TWELFTH ANNUAL REPORT.

The Managers of the New-York Female Lying-in Asylum, on reviewing the circumstances of the past year, as preparatory to their Twelfth Annual Report, feel a particular satisfaction that they have been enabled to extend their usefulness, and still carry the principles of their organization into practical effect; “by furnishing accommodations, and skillful medical attendance to reputable females who desire an Asylum during the period of their confinement.”

We have great reason to be thankful that our Institution has been so entirely exempt from the epidemic which has been permitted to visit our city during the last summer, and that we have not been interrupted in extending all the necessary care to the increased number of patients who have presented.

In taking a rapid glance over the history of our Asylum, and reviewing the difficulties under which we have labored in presenting our claims before the public, and struggling with the uncertainties of contributions and subscriptions for its support, there is abundant cause for humble and grateful acknowledgment to the Father of all our mercies.

We have, in the varied efforts to which our peculiar situation has exposed us, received the kind support and continued efforts of many charitable individuals, who have been unwearied in their exertions until the great object for which they entered on duty has been completed.

We have the special satisfaction to announce, on offering our present Annual Report, that by the liberal exertions of two gentlemen who have felt the interests of this Institution a primary object of concern, been relieved of the debt incurred by the purchase of ground and the erection of our building. The Managers cannot but sensibly feel the great obligation they are under to those benevolent individuals, and ardently desire that they may enjoy the peaceful consolations of doing good.

Since our last Report, 155 patients have been received into the Asylum; there have been 142 delivered and 13 are now patients. There have been 7 still-born cases, and three children have died in the house. All the women have been safely delivered and have done well with one exception: the aggravated circumstances of this case rendered every effort for her relief ineffectual: she died on the 13th day after her confinement.

Every facility has been afforded to applicants, and the Managers have profited by past experience in making arrangements, so that patients are not as long under charge as heretofore: many of them being confined within twenty-four hours after their admission.

It is of great moment that the best interests of each party should be understood, that while we extend the helping hand of benevolence to the distressed, we should not encourage idleness: and at the same time the suffering objects have nothing withheld that shall contribute to relieve those wants which this institution is intended to supply.

We have contributed to the relief of 697 patients since the first opening of the Asylum; one hundred and fifty-five being patients of the last year, will show that the demands upon the establishment are rapidly increasing, and will require great efforts to sustain it with all the relief which public munificence has afforded.

The increase of applicants for the aid of this establishment have their origin in the increase of strangers coming to our city, and also from the Institution being more generally known; those who have once received its benefits, report favorably of it, and others are induced to seek its assistance. The city of Brooklyn has also its contributors to our funds, and our doors are open to applicants from that direction.

The patients who have been received are as usual mostly foreigners, yet a larger number than heretofore have been Americans. We have much satisfaction in stating that the recommendations of character have been satisfactory upon their admission, and that they have, by their deportment while in the Asylum, continued to merit all the recommendation that has been given; so that we can state with much truth, that while our charity has been more extended, the objects appear more deserving. They have expressed repeatedly their grateful feelings for the care and kindness shown them in their trying situation.

The demand and supply of wet nurses has continued to increase with our increase of patients. Between 60 and 70 have been furnished directly from the Asylum, and many others have found places through the direction of our Matron. From the knowledge which we are enabled to acquire of the individuals who present at this charity, and the further opportunity of learning their habits and dispositions during their confinement, so much may be known of them in most instances as will enable the Matron to give a satisfactory character to those who may need so important a person as a wet nurse. By those who have the least experience upon this subject the value of correct information can be readily estimated, and to such as are compelled upon the urgency of immediate necessity to make such provision, this Institution has proved an important auxiliary. We have good reason to believe from our past experience, that many lives have in this way been preserved, and healthy children raised up, to the great comfort of their anxious parents.

The individuals who are thus provided with comfortable situations for themselves and made useful to the families in which they enter, are also enabled by this means to make provision for their own helpless offspring, and to secure to them the relief of many wants to which their destitute situation has subjected them.

A large number of the Physicians of our city have repeatedly applied to this Institution for nurses, and still continue to have their confidence in it, as best calculated to answer the wants of those, whose health is intrusted to their care, when emergencies arise.

The Managers are desirous of bringing this subject prominently before the public, because they are persuaded from the experience which they have had, that the Institution is justly entitled to confidence, upon the principle that they wish to give assistance alone to the virtuous, indigent and deserving. They are also persuaded that many donations and subscriptions which have been intended for this Institution, have passed into other hands, from the want of more correct information on the part of our fellow citizens, in relation to our established rules and regulations.

In the statement of facts which we wish to present to the public, in these our Annual Reports, we take particular satisfaction in bringing forward our mite in the great cause of temperance. For more than three years our bill for every description of ardent spirits or fermented liquors amounted to 43 cents. Since that period to the present time, no more than one quart of ardent spirits has been used, and about the same quantity of wine; the first for external application only. It has been found that vinegar has answered every purpose for which ardent spirits has been used in forming fomentations.

It was long believed that the lying-in chamber should be well supplied with stimulating drinks, to sustain the mother, prevent chills, and for various other purposes ; the infant also had a share, both externally and internally, and the nurse was not sparing in supplying herself. From this, great evil has resulted, and the crime of intemperance may justly be said to have commenced at the cradle.

In regard to the funds of the Asylum, the Managers have had no small solicitude. While there has been an increase of patients, their annual subscriptions, upon which they are compelled to place their principal dependance for support, have by no means kept pace with their wants ; their Treasurer has often been far in advance for the supplies of so large a family. We have endeavored to exercise the most rigid economy that our resources may not be exhausted. During the winter we have received from the liberally disposed, a number of donations in flour and other necessary articles of subsistence ; for such demonstrations of liberality, the Managers desire to express their grateful acknowledgments, trusting that the reward is sure to him that remembereth the poor and the needy.

While the Managers desire to take courage by the great assistance afforded them, in the relief which they have had from the debt which has oppressed them, they still are aware that if they are not assisted by an increase of their subscribers, the usefulness which has begun to dawn upon them, cannot be continued.

From the liberality that has been bestowed, they have confidence under the smiles of Divine Providence, with which they have been blessed, to go forward in the labor that is before them, trusting that the good work which has been commenced will still be sustained.*

The Managers have to lament the death of one of their number, Mrs. Susan G. Post, since their last report. She was connected with the establishment from its formation, and took a lively interest in its support, contributing liberally of her own means, and was active in urging others to the like benevolence. Besides the contributions which she made from time to time, for two or more years she printed our Annual Reports at her own expense. She was not able, from a great share of delicate health, to partake in many of the duties of the Managers, but always remained a warm friend of the best interests of the Institution, and as such her loss will be sensibly felt.

The Managers have a particular satisfaction in presenting the reports of their Visiting Committees, whose duties are weekly performed, and who are unanimous in giving their approbation to the uniform good order and cleanliness of the house under the care of the Matron, Mrs. Monilaw. We continue to have the same confidence in her successful management and kindness towards the patients received into the establishment, and of this we are convinced by the expression of the patients and our own observations.

Some changes have been made in the medical department during the past year; Dr. Bayles having removed to the country in the early part of the year has offered his resignation. Dr. McVickar having left the profession has also resigned his situation. To fill these vacancies, Drs. Washington and Borrowe have been appointed by the Medical Board, who have every confidence in their qualifications for those responsibilities.

* For particulars of our Finance, see Treasurer's Report.

The Board of Managers would desire to express their approbation of the diligence of their Attending Physicians, Drs. McVickar, Bayles and Wilkes, in all cases which required their care: believing that this branch of the medical department has been well sustained. They are also persuaded that the Consulting Physicians are mindful of the duties connected with their situation, by superintending its concerns and giving a ready attendance in cases of emergency.

The Physicians report that they have made some progress in the formation of a suitable library for their department, and from the liberal encouragement which they have received, there is reason to hope that they will be enabled to add from time to time those important works which are connected with this department of the healing art. The special object of making this collection, is for the benefit of the Resident Physician, and occasionally for the reference of others.

The Resident Physician, Dr. Smith, upon whom has devolved much of the duty of the past year, has given such attention to his department as to meet the approbation of the Managers, and the medical gentlemen with whom he has been connected ; the latter having expressed their full satisfaction with the treatment of cases committed to his care. He will be succeeded by Dr. John Augustus McVickar, who has before filled this department with approbation, and has entered upon his duties.

The Medical Report in relation to the establishment furnishes many very important cases, which by prompt attention have been relieved, that otherwise would have proved fatal. Particulars of such cases cannot be incorporated with propriety in our reports to the public, but they furnish incontrovertible evidences to those who have witnessed them, of the necessity of such an establishment, and urge to every exertion for its support.

The out door department of this establishment has continued to afford relief to a large number of the poor at their own dwellings during the past year.

The District Physicians have attended 288 cases up to the 4th of March, and with good success. This department, by thus affording relief without any discrimination, removes every objection which can be offered to the Asylum, that its relief is partial. The same board of Consulting Physicians continue to give their advice when required, in all cases that may claim such special direction.

To the medical gentlemen who have faithfully labored in the responsible duties of the out-door department of the Asylum, the Medical Board desire to express their warmest thanks for the readiness with which they have answered such demands, and their full approbation in the treatment of cases which have come under care.

The Managers cannot conclude their report at this time without expressing to their friends and patrons an anxious solicitude for the continuance of their support, to an institution whose usefulness has now been so fully tested, as to remove every doubt of the necessity of its continuance, and upon a more enlarged plan, from its increase of applicants. While we are thus united in the humble effort to relieve distress and suffering, may we act under the full sense of the responsibility before us, knowing that we are but stewards, and accountable for our stewardship.

The Managers of the Asylum would solicit from the public, donations, either in provisions suitable for their large family, in remnants of goods that may be converted into wearing apparel, or articles of bed furniture. They are also much in need of linen rags.

Donations may be sent to the Asylum, in Orange, near Prince-street, directed to the Matron, Mrs. Monilaw.

APPENDIX.

The Superintending Physicians of the Lying-in Asylum found that great numbers of necessitous females were so situated in regard to their families at home, that they could not avail themselves of the assistance offered at the Asylum, and were consequently compelled to rely on a precarious or unskilful attendance at their own houses. Desirous of making suitable provision for this class of patients, they have established an out-door charity on the excellent plan of the City Dispensary. They have divided the city into nineteen districts, and appointed to each a skilful physician, who will, upon application, give his attendance at the residence of the patients; and in case of difficulty or danger, will call to his assistance one of the consulting physicians of the Asylum.

The office where applications are received, is in the basement story of the Asylum; and a Resident Physician, Doct. John Augustus McVickar, is constantly in attendance there, to receive and register the names of the applicants, and give them such information as will enable them to obtain proper assistance when it shall become necessary.

The following gentlemen are the District Physicians, viz:—

DR. G. BUCK,	76 Chamber-street.
DR. A. R. TERRY,	53 Charlton-street.
