INTRODUCTION.

PRIVATE vices are public injuries. This is ftrongly verified in the lawless commerce of the fexes. A general depravity in this instance, would bring on a general confusion : for, at the fame time that we untie the knot of conjugal love, we rob the flate of its beft fupport and fecurity, and impioufly dare to abrogate one of the plaineft injunctions of the divine legislator. The happiness of fociety can have no other stable foundation than the virtue of individuals. If the whole body were corrupt, the diffolution of it would inevitably enfue. With refpect to a future state, it is evident enough, to those who acknowledge Jesus Christ as their lawgiver, or meditate on the precepts handed down by the once chosen people of God, that the first and greatest among the children of men, as well as the poor and illiterate, if they act with any confiftency, will call themselves to account for transgressions of this kind, how lightly foever they may often treat fuch offences. If religion is the glory of human nature ; if we can have no hopes of everlafting felicity on a principle which we do not adopt, let him who receives the faith of Christ, preferve the impressions of it on his mind, in the clearest and most indelible characters, and rejoice, when an opportunity is offered of reducing his faith to practice, that the imitation of mankind may be the more fleadily engaged upon objects of fuch vaft importance to them.

The increase of the inhabitants of this island, has long been an object of legislative attention. To preferve is to increase : but if the means of prepreferving are alfo rendered fubfervient to population, in a manner equally agreeable to divine and human laws, charity and policy will then go hand in hand, and we may hope to fee the happieft fruits from national zeal; but if our piety is not ftrictly watched in its operations, it will fometimes bewilder us, and pervert the end intended.

The undertaking here recommended is of a delicate nature, but we need not be alarmed, as if we fhould trefpafs on those wholefome rules which are neceflary to keep mankind in awe: there is fuch a ftrict analogy between the difobedience of the divine law, and the punifhment of it, that mifery, in fome fhape or other, is infeparable from vice. The worldly diftrefs which the poor bring on themfelves, is indeed the moft level to common observation, and oftentimes fo very ftriking, that we anxiously wish to relieve them, upon the principles of meer humanity; but, when religion fteps in, and they express a defire to reform, it becomes an effential duty to afford them affistance.

Whatever our national prejudices may have formerly been, when we come to diftinguish the various causes whence the miseries of life generally fpring, we are unavoidably led to compassionate the case of many thoughtlefs young women, who become facrifices, by the means of those temptations to which their personal advantages exposed them. Surrounded by fnares, too often laid with great art and industry, it is no wonder that fallacious promises, which favour a propensity to evil, should sometimes prevail. But the repentance here proposed, carries with it the strongest marks, that their fond expectations of uninterrupted joys, vanish like a dream. They foon behold themselves, as monuments to delusion, abandoned by the fedu cer, forfaken by their relations and friends, despised, and even infulted by the world. When thus left to struggle with poverty and fcorn, what can be the confequence ? Alas, it is too well known that they plunge the deeper, and become the more abandoned, till a noifome diftemper ends their miferable lives.

These are the great out-lines of their picture ; but we are not therefore to conclude, that all who go aftray in this manner will return to a fenfe of duty : let it fuffice, that fome of these unhappy women have continued in this dreadful way of living, through a habit of necessity, rather than a premeditated choice ; and that others, lefs practifed in the paths of iniquity, difdaining the infults to which they are exposed, fly for refuge. Were we to mark all offences with extreme rigour, the flate of fociety would indeed be a ftate of war, and mercy no longer confidered as an attribute of the deity. Let us then observe the happy medium, and shew mercy to those who seek it. Let us enjoy the pleasing reflexion, that whilft we exercise our own hearts in the duties of humanity, we prevent the propagation of iniquity, and fave many from that contagious distemper, which hurries thousands to an early grave : we promote the great caufe of religion, and whilft we recommend to mankind the folid comforts of domestic life, we afford these women an opportunity to recover from their forlorn condition, to regain the hopes of mercy from their God, and to become worthy the protection of their country.

To fave a foul from death, is furely the higheft object of that glorious ambition, which leads us to afpire at the enjoyments of heaven. If we make a true practical diffinction between the penitent, and the impenitent profitute, there can hardly be any danger. Whether affliction opens the door to her repentance, or whether that just difcernment which true religion always infpires, leads her to feek for refuge, to thut against her all the avenues to comfort, has fomething in it fo extremely thocking, that that it is hard to fay, if the heart bleeds most on the account of our common bumanity, or shudders for fear of offending him who is the tender parent of mankind.

It is beyond all difpute, that the piety of this nation had, according to the cuftom of other countries, long fince induced us to fhew the kind of mercy here recommended, if we had thought of any practicable method of doing it. As there are many incidents, in the great affairs of government, which occafionally require new laws, though we doubt the fuccefs of almoft any law that can be digefted; fo, in fome defperate cafes, which fall under the more immediate cognizance of private perfons, experiments muft be tried. Time, which ripens all things, and that good providence which fuperintends all human affairs, have now eradicated thofe prejudices, which created infuperable difficulties, to the very attempt. At length we believe, for we fee, that many women, in the moft abject ftate, may be recovered to a fenfe of virtue; and that they are truly rendered capable of wiping off thofe ftains in their character, which had excluded them from the common bleffings of life.

Strict order and discipline are, indeed, effential to all undertakings, but more particularly in fuch as this; and it ought to be prefumed, that fuch as the deportment of these women is, in the public worship of their Maker, fuch is their behaviour, at their labour, and at the common refreshments of life. For as this charity is founded in a supposition of a practical belief that the soul is immortal, and a return to an unseigned obedience to the divine precepts of the Great Prophet and Redeemer of the world, it cannot be supported on any other principle. And it is very remarkable, that of 128 women received, within these few months, fince the opening of the house, at a venture, and chiefly from their own account I of themfelves, only 19 have been discharged; some of these very honourably, as being reconciled to their friends, or labouring under chronical distempers, which rendered their abode incompatible with the nature of a house of piety and labour; and, upon the strictest examination, very few have proved to be unfit objects. If we consider the infant state of the charity, it is equally matter of joy and surprize, that the thing should be at once so well understood:

Virtue is epidemical as well as vice. We fee the force of example in many inftances. Some reformations have been brought about by means of the bare report of the fanctity of this inftitution : and the public has feen fome of the capital ftreets of this metropolis, which used to be the grand rendezvous of proftitutes, the dangerous obstruction to the unwary passenger, has been happily removed, by the vigilance of the civil magistrate.

In the mean time, if we look back on the objects of this beneficent undertaking, nothing can be more interefting than the reconciliations of their parents and friends, as preparatory to their reception in the world; whilft the proofs which are often given by fome of them, demonstrate much higher fentiments, than the generality of mankind is apt to conceive of perfons under fuch circumftances. Nor is this charity lefs worthy our attention, in a political view. It has been already obferved, that prefervation is one kind of increafe, and we may fafely pronounce, that fixty out of a bundred of thefe women would, probably, have been dead in lefs than two years. They are now recovering their conflitutions, and, as they learn ufeful employments, we may flatter ourfelves that, by their labour and ingenuity, they will obtain an boneft fupport when they return into the world. It is more than probable that many of them will in due time, time, become faithful domestic scrwants, whilft their religion will qualify them for making the beft of wives.—Let the hearts of their benefactors exult in triumphs of joy and compassion, when they hear them chant the praises of their Maker, and pour out their hearts in gratitude for their deliverance from the bondage of sin. To confider what they were, and what they now appear to be, a change of manners of this kind is not lefsstrange than new; and with pleasure we behold an effect which we once thought next to impossible. Our fellow-subjects may be perswaded, that no care will be wanting to render the charity instrumental to all the great and good purposes for which it is intended; and it is hoped that such aid will be afforded, as will fix it on a basis hardly to be shaken, whilst Virtue can maintain her warfare with the dangerous vice in question.

- 3. The matron may dine at the head of the table of the fuperior ward.

4. The

4. The head of each ward dines at the upper end of each table, and fays grace.

XV. Of their EMPLOYMENT.

- 1. Each perfon is employed in fuch work or bufinefs as is fuitable to her abilities, and may have fuch part of the benefit arifing from her labour and ingenuity, as the committee fhall judge her deferving of ; which fum may be increased by the bounty of the house, as favourable opportunities happen for establishing them in the world.
- 2. One in each ward prefides, and is anfwerable, to the matron, for the industry and good behaviour of the rest; and such as are capable of instructing others, shall be properly rewarded.
- 3. No part of their labour is fold in the boufe, but at fome other place appointed by the committee.
- 4. The articles intended for the employment of thefe women, are, to make their own cloaths, both linen and woollen; fpinning the thread and making the cloth.—To knit their ftockings from the raw materials.— To make bone-lace.—Black-lace.—Artificial flowers.—Childrens toys. —Spinning fine thread; alfo woollen yarn.—Winding filk.—Embroidery.—All branches of millinary.—Making women and children's floes, mantuas, ftays, coats.—Cauls for wigs, weaving hair for perukes.— Knitting hofe and ftockings.—Making leathern and filken gloves.— Making garters.—Drawing patterns.—Making foldiers cloaths and feamen's flops.—Making carpets after the Turkey manner, which may be eafily fuited to their ftrength and abilities.—Or whatever employment their feveral abilities and genius lead to (a).

5. Quick

(a) The chief objects in which they have been hitherto employed, are fpinning of wool and flax, winding filk, making fine, and alfo flop fhirts; making gloves, and embroidering the backs of them, and making all the houfhold linen, and all their own cloaths.

- 5. Quick fale shall be made of the product of their labour and ingenuity, that they may know how their property accumulates, as an additional spur to industry.
- 6. In their work, as in every other circumstance, the utmost delicacy and humanity are observed, that this establishment may not be thought a house of correction, or even of hard labour, but a safe retreat from their distressful circumstances.

XVI. Of times of REST and DIET.

- 1. From Lady-day to Michaelmas they rife at fix, and go to bed at ten; and from Michaelmas to Lady-day rife at feven, and are in bed at nine; and after that time no fire or candle are allowed, except in the fick ward.

XVIII. Of DISMISSION for FAULTS.

- 1. Abufive or reproachful language, infolence or difobedience to the officers, indecent or profane exprefiions, and fuch kind of turbulent conduct, fubjects them to confinement in a room for fix hours for the firft offence. For the fecond offence they are admonifhed publicly by the chaplain and the matron; and the reft of their own ward are alfo appealed to, for their difapprobation of fuch conduct. The third offence fubjects them to be confined for twelve hours, and to have but one fpare meal during the whole day; and, if found incorrigible, then to forfeit a certain proportion, or the whole of what they may have acquired by their labour, at the defcretion of the committee : it alfo fubjects them to the confequences of their agreement; and difinifion from the houfe, never to be re-admitted.
- 2. After the continuance of any woman in the house for three years, or upon the modest and virtuous demeanor, and industrious conduct of such woman, upon the application of her parents or friends, or any housekeeper of sufficient credit, if such friends declare they forgive past offences, and will provide for her; or, if such housekeeper will receive such woman as a fervant; in either of these cases the committee will discharge such woman, with her consent.
- 3. Upon the difcharge of fuch woman, her cloaths, or if fold, the produce of them shall be returned to her, together with whatever may be due upon her account, and a certificate shall be given her, under the hand of the president, one of the vice-presidents, or treasurer, and two or more of the committee, of her good conduct and behaviour during the time of her continuance in the house.

4. Every

- 4. Every woman who fhall be placed out in a fervice from this houfe, and fhall continue one whole year in fuch fervice, to the approbation of her mafter or miftrefs, upon its being made appear to the fatisfaction of the committee, the committee may give fuch woman a gratuity, not exceeding two guineas, as a reward for her good behaviour.
- 5. The committee will, upon the good behaviour of any of the women, interest themselves to obtain a reconciliation with their parents and friends, in order to their return into the world; and, upon such occafions, their contracts will be cancelled.
- 6. Befides the vouchers above mentioned, and the advantages arifing from their labour, a bounty may be given, at the difcretion of the committee, to fuch as are properly difcharged. This bounty will be prefented, not only to those who marry, in a manner fatisfactory to the committee, but also to fuch as shall set up trades, in whatever way they shall have gained a proficiency; so that nothing shall be omitted which can promote the great ends of preferving life, of rendering that life useful, and of recovering those who are now lost to the community.

These Rules and Orders will be improved from time to time, as experience may render necessary.

HYMNI

A P R A Y E R for the use of the MAGDALEN .1 3 9 A HYO He Glory may unite. Wales, my Soul, and with the Sun PraileGod, from whom all Bleffings flow;

Direct, control, fuggeft this Day,

ATHER of mercies and God of all comfort, who hast sent thy Son Jefus Chrift into the world, to fave that which was loft; we praise thy holy name for the bountiful provision made in this place, for the fpiritual and temporal wants of miferable offenders: befeeching thee fo to dispose our hearts by the powerful working of thy bleffed spirit, that through fincere repentance and a lively faith, we may obtain remiffion of our fins, and all the precious promifes of thy gofpel. Awaken those who have not yet a due fense of their guilt : and perfect a godly forrow where it is begun. Renew in us whatfoever hath been decayed by the fraud and malice of the devil, or by our own carnal will and frailnefs. Preferve us after escaping the pollutions of the world, from being again entangled therein; and keep us in a flate of conflant watchfulnefs and humility. Forgive, as we do from our hearts, those who have injured us : and grant to all who have feduced others, or been feduced themfelves into wickedness, that they may forfake the evil of their doings, and live. Make this house a bleffing, we pray thee, to the souls and bodies of all its inhabitants, and a glorious monument of thy grace, abounding to the chief of finners. Strengthen the hands, direct the counfels, reward the labours and the liberality, of all who are engaged in the government or fupport of it: and increase the number of those, who have a zeal for thy glory, and compassion on the ignorant, and on them that are out of the way; that many may be turned from darknefs to light, and from the power of fatan unto God, through the merits and mediation of Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

HYMN III.

For the LORD'S DAY.

THis is the Day the Lord's own Day, A Day of holy Reft: O teach our Souls to reft from Sin, That Reft will pleafe the beft.

This is the Day, thy Day, O Lord, On which Thou didft arife; For Sinners having made thyfelf A finlefs Sacrifice.

Thou, Thou alone, redeemed haft Our Souls from deadly Thrall; With no lefs Price than thine own Blood, The Purchafe of us all.

Hadft Thou not dy'd we had not liv'd, But dy'd eternally :

> Thou, Lord, didst die, and rife again, And didst ascend on high,

That we poor Sinners, loft and dead, Might live eternally.

Thy Blood was shed instead of ours; Thy Soul our Guilt did bear; Thou took'st our Sins, gav'st us thyself; Thy Love's beyond compare.

Welcome and dear unto my Soul Is thy moft holy Day:

May I th' eternal Sabbath keep With God my Strength and Stay!

I come, I wait, I hear, I pray; Thy Footsteps, Lord, I trace: I joy to think this is the Way To fee my Saviour's Face.

Thefe are my Preparation-Days; And when my Soul is drefs'd, Thefe Sabbaths shall deliver me To mine eternal Reft.

Where may be had, the Rev. WILLIAM DODD'S SERMON before the Governors, &c. of the MAGDALEN-CHARITY:

ADVICE to the MAGDALENS.

As I live faith the Lord God, I have no pleafure in the death of the wicked; but that the wicked turn from their way and live: turn ye, turn ye, from your evil ways, for why will ye die? Ezekiel xxxiii. 11.

If ye fo turn, Though your fins be as fcarlet, they shall be white as snow; though they be red like crimfon, they shall be as wool. Ifai. i. 18.

For, God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life. John iii. 16.

T is with the greateft fatisfaction, that we take the opportunity, you give us, to lay before you thefe folemn and most comfortable declarations of the Almighty King of Heaven and Earth, the Lord of Truth, whofe word never faileth. The happy choice you have made, and your voluntary entrance into this Houfe, fill us with good hope, that you are fensible of your past miserable state, and willing to recover the lost favour of God and your Fellow-creatures. If such be your disposition, you will find here every thing conducive to that defireable end; and we can affure you with pleasure, that no encouragement shall be wanting to promote your prefent and future felicity.

But that you may neither miftake the defign of this charitable inflitution, nor pervert its good intention, it is neceffary folemnly to inform you of that defign, and of what is expected from you. And we defire that you would ferioufly, and often, reflect upon what we deliver to you; and that you would endeavour, as exactly as you may, to comply with fuch Rules as are laid down, if you defire to engage our efteem, and fecure our protection.

Touch'D with a tender and pitying fense of the lamentable diffreffes, which young women frequently fuffer, unavoidably fuffer in a ftate of profitution :—concerned at once for the afflicting miseries that oppress their Bodies, and the miseries far more afflicting, which must oppress their unrepenting Souls : many benevolent perfons have voluntarily contributed to open this hospitable House, as a place of refuge and retreat for those, who are desirous to leave the pernicious paths of vice, to redeem their good name, to recover their bodies from Shame and foul Difeafe, to regain the fatherly protection of God, and fave their immortal Souls.

- bodies

And, they were the rather inclined to this humane purpose by the peculiarly afflicting circumstances of unhappy young women, whom lost reputation deprives of every honest means to live : casts out as the very refuse of the world; and gives no opportunity to retrieve and return.

Confider then, YOUNG WOMAN, of how great value to you this Houfe of refuge is; as being the only one, to which you could fly; the only place where you could have any probability of attaining prefent or future Blifs.

Surely then you must greatly prize it; and feel the utmost Gratitude for the worthy Governors and Supporters of it.

This Gratitude we would wish you to cherish, as it will ever be a motive to the very best Conduct.

But as this Houfe, you perceive, was defigned to receive you from the florm of Diftrefs, and to enable you to recover loft Reputation, Health and Virtue; you must not by any means fo mistake its gracious End, as to be carelefs in those important Concerns, as to be remiss in the discharge of any Duty.

It was never intended, that you fhould pafs your Life here; much lefs that you fhould be fupported in Idlenefs and Sloth. But as your continuance is temporary, fo are you to effeem that continuance a fingular favour : for the indulgence of which, if you conduct yourfelves properly, you may reafonably hope, till fuch time, as you fhall be enabled to return into life with a reputation recovered—no longer the form and contempt of your Fellow-creatures; with an habit of induftry and the means to procure honeftly your own Bread : and with a Mind, renewed in Holinefs, confcious of its paft Evils, and refolved, through God's grace, to forfeit no more the bleffed hope of everlafting Life.— Agreeable to thefe future views muft be your prefent Conduct.

I. I. With regard to your external behaviour, the most exact compliance with the Rules of the House will be required. And as nothing of severity will be shewn towards you, so nothing of unseemly, and refractory conduct can be allowed, or will be permitted.

2. An humble and ready obedience to the Directions of your MATRON will be the Method to preferve you from Error, to steer you aright, and to gain the approbation of your friends and patrons. And we trust you will be very diligent and attentive in this respect.

3. As

3. As you cannot but be sensible, that the expences attending such a family are great, your own reflection must shew you, that there is an absolute neceffity for much Industry on your part ; and we must inform you, that ready as we are to fuccour the diffreffed, and to contribute with all liberality to their relief; yet, it cannot be supposed, that this House is designed to harbour and encourage the idle and the vicious; and therefore a deficiency in induftry will always be fufficient to lofe our efteem, as it will too plainly fhew your want of Principles. For if you live idly on the fole bounty of the Houfe, you are grievoully abufing the Charity of your Benefactors, and are injuring others, who would be glad to enter, and to work as well as they are capable. Befides, as Idleness is the root of all Evil, your persisting in it will defeat all the good purpofes we intend, which are to make you industrious upon principle, that fo you may get your Maintenance with credit. For be affured, that we must confider all your pretences to Reformation diffembled, while you are deficient in that Industry, which is the genuine fruit of true Religion. And remember, that as Idlenefs cloaths with rags, brings to shame, to every Vice and every Mifery, fo are its fufferings never pitied; they are the just reward of the crime. You must not then expect continuance here, or comfort any where elfe, if you are not Industrious. The Apostle hath declared, If any will not work, neither shall they eat *. And for your comfort, we can fay, that the bleffings of induftry are always upon it : Diligence and honeft Labour carry with them their own reward. Idlenefs shall clothe with rags ; but the hand of the Diligent maketh rich +.

4. There is one further particular refpecting your outward Deportment, which is of great confequence, both to your own peace, and to that of the family in general; your behaviour we mean one towards another, and particularly to your fuperior ‡. Indeed if you have any fenfe at all of the Religion which you profefs, and are here taught, you will foon know that Love is itsgreat and diffinguishing Commandment; and that we can then only be true Difciples of Chrift, when " we love one another as He hath loved us "."

We expect, therefore, that you each one endeavour to cultivate the greateft Harmony and Unity amongft yourfelves, that you be obedient and obliging to your Superiors: and that you avoid all quarrelling, reproach, and upbraiding one of another; which will be most unfeemly in you, who, alas-have-fo little caufe to contemn and defpife. Your famenels of circumftances, and fadnels of diffrefs, fhould awaken in each of your Hearts, a tender pity one for the other; with kind Love, like that of affectionate Sifters, you fhould endeavour to footh each others Sorrows; and fhould never mentionyour paft Misfortunes, but to condole with one another, and to deplore your former miferable Eftate.—If you act in fuch an amiable and becoming manner, you will reap the fruits of it, to your prefent Comfort and Happinels. The fituation you are in will be like a little Heaven to you; whereas difputes, difcontents, and reviling, will deprive you of the beft Bleffings here offered. Live in Love, therefore, as dear Children of the fame heavenly Father, who hath fhewn you fuch mercy, who hath done fo much for the Salvation of your Souls*.

This is the great and material point:—The Salvation of your Souls: and which, if attained not, great part of the prefent good defign is fruftrated. For we would have you reflect, that what relates to your Soul is of infinitely greater moment, than what concerns your Body only; and therefore if its welfare be overlooked, amidft the care for merely external refpects, you will receive but little of the benefit we propofe you, we fhall receive much uneafy difappointment. It is hoped then you will diligently attend to what follows.

II. We truft, you are not ignorant, that you have an immortal Soul, as well as a perifhing Body; a Soul which cannot die, but, when your mortal frame thall be diffolved, and putrify in corruption, must appear before an Almighty Judge, and by him be configned to an unending flate of confummate Happinets, or inexpreffible Mifery!

The knowledge of this fingle Truth is fufficient to make us folicitous for our Soul's welfare.

But, alas, what fhall they do, who have offended this Almighty Judge by repeated and aggravated Tranfgreffions, and cannot plead innocent, before his righteous Bar?

What would you do in that dreadful fituation, efpecially if you fhould die in an unrepenting ftate; die utterly unprepared for fo folemn a fcene, and fofad a fentence!

* Ephefians v. 1, 2.

All hope would be loft. Oh! then rejoice, that when all Hope was almost loft, even here upon Earth; it now again dawns upon your Soul, and you may fecure a blifsful Eternity!

For, gracious to his fallen Creatures, and tender of their welfare, the ever bleffed Father of Heaven has fent his only begotten Son into the World, who fuffered in our nature the punifhment due to our Sins, and made expiation on the Crofs, for the Iniquities of vile Tranfgreffors : and who, having triumphed over death, by his glorious Refurrection, hath proclaimed full pardon to all Mankind, who come to him in lively faith and fincere repentance.

These bleffed Tidings of good Things are held forth in the books of the New Testament, and may be there read to your exceeding Comfort.

But a lively faitb and a fincere repentance, you must remember, are indifpenfable requisites for the obtaining this favour, for the procuring this ineftimable bleffing; and a future dutiful obedience must witness your real fense of it.

If you do not believe + that Chrift died for you, you can never truft in his death, or pray to him for his mercies; and if you pretend to believe this,

+ That Chrift lived and died, and role again, according to the Golpels, is certain beyond all difpute ; for those Gospels were written by Men, who were eye and ear witnesses of the facts they deliver, and fo could not be deceived ; and they were men of the most unblemished characters, who gave up their all, and even their own lives in teftimony of what they delivered, and fo could not be deceivers .- They worked also the most astonishing Miracles, which were impossible to any power lefs than God's; and they communicated that power to others, who joyfully witneffed the truth of their faith, by fuffering patiently, on account of it, the most cruel perfecutions, tortures, and death .- Moreover all that Chrift was to be and to do was forecold many years before he appeared, in the books of the old Teftament, and was exactly fulfilled by him : he himfelf also foretold many things, which were exactly fulfilled ; and as none but God can foretel future events, fo thefe prophecies are a full proof of the truth of the Christian religion .- The doctrine too which Christ preached, is fo excellent, and fuperior to all other ever taught, that it could come from none but God-and the Sacraments which have continued in the church ever fince Chrift was upon earth, are clear and fatisfactory proofs of his having been amongst men, fince no other perfon can be affigned as the ordainer of them, nor any other time of their ordination, than that which the Gofpel fpeaks of .- But, above all, the prefent being of the Christian religion, and its particular fitnefs to the flate of the human race, and the wants of milerable finners, prove its divine original; for we may be fatisfied, that it could never have existed at all, much lefs have continued to this time, if it had not been divine, fince it was introduced and propagated without any human aid, without arts, arms, or eloquence, and in opposition to all the opinions and religious establishments then upon earth .- Chrift therefore did affuredly live and die, and rife as we believe ; and the Gospel is the certain Revelation of God to mankind; which alone leads to the path of peace, and which to believe and to obey is to be happy.

yet manifest not a sincere repentance, vain and falle is every expectation of forgiveness.

Repentance, be informed, is not merely a word, nor doth it folely confift in forrow for fin: true and genuin repentance, fuch as God requires, and will accept, is a fincere and forrowful fenfe of our paft mifdoings, as difhonourable to God, and deftructive to our own fouls; is a firm refolution to leave those practices, which we are forry for; is a putting that refolution into act. In one word, it is leaving the ways, as well as being grieved for the works of fin. The Prodigal Son, not only was fenfible of his own mifery, and his ill conduct to his father, not only refolved to arife and go to him, but actually arofe, went and confeffed his unworthinefs and determination to alter his life *.

If then you are bleft with this happy repentance — are forry for, and actually endeavour to change your life, and forfake your evil conduct, then in true faith, then fincerely believing that Chrift died for finners, and offers pardon to the penitent, apply to him in lowly confession, and reft fatisfied, that he will never caft you out.

This is the ftate to which we would defire to introduce you, through God's grace, and for that purpofe nothing is here wanting. But we muft urge one further confideration of vaft moment to you; namely, that as to obtain free pardon through Chrift, an actual forfaking of fin is requifite, fo a ftate of pardon implies and demands a new life, and there is nothing which can fatisfactorily witnefs either to yourfelves or to others your real penitence and faith, but your future active obedience and unfeigned humility.

We must expect therefore to fee,

1. In the public worfhip of God, the moft fober, ferious, and religious deportment. The leaft appearance of levity there will damp all our hopes. Confider, in that holy fervice, the eye of infinite purity is full upon you, feeing into the very fecrets of your hearts; and therefore imagine yourfelves ever in his fight, and give place to no unhallowed and unbecoming thoughts. But full of thankfulnefs for the rich mercies fhewn you, join with fervent fouls in the fervice, and let your hearts ever keep pace with your lips.

Human nature is fo imperfect, that, fpite of our beft endeavours, our wretched thoughts will but too eafily wander even in the holieft duties. This fhould not difcourage you when it happens, but make you more humble and more watchful; and it will be ferviceable to you to be exactly careful in attending to the fervice in your books, as well as in making the proper refponfes, to which we muft requeft you to be very attentive; as alfo to read the leffons in your Bibles.—And as it is thought advifable, that worthy people, defirous of feeing this good work, fhould be admitted to the chapel, let that be another forceable motive to particular humility in behaviour. The humble, meek, and downcaft look becomes those who are in a ftate of penitence, and will ever recommend; the bold and dauntless ftare will give but mean ideas of reformation; though indeed, fuch as have any fense at all of their past fhame, will find little courage to animate the wandring eye.

As to the bleffed Sacrament of the Lord's fupper, we fhall fay the lefs, as leaving it to the more particular concern of our Chaplain; but it would give us infinite fatisfaction to hear and find that you were all well difpofed, and properly prepared to be partakers of that holy feaft, which is fo neceffary for every Chriftian, as well as fo comfortable; and at which every true penitent, humble in foul, and defirous to walk in newnefs of life, will ever be an accepted gueft.

And with regard to the inftructions you have from the pulpit, we fhall only fay, that as they are calculated and delivered for your improvement, fo we muft require that you give good attention to them, and treafure them up in your hearts; that you carefully apply them to yourfelves, and pray to God for a bleffing upon them; that you always read over the text, and and talk of the Sermon one with another; and if you can write, it may be of much advantage to transcribe the text, the heads of the fermon, and any such remarks as may chance particularly to strike you. The review of this would afterwards be of much profit to you.—And if you are careful thus to regulate your behaviour, in regard to the public worship of God, you will not fail in the fame confcientious care with respect.

2. To your private worship.

Prayer is the moft important duty of a Chriftian, without a continuance in it, we can never hope to perfevere in the right path. Great are the promifes annexed to it, and in the regular performance of it, we can fcarce fail of a bleffing. Prayer is not meer lip-fervice, not a labour of the tongue, and a repetition of words; it is the defire of the heart lifted up to God; it is the language of want; therefore you muft be careful that your heart fpeaks through your lips, and that your fouls defire be elevated to God, when you addrefs him in the folemn duty of prayer.—This we hope you will never omit to do morning and evening, in private; for which purpofe, two prayers are annexed, (which we could wifh you to ufe, unlefs you have any more proper) at the the fame time not omitting to pour forth the earnest request of your hearts, in your own words, if you find particular wants not specified in these. — There is too an holy kind of prayer, which requires no particular feasons, places, or forms, and which, as being the immediate language of the heart, ascendeth most acceptably to God—we mean ejaculatory prayer; addressing God in short and humble petitions, wherever you are, or whatever you are doing—such petitions as your own hearts may dictate, or you may learn from the word of God, or the fervice of the church.

3. Indeed the beft way to improve yourfelves in this divine art, will be to read daily and regularly fome part of God's word. You fhould determine this with yourfelves, and let no day pafs without reading fome portion, more or lefs, of the facred fcriptures, efpecially the New Teftament.—This will ftrengthen your faith and increafe your knowledge, and enable you to be much in the practice of that ejaculation which we recommend.—This too will enable you to keep your minds employed upon good and heavenly fubjects; which you fhould endeavour to contemplate as much as you may, not only to prevent evil thoughts, from molefling you, but to convince you more and more of the excellency of the choice you have made.—And for other books, if you are defirous of reading, they will be carefully fupplied you: we wifh to fee you employed, during your fpare hours, in ferious reading; and fhould be glad, and much recommend it to those of you who are beft able, to read to fuch as are lefs inftructed, and to labour after an increase of knowledge, which we doubt not will bring increase of virtue.

4. Chearfulnefs and content will always be acceptable; and how can you better express it, than by finging those excellent and inftructive Hymns which are provided for you; than by endeavouring to improve in this holy employment, which gives us fuch fatisfaction in the house of God? But remember that the heart in finging should accompany the voice; and that, if you fing those facred compositions without due attention, you will receive no advantage. Endeavour to impress your fouls with a due fense of the subject; elevate your hearts to God, and then fing with the voice of melody, and the foul of praife.

5. With refpect to your conversation, fomething was hinted before *; of this you must be especially careful, as well as of all pertness to your Superiors: and you will be so if your hearts are truly changed. For of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. Loofe, vain, and vicious converfation, as it will be highly offenfive to your benefactors, and is immediately contrary to the Rules of the Houfe, fo will it be uneafy and difpleafing to yourfelves, if you fincerely feel and lament the fad effects of loofe, vain, and vicious living. Let then no corrupt communication proceed from your lips; no profane, wanton, wicked words, no profanation of the holy name of God, Jefus, &c. Never fuffer yourfelves to trifle with the name of the Almighty, wantonly, without meaning, or on frivolous occasions ; or to use any thing tending to an oath, as, Upon my Soul, I bope to be faved, &c. but endeavour to purify your lips from all appearance of evil. When you converfe together, let it at leaft be innocent; if it be poffible, we could wish it might be edifying; and an attendance to the Rules above given will enable you to make it fo. But, for God's fake, never be fo abandoned and deteftable, as to glory in your fhame; as to repeat those infamous fcenes, which should cover your faces with confusion ; and which, if you glory in them, unrepenting, will be produced at the laft day, before all the world, to your unfpeakable horror, and be the means to fink you for ever into the bottomlefs pit of endlefs mifery.

6. You must not conceive, that by entring into this House, your business is done, and your Salvation secured; this would be a fatal mistake. The life of a Christian is a continued warfare; and we have enemies, powerful enemies within, as well as without, to encounter and subdue.—The fad corruption of our nature is the great cause of our misery; and as long as you bear this mortal she function of our number of the second sec

Temperance and early rifing are friends, no lefs to health and profperity, than to virtue and piety; and we have no doubt but you will be careful to obferve both, as well upon religious as temporal motives. Defirous to mortify all your evil and corrupt affections, you will be diligent in the ufe of all proper means ||, and in every refpect, will endeavour to fubdue your

|| Amongst which Fasting must be particularly recommended, as a Duty of indispensable Obligation; and as a necessary branch of real Mortification. See St. Matt. vi. 16, 17, 18. worft enemy, the enemy within : following the example of St. Paul, " I keep under my body, and bring it into fubjection; left that by any means, when I have preached to others, I myfelf should be a cast-away: and if fo great an Apostle, and fo eminent a Saint, found this necessary for him—how much more necessary, think you, is it for you,—for you, who like that Apostle, are monuments of the mercy,—may you be eternal monuments of the long-fuffering mercy of Christ Jefus our Lord!

Such are the general heads of advice we have thought proper to give you : for immediate directions, either as to religious or temporal concerns, you will always have accefs to our Chaplain and Matron; who will be glad and ready to fuccour and affift you with their beft counfel, in every particular that fhall refpect your welfare. We have faid only what we expect, upon the whole, from you, and have neither enlarged on your Duty as Chriftians, or as Inhabitants of this Houfe, fince, for the former we have appointed regular inftructions from the pulpit; for the latter we have inftituted a general plan of conduct, with which we expect you to comply : and in fo doing, you will fecure to yourfelves our favourable attention, which, (though a bleffing much to be prized by you,) will be but finall in comparifon of that loving kindnefs of God, and that protection of his providence, wherewith the demeanour, we recommend, will, through Chrift, infallibly blefs you.

Once more let us remind you, that we have no intention either to receive into this houfe, or to detain in it, any whofe inclinations are averfe to its important defign, namely, ' their own prefent and eternal bappines.' We feek only your good; and on your commendable behaviour, fhall be inclin'd to continue you, till fuch time as you may be put into an ability to procure your livelihood properly. Yet that tender concern, we have for your welfare, will always incline us ferioufly to remonstrate with you, and, with the gentleness of parental affection, to admonish you; if ever, through mistaken notions, you should be for wretchedly wayward and ignorant of your own true interest, as to defire a removal hence, with no visible appearance of good fuccess, with no probability but of returning again with the fwine to wallowing in the mire, and of pluoging again deeper and deeper into wretchedness and misery.

And in all fuch cafes, nay, whenever you find a gleam of the leaft difcontent arifing in your hearts, caft back your eyes, and reflect upon what you WERE, upon what you muft BE, if you leave these friendly walls, and return to vice. Reflect upon the foul, dead in trefpaffes and fins, a ftranger to its God, and loft to happinefs; upon the body polluted with iniquity, condemned to the foul drudgery of luft, and to its deplorable confequences, Shame and Difeafe4 Reflect upon yourfelf, banifhedfrom all true peace, a ftranger to folid comfort, abhorred by the thinking and the virtuous *, defpifed and hated even by the moft abject and vicious : caft-out, forlorn, and wretched; flung with the fharp upbraidings of condemning confcience; an alien and an outcaft from your neareft friends; a fore grief to the mother that fuckled you at her bofom; an afflicting fhame to your father's old age; burdenfome to yourfelf, defpicable to others; and fpeedily about to end, a miferable exiftence, only to enter on an exiftence far more miferable—wretched, unfpeakably wretched in this world; enflaved to the abominable fervice of the devil, whofe only joy, is the mifery of the human race, and who, for the moft faithful fervice, hath only flames of hell and never ending anguifh to beftow!

And what if you had perifhed in this ftate? what if you had died and been loft for ever? — could any thing in this life have recompensed the loss of your foul. — Blefs God, blefs him ever more and more, that in much mercy he hath opened to you a door of grace; that he hath put it into your heart to come beneath this hospitable roof, which leads you as it were to the gates of paradife, and points out pardon and peace and never-failing joy !—And can there be any thing tempting in the former ftate, that should move you to forfeit the blifs of the prefent, and to plunge again into the miseries of the past; plunge again with a double weight of guilt and misery; plunge again _ never to emerge, never to be refcued more !

For, confider, if you return to vice, the knowledge you have here had of duty, will aggravate your guilt; you will be justly abhorred by all: nothing but the filth of vile proftitution awaits you; difease will again come on; misery will again overwhelm you; a wretched outcast, without friends, and without hope, you will fink in infamy and distress; no eye to pity, no hand to relieve: and worse than the worst of all, without excuse, and felf-condemned your lost and ruined foul must perish for ever in the flames of hell.

* There is nothing one would imagine, which must affect the mind, especially a female mind, equal to that contempt and neglect to which the loss of reputation, and a flate of profitution fubjects them. They can never be admitted into the company of any of their own fex, who are worthy to be conversed with—all the virtuous must forfake and fly from them—they are neglected and defpised by all; and even those who use the new no true value for them, but the greatest hatred. —Oh miferable fituation !—ye daughters of fhame reflect and return.

If

If you reflect one moment on this most certain confequence of a return to an abandoned life — your foul will be filled with joy, and your utmost endeavours will be exerted in the discharge of every duty which your present happy state requires : a state, how different from that out of which providence hath faved you !

Heaven now lies open before you; everlafting comforts are preparing to crown you: the holy Angels are ready to tune their harps on your accounts, for there is joy in Heaven, and before the Angels of God over one finner that repenteth; and the bleffed, Jefus, who died to fave you, is ready to crown your fincere penitence, faith, and love; is ready to blefs your happy perfeverance with immortality and glory. All the good and virtuous part of your Fellow-creatures, to whom you were before an abhorrence, behold you with joy; a joy efpecially pleafing to all the Supporters of this Charity, whofe wifh and travel of heart is for your falvation.

And have not many of you tender parents? have not many of you affectionate friends? muft not your hearts then feel a commendable delight on the comforts you cannot fail to give, fome to the father that begat her; and to the beloved mother, who watched her infant wants; fome to the friends to whom you were dear, even as their own fouls; and who, lamenting your loft eftate, can now fay, with the prodigal, ' She was dead, and is alive again; fhe was loft and is found!'

These things if you confider, you will be filled with exceeding comfort: we recommend it to you feriously to confider them; and defire you to observe, that as on the one hand, in the path we point out, prefent Peace, Heaven, and eternal Happiness, offer themselves to you:—so in a deviation from it, on the other hand, are forrow, shame, and discase, prefent and eternal misery.

Choofe therefore—choofe for yourfelves.—And the God of unexhaufted goodnefs and love incline all your fouls to make a happy choice. This will be an unfpeakable fatisfaction to us, this will be an unfpeakable comfort to yourfelves.

PRAYERS, &c.

Private Prayer for the Morning.

GLORY be to thee, Lord God most merciful, for all thy bleffings vouchfafed to me, and particularly for thy prefervation of me this night past.

O Lord, I am not worthy to lift up mine eyes unto thee: my fins bear witnefs against me, but there is mercy with thee, therefore shalt thou be feared: pardon and pity me for the sake of thy blessed fon, my Lord and Saviour.

I acknowledge my tranfgreffions, and truly repent before thee: Oh give me thy grace, bleffed Lord, to perfevere in the right path, and grant that I may henceforth never depart from it.

To thee do I humbly dedicate myfelf, my foul and my body, earneftly befeeching thee, who haft created, redeemed, and preferved me, to fill my foul with gratitude and thankfulnefs for all thy mercies, and to enable me to walk worthy thy great loving kindnefs.

Let thine efpecial bleffing be upon all my friends, and particularly on those who are engaged in the government or fupport of this house: Oh make it a house of falvation, not only to mine, but to the fouls of all its inhabitants.

Affift me chearfully to perform the duties of the day following; and fo poffefs me with an awful fenfe of thy prefence; of thy dear Son's fufferings; and of that future account which I muft fhortly give; that I may fear to offend thee, that I may continually ftrive to pleafe thee—and let it be thy pleafure, father of mercies, and God of all comfort, fo fully to pardon all that is paft, and fo completely to direct me in all that is to come, that I may not fail of eternal happinefs, through the merits and mediation of Jefus Chrift, in whofe holy words I further call upon thee, faying,

Our father, &c.

Private Prayer for the Evening.

ENTER not into judgment with thy fervant, O Lord, for in thy fight fhall no one living be justified.

Bleffed be thy name, thou everlafting and almighty Father, for thy gracious protection and prefervation of me this day !

Lord,

Lord, thy mercies are not to be numbered; under a fenfe of them, and of my own manifold unworthinefs, I am afhamed to lift up my face unto thee: but thou defireft not the death of a finner: thou didft fend thy dear Son into the world, that whofoever believeth in him fhould not perifh, but have everlafting life—Lord, I believe, help thou mine unbelief: Lord I repent, I grieve, I lament for my mifdoings; have mercy upon me, for thy great goodnefs; for Jefus Chrift's fake, pity, pardon, and blot out all mine offences.

Gracioufly vouchfafe unto me thy fatherly affiftance, and the comfort of thy bleffed Spirit, that I may be preferved henceforth from all the defilements of iniquity; may ferve thee with a pure heart and quiet mind, and bring forth fruits meet for repentance.

To thee, Lord, do I humbly dedicate myfelf, my foul and my body; ftrengthen my good refolutions, and preferve me from all the allurements of the world, the flefh, and the devil.

Accept my moft unfeigned thanks for all thy mercies vouchfafed to me, but efpecially for the bountiful provision, made for my fpiritual and temporal wants, in this houfe of refuge: Oh may thy bleffing defcend on the heads of all its inhabitants—may we be wife to know our own good, and to return the kindnefs of our benefactors in unceasing praise and thankfgiving; blefs them, O God, with thy choiceft bleffings; and kindly remember all my friends and relations, as well as all mine enemies: grant me thy full forgiveness, as truly, O Lord, as I forgive all those who have in any respect injured me.

Trufting on thy providence, I lay me down to fleep: let my bed ever remind me of that hour when I fhall lye down in death, to awaken no more to this world; under an awful fenfe of which may I live in conftant preparation for that great event; which, if it fhould happen this night, as every moment of our frail life is uncertain : O Lord moft holy, O God moft mighty, O holy and moft merciful Father, for Jefus Chrift's fake, have mercy upon me; pardon all that is paft—and deliver me not into the bitter pains of eternal death, but take me under thy divine protection, and into thy kingdom of glory.— Hear me, O Lord, for thy mercy is great; and thou haft promifed to receive the petitions of those who afk in thy dear Son's name—relying on whose all-fufficient merits, I conclude my imperfect prayers, in the words which he himfelf taught us.—

A Family Prayer for the Evening.

To be read by one of the Superiors in each Ward.

R Emember not Lord our offences, nor the offences of our forefathers; neither take thou vengeance of our fins; fpare us good Lord, fpare thy people, whom thou haft redeemed with thy most precious blood, and be not angry with us for ever.

Answer. Spare us good Lord.

becaufe the days are evil.

O God! we confels, with fhame and confusion of face, that we are not worthy of the least regard from thee, whom we have fo much offended, and whose patience and long fuffering we have fo often, and grievously abused.

O LORD ! we have finned, we have done wickedly, we have broken thy holy Commandments, by thought, word, and deed, by doing those things which thou haft forbidden, and leaving undone the things which thou haft commanded. And to make ourfelves altogether finful, we have gone on in a continued courfe of fin and rebellion against thee; and have perfisted in it, notwithstanding all the motions of thy holy Spirit, and the checks of our confciences to the contrary. Yea, this very day, we have not ceafed to add new fins to all our former guilt +. And now, O God, what + Here let a short shall we fay, or how shall we open our mouths, feeing we have stop be made, for done these things? O LORD, to us belong shame and confusion mind, wherein she of face, because we have rebelled against thee; but with thee bas offended the there is mercy, therefore shall thou be feared. Have mercy, day before. upon us, O God, after thy great goodnefs, according to the multitude of thy mercies, do away our offences; wash us thoroughly from our wickedness, and cleanfe us from our fins; and grant us grace fo truly to repent of, and turn from our evil doings, that our iniquities may not be our ruin. Give us a deep fenfe of our fins paft, and a hearty forrow and contrition for them. And fo endue us with the grace of thy holy Spirit, that for what remains of our lives we may walk more circumfpectly before thee, redeeming the time

To this end, purify our fouls from all corrupt defires and affections; mortify all our carnal lufts and appetites, make us as conftant and zealous to deny, as we have ever been heretofore ready to gratify and indulge them. Raife up a fpirit of piety and devotion, of love and charity, of humility and felf-denial, within us; and grant that thefe, and all other Chriftian graces, and virtues, may increase and abound in us: remove from us all envy and hatred and malice, and whatfoever elfe is contrary to our duty towards thee, or towards our neighbour; and fo eftablish us in thy fear, that it may never depart from our minds, but but be a conftant fecurity to us against all those temptations which either the devil, the world, or our own flesh, shall hereafter minister unto us, to draw us into fin, or to hinder us in our duty.

More particularly we pray thee to pity and pardon whatfoever we have done amifs this day: O let us not lye down to reft under thy difpleafure! But grant us that forgiveness of our fins now, which we may never have any future opportunity to ask of thee.

[Accept our most fincere thanks and praifes for all thy mercies from time to time vouchfafed unto us, but especially for thy particular providence in the fingular bleffings afforded us in this Houfe; make us duly fensible of them, duly thankful for them, and grant us grace to to improve this precious feason of mercy, that we may redeem thy favour and recover our lost happiness; and be pleased to shed the riches of thy love, on the heads of all those who are any ways concerned in the management, government, or support of this charitable defign; return their kindness fourfold into their bosons, and bless their benevolent endeavours to the welfare of their own and of every foul who shall partake of their tender and liberal bounty.]

Take us, O God, this night into thine efpecial favour and protection, give thy holy Angels charge over us, that no evils happen unto us, nor any dangers approach us, to diffurb our repofe. Refresh us with comfortable reft; and raife us up in the morning with renewed strength and vigour, to praife thy name. And, now that we are about to lie down upon our bed of reft, grant us grace feriously to confider that time, when, in a little while, we shall lie down in the dust: and fince we know neither the day nor hour of our mafter's coming, make us so careful of our duty, and so watchful against fin, that we may be always ready; that we may never live in such a state as we should fear to die in; but that whether we live we may live unto the Lord; or whether we die we may die unto the Lord: that whether we live or die, we may be thine, through Jefus Christ our Lord, in whose most holy name and words, we farther call upon thee. Saying, Our father, &cc.

The Almighty GoD, who is a ftrong tower of defence to all them that put their truft in him, to whom all things in heaven and earth, and under the earth, do bow and obey; be now and evermore our defender and preferver.

Unto his gracious favour, and protection, we most humbly commend ourfelves, and all that belong unto us; (especially all of this house and family.) The Lord blefs, and keep us. The Lord make his face to shine upon us, and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of his countenance upon us, and give us his peace, this night and for evermore. Amen.

A Prayer from the Liturgy, proper for all Times.

A Lmighty God, our heavenly Father, who of thy great mercy haft promifed forgiveness of fins, to all them, who with hearty repentance and true faith turn unto thee: Have mercy upon me, pardon, and deliver me from all my fins : confirm and strengthen me in all goodness : and bring me to everlasting life, thro' Jefus Christ our Lord, Amen.

A Prayer of St. PAUL'S.

In Ephefians, Chap. iii. Ver. 14-21.

I bow my knees unto thee, O Father of our Lord Jefus Chrift, of whom the whole family in heaven and earth is named : befeeching that thou woud'ft grant me, according to the riches of thy glory, to be ftrengthened with might by thy fpirit in the inner man : that Chrift may dwell in my heart by faith : that being rooted and grounded in love, I may be able to comprehend with all faints, what is the length and breadth and depth and height : and to know the love of Chrift, which paffeth knowledge, that I may be filled with all the fullnefs of God.

Now unto thee, who art able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us : unto thee be glory in the church, by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end. Amen.

- N. B. Many of the Collects for Sundays, and other Holy Days, in the Book of Common Prayer, may be properly used upon various occasions—and particularly the Collect for the fecond Sunday in Advent, may be used before reading the facred Scriptures.
- No Directions for the publick Worship are given, as you are furnished with a little Tract in your Prayer-Book for that Purpose, Entitled, Directions for a devout and decent Behaviour in the public Worship of God: which it is to be hoped, you will diligently read—and at the 25th Page, you will find Collects proper for all Occasions pointed out.—And for the Sacrament, Bishop Wilson's Book will be put into your hands, when you are defirous to communicate. In which, as well as in Dr. Stanbope's St. Auslin, and his Thomas a Kempis, you will do well to employ yourselves feriously and diligently.

A Prayer to be used during Sickness.

N. B. If the fick Perfon be fo very ill that she cannot read this herself, she may desire some friend to repeat it to her, and then she may add at the conclusion her hearty Amen.

A Lmighty, and most righteous Lord God, " in whose hands are the appointments of life and death," give me grace to consider that this my fickness is of thy fending; and to acknowledge as well the justice, as the mercifulness of thy visitation and my fufferings. May I look up to thee for strength to bear, and grace to profit by it. It comes, O my God, as thyse fourge for my fins, which is to make me see, feel, and avoid them; —as thy medicine to cure my spiritual diseases; and as thy fiery trial, which is to prove my virtues, and purge away my drofs. Let it not fail, Lord, to answer these gracious purposes. Bring to my mind all fuch confiderations as may revive, and fuccour me, and raise me above all discouragements and fear; and let my thoughts under this visitation be only those of love and thankfulness; of resignation and obedience; of humility and hope in thy mercy. Give me patience, I besech thee, and a full truft in thy most gracious promises, that I' may entertain no evil furmises; nor shew any indecent carriage, which wou'd add to my guilt, if I die; or to my remorfe and shame, if I live.

Pity thy fick fervant, and leffen my forrows, O Father of mercies, out of compafiion to my weaknefs. Pardon my reftlefs complainings; and fupport me under them by thy comforts. Direct, and recompense the labours and kindnefs of those, who charitably and friendly attend me in my fickness. Keep me always submissive and devout towards thee, and no ways impatient or ungrateful towards those around me. May thy bleffing accompany all their endeavours for my good, and all the medicines I take. Put an end in due time to my difease, (or to my pains): either reftore me to my ftrength, health, and ease, granting me the mercies of a longer life, or elfe prepare me more immediately, for a bleffed, and eternal life, for our Lord JESUS CHRIST'S fake, who died for our fins and rose again for our justification. Amer.

Hath God mercifully reflored you to health? Surely you cannot doubt the obligations you lie under to be thankful for his mercies. Dreadful INDEED THAT OUT OF TEN LEPERS WHO WERE CLEANSED, only one should return to give thanks: but take special care that you follow not the example of the nine (See Luke xvii. 7) for inflances of such ingratitude are too common.

A Prayer after Recovery.

O S T gracious and merciful God, the fountain of life, I return thee humbly and hearty thanks for having fpared the life of thy fervant; I adore thee as the Author of my Cure, and praife thee for the fuccefs thou haft given to those applications which were the means of effecting it. May I remember the chaftifements, the inftructions, and the deliverance I have received; and may I be enabled to perform the good refolutions I made in my ficknefs. As thou has condefcended to hearken to the prayer of fo finful a creature, may I " call upon thee as long as I live". Being made whole, may I " got away and fin no more, left a worfe thing come unto me." Having known the bitternefs of affliction, may I pity and endeavour to relieve those that labour under it. And may I never forget my obligations to thee, and the kindnefs of those about me, (especially my Benefactors of this Houfe.) I humbly recommend them and myfelf to thy continued mercy, and everlafting favour, through JESUS CHRSIT, my Lord and Saviour. Amen.

N. B. These two Prayers as well as the Verses for the use of the Sick, are taken from Dr. Stonbouss's very valuable Treatise, called Advice to a Patient, &c. a book excellently calculated for, and much to be recommended to, all Hospitals, and Infirmaries. Tho' indeed his Directions to the Uninstructed, may be of much more general Utility. It is fold at Rivington's in St. Paul's Church-Vard : and is one of the Books given away by the Society for promoting Christian Knowledge.

VERSES for the Use of the Sick.

I.

M Y God, with grateful heart I'll raife, A daily altar to thy praife; Thy friendly hand my courfe directs, Thy watchful eye my bed protects.

When dangers, woes or death are nigh, Paft mercies teach me where to fly; The fame Almighty arm can aid, Now ficknefs grieves, and pains invade.

To all the various helps of art Kindly thy healing pow'r impart; BETHESDA's bath * refus'd to fave, Unlefs an Angel bleft the wave.

All Med'cines act by thy decree, Receive commiffion all from THEE: And not a plant which fpreads the plains, But teems with health when heav'n ordains.

5. Clay and Siloam's pool + we find, At heav'n's command reftor'd the blind; Hence 'Jordan's * waters once were feen To walh a Syrian leper clean.

But grant me nobler favours ftill, Grant me to know and do thy will, Purge my foul foul from every ftain, And fave me from eternal pain.

7.

Can fuch a wretch for pardon fue ! My crimes, my crimes arife in view! Arreft my trembling tongue in prayer, And pour the horrors of defpair.

But oh! regard my contrite fighs, My tortur'd breaft, my fireaming eyes; To me thy boundlefs love extend, My God, my Father, and my Friend.

These lovely names I ne'er cou'd plead, Had not thy fon vouchfaf'd to bleed; His blood procures for Adam's race Admittance to the throne of grace. When vice hath fhot it's poifon'd dart, And confcious guilt corrodes the heart; His blood is all fufficient found, To draw the fhaft and heal the wound.

II.

What arrows pierce fo deep as fin? What venom gives fuch pain within? Thou great phyfician of the foul, Rebuke my pangs and make me whole.

Oh! If I truft thy fov'reign fkill, With deep fubmiffion to thy will; Sicknefs and death fhall both agree To bring me, Lord, at laft to THEE.

A MIDNIGHT HYMN.

By Bishop KENN, Author of the Morning and . Evening Hymns.

M Y God, now I from fleep awake, The fole pofferfion of me take; From midnight terrors me fecure, And guard my heart from thoughts impure.

Bleft Angels, while we filent lye, You hallelujahs fing on high : You joyful hymn the ever-bleft; Before the throne, and never reft.

I with your choir celeftial join, In off 'ring up a hymn divine : With you in heaven I hope to dwell ; And bid the night and world farewell.

My foul, when I fhake off this duft, Lord, in thy arms I will entruft : O make me thy peculiar care, Some manfion for my foul prepare.

Give me a place at thy faints feet, Or fome fall'n angel's vacant feat: I'll ftrive to fing as loud as they, Who fit above in brighter day.

O may Lalways ready ftand, With my lamp burning in my hand : May I in fight of heaven rejoice, Whene'er I hear the bridegroom's voice.

* See John v. 4. † John ix. 7. ‡ 2 Kings v. 10.

All praife to thee in light array'd, Who light thy dwelling place haft made: A boundlefs ocean of bright beams, From thy all-glorious God-head ftreams.

The fun, in its meridian height, Is very darknefs in thy fight : My foul O lighten and inflame, With thought and love of thy great name.

Blefs'd Jefus, thou on heav'n intent, Whole nights haft in devotion fpent; But I, frail creature, foon am tir'd, And all my zeal is foon expir'd.

My foul, how canft thou weary grow Of antedating blifs below : In facred hymns and heavenly love, Which will eternal be above.

Shine on me, Lord, new life impart, Frefh ardors kindle in my heart : One ray of thy all-quick'ning light, Difpels the floth and clouds of night.

Lord, left the tempter me furprife, Watch over thine own facrifice: All loofe, all idle thoughts caft out, And make my very dreams devout.

Praife God from whom all bleffings flow, Praife him all creatures here below : Praife him above ye heav'nly hoft, Praife Father, Son, and Holy Ghoft.

CHARITY.

A Paraphrafe on the Thirteenth Chapter of the First Epistle to the Corinthians,

By Mr. PRIOR.

D^{ID} fweeter founds adorn my flowing tongue,

Than ever man pronounc'd, or Angel fung : Had I all knowledge human and divine,

That thought can reach, or fcience can define :

And had I power to give that knowledge birth In all the fpeeches of the babling earth ; Did Shadrach's zeal my glowing breaft in fpire,

To weary tortures, and rejoice in fire; Or had I faith like that which Ifrael faw, When Mofes gave them miracles and law: Yet gracious charity indulgent gueft, Were not thy power exerted in my breaft, Those fpeeches wou'd fend up unheeded prayer,

That forn of life wou'd be but wild difpair : A tymbals found were better than my voice : My faith were form : my eloquence were noife.

Charity, decent, modeft, eafy, kind, Softens the high, and rears the abject mind : Knows with just reins, and gentle hand to guide,

Betwixt vile fhame, and arbitary pride : Not foon provok'd, fhe eafily forgives, And much fhe fuffers, as fhe much believes : Soft peace fhe brings, wherever fhe arrives, She builds our quiet, as fhe forms our lives : Lays the rough paths of peevifh nature ev'n, And opens in each heart a little heav'n.

Each other gift which God on man beftows, Its proper bound, and due reflection knows : To one fixt purpofe dedicates its pow'r, And finifhing its act exifts no more. Thus in obedience to what heaven decrees, Knowledge fhall fail and prophecy fhall ceafe : But lafting Charity's more ample fway, Not bound by time, nor fubject to decay : In happy triumph fhall for ever live, And endlefs good diffufe, and endlefs praife receive.

HYMN by Mr. ADDISON.

Ι.

W H E N rifing from the bed of death, O'erwhelm'd with guilt and fear, I fee my Maker, face to face;

O how fhall I appear !

If yet, while pardon may be found, And mercy may be fought,

My heart with inward horror fhrinks, And trembles at the thought :

When

When thou, O Lord, fhalt ftand disclos'd In majefty fevere, And fit in judgment on my foul, O how fhall I appear !

But thou haft told the troubled mind, Who does her fins lament; The timely tribute of her tears Shall endlefs woe prevent.

Then fee the forrow of my heart, E'er yet it be too late; And hear my Saviour's dying groans

To give these forrows weight.

For never fhall my foul defpair Her pardon to procure, Who knows thy only Son has dy'd, To make her pardon fure.

HYMN. By Mrs. RowE.

I N vain the dusky night retires, And fullen fhadows fly; In vain the morn with purple light Adorns the eaftern sky ;

In vain the gaudy rifing fun The wide horizon gilds, Comes glitt'ring o'er the filver ftreams,

And chears the dewy fields.

In vain, dispensing vernal sweets, The morning breezes play ;

In vain, the birds with chearful fongs, Salute the new-born day.

In vain, unless my Saviour's face Thefe gloomy clouds controul, And diffipate the fullen fhades That prefs my drooping foul.

Oh ! visit then thy fervant, Lord, With favour from on high, Arife, my bright immortal fun, And all these shades will die.

When, when fhall I behold thy face All radiant and ferene, Without those envious dusky clouds That make a veil between ?

When fhall that long expected day Of facred vifion be, When my impatient foul fhall make A near approach to thee.

Again A LEWDNESS, by Dr. WATTS.

7 HY fhould you let your wand'ring eyes Entice your fouls to fhameful fin ! Scandal and ruin are the prize You take fuch fatal pains to win.

This brutal vice makes reafon blind, And blots the name with hateful flains : It waftes the flefh, pollutes the mind, And tears the heart with racking pains.

Let David fpeak with heavy groans, How it eftrang'd his foul from God ; Made him complain of broken bones, And fill'd his house with wars and blood .

Let Solomon and Samfon tell Their melancholy ftories here, How bright they fhone, how low they fell When fin's vile pleafures coft them dear.

In vain you chuse the darkest time, Nor let the fun behold the fight ; In vain you hope to hide your crime Behind the curtains of the night;

The wakeful ftars and midnight moon Watch your fouldeeds, & know your fhame ; And God's own eye, like beams of noon, Strikes through the fhade, and marks your name.

What will ye do when heav'n inquires Into those scenes of fecret fin? And luft, with all its guilty fires, Shall make your confcience rage within? 8.

How will you curfe your wanton eyes, Curfe the lewd partners of your fhame,

When death, with horrible furprife, Shews you the pit of quenchlefs flame blews you the pit of quenements hame

Flee, finners, flee th' unlawful bed, Left vengeance fend you down to dwell In the dark regions of the dead,

To feed the fierceft fire in hell.

The UNKNOWN WORLD.

II A R.K, my gay friend, that folemn toll Speaks the departure of a foul: 'Tis gone, that's all we know—not where, Or how th' unbody'd foul does fare.

In that mysterious world none knows, But God alone, to whom it goes; To whom departed fouls return, To take their doom, to fmile or mourn.

Oh! by what glimm'ring light we view The unknown world we're haft'ning to! God has lock'd up the myftic page, And curtain'd darknefs round the ftage!

Wife heav'n, to render fearch perplext, Has drawn 'twixt this world and the next A dark impenetrable foreen, All behind which is yet unfeen!

We talk of heav'n, we talk of hell; But what they mean, no tongue can tell ! Heav'n is the realm where angels are, And hell the chaos of defpair !

But what these awful words imply, None of us know before we die! Whether we will or no, we must Take the fucceeding world on truft.

This hour perhaps our friend is well; Death—ftruck the next, he cries—farewell ! I die!—and then for ought we fee Ceafes at once to breathe and be.

Thus launch'd from life's ambiguous fhore, Ingulph'd in death, appears no more, Then undirected to repair

To diftant worlds we know not where. Swift flies the foul; perhaps 'tis gone A thoufand leagues beyond the fun; Or twice ten thousand more thrice told, Ere the forfaken clay is cold !

And yet who knows, if friends we lov'd, Tho' dead, may be fo far remov'd? Only this vail of flefh between, Perhaps they watch us, tho' unfeen.

Whilft we, their lofs lamenting, fay, They're out of hearing, far away; Guardians to us, perhaps they're near, Conceal'd in vehicles of air.

And yet no notices they give, Nor tell us where, nor how they live ; Tho' confcious, whilft with us below, How much themfelves defir'd to know.

As if bound up by folemn fate, To keep this fecret of their ftate, To tell their joys or pains to none, That man might live by faith alone.

Well let my fov'reign if he pleafe, Lock up his marvellous decrees; Why fhould I wifh him to reveal What he thinks proper to conceal?

It is enough that I believe, Heav'n's brighter than I can conceive : And he, that makes it all his care To ferve God here, fhall fee him there !

But oh! what worlds fhall I furvey, The moment that I leave this clay ? How fudden the furprife, how new ! Let it, my God, be happy too!

On the LAST JUDGMENT. By the Earl of Roscomon

H E day of wrath, that dreadful day Shall the whole world in afhes lay, As David and the Sybils fay.

What horror will invade the mind, When the ftrict Judge who would be kind, Shall have few venial faults to find ?

The laft loud trumpets wond'rous found Shall through the rending tombs rebound, And wake the nations under ground.

Nature and death fhall, with furprife, Behold the pale offender rife, And view the Judge with confcious eyes.

Then

Then fhall, with univerfal dread, The facred myftic book be read, To try the living and the dead.

The Judge afcends his awful throne, He makes each fecret fin be known, And all with fhame confefs their own.

Oh! then what int'reft shall I make, To fave my last important stake, When the most just have cause to quake.

Thou mighty, formidable King, Thou mercy's unexhaufted fpring, Some comfortable pity bring.

Forget not what my ranfom coft, Nor let my dear-bought foul be loft, In florms of guilty terror toft.

Thou who for me didft feel fuch pain, Whofe precious blood the crofs did ftain, Let not those agonies be vain.

Thou whom avenging powers obey, Cancel my debt, too great to pay, Before the fad accounting day.

Surrounded with amazing fears, Whofe load my foul with anguish bears, I figh, I weep; accept my tears.

Thou who wert mov'd with Mary's grief, And by abfolving of the thief, Haft given me hope, now give relief.

Reject not my unworthy prayer, Preferve me from that dang'rous fnare, Which death and gaping hell prepare.

Give my exalted foul a place, Among thy chosen right-hand race, The fons of God, and heirs of Grace. From that infatiable abyfs, Where flames devour and ferpents hifs, Promote me to thy feat of blifs.

Profirate my contrite heart I rend, My God, my father, and my friend, Do not forfake me in my end.

Well may they curfe their fecond breath, Who rife to a reviving death. Thou great Creator of mankind, Let guilty man compassion find !

THANKS to GOD. By Dr. DoddRidge.

ALL glorious God, what hymns of praife, Shall our transported voices raife : What flaming love and zeal is due, While heaven flands open to our view ?

Once we were fall'n, and oh how low ! Juft on the brink of endlefs woe : Doom'd to a heritage in hell ; Where finners in deep darknefs dwell.

But lo, a ray of chearful light, Scatters the horrid fhades of night: Lo, what triumphant grace is fhewn, To fouls impoverish'd and undone!

Far, far beyond thefe mortal fhores A bright inheritance is ours : Where faints in light our coming wait, To fhare their holy blisful ftate ;—

If ready dreft for heaven we fhine, Thine are the robes, the crown is thine: May endlefs years their courfe prolong, While, " Thine the praife" is all our fong.
