TO THE KING.

SIR,

When I first addressed the Public on a Physiological subject, which I conceived to be of the utmost importance to the future welfare of the human race, I could not presume, in that early stage of the investigation, to lay the result of my Inquiries at your Majesty's feet.

Subsequent experiments, instituted not only by myself, but by men of the first rank in the medical profession, have now confirmed the truth of the theory which I first made known to the world.

Highly honoured by the permission to dedicate the result of my Inquiries to your Majesty, I am emboldened to solicit your gracious patronage of a discovery which reason fully authorises me to suppose will prove peculiarly beneficial to the preservation of the lives of mankind.

To a Monarch, no less justly than emphatically, styled the Father of his People, this Treatise is inscribed with perfect propriety; for, conspicuous as your Majesty's patronage has been of Arts, of Sciences, and of Commerce, yet the most distinguished feature of your character is your paternal care for the dearest interests of humanity.

I am, Sir,

with the most profound respect,

Your Majesty's most devoted

Subject and Servant,

EDWARD JENNER.

AT THE
ANNUAL MEETING OF THE GOVERNORS

OF THE
Royal Jennerian Society,

Holden at the Society's Central Station, Union Court, Holborn-hill, on THURSDAY, the 17th of MAY, 1821,

JOINT-PRESIDENT AND DIRECTOR,

DR. WALKER, in the Chair,

The Minutes of the last General Court were read and approved.

The Minutes of the Board of Managers were read and confirmed.

The Annual Report was read, approved of, and ordered to be printed, under the direction of the Managers.

REPORT.

To the benevolent characters, in whose munificence this Great Royal Establishment finds a continued generous support, a higher gratification cannot be afforded than the assurance that the exertions of their Managers, in diffusing the benefits of Vaccination, per orbem terrarum, continue unabated. In every climate, the fruits of their goodly tree are gratefully received; the rising generation, of every colour, are protected from the disease which used to desolate 'hamlets and crowded cities, populous districts and remote cantons, the cultivated regions of civilised nations, and the extended tracts of savage hordes and wandering tribes.'

The Managers continue to watch, with earnest inquiry, the departure of vessels from this Capital of the Commercial World to Foreign Nations the most distant, as well as to all the British Colonies. They continue to afford Supplies of the Vaccine Ichor for the protection of the Colonies from the Smallpox. They issue them for

The Managers of the Royal Jennerian Society beg leave to felicitate the Governors on the extensive spread which Vaccination has now attained throughout the world. To the continuation of this great work, their Institution still continues to contribute, effectually, through the unfailing supplies daily issued from Lombard-street, by the mails, throughout the United Kingdom; and by the shipping, from the port of London, to every quarter of the world.

The establishment, in its formation, in 1803, embraced character the most distinguished; the loftiest rank, the most eminent talent, the purest philanthropy. The humane, of both sexes and of every sect, united in the pious work of lessening human sufferings.

The suffrages, thus obtained in favour of the, then, new discovery, inspired a confidence in the multitude unknown before. The formation of the Royal Jennerian Society constituted an epoch in the progress of Vaccination. Thousands of children in the Metropolis, whose parents had hitherto hesitated, were brought to the stations and protected from the smallpox, and the very same subjects, then preserved from the attacks of the deleterious disease, are now frequently repairing, the delighted young mothers, with their tender charge to the Great Royal Philanthropic Establishment, to have the seal of protection gently, but indelibly, impressed on their infant arms.

The happy promulgation of the life-saving discovery was remunerated by Parliament. From other quarters and distant countries, the Benefactor of the Human Race, whose name the Society bears, was laden with treasures; laurels were heaped on him in abundance. The ruby of the Empress Dowager of All the Russias was presented to him for acceptance; the belt of Wampum, from the wilds of the American continent, was sent to him, with the prayers and benedictions of the unlettered Indian; the academic establishments of different countries addressed to him their honorary diplomas.

There were two Vaccine Institutions already existing in the Metropolis; the Hospital at Pancras, and the Original Vaccine Pock Institution, at the west end of the town, periodically open every week. Daily gratuitous inoculations and supplies of vaccine ichor commenced, in 1802, in Lombard-street, under the auspices of the late Mr. Fox; and in 1803 were merged in those of the Royal Jennerian Society, in their Central House, in Salisbury-square. Since that time the London Vaccine Institution has been formed, and since then the National Vaccine Establishment.

All these establishments, unitedly, do not yet succeed in exterminating the Smallpox from the Capital of the Commercial World. By the mistakes of inexperienced Inoculators, Vaccination sometimes seems to fail, in protecting from the Smallpox, when the failure has been entirely on the part of the Practitioner. A fact made strikingly manifest in the National Establishment, where the medical members, Physicians and Surgeons, all engaged in General Practice, are precluded from giving that attention to the Patients falling under their care which is afforded in the Popular Establishments; and, what is attended with still more pernicious consequences, the applicants for the matter of Inoculation are frequently disappointed in their application of it. They cannot have the opportunity, as in the Popular Institutions, of ascertaining who made the selection of the matter of Inoculation. When the Inoculators appointed by the Colleges are engaged in attending their private patients, their apprentices and assistants are obliged to make the selection and prepare for distribution the matter of inoculation, a circumstance which may well explain why the papers annually addressed to the Secretary of the Home Department speak with such diffidence on what, rightly understood, would inspire only confidence and joy, and eventually write consolation, in permanent characters, on the human heart in every country*.

They say, 'It is true, indeed, my Lord, that we have received accounts from different parts of the country, of numerous cases of Smallpox having occurred after Vaccination ;'

'We are compelled to allow that too many still

* Observations in explanation of the appearance of failure, when the inoculation is taken from a case of perfect vaccination.

It often happens, in the vaccine inoculation, that on the summit of the pock, a small crust or scab is formed, the effect of the wound produced by the lancet on the application of the guardian fluid. Under this crust there is a fluid, sometimes in quantity equal to the whole pock, now exhibiting in its form and substance that of an annular congeries of cells surrounding such mass of purulent matter. This extraneous fluid, the pus under the scab, can never give the cowpox, while the smallest particle from the substance of the pock, always cellular, produces the perfect effect. If, through negligence or ignorance, the operator inoculates, or inserts, only pus on the subject he inoculates, he may, with his lancet sometimes produce considerable inflammation, and suppose he has produced the vaccine effect, but no protection will ensue. If, however, in his operation, any small particle of the vaccine matter escape from the cells of the pock, and thus accidentally become inserted with the pus, it will generally lay hold of the system and produce the vaccine pock, and the complete and perfect protection.

Extract from the Archives of the Royal College of Physicians, Warwick Lane, London.

"Two different modes have been adopted in taking the matter of inoculation from the vaccinated subject; one, by making punctures round the outer part of the pock; the other, by removing the crust or scab from the centre of the pock, wiping out the fluid beneath it, and then taking the matter, indiscriminately, from any part of the whole substance of the pock. These two different modes are used by men eminent in vaccination: the former by Dr. Jenner, the latter by Dr. Walker."

Royal College of Surgeons.

We, the undersigned, Master, Governors, and Members of the Court of Assistants of the Royal College of Surgeons in London, deeply impressed with the many fatal instances of smallpox which daily occur in the metropolis, and in various parts of the kingdom, assured that such results are in a great degree consequences of the support and propagation of that disease by inoculation, and unshaken in our confidence of the efficacy of vaccination in exterminating smallpox, from a sense of duty to the community, hereby renew the engagement entered into by us in the year 1813, not to inoculate smallpox, but to pursue, and to the utmost of our power promote, the practice of vaccination.

And we earnestly recommend to all Members of the College similar engagements; convinced that the entire extinction of smallpox would be the happy result of the suppression of inoculation of that disease, and the universal adoption of vaccination.

remain on undeniable proof, to leave any doubt that the pretensions of Vaccination to the merit of a perfect and exclusive security in all cases against Smallpox were admitted at first rather too unreservedly.'

'The controlling power of Vaccination must be admitted as next in importance to its preventive influence;'

The Medical Council of the Royal Jennerian Society admits not of any controlling or modified power of Vaccination. It is as sovereign a prophylactic, as complete a preventive, as is the Smallpox itself against its own future occurrence.

Till the doubt-exciting publications of the National Establishment are more maturely considered by their authors, or are corrected, ere they receive the imprimantur of the Board; the members of which, however, can never have, unitedly, the experience which continually falls to the lot of many an active apothecary in the metropolis;—till their unnecessary cavenda disappear from their official reports, it is to be feared that the popular confidence will continue to be repressed, and that many families will still continue in a state of hesitation, hastening only with their offspring to the stations when actually assailed with the smallpox.

In subjects thus brought to the stations, if not already infected with the smallpox, they are preserved; if already infected, and the vaccine lancet be not too late in its application, the distinct vaccine pock, of diminished magnitude and lessened effect, is produced, and the disease of the smallpox is generally rendered more mild to the poor sufferer.

The Managers have to lament, from year to year, their having to iterate, and reiterate their observations, that the privileges of the Constitution, for ages the admiration and the envy of surrounding nations, do not always confer, unmixed, advantages, on the British people.

‘Ignorant, thoughtless, or prejudiced individuals let their offspring fall around them, tortured victims to ‘the pestilence that walketh in darkness,’ to ‘the destruction that wasteth at noon-day.’

In the last Annual Report it was stated, that 712 persons had fallen victims to the Smallpox within the Bills of Mortality in 1819.—During the last year Seven Hundred and Ninety-two were cut off by the destructive and pestilential disease.

It is not, here, in the power of Church and State arbitrarily, as in other countries, to prevent the evil, however grievous; the people of this country will not be driven, even, to their good.

With earnest solicitude the Managers beg leave to call on the Governors for the continuance of their generous support. Some benevolent characters may be ready to despair of effecting the good so earnestly wished, and so reasonably hoped.

Shall our efforts therefore be diminished? On the contrary, the cause of lamentation must, with the humane, be an excitement to increased exertions, in this great work of philanthropy. While the fomes of the dreadful, the desolating, disease, continues to lurk in the habitations, however obscure, of the widely-extended Metropolis, while from the Capital of the Commercial World, as from the Heart in the Animal Economy, a never-ceasing circulation is kept up with the remotest parts of the kingdom and with distant parts of the earth, the pestilential contagion will always be in danger of being continued, if not counteracted and finally exterminated by the great prophylactic, now so widely extended by the unremitting exertions of the Institution.

It is most important to humanity that the business of Vaccination should be correctly conducted by the Royal Jennerian Society; and the reports, from all quarters, of the efficacy of the matter supplied, may shew the Governors that no caution is wanting in this important part of the concern.

When so many thousands are completely protected, from year to year, at the chief stations of the Institution, it is a curious fact, which the Governors ought to know, that there is yet greater care taken in selecting the matter of inoculation for the Applicants from abroad, than is thought necessary at the stations. It sometimes happens that families come flocking with their children for protection, when the Smallpox has made its appearance among them. The vaccine lancet is applied to them indiscriminately. Those not already infected escape the contagion altogether. Others experience a diminished effect of the disease of Smallpox, through the vaccine inoculation. In these the two diseases go on together. From such patients others are vaccinated without hesitation. Even where death by Smallpox has not been prevented, from the nascent vaccine effect being too late in its accession to save the victim from the grave, the complete protection has been derived at the stations, while every thread, and point, and glass, that could possibly by accidental contact have received a particle of the pestilential fomes have been most scrupulously kept back.

This fact of complete protection being derived through inoculation from the incipient or nascent vaccine pock before the vaccination was sufficiently advanced to affect the constitution, is curious in itself and affords a striking proof of the doctrine, that you can never inoculate too early from the incipient or nascent vaccine pock.

The following extracts from the correspondence of the Society will be interesting to the Governors.

To A. Johnstone, Esq. Burr-street, London.

“ Cascade, St. Mary, Jamaica, March 10, 1820.

“ SIR,

“ Permit me, though a stranger, to address you. Having been presented by Capt. King, of the ship James Laing, with the Annual Report and four packages of vaccine virus, from the London Vaccine Institution, I immediately commenced to disseminate, as I expected, this valuable blessing amongst the surrounding inhabitants.

“ I have a practice, amounting to about 3000 negroes and 100 whites, out of these I shall annually have to vaccinate, on an average, 130: at present there are more, who must wait the arrival of the virus. I shall feel proud in having the honour, from time to time, of communicating to the Institution the progress of vaccination, in this district, and whatever may be deemed worthy of observation, as far as regards the disease. Should the Governors think proper to confer on me a Diploma, as an honorary member of their blessed Institution, I shall ever feel grateful and proud of the honour, and, at the same time, make use of every exertion, by propagating vaccination in my neighbourhood, to exterminate that enemy to the human race, smallpox.”

“ Having a very extensive practice, and never able to procure genuine vaccine lymph, I am particularly desirous to obtain some from you; and may I, Sir, though unacquainted, make bold to request of you, to have what you send me packed in THIN TEA LEAD; as I think it will answer better, to preserve its qualities, than paper, in this climate?

“ I shall avail myself of an early opportunity to transmit Mr. Johnstone my Subscription towards so blessed an Institution: in the mean time, allow me, Sir, to subscribe myself, with every respect,

“ Your most obedient servant,

“ WILLIAM RUSSELL, M. D.”

To A. Johnstone, Esq. Deputy Treasurer to the Vaccine Institution, Burr-street, London.

“ Demarara, March 28, 1821.

“ SIR,

“ I received your address to me on the subject of the vaccine inoculation, together with an honorary diploma, and have to thank you for the communication, and the vaccine matter forwarded at the time.

" I shall give to Dr. Wylie, who is intrusted with your collections for the society, twenty-two guildres, at the present exchange about £1. 10s. which I request you will receive as my contribution to your valuable institution, and wishing it all the success it so highly merits.

" I am, Sir, your most obedient servant,

" J. L. SMITH."

To Mr. A. Johnstone, Registrar and Deputy Treasurer to the London Vaccine Institution.

" Rotterdam, May 5th, 1821.

" SIR,

" On the 3d inst. the parcel you sent, containing a vaccine pamphlet, vaccine virus, &c. arrived here; as it was directed to be delivered to some medical practitioner, the captain of the vessel Mary-Ann thought it proper to deliver the parcel to me, which I joyfully received.

" Know, Sir, that I am a great friend to vaccination, and that during my travels through Germany, I did all in my power to promote vaccination; and yet now I endeavour to propagate such useful practice with the greatest zeal, the more so, having opportunity of being supplied with fresh matter by your goodness.

" As your kind letters express, that the Managers of your institution grant honorary diplomas to all those who propagate vaccination, if it is not against your rules to grant them to foreigners, you would confer a particular favour on me, by honouring me with a diploma of such a humane and invaluable society.

" I promise to give an account of the progress of vaccination, and to send you my observations made on this subject.

" I am, Sir, with the greatest respect,

" Your most humble servant,

" H. S. HYMANS, A. L. M.

Philosoph. et Med. Doctor, Member of various Societies."

Mr. A. Johnstone, Burr-street, Tower-hill, London.

" Usk, April 5th, 1821.

" SIR,

" In consequence of an absolute necessity to attend the late assises for this county, I have been unable to acknowledge the handsome manner in which the diploma of your honourable and humane Institution has been so kindly conferred on me, and beg leave to solicit the Managers' pardon, respectfully returning them my sincerest thanks.

" I feel anxious in stating to those gentlemen, that every exertion which lies in my power (both pecuniary and professionally) shall not be wanting to eradicate the loathsome disease. I am sorry to add, it has latterly plunged this neighbourhood into dreadful alarm: no less than twenty individuals have fallen victims to its pestilential contagion within the last fourteen days. I have now three children, in one family, dreadfully afflicted with the smallpox. The mother is very much marked by the infectious disease. I told her she had much to answer for, probably the death of those she ought to hold most dear. If no dissolution took place, it may prove a galling reflection to the children affected, that they might have claimed an equal share of handsome appearance as those of their neighbours, who were so prudent as to procure the antidote.

" I wish to acquaint the Managers, that country practitioners have a great many difficulties to contend with; and the general prejudice in this part of the kingdom is, and the vulgar sort of people say that, after vaccination, if the pustule is broken and the virus taken from the arm, the effect would not be sufficient. I have many patients here who object to vaccination, but trust I shall overcome their objections.

" The traveller of Messrs. Vallance and Co., of Garlick Hill, Upper Thames-street, will be here in a few days, whom I shall request to pay my subscription to your Institution, of £1. per annum, with the fullest confidence that, if all were to unite in so good a cause, by caution, we should not feel the effects of smallpox any more than we do, at present, that of the plague.

" I am, respected, Sir,

" Yours obediently,

" WM. THOMAS."

To Doctor Walker, Director of the London Vaccine Institution.

" St. Peter's, Cambridge, April 19, 1821.

" SIR,

" From many years proof of vaccination, I am fully convinced of its efficacy in preventing the variola. I have some patients, in Cambridge, who have been nurses to children infected with variola in the natural way, and have never received the least infection. I have never received any fee or reward from any person or persons, hitherto, for my labour; but I am sorry that a generous public do not come forward with more spirit to strengthen that noble institution and strictly to prohibit inoculations for variola, which I have known near me to be done by some surgeons, as well as old women. If there is a law to prohibit such practice, pray inform me, and I will look out carefully to detect such offenders. The Institution are at perfect liberty to publish this letter, for the benefit of the public, in any manner they may think proper.

“ DAVID WRAY, M.D.”

To Dr. Walker.

“ Bristol, April 26, 1821.

“ SIR,

“ If you will take the trouble of sending to Messrs. Merle, Son, and Co. Little Britain, they will pay my subscription, of one guinea, as advised by Messrs. Browne and Co. I will feel obliged if you will send me six or eight points, charged with vaccine lymph: it is for the purpose of vaccinating a gentleman's children, each of which has, at different periods, been vaccinated by me at Clifton, and all of them have gone through the disease to my satisfaction. A considerable sensation has been excited here, by various means, relative to the inefficacy of cowpox as a preventive for smallpox. The following letter, which I had printed as a circular, will show you that I have not been inactive, as I have circulated it among the clergy and others, at my own expense. I am sorry to acquaint you, that some medical men seem to countenance an idea, that vaccination proves a preventive only for a stated number of years, &c. Under the influence of this notion, my friend is very desirous of vaccinating his children again. Should you have any observation to make, which can in any way help to repress the popular ferment on this subject, you will oblige me by communicating it to me. I am, Sir,

“ Your very obedient, humble servant,

“ DAVID DAVIES.”

Park-street, April 15, 1818.

“ SIR,

“ The Mangers of the LONDON VACCINE INSTITUTION having, by letter, requested that I would use my influence in promoting the cause of vaccination, and having conferred on me their honorary diploma, I am induced, in compliance with their humane wishes, to offer my services to vaccinate, free of expense, all your indigent parishioners who chuse to avail themselves of this salutary process, agreeably to the subsequent suggestions.

“ Believing that the happy effects your efforts will produce, in this laudable and humane cause, cannot fail to afford you entire satisfaction, I am, Sir,

“ Your very obedient humble servant,
“ DAVID DAVIES, M. D.”

“ It is a melancholy truth, that in this large, populous, and opulent city, many lives annually fall victims to the ravage of smallpox; and that a very great number of those who, by strength of constitution and other favourable circumstances, struggle through the disease, are, by the effects of this dire pest, rendered useless members of society, a burden to themselves, and a heavy charge on the public.

“ These untimely deaths, and other dreadful consequences, are the more to be lamented, Providence, in its bounty, having blessed us with a safe, innocent, and certain preventive. Were the advantages of vaccination duly appreciated, the mortality and dreadful effects, arising from smallpox, might be lessened, and a well-founded hope established of eradicating this loathsome disease from the city and its environs,— “ 1st, By obtaining the aid of the Clergy and Members of the different Vestries, by whose permission, at stated periods, the Indigent should be vaccinated, free of expense, at the Vestry-rooms of their respective Parishes.

“ 2dly, By the interference of the Governor, Deputy-governor, and Guardians of St. Peter's Hospital, who might make it almost imperative on all Paupers to secure their Children from Smallpox.

3dly, By the Managers of the Church-schools, Royal Lancasterian School, and Sunday-schools, strongly recommending the Parents of the Children to avail themselves of the great benefit of Vaccination, and admitting in preference into these Schools such Children as have been thus secured.

“ 4thly, By a strict enforcement of the Laws enacted for the Suppression of Contagion.”

To A. Johnstone, Esq. 52, Burr-street, London.

“ Ellisfield, Basingtoke, Hants, April 4, 1821.

“ SIR,

“ I feel myself honoured in the handsome manner in which the diploma of the London Vaccine Institution has been conferred on me, and beg leave to tender my sincere thanks to the Board of Managers for the same; be assured that I will endeavour to merit this mark of their favourable distinction, by doing all in my power to promote vaccination. I beg the favour that you will enrol my name as an Annual Subscriber of One Guinea, and desire you will give me notice when the payment becomes due and I will remit you the money by post or order.

" I must not fail to thank you for a pair of glasses, &c., and remain, Sir,

" Your most obliged humble Servant,
" BEN. ROLFE."

To A. Johnstone, Esq. Deputy Treasurer to the Royal Jennerian Society, 87, Hatton-garden.

" No. 14, Henrietta-street, Brunswick-square, May 6, 1821.

" SIR,

" I have to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of this instant, accompanied by a diploma, as Honorary Member of the Royal Jennerian Society.

" After requesting you to present my thanks to the Gentlemen who have conferred on me this honour, I beg leave to assure you, that few things would give me greater pleasure than to be useful to that society, to rescue vaccination from the impressions that have got abroad, of its inefficacy as a permanent security against that dreadful malady the smallpox. Not being of the profession either of physic or surgery, I cannot be supposed to have had frequent opportunities of witnessing cases, either of its efficacy or failure; but so it happened, from a friendship that subsisted between a friend of Dr. Jenner's and myself, at the very commencement of his experiments, few individuals (thus situated) have seen so many; of its failure none have occurred to my own personal knowledge; of its success, several; and of its effects in my own family I have every reason to be perfectly satisfied. Yet it is but justice to add, I have heard such circumstances, from such respectable sources, as could not fail, if not to shake my faith, at least to create a strong desire that the society would endeavour to collect the cases, and if not controvert the assertions, to be able to account for patients, vaccinated by eminent practitioners, having afterwards received the variolous infection the natural way; I have not heard of any having taken it by inoculation.

" The friend I allude to, was the Rev. J Clinch, who practised surgery in a colony where I resided, with whom a near relation, I believe a nephew of Dr. Jenner's, was afterwards a partner. A remarkable instance occurred of a boy, who, after being vaccinated, caught the smallpox the natural way, and had both diseases at the same time. Many were inoculated from this subject, amongst the number, one of my daughters, who had three or four times resisted variolous inoculation. The whole number could not have been less than one hundred: a part received the variolous infection, a part the vaccine, from the same matter on the same lancet. All did well. Of the latter was my daughter, who has been subsequently twice inoculated with variolous matter; once in a house where two patients had the smallpox, whom she saw daily, and never attempted to avoid; she did not take the infection.

This was a remarkable case; but I do not enlarge, because I think the whole has been detailed to the society by a Mr. Macurdy, the chief operator, by the desire of Sir Charles Pole, then Governor of the Colony where it occurred. But I ought not to omit what fell under my immediate observation: my daughter's right arm (she was inoculated in both) was covered with erysipelas from the shoulder to the elbow, with one pustule about the incision, troublesome only one night, and speedily subsiding. On the same day, with the same lancet and matter, was inoculated, a youth, son of William Carter, Esq. Judge of the Vice-Admiralty Court at Newfoundland; this lad had the smallpox, rather full, but of a mild kind. I have lately returned from Bath, where the smallpox was rather prevalent. It was my intention to have tried once more the effects of smallpox inoculation on my daughter, which I must now postpone till the autumn, when I intend again to make the experiment, as some imagine vaccination is a security only for a given time.

" I have the honour to be, Sir,

" Your most obedient humble servant,

" W. I. EPPES."

" Laleston, near Bridgend, Glamorgan, Jan. 26, 1821.

" SIR,

" I have taken the liberty of troubling you with this letter, to petition the society for a little vaccine matter, which I am led to understand they dispense gratuitously for general use, especially to the poor and indigent, who are otherwise excluded from its benefits, because the medical gentlemen generally charge from 7s. to 10s. 6d. for inoculating.

" I have been in the habit of ingrafting the vaccine virus for the last eight years, and have always found it to be an effectual barrier against the smallpox, insomuch that I can verify, that upwards of thirty, within my own knowledge, who had been inoculated, have slept, during the whole process, with those infected with smallpox, without experiencing any of its effects.

" With the best wishes for the prosperity of the society, and in anxious hope of your favouring me with an answer, “ Pernambuco, Jan. 12, 1820.

(a time when Summer Heat is so excessive, that it is difficult to preserve the Matter of Inoculation in an active state.)

“ DR. WALKER,

“ On the 12th of February, of last year, I forwarded you a letter, containing an account of the progress and state of the vaccine, up to the end of December 1818, at which time I informed you the vaccine matter was exhausted, and begged you would continue forwarding more. I now proceed to give you an account of what has been done from that to the present time. In April 1819, I received some vaccine matter, which I had sent for to Bahia, and applied it with good success. From that period I continued furnishing it to the public, on appointed days and hours, in a house provided by the Government for that purpose, and began to solicit the people to take advantage of this great benefit, and also proposed attending at their houses, to make gratuitously the operation, in order to animate them the more.

“ I wrote to several persons of respectability, and to the authorities of the towns and people of this Capitainery, begging they would promote the preservation and propagation of the vaccine, enabling it to be administered gratuitously, and to solicit the uninstructed and rustic people to procure this unknown benefit. I have continued always in this service, sending the vaccine matter to all parts, accompanied by written directions how to make the true use of it. I have solicited a great number of surgeons, and some physicians, to teach the people the utility of the vaccine, and have obtained the protection of the Government of the Capitainery for this object. The result of these labours has been the vaccinating, within these eight months, eight hundred and odd human creatures, the having furnished vaccine matter to forty odd places, our having procured from the people their voluntary application for the vaccine, our having nearly obtained the entire disappearance of the natural smallpox in this town, and our having formed a Vaccine Establishment by order of the King, for the conservation of which myself and my colleague, Joze de Mello Trindade, from which we hope for the preservation and propagation of the vaccine, as we propose doing every thing in our power in forwarding this object. With regard to the vaccine, I must observe, that nothing particular has presented itself to me: it has constantly discovered itself in the form which the most learned authors have described, sometimes proceeding quicker and sometimes slower. When it finds in the constitution the contagion of the natural smallpox, it does not destroy it, but always moderates it, and they come together with the natural, as if the latter did not exist. In whatever age, sex, or state of constitution, I have uniformly vaccinated without perceiving any danger. All that have been perfectly vacinated have been exempted from the smallpox. Children recently born, I observe, have much difficulty in receiving the vaccine*, and it is the same with such as have cutaneous affections.

“ These are the observations which I have made in the course of five years which I have dedicated to this labour. I ought to say that my companion, Joze de Mello Trindade, has constantly and valiantly aided me in my vaccine labours, in consequence of which I cannot refrain from recommending him to the Vaccine Institution in London, and particularly to you, Sir,

“ Of whom I have the honour to be,
 “ the most obedient Servant,
 “ MANOEL PEREIRA TEIXEIRA.”

To Dr. Walker.

“ Hand-court, Upper Thames-street, March, 29, 1821.

“ DEAR SIR,

“ I am requested by Dr. Ter Rehorst, of Fahrsund, in Norway, to apply to you for some vaccine matter, for the use of the natives, as he finds that procured from you has the best effect.

“ I remain, respectfully,

“ Your obedient servant,

To A. Johnstone, Esq. Burr-street, Tower-hill, London.

“ Renvyle, May 19, 1821.

“ Mrs. Blake requests Mr. Johnstone will have the goodness to forward two or three charges of the vaccine virus, directed to her as usual, under cover to the Marquis of Sligo, Westport House, Co. Mayo. Mrs. Blake is happy to add, that vaccination is making rapid progress in this remote part of Ireland. By a little attention in vaccinating the infants every spring, the smallpox has been prevented making its appearance in this neighbourhood, during the last three years.

To A. Johnstone, Esq. 52 Burr-street, London.

Maranham, March 10, 1821.

“ SIR,

“ Towards the end of last year, I had the pleasure

* This must have arisen from a too tender or timid application of the lancet; as it sometimes happens on a nativity, in those ignorant or prejudiced families where the Smallpox is already raging, some of the good women wrap up the new born babe in a blanket, run off to the institution with it, have it immediately vaccinated, and thus, at once, perfectly secured.

to receive some packets of vaccine virus, and the pamphlets of that valuable Institution, the Royal Jennerian Society, by the brig, Duke of Wellington, from London.

Within these six months, many hundreds have been inoculated, and the smallpox, which has lately made dreadful ravages at Para, has scarcely been heard of. I have observed, that all those of Indian origin, or even who have a mixture of Indian blood, are much more susceptible of infection than Blacks, and these again than the white inhabitants of the country: a fact which places the value of the discovery, as far as regards this part of the world, in a strong point of view. And, if my observation is correct, it would appear, that the human frame can become accustomed to pestilential miasmata to such a degree as to convey comparative impunity from their effect, even to posterity.

“ I need scarcely say, that I should be proud to receive an honorary Diploma from the Society; but it would give me still greater pleasure, to have it in my power to present one to Dr. Jose Antonia Suarez de Sousa, a physician of this place, whose zeal and exertions in the cause of vaccination are far above my praise.

“ I have the honour to be, Sir,

“ Your obedient humble servant,

“ JAMES HALL, M. D.

“ Surgeon to the British Hospital.”

When the practicability of the suppression of the Pestilence of Smallpox, in some of the largest Cities of the Continent, as Berlin, Vienna, Munich, and Milan, has been evinced for a continuance of years, as well as the now-established and incontrovertible fact, of Vaccination being a protection from, and preventive of, this disease, the afflicting idea of the numerous deaths, recorded from year to year, being unnecessary deaths, must present itself to the reflecting mind.

If it has justly been considered by the Legislature an object worthy of the National Munificence to reward the Physician who first introduced the valuable discovery of Vaccination to the Public Attention, it is still more important that the benefits of the discovery should be carried into full effect. But it is only by persuasion and conviction of the judgment that a British Public is to be prevailed on to adopt the life-preserving practice of Vaccination. Let, then, the affluent and exalted, who possess means of information not within the reach of the poor—let the well-informed of every description suffer us, in behalf of the great cause, to respectfully, but most earnestly, appeal to their philanthropy. They know in their own families, or in those of their neighbours, their connexions or friends, the efficacy of Vaccination—the consolation which it yields when correctly administered.

You continually witness the consolation. You see the blooming infant, under the protecting process, undeprived of the placid countenance, the innocent sweetness, the cherub smile, the winning looks, which, beaming on the fond mother, enchant and console her in the midst of her solitudes. Through the whole of its future life, it is secure from that direful disease, whose visit has so often entailed deformity, blindness, or irreparable infirmities upon its victims; when it has not, after nights and days of unutterable anguish, finally closed their eyes in death.

The Managers respectfully and earnestly solicit your serious attention to these considerations. They are animated with the expectation, that the persevering exertions of this Society, aided by the wonted liberality of the public, will greatly contribute, at no distant period, to the annihilation of one of the greatest evils incident to the condition of man; and that the Smallpox, the desolating calamity of twelve centuries, will hereafter be remembered only by name.

Signed by order, and on behalf of the Managers,
 A. JOHNSTONE, LL.D. Registrar,
 JOHN FOX, Secretary.

FIRST GENERAL MEETING OF THE SOCIETY.

At a very numerous and highly respectable meeting, holden at the London Tavern, on Wednesday, January 19, 1803, to consider of the best means to be adopted for the extermination of the smallpox,

The Right Honourable the Lord Mayor in the Chair,

The following Address was read and presented to the Chair by Benjamin Travers, Esq.

ADDRESS TO THE PUBLIC.

“ The dreadful havoc, occasioned by that horrid pestilence, the smallpox, which, in the United Kingdom alone, annually sweeps away more than forty thousand persons, has long been a subject of deep regret to every humane and reflecting mind.

“ The inoculation of this disease has opposed an ineffectual resistance to its destructive career. Although confessedly a valuable improvement in rendering it more mild, yet such has been the consequence of the partial adoption of the practice, that it appears, on a careful review of the history of the smallpox, that inoculation, by spreading the contagion, has considerably increased its mortality.

“ A new species of inoculation has at length been providentially introduced, by our countryman, Dr. Jenner, which, without being contagious, without occasioning any material indisposition, or leaving any blemish, proves an effectual preservative against the future infection of the smallpox.

“ The House of Commons, having investigated the subject with the most scrupulous attention, and being perfectly convinced of the superior advantages resulting from this discovery, have given their sanction to the practice, the safety, mildness, and efficacy of which, more than half a million of instances have fully confirmed.

“ The unspeakable benefits which may be expected to arise from an extensive diffusion of this salutary practice, will be much accelerated by the establishment of an Institution in a central part of the metropolis, upon a broad basis, supported with a spirit equal to the design, and worthy of the character of the British nation. When the magnitude of the object is considered, which is no less than to eradicate the greatest scourge that ever afflicted mankind, there can be but one sentiment on the subject.

“ The enlightened, the benevolent, the opulent will doubtless vie with each other in the zealous support of an undertaking, which will reflect the highest honour upon this country, and prove, by saving millions of victims from an untimely grave, an inestimable blessing to the whole human race.

January 9, 1803.

JOSEPH FOX, Secretary.

The Right Honourable the Lord Mayor having read the address from the chair, it was moved by Dr. Lettsom, and seconded by Dr. Bradley, “ That the address be received and adopted,” which was carried unanimously.

A motion having been made by Mr. Gurney, and seconded by Mr. Leaper, “ That this meeting do form itself into a society, for the extermination of the smallpox,”

The honourable Admiral Berkeley arose, and said, that he had it in command from his Royal Highness the Duke of Clarence, to apologize to the meeting for his non-attendance, he having been unavoidably prevented from doing himself the pleasure and the honour of attending on the present interesting occasion; but that his Grace the Duke of Bedford held a motion in his hand, which, had his Royal Highness been present, he himself would have made.

On this, the Right Honourable Chairman observed, that a motion had already been made, and seconded, and that, consequently, it must first be disposed of.

The hon. Admiral acknowledged the propriety of the observation, but said, that the motion was proposed as a tribute of esteem to a benefactor of the world, and that if the previous motion could, for the moment, be waived, the honour intended, if voted, would be greater, coming from a popular assembly, than if it were conferred by an organized society.

Mr. Gurney, on this, immediately offered priority to the wish of his Royal Highness, when, on the motion of the Duke of Bedford, at the special request of his Royal Highness the Duke of Clarence, seconded by the honourable Admiral Berkeley, it was Resolved unanimously, "That the thanks of this meeting be transmitted to Dr. Jenner, expressive of the high sense it entertains of his merit, and the great importance of his discovery, and particularly for the liberal offer of his assistance to accomplish the great object it has in view."

Mr. Gurney's motion, "That this meeting do form itself into a society for the extermination of the smallpox," was then carried unanimously.

A subscription was opened, on the motion and example of Mr. Angerstein, trustees were appointed, and a committee elected, for forming a plan for the purpose of carrying into effect the important object of the society.

At a Meeting of the Committee, Jan. 26, 1803, John Julius Angerstein, Esq. in the Chair, a plan was prepared. On the 2d of February, Mr. Angerstein, the Chairman, reported, that he had received a letter from the Duke of Bedford, accompanied with a subscription of fifty guineas, in which his Grace thanked the society for the honour conferred on him, in electing him President.

The Lord Mayor reported, that he had received a letter from Dr. Jenner, expressing his thanks to the society, for the honour it had conferred on him, by the resolution of the general meeting. Ordered to be inserted on the minutes.

To the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor.

Berkeley, Jan. 27, 1803.

MY LORD,—I beg leave to acknowledge the deep sense I entertain of the honour which your Lordship's particular notice has conferred upon me.

"I feel infinitely indebted to you for convening and countenancing, by your presence and assistance, the late respectable meeting, at the London Tavern, for considering the best means for the extermination of the smallpox. His Royal Highness the Duke of Clarence, his Grace the Duke of Bedford, the hon. Admiral Berkeley, together with other Noblemen and Gentlemen, demand my warmest thanks for the encouragement and support they have given to an Institution, of which I have the success so much at heart.

"I have the honour to be,

"My Lord,

"Your Lordship's obliged and very faithful humble Servant,

"E. JENNER."

The Chairman reported that he had received letters from several Noblemen and Gentlemen, stating their ready compliance with the request of the society to become Vice-Presidents.

Mr. Ring having reported that Admiral Berkeley was confined by indisposition, Resolved, "That Lord Egremont be requested to give his assistance to the Chairman, in applying to Lord Pelham, the Secretary of State, in order to obtain the patronage of his Majesty to this institution.

Feb. 10, 1803.—At a meeting of the Committee of the Jennerian Society for the extermination of the smallpox, appointed Jan. 19th, John Julius Angerstein in the Chair,

The Chairman reported that, in company with Lord Egremont, he had waited upon Lord Pelham, to request that his Majesty would condescend to become the Patron of this society, and that now he had the opportunity of presenting a letter from his Lordship, informing Lord Egremont that his Majesty had graciously consented to be the Patron of the society.

The Chairman reported, that he had received a letter from Lord Morton, informing him that her Majesty had graciously condescended to become the Patroness of this society.

The Chairman further informed the society, that his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, his Royal Highness the Duke of York, his Royal Highness the Duke of Clarence, and his Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland, had consented to become Vice-Patrons of this society.

Ordered that the several letters be entered on the minutes.

Resolved, That the Chairman be requested to use his influence in presenting the wish of the society to their Royal Highnesses the Princess of Wales, the Duchess of York, the Princesses Augusta Sophia, Elizabeth, Mary, Sophia, and Amelia, entreating them to become Vice-Patronesses.

London Coffee-House, Feb. 14, 1803.

At a Meeting of the Committee of the Jennerian Society, for the Extermination of the Smallpox, appointed Jan. 19th, Dr. Jenner in the Chair, the following advertisement was prepared for publication.

Jennerian Society for the Extermination of the Smallpox.

“The subscribers to this society are requested to attend, on Thursday next, the 17th inst. at eleven o’clock, at the London Tavern, Bishopsgate-street, to receive the report of the Committee appointed to prepare a plan for its future regulation.

“The Chair will be taken by the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor at twelve o’clock precisely. The company of every Gentleman who is disposed to further the views of this society, will be esteemed a favour.

“JOSEPH FOX, Secretary.”

At the General Meeting of Feb. 17th, the minutes of the Meeting, holden on the 19th of January, were read and confirmed. John Julius Angerstein, Esq. Chairman of the Committee, appointed on the 19th ult., being indisposed, Benjamin Travers, Esq. on the part of the Committee, presented the following report.

Report of the Committee, appointed on the 19th of January last, to the General Meeting of the Society.

Your Committee, after much and anxious deliberation, having formed the outline of a plan, which they conceive best adapted to promote the great object of this society, beg leave to recommend it to the adoption of this General Meeting.

Impressed with the great importance of obtaining an immediate and powerful support, they have thought it indispensably requisite to apply to many exalted and distinguished characters for their sanction to the undertaking, and they have the satisfaction to announce, that His Majesty has graciously condescended to become the Patron; that Her Majesty has, with great benignity, acquiesced in the request to become the Patroness; that His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, and their Royal Highnesses the Duke of York, the Duke of Clarence, and the Duke of Cumberland, have already evinced, in the most flattering manner, their willingness to accept the station of Vice-Patrons; that his Grace the Duke of Bedford has complied with their solicitation to fill the office of President; and that many Prelates, Noblemen, and Gentlemen, of the first rank and respectability, have consented to be Vice-Presidents of this society.

Impressed also with the great advantage of engaging in our cause the mild and extensive influence of the female character, it has been deemed highly expedient to obtain the countenance of those Ladies whose rank, situation, and example, might recommend the Jennerian practice in the vicinity of their respective residences throughout the country. Various applications for this purpose have been made, and they entertain well-founded expectations of success.

In addition to the names of those illustrious, noble and respectable characters, whom your Committee have solicited to accept the Patronage and Presidency of your society, they conceive that they have acted according to the spirit of your instructions in proceeding to the nomination of persons to be submitted to your approbation, as proper to fill the principal offices, particularly the Board of Directors and the Medical Council.

Your Committee cannot conclude their observations without expressing their hopes that your Directors and Medical Council will as soon as possible extend their views throughout every part of the United Kingdom, and, by interesting the different classes of the community, give full effect to the important object of this society.

JOHN JULIUS ANGERSTEIN, Chairman.

Resolved, That the Board of Directors and the Medical Council be requested to afford all the assistance in their power towards the formation of similar institutions in every part of the British empire.

That the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor, his Grace the Duke of Bedford, the Earl of Berkeley, the Earl of Egremont, Lord Grantley, Lord Carrington, Admiral Berkeley, Dr. Jenner, Dr. Lettson, John Julius Angerstein, Esq. and Benjamin Travers, Esq. be desired to wait on his Majesty, to return the most humble and dutiful thanks of this society for the high honour conferred on it by his Majesty's gracious condescension in becoming its Patron.

That the same Noblemen and Gentlemen be desired to wait on her Majesty, to express the most humble thanks of this society, for the high honour conferred on it by her Majesty's gracious condescension in becoming its Patroness.

That the most respectful thanks of this society be presented to his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, for the honour conferred on the society by his Royal Highness's condescension in becoming one of its Vice-Patrons; and for the gracious expressions in his Royal Highness's letter, making that communication.

That the respectful thanks of this society be presented to their Royal Highnesses the Duchess of York, the Princess Augusta.

Sophia, Elizabeth, Mary, Sophia, and Amelia, for the honour conferred on this society, by their Royal Highnesses becoming Vice-Patronesses.

That the most cordial thanks of this society be given to his Grace the Duke of Bedford, for his Grace's ready acceptance of the office of President, and for the zeal he has manifested in promoting the very important object of this society.

That the thanks of this society be given to those Noble and Respectable Ladies, who have honoured this society by becoming Sub-Patronesses.

That the grateful acknowledgments of this society be given to the Earl of Egremont, for the eminent services which his Lordship has rendered to this society.

That the thanks of this society be given to those distinguished Prelates, Noblemen, and Gentlemen, who have honoured the society by becoming its Vice-Presidents.

That the society, deeply impressed with a sense of the important services resulting from the indefatigable exertions of Dr. Jenner, Dr. Lettsom, John Julius Angerstein, Esq. and Benjamin Travers, Esq. do with equal pleasure and gratitude, return them their thanks.

That the thanks of this society be given to the Gentlemen of the Committee, for their very great assiduity and ability, manifested in the formation of the Plan and Regulations of this society.

That this society do recommend to the Board of Directors to prepare a Memorial, on its behalf, to be laid before the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council, in Common Council assembled.

That the thanks of this society be given to Joseph Fox, Esq. for his unremitting attention and great exertions in conducting the affairs of this society, in the office of Secretary.

Medical Council, St. Paul's Coffee-house, March 24, 1803.—Resolved, that the thanks of this Council be given to the Board of Directors, for their very agreeable and satisfactory information concerning the Central-house, and that they will take into serious consideration the appointment of a resident medical gentleman, for which purpose a special summons will be sent to all the Members of the Council, that the important subject of the appointment may receive the fullest attention on the ensuing evening.—Communicated by Mr. Ring and Mr. Hurlock.

House of the Institution, Salisbury-square, March 31, 1803.—At a Meeting of the Medical Council, Dr. Jenner in the chair, Resolved, that the election of a resident medical gentleman in the Central-house be deferred to this day four weeks, and that, in the mean time, an Advertisement be inserted in the public papers, inviting candidates to apply for this office.

Resolved, that a Committee be now appointed to receive the applications of the candidates, to examine the qualifications of such candidates, and to report the same to the Medical Council, one week previous to the proposed election.

No. 14, Salisbury-square, April 21, 1803.—At a meeting of the Medical Council, Dr. Jenner in the Chair. The Committee appointed to examine candidates for the office of Resident Inoculator at the Central-house, reported, that Dr. Domeier, Dr. Walker, Dr. Aberdour, and Mr. Edward Leese, had given satisfactory evidence of their professional education, and their knowledge of the Vaccine Inoculation. The same having been received, it was Resolved, That Dr. Domeier, Dr. Walker, Dr. Aberdour, and Mr. Edward Leese, be admitted as candidates.

Central-house, No. 14, Salisbury-square, April 28, 1803.—Medical Council. The following Message was communicated to the Board of Directors.

The Medical Council inform the Board of Directors, that the election of Resident Inoculator and Medical Secretary took place this morning, previous to which Dr. Aberdour had resigned. Upon casting up the Ballot, the numbers were for

Dr. Walker, 27—Dr. Domeier, 10—Mr. Leese, 6—whereupon Dr. Walker was declared duly elected.

The Board of Directors thank the Medical Council for the communication of the election of Dr. Walker to the important office of Resident Inoculator and Medical Secretary; and congratulate them upon so important a step towards the object of this society, which the Directors will take measures immediately to announce to the public.

Resolved, that the above be communicated by Mr. Vandercom and Mr. Bodley.

It was one of the regulations of the society, that they should annually have a public dinner, on the birth-day of Dr. Jenner; and, accordingly, on the 17th of May, 1803, with the Earl of Egremont in the chair, the Nobleman who had more than any other, from the first announcement of the discovery, devoted himself to its propagation, they held their first festival at the Crown and Anchor Tavern, Strand. It was there announced that the society had opened out thirteen stations, for gratuitous inoculation in different parts of the metropolis, to which the extremely numerous company were invited to recommend the children from their respective neighbourhoods. The proceedings of a society, so eminently sanctioned, by professional talent, by high rank, by pure philanthropy, were prosperous beyond all previous example. Multitudes flocked immediately to the stations: the matter of inoculation was diffused throughout the empire, and throughout the world. That protection from so direful and contagious a disease as the smallpox should be obtained by so slight a general affection as is produced, together with the very circumscribed local destruction of skin, by vaccination, was one of the most extraordinary phenomena in animal physiology. To doubt the fact was most rational, and many yet doubted. But a society happily, so imposing or influential, carried conviction to many minds; and others ceased to oppose what had received so high a sanction. Unhappily the few of the medical profession who had the courage to oppose their mistaken notions to the convictions of the multitude of their brethren, were violently and even slanderously assailed by some of the minor characters in this society, whereby they seemed to become incorrigible.

In the great fire at Salisbury-square, the Central-house had been reduced to ruins, the Committees could no longer meet there, but the Resident Inoculator continued all his share of the business of the society among the ruins. Inoculations, examinations, and supplies of matter did not cease.

Bolt-court, Fleet-street, May 1, 1806.

The Directors appointed a Committee of four of their Members to attend the business of the annual festival. The Medical Council appointed an equal number of their Board to co-operate with the said Committee.

The Directors resolved that the Clergy of different denominations be solicited to favour the society with their kind and useful services, by preaching charity sermons, and thereby giving publicity to the Institution, and benefiting the finances. The Medical Council resolved, that it be left to the Committee for managing the festival, to carry into effect the foregoing resolution, if they shall think proper.

These were the last legal joint acts of the Board of Directors and Medical Council; for, after this, these two Committees fell into intestine disputes, and in these each body, or board, became diminished one-third of their appointed number; and the broken boards were never afterwards completed. A splendid festival, was, however, produced, Vice Patron his Royal Highness the Duke of York taking the chair, on Dr. Jenner's birth-day the 17th of May; but no charity sermons ensued.

On the 25th of June, a special general Court was holden at the London Coffee-house, Ludgate hill, for the purpose of inquiring into the state of the society; and to remedy its defects or abuses, which appointed a Committee to consider the best means of reducing the expenditure, and improving the finances of the society; and also to consider whether any and what alterations of the existing regulations can be adopted, with advantage to the general interests of the society.

On the 18th of February, 1807, the Committee for altering the regulations of the society recommend the consolidation of the two Boards. If thereby the medical resident became released from the duties of secretary, a proportionate deduction from his salary was, of course, they said, to take place.

Suspension of the Society.

The secretary of the financial Board now became the secretary of the society. He resigned his situation at the close of 1808. The resident inoculator soon found himself under the necessity of following his example. From the impoverishment of the finances, from the falling off of the inoculations, and consequently of the necessary supplies of matter, the lease, fixtures, and furniture of the Central-house were disposed of, the business of the Institution was removed first to Bolt-court, in Fleet-street, afterwards to a private house in Newgate-street. Eventually, all proceedings of the society were formally suspended in 1810.

Resuscitation of the Society.

Year after year passing away without any statement being rendered to the society of the funds, without any renewal of accountable officers, some of the old members, at length, in 1813, determined on its resuscitation.

They commenced with holding daily conferences, to which they publicly invited their fellow-members and the advocates of vaccination.

Advertisements inserted in the Morning Papers

“ Certain Life-Governors and other Members of the Royal Jennerian Society wishing to renew its exertions in the great and humane cause of vaccination, have agreed to hold conferences on the best mode of effecting such desirable work without delay, and hereby invite all their fellow-members to the same, with the request that they will introduce to them any friends of vaccination that may consent to accompany them. The smallpox yet continues to rage in the metropolis, and to be thence diffused throughout the empire. The company of the advocates of vaccination to the conferences will be agreeable and encouraging. They will commence at twelve o'clock on the 21st instant, at No. 6, Bond-court, Walbrook, and be continued from day to day, during the rest of the month.

London, 17, vij. 1813.

Result of the preparatory Conferences.

“ Certain Members of the Royal Jennerian Society are disposed, from the prevalence of smallpox, to call a General Meeting, for the purpose of renewing their exertions in the great cause of vaccination. At their request notice is hereby given, that the General Court of Wednesday, the 4th of August, will be holden at the City of London Tavern, Bishopsgate-street.

“ The chair to be taken at twelve o'clock.

Royal Jennerian Society, for the extermination of the Smallpox, City of London Tavern, Bishopsgate-street.

At the General Court, Wednesday, August 4th, 1813,

DR. BRADLEY in the Chair,

It appearing that the Resident Inoculators and Secretaries of the Society having resigned their respective offices—that the other appointed Inoculators, the Collector, and Messenger, having long ceased to act—that the time for which the late Board of Directors was elected having expired—that the Treasurer and Trustees, being of annual appointment, and several years having now passed without any election or re-election of such officers—the Royal Jennerian Society, at present, consists of a Patronage, a Presidency, and an unorganized body of Subscribers, or Governors.

The present reduced and disastrous condition of the society having befallen it, under the changed form of its regulations, prepared and adopted in the years 1806 and 1807,

Resolved, That all the proceedings of the society relative to such change, and subsequent to the time thereof, be cancelled, with exception of such as respect the financial concerns of the society.

The London Vaccine Institution having succeeded, and continuing to flourish in the promotion of Vaccination,

Resolved, That the regulations of the London Vaccine Institution be adopted as the basis of the future laws of the society, which shall be modified according to the peculiar circumstances in which this society is placed. Accordingly it is

Resolved, That the society have a Treasurer, Trustees, a Board of Managers, a Director, an Assistant Director, or Assistant Directors, a Resident Inoculator, or Resident Inoculators, a Secretary, a Collector, and such other officers or servants as may be necessary.

For the purpose of obtaining all the advantages which can be derived from the example and experience of that effective association, the London Vaccine Institution.

Resolved, That all the Governors of this society, who are members of the Board of Managers of the London Vaccine Institution, be now elected members of the Board of Managers, together with the old members of the Board of Directors, and of the Medical Council now present, or who can conveniently attend the Board hereafter.

liarily happy in his decisive treatment of his Royal Patient, our Patron, in a late indisposition; that Vaccination and Society were indebted to this Author, "De Variola Vaccina," for his early and able support of their cause; and suggested the fitness of electing so eminent a character a Vice-President of the Institution.

Resolved, that Sir Matthew John Tierney, Baronet, Physician Extraordinary to His Majesty, be invited to become a Vice-President of the Royal Jennerian Society.

The Director announced a remuneration of 1000l. on the part of His Majesty's Government, in consideration of services rendered to the Army, Navy, and Marines. Resolved, that he take the amount, on account, towards the liquidation of the sums still due to him as recognised by this Board, April 7, 1814, and confirmed by the General Court.

The Conductors of the Royal Jennerian Society, in the earnest and cheering hope of continual support in a cause which is 'the glory of our isle,' and the solace of a wondering world, prove the institution worthy of its splendid patronage, from a Government, which, in fostering the best interests of the subject, renders extensive and essential services to the inhabitants of many other countries.

Resolved, that no opportunity be lost, which the Society may obtain, of continuing to extend its benefits in the service of Government, supplying the different Garrisons, the Navy and Royal Marines, with active vaccine matter with the utmost promptitude.

Resolved, that the Managers of the Royal Jennerian Society avail themselves to the utmost of the free postage to the settlements abroad, generously extended under His Majesty's Government, to the establishment in furtherance of its humane exertions.

THE important objects of this excellent and universal Charity are to stop the ravages of that dreadful scourge of the human race, that desolator of mankind, the Small-pox, which at this time not only rages in various parts of this vast Metropolis, but has broken out in many districts of the Country, destroying many of its victims, and thus scattering the seeds of contagion and death throughout the United Kingdom.

Of the solid excellence and universal benefit rendered to the community at large by this Institution, the Committee feel it impossible by language to convey an adequate idea. If they advert to the condition of the numerous poor to whom its compassion is extended, the many thousands in every country it has already been the means of rescuing from a premature death, the protection afforded by its benign means to the Army and Navy, hard, indeed, and callous must that heart be, which, having the means, would refuse its support.

Surgeons in the Army and Navy, and all others, supplied daily with fresh Vaccine Virus, on Lancets, Glasses, Ivory, or Thread, free of Expense, by Post or otherwise; applications for which to be made to Dr. Walker, Bond-court, Walbrook; or No. 4, Salisbury-court, Fleet-street, London.

Office for supplying Vaccine Matter for the Shipping, the Colonies, and Foreign Countries, No. 52, Burr-street, East Smithfield.
