THE
P R E F A C E.

H E R E A S it appears from reason and antient history, that in the most early ages of the world, mankind had industriously invented other means of communicating their ideas, than merely by the voice, not only that they might with freedom converse at a distance, but also to enable them to preserve and transmit to their posterity the most valuable deeds, and most useful discoveries made in the world; they esteemed books, those curious repositories of the sentiments and actions of men, as a real treasure, and the happy possessors, who well understood the subjects they contain'd, were caressed by the wise, and favoured by the great, and consequently were the only truly learned, with whom all prudent princes and philosophers chose to advise.

Books being thus useful and curious, the learned thought it worthy the chief labour of their lives, either to compile, or collect those valuable tracts, and imagined themselves distinguished from mankind more or less, as they excelled in the bulk or goodness of their libraries. Of which I cannot produce a greater instance, than what Dr. Coniers Middleton says in the life of Cicero, p. 136, and 137. " Nor was he (speaking of Cicero) less eager in making a collection of Greek books, and forming a library, by the same opportunity of Atticus's help. This was Atticus's own passion, who;

having free access to all the Athenian libraries, was imploying his slaves in copying the works of their best writers, not only for his own use, but for sale also, and the common profit both of the slave and the master ; for Atticus was remarkable above all men of his rank for a family of learned slaves, having scarce a footboy in his house, who was not trained both to read and write for him. By this advantage he had made a very large collection of choice and curious books, and signified to Cicero his design of selling them ; yet seems to have intimated withal, that he expected a larger sum for them than Cicero would easily spare ; which gave occasion to Cicero, to beg of him in several letters, to reserve the whole number for him, till he could raise money enough for the purchase. Pray keep your books, says he, for me, and do not despair of my being able to make them mine ; which, if I can compass, I shall think myself richer than Crassus, and despise the fine villa's and gardens of them all." Again, " Take care that you do not part with your library to any man, how eager soever he may be to buy it ; for I am setting apart all my little rents to purchase that relief for my old age." In a third letter, he says, " That he had placed all his hopes of comfort and pleasure, whenever he should retire from business, on Atticus's reserving these books for him." Again, in p. 453. " Atticus lent him two of his librarians to assist his own, in taking catalogues, and placing the books in order ; which he calls the infusion of a Soul into the body of his house.

And among other writers on this subject, Mr. Watson, in his history of Printing, tells us, from an epistle of Antonius Bononia Becatellus, surnamed Panorme, to Alphonsus king of Naples and Sicily, Lib. 5. Epist. Significasti mihi nuper ex Florentia, &c. " You lately wrote to me from Florence, that the works of Titus Livius are there to be sold, in very handsome books ; and that the price of each book is 120 crowns of gold : therefore I intreat your majesty,

majesty, that you cause to be bought for us Livy, whom we use to call the king of books, and cause it to be sent hither to us. I shall in the mean time procure the money, which I am to give for the price of the book. One thing I want to know of your prudence, whether I or Poggius have done best; he, that he might buy a country-house near Florence, sold Livy, which he had writ in a very fair hand; and I, to purchase Livy, have exposed a piece of land to sale. Your goodness and modesty have encouraged me to ask these things with familiarity of you. Farewel, and triumph." There are several passages, which shew the great value and esteem of manuscripts, and that the manner of their conveyance was by notaries, as lands, &c.

I have a folio manuscript in French verse called, Romans de la Rose (from whence Chaucer's translation) on the last leafe of which is wrote, Cest lyuir costa au palas de Parys quarante coronnes dor sans mentyr, that is, This book cost at the palace of Paris 40 crowns of gold, without lying. (About 33l. 6s. 6d. sterling.)

About the time of our king Henry II, as I have somewhere read, their manner of publishing the works of their authors was to have them read over for three days successively before the university, or other judges, appointed by the publick; and if they met with approbation, copies of them were then permitted to be taken, which were usually done by monks, scribes, illuminors and readers, brought or train'd up to that purpose for their maintenance.

At the time that Printing was introduced, and a little after, the scribes used their utmost efforts to excel, being willing to keep their places, and would say such a book was old, and would add unprofitable; but such an one was new, neat, elegantly wrote, easy to be read, &c. which method of proceeding, by the way, may have occasioned occasioned the loss of many a good composition. Indeed before this noble art of Printing by separate types made of metal was found out, there were but few authors in comparison to the great encrease of learned men since. But as the method of increasing and propagating books by writing was excessively tedious and expensive, so that few could encourage it, but sovereign princes, or persons of great wealth, the bulk of mankind was in a manner deprived of those truly valuable advantages resulting from books ; which alone sufficiently shews, how greatly we are indebted to the inventors of that useful, or, as I may justly say, divine art of Printing. We have now no occasion to wait the slow result of the transcriber, but with a little labour, and easy expence, may store our libraries with all the knowledge of our learned progenitors, and have it in our power, with a little study, to be masters of those arts, which they only attained to with the greatest labour and industry. And I am perswaded, if any one would be at the trouble to compare the present body of our people, in regard to literature and their capacities in affairs, with those of our ancestors, who flourished 300 years ago, when there was no printing, they will readily acknowledge, that this curious art hath not a little contributed to the benefit and improvement of mankind.

And here I should be tempted to say something concerning the free use and liberty of the press; but as it has been touched upon by the famous Milton and others, I chuse to drop it, and frankly acknowledge, that it requires greater wisdom and penetration to settle its bounds than I am capable of. I do also ingenuously confess, that in attempting this history of Printing, I have undertaken a task much too great for my abilities, the extent of which I did not so well perceive at first ; but though it is not so perfect a work, as I could wish, yet such as it is, I now submit it to the publick ; and hope, when they consider in what obscurity and confusion printing in its infancy was involved,

volved, they will acknowledge that I have at least cleared away the rubbish, and furnished materials towards a more perfect structure.

It may shew upon the whole, the notions which prevailed, and what the contenders had to say, for the space of 120 or 130 years; which takes in a period of time perhaps the most remarkable of any which our annals afford, a period when Britain roused herself from amidst various superstitions, and sat down on the seat of liberty, where she now remains. I think I may have leave to say, the art of Printing had no small share in the glorious Reformation. The Holy Scriptures were printed in our mother tongue, and the people themselves saw the impositions of the monks, &c. This art in its infancy was patronized by the learned and great, and they encouraged our first printer William Caxton to begin and carry on so laudable and useful an undertaking, and he gratefully and honestly owned it in his books.

Gentlemen may be assisted to complete their antient books, which often are imperfect at the beginning, or end, by copying from this; for I did not chuse to copy into my book from catalogues, but from the books themselves, and have added a very copious Index of persons names who are mentioned, by which any thing in the book may be found.

I have endeavoured to make this book as useful as I could, by shewing the rise, progress, and gradual improvements of this art. In my account of its most eminent men I have added all their privileges, licences, patents, &c. which were granted to them; together with the name of the place, and sign at which they dwelt; the encouragements and discouragements they met with; as also the charter of the company of Stationers. I have likewise adorned it with plates of specimens of their types, marks, rebus's and devices; as also with the heads of some of the most celebrated printers, from

the Harleian collection. Their principal performances I have disposed as near as possible into a sort of chronological order of time, beginning with each Printer's first work; then those books of his, which followed; except those without a date, which are put at the end of each Printer. In my general History I have used much the same arrangement, and in the Appendix concerning printing in Scotland; but as to Ireland, I have been informed of only one book within my period, though it is probable others may be found, if diligent search were made.

I heartily acknowlege my obligations to most of my subscribers, who besides their subscriptions have kindly assisted me with their manuscripts and observations, some of which I have taken the liberty to insert in the body of this work; and to all I return my sincere thanks.

An ESSAY towards a HISTORY of PRINTING in ENGLAND, from the Year 1474 to the Year 1600.

W I L L I A M C A X T O N,

he himself writes, was born in the wealde, or woody part of Kent^a, brought up to learning by his parents^b, and served his apprenticeship to Robert Large^c, an eminent mercer in St. Olave's parish, in the Jewry, who had the honour of being chosen lord-mayor for the city of London in the year 1439; and by his will, dated the next year^d, among other legacies, gave to our William Caxton thirty-four marks, which in those days was a considerable testimony of his respect to him for his capacity and fidelity.

Mr. Caxton was a citizen and mercer of London: at the death of his master he travelled abroad in the Low-countries, as an agent or merchant, for the space of thirty years: his good accomplishments, and great knowledge in foreign traffic, procured him so much esteem at home, that he was joined in a commission with Richard Whetehill esq;^e to conclude a treaty of trade and commerce between king Edward iv. and the duke of Burgundy, whose son afterwards married the lady Margaret, king Edward's sister, in 1468: this lady was our first printer's great friend and patroness.

At the time when the useful and invaluable art of PRINTING was first invented, about 1457, by his great industry and expence he soon made himself master of it^f; and being desirous of his country's good, he practised abroad, and brought it into England about the year 1474, as will clearly appear from his own books, and several undoubted^e testimonies in the following collection.

RECUYEL OF THE HISTORIES OF TROY.

HERE begynneth the volume intituled and named the Recuyel of the histories of Troy, composed and drawen out of dyuers bookes of Latyn into Frensshe by the ryght venerable person and worshipfull man Raoul le Feure, preest and chapelayn unto the ryght noble glorious and myghty prynce in his tyme, Phelip, duc of Bourgoyne, of Braband, &c. In the yere of the incarnation of our Lord God^h a thousand foure hondred sixty and foure, and translated and drawn out of Frenshe into Englishe by Willyam Caxton, mercer, of the cyte of London, at the commaundement of the right hye, myghty and vertuose Pryncesse, hys redoubted lady, Margarete, by the grace of God, duchesse of Bourgoyne, of Lotryk, of Braband, &c. whiche sayd translacion and werke was begonne in Brugis, in the countee of Flaunders the fyrst day of Marche, the yere of the incarnation of our said Lord God a thousand foure hondred and sixty and eight, and ended and fynished in the holy cite of Colen, the xix day of Septembre, the yere of our sayd Lord God, a thousand foure hondred sixty and enleuen, &c.ⁱ

On the back of the title begins this Prologue:

Whan I remember, that every man is bounden by the commandement and counsel of the wise man to eschew slothe and idleness, which is moder and nourisher of vycies, and ought to put himself unto vertuous occupation and besyness, than (I having no great charge of occupation following the sayd counsel) took a Frenche book, and red therin many straunge and marvellous histories, wherein I had great pleasure and delite, as well for the noueltie of the same, as for the fayer language of the Frenche, which was in prose, so well and compendiously set and wryten, which methought I understood the sentence and substaunce of every matter; and for as much as this book was new, and late made, and drawen into Frenche, and neuer had sene it in our Englishe tonge, I thought in my self it should be a good busyness to translate it into our Englishe tounge, that it might be had in the realme of Englonde, as in other lands, and also for to pass therewith the tyme, and thus concluded in my self to begin this sayd werk, and forthwith toke pen and ynke, and began boldly to ren forth, as blynde bayard in this worke, which is named, The recuyel of the Troyan histories. And afterwarde, when I remembered my selfe of my simplenes and unperfytnes that I had in both languages, that is to wete, in Frenche and in Englishe; for in Fraunce was I never, and was borne and lerned myne Englishe in Kent in the weald, were, I doubt not, is spoken as brode and rude Englishe as in any place of England, and have continued by the space of xxx yere for the most parte in the countries of Braband, Flanders, Holande, Zeland. And thus, when all these thynges came to fore me, after that I had made and written a v. or vi. quayers, I fyl into dispare of this worke, and purposed no more to have continued therein, and tho quayers laid apart, and in two yere after laboured no more in this work, and was fully in wit to have left hit, tyll, on a tyme, it fortunied, that the ryght excellent, and right vertuous prynces, my right redoubted ladye (sister unto my sovereign lord the king of Englund and Fraunce) my lady Mergaret, by the grace of God, duchesse of Burgoine, of Lotryke, of Brabant, of Lymburgh, and of Luxemburge, countes of Flaunders, of Artoice and of Burgoine, Palatine of Hannawd, of Holande, of Zeland, and of Namure, marquesse of the holy empire, lady of Fryse, of Salins, and of Mechlyn, sent for me to speke with her good grace of dyuerse maters, among the which I let her highness have knowledge of the foresaid beginninge of this worke, which anon commanded me to shew the sayd v. or vi. quayers to her said grace. And when she had seen hem, anon she found a defaute in myne Englyshe, which she commanded me to amend; and moreover commanded me straitly to contynue and make an end of the residue than not translated, whose dreadful commaundement I durst in no wise disobey, because I am a seruant unto her said grace, and receiue of her yerly fee, and other many good and great benefites, and also hope many moe to receyue of her highnes, but forthwith went and laboured in the said translacyon after my simple and poor cunning, also, nigh as I can, following myne auctour, mekely beseeching the bounteous hyghnes of my said lady, that of her beneuolence lyst to accepte and take in gree this symple and rude worke here followynge, and yf there be any thing wrytten or sayde to her pleasure, I shall think my labour well employed: and whereas there is default, that she aret it to the sympleness of my cunning, (which is ful small in this behalf) and require an praye all them that shall rede this said worke, to correct it, and to hold me excused of the rude and symple translacion, and thus I end my prologue.

Then follows a prologue of Raoul le Feure.

At the end of the second booke is another piece of Caxton's, which runs thus:

Thus endeth the second booke of the Recuyle of the hystories of Troyes, whiche bokes were late translated into Frenshe out of Latyn by the labour of the venerable person Raoul le Feure, preist, as afore is said, and be me indigne and unworthy translated into this rude English, by the commandement of my said redoubted ladye duchesse of Burgoine. And for as muche as I suppose the sayde two bookes bene not had tofore thys tyme in our Englishe language, therefore I had the better wyll to accomplyshe this sayd worke, which was begonne in Brugis, and contynued in Gaunte, and fynnyssyd in Coleyn in the tyme of the troublous worlde, and of the great deuysions beyng and reinyng as wel in the realmes of Englande and Fraunce as in other places universally through the worlde, that is to wete, in the yere of our Lorde a thousande foure hundred LXXI. And as for the thirde booke, which treateth of the general and laste destruction of Troye, it needeth not to translate it into Englishe, for as muche as that worshipfull and religious man dan John Lydgate, monke of Burye, did translate it, but late, after whose worke I fear to take upon me, that am not worthy to bear his penner and ynke horne after hym, to meddle me in that worke. But yet, for as muche as dyuerse men bene of dyusere desyers, some to rede in ryme and metre, and some in prose, and also because I have now good lesyer, beyng in Coleyn, and have none other thyng to doo at thys tyme in eschewing of ydleness, moder of all vyces, I have delybered in my self, for the contemplacion of my sayd redoubted lady, to take this labour in hand, by the sufferaunce and help of almyghty God, whome I mekely supply to giue me grace to accomplishe it to the pleasure of her that is causer thereof, and that she receyue it in gree of me her faithful, true, and moste humble seruant. &c. Thus endeth the second book.

At the end of the third book is subjoined what follows :

Thus endeth this booke, which I have translated after myne auctor, as nigh as God hath given me connyng, to whom be given the laude and praysynge. And for as moche as in wrytting of the same my penne is worn, myn hande wery, and not stedfast, mine eyen dimmed with over moche lokyng on the whit paper, and my corage not so prone and redy to labour as it hath ben, and that age crepeth on me dayly, and febleth all the bodye, and also because I have promysed to dyverce gentilmen, and to my frendes, to addresse to hem as hasetly as I myght this sayd book, therefore I have practysed and lerned, at my grete charge and dispense to ordeyne this sayd book in prynte, after the maner and forme as you may here see, and is not wretton with penne and ynke as other bokes ben, to the end that every man may haue them att ones. For all the bookes of this story, named the Recule of the histories of Troyes, thus emprynted as ye here see, were begonne in onn daye, and also fynished in onn daye, which booke I have presented to my sayd redoubted lady, as afore is sayd, as she has well accepted it, and largely rewarded me, wherefore I beseech almighty God to reward her everlastyng bless after this lyfe, praying her sayd grace, and all them that shall rede this booke, not to desdaygne the simple and rude werke, nether to reply against the saying of the maters touched in this booke, though it accord not unto the translation of other which have written of it, for divers men have made divers bookes, which, in all points accord not as Dictes, Dares, and Homerus, for Dictes and Homerus, as Grekes, sayn and written favourably for the Grekes, and give to them more worship than the Troyans; and Dares wryteth otherwise than they doo. And also for the proper names, it is no wonder that they accord not; for some one name in these dayes have dyuerce equyuocacions after the countreys that thei dwell in, but all accorde in conclusion the generall destruction of the noble citie of Troy, and the death of so many noble princes, as kinges, dukes, erles, barons, knightes and common people, and the ruine irreparable of that cytye that never syn was reedefyed, which may be ensample to al men duryng the world, how dreadfull and jeopardous it is to begin a warre, and what harmes, losses, and death followeth. Therefore the Apostle sayth, that all that is written, is written to our doctrine, whiche doctrine, for

for the common wele, I beseech God may be taken in such place and tyme as shall be most nedefull in encreasing of peace, love and charitye, which graunt us he that suffred for the same to be crucyfied on the rood tree, and say we all amen for charitie.

This book is printed with the letter N^o I. of Caxton's specimen; and although he did not print it in England, yet being printed by him, and being full of information, I begin with it, which I hope will be well received.

To the right noble, right excellent and vertuous prince George, duc of Clarence, erle of Warwick and Salisbury, grete chamberlayn of Englonde and leutenant of Ireland, oldest brother of king Edward, by the grace of God kynge of Englonde and of Fraunce, your most humble servant, William Caxton, amonge other of your servantes, sends unto yow peas, helthe, joye, and victorie upon your enemyes, right high puyssant and redoubted pryncce. For as moche as I have understand and knowe, that ye are enclined unto the comyn wele of the kynge, our said saveryn lord, his nobles, lordes and comyn peple of his noble royaume of Englonde, and that ye sawe gladly the inhabitant of the same informed in good, vertuous, prouffitable and honeste maners, in whiche your noble persone, wit guydyng of your hows, haboundeth, gyuyng lyght and ensample unto all other. Therefore I have put me in devoyr to translate a lityll book late comen into myn handes, out of Frenshe into Englishe, in which I fynde thauكتورites, dictes and stories of auncient doctours, philosophers, poetes, and of other wyse men, which ben recounted and applied unto the moralitie of the publique wele, as well of the nobles as of the comyn peple, after the game and playe of the chesse, whiche booke, right puyssant and redoubtid lord, I have made in the name, and under the shadew of your noble protection, not presumyng to correcte or enpoigne ony thyng agenst your noblesse; for, God be thanked, your excellent renome shyneth as well in strange regions, as within the royaume of Englande, gloriously unto your honoure and laud, whyche God multeplie and encrece. But to thentent that other of what estate and egrese they stand in, may see in this said lityll book, that they governed themselves as they ought to doo; wherfor for my right dere redoubted lord, I requyr and supply your good grace not to desdaygne to reseve this lityll sayd book in gree and thanke, as well of me your humble and unknowen servant, as of a better and gretter man than I am, for the right good wylle that I have had to make this lityll werk in the best wise I can, ought to be reputed for the fayt and dede, and for more clerely to procede in this sayd book, I have ordyned that the chapters been sete in the begynnyng, to thende that ye may see more playnly the matter wherof the book treteth, &c.

The contents begin thus: This booke conteyneth iiii. traytees, the first traytee is of the invencion of this play of the chesse, and conteyneth iii. chapters, &c. and end thus:

And

And therfore, my ryght undoubted lord, I pray almighty God to save the kyng our soverain lord, and to give hym grace to yssue as a kynge, and tabounde in all vertues, and to be assisted with all other his lordes, in such wyse, that his noble royaume of Englund may prosper, and habounde in vertues, and that synne may be sechewid, iustice kept, the royaume defended, good men rewarded, malefactours punysshid, and the ydle peple to be put to laboure, that he, wyth the nobles of the royme, may regne gloriously in conquerynge his enheritaunce, that verray peas and charite may endure in both his royames, and that merchandise may have his course, in suche wise that every man eschew synne, and encrece in vertuous occupacions, prayinge your good grace to resseyue this lityll and symple book, made under the hope and shadowe of your noble protection, by hym that is your most humble seruant, in gree and thanke. And I shall praye almighty God for your long lyf and welfare, whiche he preserve, and sende yow thacomplisschement of your hye, noble, joyous, and vertuous desirs, amen. Fynysshid the last day of Marche, the yer of our Lord God a thosund foure hondred and LXXIIII.

The above book at my lord-chancellor HARDWICKE's, had a broad black line, drawn diagonally behind the date, in which the L was altered to an x, so appeared xxxiiii. There are no cuts in this, as in the second edition. In the second and third chapters it is said, this game was invented by Philometer the philosopher, for the correction and instruction of a wicked king.

The following Mark I find put at the end of many of his books, perhaps for the date 1474, when he began printing in England, or his sign.

THE BOOK OF JASON.

This is printed in the character N^o II. in the specimen, and begins,

For as moche as late by the commaundement of the right hye and noble princesse, my right redoubted lady, my lady Margarete, by the grace of God duchesse of Bourgoyne, Brabant, &c. I translated a boke out of Frensch into Englissh, named Recuyel of the histories of Troye, in which is comprehended how Troye was thries destroyed; and also the labours and histories of Saturnus, Tytan, Jubyter, Perseus, and Hercules, and other moo therin rehersed. But as to the historie of Jason, towching the conquest of the golden flese, myn auctor hath not sett it in his boke but breuely, and the cause is, for as moche as he hadde made before a boke of the hele lyf of Jason, whyche he presented vnto the noble prynce in his dayes, Philip duc of Bourgoyne. And also the said boke shulde have ben to grete, if he had set the said historie in his boke, for it conteyneth thre bokes, beside thistorie of Jason. Thenne for as moche as this sayd boke is late new made a parte of alle thistories of the said Jason, and the historie of him whiche that Dares Frigius, and Guido de Columpnys wrote in the begynnyng of their bokes, touching the conqueste of the sayd golden flese, by occasion wherof grew the cause of the second destruccion of the sayd cite of Troye, is not set in the said boke of Recuyel of thistories of Troy; therefore, under the protection and sufferaunce of the most hyghe, puissant and Christen king, my most dradde natural liege lord Edward, by the grace of God, kyng of Englund and of Fraunce, and lord of Irland, I entend to translate the said boke of thistories of Jason, followyng myn auctor, as nygh as I can or may, not chaunging the sentence, ne presumyng to adde ne mynusshe ony thing other wise then myne auctor hath made in Frenssh. And in somoche as the grettest fame and renome standeth and resteth in the conqueste of the flese of golde, whereof is founded an ordre of knightes, whereof our said soverayn lord is one, and hath taken the profession thereof. How well some persones afferme and saye, that the sayde ordre hath taken his origynall of the fleese of Gedeon, where in I woll not dispute; but well wot I, that the noble duc Philippe, first foundeur of this sayde ordre, did doo make a chambre in castell of Hesdyn, where in was craftyly and curyously depeynted the conqueste of the golden flese by the said Jason; in whiche chambre I have ben, and seen the sayd hystorie so depeynted, and in remembraunce of Medea and of her connyng and science he had, do make, in the said chambre, by the subtil engyn, that whan he wolde it shuld seme that it lightend; and after thondre, snowe and raine, and all within the said chambre, as oft tymes, and whan it shuld plese hym, which was al made for his singular pleasir. Thene for the honour and worship of our sayde moost redoubted liege lord, whiche hath taken the sayde ordre, I have, vnder the shadowe of his noble protection, enterprised accomplish this sayd lital boke, not presumyng to presente it unto his hyghness, for as moch as I doubt not his good grace hath it in Frenssh, which he wel understandeth. But not displesing his most noble grace, I entende, by his licence and congye, and by the supportacyon of our most redoubted liege lady, moost excellent princesse, the quene, to present this said boke unto the most fayr, and my moost redoubted young lord, my lord prynce of Wales, our to comyng soverayne lorde, whom I pray God save, and encrease in vertue, and bring him unto as moche worship and goode renoume as ever had ony of his noble progenytours, to then- tent, he may begynne to lerne rede English, not for ony beauty or good endyting of our English tonge that is therin, but for the novelte of the histories whiche, as I suppose, hath not be had bifore the translacion herof, mooste humblie besekyng my sayd most drad soverayne and natural liege lorde the kynge, and also the quene, to pardon me so presumyng, and my sayd to comyng soverayne lord, my lord the prynce, to receyve it in gree and thanke of me his humble subgiett and servante, and to pardon me of this my simple and rude translacion, and all other that luste to rede or here it, to correct where as they shalle finde defaulte.

Here endeth the prologue of the translatour.

Then follows the prologue of the author, dedicated to Philip of Burgoine.

This book is a small folio, supposed to be printed in 1475, and contains 75 leaves.

THE DICTES AND SAYINGES OF THE PHILOSOPHERS.

This title is gathered from what the translator mentions in his preface, and the printer in his conclusion of the book.

Where it is so that every humayn creature, by the suffraunce of our lord God is born and ordeigned to be subgette and thral unto the storms of fortune, and so in duerse and many sundry wyse man is perplexed with worldly aduersitees, of the which I, Antoine Wydeuille, erle Ryuyeres, lord Scales, &c. have largely, and in many different maners have had my parte, and of hem releued by thynfynyte grace and goodness of our said lord, thurgh the meane of the mediatrice of mercy, which grace evidently to me knowen and vnderstonde, hath compelled me to sette aparte alle ingratitude, and droof me, by reson and conscience, as far as my wreachedness wold suffyces, to give therefore singular louynges and thankes, and exorted me to dispose my recouered lyf to his servyce, in folowing his lawes and commandements, and in satisfaccion and recompence of mynn iniquytees and fawtes before donn, to seke and execute the werkes that might be most acceptable to hym. And as fer as myn fraylnes wold suffre me, I rested in that will and purpose during that season. I vnderstode the jubylee and pardon to be at the holy appostle Seynt James in Spayne, which was the yere of grace a thousand cccclxxiii, thenne I determynd me to take that voyage, and shipped from Southampton in the moneth of Juyll the said yere, and so sayled from thens till I come into the Spanysh see; there lackyng syght of alle londes, the wynde being good, and the weder fayr, thenne for a recreacion, and passyng of tyme, I had delyte, and axed to rede some good historye; and among other ther was, that season, in my companye a worshipfull Gentyelman callid Lowys de Bretaylles, whiche gretly delited hym in alle vertuose and honste thynges, that sayd to me, he hath there a book that he trusted I shuld lyke it right wele, and brought it to me, whiche book I had never seen before, and is called, The Saynges or Dictis of the Philosophers. And as I understande it was translated out of Latyn into Frenshe, by a worshipfull man called Messire Jehan de Teonuille, provost of Parys, whan I had heided and looked upon it as I had tyme and space, I gaaf thereto a veray affection. And in special by cause of the holsom and swete saynges of the paynems, whyche is a glorious fayr myrrour to all good cristen people to behold and vnderstonde. Ouer that a grete comforte to every wel disposed saull, it spekethe also vniversally to the example, weel and doctryne of all kynges, prynces, and to people of every estate. It lawdes vertue and science; it blames vices and ignorance; and all be it I coude not, at that season, ner in all that pilgrimage tyme have leyzer to ouersee it wele at my pleasure, what for the dispositions that belongeth to a taker of a jubylee and pardon, and also for the grete acqueyntaunce that I fonde there of worshipful folkes, with whom it was fytting I sholde kepe good and hoonest companye; yet nevertheless it rested styl in the desirous favour of my mynde, entending utterly to take therewith gretter acqueyntaunce at some other conuenient tyme, and so remanyng in that oppynyon, after suche season as it lysted the kynges grace to comaunde me to gyue myn attendaunce uppon my lorde the prince, and that I was in his seruyse; whan I had leyser I looked upon the sayde booke, and at the last concluded in my self to translate it into thenglysh tonge, whiche, in my iudgment, was not before, thynking also full necessary to my sayd lord the vnderstandyng thereof; and leest I coude not at altymes be so wele occupied, or sholde falle in ydleness whan I myght, now and thenne I felle in hande with all, and drew both the sentence and the wordes as nygh as I coude. Nevertheless I haue seyn and herde of other of the same bookes, whyche difference, and be of other importaunce, and therefore I drede that suche as sholde liste to rede the translacion, and have veray intelligence of ony of those bookes, eyther in Latyne or in Frenche, sholde finde errours in my werke, which I wold not afferme cause of the contrary, but alledge the deffaulte to myne vnconnyng with the dyuersitees of the bookes, humbly desyryng the reformacon thereof with myn excuse; and the rather syn after my rudenes, not expert, I in my manner followed my cotype, and the ground I had to speke upon, as here after ensiewis.

Here endeth the book named the Dictes or Sayengis of the philosophres, enprynted by me, William Caxton, at Westmestre, the yere of our Lord MCCCC LXXVII, which book is late translated out of Frensshe into Englysshe by the noble and puissant lord, lord Antone, erle of Ryuyeres, lord of Scales, and of the Ile of Wyght, defendour and directour of the siege apostolique, for our holy fader the pope, in this royame of Englonde, and governour of my lord prynce of Wales. And it is so, that at suche tyme as he had accomplysshid this sayd werk, it liked him to send it to me, in certayn quayers, to oversee, whiche forthwith I saw, and fonde therein many grete, notable, and wyse sayengis of the philosophers, accordyng unto the bookes made in Frenshe, whiche I had ofte afore redd; but certaynly I had seen none in Englissh till that tyme; and so afterwarde I cam unto my sayd lord, and told him how I had red and seen his booke, and that he had don a meritory dede in the labour of the translacion thereof into our English tunge, wherein he had deservid a singuler lawde and thank, &c. Thenne my sayd lord desired me to oversee it, and whereas I sholde fynde fault to correcte it. Wherein I answered unto his lordship that I coude not amend it, but if I sholde so presume, I might apair it; for it was right wel and connyngly made and translated into right good and fayr English. Notwithstanding he willed me to oversee it, and shewed me dyuerce thinges whiche, as him semed, might be left out, as diuerce lettres missives sent from Alisander to Darius and Aristotle, and eche to other, whiche lettres were lityl appertinent unto Dictes and Sayenges aforesayd, for as moche as they specifye of other matters, and also desired me, that don, to put the sayd booke in enprint; and thus obeying hys request and comaundement I have put me in deuoyr to ouersee thys hys sayd booke, and beholden, as nigh as I coude, how it accordeth with thoriginal beyng in Frenshe, and I fynde nothyng dyscordaunt therein, sauf only in the dyctes and sayengys of Socrates, wherein I fynde that my saide lord hath left out certayn and dyuerce conclusions towchyng women, whereof I meruaylle that my sayd lord hath not wreton them, ne what hath meuyd hym so to do, ne what cause he hadde, at that tyme; but I suppose that som fayr lady hath desired hym to leue it out of his booke, or ellys he was amorous on somme noble lady, for whose love he wolde not set yt in his booke, or ellys for the very affeccyon, love and good wille he hath vnto alle ladyes and gentylwomen, he thought that Socrates spared the sothe, and wrote of women more than trouthe, whiche I cannot thinke that so trewe a man, and so noble a philosopher as Socrates was, shold wryte otherwyse than trouthe; for if he had made fawte in wryting of women, he ought not, ne sholde not be beleuyd in his other dyctes and sayenges. But I apperceyue, that my sayde lord knoweth verily that such defaultes ben not had ne founden in the women born and dwelling in these partyes ne regyons of the world. Socrates was a Greek, boren in a ferre contre from hens, whiche contre is alle of othre condycions than this is, and men and women of other nature than they ben here in this contre; for I wote wel, of whatsomeuer condicion women ben in Grece, the women of this contre ben right good, wyse, playsant, humble, discrete, sobre, chaste, obedient to their husbandis, trewe, secret, stedfast, ever besy, and never ydle, attemperat in speking, and vertuous in alle their werkis, or atte leste sholde be so; for which causes, so cuydent, my sayd lord, as I suppose, thought it was not of necessity to sette in his booke the sayengis of his auctor, Socrates, touchyng women. But for as moche as I had comandement of my sayd lord to correct and amend whereas I sholde fynd fawte, and other fynde I none sauf that he hath left out these dictes and saynges of the women of Grece; therefore in accomplisshing his comandement, for as moche as I am not in certayn, wheder it was in my lordis cotype or not, or ellis, peradventure, that the wynd had blowe over the leef at the tyme of translacion of his booke,

I purpose to wryte the same saynges of that Greke Socrates, whyche wrote of the women of Grece, and nothyng of them of this royaume, whom I suppose he never knewe; for if he had, I dare plainly say, that he wolde haue reserved them in especiall in his sayd dicte, alway not presumyng to put and sette them in my sayd lordes book, but in thende a parte in the rehersayll of the werkis, humbly requiryng al them that shall rede this lytyl rehersayll, that yf they fynd any faulte, tarette it to Socrates, and not to me, whych wryteth as hereafter followeth.

Socrates sayde, "That women ben thapparylles to cacche men; but they take none but them that will be poure, or els them that know hem not. And he sayd, that there is none so grete empeshement vnto a man as ignorance and women.

And he saw a woman that bare fyre, of whom he saide, that the hotter bare the colder. And he sawe a woman seke, of whom he sayd, that the euyl resteth and dwelleth with the euyl. And he saw a woman brought to the justice, and many other women followed her weeping, of whom he said, the euyl ben sory and angry, because the euyl shall perisshe. And he sawe a yonge mayde that lerned to wryte, of whom he sayde, that she multiplyed euyl upon euyl. And he sayde, that the ignorance of a man is known in three thinges, that is to wete, when he hath no thought to use reason; whan he cannot refrayne his covetises; and whan he is governed by the counceyll of women in that he knoweth that they know not. And he sayd unto his dyscyples, wylle ye that I enseygne and teche you howe ye shall mowe escape from all euyl? And they answered ye. And then he sayd to them, for whatsomever thing that it be, kepe you and be well waar that ye obeye not to women. Who answered to hym agayn, And what sayest thou by our good moders, and of our susters? He sayd to hem, suffice you with that I have sayd to you, for all ben semblable in malice. And he syde, whosomever wyll acquere and get scyence, late hym never put him in the gouernaunce of a woman. And he sawe a woman that made her freshe and gaye, to whom he sayd, Thou resemblst the fyre; for the more wode is layd to the fyre the more wole it brenne, and the gretter is the hete. And on a tyme one axed hym, what hym semed of women? He answered, that the women resemble unto a tre called Edelsta, whyche is the fayrest tre to beholde and see that may be, but within it ys full of venym. And they sayd to hym, and demanded wherefore he blamed so women, and that he himself had not come into thys world, ne none other men also, without hem. He answered, The woman is like unto a tre named Chassoygnet, on whyche tre ther ben many thynges sharpe and pryckyng, whyche hurte and prycke them that approche vnto hyt, and yet nevertheless that same tre bringeth forth good dates and swete. And they demanded him, why he fled from the women. And he ansuerd, for as moche as I see them flee and eschew the good, and commonly do euyl. And a woman sayd to hym, wylt thou have any other woman than me? And he answered to her, Art not thou ashamed toffer thy self to him that demandeth nor desireth the not."

Lo these ben the dictes and sayengis of the philosophre Socrates, whiche he wrote in his book, and certainly he wrote no worse than afore is rehersed. And for as moche as it is accordant, that his dyctes and sayengis shold be had as well as others, therefore I have set it in thend of this booke. And also somme persones, peraventure, that have red this book in Frensshe wold have arette a grete defaulte in me, that I had not do my deuoir in visityng and overseeyng my lord's book according to his desir. And somme other also happely might have supposed that Socrates had wreten moche more ylle of women than here afore is specified, wherefore in satisfyenge of all parties, and also for excuse of the saide Socrates, I have set these saide Dyctes and sayengis aparte in thende of this book, to thentent that yf my sayd lord, or any other persone, whatsomever he or she be that shall rede or here it, that if they be not well pleyed with all, that they, with a penne, race it out, or ellys rent the leef out of the booke, humbly requyryng and beseechyng my sayd lord to take no displaysir on me so presumyng, but to pardone whereas he shall fynde faulte; and that it plese him to take the labour of thenpryntyng in gre and thank, whiche gladly have done my dyligence in, that complysshyng of his desire and commandement, in which I am bounden so to do for the good reward that I haue resseyuyd of his sayd lordship, whom I beseeche almyghty God tencrece and to contynue in his virtuous disposicion in this world, and after thys lyf to lyue euerlastyngly in heven. Amen.

Et sic est Finis. ***

Thus endeth this book of the dyctes and notable wyse sayengis of the phylosophers, late translated and drawen out of Frenshe into our Englishe tonge by my foresayde lord therle of Ryuers and lord Scales, and by his commandement sette in forme, and emprinted in this manner, as ye may here in this booke see, which was fynished the xviii. day of the moneth of Novembre, and the seventeenth yere of the reign of kyng Edward the fourth.

THE MORAL PROVERBS OF CHRISTIAN (OF PYSE.)

- 20 Feb. This is an English translation of a book written in French, with this title, 1478. Les proverbes moraux, et le prudence par Christine de Pisan, fille de M. Thomas de Pisan, autrement dic de Bologne. This learned lady was an Italian, born at Pisa, and stiled herself a woman Ytalien; but her Father removing to Bologne in France, she wrote her books in the language of that country, and flourished about the year 1400. The piece being a small folio, is a poem chiefly ending in E, two hundred and three lines, and a conclusion of two seven line stanza's, beginning thus:

The Morale Prouerbes of Cristyne.

The grete vertus of oure elders notable,
 Ofte to remembre is thing profitable,
 An happy hous is, where dwelleth prudence,
 For where she is, raison is in presence, &c.

THE BOKE NAMED CORDIAL; OR, MEMORARE NOVISSIMA; whiche treateth of the four last thinges, begins:

Al ingratitude utterly setting apart, we owe to calle to our myndes the manyfolde gyftes of grace, with the benefaictis, that our lorde of his moost plentiuëus bonte hath ymen vs wretches, in this present transitoire lif, whiche remembraunce of right directly shulde induce us to giue his God-hede therefore continale and immortale louingis and thankis, and in no wise to falle to thignorance or foryetfulness thereof. &c.

This present tretys is deuided in four principal parties, of the whiche every parte conteyneth thre other singular parties, as in the manner follow-yng is shewed.

The first principal parte is of the bodely deth. And therunto belongeth thre other singular parties.

The first of the thre is, how remembraunce of deth causeth a man to meke and humble hymself.

The second is, how remembraunce of deth maketh hym to dispise alle vayne worldly thyngs.

The thirde is, how remembraunce of deth causeth a man unconstrayned to take upon him to do penaunce, and taccept in with glad herte.

The seconde principal parte is of the last day of jugement, conteyneth in hym self thre other singular parties.

The first of these thre is, how accusacion, that shall be at the day of jugement, is thing to be dred.

The seconde is, how the last day of jugement is terrible, and not without cause, for there must be gyuen a due rekenyng and acompt of every thyng.

The third is, how the terrible abiding of thextreme sentence causeth oubtes to be had of the jugement.

The

The thirde principal parte is of helle, or of thinfurnal jehenne, and conteyneth in it self thre other singuler parties.

The first of thoes iii. is, howe helle, after holy scripture, is named in diuerse and many wyses.

The seconde is, howe they that descend into helle been punisshed with many greet and sondry paynes.

The thirde is, howe ther be many diuerse condicions of griuances in the paynes of helle.

The fourth principal part is the blisful joyes of heuen, and ther unto apperteyne thre other singuler parties.

The first of thoes thre is, howe the royalme of heuen is loued, prayed, and recommended for his beaute, clernes, and lyght.

The second is, how the royalme of heuen is prayed for the manyfolde goodnesses, that be haboundaunt therin.

The thirde is, how the celestial royalme is to be lawded for the perpetuel and infinite joye and gladnes therin.

Here after followes the prologue of the four last thinges.

This book is thus translated out of Frenshe into our maternal tongue by the noble and vertuose lord Anthoine, erle Ryuiers, lord Scales, and of the Isle of Wight, defenseur and directeur of the causes apostolique for our holy fader the pope in this royaume of Englonde, uncle and governour to my lorde prince of Wales, which book was deliuered to me, William Caxton, by my saide noble lorde Ryuers, on the day of purifycacion of our blissid lady, fallyng the tuesday the second day of the moneth of Feuerer, in the yere of our lord MCCCCLXXVIII. for to be enprinted, and so multiplied to goo abroad among the peple, that therby more surely myght be remembred the four last thingis undoubtably comyng. And it is to be noted, that sythen the tyme of the grete tribulacion and aduersite of my saide lord, he hath been ful vertuously occupied, as in goyng of pilgrimages to Seint James in Galice, to Rome, to Seint Bartylmew, to Seint Andrew, to Seint Mathew, in the royalme of Naples, and to Seint Nicholas de Bar in Puyle, and other diuerse holy places. Also hath procured and gotten of our holy fader the pope, a greet and a large indulgence and grace vnto the chapel of our lady of the Piewe, by Seint Stephen's at Westmenstre, for the relief and helpe of christen sowles passed out of this transitorie world; whiche grace is of like vertue to thindulgence of Scala Celi. And not withstanding thegreet labours and charges that he hath had in the service of the kyng, and of my said lord prince, as well in Wales as in Englonde, which hath be to him no litle thought and bisines, both in spirit and in body, as the fruit therof experimently sheweth. Yet, over that, tenrich his vertuous disposicion, he put him in deuoyr at all tymes when he might haue a leyser, which was but startemete to translate diuerse bookes out of Frensh into English. Among other passid thurgh myn honde, the booke of the wyse saynges or dictes of philosophers, and the wise and holsom prouerbis of Xpristine of Pyse, set in metre.ouer that hath made diuers balade ayenst the seuen dedely synnes. Furthermore it semeth, that he conceiueth wel the mutabilite and the vnstablens of this present lyf, and that that he desireth, with a greet zeale and spirituall love, our goostly help and perpetuel saluacion, and that we shall abhorre and vtterely forsake thabominable and dampnable synnes, whiche comunely be vsed now a days, as pride, periurye, terrible swering, thefte, murdre, and many other. Wherefore he took upon hym the translating of this present werke, named Cordyale, trusting that bothe the redars and the herers thereof sholde knowe them self hereafter the better, and amend thair lyuyng or they departe and lose this tyme of grace to the recouere of their saluacion, which translating in my iugement is a noble and a meritorious dede, wherefor he is worthy to be greetly commended, and also singularly remembred with our good prayers; for certaynely, as well the reders as the herers, well conceyuyng in their hertes the forsayd foure last thinges, may therby greetly be prouoqued and called from sinne to the greet and plentiuouse mercy of our blissid saueour, whiche mercy is aboue all his workis. And no man beyng contrite and confessed, nedeth to fere thobteynynge therof, as in the preface of my saide lordes booke made by hym, more playnly it appereth. Thenne in obeying and folowyng my said lordes comandement, in whiche I am bounden so to do for the manyfolde benefetes, and large rewardes of hym, had and receyued of me undeseruid, I haue put me in deuoyr raccomplishe his saide desire and comaundement, whom I beseche almighty God to keep and mayntene in his vertuous and laudable actes and werkis, and sende hym thaccomplishment of his noble and ioyous desirs and playsirs in this worlde, and after this short, daungerous, and transitory lyf euerlasting permanance in heuen, amen. Whiche werke present, I began the morn after the saide purification of our blissid lady, whiche was the daye of Seint Blase, bishop and martir, and finissed on the euen of thannunciacion of our said blissid lady, fallyng on the Wednesday the xxiiii. daye of Marche, in the xix yere of kyng Edward the fourth.

Prologue declaryng to whom this book apperteyneth.

Considering that wordes ben perisshyng, wayne, and forgateful, and wrytynes duelle and abide permanent, as I rede, Vox audita perit, litera scripta manet. These thinges have caused that the faites and deeds of auncient men ben sette by declaracion in fair and aoured volumes, to thende that science and artes, lerned and founden, of thinges passed might be had in perpetuel memorye and remembraunce, for the hertes of nobles in eschewyng of ydlenes at suche tyme a they haue none other vertuose occupacion occupacion on hande ought texercise them in redyng, studyng, and visytyng the noble faytes and deeds of the sage and wysemen, somtyme trauailling in prouffitable vertues, of whom it happeth ofte, that som men ben enclyned to visyte the bookes treatyng of sciences particuler, and other to rede and visyte bookes, speking of faytes of armes, of loue, or of other meruailous histories; and emonge alle other, this present booke, whiche is called the ymage or myrrour of the world, ought to be visyted, redde, and knownen, bycause it treateth of the world, and the wonderful dyuision thereof; in whiche booke a man resonable may see and understande more clerer, by the visytyng and seeyng of it, and the figures therein, the sci-tuacion and moeuyng of the firmament, and how the vnyuersal erthe hangeth in the myddle of the same, as the chapitres here followyng shall more clerly shewe and declare to you: whiche sayd book was translated out of Latyn into Frensshe by the ordynaunce of the noble duc Johan of Berry, and Auuergne, the yere of our lorde MCCCXLV, and now at this tyme rudely translated out of Frensshe into Englissh by me symple persone, William Caxton, at the request, desire, coste and dispense of the honourable and worshipful man Hugh Bryce, alderman and cytezeyn of London, entendyng to present the same vnto the vertuous, noble and puissaunt lord, William lord Hastynges, lord chamberlayn, unto the most crysten kyng, kyng Edward the fourthe, kyng of England and of France, &c. and lieutenant for the same, of the town of Calais and marches there, whom he humbly beseecheth to resseyue in gree and thanke, whiche booke conteyneth in alle lxxvii. chapitres, and xxvii figures, without whiche it may not lightly be vnderstand; and for to declare more openly, it is ordeyned in thre parties, of whiche the first conteyneth xx. chapitres and viii. figures; the second partie xxxiii. chapitres, and ix. figures; and the therde conteyneth xxiiii. chapitres, and x. figures, whiche was engrossed, and in alle poyntes ordeyned by chapitres and figures in Frensshe, in the toun of Bruggis, the yere of thyncarnacion of our lord MCCCCLXIII, in the moneth of Juyn, and emprised by me ryght vnable and of lytil connyng to translate and bringe it into our maternal tonge, the second day of the moneth of Janyuer, the yer of our sayd lord MCCCCLXXX, in thabbey of Westmestre, by London, humbly requyryng alle them that shal fynde faulte, to correct and amend whereas they shal ony fynde; and of suche so founden, that they repute not the blame on me, but on my copie, whiche I am charged to follow as nyghe as God will give me grace, whom I most humbly beseech to give me scyence, connyng and lyf taccomplysshe, and well to fynysse it, &c.

Thenne who so wille comprise and vnderstande the substaunce of this present volume, for to lerne and knowe specially the creacion of this world, the gretenes of the firmament, and lytilnes of therthe in regard of heuen, how the vii. sciences were founden, and what they bee; by whiche he may the better auaylle in knowleche alle the days of his lyf. Thenne late hym rede this sayd volume treatably, auisedly, and ordynatly, that in suche thing as he shall rede, he suffre nothing to passe but that he vnderstonde it ryght well, and so may he knowe and vnderstonde veritably the declaracion of this sayd volume. And he thenne that so wille obeye this commandement, may by the content of the same lerne grete partie of the fourme and condicon of this world, and how, by the wille of our Lord it was by him created, made and accomplisshed, and the cause wherfor it was establisshed, wherof the debonayr Lord hath don to vs so grete grace, that we ever ben bounden to gyve him lawde and worship, or ellys we had not ben of any valew, ne worth ony thyng, no more than vnreasonable beestis. Thenne late us praye the maker and creatour of alle creatures, God almighty, that at the begynning of this book it liste hym, of his most bounteous grace, to departe with vs of the same, that we may lerne, and that lerned to reteyne, and that reteyned so teche, that we may haue so parfyght science and knowleche of God, that we may gete therby the helth of our sowles, and to be partners of his glorie, permanent and without end, in heuen. Amen.

Thus fynnyshith the boke called Thymage, or Myrrour of the World, &c.

And where it is so, that I have presumed and emprised this forsayd translacion into our Englysshe and maternal tonge, in whiche I am not wel parfyght, and yet lasse in Frensshe; yet I haue endeuoured me therein, atte request and desyre, coste and dispence of the honourable and worshipful man Hugh Bryce, cytezen and alderman of London, which hath sayd to me that he entended to present it unto the puissant, noble, and vertuous lord, my lord Hastynges, chamberlayn vnto our soverayn lord the kynge, and his lieutenaunt of the toun of Calais and marches there. In whiche translacion I knowleche my self symple, rude, and ygnorant, wherfor I humbly besече my sayd lord chamberlayn to perdonne me of this rude and simple translacion. How be it, I leye for myne excuse, that I haue, to my power, followed my copie, and as nyghe as to me is possible I haue made it so playn, that every man resonable may vnderstonde it, yf he aduysedly and ententyfly rede or here it. And yf ther be faulte in mesuryng of the firmament, sonne, mone, or of therthe, or in ony other meruaylles herein conteyned, I besече you not tarette the defaulte in me, but in hym that made my cotype; whiche book I began first to translate the second day of Janyuer, in the yer of our Lord M cccc lxxx, and fynnysshed the viii day of Marche the same yere. And the xxi yere of the regne of the most crysten kyng, kynge Edward the fourth, under the shadow of whos noble protection I haue emprised and fynnysshed this sayd lytil werke and boke, beseching almyghty God to be his protector and defendour agayn alle his enemyes, and gyue hym grace to subdue them, and inespéciall them that haue late enterprised agayn right and reson to make warre wythin his royamme, and also to preserue and mayntene hym in longe lyf and prosperous helthe, and after this short and transitorye lyf he brynge hym and vs into his celestyal blysse in heuene. Amen.

Folio, containing 100 leaves. The Type is N° II. of the specimen, in my possession, and several others. There are two editions of this book by Caxton, the later ends, Caxton me fieri fecit, and has printed initials, which this has not.

Next after this, is mentioned by Mr. Caxton himself, as translated out of French, and printed by him, but I have not seen it myself.

THE XV. BOOKES OF METAMORPHOSES.

In which ben contaynid the fables of Ovid.

Ouduin places this book in this year, Libri xv. Metamorphoseon Ovidii in Anglicam prosam per Caxtonum conversi, A. D. 1480.

In Mr. secretary Pepys's library^a, in the college of St. Mary Magdalene, in the university of Cambridge, is a manuscript which seems to be a copy of a part of this book; the title is, "A Prose translation of Ovid's Metamorphoses, beginning at the tenth book." In the first page is written in red letters, Here followeth thee book of Ouyde, whereof the first fable is of the marriage of Orpheus and Euridice, his love. At the end is this colophon, Thus endeth Ovyde his booke of Metamorphose, translated and fynysshed by me, Willam Caxton, at Westmestre, the xxii. day of Apryll, the yere of our Lord M^{CCCC}LXXX. and the xx yere of the regne of kynge Edward the fourth.

THE CRONICLES OF ENGLAND.

Before these chronicles is a table of the contents, to which is prefixed the following short prologue.

It is so, that in many and divers places the comyn cronicles of Eng-lond ben had, and also now late enprinted at Westmynstre^b. And for as moche as the description of this londe, which of old tyme was called Albyon, and after Britayne, is not descrived, ne comynly had, ne the noblenesse of the same is not knowen, there I entend to sette in this booke the description of the said isle of Britayne, with the comodities of the same. In the yere of thyncarnacyon of our Lord Jhu. Crist 1480, and in the 20 yere of the regne of kyng Edward the 4th, atte requeste of dyuers gentilmen, I have endeavoured me to enprunte the cronicles of England, as in this boke shall by the sufferaunce of God follow. And to thende, that every man may see, and shortly find such mater, as it shall please him to se or rede, I have ordayned a table of the maters shortly compiled and chapitred, as here shall followe, which booke be-gynneth at Albyne, and endeth at the begynnyng of the regne of our said sovereign lord kyng Edward IIII.

Then follows the table, &c. which thus begins; Fyrst is conteyned, how Albyne with his susters entred into this isle, and named it Albyon. The book is divided into vii. parts and cclxiii chapters^c. The last, or 263d chapter is: Of the desposition of kyng Henry vi. and how kyng Edward the iv. took possession, and of the batail on palm sonday, and how he was crowned. At the end is this colophon, Thus endeth the present book of the chronicles of Englonde, enprinted by me, William Caxton,

^a N^o 6791. 712. in the Cat. of mss. of England and Ireland.

^b Another very rude imperfect edition is in the possession of Brian Fairfax esquire.

^c In chapter 200, the word knave is put for a young man, as in my MS. copy.

in thabby of Westmynster, by London. Fynnishid and accomplyshid the x. day of Juyn, in the yere of thyncarnation of our Lord God MCCCCLXXX. and in the xx. yere of the regne of kyng Edward the fourth. *This book appears to be printed from some manuscript then in being. I have one of them on Vellum, in folio, which begins thus, Here begynneth the cronycles of this londe Engeland, that first was called Albyon, throug whom hit hadde the name. This is wrote with red ink, and the page illuminated; then follows, In the noble lande of Syrrie there was a noble kyng and myghty a man of grete renoune, that men called Dioclesian, &c. There is another edition of this chronicle, with the addition of a DESCRIPTION OF BRITAYNE AND IRELAND. Taken out of the policronicon, (a MS. so called, I suppose) fynysshed the xviii. of August, 1480. xx. Edward IV. Both in the smallest usual character, as in N^o IV. of the specimen. Folio. Hyer begynneth the storye of Reynard the foxe.

In this historye ben wreton the parables, goode lernynge, and dyuerse poyntes to be merkyd, by whiche poyntes men may lerne to come to the subtyl knoweleche of suche thynges as dayly ben vsed and had in the coun-seylls of lordes and prelates, gostly and worldly, and also emong marchantes and other comone peple. And this booke is maad for nede and prouffyte of alle god folke, as fer as they in redyng or heeryng of it shall mowe vnderstande and fele the foresayd subtyl deceytes that dayly ben vsed in the worlde; not to thentente that men shold vse them, but that every man shold eschewe and keep hym from the subtyl false shrewis that they be not deceyued. Thenne, who that wyll haue the very vnder-yng of this mater, he must ofte and many times rede in thys boke, and ernestly and diligently marke wel that he redeth; for it is sette subtylly, lyke

lyke as ye shall see in redyng of it, and not ones to rede it; for a man shall not, with ones over redyng fynde the ryght vnderstandyng ne comprize it well, but oftymes to rede it shall cause it well to be vnderstande. And for them that vnderstandeth it, it shall be ryght joyous, playsaunt and prouffitable, &c.

The book ends thus: Ther is no good man blamed heren, hit is spoken generally, late euery man take his owne part as it belongeth and behoveth, and he that fyndeth hym gylty in ony dele or part therof, late hym bettre and amende hym; and he that is veryly good, I pray God kepe hym therein; and yf ony thyng be said or wretton herein that may greue or displease man, blame not me, but the foxe, for they be his wordes and not myne; prayeng alle them that shal see this lytyl treatis, to correcte and amende where they shall fynde faute; for I haue not added, ne mynussed, but haue followed, as nyghe as I can, my cotype, whiche was in dutche, and by me, William Caxton, translated in to this rude and symple Englyssh, in thabbey of Westmestre; fynysshed the vi day of Juyn, the yere of our Lord MCCCCLXXXI, and the XXI yere of the regne of kynge Edward the IIIIth.

Here endeth the hystorye of Reynard the foxe. &c.

TULLIUS OF OLDE AGE; OR, DE SENECTUTE.

Whereunto is added his book of FRIENDSHIP, and wherein HONOUR doth rest. Translated into English by the earl of Worcester.

12 Aug.

This work is so sufficiently explained in the prefaces and conclusons of its several parts, that the reader cannot have a better account, than by the recital of them.

Here begynneth the prohemye upon the reducinge, both out of Latyn as of Frensshe, into our Englyssh tounge, of the polytyque book, named Tullius de senectute; which that Tullius wrote upon the disputations and commynacions made to the puissant duc Cato, senatour of Rome, by Scipion and Lelius, then being young noble knyghtes, and also senatours of the said Rome, of the worshippe, recommendacion, and magnificence that should be gyven to men of old age, for theyr desertes and experyence in wysedom of polytyque governaunce, and blamed them that reproven or lothen olde age; and how Caton exhorteth and counseileth olde men to be joyfull and bere pacyently old age, whan it cometh to them. And how Tullius, at reverence of Caton, declareth by ways of example, how Ennius thauncyent philosophe, purposeth and wryteth in three verses compendiously unto his friende Atticus, also a senatour of Rome, how he toke grete thought and charge for the governaunce of the comyn prouffyght, for which he deserved grate lawde and honoure, in preferring the same, named in Latin Res publica, kepyng the Romaines prosperous, and defendyng them fro theyr adversaries and rebelles. Whiche book was translated, and thystoryes openly declared by the ordenaunce and and desyr of the noble auntyent knyght, Syr Johan Fastolf, of the countee of Norfolk, Bannerette, lyvyng the age of fourscore yere; excersyng the warrys in the royaume of Fraunce, and other countrees, for the deffence and universal welfare of bothe royames of Englonde and Fraunce, by forty yeres enduryng the fayte of armes, hauntyng and in admynstryng justyce and polytique governaunce, under thre kyngs, that is to wete, Henry iv. Henry v. Henry vi. and was governour of the dutchy of Angeou, and the countee of Mayne, capytayne of many townes, castellys, and fortresses in the said royaume of Fraunce, havynge the charge and saufgarde of them dyverse yeres, occupyng and rewlyng thre hondred speres, and the bowes acustomed thenne, and yeldyng good acompt of the forsaid townes, castellys, and fortresses to the seyd kyngs, and to their lietenantes, princes of noble recommendacion, as, Johan, regent of Fraunce, duc of Bedford, Thomas, duc of Excester, Thomas, duc of Clarence, and other lyeutenautes, prayeng to take this reducyng pacyently, and submittyng me to the amendyng and correction of the reder and understonder, that is disposed to rede, or have any contemplacion in thystoryes of this book, which were drawn and compyled out of the books of thauntyent phylosophers of Grece, as in thorygynall text of Tullius de senectute in Latin is specyfied compendiously, which is in maner harde the texte. But this book, reduced in Englissh tongue, is more ample empowred, and more swetter to the reder, kepyng the juste sentence of the Latyn.

Thence for as moche as this book, thus reduced into our Englissh, is with grete instaunce, labour, and coste, comen into myn honde, which I advysedly have seen over, redde, and considered the noble honeste and vertuous mater, necessarily requysite unto men stepte in age, and to yong men, for to lerne how they ought to come to the same, to whiche every man naturelly desyreth to atteyne. And the matter and commynycacion of this said book bytwene that wise and noble man Cato on that one part, and Scipio and Lelius, two yonge knightes, on that other part, is moch behoefful to be knowen to every man, vertuous and well disposed, of what some ever eage resonable that he be. Thenne bycause I have not seen ony of the same here to fore, I have endeauoured me to gete it with grete difficulte, and so gotten have put it in enprynte, and dilygently, after my lytil understandyng, corrected it, to thentente that noble, vertuous and wel disposed men myght have it to loke on, and to understonde it. And this book is not requysite, ne eke convenyent, for every rude and symple man, which understandeth not of science, ne connyng, and for suche as have not herde of the noble polycye and prudence of the Romaynes, but for noble wise and grete lords, gentilmen, and marchautes that have seen, and dayly been occupyed in maters towchyng the publyque weal. And in especial unto them that been passed theyr grene yougthe, and eke their myddle age, called virylyte, and ben approachid unto senectute, called old and auntyent age, wherein they may see how to suffre and bere the same pacyently, and what surete and vertue ben in the same; and and have also cause to be joyous and glad, that they have escaped and passed the manyfolde perylls and doubteous adventures, that ben in iu-vente and yougthe, as in this said booke here followyng ye may more playnly see. Which booke endyted and wrote in Latyn by the noble philosopher and prynce of eloquence, Tullius, consul Romaine, within the breste of whom philosophye naturel and morall had chosen her domycill, out of whiche it hath ben translated into Frensh, and aftir into our Englyssh tongue, as hier aftir al a longe ye may see.

Also, whan the said Tullius had made his book de Senectute, he after made another book called de Amicitia, that is to say, of Friendship, in which he rehcereth of two yong knyghtes of Rome, that one named Sevola, and that other Faunus, both sonnes-in-law unto Lelius, a noble senatour of Rome, and felawe and ayed in frendship with Scipio Affrican, whiche, within few days to fore was deed. How they desyred to knowe of the frendship that was betweene the said Scipio whyles he lived, and Lelius theyr said fader in lawe; and of the disputation in frendship, as alle playnly it appiereth in the same; which book was translated by the vertuous and noble erle, therle of Wurcestre, into our Englysshe tongue. And by cause it is accordyng and requysite to have frendship joyned to old eage, I have enprynted the sayd book of frendship, and annexed to it the book of age; which book of frendship is full necessary and be hoefful unto euery estate and degree; and aftir I haue sette in this said book, followyng them bothe, a noble treatise of the declamacion of two noble knyghtes Romaines, in makyng of two oracions to fore the senate, to knowe wherein noblesse resteth. And thus this volume is dyvyded into three particular werkes, whiche ben of grete wysdome in olde age, very love in frendship, and the question, wherin noblesse resteth? Which lytil volume I have emprysed tenprynte under the umbre and shadowe of the noble protection of our moost draðde soueurayn, and naturel lyege lord, and moost cristen kyng, kyng Edward the fourth, to whom I moste humbly byseche to receyve the said book of me, William Caxton, his moost humble subget and litil seruaunt, and not to desdayn to take it of me, so poure, ignorant, and symple a persone; and of his moost bountynous grace to pardonne me so presumyng, besehyng almyghty God to kepe, mayntene, and graunte to him long lyf and prosperous, and thac- complishment of his hye and noble desyres, and aftir this short and transitorye lyf, euerlasting lyf and joye in heuen. Amen.

Then follows a table of the contents to the book of old age, then the book itself, which ends with these words:

Thus endeth the booke of Tulle of Olde Age, translated out of Latyn into Frenshe by Laurence de primo Facto, at the comaundement of the noble prynce Lowys, duc of Burbon, and enprynted by me symple persone, William Caxton, into Englysshe, at the playsir, solace, and reverence of men growyng into old age, the 12 day of August, the yere of our Lorde 1481.

The second treatise is joined with it thus :

Here followeth the said Tullius de Amicitia, translated into our maternal Englysshe tongue, by the noble famous erle, the erle of Worcester, sone and heyre to the lord Typtoft, which in his tyme flowred in vertue and cunnyng, to whom I knewe none lyke emong the lordes of the temporalite in science and moral vertue, I byseech almyghty God to have mercy on his sowle, and pray al them that shal here or rede this lityl treatys, moch vertuous of frendship, in likewise of your charyte to remembre his soul emong your prayers. And bycause this werke was made by the prynce of eloquence, Tullius, intituled, de Amicitia, after that he had achieved his boke de Senectute, as heretofore ye may more playnly see at large, thene me semeth it requisite and necessarye, that I sette in folowing the said book, this book de Amicitia, which, by Goddes grace, shal playnly folowe.

This treatise is marked with signatures, in the same manner as the former, that is to say, an alphabetical letter repeated on every leaf, with a numerical figure as far as four, then four leaves blank without any signature, so that this treatise beginning at A. 1. and ending at D. 4. has 28 leaves in it, and concludes in this manner :

Thus endeth this boke, named Tullius de Amicitia, which treateth of frendship, uttered and declared by a noble senatour of Rome, named Lelyus, unto his two sones in lawe, also noble men of Rome, named Faunyus and Seuola, in which they desyred him to enforme them of the frendship, that was betweene the said Lelius and the noble prynce Scipio Affrican ; wherein he hath answered, and told to them the noble vertues that ben in frendship, and withoute vertue veray frendship may not be, as he preuyth by many ensamples and notable conclusions, as heretofore is moche playnly expressyd and said all alonge. Whiche werke was translated by the vertuous and noble lord and erle, the erle of Worcestre, on whoos sowle I beseech almyghty God to have mercy ; and alle ye that shal rede or here this sayd werke, of your charyte, I beseeche you to pray for hym. And by cause this said book, de Amicitia, is ful necessarye and requysite to be had and knowen, I have put it in emprynte, to thentent that veray amyte and frendship may be had, as it ought to be, in euery estate, and degree ; and vertue, withoute whiche frendship may not be had, may be encreaced, and vices eschewid. Thenne whan I had enprynted the book of old age, which the said Tullius made, me semed it accordyng, that this said booke of frendship shold folowe, by cause ther cannot be annexed to olde age a bettir thyng than good and very frendship : whiche two said bokes heretofore wretton ben of grete wisdom and auctoryte, and full necessarye behoefull and requysite unto every age, estate, and degree. And that they prouffyte in encrecyng of vertue, I beseeche the blessyd Trynyte to geue and graunte unto alle them, that shal rede and here this ebokes, and so to flee and eschewe vices and synnes, that by the merytes of virtuouse, honeste, and good werkes, we may atteyne, after this shorte transytorye lif, the eternall blessyd lif in heuen, where is joye and glorye withoute ende. Amen.

Lastly,

Lastly, follows the two declarations made by Publius Cornelius Scipio and Gayus Flamyneus, competitors for the love of Lucretia, shewing wherein true honour and nobleness consists; the former placing it in blood, riches, and the worshipful deeds of his ancestors, without urging any thing of his own life or manners; the latter insisting, that nobleness cannot be derived from the glory or merits of another man, or from the flattering goods of fortune, but must rest in a man's own proper virtue and glory. After these orations, which, with the argument or introduction, take up 19 leaves, the whole book is concluded by our editor in these words:

Here I make an ende of this mater for this tyme, prayeng and requyryng all theym, that in this said werke shal haue ony playsyre, that ye wil remembre hym that translated it into our maternal and Englissh tonge. And not only this said werke, but the book of Tullius de Amicitia, here to fore enprynted, which treateth so wel of frendship and amyte, I mean, the right vertuous and noble erle, therle of Worcestre, which late pytously lost his lif^a, whos soul I recommend unto your special prayers; and also in his tyme made many other vertuous werkys, whiche I have herd of. O good blessyd Lord God, what grete losse was it of that noble vertuous and wel disposed lord? Whan I remembre and advertize his lif, his science, and his vertue, me thynketh God not displeyd over grete losse of such a man, considering his estate and connyng, and also the exercise of the same, with the grete laboures in gooyng on pylgremage unto Jherusalem, visytyng there the holy places that our blesyd Lord Jhesu Criste hallowed with his blessyd presence, and sheding there his precious blood for oure redempcion, and from thens ascended unto his Fader in heuen. And what worship had he at Rome, in the presence of our holy fader the pope? And so in alle other places unto his deth, at which deth every man that was there might lerne to die, and take his deth patiently; wherin I hope, and doubt not, but that God receyued his soule into his everlastyng blysse. For, as I am informed, he ryght aduysedly ordeyned all his thynges, as well for his last will of worldly goodes, as for his soule helthe, and pacyently and holyly, without grudchyng, in charyte to fore, that he departed out of this world, which is gladsom and joyous to here. Thene I here recommend his soule unto your prayers; and also, that we, at our departyng, may depart in such wyse, that it may plesse our Lord God to receyve us into his evirlastyng blysse. Amen. Explicit per Caxton.

Short folio, containing together 120 leaves, in the possession of Sir P. Thompson, William Jones, at Cambridge, &c. See N^o. II. and III. of the specimen.

^a This John, lord Tiptoft, earl of Worcester, was born at Everton in Cambridge-shire, educated in Baliol college, Oxon, travelled into the holy-land, and after his pilgrimage was three years in Italy, where pope Pius II. shed tears of joy at his eloquent oration. He was twice lord-high-treasurer of England, and in 1467, deputy to George, duke of Clarence, lord-lieutenant of Ireland. Being attainted by parliament he was beheaded anno 1470. &c. See British Libr. p. 260.

20 Nov. 1481. GODEFROY OF BOLOYNE; OR, THE LASTE SIEGE AND CONQUESTE OF JHERUSALEM.

It begins,

The hye couragious faytes, and valyaunt actes of noble, illustrious, and vertuous personnes ben digne to be recounted, put in memorye, and wreton, to thende that ther may be gyuen to them name immortal by souerayn laude and preysyng. And also for to moeue and tenflawme the hertes of the redars and hierers, for teschew and flee werkes vycious, dishonnest, and vytuperable, and for tempryse and accomplysshe enterpryses honnestes, and werkes of glorious meryte to lyue in remembraunce perpetuel. For as it is so, thystoriagraphes have wreton many a noble hystorye, as wel in metre as in prose. By whiche thaftes and noble fayttes of thauncyent conquerors ben had in remembraunce, and remayne in grete, large, and aourned volumes, and so shall abyde in perpetuel memorye, to thentente that glorious prynces, and hye men of noble and vertuous courage shold take ensample tempryse werkys leeful and honneste. Fyrst, for goddes quarell, in mayntenynge oure fayth, and the liberties of holy chirche; for the recuperacion of the Holy Land, whiche our blessyd Lord Jhesu Criste hath halowed by his blessyd presence humayne, and by shedyng therein for oure redempcion his precious blood; for the releef of suche cristen men, as there dwelle in grete myserye and thraldom; and also for the defence of theyr royammes, londes, enherytages, and subgettes. And for thye causes tendevoyre theym in theyr noble personnes, with alle theyr puyssaunces and power to addresse and remyse theym in theyr auntyent fraunchyses and lyberte, accordyng to that we fynde wreton in holy scripture, of many noble historyes, which were here ouer long to reherse. But in especial of thre noble and mooste worthy of alle other, that is, to wytte, fyrst of duc Josue, that noble prynce, whiche ladde and conduyted the children of Israhel, the chosen people of God, oute of deserte into the londe of promysyon, the londe flowynge mylke and hony. Secondly, Of Davyd, the kynge and holy prophete, whome God chaas after his herte, and acheyeyd many grete bataylles, gouernynge the sayd chosen people of God by the space of fourty yeris. And the thyrde of the noble Judas Machabeus, how he defended the sayd people in fyghting many and marvellous batayles, for vary zeele and love of his lawe, and mayntenynge of the same unto the ideth. For which causes aforesayd the names of thyse thre abyde perpetuel for thre of the most best and noblest of the Jewys, and in the nombre of the most digne and most worthy.

And by cause valyaunce end prowess is remembryd emong the gentyles and paynmes, as emong thebrewes. I find wreton of the incredible, cheualrous prowesse of the noble and valyaunt Hector of Troye, whos excellent actes, wryten Ouyd, Homer, Virgyle, Dares, Dyctes, and other dyuerse, and eche better than other, reherching his noble vertues, strengthe, and humanyte. Secondly, of Alysaundre the grete, kinge of Macedone, which domyned and had to hym obeysaunt the vnyuersal world. And the thyrde thyrd the noble Julius Cezar, emperor of Rome, whos noble actes ben wreton by poetes, as Lucan, Stace, and other, and dayly remembryd as newe and fresshe as he yet lyuyd, whiche three ben sette as for the moost worthy among the gentyles and panems.

Now lete us thenne remembre what hystories ben wreton of cristen men, of whom ther be many wreton. But in especial, as for the best and worthyest, I find first, the glorious, most excellent in his tyme, and first founder of the round table, kyng Arthur, kyng of the Brytons, that tyme regnyng in this royaume, of whos retenue were many noble kynges, prynces, lordes, and knyghtes, of which the noblest were kyghtes of the round table, of whos actes and histories there be large volumes and bookes grete plente and many. O blessyd Lord, whan I remembre the grete and many volumes of seynt Graal, Ghalehot, and Launcelotte de Lake, Gawayne Perceual, Lyonel, and Tristram, and many other, of whom were ouer long to reherse, and also to me unknowen. But thystorye of the sayd Arthur is so glorious and shynyng, that he is stalled in the first place of the mooste noble, best, and worthyest of the cristen men. Secondly, of Charlemayn, the grete emperour of Allemayne, and kyng of Fraunce, whos noble actes and conquestes ben wreton in large volumes, with the noble faytes and actes of his douze pieres, that is to saye, Rowland and Olyuer, with the other, whos name and renomme abydeyth also perpetuel, and is stalled in the second among the most worthy of cristen men. Of all thyse hystories a for reherced, the bookes and volumes ben had in Latyn, Frenssh, and Englysshe, and other langage.

Thenne, as for the thyrd of the cristen prynces, taken, reputed, and renommed for to be egal among thyse worthy and best that ever were, I mene the noble Godefray of Boloyne, whiche now but late, not yet four C. yere syth he flowred, and was stalled in the thyrd stalle of the moost worthy of crysten men, whos historye is made and wreton in Latyn and Frenssh, in large and grete volumes, and as not knowen among us here, whiche ben adjacent and neighbours to the place of his natyuyte, whos noble hystorye I late fonde in a booke of Frenssh, al along of his noble actes, valyaunces, prowesses, and accomplysshment of his hye empryses, in whiche I fynde very causes as me semeth moche semblable and lyke unto suche, as we haue nowe dayly to fore vs, by the mescreauntes and Turkes emprysed ayenst Cristendom. And yet moche more nowe than were in his dayes; for in his dayes the Turkes had conquerd vpon Cristendom, but vnto the Braas of seynt George by Constantynople, and had no foote on this syde the sayd Braas. But at this daye it is so, that they haue comen ouer and goten that imperyal cyte Constantynople a foresayd, and many royaume and contre, to the grete damage and hurte of alle Cristendom, to the resistance of whom as yet fewe cristen prynces haue put theym in deuoyre. Thenne I retorne agayn unto the conqueste at suche tyme as they were come to the sayd braas, that by the dylygent sollicitude of a pour heremyte, the sayd Godeffroy of Boloyne, and other dyuerse prynces, lordes, and comyn peple, auowed the croysyng and empyrse to wa're agayn the miscreauntes, and to recouere the holy cyte of Jherusalem, whiche afterward they achyeuyd, and conquered fro the sayd braas unto the holy lande, and recouered the holy cyte of Jherusalem, as in this sayd book al alonge and playnly shall appere. In whiche cyte the sayd Godeffroy was elect and chosen for his vertue, prowesse, and blessyd disposicion, to be kyng of the sayd Jherusalem, and the londe therabout.

Thenne, I thus vysytyng this noble hystorye, whiche is no fable ne fayned thyng, but all that is therin trewe; considerynge also the grete puyssaunce of the Turke, grete enemye of oure crysten fayth, destroyar of cristen blood, and vsurpar of certayn empyres, and many cristen royaumes and countrees, and now late this sayd yere hath assaylled the cyte and castel in the isle of Rhodes, where valyantly he hath be resisted: but yet, notwithstandyng he hath approached more ner, and hath taken the cyte of Ydronte in Puylle, by whiche he hath gotten an entre to entre in to the royaume of Naples, and fro thens, withoute he be resisted, vnto Rome and Ytalye, to whos resistance I beseech almyghty God to prouyde, yf it be his wyll. Thenne me semeth it necessary and expedyent for alle crysten prynces to make peas, amyte, and allyaunce eche with other, and prouyde by theyr wysedommes, the resistance agayn hym for the defense of our fayth and moder holy chirch, and also for the recuperacion of the holy londe, and holy cyte of Jherusalem, in whiche our blesyd saviour Jhesu Crist redemed vs with his precious blood, and to doo as this noble prynce Godeffroy of Boloyne dyde, with other noble and hye prynces in his companye. Thenne, for the exhortacion of all cristen prynces, lordes, barons, knyghtes, gentilmen, marchantes, and all the comyn peple of this noble royaume, Walys, and Yrlond, I haue empyrsed to translate this book of the conquest of Jherusalem out of Frenssh into our maternal tongue, to thentente tencourage them by the redyng and heeryng of the merueyllous historyes herin comprysed, and of the holy myrales shewyd, that euery man in his partye endeouyre them vnto the resistance a foresayd, and recuperacion of the sayd holy londe. And for as moche as I knowe no cristen kyng better prouyd in armes, and for whom God hath shewed more grace, and in alle his empyrses glorious vaynquysshour, happy and eurous, than is our naturel, lawful, and soueraygn lord, and moost cristen kyng, Edward, by the grace of God kyng of Englund and of Fraunce, and lorde of Yrlond, vnder the shadowe of whos noble protection I haue achyved this symple translacion, that he of his moost noble grace wold adresse, styre, or commaunde somme noble capytayne of his subgettes to empyrse this warre agayn the sayd Turke and hethen peple, to whiche I can thynke that euery man wyll put hand to in theyr propre persones, and in theyr meuable goodes. Thenne to hym my moost drad naturel and souerayn lord I adresse this symple and rude booke, beseeching his moost bounteuous and haboundaunt grace to receyue it of me, his indigne and humble subgette, William Caxton, and and to pardonne me so presumynge, besechyng almyghty God, that this sayd booke may encourage, mocue, and enflamme the hertes of somme noble men, that by the same the mescreauntes maye be resisted and putte to rebuke, crysten fayth encreaced and enhaunced, and the holy lande, with the blessyd cyte of Iherusalem, recouered, and may come agayn in to cristen mens hondes. Thenne, I exhorte alle noble men of hye courage to see this booke, and here it redde, by which ye shal see what wayes were taken, what noble prowesses and valyaunces were aschyeuyd by the noble companyes, and especial by the said noble prynce, Godeffroy of Boloynes, duc of Loreyne, by whiche he deseruyd the name of one of the moost worthy that euer were, and ys stilled in the thyrd stalle of the cristen conquerours, and in the nynthe of the moost worthy, where his name and renomme shal remayne and abyde perpetuel. And for to deserue the tenth place, I beseche almyghty God to graunte and ottroye to our sayd souerayn lord, or to one of his noble progenye, I meane my lord prynce, and my lord Richard, duc of Yorke and Norfolke, to whom I humbly beseche, at theyr leyzer and playsyr, to see and here redde this symple booke, by which they may be encoraged to deserue lawde and honour, and that their name and renomme may encrease, and remayne perpetuel; and after thys lyf short and transytorye, all we may atteyne to come to the euerlastyng lyf in heuen, where is ioie and reste withoute ende.

Amen.

Then the booke is divided into 212 chapters :

Thus endeth this booke, intituled, the laste siege and conquest of Iherusalem, with many other historyes therin comprysed; fyrst, of Erades, and of the meseases of the cristen men in the holy londe, and of their releef and conquest of Iherusalem, and how Godeffroy of Boloynes was first kyng of the Latyns in that royaume, and of his deth, translated and reduced out of Frensshe into Englysshe by me symple persone Wylliam Caxton, to thende that euery cristen man may be the better encoraged tenterprise warre for the defense of Cristendom, and to recouer the sayd cyte of Iherusalem, in which oure blessyd sauour Ihesu Crist suffred deth for al mankynde, and roose fro deth to lyf, and fro the same holy londe ascended into heuen; and also, that cristen peple, one vnyed in a veray peas, myght empryse to goo theder in pylgremage with strong honde for to expelle the Sarasyns and Turkes out of the same, that our lord myght be ther seruyd and worshipped of his chosen cristen people, in that holy and blessyd londe, in which he was incarnate and blissyd it with the presence of his blessyd body, whyles he was here in erthe emonge vs; by whiche conquest we myght deserue, after this present, short, and transytorye lyf, the celestial lyf to dwelle in heuen eternally, in joye without end. Amen. Which booke I presente vnto the mooste cristen kynge, kynge Edward the fourth, humbly besechyng his hyenes to take no displesyr at me so presumyng. Whiche booke I began in Marche the xii daye, and fynnysshyd the vii day of Juyn, the yere of our lord MCCCC LXXXI, and the XXI yere of the regne of our our sayd sauerayn lord kyng Edward the fourth. And in this manner sette in forme, and enprynted the xx day of Nouembre, the yere aforsayd, in thabbay of Westmester, by the sayd Wyllyam Caxton.

THE POLYCRONICON OF RANULPH HIGDEN, MONK OF CHESTER.

Translated from the Latin of Trevisa, vicar of the parish of Berkley, at the request of the right worshipful Thomas lord of Berkley, which translation was finished in MS. upon Thursday, the 18th of April, 1357, in the 31st year of the reign of king Edward III. The said Thomas lord of Berkley being then aged 35 years, according to which account he was born 1322, 16 Edward II.

This Trevisa, as is said by Wynken de Word, 1495. translated out of Latin into English, the holy Bible, and Bartholemeus de proprietatibus rerum.

This Polychronicon, as printed by Mr. Caxton, contains eight books, the first seven being the work of Higden, which comes no further than the year 1357, (31 of Edward III.) where he concludes. But Mr. Caxton hath continued this work by adding thereto the last book, and by this means hath brought down his history to the year 1460, or the 1st year of Edward IV. containing an additional period of one hundred and three years.

The Polychronicon, containing eight books, would make two handsome volumes, being equally divided into four books, each volume.

The first entrance into this history is first by a preface or proeme, containing four pages. Secondly, An alphabetical table of persons, places, and principal things, containing 32 pages. Thirdly, A dialogue between a clerk, the lord and the vicar of Berkley, containing four pages and an half. Fourthly, The epistle of John Trevisa unto Thomas of Berkley, containing 35 lines.

At the end of his book,

God be thanked of al his dedes, this translacion is ended on a thurs-daye, the eightenthe daye of Apryll, the yere of our lord a thousand thre honderd and lvii, the xxxi yere of kyng Edward the thyrd, after the conquest of Englonde, the yere of my lordes age, Sir Thomas, lord of Berkley, that made me make this translacion, fyue and thyrty.

Then comes Caxton's addition, Liber ultimus, at the beginning of which it is thus printed:

Thus endeth the book named Proloconyon, made and compiled by Ranulph, monke of Chestre, whiche ordeyned it in Latin, and atte request of the ryght worshipful lord, Thomas lord of Berkeley, it was translated in to Englysshe by one Trevisa, thenne vycarye of the parysh of Barkley. And for as moche as syth the accomplysshement of this sayd booke, made by the sayd Ranulph, ended the yere of our Lord MCCC LVII, many thynges haue fallen, whiche ben requysyte to be added to this werke, bycause mennes wyttes in this tyme ben oblyuous and lyghtly forgotten many thyngys dygne to be put in memorye; and also there cannot be be founden in these dayes but few that wryte in theyr regysters suche thynges as dayly happen and falle. Therefore I, William Caxton, a symple persone, haue endeuyred me to wryte fyrst ouer all the sayd booke of Proloconyon, and somewhat haue chaunged the rude and old English, that is to wete, certain wordes, which in these days be neither vsyd ne vnderstanden; and furthermore haue put it in enprynte, to thend that it may be had, and the matters therof comprised to be knowen; for the boke is general, touching shortly many notable matters; and also am auysed to make another booke after this sayd werk, whiche shall be sette here after the same, and shall haue his chapyters and his table a parte; for I dare not presume to sette my booke ne ioyne hit to his, for dyuerse causes, one is, for as moche as I haue not, ne can get no bokes of auctoryte treatyng of suche cronykes, except a lytel boke named Fasciculus temporum, and another called Aureus de vniuerso, in whiche bookes I find ryght lytel mater syth the sayd tyme; and another cause is, for as moche as my rude symplenesse, and ignorant makyng ought not to be compared, set ne ioyned to his booke. Thenne I shal, by the grace of God, set my werke after aparte, for to accomplishe the yeres syth that he fynysshed his booke, vnto the yere of our Lord MCCCC LX, and the fyrst yere of the regne of kyng Edward the fourth, whiche amounte to an hondred and thre yere.

Incipit liber ultimus. Fol. CCCLXXXI.

Thenne followyng this fore wretton booke of Policronycon I haue emprised to ordeyne this newe booke, by the suffraunce of almyghty God, to contynue the sayd werk briefly, and to set in hystoriall thynges, such as I haue, conne gete, from the tyme that he lefte, that was in the yere of our Lord a thousand thre hondrede and seven and fyfty, vnto the yere of our sayd Lorde a thousand four hondred and sixty, and to the fyrst yere of the regne of kynge Edward the fourth.

And here I make an end of this lytell werke as nygh as I can fynde, after the forme of the worke to fore made by Ranulph monke of Chestre. And where as there is fawte, I beseche them that shall rede it to correcte it, for if I coulede have founde moo stories I woulde have sette in it moo; but the substaunce that I can fynde and knowe I have shortly set them in this boke, to the entente that such thynges as haue bene done syth the deth or end of the sayd booke of Polycronycon sholde be hadde in remembraunce, and not put in oblyuyon ne forgettynge, prayenge all them that shall se thys symple werke to pardonne me of my symple and rude wrytynge.

Ended second of Juyll, xxii. Edward iv. a thousand four hondred and fourscore and tweyne. *

LIBER FESTIVALIS; OR, DIRECTIONS FOR KEEPING FEASTS ALL THE YEAR.

In the prologue of this book (you will find) that for thelp of suche clerkes this booke was drawn to excuse them for defaulte of bookes, and by simpleness of cunnyng, and to shew unto the people what the holy saints suffered and did for God's sake, and for his love, so that they should have the more devotion in God's saints, and with the better will come to the church to serve God, and pray his saints of their help.^b

Then follow sermons on nineteen sundays and festivals, beginning with the first sunday in Advent, and ending with Corpus Christi day. The next are discourses on forty-three holidays^c. Then follows a sermon De dedicatione ecclesie, or on the church-holiday, at the end of which is, explicit, Enprinted at Westmynster by William Caxton, the laste daye of Juyn, anno Domini 1483. After this follow four sermons; the first of these begins thus:

The maister of sentence in the second booke, and first distinction sayth, that the soverayn cause why God made al creatures in heuen, erthe, or water was his own goodness. Quarto.

These four discourses I find printed in many books afterward.

CONFESSIO AMANTIS.

2 Sept.
1483.

That is to saye in Englysshe, the Confessyon of the louver, maad and compyled by John Gower, squyer, borne in Walys, in the tyme of kyng Richard the second, which book treteth how he was confessyd to Genyus, preest of Venus, upon the causes of love, in his fyve wyttes, and seven dedely synnes, as in thys sayd book al along appyereth; and bycause there been comprysed therein dyvers hystories and fables towchyng every mater, I have ordeyned a table here followyng of all suche hystories and fables, where and in what book and leef they stande in, as here after followeth.

¶ Fyrst the prologue, how Johan Gower, in the xvi. yere of kyng Rychard the second began to make thys book, and dyrected to Harry of Lancastre thenne erle of derby.

Of the state of the royames temporally the sayd yere.

Of the state of the clergy the tyme of Robert Gylbonensis namyng hymself Clement, thenne antipope.

Of the estate of the comyn people.

How he treatyth of the ymage that Nabugodonosor sawe in hys sleep, havyng an heed of golde, a breste of sylver, a bely of brasse, legges of yron, and feet half yron and half erth.

Of thenterpretacion of the dreame, and how the world was fyrst of gold, and after alway werse and werse.

Thus endeth the prologue.

On the last leaf is printed: Orate pro anima Joannis Gower, quicunque enim pro anima ipsius Johannis Gower oraverit, tociens quociens mill. quingentos dies indulgencie ab ecclesia rite concessos misericorditer in domino possedebit. En-printed at Wesmestre, by me, William Caxton, and fynyshe the 2 day of Septembre, the fyrst yere of kyng Rychard the third, a thousand cccc lxxxiii.

I take the last x to be added, through hurry or mistake, for 1483, as plainly appears. The book contains 211 leaves in possession of J. West, esq;

THE GOLDEN LEGEND.

Has, in the beginning, a wooden cut filled with a large group of saints, and many other particular cuts distributed in the body of the work. It is entituled, Legenda Aurea, called the Golden Legende, wherein ben conteyned alle the hygh and grete festys of our Lord, the festys of our blessyd lady, the lyues, passyons, and miracles of many other sayntes, and other hystories and acts, translated out of Frenshe.

For as much as this said worke was great and over chargeable to me to accomplish, I fered me to have contemned it, because of the long time of the translation, and also the imprinting of the same, and in manner halfe desperate to have accomplished it, was in porpose to have left it, after I had beion to translate it, if it had not ben at the request of the puissant, noble, and vertius erle, my lord William, erle of Arondell, wich desiered me to prosed and conteneu the said work, and promised to take a resonable quantity of them, when they were acheved and accomplished; and sent to me a worshipfull gentleman, a seruant of his, named John Stanney, which solesed me in my lord's name, that I should in no wyse leue it, but accomplish it, promising that my said lord should, during my life, geve and grant to me a yerely fee, that is to wete, a buck in sumer, and a doo in winter, with which fee I hould me wel content. Thenne atte contemplacion and reverence of my sayd lord, I have endeuered me to make an end and fynish the said translation, and also have imprinted it in the most best wise that I have, coude, or might, and presente this said booke to his good and noble lordship, as chiefe causer of the acheving of hit, praying him to take it in gree, Will. Caxton, his pour servant, and that it licke him to remember my fee; and I shall pray unto almighty God for his long life and welfayer, and after this short and transitory life to come into everlasting joy in heven, the which he send to hym and me, and unto all them that shall read and have this said booke, that for the love and feyeth of whome all these holy santes hath sofered death and passion. Amen.

Because St. George is our English patron, accept the close of his life from folio CLVIII. of it.

Thys blessyd and holy martyr, saynt George, is patrone of thys roiaume of Englonde, and the crye of men of warre, in the worship of whom is founded the noble ordre of the garter, and also a noble college in the castle of Wyndesore, by kynges of Englonde, in whiche college is the herte of saynt George, whyche Sygysmond, the emperor of Almayn, brougte and gafe for a grete and a precious relique to kyng Harry the fyfthe; and also the sayd Sygismonde was a broder of the sayd garter; and also there is a pyece of his heed: which college is nobly endowed to thonoure and worshyp of almyghty God, and hys blessyd martyr saynt George. Thenne lete us praye unto hym, that he be special protectour and defendour of thys royaume. Thus endeth the lyf of saynt George. And folio cccclxxxix. Thus endeth the lyf of saynt Saturnine. Thys feste is the last feste of the yere, for to begynne at the feste of saynt Andrew, and hereafter shall folowe dyuers feestes, whiche been added and sette in thys sayd book, called the Golden Legend.

With a table. Finished at Westmenster the 20 day of November, MCCCCLXXXIII. the first yere of the rayne of Rychard the thyrd. The largest book he ever printed, and in two columns.

The folios are numbered to ccccxvii. The character, or letter, is the N^o. III. and IIII. of the specimen. Is in my own and others possession. He reprinted this book several times, and, by the church-wardens accounts of St. Margaret's Westminster, so late as 1497. I find he had bequeathed some to that church; from whence it should appear Caxton made a will, which I have sought for, but hitherto in vain.

Here begynneth the prologue or prohemye of the book callid Caton, which booke hath been translated into Englysshe by mayster Benet Burgh^a, late arch-deken of Colchestre, and hye chanon of saynt Stephen's at Wesmestre, which ful craftly hath made, in balad ryal, for the erudicion of my lord Bousher, sone and heyr at that tyme to my lord the erle of Estsex; and bycause of late cam to my hand a book of the said Caton in Frensshe, which reherseth many a fayr lernyng and notable ensamples, I have translated it oute of Frensshe in to Englysshe, as al along here after shall appiere, whiche I presente unto the cyte of London.

Unto the noble, auncyent, and renommed cyte, the cyte of London in Englund, I, William Caxton, cytezeyn and conjurye of the same, and of the fraternyte and felauship of the mercerye, owe of ryght my ser-vyse and good wyll, and of very dute am bounden naturelly to assiste, ayde, and counceille, as ferforth as I can to my power, as to my moder, of whom I have receyved my nourcture and lyuyng, and shall praye for the good prosperite and polecye of the same duryng my lyf, for as me semeth it is of grete nede, bycause I have knowen it in my yonge age moche more welthy, prosperous, and rycher than it is at this day, and the cause is, that there is almost none that entendeth to the comyn wele, but only every man for his singuler prouffyte. O whan I remember the noble Romainys, that for the comyn wele of the cyte of Rome, they spent not only theyr moevable goods, but they put theyr bodyes and lyves in jeopardy, and to the deth, as by many a noble ensample we may see in the actes of Romans, as of the two noble Scipions, Affrican and Asyan, Actilius, and many other; and amonge al other the noble Catho, auctor and maker of this book, whiche he hath lefte for to remayne ever to all the peple for to lerne in hit, and to knowe how every man ought to rewle and governe hym in this lyf, as well for the lyf temporall, as for the lyf spyrytuel. And, as in my judgment, it is the beste book for to be taught to yonge children in scole, and also to peple of every age, it is full convenient yf it be wel vnderstanden. And bycause I see that the children that ben borne within the sayd cyte encrease, and prouffyte not like theyr faders and olders, but for the mooste parte, after that they ben comeyn to theyr parfight yeres of discrecion, and rypenes of age, how well that theyre faders have lefte to them grete quantite of goodes, yet scarcely amonge ten two thryue. I have seen and knowen in other londes, in dyuers cytees, that of one name and lynage successyvely have endured prosperously many heyres, yea v. or vi. hundred yere, and some a thousand; and in this noble cyte of London, it can vnnethe contynue unto the thyrde heyr, or scarcely to the second. O blessyd Lord, whan I remembre thys I am al abasshyd; I can not juge the cause, but fayrer, ne wyser, ne bet bespoken children in theyre youghte ben nowher than ther ben in London; but at thyr ful rypng there is no carnel ne good corn founden, but chaff for the moost parte. I wote wel there be many noble and wyse, and prove wel, and ben better and richer than ever were theyr faders; and to thende, that many myght come to honoure and worshyppe, I entende to translate this sayd book of Cathon, in whiche I doubte not, and yf they wylle rede it, and understande, they moche be the better conne rewl themselves therby; for among all other bookes this is a singular book, and may well be callyd the regyment, or governaunce of the body and sowle.

There was a noble clerk named Pogius, of Florence, and was secretary to pope Eugeny, and also to pope Nycholas, which had, in the cyte of Florence, a noble and well stuffed librarye, whiche all noble straungyers comynge desyred to see, and therin they fonde many noble and rare bookes, and whan they had axyd of hym which was the best booke of them alle, and that he reputed for the best, he sayd, that he held Cathon glosed for the best book of his lyberary, &c.

At the end are these words, Cathon translated out of French into English by William Caxton, in the abbey of Westmyntre, 1483, the first yere of Richard the thyrd, 23d Decembre. Divided into four books, containing 72 beads.

THE KNYGHT OF THE TOURE.

31 Jan. 1483. The book of thensignmentes and techinge of the Knight of the Toure, made to his doughters. And speket of many fayr ensamples.

The Prologue.

Alle vertuosse doctryne and teaching, had and lerned of suche as have endeuoured them to leave for a remembraunce after theyr deth to us, by whiche we ben emfourmed in seyence, wysedom and understanding, of

of knowleche, hou we ought to rewle our self in this present lyf, have caused us to know many good reulas, and vertuose maners to be governed by. Emonge al other, this book is a special doctryne and techyng, by whiche al yong gentyl wymen especially, may lerne to behaue them self vertuosly, as wel in their vyrgynyte as in their wedlok and wedowhede, as al along shal be more playnly said in the same, which book is comen to my handes, by the request and desyre of a noble lady, which hath brought forth many noble and fayr doughters, which ben vertuosly nourished and lerned; and for very yiele and love that she hath alway had to her fayr children, and yet hath for to have more knouleche in vertue, to thende that they may alway persevere in the same, hath desired and required me to translate and reduce this said book out of Frenssh into our vulgar English, to thende that it may the better be understonde of al suche as shal rede or hare it; wherfor atte contemplacion of her good grace, after the lytel connyng that God hath sent me, I have endeuyred me to obey her noble desyre and request; in whiche werke I fynd many vertuous good enseynementis and lernynges, by evident histories of auctorite, and good ensamples, for al maner of peple in generally, but in especial for ladyes and gentil wymen, doughters to lordes and gentilmen; for whiche book al the gentil wymen now lyvyng, and hereafter to come, or shal be arn bounde to gyue laude, praysyng, and thankynges to the auctor of this book, and also to the lady that caused me to translate it, and to pray for her long lyf and welfare; and when God will calle her fro this transytory lyf, that she may regne in heven sempiternally, where is as joy and blysse without end. Thenne, for as moche as this book is necessary to every gentilwoman, of what estate she be, I advyse every gentelman or woman havynge such children, desyryng them to be vertuosly brought forth, to gate and have this book, to thende that they may lerne hou they ougt to govern them vertuosly in this present lyf, by whiche they may the better and hastlyer come to worship and good renomme. And I desyre all them that shall lerne or see any thyng in this sayd book, by whiche they shall ben the wyser and better, that they gyue laud and thankyng to the sayd ladyes good grace, and also to praye for her. And where as ony defaulte shalle be founde in the reducyng and translatyng into our Englysshe tongue, that it be arretid to me, whiche am ignoraunt, and not expert in the werk, thoug so be that I have emprysed here to fore to smatre me in suche translacions, which I confesse and knowleche me ignoraunt, and therein to be imperfect, wherefore I humbly require and byseche my sayd good lady pardonne me of my symple and rude reducyng; and yf ony thyng be sayd or made unto her pleasyre, than I thynke my labour wel employed, whome I humbly byseche to receyve this lytel book in gree and thanke; and I shall pray to almyghty God for her longe and good lyf, and to send to her, after this shorte and transytory lyf, everlastyng lyf in heven. Amen. And alle other that be understanding and fyndyng ony defaulte, I requyre and pray them, of theyre charyte, to correct and amend

amend hit; and so doying they shall deserve thanke and meryte of God, to whome I shall pray for them.

The Authors prologue begins thus :

In the yere of our Lord a M. 3 c. 71, as I was in a garden, under a shaddow, as it were in thyssue of Aprylle, all moornyng and pensyf, but a lytel I rejoyced me in the sowne and songe of the fowles sauage, whiche songe, in theyr langage, as the merle, the manys, the thrustell, and the nyghtyngale, whiche were gay and lusty; this swete songe enlustyed me, and made myn herte all temoye, &c.

This small quarto, containing 50 leaves, is perhaps one of the scarcest books now remaining of our first printer, seeing it has so little occurred to those, who have attempted to give us any catalogues of his publications, is now in my possession.

¶ Here begynneth the table of this present booke, intytled, The book of the order of Chyvalry, or Knyghthode. Unto the praysynge and dyvyne glory of God, whiche is lord and soverayne kyng above and over alle thynges celestyal and worldly, we begynne this book of the ordre of chyvalry, for to shewe, that to the sygnefyauce of God, the prynce almighty whiche seignoryeth above the seven planettes that make the cours celestyal, and have power and seignorye in governynge and ordeynynge the bodyes terrestre and erthely, that in lyke wys owen the kynges, prynces, and grete lordes to have puyssaunce and seignorye upon the knyghtes, and the knyghtes, by symplytude, oughten to have power and dominacion over the moyen peple. And this booke conteyneth viii. chapitres. ¶ The first chapitre sayth, how a knyght, beyng an heremyte, devysed to the squyer the rule and ordre of chyvalrye. ¶ The second is of the begynnyng of chyvalry. ¶ The thyrde is of thoffice of chyvalrye. The fourthe of the examynacion that ought to be made to the esquyer, whan he wyll enter in to the ordre of chyvalry. ¶ The fyfthe is in what maner the squyer ought to receyue chyvalry. ¶ The syxthe is of the sygnefyauce of the armes longynge to a knyght al by ordre. ¶ The seventh is of the costommes that appertayne to a knyght. ¶ The eyght is of the honour that oughte to be done to a knyght. Then on each of those heads, and concludes thus :

¶ Here endeth the book of the ordre of chyvalry, whiche book is translated oute of Frensche in to Englysshe, at a requeste of a gentyl and noble esquier, by me, William Caxton, dwellyng in Wesmynstre, besyde London, in the most best wys that God hath suffred me, and accordyng to the copye that the sayd squyer delyuered to me, whiche book is not requysyte to euery commyn man to haue, but to noble gentylmen, that by their vertu entende to come and entre in to the noble ordre of chyvalry, the whiche in these late dayes hath ben used accordyng to this booke here to fore wretton, but forgeten, and thexersytes of chyvalry, not used, honoured, ne exercysed, as hit hath ben in auncyent tyme, at whyche tyme the noble actes of the knyghtes of Englonde, that used chyvalry, were renomed thurgh the vniversal world. As for to speke to fore thyncarnacion of Ihesu Cryste, where were there ever ony lyke to Brenius and Belynus, that from the grete Brytayne, now called Englonde, unto Rome and ferre beyond, conquered many royaumes and londes, whos noble actes remayne in thold hystories of the Romayns: and syth the incarnation of oure Lord, byhold that noble kyng of Brytayne, kyng Arthur, with all the noble knyghts of the round table, whos noble actes and noble chyvalry of his knyghtes, occupye soo many large volumes, that is a worlde, or as thyng incredyble to beleue. O ye knyghtes of Englonde, where is the custome and usage of noble chyualry that was used in the dayes? What do ye now but go to the baynes and play at dyse? And some, not well advysed, use not honest and good rule, ageyn all ordre of knyghthode, leue this, leue it, and rede the noble volumes of St. Graal, of Lancelot, of Galaad, of Trystram, of Perse Forest, of Percyval, of Gawayn, and many mo, ther shall ye see manhode, curtosye and gentylnesse. And loke in latter dayes of the noble actes sith the conquest, as in kyng Rychard dayes cuer du lyon, Edward the fyrst, and the thyrde, and his noble sones, syre Robert Knolles, syr Iohan Hawkwoode, syr Iohan chaundos, and syr Gualtiere Manuy; rede Froissart, and also behold that victoryous and noble kynge Harry the fyfthe, and the capytayns under hym, his noble bretheren, therle of Salysbury, Montagu, and many other, whoos names shyne gloriously by their vertuous noblesse and actes that they did in thonour of thordre of chyvalry. Alas, what doo ye, but sleep and take ease, and ar al disordered fro chyvalry? I wold demaunde a question yf I shold not displease, How many knyghtes ben ther now in Englonde, that have thuse and thexcercise of a knyghte? that is to wete, that he knoweth his hors, and his hors hym; that is to saye, he beyng redy at a poynt to have al thyng that longeth to a knyght, an hors that is accordyng and broken after his hand, his armures and harneys mete and fyttynge, and so forth, et cetera. I suppose and a due serche sholde be made, ther sholde by many founden that lacke, the more pyte is; I wold it pleasyd our soverayne lord, that twyes or thryes a yere, or at the lest ones, he wold do cry iustes of pees, to thende that every knyght shold have hors and harneys, and also the use and craft of a knyght, and also to torne one ageynste one, or ii. against ii. and the best to have a prys, a dyamond or iewel, suche as shold please the prynce. This shold cause gentylmen to resorte to thauncyent custommes of chyvalry to grete fame and renomme, and also to be alwey redy to serve theyr prynce whan he shalle calle them, or have nede. Thenne late every man that is come of noble blood, and entendeth to come to the noble ordre of chyvalry, rede this lytyl book, and do therafter, in kepyng the lore and commaundements therin comprysed, and thenne, I doubt not he shall atteyne to thordre of chyvalry, et cetera.

And thus thys lytyl book I presente to my redoubted, naturel, and most dradde soverayne lord kyng Rychard, kyng of Englund and of Fraunce, to thende that he commaunde this book to be had and redde unto other yong lordes, knyghtes and gentylmen within this royaume, that the noble ordre of chyvalrye, be herafter better used and honoured than hit hath ben in late dayes passed, and herin he shalle do a noble and vertu ose dede. And I shalle pray almyghty God for his long lyf and prosperous welfare, and that he may have victory of al his enemyes, and after this short and transitory lyf to have everlasting lyf in heven, where as is joye and blysse world without ende. Amen.

This book is in quarto, containing 49 leaves, of the specimen N^o. IIII. and VI. has the first initial letter as that at my beginning, and in my possession.

THE BOKE NAMED THE ROYALL.

The ryal book, or book for a kyng, in whiche ben comprysed the x. commandements, the xii. artycles of the fayth, the vii. dedely synnes, the vii. petycions of the pater-noster, the gestes of the holy ghoost, the vii. vertues, &c. This boke was compyled and made at the requeste of kyng Phelyp le Bele of Fraunce, 1279, reduced out of Frenshe into Englysshe by me, Wylliam Caxton, atte requeste of a worshipful marchaunt and mercer of London, whiche instantly requyred me to reduce it for the wele of alle them, that shalle rede or here it, as for a specyall boke to knowe al vyces and braunches of them, and also all vertues, by which, well understooden and seen, may dyrecte a parson to everlastynge blysse, whiche boke is called in Frensshe, Le Livre Royall; that is to say, the royal boke, or boke for a kynge; for the holy scrypture calleth every man a kynge, which wysely and parfytyly can governe and dyrect hymself after vertue. And this boke sheweth and enseyneth it so subtylly, so shortly, so perceyungly, and so parfyghtly, that for the shorte comprehencion of the noble clergy, and the ryght grete substaunce, whiche is comprysed therein, it may and ought to be called well, by ryght and quycke reason, above all other bookes in Frensshe or in Englysshe, The boke ryal, or the boke for a kynge, and also bycause that it was made and ordeyned at request of that ryght noble kynge, Phelyp le bele, kynge of Fraunce, ought to be called ryall, as to fore is sayd, whyche translacyon or reducyng out of Frensshe into Englysshe was achyeued, fynysshed, and accompysshed xiii. Septembre, the second of Richard III.

By Walter Hilton, is mentioned by Mr. Bagford and Mr. Palmer, to be printed this year. I have not seen it myself, but have one in manuscript, and another that was printed by Wynken de Worde in quarto, 1533.

LE MORTE DE ARTHUR.

The lyfe of king Arthur, and of his noble knyghts of the round table, and in thende the dolorous deth of them all. 31 July, 1485.

The Prologue.

After that I had accomplysshed and fynnysshyd dyuers hystories, as well of contemplacyon, as of other historyall and worldly actes of grete conquerours and prynces, and also certeyne boke of ensamples and doctrine, many noble and dyuers gentylmen of thys reame of Englonde, came and demaunded me many and ofte tymes, wherfore that I have not do made, and emprynte the noble history of Sanggreall, and of the most renommed cristen kyng, firste, and cheyfe of the thre, beste cristen and worthy kyng Arthur, whyche oughte moost to be remembred amonge us Englyssh men, to fore al other cristen kynges; for it is notoirly knowen thugh the unyuersal worlde, that there ben ix. worthy, and the best that ever were; that is to wyte, thre Paynymys, thre Jewes, and thre Cristen men. As fore the Paynymys, they were to fore the incarnation of Crist, whyche were namyd, the fyrst Hector of Troye, of whom the history is comen, both in balade and in prose; the second Alysander the grete; and the thyrde Julius Cezar, emperoure of Rome, of whom the histories ben well knowen and had. And as for the thre Jewes, whiche also were to fore the incarnacyon of oure Lorde, of whom the fyrst was duke Josue, whiche broughte the chylde of Israhel in to the londe of byheste; the seconde David kyng of Iherusalem; and the thyrde Iudas Machabeus. Of thise thre the Byble reheryth all ther noble histories and actes. And syth the sayd incarnation have ben thre noble cristen men, stalled and amyttd thugh the unyuersal world, in to the nombre ix. best and worthy of whom was Tyra the noble Arthur, whose noble actes I purpose to wryte in this present boke her followyng; the second was Charlemayn, or Charles the grete, of whom the history is had in many places, both in Frenssh and Englissh; and the thyrde and laste was Godefray of Boloyn, of whose actes and lyf I made a boke unto the excellent prynce and kyng of noble memory, kyng Edward the fourth. The sayd noble gentylmen instauntly requyred me to enprynte the story of the sayd noble kyng and conqueror, kyng Arthur, and of his knyghtes, wyth the hystory of the Sanggreall, and of the deth and endyng of the sayd Arthur, affermyng, that I ought rather to enprynte his actes and noble feates, that of Godefray of Boloyn, or ony of the other viii. consideryng that he was a man born wythin this reame, and kyng and emperour of the same, and that there ben in Frenssh dyverse and many noble volumes of his actes, and also of his knyghtes, to whom I have answerde, that dyverse men holde oppynyon, that ther was no suche Arthur, and that al suche bokes as ben made of hym, be but feyned and fables, by cause that some cronycles make of hym noo mencyon, ne remembre hym no thyng, ne of his knyghtes. Wherto they answerde, and one in specyall sayd, that in him that sholde saye or thynk that ther was never suche a kyng callyd Arthur, myght be arettyd grete folly and blyndnesse; for he said, that there were many evy-dence of the contrary. Fyrst ye may se his sepulture in the monastery of Glastynburye. And also in Polycronycon in the v. bok, the vi. chapyter, and in the seventh boke, the xxiii. chapyter, wher his body was buried, and after founde and translated in to the sayd monestery. Ye shall se also in the histori of Bochas in his boke, De casu principum, part of his noble actes, and also of his falle. Also Galfridus, in his brutyssh boke, recountyth his lyf, and in dyvers places of Englonde, many remembraunces ben yet of hym, and shal remayn perpetually of hym, and also of his knyghtes. Fyrst, in the abbay of Westmestre, at Saint Edwardes shryne, remayneth the prynte of his seale in red waxe, closed in beryl, in whyche is wryten; (Patricius, Artburus, Britannie, Galie, Germanie, Dacie imperator.) Also in the castel of Dover ye may se Gawayns skulle, and Cradoks mantel. At Winchestre the round table. In other places Launcelot's swerde, and many other thynges. Thenne all thise thynges considere, there can no man resonably gaynsaye, but there was a kyng of this lond namyd Arthur; for in al places, crysten and hethen, he is reputyd and taken for one of the ix. worthy, and the fyrst of the thre crysten men. And also he is more spoken of beyond the see, moo bokes made of his noble actes than there ben in Englonde, as well in Duche, Italyen, Spanyssh and Grekyssh, as in Frenssh. And yet of recorde remayne in wytnesse of hym in Walys, in the towne of Camelot, the grete stones, and marvellous werkes of yren lyenge under the grounde, and ryal vautes, whyche dyvers now have seen. Wherefore it is a merveyll why he is no more renommed in his owne countre, sauf only that it accordeth to the word of God, whyche sayth, That no man is accept for a prophete in hys own countree. Thenne all thyse thynges forsayd alledged, I cowde not well denye, but that there was suche a noble kyng namyd Arthur, and reputyd one of the ix. worthy, and fyrst and cheyf of the cristen men. And many noble volumes ben made of hym and of his noble knyghtes in Frensshe, whyche I have seen and redde beyond the see, whych ben not had in our maternal tongue. But in Walsh ben many, and also in Frensshe, and some in Englyssh, but no where nyghe alle. Wherefore suche as have ben late drawn oute bryefly into Englyssh I have, after my symple cunnyng that God hath sent to me, under the favour and correccion of all noble lordes and gentylmen enprysed to enprynt a boke of the noble hystories of the sayd kyng Arthur, and of certen of his knyghtes, after a copy unto me delyuerde,

whyche copi Syr Thomas Malory toke out of certen boke of Frensshe, and reducyd it into Englyssh. And I accordyng to my copi have doon set it in enprynt, to the entent that noble men maye se and rede the noble actes of chivalry, the gentyll and vertuous dedes that some knyghtes used in those dayes, by whyche they came to honour, and how they that were vicyous were punyshed, and oft put to shame and rebuke, humbly besechyng all noble lordes and ladies, wyth all other estates, or comynaltee, of what estate or degree they ben of, that shall se and rede this same boke and werk, that they take and entende to the gode and honest actes in theyr remembraunce, and to folow those same where in they shall welle fynde many joyous and pleysaunt historyes, and the noble and renommed actes of humanyte and gentylness, and chyvalries; for here in may be seen noble chyualrye, curteysye, humanyte, frendlyesse, hardynesse, love, frendshyp, cowardys, murdre, hate, vertue and synne; doo after the good, and leue the evyle, and it shall bryng you to good fame and renomme. And for to passe the tyme this boke shall be pleysaunt to red it; but for to geve faythe and byleve that al is true that is conteyned therin, ye be at youre lyberte. But all is wryten for our doctryne, and for to beware that we fall not to vyce ne synne, but to exercyse and folowe vertue, by whyche we may come and ateyne to gode fame and renomme in this lyf, and after this shorte and transytory lyf to come unto everlastyng blyse in heven, the whyche he graunte us that regneth in the heven, the blessyd Trynyte. Amen.

Thenne to proced forth in this sayd booke, which I dyrect unto alle noble prynces, lordes and ladyes, gentylmen or gentylwymen, that desyre to rede, or here redde of the noble and joyous hystory of the grete conquerour and excellent kyng Arthur, somtyme kyng of this noble reame, thenne called Brytayne, I William Caxton, symple persone, present this boke followyng, whyche I have enprysed to enprynt; and treateth of the noble actes, feates of armes of chyvalry, prowesse, hardinesse, humanyte, love, curteysy, and very gentylnesse, wyth many wonderfull hystories and adventures. And for to understonde breyfly the content of this volume, I have devyded it into xxi. boke, and every boke chapytred as here after shall, bi Goddes grace, folowe.

¶ The fyrst boke shall entreate how Uterpendragon gat the noble and myghty conqueror, kyng Arthur, and conteyneth Chapytres xxviii.

The 2d boke treatyth of Balyn, the noble and valyaunt knyghte, &c. xix.

3d, Of the marryage of king Arthur to quene Guenever, &c. xv.

4th, How Merlyn was assottid, and of war made to kyng Arthur, xxix.

5th, Of the conquest of Lucius the emperor, and contayneth xii.

8th, Of the birth of syr Trystram, the noble knyght, and his actes, xli.

9th, Of

9th, Of a knyght named by syr Kay Le Cote male taylle, and also of syr Tristram,	xliiii.
10th, Of syr Tristram, and other marvelous adventures,	lxxxviii.
11th, Of syr Launcelot and syr Galahad,	xliiii.
12th, Of syre Launcelot and his madness,	xliiii.
13th, How syr Galahad came first to kyng Arthur's court, and how the quest of the sancgreal was begonne,	xx.
14th, Of the quest of the sancgreal, and of the actes of syr Percyval de Galys in the quest of the sancgreal,	x.
15th, Of syr Launcelot in the quest of the sancgreal,	vi.
16th, Of syr Gawayne, syre Actor de Marys, syre Bors and syre Lyonell his brother,	xvii.
17th, Of syr Galahad in quest of the sancgreal,	xxiii.
18th, Of syr Launcelot and quene Gueneuer,	xxv.
19th, Of quene Gueneuer, and of syr Launcelot,	xiii.
20th, Of the piteous deth of kyng Arthur,	xxii.
21st, Of his last departynge, and how syr Launcelot came to revenge his dethe,	xiii.

The somme of this present volume is xxi. bokes, whyche conteyne the somme of v. hundred and vii. chapyters, as more playnly shall folowe hereafter, by the help of Crist.

Explicit Prologus.

Concludes with these words :

And when I am deed, I pray you all pray for my soule ; for the translation of this boke was fynnysshed the ix yere of the reygne of kyng Edward the fourth, by syr Thomas Maleore, knyght, as Ihesu helpe hym for his grete myghte, as he is the servaunt of Ihesu bothe day and nyghte.

Thus endyth this noble and joyous boke, entytled La morte d'Arthur. Notwythstondyng it treateth of the byrth, lyf and actes of the sayd kyng Arthur, of his noble knyghts of the rounde table, theyr merueylous enquestes and adventures, thacheuynge of the sancgreal, and in the ende the dolourous deth and depaytynge out of this worlde of them al ; whyche boke was reduced into Englysshe by syr Thomas Malory, knyght, as afore is sayd, and by me devyded into xxi. bokes, chapitred and enprynted, and fynished in thabbey, Wesmestre, the last day of Juyl, the yere of our Lord M cccc lxxxv. Caxton me fieri fecit.

It is a thick folio, has a wooden cut to each book, character N°. III. and III. of the specimen.

THE LIFE OF CHARLES THE GREAT.

In the second leaf he has a preface, thus :

Saynct Poul, doctour of the church, to us that all things that ben reduced by wrytyng, ben wryton to our doctryne ; and Boece on Consolacion, that the helthe of every persone procedeth dyversly. Thenne sythe it is soo that the cristen feyth is affirmed and corrobited by the doctours of of holy chyrch, nevertheles the thynges passed dyversly, reduced to remembraunce, engendre in us correction of unlawful lyf; for the werkes of the auncient and olde peple ben for to gyve to us ensample to lyue in good and vertuous operacions, digne and worthy of helth, in folowyng the good, and eschewyng the evyl, and also in recountyng of hys hystories, the comune understandyng is better content to the ymagynacion local, than to symple auctoryte, to which it is submysed: I say this gladly, for oftymes I have ben excyted of the venerable man, messire Henry Bolomyer, chanonne of Lausanne, for to reduce for his playsyr somme hystories, as wel in Latyn and in romaunce, as in other facion wryton; that is to say, of the ryght puissaunt, vertuous and noble Charles the grete, kyng of Fraunce, and emperour of Rome, sonn of the grete Pypyn, and of his prynces and barons, as Rolland, Olyuer, and other, touching somme werkes haultayne, doon and commysed by their grete, strong, and ryght ardaunt courage, and to the exaltacyon of the crysten men, and to the confusyon of the hethen, Sarazyns, and myscreaunts, whiche is a werk wel contemplatyf to lyue wel. And bycause the sayd Henry Bolomyer hath seen of thys mater, and ne hystories dysioyned wythout ordre; therefore, at his request, after the capacitye of my lytel entendement, and after thystories and mater that I have founden, I have ordeyned this book folowyng. And it myght so have ben, that yf I had ben more largely enformed, and al playn, I had better made it; for I have not sayd ony matere but I have therof ben enformed, fyrst, by an autentyke book named Myrrour hystorial, as by the canones and somme other bookes, whiche make mencyon of the werke folowyng. And by cause I may have a lytel parte of honourable foundement, I shall touche of the first cristen kyng of Fraunce; for the moste parte of this book is made to thonour of the Frensshemen, and for prouffyte of every man; and after the desyre of the reder and herer, there shalle be bounden in the table, all playne, the mater of whyche the persone shal have desyre to here or rede, wythout grete atedyacyon, by the playsyr of God, to whome I allotte al myn entente to wryte nothyng that ought to be blamed, ne but that it be to the helthe and saluacion of every person.

Thenne, for as moche I late had fynysshed in prynte the book of the noble and victoryous kyng Arthur of the thre moste noble and worthy of crysten kynges; and also tofore had reduced into Englysshe the noble hystorie and lyf of Godefroy of Boloyn, kyng of Jherusalem, last of the sayd iii. worthys: somme persones of noble estate and degree have desyred me to reduce thystorie of the noble and crysten prynce, Charles the grete, kyng of Fraunce and emperour of Rome, the second of the thre worthy, to thende that thystories, actes, and lyues may be had in our maternal tongue lyke as they be in Latyn or in Frensshe, for the most quantyte of the people understonde not Latyn ne Frensshe here in this noble royaume of England; and for to satysfye the desyre and requeste of my good synguler lordes and specyal maysters and frendes, I have

enprysed, and concluded in my self to reduce this same book into our Englysshe, as all alonge and playnely ye may rede, here, and see in this book here followyng, besechyng al them that shall fynde faute in the same, to correcte and amende it, and also to pardonne me of the rude and symple reducyng, and though so there be no gaye termes, ne subtyl, ne new eloquence, yet I hope that it shal be understonden, and to that entente I have specially reduced it, after the symple connyng that God hath lent to me, wherof I humbly, and with all my herte thanke hym, and also am bounden to pray for my fader and moders soules, that in my youthe sette me to scole, by whyche, by the suffraunce of God, I gete my lyuyng, I hope truly; and that I may so do, and continue, I byseche hym to graunte me of his grace, and so to labour and occupye my self vertuously, that I may come out of dette and dedely synne, that after this lyf I may come to hys blysse in heuen. Amen.

At the end,

And by cause I, William Caxton, was desired and requyred by a good and singular frende of myn, maister Wylliam Daubeney, one of the treasurers of the jewells of the noble and moost crysten kyng, our naturel and soverayn lord, late of noble memory, king Edward the fourth, on whos soule Jhesu have mercy, to reduce all these sayd hystories into our Englysshe tongue, I have put me in devoyr to translate thys sayd book, as ye here to fore may see al along and playn, praying all them that shall rede, see or here it, to pardon me of thys symple and rude translacyon and reducyng, besechyng them that shall fynde faute to correct it, and so doing they shall deserve thankinges, and I shall pray God for them, who bring them and me, after this short and transytory lyf, to everlasting bliss. Amen. The whych werke was fynnysshed in the reducyng of it in to Englysshe the xviii. day of Juyn, the second yere of kyng Rychard the thyrd, and yere of our Lord MCCCC LXXXV, and enprynted the fyrst day of Decembre the same yere of our Lord, and the fyrst yere of kyng Harry the seventh. Explicit per William Caxton.

THE BOOK OF GOOD MANNERS.

11 May,
1487.

This, Mr. Caxton says, was compiled by the venerable frere Jaques le Graunt, in Latin Jacobus Magnus, lycencyat in theology, religious of the order of St. Austin; and, that the book is of auctorite, for as moche as there is nothyng sayde therein, but for the moost part it is alledged by scripture, or ellis by sayeng of holy seyntes, doctours, philosophres, &c.

It was delivered to Mr. Caxton by a special frende of his, a mercer of London, named William Praat, and translated by him out of Frenshe, and fynyshe and translated the viii. of Juyn, MIIICLXXXVI. and the fyrst yere of kyng Harry vii. and enprynted the xi. of May after, MCCCCLXXXVII. Laus Deo.

Contained in four books, folio. N°. IIII. of the specimen. At Cambridge and other Places.

THE DOCTRINAL OF SAPIENCE.

7 May,
1489.

This booke has no title, and begins with two prologues of the translator, commending the usefulness of it for all sorts of readers, contains 93 chapters, and begins thus :

The ryght reverent fader in God, Guy de Roye, by the dyuine myseracion arche byshop of Sence, hath doon it to be wreton for the helthe of his soule, and of the soules of alle hys people; and in specyal it is made for symple layemen, to styr them up to devotion.

Thus endeth the doctrinal of sapyence, which is ryght vtile and prouffyttable to all cristen men, whyche is translated out of Frenshe into Englysshe by W. Caxton, at Westmestre, and fynysshed vii. of May, MCCCCLXXXIX.

THE FAYT OF ARMES AND CHIVALRY, FROM VEGETIUS.

14 July,

Here begynneth the table of the rubryshys of the boke of the fayt of armes and chyualrye, whiche sayd boke is departyd into four partyes.

The fyrst partye deuyseth the manere that kynges and prynces oughten to holde in the fayttes of theyr werres and battaylles after thordre of bokes, dictees, and examples of the most preu and noble conquerours of the worlde. And how and what maner fayttes ought best to be chosen, and the maners that they ought to kepe and holde in theyr offices of armes. ¶ Item, The second partye speketh after Frontyn of cawteles and subtyltees of armes, whiche he calleth stratagenies of thordre and maner to fyghte and defende castellis and cytees, after Vegece and other auctours. And to make warre and gyve battayle in ryuers, and in the see. Item, The thyrde parte speketh of the droytes and rygtes of armes after the lawes and droyt wreton. Item, The iiij. partye speketh of the droytes of armes in the faytes of sauf-conduytes, of the tryewes of marke, and after of champ of battaylle, that is of fyghtyng withyn lystes.

¶ Thus

¶ Thus endeth this boke, whiche Xpyne of Pyse made and drewe out of the boke named Vegecius de re militari, and out of tharbre of battaylles, with many other thynges sett into the same requisite to werre and battaylles, whiche boke beyng in Frenshe, was delyuered to me, Willm. Caxton, by the most crysten kynge, and redoubted prynce, my naturel and souerayn lord kyng Henry the vii. kyng of Englund and of Fraunce, in his palais of Westmestre the xxiii. day of Janyuere, the iiii. yere of his regne, and desired and willed me to translate this said boke, and reduce it in to our English and natural tonge, and to put it in enprynte, to thende that every gentylman born to armes, and all manere men of werre, captains, souldiours, vytayllers and all other, should have knowledge how they ought to behaue theym in the fayttes of warre and of battaylles, and so delyuered me the sayd book, thenne my lord therle of Oxenford a wayting on his said grace; whiche volume conteynyng four bokes, I receyued of his said grace, and according to his desire, whiche to me I repute a comendement, and verily glad to obeye; and after the lityl connyng that God hath lente me, I have endeuoyred me to the utterest of my power, to fulfyll and accomplishe his desire and comaundement, as well to reduce it in to Englissh, as to put it in enprynte, to thende that it may come to the sight and knowlege of euery gentylman and man of warre, and for certayn in my oppinyon it is as necessary a boke, and as requysite as ony may be for every estate, hye and lowe, that entende to the fayttes of werre, wether it be in battayles, sieges, rescowes, and all other faytes, subtyltees and remedyes for meschieues, which translacyon was finysshed the viii. day of Juyll the said yere, and enprynted the xiiii. day of Juyll next folowing, and ful finysshyd. Thenne, syth I have obeyed his most dredful comaundement, I humbly byseche his most excelent and bounteuous hyenes to pardon me of this symple and rude translacion, where in be no curyous, ne gay termes of rethoryk; but I hope to almighty God, that it shall be entendyble and understanden to every man, and also that it shal not moche varye in sentence fro the cotype receyued of my sayd souerayne lord. And where as I have erryd or made defaulte, I beseche them that fynde suche, to correcte it, and so dooyng I shall praye for them; and yf there be ony thing therin to his pleasir I am glad, and thinke my labour well employed for to have the name to be one of the litel seruantes to the hiest and most cristen kyng and prince the world, whom I byseche almyghty God to preserve, kepe, and contynue in his noble and most redoubted enterpryses, as wel in Bretayn, Flaunders, and other placis, that he may have victorie, honour and renomnee, to his perpetual glorye; for I have not herd, ne redde that ony prynce hath subdued his subgettis with lasse hurte, &c. and also holpen his neighbours and frendis out of his londe. In whyche hye enterpryses, I byseche almyghty God that he may remayne alleway vyctoryous, and dayly encrease fro vertu to vertue, and fro better to better, to his laude and honour in thys present lyf, and that after thys short short and transytorye lyf he may atteyne to everlastyng lyf in heuen, whiche God graunte to hym, and to alle his lyege peple. Amen. Per Caxton.

THE CRAFT TO LEARN TO DYE.

15 June,

Here begynneth a lyttle treatise, short and abreged, spekyng of tharte and crafte to lerne well to deye; translated out of Frensshe into Englishe by William Caxton, the xv. day of Juyn, the yere of our Lord a MIIICLXXX+.

THE BOKE OF ENEYDOS, COMPYLED BY VYRGYLE,

22 June,

Whiche hathe be translated out of Latyne into Englysshe, by me, William Caxton, the 22 daye of Juyn, the yere of our Lorde MCCCCLXXX.

The Preface is as follows:

After dyverse werkes made, translated and achieved, having noo werke in hand, I sittynge in my studye, whereas laye many dyverse paunflettis and bookys, happened that to my hande cam a lytyl book in Frenshe, which late was translated out of Latyn by some noble clerke of Fraunce; whiche booke is named Eneydos, made in Latyn by that noble Poete, and grete clerke, Virgyle, which book I sawe over, and redde therein, how after the generall destruccyon of the grete Troye, Eneas departed, beryng his old fader, Anchises, upon his sholdres, his lityl son Yulus on his hond; his wyfe wyth moche other people followynge; and how he shyped and departed, with alle thystorye of his adventures, that he had er he cam to the achievement of his conquest of Ytalye, as all a longe shall be shewed in this present boke, in which book I had gret playsyr, bycause of

* Livre des Eneides, compile par Virgile, traduit de Latin en François par Guillaume de Roy. Lyon. 1483. See Lewis p. 100, 101. who supposes this to be what is sometimes called, The history of Eneas.

Garwin Duglos, in his translation of the thirteen books of Virgil's Eneados, in the preface has these words on Caxton's faults, as he calls them, Thoch Wylliaume Caxtoun had no compassioun of Virgill in that buk he prent in prois, clepand it Virgill in Eneados, quhilke that he sayis of Frensche he did translait, it has nathing ado therwith God wate, nor na mare like than the deuil and saint Austin, &c.

But to use the words of a Friend of mine, This work contains not an entire version of two or three books only of Virgil's Æneid, as some might imagine from the slender bulk of the book; nor is it here translated into verse, as they might also expect, in imitation of the original; and as nothing appears to the contrary in the title above, printed at the end; but it is rather a reduction of that epick poem to an historical narative in prose; which, though a commendable undertaking at that time, to familiarize the contents, yet, as it is but a translation of a translation, as the original itself is familiar enough now, and we have also many better translations, even in verse, directly from it, the very table of heads, no less than sixty-five, cannot be in this place desirable.

The translator's preface, which contains such observable proofs of the fleeting fashions of our English tongue, as may moderate the conceits of those who depend upon a style, or manner of expression, more than the matter expressed, that will not, like most other things, become obsolete, but maintain its perspicuity, and engage the taste of all ages.

the fayr and honest termes and wordes in Frenche, which I never saw tofore lyke, ne none so playsaunt, ne so well ordered; which booke, as me semed, sholde be moche requysite to noble men to see, as wel for the eloquence as the hystories, how wel that many hondred yerys passed was the sayd booke of Eneydos, with other werkes made and learned dayly in scolis, specyally in Ytalye and other places; whiche historye the sayd Vyrgyle made in metre. And whan I had advised me in this sayd booke, I delybered and concluded to translate it into Englyshe, and forthwyth toke a pen and ynk, and wrote a leef or tweyne, which I oversawe agayn to corecte it; and whan I saw the fayr and straunge termes therein, I doubted that it sholde not please some gentylmen whiche late blamed me, saying, that in my translacyons I had over curyous termes, which coude not be understande of comyn peple, and desired me to use olde and homely termes in my translacyons, and fayn wolde I satisfye every man. And so to doo toke an olde boke and redde therein, and certaynly the Englysshe was so rude and brood, that I coude not wele understande it. And also my lord abbot of Westmynster ded do shewe to me late certayn evydences wryton in old Englysshe, for to reduce it into our Englysshe now usid; and certaynly it was wryton in such wyse, that it was more lyke to Dutche than Englysshe. I coude not reduce ne brynge it to be understooden. And certaynly our langage now used varyeth ferre from that which was used and spoken whan I was born; for we Englyssh men ben borne under the domynacyon of the mone, which is never stedfaste, but ever wauerynge, wexyng one season, and waneth and dyscreaseth another season; and that comyne Englysshe that is spoken in one shyre varyeth from another, insomuche, that in my dayes happened, that certayn merchants were in a shipp in Tamyse, for to have sailed over the see into Zelande, and for lacke of wynde they taryed atte Forland, and went to lande for to refreshe them; and one of them, named Sheffelde, a mercer, came into an hows, and axed for mete, and specyally he axed after egges, and the goode wyf answerde, that she coude speke no Frenshe. And the marchaunt was angry, for he also coude speke no Frenshe, but wolde have hadde egges, and she understode hym not. And thenne at laste another sayd, that he wolde have eyren; thenne the good wyf sayd, that she understode him well. Loo what sholde a man in thyse days now wryte, egges or eyren? Certaynly it is harde to playse every man, by cause of dyversyte and chaunge of langage; for in these days every man, that is in any reputacyon in his countre, will utter his communicacyon and matters in such manners and termes, that fewe men shall understonde them; and some honest and grete clerkes have ben wyth me, and desired me to wryte the moste curyous termes that I coude fynde. And thus between playn, rude and curious, I stand abashed. But in my judgmente, the comyn termes that be dayli used, ben lyghter to be understonde than the old and auntyent Englysshe. And forasmuche as this present booke is not for a rude uplondysh man to labour therein, ne rede it, but only for a clerk and a noble noble gentleman, that feleth and understondeth in faytes of armes, in love, and in noble chyvalry; therfor, in meane, betwene both, I have reduced and translated this sayd booke into our Englysshe, not over rude, ne curyous, but in such termes as shall be understanden, by Goddys grace, accordyng to my cople. And yf ony man wyll entermete in redyng of hit, and fyndeth suche termes that he cannot understande, late hym goo rede and lerne Vyrghyll, or the pystles of Ouyde, and ther he shall see and understande lyghtly all, yf he haue a good redar and enformer; for this booke is not for every rude and unconnyng man to see, but to clerkys and very gentylmen that understands gentylnes and scyence. Then I pray all theym that shall rede in this lyttel treatys, to hold me for excused for the translatyng of hit; for I knowleche myself ignorant of connyng to enpryse on me so hie and noble a werke. But I praye mayster John Skelton, late created poete laureate in the unyversite of Oxenforde, to oversee and correcte this sayd booke, and taddresse and expowne whereas shall be founde faulte, to theym that shall requyre it; for hym I knowe for suffycient to expowne and Englysshe every dyfficulte that is therein; for he hath late translated the epystles of Tulle, and the booke of Dyodorus Syculus, and dyverse other werkes, out of Latyn into Englysshe, not in rude and olde langage, but in polyshed and ornate termes, craftely, as he that hath redde Vyrghyle, Ouyde, Tullye, and all the other noble poets and oratours, to me unknown: and also he hath redde the ix muses, and understands their musicalle scyences, and to whom of them eche scyence is appropred: I suppose he hath dronken of Elycon's well. Then I pray hym, and such other, to correcte, adde, or mynyshe, whereas he, or they, shall fynde faulte; for I have but folowed my cople in Frensshe, as nygh as me is possible. And yf ony worde be sayd therin well, I am glad; and yf otherwyse, I submytte my sayd booke to theyr correctyon; which booke I present unto the hye born my to comyng naturell and soverayne lord, Arthur, by the grace of God, prynce of Walys, duc of Cornwayll, and erle of Chester, fyrst begotten sone and heyer unto our most dradde naturall and soverayn lorde and most crysten kynge Henry the vii. by the grace of God, lord kynge of Englonde, and of Fraunce, and lord of Ireland, byseching his noble grace to receyue in thanke of me his most humble subget and servaunt. And I shall praye unto almighty God for his prosperous encreasyng in vertue, wysdom and humanyte, that he may be egal with the most renouned of alle his progenytours, and so to lyve in this present lyf, that after this transitorye lyf, he and we all may come to everlastyng lyf in heven. Amen.

Here fynyssheth the booke of Eneydos, compyled by Vyrghyle, whiche hath be translated oute of Latyne in to Frenshe, and out of Frenshe reduced in to Englysshe by me, Wyllm. Caxton, the xxii. daye of Juyn, the yere of our Lorde M^{CCCC}LXXX. the fyfthe yere of the regne of kynge Henry the seventh.

The book contains 84 leaves, small folio. N^o. V. of the specimen. In the possession of Sir Peter Thompson, William Jones esq; and others.

Besides.

Besides the forementioned books, which I have put in order of time, as near as I could, there are several others that should be placed among them, which, for want of dates, or other circumstances, may now follow in this order.

This old wooden cut of Caxton, with some others to follow, I bought at the decease of the late earl of Oxford; collected, I imagine, by Mr. Bagford, but their drawings I have seen at Sir Hans Sloane's, bart.

This is mentioned, as printed by him abroad, in these lines of Wynken de Worde's English Edition of Bartholomei, &c.

CHAUCER'S CANTERBURY TALES.

This very early first edition of them is a pretty thick folio, in N^o. II. of the specimen, near 400 leaves, in my own possession ^a, but wants a small matter

^a I take this book to have been printed by Caxton in the year 1475 or 6. It must have had several owners before it fell into the Rev. Mr. T. Baker's hands, who gave it to Mr. J.

Bagford, and he to the late earl of Oxford; after whose decease I bought it. Great industry has been used to compleat it, but without success.

at the beginning and end, has the tales disposed somewhat different from the second edition, which is complete in quarto, bound with some other of his works, at St. John's College, Oxon, communicated to me by that hopeful young man, Mr. Abr. Jos. Rudd, which I shall now give some account of, because it will give light to both.

The Prohemye.

Grete thanks, lawde and honour, ought to be gyven and unto the clerkes, poetes, and historiographs that have wreton many noble bokes of wysedom, of the lyues, passions, and myracles of holy sayntes, of histories, of noble and famous actes, and faittes, and of the cronycles syth the begynnyng of the creacion of the world unto thys present tyme, by whych we ben dayly enformed, and have knowleche of many thynges of whom we shold not have knowen, yf they had not left to us theyr monumentis wreton. Among whom, and inespecial to fore alle other, we ought to gyve a synguler laude unto that noble and grete philosopher, Gefferey Chaucer, the whiche, for his ornat wrytyng in our tongue, maye well have the name of a laureat poete; for to fore that he, by hys labour, embellysshyd, ornated, and made faire our Englisshe, in thys royaume was had rude speeche, and incongrue, as yet it appiereth by olde bookes, whyche at thys day ought not to have place, ne be compared emong ne to his beauteuous volumes, and aournate writynges, of whom he made many bokes, and treatyces of many a noble historye, as wel in metre as in ryme and prose, and them so craftyly made, that he comprehended hys maters in short, quyck and hye sentences, eschewyng prolygyte, castyng away the chaf of superfluyte, and shewyng the pyked grayn of sentence, utteryd by crafty and sugred eloquence; of whom, emonge all other of hys bokes, I purpose temprynte, by the grace of God, the book of the tales of Cantyrburye, in whiche I fynde many a noble hystorye, of every estate and degre. Fyrst, whereyng the condicions, and tharayre of eche of them as properly as possyble is to be sayd. And after theyr tales, whyche ben of noblesse, wysedom, gentyllesse, myrthe, and also of veray holynesse and vertue, wherin he fynysyth thys sayd boke; whyche book I have dylygently oversen, and duly examyned, to thende that it be made accordyng unto his owen makyng; for I fynde many of the sayd bookes, whyche wryters have abrydgyd it, and many thynges left out. ¶ And in some places have sette certayn versys that he never made ne sette in hys booke; of whyche bookes, so incorecte, was one brought to me vi. yere passyd, whyche I supposed had ben veray true and correcte, and accordyng to the same I dyde do enprynte a certayn number of them, whyche anon were sold to many and dyuerse gentyl men, of whom one gentylman cam to me, and sayd that this book was not according in many places unto the book that Gefferey Chaucer had made. To whom I answered, that I had made it accordyng to my cotype, and by me was nothyng added ne mynusshyd. Thenne he sayd he knewe a book whyche hys fader had and moche louyd, that was very trewe, and accordyng unto

hys owen first book by hym made; and sayd more, yf I wold enprynte it agayn he wold gete me the same book for a copye. How be it he wyst well, that hys fader wold not gladly departe fro it. To whom I said, in caas that he coude gete me suche a book, trewe and correcte, yet I wold ones endeuyre me to enprynte it agayn, for to satisfy thauctour, where as to fore, by ygnoraunce, I erryd in hurtyng and dyffamyng his book in dyuerce places, in setting in somme thynges that he neuer sayd ne made, and leuing out many thynges that he made, whyche ben requysite to be sette in it. And thus we fyll at accord, and he ful gentyllly gate of hys fader the said book, and delyuered it to me, by whiche I have corrected my book, as heere after alle alonge, by thayde of almyghty God, shal folowe, whom I humbly beseche to gyue me grace and ayde to achyeue and accomplysshe, to hys lawde, honour and glorie, and that alle ye that shal in thys book rede, or here, will, of your charyte, emong your dedes of mercy, remembre the sowle of the sayd Gefferey Chaucer, first auctour and maker of thys book, and also that alle we that shal see and rede therein, may so take and understonde the good and vertuous tales, that it may so prouffyte unto the helthe of our sowles, that after thys short and transitorye lyf we may come to euerlastyng lyf in heuen. Amen.

At the end of the tercia pars penitencie follows, Explicit tractatus Galfridi Chaucer de penitencia ut dicitur pro fabula rectoris.

The Prayer.

Now pray I to them all that herkyn thys lytel tretyse, or rede, that yf ther be ony thyng that lyketh them, that therof they thank our Lorde Ihu. Cryste, of whom procedyth all wyt and goodnes, and yf ther be ony thyng that dysplese hem I pray hem also, that they arrette it to the defawte of my vnconnyng, and not to my wyll, that wole fayn have sayd better yf that I had had connyng; for our boke sayth, all that ys wretyn ys wretyn for our doctryne, and that ys myn entent; therfor I beseke you mekely, for the mercy of God, that ye for me pray that Cryst have mercy on me, and forgeue me my gyltes, and namely of my translacions and endytynges of worldly vanytees, the whych I reuoke in my retractions, as ys the boke of Troylus, the boke also of fame, the boke of xxv. ladyes, the boke of the parliament of the duchesse, the boke of seynt Valentyn's day, of byrdys, the tales of Caunterbury, tho that sownyn vuto synne, the boke of the lyon, and many other bookys, yf they wer in my remembraunce, and many a songe, and many a lecherous laye, that Cryst, of hys grete mercy, forgeue me the synne. But of the translacione of Boete de Consolacione, and other bokes, as of legendys of seyntes and omelyes, moralyte and deuocion, that thank I our Lord Ihesu Cryste and his blyssed moder, and all the seynts of hevyn, besechyng hem that they, from hensforth unto any lyuys end send me grace to bewayle my gyltes, that it may unto the

BOECIUS DE CONSOLATIONE PHILOSOPHIE.

Begins with these words, in the largest character :

Carmina qui quondam studio florente peregi,
Flebilis heu mestos cogor inire modos.

This booke is in Latin and English, the Latin not cited at length, nor in the margin, but under each other.

Explicit Boecius de consolacione philosophie.

Thus endeth this boke, whiche is named, The boke of consolacion of philosophie, whiche that Boecius made for his comforte and consolacion, he beyng in exile for the comyn and publick wele, hauyng grete heuynes and thoughtes, and in manner of despayr, rehercyng in the sayde boke howe philosophie appiered to him, shewyng the mutabilite of this transitorie lyfe; and also enformyng how fortune and happe shold bee vnderstonen, with the predestynacion and prescience of God, as moche as may and is possible to be knowen naturally, as afore ys sayd in thys sayd boke, whiche Boecius was an excellent auctour of dyuerce bookes, craftely and curiously maad in prose and metre; and also had translated dyuerce bookes, out of Greke into Latyn, and had ben senatour of that noble and famous cite Rome; and also his two sonnes senatours for their prudence and wisdom. And for as moche as he withstode to his power the tyrannye of Theodorick thenne emperour, and wold have defended the sayd cite and senate from his wicked hondes, whereupon he was conuict and putte in prison, in whiche prison he made this forsayde boke of consolacion for his singuler comfort. And for as moche as the stile of it is harde and difficile to be vnderstonde of simple persones, therefore the worshipful fader and first foundeur and embellissher of ornate eloquence in our Englissh, I mene, master Geoffrey Chaucer, hath translated this sayd werke out of Latyn into our vsual and moder tonge, followyng the Latyn as neygh as is possible to be vnderstande; wherein, in myne oppynyon, he hath deservid a perpetual lawde and thanke of all this noble royame of Englund, and in especiall of them that shall rede and vnderstande it; for in the sayd boke they may see what this transitorie and mutable worlde is, and whereto euery man liuing in hit ought to entende. Thenne for as moche as this sayd boke, so translated, is rare, and not sprede ne knowen, as it is digne and worthy, for the erudition and lernyng of such as ben ignorant, and not knowyng of it, atte requeste of a singuler frende and goffib of myne, I, William Caxton, haue done my debuoir and payne tenprynte it in fourme, as is here afore made, in hopyng that it shall prouffite moche peple, to the wele and helth of their soules, and for to lerne to haue and kepe the better pacience in aduersitees. And furthermore, I desire and require you, that of your charite ye wold pray for the soule of the sayd worshipfull man, Geffrey Chaucer, first translatour of this sayd boke into Englissh, and embellissher in making the sayd langage ornate and fayr, whiche shal endure perpetuelly, and therefore he ought eternelly to be remembrid, of whom the body and corps lieth buried in thabbay of Westmestre, beside London, to fore the chapele of seynt Benet, by whos sepulture is wretton on a table, honging on a pylere, his epitaphye maad by a poete laureat, whereof the cople followeth, &c.

THE GAME AT CHESS.

The holy appostle and doctour of the peple, saynt Poule, sayth, in his epistle, alle that is wrytten is wrytten vnto our doctryne, and for our lernyng, wherefore many noble clerkes haue endeuyred them to wryte and compyle many notable werkes and historyes, to the ende that it might come to the knowledge and vnderstandyng of such as ben ygnoraunt, of which the nombre is infenye; and accordyng to the same, saith Salamon, that the nombre of foles is infenye. And among alle other good werkys, it is a werke of ryght special recomendation to enforme, and to late vnderstonde wysedom and vertue unto them that be not lernyd, ne can not dyscerne wysedom fro folye. Thenne emonge whom there was an excellent doctour of dyuynte in the royaume of Fraunce, of the ordre of thospital of saynt Iohn's of Iherusalem, whiche entended the same, and hath made a book of the chesse moralysed, whiche, at suche tyme as I was resident in Brudgys, in the counte of Flaundres, cam into my handes; whiche, whan I had redde and ouerseen, me seemed full necessarye for to be had in Englissh. And in eschewyng of ydleness, and to thende that some which have not seen it, ne vnderstonde Frenssh, ne Latyn, I delybered in myself to translate it

INFANCIA SALVATORIS.

Hic incipit tractatus qui intitulatur Infancia saluatoris.

Exiit edictum à Cesare Augusto, ut describeretur universus orbis, hec autem descriptio prima facta est preside, Sirie Cirino. Et ibant omnis ut profiterentur singuli in civitatem suam, ascendit Ioseph à Galilea, de civitate Nazareth, in Iudeam, ad civitatem David, que vocatur Bethleem, eo quod esset de domo et familia David, ut profiteretur cum Maria desponsata sibi uxore pregnante. Cum ergo Ioseph et Maria venerunt per viam que ducit ad Bethleem dixit Maria ad Ioseph, duos populos video, unum flentem et alium gaudentem. Cui Ioseph, sede in jumento tuo et noli superflua verba loqui, &c.

Ends with, Explicit infancia saluatoris, and these lines :

THE BOOK OF FAME, MADE BY GEFFRAY CHAUCER.

God torne vs euery dreame to good, And why the effect followeth of somme,
For it is wonder thyng, by the rood, And of somme it shall neuer come ;
To my wyt, what causyth sweuenys, Why that it is a visyon,
On the morowe, or on euenys ; And why this a reuelacion, &c.

In three books, or parts, and the verses end thus ;

Thus in dremyng and in game,
Endeth thys lytyl book of fame.

Explicit.

I fynde no more of this werke to fore sayde ; for as far as I can understonde, this noble man Gefferey Chaucer, fynnysshyd, at the sayd conclusion of the metyng of lesyng and sothsawe, where as yet they ben chekked, and may not departe, whyche werke, as me semeth, is craftyly made, and dygne to be wreton and known ; for he towcheth in it ryght grete wysdom and subtyll understandyng. And so in alle hys werkys he excellyth, in myn oppynynon, all other wryters in our Englysshe ; for he wrytteth no voyde wordes, but alle his mater is full of hye and quycke sentence, to whom ought to be gyven laude and preysyng for hys noble making and wrytyng ; fro hym all other have borrowed syth, and taken, in all theyr well sayeng and wrytyng. And I humbly beseche and pray yow, emonge your prayers, to remembre hys soule, on whyche, and on alle crysten soulis, I beseche almyghty God to have mercy. Amen.

THE LIFE OF ST. CATHERINE OF SENE.

Here begyneth the lyf of saint Katherin of Senis, the blessid virgin, with the revelacions of saynt Elysabeth^b, the kynges daughter of Hungarye.

This book begins thus :

Here doughter, and see fructuous example of vertuous liuing, to

Here I purpos, by the Lordis mercy, only in his worshyppe, wyth truste of his grace, and leue, by helpe of your prayers, to translate in Eng-lysshe tongue the legende and the blessid lyf of an holy mayde and virgyn, whiche was and is callyd Katheryn of Sene. This legend compyled a wor-shypfull clerke, fryer Reymond, of the ordre of saynt Domynik, doctour of devynyte, and confessor of this holy virgin. But in this translacion I

Then the book itself, which contains 16 sheets in folio. The last six leaves of it is, The revelacions of saynt Elysabeth, the kynges doughter of Hungarye.

SPECULUM VITE CRISTI; OR, THE MYRROURE OF THE BLESSYD LYF OF IHESU CRISTE.

Compiled from the Latin book of doctour Bonaventure, De meditatione vite Cristi, together with a shorte treatyce of the hiest and moste worthy sacramente of Cristes blessid body, and the marveylles thereof.

In this book is also printed,

Memorandum, quod circa annum domini 1410, originalis copia hujus libri in Anglicis presentabatur Londini per compilatorem ejusdem, reverendissimo in Cristo patri, et domino Thome Arundell, Cantuariensi archiepiscopo, ad inspiciendum et debite examinandum antequam fuerat libere communicata. Qui post inspeccionem ejusdem per dies aliquot retradens ipsum librum memorato ejusdem libri proprie vocis oraculo in singulis commendavit et approbavit, necnon et auctoritate sua metropolitana ut pote catholicum, publice communicandum decrevit et mandavit ad fidelium edificationem et hereticorum sive Lollar-dorum confutationem.

And so for as moche as in the boke ben conteyned' dyuerse ymagynacyons of Crystes lyf, the whiche lyf, from the begynnyng to the endyng, eyver blessyd, and without synne, passyng alle the lyues of alle other sayntes, as for a singular prerogatyue may be cleped, The blessyd lyf of Ihesu Criste; the whyche also, bycause hyt maye not be fully descryved, as the lyues of other sayntes, but in a manere of lykenesse, as the ymage of mannes face is shewed in the myrroure; therefore as for a pertinent name to thys boke hyt may skylfully be cleped, The myrroure of the blessyd lyf of Ihesu Criste. Per Willielmum Caxton.

DIRECTORIUM SACERDOTUM.

Sive ordinale secundum usum Sarum, una cum defensorio ejusdem directorii; item tractatus qui dicitur Crede mihi.

To this book is prefixed a calendar, at the end of which is Mr. Caxton's cypher, W. R. C. After this follows a prologue, which ends thus:

Nunc igitur obsecro vos, O domini sacerdotes, ut hoc directorium benigne à me suscipere dignemini, et secundum illud dirigite viam domini in divinis officiis celebrandis et dicendis; et cum bene vobis fuerit, mementote mei peccatoris scriptoris tocius hujus ordinalis, Clementis Maydeston, sacerdotis.

Next

Next this prologue follows the Directorium cum defensorio ejusdem, ad fin. Impressum est hoc directorium cum defensorio ejusdem per William Caxton, apud Westmonasterium prope London.

Then follows the little tract, called, Crede michi; the reason of which name is given as follows:

Quia vero in hoc opere non scribitur aliqua regula, nisi sit vera secundum ordinale sarum, (et bene sequentes articuli ventilati sunt, et approbati per canonicos ecclesie sarum) ventilata, ac peritorum virorum testimonio ac sigillis confirmata; ideo presens opusculum vocatur Crede michi, nam qui predictas regulas memoriter tenet vix potuerit errare in servicio divino. Deo gratias.

THE WERK OF SAPIENCE.

The laberous and the most merveyulous werkes
Of sapience syn firste regned nature,
My purpos is to tell, as writen clerkes,
And specially her most notable cure,
In my fyrst book I wyl preche and depure.
It is so plesaunt unto eche persone,
That it a book shall occupye alone.

Sone after this I shal wisdomed descryue,
Her blessyd howshold, and her wonning place,
And than retourne vnto her actes blyue,
As she them wrought by tyme, processe and space,
Al this mater she taught me of her grace.
I spak with her, as ye may here and rede,
For in my dreame I met her in a mede.

O Clyo, lady moost facundyous!
O rauysshying delyte of eloquence!
O gylted goddes, gay and gloryous!
Enspyred with the percyng influence
Of delycate heuenly complacence!
Within my mouth late dystylle of thy showres,
And forge my tongue to glad myn audytours.

Myn ignoraunce, whome clowded hath ecclippses,
With thy pure bemes illumynyne al about.
Thy blessyd breth lete refleyr in my lyppes,
And with the dewe of heuen thou them degoute,
So that my mouthe maye blowe and encense oute
The redolent dulcour aromatyke
Of thy depured lusty rethoryck.

K

I know

I know my self moost naked in al artes,
 My comune ne vulgare eke moost interupte,
 And I conversaunte and born in the partes
 Where my natyfe langage is moost corrupt,
 And with most sundry tonges myxt and rupte.
 O, lady myn, wherfor I thee byseche,
 My muse amende, dress, forge, my nesse and eche.

For to al makers here I me excuse,
 That I ne can delycately endyte ;
 Rude is the speche of force, which I must use ;
 Such infortune my natyfe byrth may wyte :
 But, O ye lordes, whiche haue your delyte
 In termes gay, and ben moost eloquent,
 This book to you no plesaunce may present.

But netheles, as tasted bytternesse
 Al swete thyng maketh be more precious,
 So shal my book, extende the godelynesse
 Of other auctours, whiche ben glorious,
 And make theyr wrytyng delycyous ;
 I symple shal extolle theyr soueraynte,
 And my rudenes shall shew theyr subtyltye.

Gower, Chaucer's, erthely goddes two,
 Of thyrst of eloquent delycacye,
 With al youre successours fewe or moe,
 Fragraunt in speche, experte in poetrye,
 You ne yet theym in no poynt I enuye.
 Exyled as fer I am from youre glorye,
 As nyght from day, or deth from vyctorye.

I you honoure, blysse, loue, and gloryfye ;
 And to whos presence my book shall atteyne,
 His hastyf dome I pray hym modefye,
 And not detraye, ne haue it in disdayne ;
 For I purpoos no makying for to dystayne.
 Meke herte, good tonge, and spyryte pacyent,
 Who hath these thre, my book I hym present.

And as hym lyst lete hym detraye, or adde ;
 For syth I am constreyned for to wryte
 By my souerayne, and haue a mater glad,
 And can not please paynte enourne, ne endyte,
 Late ignoraunce and chyldhode haue the wyte ;

I ask no more, but God of his mercy
My book conferme from sklaunder and enuy.

Explicit Prohemium.

This book is a poem in English, of seven line stanzas, and contains something on the following subjects; at the end of the first thus, Explicit supplicatio prime Ierarchie; then begins the second Ierarchie. Descriptio Rivi.—Descriptio Piscium.—Florum et Herbarum.—Arborum.—Avium.—Animalium.—Castri mansionis sapiencie prima curia.—Processus de secunda curia.—Brevis descriptio gramaticce et ejus partium.—Brevis tractatio de dialectica.—Brevis tractatus de rethorica.—de Asmetrica.—de Geometria.—de Musica.—de Astronomia.—de Fide. Explicit tractatus de fide et cantu famule sue. Then follow, These thynges followyng is every crysten man and woman to hold, and bounde to lerne, and to conne to theyr power in way of theyr saluacyon: the Pater-noster, the Ave Maria, and the crede, the ten commandements, &c.

This folio book contains 37 leaves, in character N^o. IIII. of the specimen. I take Caxton to be the poet, or author by the above verses

A BOOK COMPOSED OF DYVERSE GOSTLY MATTERS.

Of which the first treatyse is named Orologium Sapiencie, shewing seven pointes of true love of everlastyng wisdom. At Westminstre. This name was gyven herto, as hyt is seyde in the proheme of the boke, by cause that the mater therof was shewn to him that wrote hit, as in a visioun, under the figure and likeness of a wonder orologe seted and arayed with passyng fayre roses, and with symbales sweet sownynge, &c.

*Qui legit emendet, pressorem non reprehendat
Wyllelmum Caxton, cui Deus alta tradat.*

The colophon informs us, that this book was lately translated out of Frenshe by a right well disposed person, but unperfyght in such werke, who caused the sayd book to be enprynted, and humbly besoughte the readers of their charite to pray for the soule of the translator.

The second treatise in this booke sheweth xii prouffytes of tribulacion. A lytill short treatyse that telleth how there were vii maysters assembled togydre, everyche one asked another what thyng they myght beste speke of that myght plese God, and were moost profitable to the peple. And all they were accorded to speke of trybulacyon.

The thyrd sheweth the holy rule of saynt Benet. A compendious abstracte into English out of the holy rule of saynte Benet, for men and women of thabyte therof the whiche understonde lytyll Laten or none, to thentente that they maye often rede, execute the hole rewle, and the better kepe it than it is, according to thabyte, and theyre steyte professyon, ℥c. Enprynted at Westminstre by desyryng of certeyn worshipfull persons. This book has a wooden cut at the end mocking Christ. Quarto.

CURIAL OF MAISTRE ALAIN CHARETIER.

Here followeth the cotype of a lettre whych maistre Alayn Charetier wrote to his brother, whyche desired to come to dwelle in court; in whyche he reherseth many myseryes and wretchednesses therin used, for tadvyse hym not to entre into it, leste he after repente, like as hier after followe; and late translated out of Frensshe into Englysshe; whych cotype was delyuerid to me by a noble and vertuous erle, at whos instance and request, I have reduced it into Englyssh.

This piece is so full of good reasoning, to dissuade his brother from taking on him a courtier's life, that I could scarce refrain from printing the whole of it, which I think it very well deserves. However it begins, Ryght well belovyd brother and person eloquent, thou admonestest and exhortest me to prepare and make redy place and entree for the unto the lyf curiall, whych thou desirest, and that by my helpe and requeste thou myghtest have therin offyce, &c.

Fynably, I praye the, counseylle, and warne the, that yf thou hast taken ony holy and honeste lyf, that thou wyl not goo and lese it; and that thou take away that thought, and despyse alle thy wyl for to come to court, and be content to wyth drawe the wythin thenclose of thy pryve hous; and yf thou have not in tyme passed knowen that thou hast ben ewrous and happy, thenne lerne now to know it fro hensforth, and to God commande the by thys wrytyng, whych gyue the hys grace. Amen.

Thus endeth the curial made by maystre Alain Charretier.

Translated thus in Englysshe by Wylliam Caxton.

And on the last side of the leaf are the following lines:

Ther ne is dangyer, but of a vylayn;
 Ne pryde, but of a poure man enryched;
 Ne so sure a way, as is the playn;
 Ne socour, but of a trewe frende;
 Ne despayre, but of jalousye;
 Ne hye corage, but of one amoureuse;
 Ne pestylence; but in grete seynorye;
 Ne chyere, but of a man joyous.
 Ne servyse lyke to the kyng soverayn;
 Ne fowle name but of a man shamed;
 Ne mete, but when a man hath hungre;
 Ne enterpryse, but of a man hardy;
 Ne poverty lyke unto maladye.
 Ne to haunte, but the good and wyse;
 Ne howse, but yf it be wel garnysshed;
 Ne chyere, but of a man joyous.

Ne

Ne ther is no rychesse, but in helthe ;
 Ne love, so good as mercy ;
 Ne than the deth nothyng more certayn ;
 Ne none better chastysed, than of hymself ;
 Ne tresour lyke unto wysedom ;
 Ne anguysshe, but of ay harte coveytous ;
 Ne puyssaunce, but ther men have envy ;
 Ne chyere, but of a man joyous.
 What wylle ye that I say ?
 Ther is no speche, but it be curtoys ;
 Ne preysng of men, but after theyr lyf,
 Ne chyer, but of a man joyous.

THE LIFE OF OUR LADY.

This book was compyled by dan John Lydgate, monke of Burye, at the excitation and styrrynge of the noble and victoryous prynce, kyng Harry the fyfthe, in th'honoure, glory and reverence of the byrthe of our moste blessyd lady, mayde, wyf, and moder of our Lord, Ihesu Cryst, chapytred as followeth by this table. Then followeth the table.

The first two lines of the poem ;

O thoughtful herte, plungyd in distresse,
 With slombre of slouth thys long wynter's nyght !

The two last lines of the poem :

To thy servants shelde and socour be,
 To kepe and save from all adversitie.

Here endeth the book of the lyf of our lady, made by dan John Lydgate, monke of Bury, at th'instance of the most crysten kynge, kyng Harry the fyfth.

Goe lityl book, and submytte thee
 Unto all them, that the shal rede
 Or here, prayeng him for charite,
 To pardonme of the rudehede
 Of myn emprynting, not takyng hede ;
 And if ought be don to theyr plesyng,
 Say they thyes balades folowyng.

Sancte et individue Trinitati, Ihesu Cristi crucifixi humanitati gloriose, beate Marie virgini, sit sempiterna gloria ab omni creatura, per infinita seculorum secula. Amen.

WILLIAM CAXTON.

Three persones in one veray Godhede,
 To Ihesu Crist crucifyed humanitye,
 And to our blessyd lady's maydenhede,
 Be geven laude and glory, in veray dede,
 Of every creature, whatsomever he be,
 World without ende. Amen say al live.

Benedictum sit dulcissimi nomen Ihesu Cristi, & gloriosissime Marie, matris ejus, in eternum & ultra, nos cum prole pia benedicat Virgo Maria. Amen.

Blessed be the sweetest name of our Lord
 Ihesu Crist, and most glorious Marie,
 His blessed moder, with eternal accord,
 More than ever, tendure in glorye,
 And with her meke sone for memorye
 Blesse us, Marie, the most holy virgyne,
 That we regne in heuen with the orders nyne.

VITAS PATRUM,

Though a book not printed by him, but by Wynken de Worde, in the year 1495, the work was left finished, or translated, as the last work of his life.

¶ Here foloweth the right devoute, moche lowable, and recommendable lyff of the old auncient holy faders hermytes, late translated out of Latyn in to Frenche, and dylygently corrected in the cytee of Lyon, the yere of our Lord MCCCCLXXXVI. upon that whiche hath be wryten and also translated out of Greke into Latyn, by the blessyd and holy saynt Jerome, right devoute and approved doctour of the chirche, and other solytarye relygyouse persones after hym. And after, in the yere of our Lorde MCCCCLXXXI. reduced into Englyshe, folowyng the cotype, alwaye under correccyon of doctours of the chirche.

¶ The

¶ The prologue of the translatour.

For as moche as dayly amonge the infenyte multytude of mortal people, is seen but few of theym that lyue vertuously; and the contrarye many in grete nombre lyuen voluptuously, and in that maner passen forth theyr tyme: thys consyderyng I have holden and reputed, and yet repute and holde well happy theym amonge other, whiche of our soverayne Lorde and God Ihesu Cryste, maker and conduytour of all thynges, haue obteyned that synguler grace, that they may verytably saye, that they haue lyued vertuosly. And that I see some to happen in our tyme, the whiche, by ther mellyflue and swete eloquence, have admynystred helthful doctryne, by the moyen of theyr excellent boke in Latyn. And other which have wryten and translated to our prouffyte and understandyng, whereof in so doyng they haue meryted and deserued to be gretely thanked and recommended; the whiche thyng I byleue have not ben over dyffycyle ne harde to do, seen the sublymytee and hynes of theyr sharp understandyng, and the fructouse instructyon, whyche they have had in letters Greke and Latyn, by the ayde of whom they have gotten the soverayne manere well to perswade and saye. But I, whiche in ony scyence, am not sufficyently instructe, and also I have not in me ony begynnyng of eloquence, fynde my self all affrayed, doubtyng to be repreved of over hardy presumpcyon to have so indyscretely enterprysed the translacyon of this present werke; nevertheles, reducyng to remembraunce the proverbe of the prophete, sayeng, that fortune helpeth the hardy, have, in my selfe, juged to be a thyng lycyte and resonable, to tempte, and assaye, yf to the utylite and comyn prouffyte I myght make ony werke; by the whiche, yf I have not vertuously lyued, atte leste I may saye, that I have not alway passed my tyme unprouffytably. And by this consyderacyon also, that I see but lyttyl or fewe persones apply them to lede solytary lyfe, I have enterprysed to translate out of Latyn in to the Frensshe tongue, the ryght devoute and solytary lyf of the auneynt or old holy faders hermytes, sometyme dwellyng, as well in the grete desertes of Egypte, of Thebayde, and of Mesopotamy, as in other places, upon which haue wryten saynt Ierome, the moche auctorysed doctour of holy chirche, and some other reverende faders after hym. And how well that I suppose that this werke ought not to be agreable to the redars, by reason of the fayr and ornate langage, wherin is none; nevertheles, I byleve, that many that shall see the grete penaunces, and mervayllous straytnes of lyuyng, in whiche haue perserved, all theyr lyfe, the sayd holy faders togydre; the fayr and helthful examples that ben therin conteyned, shall employe gladly a parte of theyr tyme to rede, or to here it redde. And further more by cause that I doubte not, that many that shall see this boke, shal mowe verytably saye, that I have not well, elygantly, ne dyrectely wryten in this present translacyon, I mekely beseche theym that they take no regarde to the defaultes and inepcyons that they shal fynde; but that they consyder that my lytyll and feble engyne hath mowe bere in in it dooyng. For my regarde or affeccyon hath not be employe my self for to receyve any temporel prouffyte or thanke, but oonly to thende to do thyng that some may fynde prouffyte therby; or that they that con do better, that it please theym to correcte and amende, be it in augmentyng or dymynysshynge, lyke as they shall see to be doon. And under this confydence I call fyrste the aid of the holy ghoost, by whoos helpe I shall begynne the declaracyon of the chapytres of this present boke; and after I shall procede to the translacyon of the prologue, and consequently of all the boke, as it shall be seen by eche partye of the same, &c.

Then these words of Wynken de Worde at the end of the book:

Thus endeth the moost vertuouse hystorye of the devoute and right renommed lyves of holy faders, lyvyng in deserte, worthy of remembrance to all well-dysposed persones, which hath be translated out of Frensshe into Englysshe by Wyllyam Caxton of Westmynstre, late deed^a, and fynysshed at the last daye of his lyff. Enprynted, &c.

See more in Wynken de Worde, 1495. In the possession of Sir Peter Thompson, and others. Folio.

^a In the church-warden's account, 1491. there is this item: Atte bureyng of William Caxton, for iiii. torchys vis. viii d. And there is wrote down in a very old hand in a Fruetus temporum of my friend Mr. Ballard's of Cambden in Gloucestershire:

"Of your charitee pray for the soul of Mayster Wyllyam Caxton, that in hys tyme was a man of moche ornate and moche renommed wysdome and connyng, and decesed full crystenly the yere of our Lord MCCCCLXXXI.

Moder of Merci shyld hym from thorribul fynd,
And bryng hym to lyff eternall that neuyr hath ynd."

I have added the following collection of the marks on the paper used by Caxton, and other printers about his time, which may be observed by the curious.

PAPER

JOHN LETTOU

IS supposed, by his name, to be a foreigner, of what contry is uncertain; but probably encouraged to come over by Caxton and Hunt, with Rood, Machlinia and others, from some part of Germany, to settle, and promote the art of printing in this kingdom. What I have been able to collect of him please to take as beneath.

Among the books of Magdalene college, A. v. s. as appear in bishop Tanner's mss. are, 1480. Antonii Andræ ord. minor. super XII libros, metaphysicæ quæstionibus per vener. virum mag. Thomam Penketb, ord. Fr. August. emendatis, finis impositus est, per Jobem. Lettou, ad impensas Willmi. Wilcock, impressus A. Ch. MCCCC LXXX. Folio.

1481. Expositiones super psalterium. By Jacobus de Valencia, viz. Usque ad psalm. XL. Excus. in civitate Londonensi, ad expensas Wilbelmi Wilcock, per me Johannem Lettou, MCCCC LXXXI.^a Fol.

JOHN LETTOU with WILLIAM MACHLINIA.

LYTTLETON'S TENURES.

With no title, which books at the beginning of printing often wanted. It begins, Incipit tabula hujus libri. It is divided into three parts. This table gives the beginning tenure by the directing letter, or signature, to the binder for folding the sheet, at the bottom of the leaf, as, a i, a ii, a iii, a iiii, then four leaves blank, after, bi, b ii, b iii, b iiii, &c. to the end. No leaves numbred, nor catch word. The initial letters were left for the illuminator to colour. The letters are very much combined together, as Caxton's, but many more abbreviations are used. This piece is printed as the next, in the Norman or law French used to that time in our courts of law, and long before, I imagine soon after the conquest. At the end, (as in most old books) Expliciunt tenores nouelli impressi per nos Johanem Lettou et Willielmum de Machlinia, in civitate Londoniarum iuxta ecclesiam omnium sanctorum. In 70 leaves. Folio.

AN ABRIDGEMENT OF THE STATUTES.

This is done in an alphabetical order, beginning with a table, containing four leaves. At the end of each section is mentioned the year of the king's reign, and the last mentioned that I have observed is, 31 Hen. vi. or 1452. It is of the same language and size of the above book, with the same paper marks, and bound together in that copy belonging to my friend, Sir Peter Thompson knight. Dr. Middleton, page 13. in his discourse on printing, supposes the above book to have been put to the press by the author, Littleton, who died 1481. and may be this too. It contains 108 leaves. Folio.

^a See Bodleian library, U. 1. Th. Univ. of Cambridge, Inner-temple, and other places.

WILLIAM MACHLINIA, or MACLYN,

IS mentioned as printing in partnership with Lettou in the above book but one; perhaps being a foreigner, he might come from a city of that name, formerly belonging to the emperor of Germany, and take his name from thence. It seems as if these were the first printers of law in this kingdom; yet, after all my searches, I cannot find they had any patent for so doing. Some books are found with only Machlyn's name, and others are thought to be his from comparing the letter and work, which is ruder than others about this time.

THE YEAR BOOK XXXIV HEN. VI.

This book in Thomas Rawlinson esquire's catalogue, for sale 13 Nov. 1732. N^o. 2670. is said to be printed by William Macklyn en Holborun. I have seen two or three of them, but all without his name or place.

STATUTA APUD WESTMONASTERIUM EDITA ANNO PRIMO REGIS RICARDI TERCII. 1483.

This scarce piece is in the Inner-temple library, and in the possession of John Browning esquire, of Lincoln's-inn. It has no initials, or catch word. Small folio, 15 leaves, and by comparing the character, it is assuredly printed by Machlinia.

INCIPIT LIBER VOCATUR SPECULUM XPRISTIANI *.

This book is for the most part in Latin, on the common topicks of divinity used at that time. The decalogue. The creed parcelled out thus: Petrus apostolus, Credo in Deum, Patrem omnipotentem, creatorem celi et terre. Andreas, Et in Ihesum Xpristum filium eius, unicum dominum nostrum. Iacobus maior, Qui conceptus est de spiritu sancto, natus ex Maria virgine. Iohes, Passus sub Poncio Pylato crucifixus, mortuus et sepultus. Thomas, Descendit ad inferna, tertia die resurrexit a mortuis. Iacobus minor. Ascendit ad celos, sedet ad dextram Dei Patris omnipotentis. Philippus, Inde venturus est iudicare vivos et mortuos. Bartholomeus, Credo in spiritum sanctum. Matheus, Sanctam ecclesiam catholicam. Simon, Sanctorum communionem, remissionem peccatorum. Iudas Zelotes, Carnis resurrectionem. Matbias, Et vitam eternam. Amen.

The first English lines are,

In heuen shall dwelle alle cristen men,
That knowe and kepe Goddes byddynges ten.

And many more verses in English, as, Oratio deuota ad beatam Mariam.
Mary moder wel thou bee, Mayden and moder was never none,
Mary moder thenke on me, To geder lady, safe thou allone.
Swete

Swete lady, mayden clene,
Schilde me fro ille, schame and tene,
And out of dette for charitee.

Lady, for thy joyes five,
Gete me grace in thys lyue
To knowe and kepe ouer all thyng
Cristen faith and Goddes byddyng,
And trewly wyne all that I nede
To me, and myn clothe and fede.

Help me, lady, and alle myne ;
Schilde me, lady, from helle pyne ;
Schilde me, lady, from vyleny,
And from all wicked companye ;
Schilde me, lady, from alle schame,
And fro alle wicked fame.

Swete lady, mayden mylde, &c.

34 lines more.

At the end, after Explicit liber speculum Xpristiani, &c. in my book is, Sequitur expositio orationis dominice cum quodam bono notabili, et septem capitalia vicia, cum aliquibus ramis eorum, sequuntur monita beati Ysidori. Iste libellus impressus est in opulentissima civitate Londoniarum, per me, Willielmum de Machlinia, ad instanciam, necnon expensas Henrici Vrankenbergh, mercatoris.

One hundred and sixteen leaves told over, rude work, but no date. The author is said to be John Watton, in the catal. of mss. in England and Ireland, C. C. C. Oxon. n. 155. p. 53. * This Asterisk, when put to a book, is to signify that book is in my possession.

SOME other printer appears about this time, but I cannot recover his name, who printed several pieces, as a book beginning, NOVA STATUTA.

With a large alphabetical table before it, containing 40 leaves, and begins, Come Hughe le Dispenser le Pier, & Hugh le Dispenser le fitz, Nadgiars a la suyte Thomas adonques count de Lancastre, &c.

The years of Edward III. contain 66 leaves, Rich. II. 50 leaves, Hen. v. 20 leaves, Hen. VI. 83 leaves, Edward IV. 51. It is in the Norman or law French, without initials, and ends with the 22d year of Edward IV. There are two sorts of characters or types, very rude. It's a folio, and compleat, in the Inner-temple library, and possession of my friend John Cay esq; and others.

A CHRONICLE OF ENGLAND.

WYNKEN,

To the Right Hon^{ble} ARTHUR ONSLOWE, Speaker of the Hon^{ble} HOUSE of COMMONS, this Plate is most humbly Dedicated by J. Ames.

To the STATUTES of the 1st 3rd & 7th year of K. Henry VII. Engraved by Wynkyn de Worde anno dom. 1497.

At the Sun in Plate Street 1497.

WYNKEN, WYNKYN, or WYNANDUS DE WORDE,

THE famous printer, was a foreigner, born in the dukedom of Lorrain, as appears by the patent-roll in the chapel of the Rolls^a. Our first printer, Caxton, when resident abroad, might probably meet with him there, and engage him to come over to England for a servant or assistant, like as John Faust at Mentz had his lad, or servant, Peter Scheoffer, whom they chose for their ingenuity and promising parts; and their after works shew they were not mistaken in their choice.

He continued in some capacity with Caxton till his master's death, 1491. and printed at his house in Westminster afterwards.

Whether he was married or no, or had relations that came over with him, does not appear by his will; yet we find in the church-warden's accounts for St. Margaret's Westminster, an entry made in the year

^a Licentia W. de Worde, de ducatu Lotharingia oriundi, impressorum librorum: Quod ipse durante vita sua sit indigena et ligens noster,

20 die Aprilis, 1496. 1 pars. pat. 11. Hen. VII. M. 5.

1498. "Item, For the knell of Elizabeth de Worde vi pence. Item, For iii torches, with the grete belle for her, v. iiiii." Again, in the year 1500, "Item, For the knelle of Iuliane de Worde, with the grete bell, vi pence."

By dwelling with Caxton he naturally fell into the company and acquaintance of the learned and noble of this kingdom, on account of this new art, as soon appeared by the first works he printed, and stiled himself printer to Margaret, &c. the king's grandame.

In the 7th of Hen. vii. or 1491, he printed the acts of parliament with the king's arms, &c. as in the plate annexed, and dwelt at his master's house at least six years, as may be seen by several books mentioned to be printed at Westminster, in Caxton's house, till the acts printed in the 11th and 12th of Henry vii. he printed at the end, with the same cut, and the neat one of W.D.C.; also in Fleet-street, at the sygn of the sonne, by Wynken de Worde.

Afterwards he probably kept both shops for some time, where, by himself and his numerous servants, he performed all the parts of the business, and furnished others, as William Bydell, Michael de Paul, dwelling in London; for it may be observed, the most antient printers did every part of the business belonging to books by themselves, or under their direction, even to the binding, and selling them.

His skill in the art is much commended, and at his setting up for himself his first care was to cut a new set of punches, which he sunk into matrices, and cast several sorts of printing letters, which he afterwards used; and Mr. Palmer, the printer, says, the same are used by all the printers of London to this day, and believes they were struck from his punches^b.

Most of his books now remaining were printed at London, in Fleet-street, in St. Bride's parish, at the sign of the sun; but I have observed no sign of his while at Westminster, without he had the W.D.C., which Caxton might use for a sign, in memory of the year when he brought printing first into England.

He was a stationer by company, as several other printers were, yet I cannot find any charter they had before that of Philip and Mary, 1556, also, of the brotherhood of our lady's assumption.

In the year 1471, when Caxton printed the receuyll of the hystory of Troye, we may allow him to be about fifteen, if so, he was seventy-eight years old when he died.

WYNANDUS DE WORDE being old made his will, as may be seen in the prerogative-office, Hogan 22. dated the 5th of June, 1534, and died not long after.

He writes himself citizen and stationer of London. He commends his soul to God and the blessed St. Mary, and his body to be buried in the parochial church of St. Bride's in Fleet-street, before the high altar of St.

ACTS OF PARLIAMENT.

After this cut, which is before these acts of Parliament, being the first book I have met with printed by him, it begins :

¶ The kynge our sovereyn lorde, Henry the seventh after the conquest, by the grace of God, kynge of Englonde and of Fraunce, and lorde of Ir-londe, at his parlyament holden at Wesmynster, the seventh day of No-vembre, in the first yere of his reigne, to thonour of God and holy chirche, and for the comen profyte of the royaume, by thassent of the lordes spiry-tuell and temporell, and the comons of the sayde parlyamente assembled, and by the auctorite of the sayd parlyamente, hath do to be made certeyn statutes and ordinaunces in manner and fourme followyng.

The titles are :

¶ Fourmedowne. Ayenste strangers made denyzens to paye cus-tomes, &c. Noo protection to be alowed in ony courte at Calays. Correccyns of prestes for incontynence. Ayenste tanners and cordyners. Felde. ¶ Ayenst hunters. For reperacyons of the navee. Sylke-werke. Re-vocation of kynge Richardis acte ayenst Ytalyens.

Then, ¶ The second parlyament holden in the thirde yere of kynge Henry the vii.

Then again, ¶ To the worship of God and holy chirche, and for the comen wele and profyt of this reame of Englonde, &c. the xiii. Jan. in the fourth yere of his reygne, ¶ Enprynted at Westmynster by me, Wynken de Worde.

I have bound with it, in something larger form, the act anno vii^o. Hen-rici septimi, contained in seven chapters, and in six leaves ; ends, Enprynted at Westmestre by Wynkyn de Worde ; and the same cut. Small folio.

THE CHASTISING OF GOD'S CHILDREN.

¶ The prouffitable boke for mannes soule, and right comfortable to the body, and specially in adversitee and trybulacyon, whiche boke is called, The chastysing of Goddes children.

This book has commonly been taken for Caxton's printing, because it is his letter ; but the preface of another printed with the same types, which I have bound with it, shews it must have been printed after Caxton's death. This piece is in folio, and after the preface of almost a side, there is a table of con-tents of 27 chapters, in one leaf, and the whole in 84 leaves. In the 27th chapter, which is a recapitulation, the author says, Some now in thise dayes used to say in Englissh, her sawter and matynes of our lady, the vii. psalmes, and the letanye ; many repreue it to haue the sawter, matynes, or the gosple, or the byble in Englishe, by cause they may not be trans-lated into no vulgare worde by worde, as it stondeth, wythout grete cir-cumlocucion, after the understanding feling of the first wryters, which translated that into Latyn by techyng of the holi goost. Nevertheles, I wyll not repreue to haue hem in Englissh, ne to rede on hem, where they may may stire you more to deuocyon, and to the loue of God, but entirely to use hem in Englissh, and leue the Latyn, I holde it not commendable.

Then the book I mentioned, which has no separate title, begins thus :

¶ This treatyse is of loue, and spekyth of iiii. of the most specyall louys that ben in the worlde, and shewyth veryly and perfytely bi gret resons and causis, how the meruelous and bounteous loue that our Lord Ihesu Cryste had to mannys soule excedyth to ferre alle other loues as apperith well by the paynfull passion and tormentis that he suffryd for the redempcyon therof, so that alle louis that euyr were, or euyr shall be, arne not to be lykenyd to the lest parte of the loue that was in hym, whiche treatyse was translated out of Frenche into Englyshe, the yere of our Lord MCCCC LXXXIII. by a persone that is unperfight in suche werke, wherfor he humbly byseche the lernyd reders wyth pacyens to correcte it where they finde nede ; and they, and alle other redders, of their charyte, to pray for the soule of the sayde translatour, &c.

¶ Thus endeth this present boke, whiche treateth fyrst of the glorious passion of our sauour, and of the compascyon that his blessyd moder had thereof ; and also sheweth in a nother treatyse followyng, wherfore we ought to loue our savyour more than any other thyng. ¶ Also sheweth another treatise, moche prouffyttable for reformacyon of soules defoyled wyth any of the vii. dedely synnes. ¶ Item, another treatyse, shewynge the signes of goostly loue. ¶ Item, A treatise of the vertues, and of the braunches of the appultree, whiche is expowned morally, as before is expressyd. ¶ Also following is declared wher by men maye seke the loue of our Lorde Ihesu. ¶ And the last treatyse of this foresayed boke speaketh to exhorte the person to eschewe, and haue in contempte all euyl thoughtes, and to reduce theymself, in all poyntes, to good werkes, under the hope of dyuine grace ; which boke was lately translated oute of Frenshe into Englissh by a right wel disposed persone ; for bycause the sayd persone thought it necessary to al deuoute peple to rede, or to here it redde : and also caused the sayd boke to be empynted.

Then the W.X.C., as on the the left side of the plate. This folio is in 48 leaves, and ends with the contents above.

HILTON'S SCALE OF PERFECTION.

1494.

At the end these verses :

Infynyte laud, with thankynges many folde,
I yelde to God, me socouryng wyth his grace
This boke to finyshe, whiche that ye beholde,
Scale of perfection calde in euery place ;
Whereof thauctour Walter Hilton was,
And Wynkyn de Worde this hath sett in print.
In William Caxston's hows so fyll the case,
God rest his soule. In joy ther mot it stynt.

THE POLICHRONICON.*

This is printed from Caxton's edition, 1482, with a beautiful new letter.

In the probemye it's said, Trevisa, at the request of Syr Thomas Burkley translated this said booke, the byble, and Barthylmew de proprietatibus rerum out of Latyn into Englysshe. Wynken de Worde says, this Polychronicon he should continue unto the year 1495, whiche ben 138 yere; which werke I have fynished under the noble proteccyon of my moost drad naturell and soueragne lord, and moost crysten kyng, Henry the seuenth humbly besechyng his most noble grace to pardone me, yf ony thyng therinne be said of ignoraunce, &c. in Caxton's humble style. Then follows a very large table of contents to each book, alphabetically; after which the leaves are numbered being in all 346, in Roman numerals. At folio 101. he speaks of Pythagoras the philosopher passing by a smith's house, and hearing a sweet sound by four hammers striking on an anvil, and from thence inferring the concords in musick, of which Wynken de Worde first printed this scheme, before which I have not observed any printed in England. Thus ended the thyrteenth day of Apryll, the tenth yere of the regne of kyng Henry the seuenth, and of the incarnatyon of our Lord MCCCC LXXXV. at Westmestre. Fol.

The lives of the holy fathers, &c. or, as it is intituled, Vitas patrum. It begins with the prologue of the translator, which I have given at length in Caxton's last book. It is a thick folio, containing 347 leaves number'd, besides the table, and is divided into five parts, with several wooden cuts, especially in the first part, which is about half the book.

The book begins, after the contents, with the prologue of St. Jerome, from whose works it is said to be taken. The second part begins folio 176, which speaks speaks of the holy fathers of Egypt, &c. The third part begins at 317, and speaks of the conversation of the holy fathers of Epypt, Mesopotamia and Palestine. The fourth part begins folio 331, with the prologue of St. Paschayse upon the fourth part of the life of holy fathers, as well of Egypt as of Greece. Here begynneth a goodly treatyse, and it is called a notable lesson, otherwyse it is called the golden pystle. The reviver of this piece, R. Whitford, gives us a form of prayer in the order of the six grammatical cases of nouns, which is as follows: For a fourme and ordre of your prayer, this may be a good and redy waye, to folowe the ordre of the vi. grammatical case; the nominatyue, the genityue, the datyue, the accusatyue, the vocatyue, and the ablatyue. The nominatyue, that is the first, to pray for your selfe, that you may haue gostely strength and constancye, that you falle not into any deedly offence by fraylte; and that you may haue right knowlege of God by fayth, and of your selfe by due consyderation of your estate and condycion, and of the lawes of God, for your condyte and contynuaunce, and thyrdly, that you may haue grace and good wyll according vnto the same strength and knowledge, and that hauyng vnto God a reuerende drede, you neuer offende him in thought, worde, nor dede, but that you may euer loue him for himselfe, and al his creatures in due ordre for hym, and in hym. The ii. is the genityue case. Than must you pray for your genytours, your progenytours and parentes, that is to say, your faders and moders, spyritual and carnal; as your goostly fathers or spyrituall souereynes; your godfaders, your godmoders; your naturall father and mother; your graundfathers and grauntmothers; your brothers and systers, and all your kynne. In the thyrde place is the datyue case. There must you praye for benefactours, good doers, of whom you haue receyued any maner of gyftes, sprituall or temporall, vnto the welthe of your soule or body. In the fourthe is the accusatyue case, where you shulde praye for your enemyes, suche persons as by any meanes haue noyed, hurte, or greued you, eyther goostly or bodily, that is to say, in your soule or maners by any suggestyon, entysyng, yuell counsayle, or yuell exemple; in your fame or good name by detraction, backbytyng or slaundringe, or yet by famylyer company, for a person comenly is reputed and supposed to be of suche condycion as they ben, with whom he hath conuersacyon and company; and for them that haue hurte your body, eyther by strokes, or by any other occasyon haue hyndred the state and helth therof, and lykewyse of your worldly goodes or possessions. For all these maner of enemyes muste you pray, that our Lorde God wolde forgyue them as you do, and you forgyuen wolde be, and that they maye come to ryght charyte and peace. The fyfthe case is called vocatyue, that is to saye, the callynge case, where you conueniently maye call, crye, and pray vnto our Lorde for all maner of persones, that ben out of the state of grace, eyther by infydelite, as Turkes, Sarazyns, and suche other; or els by errour, as all maner of heretykes; or else by any deedly synne or offence to God. Praye for all these maner of persones, sones, that they may come unto the ryght waye of their saluacyon. In Ablatyue. syxthe and last place is the ablatyue case, where you muste praye for all that be taken out of thys lyfe, and that dyed or passed the same lyfe in charyte, and now haue nede of prayer. In the whiche you maye kepe a forme of the same ordre that is before, that is to saye, in stede of the nominatyue, where you prayed for your selfe, you may now praye for all that done byde in payne for any defaulte or offence done by your en-sample or occasyon. And for the genitiue in the second place, for your parentes and all your kynne departed this lyfe. And in the thirde place, for the datyue, pray for your benefactors passed. And for the accusatyue, in the fourth place, you maye pray for them that lyue in payne for any occasyon or ensample that they gaue vnto you. And in the fyfth place, for the vocatyue, pray for all them that have greatest paynes in purgatory, and leste helpe here by the suffrage of prayers. And for the ablatyue, in the syxth and last place, pray you for all soules in generall.

 And that you may be the more apt to praye, call thre thynges oft tymes vnto remembraunce, that is to say, what you haue ben, what you be, and what you shal be, &c.—This was brought unto me in Englisshe of an old translacyon, roughe and rude, and required to amend it.
 I thought lesse labour to write newe the hole, and I haue done vnto the sentence not very nere the letter, and in dyuers places added some thynges folowyng upon the same, to make the mater more sentencyous and full.
 I beseeche you take all vnto the best, and pray for the old wretched brother of Syon, Rychard Whytforde. In the beginning he says, It is put among the works of saynt Bernard by some vertuous man, that it should have the more auctorite. A wooden cut at the beginning of Christ standing, and a person kneeling before him. It contains but eight leaves. Quarto.*

RICHARD

RICHARD PINSON, Esq; Printer to King
HENRY the VIIth and VIIIth.

IS said to be born in Normandy in France^a, though there were of that name in England; as I find in the church-warden's accounts for St. Margaret's, Westminster, in the year 1504. from these words: Item received of Robert Pynson for four tapers iiii d. Perhaps some relation of his. There was also one Philip Pinson, an Englishman, who died of the plague the 2d of December, 1503, three days after he had been nominated to the archbishoprick of Tuam in Ireland.^b

He appears to have been an early servant to our first printer, William Caxton, whom he calls, in his edition of Chaucer's Canterbury tales, without date, and perhaps his first printed book, his worshipful master; and tells the reader, that this book had been diligently overseen, and duly examined by his politic reason and oversight. He was in such esteem with the lady Margaret, the king's mother, and other great personages, that he printed for them all his days, and obtained a patent from king Henry the VIIth. to be his printer, as appears in the year 1503, or before; possibly joined with Guillian Faques in the same patent, who was also the king's printer the same year; but the patent I cannot yet find, tho' I have sought much both for that and his will, which might have given me some larger account of this great and curious printer.

^a As appears by king Henry's patent of naturalization, wherein he is stiled Richardus Pynson, in partibus Normand. oriund. See Chappel of the Rolls.

^b Wood's Athenae, vol. I. p. 646.

That

That he had a correspondence in France, is plain from his employing William Tailleux, a printer of Roan, to print Littleton's tenures, and some other pieces of law; which laws a little before that time were made in the Norman French tongue, till the beginning of Henry the viiith's reign. And probably the reason why he sent them over to be printed was, that they understanding the language better, might be capable to print it more correctly. However, he had such helps afterwards, that all statutes, &c. were printed here at home. He printed many books, which were also printed by his friend and fellow servant, Wynken de Worde, who survived him about six years. Many books were printed by him and his servants, and he caused many pretty devices to be stamped on their covers.

This great artist ended his life before the year 1529, when Thomas Barthelet succeeded him as king's printer.

A catalogue of the books printed by him.

A COMPENDIOUSE TREATISE DYALOGUE OF DIVES AND PAUPER.

This book is the first, with a date, of his printing, I have met with. It is a folio, having initials, but no catch-words nor numbers on the leaves; has directing letters to the binder, as a i, a ii, a iii, a iiij, then four blank leaves, and so on through the whole alphabet, to I iiij. in the second alphabet, which shews his paper was large; the letters are strong, or fat, as the printers call it. It begins with a table of contents, and a dialogue of holy poverty, containing 11 chapters. Then the first precept contains 64 chapters, the second 20, the third 20, the fourth 27, the fifth 24, the sixth 24, the seventh 28, the eighth 18, the ninth 16, the tenth 12 chapters. The particulars of each chapter would be thought too tedious; but in the sixth precept, chap. 14, is a remarkable passage of fair Rosamond thus: We rede that in Englonde was a king that had a concubine, whose name was Rose, and for her greates bewte he cleped hir Rose amounde, Rosamundi, that is to saye, Rose of the worlde; for him thought that she passed al women in bewtye. It bifel that she died, and was buried whyle the kynge was absent, and whanne he came ayen, for grete loue that he had to hyr, he would se the body in the graue, and whanne the graue was opened there sate an horrible tode upon her breste, bytween hir teetys, and a foule adder bigirt hir body aboute the midle, and she stank so that the kyng, ne non other, might stonde to se that orryble sight. Thanne the kynge dyde shette ayen the graue, and did write these two veersis upon the graue, Hic jacet in tumba rosa mundi non rosamunda.

Non redolet sed olet quod redolere solet, &c.

Ends thus: Here endith a compendiose treatise dyalogue of Diues and Pauper, that is to say, the riche and the pore, fructuously tetryng upon the x. commaundements, fynished the v. day of Juyl, the yere of oure Lord God M cccc lxxxiii. John Boccace of the fall of princes and princesses, translated into English by John Lydgate, monk of St. Edmund's-Bury, at the commaundment of Humphry, duke of Gloucester. 1494.
Folio.

Strathbam^a; ou, abridgment des livres annales, et reportes cases en le ley de Angleterre, per les anus des reignes roy de Angleterre, par mons. Strathbam, apprentice a le ley. En fol. grand omsq; un table al fin decco, par me R. Pynson. This book is printed in a peculiar small letter. Folio.

Littleton's tenures. At the end this colophon: Expliciunt tenores novelli impressi per me Willielmum le Tailleur, in opulentissima civitate Rothomagensi, iuxta prioratum sancti Laudi ad instantiam Richardi Pynson. As this is the same letter, and has the same printer's mark, as the above book, they were both probably printed by Tailleur, about this time. Folio.

Nova statuta^b. It begins with a particular alphabetical table of the several laws made from Edward III. to the end of Richard III. in the old law French, as is the whole book, to the first of Henry VII. From thence follow all the statutes in English, including the 12th of the same king. It is a fine, large, thick folio, without numbers on the leaves, or catch word, but has, on the right page, directing letters through the first alphabet to G ii. inclusive, for the binder. The last line of the page often begins about the middle of the leaf, and goes to the end; but the beginning of the next is not repeated. At the end is only ¶ Enprinted by me Richard Pynson. His mark, R. P. as in the plate is on the backside of the last leaf^a. * 1497.

1499. Medulla grammaticæ. ¶ Incipit prologus in libellum, qui dicitur promptorius puerorum. Cernentibus sollicite clericorum conditiones nunc statuum et graduum diversorum numerose videntur : jam varii clericali se nomine gloriantes, qui tamen in suis colloquiis passim cotidieq; barbarizando sic quod usum et artem latine loquere, aut pene, aut penitus perdiderunt, quod eorum quam plures, quasi de doctis indoctos, de sciolis inscios, noverca virtutum et viciorum, mater degenerans produxit oblivio; unde ego dictus indigne frater predicatorum lenum sub regula paupertatis astrictus talibus, ut valeo, compassus, ac iuvenum clericorum grammatizare volencium misertus, presentem libellum non tam rudem quam utilem eisdem scribendum curavi potissime, cum ipsis, qui ve ad usum clericalis loquere velut cerui ad fontes aquarum desiderant : sed latina vocabula ignorantes, et instructorum ad libitum, ut cupiunt, copiam non habentes, singultu et suspiriis, ut onagri in siti sua deficiunt, ac velut interna fame sic etiam tabescunt, quod pene de eis illud Trenorum eloquium merito cum mesticia jam poterit recitari : Parvuli pecierunt panem, et non erat qui frangeret eis. Igitur ego prefatus quamvis rudis et inscius, plusque aptus discere quam docere, tamen ut ex libris grammaticorum intellexi, ad predicatorum profectum exile hoc opus collegi, precipue catholicon, campo florum, dictionario, aliisq; opusculis, et tractatibus, et copiis, ut ex inquisitione meliorum : sz. rarissime quamvis quæq; ex ingenio fallibuli, et capite proprie personali. In quo quidem libello primo Anglicata vocabula secundum ordinem alphabeti, prout grammaticalia grammaticorum in libris scribuntur, conscripsi, et postea correspondencia sibi latina, cum notulis parcium, generum, ac declinationum, sic tamen, ut sub qualibet littera alphabeti nomina, et cetera partes, verbis tamen exceptis, pariter primo sint inserta; et tandem ipsorum verba breviter declinata ordine, quo supra sunt perscripta; comitatus tamen orientalium Anglorum modum loquendi, quem solum ab infanzia didici, et solatenus plenius perfectiusque cognovi. Opus autem istud Promptorium parvulorum, sive clericorum, peto si placeat appellari, eo quod, hic seclusis scriptis grammaticæ curiosis, sub quodam quasi brevilogio medullam tantum verborum continens pre brevitate sui, aut in promptu, poterit inveniri : cunctos tamen peda-

Igitur quicumque sibi in hoc opere inculto utilitatis aliquid solaciive prospexerint, Deo gratias reddant, et pro me peccatore misericorditer intercedant dominum nostrum Ihesum Christum, &c. Explicit prologus. ¶ Ad laudem et honorem omnipotentis Dei, et intemerate genetricis ejus. Finit excellentissimum opus, exiguis magnisque scolasticis utilissimum, quod nuncupatur medulla grammaticæ. Impressum per egregium Richardum Pynson, in expensis virtuosorum virorum Frederici Egmont et Petri, post pascha, anno domini MCCCC. nonagessimo nono, decima v^a. die mensis Maii. BOOKS printed without dates.

Chaucer's Canterbury tales. With wooden cuts. This edition I take to be printed before the year 1493, because of the rudeness of the letter, and having no initials. The prohemie. Grete thanks, laude and honoure ought to be gyvyn unto the clerkes, poetes, and historiagraphs, that have writen many noble bokes of wisdom of the lyues, passions, and miracles of holy seyntes, of histories of noble and famous actes and faictes, and of the cronicles sithen the begynnyng of the creatioun of the worlde unto this present tyme, by which we ben daily enfourmed, and have knowlege of many thynges, of whom we shuld not haue knowen, yf they had nat left to vs theire monimentes writen. Emong whom, and inespécial to fore alle other, we ought to gyue a singuler laude unto that noble and grete philosopher Geffrey Chaucer, the whiche for his ornate writting in our tonge, may well have the name of a laureate poete; for to fore that he, by his laboure enbelished, ornated, and made faire our Englysshe, in this realme was hadde rude speche and incongrue, as yet it apperithe by olde bokes, whiche at this daye oughte nat to have place, ne be compared, emong his beautevous volumes and ornate writings, of whom he made many a noble hystorye, as well in metre, as in ryme and prose, and theym so craftely made, that he comprehended his maters in short, quicke, and high sentences, eschewing prolixite, and casting away the chaf and superfluite, and shewing the pyked graynie of sentence vtered by crafty and sugared eloquence. Of whom I, among alle other of his bokes, the boke of the tales of Canterburie, whiche ben many a noble historie of wisdom, policie, mirth and gentilnes, and also of vertue and holynes; which boke diligently ouirsen, and duely examined, by the pollitike reason and ouirsight of my worshipful master, William Caxton, according to the entent and effecte of the said Gefferey Chaucer, and by a copy of the seid master Caxton, purpos to imprint, by the grace, ayde and supporte of almighty God, whom I humbly beseche, that he, of his grete and habundant grace, will dispose, that I may it fynisse to his plesure, laude, and glorie. And that alle we, that shalle therein se or rede, may so take and understond the gode and vertuous tales, that it may so profite to the helth of oure spoules, and inespécial of the soule of the seid Gefferey Chaucer, first autour and maker of this forseid boke, that after this short and transitorie lyfe we may come to the everlasting lyf in hevynne. Amen. By Richard Pynson. I find by comparing, this begins as Caxton's. It has no catch-word, nor number to the leaves, but printed with two sorts of letter, large and small, for several sheets together, as if he had not types sufficient of one sort. There are several editions of this book printed by him in 1520, 1522, and 1526. This in the possession of Mr. John Booth. Quarto.
to

A copy of the letters, wherein the most redoubted and mighty prince, our soveraine lord, king Henry the eight, king of England, and of Fraunce, defendour of the faith, and lord of Ireland, made answer unto a certain letter of Martyn Luther, sent unto him by the same; and also a copy of the aforesayd letter, dated 1 Sept. 1525. in such order as hereafter followeth; with the emperor's arms in the title to front the title-page. Cum privilegio à rege indulto. Twelves.

Another edition, whose title runs thus, Literarum quibus, &c. Or, king Henry viii's epistolary answers to Luther; is dated x. Feb. 1527. 4°.

Stella clericorum. Quarto.

A lytell treatise in English, called the extirpation of ignorancy; and it treteth and speketh of the ignorance of the people, shewyng them how they are bound to fear God, to love God, and to honour their prince. Compiled by sir Paul Bushe, priest and bonhome of Edynden. Dedicated to the lady Mary, daughter of king Henry VIII. In verse, three sheets. 4°.

Besides these Pynson printed a considerable number of year-books, or juridical annals. These were as ancient as the reigns of king Edward I. and II. and the first collector of them is supposed to have been Richard de Winchedon, a student in the law in those times. Ten volumes of them were printed by the recommendations of the judges to the students of the law; but these began with the reign of king Edward III. and ended with that of king Henry VIII. They who want a more particular account of these year-books may have recourse to the library of the Inner-Temple, where is the fairest copy of them, written by de Winchedon aforesaid, and presented to that society by Sir John Barker, chancellor of the exchequer under Philip and Mary. Pynson's earlier editions of these books, it's said, mention only ex officina Pynsoniana. Thus, in his edition of the year-book (Michaelis) of 2 Edward IV. we find this colophon, Explicit annus 2dus Edw. IV. Townsend de novo impressus in academia, ere, &c. These year-books were all folios, but of different bulks; some of them containing but four or five, others ten, twenty, fifty, and even as far as ninety sheets.^a

JULIAN NOTARY,

DWELT at several places, as may be observed from the following account; and as he printed two or three books in Westminster before 1500, I may be excused in placing him next after Pinson. Mr. Bagford says, that he had seen of his printing in France before he printed in England. He and John Barbier, who probably were both Frenchmen, are said, in M. Mattaire's Index, to have printed Missale secundum usum Sarum, in folio. At the end, per Julian Notari and J Barbier^b. Lond. MCCCCXCVIII.

Under a wooden cut of the salutation of the virgin, having a border, or compartment about it, Incipit liber qui vocatur festivalis. On the backside of the same leaf, a cut of the holy family, with the same border. In the second paragraph of the prologue, the book is said to be drawn out of

^a See crit. hist. of pamphlets, printed 1714. in octavo, p. 332. But Mr. Blew, keeper of the Inner-Temple library, informed me, that there are no such MSS. in that library now, nor any account what became of them. From Mr. Lewis, in a letter to the compiler.

GUILLAM or WILLIAM FAQUES,

THE king's printer, and probably joyned in the same patent with Richard Pinson esq; which patent I can't yet find. They both printed the act of parliament made in the 19th year of king Henry VII.
1503. and stiled themselves in each printers to the king.

How long he had printed before, or continued after, does not appear 1503.
to me, but his books shew a master-piece of workmanship. This of the statute 19 Henry VII. is most beautifully done on a new letter, and fine black ink, within a border of a neat chain, in a large quarto, and handsome frontispiece; and on the backside of it, the arms of France and England quarterly, upheld by a dragon and a greyhound on each side the portcullis and chain; the rose over it, with two philosophers holding a rib-band, with this motto in it, Per te, rosa, toluntur vitia, Per te datur mestis leticia. The words, anno xix. Henrici VII. are in large white letters sunk in a black Ground. Then the title, Statuta, bonum publicum concernentia, edita in parlamento tento apud Westmonasterium xxv. die Januarii, anno regni illustrissimi domini nostri regis, Henrici septimi. It contains 24 leaves. On the last are the words and mark, which I have drawn, and caused to be engraved, with a specimen of his types, and also those of the psalms.*

A proclamation made by K. Henry VII. against clipped money, directed to the sheriffs of Norfolk and Suffolk, &c. with six impressions of the money in the margin, and a fine border on the other side in English, but concludes, Et hoc sub periculo incumbenti nullatenus omittas. Teste meipso, apud Westmonasterium quinto die Julii, anno regni nostri decimo nono. Regius impressor, within seynt Elens, Guillam. In the possession of M. Folkes, esq; P. R. S. my worthy, learned and communicative friend. A broadside.

The

1504. The psalms in Latin, printed in the same size with that on my plate, which is a copy from the title; and the whole within the same kind of chain, in red and black ink, on a good bold letter, and well printed. It begins, Per te rosa, &c. Then the angel, with a rose in a shield on his breast, and Psalterium underneath in red. Then these words, Ex mandato victoriosissimi Anglie regis, Henrici septimi, cum psalmorum virtute feliciter incipit. A large B in red at the beginning of the psalms, &c. but the book is without paging or catch-word, only at the beginning of every eighth leaf is a directing letter, a, b, c, &c. to u. inclusive; and between each line it is finely ruled with red. After the psalms are the hymns of the church. Canticum Isaia 12. Capitulo; canticum Ezechielis, Ysaie 37. Capitulo; Anne 1. reg. 11. Capitulo; Moysi, Exodi 15. Ca. canticum Abuchuck, 3 chap. Canticum Moysi, Deut. 32. Ca. canticum trium puerorum, Danielis 3. Canticum Zacharia Luce, 1^o. Ca. canticum Marie Luce, 1^o. Ca. canticum Simeonis luce, 2^o. Ca. canticum Ambrosi et Augustini, or Te Deum laudamus. Symbolum Athanasii. The Letania. Then three French lines, as in the plate.

¶ *David propheta,
Cantavit carmina leta.*

¶ *Versus bis mille,
Sex centum sex canit ille.*

¶ *Tres quinquagenos
Cantavit ordine psalmos.*

After are added, tables to find Easter, significations of the signs of the zodiack, and eclipses for some years then to come. I take this to be the first book, or part of the bible, printed in England. Penes Dr. R. Rawlinson. Twelves.

The two following sheets have no name, nor compleat date, but by comparing they appear to be his. The last of them I have put at length, that the early manner of admission into a gild might be known.

1508. The admission of Richard Woolman into the gild of St. Mary's, in the church of St. Botolph, at Boston in Lincolnshire, with all the privileges thereof. This deed is also printed on vellum. The person's name and date left blank, to be filled up as occasion should offer. viz.

A deed, by which the prior and convent of Kyrkeby in Lincolnshire, admitted William Husse, and Anne his wife, to the benefit of an indulgence, granted by pope Boniface ix. To which is annexed this absolution. Dominus Ihesus Christus te absolvat, et auctoritate Dei patris omnipotentis, et beatorum Petri et Pauli, apostolorum ejus, ac virtute papalis indulgentiae, ego absolvo te ab omnibus peccatis tuis, et penis purgatorii, et quae tibi in purgatorio debentur propter culpas et offensas, quas contra Deum commisisti, et restituo te illi puritati et innocentiae, in quibus eras, quando baptisatus fuisti. In nomine Patris, et Filii, et Spiritus sancti. Amen. Also a printed cross keys as a seal to it. Penes R. Rawlinson L. L. D.

Mr. Bagford in his MSS. says, FAQUES lived to September 1511, but he mentions no authority for it, nor any thing more of his printing but only the book of psalms. And also says, one JOHN DISLE was a printer 1506, without naming any thing done by him.

HENRY PEPWELL,

I Take to be the bookseller in St. Paul's church-yard, who sold books for Merchants and others, for there were many books printed abroad about this time, and a good while after, that were to be had at the sign of the Trinity in Paul's church-yard.

He

He was a citizen and stationer of London, had a wife and children, and for a servant Michael Loble a printer, of whom we shall take notice in another place. He seems to have been attached to the Roman catholick religion all his days, and a useful man for John Stokeslaye, bishop of London, who succeeded Cuthbert Tunstall. In 1541. John Harryson takes notice of him, says, in a book of his called, "Yet a course at the Romish Fox, fol. 55. that Harry Pepwell was Stokyslayes provider, thus; No lesse myght Harry Pepwell, in Paules church yearde, have out of Micheal Hellenius howse, in Antwerp, at one tyme than a whole complete prynte at the holye request of Stokyslaye. In a short space were they dispatched and a new prynte in hande, &c."

Henry Pepwell made his will Sept. 11. in the year 1539. wherein his soul he gives to the blessed lady, mother of Christ, and his body to be buried in the parish church of St. Faith's (under St. Paul's) nigh the high altar; and to Burmonsey, where he was born, a printed mass-book, the price of five shillings, to pray for his soul. He made his wife Ursula, and his children executors. This account of the will I had from the late reverend Mr. T. Baker.

Towards the end of king Henry the viith's reign, besides the books that were printed at home, there were several printed for us abroad, by the encouragement of our English merchants, and others, as they found their account in it. I shall here only mention two or three, which will not be displeasing to some readers.

1502. Anno incarnationis dominice secundo supra quingentisimum atq; millesimum, die vicesima prima mensis Septembris, opera et industria M. Petri Oliuerii et Jobannis Manditier, impressorum Rothomagi, juxta sacellum diui apostolorum principis Petri commorantium. Impensa vero Jobannis Ricardi, mercatoris: hoc nouum et egregium opus sacri Missalis ad vsum famose ac percelebris ecclesie Helforden. nuper instanti ac peruigili cura visum correctum et emendatum, necnon auctoritate reuerendi in Christo patris et domini eiusdem ecclesie episcopi meritissimi ac dominorum decani et capituli, est in propatulo venale facili precio eorum cunctis productum et exhibitum. This very scarce book was in the possession of the late Hez. Bedford, M. D.^a who very freely communicated the use of it to me. The form of matrimony being in English, not common to us now, please to take, which is in these words:

I, N. underfyng pe N. for my wedded wyf, for beter, for worse, for richer, for porer, yn seknes, and yn helpe, tyl dep us departe, as holy church hap ordeyned, and perto y plygth pe my trovvpe. Et iterum accipiat eam per manum dextram in manu sua dextra, et ipsa dicat sacerdote docente.

I, N. underfyng pe N. for my wedded housbunde, for beter, for vvorse, for richer, for porer, yn sekenes, and yn helpe, to be boxum to pe tyl dep us depart, as holy church hap ordeyned, and perto y plygt pe my trovvpe.

^a Compleat with Dr. Bedford, and imperfect at the Bodleian.

Vel dicat in materna lingua hoc modo sacerdote docente. Wyp pys ryng y pe vvede, and pys gold and seluer ych pe zeue, and vvyp myne body ych pe honoure.

There is a wooden cut of the king's arms and George^a at the beginning. At the end, Finis missalis ad usum celebris ecclesie Helforden. summa cura ac vigili opera nuper impressum Rothomagi, cum additione accentuarii legentibus in ecclesiis valde utilis. Et hoc impensis Johannis Ricardi ejusdem Rothom. ciuis non immeriti; iuxta ecclesiam diui Nicolai commorantis. Printed on vellum. Folio.

William Bretton^b, a merchant of London, about this time encouraged the printing of books abroad, but for our use, and, I suppose, for his own profit and advantage. He bore the character of a faithful and honest man, as appears by the following books, printed at his expence.

Provinciale, seu constitutiones Anglie: cum summariis, atque justis annotationibus politissimis characteribus: summaq; accuratione rursus revise atq; impresse. Sancta Trinitas unus Deus: miserere nobis. Beneath this title is a wooden cut of the Trinity; at each corner, the emblems of the four evangelists, and without them the four doctors of the church sitting, either reading or writing, viz. St. Jerom, St. Ambrose, St. Augustine, and St. Gregory; between the second, on the right hand, St. Thomas of Canterbury, and between that on the left, the venerable Bede, with various lateral figures and decorations. W. B. and, Fortuna opes auferre, non animum potest. ¶ Venales habentur London. apud bibliopolas, in cimiterio sancti Pauli, in signo sanctissime Trinitatis, et sancte Anne matris Marie. On the back of the title is a dedication by D. Lindwode to doctor Henry Chichely, archbishop of Canterbury. The colophon. ¶ Explicit preclarum opus Wilhelmi Lyndewode eruditissimi viri super constitutiones provinciales Anglie, summa cura atq; diligentia impressum una. Sumptibus Wilhelmi Bretton, apud Paris, per T. Kerver. This I take to be printed from one before at Oxford, and often reprinted afterward. Folio. 1505.

Hore beatissime virginis Marie, ad consuetudinem insignis ecclesie Sarum, nuper emaculatissime impresse; multis orationibus pulcherrimis annexis. Impensis Willielmi Breton, civis London, cum multis sanctorum sanctarumq; suffragiis denua superadditis. In Alma Parrhissiorum academia, per Wolfgangum Hopylum impresse, 1506. xi. kal. April. In 256 leaves. Quarto. 1506.

There also were to be sold at the sign of the Trinity in St. Paul's church-yard, several of the prayer books in English.

Speculum spirituum, in quo non solum de vita activa et contemplativa, verum etiam de viciis, quibus humana mens inquinatur, ac virtutibus, quibus in Deum accenditur, perpulchre tractatur, omnibus pie vivere cupientibus utile; 1510.

JOHN

JOHN SKOT, or SCOTT,

FOR he has printed his name both ways, I take to have learned the art of Winken de Worde, or Pinson, because the first work I have met with of his, seems to be printed like the same letter and press-work, as Pinson's and de Worde's, and, I think, about the same time. He printed very early, though without date, as those two pieces of law beneath, in my own possession appear to be ; and dwelt at several places.

The body of polycy, lib. III. Translated out of French. London, 1521.
without Newgate, in S. Pulkers parysh. On vellum. Quarto.

THOMAS GODFRAY,

DWELT at Temple-bar, printed a great many books without date, 1510.
so that I can't say the year he began to print, nor, for certain, who was his master. The first book may probably be,

The history of king Boccus and Sydrache, how he confounded the lerned men, and in the sight of them dronke strong venym in the name of the trinite, and did them no hurt. Also his diuinity that he lerned of the boke of Noe. Also his profycye that he had by revelacyon of the aungell. Also the aunsweris to the questions of wisdome, both moral and natural, with much worldly wysdome, contayned in nnumber cccclxv. Translated by Hugo of Caumpeden, out of Frenche into Englysshe. This is printed over a coarse wooden cut of Sidrach and king Boccus. Printed at London by Thomas Godfry, at the coste and charge of Dan. Robert Saltwode, monke of saynt Austens at Canterbury. The copy which I saw had no date, but Bagford, in his MSS. adds, Cum privilegio regali, 1510. Quarto.

1510. A boke containing, the graunt and privilege, which is called the donation or gyfte of Constantyne, translated out of Greek into Laten, by one Bartylmewe Picerne, of the mounthe of Ardne, unto Julius the second, pope of Rome. II. A declamation of Laurence Valla, being of noble blode, and born in the cyte of Rome, against the foresaid privilege, as being forged and nothing true; with a preface of one Udalyrk Hutten, knyght of Germany, unto Leo the tenth, pope of Rome. III. The sentence and mynde of Nicholas Case, of the tytle of St. Peter the aduyncte cardynall, whiche he wrote unto the counsel holden at Basyle, of the sayd donation and gyste of Constantyne. Quarto.

St. Bernard's golden epistle, with foure revelations of St. Briget. Octavo.

The conspiracie of Lucius Cataline. Translated into English by Thomas Paynell, worthy and profitable to be rede. Quarto.

Revelations of saynt Briget. Twelves.

The boke of the followynge of Christe, iv. parts. Twelves.

¶ An introductione for to lerne to rede, to pronounce, and to speke Frenche trewly; compyled for the right high, excellent, and most vertuous lady, the lady Mary of Englande, doughter to our most gracious souerayn lorde kyng Henry the eight. In two books. This book begins with an imploration of grace, in English and French, an acrostick, as I conceive of the French master's name GILES DEUVVES, [Giles Deuues.] Another to the lady MARY. The prologue in English and Latin. Then the table to the present treatise, thus: This lytle worke shall be divided into two bokes, whereof the first shall have two partes. In the first shall be treated of rules, that is to say, how the fyve vowelles must be pronounced in redyng French, and what letters shall be lefte unsounde, and the cause therof. ¶ The second parte shall be of nownes, pronownes, adverbs, participles, with verbes, prepositions, and conjunctions. ¶ Also certayn rules for conjugations. ¶ Item, fyue of six maners of conjugations with one verb. Item, Conjugations with two pronownes, and with thre; and fynally, combining or joynyng two verses together. The second boke shall be of letters missyues, in prose and in ryme. Also diuerse communications by by way of dialoges, to recyue a messenger from the emperour, the French kynge, or any other prince. ¶ Also, other communications of the proprieties of mete, of loue, of peas, of warres, of the exposition of the masse, and what mannes soule is, with the diuision of tyme, and other conseites. Finis. It begins, A laude and prayse to the kynge, the quene, and to the princesse noble grace, for a preamble to the said book. In Latin and French, To the right hye, right christen, and most redoubted imperiall myght and souerayne majesty of you, Henry, by the grace of God, lyueng kyng victorious, and monarcion of all Englande, the VIII. of that name, be laude euerlastyng, honour without ende, always lastyng lyfe, prosperous and good felicity. And to you, most illustre, right excellent, and right magnanime lady princesse, my lady Anne, by the grace of God, quene of England and France, with right noble and most vertuose, yours right dere and well-beloued doughter Elizabeth, princesse of England and Wales, be lyfe euerlastyng, and joy without ende. Amen, Amen. ¶ Et dicat omnis populus, Amen. Printed at London by Thomas Godfray, cum privilegio indulto. Without date, but I guess about the year 1532 or 3. 4^o.

The boke of merchantes, being a book against popish merchandise. 8vo.

Chaucer's works. Cum privilegio à rege indulto. Folio.

JOHN RASTELL, Vid. pag. 180.

A Gentleman brought up in learning, and probably to the law, had his education in the university of Oxford^a, and, according to Wood^b, was born in London. He took up the employ of printing, which at that time was esteemed a profession fit for any scholar or ingenious man. Being noted for piety and learning, he became intimate with Sir Thomas More, whose sister Elizabeth he married^c, was zealous for the catholick cause, and a great hater of the proceedings of kyng Henry VIII. But Fox says, Rastell was converted by John Frith.^d

It is very probable our learned John Rastell printed other books before he attempted such a large folio as this, with the following title, Tabula libri assisarum et placitorum corone. His mark and sign, with borders at the beginning, take up the first leaf. The type is smaller than what he commonly printed with afterwards, and is of two sorts, the w. being remarkably large. It begins, Prologus Johannis Rastell, in laudem legum; but the prologue is in English, though the body of the book is in the old law French. After it, Here folow the names of the sherys in England, and the names of the justices of every cyrcute in the fyft yere of the rayne of owre sovereign lord kyng Henry the viii. I have put down the names of the judges and counties, to distinguish the book, in the manner I find there; and also to shew their names and circuits.

"As for the book of law-terms, said by Bale to be written by the same author, it is false, for they were written by his son William, as I shall tell you under the year 1565.

"This John Rastell died at London, in fifteen hundred thirty and six, leaving behind him issue William Rastell before mentioned, and John Rastell, a justice of peace, who had a daughter named Elizabeth, the wife of Robert Lougher, LL. D. chancellor of the diocese of Exeter."

There were, it is likely, two families of the Rastells about this time, which makes it difficult, in many places, to distinguish one from the other. It is plain, that William Rastell, of St. Bride's parish in London, in the year 1530. and the life-time of John, was a very noted printer of law-books, as will be shewed in its place; and this family was a good while before the Rastell mentioned by Mr. Wood, or he has not entered into the whole of John Rastell's character.

The abridgement of the statutes in English. This being the first abridgement in the English tongue, and the work of our printer, please to accept the preface, which gives the reasons for it as follows:

¶ The statutes. Prohemium Johannis Rastell.

Because that the lawys of this realme of England, as well the statutes as other jugementys and decreys, be made and wrytyn most commynly in the Frenche tonge, dyuerse men therof muse, and have oftimis communycacion and argument consydering, that in reason euery law wherto any people shuld be boundyn, ought and shulde be wrytten insuch manere and so opynly publisshyd and declaryd, that the people myght sone, wythout gret dyffyculte, have the knowlege of the seyde laws. But the verey cause why the seyde laws of Englonde were writen in the French tonge, shuld seme to be this: first, yt ys not unknowyn, that when Wylliam, duke of Normandy, came in to thys land, and slew kyng Herrold, and conquestyd the hole realme, there was a grete number of people, as well gentylmen as other, that cam wyth hym, whych understode not the vulgar tong, that was at that tyme vsyd in this realme, but onely the French tong: and also, because the seyde kyng, and other grete wyse men of hys counsel, perseyuyd and suposyd that the vulgar tong, which was then usyd in thys realme was, in a manere, but homely and rude, nor had not so grete copy and haboundance of wordys as the Frenche tong than had, nor that vulgare thong was not of yt self suffycient to expown and to declare the matter of such lawys and ordenauncis, as they had determynid to be made for the good governaunce of the people so effectually, and so substancyally, as they coud indyte them in the French tong, therfore they orderid, wrot, and indytyd the seyde lawys, that they made, in the French tong. And

forthermore, long after the commyng off king Wylyam conquerour, be cause that the vse of the French tong in this realme began to mynyssh, and be cause that dyuers people than inhabityd wythin this realme, wich could nother speke the vulgare tonge of thys realme, nother the French tong; therefore the wys men of thys realme causyd to be ordryd, that the matters of the law, and accions betwen partes shuld be pledyd, shewyd and defendyd, answerd, debatyd and juggyd in the English vulgar tong; and more over, that wryttyn and enteryd of record in the rollys in the latyn tong, because that every man generally, and indifferently, myght haue the knolege thereof, as apperyth by a statute made in the xxxvi. yere of E. iii. c. ultimo; wherfore, as I suppose, for these causis before rehersyd, the laws of this realme wer indytyd and wryttyn in the French tong, which was intendyd for a ryght good purpose.

But yet, besyde thys now of late days, the most noble prynce, our late soverayne lord, kyng Henry the vii. worthi to be callid the second Salomon (which excellyd in polytyk wysedome all other princes that reinid in tys realme before hys time) concydering and wel parseyuyng that our vulgare Englysh tong was maruellously amendyd and augmentyd, by reason that dyuers famous clerkis and lernyd men had translate, and made many noble workis into our English tong, wherby there was mych more plenty and haboundaunce off Englysh usyd, than ther was in tymys past; and by reason therof our vulgar tong, so amplyfyed and suffycient of hyt self to expown any lawys or ordynancys, whych was nedeful to be made for the order of thys realme; and also the same wise prince consydering, that the vniversall people of this realme had gret plesur, and gave themself gretly to the redyng of the vulgare Englysh tong, ordeynyd and causyd, that all the statutys and ordynauncis, whych were made for the commyn welth of this realme in hys days, shuld be endytyd and wryttyn in the vulgare Englysh tong, and to be publyshyd, declaryd, and ymprintyd, so that then vniversally the people of the realme myght sone haue the knolege of the seyde statutes and ordynauncys, whych they were bounde to observe, and so by reason of that knolege to avoyd the dangere and penaltes of the same statutys, and also the better to lyff in tranquylyte and pease; whych dyscrete, charytable and reasonable order, our most dred sovereyne lorde that now ys, kyng Henry the viii. hath continuyd, and folowyd, and causyd all the statutys, that haue be made in hys dayes, to be also indytyde and wryttyn in our Englysh tong, to the intende that all hys lege people myght haue the knoleg therof. All whych goodly purposys and intentys, in my mynde ofte tymys reuoluyde, hath causyd me to take thys lytyll payne to translate out of Frenche into Englisshe the abbreviacyon of the statutys, which conteyn forfeytours and penaltes, made before the fyrst yere of the reyn of our late souerein lorde kyng Henry the vii. And also thoughe the statutys, made as wel in the tyme of the seyde kyng Henry the vii. as in the tyme of our souerein lorde lorde, that now ys, be sufficiently indytid and writyn in our Englysh tong, yet to them that be desirous shortly to knowe the effect of them, they be now more tedyouse to rede, than though the mater and effect of them were compendiously abbreviat: wherfore now, as farr as my symple wytt and small lernynge wyll extende, I haue here takyn upon me to abbrege the effect of them more shortly in this lyttyll book, besechyng all them, to whome the syght here of shall come, to accept hyt in gree; and though they shall fortune to fynde any thyng mysreportyd, or omytted by my neglygens, elis by neglygens of the prynters, that yt wolde lyke them to pardon me, and to consyder my good wyl, which haue intendid yt for a comyn welth, for the causis and consideracyons before rehersyde; and also, that yt fortune them to be in dout in any poynt thereof, yet, yf it pleas them, they may resorte to the hole statute, whereof thys book is but a bregement, and in manere but a kalender. And forthermore I wyll aduertise every man, that shall fortune to haue any matter in ure, to resorte to some man, that ys lernyd in the laws of thys realme, to haue his counceyl in such poyntis, which he thinkith doubtfull concernyng these seid statutis, by the knolege wherof, and by the dylygent obseruyng of the same, he may the better do hys dewte to hys prynce and souerine, and also lyf in tranquillite and pease wyth his neyghbour, accordyng to the pleasure and commandment of all mighti God, to whom be eternal laud and glori. Amen.

At the end, ¶ Adest finis pro tempore presenti.

Thus endyth the abbreviacion of statutis, translatyd out of French into English by John Rastell, and imprinted by the same John the xxv. day of October, in the xi. yere of the reyn of our souereyn lord kyng Henry the viii. wyth the pryuylege of our seyd seueren lord grauntyd to the seyd John, that no nother imprint ageyn thys seid work, nor no nother ellis where printyd of them sell wythin thys realme duryng the space of vii. yeris next after this furst impression. This book, without number or catch-word, was often reprinted by himself, and after his death by others, with the above preface and additions. * Octava.

* The tricks of this female sharper, whose father's name was Haukins, and her husband's name Ellys, are related in such a lively and particular manner, with the towns about London, where, and the persons names, upon whom she play'd them, one scene whereof was in Sir Thomas More's house at Chelsey, that the author, one of her dupes, who signs himself Walter Smith, has given a pretty taste of the manner, and poetry of the times.

gate. ¶ Cum privilegio. This title it bears between fifteen small blocks of pretty devices, like Hans Holbein's work, if not his. It is contained in 68 large folio leaves, with a good many cuts, eighteen of which are large, taking up

up the whole side. These are the draughts of our kings, from William the conqueror to Richard the third, inclusive. There is no paging nor date to it, but this paragraph shews the time: After the deposynge of thys kyng Rycharde, kyng Henry founde greate treasoure, what in his treasourye, and what in other places, in money and jewels, to the value of vii. m. li. But yet here ye must note, that xl. sh. in those days was better than xl. sh. is at this present day, which is now the xxi. yere of kyng Henry viii. for at those dayes v. grotes made an ounce, and now at this day xi. groats maketh an ounce. I might take notice of Rastell's exploding the notion of Brute the Trojan's settlement here, and many other just observations of his in the preface; as of a chart, or Mappa Mundi then amongst us; but this being foreign to my subject, I must forbear. This is that scarce book called by the name of Rastell's chronicle, which Dr. Nicholson, in his Hist. Lib. p. 71. knew not where to find. It's now in my possession.* Folio.

Sir Thomas More's dialogue of the veneration and worship of ymagys, against Luther and Tyndale. 1529. Folio.

A dialogue of syr Thomas More, knyghte, one of the counsayll of our soverayne lorde the kyng, and chancelloure of hys duchy of Lancaster; wherein he treatyd dyuers maters, as of the veneracyon and worshyp of ymagys and relyques, praying to sayntis, and goynge on pylgrymage; with many other thynges touchyng the pestylent secte of Luther and Tyndale, by the tone bygone in Saxony, and by the tother laboryd to be brought into England. Newly oversene by syr Thomas More, chancellour of England, 1530. Finis cum privilegio regali anno domini m.v.c.xxx. mense Maii. This dialogue is divided into four books, and in my edition are added, The supplycacyon of soulys, made by syr Thomas More, knyght, counsellour to our soverayn the kyng, and chauncellour of hys duchy of Lancaster. ROBERT and WILLIAM COPLAND,

THE first was servant to Wynken de Worde, as appears by his prologue to the knight of the swan, and by the will of Wynken de Worde, wherein he was a legatee. Mr. Bagford says, he was one of Caxton's servants, from what authority I don't know; but be that as it will, he was one of the earliest printers besides stationer and bookseller, as well as translator and author. This may be observed from several of his books, and that he chiefly dwelt in Fleet-street, at the sign of the rose garland, to about 1541, which year, under Robert Wyer, he is mentioned. He brought up his son William in the same art, who followed the business at the same house and sign, and other places. He became one of the stationers company, 1556, and continued printing for himself and others till about the year 1561. I have put them together, because they both used the same marks and letter; and printing, about this time, so many books without dates, I cannot so well ascertain the time when William began. The first book I met with of Robert's with a date is intituled,

The justices of peas. This is in a ribband over a wooden cut of the king sitting, with his crown on, and the sceptre in his hand, the judges in their habits before him, receiving their charge. Beneath the cut, ¶ The boke of justyces of peas; the charge with all the processs of the cessyons, warrants, superseſſias, and all that longeth to ony justyce, to make endytementes of haute treason, 1515

Imprinted at London, in the Flete-strete, at the sygne of the rose garland, by Wylliam Copland, for Abraham Vele.

JOHN BUTLER, or BOTELER,

AS I am informed by Maur. Johnson esq; who says he was a judge of the common-pleas, and printer; I have only observed a printed book with this title in a ribbon, ¶ Paruulorum institutio ex Stanbrigiana collectione, over the wooden cut of a master sitting and holding a rod in his right hand, and three boys sitting before him. This cut I have observed among Wynken de Worde's. It begins, "What is to be done whan an Englysshe is gyuen to be made in Latyn?" It contains two sheets. At the end, "Imprynted at London, in Flete-strete, at the sygne of saynt John the evangelyst, by me John Butler." Beneath this sign in a wooden block, these words are cut, Initium sancti euangelii secundum Johannem. Penes Mr. Newcom. It seems very old, and from whom probably Robert Wyer might take his sign, if he was not his master. Quarto.

ROBERT WYER,

AN early printer, printed many books without dates. Palmer only mentions two books with a date, one in the year 1535, and the other in 1550. He was mistaken, in the last, Richard Wyer being the printer of it, as will be shewn. He dwelt "at the sygne of saynt Johan evangelyste, in saynt Martyns parysshe, in the byshop of Norwytche rentes, besyde Charyng crosse," as he expressed at the end of many of his books, using the cut of his sign, and sometimes his mark, or both together.

ROBERT REDMAN,

AN early printer of law books, whilst Wynken de Worde, Pinson, and Rastell were living, as well as some others; so that one would be apt to conclude their patents were not always exclusive of others. I am informed he printed in the year 1523, but I, myself, have seen none before the year 1525. Two friends of mine, John Locker, esq; and the late J. Anstis, esq; have told me, that they saw a book printed by Pinson, wherein he calls Redman Rudeman, &c. being displeased, as I suppose, with Redman for using his marks, or others very like them, to most of his books: though afterwards he possibly bought them at the death of Pinson, which happened 1528. However, its probable he dwelt afterwards in Pinson's house, and continued the signe of the George. In his early printed books he used to say, Printed in the suburbs of London, without Temble barr, in the parish of St. Clements, at the sign of the George, which was Pinson's sign.

By the favour of Mr. Legard I saw his will in the prerogative office, in the book Alinger 15, the substance of which is as follows: Robert Redman, stationer and freeman of London, in the parish of St. Dunstan's in the west, made his will the 21 day of October, 1540. His estates he left to be divided into three parts. The first to be for bequests and funeral expences. The second to his wife. The third to his children. Item, to the high altar of St. Dunstons twenty pence. To be given to the poor, at the day of his death, forty pence. Elizabeth, his wife, to be sole executrix; and William Peyghan, and his son-in-law, Henry Smith, to be overseers of this his will; and they to have for their labour at the discession of his executrix. Witness,

THOMAS BERTHELET, Esq; the King's Printer.

DWELT at the sign of Lucretia Romana in Fleet-street, and had a patent granted him at the decease of Pinson, and the first I have met with, for king's printer in these words.

Rex omnibus ad quos præsentes &c. salutem. Sciatis quod nos de gratia nostra speciali, ac ex certa scientia, & mero motu nostris dedimus & concessimus, ac per præsentes damus & concedimus dilecto servienti nostro Thomæ Bartholet impressori nostro quandam annuitatem, sive quendam annualem redditum quatuor librarum sterlingorum, habendum & annuatim percipiendum prædictam annuitatem, sive annualem redditum quatuor librarum eidem Thomæ Bartholet, Barthelet, a festo Paschæ, anno regni nostri vicesimo primo, durante vita sua de thesauro nostro ad receptum scaccarii nostri per manus thesaurar. & camerarii nostrorum ibidem pro tempore existen. ad festa sancti Michaelis archangeli & Paschæ per equales portiones, &c. quod expressa mentio, &c. in cujus, &c. testimonium rei apud Westminsteriensem, vicesimo secundo die Februarii, anno regni Henrici octavi vicesimo primo. Per breve de privato sigillo. This patent I have from Fuller's Church history, p. 392.

His arms are described in a book marked 2. H. 5. in the college of arms, London, thus;

The armes and creste of Thomas Berthelet of London, esquier, gentillman; he bereth asure on a cheveron flore contre flore argent, betwene three doves of the same, thre trefiles vert. per chrest. upon his helm. out of a crounall silver two serpents endorsed asure ventred gold open mouthed, langued and eyed geules, there tailes comyng up in saulre under thire throtes, the endes of the tailes entering into their eres, langued and armed geules manteled geules, doubled silver, as more plainly apperith depicted in this margent; graunted and geven by me Thomas Hawley, alias Clarenceulx, kyng of armes, the first day of September in the thirde yere of the reygne of our soverange lorde kyng Edward the vi, &c.

As several books, and one in 1541, are said to be printed in the house, late Thomas Berthelet's, he probably left off printing, or at least employed others to print for him, some years before his death.

The books printed by him are:

- 1529. The statutes. Printer unto the king's most noble grace. Cum privilegio a rege indulto. Folio.
- 1529. The comedy of Acolastus, translated into English by John Palsgrave, B. D. dedicated to king Henry VIII. regii imp. Quarto.

RICHARD FAWKES, sometimes FAKES.

MR. Bagford says in his mss. he believes him to be a foreigner, and printer to the monastery of Syon, and that he printed an indulgence in the year 1520, and that one Myghel Fawkes printed with Robert Copland, 1535. Probably he might be a relation of William Faques, esq; the king's printer, for they varied the spelling of their names very much; yet the following book is very rudely done, and not near so good work or letter as Faques's 26 years before.

Here after followith the boke callyd the myrroure of our lady, very necessary for all relygyous persones. *This title is printed over a wooden cut, used by Wynken de Worde, in his Pilgrimage of perfection. Henry by the grace of God, kyng of Englande and of France, defensor of the faythe, and lord of Irelande. To all maner our officers, mynysters, and subjectes gretynge. Where as our trusty and ryght wel-beloved subjecte maister John Palsgrave, upon occasion that we afore this season gave hym in commandement, to teche our most dere and most entirely beloved suster quene Mary douagere of France, in the Frenche tong, hath made a boke entituled and called, Les claricissement de la langue Francoyse, which evidently appereth unto us and our counsaile to be made with a great and long continued dyligence, and to be very necessarye, profitable, and expedient, as well for the bryngyng up of the youth of our nobylite, as for all other maner of parsons, our subjectes, to attayne the parfyte knowlege of the Frenche tong, by which sayd boke our sayd well beloued subject, besydes his great labours, payns, and tyme thereabout employed, he hath also at his proper costs and charge put in print; we greatly moued and stered by dewe consyderation of his sayd long tyme and great diligence about this good and very necessary purpose employed, and also of his sayd great costes and charges bestowed about the imprynting of the same, have liberally and benignely graunted unto the sayd maister Palsgrave our favourable letters of privilege, concerning his sayd boke, called, Les claricissement de la langue Francoyse, for the space and terme of seuyn yeres next, and immediately after the date hereof enswyng, straitly charyng and commandyng, all maner our subjectes, boke-sellers or other, whiche medell with the fayte of pryntyng or sellyng of bokes, that they, ne none of them, nother prynt, nor cause to be prynted, nother within this our realme, nor elsewhere out of our realme any nombre of bokes, after the copy of the sayd Les claricissement, nor after any maner tables, or other part or portion of the sayde boke, nor bye no manner hole bokes, nor part of them, which shalle be prynted any where out of our realme, by any other princes subjects, upon payne of our hygh displeasure, and confiscation, and forfaycture of all maner suche bokes, outhere printed or bought, contrary to this our pleasure, of the valewe of which bokes accordyngly and justly praysyd, we wyll our sayd subjectes in this behalf offendyng, shall pay the one halfe for our use, unto the next officer of justice adjoyning unto the place, where the sayd bokes shall fortune so to be found, and the other halfe to go to the use and profyte of our sayd welbeloved subject maister John Palsgrave, wylling and ordaynyng furthermore, that in case any maner alien or stranger, medlyng with the faite of printyng or bokesellyng, or any other person bring any maner of bokes printed after the sayd maister Palsgrave's copy, or any parte thereof, into this our realme here to make sale and utterance of them, duryng the sayd terme and space of vii yeres, that he or they shall ron in such lyke losse losse and penalte, as we have here afore ordayned of our own subjectes, for suche is our utter wyll and pleasure in this behalfe. Yeven under our syg-net, at our maner of Ampthyll the seconde day of September, the xxii yere of our raygne. Then follows: The epistle of Andrewe Baynton to the ryght noble and excellent young gentleman my lord Thomas Hawarde, my lord Geralde, and maister Charles Blont, son and heir to the lord Montjoye, his late scole felowes, &c. shewing the capacity of their master, and fitness of this book for the French erudition. He says, lyke as our maisters self for his partie in that behalf hath chaused, for after he had in commandement by our most redoubted soveraygne, to instruct the duke of Richmontes grace, in the Latin tong, he brought all the hole analogie of the Romane speche, into ix letters, that is to say, theyr fyue vowelles, and m, n, r, s, consonants, whiche thyng was never, as yet, of no clerke that he wot-teth of afore his tyme observed: saving that Marcus Varro, which was in Tullyes tyme, in his thyrde boke de analogia, in very dark and brefe wordes, sheweth that Aristotle's Parmensius, and Dionisius Sidonius, supposed that such a thing was possible to be brought to passe of the Greke tong. This book is a thick folio, containing 473 leaves besides the epistles at the beginning.—Thus endeth this booke called, Les claricissement de la langue Francoyse, which is very necessarye for all suche as intend to lerne to speke trwe Frenche: the imprintynge fynnyssed by Johan. Haukyns the xviii daye of July the year of our lord God m. d. and xxx.

Mertin's prophecy. The original is said to be of the famous Merlin, who lived about a thousand years ago; and the following translation is two hundred years old, for it seems to be written near the end of Henry the seventh's reign. I found it in an old edition of Merlin's prophecies, imprinted at London by John Haukins in the year 1533.^a

Seven and ten addyd to nine,
Of Fraunce her woe thys is the sygne,
Tamys rivere twys y frozen,
Walke sans wetynge shoes ne hozen.
Then comyth foorth, Ich understonde,
From town of Stoffe to fattyn Londe,
An herdie chyftan, woe the morne
To Fraunce, that evere he was borne.
Then shall the fyshe beweyle his bosse;

Reaums shall daunce honde in honde,
 And it shall be merrye in old Inglonde.
 Then old Inglonde shall be no more,
 And no man shall be sorie therefore.
 Geryon shall have three hedes agayne,
 Till Hapsburgh makyth them but twayne.

WILLIAM RASTALL,

SON of John Rastall of London, printer, by Elizabeth his wife, sister to sir Thomas More, knight, was borne in the city of London, and educated in grammar learning there. In 1525, or thereabouts, being then in the year of his age 17, he was sent to the university of Oxford, where laying a considerable foundation in logic and philosophy, left it without a degree, went to Lincoln's-inn, and there by the help of his academical education, made a considerable progress in the laws of the nation, and in the first of Edward the VI, became autumn or summer reader of that house. But religion being then about to be altered, he, with his ingenious and learned wife, Winifrid, daughter of Jo. Clement, left the nation, and went to the university of Louvain in Brabant, where continuing all the time of that king's reign, he returned when queen Mary came to the crown, was made a serjeant at law in 1554, and a little before the said queen's death, one of the justices of the common pleas. At length religion altering again after Elizabeth became queen of England, he returned to Louvain before mentioned, where he continued till the time of his death

He hath written, the chartuary, London 1534.

A table collected of the years of our lord God, and of the years of the kings of England, from the first of William the conquerour, shewing how the years of our lord God, and the years of the kings of England, concur and agree together; by which table it may quickly be accounted how many years, months, and days, be past since the making of any evidences. Lond. 1563.

Termes of the English law: or, Les termes de la ley. Several times printed.

A collection in English of the statutes now in force, continued from the beginning of Magna charta, made the 9 Henry III. to the 4th and 5th of Philip and Mary. London 1559. Folio.

A collection of entries, of declarations, barres, replications, rejoinders, issues, verdicts, &c. London 1566.—96, &c. Folio.

He also corrected and published a book entituled

La novel natura brevium de monsieur Anton. Fitzberbert, &c. des choses notables contenus en ycel novelment, &c. To which he added a table.

Also

Also two tables, one of the pleas of the crown, and another to Fitzherbert's grand abridgement of the law.

He died at Louvain the 27th August 1565. Thus far Ant. Wood Ath. col. 167.

Dugdale, in his Origines juridicales, &c. mentions a volume called Registrum cancellariae, or the register original, in use before the Norman conquest 1531, as done by him, and that he was made serjeant at law 16th October 1554. This seems as if he had left off the art of printing, and betook himself to the study of the law, as it appears his father left off the law and practised printing. I have not observed any book printed by him after 1534, when the reformation gained ground, and he was esteemed a zealous papist. But some think there were two families of the Rastell's, and that this William was another man; but the contrary is more probable to me from his works and employers, and from the sentiments of a good antiquary, the reverend Mr. Lewis, in his life of Sir Thomas Moore, p. 177, who says, Sir Thomas's English works were collected and published in one volume by his sister's son, William Rastell serjeant at law, with the following title: The workes of sir Thomas More, knight, sometime lorde chancellour of England, wrytten by him in the English tongue. Printed 1557.

A dialogue of Sir Thomas More, touching the pestilent doctrine of Luther and Tyndal. 1530.
Folio.

This was again printed in folio in 1533.

The registry of the wryttes orygyneal and judycyall, prynted at London by Wylliam Rastell, and fynyshe the xxviii day of September in the yere of our lorde 1531, and in the xxiii yere of the rayne of our soverayne lord kyng Henry the eyht, with the pryuylege of our sayd soveraign lord graunted to the sayd Wylliam, that no person imprynt the same in thys realme within the space of vii yere next ensuyng. Quarto. 1531.

This was also printed in Folio the same year, with a good deal of the Italic character.

Registrum brevium tam originalium quam judicialium: and is to sell at Flete strete, at the house of the sayde Wylliam, or in Poules churchyard, or els at Temple barre at the house of Robert Redman. Folio. 1531.

The confutacyon of Tyndale's answer made by syr Thomas More, knight, lord chauncellour of Englonde. ¶ Cum privilegio. In the preface to this book are several remarkable pieces of history, relating to the reformation, and of books about that time published. * Folio. 1532.

Here after ensueth two fruytfull sermons, made and compyled by the ryght reuerende father in god John Fysher, doctour of dyuynte and byshop of Rochester, 28 June. At the end, these bokes to be sell at London in Southwark, by me Peter Truerys. * Quarto. 1532.

And fyrst a table to all these xii bokes. Cum privilegio. Then follows the preface thus: Wyllyam Rastell to the gentlymen studentes of the law. How commodious and profitable vnto gentlemen students of the law be these thre bokes them selfe declare. For lyke as a chylde goynge to scole fyrst lerneth his letters out of the A B C, so they, that entend the study of the law, do fyrst study these, &c. Thus endeth these xii bokes, &c. Prentyd by W. Rastell, in Flete strete, in saynt Brydys chyrche yarde, the yere of oure lorde 1534. N. B. It contains 423 pages, and is the first I have observed to be paged. JOHN TOYE

PRINTED Gradus comparationum cum verbis anomalis simul cum eorum compositis. In 8 leaves. At the end, Imprinted at London, in Poules chyrche yarde, at the sygne of saynte Nycolas, by me John Toye. The yere of our lorde God M.D.xxxi. the xxx day of May. It has John Scot's device at the end, and is the only piece I have found printed by him. 4°. 1531.

JOHN BYDDELL,

OTHERWISE called Salisbury, for what reason I don't find, was a stationer and printer, and appears to have sold books in the year 1533, if not before. It is probable that he was apprentice to Wynken de Worde. He first kept shop at the sign of our lady of Pity, but afterwards moved to Wynken de Worde's house, and was one of his executors, as appears by Wynken de Worde's will, in p. 81. of this book.

The first book of his I have met with, is intituled,

A booke called in Latyn Enchiridion militis christiani, and in the Englysshe, The manuell of the christen knyght, replenyshed with moste holosome precepts, made by the famous clerke Erasmus of Roterdame; to the whiche is added, A newe and mervaylous profytable preface. Erasmus Roterdame sendeth gretyng to the reverend father in Christ (and lorde) the lorde Paule Volzius, the moste religyous abbot of the monastery, the whiche is comenly called Hughes-courte, dated at Basil, 1518. *At the beginning a verse of 20 lines by Wynken de Worde, in commendation of the book; imprinted by him for Johan Byddell, otherwyse Salisbury, the xv day of Novembre, and be for to sell at the sygne of our lady of Pytie, next to Flete-bridge, 1533. Cum privilegio regali. This book Byddell reprinted several times afterwards. Twelves. 1533.

The lyfe of Hyldebrande, called Gregory the vii. pope of that name: with the lyfe also of Henry the fourth, emperour of Rome and Almayne. At the end, Imprinted by Wynken de Worde for John Byddell, otherwise Salisbury, as above. Twelves. 1533.

Of the old God and the new, of the old fayth and the newe, of the old doctrine and the newe, or the original begynning of idolatry. The 15th June. With his mark as in the plate. Cum priv. regali. 12°. 1533.

¶ A goodly prymer in English, newly corrected and printed, with certeyne godly meditations and prayers added to the same, very necessarie and profitable for all them that ryghte assuredly understand not the Latine and Greke tongues. From what sir Thomas More says in the preface in his answer 1534.

swer to Tindal, printed by W. Rastell, 1532, we may infer the translator of this book to be George Joy: "The psalter was translated by George Joy the preste, that is wedded now, and I here say the Prymer to, wherein the seuen psalmes be set in wythout the latenye, leste folke shold pray to sayntes. And the dirige is left out clene, leste a man myght happe to pray theron for his fathers soule:" compared with the preface to the litany of this book (which I take to be the second impression) beginning thus: Forasmoche good christen reder, as I am certeynly perswaded, that diuerse persones of small iudgement and knowlege in holy scripture haue ben offended, for that in the Englyshe prymer, which I lately set forth, I dyd omitte and leaue out the letany, which I take God to witnes, I did not of any peruerse mynde or opinion, thinkyng that our blessed lady, and holy sayntes might in no wyse be prayed unto, &c. See also, An admonition or warning to the reader to be had and read for the true understanding of the dirige. The title is over the king and queen's arms crowned quarterly, and on the back of the leaf the picture of Time, Truth, and Hypocrisy curiously done.

It being the first English Primer reprinted; my giving the table may be acceptable to some persons;

SEEMS to have been a gentleman or merchant, who had good interest at court, and got licence for printing in this unstable time

The fine reformed, or protestant primer (as I venture to call it) from the Oxonians and Cantabrigians casting off the pope's supremacy the year before, was printed by Byddel for Marshall, whose acquaintance with Geo. Joy, and the inclination of queen Anne to promote the reformation, might be the means to gain him the patent. Also in the book called, The defence of peace, printed by Robert Wyer, at the expence of Marshal this year. *Queen Ann's arms is joined with that of the king. RICHARD GRAFTON, Esq;

SEEMS to have been born at London, the latter end of king Henry the viith time; however he appeared as a printer in the reigns of king Henry viii, king Edward vi, queen Mary, and queen Elizabeth. Through all which reigns we shall endeavour to trace him as far as the intelligence, we have been able to come at, will give leave. What station in life his parents held I have not been able to learn; though it should seem from his arms, that he was descended of a good family^a.

As I am at a loss about his ancestors, so neither does my intelligence enable me to say how he was educated: some have thought he was bred a stationer. I own its most natural to suppose he was brought up, or took upon him the profession of a printer; since the exercise of that profession was the business of the former part of his life, and has been his general

denomination. But it rather appears to me, that he was brought up a scholar; his education, I apprehend, being above the rank of a stationer, or printer; for it is evident from his own writings, that he must have understood the languages. He appears also to have been a man of some genius, of which he has given proof in the works published in his own name. These, as we shall see by and by, were in the historical way. Moreover original letters of his to archbishop Cranmer and the lord Cromwel, dated August 13^a and 28 shew, that he was encouraged by, and even admitted to the conversation of the nobility and great men of his time, and that he was a grocer by company.^b

Let his education then, and early character have been what they will, we find him in the year 1537, at London in the profession of the printing art. He perhaps, as some others of undoubted liberal education, (such as Jugge, Richard Day and Thomas afterwards) might come over to the printing business, in order more effectually to serve the interests of learning and religion, as well as the better to provide for himself; bare learning being at that time of day perhaps but a scanty inheritance, and the printing art not being at that time it may be provided with men of sufficient acquirements to conduct it with reputation. However, the particular occasion of his turning printer is said by Palmer to have been his being pitched upon to procure an edition of William Tindal's, alias Hichins's version of the new testament, and afterwards of his bible, revised and corrected by Myles Coverdale^c. Some impressions of the former, printed by himself

^b A copy of the letter Aug. 28, 1537. follows. Most humbly beseechynge your lordship to understand that according to your request, I have sent your lordship vi bybles, which gladly I woulde have brought myselfe, but because of the syckness, which remaineth in the cytie. And therefore I have sent them by my servant, which this day came out of Flandrys, requiring your lordship, yf I may be so bolde as to desire you to accept them as my symple gyfte, geuen to you for those moste godly paynes, for which the heuenly father is bounde euen of his justice to regard you with the everlasting kingdome of God. For your lordship mouing our moost gracyous prynce to the allowance and lycensynge of soche a worke hath wrought soche an acte worthy of prayse, as neuer was mencyoned in any cronycle in this realme. And as my lorde of Canterbury sayde, the tydynges thereof dyd him more good than the gyfte of ten thousand pounce. Yet certen there are, which belieue not that that yt pleased the kynges grace to lycense yt to go forth; wherefore if your lordshipp's pleasor were soche, that we myght have yt lycensed under your preuy scale, yt shuld be a defence at this present, and in tyme to come, for all enemyes and aduersaryes of the same. And for as moche as this request is for the mayntainance of the lordes worde, which is to mayntayne the lorde himself, I fear not but that your lordship will be earnest therein. And I am assured that my lorde of Cantorbury, Worsetter, and Salisbury will geue your lordship soch thanks, as in them lyeth, and sewre ye may be that the heuenly lorde will rewarde you for the establyshyng of his glorious truth. And what youre lordshippes pleasor is in this request yf it may please your lordship to enform my servant, I and all that love God hartely are bound to pray for your preseruatyon all the dayes of our lyfe. ^c Soon after this they procured Cromwel's death, and imprisoned Grafton, the printer, himself at Antwerp, had already it seems been dispersed about England and elsewhere: these copies were bought up by Tonsal, then bishop of London, and burnt at Paul's cross. I shall not trouble the reader with the story of this affair at length, since it has been so often told by others^a; but content myself with referring to those, who have given it at large. At such a conjuncture therefore it could not but be very dangerous to undertake the printing a work of this kind at London.

He desired that others might be inhibited for three years from printing the English bible, till he should have sold his edition of 1500 volumes; or that all curates and popish monasteries might be obliged to buy them. In November the same year was printed in Octavo at Paris, by Francis Regnault, the new testament in Latin and English after the vulgar text, which was read in the church, translated and corrected by Miles Coverdale, for Richard Grafton and Edward Whitchurch, citizens of London. Cum gratia et privilegio regis.

Grafton and Whitchurch's names are sometimes printed separately in the same books; particularly those which they printed with the royal privilege ad imprimendum solum: as the bible, new testaments, and primers. In printing the stated number, when so many as were to bear Grafton's name were compleated, his name was taken out of the form, and Whitchurch's inserted in its place.

Grafton and Whitchurch printed in Folio the bible in English at London in 1539, 1540, 1541, &c.

He dwelt in a part of the dissolved house of the Grey Friars, which was afterward granted by king Edward VI. for an hospital for the maintenance and education of orphans, called Christ's Hospital^b. It does not appear that Grafton dwelt in any other house, although in the title of his book of Aristotle's ethiques, it is said: "Imprinted in the parish of Christs church within Newgate in 1547." This agreeing with the situation, may be the same place, but whether he rented this apartment, or made a purchase of it, as some others did about that time, I can't say.

Grafton took for his rebus, in allusion to his name, a tun, with a grafted tree growing through it, with this motto: SVSCIPITE INSITUM VERBUM. IACO. I.^c

six weeks space in the Fleet for printing Matthews's bible, and this great bible without notes. And before he came out of prison he was bound in an hundred pound bond that he should neither sell nor imprint, or cause to be imprinted any more bibles until the king and the clergy should agree upon a translation. ^a This book prohibited. See proclamation 1555. Fox, in his ecclesiastical history p. 557, edit. 1576 defending lord Cobham against Alan Cope, who had quoted Hall's chronicle, says thus; The truth whereof is this, that as the said Edward Hall, your great master and testis, was about the compiling of his storye, certaine there were, which reforted to him, of whom some were drawers of his pedigree and vineat: some were gravers, the names of whom were John Bets, and Tyrall, which be now both dead. And other there were of the same sodalite, who be yet alive, and were then in the house of Richard Grafton, both the printer of the said booke, and also (as is thought) a great helper of the penning of the same. It so befel, that as Hall was entering into the storye of sir John Oldcastle, of sir Roger Acton, and their fellowes, the book of John Bale, touching the story of the lord Cobham, was the same time newly come over. Which book was privily conveyed by one of his servants into the study of Hall, so that in turning over his books, it must needs come to his hands. At the sight whereof, when he saw the grounds and reasons of that booke containd, he turned to the authors in the foresaid book alledged; whereupon within two nightes after moved, by what cause I know not, but so it was, that he taking his pen, rased and cancelled all that he had written before, against sir John Oldcastle and his fellowes, and was now ready to go to the print, containing near to the quantity of three pages. That he had the ms to show, &c.

On the death of king Edward VI. Grafton, in consequence of his character as king's printer, was employed to print the proclamation, by which the lady Jane Grey was declared successor to the crown, by virtue of the measures, that had been concerted by her father-in-law, the duke of Somerset, but on queen Mary's accession to the throne, Grafton, though he had done no more than discharge the duty of his office, lost a debt of 300 l. which was owing to him from the crown at the time of king Edward's death, and was immediately deprived of his patent.^a John Cawood was put in his room. The reason of this deprivation, as it is given in the patent granted to his successor, was, his having printed the proclamation for declaring lady Jane Grey queen of England.^b This, it seems, was considered as nothing less than high treason in those days; and if so, honest R. Grafton had a good escape. Besides the loss of his debt and his place he was prosecuted and imprisoned. Whether this prosecution was carried on against him on account of the above mentioned proclamation, or for printing the bible in English, is not, I think, so evident. His reformation principles, of which he could not give greater proof than by encouraging the English bible, might excite the disgust against him; though the affair of the proclamation was made the handle, as the more plausible and political pretence. During his confinement, or however, while he was out of business, he seems to have employed himself in writing, as many great men have done in the like circumstances. The subject upon which he fell, was the history of England; an abridgement of the chronicles of which he put together; but it was not printed till nine years after, viz. in 1562.

I find one Richard Grafton, grocer, member of parliament for the city of London 1553 and 4, and again 1556 and 7, who might probably be our printer. For he had stiled himself grocer, page 190, see also in the journals of the house of commons. February 5, 1557, Grafton was joined with others to examine a matter against Walter Rawley a burgesse, complained on out of the admiralty court, by Dr. Cooke's letter. March 9, 1562, the bill for paving of Kentish-street near Southwark, was brought in by Grafton, who that year served for the city of Coventry in Warwickshire, as in a M S. list. In 1563, he brought in a bill to assize the weight of barrells, &c. October 14, 1566, see his complaint against Phylpott for extortion.

Grafton appearing under another character than that of a printer, publishing his Abridgment of the chronicle of England; of which I have seen five editions printed by R. Tottyl, in the years 1562, 1563, 1564, 1570, 1572. There seems, however it came about, to have been a sort of pique between our author and John Stow, the famous antiquary of that age. Of this Grafton gives us an instance on his part in the dedication of the books before us, edit. 1570 and 1572, where he speaks of the memories of superstitious foundations, fables and lyes, foolishly STOWED together, &c.

This was a severe, and it may be, an unjust censure of Stow's summary of English chronicles, printed first anno 1565, and several times afterwards. This Stowe resented, as is easy to believe he must, and accordingly took an opportunity to repay the compliment, for publishing some time after this another edition of his summary, he reflected on Grafton, as making Edward Hall's chronicle, his own chronicle, as also on account of Grafton's praising John Harding, whose chronicle of England he had printed 1543, intimating withal that he had falsified it in some instances. Our author vindicates himself from these aspersions, in his epistle to the reader, printed in a later edition of his abridgement of the chronicles of England 1570, thus:

“ Richard Grafton to the gentle reader.

“ I haue (ryght louing reader) nowe once again turned over my firste abridgement of chronicles, and not onely amended such thinges, as I founde amisse therein, but also haue added thereunto many and diuerse good notes, as the diligent reader shall easely perceave. And my trust is, that as I am not desyrous to offende any person, neyther by namyng or misreporting of their doings; so I shall be favourably (without reprochefull or malicious tauntes and byting tearmes) allowed of, as my labours deserve. But yet gentle reader, this one thing offendeth me so much, that I am enforced to purge myself thereof, and shewe my simple and playne dealing therein. One John Stowe, of whom I will say none euell, although he hath greatly prouoked me thereunto, as by wrytyng of an epistle agaynst me, stuffed with ragged eloquence and uncurteous termes, descanting and definyng my name, &c. And now of late the same man hath published a booke, which he nameth a summary of the chronicles of Englande (the untruthes whereof I will not here detect) and therein hath charged me bitterly, but chiefly with ij thinges. The one, that I have made Edward Halles chronicle my chronicle, but not without mangling, and (as he saith) without any ingenious and playne “ declaracion.

" declaracion thereof. The other thing, that he chargeth me withal, is in " praysing of John Harding, one of his aucthors (who surely is worthy of " great praise, and I wishe he had folowed in his booke no worsse auctor)
 " he sayth, that a chronicle of Hardinges which he hath, doth much " differ from the chronicle, which under the sayde Hardinges name was " printed by mee, as though I had falsefied Hardinges chronicle. For " aunswere to the first, I haue not made Halles chronicle my chro" nicle, although the greatest part of the same was my awne chronicle,
 " and written with myne awne hand; and full little knoweth Stowe of " Halles chronicle: but this I saye, I haue not made Halles chronicle my " chronicle, neyther haue I used hys chronicle any otherwise then I haue
 " all chronicles, as where Hall spake plainly, there I suffer him to tell his
 " awne tale, and in thende, alledge him as my aucthour, as I do all others,
 " though not in euery place, whiche were nedelesse, yet in the chiefest " places and matters of weight. And when I found him affected with " many obscure woordes, there I alleged him in as playne termes as I " coulde. And thus muche I haue had to do with Hall, and none other" wise. And here I note to all men, that I do reuerence Hall in his " woorke, he being now dead, as much as I did when he was aliue, with " whom I was of no small acquaintance, and I am as readye to aduance
 " his praise and commendacion, and readier (if I may saye it without " offence) then he that found faulte with mee. And Hall (as ye knowe)
 " wrote but of a fewe kinges, and began where Frossard left, and so " neyther his chronicle is myne, nor myne his. Now, as towchyng
 " John Hardinges chronicle that Stowe hath, which he sayth doth much
 " differ fro that, which was imprinted under his name by mee, I graunt
 " it maye well be so; for I haue, at this tyme, a chronicle that beareth
 " the name of John Harding, written in the Latyn tongue in prose, that " I am sure John Stowe neuer sawe, and thoughe he did, yet I doubt " whether he understande it. And it may well be, that one man maye
 " write at ij times ij bookes of one matter, and yet the one of them " not to agree with the other, as Stowe himselfe hath done, who in his " later summary of chronicles, differeth cleane from his first, neyther
 " agreing in matter nor yeres, and yet (as he sayth) they are both Stowes
 " chronicles. And it may also be, that there were mo John Hardinges " than one, and so all may stande well together, and no faulte committed " by mee. Thus much for aunswere of the faultes. And here to make " any further declaration of the order of my booke, it shall not neede;
 " for in the second Page thereof are expressed the particulars of the same.
 " And I haue joyned hereunto an exact table, for the ready fyndyng of any " matter herein conteined, most hartely praiving the gentle Reader, that " where he shall fynde me to haue committed any errour, that there he " will gently interpret mee, or amende the same, and so for this tyme
 " I ende." Farewell*.

Grafton employed others to print for him, though we have an instance of the book of common prayer, printed in Grafton's office without a printer's name.

It has been intimated by Mr. Strype, that by several adverse providences he was grown poor in his old age.^b But this does not, I think, seem very probable, since it is likely he held his reputation to the last; and his arms, with the addition of a crest, being confirmed to his third son Richard Grafton of London, by patent bearing date 1584, under the hand and seal

^a "Archbishop. Parker in reading the 1st vol. of Grafton's chronicle, observed, that he had mentioned Guido deColumella's book of the Trojan war, as being in his possession. This his grace wanted to see, as a very scarce book, and perhaps then in ms. Grafton told him, that he could not find it, but believed he had lent it to his friend Dr. J. Caius, or of the office of Robert Cooke, esq; clarencieux king at arms, seem to evidence, that the son was in some condition in the world at that time, which it is not very likely he would have been, if his father, but lately dead, had been much reduced. I have not been able to procure any particulars relating to his sickness, death, or interment, although a descendant of his died lately, a stationer at the Temple.

EDWARD WHITCHURCH, esq;
king's printer,

JOYNED in the same patent with Grafton, originally brought up a merchant, dwelt in saint Martin's, at the Well with two Buckets, and as Fox in his acts and monuments says, he was brought into trouble with Grafton, in the year 1541, concerning the six articles, being suspected not to have been confessed^a. They continued in friendship and partners together for many years, though Whitchurch dwelt separate, and kept shop at several places in London. In the year 1554, "there was a general pardon proclaymed within the abbey, at the time of her [Q. Mary's] coronation, out of which proclamation all the prisoners of the Tower, and of the Fleete, were excepted, and 62 more; whereof Mr. Whitechurch and Mr. Grafton were two.^b" He afterwards married the widow of Cranmer, archbishop of Canterbury; since which time I know little of him, nor when he died. Many works, in which he was concerned, you may find under Grafton. One of his marks may be seen in the plate.

His first work that I know of, was the bible in folio, the year 1539. Folio. 1539.

In quo ea, que servat ecclesiasticus ritus, ordine congruo connectuntur. Londini, 1554. It has no printer's name, but by comparing it with Wayland's, it seems the same letter. It is well* well printed in red and black, with musical notes to chant the service, in Latin, except what follows in the form of baptism, as thus in red ink, Fol. 37. Godfaders and godmoders, and all that be here about, say in the worship of God and our lady, and of the xii apostelles, a Pater noster, and Ave Mary, and Credo in Deum, that we maye so mynyster thys blessyd sacrament, that it may be to the pleasure of almyghty God, and confusyon of our gostly enemy and saluacyon of the soule of this chyld. ¶ Godfaders and godmodys of thys chylde, we charge you that ye charge the father and the moder to kepe it from fier and water, and other perels, to the age of vii yere; and that ye lerne, or se it to be lerned, the Pater noster, Aue Maria, and Credo, after the lawe of all holy churche, and in all goodly haste, to be confermed of my lorde of the dioces, or of his deputy, and that the mother bryng ayen the chrysom at hyr purification, and washe your hande, or ye departe the churche. Fol. 44, black letter. I christen the N. in the name of the father, and of the son, and of the holy ghost, Amen. And in Fol. 48, the form for marriage is thus. I, N. take the N. to my wedded wife, to have and to holde, fro this day forward, for better, for wors, for richer, for poorer, in sikenesse and in hele, til dethe vs departe, if holy church it woll ordeine, and thereto I plight the my trouthe. I, N. take the N. to my wedded housbande, to have and to holde, fro this daye forward, for better, for worse, for richer, for poorer, in sikenesse and in hele; to be bonere and buxum in bedde, and at the borde, till dethe vs departe, if holy church it woll ordeine, and therto I plight the my trouthe.*

Quarto.

The copie of a letter sent into Scotlande, of the arrivall and landyng, and most noble marriage of the moste illustre prynce Philippe, prynce of Spaine, to the most excellent princes Marye quene of England, solemnised in the citie of Winchester; and how he was recyved and installed at Windsor, and of his triumphyng entries in the noble citie of London. Wherunto is added, a brefe ouerture, or openyng of the legation of the most reuerend father in God, lorde cardinall Poole, from the sea apostolyke of Rome, with the substaunce of his oracyon to the kyng and quenes magestie, for the reconcilment of the realme of Englande to the unitie of the catholyke churche; with the very cotype also of the supplication, exhibited to their highnesses by the three estates assembled in the parliamente; wherein they representing the whole body of the realme, and dominions of the same, have submitted themselves to the pope's holynesse. In it is, John Elders letter to Robert Stuarde, bishop of Cathnes, and provost of Dumbritaine college in Scotland, the first kalends of January; wherein is an account of king Philip's arrival, &c. of the pageants, cardinal Pool's speech, and the three estates answer; and thus describes king Philip's stature. (As I can well compare him to John Hume, my lord of Jedwards kindsman.) Of visage he is well favoured, with

WAS rather a bookseller, than printer, dwelling in Paul's Church-yard, at the sign of the White-horse.

He sold the primer in English, done by John History, bishop of Rochester, in the year, 1539.

The whole bible, that is, the holy scripture of the old and new testament, faithfully translated into English, by Miles Coverdale, newly overseen and correct, set forth with the kinges most gracious lycence. Printed for him without a printer's name. 1550.
Quarto.

Preservative, or treatise against the poyson of Palagius, lately renewed by the sect of Anabaptists. 1551.
Octavo.

M I C H E L L L O B L E Y, printer, stationer, and bookseller,

WAS servant to Henry Pepwell, and dwelt at the sign of the Saint Mychell, in Paul's Church-yard. He had in Henry the viiith's reign been guilty of heretical pravity, so was forced to abjure among those, who were forced to revoke and bare faggots: this appears by Fox's acts and monuments, p. 419. and that his wife was frequent in lord Cromwell's Family. I find him upper-warden of the stationers company, the first year of queen Elizabeth, when she renewed their charter. He is mentioned to sell the bishop of Rochester's primer, 1539.

A sheet almanack for the year 1540. Part of the date was tore off, I think it was before 1560, with pretty neat wooden cuts over each of the 12 months, signifying the imployment of that month, and before each dominical letter (which was D) a portion of scripture; as Sunday, Dec. 6. Luke xx. c. There shall be sygnes; 13. Math. xi. a. When John beyng in; 20. John i. b. And this is the recorde; 27. Luke xi. And hys father and mother, &c. I suppose the lessons, that then were read at church. At the end, after the signs of the Zodiac, Simonis Henringii Salicedensis, doctor in physyck and astronomy, at Hagenaw. ¶ Imprinted at London, by Michel Lobley.

JOHN

JOHN MALER, MAYLER, MAYLERT, and MAYLART,

I Have seen his name spelt all these ways, a grocer by company, a scholar and zealous man for the reformation, dwelt at the White Bear, in Botolph-lane, near Billingsgate, and was in trouble on account of the vi articles, in the year 1541, for being a sacramentary, a rayler against the masse; for calling the sacrament of the aulter, the baken God; and for saying, that the masse was called beyond the sea, misse, for that all is amisse in it ^a.

1539. The prymer in English, done by John Hilsey, bishop of Rochester; at the end is said to be printed by Maylart.

1540. Novum Testamentum Latinum, ad antiquissima Graecorum exemplaria, quam diligentissime castigatum, inque Latinam phrasim transfusum quicquid erat idiotismi vel Graeci vel Hebraei. Quin et scripturarum concordantiis, unâ cum allusionibus, quàm accuratissime illustratum. Praeterea difficillima quaeque loca sunt passim aut explanata, aut certè eminus ostensa. Figurae quoque veteris Testamenti, cum spiritu ac veritate Novi, pensculantur. Estque praefixa praefatio, quae, praeter alia sacrarum literarum cognitu necessaria, argumenta quoque totius Novi Testamenti ex ordine continet. Per B. Galterum Deloenum, regiae majestatis Anglicanae biblioscopum. Tu pie lector, evolue, perpende, judica. Sobriè, justèque, et piè vivamus in praesenti seculo, expectantes beatam illam spem, et ad paritionem gloriae magni Dei, et servatoris nostri Jesu Christi. Ad Titum 2. Ad vere Christianissimum, invictissimumque regem, Henricum octavum, regem Angliae et Franciae, dominum Hiberniae, fidei defensorem, et post Christum Anglicanae caput supremum, praefatio Galteri Deloeni ejus majest. in Christo biblioscopi. Contained in 20 leaves. end, Londini, mense Decembri, anno à Messia nato 1539, Galterus Deloenus candido lectori, S. of one page, 12 calen. Januar. 1539. Then begins the New Testament, all in a very good Roman letter, with parallel places in the margin, and the leaves numbered, some Hebrew and Greek printed in the notes. After the errata, a short admonition, and concludes, Londini, anno à Messia nato 1540, mense Februario. Excudebat Joannes Mayler. Cum privilegio ad imprimendum solum. At the end, a small tract on justification, free-will, and predestination, in 10 leaves. Quarto.

JOHN HERTFORDE, HERFORDE, or HEREFORD,

PRINTED at St. Alban's before he printed at London, by the earlier dates of his books, probably the first, who set up a press there after the so long cessation thereof, that is from 1486 to 1537, 49 years. The reformation taking place, and not finding business among the monks, he came and dwelt in Aldersgate-street in London, and served other persons besides himself. The first book I have met with here is, 1544. Assertio Arturii regis Britanniae, J. Lelando antiquario autore. Contains 50 leaves. Quarto.

A copy of verses beginning :

Westerne Will to Camell, and for himself alone,
Although he leudly lust, to knitte up three in one,
When calmely blowes the winde, and seas but by the moue,
And cloude appereth none, to threaten from above
Unwelcome chaunge of wether, with rage of stormes loude,
Ne mistes their mantels spreade, the sonne away to shroude,
The Maister idle syttes, and shipboyes stere the sterne,
The course so rarelesse is, he lust it not gouerne, &c.

REYNOLD

REYNOLD WOLFE esq; king's printer,

WAS a foreigner, born either in Germany, or Zurich in Switzerland. There were two printers of this name, one Nicholas Wolfe a German, in the year 1502; and Thomas Wolfe at Basil 1527. Probably ours was related to one of them and brought up early to learning, and that of printing. It is plain he was a man of eminence, and a good antiquary, a great promoter of the reformation, and in favour with king Henry VIII. lord Cromwell, archbishop Cranmer, &c. John Leland was of his acquaintance. Our learned Kentish antiquary John Twine calls him a German by nation, good man, and well learned, and a very faithful friend of his, whose kindness he had experienced in prosperity and adversity, and who, when he was set at liberty from his imprisonment in the Tower, took him into his house, situ squaloreque obsitum^a, and entertained him there till he could return to Canterbury, to his own house and family. John Stowe observes of him, that in the year 1549, the bones of the dead, in the charnal house of St. Paul's, amounting to more than a 1000 cart loads, were carried to Finsbury field, and the expence paid by him; that he was the greatest preserver of antiquities in and about London for his time; and that he collected the great chronicles, which were increased and published by his executors, under the name of Ralph Hollenshead; which Mr. Strype^a thus represents, that he wrote a chronicle of England, which by archbishop Whitgift's order was transcribed, and filled for the press a little before his death.

He settled his printing office in Paul's Church-yard, and set up the sign of the Brasen Serpent, which was a device used by foreign printers; and his rebus you'll see in the plate. The house, says Stowe, as I gness, he built from the ground, out of the old chapel, which he purchased of the king at the dissolution of monasteries, where on the same ground he had several other tenements, and afterward purchased several leases of the dean and chapter of St. Paul's. He followed his business of printing with great reputation for many years, and printed for archbishop Cranmer most of his pieces, and others of great note. Henry Binneman was servant to him, who afterwards proved a good printer, and used the same device of the Brasen Serpent.

He was the first, who had a patent for being printer to the king in Latin, Greek and Hebrew; by which he was authorized to be his book-seller and stationer, and to print and publish all sorts of books in the said languages, as also Greek and Latin grammars, although mixt with English; and likewise charts, maps, and such other things, which might be at any time usefull and necessary. And he was permitted to exercise this office either himself, or by sufficient deputies, and to enjoy an annuity of twenty six shillings and eight pence, besides all other profits and advantages belonging to his office during life. And all other booksellers and printers were forbid to sell or print any books printed by him, at his own charge, or in his name, on pain of forfeiting their books, &c. Which particulars may be fully seen in the patent following.

In cujus rei, &c. Teste rege apud Westmonasterium, decimo nono die Aprilis. Per breve de privato sigillo.

It seems as if he forbore printing during queen Mary's reign, and spent that time in collecting materials for his chronicles.

When queen Elizabeth renewed and confirmed the stationers charter in the first year of her reign, Reynold Wolfe was then master, Michael Lobley and Thomas Duxwell, the wardens.

After he had continued his business above 30 years, he made his will, which is but short, in the year 1573-4 the 9th of January, and left his dear wife Joan his sole executrix. In witness he set his mark, in presence of George Bishop, Ralfe Holingshed, and me John Lune, and me Thomas Sheppard. Item, I bequeath to Jone my well beloved wyfe the chappel house, that I purchased of the king, that Luke Harrison now dwelleth in, and that house, which Mrs. Cradocke dwelleth in, and all that thereto belong- eth, and all my leases, and all the rest of my goods, and to my children according to the custome of London.

His trade seems to have been continued a good while after by his wife Joan, who made her will the first of July, 1594, in 3 leaves and a half, wherein she desires to be buried near her husband in St. Faith's church, and bequeathed to her son Robert Wolfe, the chapel house, the brazen serpent, and all the prints, letters, furniture, copies, and other utensils in the printing-house, with all the books in her shop, and gives to Robert and to Henry Wolfe sixteen pounds yearly. Gave legacies to her daughter Susan Hun—, to Mary Harrison her daughter, wife to John Harrison, to Elizabeth Nevenson of the commons, &c. Gabriel Cawood witness to the will.

The books printed by him are,

WILLIAM FOLLINGTON,

AT Holy Well (I suppose that at Shoreditch) where he printed for Richard Banks, but the following is the only peice I have met with from his presse, in the possession of my friend Samuel Horsman, M. D.

1544. The anatomy of a hande in the manner of a dyall, necessary for all people.—Imprinted at Holy Well, by Wylliam Follingham, for Richard Bankes. Cum privilegio ad imprimendum solum. It begins: Anaximander Milesius, a disciple of Thaletis, was the fyrst founder to know what a clock it is by the shadow of the sonne euery houre of the day. And in Lacedemonia, at certain places where he had the shadowe of the sonne free, hath appropriated the same, but after hym there hath ben many ryche and great lerned men haue practised dyuers instruments to know the houres by the sonne, as quadrents, dyalls, wyth suche other, by the whiche a man may know what houre of the day it is, and are necessarily set forth, but bycause the sayd instruments are not usual for euery bodye, specially for the laye people, therefore have Wylliam Follyngton, thorowe the desyre of many of my frendes, caused me to make this anotomy, whiche appeareth in a mannes left hand. And thys same doth also use the ployman, the gardener, messengers, both goyng and rydyng, which do no understand the sayd instruments, nor have any one of them about them. Wherefore I have caused this playnly and dyrectly to be prentyd, as hereafter followeth, and is declared with figures and scripture, and as nye as is possible sett forth after the best maner, and playnest understandyng. Wherefore I desyre you to take thys my symple labore, in true and faythful meanyng, to loke upon, to read, and to use it at your pleasure. After this preface and wooden cut of a hand, with a straw drawn thorough, and the fingers with numbers on them, begins, The declaration and understanding of the left hand. Twelves.

IS supposed to be a Suffolk man, of a good family, from their lying buried at Bradley-Parva, in that county. He bore for his arms, ermin on a fess indented, two eaglets displayed ; his crest out of a ducal coronet, a demi eagle with wings expanded ermin ; was afterwards of the company of stationers, but from whom he learned the art of printing does not to me clearly appear, though probably it might be Thomas Gibson, printer and compiler of the first concordance to the new testament, in 1535. This I infer from a singular device of Gibson's, which Day altered, and used frequently afterwards ; and his following the great industry of so good a man. Among Cecil's papers, printed by the Reverend Mr. Hains, in 1740, p. 128. it is said: Item, that were one Day hath a priviledge for the catechisme, and one Reyne Wolfe, who hath a former priviledge for all Latyn books, they may joyne in printing of the sayd catechisme, 1552. He dwelt at Aldersgate, ^a and kept at the same time several shops in different parts of the town, as you may observe in looking into several of his books. He appears to have brought up a large family in a genteel manner, two of his Sons, Richard and John, being educated at the university of Cambrige ; was a lover of learning, and gave handsom presents of books to promote it. I find among the Harleian MSS. that John ^a Stow in his first survey, p. 19. says, he built much upon the wall of the city towards St. Ann's church.

Day gave several good benefactions to King's College, Cambridge, 1571. He seems also to be the first among us, who printed in the Saxon letter, and brought that of the Greek to a very great perfection, as well as Italic, and other characters, of which he had great variety. He made a multitude of mathematical schemes, maps, and other devices, both in wood and metal; his own head and arms, with other peoples, and whatever tended to the usefulness, and beauty of his works. It looks as if he forbore printing during the reign of queen Mary, and employ'd his time in bringing that art to a greater degree of perfection, as may be seen by his works printed afterwards.

Mr. Stripe, in his life of archbishop Parker, speaks of him thus: And with the archbishop's engravers, we may joyn his printer Day, who printed his British antiquities, and divers other books by his order, and especially such as related to the injunctions and lawes of the church, for whom the archbishop had a particular kindness. For as he was a promoter of learning, so, in order to that, of printing too. Day was more ingenious and industrious in his art, and probably richer too, than the rest, and so became envied too by the rest of his fraternity; who hindered what they could the sale of his books; and he had in the year 1572, upon his hands, to the value of two or three thousand pounds worth, a great sum in those days: but living under Aldersgate, an obscure corner of the city, he wanted a good vent for them. Whereupon his friends, who were the learned, procured from the dean and chapter of St. Paul's, a lease of a little shop to be set up in St. Paul's church-yard. Whereupon he got framed a neat handsome shop. It was but little and low, and flat roofed, and leaded like a terrace, railed and posted, fit for men to stand upon in any triumph or shew; but could not in any wise hurt and deface the same. This cost him forty or fifty pounds. But φθονὸς δὲ τέκτονι τέκτονι, his brethren the booksellers envied him, and by their interest got the mayor and aldermen to forbid the setting it up, though they had nothing to do there, but by power. Upon this the archbishop brought his business before the treasurer, and interceded for him, that he would move the queen to set her hand to certain letters, that he had drawn up in the queen's name to the city, in effect that Day might be permitted to go forward with his building. Whereby, he said, his honour would deserve well of Christ's church, and of the prince and state.

The archbishop also made another thing serve his turn as a seasonable argument, which was, that but lately the queen's privy council had wrote to him, and the other ecclesiastical commissioners, to help Day; perhaps in vending his books, and encouraging those of the clergy to buy them.

The archbishop had made use of Day to print Dr. Clerk's answer to Sanders, whereby he put him to a more than ordinary charge, viz. to cast a new set of Italian letters, which cost him forty marks. For our black

English

English letter was not proper for the printing of a Latin book. And neither he, nor any else, as yet had printed any Latin books^a; because in those days they would not be uttered here, but, to be sure, not abroad, the books printed here, being in such suspicion in the Roman catholick countries, as being supposed to be infected with heresy, and so not to be read. And therefore the archbishop was willing to benefit him as much as he could. Indeed he had a favour for him, and perhaps a little the more, because, by his being employed in printing the ecclesiastical orders and injunctions from time to time, he was no ways affected by the Puritan party. It is certain one of the printers of Cartwright's book, Asplin by name, being afterwards taken into Day's house in November 1573, attempted the assassinating him and his wife, and some others of his family, and said, he was moved by the spirit to do it.

The 8th January 1583, he with others yielded up to the disposition of the stationers company, for the relief of the poor, his right to a parcel of books or copy. See the general account, &c. this year.

Mr. Day died 23d July 1584, having followed the bussiness of a printer about forty years. He was buried in the parish church of Bradley-Parva, in the county of Suffolk, where, against the north-wall of the chancel, is a stone table fixed to his memory, on which is inlaid in brass, the effigies of a man and woman, kneeling against a table, before which are two children in swadling cloths, and behind the man, six sons, and behind the woman, five daughters, all kneeling. On the top of the stone are three escutcheons on brass plates, under which is cut in capital letters, MIHI VITA CHRISTVS. Under the two effigies of Day and his wife are the following rhimes, cut in the old English letter :

Here lyes the Daye, that darkness could not blind,
When popish fogges had overcaste the sunne,
This Daye the cruell nighte did leave behind,
To view, and shew what blodi acts were donne.
He set a Fox to wright how martyrs runne,
By death to lyfe. Fox ventured paynes and health,
To give them light ; Daye spent in print his wealth.
But God with gayne returned his wealth agayne,
And gave to him, as he gave to the poore.
Two wyves he had pertakers of his payne,
Each wyfe twelve babes, and each of them one more ;
Als was the last encreaser of his store,
Who mourning long for being left alone,
Set up this tombe, herself turn'd to a stone.

Obiit 23 July 1584.

^a A mistake, for many Latin books were printed long before, but not very common.

Books printed by the curious and diligent John Day were very numerous, among many others are, 1544. The first part of the byble, which is called the five books of Moses, namely, Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numeri, and Deuteronomium, after the copy that the kyng's majesty hath set forth, 1544. Imprinted at London, by Jhon Day, dwelling at Aldersgate; and William Seres, dwelling in Peter College. These bokes are to be sold at the new shop, by the little Conduite in Chepeside, at the signe of the Resurrection. Twelves.

1546. Robert Crowley's confutation of Nicholas Shaxton, bishop of Sarum; his recantation of thirteen articles, at the burning of Mrs. Anne Askew. 8°. Twelves.
1547. The copie of a letter sente to one maister Chrispyne, chanon of Exeter, for that he denied the scripture to be the touchstone or trial of all other doctrines. By Phillip Nicolles, written the 7 Nov. 1547. Twelves.
1547. The parable of the wycked mammon: compiled in the yere of our Lord, M. D. XXXVI. MD. C. — dwellyng in Sepulchre's parisshe, at the signe of the Resurrection, a litle above Holbourne Conduit. * Twelves.

RICHARD DAY, M. A.

SON of our famous printer, John Day, was a scholar, and elected from Eton in the year 1571; became M. A. and fellow of King's college, Cambridge, served the cure of Highgate in the room of John Fox; wrote commendatory verses on Fox's book of martyrs, a work he was concerned in; the preface and conclusion to the testaments of the XII patriarchs (of which he was esteemed the translator) and many other works. He was joyned in a patent with his father 26 August, 1577, to print the book of psalms in metre, &c. afterwards followed the art of printing, and employed several persons to print for him, as Short, Yardley, and Windet, who printed the book of psalms for his assigns 1599. A. Wood says he was preacher at Rygate in Surrey in the room of John Fox.^a He kept shop at the west-end of St. Paul's church-yard, at the sign of the Tree, his motto, SICUT LILIVM INTER SPINAS.

WAS concerned with John Day, his partner, in the pentateuch 1544, their first work, and in so many pieces afterward, that it is fit I should give some account of him in this place. I observe Day is always mentioned first in the books they printed together, as may be seen in their workes. They were of the stationers company 1566. Seres kept his shop in Peter-college, a place so called, situate on the west side of Paul's church, at the sign of the Hedge-hog, which being the badge of sir Henry Sidney, Mr. Bagford supposes him to have been his servant; yet I don't find that he was servant to any man, more than willingly to oblige all his employers. Mr. Strype speaks of him thus, " Sir William Cecil, principal secretary of state to king Edward, procured for him, being his servant, a licence to print all manner of private prayers, called primers, as should be agreeable to the common-prayer, established in the court of parliament; and that none else should print the same. Provided, that before the said Seres, or his assigns, did begin to print off the same, he or they should present a copy thereof, to be allowed by the lords of the privy-council, or by the lord-chancellor for the time being, or by the king's four ordinary chaplains, or two of them. And when the same was and should be from time to time printed, that the said lords, and other of the said privy-council, or by the lord-chancellor, or with the advice of the said occupation, the reasonable price thereof be sett, as well in the leaves, as being bound in past or board, in like manner as was expressed in the end of the book of common prayer." Strype also says, " Seres had a privilege for the printing of all psalters, all manner of primers, English or Latin, and all manner of prayer books; that as this privilege was taken away by queen Mary, so it was restored again by queen Elizabeth by means of lord Cecil, with the addition of the grant to him and to his son during the life of the longest liver, and that this gave occasion to a great ease: for Seres, the father, in his latter years not being well able to follow his business, assigned his privilege, with all his presses, letters, stocks, and copies to one Henry Denham, for a yearly rent. Denham took seven young men of the company of stationers to joyn him in the same; but certain inferior persons of the company, setting up presses, more than England might bear, did print other mens copies forbidden to them, and privileged to others by the queen's letters patents. These endeavoured for their own gain to have the privilege taken away, preferring a petition to the privy-council, wherein they pretended that in justice it stood with the best policy of this realm, that the printing of all good and useful books should be at liberty for every man to do, without granting or allowing of any privilege by the prince to the contrary. And they said it was against law, and that that the queen ought not to grant any such. Seres upon this, in a petition to the lord-treasurer urged against these men, that privilege for special books was ever granted by the prince; for that for the most part in all antient books we read these words, Cum privilegio ad imprimendum solum; and that many records might be found of the same, whereby it appeared, that the prince or magistrate had ever care to commit the printing of all good books, especially of the best sort, to some special men well known, and tried for their fidelity, skill, and ability. Examples whereof might be shewed as well in England, as other christian countries. And that the reason hereof was, that printing of itself was most dangerous and pernicious, if it were not straitned and restrained by politick order of the prince or magistrate. This affair at last was made up by a friendly agreement. The expedient was this, that those that had privileges were to grant some allowances unto the company of stationers for the maintenance of their charge and their poor. This was about the year 1583.

A commission was granted to William Seres, stationer, to administer the goods debts, chattels, &c. of Henry Jolliff, clerk, late dean of Bristow, who died in parts beyond the sea, in the year 1573^a.

RICHARD JUDGE,

BRED to learning, and elected from Eaton to King's-College, in the year 1531, went from thence a scholar. But being desirous to promote learning and virtue, about this time of the reformation acquired the art of printing, which he practised in king Edward the sixth's time, and kept shop at the north door of St. Paul's church, but dwelt at the sign of the Bible in Newgate-market, next to Christ's church. He and John Cawood were made printers to queen Elizabeth, by patent dated 24th of March 1560, with the usual allowance of 6 l. 13 s. 4 d. to print all statutes, &c. He was very curious in his editions of the Old and New Testaments, bestowing not only a good letter, but many elegant initial letters, and fine wooden cuts, which may yet be seen in the hands of several gentlemen. At the decease of archbishop Parker, May 17, 1575, who was his good friend, there were four pounds due to him for books, as says Strype in his life of archbishop Parker, appendix, p. 192. He continued in the business about 30 years, and was succeeded in it by his wife Joan.

HUGH SINGLETON.

WAS certainly an early printer, and bookseller. I have heard he printed in the year 1525, but have no proof of it to produce. The first I have seen is, the supplication of Dr. Barnes, and am inclined to think he was a bold or pushing man in trade, for I have seen his mark to several private books, yet there might be another of the same name, who about this time was printer to the city of London. You may observe his place of residence and sign was at different places. All that I know of him, or them, follows.

1548. The supplication of doctour Barnes unto the moost gracyous kynge Henrye the eyght, with the declaration of his articles condemned for heresy by the byshops. This book is pretty thick, and contains a good deal of history, and though there is no date to it, yet by the account given by J. Fox, it was before the year 1548. Imprinted at London in Poules church-yard, at the signe of St. Augustyne, by Hugh Syngelton. Cum privilegio ad imprimendum solum. Twelves.

1553. The vocacyon of Johan Bale, to the bishoprick of Ossorie in Ireland, his persecutions in the same, and final deliverance. Imprinted in Rome before the castle of S. Angell, at the sign of St. Peter, in December, anno MD. *With Singleton's mark. * Twelves.*

1553. The copie of a pistel or letter sent to Gilbard Potter in the tyme when he was in prison, for speakinge of our most true quenes part the lady Mary, before he had his ears cut of, the 13 of Julye. Anno 1553. 1 August. Ends, quod Poore Pratte, in Temstrete, over agaynste the Styliardes, at the signe of the Dobbelhood, by Hewghe Singleton. Twelves: Martin.

Necessary instructions of faith and hope, for christians to hold fast, and not to doubt of their salvation. Translated by John Fox, reprinted by Hugh Singleton. 1579. Octavo.

The hope of the faithful. Declaringe breefly and clearly the resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ, and of our true essentiall bodyes to come, &c. translated by M. Myles Coverdale, out of high Dutch. * 1579. Sixteens.

A gaping gulph to swallow up England by a French marriage, &c. The author John Stubbes, of Lincoln's-Inn, William Page, the disperser of the copies, and Singleton, the printer, were apprehended; sentence was given, that their right hands should be cut off, by a law of Philip and Mary, against the authors of seditious writings, and those that deperse them. Stubbes and Page had their hands cut off by the blow of a butcher's knife, with a mallet, struck through their wrists; the printer was pardoned. See Camden's Annals of queen Elizabeth, anno 1581. 1581. Quarto.

A pensive man's practise, very profitable for all persons, wherein are conteyned very devout and necessary prayers, for sundry good purposes. With requisite perswasions, before every prayer. Written by John Norden. Newly corrected and enlarged. 1585. Quarto.

The peice of book-keeping and arithmetick, by John Mellis, at the North dore in Christs-hospital, next to the Cloysters, going into Smithfield. Printed for him by Windet. 1588. Octavo.

A demonstrative oration of the resurrection of the dead, compiled by Claudius Alberius. Translated by W. M. without date. Octavo.

Orders appointed to be executed in the cittie of London, for setting roges and idle persons to worke, and for releefe of the poore. In 66 articles, H. Singleton, dwelling in Smithfielde. Printer to the honourable city of London. Quarto.

A spirituall and most precious perle, teaching all men to love and embrace the cross as a most sweet and necessary thing unto the soul, &c. written for thy comfort, by a learned preacher, OTHO. WERMYLIERS, and translated into English by MILES COVERDALE. The printer to the christian reader, thus: Whereas (by the sinister dealing of some) this boke hath gone abroad, as imprinted by me, with mo and greater faultes then either hath or shall (I hope) be found by any boke imprinted by me, indeed I have thought it good to set it forth once againe, according to the true copy of that translation.

lation, that I received at the hands of M. doctour Milo Coverdale, at whose hand I received also the copyes of three other workes of Otho Wermulerus, a German preacher in the city of Tigurie, who wrote them in the Germain tongue, as he did certain bookes moe, which are not as yet turned into the Englishe tongue. The names of those bookes, which are translated, are these: the precious pearle, which the author calleth, of affliction; another of death; the third of justification; and the fourth of the hope of the faithful. These I have imprinted with as great diligenece as I coulde, and I hope according to the copies, that I received from the translator of them, howsoever the same have been by others thrust out in my name, corruptly enough to my great discredite, and some hindrance also, but with the greatest displeasure to the buyers. Mine hearty desire hath been (deare reader) alway to be so occupied, that I might live by profiting others, in such sort as that excellent prince, the late duke of Somerset, and uncle to good king Edward the sixte, wished this pearle to be imprinted, after he in his trouble had felt the commodity of it; which was, that other mighte reape the like commodity by the same. Take therefore thys precious pearle, now brought to that brightness, that it had, when it first came oute imprynted by me, and use it to thy comforte in all thy distresses. And for the comforte, that thou shalt find therein, give God the whole prayse. Farewell, quod Hugh Singleton. *Then his mark and motto, GOD IS MY HELPER. At the end, his mark again, and is said to dwell at the Golden Tunn in Creed-lane, near Ludgate. Cum privilegio. See my plate of rebuses. Twelves.

Certain causes gathered together, wherein is shewed the decay of England, only by the great multitude of shepe to the utter decay of house-keeping, mayntenance of men, dearth of corn, and other notable commodities, approved by 6 olde proverbs. Dedicated to the king and parliament. Twelves.

A brefe and compendious register, or table of the principal histories, and most commune artycles, grounded and comprehended in the old and new testament, vnto the reader, euen maner as ample and proffitable as a great concordance. Also, The thyrde boke of Machabees, not founde in the Hebrew cannons, but translated out of the Greke into Latyn, and taken in the steede of one of the bookes of the holy scripture, worthy to be read of all godly men, neuer before this set forth in the Engleshe tounge. Being creditably informed (most gracious lady) by such, as be nigh about your grace, that your graces chief and daylye study is the holy byble; I thought I could not present your grace wyth any jewel more acceptable and pleasant to your grace, then such a bryef concordance; wherby your grace myght with more readynes fynd all such thynges, as you should be desyrouse to see. Then as for gold or silver, I am not able to present your grace, but my rude labours, and that I do with all my heart. When this lyttle boke therefore came to my hand (beyng wryten in hygh Almayne tongue) and I perceiued it to be moost diligently gathered out of the holy byble, and set in order, that wythin it lyghtelly as much may be founde by it, as by a great concordance; I ceased not till I had translated and set in lyke order in the Englysh tongue, that your grace might not be destytute of so necessary an instrument in your godly study. And that all other, which be studyous of godly knowledge, myght be the more desyrouse to haue thys lytle boke, and embrace it wyth better wyll (knowing your graces fervent zeale for the futhering of Goddis trueth) I have byn (as my dutie byndeth me) so bould as to dedycate unto your grace in your godly studye, trustynge that your grace, according to your acustomable gentilnes, will accept my good wyll therein, and that I shall think my laboures well employed, and my paynes well recompensed, &c. — Moreover, it behoueth, that I let your grace know the cause, why I haue annexed the third boke of Machabees unto this table. Whych is for that it is verye often spoken of in thys lyttle table, and is not to be found in any byble in Englyshe, saueyng only in one, whych John Daye the prynter hath now in pryntyng. Leste your grace therefore (or any other that shall chaunce to haue this little boke) should think that there is no such boke of the byble; I haue caused thys thyrde boke of Machabees to be translated, and have imprinted it with this table, &c. Gwalter Lynne. *

or CROLE,

WAS born in Gloucestershire, became a student in the university of Oxford, about 1534, and was soon after made demy of Magdalen-college. In 1542, being batchelor of arts, was made probationer-fellow of the said house, by the name of Robert Crole. When Edward vi. began to reign, he exercised the profession of printing in Ely-Rents, Holbourn, London; sold books, and preached in the city and elsewhere; but, upon the succession of queen Mary, he among several English protestants went to Franckfort in Germany. After her decease he returned, and had several benefices bestowed upon him, among which was, St. Giles by Cripplegate, London, of which church he wrote himself vicar in 1566. He lived to a fair age, was buried at St. Giles Cripplegate, and over his grave a stone was laid, with this inscription engraven on a brass plate: "Here lieth the body of Robert Crowley, clerk, late vicar of this parish, who departed this life the 18th of June, anno Domini 1588." He "was was very desirous of a reformation from popish errors, and, according to Mr. Wood, writ the following books.

The supper of the Lord, after the true meaning of the vi of John, and the xi of the 1st epistle to the Corinthians, &c. Incidentally in the exposition of the supper is confuted the letter of Mr. Tho. More, against John Frith. Printed April 5, 1533, but I query the date. Octavo.

A setting open of the subtile sophistry of Tho. Watson, D. D. which he used in his two sermons, preached before queen Mary, in Lent, 1553, concerning the real presence in the sacrament, Lond. 1569. See H. Denham. 4^o.*

Sermon in the chappel at Guildhall, London, 29 Sept. 1574, before the Lord Mayor, and the whole state of the city, on Psalm cxxxix. vers. 21, 22, 23, 24, &c. Lond. 1575. Octavo.

Answer to Tho. Pound his six reasons, wherein he sheweth, that the scriptures must be judged by the church, Lond. 1581. Quarto.

Brief discourse concerning those four usual notes, whereby Christs catholic church is known, &c. Lond. 1581. Quarto.

Replication to that lewd answer, which Frier John Francis (of the Minimes order in Nigeon, near Paris) hath made to a letter, that his mother caused to be sent to him out of England. Lond. 1586. Quarto.

Deliberate answer to a papist, proving that papists are antichristian schismatics, and that religious protestants are indeed right catholics. Lond. 1587. Quarto.

The school of virtue, and book of good nurture, teaching children and youths their duties. This book is composed in English metre, hath at the end of it certain prayers and graces, and is at this day commonly sold at the stalls of ballad singers. Lond. 1588. Octavo.

Dialogue between Lent and Liberty, wherein is declared, that Lent is a meer invention of man. Lond. Octavo.

Our author Crowley is said to be a great predestinarian, and to have answered one Champney's book against the gospellers, published in the beginning of queen Elizabeth's reign. He also translated into English the psalter of David, the litany with hymns, and turned into metre David's psalms; all printed in the time of Edward vi. in Quarto, 1549. The visions of Pierce Plowman were first of all published by him. Lond. 1550. Quarto. This above from Wood's Athenae Oxoniensis.

The books, that I find printed by him, are these following.

Explicatio petitoria (ad Parliamentum) adversus expilatores plebis. Printed 1548. in English in October, but translated into Latin by John Heron. Octavo.

Confutation of Miles Hoggard's wicked ballad, made in defence of 1548. transubstantiation of the sacrament. Lond. See J. Day.

The

1549. The voice of the last trumpet, blown by the seventh angel ; containing twelve several lessons. Written in metre. Lond. Octavo.
1549. A new yeres gyfte, wherein is taught the knowledge of ourself, and the fear of God ; worthy to be geuen and thankfull ye recyved of all christen men ; MDXLIX, the last daye of December. Authore eodem Roberto Croleo. Twelves.
1550. The vision of Peirce Plowman, now fyrst imprinted by Robert Crowley, dwellyng in Ely rentes in Holburne, anno Domini 1505. (a mistake for 1550.) Cum privilegio ad imprimendum solum.^a The printer addresses the reader in these words : Being desyerous to know the name of the authure of this most worthy worke (gentle reader) and the tyme of the writynge of the same ; I did not onely gather together such aunciente copies, as I could come by, but also consult such men, as I knew to be more exercised in the studie of antiquities, then I myself have ben. And by some of them I have learned, that the autour was named Roberte Lange-lande, a Shropshire man, borne in Cleybirie, about viii myles from Maluerne hilles. For the time when it was written, it chaunced me to see an auncient cotype, in the latter ende wherof was noted, that the same cotype was written in the yere of our Lord, m. iiii. c. and nyne, which was before thys present yere, an hundred and xli years. And in the second side of the lxviii leafe of thys printed cotype, I finde mention of a dere yere, that was in the yere of our Lorde, m. iii. hundred and l. John Chichester than beyng mayre of London. So that this I may be bold to reporte,

^a The compartment about this title had been Edward Whitchurch's, with his cypher beneath, and the sun above. Mr. Hearne observes in a MSS. note to this book, that as this impression exceeds Owen Rogers's, upon the account of the goodness of the paper and types, so Rogers's exceeds this upon the account of the creed (with a small glossary) an-nexed to it, which was never imprinted with the book before. And that there was two dear years, one 1350. the other 1370. (when Chichester was mayor.)

A MSS. of this poem in my own possession (perhaps one of the oldest) begins with Pers Plowman, and the following verse, not in the printed copies.

Pers Plowman

*Et sine verborum sonitu fit doctor eorum ;
Ipse tuam mentem regat et faciat, sapientem,
Reſte credentem, monitosque bonos retinentem ;
Vt bonum viuendo, mandataque sana ſequendo,
Leticiam vere lucis merearis habere,
Que tenebras nescit, miro que decore nitescit,
Et cuiſcunque datur, ſine fine beatificatur :
Hoc tibi det munus, qui regnat trinus et unus. Amen.*

And ends,

Explicit hic dialogus Petri Plowman.

*Lauderis, Chriſte, quo finitur liber iſte.
Sunt tria vere, que faciunt me dolere :
Eſt primum durum, quia ſcio me moriturum ;
Secundum timco, quia nescio quomodo, quando ;
Pro tercio flebo, quia nescio quo remanebo.*

that

that it was first made and written after the year of our Lord, M.iii.c.l. and before the yere M.iiii.c, and ix. which meane space was lix yeres. We may justly conject therfore, that it was first written about two hundred yeres paste, in the tyme of kynge Edward the thyrde. In whose tyme it pleased God to open the eyes of many to se hys truth, geuing them boldnes of herte, to open their mouthes, and cry oute againste the worckes of darcknes, as did John Wicklefe, who also in those dayes translated the holye bible into the Englishe tonge, and this writer, who in reportynge certaine visions and dreames, that he fayned himself to have dreamed, doeth moste christianlye enstruete the weake, and sharply rebuke the obstinate blynde. There is no maner of vice, that reigneth in any estate of men, whiche this wryter hath not godly, learnedlye, and wittilye rebuked. He wrote altogyther in miter, but not after the maner of our rimers, that write nowe adayes (for his verses ende not alike) but the nature of hys miter is, to have thre wordes at the leaste in euery verse, whiche beginne with some one letter. As for ensample, the firste two verses of the boke renne upon S, as thus:

In a somer season whan sette was the sunne,
I shope me into shrobbes, as I a shepe were.

The next runneth upon H. as thus:

In habite as an hermite unholy of werckes, &c.

This thinge noted, the miter shal be very pleasaunt to read, the English is according to the time it was wrotten in, and the sence somewhat darcke, but not so harde, but that it may be understande of suche, as will not sticke to breake the shell of the nutte for the kernelles sake, &c. Contains 117 leaves. Quarto.

*Who so wil be wise in purchasing,
Let him consider these points following.*

First see that the lande be cleare,
In title of the sellar.
And that it stand in danger,
Of no womans dowrie.
See whether the tenure be bond or free,
And release of euerie feoffee.
See that the seller be of age,
And that it lie not in morgage.
Whether a taile be thereof found,
And whether it stand in statute bound.
Consider what seruice longeth thereto,
And what quitrent thereout must go.
And if it be come of a wedded woman,
Thinke thou then on couert baron.
And if you may in any wise,
Make thy charter with warrantise.
To thee, thine heires, assignes also,
Thus should a wise purchaser do.

JOHN CAWOOD, esq;

WAS of an antient family in Yorkshire, as appears from a book at the Herald's-office. W. Grafton vi. A, B, C. Lond. Wherein are these words: "CAWOOD, Typographus regius reginae Mariae; his arms "are, sable and argent parte per cheveron, embatteled between 3 harts "heads “ heads cabosed, counter-changed within a border per fesse, counter-“ changed as before, with verdoy de trefyles sleped, numbered 10. These “ Cawoods were once lords of the manor of Cawood near the city of “ York, although the castle hath aunciently been the archbishops see. And “ it appears among the inquisitiones of the brethren in the time of king “ John throughout England, (that is to say, in the 12th and 13th year “ of his reign, in the county of York, concerning knights service, and “ others held by him in chief, or capite, in the treasury rolls for the “ aforesaid liberty, by the hands of the shireef of that time :) that John “ Cawood held by grand sergentie (scilt. per fore staritem inter Darwent & “ Owse) one plowed land in Cawood. Which John, father of Peter, and “ Robert, clerk of the pipe, who had John, who had Margaret, &c.”

 Thus it seems he was of that family in Yorkshire. When, or by whom, he was instructed in the art of printing, to me don't appear, but he exercised that art three or four years before a patent was granted him by queen Mary, when Richard Grafton was set aside, and had a narrow escape for his life. The chief import of the patent, which you may see at length in Rymer, vol. xv. p. 125, is thus abstracted.

The queen, to all whom it may concern, sends greeting. Know ye, that of our special favour, &c. for the good, true, and acceptable service of our beloved John Cawood, already performed, by these presents for us, our heirs, and successors, we do give and grant to the said John Cawood, the office of our printer of all and singular our statute books, acts, proclamations, injunctions, and other volumes, and things, under what name or title soever, either already, or hereafter to be published in the English language. Which office is now vacant, and in our disposal, for as much as R. Grafton, who lately had and exercised that office, hath forfeited it by printing a certain proclamation setting forth, that one Jane, wife of Gilford Dudley, was queen of England, which Jane is indeed a false traitor, and not queen of England; and by these presents, we constitute the said John Cawood our printer in the premises, to have and exercise, by himself, or sufficient deputies, the said office, with all the profits and advantages any way appertaining thereunto, during his natural life, in as ample manner as R. Grafton, or any others have, or ought to have enjoyed it heretofore.

Wherefore, we prohibit all our subjects whatsoever, and wheresoever, and all other persons whatsoever, to print, or cause to be printed, either by themselves, or others, in our dominions, or out of them, any books or volumes, the printing of which is granted to the aforesaid John Cawood; and that none cause to be reprinted, import, or cause to be imported, or sell within our kingdom, any books printed in our dominions by the said

And whereas our dear brother Edward vi. &c. did grant unto Reginald Wolf, the office of printer and bookseller, in Latin, Greek, and Hebrew; we out of our abundant grace, &c. for ourselves, heirs, and successors, do give and grant to the said John Cawood the said office, with the fee of 16s. 8d. per annum, and all other profits and advantages thereto belonging, to be entered upon immediately after the death of the aforesaid Reginald, and to be enjoyed by him during his natural life, in as full and ample manner, as the said Reginald now has, and exercises that office, &c. Given at Westminster, 29 Dec. 1553.

He and Henry Coke were appointed the first wardens of the stationers company (Thomas Dockwray being master) in the charter granted by Philip and Mary. He became partner with Richard Jugge, in queen Elizabeth's time, and printed many books joyntly and separately. The marks they used, may be seen in the plate. He was buried in St. Faith's, under St. Paul's, London, and his epitaph, preservd by Mr. Dugdale, is thus: "John Cawood, citizen and stationer of London, printer to the most renowned queen's majesty Elizabeth; married three wives, and had issue by Joane, the first wife only, as followeth, three sones, four daughters. John his eldest son, being bachelour in law, and fellow in New Colledge in Oxenford, died 1570; Mary married to George Bischope, stationer; Isabell married to Thomas Woodcock, stationer; Gabrael, a his second son, bestowed this dutiful remembrance of his deare parents, 1591. then church-warden; Susanna married to Robert Bullok; Barbara married to Mark Norton; Edmund third son died 1570." He died 1 of April, 1572. being of age then, 58. b

RICHARD TOTTEL

HAD his name spelt very different, was a very considerable printer of law, and one of the stationers company. He dwelt in Fleet-street within Temple Bar, at the sign of the Hand and Star. I find in Dudg. Orig. Jurid. p. 59. and 60. the following licences. A special licence to Richard Tathille (which I suppose Tottel) citizen, stationer, and printer of London, for him and his assigns, to imprint, for the space of seven years next ensuing the date hereof, all manner of books of the temporal law, called the common law; so as the copies be allowed, and adjudged meet to be printed by one of the justices of the law, or two serjeants, or three apprentices of the law; whereof the one to be a reader in court. And that none other shall imprint any book, which the said Richard Totell shall first take and imprint, during the said term, upon pain of forfeiture of all such books. T. R. apud Westm. 12 April, 7 Edward vi. p. 3. A licence to Richard Tottle, stationer of London, to imprint, or cause to be imprinted, for the space of seven years next ensuing, all manner of books, which touch or concern the common law, whether already imprinted, or not. T. R. apud Westm. 1 Maii. Pat. 2, and 3 Phil. and Mary, p. 1. Licence to Richard Tottell, citizen, printer, and stationer of London, to print all manner of books, touching the common laws of England, for his life. T. R. 12 Jan. Pat. 1 Eliz. p. 4.

There was a patent ready drawn for queen Elizabeth's signing for seven years, priviledging Richard Tothill, stationer, to imprint all manner of books, or tables, whatsoever, which touched, or concerned cosmography, or any part thereof; as geography, or topography, writ in the English tongue, or translated out of any other language into English, of whatsoever countries they treated, and whosoever was the author. But whether this was ever actually signed or not, is uncertain. At the decease of archbishop Parker, Strype says, there was due to him for books, 11. 11s. 6d.

Richard Tottyl was master of the stationers company in the year 1578, John Harrison, and George Bishop, being then wardens; William Seres, and John Day, assistants; and the 8th Jan. 1583, he yielded up to the stationers company seven copies of books, for the relief of the poor of their company. What they were you may see in the general account for that year.

and

HENRY BYNNEMAN.

WAS servant to Reynold Wolfe, and became an eminent printer. He dwelt in Thames-street near unto Baynard's castle, and at Knightriders-street, at the sign of the Mermaid, with this motto about it, OMNIA TEMPUS HABENT. In the year 1580, February 6th, one Arthur Hall of Grantham, a member of the house of commons, was accused of reflecting and reproaching sir Robert Bell the speaker, and several of the members, in a book dedicated to sir Henry Knyvett, and set forth in print by Henry Bynneman, who said, that one John Welles, a scrivener in Fleet-street, did deliver the written copy to him, and when the book was printed, he delivered one book to Henry Shurlande, in Fryday-street, linnen draper, to be sent to Mr. Halle; and that afterwards, about a year past.

past, he delivered to Mr. Hall six of the said books, and at Michaelmas term last, six other of the said books, and one more to Mr. Hall's man shortly after, and said, that Mr. Hall promised to get him a priviledge, where upon he adventured (he sayeth) to print the book : and sayeth that the copy was written by Welles the scrivener ; and that he received of the said Shurlande linen cloth, to the value of six pounds thirteen shillings and fourpence, for printing of the book ; and that he stayed, of his own accord, the publishing of the said book, till he were paid, whereas Mr. Halle was contented they should have been put to sale presently. Which report so made by Mr. Secretary, and withall, that Mr. Halle, and the printer, were both at the door, Mr. Halle was brought to the bar, and expressed his sorrow, if he had offended, was sure it was done with no malicious intent, prayed pardon, and willed the book should be suppressed. Then was Mr. Halle sequestred, and H. Bynneman brought to the bar, and affirmed, as secretary Wilson had said above, and wishing all the books had been burnt, before he had meddled with them ; that Halle should say to him again, he would not so for 100 pounds that he had printed fourscore, or hundred of the sayd books, and was thereupon sequestered. Then was Shurlande brought to the bar, who confessed that Mr. Halle did write a letter unto him, and sent the book to get it printed ; and was also sequestred. Welles the scrivener was brought to the bar, and said that Halle had paid him again the xx nobles, which he before had paid the printer ; and so he was sequestred. Ordered to meet again three different times afterwards, when Halle was committed to the Tower for six months, and until he made a retaliation to the satisfaction of the house, to pay 500 marks, to be severed from being a member of this house, and to chuse another.* He meet with great incouragement from archbishop Parker, as you may see in Strype's life of that archbishop, and my general account of printing, 1583, who, I suppose, allowed him to have a shop, or shed, at the North-west door of Paul's church, at the sign of the Three Wells. He left Mr. Denham, and Mr. Newbery, assigns, and died 1583.

The

The art of reason, rightly termed, witcraft, teaching a perfect way to argue and dispute. Made by Raphe Lever. The forespēache of the book, which is dedicated to Walter, earl of Essex, is as follows. To prove, that the arte of reasoning may be taught in Englishe, I reason thus: first, we Englishmen have wits, as well as men of other nations have; whereby we conceyve what standeth with reason, and is well doone, and what seemeth to be so, and is not. — For artes are like to okes, which by little and little grow a long time, afore they come to their full bigness. That one man beginneth, another oft times furthereth and mendeth; and yet more praise to be given to the beginner, then to the furtherer or mender, if the first did find more good things, then the follower did adde. Experience teacheth, that each thing, which is envēted by man, hath a beginning, hath an increase, and hath also in time a full ripeness. Now, although each worke is most commendable, when it is brought to his full perfection, yet, where the workmen are many, there is oftentimes more praise to be given to him that beginneth a good worke, then to him that endeth it. For if ye consider the bookes, that are now printed, and compare them with the bookes, that were printed at the first, Lord, what a diversity is there, and how much do the last exceed the first! Yet if you will compare the first and the last printer together, and seek whether deserveth more praise and commendation, ye shall find that the first did farre exceede the last. For the last had help of manye, and the first had help of none. So that the first lighteth the candle of knowledge (as it were) and the second doth but snuff it.* Twelves.

THOMAS EAST, EST, or ESTE,

IF the same person; he dwelt in Aldersgate-street, at the sign of the Black Horse, and at other places, and signs, as the custom then was; which makes it difficult to assign, whether it was the same person or no. However, I have put their works in order of time together. He appears to have been employed by Bird and Talis, to whom the queen had granted a patent for printing ruled paper for musick; and I have in my possession, a folio MS. of musick, formerly belonging to Dr. Bull, the musician, in which, at the bottom of the leaves so ruled, is printed T. E. I suppose for Thomas East's mark to know it by. He, or they, printed a long time books of musick, besides others, till after 1600; and changed the name of Este to Snodham. His arms he printed at the end of some of his books, which were, on a field sable, a cheveron argent, between 3 horses heads eras'd, and a black horse passant for the crest, a crescent for difference. The motto, MIEVLX. VAVLT. MOVRIR. EN. VERTV. QVE. VIVRE. EN. HONCTE.

Ovid his invective against Ibis. Translated into English meeter, whereunto is added by the translator, A short draught of all the stories and tales contained therein, very pleasant to be read. Printed with H. Middleton. Twelves. 1569.

THOMAS VAUTROLLIER,

WAS a scholar and printer from Paris, or Roan, came into England about the beginning of queen Elizabeth's reign, and first settled his printing office in Black Friars. What he did to the year 1574, don't appear to me. He married his daughter Jakin to Richard Field, printer in Black Friars, the 12 January 1588, and buried several children in that parish, as appears from their church books. He was a most curious printer, as will be evident to any, that look into his books; and commonly used an anchor within a compartment, with this motto, ANCHORA SPEI. Mr. Baker in a letter to me says, he was the printer of Jordanus Brunus, in the year 1584, for which he fled, and the next year being at Edinburgh in Scotland, he first taught that nation the way of good printing, and there staid until such time as by the intercession of friends, he had got his pardon, as appears by a book, dedicated to the right worshipful Mr. Thomas

Thomas Randolph, esq; where he returns him thanks for his great favour, and for assisting him in his distress: printed in Octavo 1587.

In the 16 of Eliz. 19 June 1574. a patent, or licence, was granted him, which he often put to the end of the new testament, in these words, Regiae majestatis privilegio cautum est, ne quis hoc novum testamentum ex versione, Thom. Bezae interpretis infra decennium imprimat, aut alibi extra Angliae regnum impressum divendat, praeter illud, quod Thomas Vautrollerius, typographus Londinensis in claustro vulgo, Black Friars, commorans, suis typis excuderit.

CHRISTOPHER and ROBERT BARKER,
esqrs. the queen's printers,

DWELT in Pater-noster-row, at the sign of the Tyger's Head, and kept a shop in Paul's churchyard, at the sign of the Grashopper. Came of an antient family, being, as I have heard, descended from Christopher Barker, knight, king at arms. Edward Barker, who probably might be father to Christopher the printer, was by a will dated Dec. 31, 1549, appointed heir to one William Barker his cousin, who had a considerable estate of houses in London, but nothing in any county, and died the 2d of January after he had made his will. Queen Elizabeth granted to our Christopher, and to Robert his only son, in consideration of the father's great improvement of the art of printing, the following patent.

Pat. 31, Eliz. Ps. 9.

De con. ad offic. pro Roberto Barker.

In cujus rei, &c. teste regina apud Westmonasterium octavo die Augusti.

I am obliged to my worthy friend Mr. Henry Rook, and to the late John Anstis, esq; for the above patent, as well as the remarks following.

King James 1. May 10, 1602. in the first year of his reign, grants the same to Christopher, son of the said Robert, to hold the same after the death of his father during life, with a proviso, that if Christopher should die before his father, then his heirs, &c. should have it for four years after his father Robert's death.

King James 1. February 11, 1616, in the fourteenth year of his reign, grants the same to Robert, son of the said Robert, for thirty years, to commence from the death of Robert the father.

King

CHRISTOPHER and ROBERT BARKER. 361

King Charles I. July 20, 1627, in the third of his reign, having notice that the several interests of the Barkers were assigned over to Bonham Norton and John Bill, confirms the said assignment to Norton and Bill.

King Charles I. Sept. 26, 1635, in the eleventh year of his reign, grants the same to Charles and Mathew Barker, two other sons of Robert the father, after the expiration of the four years to Christopher's heirs, and the thirty years to Robert their brother.

Robert, to whom queen Elizabeth granted the office for life 1589, dyed in the queen's bench, January 10, 1645, so that Christopher's four years ended the 10th of January 1689.

Robert the son's, began January 10, 1649, and expired January 10, 1679.

King Charles II. December 24, 1675, in the 27th of his reign, grants the same to Thomas Newcomb and Henry Hills, for thirty years, to commence after the expiration of the respective terms granted to the Barkers.

Charles and Mathew Barker's, began January 10, 1679, and expired January 10, 1709.

Thomas Newcomb and Henry Hills began January 10, 1709.

Note, When king Charles II. granted the office of printer, &c. To Thomas Newcomb and Henry Hills, there were then of the respective terms, formerly granted to the Barkers, thirty-four years unexpired.

Note, also, that the same is now assigned over by the executors of Thomas Newcomb and Henry Hills unto John Basket and others. There has been contests about the meaning of this patent since the union, as Mrs. Anderson's case, and that between John Basket, esq; and Henry Parsons, &c. printed 1720.

To the queen's most excellent majesty.

The humble petition of Benjamin Tooke and John Barber, citizens and stationers of London,

Sheweth,

That his late majesty king Charles the second, did by his letters patents, under the great seal of England, bearing date at Westminster the 24th day of December, in the 24th year of his reign, grant unto Thomas Newcomb and Henry Hills, of the city of London, the office of his majesty's printer, for the printing of all bibles, new testaments, books of common prayer of all translations, statutes with notes, or without, abridgements of the same, proclamations and injunctions; to hold to them, their executors, and assigns by themselves, or their sufficient deputy, or deputies, for thirty years, from the determination of the several and respective estates and interests therein then formerly granted to Robert Barker the younger, and Charles and Mathew Barker.

And whereas the said office hath been usually from time to time granted by the crown for the term of thirty years, in reversion as aforesaid.

A a a

Your

Your petitioners most humbly pray your majesty would be graciously pleased to grant unto them the said offices and premises, to hold to them, their executors, and assigns, for thirty years, from the determination of the several and respective estates and interests now in being.

And your petitioners, as in duty bound, shall ever pray, &c.

It appears that this petition was received and granted the 13th day of October 1713, the twelfth year of queen Anne.

Per breve de privato sigillo. Cocks.

And I am informed John Basket, esq; some years ago, bought out Tooke's moiety, and later, that of alderman Barber's, and hath had a new patent granted him by king George II. soon after the fire, which burnt the printing house, to commence for 30 years, from the expiration of the last, with the privilege to serve the parliament with stationers wares, added to it.

The Barker's continued printing by themselves and deputies, till 1599, when Christopher the father died 29 November in the 70th year of his age; (Register book of burials) and has erected to his memory, where he is buried, against the north wall of the chancel of St. Mary's church at Datchet, near Windsor, Bucks. an handsome altar monument of white and black marble, supported by two pillars of red veined marble at the top, on the dexter side these arms, or, on a fesse dancetty azure 3 fleur de lis, of the first being Barker's. On the sinister side, the arms also on another shield impal'd per chevron or, and azure 3 mullets counterchanged, being as I guess the arms of Day, bishop of Winchester, whose daughter was wife to Robert Barker.

On a black marble tablet this inscription.

EDWARD AGGAS,

AT the West end of St. Paul's church, I am informed was a scholar, and a printer from the year 1558 to 1594. He had a relation, one Ralph Aggas a surveyor, who published Celeberrimae Oxoniensis academiae aularum et collegiorum, aedificiis totius Europae magnificentissimis, cum antiquissima civitate conjunctae, elegans simul et accurata descriptio. Radulpho Agaso autore, anno Domini 1578. Cambridge was done about the same time, and both almost 3 feet by 4, but so dirty I could read only that of Oxford, and who about this time made maps of the town of Dunwich in Suffolk 1589, as well as of the cities of Oxford, Cambridge, and London. I find in Maunsell's catalogue, many books printed for Edward, so that he seems rather a bookseller than printer.

A discourse upon the present estate of France. Together with copie 1588.
of the kings letters patents, declaring his mind after his departure out of Paris. Whereunto is added, the copie of the two letters, written by the duke of Guize. Translated out of French into English. And now newly reprinted, and corrected by E. Aggas. Quarto.

A declaration and protestation, published by the king of Nauarre, the prince of Conde, and the lord duke of Montmorency, concerning the peace concluded with the house of Lorraine, &c. Translated from French.* Twelves.

JOHN

JOHN WOLFE, city printer.

A Fishmonger, used the art of printing, and, as Stow says in his survey of London, published by Strype, p. 223, in a contest between the patentees, and the stationers company, taking upon him as a captain in this cause, was content with no agreement, but generally affirmed, that he might and would print any lawful book, notwithstanding any commandment of the queen. And to that end had incensed the popularity of London, as in a common cause, somewhat dangerously. And with him several of the rest changing their minds, were associated, and laboured to overthrow those privileges the queen had granted, or could grant. Whereupon the abovesaid committees of the stationers company, finding them so disordered, would have bound them to appear before the queen's council, which they promised to do; but after conference with their abettors refused; and still prosecuted their complaints to her majesty, garnishing the same with pretences of the liberties of London, and the commonwealth of the said company; and saying, the queen was deceived by those, that were the means for obtaining such privileges. He afterwards was in such favour with the citizens, that he was made printer to the honourable city of London. In Martin Mar prelates peice, p. 23, he is represented cruel, and called John Woolfe (alias Machivill) beadle of the stationers, and most tormenting executioner of Walde-graves goods, &c. He dwelt at Paul's chain, and in Distaff-lane, over against the sign of the Castle, and had a shop in Popes-head alley in Lombard street, in 1598; used the mark of a fleur-de-lis seeding, and sometimes about it, VBIQUE FLORESCIT. Was succeeded as city printer by John Windet.

Alberici Gentilis I. C. professoris regii de jure belli commentatio prima.

ROGER WARD,

DWELT near Holbourn Conduit, at the sign of the Talbot, and as (Strype's edition of Stow says, p. 223.) Wolf was one of these unruly printers, so Roger Ward was another, who would print any book however forbidden by the queen's privilege, and made it his practice to print all kind of books at his pleasure. The master and wardens of the company going to search his printing-house, according to the power they had, were resisted by his wife and servants; of which a complaint was made by the said master and wardens to the court. And again, in the year 1583, the master and wardens preferred a petition against this man, to the lord-treasurer, shewing his contemptuous demeanour, doing contrary to all order and authority; and withall, his insufficiency to use the art of printing. The commissioners appointed by the council could bring him to nothing, but still he continued to print what he pleased without allowance, by his own authority, and such books, as were warranted by her highness's letters patents to other men: and sold and uttered the same in city and country, to men of other arts; whereby the company sustained great loss, in taking the sale of them; and particularly to the decay of seven poor young men, who executed a privilege granted to William Seres for a yearly rent. This man notwithstanding had given two several bonds to the queen, the one not to print any more disorderly, the other to bring in such books, as he had so printed; but none performed. All this was laid open in the said petition: the signers of it were, John Harrison, master; and Richard Watkins and Ralph Newbury, wardens; and besides them Christopher Barker, John Day, William Norton, George Bishop, John Judson, and Francis Caldock; all booksellers in these times of the chiefest reputation. This story's conclusion see under Seres.

A discourse concerning two diuine positions. The first effectually concluding, that the soules of the faithfull fathers, deceased before Christ, went immediately to heaven. The second sufficiently setting foorth unto vs christians, what we are to conceiue, touching the descension of our saviour Christ into hell. Publiquely disputed at a commencement in Cambridge, anno Domini 1552, &c. Published by Christopher Carlile. 12°. 1582.

1590. This first part of the diall of daies, containing 320 Roman triumphs, &c. by Lodowick Lloid, esq; Quarto.
- A discourse of Peter's life, peregrination, and death. Wherein is plainelie prooued by the order of time and place, that Peter was neuer at Rome. With a confutation of such conjectures, as are alleged to the contrarie. Furthermore, that neither Peter, nor the pope, is the head of Christ's church. This was printed before by Tho. East, 1572. Quarto.*

THOMAS CHARDE,

A GOOD printer, assisted Thomas Thomas at Cambridge 1587, and had others to assist him at London. In 1600 he dwelt in Bishop's-gate church-yard.

1582. A true discourse of the assault committed upon the person of the most noble prince, William prince of Orange, countie of Nassau, marquisse de la Vere, &c. by John Jauregni, Spaniarde. With the true copies of the writings, examinations, depositions, and letters of sundrie offenders in that vile and diuelish attempt. WILLIAM CARTER

WAS a bold printer of books, and I think seldom put his own name to them. All that I have met with of him you will find beneath.

In Strype's life of bishop Aylmer, p. 45. One Carter, a printer, had divers times been put in prison for printing of lewd pamphlets, popish and others, against the government. The bishop by his diligence had found his press in the year 1579, and some appointed by him to search his house, among other papistical books, found one written in the French intituled, The innocency of the Scotch queen; who then was a prisoner for laying claim to the crown of England, and endeavouring to raise a rebellion.

bellion. A very dangerous book this was, the author called her the heir apparent of this crown, inveighed against the late execution of the duke of Norfolk, though he was executed for high treason; defended the rebellion in the north, anno 1569, and made base and false reflections upon two of the queen's chiefest ministers of state, viz. the lord treasurer, and the late lord keeper Bacon.

But William Carter's book, for which he suffered, was entituled, Reasons that catholicks ought in any wise to abstain from heretical conventicles, said to be printed at Doway, but really at London 1580, in Octavo, under the name of John Howlet, and dedicated to queen Elizabeth. The running title, a treatise of schism. When this book was seized at his house on Tower hill, near London, he confessed, there had been printed 1250 copies. At that time the searchers found the original sent from Reims, and allowed under Dr. William Allen's own hand to be truly catholic and fit to be published. See Wood's Athenae, p. 357. Edit. 1721.

On the 10th of January 1584, at a sessions holden in justice hall, in the Old Baily of London, for goale delivery of Newgate, William Carter, of the city of London, was there indicted, arraigned, and condemned of high treason, for printing a seditious and traitorous book in English, entituled, A treatise of schisme; and was for the same (according to sentence pronounced against him) on the next morrow drawn from Newgate to Tyborne, and there hanged, bowelled, and quartered. See Hollingshead, p. 1357. And forthwith against slanderous reports spread abroad in seditious books, letters, and libels, thereby to enflame our countrymen, and her majesties subjectes, a book was published intituled, A declaration of the favourable dealing of her majesties commissioners, &c. which book also I have caused to be set downe in the continuation of the chronicle, first collected by Reigne Wolfe, and finished by Raphaell Hollenshed. See Stow's annals, anno 1605, p. 1176.

Cardinal Allen in his answer to the libel of English Justice, p. 10. and 11. says, "Carter, a poor innocent artisan, who was made away onelie for printing a catholique booke, De Schisme.—The said young man Carter, of whose martyrdom we last treated, was examined upon the racke, upon what gentlemen, or catholique ladies he had bestowed, or intended to bestow certain bookes of prayers and spiritual excercises, and meditations, which he had in his custodie."

HENRY MARSH

WAS a printer, and a relation to Thomas Marshe, to whom he was with Gerard Dews assignee; and, as I take it, dwelt in the same house, and continued the business (after his death, if not before) for the first book printed by Henry, that I have observed is, 1623. A discourse and discovery of Newfoundland; written by captaine Richard Whitbourne of Exmouth, in the county of Devon, and published by authority. Quarto.

JOHN DE BEAUCHESNE.

1597. I Have only had information of the following book: A book, containing the true portraiture of the countenances and attires of the kings of England, from William the Conqueror unto our soveraigne lady queene Elizabeth, now raigning: Together with a briefe reporte of some of the principall acts of the same kings, especially such as have beene least mentioned in our late writers. Diligently collected by T. T. [Thomas Timmes.] London: Printed by John de Beauchasne, dwelling in Black Fryers. In Roman letter. Quarto.

But I rather take him to be an ingenious schoolmaster, from a copy book to teach writing, done in wood, printed by Richard Field, his neighbour, with this title: A book, containing divers sortes of hands, as well the English as French secretarie, with the Italian, Roman, chancelry, and court hands. Also, the true and iust proportion of the capitall Roman. Set forth by John de Beauchesne, and M. John Baildon 1602. *It opens long ways, and is very curious. **

JOHN NORTON, esq;

THE queen's printer, in Latin, Greek, and Hebrew, of the stationer's company, to whom he gave 1000 l. to purchase lands, to the value of 50 l. per annum, and part to be lent to poor young men of the said company. He also gave 150 l. to the parish of St. Faith, under St. Paul's, to purchase 7 l. 10 s. yearly for ever, to be given to the poor. He dwelt at the sign of the Queen's Arms, in the house inhabited before by his cousin Bonham Norton; and being a man of eminence, employed several to print print for him. In the year 1593, he with William Barley, printed a book intituled:

The discovery of the unnatural Spaniolized, Scottish papists. Folio. 1598.

The herball, or general history of plants, gathered by John Gerarde of London, master in chirurgerie; with a very curious copper plate title page, invented and engraved by William Rogers, Also, the effigies of John Gerard, of Chester, civis et chirurgian of London. Its dedicated to sir William Cecil. This curious Folio has the mark of William and John Norton together in a cypher, and has 1392 pages besides the tables, &c. Folio. 1598.

He appears to be the first, who introduced printing into the college at Eaton, in the year 1610, and printed there in Latin and Greek.

Sancti Gregorii Nazianzen in Julianum invektivae duae. Cum scholiis Graecis nunc primum editis, et ejusdem authoris nonnullis aliis, quorum syllabum sequens pag. continet. Omnia ex bibliotheca clarissimi viri D. Henrici Savillii edidit R. Montagu. 1610. Quarto.

He died in the year 1612, aged 55 years, and was succeeded by Bonham Norton, and John Bill, the next year, who continued in partnership a long time.

At the end of a book, with the wooden cut of the boys gathering fruit, as common to grammars, is imprinted, Londini excudebat Johannes Battersbie, serenissimae regiae majestati, in Latinis, Graecis, et Haebraicis, typographus. 1619. Octavo.

But whether Battersbie was joined with him in the patent, or had the reversion, I don't know; but before this time, John Bill was his partner.

HIS famous university received the art of printing very early, but it is difficult to ascertain who was the person, that introduced it there; or, whether many were concerned in bringing it to that place. Mr. Moxon, in his Mechan. Exerc. on printing, 1683, and others, have thought it was Caxton, and probably it was by his influence, or encouragement, when abroad. But the type of the books first printed at Oxford being so different from any of his sorts, as may be seen in the specimen annexed, and his name being never found to any book printed there (which he was pretty careful to put to his books) I confess make me doubt of his being the person. I rather take him to be Thomas Hunt, or Theodoric Rood.

Since enquiry has been made, relating to the date of the Oxford book, 1468, and who the printer was, one Frederick Corsellis has been contrived for that honour; who, so far as I have observed, never printed any book, either here or elsewhere, his name being never found as printer to any ancient book whatsoever.

One Richard Atkins, esq; having a desire to a good place, published a book intituled; "The original and growth of printing, collected out of history, and the records of this kingdom; wherein is also demonstrated, that printing appertaineth to the prerogative royal, and is a flower of the crown of England, in Quarto, 1664." This book has introduced many improbable stories, as of king Henry VI, and archbishop Bouchier's encouragement of printing at Oxford, St. Alban's, and Westminster; of one Robert Turnour, Corsellis, &c. and of the king's sworn servants only having a liberty to exercise the art of printing, &c. from a copy of a pre-

a pretended record in Lambeth house, never seen since, if it was seen there then.

Mr. Lewis and Dr. Middleton having expressed their sentiments on this date so clearly and fully, and agreeing in their opinion, that an X must have been dropped carelessly, if not by design; and that the goodness of the type and press work carries its own conviction with it; therefore the highest one can reasonably put this date is, 1478. It begins, Incipit expositio sancti Ieronimi in symbolum apostolorum ad papam Laurentium: After 41 leaves printed with 25 lines on a page, it ends, Explicit expositio, &c., as above. Impressa Oxonie, et finita anno Domini MCCCCLXVIII. 17 die Decembris. It has a large margin, and signatures, but without any printers name to it, and in several libraries, Oxon. J. West, esq; &c. The paper with 3 or four marks, some like Caxton's. a small Quarto.

1479. Incipit tractatus solennis fratris Egidii de ordine fratrum Augustinensium de peccato originali. Incip. Ego, cum sim pulvis et cinis, loquar ad dominum meum dicens—Domine Deus iudex—si omnes anime tue sunt, sicut anima patris, sic et anime filii. Sed tu pertua pietate miserere nobis, ut facie ad faciem te videre possimus, qui es benedictus in secula seculorum, Amen. Explicit tractatulus brevis et utilis de originali peccato, editus a fratre Egidio Romano, ordinis fratrum heremitarum sancti Augustini. Impressus et finitus Oxonie. A nativitate Domini MCCCCLXXIX. 14 die mensis Marcii. It contains 22 leaves, with the signatures. Quarto.

“All these books, says Mr. Lewis, agree together in every thing; they are manifestly all three printed with the same German types, or letter; they all have the signatures placed at the bottom of the page, and end of the line thus, a i, a ii, a iii, &c. they all want the direction word, &c. and have no printers name.” Anthony Wood says of them, Perspicuis magis et pulchrioribus quam recentiores nonnulli, more plain and beautifull than some more modern ones.

1481. Fredricum illum in arte typographica nobiscum exercenda excepisse crediderim Theodoricum Rood, Coloniensem; librorum vero, quos excudit, de numero est, Alexander de Alexandria in 111 libros Aristotelis de anima, cujus ad finem sic legis: Explicit sententiosa atque studio digna expositio Venerabilis Alexandri super librum tertium de Anima, impressa per me Theodoricum Rood, de Colonia, in

^a Wrong dates were common. Among many others, I have a quarto book, intituled, Formalitates de mente doctores subtilis Scoti. At the end, Venetiis impressa in contrata sancti Cassiani per Simonem de Luere, 14 mensis Decembris 1051. And, Flores diui Bernardi, printed at Paris by Philip Pigouchet 1099;

whereas by his name, and there being no printing known so early, one cannot imagine it true; but that it should be 1499; as the other 1501.

Francisci Aretini oratoris preclarissimi in eloquentissimas Phalaridis tyranni epistolas, per ipsum è Greco in Latinum versas. In which are observed these verses.^b

*Hoc Theodoricus Rood, quem Collonia misit, Sanguine Germanus, nobile pressit opus;
Atque sibi socius Thomas fuit Anglicus Hunte.
Dii dent vt Venetos exuperare queant.
Quam Jenson Venetos docuit vir gallicus artem, Ingenio didicit terra Britannia suo.
Celatos, Veneti, nobis transmittere libros
Cedite, nos aliis vendimus, O Veneti.
Que fuerat vobis ars primum nota Latini,
Est eadem nobis ipsa reperta prestans.
Quamvis semotos toto canit orbe Britannos

Which may be thus Englished:

Theodoric Rood, by birth a German, from Cologne, printed this noble work; and Thomas Hunt, an Englishman, was his partner. God grant they may excell the Venetians. The art, which Jenson a Frenchman taught the Venetians, Britain learnt by her own genius. Cease ye Venetians to send us printed books, we sell them to others. The art of printing Latin, which was known to you Venetians, is itself found out by us. Though Virgil sings the Britons separated from the whole world, they are nevertheless pleased with the Latin tongue. The book contains, sheets M III, marked beneath, and ends. Hoc opusculum in Alma vniversitate Oxonie. ^a Lewis's MSS. Penes me, the book is in Brazen-nose college Oxon.

^b The reverend Mr. Lewis having been shewn by the learned Mr. Herbert Randolph, rector of Deal in Kent, (a good encourager of this work) Aretin's Latin translation of Phalaris epistles, printed at Oxford, by Theodoric Rood; he observed in a colophon printed with it, mention is made of one Thomas Hunt, an Englishman, a printer, and an intimation, that he taught the English the art of printing, as Jenson taught the Venetians. A copy of this colophon Mr. Lewis sent to the late learned and worthy Mr. Thomas Baker, of St. John's college, in Cambridge, who communicated it to the reverend Dr. Conyers Middleton, the learned and ingenious keeper of the publick library in that famous university, who printed it in his curious dissertation, concerning the origin of printing in England, 1735. The learned and communicative Dr. Richard Mead, since meeting with another copy, favoured me with the use of it, and has another perhaps earlier, printed on vellum, octavo. Impressum Florentiae per Antonium Venetum.

^c Dr. Stack, and others, think from the Olympiades, this must be in the year 1481, being the first year of that Olympiad, but Dr. Middleton 1485, the last year.

Explicit

Explicit tabula super opus Trenorum compilatum per Johannem Latterbury, ordinis Minorum. About the middle of the book is this passage. Item anno Domini M ccccxlvi. in capitulo provinciali London. celebrato, et etiam Oxon. pluribus vicibus, prius et post in studio secum commoranti, frater Hermanus de Colonia, fratri Johanni de Latteburii retulit viva voce, quod in patria sua est quedam Villa, que vulgariter vocatur Engere, de qua Anglia vocaliter derivatur. This is a thick Folio, and printed partly on paper, and partly vellum, without name of place, or printer; but from a comparison of its letter with Hunts, or Roods, it is judged to be one of theirs, as is the following: This in the dean and chapters library, Westminster.

Provincial constitutions. This is a large thick folio, in two columns, and two sorts of letters, begins with a wooden cut of Lindwood setting before a writing desk, and at the end of the book, Explicit opus magistri Wilhelmi Lyndewoode super constitutiones provinciales: laus Deo. But at the end of the table, Explicit tabula compendiosa super librum, qui intitulatur Provincialis, compilata per Wilhelmum de Tylia, nemore completa. In festo conversionis sancti Pauli. Anno Domini millesimo ccccxxxiii. *No printers name, place, nor time put down.

1506. Principia, seu introductiones, fratris peregrini ytalici de lugo in via doctoris subtilis: adipisci ejusdem doctoris doctrinam cupientibus. This title is over Duns Scotus's picture, and beneath: Venundantur autem in alma ac florentissima universitate Oxoniense, intactate virginis ac immaculate vico; sancti Johannis Evangeliste ad inter signum, per R. Pinson, cuz solerti cura ac diligentia honestissimi juvenis ac prudentissimi Hugonis Meslier. Expensis autem Georgii Castellani, Oxonii morantis, ad intersignum sancti Johannis Evangeliste; in quo venundatur opus hoc. Finis, laus Deo, et beato Francisco, Amen, ac beate virgini. London. Quarto.

JOHN SCOLAR

1518. Traetatus perbrevis de materia et forma magistri Walteri Burley, doctoris, planissime, &c. Beneath a wooden cut of a master and scholar: Aliud perbreue compendium de relativis ejusdem doctoris, utile tamen admodum novellis

With Oxford arms. Vetitum est per edictum sub sigillo cancellariatus, nequis in septennio hoc insigne opus imprimat, vel aliorum ductu impensis venditet in universitate Oxonie, aut infra precinctum ejusdem; sub pena amissionis omnium librorum, et quinque librarum sterlingorum pro singulis sic venditis, ubi impressi fuerint preter penam pretaxatam in decreto. ¶ Cornicum oculos configere noli. Quarto. 1518.

Compendium quaestiuncularum de luce, et de lumine. In the last page, under the arms of the university; Finit compendium quaestiuncularum de luce, et de lumine, noviter recognitum impressumque in celeberrima universitate Oxoniensi per Joannem Scolarem, in viculo divi Johannis Baptistae moram trabentem. Anno Domini m cccccxviii. mensis vero Julii die v. But in the catalogue of English and Irish MSS. this book is dated the 15th of June 1510.

CHARLES KYRFETH,

A Dutchman, came to Oxford, and printed there. The only book I have seen printed by him, is the following:

Comptus manualis ad usum Oxoniensium. In Latin verse; ends, Impressum est praesens opusculum in celeberrima universitate Oxoniensi per me Karolum Kyrfeth in vico divi Johannis Baptistae moram trabentem, anno Domini m cccccxix, 5 die Februarii. Quarto. 1519.

Libellus prim. epistol. M. Tullii Cicer. Decus Oxoniensium, finitum universitate Oxoniensi. Printed at the charge and expence of his eminence cardinal Wolsey; with the king's arms on one side, and the cardinal's on the other, with the rose, pomgranate, and cardinals hat. No date, nor printers name, but probably about this time, at this place. Quarto.

Anthony Wood, in his history of the antiquities of Oxford, printed 1674, says, that Theodorick Rood was succeeded by John Scholar, who set up his printing press in St. John's street, over-against Merton church, or chappel, and printed not a few books, but mentions only two. The next person he names is Peter Treveris, about 1527, and after, Winken de Worde, who, he says, dwelt in Groper-lane, from him called Winken-lane, but names none of the books; neither does it yet appear they ever dwelt there; though they might print for the Oxonians, as well as Pinson 1506, and others at London.

After these books, I have observed no others, nor printing at Oxford, for the space of sixty six years, and should be glad to be informed, if there were any ; or, what might be the occasion of this silence of the press, in such a learned flourishing university, and for so long a time.

In the year 1585, a new printing press was erected in the university by their chancellor, the earl of Leicester, who made a present of it to the university. The first book printed at it, was one written and published by John Case, fellow of St. John's coll. with this title :

1585. Speculum moralium quaestionum in universam ethicam Aristotelis, which he dedicated to the chancellor. Quarto.

Printed at Oxford by Joseph Barnes, and are to be solde in Paules church yarde, at the signe of the bible. The title page of this book is adorned with a cut of the arms of the university, being an open book, wherein are the words, SAPIENTIAE ET FELICITATIS, (instead of which they afterwards used the words, DOMINVS ILLVMINATIO MEA) with seven seals between three ducal coronets; and about the whole OXONIENSIS ACADEMIA. In others only Ox. on one side, and Ac. on the other. 4°.

JOSEPH BARNES continued university printer till the year 1617. From that time John Lichfield, and James Short, were printers to the university till 1624, whose books have not always both their names. John Lichfield, and William Turner, were university printers to the year 1635. Then William Turner with Leonard Litchfield, to about 1658, when one A. Lichfield, who printed for the society of stationers, is called university printer with Leonard; but typis Lichfieldianis took place about 1660, and continued a while after 1700. In the year 1648 Henry Hall is called printer to the university, and with William Hall in 1662, printed till 1676. Wood in his Athenae, mentions Samuel Clark, M. A. as elected May 14, 1658, Architypographus, who was succeeded by Martin Bold, in 1669. Books printed è Theatro Sheldoniano from 1671, have usually no printers name to them. Henry Cruttenden printed a book at Oxford, in 1688, wherein he calls himself one of his majesties printers.

IN this famous university they received the art of printing among them soon, though which was their first book is difficult to ascertain, or who were the persons that brought it there. Mr. Bagford, in a letter of his to the late bishop Tanner, dated in November 1707, and communicated to me by his brother, a worthy promoter of this work, has these words. "I cannot but impart

"unto you, that very lately good Mr. Strype hath gave me an account of a booke, which archbishop Parker gave to the publick library of Bennet college, and is a piece of rethorick, by one Gull. de Saona, a minorit, printed at Cambridge 1478." Since which my friend the reverend Mr. George North, happening on the same book there, was pleased to send me a perfect transcript of part of it, thus, Fratri Laurencii Guilelmi de Saona ordinis minorum, sacre theologie doctoris, probemium in nouam rethoricam. It is in folio, without the number of page, ketch word, or signatures; the types very much like Caxton's largest. At the end, Compilatum autem fuit hoc opus in alma universitate Cantabrigie, anno Domini 1408, die et 6 Julii, quo die festum sancte Marthe recolitur. Sub protectione serenissimi regis Anglorum Edwardi quarti. See this book in quarto, printed at St. Alban's.

Time may probably discover others. There was one John Sibert, a printer at Lyons, in the year 1498, who possibly was the [John Siberch] that was settled here, and stiled himself the first in England that printed both Greek and Latin. Yet, though there is much Greek letter in his books, books, I do not find any one, that is wholly of that character. He was acquainted with Erasmus, who mentions him in these words: Saluta mihi veteres sodales, Phannum, Omfridum, Vachanum, Garardum, Nicholaum et Johannem Siburgum, bibliopolas. Datum Basileae, 25 Dec. anno 1525.^a 1521. Caleni^b Pergamensis de temperamentis, et de inaequali intemperie, libri tres; Thoma Linacro Anglo interprete. Opus non medicis modo, se det philosophis oppido quam necessarium, nunc primum prodit in lucem. Cum gratia et privilegio. Then follows the dedication. Sanctissimo domino nostro papae Leonⁱ decimo, Thomas Linacer medicorum minimus, S. D. Londini anno Christianae salutis. Nonis Septembris. Then a table called, Elenchus sequentis operis, in an alphabetical order. The book is printed in a good Roman Letter, with some Greek words, and abbreviations, and contains 74 leaves, besides the table. It has the comma, colon, full point, and ketch words. The compartment for the title seems the work of Hans Holbein, and the cut at the end of the armes of France and England, quarterly within the garter, crowned with a French crown, above a label, with Dieu et mon droyt, under it a rose and pomegranate; the supporters, a dragon and dog, and beneath, a flower de lis, and a port-cullis with chains. The paper of several sorts; as, hand, star, ps, and beasts, &c. the colophon, Impressum apud preclaram Cantabrigiam, per Joannem Siberch, MDXXI.^c 4^o.

1521. Libellus de conscribendis epistolis, autore D. Erasmo^a, opus olim ab eodem caeptum, sed primâ manu mox expoliri caeptum sed intermissum, nunc primum prodit in lucem. Apud preclaram Cantabrigiensem academiam. Cum gratia et privilegio. Dedicated by Siberch, printer of Cambridge, to J. Fisher, bishop of Rochester. At the end, Impressum Cantabrigiae per Joannem Siberch, anno MDXXI. mense Octobri. Quarto.

Johannis lair de Siberch, wherein is shewn the letters, moodes, tenses, verbs, &c. of the Greek language, from hence one might think, that printing of Greek was not in perfection here before this time.

In the apology of sir Thomas More, knt, p. 200. Edit. 1533. there is mention made of one SEGAR, a bookseller of Cambridge, who was prisoner in his house for heresye 4 or 5 days; and tho' it was reported, that he had used him ill, sir Thomas vindicates himself. Of this man I have seen no books, either printed by, or for him; but in the year of our Lord 1533, mense Julii, king Henry VIII. granted to the university of Cambridge for ever under his great seal, authority to name, and to have three stationers, or printers of books, alyants and strangers, not born within, or under his obedience, and they to be reputed and taken as denysons. And 21st August, anno supradicto universitas concessit Nicolao Spirinck, Garetto Godfray, et Sygar, hoc privilegium pro termino vitae.

Notwithstanding the favourable licence for the encouragement of the press, the 20 July 1534, I have found no books printed here, after the year 1522, to the year 1584, in the space of 62 years, when Thomas Thomas, M. A. and formerly of king's college, Cambridge, took up, and followed the business of printing, and was printer to this university, as well as a scholar and author; his dictionary being in great esteem for many years. My late friend the reverend Mr. Thomas Baker, gave this account of of him. Thomas Thomas, M. A. academiae Cant. typographus, dictionarii author, cui nomen, Thomas Thomasius, uxoratus obiit 1588. sepultus in ecclesia B. Mariae Majoris, Aug. 9, 1588. Socius olim Coll. Regali, Cant. Thomas Thomas, M. A. printer to the university of Cambridge, author of the dictionary, which bears the name of Thomas Thomasius, died a married man 1588, and was buried in the church of St. Mary Major, August 9, 1588. He had been fellow of King's college in Cambridge.

P. Rami dialecticae libri duo, scholiis G. Tempelli Cantabrigiensis illustrati. Quibus accessit, eodem authore, de porphyrianis praedicabilibus disputatio. Cantabrigiae, ex officina Thomae Thomasii. With the university arms. Twelves. 1584.

Ovidii Metamorphosis. Et Gramm. Petri Rami. Octavo. 1584.

A godlie exposition upon certayne chapters of Nehemiah, written by that worthy byshop, and faithful pastor of the church of Durham, master James Pilkinton, &c. In this book T. Thomas stiles himself, printer to the vniversity of Cambridge. Octavo. 1585.

Whitaker's answer to William Raynolds. Octavo. 1585.

A confutation of Allen's treatise, &c. Octavo. 1586.

Grammaticae Latine, de etymologia, liber secundus, ex vetustissimis artis et linguae auctoribus depromptus, ea methodo, quam senatus literatorum, regia auctoritate Sterlingi habitus, Scotice juventuti facillimam censuit. Addita sunt, sed minoribus characteribus, in profectionum gratiam, ex intimis artis penetralibus, plerumque à nemine prius congesta, quibus auctor pueris prope- rantibus interdici velit. It contains 52 pages, beside six leaves at the beginning for the title, dedication, some poems, &c. The author, whose name is not mentioned on the title page, dedicated this treatise thus: Jacobo, ejus nominis sexto, Scotorum regi Christianissimo, gratiam et pacem à Domino. And concludes his dedication, consisting of two leaves, thus: Cantebrigie, ex edibus Thome Thomasii, idibus Septembris 1587. Tue M. in Domino Jesu, cliens ex animo observantissimus, Jacobus Carmichael. 4^o. 1587.

Explicationum catecheticarum, quae tractationem locorum Theologicorum κατ' ἑνότητα complectuntur, sicuti illae ex repetitionibus D. Zachariae Vrsini, aliquot deinceps annis, Heidelbergae in Sapientiae collegio, ab ipsius discipulis collectae sunt; editio altera: freed from the errors of our former edition. Printed at the expence of Thomas Chard. Ex officina Thomae Thomasii inclytæ academiae typographi. Twelves. 1587.

Disputatio de Sacra Scriptura, contra bujus temporis papistas, imprimis, Robertum Ballarminum jesuitam, pontificium in collegio Romano, et Thomam Stapletonum, regium in scholae Duacena controversiarum professorem. Sex questionibus proposita et tractata, a Gulielmo Whitakero, theologiae doctore, ac professore regio, et collegii D. Joannis in Cantabrigiensi academia magistro. M m m Cantabrigiae, 1588.

Cantabrigiae, ex officina Thomae Thomasii, florentissimae Cantabrigiensis academiae typographi, Maii 2. Quarto.

I suppose he printed several other books, by an account of him in one of Martin Marprelate's peices, beginning: "Oh, read over D. John Bridges, for it is a worthy worke, p. 6. viz. As of the Helvetian, the Scottish, French, Bohemian, and the churches of the Low Countries, the churches of Polonia, Denmarke, within the dominions of the count Palatine, of the churches in Saxonie, and Swevia, &c. which you shall see evidently proved, in the harmonie of the confessions of all those churches: section the eleventh. Which harmonie was translated, and printed, by that puritan Cambridge printer, Thomas Thomas. And although the booke came out by publicke authoritie, yet by your leave, the bishops have called them in, as things against their state. And trust me, his grace will owe that puritan printer as good a turne, as hee paide unto Robert Walde-grave for his sawcines, in printing my frend, and deare brother, Diotrephes his dialogue. Well frend Thomas, I warne you before hand, look to your selfe, &c." Quarto.

JOHN LEGATE, citizen and stationer of London,

I Find in the year 1589, was printer to the university of Cambridge. He married Agatha, the daughter of Christopher Barker, esq; the queen's printer, by whom he had a son of his own name, who followed the same business after the death of his father.

Legate, in an edition of Thomasius's dictionary, expressing the great care the author took for its perfection, says, he took such pains, as suited ill with his health. For he employed his thoughts so wholly upon this, as to spare neither his time, his fortune, or himself, so he might procure where-withal to improve his design. With which care and eagerness, while he was going on for the service of learning, and the publick, he fell into a grievous disease, which put an end to his life. And adds, That since his death the office of printer had been conferred on him, by the favour of of the university.

In 1606 he printed the seventh edition of Thomas Thomasius's dictionary, and 1605. the year before, Institutiones juris Anglicani, ad methodum et seriem institutionum imperialium compositae, et digestae. Opus non solum juris Anglicani Romanique in hoc regno studiosis, sed omnibus, qui ΠΟΛΙΤΕΙΑΝ, et consuetudines inclyti nostri imperii penitus scire cupiunt, utile et accommodatum: authore Johanne Cowello, juris civilis doctore, et in academia Cantabrigiensi professore regio. Octavo. Wherein he used the impression of the ALMA MATER CANTABRIGIA, and about it, HINC LVCEM ET POCVLA SACRA, used ever since. He printed in 1607, Justi Lipsii tractatus, ad historiam Romanam cognoscendam apprimè utiles.

In the year 1626, John Legate being lately deceased, leaving eleven children, licence is granted to John Legate his son, to print Thomas Thomas's dictionary, &c. How long his son printed, does not appear, but I find him a printer at London in the year 1637, and 1648 (when he was one of the twenty^a, appointed by decree of the star-chamber, to print for this kingdom.) In the year 1608, Cantrell Legge printed for the university, and was succeeded by Thomas Buck 1627, and Roger Daniel to 1650, and Buck alone 1653; who by a will, made 21 September 1667, left legacies to Catharine Hall, where he had been a fellow, or scholar, to purchase books. The 16th of November 1688, he was buried in St. Mary's church. John Field built the large and good shop, that is now standing about the year 1655, and succeeded Buck. After Feild one Edward Hall printed there 1688. But after the revolution one Cornelius Crownfeild, a Dutchman, who had been a soldier, and a very ingenious man, had that office, as he told me himself at Cambridge 1739, and is since succeeded by Mr. Joseph Bentham.

^a Some of them being printers before 1600. I have taken their Names from the Decree, as follows: Felix Kingstone, Adam Islip, Thomas Purfoot, Miles Flesher, Thomas Harper, John Beale, John Legate, Robert Young, John Haviland, George Miller, Richard Badger, Thomas Cotes, Bernard Alsop, Richard Bishop, Edward Griffin, Thomas Purslow, Richard Hodgkinsonne, John Dawson, John Raworth, Marmaduke Parsons. Besides his majesties printers, and the printers allowed for the universities.

LBON's or St. Alban's, situated in a fine air, where several religious persons, or orders, had seated themselves; particularly the monks of that name, who were formerly much noted for their grandeur, and very soon encouraged the art of printing among them. Some account thereof may be seen in Chauncy's history of Hertfordshire, but what I have observed relating to that art, may be seen in man may knaw, how thes croniclis be ordyrt, ye shall undyrstond, that this boke is devidit into vii partys. Off the wych the fyrst parte contenys, from Adam till Brute cam into Bretan. ¶ The second parte contenes, from Brute came fyrst into England unto the cyte of Rome was byld be Romolus. ¶ The therd part contenes, sethyn Rome was byld un to Crist was born of our lady Mari. ¶ The fourth, from thens unto the comyng of the Saxons into Englund. ¶ The fyft part, from thens unto the coming of the Danys. ¶ The sext part, from thens unto the commyng off the Normans. ¶ The sevint part, from the Normans unto owr tyme, the wich is undir the regne of kyng Edward the fourth, xxiii yer, whos nobull croniclis be custum may not be seen. ¶ And so in every part of thes vii partes is shewed the most, and necessary actys of all the kyngis of Englund, and ther namys wrettyn abooe in the margent, that every man may fynd them soon. And afor the kyng of Englund actis be writin, ther is writin the linage of Crist from Adam, till that Crist was borne of our lady, with the egh bysshopp, and the juge, that war in that tyme; and certan of ther actis necessari, till it be cummyn to Crist was borne. And aftir that Cryst was borne, and Peter was pope of Rome, is shewed be order the namys of all the popys, and emproures of Rome afor and aftir, wyth certan off their actis brevyatly; and mony other dyvers thyngis and maruellus in thes mens days fallyng. And it is shewid everi thing in his place, how mony yere it fell aftyr the begynyng of the world, and how long afor that Crist was borne. And when that I cum to Crist was born, then it is wrettyn, how long any thyng fell aftyr the nativite of Crist. And this is the ordyr off thys boke, and the thyngis that be spokyn of. The seven parts mentioned above, are found by the numerals on the top of the leaves. It has some wooden cuts. The beginning of the prologue is Insomuch, without the I, which was, as other initials, left for the illuminator^a to fill up. And that word Insomuch was the name sir Henry Chauncy, in his history of Hertfordshire, is pleased to give to our printer. Penes sir P. Thompson, J. West, esq; and J. Ames. Fol.

Insomuch that gentill men, and honest persones, have grete delite in haukyng, and desire to haue the maner to take haukys; and also, how, and in wat wyse, they shulde gyde theym ordinateli; and how to knaw the gentill termys in communying of theyr haukys; and to vnderstande theyr sekeneses and enfirmitees; and also, to knawe medicines for theym accordyng; and many notabull termys, that ben vused in hawkyng, both of their haukys, and of the fowles, that their haukys shall sley. Therefore thys book folowyng in a dew forme shewys veri knowlege of suche plesure to gentill men, and parsonys disposed to se itt.

The second book begins: Here in thys booke folowyng is determyned, the lynage of Coot Armuris, and how gentylmen shal be known from ungentilmen, &c. ¶ Of the offspring of the gentilman Jafeth, come Habraham, Moyses, Aron, and the profettys; and also the kyng of the right lyne of PRINTING at this city was early, in respect to other places in this kingdom, which would incline one to conclude, they had some brave spirits among them, willing to cultivate common sense. One Matthias Goes, an ingenious man at Antwerp, who printed a book intituled, Cordiale de quatuor novissimis, Octavo, 1483,* perhaps was the father to our HUGO GOES, that erected a press here. The first of his, that I know of, is :

CARDINAL Wolsey being born, and erecting a school at this place, which he founded about the year 1524, one might have expected to have heard of the settlement of a press, for the encouragement of learning, before the date of our first book; but you will observe, that he made use of foreign presses to serve this grammar school, whatever might be the occasion of it; as we find from an epistle of his, dated at Westminster 1st September 1528, prefixed to a grammar, with this title page. Rudimenta grammatices, et docendi methodus, non tam scholae Gyps-wichianae, per reverend. D. Thomam cardinalem Ebor. foeliciter institutae, quam omnibus aliis totius Angliae scolis praescripta. Joan. Grapheus excudebat impensis Arnoldi Birckmanni, Antwerp 1534 The cardinal also vouchsafed to direct the use of it in a short epistle to the masters of his school. The same grammar was printed the next year in Twelves, at Antwerp, by Martin Ceaser.

W A L E S.

ONE THACKWELL a printer is mentioned in a book intituled, Bridge's, &c. by Martin Marprelate, p. 23. where he says, pitifully complaining, is there any reason, why knave Thackwell the printer, which printed popishe and trayterous Welsh books in Wales, should have more favour at your gracelesse handes, then poore Waldegrave, who never printed book against you, that containeth either treason or impiety.^a Thackwell is at liberty to walk where he will, and permitted to make the most he could of his press and letters; whereas Robert Waldegrave dares not shew his face, for the blood-thirstie desire you have for his life, only for printing of bookes, which toucheth the bishops myters. You know that Waldegrave's printing-press and letters were taken away; his press being timber, was sawen and hewed in peices, the yron work battered and made unserviceable, his letters melted, with cases, and other tooles, defaced (by John Woolfe, alias Machivill, beadle of the stationers, and most tormenting executioner of Waldegrave's goods) and he himself utterly deprived for ever printing againe, having a wife and sixe small children. Will this monstrous crueltie never be revenged think you? when Waldegrave's goods was to be spoiled and defaced, there were some printers, that rather than all the goods should be spoyled, offered mony for it, towards the reliefe of the man's wife and children, but this could not be obtayned, and yet popishe Thackwell, though he printed popish and trayterous bookes, may have the favour to make money of his presse and letters. And reason to. For Waldegrave's profession overthroweth the popedome of Lambehith; but Thackwel's popery main-tayneth the same. And now that Waldgrave hath neither presse nor letters, his grace may dine and sup the quieter. Waldegrave hath left house and home, by reason of your unnatural tyrannie; having left behind him a poor wife and sixe orphans, without any thing to relieve them. (For, the husband you have bereaved both of his trade and goods) Be you assured, that the crye of these will one day prevail against you, unlesse you desist from persecuting.

And good your grace, I do now remember myself of another printer, that had presse and letter in a place called Charterhouse, in London (in anno 1587, neere about the time of the Scottish queen's death) intelli-

^a And in a pamphlet called, Hay any work previliege, thou liest in thy throat. M. Yong for the cooper, p. 39. thus, Where thou faiest himself brought him to his grace, who or M. Yong had only the dealing with THACK- deder the matter, as is set down in my WELL the popish printer, without his graces pittle.

gence was given unto your good grace of the same, by some of the stationers of London; it was made knowen unto you, what work was in hand, what letter the book was on, what volume, viz. in octavo, in half sheetes, what workmen wrought on the same; namely, I. C. the earle of Arundel's man, and three of his servants, with their several names, what liberalitie was bestowed one those workmen, and by whom, &c. Your grace gave the stationers the hearing of this matter, but to this day the parties were never called in coram for it; but yet by your leave my lord, upon this information unto your honourable worship, the stationers had newes, that it was made knowne unto the printers, what was done unto your good grace, and presently instead of the work, which was in hand, there was other appointed, as they say, authorized, by your lordship. I will not say it was your owne doing; but by your sleeve, thought is free. And my good L. (nay, you shall be none of my L. but M. Whitgift and you will,) are you partiall or no in all your actions, tell me? yes you are? I will stand to it? Did you get a decree in the high court of starchamber only for Waldegrave? If it bee in generall (and you not partiall) why set you not that printing presse and letters out of Charterhouse, and distroy them, as you did Waldegrave's? Why did you not apprehend the parties, why? because it was popery at the least, that was printed in Charterhouse; and that maintayneth the crowne of Canterbury? And what is more tolerable than popery? Did not your grace of late erect a new printer contrary to the foresay'd decree? One Thomas Orwine (who sometimes wrought popish bookes in corners; namely, Jesus psalter, our ladies psalter, &c.) with condition he should print no such seditious books, as Waldegrave hath done? why, my lord, Waldegrave never printed any thing against the state, but only, &c.

N O R W I C H.

IT appears in the year 1565, that many strangers from the Low Countries came, and settled in Norwich city, masters, workmen, and servants, (and had her maiesty's letters patents to work, and make all sorts of woollen manufactures) men, women, and children, to about 3925. This was encouraged by the mayor and sheriffs of this city, who waited on Thomas, duke of Norfolk, at his palace there, and got the freedom and liberty of the city granted to them. Among these strangers the art of printing was introduced here, of whom Anthony Solmpne, was so well approved of, that he had presented to him his freedom. See, Liber Introit. Alien, from Bromsfeld's history of Norfolk, vol. 2. p. 210.

IS taken notice of as a printer at Norwich, in Leland's appendix to his Collectanea, part 2. vol. vi. p. 41. and in the Bodlean library among the archives. The peice is intituled thus Certain verses written by Thomas Brooke, gentleman, of Rolsbie, concerned with Throgmorton and others in a conspiracy in Norfolk, Stow's annals, p. 1130. in the time of his imprisonment, the day before his death, who suffered in Norwich the 30th of August 1570. These are contained in thirty two verses, and at the end, Finis quod, Thomas Brooke. Seen and allowed according to the queen's majesties injunction. God save the quene. Imprinted at Norwich, in the parish of saynt Andrew, by Anthony de Solmpne. This is the only thing I have heard of, but time may discover others.

MOULSER,

M O U L S E Y, &c.

HERE might be recited the titles of great numbers of scurrilous pamphlets wrote, printed, and dispersed, on both sides, concerning ecclesiastical discipline, and never ending cavils and disputes about rites and ceremonies, in a snarling and ridiculous manner; and the publick printing presses being shut against the puritans, some of them purchased a private one. If any desire to know the motions and stages of the press, which printed these books; know, it was first set up at Moulsey, near Kingston in Surry, thence conveyed to Fawsley in Northamptonshire, thence to Norton, and afterwards to Coventry; from Coventry to Woolston in Warwickshire, and from thence to Manchester in Lancashire; discovered by Henry, earl of Darby, in the printing More work for the cooper. It might well have many erratas, when itself was a pilgrim, or vagabond press. (See Fuller's church history, lib. 1x. page 194.) It was often visited by the high commissioners messengers, who seized what books they found of theirs, &c. Strype in the life of archbishop Whitgift, p. 314. says, that sir Richard Knightly, and sir — Wigston, who had entertained the press, together with the printer, and Humphrey Newman the disperser, were deeply fined in the star-chamber; and others put to death. See more in Camb. annals of queen Elizabeth.

Dr. H. Sampson in his MS. papers of lives, in the account of the ministers of Coventry since the reformation, divided into decads—in decad the 5th from 1580 to 1590, has the following passage: Another matter, that procured an ill aspect upon the town, was the printing of Martin Marprelate, junior, in it; which tho' it was done without the knowledge or approbation of any in the town, yet the place and the people was upon this mere occasion reflected on. The story was thus; Mr. Hales of White Fryers had now his house stood empty, whilst himself lived elsewhere. Mr. Knightly his cousin took that opportunity to borrow his house for a divertisement of a month or two, or other pretence; which when it was granted, Mr. Knightly privately conveyed thither the printing press and letters, and in a back chamber, which is well remembered and marked to this day, the book was printed off. It can't be denied, but that this house stands remote from neighbours, being uninhabited at that time, and that chamber, removed from the house-keeper's usuall residence, was well chosen for this purpose. But it was discovered afterwatds, I suppose, by the printers, who being taken in Lancashire, confessed other places, where the ambulatory press had been, and the persons that imployed them, sufficiently to Mr. Hales's cost. for the fact of lending his house, though altogether ignorant of the use it should be put to, yet upon suspicion of his guilt, he was fined 1500*l.* and afterwards compounded with the queen, and actually paid 500*l.* Yet after all this, the officers not having registred the composition and payment of the money, his grandson Mr. John Hales, in king James's days, was call'd on again to pay the fine; which he had certainly done, if after many days sollicitous seeking the discharge in vain he had not found it at last very accidentally among papers, that were destined to wast or burning.

One person more about the printing this unhappy book. Amongst others that were accused for having a hand in it, Mr. ——— Throckmorton was one, and being sent for by a messenger, who in his yard meeting with a man, or rather shadow and case of a man, that was little remoued from a mere natural, and askt him where Mr. Throckmorton was? he answered, He is gone into Scotland. When said the messenger? Just now said the fool. Now the fool meant only the house of office, which in the language of the servants of that house, was called Scotland, where Throckmorton then was sculking, and over heard all this discourse. The rest of the wiser servants by that time, was so well alarmed of the messenger and his errand, that they would discover nothing in particular of him. So the messenger taking it for granted, that children and fools speak true, and that he was gone indeed into Scotland, went away with this account of his message to him that sent him; by which means he escaped a troublesome journey, and had opportunity to stave off and weather out that trouble, which by a sudden surprize had unavoidibly come upon him.

Waldegrave and Legate both lived in the parish of St. Alban's Woodstreet, from the same H. Sampson's papers. Dr. Williams's publick library in Redcross-street, London.

CONTAINING

Besides several private books, and such as could not be ranged under the foregoing Printers, an account of those printed abroad by Englishmen, and other printers for them.

ALSO,

Several Orders, Acts, Proclamations, Patents, &c. relating thereto; for the better illustrating this subject before the year 1600.

Booke of nobless, compiled to the most high and mighty prince, king Edward the iv. for the avauncing and praeferring the commyn. publique of the royames of England and France. Written to stir up the English to recover the lost lands in France, MCCCCLXXI. This from bishop Tanner's MSS.

Among Mr. Bagford's papers, which were in the possession of the Rev. Dr. Wilkins, I find this note: The booke called, Lumen Animae, ends happily, which after it had layd hid, not without great paynes, is brought to light, by characters, or letters of tin, to the praise of almighty God.

God, and the honour of the whole church triumphant; as also to the utility of its pious sons, being finished with the greatest diligence in the year of our Lord 1482. the next day after Litane. But no place, printer, nor size mentioned.

In the year 1483, we did not seem to have printers enough of our own nation; for in the first of Richard III. an act was made, intituled, In what sort Italian merchants may sell their merchandises, which concludes thus: ¶ XII. Provided always, that this act, or any parcel thereof, or any other act made, or to be made in this said parliament, shall not extend, or be in prejudice, disturbance, damage, or impediment, to any artificer, or merchant stranger, of what nation or countrey he be, or shall be of, for bringing into this realm, or selling by retail, or otherwise, any books written or printed, or for inhabiting within this said realm for the same intent, or any scrivener, alluminor, reader, or printer of such books, which he hath, or shall have to sell by way of merchandise, or for their dwelling within this said realm, for the exercise of the said occupations; this act, or any part thereof notwithstanding. The above is a translation from the law French, in which the acts of parliament were then express'd.

The accident of discovering of printing, contributed greatly to the revival of learning in Europe. Lord Herbert, in his life of king Henry VIII. p. 147. supposed that cardinal Woolsey stated the effects of this new discovered art to the pope, thus: "That his holiness could not be ignorant what diuers effects this new invention of printing had produced. For, as it had brought in, and restored books and learning, so together it hath been the occasion of those sects and schisms, which daily appeared in the world, but chiefly in Germany; where men began now to call in question the present faith, and tenets of the church, and to examine how far religion is departed from its primitive institution. And that which particularly was most to be lamented, they had exhorted lay and ordinary men to read the scriptures, and to pray in their vulgar tongue; that if this was suffered, besides all other dangers, the common people at last might come to believe, that there was not so much use of the clergy. For if men were perswaded once, they could make their own way to God, and that prayers in their native and ordinary language might pierce heaven as well as Latin; how much would

“ the authority of the mass fall. For this purpose, since printing could “ not be put down, it were best to set up learning against learning ; and “ by introducing able persons to dispute, to suspend the laity between “ fear and controversy. This at worst would yet make them attentive to “ their superiors and teachers.”

WILLIAM TINDALL, in the beginning of king Henry VIII's time, being a vertuous man, and a good scholar, made it his principal study to have the scriptures in his own native language, and frequently in conversation mentioned those things, which promoted its acceptance, and hearing of the praises given by Erasmus of Cuthbert Tonsal, then bishop of London, endeavoured to get a place as chaplain in his family ; but soon finding his mistake, by the advice and assistance of Humphry Monmouth, alderman of London, retired into Germany, where he completed this first printed edition of

The New Testament in English, which in the last paragraph of his epistle to the reader, has these words: Them that are learned christenly, I beseeche; for as moche as I am sure, and my conscience beareth me record, that of a pure entent singilly and faithfully I have interpreted itt, as farre forth as God gave me the gyfte of knowledge, and understandyng; that the rudnes of the worke nowe at the fyrst tyme, offende them not; but that they consyder how that I had no man to counterfet, nether was helpe with Englysshe of eny, that had interpreted the same, or soche lyke thinge in the scripture before tyme. Moreover, even very necessitie and combrance (God is recorde) above strengthe, which I will not rehearse, lest we should seem to bost our selves, caused that many thynges are lackyng, whiche necessarily are required. Count it as a thyng not havynge his full shape, but as it were borne afore hys tyme, even as a thinge begunne rather than fynnysshed. In time to come (yf God have ap-poynted us thereunto) we will give it his full shape; and put out, yf ought be added superfluously; and adde to, yff ought be oversene thorowe negligence; and will enforce to brynge to compendousnes that, which is now translated at the length; and to give lyght where it is required; and to seke in certan places more proper Englysshe; and with a table to expound the words, which are nott commonly used; and shewe how the scripture useth many wordes, which are wotherwyse understonde of the common people; and to help with a declaration where one tonge taketh nott another. And will endeveur oureselves, as it were to sethe it better, and to make it more apte for the weake stomakes, desyreng them that are learned, and able, to remember their dutie, and to help thereunto, and to bestowe unto the edyfyinge of Christis body (which is the congregacion of them, that beleve) those gyftes, whyche they have receaved of God for the same purpose. The grace that commeth of Christ be with them that love him. Pray for us. 353 leaves, besides the epistle to the reader and errata; no marginal texts but what is wrote, and the initial letters beautifully gilt and illuminated. In the possession of J. Ames.*

A pro-

A prohibition sent out by Cuthbert Tonnall, bishop of London, to the arch-deacons of his diocese, for the calling in of the New Testaments, translated into English, with divers other books, &c. See Fox's acts and monuments, p. 549, and p. 990. of his book of martyrs.

Cuthbert, by the permission of God, bishop of London, unto our well beloved in Christ, the arch-deacon of London, or to his official, health, grace, and benediction. By the duty of our pastorall office, we are bounde diligently with all our power to foresee, provide for, roote out, and put away all those thynges, which seem to tend to the peril, and daunger of our subjects, and specially to the destruction of their soules. Wherefore we hauyng understanding, by the report of divers credible persons, and also by the evident appaunce of the matter, that many children of iniquitie, maintayners of Luthers sect, blynded through extreame wickednes, wandryng from the way of truth, and the catholicke fayth, craftely have translated the New Testament into our English tongue, entermedlyng therewith many hereticall articles, and erroneous opinions, pernicious and offensive, seducyng the simple people, attemptyng by their wicked and perverse interpretations, to prophanate the majesty of the scripture, which hitherto hath remained undefiled, and craftely to abuse the most holy word of God, and the true sence of the same, of the which translation there are many bookes imprinted, some with gloses, and some without, contayning in the Englishe tongue that pestiferious and most pernicious poison, dispersed throughout all our diocese of London in great number; which truly, without it be spedely foreseene, wythout doubt will contaminate, and infect the flock committed to us, with most deadly poyson and heresie, to the grieuous peril and danger of the soules committed to our charge, and the offence of God's divine majesty: wherefore we Cuthbert the bishop aforesaid, greuously sorrowyng for the premisses, willyng to withstand the craft and subtletie of the ancient enemy, and his ministers, which seek the destruction of my flock, and with a diligent care to take hede unto the flock, committed to my charge, desiring to provide speedy remedies for the premisses; we charge you jointly and severally, and by vertue of your obedience straightly enjoyn and commaunde you, that by our authority, you warn, or cause to be warned, all and singular, as wel exempt as not exempt, dwelling within your arch deaconries, that within xxx dayes space, whereof x dayes shall be for the first, x for the second, and x for the third peremtory terme, under paine of excommunication, and incurring the suspicion of heresie, they do bring in, and really deliver unto our vicare generall, all and singular such bookes conteyning the translation of the New Testament in the Englishe tongue; and that you doe certifie us, or our sayd commissarye, within ii monethes after the day of the date of these presentes, duely, personally, or by your letters, together with these presents, under your seals, what you have done in the premisses, under pain of contempt. Given under our seale the xxiii of Octobre, in the v yere of our consecration, anno 1526.

The like commission, in like manner and form, was sent to the three other archdeacons, of Middlesex, Essex, and Colchester, for the execution of the same matter, under the bishops seal. See Fox's acts and monuments.

In the 25th of Henry VIII, I find the following act, touching the importation and binding of books:

1533. Whereas by the provision of a statute, made in the first year of the reign of king Richard the third, it was provided in the same act, that all strangers repairing into this realm, might lawfully bring into the said realm, printed and written books, to sell at their liberty and pleasure.
2. By force of which provision there hath come into this realm, sithen the making of the same, a marvelous number of printed books, and daily doth; and the cause of making of the same provision seemeth to be, for that there were but few books, and few printers, within this realm at that time, which could well exercise and occupy the said science and craft of printing; nevertheless, sithen the making of the said provsion, many of this realm, being the kings natural subjects, have given themselves so diligently to learn and exercise the said craft of printing, that at this day there be within this realm a great number of cunning and expert in the said science or craft of printing, as able to exercise the said craft in all points, as any stranger in any other realm or country.
3. And furthermore, where there be a great number of the king's subjects within this realm, which live by the craft and mystery of binding of books, and that there be a great multitude well expert in the same, yet all this notwithstanding there are diverse persons, that bring from beyond the sea great plenty of printed books, not only in the Latin tonge, but also in our maternal English tonge, some bound in boards, some in leather, and some in parchment, and them sell by retail, whereby many of the king's subjects, being binders of books, and having no other faculty, wherewith to get their living, be destitute of work, and like to be undone, except some reformation be herein had. Be it therefore enacted by the king our sovereigne lord, the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, that the said proviso, made the first year of the said king Richard the third, that from the feast of the nativity of our Lord God next coming, shall be void and of none effect.
- II. And further, be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, that no persons, resiant, or inhabitant, within this realm, after the said feast of Christmas next comming, shal buy to sell again, any printed books, brought from any parts out of the king's obeysance, ready bound in boards, leather, or parchment, upon pain to lose and forfeit for every book bound out of the said king's obeysance, and brought into this realm, and bought by any person or persons within the same to sell again contrary to this act, 6s. 8d.
- III. And be it further enacted, by the authority aforesaid, that no person or persons, inhabitant, or resiant, within this realm, after the said feast of Christmas, shall buy within this realm, of any stranger bourn out of the king's obedience, other then of denizens, any manner of printed books books, brought from any the parts beyond the sea, except only by engross, and not by retail, upon pain of forfeiture of 6 s. 8 d. for every book so bought by retail, contrary to the form and effect of this estatute. 2. The said forfeitures to be always levied of the buyers of any such books contrary to this act, the one half of the said forfeitures to be to the use of our sovereign lord the king, and the other moiety to be to the party, that will seize, or sue for the same in any of the king's courts, to be by bill, plaint, or information, wherein the defendent shall not be admitted to wage his law, nor no protection, ne essoyn shall be unto him allowed.

IV. Provided always, and be it enacted by the authority before said, that if any of the said printers, or sellers of printed books, inhabited within this realm, at any time hereafter, happen in such wise to enhance, or encrease the prices of any such printed books in sale or binding, at too high and unreasonable prices, in such wise as complaint be made there of unto the king's highness, or unto the lord chancellor, lord treasurer, or any of the chief justices of the one bench, or the other, that then the same lord chancellor, lord treasurer, and two chief justices, or two of any of them, shall have power and authority to enquire thereof, as well by the oaths of twelve honest and discreet persons, as otherwise by due examination by their discession. 2. And after the same enhauncing and encreasing of the said prices of the said books, and binding, shall be so found by the said twelve men, or otherwise, by examination of the said lord chancellor, lord treasurer, and justices, or two of them, that then the same lord chancellor, lord treasurer, and justices, or two of them at the least, from time to come, shall have power and authority to reform and redress such inhauncing of the prices of printed books from time to time by their discessions, and to limit prices as well of the books, as for the binding of them. 3. And over that, the offender or offenders thereof being convicted by examination of the same lord chancellor, lord treasurer, or two justices, or two of them, or otherwise, shall lose and forfeit for every book by them sold, whereof the price shall be enhanced for the book, or binding thereof, three shillings four-pence, the one half thereof shall be to the kings highness, and the other half to the parties greived, that will complain upon the same, in manner and form before rehearsed.

An act for abolishing, and putting away, divers books and images.

Whereas the kings most excellent majesty hath of late set forth, and ^{3d & 4th} established, by authority of parliament, an uniform, quiet, and godly or-^{Edw. VI.} der of common and open prayer, in a book intituled, The book of common^{cap. 10.} prayer, and administration of the sacraments, and other rites and ceremonies after the church of England, to be used and observed in the said church of England, agreeable to the order of the primitive church, much more comfortable unto his loving subjects then other diversity of service, as heretofore of long time hath been used, being in the said book ordained, nothing to be read but the very pure word of God, or which is evidently grounded upon the same. 2. And in the other, things corrupt, untrue, vain, and superstitious; and as it were, a preparation to superstition; which, for that they be not called in, but permitted to remain undefaced, do not only give occasion to such perverse persons, as do impugn the order and godly meaning of the king's said book of common prayer, to continue in their old accustomed superstitious service, but also minister great occasion to diversity of opinions, rites, ceremonies, and services. 3. Be it therefore enacted, by the king our sovereign lord, the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, that all books called, Antiphoners, Missales, Grailes, Processionals, Manuals, Legends, Pies, Portuasses, Primers, in Latine and English, Couchers, Journals, Ordinals, or other books, or writings whatsoever heretofore used for service of the church, written, or printed in the Englishe or Latine tongue, other than such, as shall be set forth by the king's majesty, shall be by authority of this present act clearly and utterly abolished, extinguished, and forbidden for ever, to be used or kept in this realm, or elsewhere, whithin any the king's dominions.

II. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, that if any person or persons of what degree, estate, or condition soever, he, she, or they be, bodies politick or corporate, that now have, or hereafter shall have, in his, her, or their custody, any the books, or writings, of the sorts aforesaid, or any images of stone, timber, alabaster, or earth, graven, carved, or painted, which heretofore have been taken out of any church or chappel, or yet stand in any church or chappel, and do not before the last day of June next ensuing, deface and destroy, or cause to be defaced, or destroyed, the same images, and every of them, and deliver, or cause to be delivered, all and every the same books to the mayor, bayliff, constable, or churchwardens of the town, where such books then shall be, to be by them delivered over openly within three months next following after the said delivery to the archbishop, bishop, chancellor, or commissary of the same diocese, to the intent the said archbishop, bishop, chancellor, or commissary, and every of them, cause them immediately after either to be openly burnt, or otherwise defaced and destroyed, shall for every such book, or books, willingly retained in his, her, or their hands, or custody, within this realm, or elsewhere, within any the king's dominions, and not delivered as is aforesaid after the said last day of June, and be thereof lawfully convict, forfeit and lose to the king our sovereign lord, for the first offence, ten shillings, and for the second offence shall forfeit and lose (being thereof lawfully convict) four pounds; and for the third offence shall suffer imprisonment at the king's will.

III. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, that if any mayors, bayliffs, constables, or churchwardens, do not within three months after receipt of the same books, deliver, or cause to be delivered, such books, so by them received, to the archbishop, bishop, chancellor, or commissary of their diocese; 2. And if the said archbishop, bishops, chancellor, or commissaries, do not within forty days after the receipt of such books, burn, deface and destroy, or cause to be burned, defaced, or destroyed, the same books, and every of them; 3. that then they, and every of them so offending, shall lose, and forfeit to our sovereign lord the king, being thereof lawfully convict, forty pounds; 4. the one half of all which forfeitures shall be to any of the king's subjects, that will sue for the same in any of the king's courts of record, by bill, plaint, action of debt, or information; in which action no essoin, protection, wager of law, or other delay, shall be allowed.

IV. And for better execution of the said act, be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, that as well justices of assise in their circuits, as justices of peace within the limits of their commission, in the general sessions, shall have full power and authority to enquire of the offences aforesaid, and to hear and determine the same in such form, as they may do in other such like cases.

V. Provided always, that this act, or any thing therein contained, shall not extend to any image, or picture, set, or graven upon any tomb in any church, chapel, or churchyard, only for a monument of any king, prince, nobleman, or other dead person, which hath not been commonly reputed and taken for a saint, but that all such pictures, and images, may stand and continue in like manner, and form, as if this act had never been had, nor made; any thing in this act to the contrary in any wise notwithstanding.

VI. Provided also, and be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, that any person or persons may use, keep, have, and retain any primers in the English or Latine tongue, set forth by the late king of famous memory, king Henry the eighth, so that the sentences of invocation, or prayer to saints in the same primers, be blotted, or clearly put out of the same; any thing in this act to the contrary notwithstanding. Rep. 1 M. 2. but see 1 Jac. 25. which repeals 1 M. 2. Here may be observed the names of old church books; how the loss of many pieces of antiquity came; and the blotting of the word pope in old books.

Part

Part of an inhibition, by proclamation of the 18th August 1553. for preaching, printing, &c. From Fox's book of martyrs, edit. 1576. p. 1339.

And furthermore, for as much also as it is well knowen, that sedition and false rumers have been nourished and maintained in this realm, by the subtiltie and malice of some euyl disposed persons, which take upon them, without sufficient authoritie, to preach and interpret the word of God after there own braine, in churches and other places, both publick and private; and also, by playing of enterludes, and printing of false fond bookes, ballades, rymes, and other leud treatises in the English tongue, concerning doctrine in matters now in question, and controversie, touching the hygh pointes and misteries of christen religion, which bookes, ballades, rymes, and treatises, are chiefly by the printers and stationers set out to sale to her graces subjects, of an evyll zeale, for lucre, and covetous of vile gaine; her highnesse therefore straitly chargeth, and commandeth al and every of her said subjectes, of whatsoever state, condition, or degree they be, that none of them presume from hence forward to preach, or by way of reading in churches, or other publick, or private places, except in scholes of the universitie, to interpret, or teach any scriptures, or any manner of poyntes of doctrine, concerning religion, neither also to print any bookes, matter, ballade, ryme, enterlude, processe, or treatise, nor to play any enterlude, except they have her graces special licence in writyng for the same, upon payne to incurre her highnes indignation and displeasure.

The debate betwyn Churchyard and Camell. Beginning with a preface thus :

THE company of STATIONERS, or TEXT-WRITERS, who wrote and sold all sorts of books then in use, namely, A, B, C, or Absies, with the Pater noster, Ave, Creed, Graces, &c. dwelt about Pater noster row. And Stow, in his survey of London, edit. 1598, says, Also Turners of beades, and they were called, Pater noster makers, as I read in a record of one Robert Nikke, pater noster maker, and citizen, in the reign of Henry IV. &c. They were of great antiquity, even before the art of PRINTING was invented; yet hitherto I have not been able to find their priviledge, or charter, though several of the old printers are said to be of the stationer's company, nor had any authority granted them with relation to printed books as a company, till the following charter was made in 1556; wherein may be observed the names of several of our printers, which I hope will be acceptable to some readers.

The CHARTER granted to the company of STATIONERS on the 4th day of May, anno MDLVI, and in the third and fourth of Philip and Mary, being a true copy of the original record remaining in the chapel of the rolls. Examined, and translated from the original Latin copy, by Mr. Henry Rook, clerk of the rolls.

The king and queen to all those to whom these, presents shall come, greeting.

I. Know ye, that we considering, and manifestly perceiving, that several seditious and heretical books, both in verse and prose, are daily published, stamped, and printed, by divers scandalous, schismatical, and heretical persons, not only exciting our subjects and liegemen to sedition and disobedience against us, our crown, and dignity, but also to the renewal and propagating very great and detestable heresies against, the faith and sound catholick doctrine of holy mother the church; and being willing to provide a proper remedy in this case:

freemen of the mystery, or art of a stationer, of our city of London, and suburbs thereof, that from henceforth they may be indeed, fact, and name, one body, of itself for ever, and one society corporated for ever, with one master, and two keepers, or wardens, in the society of the same mystery, or art of a stationer of the city aforesaid, and that they may enjoy a perpetual succession.

III. And further, we of our own special favour, certain knowledge, and mere motion, do by these presents, ordain, erect, make, and constitute, the foresaid THOMAS DOCKWRAY, the master of the same mystery, or art of a stationer of the foresaid city, for one year next ensuing; and the foresaid JOHN CAWOOD, and HENRY COKE, the keepers, or wardens of the same mystery, or art of a stationer of the foresaid city, for one year next ensuing; and we by these presents do make, create, and constitute, the foresaid William Bonham, Richard Way, Simon Coston, Reynold Wolfe, &c. and the foresaid persons, the commonalty of the same mystery, or art of a stationer of the city aforesaid.

IV. And further, we ordain, create, erect, make, and constitute, by these presents, the foresaid master, and keepers, or wardens, and commonalty, one body, in deed and name of themselves for ever, and one society for ever, corporate, with one master, and two keepers, or wardens, and the commonalty of the same mystery, or art of a stationer of the city of London aforesaid. And we do incorporate the same master, keepers, or wardens, and commonalty, and by these presents we do really and fully will, grant, create, erect, ordain, make, declare, and constitute, the said master, and keepers, or wardens, and commonalty, a body corporate, to continue for ever, by the name of the master, and keepers, or wardens, and commonalty of the mystery, or art of a stationer of the city of London; and that the same master, and keepers, or wardens, and commonalty, may, from henceforward, have a perpetual succession; and that the same master, and keepers, or wardens, and commonalty, and their successors for ever may be stiled, entituled, and called, by the name of the master, and keepers, or wardens, and commonalty of the mystery, or art of a stationer of the city of London; and that they may be able to plead, and to be impleaded, to answer, and be answered, by that name in all and singular matters, suits, and plaints, actions, demands, and causes, causes, before any of our judges and justices whomsoever, in any courts, or places whatsoever: and that they may have a common seal to serve, and to be used for their affairs and business; and for the sealing of all and singular their deeds and writings, any wise touching, or concerning their affairs and business.

V. And that the same master, and keepers, or wardens, and commonalty, and their successors, may from time to time, make, and ordain, and establish for the good, and well ordering, and governing of the freeman of the foresaid art, or mystery, and of the foresaid society, ordinances, provisions, and laws, as often as they shall see proper and convenient.

VI. Provided, that those ordinances, provisions, and laws be in no wise repugnant, or contrary to the laws and statutes of this our kingdom of England, or in prejudice to the common-weal of our same kingdom.

VII. And that the same, and their successors for ever, are enabled, and may, lawfully, and safely, without molestation or disturbance of us, or the heirs, or successors of our foresaid queen, or of any other person, hold, as often as they please, lawfull, and honest meetings of themselves, for the enacting such laws, and ordinances, and transacting other business for the benefit of the same mystery, or art, and of the same society, and for other lawful causes in the manner aforesaid.

VIII. And that the foresaid master, and keepers, or wardens, and the commonalty of the said mystery, or art of a stationer of the foresaid city, and their successors, or the greater part of them, being assembled lawfully, and in a convenient place, may yearly forever, or oftner, or seldomer, at such times and places within the said city, as they shall think fit, chuse from amongst themselves, and make one master, and two keepers, or wardens of the same mystery, or art of a stationer of the foresaid city, to rule, govern, and surpervise the foresaid mystery and society, and all the men of the same mystery, and their business; and to remove and displace the former master, and the former keepers, or wardens, out of those offices, as they shall see best.

IX. And that if, and as often as it shall happen in any election, that the master, and keepers, or wardens, and the foresaid commonalty, are equal in votes, one part against another in such an election, that then, and so often, the master of the foresaid mystery, if there shall be then any master, or the upper keeper, or warden of that mystery, if there shall then be no master, may have two votes in such elections.

X. And that the master, and keepers, or wardens, and commonalty of the foresaid mystery, and their successors for the time being, shall be deemed fit and able persons in law, as well to give, grant, and to let their lands and tenements, possessions, goods, and chattels, as to purchase, possess, take, and receive for themselves, and their successors, lands, tenements, possessions, goods, chattels, and inheritances to be had, enjoyed, and possessed, by themselves, and their successors for ever, the statute against putting lands and tenements in mortmain, or any other statute, act, or ordinance to the contrary notwithstanding.

U u u

and

XI. Provided that the said lands, tenements, and inheritances so to be purchased, and to be possessed by them, be within our said city of London, or suburbs, or the liberties of the same city; and so that they do not in any wise exceed the yearly value of twenty pounds, of lawful money of England.

XII. Moreover we will, grant, ordain, and constitute for ourselves, and the successors of our foresaid queen, that no person within this our kingdom of England, or dominions thereof, either by himself, or by his journeymen, servants, or by any other person, shall practise, or exercise the art or mystery of printing, or stamping any book, or any thing to be sold, or to be bargained for within this our kingdom of England, or the dominions thereof, unless the same person is, or shall be, one of the society of the foresaid mystery, or art of a stationer of the city aforesaid, at the time of his foresaid printing, or stamping; or has for that purpose obtained our licence, or the licence of the heirs, and successors of our foresaid queen.

XIII. Moreover we will, grant, ordain, and constitute for ourselves, the heirs and successors of our said queen, to the foresaid master, keepers, or wardens, and the commonalty of the mystery, or art of a stationer of the foresaid city of London, and to their successors for ever, that the foresaid master, and keepers, or wardens, and their successors, for the time being, shall very lawfully as well search, as often as they please, any place, shop, house, chamber, or building of any stamper, printer, binder, or seller of any manner of books within our kingdom of England, or dominions thereof, concerning, or for any books, or things printed, stamped, or to be printed, or stamped, as seize, take away, have, burn, or convert to the proper use of the said society, all, and singular those books, and those things, which are, or shall be printed, or stamped contrary to the form of any statute, act, or proclamation, made, or to be made.

XIV. And that, if any person shall practise, or exercise the foresaid art, or mystery, contrary to the form above described, or shall disturb, refuse, or hinder the foresaid master, and keepers, or wardens for the time being, or any one of them for the time being, to make the foresaid search, or to seize, take away, or burn the foresaid books, or things, which are, or any one of which has been printed, or stamped, or are to be printed, or stamped, contrary to the form of any statute, act, or proclamation, that then the foresaid master, or keepers, or wardens for the time being, shall imprison, or send to goal, or either of them shall imprison, or send to goal, every such person so practising, or exercising the foresaid art, or mystery, contrary to the form aforesaid, or so that, as aforesaid, the disturber, refuser, or hinderer, shall there remain without bail, or mainprize, for the space of three months;
and,

and that the same person so practising the art, or mystery aforesaid contrary to the said form, or so that, as aforesaid, the disturber, refuser, or hinderer, shall pay, or cause to be paid, for every such practising or exercising as aforesaid, contrary to the said form, and for every such disturbance, let, or hindrance, one hundred shillings of lawful money of England, one moiety thereof to us, our heirs, and successors of the foresaid queen, and the other moiety thereof to the foresaid master, keepers, or wardens, and commonalty, &c. In witness whereof the king and queen at Westminster, May 4.

* Translated from the Latin by Mr. Henry Rook, clerk of the rolls, 10th Decem. 1741:
 In

In the injunctions given by the queen's majesty, anno Domini 1559. N^o. 51. against heretical and seditious books, the wardens and company of stationers were especially to be obedient, thus: Item, because there is a great abuse in the printers of bokes, which for couetousnes chiefly regard not what they print, so they may have gaine, whereby ariseth great disorder by publication of vnfruitefull, vaine, and infamous bookes and papers; the queenes maiestie straitlie chargeth and commaundeth, that no maner of person shal print any maner of booke, or paper, of what sort, nature, or in what language soeuer it be, except the same bee firste licensed by her maiestie, by expresse wordes in writing, or by six of her priue counsel; or be perused and licensed by the archbishops of Canterburie, and Yorke, the bishop of London, the chauncelors of both vniuersities, the bishop being ordinarie, and the archdeacon also of the place, where any such shal be printed, or by two of them, wherof the ordinarie of the place to be alwaies one; and that the names of such, as shall allow the same, to bee added in the end of euery such worke, for a testimonie of the allowaunce therof. And because many pamphlelets, playes, and ballads, be oftentimes printed, wherein regarde woulde be had, that nothing therein should be either hereticall, seditious, or vnseemely for christian eares; her maiestie likewise commaundeth, that no manner of person shal enterprise to print any such, except the same be to him licensed by suche her maiesties commissioners, or three of them, as be appointed in the citie of London, to heare and determine diuers causes ecclesiasticall, tending to the execution of certayn statutes, made the last parliament for vniformity of order in religion. And if any shal sell or vtter any manner of bokes, or papers, being not licensed, as is abouesayde, that the same party shal be punished by order of the sayd commissioners, as to the quality of the fault shal be thought meete. And touching all other books of matters of religion, or pollicie, or gouernaunce, that hath bene printed, eyther on this side the seas, or on the other side, bicause the diuersity of them is great, and that there needeth good consideration to be had of the particularities therof, her majestie referreth the prohibition or permission thereof, to the order, which her said commissioners within the city of London shall take and notifie. According to the which, her majestie straitly commaundeth all manner her subiects, and specially the wardens and company of stationers, to be obedient.

Prouided that these orders doe not extende to any prophane authours, and works in any language, that hath bin heretofore commonly receiued, or allowed, in any the vniuersities, or schooles, but the same may be printed and used, as by good order they were accustomed.

A bill was brought into the House of Commons, that the Bible, and the divine service, may be translated into the Welsh, or British tongue, and used in the churches of Wales. See Journals of the House of Commons at that time. 27 Mar. 1563.

By whose order the bible, and book of common prayer, shall be translated into the Welch tongue. 5 Eliz. cap. 28.

The bishops of Hereford, saint Davids, Asaph, Bangor, and Landaff, and their successors, shall take such order amongst themselves for the soules health of the flocks, committed to their charge, within Wales, that the whole bible, containing the New Testament, and the Old, with the book of Common Prayer, and administration of the sacraments, as is now used within the realm in English, to be truly and exactly translated into the British or Welch tongue. 2. And that the same so translated, being by them viewed, perused, and allowed, be imprinted to such number ber at the least, that one of every sort may be had for every cathedral, collegiate, and parish church, and chappel of ease, in such places, and countrys, of every the said diocesses, where that tongue is commonly spoken or used, before the first day of March, anno Domini 1566. 3. And that from that day forth, the whole divine service shall be used and said by the curates and ministers, throughout all the said diocesses, where the Welch tongue is commonly used, in the said British, or Welch tongue, in such manner and form, as is now used in the English tongue, and differing nothing in any order or form from the English book. 4. For the which books so imprinted, the parishioners of every the said parishes shall pay the one half or moiety, and the said parson and vicar of every of the said parishes (where both be) or else the one of them, where there is but one, shall pay the other half or moiety. 5. The prices of which books shall be appointed and rated by the said bishops, and their successors, or by three of them at the least. 6. The which things, if the said bishops, or their successors, neglect to do, then every one of them shall forfeit to the queen's majesty, her heirs, and successors, the sum of xl. l. to be levied of their goods and chattels.

A bible, and book of common prayer, in English, shall be in every church in Wales.

II. And one book containing the bible, and one other book of common prayer, in the English tongue, shall be brought, and had in every church throughout Wales, in which the bible, and book of common prayer in Welch is to be had by force of this act (if there be none already) before the first day of March, one thousand five hundred sixty six 2. And the same books to remain in such convenient places within the said churches, that such as understand them, may resort at all convenient times to read and peruse the same; and also such, as do not understand the said language, may, by conferring both tongues together, the sooner attain to the knowledge of the English tongue; any thing in this act to the contrary notwithstanding.

Ordinances decreed by the court of star-chamber, high commission court, for the reformation of diuers disorders in printing and uttering of books, dated from the Star-chamber, June 29, 1566.

I. That no person should print, or cause to be printed, or bring, or procure to be brought, into the realm printed, any book against the force and meaning of any ordinance, prohibition, or commandment, contained, or to be contained, in any the statutes or laws of this realm, or in any injunctions, letters, patents, or ordinances, past, or set forth, or to be past or set forth, by the queen's grant, commission, or authority.

II. That whosoever should offend against the said ordinances, should forfeit all such books and copies; and from thenceforth should never use, or exercise, or take benefit by any using or exercising the feat of printing; and to sustain three months imprisonment without bail or mainprize.

III. That no person should sell, or put to sale, bind, stitch, or sow, any such books, or copies, upon pain to forfeit all such books and copies, and for every book 20 s.

IV. That all books so forfeited, should be brought into stationer's-hall, and there one moiety of the money forfeited to be reserved to the queen's use, and the other moiety to be delivered to him, or them, that should first seize the books, or make complaint thereof to the warden of the said company; and all the books so to be forfeited, to be destroyed, or made waste paper.

V. That it should be lawful for the wardens of the company for the time being, or any two of the said company thereto deputed by the said wardens, as well in any ports, or other suspected places, to open and view all packs, dryfats, maunds, and other things, wherein books or paper shall be contained, brought into this realm, and make search in all workhouses, shops, warehouses, and other places of printers, book-sellers, and such as bring books into the realm to be sold, or where they have reasonable cause of suspicion. And all books to be found against the said ordinances, to seize and carry to the hall, to the uses abovesaid; and to bring the persons offending before the queen's commissioners in causes ecclesiastical.

VI. Every stationer, printer, bookseller, merchant, using any trade of book-printing, binding, selling, or bringing into the realm, should before the the commissioners, or before any other persons, thereto to be assigned by the queen's privy council, enter into several recognizances of reasonable sums of money to her majesty, with sureties, or without, as to the commissioners should be thought expedient, that he should truly observe all the said ordinances, well and truly yield and pay all such forfeitures, and in no point be resisting, but in all things aiding to the said wardens, and their deputies, for the true execution of the premises.

And this was thus subscribed; "Upon the consideration before expressed, and upon the motion of the commissioners, we of the privy council have agreed this to be observed, and kept, upon the pains therein contained. At the Star-chamber, the 29 June, anno 1566, and the eighth year of the queen's majesties reign."

1573. A dialogue of cumfort against tribulation, made by the right vertuous, wise, and learned man, sir Thomas More, sometime lord chancellor of England, which he wrote in the Tower of London, anno 1534, and entituled thus: A dialogue of cumfort against tribulation, made by a Hungarian in Latin, and translated out of Latin into French, and out of French into English. Now newly set forth, with many places restored and corrected by conference of sundrie copies. Antwerpiae, apud Joannem Foulerem, Anglum. With a rebus at the back of the title. A tree with a nest at the top, birds about it, I. F. on the sides, and a hand over all coming out of the clouds; and this motto in the oval about the whole: Respicite volatilia coeli, et pullos corvorum. Its dedicated by Fowler to the lady Jane, dutchess of Feria. Octavo.

The extract and effect of the queen's majesty's letters patents, to THOMAS TALLIS, and WILLIAM BIRDE, for the printing of Musick.

ELIZABETH by the grace of God, quene of Englande, Fraunce, and Ireland, defender of the faith, &c. To all printers, bokesellers, and other officers, ministers, and subiects, greting. Know ye, that we for the especiall effectiō, and good will, that we haue and beare to the science of musick, and for the aduancement thereof, by our letters patents, dated the xxii of January, in the xvii yere of our raigne, have graunted full priuiledge and licence vnto our welbeloued seruantes, Thomas Tallis, and William Birde, gent. of our chappell, and to the ouerlyuer of them, and to the assignes of them, and of the suruiuer of them, for xxi yeares next ensuing, to imprint any, and so many, as they will, of set songe, or songes in partes, either in English, Latine, French, Italian, or other tongues, that may serve for musicke, either in churche or chamber, or otherwise to be either plaid, or soonge. And that they may rule, and cause to be ruled, by impression any paper to serue for printing, or pricking, of any songe or songes, and may sell and vtter any printed bokes, or papers of any songe, or songes, or any bookes, or quieres of such ruled paper imprinted. Also we straightly by the same forbid all printers, bookesellers, subiects, and strangers, other then as is aforesaid, to do any the premisses, or to bring, or cause to be brought, of any forren realmes into any our dominions, any songe,

ABOUT this time encouragement was given to the art of engraving, and rolling-press work. Abram Ortelius mentions in his Geography several ingenious Englishmen, as one Anthony Jenkenson 1562, Robert Leeth, a man skilful in taking a plot of a country, sent over to take Ulster 1567, and Humphry Lhuyd 1568. And Strype in his life of archbishop Parker, p. 541, says thus: And now we are speaking of his servants and dependents, we may well mention his sculptores, or engravers, excellent in their art; whereof one was a foreigner, named Hogenbergh, and another was called Lyne. He employed them much in genealogies, wherein indeed a noble part of antient history consisteth. In Ruckholts (in the parish of Low Lewton in Essex) the mansion house of the family of the Hickeys, baronets (whose ancestor was secretary to the lord treasurer Burghley) there sometime was a large genealogy of the kings of England, from the conquest, well drawn, down to queen Elizabeth, and printed, with all the line of France, and of England, under these two titles, Linea Valesiorum, and Linea Angliae; and at the bottom the workmasters name set, viz. Remigius Hogenbergius, servus D. Matt. Abp. Cant. sculpsit, 1574. Such another genealogical historical map there was entituled, Regnum Britanniae tandem plene in heptarchiam reductum à Saxonibus, expulsis Britannis, anno 686. Also on one side of it is ingraven a map intituled, Angliae Heptarchia. (See R. Newbury.) It is done in wood, but very plain and well; to which the name is set, viz. Richardus Lyne, servus D. Matth. Archiep. Cant. sculpsit, 1574. In this map are described the seven kingdoms in seven columns, and the dioceses and countries contained in each kingdom.

dom. And in this table of genealogy is a threefold scheme ; first, a scheme of the Brittish kings, their names, and the years when they began to reign ; secondly, another of the Norman dukes to William the conqueror, and the years when they began ; and a third scheme of the Norman kings, beginning at William the conqueror, with the yeare and day of the month of their respective reigns, to queen Elizabeth, then reigning. So that here was represented a complete history of England, succinctly under one view.

Also a Map of England, and its several counties, were surveyed by the persons under named and engraved, which now goe by the name of Saxton's maps ; for his encouragement, while doing, the following patent was obtained by Thomas Sekeford, esq; his great master and patron.

1585. Orders for them sent to archbishop Whitgift.

Whereas sundrie decrees, and ordinances, have upon grave advise and deliberation, been made and published for the repressing of such great enormities and abuses, as of late (most men in tyme past) haue bene commonlye used and practised by diverse contemptuouse and disorderly persons, professing the arte or misterie of printing, and selling of books; and yet notwithstanding the said abuses and enormities are nothing abated, but (as it is found by experience) doe rather dayly more and more increase, to the willfull and manifest breach and contempt of the saide ordinances and decrees, to the great displeasure and offence of the queen's moste excellent majestie; by reason whereof sundrie intolerable offences, troubles, and disturbances, have happened, as well in the church, as in the civile government of the state and commonweale of this realme, which seem to haue growen, because the paynes and penalties, conteyned and sett downe in the same ordinances and decrees, haue beene too light and small for the correction and punishment of so grievouse and heynouse offences, and so the offenders, and malefactors in that behalfe, haue not beene so severely punished, as the qualitie of their offences hath deserved: her majestie therefore of her moste godlie and graciouse disposicion, being carefull, that speedie and due reformation be had of the abuses and disorders aforesaid, and that all persons using or professing the arte, trade, or misterie of printing, or selling of books, should from henceforth be ruled and directed therein by some certeyn and knowen rules, or ordinances, which should be inviolable kept and observed, and the breakers, and offenders of the same, to be severely and sharplie punished, and corrected, hathe straitly charged and required the most reverend father in God, the archbishopp of Canterburie, and the right honourable the lordes, and others of her majesties privie council, to see her majesties said most gracious and godlie intention, and purpose, to be duly and effectually executed and accomplished. Whereupon the said moste reverend father, and the whole present sitting in this honourable cowrte, this xxiii day of June, in the xxviii yeare of her majesties reigne, upon grave and mature deliberation, have ordeyned and decreed, that the ordinances and constitutions, rules and articles, hereafter following, shall, from henceforth, by all persons be duly and inviolably kept and observed, according to the tenor, purporte, and true intent, and meaning of the same, as they tender her majesties high displeasure, and as they wyll aunswere to the contrarie at their uttermoste perill. Videlicet.

In primis, That every printer, and other person, or persons whatsoever, which at this tyme present hath erected, or sett up, or hereafter shall erect, set up, keepe, maynteyn, or have anye printing presse, rowle, or other instrument, for imprinting of books, chartes, ballades, portrayctures, paper called, damask-paper, or any suche matters, or things whatsoever, shall bring a true note, or certificate of the sayde presses, or other printing instruments allreadie erected, within tenne dayes next coming, after the publication hereof; and of the saide presses, or other printing instruments hereafter to be erected, or set up, from tyme to tyme, within tenn dayes next after the erecting, or setting up thereof, unto the master, and wardeins, of the companie of stacioners, of the cittie of London, for the tyme being; upon payne, that every person fayling, or offending herein, shall have all, and everye the saide presses, and other instruments, utterlye defaced, and made unserviceable for imprinting for ever; and shall also suffer twelve moneths imprisonment without bayle or maynprise.

2. Item, That no printer of bookes, nor any other person, or persons whatsoever, shall sett up, keepe, or mayntein, any presse or presses, or any other instrument, or instruments, for imprinting of bookes, ballades, chartes, pourtraictures, or any other thing, or things whatsoever, but onelye in the cittie of London, or the suburbs thereof (except one presse in the universitie of Cambridge, and one other presse in the universitie of Oxforde, and no more) and that no person shall hereafter erect, sett up, or maynteyne in any secrett, or obscure corner, or place, any suche presse, or instrument before expressed; but that the same shalbe in suche open place, or places, in his, or their howsse, or howses, as the wardeins of the saide companie of stationers, for the tyme being, or suche other person, or persons, as by the saide wardeins, shalbe thereunto appoynted, may from tyme to tyme have readie accesse unto, to search for, and viewe the same; and that no printer, or other person, or persons, shal, at any tyme hereafter withstande, or make resistance to, or in any suche view or search nor denye, or keepe secrett any suche presse, or other instrument, for imprinting, upon payne, that every person offending in any thing contrarie to this article, shall haue all the saide presses, and other printing instruments, defaced, and made unserviceable for imprinting for ever; and shall also suffer imprisonment one whole year, without bayle, or maynprise, and to be disabled forever to keepe any printing presse, or other instrument for printing, or to be master of any printing-howsse, or to have any benefite thereby, other then onelye to worke as a journey man for wages.

3. Item, That no printer, nor other person, or persons whatsoever, that hath sett up anye presse, or instrument, for imprinting within sixe moneths last past, shall hereafter use, or occupie the same, nor any person, or persons shall hereafter erect, or sett up any presse, or other instrument of printing, till the excessive multitude of printers, havinge presses alreadie sett up, be abated, diminished, and by death giving over, or otherwise brought to so small a number of masters, or owners of printing-houses, being of abilitie and good behaviour, as the archbishopp of Canterburie and bishopp of London, for the tyme being, shall thereupon think it requisite, and convenient, for the good service of the realme, to have some more presses, or instruments for printing erected, and sett up: and that when, and as often as the saide archbishopp and bishopp, for the tyme being, shall so think it requisite, and convenient, and shall signifie the same to the said master, and wardeins, of the saide companie of stationers, for the tyme being; that then, and so often, the saide master, and wardeins, shall (within convenient tyme after) call the assistants of the saide companie before them, and shall make choice of one, or more (as by the opinion of the saide archbishopp and bishopp, for the tyme being, need shall require) of suche persons being free stationers, as for theyr skill, abilitie, and good behaviour, shall be thought by the saide master, wardeins, and assistants, or the more parte of them, meet to haue the charge, and government of a presse, or printing-house; and that within 14 dayes next after suche election, and choice, the saide master, wardeins, and fower other at the least of the assistants of the saide companie, shall present before the highe commissioners in causes ecclesiastical, or sixe or more of them, whereof the saide archbishopp, or bishopp, to be one, to allowe, and admitt everie suche person so chosen and presented, to be master and governoure of a presse, and printing-house, according to the same election and presentment, upon payne that everie person offending contrarie to th' intent of this article, shall haue his presse, and instruments for printing, defaced, and made unserviceable, and allso suffer imprisonment by the space of one whole yeare, without bayle, or maynprise. Provided allwayes, that this article, or any thing therein conteyned, shall not extend to the office of the queenes majesties printer for the service of the realme; but that the saide office, and officer, shalbe, and continue at the pleasure and disposicion of her majestie, her heires, and successors, at all tymes, upon the death of her highnes printer, or otherwise.

4. Item, That no person, or persons, shall imprint, or cause to be imprinted, or suffer by any meanes to his knowledge, his presse, letters, or other instruments, to be occupied in printing of any booke, worke, coppie, matter, or thing whatsoever, except the same booke, worke, copie, matter, or any other thing, hath bene heretofore allowed, or hereafter shalbe allowed, before the imprinting thereof, according to th' order appoynted.

appoynted by the queenes majesties injunctiōns, and be first seene and perused by the archbishopp of Canterburie, and bishopp of London, for the tyme being, or one of them (the queens majesties printer for some speciall service by her majestie, or by some of her highnes privie counsell thereunto appoynted; and suche as are, or shalbe priviledged to print the bookes of the common lawe of this realme, for suche of the same books, as shal be allowed of by the two cheefe justices, and cheefe barons, for the tyme being, or any two of them, onelye excepted) nor shall imprint, or cause to be imprinted, any booke, worke, or coppie, against the forme, and meaning of any restraynte, or ordinaunce conteyned, or to be conteyned, in any statute, or lawes of this realme, or in any injunctiō made, or sett forth by her majestie, or her highnes privie counsell, or againste the true intent and meaning of any letters patents, commissions, or prohibitions, under the great seale of Englande; or contrarie to any allowed ordinaunce, sett downe for the good governaunce of the company of stacioners, within the cittie of London; upon payne to haue all suche presses, letters, and instruments, as in or aboute the imprinting of any suche bookes, or copies, shalbe imployed, or used, to be defaced, and made unserviceable for imprinting for ever; and upon payne also, that everye offender, and offenders, contrarie to this present article, or ordinaunce, shal be disabled (after any suche offence) to use, or exercise, or take benefite by using, or exercising of the arte, or feate of imprinting; and shall moreover susteyne sixe moneths imprisonment without bayle, or maynprise:

5. Item, That everie suche person, as shall sell, utter, or putt to sale wittingly, bynde, stich, or sowe; or wittinglie cause to be solde, uttered, put to sale, bounde, stitched, or sowed, any bookes, or copies whatsoever, printed contrarie to th' intent and true meaning of any ordinaunce, or article aforesaide, shall suffer three moneths imprisonment for his, or their offence.

6. Item, That it shalbe lawfull for the wardeins of the saide companye, for the tyme being, or any two of the saide companie thereto deputed, by the saide wardeins, to make searche in all work-houses, shopps, ware-houses of printers, booke-sellers, booke-bynders, or where they shall haue reasonable cause of suspition; and all bookes, copies, matters, and things printed, or to be printed, contrarie to th' intent and meaning of these present ordinances, to seaze and take to her majesties use, and the same to carrie into the stacioners hall in London; and the partie, or parties offending in printing, selling, uttering, bynding, stitching, or sowing any such bookes, copies, matters, or things, to arrest, bring, and present before the saide highe commissioners in causes ecclesiasticall, or some three, or more of them, whereof the saide archbishop of Canterburie, or bishopp of London, for the tyme being, to be one.

7. Item, That it shalbe lawfull to and for the aforsaide wardeins, for the tyme being, or any two by them appoynted, without lett, or interruption of any person, or persons whatsoever, to enter into any howsse, work-howsse, ware-howsse, shopp, or other place, or places; and to seaze, take, and carrie away all presses, letters, and other printing instruments, sett up, used, or imployed, contrarie to the true meaning hereof, to be defaced, and made unserviceable, as aforesaide; and that the saide wardeins shall, so often as need shall require, call the assistants of their saide companie, or the more parte of them, into their saide hall, and there take order for the defacing, burning, breaking, and destroying of all the saide letters, presses, and other printing instruments aforesaide; and thereupon shall cause all suche printing presses, or other printing instruments, to be defaced, melted, sawed in peeces, broken, or battered, at the smythes forge, or otherwise to be made unserviceable; and the stuffe of the same so defaced, shall redelyver to the owners thereof agayne, within three moneths next after the taking, or seazing thereof, as aforesayde.

8. Item, That for th' avoyding of the excessive number of printers within this realme, it shall not be lawfull for any person, or persons, being free of the companie of stacioners, on usinge the trade or mysterie of printing, booke-selling, or booke-bynding, to have, take, and keepe hereafter at one tyme, any greater number of apprentizes, then shalbe hereafter expressed; that is to say, every person that hath beene, or shalbe master, or upper wardein of the company, whereof he is free, to keepe three apprentizes at one tyme, and not above; and every person that is, or shall be under wardein, or of the liverie of the companie whereof he is free, to keepe two apprentizes, and not above; and every person that is, or shalbe of the yeomanrie of the companie, whereof he is, or shalbe free, to keepe one apprentize (if he himselfe be not a journey man,) and not above. Provided allwayes, that this ordinaunce shall not extend to the queenes majesties printer for the tyme being, for the service of her majestie, and the realme, but that he be at libertie to keepe and have apprentizes, to the number of sixe at any one tyme.

9. Item, That none of the printers in Cambridge, or Oxford, for the tyme being, shalbe suffred to have any more apprentizes, then one at one tyme at the moste. But it is, and shalbe lawfull, to, and for the saide printers, and either of them, and their successors, to have, and use the help of anye journey man, beeing free men of the cittie of London, without contradiction; any lawe, statute, or commaundement, contrarie to the meaning and due execution of these ordinaunces, or any of them, in any wise notwithstanding.

It was shewn before, how that many of the richer stationers, who had licences from the queen, granting them a propriety in the printing some copies, exclusively to all others, yielded divers of these copies to the company, for the benefit and relief of the poorer members thereof. A particular list of these books follows.

Quarto.
A true

A true, sincere, and modest defence of English catholiques, that suffer for their faith both at home and abroad; against a false, seditious, and slaunderous libel intituled, The execution of justice in England. Wherin is declared, how unjustly the protestants do charge catholiques with treason; how untrulie they deny their persecution for religion; and how deceitfullie they seeke to abuse strangers about the cause, greatnes, and maner of their sufferings, with divers other matters pertaining to this purpose. On the top of the title is wrote by Topclift's hand: A false, seditious, and immodest offence, set out by English traitors abroad, and some at home, groaning for the gallows, vnder shadow and colour off, A true, &c. [The title repeated] At the end, To be redd and used for the queen majesty's service. In another hand its said to be writ by cardinal Allen. 219 pages.* 8°.

1584. The copie of a letter wryten by a master of arte of Cambrige, to his friend in London, concerning some talke past of late between two worshipful and graue men, about the present state, and some proceedings of the erle of Leycester, and his friendes in England. Conceyved, spoken, and publyshed, wyth most earnest protestation of al duetyful good vvyll, and affection, towards her most excellent majesty, and the realm, for whose good onely it is made common to many. 199 pages. Octavo.

1585. The explanation of the true and lawfull right, and title, of prince Anthony, the first of that name, king of Portugall, concerning his wars against Philip, king of Castille, for the recovery of his kingdom; with a brief history of all that passed to the year 1583. Leyden. Twelves.

A dialogue, wherein is plainly laide open the tyranicall dealing of L. L. bishoppes against Gods children, with certaine points of doctrine, wherein they approoue themselves (according to D. Bridges his judgement) to be truely the bishops of the diuell. Twelves.

1586. A defence of the reasons of the counter-poyson, for maintenaunce of the eldership, against an aunswere made to them by doctor Copequout, in a publike sermon at Pawles Crosse, upon psal. lxxxiv, 1584, &c. Twelves.

1586. A choice of emblemes, and other devices, for the most part gathered out of sundrie writers, Englished and moralized. And divers newly devised by Geffrey Whitney. Imprinted at Leyden, in the house of Christopher Plantyn by Francis Raphelengius. This book is dedicated to Robert earl of Leycester, at London 28 November, 1585. Many of the very neat wooden cuts, and verses, are inscribed to the greatest men of the age, both here and abroad. It contains 230 pages besides dedication, &c. and as many, or more devices.

WHEREAS sondry bookes are from tyme to tyme set furth in the partes beyond the seas, by such as are addicted to the errors of poperie, yet in many respects expedient to be hadd by some of the learned of this realme, conteyning also oftentimes matter in them against the state of this land, and slanderouse unto it, and therefore no fit bookes to passe through every mans hands freely: In consideration whereof I have tolerated Ascanius de Renialme, marchant bookseller, to bring into this realme from the partes beyond the seas, some fewe copies of every suche sortes of bookes, upon this condition onely, that any of them bee not shewed nor dispersed abroad, but first brought to mee, or some others of her majesties priviee councile, that so they may be deliuered, or directed to be deliuered furth unto suche persons onely, as by vs, or some of us, shall be thought most meete men vpon good considerations and purposes) to have the reading and perusall of them. Oh read over D. John Bridges, for it is a worthy worke; or an epitome of the fyrst booke of that right worshipfull volume, written against the Puritanes, in the defence of the noble cleargie, by as worshipfull a prieste, John Bridges, presbyter, priest, or elder, doctor of diuinitie, and dean of Sarum. Wherein the arguments of the Puritans are wisely prevented, that when they come to answer M. Doctor, they must needs say something, that hath been spoken. Compiled for the behoofe and overthrow of the parsons, fyckers, and currates, that have lernt their catechismes, and are past grace, by the reverend and worthie Martin Marprelate, gentleman, and dedicated to the confocation house. The epitome is not yet published, but it shall be, when the bishops are at convenient leysure to view the same. In the mean time let them be content with this learned epistle. Printed over sea, in Europe, within too furlongs of a bousing priest, at the cost and charges of M. Marprelate, gentleman. This piece contains 54 pages, quarto, is full of personal reflections, and ends thus: Given at my castle, between two wales, neither foure dayes from penillesse benche, nor yet at the west ende of Shroffttide; but the foureteenth yeare at the least of the age of Charing-crosse, within a yeare of Midsommer, betweene twelue and twelue of the clocke. Anno pontificatus vestri quinto, and I hope ultimo of all Englishe Popes. By your learned and worthie brother, Martin Marprelate. Quarto.*
and

Hay any work for Cooper; or a brieft pistle, directed by way of an hublication to the reverende byshopps, counselling them, if they will needs be be barrelled up, for feare of smelling in the nostrels of her Majestie and the state, that they would use the advise of reverend Martin, for the prouiding of their Cooper. Because the reverend T. C. (by which misticall letters, is understood, eyther the bousing parson of Eastmeane, or Tom Coakes, (his Chaplaine) to bee an unskilfull and a beceytfull tubtrimmer. Wherein worthy Martin quits himselfe like a man I warrant you, in the modest defence of his selfe and his learned pistles, and makes the Coopers hoopes to flye off, and the bishops tubs to leake out of all crye. Penned and compiled by Martin the Metropolitane. Printed in Europe, not farre from some of the Bousing Priests. 48 pages.* Quarto.

Theses Martinianae: That is, certaine demonstrative conclusions, sette downe and collected (as it should seeme) by that famous and renowned clarke, the reuerend Martin Marprelate the Great; seruing as a manifest and sufficient confutation of all that euer the colledge of Catercaps, with their whole band of clergie-priests, haue, or can bring, for the defence of their ambitious and antichristian prelacie. Published and set foorth as an after-birth of the noble gentleman himself, by a prety stripling of his, Martin Junior, and dedicated by him to his good neame and nunka, maister John Kankerbury: how the yong man came by them, the reader shall understande sufficiently in the epilogue. In the mean time whoso-euer can bring me acquainted with my father, Ile be bounde hee shall not loose his labour. Printed by the assignes of Martin junior, without any priuiledge of the Catercaps. 16 leaves. Twelves.

M. Some laid open in his coulers; wherein the indifferent reader may easily see, howe wretchedly and loosely he hath handleled the cause against M. Penri. Done by an Oxford man to his friend in Cambridge. At the end, I. G. Twelves. 1589.

A demonstration of the trueth of that discipline, which Christe hath prescribed in his worde for the government of his church, in all times, and places, untill the ende of the worlde. Twelves. 1589.

The iust censure and reproofe of Martin junior. Wherin the rash, and indiscreete headines of the foolish youth is sharply mette with, and the boy hath his lesson taught him, I warrant you, by his reuerend and elder brother, Martin senior, sonne and heire vnto the renowned Martin Marprelate the Great. Where also, least the springall shold be utterly discouraged in his good meaning, you shall finde, that hee is not bereaued of his due commendations. This piece introduces in the second page the archbishop giving instructions to find out the authors, and publishers of these libels, thus: Have you been carefull of us and our places, to find us out the presse and letters, wherewith these seditious Martins are printed? Or, have you diligently sought mee out Walde-graue the printer, Newman the cobbler, Sharpe the booke binder of Northampton, and that seditious Welshman Penry, who you shall see, will prove the author of all these libelles? Promises 40l. and bids them have an eye on the shop of master Boyle,

Boyle,

Boyle, at the rose in Paul's church-yard, at the churches, where such as he names do preach, and at the inns, to see what carriage do go from and too London, to search the packes, &c. for these sorts of libells. 12^o.

Martin's mounth minde, that is, a certain report, and true description of the death and funeralls, of olde Martin Marreprelate the Great, make bate of England, and father of the factious. Containing the cause of his death, the manner of his burial, and the right copies both of his will, and of such epitaphs, as by sundrie of his dearest friends, and other of his well willers, were framed for him. 1589.

Martin the ape, the drunke, and the madde,
The thre Martins are, whose workes we haue had.
If Martin the fourth come after Martins so euill,

Th' appellation of John Penri, vnto the highe court of parliament, from the bad and injurious dealing of th' archbishop of Canterbury, and other his colleagues of the high commission: wherin the complainant, humbly submitting himself and his cause unto the determination of this honorable assembly, craveth nothing els, but either release from trouble and percecution, or just tryall. Contains much church-history. 52 pages.* 12^o. 1589.

A summons for sleepers, wherein most grieuous, and notorious offenders, are cited to bring forth true frutes of repentance, before the day of the Lord now at hand. Hereunto is annexed, a patterne for pastors, deciphering briefly the dueties pertaining to that function, by Leonard Wright. 4^o. 1589.

A view of some part of such publike wants, and disorders, as are in the service of God, within her maiesties countrie of Wales; together with a humble petition unto this high court of parliament for their speedy redresse. Wherein is shewed, not only the nesesity of reforming the state of religion among that people, but also the only way, in regarde of substance, to bring that reformation to passe. Running title, A supplication to the high court of parliament. By John Penry. Twelves.

Ha' ye any more work for the Cooper. In printing of which the press was discovered and seized, with several pamphlets unfinished, as: Episto [Episco] Mastrix, Paradoxes, Dialogues, Miscellanea, Variæ lectiones, Martin's dream, the lives and doings of English popes, Itinerarium, or, Visitations, Lambethisms. The two last of these were imperfect, but to compleat the Itinerarium, the author threatens to survey all the clergy of England, and note their intolerable pranks; and for his Lambethisms, he would have a Martin at Lambeth. Other books were published of the same nature, as: A Demonstration of discipline, the Counter-poison, &c.

Protestation of Martin Mar-prelate; wherin, notwithstanding the surprising of the printer, he maketh it known unto the world, that he feareth neither proud priest, antichristian pope, tyrannous prelate, nor Godless cater-cap, but defiethe all the race of them by these presents, and offereth conditionally, as is fathere expressed hearin by open disputation, to appear in the defence of his cause against them and theirs. Which chaleng, if they dare not maintaine against him, then doth he alsoe publishe, that he never meaneth by the assistance of God to leave the assaylm of them, and their generation, untill they be vterly extinguisht out of the church. Published by the worthie gentleman D. Martin Mar Prelat D. in all the faculties primat and Metro Politan. Twelves.

The writers on the churchside came not behind their adversaries in buffoonry and ridicule, as appears by the pamphlets printed at this time.

The late Mr. Baker has remarked to me, that this book is a very dangerous libel against the queen and government, but more particularly against the lord Burghley, and his second son, sir Robert Cecil. It was looked upon to be so dangerous a peice, as to receive an answer from Bacon (afterwards lord Verulam,) printed at large in the Resuscitatio, under this title; Certain observations upon a libell, published this present year 1592, intituled as above, in about fifty pages, in folio, very well worth reading, being a good antidote against the poyson contained in this book. The libel, I presume, was printed abroad, containing too much treason to be published in England. And yet the print is English.

The author, who is thought to be Parsons the Jesuit by his stile, and affection to the Spanish monarchy, has page 75, mentioned the following books, as an abuse of the multitude.

Of these sorts of libels many do declare great numbers of French, and Flemish victories, which are so famous, that sundry of them were never known, nor heard of, in all the world, but only in England.

Others are of obscure and trifling matters, except such as that of the happy conquest of the suburbs of Paris, &c. Printed by Blacwall.

Others tell of visions in the air, which are interpreted to presage detriment to those of the league. Printed by Nelson.

Sometimes they are of prophesied victories before they happen, and appointed times of the death of princes; as that the duke of Parma should die at Martinmas, 1590. Printed by Wolf, 1590.

Some are of triumphs of victories, before they be obtained; as when the earl of Essex was to go with his forces into Normandy. Printed by Alde, 1591.

Some have been set forth to make losses seeme victories, as the discourse of the Portugal voyage, and the loss of the revenge. Printed 1589. And by Ponsonby, 1591.

And whereas there was one Cagalla, and others of his company, executed for heresy, and apostasy, at Validolid in Spain, 30 years past; the manner of his execution is in an English libel, newly set forth, and said to be for the profession of the gospel, and to be done but of late. Printed by Nelson.

In like sort is very particularly set down, the glorious and constant martyrdom of an Englishman (not long since) in the town of Dunkirk, whose torments endured four days; and yet there was never any such man, nor any such matter heard of in the said town, as all the inhabitants will witness. Printed at London, 1590.

So was it published, that the king of Spain (whom the libeller calleth the Archtyrant of the world) was dead. Printed by Purfoot, 1591.

And

And another libell, that came foorth of late intituled, A fig for the Spaniard, contradicteth that lie, with another as manifest an untruth, and saith, that Phillip of Spaine is not dead, but lyeth bedred. Printed by Woolf, 1592.

A brieft and true report of the newfound land of Virginia, of the commodities, and of the nature and manners of the naturall inhabitants. Discovered by the English colony there seated by sir Richard Greinuile, knight, in the yeere 1585. Which remained under the gouernment of twelve monethes, at the speciall charge and direction of the honourable sir Walter Raleigh, knight, lord warden of the stanneries, who therein hath beene favoured, and authorised by her majestie, and her patentes. This fore booke is made in English, by Thomas Hariot, seruant to the above named sir Walter, a member of the colony, and there imployed in the discovery. *Printed at Frankford by J. Towards the close of queen Elizabeth's reign, a patent was granted to THOMAS MORLEY, for printing of musick; but being much the same with Talis's, and Bird's before mentioned, I forbare reciting it. Those patents for almost every thing became so common, that the honourable House of Commons took them into consideration, the 43 Eliz. and there, amongst other patents and monopolies, taken notice of in the journals of the House of Commons, now printed, and in a MS. formerly by Mr. Morrice, in his second part of a register, p. 307, and 531, in Dr. William's library, you may find,

To Edward Darcy, a patent for cards.^a

To John Spilman, a patent to make paper.

To Richard Watkins and James Roberts, a licence to print almanacks.

To Richard Wrighte, to print the history of Cornelius Tacitus.

To John Norden, to print Speculum Britanniae.

To sir Henry Singer, touching the printing of schoole bookes.

To Thomas Morley, to print songes, in three partes.

To Thomas Wight and Bonham Norton, to print law books.

^a On the mentioning of the monopoly of cards, sir Walter Rawleigh blushed. Upon reading of the patents, Mr. Hackwell, of Lincoln's-Inn, stood up, and asked thus; Is not bread there! Bread quoth one, Bread quoth another; this voice seems strange, quoth another. No, quoth Mr Hacket, if order be not taken herein, Bread will be there before the next parliament, &c.

A copy of Mr. WILLIAM PRYNN's manuscript notes, relating to printing, is in the Inner Temple library, and shews that complaint did not effect these patents. The beginning of this MS. is thus:

7 March, 17 Caroli, before the committee for printing.

The PRINTERS of London have exhibited a petition to this committee, for the better regulating the art of printing, and the calling in of four several patents concerning printing, which they conceive to be monopolies.

The 1st, a patent granted to CHRISTOPHER BARKER, and ROBERT BARKER his son, in the 19th, and 31st. Eliz. and since renewed, 10th of Jac. 1. 3d Caroli, to Bonham Norton, Bill, and others, for the sole printing Bibles, Testaments, Common Prayer Books, &c. in English; inhibiting all others from printing them.

The 2d, a patent, first granted to RICHARD TOTTLE, and lately confirmed to JOHN MORE, for the sole printing of all Law-books whatsoever, prohibiting all others from printing them.

The 3d, a patent first granted to JOHN NORTON, for the sole printing of all Bibles, Testaments, Grammars, Accidences, &c. in Latin, Greek, or Hebrew, and sundry other books in English.

The 4th, a patent lately made to THOMAS SYMCOCKE, for printing all things that are, may, or shall be printed upon one side of a sheet, or any part of a sheet, provided the other side be white paper.

Great numbers of books were printed for the sellers, without mentioning by whom, some of which I have neglected, thinking it impossible to give all; and there may be more of good note, which never have come to my hand: I desire therefore this essay may be taken in good part, from one that is desirous to preserve the memoirs of that Art, which hath propagated amongst us knowledge and good sense.

I ought to mention the makers of their LETTERS, (or letter founders, as they are called now) but that I imagine at first, the more ingenious amongst the Printers did it for themselves, and others of their trade. The names of those, who first made a trade of it, that have come to my knowledge, are:

John Grismand, Thomas Wright, Arthur Nicholas, Alexander Fifeild. (See decree of the Star-chamber, 1637.) Christopher Van Diick of Amsterdam, Mr. Walberger of Oxford, Mr. Joseph Moxon, who hath wrote a book of that art; old Mr. Glover and his son Thomas; Mr. Goring, Mr. Head, Mr. Robert Andrews, Mr. Skinner, Mr. Thomas James, Mr. Robert Mitchel, servant to Mr. Glover; Mr. John James, Silvester Andrews, at Oxford; the Westons. But the art seems to be carried to its its greatest perfection by Mr. William Caslon, and his son, who, besides the type of all manner of living languages now by him, has offered to perform the same for the dead, that can be recovered, to the satisfaction of any gentleman desirous of the same.

RELATING TO

PRINTING in SCOTLAND.

SINCE I have given an account of English printing, I shall now proceed to offer some small hints, relating to the rise and progress of that art in Scotland, which may be of use to such, as would pursue this subject further, in that formerly antient kingdom.

The late ingenious JAMES WATSON, afterwards one of their majesties printers in Scotland, did in the year 1713, publish a short history of the art of printing, containing an account of its invention and progress in Europe; to which he added a preface, wherein he mentions three or four books, and as many printers of Scotland within my assigned time; that is, from the beginning, or rise of the art, to the year 1600, which I shall take notice of in their place. He indeed supposes they had the art of printing early, from their having a constant trade with the Low Countries; from their cases and presses being all of the Dutch make, till of late years; from their manner of working, in distributing the letter on hand with the face from us, and the nick downwards; and their making ink, as the printers there do at this day; but that the books may be lost, being either lives of saints, and legendary miracles, or of devotions then in vogue, carried away by the priests, who fled beyond sea, or destroyed by the zeal of the reformers. His further accounts of the Scotch printers are later than my time.

The first book I have found mentioned by any, is, A breviary of the church of Aberdeen, printed at Edinburgh 1509. thirty five years after the introduction of this art by William Caxton. The account I have had of this, is in a letter directed to my good friend, Dr. John Mitchell, from Mr. Charles Mackey, professor of history in the university of Edinburgh. "The art with us is as early as 1509 I imagine, though I am not certain, that I have found Mr. Ames's voucher for it. Mr. John Ker, late humanity professor here, gave into the lawyers library an old

 “ some sheets at the end are wanting. The first page begins with the “ following words, which I excerpted from the book. In nomine sanctae “ et individuae Trinitatis, Patris, et Filii, et Spiritus Sancti. Breviarum ad “ usum et consuetudinem percelebris ecclesiae cathedralis Aberdon. in “ Scotia, regnante principe nostro serenissimo Jacobo, quarto, divina “ favente clementia Scotorum rege illustrissimo, imperii sui anno vicessimo “ secundo, pro hyemali parte feliciter sumit exordium.”

N. B. The words abovementioned in Italic are distinguished in red Ink.

“ Now as king James the 1vth succeeded upon his father’s death, which “ happened the 11 June, 1488, the year 1509 after the 11 June, is the “ 22d year of his reign; and 1509 is marked with a pen on the mar“ gin of the book, opposite to imperii sui anno vicessimo secundo.”

Since the above, I have had a further account of the second part of this book, from my worthy friend Mr. Professor Ruddiman himself, no small encourager of this undertaking, by his many searches for me at Edinburgh, and elsewhere; and we may safely conclude, the first vol. was printed at the charge of the same person, and at Edinburgh.

1510. Ejusdem breviarii pars aestivalis. At the end are these words: Per reverendum in Christo patrem, Wilelmum Abirdonen. episcopum, studiosius maximisque cum laboribus collect. non solum ad ecclesiae suae Abirdonen. verum etiam ad totius ecclesiae Scoticanae usum percelebrem. Oppido Edinburgensi impressa, jussu et impensis honorabilis viri Walteri Chapman, ejusdem oppidi mercatoris, quarto die mensis Julii, anno Domini millesimo ccccc decimo. small Octavo.

1526. I have not met with any books printed at Scotland before. That just mentioned shews, Mr. Watson imagined right; but it appears, they made use of foreign printers, as the printers in England did about this time: As Jodocus Badius Ascensius, and others. See Hectoris Boethii historia Scotorum: Impressa Jodoci Badii Ascensii typis et operâ; impensis nobilis et praedocti viri Hectoris Boethii Deidonani. Fol. Praefatio Boethii ad Jacobum Scotorum regem datur Aberdoniae calend. April. anno supra sesquimilesimum sexto et vigesimo. Ejusdem ad Jacobum a Betuun, S. Andr. Archiepiscop. ex Colleg. Aberdon. ad Kalend. Maias eodem, anno. Quarto.

1533. Alexandri Alesii epistola contra decretum quoddam episcoporum in Scotia, quod prohibet legere Novi Testamenti libros lingua vernacula. Penes Mr. Calamy. I doubt its being printed in Scotland. Twelve.

Now it will appear, I must make a chasm in my account of the history of Printing in the kingdom of Scotland, for about thirty years.

My good friend Mr. Thomas Ruddiman, in a letter to me, dated 31st January, 1744-5, among other observations relating to printing in Scotland, gave me information of the following book of acts of parliament, and says: “ By it you will see, that it is not properly a patent “ granted

“ granted to Davidson, of being the king’s printer, but only a confirmation of a licence, granted by act of parliament to sir James Foulis, of Collington, then lord register of Scotland, to cause these acts to be imprinted by what printer he should think fit to choose; but so, that the said printer should have also a special licence from the king to the same purpose.” Which is as follows:

The copy of the kingis grace licence and privilege, grantit to Thomas Davidson prentar, for imprenting of his gravis actis of parliament.

JAMES be the grace of God, king of Scottis, to all and sindry, quhom it efferis. Forsamekill as it is ordanit be ws, be an act maid in plane parliament, that all our actis maid be ws be publist outthrow al our realme; and that nane our shereiffis, stewardis, ballies, prouest, and baillies of oure burrowis, suld pretend ignorance throw misknawing thair-of, that our clerk of registre, and counsel, suld mak ane autentik copie of all sik actis as concernis the commoun weil of our realme, and extract the samin under his subscription manuale, to be imprentit be quhat prentar it sall pleis him to cheis; providing alwayis, that the said prentar sall have our special licence thairto, as in the said act at mair lenth is contenit: ¶ We heirfore hes gevyn, and grantit, and be the tenour heirof gevis and grantis our licence, to oure louit Thomas Davidson, imprentar in our burgh of Edinburgh, to imprent oure saidis actis of parliament, and dischargis all vthir imprintaris, and writtaris, within yis our realme, or without, present, and for to cum, to imprent, or writ our saidis actis of parliament, or bring thaym hame to be sauld, for the space of sex zeris nixt to cum, eftir the dait of thir presentis, under the pane of confiscatioun of the samyn. Subscrivit with our hand, and gevin under our priue seill, at Edinburgh, the sext day of December, and of our regne the xxix zeir.

From the date of this licence it appears, that these acts of parliament were not printed till towards the end of the year 1541, and that though the frontispiece has 1540 in it, yet it would seem, that that figure had been cut before, and designed for other books, that should be printed by Davidson in that form afterwards.

The new actis and constitutionis of parliament, maid be the rycht excellent prince, James the fyft king of Scottis, 1540. On the same page are the Scots arms; above the crest, IN DEFENS, and on one side, JACOBUS, on the other side, REX 5. On the back of the title is the king’s privilege as before. Then two disticks.

In an Appendix, N^o. IX. to George Crawford's lives and characters of the officers of the crown and state in Scotland, fol. 1736, is:

An act of parliament, allowing of the bible in the vulgar tongue, anno 1543, copied out of the registers of parliament, in the publick archives at Edinburgh.

Anent the writting gevin in be Robert lord Maxwell, in presens of my lord govenour, and lordis of Articklis, to be avisit by thaim, gif the samin be resonable, or not, of the quhilk the tenor followis.

It is statute, and ordanit, that it sal be letull to all our sovirane ladyis leiges to have the haly writ, to wit, the New Testament and the Auld, in the vulgar tounge, in Inglis, and Scotis, of an gude and trew translation, and that thai sal incur na crimes for the hesing and reding of the samen; providing always, that na man dispute, or hald opinizeonis under the the pains conteinit in the actis of parliament. The lordis of Articklis beand avisit with the said writing, finds the samin resonable, and therefore thinkis that the samin may be usit amongis all the leiges of this realme of our vulgar tounge, of an gude, trew, and just translatioun, because there was na law shewn, nor producit in the contrar; and that none of our soverane ladyis legiges incur any crimes for haifing, or reding of the samin, in form as said is, nor sall be accusit therefore in time coming; and that na personis dispute, argou, or hold oppunionis of the samin, under the saidis painis containit in the foresaids actis of parliament.

This act is not printed among the laws and acts of parliament collected by sir Thomas Murry, of Glendock, knight, from the publick records of Scotland, and printed at Edinburgh, 1681. Nor, so far as I can find, was it ever observed. I never could yet hear, or be informed of any translation of the New and Old Testament, in English and Scotch. On the contrary, it is intimated by James Watson, in his preface to the printers of Scotland, 1713, that the first folio English bible was printed at Edinburgh, by Thomas Bassandyne, in the year 1576, three and thirty years after the date of this act. But what prevented their having the scripture in the vulgar tongue (as the English had for some years before) after the granting this licence, I do not know.

Scotland's complaint is said by Watson to be printed in the year 1540. But Dr. Mackenzie, in his lives of the Scotch writers, vol. 3. p. 40. attributes this book to sir James Inglis, knight, and gives a long detail of its contents, and says, that it was printed at St. Andrew's, in the year 1548, with this title, Scotland's complaint against her three sones, the nobilitie, clergie, and commons.

In the catalogues bibliothecae Harleianae, Vol 1. N^o. 8371. besides other books of Scotch affairs) without name of place or printer, we find a book of a like title, but by a different author, thus:

As I have at all tymes bene ready to employe and bestowe my laboures, to the auancement of the glorie of God, and utilitie of his church, so the bruite rysing of this, that I now present unto thee good reader, confutation of the abbote of Crosraguels masse, I was moste diligent, and trauelled moste earnestly with the author of it, that it might come to light. Hard it was unto me, amongst many others, to obteane it of him, a man shamefast of his owen nature, yet by the inopportune and continuall sute of the church, and freindes, being mollified and moued to yealde, and remitte somewhat of his will, in end oppened up his mynde, that he hath onely written this by manner of declamation, and so hath used some Greik wordes, as expressing the mater moste liuely and sensiblie, which wordes I had no carracters to expres. This moued me somewhat at the beginning, yet finding them few in nomber, and so seruing to the mater, as I could not well suffer them to be taken away, yea, and no impediment to the unlearned, the sentence being moste plaine, I coulde not thole the learned to be frauded of so great a help, and so undertake the mater ; wherein I have used the help of a moste excellent young man, wel excercised in the tongue, yit the travel being wearisome in the hait of his occupations, the ordour and reule by him laid, I was driuen, and content to borrow the laboure of some scollers, whom I iudged to be moste experte, whom vnto it muste be imputed, if ether faut be in lacking of a letter, or otherwayes in accent, and others such accidents. This I speak not but to the praise of the great good will of the children, who are ready and willing to gratifie the church of God ; but to vindicate the name of the author from all calumnie of blasphemus and wicked tongues. If I should have such help of the church, as I have oftentimes implored, then should not the ingynes and labours of the learned in this countrie be retarded by any such impediment, yea, and I will promes further, we should not be troubled to send here and there, abounding in all thinges necessarie within our selves ; and so faite thou well in the Lord Jesus. At our buith, the penult of July, 1563. Dedicated by George Hay to James E. of Murray. In this piece are several words wrote in the Greek character, so late it was before they were introduced at Edinburgh. Imprinted at

They are dedicated to king James VI. and the dedication is dated thus: From Edinburgh, the 9th of December, 1590. On the back of the title page leaf, and fronting the dedication, there is a fair distinct wooden cut of the royal arms of Scotland, empaled with those of Anne, king James VIth's queen, she being a daughter of Frederick II. king of Denmark. The arms of Scotland has its double tressoir dimidiated, in complaisance (I suppose) to those of the queen's, being the arms of Denmark. And these are quarterly to the nombril point, leaving the base for the arms of Selavonia. 1. Denmark. 2. Norway. 3. Sweden. 4. Gotthland. These four quarterings are surmounted of a cross, or banner of Denmark; and over all, a surtout surmounted of another. The first surtout is quarterly. 1. Sleswick. 2. Holstein. 3. Stormarsh. 4. Ditmarsh. The second surtout surmounting the whole is, per pale, Oldenburg, and Delmhorst. The whole atchievement is surrounded with the collar of the order of the thistle (which is not usual for an empaled coat baron and femina to be surrounded with an order of knighthood) and supported on the dexter side by the Scots unicorn, holding up the banner of the royal arms of Scotland; and on the sinister, by a Dragon, holding up the banner of Denmark. And for crest (over the imperial crown of Scotland) a lion sejant, holding a sword in his dexter paw, and the royal scepter of Scotland in his sinister. The motto, IN MY DEFENCE GOD ME DEFEND. The pages are not numbered. There are only five sermons, the three first of which are from 1 Cor. ii. 23. and were preached February 1, 8, and 15, 1589. The two last are from 1 Cor. ii. 28, and were preached February 22, and March 2, 1589. In possession of John Michell, M. D.

I R E L A N D.

WOULD willingly, and have endeavoured to give some account of the rise and progress of Printing in this kingdom before 1600, but have only received this information from an extract of a letter, dated at Dublin, 28 June, 1744, from Dr. RUTTY, to my friend William Clark, M. D. of London, viz.

Extract of a letter from Dr. RUTTY, of Dublin, dated June 28, 1744, to Dr. WILLIAM CLARK, of London.

THY commission for furnishing a catalogue of books, printed in Ireland before the year 1600, I think I have had pretty good opportunities of executing, and have accordingly made use of them.

First, I had a particular acquaintance with a learned man, who has made things of this sort his particular study for many years, who is able to furnish me with but one book, which he can assure to have been printed here within that period, which is this: "The book of common prayer, and administration of the sacraments, and other rites and ceremonies of the church of England. Dubliniae in officina Humphredi Poweli. Cum privilegio ad imprimendum solum, anno Domini 1551. In black letter, a large quarto."

Next, I had recourse to the large library of Dr. Worth, a late eminent physician here, who was exceedingly curious in collecting antient pieces, but there I found but one printed here, so early as even 1633.

Lastly, on perusing the catalogue of the college library, I found within the period by thee limited, but that one individual book, as above recited.

The truth is, printing is but of very late date in Ireland. Here were indeed some few authors within that period, but their works were printed abroad, as in England, France, Flanders, Italy, &c.

Even

Even down to 1700 very few books were printed here, but whatever was written here, was generally printed in London; even now the printing trade here consists chiefly in reprinting books printed in London, and they that value their reputation, commonly send their writings to England to be printed. And this is all the satisfaction in my power to give thy friend, on this account.

At this time 1749, there is very good printing carried on there.

The books said to be printed at WATERFORD, in my General History, &c. are thought to be private books in that perilous time, as:

The acquital, or purgation of the moost catholyke prince, Edward the VI. kynge of Englande, France, and Ireland, &c. and of the church of England, reformed and gouerned under hym, agaynst all suche, as blasphemously and traiterously infame hym, or the sayd church, of heresie, or sedition, 7 November. Dedicated to the noble and charitable christen laytie of Englande. By John Olde. 1555.
Octavo.

J. Scory, late bishop of Chichester, his epistle to the faithfull, that be in prison in England. Waterford. 1555.
Twelves.

When John Franckton began printing I don't know, but the first I have met with is:

The Irish common prayer, in folio, printed by Franckton, 1608. Dedicated to sir Arthure Chichester, knight, the L. deputy general, by William, archbishop of Tuam. In the Irish character. Yet the dedication is the 20 October, 1609. In possession of Mr. Calamy.

A compendius collection, and breefe abstract of all the auncient English statutes (from the beginning of Magna Charta) which now are in force within this kingdome of Ireland; by vertue of an acte of parliament made at Drogheda, in the tenth yeare of the reigne of Henry the seventh. Meete to be knowen and observed amongst all good subjectes of this kingdome of Ireland. Set forth under sundry apt titles (for the readers redier help) in order of an alphabet. Per I. M. de societate Interioris Templi, London, ac feodarium provinciae Conatii in Hibernia. Imprinted at Dublin by John Franckton, printer to the kings majestie. Cum gratia et privilegio. At the end, 1617.

I have observed John Franckton was printer to the king for Ireland, 1618; see several proclamations; and also Bonham Norton, and John Bill, the same year. Felix Kingston, deputy printer for the king at Dublin, 1619; and 1620. The company of Stationers of London were printers to the king's most excellent majesty, at Dublin, who set forth John Franckton's right to print all manner of books, statutes, grammars, almanacks, acts of parliament, proclamations, injunctions, bibles, and books of the new testament; forbidding all others of what nation soever, but him, Felix Kingston, and Thomas Downs.

Prices

Prices of books, as settled by the assignees and patentees for the Stationers company, were about a quarter more at Dublin (where Melchior Van Pelkem was post-master, the 9th of Feb. 1618, by the king's grant to John lord Harrington) than at London; occasioned I suppose by the expense of conveyance.

To conclude, receive these lines of our old poet:

“ For ought of old feldis, as clarkis saith,
 “ Commyth new corne, from yere to yere.
 “ And out of old bokis, in good faith,
 “ Commeth all the new science, that men lere.”

Also that of Mr. Pope to lord Burlington :

“ GOOD SENSE, which only is the gift of heaven!
 “ And tho' no Science, fairly worth the seven.”
