee hunted out of all mennes compaignie, as murdererers of makinde, in taking awate that, that should haue bene the cause of issue astrewarde. For why, it is euident that because thei had losse tofore al mannes of minde: therefore thei likewise be same conformable of bodie. So shall ye also doe with what so ever thing it bee, that semeth monstruous to the beholders. It shall not behoden lawfull emong ye, to guelde manne, woman, or beaste. And now let these bee as statutes and lawes, peaceable and quietlie to ioyne ye into one commune wealthe. And the tendeznes of God, when he shall see it without sedition: shall aduaunce and enhauince it. Let the time never be sene, that shall alter any one of chese, and chaunge them into

Asie.

Unto contrarie. But forasmuche as there is no remedie, but that menne shall falle into busines and troubles, either willin-glie or vnwillinglie: Lette vs also devise Somewhat in that behaulfe, that through foresighte of thinges, mete to be done: ye maie haue wholesome remedies, when nede is, and not be driven to sieke reme-die at vnsette stevin, when the daungier lieth in your lappes. But that ye maie posseſſe and enioie the lande, that GOD hath giue ye, banishing slaggardise, and keeþing your mindes in continuall exercise, to the practise of vertue and manhood euē whē ye haue gotten it, that ye maie lue there, without the incursions of Straūgers, and without any ciuile discencion, to vere ye or trouble ye. Throughe the whiche ciuile discorde, if ye shall falle to doyng thinges contrarie to your foresha-thers, and lette ſlippe their ordinaunces and rules: or ſhall not continue in the lawes, whiche the Lord deliuereth unto you, moſte assuredly good for what ſo e-uer affaires of warre ye ſhal haue, either now in your time, or your children aftre you: the Lord ſhall thow the breakers of the ſame, cleane out of his fauour and P. liij. protection.

Aſie.

protection.

Wher ye are in minde to warre vpon any people, and to shewe your force vpon them: ſende firſte your Eralde vnto them though they be never ſo muche bent to be your enemis. For before ye lift vp weapon againſt them, it behoueth ye to vſe communicacion with them, declarynge that althoþh ye haue an armie of great power, and horſes, harneis, and weapōns and (that whiche farre paſſeth all theſe) God your fauourer & helper: yet by your good wiſles ye woulde haue no warre with them. Neither that it ware any plea-ſure to you, to enriche your ſelues with the ſpoile of their ſubſtance: but rather a thing that ye hate, if it maie otherwiſe be.
If they ſhall leane vnto you, then it becometh ye to kepe peace: Thyncking with your ſelues, that they are your bettres in ſtrenght. But if they wille endamage you then leade ye your armie againſt them, vſyng God for your heade capteine and gouernour: but for your chiefeine vndre him, make ye ſome one of paſſyng wiſe-dome and courage. For where there are many gouernours, beside the hinderaunce that it cauſeth when a mannes neceſſarie moueth

Asie.

moneth him to vse spiede: it is wonce also not to be verie prosperous to theim that vse it. Lette your armie bee piked of the strongest, and hardiest of courage: leaste courneyng their backes when it cometh to stripes, thei profite more your enemies then you.

Thei that late haue busled, and not yet taken one yeres commodicie of the same, and thei that haue planted either vineyard or hortepard, and not received as yet any fruictes therof: lette theim bee suffred at home. Like wise those that are crouthplite, & towarde mariage, or such as are newly marited: least upon longing afcre their desires, thei be to tendre ouer their liues. And sparing theim selues to enioie thei pleasure, shyncke backe for the nones, and abasse the courage, vpon regard of their wiues. And when ye shal be assembled into campe, lette it be foreseen that nothing bee done out of course, to muche against curtesie. And when ye shall besiege any fortresse or toun of defence, and lacke Timbre for the making of your engines and deuises: pille ye not the countrie, cutting doun the trees abouete the citie or fortresse, what so euer

Aſte.

ſt be: but ſparingly uſe the. Remembryng that the eare bringeth them furthe to the commoditie of manne: and that they would laie to your charge, if they culde ſpeakē, that vndeseruedly ye hurte them.
As no white occaſion of the warre, and those that gladly would haue gne place, and paſſed into ſome other quartre, if it had bene poſſible for them. Whē ye ſhall haue ouercomen them in the fieldē: ſea ye as many as ſtande in the battaile a-gainſt ye. The reſidue reſerue ye to pate tribute vnto ye: the Cananites excepted, for thōſe it behoueth ye to deſtroie euery mothers ſonne. And haue ye a ſpecialle regarde in the ſkirmiſhe or battaile, that no woman, either uſe the appareil of menne, or any manne, the appareil of women. Suchē then was the ordre of the commune wiþ al the that Moſes left. Be-ſide theſe he deliuered them lawes in wiþ ſix ſouretie yeres afore, of the whiche we will trate in another booke.

Aſtre this in the daies folowynge (for he euery daie continually preached vnto them) he deliuered them praiers of blesſinge and banning: the one for the fulfi-lers, the other for the tranſgressours of
the

349

Aſie.

the lawe. Thererected he vnto the þ verſes that he lefte in the byble, conſiſtinge eche one of. xiij. meaſures the piece: and conſet ting þ forewarning of thinges to come, acording to the whiche all thinges haue happened, and happe at this preſent. So to the poincte, that it can not be ſaid that he miſſed the truthe in any thing.

These bookeſ delivered he vnto the pre eſteſ, and the Arcke. In the which he left the ten artiſles of the lawe, whiche we commonly calle the. x. comaundementes written in two tables, and the Taberna cle alſo. And he gaue a leſſon to the peo ple, that when they had conquered the lande, and ware ſatled in the ſame: they ſhould not forȝet the injury of the Ama lechites, but that they ſhould make a boy age againſt them, and take reuenge up on them, for the damage and diſpleaſure they did them, when they ware in the de ſerte. And that when they ſhould enioye the contrie of Canaſe, and ſhould haue deſtroyed the whole maſtitude of it (as it behoued, and was miete for them) they ſhould buylde up an altare looking to warde, the Caſte in ſome place, not farre from the citie of þ Sichemites, beſwene

P. v. the

Asie.

the two mounaines : Gariseo on the right hande, and Gibalo on the left hāde. And that thei shoulde place their whole multitude vpon those two mounaines beinge deuided into two equalle partes. That is to say on eche hille. vi. tribes, with the leuites, and priestes and all. And that thei first, that ware in the mounte Garisfin, shoulde wylshe all felicitie, and blessednes vnto those that ware deuoute in the religion of ḠD̄, and the keping of the lawes, & threwe not at their hieles those thinges that Moyses had taughte them. And that then the other in Gibalo, aftre what time thei had luckily givien their good consent vnto thē: shoulde also wishe like prosperitie, and like blessednes to the like doers, answerably to the former. Wherunto the firſte shoulde againe give like lucky conſente, with praizinge them. That done he willed them in like ſorte to do with the cursinges, answering one another, ſc̄, the establishing of the lawes that ſhould be givien them. And that the maner and discipline of this blesſinge, and cursing, miſtē never falle oute of uſe: he wrate them out the order of bothe with the prayers, and curses thereto appertinent pertinente . The whiche also when he died he wrate vpon eche syde of the aulter , where he enioyned also the peopple to make the sacrifice stondinge , that the Latine calleth Sacrificium Solidum , and astre , not to offre that daye anye more sacrifice . For why he said it was not lawfull . Thus I saye did Moyses institute these thinges , and the people of the Hebrews from daye to daye obserued them forthe on .

Asie.

The nexte daie calling the whole multitude together , in so muche that there was neither woman nor childe , ne bonde body absente : he charged them wondrefullly soze to take hede to the lawes , and not to transgresse them . But that as men that diligently wated goddes minde and wille : thei shold spare none that offendid against them , neither for kindredes sake , ne for feare . Nor yet as thincking any other cause to be more to be weighed , then the obseruation of the lawes . But rather yf any one manne of their kindred or any whole estie , would go about to discurse , or abrogate the ordinances of their commune wealthe : that thei shold take vengemente vpon them , bothe by officer , and

Aſie.

and without. And that if in ſuſe caſe he forturned them to haue the bettre of ſuſe adueryſary to the laſe: that thei ſhould vicerly deſtroy him or them, not leauing an agguelet of a poincie for the memorial of ſuſe hopelolle perſoneſ, iſ it ware poſſible. And in caſe thei ware not able to reuenge for lacke of power: that yet they ſhould ſo worke, that thei myghte well ſhewe that thoſe thinges ware done full euyll againſt their wiſle. And the multitude forſothe diſweare. He taught thei to, hoſte their ſacrifices myghte be made moſe acceptable vnto God, and how thei ſhould when they ſette forſe to the war-res chole their lucke by ſtone lotteries as I haue ſhewed afore. Iouia alio prophesied, Moyleſ yet beyng preſente among them. And Moyleſ thus wapeng all thoſe thinges that he had done for the people, bothe concerning warre, and peace in makinge them laſe, and teachinge them an ordre of a commyne wealthc, by the whiche iſ thei directed their ſteppes, thei myghte enioye a prefperous blesſed-neſſ: ſignified vnto them, that God had giue knowledge that thei ſhould in time to come forſake his laſe and ceremo-nieſ;

Asie.

sies: and therfore suffre muche affliction, and aduersitie. In sorte that their londe shoule be euен filled with their ennemis. Their Cities, and townes beaten downe smothe to the grounde, the Temple burned, and they them selues beyng soldē, shoule serue as thralles vnto men that shoule take no pitie of their calamities. And that whē thei suffred these chinges thei shoule soore repente thē of their transgressions, but then in vaine. God notwithstanding that fourmed, and made ye shal restore ye agayne vnto your 'citezins, bothe their Cities, and the Temple. And the losse of these quoth he shal happen ofte ner then ones or twylse.

Then Moyses encouraging Iosua to marche out with the armye against the Cananites (as one assured to haue God his ayder in all his entrepryses) and prayenge for prosperous lucke, and successe, for all the whole multitude, safeth. Seinge that I must departe vnto our forefathers, and God hathe appointed this the daye of my departure vnto them: I openly confesse before ye all yet beyng aliue, and present with you: the thanckes that I owe vnto him, and now giue him, not

Aſſie.

not onely for the regarde that he always had to ye, to tourne fro ye that that was euill, and to giue unto ye that that was good: but also that it pleased him to succoure me when I had niede of his helping hande, in all my cares and troubles of minde, for your reformatiōn, and amendment into bettre, and shewed him ſelſe tendre unto vs in all our affaires.

Or rather that it pleased him to take ſit hande hiſ ſelſe to leade in, and let ou, bing me as a lieutenante, and miniſtre of the benefites, wherwith he would blesſe your people. For the whiche nowe at my leauē taking, I thoughte it conuenient, and ſitting with my duety, firſt to prayſe and magnifie together with you, the mighty power of ḠD̄D, the whiche ſhal also ſhewe hiſ ſelſe carefull for you in times to come. And he, yea eue he ſhat yelde againe to you a chanckefulnes, of hiſ gentlenes, for your chanckefulnes of duetie; wher through he ſhall make you confeſſe in conſcience, that ye are for hiſ bounteouſnes bounde to reverencē, worſhippe, and honour him, and to haue hiſ lawes in price. Bothe thole whiche he hath giuen you, and yet hereafter ſhall, that

Asie.

that ye maye kepe him fauourable vnto you: of all stoures the mooste goodly treasure. For manne hym selfe that is a lawe maker, becommeth a bittere ennemye, when he seeth his lawes broken, sette at noughte, and thowen vndre foote .

But be not ye in wille dtere brethren, for the tendre loue of G D D , to proue what maner of one he is, when he begins nech to kindle into wrathe for the con-tempte of the lawes, whiche he gaue vnto you, as the maker of them all. Moses speaking these woordes, evin to the laste farewell of his life, and propheeting the desstenies of every severall tribe, with manye woordes of good fortune and chaunce: the whole multitude brasse ouer into teares, so that the women also wrin-ginge their handes, and thowinge their armes abrode, shewed the stroge sorrowe that they felte for his death now at hāde.
Pea the children cryenge, and sobbinge aboue the rest, as lesse able to b̄fide their grief and lamentacion, declared by their petifull wailinges that they vnderstode, the wonderfull vertue of him , and the excellencie of his doynges , aboue the course of their age. And to saye all, the sor-rowes

Asie.

rowes of the younger , and the elder ; Fraue as it ware in valaunce , for the maistery, according as ther diuersely felte in their minde. For the one , knowing by experience what a gouernour , and chiefe teine ther loste : lamented ther lacke for the time to come : and the other bothe sorowed for that , and also and yet more , because he was berafte them before che had well tasted his pirelesse wylledome .

A manne myghte gesse the greatnessse of the lamentacion , and mone of the multitude : by that that happened vnto Moys-es him selfe . For where he had almosste assured him selfe all the daies of his lyfe , that his departur e out of this woldre should never any whitte trouble hym (as the thing that he muste necessarily suffre by the wil of God , and natures lawe) yet was he by the compassion of the dolour of the people compellid to let falle the tea-res . And goynge forthe together to the place wher he shold departe fro them , ther al folowed hym , howling for sorowe .
And those that ware farthest of , Moyses commaunded with the beckening of his hides to staye stil ther aloofe . And those that ware niter , with comfortable wor-des ,

387

Aſie.

des, he entreated that they woulde not bring afire him their teares any nigher to make his farewell more dolorous.

And ther thinkinge it misse to gue him place therin, that he myghte departe his owne way as hym seemed best: tourned their heades into eche others bosomme & lobbed vp their sorowes with many salt teares among them selues, & with many a longe eye aftre Moyses. who was accompained to the place only with the fathers of the Counſelle, the highe priefe Eleazarus, and Josua now chieftaine.

And when he was comen to the mounteyne named Abar (a very highe hylle ouer against Jericho, geuing a goodlye vnto thone that are on it, into the pleasantere londe of the Cananites, farre and wyde aboue, he willed the counſell to departe.
And as yet takinge leaue of Eleazarus and Josua, and talkinge with them, he vanished in a noque of the hylle, beyng soudenyly ouercaste with a clonde. He wrote neuertheleſſe in the holye bookeſ (whiche we calle the byble) that he was dead. fearing leſſe they shold take vp on them to ſaye that he departed quicke vnto God, for the incomparabele vertue z. i. that rie.

that was in hym. He lued in all, a hundred and twenty yeres. Of the which he continued. xl. in his gouernaunce, lacking but one moneth. He tooke his leue the laste moneth of the yere called of the Macedonies Dwistre, and of the Jewes Adar, in the chaunge of the mone. And he excelled in wicte all the menne that euer ware, and did all that he did with goodly aduisement & discrecio. He was eloquet, and faire spoken in bretting his mynde to the people. But so brydunge his affections that a man woulde haue thought her had bene none in him. But that he knewe rather the name of them, by that he sawe them in other : when the worcking of the, by aught that he felte in him self. A chieffestne with the best, and mosse expert, but such a Prophete as none was againe: so that what soevor he spake, god him selfe myghte haue bene thoughte to haue spoken it. After he was thus withdrawen from this worlde, the people be- mourned hym thirtye dases. with suche mone, as never had bene sene so great amonge the Hebrewes for any mishappe. And not onely thei that had had experiance of hym, ware sorye that thei lacked him

859

Asie.

him: but theri also that redde his lawes ware muche kindled with the desire of him, as folkes gessinge by the woerke, what excellencie was in the woorkeman. Let this then suffice after this maner to haue declared the passage of Moyses fro this lyfe to euerlastinge immortali-
tie.

The table

CThe firste booke vndre the title of Afrique conteineth.

- The preface of the Authour.
The true opinio of the Deutine, concerning the beginning of manne. Chap. i.
The false opinion of the Philosopher, concerning the beginning of manne Chapiter. ii.
The devision and limites of the Earth.
Chapitre. iii.
Of Egipte, and the aunciente maners of that nacion. Chapiter. iv.
Of Egipte, and the aunciente maners
of that people. Chapiter. v.
Of the Venois, afterwarde called Car-thaginenses: and the other peoples of Affrique. Chapiter. vi.

CThe seconde booke vndre the title of Asie, conteineth.

The

The table

The description and discussion of Asie With the peoples moste famous therin, The pice. i.

Of Panthaea, and the maners of the Panquies. Chapitre. ii.

Of Assiria and Babilonia, and the maners of those peoples. Chap. iii.

Of Iurie, and of the lyfe, maners, and lawes of the Jewes. Chapiter. iiiit.

Of Media, and the maners of the Medes. Chapiter. v.

Of Parthia, and the maners of the Parthianes. Chapiter. vi.

Of Perse, and the maners and ordene-naunces of the Persianes. Chap. viii.

Of Inde, and the vncouerte trades and maners of lyfe, of the peoples therin.
Chapitre. viii

Of Scithia, and the sterne maners of the Scithianes. Chapiter. ix.

Of Tartaria, and the maners, and power of the Tartares. Chapiter. x.

Of Turckie, and of all the maners, lawes and ordenaunces of them.
Chapiter.

rf.
Of

The table.

Of the Christianes, of their first cominge vp, their Ceremonies and ordinaunces. Chapiter. viii.

A treatyse of Iosephus the Jewe, concerninge the ordenaunces and lawes of the Jewes communall wealth,

F I N I S ,

C Imprinted at London by John Kyngston and Henrie Sutton. The. xxx. daye of December.

(?)

ANNO DOMINI,

M D L V.

