The apologie, or defence of a verity heretofore published concerning a medicine called Aurum potabile, that is, the pure substance of gold, prepared, and made potable and medicinable without corrosives, helpefully given for the health of man in most diseases ... / [Francis Anthony].

Contributors

Anthony, Francis, 1550-1623.

Publication/Creation

London: John Legatt, 1616.

Persistent URL

https://wellcomecollection.org/works/px9a8hry

License and attribution

This work has been identified as being free of known restrictions under copyright law, including all related and neighbouring rights and is being made available under the Creative Commons, Public Domain Mark.

You can copy, modify, distribute and perform the work, even for commercial purposes, without asking permission.

Wellcome Collection 183 Euston Road London NW1 2BE UK T +44 (0)20 7611 8722 E library@wellcomecollection.org https://wellcomecollection.org

333, 334/ AXL 17/2 S.T.C. 667 S.T. C 666

THE APOLOGIE, OR DEFENCE OF A

VERITY HERETOFORE PVBLISHED

CONCERNING A MEDICINE CALLED

AVR VM POTABILE, that is, the pure substance of Gold, prepared, and made Potable and Medicinable without corrosines, helpefully given for the health of Man in most Diseases, but especially availeable for the strengthing and comforting of the Heart and vitall Spirits the performers of health:

AS AN VNIVERSALL

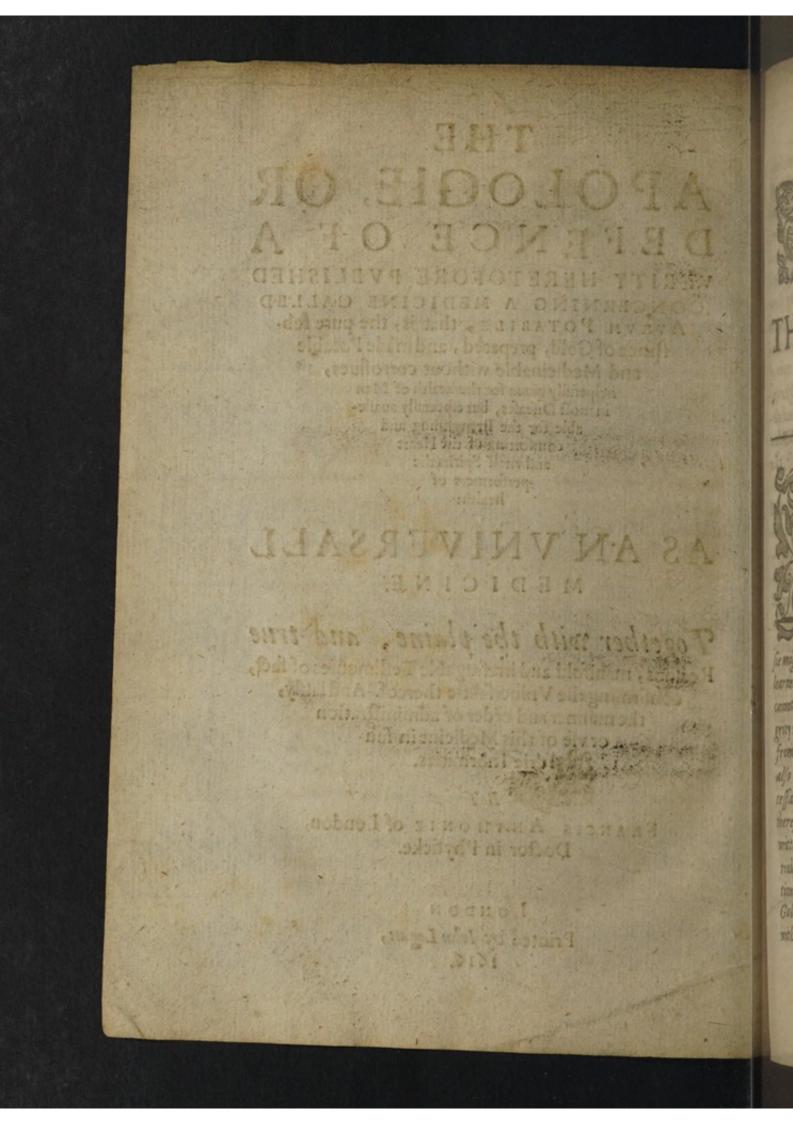

MEDICINE.

Together with the plaine, and true Reasons, manifold and irrefragable Testimonies of fact, confirming the Vniuersalitie thereof. And lastly, the manner and order of administration or vse of this Medicine in sundrie Infirmities.

BY

FRANCIS ANTHONIE of London, Doctor in Phylicke.

LONDON Printed by Iohn Legate, 1616.

THE PREFACE TO

THE INDIFFERENT

and Iudicious Reader.

Lexander the Great, King of Macedon, among st all other blazons of his honour, hath this not the least: That in hearing of causes, both his eares were open to both parties, Plaintiffe, and Defendant: That being rightly informed, his decision of the controver-see might be vpright, not partiall. As this is the duty of every learned and indiciall Reader: so in this question of mine, I cannot entertaine other thought, then expectance of all integrity: Not onely to have eares, and all other senses aversed from the tongues and quills of idly-learned slanderers, but also reserved unto a generous equanimitie towards the necessarie and equable reply of the Defendant. Not doubting therefore (gentle Reader) of this your disposition, I have written, and dedicated to your bands and hearts, to take, reade, digest and cherish this Apologic of my Preparation, and administration of my Essence and Liquor of Gold, commonly called Aurum Potabile or Potable Golde: with assurance of censure on my side, though distasting the

The Preface.

de Lets

Bulers It

skeficitely

Mefrain

Det bearing

Phylippe

Q00COMUL

he bester it best: O.

Terester a

K. Anan

kion of 1

小海

11 2007 (c.)

moce, as I

em tera

not bern

he prejn

mothe?

BENT SHE

T 4.088

month)

lice.

lene P

任好!

le koż

(MIN)

ME

101.0

DE TO

MEL

ites

A-B-C-darie and Comicall Rayler. If therefore my malicioners have heretofore feduced you into sinifter constructions of this cause, it was not your fault, but their posting malice, anticipating and forestalling that better and true Information, which this Apologie freely now effereth, and earneftly intreateth to be so accepted. Many good men have instly complained against the Pasquelling libertie of traducing slanderers. If a sufficient conclusion should rest therein, yea, or a moouing Inducement: then you with me must needs confesse, that no vertue shall have his due regard, no man of what soener desert, shall be secure of his good name. My contentment and satisfaction preservative: my shield and defence against the tainted darts of such adversaries, shall bee Securitie against foule challenge, Impossibilitie of attaint, the warrant of truth: which in her naked simplicitie shall main. taine me, in the uprightnesse of a good conscience against all their attempts, and by Gods grace, powerfully deliner me. Vnto you therefore (indifferent and sincere Readers) I consecrate the protection both of this Treatise, and of the Medicine it selfe therein handled. Because, as no man is created solely for his owne particular, but for the profit and good of others; (for nature bath made, and charitie commanded a vicinitie and neighbourhood betwixt all men) so this being maserially akinde of universall Medicine: it ought not to be restrained from the publike teder of profit to all men. Socrates being demanded what Countriman he was, answered, not only an Athenian but a Cosmopolitane, a Cettizen of that great Commonwealth, the whole world. So ought enery good Physition in the publishe profession of his facultie, not to burie his talent in the soyle of one Countrey, but to remember, that the very Character of his calling doth challenge the fruits of his function for all the world, so far as possible capacitie extendeth: specially of this necrest communitie in ChristonThe Preface.

my melicia.

brethand

make pe

formains,

ernegly in

cing flor

1702,000

neds con

men of

My cond and de-

Paul bee

lasst, the

I man.

ainst all

mejs.

confe-

Medi-

reated

est et e-

davi-

MA.

tobe

CTALLS

, 100

ftha

Iftid

wie

bat sof

2% fier. 製

dome. Let it not therefore seeme strange unto you, (worthy Readers) that without exception of Countrey or nation, I doe indefinitely appeale onto all, and in such generality configne these fruitions, which long study, labor & chargeable experiense have confirmed unto me, in my profession and Practife of Phylicke. Arift. saithmorally (but the sentece is dinine) Bont quo comunius, eo melius. The more como a good thing is, the better it is. Of which followeth one reason of this my present act: Omne Donu quo melius, co comunicabilius. The better any gift is , the more comunicable also ought it to be. And as it is so in nature it self, so ought it to be in the dispen fation of the possession. I do not herein so propose, and magnifie mine own endeuours, & the perfection of this Medicine by my selfe made, with a solitarie conceit, and ambitious preindice, as though no person else where were seized of the like (and peraduenture in a higher degree of exaltation) but acknowledging Gods blessings and gifts, to my selfe among st many others, I may not hide my talent in the earth: But beside the present vees hereof in most vrgent causes of health, do also wish the prouoking, and virtuous emulation in others, to incite their industries in the search and labour of excellent necessity for a common good. Also that so generall a Medicine may as generally be knowne to be had, to the intent to be wied in all places. The opinion of enery excellent, both ancient, and moderne Phylitians, concerning the virtue, power, efficacie and vie of Potable goldsis connested in their owne writings: who do hold firme, that no Physicion can well saue the performing honour of his profession, without Potable gold, howsoemr othermise he be furnished with herball Medicines. In which kind also, God hath stored so many particular adiuments, for the reliefe of mans miserable maladies, that none ought to neglect the indagation of their virtues, the preparation of their parts, and administration of their Remedies. Which as

The Preface.

I gladly and happily vie in fit time and place, so I also commend the like viestoothers, even with this Potable Gold, as is commonly vied in sundry other Polychresticke, or Panchresticke Medicines: according to every present requisition of occasions and circumstances, by the advice of any rationall and experienced Physition. With which profession I offer and submit the respect and acceptance of my Inventions, defining you all, with like regard and favour, to re-audid of seine and embrace this my will and of the defire of doing good, and to sould set unis det unis be profitable to municipal unis half. ad fution of the possession. I defendencin sopropose, and magwhe gains own endertours, & the perfection of this Medicine by my sissemale, with a solitor recencis, and ambitious preindice, as though no person elsewhere were seized of the like and peraduomure in a bigher degree of evaluation sour acthories Gods blossings and gifts town site among himawe others, I may not hide my talent in the earth: Rus hossin the prosent or bereof in mast causes of health, do also who the preacting and cirtuous emplation in others, to incite their including estable fear to and labour of excellent necessing for a common good. Alforbat so generall a Modicine may as generally be knowne to be bad, to the intent to be asset in all places. The opinion of every excellent, both uncrent, and mo-hath th

Medici

tytod

monh

all go

gold

200

done hay his plicer, concerning the virtue, power, efficacie and the of Paracle goldine connection when owne worthy so who do kold firme, that no Physican can well fane the performing boushes of his profession, without Parable gold, how former a therm o he be furnished with her bust Medicines. In which

HHT Sed bath fores former particular adjuncess for the reliefe of mans miserable visitables, that none ought to neglebt the independent for virtues, the preparation of their Remedies, thinks as

中學

THE DIVISION OF THIS

TREATISE.

Bout five yeares past I published a short discourse for the Assertion of Chymicall Physick, and of true Potable gold, containing these heades or Chapters. 1. Whether gold may be so dissolved, that it become truly potable.2. That the highest and most powerfull excellencie of Medicines is in Mettals. 3. That amongst all Mettals gold hath the prerogative, concerning the Physicall vse of Medicine. 4. Of what manner is the Art, and mystery to dissolve gold, and distill it vp: which commonly is called, Drawing over the helme. 5. That it were requisite by publike question to examine and try this truth of this Magisterie, that so the mouth of all gainsayers might be stopped. 6. That Potable gold deserveth the name of a Generall or vniversall Medicine: and of the manifold vse, and efficacie of mine owne Potable gold.

This Treatife of mine, containing a simple, naked and plaine deliuerie of a simple and naked truth, and therefore as simply and plainly in words and style fet forth, though it really satisfied both here and in forraine parts many learned men, Iudiciall louers of truth, yet it wanted not the common lot of all vertues, to finde maleuolent eyes and detracting encomberers: fuch as may feeme either with blinde zeale, or ignorant opinion of omniscience, rather to repine at a fee lost, then defire the true knowledge of that, which they neuer intending to labour for, yet ambitioully defire an imputation of criticall knowledge therein. The fand of this descent was chiefely, if not only in London. The Iffue, none haue greater cause to mourne for, then the Printers for want of vtterance, or rather they which bare the charge of printing: for vnto Iudiciall Readers, those labours of theirs, though they were tedious and nauseous, yet fome recreation followed in laughing at fo much obstetrication of such mountaines in the parturition of fuch ridiculous mice. I hope none will expect a cryquit answer of me to their most powerfull arguments, being, in the most modest terme, a shamble of impotent and effrenat scolding : but rather truth and matteragainst falshood & words, leaving their tongs and goofe-quils, to the judgement and censure of their owne reformed and better adulfed hearts: of which my charitie perswades me not wholly to despaire: knowing some learned gentlemen of the same company, not the same minde, ready to blush at such a publication, which all the learned men of Christendom do laugh: And who can fancy fuch barking Rhetoricke, wherein not only good words, are made the measures of madnes, but precious houres are confumed in frothy rablings? If they be still of the fame fpirits, I wish them thereof full contentment therein:

And

their de

new Bir

reputati

flioned:

theviet

intenti

Inthe

gold;

andbi

TICOTO!

ently

ples,

thetr

bleg

Way

COLO

1 ba

00

$00

180

8 nd Ayle fet

and infor-

Lovers of

of all vo.

gencom-

zeale, a

repineat

of that,

t ambiti-

wledge

tont

tercaple

Of vtte-

of prin-

of ours

is, yet

ich ob.

tionof

2017-impo-

mat.

sand

their hich

aire:

tom-

roia.

m-le.

And that therefore they would in some hollow craggy place stretch out their own straines, that 1000, exchange of interest might bountifully returne them their delightfull termes and Syllogismes in this their new Barbara. But this my Apologie shall with much tranquillity, I hope, answer them, defend mine owne reputation and integritie, vindicate this verity que-Itioned; give eltimation to potable gold, and make the vie thereof more common. According to which intentions I have divided this Treatise in three parts. In the first shall be proued and maintained that which in my first printed booke was delivered concerning gold, that it may be made potable and medicinable, and be efteemed for a kinde of generall Medicine, or neere thereto. In the second I will fatisfie and sufficiently prooue by irrefragable testimonies, and examples, that this my Medicine so much canualed, both is made and doth confift of gold, and also performeth the true effects, mentioned to be incident vnto potable gold. In the third part I will shew and teach the way how to vie this Medicine in euery particular dilease. That all pacified and indifferent persons, fauorers of truth, and embracers of Gods bleflings, may enioy the fruition thereof. Some circumstances also - I have hereunto annexed, such as are pertinent to this our intent.

It is a controuersed question: Whether there bee or may bee made a generall or vniuersall Medicine, good for all Diseases. Many hold the negative. If they speake precisely of all Diseases without distinction, I say as they doe, and consent. For there be many fatall, mortall and Incurable Diseases, against which all consultation and counsell of Physicke is bootlesse. Therefore that my affertion of a generall

A 2

Medicine

notall:

thefin

Thi

the mal

intentio

Polych

mongi

lot atte

poth

pren

may

100,3 licon

real

If ficial

103 that 008

Ni

W

20

ap

Medicine be rightly vnderstood, I desire my meaning to bee truly and distinctly taken. For I know that some diseases be native and hereditarie: some caused by some outward and superuenient chance or accident: fome proceeding of simple distemper: some of humors joyned therewith. Those which are native and hereditarie, are generally thought, and for the most part be all incurable, though they may in some kindereceiue alleuiation and ease: And some of them also in the title of those which happen by superuenient accident: As luxations, lamenelle, Impotencies, want or superfluitie of some iount, blindnesse, deafenelle, Ambiguiticof fexe, &c. And thefe fo farre as they be reltaurable and capable of Cure, are chiefely under that part of this facultie which is called Surgerie, and requireth the hand, though not alwaies and in all cases. But those Infirmities and Diseases of the other kinde, proceeding of inward causes within the body, fuch as, for the most part, be all Maladies whereupon all Rationall Physitions are exercised, if by administration of one Medicine they all I meane, folong as they are accounted curable by Rationall Physitions) may be eased, mitigated and perhaps perfectly cured, furely fuch Medicine, ought and may be accounted respectively a generall Medicine. For as that Phylition is to be accounted perfect, and a generall Malter of his Art which knoweth according to his title, facultie and profession, how to cure all difcases, though he leave and give over some as incurable; not for want of fit meanes and skill in all cases of possibilitie, but through ineptitude and indisposition of the subject being uncapable of redintegration: So also that shall be accounted a Medicine vniuerfall, which cureth most and the greatest diseases, though edicine

即四 or I know

tie: fone

hanceon

per:form

renative

dforthe

in forme

of them

emeni-

tencies,

ejdeafe.

farreas

hiefely

dSur.

esand

of the

in the

adies.

d, if

¢ane, 002

per-

7 be 1725

ne-

初 ű.

not all: not through defect of efficacie in the Medicineit selfe, but respectively for the inhabilitie of the lubiect.

This also may be proued by reason deriued from those Medicines of Rationall Physitians, which for The first reathe multiplicitie of their operative extent to many lon. intentions, and curing of many difeases, are called Polychrelta, that is, of many vses. For if there be among them fuch as be helpful not to one only fingular affection, but to many different diseases, why is it not likewife confequent and reasonable, that by help of Art, a Medicine may be made much more comprehensiue of efficacie vpon diseases? And as it may bee made to exceede in one degree, so in 2.3.4. 100, and from Polychreston, of many vses, be Catholicon, vniueriall, of all vies. The reason is all one to reasonable men.

If objection be made, that such Polychrest is artificially made by composition of many things, wherin are diversitie of natures. And this vniversall of one onely, which implieth an impossibilitie of different and contrary operative faculties: to this I answere, that Polychrests are made out of Simples without commixtion: As from Rheubarbe, Vineger, Lead, Niter, Vitriall, Opium, Camphire, and many other, wherof some doe both loose and knit, some do heate and coole, some haue other contrary effects, which appeare in their operations, and are tellihed by Writers. These things being thus in impure mixtures and unperfect bodies, what doubt can there be made of the high prerogative and supreme excellencie of Gold, which all the learned and experienced antiquity, and the continued derivation from thence vntothis day have acknowledged and magnified for garyalla and a cA 3 aldered had yothe the chiefe, if not only Treasurie, and rich Cabinet of vniuersalitie and Panchresticke Medicine: In which all the dowers of all other Medicines, what soeuer are written and experimentally found, be vnited and naturally inclosed.

ding an cellion

that th

by Mes

both an

IT IS TENO

gold

opera

T

bodie

17216

For

Let

the

TIN

CC

to

The fecond reason.

Secondly, whereas the originall of most diseases fpringeth from that, which the Phylitions call Intemperies, that is, a diffemperature, being especially in the first qualities, hot, cold, moist or drie; there is no reason to the contrary, but that one Medicine, being without excelle or defect, in equall harmonie of all qualities most temperate, and also powerfullin operation, may bee sufficient for the collection, qualifying, and rectifying of all and every such distemper. Such a like body is gold: which notwithstanding it be compounded of the foure Elements, yet is this in prerogative above all other naturall bodies, endowed with an exact temperament and equalitie of the compounding Elements, and Elementall qualities. Every one to the other three, and all foure to and among themselves by exact naturall equalitie and perfect mixture, are so compounded to the perfection of this body, that it constantly persisteth in the fire without diminution. From this proportionall mixture of Elements resulteth a temperament of supreme mediocritie: whereupon that our learned and famous countryman Roger Bacon, calleth Gold the means betweene the foure first qualities. Seeing therefore by Gods gift in the creation it consisteth of so true an adequation and subtile temperament, this must needs appeare and thew it selfe operatively in consequent effects vpon those first qualities, and be powerfull against all distemperatures, whether hot or cold, moyst or dry, or any their combinations: First allaying and bridling instof nd na.

Which

Der are

feafes

II lu.

llyin

is no

ding

of all lope-

alify.

nper, ding

this

, en-

ditie

tall

d 211

torall

ded

itly

om

eth

ad

The Dig

dling any excelle therein, and so by degrees and succession ouercomming the whole discord, and restoring mediocritie of temperament betweene all. So that the generall Axiome or Rule of great Hippocrates is here magnissed: That Diseases are cured by Medicines contrarie to themselves. For the meane betwixt two extremes is no lesse contrarie to both and either of them, then one extreme to an other: and more powerfull in reduction, by how much it is more habituall and fixed in the vnspotted mediocritie and equalitie. Let this be vnderstood of gold dissolved and made potable, otherwise it is not operative upon those distempered qualities in one kinde or other

The third Reason concerneth the temper of the bodie to bee cured. Death (faith Galen) doth al- The third waies follow the vnmeasurable or excelline diffem- reason. peratures of the Heart. So likewise doe Diseases. For all parts of the bodie languish with the Heart. Let vs therefore consider a little the Emperie of the Heart in mans bodie, how by his owne heate and vitall ipirit, it raigneth ouer, and in all parts of the bodie. Let vs also take into consideration the distemperature of other parts making imprelsion vpon the Heart, and so are causes of languishment and death. VVhich beeing on either fide certaine, then it must also bee true, that if golde administred doe restore integritie of temperament to the Heart, the other parts and members of the bodie shall also receive comfort, strength, restauration, and finally life to the whole bodie. VVherefore the first office of euerie good Physition is, to have speciall regarde, to main-A 4

bleve

part n

batos

trouble

mous !

Golda

TOLENS.

PUN

culons

tothe

beate,

tempera

petio 4

feare

goods

the fa

ment o

pates

men

like

Die Bill

編

in the 加 taine and vphold the spirituall functions of his difeafed patient, which all have their originall from the heart. For if hesusfer them to quaile, and ouer much to bee deiected, all Cordialls will then come vnfeafonably. That admonition is just and necessarie First strengthen and comfort the Heart, then apply for the Disease, if neede be: for oft times, the Heart being well corroborated, the Disease imminent vanisheth. But some will aske, how gold, so hard, solide and compact, and therefore indigestable by any strength ofmans stomacke, can passe from thence to the heart, and strengthen, comfort, rectifie and restoreit; conconsidering that these and such like faculties come to it by the plentie of pure, cleere, and subtill spirits of the blood, which cannot be made of any thing not digested both in the Stomack and Lyuer, and theretore not of gold. In answer whereof I say, that long and daily observation hath confirmed, that many things naturally are effected by the hidden and specificall properties of some things, whereof no vnderstanding of man can give a certaine and vndisputable manifest cause or reason. We see the affinitie of natures betweene Iron and the Lode-stone, and the pointing of this to the North Pole. Of which kinde there be infinite exemplarie instances. Neither doe the most learned Physitions and best Philosophers so well agree vpon the reasons of those Purging Medicines which they call Elective, as appropriate specially to one humour; and divers others to some speciall part of the bodie, yea and to some special diseases: but that a great part of them doe flie to these hidden and specificall properties, some in the same, some in other termes. In which ranke if wee marshall gold, what Lieuetenant will chide? He certainly mult be

com i

De vo-

ellane

for the

being

heth,

e and

ngth

eart,

conmeto

its of goot long.

hany lipe-

der-

nts-

ic of

the

nde

$10

edi-

eci-

04

93 n

m

fome ouerweening man, that will question these noblevertues of gold, that hath read fo many notable and famous Authors for that affirmative affertion, part whereof I have cited in my other booke, being but one Rank of a whole Armie. Here I will only trouble the Reader with a few lines out of that famous Physition and excellent Philosopher Arnald. Gold altereth the enill condition of mans body, clenfeth and reneweth it. The vertue of many things may come neere the particulars of the operation hereof, but no one performe it all. But potable gold alone is it which worketh these miraculous effects: this is not subject to corruption, but is agreeable to the Complexion and temperament of man. It dothneither heate, nor coole, nor moysten, nor dry: but is temperate in all temperature, and exceedethall things in durabilitie: It helpeth a cold stomacke, and giveth courage to Cowards and fearefull hearts: It helpeth the passions of the Heart: It is good against Melancholy: It comforteth naturall heate and tempereth the same, neither may any thing be compared to it or supply the stead thereof. The vertue thereof is manifest in the substance of it. It clenseth and clarifieth by reason of the naturall heate it hath. It giveth high and supreame temperament above all other things, by reason of the great temperament of it selfe: and beeing it selfe most durable, it causeth continuance and durabilitie, according to naturall possibility in other things, and preserveth mans body. And because it is like to the Complexion of mens bodie, therefore if it be prepared as it ought, it will ionne and incorporate thereunto. But all the secret is in the preparation of it, which the wife Philosophers have concealed. It confirmeth and keepeth sound the substance of the Heart, and preserveth it, and clarifieth the substance of the spirits, and sendeth good blood to the skin, and with a light and easie abstersion preserveth beauty as in youth. Thus he writeth, as also in other places of this Author

#ally

capic

00071

2002 eond;

500 a

Thew

and

andb

man

ayre

perti

the

of G

tion

200 ned

阿河

Author you may reade many admirable effects and vertues of gold both folide and potable. How gold is so powerfull a Cordiall and so generalla Medicine, is. held a very difficult question to finde the cause and reason thereof. Let euery mans opinion bee freeto himselfe. I will without prejudice to any other briefely shew you my opinion. I take it for granted that gold of all mixed bodies is most equal and temperate in the Elements and elementall qualities, fo that moysture with heat as agent, drinesse with coldnes as patient and subject to action, are inseparably with naturall concordance perfectly joyned. Wherefore gold is respectively a body not only incorruptible in water, fire, ayre, and earth, and as it were an earthly image of eternitie, but also most convenient, agreeable, and as it were allied to and with the heart of man, which of his hot moviture doth worke the vitall spirits, and maintaine the arteriall beatings of the pulse in all parts of the bodie. And this temperament of gold must bee considered two waies. First (as Scholers call it) Arithmetically: hence commeth the equalitie and equabilitie of qualities elementarie in the compact and folide body thereof, not refolued into the permanent forme of potable liquor. In this confideration it were very hard for learned Phyfitions that build so much vpon and presse authoritie, to deny that gold hath and actively doth shewmany great effective vertues, seeing the Catalogue is so great of many notable and famous Physitions which extoll the effects thereof, and at this day doe vie it so much; as of gold quenched in wine, boyled in broth, giuen in limell or foyle in Conserues and Electuaries. The hope and end thereof in all their intentions, is to Corroborate and comfort the heart. And this tempera-Anung goldis

dipen

ife and

freeto

riefe.

dthat

empeothat

mes as

the

regold

IDW2-

thly i-

gree.

totres

thevi-

ofthe

pera-Full

meth

starie

alued

this

ly liti

tiesto

Day

160 hich.

tio

oth

entes

品路

which

temperature in and of gold is habituate and coeffentiall with the whole substance, matter and forme, in all the Elements both active and passive. And because not the materiall but the formal Essence is most operative and professor of the noble Elements, fire and ayre, from whence resulteth in an indissoluble hond, heate and moysture fo friendly agreeable to mans nature. Therefore gold in his naturall coagulation and foliditie, cannot fo fully according to the inward power of his naturall efficacie and vertue, shew and performe the effects thereof, as being refolued, opened, and made potable, that the Elements and elementall qualities may more freely both worke and be wrought vpon, and be brought from their potentiality to activitie in application to the body of man. For then the agent and formall vertues, fire and ayrebe predominant in their exaltation. Whose propertie being communicated & applied to & with the spirits of our body, is to refresh, comfort & strengthen the heart: renew, reftore, and increase the spirits, by that wonderfull facultie, and neere equalitie as it were brotherhood which it hath to them. And this in the fecond confideration of the temperament of Gold Geometricallin that different respect, as the other is called Arithmeticall. In which that proportionate qualitie friendly and concordant to the heart and temperament of man, and that complexioned moylt heate or hot moylture, is preualent or predominant. And one chiefe reason why Arnald before cited and very many others of vnrepreoueable authoritie, doe so much commend, and with a referued fecrecie admire the excellent dowers of gold, is, that being made potable, it restoreth, augmenteth and preserveth that our bumidum radicale, and calidum

B 2

innatum,

them complexioned not distinct) and so with respective possibilitie, prolongeth life, and keepeth backe old age, I meane the sense of the desects and infirmities thereof.

(pe both

mal

COD

Wh

uer

the

the hen

ind

Wh

boo

Art

mo den

tru

DR

the à

Obiection.

If it be objected that this exact temperature and equality of mixture in gold being supposed, it cannot actively operate or worke any thing in mans bodie, because, as every action commeth from or by meanes of fomepredominant qualitie, fo equalitie without disparagement keepes all in an vndefeazeable bond of an irrefoluble compound. I answer thus. In cases where the intemperature or distemper of the disease (or the degree thereof in some cases) is not yet knowne, the doctrine politiue and counfell of Phylitions is to vie and administer temperate Medicines, which shall not be offensive manifestly to any qualitie, but indifferent and allowable to all. If this be done with good aduife and reason: in such like case, it must needs be far more consonant to reason, and behoouefull to the patient, to give fuch a Medicine as is not only temperate by qualification, but fo prerogatiuely excellent therein, that it cannot lofe that temperature and the consequent efficacie thereof, by the force of any thing confonant or dissonant. Which is farre otherwise in all vegetables reputed equall in temperament, because they are apt in some cases to cause dangerous distemperature in mans body. Examples are plentifull: But for instance take Manna it selfe reputed a very temperate laxatine, yet very easily it selfe turning into a hot Cholerick humour, and encreasing the same, and the distemperatures and disexfes confequent thereupon according to the dispofition and inclination of the body receiving it. Of FIRST LIBIT, which which there is no feare in the vie of gold, for the realons aforelaid. Therefore whether the Tenure be: That Contraries be cured by Contraries, having respect to the disease and the cause thereof, the qualitie of the Medicine is remedy: Or that like are conferued by their like, with regard to the strength of the patient and comfort of the heart, according to the do-Crine of Hippocrates: Gold (as hath beene propued) mult needs bein both intentions the fittelf and most convenient Medicine and remedy for diseases of what temper or diffemper focuer, being adulfedly giuen: specially being Philosophically opened, resol-

ued and made potable:

nderland

rithreba

eth back

infirmi

eand e-

cannot

s bodie

meanes

athout

debond

Incales

difeale

ot yet

Phylilicines,

quali-hisbe

cafe, it

ndbe

Rasis

rogatem-

ythe

ichi

di

(eto

Ex-

ait

ali-

0-

683

That there may bee a generall or vniuerfall Medicine is also prooued, by consideration taken from The fourth the nature of the person diseased, with reference to the disease. For if the disease be strong, like a heavie burden pressing the patient, and the poore patient weake not able to be are out the Critical day of happy iudgement of issue of the maladie; I aske in this case what ought to be done. Certainly, rather enable the body to the end of the Combate, by comforting and strengthning the heart, then vainly attempt to remooue the log, and fuffer him to linke vnder the burden. For, not the Medicine, but nature alone is the true phylition, curing all infirmities, if she be not oppressed, or that she be so releeved, that strength in her be maintained. It is not vnlike by comparison vnto the charge of sumpter Mules or Pack-horses, which oft times vie to bee fed trauelling that they may endure to carry their burdens to the Inne, not discharged vntimely of their packes. And by this meanes they neede not be valoaden at euery bayte; but prouendred under their loads for the quicker dispatch. oZon, be equally & cerainly profitable to all Gress

So no disease is cured, the strength not maintained: but contrarily by perfect Methode the strength and power of the body is by degrees to bee restored and comforted, that the disease may be both resolved, and life maintained. To this purpose did Arnaldus write in these words. The only intention of ancient Physitions was, to give vigor and strength unto nature: Who being strengthned, performeth what sower is expedient. And by this meanes they never did overthrow any man. Therefore never cease to worke with Cordialisin administration of Physicke. This is the counsell of Arnald.

The fift rea-

Moreouer, many diseases proceed from obstructions of some viscous, slymie and mucilaginous matter, not separated in the vessels of concoction, by their imbecillity, either naturall, or accidentall. Therfore, if this obstruent matter be subtiliated, the obstruction shall thereby be taken away, & consequently both the disease and accidents of the disease cured. Of fuch kinds of Obltructions, besides other diseases, many kinds of fevers doe arise, burning, rotten, hectick, pestilent, &c. Also many and dangerous sicknetfes both hot and cold. Against which though Medicine made of vegetables doe often very much preuaile:yet because for the most part they be too weak, and leave no folide and lasting impression: or contrariwise worke so violently, and seldome without some offence, scarce euer with such temper, gentlenes and fincerity as is requilite. Therefore that Medicine which being most temperate and equally graduated to the Elementall harmonie of mans body, ought iultly to be preferred both before them and all of that kind. For such one cannot by his coldnesse offend the complexioned parts, nor by his heate the hot: but by opening and so promotively taking away the Obstruction, be equally & certainly profitable to all. Galen isforch

COMM

Formi

toth

003

B

dies

for

in in

and

loed.

slave byfe

DENIE .

half

efore

Phy-

rocki-

mir

her-

409 bent.

red,

afes,

, he-

fick:

We.

ore-

eak,

otra-

fome

5 200

rint

ted

that 加 tby,

III.

他

teacheth that the cause is to be take away, by finding out, and applying the true contrary of every alterable nature. Asto cure any disease coming of and depending on Obstruction, is the dissoluting of matter obstruent, & opening the Obstruction. This counsell we ought to follow in al fuch cases, in opening that which is forcibly shut. And then gentle and quiet restitution commeth of temperament to all distempered parts. For, whether the excelle were in heate or cold, the spirits which were shut vp in prison, now set at liberty, are refreshed, recover their former vigor, and health to the whole body. It the blood (faith Hippocrat.) be stopped in his course, and the spirit with it, it causeth chylnelle, numnelle, giddines, losse or hinderance of speach, heavines & paine of the head & convulsions, after which follow many kinds of the falling lickness which be accounted cold difeases. In briefe, it is most euident, that only Obstructions be the cause of many and fundry diseases, not only different, but directly contrary each to other. Therfore as one cause brought them in, so may one Medicine expell them.

But paule a while. It may be demanded how hu- Obiection. mors so exorbitat & abounding as they do in the bodies of manymen, shal be emptied from thence by the force of any medicine, whole faculty is not to expel or purge by the common pallage, and whole intent is to be only strengthning and comforting the heart.

To which I answer: It is true, that in many ditea- Solution. fes the abundance of humors are fuch causes, that except they be purged away in due and conuenient time and order, it is scarse possible to hope for a sound recouerie: in vyhich case if some gentle Purgation, together with the administration of this universall Medicine be vied, both the strength shall be better maintained, sooner recourred, and the disease ouer-

B 4

come

CHI

100 po

211

400

(f ( (bal

par

quit

1650 has

Fo

Wh.

th

the 1112 lu

tile

Ca

90

COBIE

come. Yet though no purgation be given, but onely this universall Medicine at times administred, such is the vertue thereof, that Nature it felfe being strengthned and comforted about the malice of the offending humors and the disease, will expell the burden of thosehumors by the most convenient patlages which that case may require, whether it be by siege, vomit, vrine, sweate, or other exitures. For the Physition attending, is not directer and Master, but minister and servant in fit administration vnto nature: which being comforted and strengthned, will helpe her selfe beyond all hope and conceit of man, as hath bin often found to the admiration of the greatest Doctors which hitherto haue written, and happeneth daily in our owne experience. In all diseases the Phylitions part is, to promote the indeauour of nature to expel the offending humors by those passages, which berselfesheweth and directeth; with discretion betweene criticall and symptomaticall euacuations, and of the conveniencie of a few circumstances following the particularities of the disease: Of this I could early and plentifully bring many irrefragable and demonstrative reasons: but they may partly bee vnderstood by that which is already said, and partly are written by diuers others graue and learned Authors. Therfore I wilfollow breuitie, & only set down a few lines out of that profound and fingular Philosopher Raymund Lully: who in the 32. Chapter of the Theorie of his Testament writeth thus. Bleffed be our glorious and omnipotent God who hath given mankinde knowledge and understanding to joyne and integrate the confused particularitie of all Medicines with one reall universalitie, by which all things be and continue rectified. Therefore Sonne I warne thee, if thou desirest to be a perfect Physicion, set not rdsinteined, looper reconcred, and the differenceLosely fachia rength-

ending

den of which

DEDICE.

on at-nitter

hich

a fella

dinof.

Do-

eneth

Phy-

oreste

which

be-

and

low-

bluoo

and

VII-

are

015 tem

淵 rth

doidw

confci-

thy Practife on the particularities of Medicine, or the particular intentions of Phylicke, because they be confused, and at this day not sound onor perfect. For nature cannot endure them, by reason of their too much confusion, but is best pleased or satisfied with and in one only Medicine. Because there is but one Medicine truly curing all Infirmities, and comforting the spirituall vertues and powers of life, &c. And a little after in the lame. He that knoweth how to reduce most particularities or vertues (for the intention of Curing diseases) unto one universalitie (of subject) shall bee the most excellent amongst Physitions. In particular Medicines vertues bee confused: but in an universall, they bee reall, united, and active, as the whole counse of nature sheweth. And this is Medicina, Medicinarum, Superlatively by excellencie and prerogatine the Medicine of Medicines. And hee that bath such a Medicine, bath a pretious gift of God. For it is an incomparable treasure. Thus far Raymund: who though he there speake of that great and high Philosophicalliecret, yet he plainly witnesseth that there is in nature a univerfall Medicine: which whether it be made of gold, or gold made of it, It mattereth not much, for either way it sufficiently proueth, the excellent properties of gold most agreeable to mans nature; which having thus farre prooued, I will here end this first part of this Treatise.

Hauing thus, vnto moderate and well tempered Iudgements (for my intent and purpose in this treatise) prooued, that there hath bin, and therefore may be a Panchrelticall Medicine, for which very many learned are either searchers themselves, or witnesses of other mens happines in attaining the same: yet because the peruicacie of some is such, that against experiment and sense it selfe, they will (peraduenture consciously) pretend the Impossibilitie & maintaine the negative: & some againe, though yeelding a possibilitie & maintaining the affirmative, wil fight in the shadow of one instance: contending, that though they granted it may be; yet this subject of mine, this my potable gold hath not either the true, or neere preparation of that so renowned and famously mentioned Medicine, powerfull and availeable in all diseases that may happen to men: I will applie my selfe to their satisfaction. My answer shall be breefe, and of two sorts. First by Reason: secondly, by manifest and cleere demonstration of effects, of manifold experiments and witnesses beyond exception: which be the maine pillers & onely necessary substructions of all knowledg in matter controvertible amongst men.

Concerning the proofes of reason, I have sufficiently fatisfied that point in my other booke in the fourth, fift, and fixt chapters. Yet further I pray consider here with me, that there bee many pathes leading to the same Towne, and many waies to one and the same end. Some in their endeauours and pursuite for the attaining of a vniuerfall Medicine labour in Minerals and those Mettals which respecliuely bee called, and are vnperfect: Some in Salts: some in vegetables, some in the Animall kinde: euery one dittying the found of the bellanswerable to his owne tune. Let each of them therefore follow the lilue of his owne labors. I force not against them. But freely professe that in the perswasion of those reasons which have lead mee, I resolutely set downe my rest for this scrutinie in naturall gold, and therein have employed my Industry: with what successe and happie Issue, I appeale to the most certaine, true and vncontrollable Judge and Doctreffe,

which

Date

tha

Si.

Dine

IPOE.

inthe

they

is my pre-

atio-

leafes

e to

id of dand

xperi-ch be ins of men,

Giff.

nthe

thes

390

and

cine

pe-

m

nde:

able atol-

inf

ot

fet ld,

(C)

which is experience. The centonary Fropperies of Alphabetaries, of Aurum non Aurum, shall nothing abate the vindicting of this constant truth, that by my preparation, Aurum non Aurum, gold hath beene so altered in and from the compacture and soliditie of his primitive body; and in that respect it may bee called, and truly is, non Aurum, not gold, but deffroyed, concerning the groffe body, and altered into a fubtile, penetrant and volatile nature, and so exalted into the full activitie of a most precious Medicine, with all the powerfull explications of healthfull and helpfull mysteries which nature hath sealed in that body, and left to the industrious labour of man to vnfold. For gold is the Embleme of a magnificent and most princely Pallace, drawing the beholders of his naturall luster, to search what excellent lewels bee contained within that outward wall of fo rich promiles. Which though they be many and admirable, yet few attaine to the fruition thereof, because by externe apparences, they ayme at the latent and hidden vertues: neither doethey know the right key to vnlock that rich Cabinet. And although I cannot sufficiently declare, nor prize, all the faculties (which be respe-Cliuely innumerable) of this bountifull treasury: yet I may and doe confidently acknowledge and professe, that I have found in vie & practile very many of great worth; which as in themselves, for the vie or men they be of great worth, and estimation, so for them, man is reciprocally bound both to ackwowledg & thankfully embrace, as Gods large bleffing; who commandeth vs to knock at these gates of Nature, that they may be opened vnto vs, that so we may finde and enioy the treasures locked therein. What man amongst thousand hath found out and perfected the like magiltemagisterials secret? Who is he among many, that hath not tyred his teeth in the hard shell, neuer inabled by cracking it, to come to the sweet kernell, in which dwelleth this mellite and gentle liquor of gold? But I will seauethis digression, and returne to the intended end.

concern

to be co

MINIST

STILL STA

Thefun

Eldon

thetru

tabilist

and Ha

this M

effect

neese

heef

tom

AS E

DOME

ence

The

bren

the

I.Reafon.

There is no question but that a Medicine made of naturall gold, dissoluted without things corrosiue, and brought into a substance in forme like hony, and Medicinable, potable, and disperseable into any liquor, is both excellent, and justly to be reputed potable gold. But this Medicine of mine, made and confifting in it felfe of gold, is fuch (as I have before prooued and shall further hereafter proue) therefore it is, and ought to be acknowledged for true potable gold. The proposition needeth none other proofe, then the confent of all famous writers of and vpon potable gold: The Assumption, whereupon the Inference and Conclusion dependeth, is prooued in my first published booke, as also out of manifelt demonstration, not priuate, to my felfe, but publike in the fight of many, not onely once done, but fundry times iterated: in which proceedings, the demonstrative tokens mentioned in Art, are apparent : the Instrumentall water which was in the forme of common water before it was put vpon the gold, in few daies becommeth tineted, with a deepe and ruddy colour, also when the Instrumen. tall water fo tincted, shall be distilled away, the folution of gold remaineth in forme of hony as by Philofophers is specified. In the whole magisterie, Art or proceffe I have not kept any thing fecret, faning the Instrumentall water as Raymund tellifieth. But some will fay, If this be that true Potable gold, why do you make it common to others? Good Sirs, for footh I anfwerhathath bledby

which

1? But inten-

deof

eand

Me.

oris

gold

ginit

dand

org.

dent

The

clu-

hed

pri-

not

ch

ed

th

ut

th

Moles Fire

fwer, because it is such, therefore I make it common, concerning the vse: Which being profitable to all, challengeth the right and law of nature and charitie, to be communicated to al. But that other great secret of the Philosopher, not communicable to others, is onely profitable to the Author himself. And therfore let not this be the lesse precious init selfe, because in numerable men receive health and comfort thereby? The sunne giveth visible light to the whole world. Is it therefore an inferiour Planet vnto Mercury which seldome appeares in the sight of men? To make dead of the seldome appeares in the sight of men?

Againe. That Medicine which really performeth 2. Realon. the true and proper vnquestioned effects of Aurumpotabile, being effentially made of the faid fubiect, ought and needes must be accounted true potable gold. But this Medicine of mine, hath produced the notable effects, only proper to potable gold. Therfore it must needes be the fame. An affirmative argument from the effect to the cause is good and strong; as likewise from the cause to the effect. In the holy Scriptures, a Prophet (hallbe judged great, by his great workes.) As Elias, Elifa, and the Apollles raifed the dead, as our Saujour Christ did (It being proper only to the power of God) whose doctrine they as forerunners; thefe as succeeders preached, in one verity, and the famediume gift. The Analogie and proportionall deduction of Inference, is a like true in Arts and Sciences, and in all workes both of Nature and Art, whether fingular or conjoyned, So our Potable gold, brought from the potentialitie of natures lock, vnto the activitie, which artificiall opening exciteth and manifelteth, is knowne by his owne proper and infect parable efficacies and effects, largely affirmed in my otherbooke. The Assumption of this Argument, other drawdrawing the conclusion, I will further heereafter by

12.1.1

tobev

neth B

that

examples confirme.

3.Reason.

The third Reason may be taken from the extraordinarie and wonderfull manner of working in the nature and resolution of gold, whereby it is brought from fixation, to volatility, and so made potable. Therefore I say thus. Who so euer can so dissolue the body of gold, that it shall not by any Art be reduced againe into fixed folide gold, but so persist; doubtles hath made potable gold, medicinable and profitable for the health of man. But by Gods bleffings in my endeauours, I have often times done this, and Itil can doe it: therefore doubtleffe I have often times made, and still can make potable gold, medicinable and profitable for mans health. The dependence and connexion of this propolition standeth in this: That gold in his primitiue, naturall, hard, compact body, cannot communicate his internall vertues in mans body; and therefore is not medicinable. For then the formalitie of gold is not loofened from the bridle, or freed from the bodily prison, and bonds of coagulation; and therefore not eafily worke vpon the subject whereunto it is applied. But contrariwife, being vltimatly and irreducibly folute, it is then apt for action. So that if the substance of gold be exalted in his exuberate colour, it is a true token that it is made subtile, attenuate, and therefore Medicinable; and that the aery and fiery parts, or Elementalitie thereof, are predominant over the earthy and watery. And in this manner preserving the naturall vnitie of the whole compound, doe draw them (not altering the compolition, but subtiliating the substance) in the exalted fymbolisme of the same Elements. The Assumption hath the same proofe and confirmation which the other drawthe by extru.

these work

otable.

luethe

educel

ubtle

fitable

III IIIY

Hilcan

s made.

ad pro-

d cop-

That

body, mans ithe le, or gulati-

biect

vlti-

exu-

btile

it the 100-

this

ole

JM-

lted

ion

the other before: that is, my very often and almost daily experience, whereof, if need be I, can produce many eye-witnesses of eminent rancke, and amongst them some learned Physitions, against whom no one dare mutter an exception. But as Anicen in his booke de Anima, maketh three kinds of proofe. I. Sophisticall. 2. Logicall, and 3. Sensible by sight: of which it is to be vnderstood, that by Sophisticall there he meaneth not false or counterfeit cauillings. But leaving that apart, I will content my selfe with the other twaine. The Logicall part of which we have hitherto discoursed by inference of reason: And now, will we proceede to the third, being of sensible and eye-witnessed experiments.

orature and Emblace Ulternal tree began all larges challenge and quelland.

A PROTESTATION OF THE Author, to the writers of the c lipifiles or Letters following.

your letters written vinto me, concerning the offects and fuccesses in the adminishration of my Potasis blog

ESTIMONIES, A

FEVV DRAVVEN OVT OF A

GREAT NVMBER, BYWHICH the Wonderfull vertues of this my Potable gold in the Curing of Difeafes are fully showed, perhibited and anouched, by oculare and fenfible testimonies, free from all future challenge and question.

A PROTESTATION OF THE Author, to the writers of these Epistles or Letters following.

Onorable, Worshipfull and Worthy persons, I intreate your curtefies, and confiderate humanities, not to take in ill part or make sinister constructió, that I have without your speciall allowances & warrants, published these your letters written vnto me, concerning the effects and fucceffes in the administration of my Potable gold.

gold. Protesting hereby, that I entertaine not the least thought of wronging any of you; but beeing compulsarily enforced to the necessarie defence of my Integritie and goodname, intentiously scandalised in the oppugning of this Medicine, which is the subject of this Discourse. I pray you all willingly to consent to this auerrment of your owne consciences, and testifying both the Innocencie of mee, and vsefull necessity of a Medicine produed by your selues in so many cases of dangers, lest and for saken after all other knowne Remedies rankly attempted: and prognostically reputed desperate. Which your consents, I doubt not shall record an honorable memorie of you, in the maintenance of so necessarie, and healing truth. I shall never faile by and healing truth. I shall never faile by any my habilities, to be ready in any kinde of services of good offices towards you.

this I gave one ounce waight thereof to ayong manually firoug borthan faire from with a manual pone with a Total direct taking thereof he brings, and to the supplementation his fleepe, augided through his mouth, foure long and round ılide-

itate

ih.

2A

wormes heing and quicke, So was no quit and free both hom the feders congelation, and diffemper of the Braine. Notwithstanding many Remedies had aniraminant produced vp d hum, and he had lyen in this case four weekes extremely sickes in great date.

ger of death.

TRANSMARINE TESTIMONIES.

THE VSE OF THE POTABLE GOLD BROVGHT OVT OF ENGLAND, AND PRESENTED TO HIS SACRED IMPERIALL Maiestie I doe approoue, by the happie successes in two cases of mine experience.

Irst, I gaue one ounce waight thereof to ayong man naturally strong, but then farre spent with a malignant seuer, being februs inclua, with Idlenesse of his Braine. After taking thereof he slept, and in his sleepe, avoided through his mouth, foure long and round wormes, liuing and quicke. So was he quit and free both from the feuer, congelation, and distemper of the Braine. Notwithstanding many Remedies had beene before prooued vpon him, and he had lyen in this case source weekes extremely sicke, in great danger of death.

An

(west

therin

N other also recovered by this potable gold; Who beeing possessed of a Quartane feuer, (which tooke him in the Autumne or fall of theleafe, and held him all winter) and was thereby fo weakened, that his strength seemed vtterly decayed, and ready to fall into a Dropsie. This man after many Purgations, tooke of mean ounce of this Potable gold, in the distilled water of Cardnus Benedictus; whereby hee fell into so strange and vnaccustomed sweat, as I cannot remeber euer to haue read, or heard of the like. For beside that it was naturall, with out other impulsion, and so abundant that two persons had their handsfull in drying him, yet it so continued 3. daies and 3. nights. But the most wonderfull thing of all was, that in this extraordinary sweat, and abstinence from meate the time of three daies and nights, he was so farre from fainting, for so much as any person could observe, that with this naturall and spontaneall enacuation, he did enery houre waxe stronger, lustier, and more cheerefull: And at the end of these daies, he was throughly recourred and in perfect health.

VT

ED

ha

od

I doe witnesse this

IOHN ATHMESTETT IN Pubemheimb and Weyer, Dr. in Physicke, and Physition to the Sacred Imperial Maiestie.

D 2

Right

Right worshipfull Sir.

Auingread your true Assertion of that high Medicine the Aurum Potabile, and heard relation made of the strange and wonderfull effects of the same, by my Lord Rosse his Maiesties Ambassadour, Sir N. Drury, and Mr. Stafford, with divers others noble and gentlemen of England that were at this Election & Coronation in Frankforth, I could & would not omit to visit you with these few lines, humly intreating you, that for my pay, I might be partaker of this fo great a gift of God. And having understood by the letters of Sir Henery Cury, that 4. ounces of this high medicine are fould for twenty shillings, I have intreated this gentleman to lay out foure pounds sterling, that I might have 16. ounces of it. The which, if I may attaine at your hands, as also the dole, the manner and time of exhibiting it (for vinwilling would I erre contrary to your experience) I shall ever hold my felfe bound and behoulding vnto you. Thus humbly befreehing you that for common fudies fake, you would not let me faile of my Intreatie, Irest

Your though waknowne yet ener louing friend IAMES MOSAN, Physicion to his Highnesse.

CASSELE IN HESSEN THIS

Right

thet

6100 dia

均可

180

four

fition of rom Po.

lade of effects

ofelia

W N.

dien

were at tould be

s,hom

ittaket flood

金金

Ihm

ronds

The

dole,

illing

cocr

YOU.

At.

afile,

I Ight Worshipful Sir, I thank you most highly for your Aurum Potabile which you fent me: which indeedel do neuer vie, but in necessitie, when other Medicines wil shew no help at al. I hauetried the vertue thereof in extreamevomitings: In the passion of the hart: In malicious and contagious Dysenteries or bloody fluxes: In therifing or suffocation of the mother, and the falling sicknesse by reason thereof: In the Colike. In all which difeafes after all other helps inward and outward hauefailed, one dose of this Medicine did effect fo much, that all these patients after they had taken it, as it were in few houres recovered their health. I have also tried it in that disease which is called Melancholia hypocondriaca (in English some call it the Melancholie of the gutts) but have not found that effect as in the former. Yet it hath comforted the party maruelloufly.

cellent Kemedickler all them three have written a gainflit, talke idely denothing to the parpore This grant them, that they have read much and write based of From Sleulingen 24. of Febr. 1612, ad a

Your ener good friend IAMES MOSAN.

D James Molamus.

From Caffell this & Col August. & G.4.

Worship-

Orshipfull Dr. Anthony, you may thinke me either forgetfull, or vnthankfull for your manifold curtesies towards me. But the truth is, I can finde no convenient meanes as I would, how to shew my thankfulnesse; and therefore constrained to die your debter.

Wdiffilip

Your Aurum Potabile is an admirable Medicine in most Diseases. I have given it in the beginning of a Podagricall fit: Whereupon the patient fell into a fweat, and therewithall his paine ceased, and the patient walked againe in short space. Also in the blondy flux I have vsed it, In the falling sicknesse: In the superfluous Menstruall flux of women: In the wormes of yong children; In the Meafels and small Pocks: Almost in all the Diseases of the Matrice, it is a most excellent Remedie. Let all them that have written againstit, talkeidely & nothing to the purpose. This grant them, that they have read much, and write learnedly, but nothing to disprooue your Medicine: That little experience that I have made of it, and others have found, is sufficient to shew their vanitie. So I desire to be commended to you, &c.

From Cassell this 16.0f August. 1614.

Your most louing friend Iames Mosanus.

But

Phy Phy

thinke

all for

ic. But

s as I

refore

icinein

ig of a

into a

pati-

londy the fir

ermes

s:Al-

tten a-

This

write

ine:

ido.

nitie.

Vt that I may the better aduertise, declare and satisfie this relation by letters sent unto me from this said worthy, truly learned, and vertuously adorned gentleman I ames Mosan Doctor of Physicke, and primate Physition in ordinary to the Landsgraue of Hess. I thinke it not amisse here to insert that which came from an English gentleman named Alexander Oldfield, then beeing in Germany; who in the yeare 1613. the 22. of July, incertaine letters sent to Sir Richard Norton Knight, and by him shewed unto me, amongst other matters write the thus.

One thing I had almost forgotten, which I intreate your Worship to certifie to my Lord', the Lord Biship of Winchester; that being at Hall the 28. of May, I met with the Landsgraue of Hessen his Doctor of Physicke, which speakes English very well (for he proceeded his degrees in Oxford.) And talking with him about Physicke, hee asked whether I knew Doctor Anthony. I told him that I had heard of him. He told me, that his Aurum Potabile was excellent Physicke: and the first experience that he had made of it, was on a maide of 21. yeares of age, which was sore troubled with the falling sicknesse, and since that time she was never troubled with it, being now about a year past.

D 4

He

He gaue her one ounce therof at a time, and that selfe same day she sell into the passions of that Disease elemen times, & (as I said before) she never fel since into them. Hee gaue it also to a childe not aboue source monethes old, which was grieuously troubled with that disease, and it helpt the childe presently.

Also he gaue it to one that was troubled with the bloudy flux, and was brought so low with it, that no man thought he could have recovered: he gave him one ounce at a time, and that but once only, and instantly he recoverd, and is very well.

Hegaue it also to a woman which was in childebed, and was exceeding weake with the scouring, and nothing could stay it but that Aurum Potabile. For as soone as shee tooke that, shee recoursed. This himselfe reporteth, and wisheth that he dwelt neere vnto D. Anthony, that he might have I nough thereof as neede required.

Diethord had shaled for cotten which I intente Linerungs whe Mandigraue of Herban Lin Doctor of Physiokes which spanies English very well for he or content of the depression Oxford) And taking with him the safe of the first Doctor I heave Doctor Manhous I heave Doctor Manhous I told him that had beard of him Testal

ALEX. OLDFIELD.

more that his durate Parabate was accellent I thy licke a and the furth experience that the had wad of the as on a maide of a respective of age, when we for carriebled up to the falling flocatile, and the criterians that have an as floor wine with the saint stigling belduon wir.

Wth

of

fin

M

P

(ince into opefore pled with

with the

that no

ave him and in.

n childs

ing, and

ale, For

I. This

t neere

there.

Ir. I am perswaded that you admire my long filence, which proceedes from no otherthen fundrie great bufinefles,&c. I had occasion to recommendiome of your Aurum Potabile which I had for my proper vie, to a principall gentleman here in the Emperours Court. By whose meanes I have bin of late much fent vnto by fundrie principall perfons, fomedangerously sick, to impart it vnto them; namely the Baron of Crefly, who had two fonnes ficke of the small Poxe: the Eldelt of about 19. and the other of 17. yeares of age. The Eldest died without taking any of the Aurum Potabile, because they about him thought it was in vaine, and that they were both too farre spent. The other, beeing as dangerously sicke, tooke it, and is thereupon recourred. The father himfelfe not being well, hath likewise vsed it, and doth finde himfelte much comforted, and wel againe by it. Many more in like manner. I have beene so liberall of my store, that it is almost spent. Many doe wish I had fuch quantitie by me that they might have a good part of it for their money. Wherefore fend me I pray you a good quantitie of the three forts, with the price therof. Send it either by some of our Marchants that are to come to this next Mart at Frankfurth, or elfe by fome frind of trust in the company of the Count Palatine, or the Lady Elizabeth, &c.

> VIENNA THIS THIRD OF Feb. 1612. Stile Brit.

Your very assured and louing friend Sr. Steph. Leseiur Knight, Embassadour to the Emperour.

Orthy and learned friend, I write to you later then I intended, because I thought it not fit to deliuer my opinion before manifold experience made, in a matter of luch worth and consequence. Experiment ufallax, as our great master Hippocrates teacheth. But now I will breefely shew you the vertue and excellency of your medicine. The first triall that I made of it, was on mine owne daughter about 16. yeeres old: which for two continuall dayes, was much troubled with vomitings, keeping nothing that she eat or dranke. Also by reason of intollerable inward torments she could not sleepe one winke for the space of two daies and nights. In which her extremities, having vied all other convenient and commended medicines to no purpose, but altogether without any eafe or mitigation of her paines, I betooke my felfe lastly to your medicine, as to a holy Anchor, and last hope. She tooke the same and kept it, and then slept a litle. But after 2. houres she call againe in great abundance, and fince she hath continued perfectly well.

The second triall I made thereof, was vpon a very worshipful gentleman, Sir William Samuell Knight. He had a burning feauer, with great violence of continuals heat, so that he vtterly tost all sleepe he had with all a weakenesse in his kidness, and could not make water. Sundry glisters were administred vnto him, Purgations, vomits, and he was also let blood: All which (in my observation) were so far from giving him any case, that the diseased id still grow stronger, and all the

fymp-

bs

fan

20

103 thi (en

Worthy

symptomes or accidents every day worse and worse, and more grieuous. I perswaded the giuing of your medicine. But at the first I could not obtaine, that he should take a new and vnknowne thing. At last by the Importunitie of his friends, and the necessity of his difease still increasing, he yeelded & tooke it. In an instant almost, he felt a gentle remission of his heat, & a milde cooling; his ipirits comforted; his kidneis strengthned, so that he made water in a reasonable good quantity. Since which time, he never cealed to extoll this Medicine, though in troth, having beene long afflicted with a most violent disease, he hath not as yet fully recouered his strength.

The third triall I made, was vpon a maid of noble familie, which being taken with dreadfull convulfions, after some glisters taken, had also this medicine, and was thereby perfectly cured.

toyou

ought etore

t ma-

hew

The

augh.

invall

eping of in-one hich

tand

ther

be-

20-

and

Me

th

Lastly, I was desired to fend all the store I had of this medicine, to a graue Matrone, a gentlewoman already spent with oldage, and much sicknesse, being then left to Gods mercy as at her last gaspe. She prefently after the taking of this medicine, found much ease and comfortable strength in her spirits, though I thinke there be no possible recovering her, so spent as is aforesaid: farewell. &c.

is drew on an appeared by little and hone at be-toware vpon sucry protocetion to the floole: he had footiled lietore and objects bled to gave him tell, is a comport GAYTON the 10. of Sept. 1611.

Your loning friend lang acceptations of bames loh. Markes. de primino

Malter

socation

ther were

ons aduit

2(fifthe)

whenthis

wifehert

forthyrge

ring him!

cornes he

takingth

mertor

byhew

voto

hehado

hathcon

body W

John Ha

verylo

pingfer

alloth

dicine

worth,

miraci

50001 of this beto

bute

idy.

After Doctor Anthony, though I have no acquaintance with you at all, yet being an eye witnesse of your generall charity extended to the whole world, in bringing to the vie of men the most excellent quintessence for the rectifying of nature, that the world (as I thinke) yet euer had, I am thereby imboldned to presume of your fauour for fome few graines of the fame, which (for the feuerall operations that I have seene thereof, in two speciall friends of mine, both at the point of death) shall in my esteeme for euer be held in most precious accompt. For you shal understand that about a twelue. moneth fince, I came to a brother in lawes house of mine, one Sir William Samuell knight, of Vpton in Northampton-shire, whom I found in great extremitie of ficknesse, and thereby so weakned with the continuall torment he was in that all which were about him feared him greatly: he had three Doctors of Philicke, yet could none of them minister any thing to him to give him any case of historments, but rather tormented him more, untill at last, himselfe remembred that one Mr. Markes had commended this memorable medicine of yours. Which being brought, hee tooke, and it wrought so miraculous an effect within the compalfe of two houres, as neither he nor I euer faw before. For it instantly deliuered him of his paine, which feemed before intollerable: It gave him rest, which for many daies and nights before he had bin barred of: It drew on an appetite by little and little, all meat before being loath some vnto him: And (which is most maruellous) whereas formerly, by his medicines excoriating those passages, he seemed to endure great torture vpon euery prouocation to the stoole: he had now in the day and night five stooles, and every pronocation

1

otos

am

toc

in 100 che le of Vor.

eat

ta.

ret

ute

uocation was now as delightfull vnto him, as the other were tormenting. Then did one of his Phylitions aduife, that now he should take some Cordiall, to affift the faculties of nature being very weake. But when this was propounded vnto my brother by his wife, he vtterly refused it. Neuerthelesse, it was so farre forthvrged, as that he tooke it, the Physition bearing him in hand, that it was nothing else but Vnicornes horne, Bezoar stone and such like. But after taking thereof, my brother fell againe into his formert ortures, and more vehement then before. Wherby he was enforced the felfe fame night to fend again. vnto Mr. Markes; who relected him as formerly he had done: fince which time (by Gods bleffing) he hath continued well. After this manner an obstructed body was cured. It hath wrought a great effect in Sir John Hunt Knight, of Leicelter-Shire, who lately was very low brought with a fluxe, together with a Burningfeuer: and being neere vnto death, and voyde of all other helpe, he was releeved by the felfe same Medicine only, and perfectly restored. Mr. Doctor Ashworth, who partly had feene, and partly heard thefe miraculous effects of this your Medicine, lying dangerously fick at Oxford this last Sommer, fent his Son in very great half to Master Markes for some portion of this your Medicine: his faid sonne feared that at his returne, he should not finde him living But thankes beto God, he liueth, and is well: which is to be attributed vnto your Medicine, although peraduenture he will not acknowledge the same, &c.

Shire, lanuary 20. 1612.

Your Ready and affured friend, Henry Skipwith.

E 3 Macle

find again confider, and not too fir the of fo da foreand w

by my box

nday, m

Dr. 6200

Ellnol

English

ing ag

prouide

malth.

my lett

tableg

MACTE VIR PROBITATE, et Scientia singulari.

Y wifes brother Mr. Henry Skipwith, lately told me how friendly mention of me you made to him; Hemight very well have reciprocated, andfaid, how oft mention he hath heard me make of you. Yet howfoeuer, I must euer acknowledge my selfe obliged to you in double bands. For in my last grieuous and long languishing sicknesse, when my then Physition Dr.C. staggered in his Judgement of my Difease, and in the hope of my recovery he feemed to quaile: yea when my felfe, and all my beholders did despaire of my life; then by Gods prouidence, a friend (telling the rare vertues of your Aurum Potabile) caused two graines of the same, to be dissolved in fiuespoonfuls of distilled Endine Water, and so to be ministred vnto me. After receiving thereof, within one houres space, it is incredible to be spoken, what alleuiation I found of my languishings, and what corroboration of all my vitall parts. In the morning I tooke it, and untill night I felt a most happy operation thereof. It procured stooles all that day, so pleafingly as my foule could defire: vntil fuch time as that my Physition (after he had taken his leaue of me for that night, I that I had now composed my self to rest) came againe vnto me, having vpon the point of a knife somewhat which hee did put into my mouth, being then almost asseepe. But about midnight when I did awake, I found my selfe relapsed as before. Then, vtterly despairing of my life, I called (as I thought

E,

ely tol

nadeto

ocated.

nkeof

dge my Li

han

nentel

helee. behol

idence

m Path

Colved dioto

within

What

tcor-

ingl

erati-

plea

sthu

netor.

of a

hen

Maller

thought my last call) vnto my wife, intreating her to fend againe to my foresaid friend, to intreate him to consider, whether in his ludgement two graines were not too smal a proportion to ouercome the malignitie of so dangerous a Disease. He therefore gaue me this second time three graines, which speedily as before, and wonderfully did refresh my spirits, and therby my bodie was very foluble for the space of 7. daies after. And notwithstanding fundry evacuations every day, my strength daily increased. Then was that Dr. exceedingly angry that I did entertaine his counfell no longer: fince which time he hath wrote an English booke, vncharitably defaming me, and cauilling against that famous Medicine, which by the prouidence of God restored vnto me both life and health. Now concerning the chiefe intention of these my letters, I pray you fend me 12. graines of your potable gold in such forme as my brother Mr. Henry Skipwith lately received from you. This bearer my friend shall give you satisfaction for the same, &c. The Author of health is God, who perpetually preserve you, vnto whome he hath vouchfafed fuch fauour as to attaine vnto so great a restorer of health, and prolonger of life, as this Aurum Potabile appeareth to be. Farewell. Reu. Dr.

Vpton, 15. Feb. 1612.

Your most louing friend William Samuell.

manifed E 4

For your charges and dountell, titie equilmen well giacyou full content, My falle alfa will be with

Worthy

7 Orthy Sir. I am aduised by that Reuerend Doctor, Master Doctor Hunton, in these parts highly accounted, to require in behalfe of our worthy friend, a knight, your helpe and aduice, in a deplored estate, wherein hee now standeth. We desire also some quantity of your Anrum Potabile, with direction for the due administration thereof. This gentleman diseased is neere 80 yeares of age, of Cholericke constitution. The first originall of his Infirmitie (as we coniecture) was by company of his wife being yong. Not long after in a Iourney which he tooke, when he was yet fcarle fixe myles from his house, he was constrained oft times for to alight from his horse. Then did he make water, and in his water either blood, or some substance like vnto blood, peraduenture spermaticall, which hath continued now many daies. Also even to this time he is vnable to retaine his vrine, by the Imbecillitie of his bladder as wee suppose. A Gonorrhe likewise he was subject vnto. He is not as yet free from any of these Infirmities. We expect some helpefrom you. For your charges and counfell, this gentleman will giue you full content. My selfe also will be with you this next Terme, and will not be vnthankfull.

Trent the 11. of Sept. 1611.

Your most louing friend, N.W. Physition.

Malter

ned in great

otmy.

came o

lides t

hauea

pray y

create

God

t Rox

equin (equin

hdp

TOOL 35

II An illuri

are b hefi

W25

terini le (ix)

time

Water

elik

hath

mek

tie d le he y of 700.

WIL

Ma Rer

After Doctor Anthony you may call to minde, This letter if you please, that about September last past, came from you wrote certaine letters vnto me. At which the Knight time I also received from you five ounces of your An-himselfe. rum Potabile, to the praise of God, your commendation, and my great good. My Diseases were mentioned in the former letters. Belides which I had also a great swelling from my hucchlebone vnto the soles ofmy feete. But it is without paine: peraduenture it came of cold, or with lying long time vpon my right side. I vnderstand by Master Doctor Hunton, that besides this Aurum Potabile which you fent me, you hauealfo the substance of gold in formelike hony, I pray you fend me thereof, and the manner how to vsethe same. I doe feele (I praise God) a mitigation of all my paines and Infirmities throughout all my body: the swelling which I mentioned doth daily decrease: My vrinealso I amable to retaine. This booke of yours Master Doctor Humon requested of me. Send me an other I pray you, your studies and endeauours God alwaies bleffe: farewell.

Which I delire may be lease by this bearer of the best:

BLYBROVVGH Octob. 10. 1611.

26. of Nonemb. 1614.

Your friend. H. A.

F

This

tradich the Knight

His gentleman, of whom I shall now next write, and whose letters sent unto me are Berialt pairs came from extant, being Secretarie to the right honouable the Earle of Southampton, in his owne words had beenelong sicke of a Quartane feuer: for Cure whereof he entertained a most learned Physition, who ministred onto him a long time Such Medicines as weare appropriate: Neither yet had he overmastered the fener; nor restored any strength unto the patient. Then did this Physition perswade this gentleman his patient to vse my Aurum Potabile, which he did, and, and with good successe. Whereupon, he wrote afterwards. unto me for more thereof, as followeth.

> Sir I have found so much good vse of your Aurum potabile, as makes me defiremore. For I must truely fay, I have gotten much strength since I tooke it, and recouered my spirits exceedingly decaied by extremitie of ficknesse: my store is not so spent, but that I' hauesome left in the Country, but my lay hath bin longer here then I expected; and therfore may be fupplied from you with more ease then from thence. Which I defire may be fent by this bearer of the best:

Sofhall I reft.

BEYER OVY CH OCCO. 10. SOUTHAMPTON HOUSE THIS 26. of Nouemb. 1611.

> Your very louing friend, Thomas Kisley.

Master-

hado

left.

burni

red. I

dang

toun

Medi

Swer

alor

tore,

F.

7 7.t22

SE ATE

25 64-

OTTHE

PRETA

rred

d time

fored .

Phy

post

TATE

727 vely

and

mi-

oin

After Doctor Anthony, I pray you make me so much beholding vnto you as to bestow me this twentie shillings in that soueraigne quintellence which I had of you at my being with you. For (as I told you) I was to haue but one of thole glailes my selfe: which, one of my especiall friends hath had of me; to that now, I have scarcely one graine left. Sir Brian Caue Knight, was taken with a violent burning feuer: but after taking of this Medicine, he had only one fit, and then was perfectly well recouered. Also a servant of mine, had in like manner to dangerous a Feuer, that at my comming home I found him at point of death. The onely taking of this Medicine hath fo purged him by an extraordinary Sweat, (that thankes be to God) he is at this time in a lorney abroad with me, and finds his bodie in to good temper as it was not of a Twelue moneth betore, &c. Chicken, This recold beforemy fam

Henry Skipwith.

my I ordstonne and my telle-

Town Louise friend The Webbes.

ther, Della Lipertof the Arches, in Tanna Lal

Ir. Some few houres after your departure, Master Doct. Lewbnar came hither to my Lord Bishop of Winchester. And at supper, after my Lord had made some relation of the proceedings and benefite he found of your Aurum Potabile, Doctor Lewknarreplied in the comendation therof, faying, That on Saturday last past, he being at Cowdry, came to a gentlewoman who was dead to the world, being both speechlesse and knowing no body; he gaue her one spoonfull of your Aurum Potabile, in that case as shee then was. And at the first taking thereof, she fell into strange convulsions, wherein she continued two houres: and after he gaue her as much more, and then she fell into a great sweat: and 2 houres after, he gaue her a spoonfull more, & she fell into a fine sleepe, and waking she said, Give memore of that: which was done; and she tooke good rest after. And the next day, he went to fee how she did, and found her eating of a Chicken. This he told before my Lord Bishop, his brother, Dollar Stemard of the Arches, Sir Thomas Bilson. my Lords ionne, and my felte.

WALTHAM THIS 15.0f.

Your louing friend Tho. Webbes.

this.

full

time

tain

His Doctor Lewknar, of whom mention is made in these former letters, did afterwards write unto me, desiring to have more of my Potable gold. For this learned Ge ntleman, had before found and seene the effects thereof in the Cure of his daughter in law by marriage with his Sonne, being strongly taken with the falling sicknesse. The case whereof set downe in apart of his letter to me, which I have shewed in the end of my first booke. Whereupon the aduersaries both to my selfe and the truth, have greatly accused I was about to say (landered him) as may appeare by an other letter of his fent unto me beginning thus.

Good Doctor Anthony, I have beene bitterly taxed, for giving teltimony of the good fucceffe of your Aurumpotabile: which doth nothing at all daunt me. For I affure my felfe, that Aurum potabile being rightly made(which few haue attained vnto) is a fingular medicine howfoeuer, I thinke yours (as I have experienced) to be good. And therefore I pray you fend me two ounces by this my kinfman, and write vnto me what effect it worketh in womens monethly courses,&. And after it foloweth.

I doeaffuredly promise you, that as I shall find the effect thereof good, all the Societie of the Colledge shall not auert me. So likewise, shall not any private regard of friendship, flattery or gaine, induce me at any time, to give approbation to any dangerous or vncertaine medicine, &c.

hop of

dhad

mehte

erre.

m.Sz.

agen.

gboth

er one fhee. into

DIVI

then gaue and

Was day,

of a

(on

Your louing friend George Lewknar.

I doubt

T Doubt not (my good Cosen) but you much desire to heare what effects your Auru Potabile hath performed in these parts. A certaine neere neighbour of mine, the wife of Ro. Downing, lay even at point of death, after a long languishing licknesse (for shee was prayed forinthe Church.) Whereupon, my Sonne Barners & I, went in the after noone to fee her. Shortly after our comming, she tooke a potion of a Physition there present, which sodainly she call vpp: at which I mused. Then did her husband affirme, that for the space of amoneth before, she had not taken downe a spoonfull of any thing, but she did likewise cast it vp. My Son did the importune me, to give her a spoonful of your Aurumpotabile; which I was very loath to doe, feeing she feemed but a dead woman: and it might be fome discredit to the medicine, & to me. Yet at the last I did yeeld, the being defirous thereof: I gaue her therfore a spoonfull, which staied with her contrary to all our expectations. And within a short time, whereas before the was fo cold, that they were forced to lay more cloathes on her, she came to a kind naturall heat. The we gave her some mace-ale with Aurum potabile, which she digested, and afterwards mace-ale alone, which also staied with her. The 3. day after, we fent to visit her, who sent vs word that the same day she had eate the best part of a Chicke, & did hope to come to vs shortly, &c. You shall also know that Mr. Boswell a Minister & Preacher of Saffron Walden, did greatly importune me for one ounce of Aurum potabile for his wife, being accounted past Cure in a languishing difease. And she by that only ounce received so much comfort, that he fent vp to Lond. to you for more, &c

of his

COVVLING, 21.die Maij. 1611
Your assured louing Cosen Tho. Wolridge, Sustice of peace in Essex.
A letter

point of hee was

Sonne

Short.

byfiti-

Which

orthe

OMDE S

Aitro.

100mfg to doe.

ghthe

ne last

the.

toal

to lay lheat.

one

t to had

vel 2

此

eh

Letter sent to Master Edward Smith of the Temple, Counsellor at the common lawes, from Master George Wethery, Secretary to the right honourable the Lord Sheffield, Lord President of his Maiesties Councell established for the North parts.

Good Master Smith, my Lord would have you send presently to Doctor Anthony, and desire him to send his Lordship (with all possible speed) the like quantity of his Aurum Potabile, as he sent the last time, for that my Lord hath made many trials of it; and will report much good thereof; which will turne greatly to Master Doctors advantage, and the credit of his Medicine.

Yorke this 30. of Septemb. 1613.

Lord And bern her speech and country med fermod Alwaies yours George Wethery.

True Relation made by me Elias Holmes, of the manifold vertues of Master DoEtor Anthonies Aurum Potabile, tryed by the command of the right honourable, Edmund Lord Shiffield, Lord President of Yorke.

F 4

The:

The wife of Iohn Gonlsbrough servant to my Lord, lay very sicke sundry daies before my Lord had knowledge thereof. Then was I sent vnto her, whom I found languishing and in great extremitie. Shee was greatly sweld in her, bodie, and had also a loosenesse, so that it past from her almost vnknowing to her. And further she was greatly distempered in heat. She had taken no manner sustenance for 4. or 5. daies before, whereby shee was growne so weake, that shee could not moone her body but as she was helpt by others. Also her eyes were greatly swelled: her speech could not be heard the length of the bed: shee desired nothing but drinke, taking no rest, neither night nor day.

The first spoonfull that I gaue her, did shew small effect whilft I was with her, which was some houre: but they which attended her, faid, that some two houres after, it made her rift, and to voide a little water of her Stomacke. At evening I gave her one other spoonfull, and before I could seale up the glasse, the was in a little flumber, but it continued not long. Neuerthelesse, shee felt so much ease at her Stomack, that she said, What is this that my good Lord hath fent me: for I give God thankes I feele much eafe towards that I did: with that she prayed hartily for my Lord And both her speech and countenance seemed better then before: Then about one of the clock at midnyght, she fell asleepe, and slept two houres. The next morning, I gaue her the third spoonfull; and after that she cast a little, and in her casting she tooke cold, which caused her to cough, and made her so ill and weake, that I thought my laboure was all loft. Her loosenes also held her still. But it pleased God to give fuch a bleffing vnto this Medicine, that after the Lora Strifted as Lord Profident of Yorke.

5725

taki

250 期時 top Land

Lord bad

et, who

Shee wa

2 100%

wing to in heat, h 01 5.

kethat

as belot

ed: her neither

w Imall

netwo

tlenz

one o.

glaffe,

tlong

neck,

hath

eto-

tmy

med

kz

The

laf-

ke

llic

10

taking of 4. or 5. spoonfull more, her flux was staide, her strength also recovered in such sort, that she was able to sit vpright in her bed, and to receive sustenance. Also, after three spoonful more, shee could endure to have her clothes put on, and with a little helpe, to walke vp and downe the Chamber. Shee tooke in all 13. spoonfuls. Then did she acknowledge that shee was perfectly well, giving God thankes therefore: And to me shee said, Now Master Holmes I pray you spare your further labour, &c.

Homas Taylor, one of my Lords houshold feruants, about the same time in the former yeere had an extraor dinary Maligne seuer & of long A quotidian continuance. He was a very able and strong maligne seuer.
man: Neuerthelesse, it had so weakned him, that he was scantly able to goe vpright: He could endure to take no sustenance for a long time. Often times also as a mad man, he would arise out of his bed in the night season, and lye downe on the sloore, and there lie, vntill some body came by chance to helpe him.

This yeare he likewise fell into the same Infirmity by all signes and tokens. His first sit continued sixe hours, with such violent paine at his heart, that he was enforced to cry out. My Lord was not wilking that I should give him any thing this first sit. The next day after, when the former passions began to assault him, my Lord sent me vnto him, and I gave him one spoonfull of this Medicine. After which, he did sundry times cast vp by vomit, a very silthy and enill substance. When he had done casting, I gave him another spoonfull, and so he rested quietly, having an easie sit which continued the space of three houres.

houres. His third fit came also vnto him, then I gaue him one other spoonfull, and within a quarter of an houre, he had a vomit. I gaue him one other spoonfull, and he had one other vomit. I gaue him then an other, that is, three times one after an other, and three times he vomited: and then he was prouoked to the stoole. Whilst he was there, he had againe a very great vomit, being of divers colors, and a mucilage or sly-mie substance. After this vomit, I gaue him one other spoonfull, and then he slept quietly, and had no more fits afterward.

A continuall maligne feuer. Pleased God to visite with an extraordinary Quotidian feuer, having a sensible paine in his bones, which made him so forethat he could not abide one to touch him: and with the extremitie thereof, became even mad and senselesse, not knowing any man. Also so weake, that every one of his friends expected death. He continued in this extreamitie a fortnight, before I was sent to him: In which time, he had taken little sustenance. His body also was extreamely hot, and he tooke no rest.

After the first spoonfull that I gaue him, within halfe an houre he fell asleepe, and slept the space of one houre, and when he awoke did casta little. At night I gaue him one other spoonfull after which he slept two houres, and then spake these words. Will not Master Holmes come again evento me? and other such like speaches manifestly appropriage that he had found comfort by that which I had given him. Then did he give thankes veto God. All that I gave him was eleven spoonfuls. So by little and little he amendad and he was a second or second.

ded, and became perfectly recovered.

hen gave arter of m her spoon in then an and three ted to the

ery great

ge or Ay.

ne other

BO MORE

ants, it ordinary

ald not remitie

of his

xtrea-

which

rallo

din

200

Any others I could here set downe, which have received in these parts present releefe by this Medicine. Among the rest, my Lords Children both sonnes and Daughters, who sundry times and in sundry cases being affected, have alwaies bene cured with this onely Remedy. Also my Lordhimselfe by we thereof, doth prevent many sits of the Stone which heretofore he hath beene subject wnto, and preserveth his health thereby; So likewise doth my Lady.

Altly for my felfe, being subject vnto an extreame migrim in my head, as Physitions call it, but my disease is in this manner. Many times in the yeare, being in perfect health, I shall have my light fodenly taken away; fo shall I continue halte an houre: then shall I have a most violent aking in my head, also a sleepinesse; then a kind of stupor first in my lips and tongue, and so it goeth downe to my hands; I stretch them out like vnto the Palfey, and A dead Palfey thus it holds me a good while: Then it will go downe into my legs. All this while I shall have a great defire to call, but cannot, vntill I have beenein this fit some 6. houres: and then with much adoe I shall cast, and after once or twice calling I shall have some better ease. As long as I am in that former extremitie, I shall somtime farcely be able to fetch my breath, neither to speake, nor understand, nor heare what is spoken. But at the last I fall asleepe, & then I begin to be wel, & yet not very wel, nor in perfect good health for the space of one whole weeke after. Now it pleafed God, that being at Lond.in Decem.laft, 1613. being in prefence of my Lord, fuddenly I felt that my lightfailed me, my head aked, and that my fit approached neere. Whereupon I craued pardon of my Lord, being not able to goe forward with his businesse that I had then in hand. My Lord therefore commanded mee prefently to take some Aurum Potabile; for it was then in my custodie. But I made the mixture somewhat more effectuall of the gold, then I was accustomed to doe at other times. And within one quarter of an houre after taking thereof, my spirits and senses were comforted: the cold, which at the first possessed me, became temperate. Also I brake winde both vpward and downward. Likewise I had a desire to vomit, and an inclination to fleepe: But my Lord would not permitme, caufing me to bee kept walking vp and downe. Whereby after the space of one houre I felt my felfe very well: only my head did ake a little. But (praised be God) I did not fall into my vsuall fits. Furthermore, by taking that Aurum Potabile, I became loole bodied, whereas viually I am accultomed to be bound. All these things (if neede require) I will bee ready upon mine oath to anough. Thus I doe end.

EVER SINCE I TOOKE THIS

Medicine I have continued in good health, praised be God. Feb. 4. 1614.

Your louing friend Elias Holmes, attending my foresaid Lord in his Chamber. I may referre

ed me,

TOD

then

pre-

lin

bit

med

tan

ere

td

May not forget here to remember the right Reverend father in God, whose learning, pietie and vertue be sufficiently knowne, the Lord Bi-Shop of Winchester, my Honourable good Patron: against whose testimonie there can be no exception. His Lordship is a most autenticke witnesse of this my Potable gold, and testifieth the vertues thereof to all persons: and can (if neede require) maintaine the same to the greatest persons of this Realme: hownot onely himselfe in the recouerie and maintenance of his owne bodily health, much weakened with continuall studies, and the late great paines in conference of many copies, for the true translation of the holy Scriptures out of Hebrew into English: but also very many others, receining Aurum Potabile from his pious charitie, have beene from many and divers diseases recovered, and restored to their former health by vse thereof. But because the vocall and linely attestation of his Lordship, can more satisfic any that require satisfaction, then any delinery by his letters (ent me, I will be sparing in that point: and trouble the Reader onely with a few of many, shewing how, and to whome, his Lordship in greatest necessities, and dangerous diseases, did liberally bestow this Potable gold, and commanded the effects thereof to be briefely fet downe, as followeth.

Sir, being appointed bymy Lord & Mr. to confer with divers of this coutry, who have bin cured of fundry difeases with Aurumpotabile, given vnto them by his Lordship: I have accordingly take the report of those few that were neere this place, and with whom I might conveniently speake. Many more there are, that received good by it, which dwell remote from this place, with whom I shall speake as occasion shall be offered, and leisure permit to do it. So hoping to be better furnished with these things against your comming into Hampshire, which is shortly expected, I take leave, resting, Your assured friend to my power, Antho. Langford Secretary to my Lord Bishop of Winchester.

BISHOPS WATHAM THE last of November, 1612.

Ood Sir, although it be vnusuall with me to offer exchange of words to strangers, yet since the heavenly providence hath designed a part of noble skill, wherein I vnderstand you are singular, to be some meanes of healthfull vse vnto me, I should hold it a sult forfeit of my recovered estate, if I should sile eany thing that appertaineth to the effestring it. I therefore cannot choose but tell you how winchel me of yo

to your

the Phy

and muc

beholtz

powert

further

Ь

mid

mac

€0

fit

to colle

curedd

to then

reportor

hwhom

oreare,

te from

hoa hall ingtobe

OF COD.

ected, 1

eford

oot-

part

111-

e,l

much I am bound to my Honourable good Lord of Winchester, who first of his good fauour vouchsafed me of your Aurum potabile, so well agreeing with my diseased body, as that I shall become a Customer vnto you for more of it. I find it very milde aboue all other Phylicke in operation, cauling a temperate sweat, and much allaying the violence of the offending humors. How highly I doe prize it, this my letter shall behostage: desiring him from whose vnsearchable power the vertue comes, to bleffey ou for it, to whofe further grace I leaueyou; and rest

> Your assured friend Lucy Ieruice, wife unto Sir Tho. Ieruice knight.

Was sicke of an ague some sevennight or there a- A malignant bouts, & the I had two such fits, as I & all that did burning feuer. fee me, thought I could not have escaped death. Then I dranke a spoonfull of Aurum potabile in the middle of mine extreame burning, and within a quarter of one houreafter, the extreame paine in my Itomackeceased, and I felt my selfevery well. Only the heat remained with me about one houre, which paine of the Homacke was wont to hold me 3. or 4. houres in the former fits. The next cay that my Ague should come, it came not all the day, vntill supportine. And fitting at supper, it came very terribly vpon me, fo that I was driven to go to bed. I was extremely fick. Then I called for a spoonfull of Aurum potabile, and it wrought with me as it did before. I did also sweat fome three houres, and fo I thanke God, he tooke his farewell.

Alex. Oldfield.

A long continuing quotidian with a vomiting.

It tooke him once in 24, houres, with a colde shiuering in the likenetse of an Ague. Which colde helde him but a short time. Afterward, he fell into an extreame heate, with a vomiting which continued about 3. or 4. houres. In this manner he was daily perplexed the space of a Moneth or sine weekes, before he tooke the Aurum Potabile. Which at the first taking, being at the beginning of his cold, stayed his vomiting, and his sit was not so extreme as it had beene before. And in this manner he tooke it 3. or 4. sits immediately one after another, about the quantitie of a spoonful or somewhat lesse and still his sits did lesson and decay, and lastly lest him altogether.

Durlay Ianuary 10. 1612.

Francis Fortescue.

him to a

Ar

ming toner.

A BRIEFE COL-LECTION AND RELATION OF

THOSE FEW AMONGST MANY,

POTABILE, IN THIS COUNTY of SOVTHAMPTON, truly related from their owne mouthes vnto me Anthony Langford.

the way

1 at the , 此

e asit

okeit

ntice fillia

toge.

Homas Wheeler of Waltham husbandman, aged 67. yeares, continued sicke the space of one moneth of a new disease very common at that time, whereof many died. This man likewise was in so great perill of death Anaged man that the bell tolled for him, and, at point of

he was prayed for in the Church. In this his desperate death, case, a spoonfull of Aurum Potabile was given vnto him, by which he selt some present releese, and fell into a gentle Sweat for an houre or twaine: Then taking one other spoonfull, he slept quietly the space of an houre: After that a third spoonfull, by which he had a vomit of a great quantity of slymic humors. And by sensible degrees he recovered health, praised be God, and is yet lyuing being of great yeares.

1 Edmund

A continuall burning feuer

Dmund Laurence of Bishops Waltham gentleman, aged 3 6. yeares, was perplexed with a burning seuer continuing two daies, and two nights without intermission; he onely tooke one spoonful or rather lesse in quantity of the Aurum Potabile, and by degrees he soone returned into his for mer temper and health againe.

A continuall and tharp burning feuer.

Iles Ethericke Y coman of the same place, 40. yeares of age, had a continual and sharpe burning seuer eight daies and nights. In all which time he could take no rest: he tooketwo spoonfuls of Aurum Potabile, and slept quietly the space of two houres the same night. The next day towards evening, taking the like quantitie, he slept the whole night quietly, and recovered perfect heath.

A quotidian.

Illiam Hilles of Waltham aforesaid, Yeoman, aged 53. yeares, having had sive sits of a quotidian, and beeing entred into the sixt, he tooke as poonfull of Aurum Potabile, which put him out of his colde sit, and made him sweat; and then taking as much more, it gave him a good vomit and 2. or 3. stooles: and thereupon shortly after hee slept quietly and recovered his stomacke, which both had failed him the former 5. daies, and since he hath beene well.

Iohn

Aur

inta het

mo

her

000 code

abur. treo

one

m Pa-

istor

8, 40, but.

hich als of two ards

iole

erioned with an extre Ohn Walter of the same, 40. yeares of age, having A tertian fehad 4. fits of a Tertian, and the fift fit being vpon uer. him; he tooke a good spoonfull of Aurum Potabile. Whereupon within one houre after, his fit left him, and neuer troubled him fince.

The said Iohn Walter, having 2. spoonfuls of Aurum Potabile left, after he himselfe was cured, he gaue the same vnto a maide in Hambleton of 14. yeares, who had languished of a tertian feuer a quarter of a yeare before, and thereby was cured and had no more fits.

Howhold names are vader written have devem Petalife, from my Lord Billion, an T Enry Hindle of Waltham, 47. yeares aged, for the space of fine daies continually had a feuer A continuall without intermission. He could not retaine miting. any thing in all that time, that he did either eate or drinke. After the fift day, he tooke a spoonfull of the Aurum Potabile, which he did not cast vp as his other nutriments: but digested it, and it put him into a fiveat that continued about 4. houres: Then againe he tooke as much more, and did fweat 3. houres more: After that he arose, and being vp, he did vomit a pint of thicke viscous slegme. Then after the space oftwo houres, he did eate of a peece of veale, which he retained and digested. And the next day went abroad, and in short time recovered his former health which he inioyeth now.

long languished of this new ague. Iohn Haz Tableday

Anthony Langtond. I donbs

A Paffion of the heart.

The Cole of Waltham Mercer 43. yeares aged, was grieved with an extreame paine at his heart, so that for the space of three daies he could neither take soode nor rest, and was growne so weake, that every man doubted his life. As spoonfull of Aurum Potabile was given him by those about him, hee not knowing what they gave him. And after one houre, an other spoonfull; and a while after the third spoonfull. By this meanes, he continued long in a sweat, and within two daies after was restored to health.

These also whose names are under written, have all in their extremitie of sicknesse, received Aurum Potabile, from my Lord Bishop, and are well recovered: But hetherto I have had no conference with them. Howbeit it is most certaine, that by meanes thereof, they were recovered from fundry dangerous Infirmities.

Robert Moore Master of Arts, of this new seuer.

Reuben Hamme gent. the like.

The wife of Mr. Armwood in the forest, of the like.

The wife of Mr. Cotton of Roche Court.

The wife of Iohn Hawkesworth, cured of a strange disease, whereof shee had long before languished.

Richard Peckham.

Tho. Beale, about one hundred yeares of age, and recovered of this new ague, and is yet living.

Edward Searle of Northampton gent. having long languished of this new ague.

Nicholas Prior.

Anthony Langford.

I doubt

hearthon neither

that c m Pa-

tons

Oure,

000-

hand

hane

ived

200 hal

CON

red

W,

T Doubt not but that shefe Testimonies so warranted, being but a few exemplarie proofes of very many, will satisfie any understanding and bonest reader. I intend not with a whole Calender or endlesse Catalogue, and with tedious reading of the same thing often done, to weary the reader. Ele I could easily Inlarge this Roule: It being certaine, that there is scarce any one Shire or Lordship in England, from whence I have not bin fent unto, for my potable gold, with which, Noblemen, gentlemen, and persons of other rankes have bin dinersly cured and releeved, in their necessities of their healths: Apparent it is, that it never burt any, profited all, though all have not recovered. We must herein euer acknowledge the vnrenealed ordinance of God, not to bee controlled. by any Art or Industrie of bumane Remedies. I desire therefore the patient Indifferencie of all Readers, to consider and fanourably to Interpret these my proceedings. For I acknowledge and confeffe, that in ordinary Cures performed, no Rationall Physicion ought to print the Galender of his successes, except in some cure and peculiar case, which seldome happening, may be a light and Instruction to others (though many have sought fame thereby) which was farre from my intent and purpose. But the necessitie of vindicating my Integritie, and the well knowne truth of the effects of my potable gold, have made that necessarily voluntarie, which before I neuer entertained in prinate consultation. For good wine needs no Bush or Signe ..

Signe

Signe. And thefe be the motiues why I offer this small as fay (I hope not wearisome to be read and observed) beeing a short mention of some persons and Diseases, which have received present helpe by the vse of this so maligned Medicine: (my potable gold) I say, a short mention, not of all, nor the greater part, nor in any neere proportion of number to the totall. For some will not consent to bee named: and some specialties may not be disulged. Andinsome respect I am not very forward of mine owne nature to enlarge the malice of my traducers, by publishing some Cures which cannot please them to heare of. Thus farre forth concerning other mens testimonies: I will proceede to mine omne practife.

ber Abberren it is that

S the brighter the Sunne is the more apparent be the shadowes caused by folid & thicke duskish bodies: fo, the more excellent & famous the glorie is, that is atchieued by things wel & faithfully performed; the more it is spurgald with the kicking heeles of Enuie. As this is true in all actions and commercements of this life, foit hath notoriously and lauishly bin practifed against me in my proceedings. At the very first, this corroding spite, sparing no man, this malicious detraction, enemie of truth, set vp their whole rest in such fashion as they could, to demolish my faire building. But truth, that precious daughter of time, hath now undertaken the quarrell, that only

torce

coper

pero

tion

neg

pull

after

Here

thee

alli

h

Forbi

SECTION ASSESSED.

at being

20714

107 tot

num.

to bee placed,

erd of

min-

Come

CONCE.

eedeti

more

ed by

0,the

that

per-

the

em

this

7 000

At

nie Shi-

nil.

that will say, nill they, shee must and will prevaile against their furie, and maintaine her quiet nauigation, notwithstanding any gustes or stormes, from their dry, and water-lesse Clowdes. And to the intent that euery vnpartiall, vnpreiudiced, and Intelligent reader, may the better vnderstand the cause of these Impressions, and the state and first force of this controversie, which hath now enforced the publike attestation of the vertues of this Medicine: I will as briefely and sparingly as may be, by one or two Instances, declare the first originall cause.

Ir Adolfe Cary a knight, nobly descended, being not well, fent for a Phylition of great name and fame: who gaue him fuch Medicines as he thought fit, one being a Purgation, which did not only clenfethe first veines, but wrought somewhat forceably. Within short time after, the disease was discouered to be the small Pocks. But by the vnieasonable revulsion and indraught of that so strong Purgation(as I thinke) and peraduenture by some other neglect, nature failed in the fufficient expulsion of the pultules. Allothole exitures which appeared, shortly after funke againe, or, as we commonly fay, went in. Hereupon, the Patient fellinto that extremitie, that the eminent perill of his life could not be hid, so that all they that were about him despaired vtterly of his recovery. Wherefore they lent to his brother, to call haltily for the Doctors best accquainted with the H 4 itate state of his body, which were two: Who missing them both neither knowing where to feeke either of them, and being very sensible and heavy for his brothers desperate case, by chance met with me in the way, intreats me to accompany him to his brother, then lying dangerously sicke. But I hearing the names of those Doctors, was vnwilling to goe, being loth to give offence: also that gentleman was at that time vtterly vnknowne vnto me, whereby the rather I excufed my felfe. He replied, that I was fufficiently knowne to him by a friend of his whom I had cured, and therefore instantly persisted, that in so honest and necellary and just a cause I would not refuse him. I confented, went with him; and being then evening I visited the sicke gentleman his brother, and found him in a most deplorable state, without sleepe or any other rest, raging and rauing. He tooke a spoonfull of my Aurumpotabile, with which he presently became quiet, of a more cheerefull countenance, and fell into agentle sleepe. After onehoure I gaue him an other spoonfull, after which he spake aduisedly, & said he was much comforted, & fo fleept again, & fweat naturally al his body ouer. And (which was the best signe) the Pocks or Pustuls did againe come out plentifully. I attended him all that night, & at fit & seasonable times gaue him my medicine, sometime pure of it felfe sometimes mixed with broth orother couenient liquor. The next morning, one of his first Doctors comming & finding me there with his patient, tooke that for his occasion to raile on me in vnseeming termes. To whom it was answered, that I was vnwillingly and almost compulsively brought thither, by the neerest of blood to the sick gentleman, & with no lesse intreaty then others. But these Physitians were lo fat fr

health

goode

quiet.

many!

ling,or andi

felli

POWE

part

infe

han

the

fu

Sugar.

of them

DECEMBE

Way

thenh-

imes di

oth to mere lexcu.

pently

Certed,

nell and

him. I

ening

found

N any

mo

écame

linto!

other rid he

Data.

gne 小.

ble

fit

ient

tors

ite

so far from conferring with me cocerning the further health of this patient, whom they then found in very good cefe, that they both ioyned, and would not bee quiet, before they had rid me thence, contrary to the will of the patient, and of those that were present. In what case and state I both found and left this gentleman, you have hard. After my departure, what cooling, or astringent, or otherwise qualified Syrupes, or Electuaries, or other forme of medicine they gaue him all that day I know not. But this I know, that the next night he relapted into the same cruell and desperate accidents, in which I formerly had found him, and from which I had reffored him:peraduenture, he fell into this relaps for want of that my medicine, fo powrefull in threngthning the heart, and expelling poylon from it. For doubtleffe, the exitures being Itopped, and the poylon returning from the outward parts of the body, whither nature had expelled it, to the heart, the same accidents must needes returne. Such relapses are most dangerous, because both the infection is stronger, and the body weaker. And so it appeared in this noble gentleman, by this his votimely death. Then did these Physitions under whose hands he died, bethinke themselues of some stratageme, to avoid the imputation imminent. One of them therefore haltneth to the Court, where he publisheth excuse of himselfe, and accusation of me. And further causeth me to bee cited to the Colledge of London Physitions, and with the eloquence of Tertullus very ltoutly accuseth me, as culpable of the death of this gentleman. Where I acquited my felfe, and maintained my innocency by foure lawfull witnesses, feruants and attendants of their late Malter the deceased knight: Who with one consent and contestation

ther

1W2

1112

the

don

II/II3

dife

For.

nell

temp

perty

Me

mol

tiow

Ctti

his

tion dilated: That I came to their faid Malterlying in his last and extreame pangs, rauing after the exitures of the small pocks were striken in: That after I had with carefull and diligent attendance all that night administred my potable Gold vnto him, as aforesaid, the extremities of his passions, and grieuousnelle of accidents were much eased and abated, he more quiet and in better sense, and that the Pustules of his difease did againe plentifully breake out, by which meanes he was respectively in good temper: And that the next day when the faid Phyfitions had excluded me, and given him their mixtures, all things turned to their old course, he to his former extremities, and so died. His Maiestie also had commanded 4. honourable persons to be present at the Colledge in the hearing and debating of these actions now in question: that is, the right honourable the Lord Knenet, Sir Henry and Sir Philip Cary knights, brethren of Sir Adolph deceased, and Sir William Godolphin knight; who finding it fully proved how I found him (in the agony of death) how I left him (in good temper) how the other Doctors received him (in very good case for that disease) how they left him (dead,) truly reported the whole matter to the Kings Maieslie as indeede it was. What his Maiesties censure then was herein, and on whom he would lay this imputation of his death, may easily be conjectured out of the manifestations of the cause. Also those two worthy brethren, meere strangers to me at that time, living in honourable account and place, so generously and vertuously, that none dare entertaine any finister thought against their finceritie; nor opinion that they will for any respect whatsoever be induced to report any vntruth formenorany other; are alwaies ready to give further 1 252.

金田

11 112

Dong

, he

ales

5 07

Der:

bad

Noni-

ed4

ein

TIL S

Mr.

enot

gati

WO

tot

to 18

d

ther fatisfaction, if any as yet be not sufficiently perswaded of these proceedings. Reason it selfe, in one maine ground of Physicall indications doth teach vs, that, a invantibus et nocentibus, from such things as helpe, and fuch things as hurt, a most inuincible argument is drawne, and concluded. Is it not a generall rule with all Physitions, to continue the vse of those things which have manifeltly releeved and profited the patient (if there be no necessarie exception) and to fly and forbeare the vse of those which have hurt, or done no good? Nature teacheth brute beafts, to feeke shadowed and cooleplaces, in the heat of sommer, because their sense findes ease and refreshing by the shaddow, and hurt and annoyance by the parching funne. Apparant it is, that my Potable gold did euen miraculously refresh, helpe, profite and comfort this diseased gentleman, of whom this question first grew. For his vnderstanding was thereby recourred: quietnelle, rest, and sleepe procured: naturall and healthfull sweating caused: and the poyson of his disease driven from the center and heart, whereby the pu-Itules and exitures did againe appeare and come forth. All arguments and signes of good estate and temper in that disease did appeare as portending a perfect recouerie. On the other fide, what soeuer the Medicines administred by these two other Doctors were, before or after my comming, I know not. But, molt certaine it is, that whatfocuer they gave, or howfocuer they handled the matter, much hurt fucceeded, even the greatest mischiefe that may happento a languishing patient. For all the concourse of his former grieuous, direfull, and mortall fymptomaticall accidents returnes with double strength, when his heart and vital spirits were not able to relist.

Cent

heto

tortu

tables

TOT D

den of

moeth

notit

therr

with

of nat

gentle

out 2

cines

allth

dicab

tlew

they

to he tette

bec

poti

ther

era

the

ent

Tate

shops

The striking in againe of the exitures, rauing, wrestling, and (which only remained to conclude the tragedie) Death it selfe, the last of all lines that man can draw: and a true line to draw and direct vnderstanding men to the true cause of his death. These circumstances compulsarily wrung from me, be sufficient for the euidence of this verity to all men, that will not maliciously spurne against apparant truth. But my traducers doe still spiderlike sucke poyson in itead of hony, and force themselues to an vnnaturall vomit of these humors against this medicine, truly of gold, and truly potable. In which bitternelle if they did not still persist, against their owne science, conscience, regard of vertue and veritie, wounding many honest hearts, with false suggestions against my good name, and the innocuous worthine le of this Medicine, and defrauding many poore languishing foules of the vie and benefite thereof, I would, and furely gladly would, for their fakes, have forborne the narration and report of this true storie: Which I am by them compelled to publish for my Apologie.

Extreme vo-

Istres Cicely Boulstred, a worthie gentlewoman, and virgine, attending in neere service our gracious Queene, in good sauour and account, fell sicke, and had greiuous passions. Vnto whome divers of the most samous Physitions of the Colledge were called. Who with great care, and their vtmost skill, sparing no cost (as was sitting in such a place) administred all kinds of conducing Medicines, both Cordials, and other respectively to the cause of her disease, and passions: both such as be ready in the I Wille hetn.

an can

erffan.

fecir.

Hici-

will

But

nin

urall

my of they

con-

ma-

my

this ling

200

Mine.

po-

shoppes, as others by some singularitie of Art prepared. Her passions still continued, if not encreased. Continuall vomiting, and rejection of whatfoeuer she tooke, meate, drink, medicines: with swoundings, torture, torments of every part of her body. A milerable and pitifull spectacle, much lamented of many very honourable persons. Shee could not rest nor fleepe night norday. So that finking vnder the burden of this affliction, with the violence and continuancethereof, her strength vtterly failed. Shee could not retaine so much as one drop of any broth or other nourishment. Her Stomacke by conjecture of all Physitions, was drawen together and shut vp, without any power or faculty to performe the offices of nature. In this miserable estate, this distressed gentlewoman languished two whole monthes, without any ease or releefe by the vie of any the Medicines given her by the aduise of the said Physitions: all things tending to a more desperate and Immedicable estate. Whereupon the mother of this gentlewoman demanded of these said Doctors, whether they had any hope to give helpe, or at least wife eafe to her daughter; elfe the faid the would fend for Do-Etor Anthony. Those Doctors hereupon limited themfelues to a certaine time, which they fpent in their vttermost habilities to perform, to the intet! shold not be called. To which purpole they commanded an Apothecary to attend in the Chamber of the patient all the next day and night, and euery third houre to give her a Cordiall. Then voluntarily they faid to the mother, Send for Doct. Anthony it you will, and God fend him good fucceile with your daughter. Then was I fent for, and finding this gentlewoman in to desperate a case, left and given over by all the Doctors of the.

be licknel

hisgentie

dangerous

weariedth

friends mo

acherines

fine Medi

mption

tiues,

PA CO

mors

after nore

162

Wh

inf

her

the Colledge as not to be recovered, (for belides the aduise of these Six, there had beene publike consultations in the Colledge, as is requifite in fuch like cases which fildome come in vse) I defired God to bleffe my endeauours, and to continue his bleffings in the administration of this my happy medicine. After a fmall time, vpon due and mature confideration of all things, I gaue her at the first, not a whole spoonfull of my Aurum potabile, as in other cases, but much leffe, scarce a quarter so much; which she cast vp againe with a vehement force and torture of her body. A little while after I gaue her as much more, which she cast vp in thesame manner as shedid the first. Againe I gaue it the third time, some part of which shee also call vp, but kept some, with a kind of strife or conflict betweene the medicine and the maladie. Then I aduised, that she should not further be troubled for a seafon, but to try if shee could now take a little rest or fleepe: So she disposed her selfethereunto, and flept foundly a whole houre; which divers of great account then present can witnesse. For she snored that we all heard: Which seemed strange to all: considering for a long time before shee had taken no rest. When she waked, she said that she found her selfe somewhat better at ease. Then (which was the fourth time) I gaue her halfe a spoonful, which she kept without any contending or trouble to her body. This gaueme, and many worthy gentlewomen there prefent, great hope of a good recouerie. Wherein (God be praised) we were not deceived. For in all the other administring of this Medicine, orderly, as she was able to beare, increasing the quantitie, her spirits were releeved, she daily recovered strength, all the passions, symptomes and accidents of her difeafes ceafed, Shirth:

ked

o block

inte

Aftera

nofall

of all of hlelle,

againe

y.Alt.

idle

Againe ee allo

uffict. 1 21.

Wales.

relfor

1 Sept

at ac dthat

lide.

rest.

elfe

uth

mit. This

Mibd

her

152-

100 child blids

Childbirth.

her ficknesse fully left her, and she recovered perfect health. Thus with the vse of this happy Medicine, this gentlewoman was recourred, and cured of that dangerous disease, wherein those other Doctors had wearied themselves, and forsaken her; at which her friends wondred, minereioyced, and other malicious adversaries fretted: for which God be praised. If they will call these the effects of lugling, and of a corrofine Medicine, they will hardly finde any Cordiall amongst all their Dispensatories and Magistrall prescriptions. The cause and effect are Essentiall Relatiues. then in my chamber tooks of my Potable gold and

He Lady and wife of Sir Francis Leake Knight, Continuall being now conceived of her first childe, was vomiting and fallen into many infirmities. Shee had a con-destillation of tinuall and abundant flux at her mouth, caused Reume contiby collection of phlegmaticke and pituitous hu-nuing many mors: Also a continuall vomiting and casting, euer moneths. after any food taken. Her flux ceased not neither day nor night. She was brought to that weaknes & leanneile in her body, that al her friends thought she was in a confumption. During the time of this licknes (which was fine moneths) the vied many medicines in hope of remedy, but found none. And therefore iustly feared eyther miscarying her trauell, or the loffe of her owne life. Whereupon, by the perswalion of some friends, which knew right well the efficacie of my Potable gold, the tooke theref the third month beforethe time of her deliuery, and at feuerall times continued the vie of it. By which meanes, her vomiting,& flux of spitting ceased, she recovered strength and good habit: and all the rest of the time of her childe bearing, continued in very good health and disposition. And in due time was delivered of a faire and strong Sonne, which is yet living.

Perill in . childbirth.

He Lady and wife of Sir Edward Barret knight, and fifter to the forenamed Lady, being in trauell of childbirth, in fuch hazard and extremities of hard labour, that both her Midwiues & all other there present despaired both of safety and life of mother and child; by counsell of a great Ladie then in my chamber tooke of my Potable gold, and beyond the expectation of them all, was presently deliuered of a child in good liking But the after burden stayed, which in that weakenesse made them fearethelike danger. Therefore they gave her the fame Medicine againe, by which the after burden followed, she recovered, and did well.

> His Medicine hath likewise bin happy and successfull to very many others, Weomen in like cases, even after the childe hath beene dead in their bodies, and they given over in their last extremities. So that it is scarse possible to finde any Medicine to match this in such cases, whereof I will set downe a few examples.

Childbirth.

THe wife of Inseph Pemberton Haberdasher of Ips-1 wich in the Countie of Suffolke, was deliuered by meanes of this Potable gold, being in great extremitie and danger, by reason of her hard labour.

The

P

me of her bealthand defaint knight, gintra extremiidwines acts and atlate

ld, and refently se after e them her the dental

797 and

MEN 18

beene

their finde

ered

DE.

The wife of Master Oratio Paluasino, was recoursed Childbirth, by the same Medicine, beeing in great danger through hardlabour in childe-birth.

IN like manner was the wife of Thomas Blackeborne Childbirth, Citizen of London, when the had beene two daies Childbirth, in labour, fafely deliuered by this helpe.

The wife of Nicholas Colman in Great Saint Bar-Childbirth. tholmewes, was even at the point of Death, and vpon the taking of this Aurum Potabile, was presently delivered, and her life preserved.

Master Foxton in Red Crosse streete, had his wife in the like case, and in greater danger, by reason Dead birth. of the childe in her body being dead.

The like Fatus mortuus, or dead birth, the wife of Dead birth.

Master Castle, of Hatfield Peuerell in Essex, had carried in her body three daies, neither could she be deliuered by any belpe, vntill shee tooke the Aurum Potabile.

K

The

Dead birth.

He wife of Master Harde dwelling voon Saint Peters Hill in London, was deliuered of a dead childe, yet neuerthelesse she was still full of intollerable paines. Whereupon the wife of M. Fitzgarret Esquire neere dwelling, gaue wnto her of my Aurum Potabile, the next day after her delivery of that childe, at 9. of the clocke in the morning. And the same day at 2. of the clocke in the after noone, shee was delivered of an other dead childe, and then prefently recouered.

Perill of Childbirth.

He wife of Mast. John Bingle of the Exchequer was in her trauell in great peril of death, vnto whom a graue gentlewoman there present ather labour, gaue ofmy Aurum Potabile; with which helpe, both shee and the childe were faued.

Burning feuer

He Lady and wife of Sir John Pretiman knight, being in childe-bed, fell into a burning feuer: alin Childbirth fo she could take no rest nor sleepe: And other very violent passions she endured. She was not willing to take any manner of Medicine. Only Aurum Potabile sheetooke, and was quickly restored to health.

and bloody

He wife of Mast. Edmund Kingstone, of Glocester Burning feuer I shire, being in childe-bed had a burning feuer, flux in Child. and with it a bloody flux. She was throughly cured by the same meanes which the Lady Pretiman vsed.

An

in San

herof

ryof

And

ben

Wat

ma

me

hee

Nother gentlewoman of the fame Countie, Feuer and the wife of Christopher Blackewell, was by the scouring in fame meanes cured of a feuer, with an excessive Childbed. scouring, lying in childbed.

He wife of Master Iohn Sherington of London Preservation Marchant, being with childe, had many passes of Aborte. ons and evident causes, to make her seare abortion or miscarrying. Beeing therefore aduised thereunto, she tooke of my Aurum Potabile, daily a proportionable quantitie, and went out her full time, received Gods blessing in the safe delivery of a faire childe.

Whereby it appeareth that this Medicine hath diners vertues and faculties: As in case, both to promote the birth where it is stayed, be the birth aline or dead: as also to stay and prenent abortion of miscarrying, vnto the full time and periode of the naturall birth, which in the power of the Medicine is but one: That is, the onely comforting, strengthing, and enabling of nature, to promote and performe her owne actions, which way soener is most sit for the safety & health of the body, as in other cases before hath beene observed. And not only profitable to each mother in all those former causes, but to the infant also, as shall appeare by one Relation, which here followeth.

The

Perill in Childbirth.

He wife of Master Richard Browne Esquire, dwelling in the Blacke fryers, was long in labour of childbirth, and in great danger, notwithstanding she had two midwines with her. A certaine gentlewoman and neighbour being then prefent, perswaded to send for some of my Aurum Potabile, and to give it her. One Midwife faid, she had better meanes to giue her. But when all meanes fayled, and small hope of life remained, then was my Aurum Potabile fent for. And after it was twice administred vntoher, the was fafe deliuered of a liuing and well liking childe, God be praised. The next day following, the same gentlewoman and neighbour, came to vilite the mother and childe, finding the childe in the Midwiues lap, not well, but languishing and ill. The Midwife defired of this gentlewoman some of the Aurum Potabile for to give the childe. It was then asked, whether she, who had denied it vnto the mother the former day, would now give it vnto fo yong an infant? The Midwife answered, that having seene the admirable effect thereof the day before, she doubted not of fuccesse in the childe. She gaue it therefore vnto the childe, mixed with breakmilke, and the childe presently amended.

If therefore such yong infants, which shantly have seene the light of the Sun, and have brought from the mothers wombe their insirmities, and not taken them by misdiet or misorder, doe finde releese by this Medicine; as also women in their conception, and in time of their deliverie, and afterwards lying in childhed, as is evidently set downe in particu-

cibles

tedth

thep

an Ap

foch:

whit

Lon

felae

perte

And

to

The new borne Infant in danger.

particularitie: Euen in this only case, it meriteth that account, that no Lady or gentlewoman of accompt, should at any time bee unfurnished thereof, for the benefit of them (clues, and their infants, in case of necessitie: seeing that no Medicine is more powerfull, more secure, more pleasing to take.

wire,

0/2

70t-

er.

014.

Xt. 助

TOOM: tred

FE

OW.

to

ein

of

in

io.

Ir Lewis Lewknar knight, in the yeare of our Lord 1611, fell dangeroully sicke with a cotinual bur- The Plague nig feuer, & vehement passions. He sent for two or Pestilence. famous Phylitions of the Citie of London; which followed and plyed him lixe daies with al the conducible remedies they could deuife, but without any fuccelle. For they neither ealed his pallions, nor abated the burning heate and furie of the feuer: So that the patiet enery day waxed worfe & worfe: at the last, an Apostemeappeared in his groyne, atrue token in fuch a difeafe, of a pellilent and contagious infection: which at that time, though not lince, was very hot in London. Thereupon these Doctors excused themfelues, in that they were tied to the attendance of dinerse noble persons, whom they were loth to intect. And therefore, were compelled to bid him farewell. And accordingly left this worthy gentleman, to wrefile with this dileate, for the cure of which they were waged, and by conscience thereunto tyed; and his trull in them was reposed. They having thus taken their leaves, I was lent for, not knowing the dileafe, which could not long hide it felfe, having fuch manifest tokens. Yet I thought it, against both charity and honestie, now being with him, to forfake him. And therefore resolued (by the grace of God) with some K 3 powerpowerfull and strong Antidote, to expell the poylon from his heart, and afterwards to proceede for his further recovery, as occasion should be ministred. To which purpole, I first gaue him sixe graines of my Effence of gold, mixed appropriatly. After which, in a small time, he began to sweate, which continued all that night, and a great part of the next day. The next night, and so euery day for 4. daies more, I gaue againe the same Medicine, in the same quantity, which caused abundant sweating, whereby both the malignitie of the feuer and the vnnaturall heate was exceedingly abated: the Apolteme, which was rifen very great, did daily decrease, and at last quite vanished, only with a certaine stickie plaster outwardly applied. Thus he was cured of this mortall and contagious difeafe, beforeit was knowne abroad of what he was ficke: which I would not now have published, but that the Knight himselfe, hath not beene sparing amongst his friends to report both what his sicknesse was, and the flory of his Physitions and recourry.

The Plague

Heyeare before, I had likewise cured of the same or Pestilence. I disease, with an Aposteme also appearing, the Lady and wife of the same worthy knight.

Dropfie and Iaundise in age.

THe Lady Edmonds widdow, about the age of 78. yeares, a Lady well knowne in Court: (so likewise extreame old are those that formerly are named) about three yeeres past was fallen into a dropsie, with all the symptomes thereunto belonging. Her belly, face, legs, hands, greatly

greatly i

the law

gerous perfect

thingt

potabile

health,

by; for tookee

peding

portio

lo beto

full of

ipent,

relf ret

ted, a

Lady

degra

Wasith

brobo mitte herye nercon torn

nota

greatly swelled:blood wasted and spent: not free from the laundife, nor far from a Confumption. How dangerous her case was, is sufficiently knowne. She was perfectly restored (praised be God) in short time, nothing being minisfred vnto her, but only the Aurum potabile and Ellence of Gold. This Lady, spared not either for colt, or due observation to preserve life and health, after that she had once found comfort thereby for during the space of 12. daies at the first, shee tooke euery morning 3. graines of the Essence, dissolued in a spoonfull of Aurum potabile: and the like proportion was taken at night when she went to rest. Alfo before dinner and supper, at each time one spoonfull of the Aurum potabile alone. After 12. daies were fpent, and that her stomacke was amended, naturall rest returned, her strength increased, the disease abated, and all the state ofher body bettered, then the Lady tooke of the Effence but once a day. And so by degrees all things in leffer proportion. Needfull it was, that this Lady should take these helpes in greater proportion, then viuall, partly in regard of the Infirmitie, being a capitall disease : partly also in regard of her yeeres, in which nature was not so powerfull to ouercome the malady; as in youth.

105

阿如

thi

S IN

08

the

the

Sir Thomas Parrey knight, Chancelor of the Duchy, and of his Maielties privy Councell, being Extreme of the age of 77. yeares, this last winter was and want of much deiected in habilitie and strength of body eue-sleepe.

ry waies. His appetite abated, his sleepe diminished, tormented with an extreame cough day and night, not able in many weekes together, to goe forth of his

K 4. house

fides, b

gentles

to ma

Reme

that th

Buth

don, vi

Potate!

Pearle

perfect

Gentl

Lond

knew

andp

foard

(ed)

afte

fino

ad

the

ho

版.

house for execution of his place. He had vsed good helpes of learned Phylitions, from time to time all the winterlong. In February last I was brought vnto this honourable person; and finding that the best Medicines ordinarily, in vie had nothing auailed, I perswaded him to take of my Aurum Potabile, whereunto he willingly condescended. I gaue him thereof in the morning in bed falting, as also one houre before Dinner and Supper, at each time a spoonfull, Also whereas viually his fleepe was but two houres every night, which was after he was first laid in bed, and then afterwards being once awaked, he slept no more all that night, but continually did lie coughing, vntill he arose in the morning: my counsell was, that after his first sleepe, his Honor should take two graines of the Essence of golde, dissolved in one spoonfull of the Aurum Potabile: which doing, he alwaies within halfe an houre, was at good and quiet rest, his Cough ceased, and he slept quietly vntill sixe of the clocke in the morning. This course it pleased him to continue vntill the 12. of Aprill, in which time he daily gathered strength and habilitie of body to vndergoe any service of his Maiestie. And thus he continueth still to the praise of God.

Debilitie of retention of sperme.

A Certaine yong gentleman, onely Sonne and heire vnto his Father being of great possessions, complained vnto me that his sperme passed from him vnsensibly both day and night, whereby his body was much enseebled, his complexion altered, and a Consumption imminent. A marriage was tendered vnto this yong gentleman, being an heire also. Conditions agreed vpon by Parents on both sides, fides, both for Dowre and loynter. The father of this gentleman being in feare of his sonnes life, was loath to make any perfect Contract, vntill he had found Remedie for his sonne. Hee vsed the best helpe that the Country could afforde, wherein heliued. But finding none, he brought vp his fonne to London, vied my counsell; and with the helpe of Aurum Potabile, the Hisence of Golde, and a Solution of Pearle which in fuch case I doe vse, he hath recoursed perfect state of body, is married, and hath I slue. This Gentleman about twelve Moneths fince being in London, came to vilite me, whomewhen I beheld I knew not vntill he had manifelted himfelfevntome; fo greatly was his body altered even into a full vigor and perfed constitution.

held

ailed I

where hereol

ne be-

LALL

CUCTY

, 300

DODGE

t Val

bat a

raine

ullof nithin ough

ken

inge

ahe

200

¢ll>

P.

14

He wife of Master Robert Dixon, Secretary vnto Sir Henry Montague Knight, Recorder of the Speech and Citie of London, being delivered in childbed, was pollefled with a most violent burning feuer. Shee had three Phylitions of great woorth, who ministred vnto her such helpes, as Art could affoard in that case. Not preuailing, they left her being fenselesse. Then did the Lady Tansield send vnto me for some of my Auru Potabile, which her Ladish. caufed to be given vnto this gentlewoman. In short time after sheefell into a sweate, not long after sheeflept; and when shee did awake, shee had recourred both fence and speech, her burning feuer was asswaged, and in few daies after by Judgement of al her friends, shee seemed past all perill and danger of life. But shortly after, rising vp out of her bed, and sitting vp ouer long, shee tooke cold, fo that all the parts of her sence lost in form

AUT

quart.

with him!

hadba

ft.Th

OBSC

cine,

cleare

habili

1115 2

Whenl

manno

body became colde & were vtterly benummed, and without sense, her speech failed, & her strength & spirits much abated. The former worthy Lady being informed therof, did send againe of my Aurum Potabile vnto her, which instantly put her into a sweat, after she was in bed, and by degrees restored her vnto perfect health. The same gentlewoman being lately deliuered of two daughters, fell into the like passions both of heate and colde, and in each of these extremities was releeved with the Essence of Gold, as formerly she had beene, with Aurum Potabile.

Speech and fence loft.

Aster William Rowden the Kings Maiesties seruant and Marshall of his Hall, 70, yeares of age, or thereabout, with a continual Ardent feuer which held him long, he was at the last brought to that debilitie and weakenesse, that he altogether kept his bed, tooke no rest day not night, but for the most part lay senselesse, not knowing what was said or done unto him. In this extremitie I was brought, and it pleased God that by these former helpes, he was recovered, and remaineth still in perfect health.

Aquartane A-

Aster William Gore now Alderman & Sheriffe of the citie of London, threescore yeares of age or thereabout, dwelling in Bow lane, for the space of many Moneths languished of a quartaine feuer. In which time, by prescript of learned Physitions, he had taken so many Medicines, that he wtterly abhorred all vsuall Physicke. When he was in-

milia

terlie

erici

uba

perly

3 165.

esof

rdept

Mgoo

ether

rthe

stid

, he

-

s of

fot

25-

formed by some of his well wishing friends, that my Aurum Potabile, was very Cordiall, effectuall in operation, and not loath some or unpleasing to take, he was resolued to make vse thereof, although he had resolued neuer to vse any more Physicke. But being disswaded by some of his Physitions, my professed aduerfaries, he refrained the space of some weekes, vntill meere necessitie (by reason of his still continuing quartane, and his strength daily abating) enforced him to lend for me. I ministred vnto him at returne of his next fit, a small quantitie of my Aurum Potabile with 2. graines of the Effence of golde; which gaue him fuch contentment during the time of his fit, that his feuer was much more tollerable then formerly it had beene, and himselfe in farre better vigor after his fit. The did he much admire what reason his Phylitions could alleadge, for the dilabling of that Medicine. To conclude, in very tew fittes, this Medicine cleared him of his feuer, it brought him to quiet relt, reflored him to appetite, and brought him to good habilitie and strength of body. And vntill this time, it is and hath beene a continuall releete vnto him, whenfoeuer hee findeth himselfe inclining to any manner of debilitie or ficknelle.

Sinthis case, so have they dealt with diuers of the Nobility of this land & honourable personages, who in extremity of their sickenesse, baving first vsed (and that fruitlessy) all the course of Physicke which their Physitions in Art could aduise them) have desired the helpe ofmy Aurum Potabile. But have beene diverted by malicious cavillations of those, who rather

The Second Part.

desire their owne lucre and gaine, then the life of their patients. Neverthelesse some of the right Honourable, not beeing daunted by their terrifyings (more fit for children and babes, then for men and women of understanding) have made happie use thereof both in Court and Citie; although for causes convenient, it is not publikely divulged, and yet peraduenture not utterly silenced. But time, in his due time, will bring the truth to light.

After Mathem Dale, Iustice of Peace & Iudge in Gilde Hall, 76. yeares of age, hath sundry times been etroubled with an infirmitie incident to age: that is, want of Retention of his vrine. Whereby sometimes in the night season, he hath bin inforced more then twenty times to make water: whereby his naturall rest (which should have sustained nature) was taken from him: and consequently his stomackefailed, & his strength abated. Vpon the vse of Aurum Potabile, these extremities were abated, and he continued vntill the end of his daies, in good state of body, answerable vnto his yeeres.

Confumption of the Lungs.

He wife of Master Mathew Dale, 70. yeares of age, having an infirmitie of the Lungs, altogether vncurable, was neverthelesse preserved in good state of body, many yeares with helpe of this Aurum Potabile.

feat

ter

gan

Nu

vie

fon

Chi

the

Ac

tin

思始借前 f the role

en lens therefor

the male

1111年出

Jeh di-

pleased.

truthto

& ludge fundry

e mci-

SULLY

ath big

Pater:

fultaj-

Dently

on the

rated,

000

s of

78

Ir William Hericke Knight, had by his Lady two Falling fickdaughters, the one after the other. Each of them being 20. weekes of age, was taken with the Epileplie or falling licknes, and died of that difeafe. After them, he had by his faid wife a third daughter; then did they change their Nurle, suspecting that some defect might be in the Nurses milke. When this daughter came to the age of 16. weeks, the Epileptical fits began topossesse this infant, and daily the fits increased, vntill the disease came to the height. Then was the Nurse& child sent for hither to London; having heard that I had cured some in the like infirmity. The father vsed my help in this case. It pleased God that with the helpe of my Aurum potabile and Essence of gold (with some helpes given to the nurse) I pertectly cured that Child of this dangerous infirmitie. This was done in the spring time. Then I aduised the Lady, that the like should be done at next fall of the leafe. But that being neglected, the child vpon the feast day of All-Saints next following, fell into the same disease againe; which I likewise cured the second time. Since this time, being now foure yeeres past, this child neuer had fit, praised be God.

IN like manner, and of the same infirmitie, a Sonne of Sir George Wright Knight, being a yeare old was cured by me, and many others, whereof some shall be mentioned in this treatise hereafter.

Falling fick-

atol pont

Tohn Vnet, belonging to the right honourable Sir Speech and Henry Hubbard Knight, Lord chiefe Iustice of the sense lost Common-Pleas, 40. yeeres of age or thereabout; after long ficknesse, was at the last brough that debilitie and weaknesse, that he lay deprined of speech and

ing then

OFTHADY

divers

10001

which

medici

and sense. The bell tolled for him: The servants of the house had taken their leave of him: no hope of life remained. Being in this manner at point of death, some of my Aurum potabile was put into his mouth: by which he was brought againe to speech, to sense, and lastly restored to perfect health, being formerly by judgment of all, ordained for death. Of this case, Raymund Lully in his booke of the Quintessence writeth in this manner. We terme them dead men, not those which absolutely are dead, but those of whomby the opinion of Physicions there is utter despaire, so that they are for saken by all Physicions, and the actions of life bane relinquished them, and be deprined of sense. If such like men (saith he) reputed thus dead men, shall recover life and health by a Quintessence, then may they justly be said to be revised from death.

Speech and fence loft

Robert Brodbottome, a Citizen, 60. yeares of age, neighbour vnto Sir Lewis Lewhnar then dwelling in Aldersgate streete; being likewiseat deaths doore, the bell having tolled for him the space of three houres. The said Knight, when he vnderstood that it tolled for his neighbour whom he well loued, sent him of my Aurum potabile, willing the wife of the said patient by any possible meanes, to put the same into his mouth. Which being done, he shortly after fell into a sleepe, sweating in his sleepe, & after his awaking, his sense and speech returned, and himselfe recovered health, and yet is living.

The daughter and heire of Sir Walter Coape knight, now addy and wife of Sir Henry Rich knight, being ing then dangerously sicke of the small Pocks (whereof many worthy Knights, Ladies, and gentlewomen haue miscaried of late) was presently releeved by vie of my Aurum potabile, and the small Pocks expulled plentifully.

Nthe small Pocks also, and likewise in the measels, divers have beene recovered, whose only names I record, and none have miscaried to my knowledge which in due time have embraced the benefite of this medicine.

The Lady and wife of Sir Richard Ogleknight. A gentlewoman belonging to the Lady and wife of Sir Edward Barret knight.

Sir Henry Caries Page.

Sir Henry Caries daughter, of the measels.

The Some and heire of Sir Henry Cary, of the mall pox.

10mb fenfe

af, ini.

mof

trib

688

Dated

Mil.

Mi

Ayoung daughter of Sir Richard Norton knight, of the Measels, which were striken in and recoiled by cold taking whereby the child was in great danger.

A Kinswoman of Mistris Browne of Esfex, wid-

A Seruant of Master Marsh Esquire, then dwelling in Colman-streete.

A Maid servant, belonging to Ro. Dixon before mentioned.

An other maid servant of Master John Morris Marchant, dwelling neere onto leaden hall An Infant of Mr. Price the Kings fernant. the day Daily commission.

Vomiting of

old ago.

vatobe

ed this wifeto

tained

加达阿 times

bled,

tation

dai

ynt

be

Small powe

Aily experiece also hath taught us of late, that very many both young and old have miscaried of the Small Pox, even under the hands of the best practised Physitions, although the cure of them be accounted no difficult matter: vnto whom, if this approved Medicine, so secure from danger: so Legisla powerfull incorroborating the Heart, and ex-Deling the venemous malignitie of that Disease, and to or had beene at hand, and had beene administred in due time and forme, no doubt but (the vertue expulsiue being fortified in the patient, and the materiall venenositie subtiliated) if not all, yet some of them, might by this only Medicine have beene recovered. As the vse bereof bath prevented death in many, so likewise very many wanting the benefit thereof, in the flowre of their age perished; which have vsed purgative Medicines, whose propertie is to draw malignant humors from the externall parts, unto the center of the body, and to the very Heart it selfe. I leave this matter to bee considered of, by those whom in like case it may concerne hereafter.

Vomiting of old age.

He Honorable Lady and widdow Doretie Skot, I sometime the wife of Sir Thomas Skot Knight of sustenance in the age of 78. yeares, for the space of many daies could retaine no manner of fullenance, but instantly cast vp by vomit whatsoeuer shee received. Neither could this be stayed by any Medicine ministred vnto her. All meanes failing, my Aurum Potabile staied this extremitie. And after taking thereof, sheelikewisetooke any manner of other sustenance, and retained the same. Hereby it may appeare, that this one and the same Medicine, doth sometime procure vomit, when nature would be vnburdened, and at other times it suppresset hvomit, when nature is so infeebled, that it would saine retaine nutriment for sustentation, but cannot.

of late pla

Wilcones

nds of the costhen

women, if

100ger: 10

ord exa

Distale, influence or needs the ma-

set fame

beene pented

my the

Wed:

abale

8 the

bet

After Napper Esquire, dwelling in Oxford, 60. yeares of age, was long time perplexed with a Vomiting very strange infirmity. He was diverstimes and scooring. taken with an extreme vomiting, with a scooring likewife, which both continued the space of 2. or 3. daies commonly euery houre without intermission vntill his body was vtterly exhausted. The he became To feeble and weake, that he was inforced to keepe his bed many daies, untill by degrees he recoursed some Arength againe. But when his body began to be repleate, then did he fall into his former passions. In this manner he continued one whole yeare more. He vied for Remedie, the countell and adule of Phylitions both at Oxford and London. When all their meanes availed not, then did he fend vnto me for my Aurum Patabile, which by the helpe of God prevailed in this case, to the great admiration of many.

The wife of Master William Wiseman Counsellor at the Law, after her safe deliuery in Childbirth, was possessed both with a feuer, as also with an extraordinary

DOW WIT

Vatobia

and Cr

allthe

tures,

himin cealed

ordinary and a dangerous flux, tamper Menstrua quam per sedes. Her sleepe also was thereby vtterly taken from her. By meanes whereof shee was brought vnto great Imbecillitie and despaire of life. In this dangerous case, after the fruitlesse helpe of other Phylitions the was recoursed and perfectly reflored, with the Effence of my golde in few daies.

Effex Ague.

Ir Edward Barret Knight, having his abode sometime in Essex necrevnto the Marishes (a Country much subject to Agues) was two seuerall times possessed with that kinde of feuer. And each time he was freed from that feuer, by the onely helpe of my Aurum Potabile. Many also of his feruants, more then ten at one seuerall time, have beene taken with that Country feuer. One especially amongsttherest, a woman, having chiefe government ouer the family, was fo grieuously afflicted therewith, that her fenses were taken from her, and other such like accidents so oppressed her, that there remained small hope of life. Yet it pleased God, that both shee and therest, in short time were recovered (although the Agues of those parts doe commonly continue long:) as also in one part of Kent, where many haue beene relected by my Aurum Potabile, afterthat all other meanes have failed.

Lifex Ague.

A After Doctor Sauage, Doctor of the Civill Lawes, 156. yeares of age, lying sicke in Essex of the like. feuer, fent for me to come downe vnto him. Beeing now ghrain win

nis dange

Phylin

d, with abode hes (a ofene.

And

mely s len

eene ly a icot.

品,

now with him, and before I administred any thing vnto him, hee was strangely taken with convulsions and Crampes, in his hands, feete, legges, face and in all the exterior parts of his body, with extreme tortures, lamentable to beholde. I appealed all these fymptomes within the space of one halfehoure, with the Essence of my gold, which in short time brought him into a Sweat, and his Convulsions and Crampes cealed, his feuer also was cured in very short time.

theirs being about 4. ve He same Doctor Sanage now lately within these two moneths, was taken with a malignant fe-uer, a Disease now common in sundry places. He was perfectly cured thereof, only with the Essence of golde. I gaue him thereof three graines, before the beginning of his fit, disfolued in fine spoonfuls of Endiue water with a little sugar : and the like quantitie in the middest of his hot fit. This I did reiterate every fit vntill the fourth fit. In which time he was free from his ague. But afterwards he fell into the like feuer againe, as also into those former Convullions, which could not by any helpe of Medicine be affwaged, vntill he was inforced to fend vnto me, 17. miles for the Essence of golde: which being taken gaue himpresent releefe, admirable vnto them who were eye witnesses of the effect thereof.

After Thomas Drywood of Northokenden in Long languithe County of Essex, 30. yeeres of age, by shing sickreason of obstructions and other inward cau. nesse vpon fes, languished a long time, became very leane, and so obstructions. M 2

into

Cometi

great

inval

into a confumption. Being therewith almost spent, my Aurum potabile was present remedy to him, and he liueth now in good health.

Weaknesse af He wife of the said Thomas Drywood, by the same ter childbirth. medicine recoursed from a great weaknesse and decaied estate, caused by hard labour in childbirth, and sicknesse afterwards.

Obstruct.

Daughter of theirs being about 4. yeeres old, having pined, and decaied long time of an vn-knowne disease, vpon the taking of my Potable Gold, vomited vp a great quantity of viscous tough matter, and then recovered presently.

Obstruct.

Young daughter of Iohn Fanne Citizen, dwelling in Aldersgate streete, being five yeeres old, by reason of obstructions in her liver, splene, and brest, which had long continued, and was thereby much hindred in her breathing, tooke one ounce only of my potable gold, after which she cast vp much slimy stuffe, tough, like molten glasse, that one could scarcely cut with a knife, and presently she amended, and shortly after became perfectly well.

Falling fickneile. Aster William Snelling Fishmonger, dwelling in Thamestreete, had a young infant of a yeere old, who was grieuously perplexed with the falling sicknes. His sits were frequent and oft, somefometimes 20. in one day. So that the parents befought God, to take him to his mercy, out of that fo great mifery. When divers medicines had beene tried in vaine, he was at the last recovered by my Essence of gold, and neuer fince was troubled with any fit, being more then 3. yeeres past.

thelame

about in

tresold,

fan vo.

Potz.

ilcous

hel-

Maid servant of the Lady and wife of Sir Thomas Smith knight, being 22. yeeres old, was afflicted with most violent convulsions, and fits like vnto the falling sicknesse incessantly day and night for a long season: not finding any ease by glifters, and many other medicines given her by other Physitions. At last she was by me cured of that fearefull disease by this my Medicine, and neuer felt it fince; three yeeres being past,

N Infant of a yeere and halfe old, daughter vn- Inward torto Sir Edward Barret knight, was long grieued ments and with some inward torments and gripings in gripings of an her belly. The Lady Paget, Baronesse, her grandmother, gaue her of my Potable Gold, with which flie prefently cast vp some rawe fleagmaticke matter or humor, and was well for the space of 2. houres: after which time she complained as before, and peraduenture worse. The Lady her grandmother gaue her an other spoonfull, after which she cast againe much viscous matter diversly coloured, and then slept a whole houre. But waking fodenly, she seemed as one ready to diepresently, having many dangerous signes as swoundings, and falling of heriawes &c. So that M 3 the

akeany

with the

the good Lady, holding this Infant all that while in her lap, was faine forcibly to open her mouth, and poured in an other spoonfull mixed with beere or ale. After which she cast againe a blackish and ill sauoured flimy thicke stuffe. Then she was well and recourred.

Extreame debility-

MAster Thomas Allin Esquire, more then 60. yeeres of age, being lodged in Broadstreete, hauing then languished a long time: at last being neere spent, hesent for me: and with my Potable Goldespecially, some other dietary meanes being also prescribed, he was perfectly restored in few daies.

A quartane ague.

Master Small, gentleman, an Attourney at the law, and student of Furniualls Inne, 32. yeeres old, had lien sicke of a quartane feuer many moneths, and had also the iaundise. He finding no helpe in other medicines, was in short time perfectly cured by my Aurum potabile.

A quartane ague.

Aster Thomas Tutteshame gentleman, aged 20. yeeres, sonne of Master Anthony Tutteshame, both of Staple Inne, was likewise cured of a quartane ague, by my potable gold.

Effex ague.

Yong son of Sir Io. Talesburrough knight, about 4.yeeres old, lay dangerously sicke in Essex, of the popular and universarie disease, ordinarie in those marish countries, and could not endure to take While in oth, ad

re orale

augurei ouered

en 60,

te,ha.

Britise despe-

refori.

the

COTO:

ths,

10.

by

take any medicines. He tooke my Essence of gold, with the aurum potabile at seuerall times, and was thereby perfectly cured.

The daughter of Sir Anthony Capell knight, a A Consumpbout 14. yeares old, after a long sicknesseful tion, into a Consumption, with extreme weaknesse. Her father sent vnto me for some of my potable golde, wherewith shee was in reasonable time perfectly recovered, and restored to her former health.

Frey, Yeoman, was taken with a dead Palfey in all Palfey of all parts of his body. To whom Master William Radthe body.

cliffe Esquire of the same Towne, gauesome of my potable golde which hee had in store for his owne vse, beeing oft times troubled with the Stone; by which meanes the said Woman recoursed, and had perfect vse both of legs and hands.

A Yong gentlemá Io. Studolph, 17. yeares old, bespeech lost, ing then with his mother (a widdow) dwelling and vomiting. neere the foresaid Darkin, was taken with a Palsey in his tongue, his speech was taken from him, and whatsoeuer he did either eate or drinke, he cast it vp. I was sent for, and staied there some three dayes.

In which time, by intermissive administring of my Aurum potabile, and Essence, of gold, his vomiting was staied, his speech recovered, and he perfectly cuzed. But I heard afterwards by some of his friends, that

M 4

Onnung

that about a yeare after he fell againe into the same Disease, and died thereof before he could conveniently send for any helpe.

Consumption of the Lungs.

A Confamp-

After Iohn Coles, called Captaine Coles, about 44. yeares old, had long time beene troubled with a dangerous Disease of the Lungs, short-nesse of breath, coughing, and with it, spitting of rotten matter, and seemed to bee in full Consumption. He was perfectly cured with the continued vse of my Potable golde.

Palfey.

Henry Smith servant to Sir Edward Barret Knight, lost his speech by a Palsey, and so sometime. Afterwards he perfectly recovered his speech againe, by helpe of my Aurum Potabile.

Quartane.

A Servant of Sir Thomas Smith Knight, having beene long troubled with a quartane Ague, finding no helpe by other Medicines which had beene given vnto him, was cured with my Potable gold.

Plague.

Daughter of Master Fitzgarret Esquire, dwelling vpon Saint Peters Hill, was infected with the Plague or Pestilence, and cured by the only vse of my Essence of golde, dissoluted in my Aurum Potabile with Carduus Water.

Elizabeth

L'info

Hallynd

perlwad

Woman,

hedidy

JOH MI

Lizabeth Elward, being allied vnto Edward Rugham retainer to the Lord Kneuet, was likewise infected with the Plague, and because the same Plague.

Edward Rugham was continually attendant in White Hallvnder the Lord Kneuet, the said Lord therefore perswaded him to vie my Aurum Potabile for his kinswoman, being then in Edward Rughams house; which he did, and by it recovered his kinswoman.

Iners other were also cured of the Plague at the same time.

A maide servant belonging to Master Iohn Morris, marchant, dwelling neere unto Leaden Hall.

A sernant of Sir Edward Conway Knight.

Mast. Carre Counseller at the Law, dwelling in Great Saint Bartholmewes.

A manseruant and a maide servant in the house of Mistris Randall widdow, dwelling on Saint Peters Hill.

Three servants in the house of Sir William Hericke Knight.

Master Arthur Luson, Citizen in Paternoster Rom.

The wife of Master Seabright of London, Esquire, Convulsions being about 60. yeares old, was often taken with with losse of divers and sundry passions, as Convulsions, and para-sense. lyticall stupefactions of hersense of feeling; And had bin ding

治さ

mou glon

FPCI

AWO

cam don

108 then

SOW

this mu(

pota

beene fundry times releeued by my Potable gold. But to ouercome, & vtterly to suppresse the great aboundance of those humors or matter, which caused these fits fo often to returne, without being perfectly cured, I aduised her to take sometimes of my Essence of gold. Which when shee had taken, shee cast vp a great quantitie of Melancholicke blacke stuffe. Since which time, she hath neuer beene troubled with any of those passions.

woman being then in Edward Rugham houle, which Obstructions in a childe.

After John Sherington of London, Marchant, had a sonne about three yeares old, long time deiected and weake, and had received many Medicines against the wormes and other causes which were suspected, but to no purpose (for he daily grew worse and worse.) At last therefore, having taken my Potablegoldea few daies, he cast vp a great quantity of tough, thicke, and viscous humors. After which (the matter of Obliructions being taken away)he presently recourred perfect health.

A new borne A Lio ayong daughter then borne to this Master Infant. Sherington, being fixe moneths old, fell dangeroully licke, and with the same Medicine was reltored.

elerments in the houle of Sir William

Plague.

T. He wife of Mast. Coles dwelling in Colman Breete. A (after the death of her faid husband, who died of the Plague) shee beeing then with childe, was also infected.

Hewite of Majter Seathwill of London,

talen felde etter

A vpa Since

hany

many

toles billy

gta-

AF-

est

infected. And fearing in that case all strong Medicines, vied only my Potable golde and the Essence, with viewhereof by Gods grace she recovered & her childesaued of which shee was after safely delivered. The husband which tooke other Medicines, not this, died. The wife which refused all other Medicines, and tooke only this, recovered; Notwithstanding the increase of danger by her childbearing. Let the due consideration of this one case, stop the mouth of malice it selfe, and informe the envious to glorifie God, for his great and good gifts bestowed upon men.

delicaire of his forme, vet having feene the former ef-

Dmund Nufum dwelling neere Charing-Croffe, I fell into a dangerous licknesse and long time continued therein. In this his distresse he sent for a learned Phylition of London, well knowne: who yied his belt skill and endeauours, for recovery of this patient. But failing in his expectation, he tolde the patients wife, that she must shortly be a widdow, A worthy gentleman, their neighbour, pitying this case, sent his man to me in this sicke mans behalfe. I came, and found the Apothecarie at the patients dore, newly come from him, which faluted me with thefe, or the like words: You come tooo late, there is no good to be done. To whome I answered, that though I could doe no good, yet I would do no hurt. So when I came to the patient, and could not finde any likely fignes, nor hopes of life, I vndertooke nothing concerning his recovery; neither promifed to much as hope. Yet for a triall, I gave him some of my potable golde, and continued that administration all N 2 that

titatt

that night, once in three houres. It pleased God that hee recovered, to the great admiration of all men.

TOt long after, the only sonne of the aforesaid Apothecarie, (whose name was Nathan Darbey) 17. yeares of age, was likewise taken with a violent burning feuer. He had the aduice and counfell not onely of the faid Phylition before specified, but also of many other of the Colledge. But the patient grew worse and worse, and at length became speechlesse, and was as it were voon the threshold, to take death by the hand. The father then, though in despaire of his sonne, yet having seene the former effect, came haltily vntome, in the Sermon time being then the Sabbath day) imploring my aide for his sonnes recouerie, if yet it were poslible. His complaints preuailed. I gaue his sonne of these materials. iterated by degrees as the case required. God blessed the meanes, and he recouered.

After William Parkinton gentleman, likewife, dwelling neere vnto Charing-Crotle, and fufficiently well knowne, lay dangeroufly licke, vling the aduice and helpe of the faid before mentioned Phylition. He neglected no meanes of ordinary course prescribed by Phylicke. Neuerthelesse the patient found small releefe. For the Physition himselfe accounted him a dead man. So likewise did his wife, and other his friends, In this forlorne estate, I was called vnto him. I only gaue him of the Essence of gold,

20 of 1

oresaid

m Darlwith a coun-

cified,

reputi-

ecame

old, to oghin

eref.

Subc

or his

com.

ials,

alled

and the Aurum Potabile. And that God, who doth wound and heale: who bringethys to the brinke of the graue, and raisethys vp againe, by this meanes, as his reuealed ordinance, restored him againe vnto perfect health.

Y these three last instances, all dwelling neere unto one place, and almost at one time, one Physicion being called vnto them all, and they allforsaken by him, as deplored: yet neverthelesse, they all beeing reconered, by the only helpe of this Aurum Potabile: we must of force acknowledge the same to bee an extraordinary blessing Sent from God, for releefe of those, who have enioyed the benefit thereof. And let no man depraise this Medicine, in that it is administred so diversly. It ought rather to be had in greater price. The neerer unto simplicitie, the neerer to veritie. Al-(o, in vaine are many things veed, when one thing prevaileth. As in all the courfe of our life this is true, so likewise in administring of Physicke. Therfore Damascen saith: It were a wicked fact to vse a compound Medicine, where a simple profiteth.

N

Chillian charine, the loud of freth, this donierowards their neighbour, and peraductions their inward tellimony of their owne conference, have to viculently and despitability invested a against the careand uncontrollable virtues and effects thereof: And

and a concept of the concept

in

laing powers or the bady, with a mentar of the heart: As allostor a Prophylacticke, en

Con-

CONCLVSION OF

THE SECOND PART.

Y these enidences, and manifold experience sincerely deliuered, partly taken and faithsully translated out of Latine letters, sent from severall parts beyond the seas; partly in English verbally set downe, as they came to me; any rea-fonable man, not seduced by vaine oppositions, nor willfully preiudicate, nor peruerfly malicious, may eafily judge, that this medicine, my Potable gold, is the most wholesome, safe, & operative medicine, which at this day is knowne to be had in vie: both for the cure of desperate and hopelesse sicknesses, when all helpe of man is accounted vaine: And for the wonderfull restoring of the decaied strength, and languithing powers of the body, with a fingular comforting of the heart: As also, for a Prophylacticke, and preseruer of health. Which so being, the greater is their finne, which contrary to Gods commandement, Christian charitie, the love of truth, their dutie towards their neighbour, and peraduenture their inward tellimony of their owne conscience, haue so virulently and despitefully inueighed against the true and vncontrollable virtues and effects thereof: And hewth tainevi

notine

g000

truite

ling

then

ofg

Go

tio

no

in their walt papers of impression, have attempted to shew the power of malicious Rhetoricke, thereby to wrong that good, which they themselves cannot attaine vnto. Whereby fo farre as their habilitie and credibilitie could (tretch, they have notoriously injured, not me only, but all forts, ranks, and degrees of people, subject to the vnrespective tyranny of sicknesse, which maketh no difference betweene the Cottage and Pallace, the King and the Peafant. The wrong to me, is, that for my loue and truth, workes of charitie, good intentions towards all, and good deferts of as many as hauemade, or hereafter shall make vie of the fruites of these my labours: they have rewarded me, with that which is vnder my backbiters tongues, railing, for reverence, reproch, for my good deeds, and flander, for a recompence. But the wrong done to others, hath many branches, and fearcheth to the feate of greatest honour. For (though I dare not lay that it should have beene otherwise, by the administring hereof the length and number of all daies being in Gods hand) yet to shew their warme charitie against all things, not in their owne Apothekes, they would not fuffer our late yong Prince, worthy of immortall memorie, to vie this fo famoully and about all exceptions approved medicine; not with landing in the vie of all other, they found not fo much as any hope. In a desperate case, and a prognosticated life, all rules both of learning and charitie allow, yea and require the attempt of any meanes, not noted of ill suspicion: Much more fo publikely and manifoldly tellified for the admirable good effects which it had wrought in divers persons. But that Rubricke (Propter dignitatem persona &c.) Giue ordinary medicines to great persos, to preferue the honour of the Phylition, that he hath done NA nenj.

y deli-faith

ating

parts

yin

HDC,

y rea.

hnor

y e2-

sthe

hich

the

all

m-

0-

Ŋ.

vi.

roffenal

naniaa

him 2

fpeed

fitions

fellou from ( fhould

perly

by Da

AMGET

(wera mon

made

end

ted a

The

100 fule

竹品

20

Act

tri

Phi

500

no hurt, scilicet, though he did no good, is neither Prophylactickenor Therapeuticke. We fay in English: Asgood neuer a whit as neuer the better. And fuch is their pious affection towards all others whom it may concerne, that what soeuer happen, none of them will make vie of this my potable gold, (which though not properly, yet emphatically may be called a divine Medicine: and certainly with more merit, then their Gratia Dei, Manus Christi, Benedicta Medicamenta, Divinum Medicamentum) though it would faue a thousand lives. Effeeming (as it feemeth) that good which is so done without the Seplasiasticke preparations, to be their dishonor, and delinement. Let all be soberly vsed, but where greatest need is, the best and most powerfull chosen. But the searcher and iudge of all hearts will recompence according to merit, to them, as to enemies of truth. And to the fincere louers thereof, acknowledging Gods mercies shewed in the administration of his owne guifts, their guerdon, which is the tellimony of a good conscience. If we looke backe, vnto the actions of certaine Phylitions of old time even before the age of Galen, and the admirable medicines of some of them: we shall find not impertinent to our purpose, that of great Alexander King of Macedon. He(as Quintus Curtius in his third booke reporteth)in the extremitie of a most dangerous and violent disease, desiring either present helpe or death, that he might hold his appointed day of battell with Darius King of Persia; for that purpose, consulted with his friends and counsellors, what remedy might be found in this desperate case. The King difliked al ordinary medicines, as too weake for his purpole. The Phylitions would allow none fuch as they called vnknowne. One Physition among the reft

Deither

inle.

r, And

swhom

lone of which called

merit,

Media

Pould

a)that sepre-

it. Let

e belf

T and

me.

ecete

elred

guer-

e If

Mi-

the

find

20%

his (ent

day

rest, named Philip, being bornein the country Acarnaniaa part of Greece, offered Alexander to make him a medicine very fafe to be taken, which should speedily restorehim to health, though the other Phyfitions knew not what it was. Parmenio a great Counsellour and fauorite of Alexanders, disswaded his King from this medicine, for he was vnwilling the King should recouer as the sequell shewed) and laboured to perswadehim, that this Philip the Physition was hired by Darius for 1000. talents to poylon him, Yet Alexander tookethat Phylicke, and finding the effect aniwerable to his promise, after his health so suddenly and beyond expectation recovered, did afterwards among other acculations, lay this for one against Parmenio, as not wishing him well; which altogether made up that ludgment which brought him to his end. And very honorablie, both rewarded andregarded Philip, to whom next under God, be attributed and acknowledged the preservation of his life. The working of that medicine, in the same place is described not valike to this of mine. In this manner, Vt vero Medicamentum, &c. So soone as the Medicine diffused or spred it selfe into the veines, there might leisurely, by little and little recovery and healthfulne fe be perceived in all the body. First the spirits and heart recovered their vigor, and after the body also, sooner then could be beleeved. For Alexander after he had beene in this case three daies, shewed himselfe to his Armie: which did not more ardently or affectionally fixe their eyes upon Alexander, then upon Philip who had so unexpettedly restored him to them: Every one striuing who should fir st give him their right hand, embrace and thanke him. Thus much Curtius.

Semblably it is sufficiently prooued and famously manifest, that very many great, Noble and Honourable

allti

me

per

ble

noti

Lep

equi

cont

non

cine

prin

mali

the

ted,

they

and

don

vili

ttan

the

rable personages, both men and women, sicke either as Alexander was, or taken with other more dangerous and violent difeases, forfaken by all other Physitions, as vncurable, have beene by the vse of this Medicine, through Gods grace, in very short time recouered, and restored to their perfect health. Therefore vnto you worthy and Honourable gentlemen, who as you are the Inheritors of Nobilities fo are you of gentle and noble dispositions: to you I say I turne my felfe, resting affured, that you esteeme these calumniating bablers, to have faid nothing reall, materiall, and veritable against me, howsoener they have mooued their tongues and quills. They intend not in this case, your health, but my dammage: and would rather you were offered a filent facrifice in eternall sleepe, then strike one saile, or valace one bonet blowen with the winde of their malicious breath, or leefe the price of a popular Recipe, for a Benedict Medicament, although it doe no good, shall doe no. harme, Propter honestatem Medici, that is, for the reputation of the Doctor: though every day almost doe giue miserable experience, that by want of doing good, the mischiefe increaseth; and so with the reputation of the Doctor, the poore patient is lodged in his grauefend, which is harme enough, and the worlt of a maledict Medicine. Therefore as I defire, fo I iustly hope, that you will discerne betweene a blacke and a white: fallhood, and truth: light and darkneffe. That you will patronife, defend and keepe from oppression, both me and the truth. If there be any doubt concerning the auouchment of the cures and good effects of this my potable gold, here spoken of, you have the reports, the particular names and places, and many of their owne hand writings I keepe ready at all ickeeithe ore dage.

ther Phy.

vicof this

rt timere

1. There.

telemen,

theleca

II) mate

ney have tend not

ge: and

ceme-

mebo-

breath,

enedia

doeno

e repu-

olt doe

doing

tepo-

redin

vorit

101, lacke

nelle,

1100-

oubt

000

you

200

Fat

all times, to be shewed for your further contentments. And I am verily perswaded, that all honest persons which have beene recovered from their diseases and infirmities by the good vse of this my potable gold, will be for thankfull to God for that benefit, as to acknowledge the meanes of their recovery, and not imitate those filent 9. Pharises clensed from their Leprofie by our Saujour: which is little leffe (if not equivalent) then against their owne knowledge and conscience to deny. Of them you may know and be latished, that it hath done good to all, hurt to none: That it is a late, powerfull and plealing Medicine: euen a Prince amongst all, analogising with principalitie in this: That doing much good, yet of malicious and vnshamefull persons it is ill spoken of as Princes oft times are. Let these worldling slanderers disprooue that I say, or proouethe contrary, if they can. It not, then it is time they would be intreated, if not for conscience sake, yet at least for shame (if they feare any) to be filent hereafter: though it were more for their honest account, to recant in print. Thele great cures performed, realities, things of fact, often times, in fundrie and diffant places, and fundry and divers persons, in fundry and different diseases, done and performed to the great good of many, and applauded by common attestation, in all parts of the Realme, and many parts beyond the feas: This (I fay) cannot be pocketted as not done, nor so easily vilified by a fine phrase, a little good Latine: Substance or sencethere is none in his writing, it is meere froth, and the deceitfull inside of a rotten Egge, or worm-eaten not: good for nothing but to befogge the cleere light of a knowne truth, and maintaine the inured practife of learned scolds. Surely, this is not, White

White, in any tongue, Latine or Welch, howfoeuer versified. These testimonies for me (which will daily increase) shall lye and remaine to all posterities, as honourable Trophies, fixed in the hearts of vnderstanding and honest men; when these stagie chartlets of theirs, shall not be vouchfafed an honest eye or eare: but call by for walt paper, to stop mustard pots, or other base offices. They are not able, to produce one Instance, of harme received by this Medicine. Wheras contrary, the chiefelt, most polychresticall, and greatest magnified compositions (whereof (to speake truth) at this day the right Ingredients bee not knowne: and against which some learned Doctors haue learnedly written) haue their Imputatios, wherin the charge must bee either vpon the Medicine it felfe, or vpon the Physitions. Whose errors, if themselves will not mend, I will not excuse. If objection be made, that all have not recovered, which have taken this Medicine of mine, but some have died: I confesse that is true. But what then? Old Age is irreuocable. Many diseases also are either essentially incurable, or preuent all power of Medicines, either by the vehemencie or malignitie Morbi acutifimi, or by thenegligence of timely helpe. Many also being easily to be cured at the first, are made desperate and vncurable. by errors, either of Medicines directly hurtfull, or at the least not helpfull, to the intollerable weakning of the poore patient, and triumph of the disease. Also Hippocrates telleth vs, that all difeases be not curable. For the fatall and predestinate houre is ineuitable. There resteth an vnknowne cause, which is the vnfearchable counfell of God, which wil not that all difeafes shall be cured in al men. Thus much concerning the second part, we will now proceede to the third. The

THE THIRD PART

SHEWING THE VSE OF THIS POTABLE GOLD.

DOWNER

hwill day

vnderslanhartlets of e or eare; ots, or oiduce one all, and to speake

Doctors

os, wher-

licine it

them-

ftion be se taken

onfelle

ocable, ble, or evehe-

eneg.

to be able,

orat

ing of Alfo

able,

ble.

VIL

原

Hat which Philip of Macedon, father of Alexander the great faid of gold: That with it all Cities, Citadells, Castels, Forts, Fortresses and Bulwarkes, howsoe-uer by nature, Art and munition thought impregnable, might be assaulted, laid open and conquered: I may as truely, but to bettervie, affirme of Aurum potabile, that is, of Goldmade into medicine and reduced to the forme of a potable liquor, that it doth affaile and oppugne all infirmities and inward diseafes of mans body (respectively curable, as aforesaid.) That it also doth restore, establish, and confirme, the vigor and strength of mans body, with the naturall and vitall faculties thereof: If it be duely and considerately administred, with such care, caution and independent as becommeth the dignitie of a rational Physition. For as the Captaine of an Army, having any peculiar exploite in hand, neglecteth no meanes, either by Military Discipline, or Engines of warre, to accomplish his intended purpose; so is the Physition

Mineon,

invention

likesthe

rups,Pil

probati

bumors

ZOKDOW

belealt

inpot

cines

(ecui

likewise bound to doe. And as the clandestine enemy which lieth in Ambush, and appeareth not in fight, is much more dangerous, then he that commethin open face; folikewife, many of our internall diseases, whose malignitie lurkes in the inward parts, are more difficultly cured, then those which manifelt the vttermost of their malice. And as in this age, both Armour and other Artillery for the service of warre, are farre different from those of former times to that it were ridiculous now, either in offensive warre or defensiue, to relinquish our Ordnance of all sorts, because (in comparison) they are but late inventions, and to trust to the ancient military instruments feruiceable among the Romans in those daies: Euen fo, the capitall difeases of this age, being for the most part Complicati Morbi, whereas olim they were simplices, will hardly be extirpate, if we ouercuriously do perfift in the prescript rules and method of antiquitie, and tyeour selues only to their Medicines: seeing that daily experience doth teach vs, that they performe not the effects promifed, and therefore, are for the molt part administred fruitlesly. Seeing therefore the indevours of this age (being inforced thereunto by defect of those medicines) have likewise added vnto Art, and have inriched the fame with other materials medicinable, not formerly retained in common vie; or the same, by more artificiall preparation, haue exaltedinto a higher virtue: Were it not madnesse (the validitie of the same being sufficiently experienced) to relinquish those of a higher nature, and to vie triuialland fruitlesse medicines? Let the Souldier make convenient vse of the Sword, Dagger, Helmet, Target, Pike, and fuch like (for they have beene of long antiquity) but withall, let not Musket, Saker, Mineon, int of

Doin

24 000

oternal

parts, anifelt

both

Watte, 6 that tre or itshe.

tions,

ts fet.

en fo,

most

weer,

xtell

and that

me

rthe

the

by

to te

100

Cti

Mineon, Cannon, be neglected, because they are new inuentions, in comparison of the other. And let vs likewise approue, and retaine in vse, Electuaries, Syrups, Pills, Powders, and what foeuer elfe by long approbation is pertinent to the expulling of malignant humors the causes of maladies: yet, let not the virtues acknowledged by all antiquity to be infident in gold, be least regarded, which virtues do actually appeare in potable gold. Euery graduated Physition is tied by folemne oath, as also by integrity of conscience, not to neglect any thing, tending to the recouery of his patient; But to vie all manner of effectuall medicines, eithernew or old, whether of their owneinuentions, or of other mens labours, being approved to be fecure and not naufeous: not rejecting the fame vpon any private confideration, either of prejudice or malice. But leaving this digrellion, to the intent that euery body whom it shall concerne, may make the best vse, reapethe full fruition of all benefits which they can expect by this fo profitable and extraordinary gift of God, (although they cannot at all times have .. the affiltance and directing aduice of a learned Physition, to prescribe and order the administration thereof, which were to be wished) I will here in this last part of this Treatife, endeuour to helpe that defect: and teach the method, manner, and rules, how, and in what diseases and passions, it may most profitably be administred. Which though by many the letters fent me, before in this discourse set downe, as also by the histories of many cures by my selfe and others therewith performed, it be reasonable plaine, yet I will drawitinto a more distinct and orderly delivery, according to the good will and meaning I have: That by a generall helping medicine, a most generall and 04 vniuervniuerfall benefite may be reaped.

Therefore be it knowne, that the vse of this medicine is generally twofold, answerable to the two gemerall ends of Practicke Physicke. One, to preserve the present health. The other, to recover it, beeing broken or lost: by curing the Diseases, and rooting out the causes thereof.

THE VSE OF POTABLE GOLD in preservation of health.

LL the Physitions and learned men, both before in my first printed booke, and here in this alledged, as also almost innumerable others, whose names I omit to auouch, for breuitie, agree in this: That Aurum Potabile is the best lities ces.

from

uent

noth

orh

put,

deep

deca

Wig

Medicine, and most profitable Instrument for the conservation of health, in all kinde of complexionable temperaments; That it partly suppresset and suffereth not luxuriously to bud, shoot out, and bring their fruit vnto ripenesse, any seedes, or latent rootes of sicknesses, lurking in mans body, whereunto any pronenesse or aptitude hereditarie, or otherwise accidentall, make them obnoxious: That it reduces to mediocritie, inordinate distemperatures, either in excesse or defect: That it refresheth, vigorateth, and strengthneth the heart; restoreth, and increaseth the vitall spirits: advanceth the force and and generation s meli.

twogo

referon

beeing

ooting

LD

umed

prin-alled

bleo.

it to this:

belt

r the 0014-

and

ing

otes

any acci-

hto

ÇX-

and

ion

emines

of good blood, multiplieth geniture seede, and habilitie of prolification in both fexes; banishing sterility, preuenting abortions, and prouiding quicke, eafy, and fafe deliueries in childbed, suppresseth the infirmities of age: preserveth the vigor of youth. It were vnnecellary to heape arguments in confirmation hereof, being in it selfe so authentically warranted by famous authors, and manifeltly witnessed by many experiences. Particularly, it is a preservative against the Falling sicknesse, the Apoplexie, Leprosie, Plague, Dropsy, Cancer, Gout, Stone, and all manner of feuers in all ages and fexes. And in some, it expelleth (or rather enableth the body to expell) by convenient and most naturall passages, the antecedent matter or humors, from and by which any difeases depending vpon fuch materiall causes might spring, and so by preuention, preferueth health.

But it is to be knowne and observed, that this Me- The first dicine of gold, though made of one body, yet is refer-forme. ued and vsed in three formes and consistences; which not being knowne, there may be much mistaking and errour in the vie and administration thereof.

First, when the gold is dissoluted in the proper menstruall or instrumentall water, this water is distilled away from the dissolued gold, vntill it be in the bottome in the forme or consistence of aliquid gum or hony, deepely coloured (as Raymund Lully cals it) & most vnctuous. To which, the spirit of wine is then put, and by solution thereof, tinched very red and deepe coloured. That tincted spirit of wine is gently decanted, or powred off, and so reserved by it selfe in a glasse. And is called the Physicall Tincture of gold. And may fo, in small roome, and with no burden bee caried whither any man please. And this we call the fiell forme.

thing

The

(litt

ties

wile

tions

men

date

A

CHIC

quire ons, I

fort

ting

eithe

orio

torm

pou

core

The fecond forme.

Take one ounce of this tincted spirit, mixe it with 16. ounces of generous wine (or if you please, of any other liquor.) And this being so mixed is called that Potablegolde, of which so often mention hath beene hitherto made. One, or two spoonfuls of this at one time, and sometimes a whole ounce, I accustome to giue, in such cases and Diseases as aforesaid.

The third forme.

The third forme is this, and thus made. That tin-Aed red spirit of wine, in which the diffolued gold is taken vp from the white feces, or relidence, is put into a fit glaffe body with a head. And with a gentle heate of a Balneum, the spirit is drawne off, vntill the fubstance in the bottome of the glasse be dry. Then doe I put on fresh spirit of wine, setting it in digestion certaine daies. In which time it will call off an other residence. This processe is reiterated, and at every fuch folution and distillation, the feculent residence must be separated from the pure, vntill it leave no refidence at all. Then is it called the Quintellence or Essence of God, which I doevse to administer in the quantity of 2. or 3. or more graines, and doe dissolueit in some appropriate liquor or other mixture conducent.

So that any, that is desirous to make vse of this my Medicine, may have either the Potable gold, or the Tincture of gold, or the Essence of gold, or all; and apply them in all manner of needfull vses, as occasion shall require.

They therefore that shall take it for preservation, may vie it in the simplest & least curious order & fashion. That is, to take of the Auru Potabile one or two spoonfuls, together fasting, and in bed, if they may, else in the morning after they be vp; the oftner, the better. Vie gives instruction, from that common Indication aforesaid, A Iunantibus et nocentibus, & c, From things things that helpe and hurt, every one is directed. Therefore who socuer after twice or thrice taking, hath found benefit thereby, he may proportion himfelfe, in moderate increasing or diminishing the dose or quantitie, according to his owne hability and constitution. For, in increasing the quantitie of this, there is no danger, so it be within any bounds of mediocritie, not exorbitantly exuberate: which is farre otherwise in all or most part of other simples and compositions, whether meerely Medicaments, or Midicamentall nutriments, as are Oximel, Saffron, Methridate, Treacle, all Cordiales and Purges what soever.

Also a convenient time to take it (especially in those that have weake stomacks) will be one houre or two before dinner or supper, or after supper, at bed time (for it doth both helpe digession, and procure sleepe) according as the circumstances shall require or fuffer.

tien st

Epol ar

led that

th been

5 20 00t

tometo

nat tip.

goldis

potin.

agentle

atul the

Then

gelion

other

leacry Notace

HO TE-

elfence inittet

nd doe

rmix

s my nthe

and

alion

tion,

Efa-

two

may)

the

In-

rom

In precaution of Lunarie Diseases, such as have their exacerbations & fits according to the quarters, changings, & full of the Moone, as Epilepsies, Desluvions, inordinate Menstruals and such like: The rule is, for this last, to take it neere the time of course: In the other, 3.4. or 5. daies before the new and full Moone.

If it be desired for the more particular appropriating of this Medicine to any particular cause, to take it not so simply of it selfe, but mixed: Then let such, either by their owne knowledge, or the appointment of some experienced Physition, mixe it with some specificall water, decoction, extraction, or otherwise formed Medicine, according to the necessitie of energy particular cause and occasion: Or with some compound water, appropried for that Disease, or Polychrestall to the same, and others, in neighbourhood and linke of causes to it.

The dole.

THE VSE OF AVRVM

POTABILE IN SVNDRY INFIRMITIES.

He dileased person that shall vse this Medicine, may take it in the same proportio or dose, as formerly is fet downe, or somewhat greater or leffe, according to the condition of the partie, and state of his Difeafe. Commonly one spoon-full of the Aurum Potabile is given at one time : or fixe or eight droppes of the Tincture of gold, mixed in fome appropriate liquor: and of the Essence of Gold, two or three graines. Where necessitie shall require, these doses may be doubled, or more; as of the Aurum Potabile, two or three spoonfull vnto a full ounce : of the Essence foure graines or sixe: Of the Tincture in like respect. Also in some persons greatly debilitated, and not able well to retaine, a small quantity is first to be attempted, and then by degrees increased, as by former examples may plainly appeare. Also this Esfence of gold is very fitting and convenient for very yong infants but newly borne, in any Disease whatfoeuer, being ordered in this maner. Take one graine of the Essence, dissolue it in one or two spoonfull of brestmilke or in some distilled water as shalbe fitting: giue give the childe part of that mixture at the first : after a while giueit more. This is securely given, the third or fourth dayafter the birth; so is likewise the Aurum Potabile in a small quantitie, and mixed with some other liquor, not with milke: neither must the childe sucke within two houres after, lest the wine in the potable gold, should curdle the milke.

The dose.

These administrations are to be given intermissing. How oft. ly, sometime euery second, third, or fourth houre, as the present case shall require: vntill of the operation appeare with good fignes, the abating of the passions, diminishing of the Disease, and recouerie of

ttrength.

hat (hall

ytakent

ordole, ne, or e, 20-

ion of

HS Dif.

0000 or fine

Led in

Ulit,

WW.

of

THIS

ed,

tto

It may beginen at altimes, most commonly in the When to be morning falting, or an houre before repalt. Likewise giuen. after meate to preuent a furfet. For it helpeth digeftion, and preuenteth ficknesses following such repletions. To procure sleepe it is given at bed-time; or if necessitie vrge, in any other houre of the night or day: being effectually a true Anodine, of contemperation without stupefaction, not narcoticke.

The Effects of this Medicine: corroboration of Effects. the heart: restauration of the vitall spirits decaied and enfeebled: which apparantly is manfelt, by quiet and fweete fleepe most commonly following; asalfo by mitigation of paine, and appealing of violent paff:ons: sometime by a milde and gentle sweat ensuing, fometimes by vomit, and rejection of malignant vifcous humors: also by plentifull euacation of vrine, as also by restraint thereof, where the retention is weake. And though fildom, yet fomtimes by a loofenelfe of the belly: but very oft, by Itaying inordinate fluxes. And every of these functions, though contrary fome one to other, are directed and performed by the meere motion of Nature it selfe, being strengthned, vigorated,

When to be

vigorated, and enabled, by the virtue of this Medi-

Let thus much suffice, for the simple, or very simply mixed vse of this Medicine. But although in this forme taken and vled, it giveth great furtherance towards the curing of any malady, as by many particular experiments hath beene related, in which fildome times any addition of peculiar effect hath beene administred: yet because of the great varietie, difference and diversitie of dispositions, natures, places, diseases, times, and countries; and because prescription ought not to prejudicate the skill and judgement of all men; Therefore to supply these differences, I doe leave free to the judgement and discretion of every rationall experienced Physition, to administer this medicine, with any kind of Waters, Liquors, Syrups, Conferues, Electuaries, or other medicines simple or compound, fuch as they shall vpongood grounds and experience, know or judge most appropriate, specificall, convenient, and agreeing to the present circumstances of the difeafe, nature, & quality of the patient, & necessity of his state. We give no prescript of Method, or limitatio of proceedings vnto Physitions; they being prefent, know what is needfull, what requilite, in order, time and place: what in each respect is to be done, what to be left vindone. But where a competent Phylition is not at hand; as in Country villages, or fuch like places, there fome admonition or direction is expedient.

It is well knowne among learned men, what effect, efficacy, and force, is attributed to that Medicine which is called Vniuerfall, in that high degree where-of writers make mention, that it performeth great and admirable effect, not only vpon mans body, but also vpon Mettals, as appeareth by these words of Raymund Lully: The quintessence of gold, after distilvigorated.

ling

ing away

the botto

or of g

greatly

asalioo

ly,200

astron

will mann

beor thefa

CO

bis Med

ghinds

ance to

particu

ildome

cene ad-

ference

ifeafes,

lought Umen;

sue free

tional

dicine,

itues,

ound,

ience,

wenj-

of the

ity of

feat,

ine

hat

ion

ent,

a,

6

ij

ling away of the instrumentall water, will remaine in the bottome of the glaffe, very pure, and separated from all impurity, thicke in the confiftence of hony, or of gumme, deepely coloured and very vnctuous, greatly availeable, both for Medicine of many body, as also of Mettals. But this Medicine of ours, hath his preparation onely pertinent to the vic of man, Neuertheles feeing that, both that Medicine of Raymund Lully, and this of mine, have all the virtue incident vnto them deriued from gold, and from the forme thereof, as from one fountaine and foundation; therefore it will not be impertinent, to prescribe the same vse and manner of administring of this medicine of mine, which Raymund doth vnto his. For if the agent cause be one in them both, the manner of vse may also be the same. He prescribeth aspeciall vse in these words. Mixethis Essence of gold in a quantity of white wine, when you will giue it to a Phlegmaticke constitution, especially in the Winterseason. If to a Cholericke, giue it in faire water : to a Melancholike, in broth, wherein mutton is decocted: If he be of a Sanguine complexion, in cleare white wine: And this shall be a prevention against infirmities, and their bodies shall be rectified against the distemper of the season. If you give this medicine to those that are siske let the mixture be more effectuall of the Medicine. Neither be thou greatly troubled (faith he) to know the perfect state of the disease. For nature it selfe is wife and prouident by her owne instinct, and hath inuested to this stone being dissolved, sufficient virtues, to rectifie that which is amille in nature. My some, this medicine is powerfull, both against hotte diseases, and cold, naturall, and accidentiall, &c. These words and other hereunto tending Raymund setteth downe, which we out of our experience have found to be answerable to this

2110

our intent. Neuerthelesse wee acknowledge, that fometimes extraordinary symptomes doe occurre, which threaten present danger of death, if they bee not speedily preuented: As is, extreme heate, extremitie of cold, great thirst, lacke of sleepe, inordinate fluxes, and fuch like. All which by the good pleafure of God, are mitigated and allwaged by this only Medicine of mine. And yet many things may be appropriately added hereunto, & pertinet for the expulling of euery Disease. Therfore, if the patiet haue a repleate body, that necessity requiresome euacuation to bee made; gentle, & not violet purges, fitting the humor offending are to be administred. Sometime the body hath neede by vrine or sweat to be releeved: which both, although this Aurum Potabile doe in fort performe yet in some cases it is to be helped. If a fluxe be caused in the nether ventricle, vnto which a Medicine received at the mouth cannot speedily penetrate, then a clenfing, and aftringent Glifter will be expedient. If sleepe bewanting, that necessarily must be regarded. And although this Medicine doth for the most part by a secret proprietietherin procure sleepe, yet if neede belet other helps be adjoyned. Blood letting in convenient time must not be neglected. Other things pertinent, I referre to the discretion of them, whome it shall - con bite dies selle concerne.

elident by thet owne latimit, and harly innelled to the Pene being a Holucond dicient with estored the that which is uniffe in nature, Ary loose, this made he Defended that the partie of harrist the said the land and accidentall, Sec. Thefe words and other force.

omprending Raymand letterly countries which was cut of our experience have found to be autiverable to this The

THE CONCLUSION

OF THIS TREATISE.

dge, that occurs, occurs, it they be eate, extremordinate pleafore only Me. beappro-

apulling repleate

n to bee

e homor

ebody

Which

ort per-

xebe

dicine

etrate,

expe-

ill be

r the

od

Auing thus, ingenuously, plains ly, and fully (as I hope) satisfied all indifferent and unpartiable Readers, of the cause of this discourse, concerning the generall and extraordinarie effects of this Medicine: and of the threekinds thereof: of my vie in administration thereof, in all Difeases, sexes, ages and circumstances: together with the libertie and cautions in further extent, and mixture with other Medicines: I now returnein the Conclusion, vnto such Readers, to whome I have and ever shall, devote, confecrate and dedicate all my studies, labours and industrie, commending vnto you the right construction, and generous acceptance, without any finister detortion, of my good and vnspotted intendements, not retorted against my traducers, with any malicious virulence, but extorted by meere compulsion, for the necellary challenge, and defence of my good name, oppugned by two Doctors, though neuer expugnable by them, nor the laudatorie verlifiers, chaunting pro formà absque materià. Let them enioy the glory of their Eloquence, or rather loquence, with ill applyed Phrases. I desire none other contentment in this

agains ther, b

thelic

fore 1

andio

and t

thing

rabli

ptoc

tan

bep.

hin

off

question, then the publike testimony of a constant truth. Truth will surely liue, preuaile, flourish. It is like the gentle and sweete Marierome, manifoldly excellent for many vertues. Which but rubbed in the hand, yeeldeth an excellent fent, comfortable to all fenses. Of which hearbit is written, that if swine be enforced, with full fent of open nostrels to takethe fmell, it is mortall to them, and caufeth them to die. Surely this is afecret in Nature, that a thing fo good init selfe, and so agreeably helpefull to good men, should by the malice, or brutishnesse of a Swinish nature be accounted poylon. This is a true Embleme of my Medicine, which being helpfull to all, hurtfull to none, yet there are found fuch, as professe hatred to the very name thereof: and so turne that generall preferuatiue, to their private poyfon of rancor. But herein that common rule of Philosophy, is not vnfitly analogifed vpon them: Nutriens connertitur in naturam nutriti, et non contra. The nourishment is couerted into the nature of the body nourished, but not contrarily. So likewise the enuious man, whatsoeuer hee beholdeth with his malicious Eye, though extraordinary good of it felfe, yet hee converteth it to his owne peruerfe disposition, which is euill. As may well appeare in the Bee, and the Spyder, this fucking poyson, and the other hony out of the selfe same flower. Let all these things be considered, by the indifferent and Iudicious Reader, and with equall ballance let him peife truth with falsehood, sinceritie with deceit, not inclining either to hatred or adulation, but with free minde and integritie of conscience, let sentence be pronounced. Among good men there ought to be good dealing. It may peraduenture bee that fome doubts may bee mooued, or cavilling allegations againit and sup.

litike

ily end ed in the bletoal

(wine)

takethe

ato die

lo good

dmen,

nilh na.

nbleme

burtfall

atred to rallpre-

there-

Sthy a-

ed into ranily, behol-

dinary

OWne

llap-

JWG.

erent

e let

cent,

mth

nce

obe

ome

ODS

inft

Lake

against the tract of this Treatise in some point or other, but furely fuch as will be vtterly vnprofitable to the licke patient, who is to be releeued by healthfull Medicine, and not by subtilitie of Argument. Wherefore if I should endeauour to answer every friuolous and idle obiection, I should both abuse the Reader, and thinke mine owne time euill spent. Some few things I defire to admonish the Reader: First, fauourablie to construe and interpet the intent of these my proceedings, & notrashly, vpon any mans words or writings, to condemne the verity of this matter now in question. Also, if any thing in this Treatise be contained, which isemeth not aniwerable vnto euery mans capacitie or judgement, that fuch person would be pleased, first, to admonish mee thereof by private letters, or otherwise, that I may in those doubts yeeld him fatisfaction, before hee doe publikely oppugne the truth. Furthermore, if these things to some, seeme offinall moment, I humbly intreate them, to produce better in place for the vie of the languishing patient (provided alwaies that it bee no leffe approved by time and experience) and in the mean time, whi-lest wee live in expectation thereof, let the Common-wealth receive benefit by this, without their let or prejudice.

And the latest the state of the parties on the literature of the latest the l

the water of the strike points for the second strike the second st which is no supplied to the property of the supplied to the su Carrie Lade bot's that only as a local more in the

AN COMPANY OF THE PROPERTY OF

a additional view service by a service of the

AN APPENDIX RESERVED FOR

THEIVDICIOVS

READER.

T is generally well knowne, that

Mathew Gwinne, in the Preface of that his Invective booke against me, did, in most instant manner, sollicite the Kings Maiestie, for the suppression of this Medicine my Potable gold. His Inducements, and motives were in these words. Tolluntur vnà Medici, &c. The Physitions of this Citie, the Chyrurgians, and the Apothecaries will all decay, and in manner be submerted, if this one vnimersall Medicine of Anthony doe premaile. He entorceth the same as yet further: Let your Maiestie establish this, least the Archytectionicall order of the Physitions, (for I doe produce his owne words) the Polychrestall order of the Chyrurgians: the honest, learned, & wealthy order of the London Apothecaries, be either confused, or vtterly confounded, by the Intrusion of those who prepare Medicines Chymically. How vniust this petition is, and how prejudiciall vnto veritie it selfe, and vnto true Art (whereof the Apothecaries have but a shaddow) who seeth not? If Godhath hathgranted vnto this our age, an extraordinary bleffing, more serviceable for the health of man, and much more availeable then all other Medicaments hitherto retained in comon vie, ought it to be exploded by the practitioners in Physicke, or to be reieeted of the patient in his vtter distresse, because the like lucre and gaine doth not to them aforefaid redound, as by other drugges ordinarily prescribed? Was that elect Veffel (mentioned in holy writ) infly fcourged and vtterly filenced, because by his words and admonition, the handicraftimen, employed about that idoll of Diana, were likely to lose some part of their viuall lucre and gaine? (I hope it is not vnlawfull in this case, to compare profane with sacred actions.) Nay rather contrariwife. If this vniuerfall Medicine, shall approoue it selfe by daily experience to be vniuerfally effectuall, then being retained in vie, both Phylitions, Chyrurgions, and Apothecaries, will the rather beaccepted of, and the more reverenced: Neither will that three-fold order, bee either confused, or confounded herewith, but rather confirmed, and better fetled in generall account. For if these three, when they shall be called to the sicke patient, would at their entrance (as the ancient Ethnick Senators vsed to doe, when they entred the Senate house for consultations of the Weale publike) shake off amulation, Enuy, and ouermuch defire of filthy lucre: then the Physition should finde in this Medicine, such helpe in desperate Diseases, as both he. and his languishing patient should reioyce at the fruites thereof. The Chyrurgians likewife, in some case of theirs, as in Faintings, Swoundings, Convulsions, Crampes, and where fleepe and reft are wanting, whereby great feeblenesse and deiection of Spirits doe Q 3 leythat

ЬО

faceof

ainst

nner, e, for licine

dace-

thefe

ofthis

ecay,

hine

Ar-

loce.

ngi-

10-

OW

VC.

je-

doeensue, should then make perfect experience and tryall, of what validitie this Medicine is. Then also the Apothecarie should lose no part of his honestie, of his learning, nor of his substance and riches, having by him this Medicine, as a last refuge for the releese of his forlorne patient. The Apothecarie is carefull, to have in every corner of his shoppe, divers and sundrie contemptible drugges, loathsome to most men, now in this age of ours. My desire is not to detract any thing from them in their gaine or skill, but rather to adde thereunto, and the behalse of the Common wealth, vnto whom I doe here dedicate, consecrate and offer, all these my labours; and whatsoever else is in my power.

FINIS.

and a second company project of the

in a molibolit bas Monidal ing yourself

Seasy Makes the second of the control of the contro to a Didden to who do and Lordon despitations 益 dia, to drie the party of the party of the party of the same WOO Court age of the case passes of the court of any otz 1

