A sermon preached at St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, on Thursday, April 4, 1754. On occasion of the anniversary meeting of the trustees of the Public Infirmary in James-street, Westminster / By John Butler.

Contributors

Butler, John, 1717-1802. St. Margaret's Church (Westminster, London, England)

Publication/Creation

London : Printed for J. and R. Tonson & S. Draper, 1754.

Persistent URL

https://wellcomecollection.org/works/ew4gr7jt

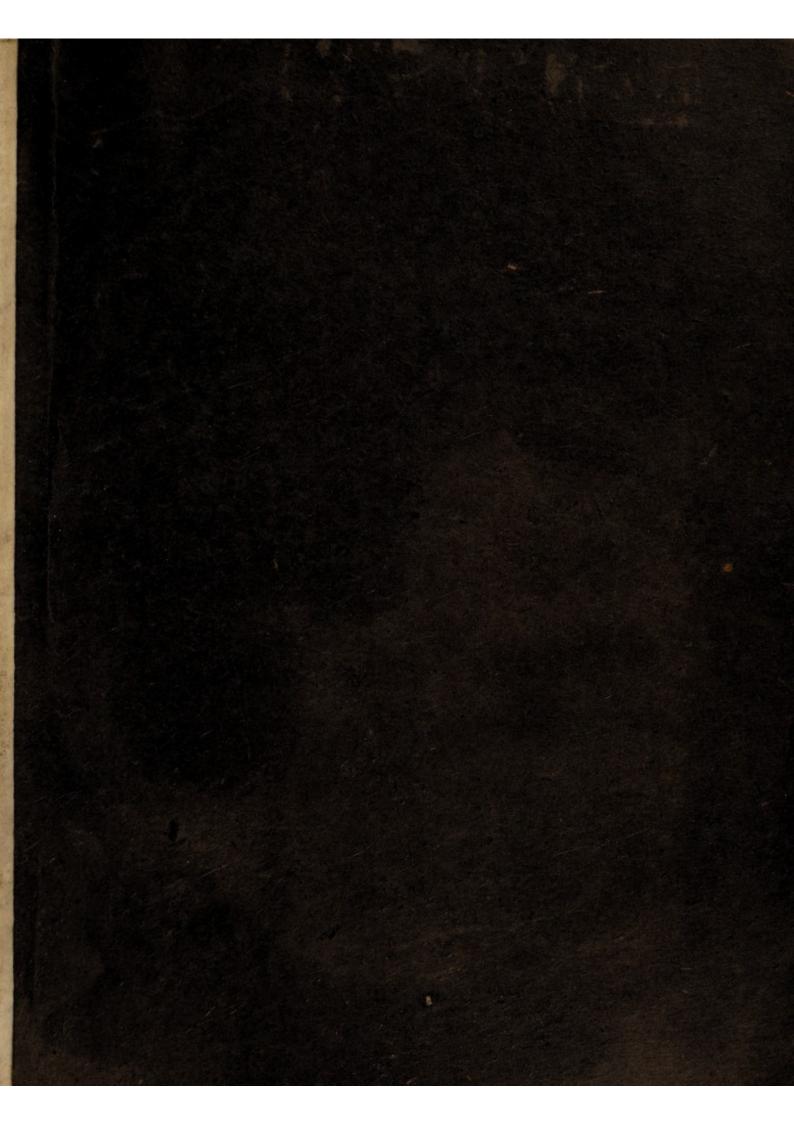

License and attribution

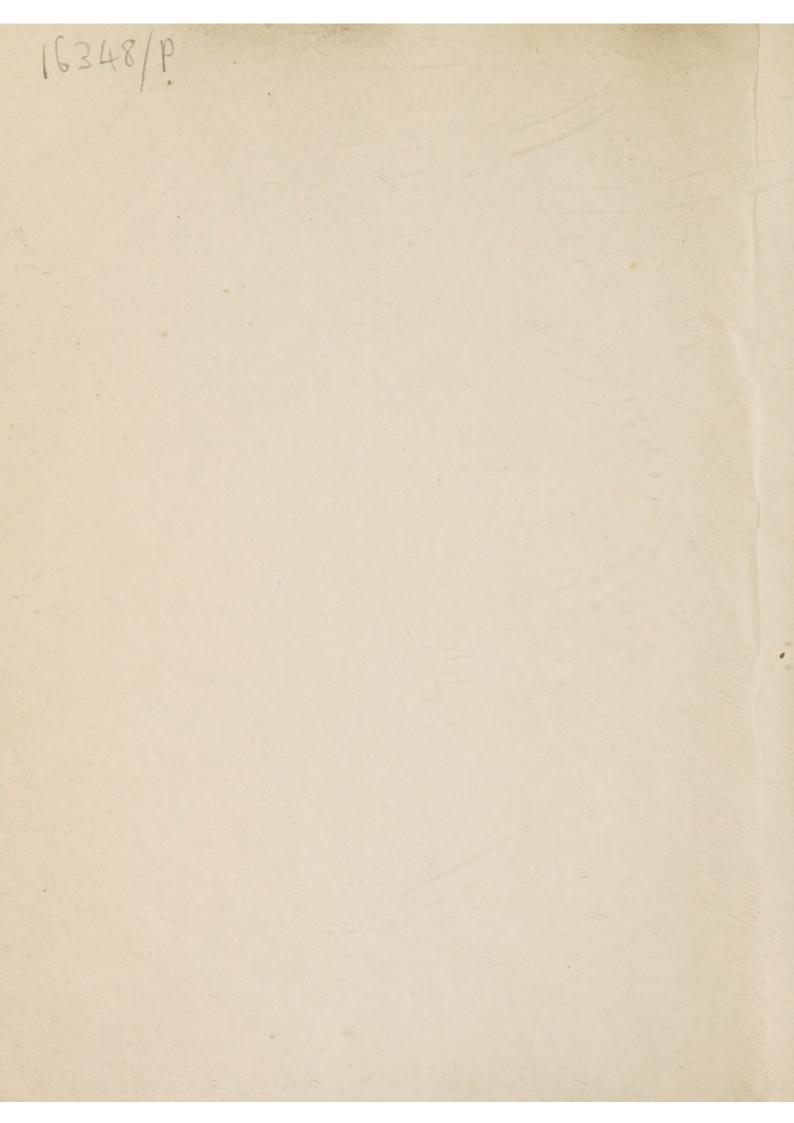

This work has been identified as being free of known restrictions under copyright law, including all related and neighbouring rights and is being made available under the Creative Commons, Public Domain Mark.

You can copy, modify, distribute and perform the work, even for commercial purposes, without asking permission.

Wellcome Collection 183 Euston Road London NW1 2BE UK T +44 (0)20 7611 8722 E library@wellcomecollection.org https://wellcomecollection.org

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2018 with funding from Wellcome Library

https://archive.org/details/b30355874

SERMON

A

E. xx11. j. 13

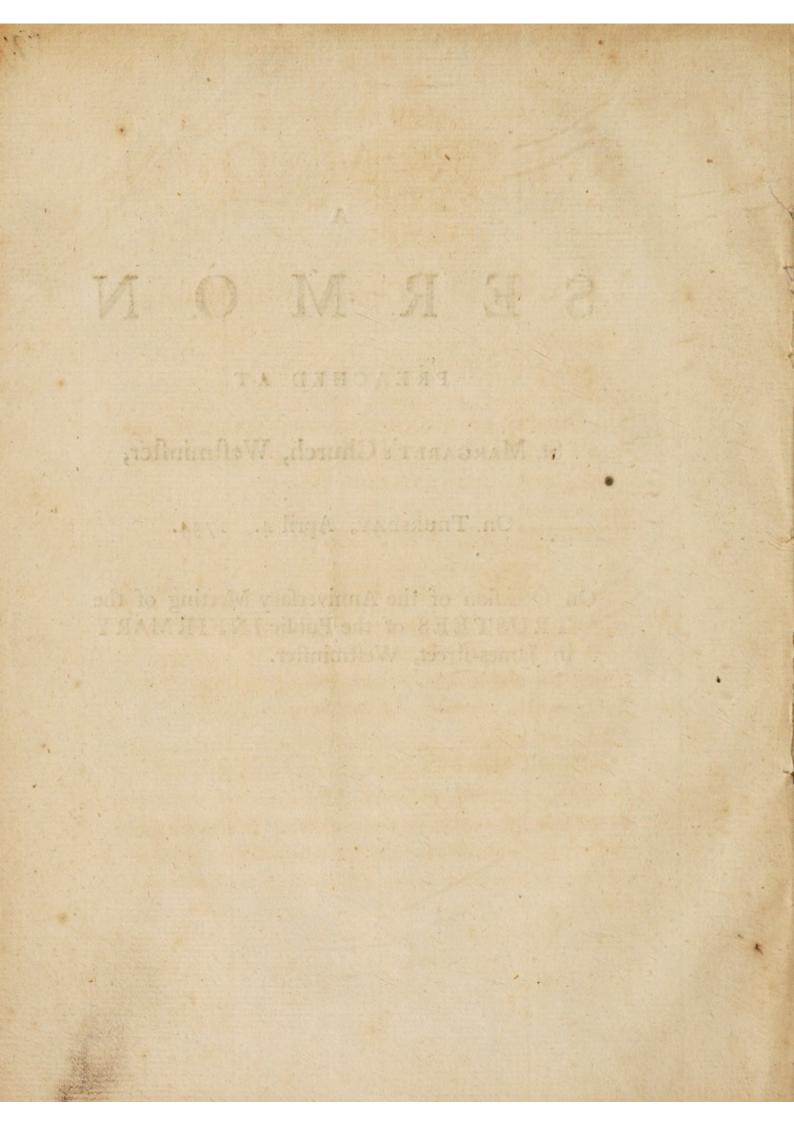

ma.

PREACHED AT

St. MARGARET's Church, Westminster,

On THURSDAY, April 4. 1754.

On Occafion of the Anniverfary Meeting of the TRUSTEES of the Public INFIRMARY in James-ftreet, Weftminfter.

SERMON

A

PREACHED AT

St. MARGARET's Church, Westminster,

On THURSDAY, April 4. 1754.

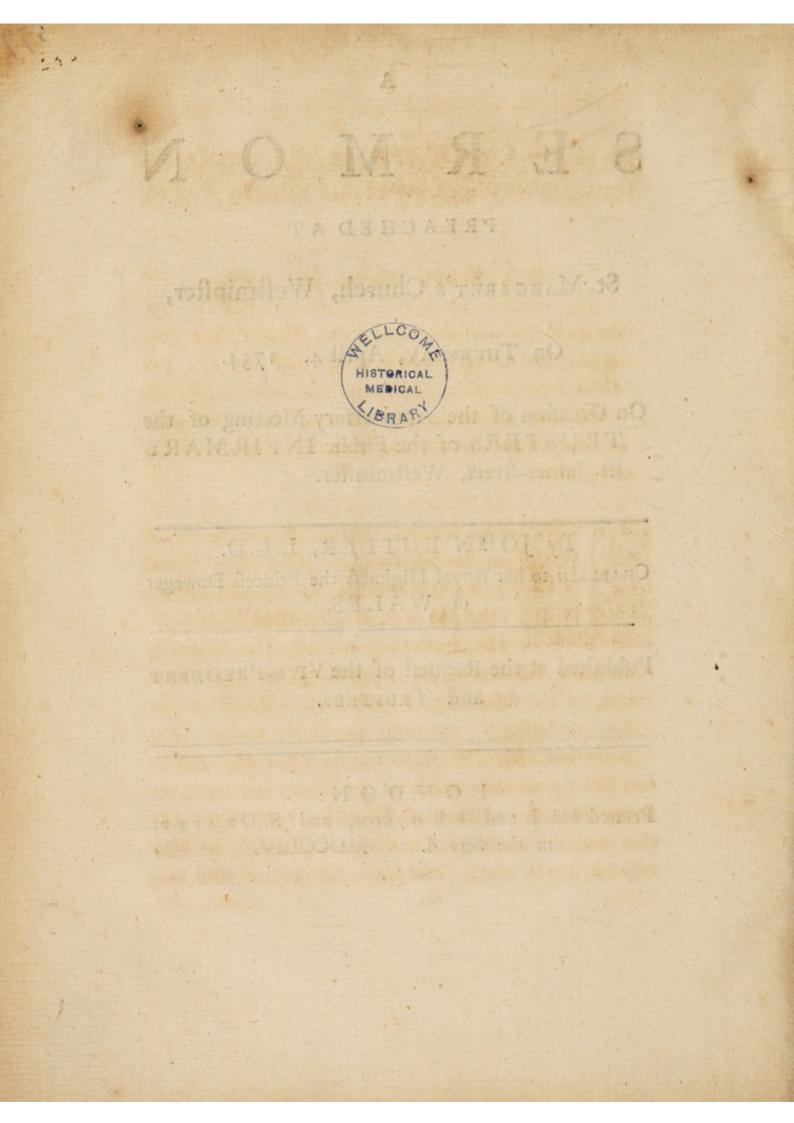

On Occafion of the Anniverfary Meeting of the TRUSTEES of the Public INFIRMARY in James-ftreet, Weftminfter.

By JOHN BUTLER, L.L.D. CHAPLAIN to her Royal Highness the Princess Dowager of WALES.

Published at the Request of the VICE-PRESIDENT and TRUSTEES.

LONDON:

Printed for J. and R. TONSON, and S. DRAPER, in the Strand. MDCCLIV.

[3.] MAND COM

583

MATT. xi. 4, 5.

Jefus answered and faid unto them, Go and shew John again those things, which ye do hear and see; The blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, and the poor have the gospel preached unto them.

HIS was the Anfwer of our SAVIOUR to the Messengers, who came from JOHN the Baptist, to enquire whether He was the expected MESSIAH. He chose to give them the most fatisfactory Evidence, by appealing to notorious Facts, to the Miracles, which even a Ruler of the JEWS confeffed, " no man could do except God " were with him." Accordingly, the Ufe, which has been generally made of my Text, has been, to fhew from the nature of Miracles, that they were the proper Proofs of the divine Authority of him who wrought them, and from the nature and cir-B cumftances cumftances of his Miracles in particular, that He was the divine Perfon He pretended to be, of whom the Scriptures teftified, and whom the JEWISH nation at that time looked for.

BUT there is another Observation, arising from the words, which induces me to apply them to the prefent Occafion. The Power of working Miracles was only one of the Marks, by which the SAVIOUR of the world was to be known. The Prophets had pointed out many Circumstances of his Birth, Life and Paffion, and had particularly characterifed him by those extraordinary Acts of Beneficence, which occafioned it to be emphatically faid of Him by an Apostle of his, that He went about doing Good. Our SAVIOUR, in the very words of his Anfwer, alluded to a Prophecy of ISAIAH, where the Prophet was infpired to imagine and defcribe the Happiness of CHRIST's Kingdom, as if himfelf had lived to fee it eftablifhed, and all the glorious Effects take place, which it has a tendency to produce.

AMONG the reft, he mentions the miraculous recovery of men from Difeafes naturally incurable, and fpecifies the Cures our SAVIOUR wrought, as Evidences of his Divine Goodnefs, no lefs than his Power. Indeed his Goodnefs could not be more more fignally evidenced, for He might have exerted his power in many wonderful Acts, at leaft as flriking, as the Recovery of a blind, or a lame, or a deaf man. But by this beneficent exercife of it, the Inftruction arifing from his Miracles became more practical, than if they had been mere Acts of Power. For He proposed his Character in the most amiable part of it, to the Imitation of those, who could not imitate his Works, and thus enforced an Observation, which he frequently made in the course of his Ministry, that mutual Love and Benevolence is the Spirit of his Religion, and therefore the peculiar diffunction of his Followers.

585

IT was indeed written in the Law, "Thou "fhalt love thy Neighbour as thyfelf;" but, however Humanity might infpire fome men, before the appearance of this great light of the moral world, He was the Firft, who authoritatively decided the great Queftion, "Who is my Neighbour?" The Motives to Charity, fuggefted by Natural Religion, were too weak to counter-act the Paffions, that interfere with the unbounded Exercise of it. The Precepts of Charity to the JEWS, could not fully operate, amidst the national Prejudices, which influenced the Religion and Policy of that People. Some farther Intimation of the Will of B 2 God God was neceffary to the Perfection of that Virtue, and the Gofpel, among all its other Evidences, appeared to be a genuine Revelation, by the infinite Love it difplays, and the unlimited Benevolence it infpires.

THE Offers which CHRIST brought, of Salvation to All men, implied, that ALL were Objects of Divine Mercy, and by a ftrong Confequence recommended All men to the Charity and Compaffion of Chriftians, without any other limitation, than what is prefcribed by their abilities. It is a ftrong Confequence, for it would powerfully affect the Heart, that wifhed for the Redemption He brought, and being perfuaded that He was truly the Redeemer, felt it as warmly, as a grateful Mind ufually enjoys that, which it efteems the higheft of all Bleffings.

IN order to form a proper judgment, how Benevolence refults from the Belief of Chriftianity, and why it is called a Chriftian Spirit, let us fuppofe ourfelves in the Situation of thofe, who looked anxioufly for the Coming of the MESSIAH, were thoughtful upon the important Queftion, with which a Scribe came to Him, "What fhall "I do to inherit eternal Life?" and received all the Satisfaction they wifhed in the Promifes of the the Gofpel. Was it poffible, that fuch men could, under these Hopes, study to lay up Treafures upon Earth, and in Contempt of the many natural Evils, with which the lives of other men are beset, labor only to aggrandize a Family, or to accumulate or diffipate a Fortune? The Religious Joy of a Christian is as incompatible with these narrow views, as Joy in general is with Austerity, or with Envy, or with any of the corroding Passions of the human heart.

" Lord, now letteft thou thy fervant depart in " Peace," was the Exultation of a pious man, whofe Eyes faw the Salvation of God. Tranfported with the Universality of that Light, which was to lighten the GENTILES, and to be the Glory of ISRAEL, he immediately became indifferent to the Purfuits of the World. It is eafy to imagine, how a man, in this temper of mind, would have received a fellow-creature in Pain and Diftrefs. He would not have hefitated a moment to fuccour and comfort, and, if poffible, to relieve him. He felt himfelf relieved by the hand of God; he knew that the fame Grace appeared unto all men; his heart enlarged with gratitude and admiration, must have been open to compaffionate Evils, from which himfelf was exempted, and and to communicate Joys which overflowed in his Breaft.

58

Now the fame temper of mind will arife in every confiderate Christian, who duly contemplates his Condition, and the Bleffings propofed to him and all his fellow-creatures by his Religion. It is no objection, that we do not find this happy effect to have been produced by the Hofanna's of the Multitude, at our SAVIOUR's Entry into JERUSALEM. They exulted in the coming of one, whom they conceived to be a temporal Prince, who was to reftore the JEWISH nation to its former Grandeur; and fo their Shouts of Joy were accompanied with Triumph over their conquerors, and mixed with fome degree of bitterness and contempt of the rest of mankind, whom they imagined to be lefs the Care of Divine Providence, than themfelves. The Spirit of Christianity must become more warm and diffusive, when the Defigns of that Religion were better known; and the Example of its Author, and the Force of his Precepts, could not inculcate Universal Love and Benevolence more strongly, than the Reflexions of a Christian upon the Nature and End of the Gofpel Difpenfation must excite it.

For

[8]

For after furveying, as far as we can, the . great Scheme of Providence, and difcovering that it terminates in the Happiness of mankind, what is a more natural Conclusion than this, that we contribute our part towards accomplifhing that End, and are doing God fervice, by diffufing as much Happiness as we can, amongst our fellowcreatures, and preventing or relieving their miferies? Or when the Christian reflects upon the nature of that Salvation, which is promifed to him in the Gofpel, that it is not like any thing which the World propofes as Happinefs, for it is Perfect, and it is Eternal, what will be his conclufion, if he reasons right, with respect to his worldly Poffeffions, but this, that fince they are not the Happiness his mind can reft in, their Value is confiderably lefs than it feems, and not great enough to be put in competition with the Duty and the Pleafure of diffributing them in Acts of Mercy ?

The Prieft and the Levite, who turned their eyes from a man in Diftrefs, and paffed by on the other fide, probably felt the man's cafe in a certain degree, but were afraid of the Trouble and Expence of relieving him. The good SAMARI-TAN had no fuch Fears to obftruct his Benevolence. He neither confulted his own Eafe, nor calculated calculated the Expence, but freely facrificed both to a nobler purpole, the Relief of the man, who was in Pain and Deferted, and robbed of the money, which might have procured him Shelter and Advice. A Chriftian cannot well do more, than this SAMARITAN did; but the SAMARITAN was a fingular Character among those of his nation, and what he did from a Good-nature peculiar to himfelf, every true Chriftian will do, from the mere Spirit of Chriftianity, to men of any Rank, of any Religion, and of any Country, if they have but the fingle Recommendation of Real Diftrefs.

7

5

But fuch a speculative deduction of Benevolence, from the Spirit of our Religion, will not have all the weight it may claim, if it be not fupported by FACT. The Histories of the most civilized nations, before the Propagation of Christianity, are very minute in recording their Cuftoms. We read, amongst others, of many useless Ceremonies and Honors paid to the Dead, among the EGYPTIANS, GRECIANS and ROMANS, but we read very little of their Provision for the Sick. The Science of Phyfic is indeed of great Antiquity ; but the Benefits of it have in all Ages, and in most Nations, contrary to natural Benevolence and true Policy, been too much confined to those, whose Situation I yields yields them more than the bare Neceffaries of Life. In EGYPT, the Phyficians were more immediately the Servants of the Public, and fo far every Patient was intitled to medicinal Relief. But notwithftanding this general Provision for the Sickness of standing this general Provision for the Sickness of the Poor, their Poverty was embittered and increafed by their Sickness, and their Poverty became the more incurable cafe of the two, as the cure of the Difease was more remote and tedious. Places of Reception for those unhappy perfons, where Comforts and Conveniencies might relieve the mind, grievoufly depressed by the difease itfelf, were not fuggested by any Humanity, which natural Religion might infpire, nor prefcribed among all the wife Institutions, established by Divine Authority amongst the JEWS. They were referved for the Honor of a Religion, which itfelf, independently of the aid of Precepts and Examples, would move men to confult and fympathize in, the Wants of their fellow-creatures, and to invent and effect the most probable, speedy and comfortable Relief.

ACCORDINGLY, in the earlieft times of the Christian Church, when the Teachers of Christianity undertook the Care of the Poor, and he that was most charitable best displayed the Benefits of his Religion, for he manifested his own sense of them, by giving up his Poffeffions to his Profpects in another State, the Gofpel became glad Tidings to the Poor, in every Senfe. In time, as the frequent obfervation of diftreffes improved the Experience of Chriftians, it fuggefted new Methods of Charity, and, among others, that excellent one of public Hofpitals for the reception of thofe, whom the two greateft natural Evils of life, Sicknefs and Poverty, expose to the Mercy, or the Neglect of the world. So that it may be truly faid, that these noble Inftitutions, the higheft Effort of the united Charity of Individuals, are particularly a CHRISTIAN INVENTION.

by

5

As fuch, they fhared too in the Corruptions of Chriftianity. Idlenefs and Superfition ufurped the Rights of Sicknefs and Poverty; falfe Charity was applied to the fupport of falfe Humility; and in those who professed the Chriftian Religion thus difguifed, the Spirit of it was proportionably defaced; the natural Returns of Love for the infinite Goodness of God were, in great measure, perverted to mere Raptures, infignificant Devotion, and the support of use of Soundations, which had the effect of impoverithing the Givers, without conveying any real Benefit to the Receivers, or to the Public.

Relation, fat he manifeled his own fente of them,

VE

No

No fooner were the Corruptions of Christianity removed, than the Corruptions of Charity gave way. Charity was reftored, in its primitive Purity, along with the Reformation of the Religion, in which it was originally founded. For as the Spirit of it had not been extinguished, but grofly mifapplied, that Spirit naturally returned to its proper Channel, when the Superfition, which had diverted it, was exploded. The few truly charitable Provisions we fee in Popish Countries shew indeed the Power of the gofpel, amidft the Corruptions of it, but they exhibit at the fame time the Effect of those Corruptions, if we confider how large a proportion of the Spirit of Charity is intercepted by the Demands of ufelefs affumed Poverty. Amongst us, national Industry and Wealth, which were the Confequence of depriving the Idle and Inactive of their Subfiftence, foon fupplied the more rational Charity of Protestants, with more abundant means of providing Places of Refuge for those who are unavoidably Poor and Infirm; Effects of Wealth, which the measures of mere Human Policy would have been too feeble to produce, which it certainly was not fagacious enough to forefee, else these Institutions must have been of a much earlier date. The Chriftian Spirit only projected the Defign, and it was the only Spirit that could effectually execute it; for foon after that Spirit C 2

Spirit was perverted, the Charity which flowed from it was mifapplied, and when true Chriftianity was reftored, true Charity revived. And the Obfervation will not be extended too far, if I venture to affirm, that the great Increase and Improvement of these Charities in the present Age, are confiderably owing to the Security, which the Protestant, that is, the Original Christian Religion, enjoys under our present happy Establishment.

It is true, there may be fome, who may contribute to Defigns of this kind, without a Chriftian Motive. But that their Foundation, and their principal Support, are derived from the Spirit of Benevolence excited by the Gofpel, is a Fact, which proper Inquiries would difcover to be true, were it not evident from the Nature and Progrefs of these Charities, that the Defign is too great for mere worldly motives to fupport.

In focial Schemes that are formed upon wordly motives, men are apt to differ about the End as well as the Means, each man being himfelf the End of his Purfuits; and thus the Band of Union is enfeebled, and gradually diffolved. Whereas in this Labor of Love all agree about the End, though they fhould be divided about the Means; and and we have an Inftance of this in the Charity before us, when a Divifion, which would have totally fubverted a Defign, lefs fupported by Religion, ended only in the Erection of another Charity, to co-operate with this for the fame good purpofes, and to improve this Argument of the Power of the Gofpel upon the minds of its true Profeffors.

So that were it to be afked, how it appears, that the Chriftian is indeed the Religion of this Country, we may refer the Inquirer to these Fruits of our Religion, where those who fuffer from the Infirmities and Accidents of human Life, of what Nation or Religion soever, are received in the most affectionate manner, and comforted by every Accommodation necessary to alleviate their Misery, and to inspire them with Gratitude to Him, for whose sake they are relieved.

THIS being the cafe then, that Chriftianity is the only Religion, which could give this Force and Direction to Charity, and Inftitutions of this kind being more than any other the genuine Fruits of that Religion, the defign of our prefent meeting comes recommended as it ought to a Congregation of Chriftians.

IT

IT is a good and joyful thing to fee Brethren dwelling together in Unity; it is more fo to perceive, that the End of that Union is Christian Benevolence, exerted in Inftances like those, to which our Lord appealed, as Evidences of his being the expected Benefactor to Mankind. Other good defigns may petition for Support, and depend merely upon their Utility to the Public for the Encouragement of public-fpirited men; but the charitable Undertakings of this Society CLAIM the Affiftance of Christians. They need only propose to your confideration the Objects, and there is no doubt but those, who have a Sense of the Benefits of the Gospel, will upon an occafion like this be filled with the Spirit of the Gofpel.

Perfons who abound in Enjoyments, which attach men to this world, and divert their thoughts from the next, have but few opportunities of knowing the Circumftances of the Poor in Sicknefs. Providence indeed hath not exempted them from the natural Infirmities of Life, and their own Situation frequently adds to those, the Pains of an imaginary Difease. But what is Sicknefs in high Life, alleviated by every Convenience, attended with all the Care of the most experienced of their Profession, whose Credit is concerned in the the Recovery of the Patient, and cherished by the Comforts and kind Sollicitude of those whom Affection or Interest engage to restore him ; what is this, in comparison with an affliction of the fame kind in a Family, where the whole Family is diftreffed by the Infirmity of one of its members, where every poffible Inconvenience concurs to heighten the Affliction? Very few that live in Affluence can have a perfect Idea of this Mifery. They may know in general, that Sickness and Poverty are very great Evils, and have a just Claim to the Attention of Christians. But they cannot feel all the Force of this Claim, without admitting into their minds an Image of the helplefs Situation of those, who languish under a Difease without Friends, or Attendance, or Medicine, or Food, or even that common Right of All men, a Pure Air.

THESE Wants, preffing as they are, are concealed from the knowlege of their Superiors by fuch of the Poor, as beft deferve to have them relieved; and when their Mifery extorts a Complaint, it is ftifled by the Number of clamorous Impoftures, which embarrafs and difcourage a charitable Difpofition. Both thefe Obftructions to Charity are obviated by Public Infirmaries. They exhibit to us all the Miferies of the Poor in in Sicknefs, by the striking Contrast of every Provision they can wish for, to support them under their calamity. Before these Establishments, bare Shelter would have been efteemed a Bleffing by fome of them; but the Conveniences they are here furnished with, are fuch, as before they could hardly expect to obtain, without a Miracle. And when the ingenious Invention of a truly Chriftian Philosopher, for conveying away the putrid Air, and admitting fresh into their Apartments, shall have made its way, through the Prejudices and Inattention of Mankind, into all the public Hospitals, the Design of the Contributors will be completely anfwered; and the Poor, that are admitted, will have no reafon to murmur at the unequal Distribution of things; for Health is a greater Enjoyment to them, than it is to their Superiors, and Sickness will not be a greater Af-

BUT alas! the Benefits of this Charity, extenfive as they are, are far from being equal to the Demands of the Poor, and I need not paint the Diftrefs of a deplorable Cafe, excluded for want of room, from the Refuge to which others are admitted, and from which many of them return glorifying God. Thofe who attend the Affairs of this Society, have frequently the melancholy Expefliction.

Experience of fuch a Cafe; and, upon infpecting the printed Accounts we shall find, that the annual Subscriptions to this, the first Institution of its kind in ENGLAND, are confiderably lefs than the Difburfements; that in the last year only Eleven hundred and fixty-two have been cured, and, fince the first foundation, near Thirty-eight thousand have been admitted. What ftronger Argument can be urged for the Propriety and Expediency of this Anniverfary Solemnity, to invite more Subscribers, and to receive the occasional Effusions of a Christian Spirit, which will be fecure from any Mifapplication; for the Perfons, who are relieved by this Charity, must be really difeafed, and if they are, it is not a Christian Inquiry, whether their Difeafe, or their Poverty, be wilfully incurred or not?

AMONG Competitors for Relief, the moft honeft and induftrious are doubtlefs to be preferred. But where there is no immediate Competition, it may tend to the Reformation of a Sinner, to fhew him how beneficent Religion is; and if ever there is a time, when we fhould abftain from too fevere a Judgment of other men, it is when they are afflicted under the mighty Hand of God. Then an Act of Kindnefs, proceeding from a religious ligious motive, will have the best chance to have a religious Influence upon them.

But Profligacy and Irreligion are not more the diffinguishing Marks of the Poor, than of many of their Superiors; and if we confider, how much they fuffer in their religious Character, from the Example of the latter, it would be cruel to withhold from them Relief in fo extreme a Diftrefs as Sicknefs, under Pretence of Exceptions to their Conduct or Character.

THE good Christian will content himself with having no Exception to the Case; and as his Charity will incline him to judge favourably of the man, so it will incite him to be merciful to his Condition, remembring the ftrong Declaration of Him, who knew the Hearts of all men, that "inasimuch as we have done good unto one of the LEAST of his Brethren, we have done it unto HIM."

21

60

An ACCOUNT of the Proceedings of the TRUSTEES of the PUBLICK INFIRMARY in James-street, Westminster, near St. James's-Park, from their Institution in the Year 1719. to the 31st of December 1753. inclusive.

HOUGH the Rife, Progrefs, and Succefs of this Charity is now fo well known, at leaft to the Inhabitants of London and Westminster, that any Introduction to the Account thereof annually published, may feem unneceffary; yet as this may fall into the Hands of feveral Charitable and Well-disposed Persons, who have either not heard of it, or have not been acquainted with the Methods, by which it was first promoted, and has, for many Years, been successfully carried on, it is thought proper to inform them,

THAT in the Year 1719 feveral well-disposed Gentlemen. defirous to lay the Foundation of a most Beneficent and Extenfive Charity, viz. That of providing for fuch fick and needy Perfons, as were deftitute of proper Affiftance, and oftentimes of common Neceffaries, agreed, That nothing would more effectually answer the End proposed, than fixing and supporting by voluntary Contributions a PUBLICK INFIRMARY in St. Margaret's Parish, for the Reception and Relief of the industrious Sick and Needy from all Parts, there being then nothing of that fort within the populous City and Liberties of Westminster. AS ALL PERSONS WHO HAVE GIVEN A BENEFACTION OF THIRTY POUNDS OR UPWARDS, OR WHO HAVE BEEN SUB-SCRIBERS TWELVE CALENDAR MONTHS, AND PAID THEIR SECOND YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION, ARE TRUSTEES OF THIS CHARITY, WITH EQUAL POWERS AND PRIVILEGES; fo the more they pleafe to engage themfelves in attending and conducting ducting the Affairs of it, they will be the greater Benefactors, and be the better able to fatisfy themfelves and others, that the Money given is juftly and frugally applied. And all Perfons immediately from becoming Subfcribers have a Right of recommending Patients, and attending the weekly Boards, but not of voting at general Boards till their Second Year's Subfcription is paid.

By a late Order, a particular Privilege (not allowed in other Hofpitals) is given to all Perfons who fhall by Will bequeath a Legacy of Fifty Pounds or more to this Society; viz. the Liberty of nominating another Perfon, who immediately after Payment of the faid Legacy, fhall be deemed a Truftee, and enjoy all the fame Privileges as the other Truftees.

A Number of Truftees meet every Wednefday at Ten in the Morning; and at these weekly Boards the Incomes and Disbursements are flated and adjusted, the Accounts regularly kept, and Patients are discharged and admitted; when there is not room for all the Patients recommended to be received into the House, the Preference is given to those whose Cases require the most immediate Relief; the others are postponed till there is room, and, in the mean time, have Advice and Medicines given them as Out-patients.

THERE are alfo Four QUARTERLY GENERAL BOARDS held in a Year, and SPECIAL General Boards occafionally, to which all Truftees refiding in or near the Town are fummoned, when Matters of greater Moment than those transacted at Weekly Boards are taken into Confideration; and by a Majority of the Members present all Orders have from time to time been made, altered, or reversed, as Occasion required.

SAMUEL BALDWIN, of Maiden-lane, Covent-Garden, Gent. is the Treasurer.

DOCTOR Wilbraham, Doctor William Coxe, and Doctor Watfon, are the Phyficians; and Mr. John Pyle, Mr. William Baker, and Mr. Robert Heathfield, are the Surgeons: These Gentlemen attend gratis; and every Saturday at Ten of the Clock, have a general Confultation, and give Advice to such poor Perfons as think fit to apply.

THE feveral Apothecaries, who are Truftees, take care in their Turns to procure the best Medicines at the best Hand; which are not received, nor paid for, till they are inspected and approved approved by a Committee of the Phyficians, Surgeons, and Apothecaries of the Society, who meet every first Monday in the Month at the Infirmary for that Purpofe: And great Care is taken that the Medicines are properly difpenfed, and duly administered, according to the Prescriptions and Directions of the Phyficians.

For the Good of the Souls, as well as the Bodies, of these poor Patients, several worthy Clergymen constantly and carefully visit and instruct them; and, at their Discharge, religious Tracts are given them. Other worthy Gentlemen take the Trouble of inspecting daily the Provisions and good Order of the House.

SINCE the Inftitution of this Society, the Charity has been inlarged in the feveral Particulars following; viz.

Cloathing the Poor (for their greater Cleanliness) whilst they continue in the House:

Burying fuch Patients as die in the Infirmary, whofe Friends are not capable of burying them; by which means the Inconvenience of poor Patients procuring Security for their Burial is removed: And,

Entertaining Patients deemed Incurable.

The laft of which has been encouraged, and is ftill fupported, by particular Benefactions for that Purpofe; and for whofe Ufe a feparate Ward is provided.

THEY at prefent receive fuch Incurable Patients only, as have been in the Infirmary for a competent Time, and, after the Ufe of all proper Medicines and Methods, are judged at last to be Incurable; and maintain them out of the Interest-money arising from the faid Benefactions.

By these Inlargements of this Charity (which was the first of this Nature in England) it is now become the most open, beneficial, and extensive, of any of its Kind.

As the Nature and End of this Undertaking fufficiently appear by the foregoing Particulars, fo does the Succefs of it by the following Account; in which the Number of Perfons cured, the Sums of Money received, expended, and remaining at this time in Bank, are all carefully and juftly fpecified.

AND having been purfued fo far with fuch extraordinary Succefs, encouraged by the Care and Liberality of fo many Subfcribers and Benefactors, and above all, fo vifibly fupported by the Bleffing fing of Gon, we doubt not, but it will long continue to promote his Glory, and the Benefit of the Bodies and Souls of Numbers of poor People.

WE have therefore good Reafon to hope, that the Religious, Virtuous and Benevolent, whofe Fortunes enable them to do Good, will with Chearfulnefs encourage a Work fo Humane and Uteful to the most Miferable of their Fellow-Creatures; and in order to answer the current Expence, that the Trustees will fend their Benefactions and Subscriptions to the Treasurer at the Weekly Board, and continue to pay their Subscriptions in Advance.

N. B. A Subscriber that neglects to pay his Subscription for Two Years forfeits all Privileges as a Truffee till his Arrears are paid up.

For the Information of fuch Charitable Perfons, who may be difpofed to contribute hereto by their laft Will and Teftament, we are defired to publish the following Form :

Item. I Give and Bequeath unto A. B. and C. D. the Sum of upon Trust, and to the Intent, that they, or one of them, do pay the same to the Treasurer or Treasurers, for the Time being, of a Society, who now call themselves, The Trustees of the Publick Infirmary in James-Street, Westminster; which said Sum of I will and desire may be paid out of my personal Estate, and applied towards carrying on the Charitable Designs of the said Society.

Several Beds are always referved for Accidents, and fuch Objects are taken in at all Hours of the Day or Night, without any Recommendation; but other Patients must bring a Letter to the weekly Board, figned by fome Trustee, in the following Form; viz.

Gentlemen, Defire you will admit the County of Charity) to be an oblige Day of . 175 of the Parish of in (whom I believe to be a real Object of Patient of the Infirmary; and you will

Your humble Servant,

To the Truftees of the Publick Infirmary in James-Street, Weftminster.

All

All Letters of Recommendation are to be delivered before Ten of the Clock on Wednefday Morning, otherwife the Patient cannot be admitted.

Each Subscriber or Benefactor can have only Two Out-Patients, or one In-Patient, and One Out-Patient, at the fame time.

As Afthmatick and Confumptive Cafes are generally more capable of Relief, if the Perfons afflicted are Out-Patients, rather than In-Patients, the Truftees are defired not to recommend fuch Perfons to be In-Patients, nor any whofe Cafes feem to be paft Hopes of Relief; for the admitting fuch as are in a dying Condition puts the Charity to a confiderable Expence for their Burial, and at the fame time prevents others being admitted who might probably be relieved.

An Account of Patients, which have been Admitted into this Infirmary, from the Inftitution, to the 31ft of December 1753. inclusive.

By former Accounts from 1719. to the 31st of De-} 35577 cember 1752. inclusive
cember 1752. inclusive $ 35577
Cured this Year 1162
Difcharged for Irregularity 10
Improper Objects, or Perfons not likely to receive any Benefit
Out-Patients difcharged for not attending, fup- pofed cured 724
Dead 63
Out-Patients then on the Books - 202
Patients in the Houfe the 31ft of December 1753. (Exclusive of those in the Four }83 Beds referved for Accidents) - }83
1753. (Exclusive of those in the Four $83( Beds referved for Accidents) - 3 290
And on the Fund for Incurables - 13 -208
Total, from the 1st of January to the 31st of ?
Total, from the 1st of January to the 31st of } 2262
Can Vary a lateral of the deta, GUB Lat 1981

In all 37839

Note, Two hundred and Eighty-three of those admitted within that Time were fudden Accidents, sent in without any Recommendation.

A GENE-

[26]

A GENERAL ABSTRACT of the AC-COUNT, from the 1st Day of January to the 31st Day of December 1753, both inclusive.

For the CURABLES.

RECEIPTS, viz. 1. s. d. l. 5. d. Balance of the laft Year's Account 2150 9 94 Subscriptions received fince the last Ac-1220 14 count I For the Support of the Incurables 231 14 0 Five Years Rent of the Cellars, due March 25 0 25th, 1753 0 1477 8 I

BENEFACTIONS, viz.

Collected at St. Margaret's Church, on	the
Rehearfal, and Feaft-days -		260	7	3
Mrs. Woodcock	-	20	0	0
The Right Hon. the Counters of Arran	2	20	0	0
A Perfon unknown	-	400
And from feveral others	-	21	16	0
		-	-	-	-

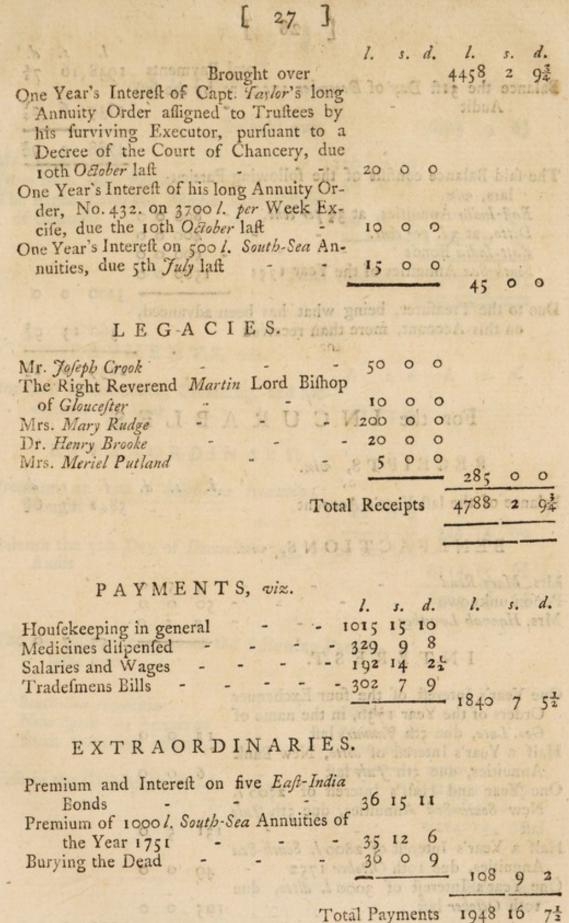

INTEREST, viz.

One Year's Inter	eft of 800	1. East-In	dia An-						4
nuities, at $3\frac{1}{2}$	per cent.	due 10th	October						1000
laft -	1849 110		-	28	0	0
One Year's Inter	eft of 400	1. ditto, at	: 31. per		201		301.
cent. due 10th	October las	t -	a decina	12	0	0			ent.
Half a Year's	Intereft o	f five Ea	ast-India	1 31.1
Bonds, due th	e 30th of	September	·last		10	0
One Year's Inter	eft of fix a	litto, due	the 30th of September la	.ft -		-	18	0	0			•
Premium and Int	ereft of fix	East-India	a Bonds
fold	-		-	42	11	8			-
a series of the		1			-		108	I	8
							4458	2	03
							113-	-	94

22

3

4

E

[28]
Total Payments	l. 1948
Balance the 31ft Day of December 1753, as by the last Audit	2839	6	2 ^T / ₄
Alexander preferrer 20 a	4788	2	9 ³ / ₄
The faid Balance confifts of the following Particu- lars, wiz.	Bales 1	E.Y.	1 2013
East-India Annuities, at 35 per cent 800 0 0 Ditto, at 3 l. per cent 400 0 0 East-India Bonds	in and		eb Ha
Ditto, at 31. per cent 400 0 0 Ea/t-India Bonds - 500 0 0 South-Sea Annuities of the Year 1751 1500 0 0
Due to the Treasurer, being what has been advanced,	3200		o
on this Account, more than received -	360
quilling the second states	2839	6	22
For the INCURABLE	S.
RECEIPTS, viz.			Aler.
Balance of the last Year's Account l. s. d.	1. 5842	s. 17	а. 6 к
BENEFACTIONS, viz.
Mrs. Mary Read 5 5 0 Perfon unknown
Mrs. Hannab Lowther	57	7	0
INTEREST.	57	4
One Year's Intereft of the four Exchequer Orders of the Year 1736, in the name of
Geo. Luce, due 5th January last - 12.00. Half a Year's Interest of ditto, New Bank
Annuities, due 5th July last - 6 0 0 One Year and Half's Interest of 2500 l.
New South-Sea Annuities, due 5th July last 131 5 0
Half a Year's Interest of 2800 l. South-Sea Anuuities, due 10th October 1752 - 49 0 0
One Year's Interest of 3000 l. ditto, due 10th October last = 105 0 0
	203 6203	5	0 61.

[29]

LEGACIES.	l.	s.	d.	ι.	i:	d.
Brought over	toil',			6203	9	67
Mr. Joseph Crook From Mrs. Mary Evans The Right Reverend Martin Lord Bishop	100 50		00	in and i
of Gloucester	10	0	0	160	0	0
Total	Rece	ipts	- in	6363	9	6 1
America catha 340.00 Banne-) din	d'an ovit		11975 111 7 7 7	1 11
PAYMENTS, viz.	1.	· 5.	d.	1.	5.	d.
For their Maintenance, Cloathing, and Me- dicines, this Year	231				and the EXTRAORDINARY.
Premium on 200 l. South-Sea Annuities bought	~	17	4
To traditions		0		248	14	00
Balance the 31st Day of December 1753, as Audit	by th	le la	aft	6114	15	6 t
It is got				6363	9	61
The faid Balance confifts of the following Particu- lars, vizi
South-Sea Annuities	2000	0	0

to oil our -an industry of an of	1.6.1	12865		6114 15	. 6 1
Cash in the Treasurer's Hands	-	o ing	-	5900 0 214 15	0 61 2
New South-Sea Annuities - Bank Annuities, at 3 l. per cent.		3000 2500 400

Receipts.

6

Receipts from the Inflitution of this In- firmary, Anno 1719, (for the Curables) to the 31ft of December 1752 inclusive Receipts for the Year 1753	41023 4 4 ¹ / ₂ 2637, 13 9
Receipts from the Eftablishment of the Incurables, Anno 1734, to the 31st December 1752 inclusive Receipts for the Year 1753 -	8217 15 10 520 12 0 8738 7 10
Total Receipts for both Charities to the ber 1753 inclusive	2 31ft of Decem- 52399 5 2 ¹ / ₂
Payments from the Inflitution of this Infirmary, Anno 1719, (for the Cu- rables) to the 31ft of December 1752 inclusive Payments for the Year 1753	dicines, this Year
Payments from the Eftabliihment of the Incurables, Anno 1734 to the 31ft of December 1752 inclusive Payments for the Year 1753	$\begin{array}{r} 2374 & 18 & 3\frac{1}{2} \\ 248 & 14 & 0 \\ \hline \end{array} \qquad 2623 & 12 & 3\frac{1}{2} \\ \end{array}$
Total Payments of both Charities to cember 1753, inclusive Balance then	of the whole $43445 = 3 + 52399 = 5 + 2399 $

[39]

Note, That the Sum of 6114 1. 15 s. 62 d. Part of the faid Balance of 89541. 13. 83 d. is the UNALIENABLE FUND for the Incurables, to be maintained out of the Interest-money arising from that and all future Benefactions or Legacies for that Purpose ; and only the remaining Sum of 2839 1. 6 s. 24 d. can be expended for the Ule of the reft of the Patients.

FINIS.

E. conipta .

