ROBERT MARKHAM.

ST JAMES V. 20.

He that converteth a Sinner from the Error of his Way, Shall save a Soul from Death, and Shall hide a Multitude of Sins.

E have the Authority of other Passages in holy Scripture for affirming of true Christian Charity, that it shall hide, or cover a Multitude of Sins. But it is of great Importance to inquire of what Extent that Charity should be, which can lay any Foundation for such animating Hopes : more especially when we attend to the many reigning Vices of the present Age.

For when was there an Age, or where a Nation to be found, fince Life and Immortality were brought to Light by the Gofpel, wherein Diffipation, or Licentioufnefs, more abounded? And when was there more Occafion for Reftraint, in order to curb that ftrong and eager Purfuit of Pleafures of all Sorts, by which the prefent Times are most alarmingly diftinguished?

Let us therefore confider that excellent Defcription of Charity given us by St Paul, and we fhall amply be convinced, how far this heavenly Virtue extends beyond the Limits to which it is commonly confined. --- The better then to underftand what Charity is, it may be of fome Ufe to diffinguifh with the

I

Apofile,

Aposlie, what it is not. For He tells us *, that a Man may have Faith to " remove Mountains; may understand all " Mysteries and all Knowledge, and may even bestow all his " Goods to feed the Poor without Charity," which comprehends the universal Exercise of every Christian Virtue, such as Patience, Forbearance, Hope and Perseverance; for Charity, we are told, beareth all Things, believeth all Things, hopeth all Things, and endureth all Things. Indeed it cannot be denied that there are many different Modes of exerting that Charity, by which we may shew our Compassion to the afflicted. And this must of Necessity be the Case, as long as there are, among human Creatures, various Kinds of Misery and Distrefs.

For Inftance, to provide for the fick and needy; to feed the hungry and clothe the naked; to inftruct the ignorant; to releafe the Prifoner, and let the oppreffed go free; to reftore the wounded in Body to renewed Strength, and the Ufe of their once difabled Limbs --- but above all --- to attend to the Difeafes of the Soul, to heal the broken-hearted, and give them Medicine to heal their Sicknefs: all thefe, and many more affecting Calls upon Humanity, that have been and conftantly are provided for by the fympathizing Pity of a generous Community, and which have Hofpitals + erected for the Supply of fuch refpective Wants, ought therefore to be mentioned as fo many different Exertions of Charity, the characteriflic Virtue of the Age, however multiplied or refined its Vices, more particularly in this populous and wealthy City.

But

* 1 Cor. xiii. 2, 3.

+ Of Hofpitals for the maimed, fick, and wounded, the Number is no lefs than fix, befides those for lying-in Women, for Foundlings, or deferted Children in general, for Inoculation; for the infane; for the Discharge of poor Prisoners for small Debts; befides the Afylum for female Orphans, and this House for the Reception of penitent Proftitutes; and several others that do Honor to this great Metropolis. But, though we mean not to difparage, much lefs to difcourage one Species of Charity by comparing it with another, yet muft it be allowed, that to reclaim the once vicious and abandoned from the Error and Danger of their Way; to raife them from the Death of Sin unto the Life of Righteoufnefs, and turn them from the Power of Satan unto God, ftands foremost among the most exalted Acts of Kindnefs and Compassion. For furely, as much as the fenfual Gratifications of a perissible Body here on Earth are inferior to the Interests of an immortal Soul in the Happiness of Heaven, fo much is a Provision for the one more important than the other.

[9]

And this is undeniably the Cafe, if affirmed only of their natural Excellence, compared together as mortal and immortal. But when we add to this Account the awful Sanctions of Duty to our God, our Neighbour, and ourfelves, the * Terrors of the LORD denounced against every wilful Transgreffion, and the gracious Promifes offered to the Obfervance of certain pofitive and divine Commands addreffed to our Hopes, or Fears eternal, we cannot but fee and feel the infinite Preference of fuch Institutions, like the prefent, as are best calculated to promote the eternal Interefts of our Fellow-Creatures, and to fubdue those bodily Appetites, and fleshly Lusts which war against the Soul. Of this truly Christian Kind is the Charity which we are this Day here affembled to fupport: A Charity to the Souls of as many poor deluded Females as this Houfe of Penitence is able to contain : the Utility of which will further appear the more minutely we confider the Contagion of bad Examples, the Strength of vicious Habits (more particularly of the luftful kind) and the Number of Temptations that every Day occur to the well difpofed and best inftructed among our Youth (much more to them who never had fuch Advantages) when they first launch into the uncertain Sea of human Life; where, though Religion would forbid them to believe any rational Creature fent, like the Leviathan, only to take his Pastime therein, and to gratify his fenfual Appetites alone; yet what shall deter the uninstructed Mind from confenting to those Indulgences, into which the Strength of Temptation, opposed to the Weakness of unprincipled and therefore undefended Nature, without the Afsistance of divine Grace, are is frequently apt to hurry and expose them ?

* 2 Cor. v. 11.

Such indeed is the Condition of us all, fince the Fall of our first Parents, that we are all born in Imperfection, and all prone to Frailties and Corruptions. But that we may not wilfully indulge these, may not fuffer our Reason to be overcome by our Vices, or the Tide of headstrong and unruly Passion to overwhelm or force down the Bounds of Duty, we are deterred from deferting our allotted Station by the awful Sanctions of Rewards and Punishments eternal: Religion graciously interposing in behalf of conflicting Reason, in order to support her original Dominion, and keep the Passions, her intended Subjects, from Anarchy invincible, and abandoned.

Of this it is moft devoutly to be wifhed, that we had more Reafon to make a Doubt. But, alas ! fad Experience prefents us with too many, who, notwithftanding the united Powers of Reafon and Revelation, notwithftanding the inward Impulfes of Confcience, wilfully tranfgrefs the Bounds prefcribed in that Gofpel, by which only they can be faved from the Guilt of Sin here, or its eternal Punifhment hereafter ; and having Happinefs

Happinefs or Mifery eternal before them, and * conditionally at their Choice, walk on in the Ways of their own corrupted Hearts, and in the Sight of their Eyes, either not confidering, or (which is infinitely more dreadful) defpifing the fure, inevitable Confequence, that for all thefe Things God will bring them into Judgment.

In hopes then of preventing the wretched Doom denounced against fuch Lovers of Pleafure more than Lovers of their God, in hopes of hindering, for the future, fuch blind or wilful Opposition to the Gospel of our bleffed Savior and Redeemer, the Patrons of this truly Christian Charity have for feveral Years fupported (by the Aid of fuch voluntary Subfcription as we are this Day here affembled to folicit) this Refuge for the once most wretched, because of all others the most helplefs, of Sinners, poor, defencelefs Females; this Sanctuary for the once abandoned; this Offer of Direction from the Path of Hell and Death to Life and Immortality, to the once most reprobate of Mortals : imitating herein the bleffed Example of the Redeemer of us all, who came to feek, and to fave that which was loft; to give Light to them that fat in Darkness and the Shadow of Death, and to guide our Feet into the Way of Peace.

Compare then the State of thefe humbled Penitents here before You with their paft most deplorable Situation. They were once among the Number of those poor, unhappy Wretches, who generally belong to one of these two Classes of Offenders: namely, either of those, who, though brought up in the Nurture and Admonition of the Lord, have yet been tempted to forfake B 2 the Guides and Guardians of their Youth; or of those poor, unprincipled Transgressors, who never bad set (because they never were taught the Duty of setting) the Fear of God before their Eyes.

Compared with their prefent, happy Opportunity of making their Peace with GoD, and with themfelves, both Conditions before mentioned, are as Darknefs and Death, compared to that Life and Immortality, which were brought to Light by the Gofpel, and both Conditions, fo truly deplorable and hopelefs, call upon every feeling Heart, every fympathizing Breaft, to ufe all probable Means to pluck fuch devoted Souls, like Firebrands out of the Burning; to try every likely Method to " con-" vert fuch Sinners from the Evil and Danger of their Ways:" and this from Principles of " Humanity, Policy, and Religion," (as urged by a Right Reverend Advocate in his late powerful, and pathetic Pleadings for this Charity) particularly the laft, according to the Doctrine of the Text, viz. the Happinefs, the Duty, the Reward of faving a Soul from Deatb, and thereby biding alfo a Multitude of Sins.

One Obfervation occurring from these Words is too obvious, furely, to be made to any here prefent, that in proportion as every Endeavor to convert a Sinner shall afford Hopes of faving a Soul from Death, and hiding a Multitude of Sins, in the fame Proportion is the Converse of this Proposition also true, namely, he that perverteth the innocent from the Paths of Duty, he that tempteth an unsuspecting Female from Virtue into Vice, every fuch guilty Seducer, shall, on the other hand, endanger an immortal Soul, and heavily augment both the Guilt and Number of his other Vices. --- Forbid it therefore I Confcience, Sincerity and Truth, forbid it Christian Charity Herfelf, that any Hypocrite should prefume to think of compounding for his own Offences against Chastity in one Place (like a "Purchaser of Pardon and Indulgence in the Church " of Rome") by his pecuniary Penance, or pretended Support of Virtue in another.

But I am willing to be perfuaded better Things of this Proteftant Audience, and Things that accompany Salvation. I must therefore hope it needless to inform any that now hear me, that the Eyes of the Lord are IN EVERY PLACE, beholding the evil and the good; that there is no Darkness where the Workers of Iniquity may hide themselves, but all Things are open to our all-prefent GOD, who shall bring to Light the bidden Things of Darkness before the Judgment-Seat of CHRIST, that every Mortal may receive according to the Things done in the Body, whether they be good, or whether they be evil. To this purpose is the following awful Question from the Almighty by his holy Prophet Jeremiab; Am I a God at hand, and not a God afar off, saith the Lord? Can any hide himself in fecret Places, that I shall not fee him? Do not I fill Heaven and Earth, faith the Lord?

Let us now return to this truly Christian Institution of a Receptacle for penitent Offenders.---Figure then to yourfelves You that have Daughters, or Sisters of your own : figure to your Minds, and suppose for a Moment that You faw before your Eyes your own Child, or the Child of your own Parents, your beloved Sister, led astray by some artful Deceiver, some infinuating Tempter, to facrifice her Innocence to his Lust, and afterwards, though betrayed, yet most cruelly deferted by the Author, and Sharer of her Guilt.---Exposed, in confequence, quence, to the Cenfure of the World (generally too inexorable to give any Chance of being again trufted) She finds her Credit funk, her Confidence in the Friends of her Innocence removed at a Diftance by her Guilt. At laft, cut off from all Hope of being received again among the virtuous, She takes a moft miferable Refuge among the vicious, and abandoned, among thofe Wretches, whom She ought moft induftrioufly to have avoided, namely, fuch Sifters in Iniquity, as endeavor to keep her in Countenance by fharing in her Shame ; by banifhing her Fears, and fludying by every moft infernal Art to extinguifh utterly the few faint Sparks of Virtue remaining in her Breaft.

Thus deprefied below all Hope of Reftitution to that Virtue whose Ways are Ways of Pleasantness, and all whose Paths are Peace; shut out of every good Connection; an Outcast from the reputable World, without a Friend, without an Home to flee to, She thinks herfelf reduced to the dreadful Necessity of dragging on a wretched Life, under the Wages of Iniquity, under the Bondage of Corruption.

Added to this Gall of Bitternefs, of which her Cup of Life is full, whenever She reflects (and fometimes furely She cannot but reflect) upon her violated Duty --- that She hath fet at nought the Counfel of her beft Friends, and, as the Pfalmift fpeaks, would none of their Reproofs; but wilfully exchanged the perfect Freedom of Goodnefs for the Tyranny of Vice : wounded therefore by the Stings of Confcience, added to the Lofs of her Health both of Body and of Mind, She finks at laft under the Agonies of Death, and with all her Sins upon her Head, Head, and all the Pollutions contracted in this guilty World, must be fentenced into the everlasting Miseries of another.

Now all this Series of accumulated Wretchednefs might have been prevented, had fuch an happy Retreat from the dangerous Scenes of Life, fuch a Sanctuary for fincere Penitents been provided, as we are here this Day affembled to encourage and fupport. An Inftitution this, of whofe Utility, both refpecting this Life and a better, too much cannot be faid : and againft which no Objection can be fairly urged, which may not be ufed alfo againft every Thing the most valuable and facred.

Few indeed, in the first Place, are the Instances of Abuse or Failure of Success, compared with the Advantages that have occurred from this Charity both in public and in private, the Number of once unhappy Females that have been restored, not only to their Duty, but also to their once despairing Friends, and to the Public, having been upwards of Nine Hundred.

And, though fome few have wanted the Grace to use the Means of Reformation put into their Power, and violated the Vows, which they were expected to have performed, yet can no one fairly urge from hence any Objection against the falutary Ends proposed by fo excellent a Charity as this. Neither can the Abuse of any good Institution be an Argument against its proper and well-intended Use. Otherwise, the Abuse of Liberty, of Law, nay, even of our holy Religion itself, might be urged by their respective Enemies, whether Civil or Religious, against them all.

Other

Other Objectors, though furely with great Injustice, urge the Numbers of Prostitutes, that, notwithstanding this House of Penitence, infest our public Streets.

But either they expect the Governors of this Charity to receive every abandoned Female that may be found in this great, and populous Metropolis, or they do not. If they have fuch Expectations, they object to the Want of what is impoffible for this Inftitution, in its prefent limited State, to undertake, namely, the Reception and Provision for all Proftitutes whatfoever.

If they do not expect us to receive every fuch Offender, why fhould they not allow the Advantage that hath accrued (and may ftill be expected to accrue) to the Public from this Charity, which hath already reftored fo many returning Penitents to themfelves, to their Friends, the Community, their God?

Suffer me alfo to afk the Objectors this one additional Queftion, and this only, that if fuch is the Number of abandoned, and therefore wretched Females, to be found in almost every Street, how much greater would that Number be without this truly Christian Encouragement for Reformation?

In fhort, this moft humane and laudable Undertaking hath been fo often and fo ably recommended from this Place, and is now, Thanks to the Almighty! fo powerfully patronized by fo many diffinguished Benefactors, that it remains only for me to address the Conclusion of this Discourse to these Objects of true Compassion for whose Advantage, both temporal and eternal, I have been speaking.

You

You then who have been happily fnatched out of the Pollutions of a wicked World, confider this Houfe of Safety, as a Deliverance, not only from the untimely End of a licentious Life, but alfo from Death eternal. For we are as fure as the Words of our Redeemer CHRIST can make us, that the wicked fhall go away into everlafting Punifhment, but the righteous into Life eternal; that the wicked fhall be turned into Hell, and all the People that forget God.

Confider then the Advantages of your prefent Situation: here are You fafely refcued and lodged in an happy Haven; here you have Security of Body and Reft unto your Souls, from whence let me entreat You to look back, not only upon the Dangers which You have fo lately efcaped, but forward alfo to the Performance of those Vows of Amendment of Life, which You have all here an Opportunity, and which therefore it is both your Duty and your Interest, both temporal and eternal, to make. Here are you duly put in mind of that Christian Covenant made for You at Baptism between your immortal Souls, and CHRIST who died to fave them.

It was folemnly promifed for You at that Time, and if You would have any Hopes as Christians, such Vows must be * confirmed by Yourselves in your own Persons (for in your own Persons You have most heinously offended) that You will "* renounce the Devil, and all bis Works," more particularly " the carnal Defires of the Fless, so as not to follow, or be led by " them."

Now though it hath been your peculiar Unhappiness to have broken this all-important Covenant of your Salvation, by having been drawn away by your own Lusts, and enticed by that of others, your Seducers; yet here may You follow the Advice given to every fincere Penitent: Acquaint now thyself with God, and be at Peace.

Whenever therefore You leave this happy Retreat from the guilty World, and return to it again, take Care that You do not return to the Repetition of those Vices, which You came here to repent of.

As the most effectual Means of avoiding which Dangers, remember to purfue the Paths of honeft Industry and Employment, which You have here been taught: and believe this interesting Truth, that no Habits give more Advantage to the Enemy of Souls, or more Success, especially among younger Minds, to his Devices, than the dangerous Habits of Idleness, and Sloth.

Take heed therefore that Ye be not again entangled in that Yoke of Bondage, that worft of all Slavery, the Tyranny of Sin; but fear that GOD, who, after He bath killed you (or taken away your Life here on Earth by Death) bath Power to caft both Soul and Body in Hell.

Follow therefore the Advice of your Instructors in CHRIST, who watch here for your Souls, as they that must give an Account, that they may do it, before the Judgment-Seat of CHRIST with Joy, and not with Grief. And never forget the following Words of the holy Prophet *: I will teach You the good and the right Way: Only fear the Lord, and ferve Him in Truth with all your Heart, for confider how great Things He hath done for You.

* See the Doptifical and Confirmation-Service in cur Common Prayer

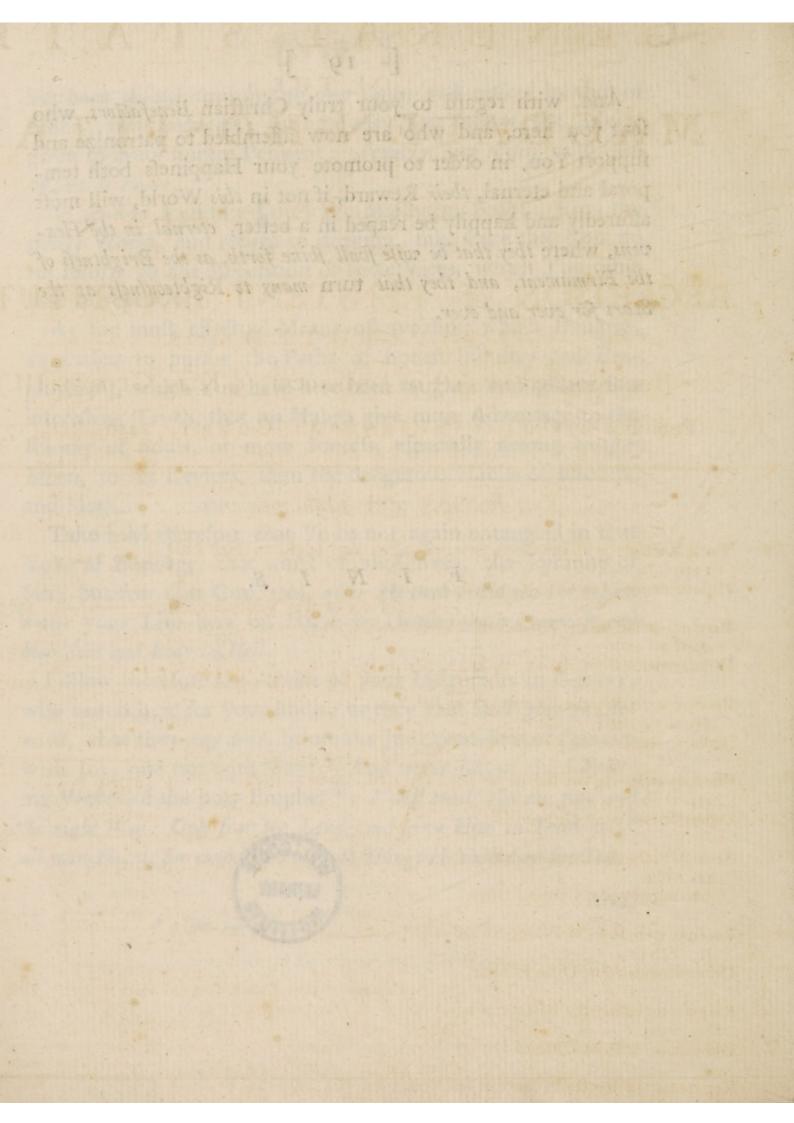

And,

* 1 Sam. xii. 24.

And, with regard to your truly Christian Benefactors, who fent you here, and who are now affembled to patronize and fupport You, in order to promote your Happiness both temporal and eternal, their Reward, if not in this World, will most affuredly and happily be reaped in a better, eternal in the Heavens, where they that be wise shall shine forth, as the Brightness of the Firmament, and they that turn many to Righteousness as the Stars for ever and ever.
