THE RIGHT HONORABLE

Sir ARCHIBALD MACDONALD, Knt.

Lord Chief Baron of the Court of Exchequer.

MY LORD,

THE bounteous and liberal Encouragement at this Day given to every Species of Knowledge, cannot fail to inſpire Minds the moſt diffident of their own Capacity, with a Wiſh to contribute to the general Fund; and the happy Effects that we daily witneſs to ariſe from this general Concurrence is, that it renders all Science truly reſpectable; and at the ſame Time that the Protection of the fine Arts reflects the higheſt Honor upon the national Character, the daily Improvement it produces in Literature, repays, with Intereſt, the Bounty beſtowed.

Impelled with the Deſire of communicating the ſmall Portion of Information, which hath fallen to my Lot to poſſeſs, I have attempted the preſent Work; which, crude and imperfect as it is, I muſt ſo far treſpaſs upon your Goodneſs as to beg Permiſſion, through the patronizing Medium of your Lordſhip, to preſent to the Public.

your

The elevated Situation of your Lordſhip in the Adminiſtration of the Laws, which you fill with Abilities ſo honorable to yourſelf, and with ſo much Juſtice to the Public, renders this humble Offering particularly neceſſary; as the Subject of the following Sheets are, in part, Tranſactions of your judicial Predeceſſors, remaining on Record, in the Office of the Lord Treaſurer's Remembrancer; an Office, however little known, is of no ſmall public Importance, and belonging to that Court over which your Lordſhip preſides.

Were it not that your Lordſhip's profeſſional Rank, in ſome Degree claims this Epiſtle, yet the very high Opinion which in common with the Public, I entertain for your general and profeſſional Knowledge, makes my Duty and Inclination, in this reſpect, moſt cordially unite; and, I think it a very flattering Advantage, to have the Privilege of ſubmitting my Labors to the Public at a Time when the Exchequer is compoſed of Barons ſo enlighted and truly well informed.

That

DEDICATION.

That ſtedfaſt Attention which your Lordſhip hath ever paid to the Intereſt of your Country, in the career of your political Exiſtence, and that ſtern Virtue and Integrity, with which you have ſo uniformly conducted yourſelf, towards his Majeſty, and his Subjects, whilſt filling a public Station of the higheſt Importance, that of an Attorney-General, hath drawn upon you the Favor of your Sovereign, as well as the Reverenee, Gratitude and Eſteem of your Fellow Subjects; ſo that your Lordſhip, in your preſent exalted Situation, cannot fail of enjoying thoſe pleaſing Reflections, attendant upon Virtue and greatneſs of Mind, when you obſerve, that the Whole of a Community, as with one Voice, coincide in your Appointment; and reſt, in perfect Security, on your Lordſhip's Talents and Virtue.

Your Lordſhip, treading in the Footſteps of your very able and judicious Predeceſſor, the preſent Lord Chief Juſtice of His Majeſty's Court of Common Pleas, will doubtleſs, ever pay that Reſpect and Regard to the wiſe Opinions, Judgments, and Decrees of our Anceſtors, remaining on Record as Monuments of their Wiſdom, which their Importance require; and ſhould the preſent Publication facilitate the finding of thoſe

Treaſures,

DEDICATION.

Treaſures, I have no Reaſon to deſpair of meeting with your Lordſhip's favorable Opinion.

Before I take my Leave, I ſhall only obſerve, in the Object of this Work, the whole Community are concerned: as it relates to his Majeſty's Revenues, and the Rights, Privileges, and Property of his Subjects; and, as the Records therein referred to, are, amongſt others, the Treaſuries and Conſervatories of our Laws, and the Standard to which we muſt reſort for Information, on hiſtorical and conſtitutional Points, the Teſtimonies of judicial Proceedings, and the Mirror of the Tranſactions of our Anceſtors.

Should this ſmall Effort be deemed worthy of your Lordſhip's Notice, your Acceptance of it will make the moſt grateful Impreſſion on the Mind of moſt obedient,

and very humble Servant,

PREFACE.

To write a Preface, ſufficiently explanatory of a publication of this nature, containing only crude materials without expoſition or illuſtration, is a taſk much too difficult to be properly executed. It therefore will only be attempted to give the Reader ſome few hints of information relative to the general importance and utility of the Records of this country, and to furniſh him with a few directions for the underſtanding of the following ſheets, and the application of their uſe.

In conſidering the general utility of Records, we naturally contemplate the hiſtory of this country. It is impoſſible for us to obſerve, without a degree of aſtoniſhment, what errors, inaccuracies, fallacious accounts, puerile and ſuperſtitious remarks diſgrace our ancient annals; eſpecially when we reflect, that the writers had ſuch an abundant ſtore of valuable Records and authentic documents in our numerous public repoſitories, to which they might reſort for information. The truth ſeems to be, that they choſe rather to invent and impoſe their crude notions and conjectures than to undergo the diſagreeable, but neceſſary trouble of ſearching thoſe public Records, which alone could ſtamp upon their accounts of national affairs the character of truth and irrefragable authority.

Perhaps it may not be very difficult to account for the barbarous ſtate of our ancient hiſtory, when we conſider that the writers were generally monks, educated and reſident in cloyſters, &c. therefore, ſtrangers to public tranſactions; the account of which hardly ever came to them but in a very mutilated ſtate. They wrote hiſtories with all the prejudice of education and religion. Tyrants, who enriched monaſteries are handed down to us as ſaints, and the beſt monarchs are branded with infamy, for prefering the general happineſs of their ſubjects to the aggrandizment of the church. It is with this ſpirit that MATTHEW PARIS, WILLIAM of MALMESBURY, HOVEDEN and others have written the hiſtory of their times, which are beſides disfigured with abſurd miracles, dreams, revelations, legends and ſuperſtitious practices.

Such are the annals of the hiſtory not only of this country, but of the other countries of Europe in the middle ages, under the prejudice of monkiſh ignorance and ſuperſtition; yet we are happy to obſerve, that ſome of the hiſtorians of thoſe times were conſiderably anxious of aſcertaining truth; and with a laudable induſtry have made uſe of the Records of the kingdom as their guide; and others who lived about courts, and had immediate opportunities, of being acquainted with the tranſactions of government have handed them down to poſterity with a tolerable degree of care and accuracy.

Soon after this æra, when eccleſiaſtical learning and ſcholaſtic ſcience alone engroſſed the attention of mankind, our hiſtorians became men of far more general information, by whom the abſurdities and fallacies of their predeceſſors were eaſily detected and expoſed to ridicule. The latter hiſtorians, having got rid of bigotry and ſuperſtition, adopted a mode of criticiſm and reaſoning before unknown; and no relation, tradition, or report of any tranſaction gained credit with them, unleſs it bore the teſt of being examined with the greateſt accuracy and circumſpection.

This mode having given to the enquiring mind, as it were, a firm baſis of action, ſoon brought from the remoteſt corner of obſcurity, many and important matters of hiſtorical evidence: Here then we may date the commencement of genuine hiſtory, which hath reflected ſo much honour upon this country.

Modern hiſtorians, like the able finiſhers of a well-digeſted plan, have not only adopted theſe general rules and axioms of hiſtorical criticiſm laid down by their predeceſſors, but have purſued the work with that neceſſary and requiſite ability and attention, which hath placed our general hiſtory beyond the poſſibility of doubt. For this purpoſe, that their labour might carry within itſelf incontrovertible evidence, they have compared the accounts and circumſtances of every tranſaction as well with ancient chronicles, as with the public Records and muniments of indiſputable authority preſerved in the ſeveral public archives of the kingdom. By this means they have been enabled to aſcertain the truth and inveſtigate all or moſt of the principal circumſtances of our hiſtory; which otherwiſe muſt ever have remained in total obſcurity, or bear with it a very doubtful appearance.

Although the public libraries of this kingdom teem with an abundant treaſure of truly uſeful and valuable original manuſcripts of political and hiſtorical nature, yet theſe are not ſufficient of themſelves to render our national hiſtory complete; in as much as they are often vague, contradictory and uncertain, as to many, if not moſt of the very intereſting occurrences, and intirely ſilent with reſpect to others. In many, and numerous inſtances, they are ſo various and contradictory in their accounts of one and the ſame tranſaction, that it would be impoſſible, without further aſſiſtance, to determine with any degree of preciſion, which of them, if either, ought to be credited. With whatever caution and abilities hiſtorians may collect their materials and information from thoſe manuſcripts, and however critical and judicious they may appear in their reaſons and arguments, on what they thus collect, and though their collections be made with the beſt intentions and unbiaſſed motives, yet (as we are taught by experience) that little reliance is to be placed on ſuch authorities, without more authentic ſources of intelligence; their hiſtorical facts, obſervations, and concluſions from the circumſtances ſo collected, muſt prove defective, ill-founded and uncertain.

But the hiſtorian who has recourſe to the public archives of national Records, can run no riſk of that ſerious conſequence. He will there not only find authentic matters, for the diſcovery and illucidation of facts, but for the ſolution of the hiſtorical doubts, difficulties, and embaraſſments, he may be under from collecting ſuch contrarieties of written accounts.

The Records of this country, in their various repoſitories in point of antiquity, preſervation, correctneſs, authority, and extent of information, we may ſay, with confidence, exceed thoſe of any other country whatever; and all perſons who have been introduced to a knowledge of their nature and importance, have been aſtoniſhed that matters of ſuch conſequence as well to the public at large as to the individuals, ſhould exiſt in our public offices, which are always acceſſable, without being more generally known and underſtood.

To

To conſider our public Records in their various points of view, we not only find it abſolutely neceſſary that the general hiſtorian ſhould glean his information from them, but we find alſo that to the topographical hiſtorian they are the very eſſence of his work. Without a perfect and clear knowledge of what remains of Record in the ſeveral offices relative to the place he treats of, it will be impoſſible for him to give any ſatisfactory account of the ancient privileges, rights, cuſtoms, or uſages uſed or enjoyed by the inhabitants of any particular diſtrict, nor with any degree of certainty trace the owners or occupiers of any manors, lands or tenements, nor the privileges appertaining to ſuch manors, &c.

It is, indeed, impoſſible with ſufficient accuracy to give the hiſtory even of a ſingle pariſh of inconſiderable extent, without firſt applying for proper information to the ſeveral repoſitories of public Records, as ſome grants from the crown may have given particular rights or privileges to particular places; the judgments or decrees of our courts of law or equity, may have affected thoſe rights or privileges; ſome lands may have been the property of perſons who forfeited their eſtates to the crown; others may have come to the crown by eſcheat, ſuppreſſion of religious houſes, or otherwiſe; part, or the whole, may have been ſurveyed by virtue of commiſſions from the crown iſſued for various purpoſes, to make perambulations, partitions, &c. whereby the extents or limits of particular diſtricts and their rights, privileges, and cuſtoms may have been aſcertained. Thoſe Records are of that vaſt extent and contain ſuch neceſſary and uſeful information, and ſuch multifarious matter, that we can, with almoſt moral certainty, find a conſiderable portion of Record evidence relative to all, even the ſmalleſt denomination of landed property throughout the whole kingdom, and proportionally more relative to towns and places of note.

To write the hiſtory of thoſe places neceſſarily requires intimate acquaintance with their foundation and other charters, privileges, rights, cuſtoms, endowments, grants, &c. which are never to be formed with any certainty in their own archives. Various cauſes may be aſſigned for this: the frequent change of their keepers, their neglect and indifference, their ignorance in not being able to underſtand them or know their value, and generally the confuſed ſtate in which they are kept. But the public Records of the kingdom are kept in the moſt perfect ſecurity, generally well arranged, and under the cuſtody of officers, who have had regular official education, who know the value and the nature of the Records in their cuſtody, and whoſe buſineſs it is to aſſiſt the public in their enquiries.

That we may have an idea of the extent and magnitude of our public Records, it may be neceſſary here to obſerve, that they contain amongſt innumerable other things, the proceedings and acts of the high court of parliament, the ſeveral grants of lands, tythes, rectories, rights of patronage, free-warrens, liberties, privileges and immunities, licences to alienate, to impark and diſpark, made by the ſeveral kings and queens to churches, abbies, convents and monaſteries, to eccleſiaſtical and civil corporations, and to the nobility, lords of liberties and private perſons; the proceedings and judgements of the ſeveral courts of exchequer, chancery, curia regis, king's bench, common pleas, the courts of wards and liveries, ſtar chamber and requeſts, and other courts; the ſtate of the revenue of the crown, and the public accounts; the manner in which thoſe revenues were impoſed and collected; the ſtate of the mint, coin, and coinage of the country; acts of navigation, treaties, leagues and conventions; and the ſituations as well of this country as of foreign nations, with their connections and intereſts at different periods; alſo foreign wars, and domeſtic broils, contentions, inſurrections and rebellions; papal bulls, uſurpations and extortions, and various other matters of more private nature.

For illuſtrating and improving our topographical hiſtories and antiquities, and to render them of uſe to the public, we find in thoſe Records the originals of ſome, and the memorials and regiſters of many others of thoſe public inſtruments, which have been iſſued by the crown at different times, for the purpoſe of improving, protecting and encouraging ſeveral parts of the kingdom on various occaſions, by draining and embanking, recovering, and ſecuring from future injuries lands, which have been overflowed, or inundated by the ſea or otherwiſe; the opening and cleanſing our principal rivers; widening, deepening, embanking and rendering navigable thoſe of leſſer note; the cutting of canals for inland navigation, and the cutting and preſerving of mill and other ſtreams; cleanſing and ſecuring harbours for the accommodation of ſhipping; the erection of fortifications to defend thoſe harbours againſt foreign enemies; the maintenance of naval force by different towns and places; the erecting and fortifying of caſtles, forts, and places of ſtrength for the defence of the realm; and for the maintenance and ſupport of proper guards and garriſons therein; the building of palaces, hoſpitals, bridges, and other public edificies; alſo the opening and widening of public roads and communications between ſeveral parts of the kingdom, imparkation and diſparkation of parks, the deafforeſtation of ancient foreſts and chaces, and the incloſing and cultivating of heaths, marſhes, moors, commons and waſte lands; the opening and working of mines and minerals; and the privileges and encouragements granted for the exporting of their content; alſo the erection and maintenance of light houſes, and beacons for the preſervation of our trade and navigation, &c.

Amongſt thoſe Records we alſo find the ancient and modern ſtate of all the cities, boroughs, towns, fraternities and trading companies; as well as the erection and inſtitution of all colleges, grammar and other ſchools; their grants, endowments, privileges and liberties; and of all other public bodies and inſtitutions. We alſo find the names, rank, dignity and character of the ſeveral perſons who, at various times, were the proprietors and poſſeſſors of ſeveral of thoſe boroughs and towns; and the practice and manner of letting them to farm, either to the inhabitants or other perſons; the difference between towns veſted in the crown, and thoſe veſted in the baronage and clergy; and alſo between ſuch as were incorporated and ſuch as were not incorporated; the particular times of their reſpective incorporations, their tenures, demeſnes, iſſues, fee-farms, knights fees and ſervices; their ſeveral charters, cuſtoms, government, rights, liberties, privileges, franchiſes and immunities; alſo proceedings and judgments relative to their uſe and exerciſe; and likewiſe to the abuſe and forfeiture of ſome of them, and the confirmation of thoſe they at preſent enjoy; their political ſituation, their trade, manufactories, markets, fairs, commerce and commercial intereſts; the aids, ſubſidies, tallage, fines, iſſues, amerciments, and taxes with which they have been aſſeſſed, or from which they have been relieved; the courts of juſtice, guilds, fraternities, corporations, and myſteries eſtabliſhed within them, the caſualties which have befel them, and the cauſe and manner of the decay of ſome, and of the riſe, progreſs of improvement, and proſperity of others.

It is alſo amongſt theſe Records we are to find the claims of exemptions of particular monaſteries, colleges, churches, lordſhips, manors, villages, pariſhes, hamlets and other places, with their ſeveral cuſtoms, cuſtoms, and the foundation and authorities for ſuch claims; together with innumerable variety of other intereſting and truly uſeful particulars, relating not only to boroughs, towns, royalties, foreſts, honors, baronies, lordſhips, manors, and the ſeveral inferior ſpecies of landed property, with their reſpective rights, tenures, ſervices and cuſtoms, but alſo to the ſeveral perſons and families who have at different times poſſeſſed them.

In obſerving, upon the record evidence, and information to be found relative to boroughs and towns, and conſidering for want of that information in the writers, the hiſtories of many of them have been handed down to the world fraught with nothing but confuſion and conjectures, about preſcription and their antiquity, and government and the like.

It may be proper to trouble the Reader with the obſervation of that laborious and able writer Dr. BREADY, in his "Hiſtorical Treatiſe "of Cities and Boroughs", where he obſerves, "That in our ordi- "nary writers he found little elſe but preſcription, and pretended "uſage and poſſeſſion time out of mind, vouched for the great in- "dependent right, they have claimed and do challenge; and by "the notions theſe writers have and their readers cannot but have of "them according to their informations, they (the cities and boroughs) "ſeem to have been æternal, or at leaſt cœval with the creation; and ſo "many ready-wrought and framed common-wealths lifted out of the "chaos, and fixed upon the ſurface of the earth, with their walls, "gates, town or guildhalls, and all extravagant and uncontroulable "and abſolute powers and abſurd rights, they have of late years "pretended to. But," ſays the Doctor, (ſpeaking of his own work) "whoever will peruſe this Treatiſe, ſhall find the date of their originals "and gradual augmentations; and muſt confeſs, they have nothing "of the greatneſs and authority they boaſt of but from the bounty of "our ancient kings and their ſucceſſors, notwithſtanding any other "confirmation or acquired right, they may allege; and acknowledge that "preſcription and pretended immemorial cuſtoms or uſages avail not, "when there are charters or other records, which ſhew, that in this "caſe (of what weight ſoever they may be in other) they are mere con- "jectures, words of courſe, and the POPULAR ASSERTIONS of ſuch "men as either knew not how or would, or for their more gainful "employments could not look into thoſe great monuments of antiquity "and diſcoverers of truth."

Great

Great as the benefits ſtated are, as reſulting to the public from the national records, they are yet far from being the moſt eſſential ſervice they afford, for they are even the treaſuries and conſervatories of our laws, and the ſtandard to which we muſt reſort for the reſolving and aſcertaining all conſtitutional points; they are the teſtimonies, of our legiſlation, of all juridical and judicial proceedings, and the perpetual evidence of every man's rights, privileges and liberties. By an appeal to them, the lawyer will find ſome of the moſt accurate and judicious pleadings, proceedings and judgments; he will alſo find their gradual improvement; the partiallity, the dependance and the independance of our ſeveral courts of juſtice will appear evident at different times by their judgments upon various and important caſes; and he will therein trace the gradual and wiſe footſteps of our anceſtors to inſure their poſterity the preſent happy conſtitution of our country.

The herald and biographer may alſo find no inconſiderable aſſiſtance in their reſearches, the nature of the public Records affording them ample and ſufficient materials to inveſtigate genealogies; as the names of perſons, and their reſidences and tranſactions at all periods are here to be found recorded; with ſome public inſtrument appertaining to them or their families. And often upon pleadings relative to the tenures of eſtates of the nobility and gentry in England and Wales, their titles to their eſtates are traced genealogically, as well as the mode of deſcent of the property by meſne, aſſignments, or otherwiſe. And in many and numerous caſes, not only the periods of exiſtence of particular perſons are to be aſcertained by theſe Records, but alſo their political and domeſtic characters, their dignities, creations, poſſeſſions and ſervices.

That the civil and eccleſiaſtical hiſtories of this kingdom cannot be well written, nor thoroughly underſtood, without the aſſiſtance of our national Records, hath been long ago evinced by Sir Robert Cotton, Sir Henry Spelman, Mr. Lambard, Mr. Ryley, the voluminous Mr. Prynne and others; and hath ſince been fully confirmed from the great uſe made of them by Mr. Selden, Dr. Robert Brady, Mr. Tyrrell, Biſhops Burnett, Nicholſon, and Tanner, Mr. Rymer, the elaborate Mr. Maddox, Mr. Thomas Carte, Sir Joſeph Ayloffe, and many other learned antiquaries and hiſtorians, in their reſpective publications.

Alſo,

Alſo, that they are of the moſt eſſential ſervice for the furtherance, nay indeed the very ſheet anchor, of our topographical and genealogical hiſtories, hath been put out of all manner of doubt by that great antiquary Sir William Dugdale, in his Antiquities of Warwickſhire, and his Baronage of England; Mr. Aſhmole's and Mr. Anſtis's Hiſtories of the Order of the Garter; Standford's Genealogical Hiſtory of our King's, Thoroton's Antiquities of Nottinghamſhire, Biſhop Kennett's Parochial Antiquities, Sir Henry Chauncy's Hiſtorical Antiquities of Hertfordſhire, Atkyn's Glouceſter, Morant's Antiquities of Eſſex, Haſted's Kent, and many others.

Conſiderable diſpute hath always exiſted among our antiquary concerning the time when the making of inrollments on membranes of parchment firſt took place in this country; at this diſtance of time, and from the nature of thoſe we find to be the oldeſt now extant, it is impoſſible to fix any preciſe or exact æra for its commencement; as from the appearance of thoſe, we have every reaſon to conclude, that our anceſtors were in the habit of making inrollments long anterior to the date of the oldeſt we now find; and this appears evident from the methodical and ſcientific manner in which they are done, which could not have been the production of a ſhort period, but muſt have had its gradual improvement like all other matters of human invention that attain a ſyſtem of regularity.

Hence it is probable, that ſome internal commotion or contention muſt have cauſed the deſtruction of our moſt ancient Records, and ſome of them, moſt likely, in the manner obſerved by Mr. Prynne, who ſays, "That during the civil wars between the kings and "barons in the reigns of king John and Henry III. and between "the two houſes of Lancaſter and York, for the title to the crown, "the prevailing king's party embezzled and ſuppreſſed ſuch parlia-"mentary Records and proceedings as made moſt againſt their "intereſt." And in thoſe times, it is moſt probable, the like fate befel many others of the public Records; and many of them it is moſt likely, fell victims to the diſtraction that raged ſo furiouſly throughout this kingdom during the war between the empreſs Maud and king Stephen.

Some of the Records may alſo have been loſt by their being carried from place to place, as anciently had too often been the practice, when the ſovereign court of ordinary judicature, then called the Aula Regis, or Curia Regis, followed the king's court and was held at his occaſional palace of reſidence.

From this court afterwards branched the courts of exchequer, king's bench and common pleas, or rather the court of king's bench appears to be the remains of that court, when ſtripped of its other branches, the common pleas and exchequer. Theſe courts originally ſeem to have been diſtinct by the nature of their pleas tho' held within and as component parts of the Curia Regis, but the exact time when they became ſo ſeparated from the Curia Regis as to have their diſtinct and different judges does not very clearly appear: Moſt probable it happened either in the reign of Richard I. or king John, as the rolls of the court of common pleas appear to begin in 1199, the firſt year of king John; and the Memoranda and Originalia of the exchequer begin the firſt year of Henry III. and have continued in a regular ſeries ever ſince; ſo that, at all events, it is clear and evident by this, that the ſeveral courts were completely ſeparated by the beginning of the reign of Henry III. Yet although there are rolls of common pleas from the firſt of king John, it is doubtful, from the language of the eleventh chapter of his Magna Charta, which was made in the laſt year of his reign, whether the common pleas was fully eſtabliſhed as a ſeparate court from the Curia Regis, until that great compact was agreed upon, the language of that chapter being, "That the "common pleas ſhould not follow our court, but ſhould be held in "ſome place certain."

With reſpect to the exchequer, Mr. Madox, in his Hiſtory of it (vol. i. p. 83) obſerves, "That the exchequer is not to be confounded "with the Curia Regis; for though it was holden in the king's court, "and was, in effect, a member thereof, yet it was expreſſly diſtinct from that court;" this, ſpeaking logically, ſeems to be a contradiction in terms: for that which is a member, and a component part of a whole, cannot be ſaid to be ſeparate and diſtinct from that whole; but the ſenſe ſeems rather to be, by his quotations of the Placita ad Scaccarium, and the Placita Curiæ, that the pleas of the exchequer concerning the revenue of the crown were held diſtinct from the criminal and common pleas, although in the ſame court, the Curia Regis, and before the ſame judges, the Capitalis Juſticiarius, and the great officers of ſtate, or the Juſtices Errant. And as there were officers or judges even in the time of Henry I. called Barones de Scaccario, as appears by that king's charter to the Canons of the Holy Trinity in London, (Chart. Antiq. N. n. 15 & 16.) it ſhould ſeem that thoſe barons were aſſeſſors to the Chief Juſticiar in matters or pleas of revenue, until they became an independent court; as the charter is directed to the chief Juſticiar and the barons.

Barones

That the revenue department, called the Scaccarium Regis, was ſeparate from others is clear from the great roll of the fifth of king Stephen, called Magnus Rotulus quinti Regis Stephani, where the whole revenue of the crown ariſing from whatever pleas they might, in the Curia Regis, or before the Juſtices Errant, as well as the ancient rents, and payments in lieu of ſervices due to the crown, oblations, &c. are regularly and methodically recorded by way of Charge and Diſcharge, proper documents being vouched for the different entries. It is difficult to ſay, that the functions of the exchequer were fully executed ſeparate from the Curia Regis, when we find the Records of it's principal offices according to it's preſent conſtitution; namely, the king's remembrancer's, treaſurer's remembrancer's, and the office of pleas, do not commence till the firſt year of Henry III. and at that time commence, as it were, in full practice; ſo that either it then was ſeparated from the Curia Regis, or elſe it's ancient Records belonging to thoſe offices muſt have been loſt.

Concerning the great roll, bearing the name of the fifth of king Stephen, Mr. Prynne and Mr. Madox have proved, almoſt beyond all manner of doubt, that it is of an earlier date, and more particularly to belong if not to the eighteenth of Henry I. as Mr. Prynne is much inclined to think, at leaſt to ſome year of that monarch's reign. This roll is, undoubtedly, the oldeſt roll that can now be produced; but it is far from being the firſt revenue roll that was framed in England, as is evident not only from the wording of divers articles entered in various parts of it, but from the references therein, made to prior matters of like account with thoſe ſtated, and which matters and account muſt certainly have been entered on ſimilar great rolls of the pipe, anterior to the period of this; and this mode of refering to former articles of ſimilar account hath ever been the practice on the pipe rolls, and is ſo to this day.

The

The rolls of the pipe, which contain a great deal of information, as we may ſee from the frequent uſe made of them by Mr. Madox, are in good condition and perfect arrangement with very trifling exception from the firſt year of Henry II. to the preſent time, and that of the firſt year of this king is the next oldeſt pipe Record in being to that of king Stephen.

Whether it be true or not that the uſage of making inrollments of the general tranſactions of the Curia Regis, and the chancery, had begun ſoon after the conqueſt cannot be well aſcertained; but that the mode of keeping, inrolling or recording of the Rotuli Annales, or yearly roll of the revenue of the crown, called the pipe-roll, or great roll of the pipe, had been in uſe in the time of the Conqueror, or very ſoon after, ſeems reaſonable to conclude, from the authorities of Richard Fitz-Nigel, biſhop of London, and treaſurer to Richard I. who ſaith in his Dialogus de Scaccario, that the Rotuli Annales of Henry I. were remaining in the exchequer in his time; and Alexander de Swereford, archdeacon of Salop, who in the third year of Henry III. was a clerk in the exchequer, afterwards one of the barons, and the compiler of the red book of the exchequer; who tells us, that he had ſeen ſome of them, and ſuggeſts that ſome of the Rotuli Annales were framed in the reign of William the Conqueror, though he candidly acknowledges, that he knew of no perſon in his life-time, who had ſeen them.

And it is alſo well authenticated, that from ancient practice, and in very early times, it was uſual to make up annually, a duplicate of the great roll, or treaſurer's-roll, for the king's chancellor, who was a check upon the treaſurer; which check, or controul, was afterwards taken from the chancellor by the appointment of an officer called the comptroller of the pipe, whoſe official duty it is to make duplicates of the great roll, which he keeps as a check upon the pipe; as we find under the word CONTRAROTULATOR, in Vol. II. of this work, that John de Kermon was appointed to the office of comptroller of the great roll, in the fifth year of Edward III. and that John de Northwell, was at the ſame time, admitted clerk of the ſummonſes of the exchequer; and, under the ſame article, we find references to other perſons being conſtituted to thoſe offices, in the fifth, fourteenth & eighteenth of Richard II.

The

The ancient counter-rolls of the chancellor were called Rotuli Cancellarii, and muſt be carefully diſtinguiſhed from the Rotuli Cancellariæ, which originated in the chancery. Some of thoſe Rotuli Cancellarii are now extant; the duplicate of the great roll of the firſt of Richard I. and of the ſeventh of king John are now in the tower; and a duplicate of the great roll of the third of king John; and alſo, the original great roll of the fourth of king John, together with the chancellor's duplicate, are at the Chapter-houſe.

The moſt ancient, truly valuable, and curious Record at preſent in exiſtence, which this country hath to boaſt of, is the Survey, called the Domesday Book, made by order of William the Conqueror; began in the year 1180, and finiſhed in the year 1186. This Survey, which is called likewiſe Liber Censualis Angliæ, conſiſts of two volumes, which are depoſited and carefully preſerved in the Chapter-houſe. The largeſt volume is a folio, containing 382 double pages of vellum, on each of which are two columns fairly written in ſmall but very plain characters; the leſſer volume is a quarto, and has 450 double pages of vellum, with only one column on each page. The hand writing in this volume is larger and ſtronger than in the other; the deſcriptions more minute; and the eraſures not ſo numerous. Both the volumes are bound in thick wooden covers; the firſt contains the Survey of the Counties of Kent, Salop, Surry, Southampton, Berks, Wilts, Dorſet, Somerſet, Devon, Cornwall, Middleſex, Hertford, Buckingham, Oxford, Glouceſter, Worceſter, Hereford, Cambridge, Huntingdon, Bedford, Northampton, Warwick, Stafford, Salop, Cheſter, Derby, Nottingham, Rutland, York and Lincoln. The quarto volume contains the Counties of Eſſex, Norfolk and Suffolk only.

The Counties of Northumberland, Cumberland, Weſtmorland and Durham were not ſurveyed; except a ſmall part of Cumberland, and the ſouth part of Weſtmorland, included in the Weſt-Riding of Yorkſhire. The omiſſion of ſurveying thoſe counties were moſt likely owing to the deſolated ſtate they were in by different incurſions; for we find from Ingulphus, a contemporary hiſtorian, that the Conqueror himſelf had laid waſte many miles of Northumberland*:

* „ Quo tempore ducens exercitum in Northum- " briam, ubi Dani applicare ſæpius ante ſolebant, " univerſam patriam abraſit, ac fere in terram " deſertam abſumens, multis milliariis inhabitalem " poſtea longo tempore reddidit; ne hoſtis veniens, " et victualia inveniens, moram prolixaret; ſed " fame & inedia fugere de patriâ compulſus, pro " victualium penuria citius ad propria remearet." Ingulph. among Gale's Script. Angl. Vol. III. p. 79.

Lancaſhire is deſcribed, but not under it's proper name; that part of it which lies between the rivers Ripple and Merſey, being included in the Cheſhire Survey, (as is a ſmall part of Wales) and the remainder under Yorkſhire.

This Record, therefore, contains a Survey of all England, with the exception juſt mentioned; and treats of the ſeveral cities, towns, vills, boroughs, manors, caſtles, &c. what number of hides, carucates, virgates, half-hides, bovates, ox-gangs, quarantenæ, were in each manor; what the value of them were in the time of Edward the Confeſſor, and alſo, at the time of making the ſaid Survey; together with the names of the owners; and giving a particular account of how much arable land, meadow, paſture and wood; how many men were the occupiers, and their particular condition; whether freemen, ſocmen, villains, bordars, ſervants, tradeſmen, laborers, Engliſhmen or Normans; what beaſts, ſuch as ſheep, goats, horſes, aſſes, oxen, cows, calves, colts, hogs, ſtocks of bees, &c. belonged thereto; and the number of mills, fiſh-ponds, fiſheries, rivers, marſhes and vineyards; alſo, an account of the rents, tributes, cenſus, ſervices, tolls, cuſtoms, homage, and works to be done for the lords of the reſpective manors in the ſeveral counties, were alſo minuted down; and what goods, chattels and treaſure each perſon had, and how much was owing to him.

Theſe minutia of particulars, it is true, do not appear in the Survey of every county: ſome of the commiſſioners appointed to receive the returns of the juries ſummoned on the occaſion, perhaps, not thinking it neceſſary; but we are well aſſured, by the Saxon Chronicle, that nothing which might be conſidered as material, was over-looked by the jury; which ſays, "That not a ſingle hide "or virgate of land, or even an ox, cow, or hog was omitted in "the returns made to the commiſſioners*."

This Survey was taken by five commiſſioners, ſent into each county, who were to inquire into the ſeveral matters, upon the oaths of jurors ſummoned and impannelled by the commiſſioners out of all orders of freemen, as well the great barons as inferior thanes in every hundred, lathe, rape or wapentake; the jurors were not confined to any definate number: in ſome counties the pannel did not exceed eight or nine, in others it conſiſted of more*. The inquiſitions being found, were tranſmitted to the king, and afterwards properly digeſted; the lands of each tenant being ſeparated, and claſſed under their reſpective heads and recorded in the Domeſday Book, which was depoſited in the treaſury with the royal ſeal†, and of ſuch weight and authority was this Record, that we are informed‡, in queſtions relative to tenures, the Conqueror himſelf more than once ſubmitted to it's authority; and for a conſiderable time ſubſequent to that period, Domeſday Book was conſidered as the only fountain of titles to eſtates, and no one was allowed to make a claim beyond it§; and, even at this day, upon queſtions which ariſe concerning a manor being Ancient Demeſne or not, the authority of this Record alone can, and doth determine it. Various are the opinions given by Mathew of Weſtminſter, Agard and others, of the motives of the Conqueror in making thoſe Surveys; but the ſuppoſition of judge Wright, in his Introduction to the Law of Tenure, p. 52, ſeems very plauſible; that it was in order to diſcover the quantity of every man's fee, and fix his homage.

Many enquiries have been made by our antiquary, after the originals of thoſe inquiſitions, but none of them ſeem to be found; nor is it likely they are in exiſtence, elſe they would have come to light ſome time ſince, from the diligent ſearch that have been made; though ſeveral rolls found in different archives, have been repreſented as thoſe original inquiſitions, until they were minutely inſpected.

Mr. Caſley, in his Appendix to his Catalogue of MSS. in the King's Library, hath engraven a ſpecimen of the characters of a MS. in the Cotton Library: Vitellius, C. VIII. 13. which he ſays, is one of thoſe rolls or inquiſitions. But Sir Joſeph Ayloffe, in his Preface to his Calendar of the Ancient Charters, and of the Welch and Scotch rolls now remaining in the Tower of London, hath fully detected that error; who ſays, "That upon peruſal of the "membranes which contain a great part of the Survey of the county "of Kent, it appears, that the poſſeſſions of each great land-holder "therein mentioned, although ſituated in different hundreds and "parts of the county, are brought together and claſſed under the "general heads of the Terra Regis, Terra Archiepiſcopi Cantuariæ,

" and this or that biſhop or religious houſe, or great lord or land-" holder;" which could not have been the manner of the inquiſitions, they being taken in every hundred ſeparately, and without any regard to ſuch other eſtates, as the ſame land-holder might have in any other hundred, and not claſſed under the names of the land-holders till after all the inquiſitions had been taken.

Another objection he ſtates with great propriety is, that in this MS. the account of the Servi Villani, Cotarii, Bordarii, &c. as alſo many paragraphs inſerted in moſt of the ſections of Domeſday are intirely and purpoſely omitted. The hand writing, he ſays, altho' ſmall and nearly ſimilar to that in which the greater Volume of Domeſday is written, is more modern, being that, commonly uſed in the reign of Henry I. laſtly, he ſays, ſeveral of the marginal references which occur in the greater Domeſday of the exchequer, are tranſcribed and incorporated into the text of this M S. he therefore concludes, it is not intitled to the honor conferred on it by Mr. Caſley of being one of the original inquiſitions, nor to the character given of it by Mr. Smith, who in his Catalogue of the Cottonian Library calls it " Pars Libri Cenſualis vocati Domeſday continens deſcriptionem Cantii. Characterе antiquo & temporibus regis W. I. competente." But on the contrary that it is a tranſcript ſome what abridged of part of the Conqueror's Domeſday.

In all probability it is one of thoſe Rolls or Copies which in ancient times it was uſual for great lords and others to have made for their private uſe; and in which, only particular parts, and not the whole county are tranſcribed. Such were thoſe which Dr. Gale, in his Script. Angl. vol. iii. p. 795, mentions to have been taken for the archbiſhop of Canterbury, and the abbies of Croyland, Ely and Worceſter. Sir Joſeph, in obſerving on the MS. in the king's library, ſays, " ſhould that be truly the caſe, (namely, that it was one of the original inquiſitions), it might furniſh an argument that the uſage of entering matters of record on rolls, being of higher antiquity than can otherwiſe be allowed;" then he obſerves, that this MS. is written on membranes of equal breath, but very unequal lengths; and tho' written upon equi-diſtant lines yet they differ conſiderably from each other in the number of lines. Although he hath ably and fully proved that this is not one of thoſe original inquiſitions, yet, as it appears to be record on rolls, diſproportioned as the they are, and he proves the hand-writing to be that of the time of Henry I. and the other tranſcripts ſcripts out of Domeſday Book, mentioned by Dr. Gale, others, being made on rolls of Parchment, it ſeems to afford a ſtrong proof of the uſage of entering matters of record on rolls; and the inequality of the length of the rolls can be no argument againſt it, as it perfectly agrees with many of the ancient Records of the exchequer, unleſs he means to ſay, that nothing can be called an inrollment that is not written on rolls, tacked end to end, in like manner as the patent rolls in the Tower and Rolls-chapel; which can hardly be ſuppoſed to be his meaning: for the practice of the exchequer hath ever been to enter their inrollments on long rolls, and not to tack them end to end in a ſtrait line; but, on the contrary, to pile their rolls on each other, and to faſten them at the upper end; then to put a ſtrong back of vellum on the outſide, and to bind them up in a roll. But I am much inclined to think, from the authority of Mr. Tayleure, who was ſenior officer to Mr. Madox, in the Lord Treaſurer's Remembrancer's Office, and who has left behind him MSS. that ſufficiently ſhew his knowledge of exchequer Records, that the term Roll, is not the ancient exchequer term, but that it is that of Book; for in a memorandum of his, dated in 1693, giving an account of every particular Record in the Lord Treaſurer's Remembrancer's Office, from the firſt year of Edward I. to the end of Charles II. he ſtates how many parts or bundles of rolls each year contains, and therein calls each part by the name of LIBER: viz. Recorda tempore Edwardi I. anni 1 & 2, in uno Libro; anni 2 & 3, in uno Libro; anni 17 & 18, in duobus Libris; and ſo on through the ſeveral reigns down to the reign of Charles II. ennumerating the number of parts or rolls made up in bundles in each year, by the name of Book; and, in like manner, the parts of each year of the ORIGINALIA, expreſſing their number by the word Book. Alſo the ſheriff's oath ſtates, "that he ſhall deliver into the exchequer, a BOOK fairly written on parchment," &c. this Book is the matter of Charge upon his account: it is made up at the Pipe; the ſheriff is appoſed thereon, and it is entered upon the great roll, and bears the name of the ſheriff's Book to this day. From theſe facts, it doth not appear to be too preſumptious to contend, that the term Book was the ancient, official, if not the general appellation given to all entries of Record; and that the term Rotulus made uſe of by Ingulphus, and others, was not the technical, but the ſcholaſtic term for inrollments, or entries of Record.

The Survey of the kingdom made by order of that wiſe and virtuous prince King Alfred, was alſo anciently called by the name of Boc, or Domeſday Book; but by the learned, ROTULUS and ROTULUS WINTONIÆ, from it's being depoſited at Wincheſter. This Survey was ſomething ſimilar to that of the Conqueror's but contained beſides, general principles of law, and puniſhments for offences. This monument of ancient wiſdom and juriſprudence, doubtleſs, is totally loſt; though, from what is ſtated by Ingulphus, it exiſted at Wincheſter the time he wrote his Hiſtory.

Another curious ancient document, (but not very correct, from the different readings of the copies now extant) is the Church and Civil Laws of the Ancient Britains, compiled by order of their prince Howel Dda, (or Howel the Good), in the year 940. This code, or book of law, was founded upon the teſtimony of ſix perſons ſummoned from every Cymmwd (or hundred) in his dominion, who aſſembled at his court, out of whom twelve laity and one ſcholar (as he is termed) were appointed to form the laws*.

The Ancient Britains had their BRAWD-LYFR, (or Domeſday-Book), wherein their laws and ſtatutes were recorded†; and from ſeveral of the Welch TRIADES, it appears, that the Welch, in early ages, entered of Record the proceedings of their courts of Law, which was called the CÔF LLYS‡. All theſe Records, however, as well as the original of Howel Dda's laws are now no more.

But to revert again to the ſubject of our exiſting Records, we find that the writs of ſummons and the returns to parliament, begin with thoſe of the forty-ninth year of Henry III. and although there is a calendar in the Tower of all the attainders, reſtitutions, and reſumptions extracted from the ſeveral parliament rolls from the twenty-ninth year of Henry III. till the end of his reign; yet the earlieſt parliamentary rolls now extant, are thoſe of the three parliaments held in the eighteenth year of Edward I. and the ſeries of the rolls of parliament ſubſequent to that, is far from being complete, many of them, and moſt particularly thoſe of Edward III. being miſſing, and others defective.

The petitions to parliament, with the anſwers thereto, do not begin until the firſt of Richard II. although Mr. Powell, in his Repertorie of Records, mentions fifteen bundles of petitions in parliament, from the ſecond to the thirtieth year of Edward III. as being at the Tower at the time he publiſhed his Book in the year 1631; but at preſent only one of theſe bundles, which is that of the ſeventh year of that king, and without any anſwer to it, can be found; nor is there any one of the original petitions in the reigns of Edwards I. or II. though Mr. Prynne and Mr. Rilley make mention of ſeveral; and there can be no doubt of what they aſſert, as the copies of ſeveral of thoſe petitions, and the reſponſes thereto, are in the MSS. of that able and learned judge lord chief juſtice Sir Matthew Hales, in the library of Lincoln's Inn.

The Placita Parliamentaria of the eighteenth year of Edward I. and ſeveral others of that reign, are at the Chapter-houſe: of theſe, a tranſcript called the VETUS CODEX, is at the Tower. The original Placita Parliamentaria at the Tower, do not commence till the reign of Edward II. The oldeſt ſtatute roll we can now find, is the ſtatute of Glouceſter, in the fifth year of Edward I. and the rolls from which ſeveral of our ſtatutes now in print were tranſcribed are totally loſt.

Writs of ſummons and returns to parliament, and writs for the knights and burgeſſes wages, are, for the moſt part, on the back of the cloſe rolls; and ſome times, though very rarely, on the back of the patent rolls.

Several eſſay rolls of the Mint, are at the Chapter-houſe; the firſt, in the reign of Edward I. and ſeveral indentures between the Crown, and the maſters and workers of the Mint; alſo, ſee in this Work, reference in the time of William and Mary, and Queen Ann, to the indentures between Sir Iſaac Newton, and the crown. Vol. I. Orig.

The Placita Foreſtæ begin about the tenth year of King John; the Placitæ Coronæ begin only the fifteenth year of Henry III. (anno 1232), and and the pleas of Quo Warranto, in the reign of Edward I. all of which, to the end of Edward III. are at the Chapter-houſe; ſince that period as the lord chief juſtice Hales obſerves, pleadings and judgements upon franchiſes and liberties, have not been before juſtices itinerant, but in the king's-bench or exchequer; and are reſpectively entered upon the king's-bench rolls, or MEMORANDA of the exchequer.

The inquiſitions Poſt Mortem, begin with the firſt year of Henry III. the roll, or regiſter of writs, does not commence till the middle of that reign, though it is well known ſuch mandates and precepts muſt have iſſued much earlier. And the inquiſitions, ad quod damnum, commence only in the firſt year of Edward II. and are a tolerable regular ſeries of Record: ſome at the Tower, the Rolls-chapel, and the Petty-bag.

The bundles of eſcheats begin only with the reign of Henry III. though from ſeveral great rolls of the Pipe, as well that of King Stephen, as it is called, as thoſe of Henry II. Richard I. and King John it appears that the eſcheats had long before that time made part of the revenues of the crown; the profits ariſing thereby being accounted for.

The earlieſt Records of Chancery we meet with, are thoſe tranſcripts called the Chartæ Antiquæ, which contain miſcellaneous exemplifications of charters of our ancient kings long prior to the time of king John, but mixed with others made in his reign, and apparently at that time put together; next, the charter rolls of the firſt year of his reign, the Norman rolls of the ſecond year of the ſame king, the patent rolls of the third year, and the cloſe rolls and fine rolls of the ſixth year. There are no rolls at the Tower, called charter rolls, later than the twelfth year of James I. (anno 1614); becauſe, ſince that time, charters are promiſcuouſly inrolled with other patents on the patent rolls. On the back of the patent rolls are the commiſſions and proclamations that paſs the great ſeal. The cloſe rolls contain writs of various kinds which iſſue under the great ſeal, with ſome writs indorſed as before obſerved.

A roll, containing extracts out of the patent rolls and cloſe rolls, of matters relating to WALES, from the firſt of Henry III. to the twenty-ſeventh of the ſame king; and other rolls from the fifth to the twenty-fourth year of Edward I. are at the Tower.

The

The reference to ſeveral of them Sir Joſeph Ayloffe has publiſhed in his Calendar. There are alſo two rolls, containing the Statuta Walliæ, made in the twelfth year of Edward I. at the Chapter-houſe.

The Aſſize rolls from the ſixth of Richard I. anno 1194, to the end of the reign of Henry VI. anno 1460, are at the Chapter-houſe; except a few in the reigns of Henry III. and Edwards I. and II. which are at the Tower. The Coronation roll of Edward II. and the claims of ſervices at the coronation of Richard II. and Henry V. at the Tower. Thoſe of James I. Charles II. James II. William and Mary, Queen Ann, George I. and II. at the Rolls-chapel.

The Liberate rolls, containing writs directing the payment of penſions or ſums of money out of the exchequer, or commanding ſheriffs to deliver the poſſeſſions of lands or goods extended, theſe, to the end of Edward IV. are ſeveral of them at the Tower; but many of them, from the beginning of Henry III. are at the Treaſurer's and King's Remembrancer's Offices, inrolled amongſt the MEMORANDA. The Hundred rolls, being regiſters of tenures, cuſtoms, &c. of hundreds made in the ſeventh year of Edward I. are at the Tower; the Court rolls of manors, which formerly belonged to the crown, are ſome at the Chapter-houſe, ſome at the Augmentation-office and ſome at the Auditors of the Land Revenue.

The Taxation rolls of the churches in the twentieth year of Edward I. are at the Tower; and the eccleſiaſtical or parliamentary ſurvey, made in the time of the common-wealth, is in the library of the archbiſhop of Canterbury, at Lambeth.

The ſurrenders of religious houſes to Henry VIII. are at the Augmentation-office; and the reports of the viſitors of monaſteries and religious houſes are at the Chapter-houſe; alſo, letters to lord Cromwell, in the time of Henry VIII. relating the ſtate of the monaſteries, and the diſorders of the monks, and two bags of ſurveys of monaſteries; but, generally ſpeaking, the ſurveys of monaſteries, are at the Augmentation and Firſt Fruits Offices. The rolls of miniſters accounts, containing accounts of the lands and poſſeſſions which came to the crown by attainder, purchaſe, ſuppreſſion of religious houſes, &c. at the Augmentation Office.

Surveys of manors and lands formerly belonging to the crown, and others, are ſome at the Auditors of the Land Revenue, ſome at the Chapter-houſe, the King's, and Treaſurer's Remembrancer's Offices, and other places. Miniſters accounts, ſurveys of honors, &c. within the Dutchy of Lancaſter, leaſes, grants, charters, patents, &c. of the Dutchy-Court, from the twenty-fifth of Edward III. anno 1350, being the time when the Dutchy and County Palatine were erected, and the regiſter of grants, from the fiftieth year of Henry III. anno 1265, when that king granted the earldom of Lancaſter to his ſon Edmund, down to the preſent time, are at the Dutchy of Lancaſter's Office Somerſet Place.

The Records of this country are principally depoſited in the following offices: viz. Thoſe of the ancient Curia Regis, and now the King's Bench, from the year 1195, to the end of the reign of Henry V. at the Chapter-houſe; and ſince then at the King's Bench Treaſury, at Weſtminſter. The Records of the Curia Regis, without doubt, muſt have commenced long prior to the above period, as that court being the ſupreme ordinary court of judicature, is well known to have been held immediately, or very ſoon after the Norman conqueſt; and, that from its firſt inſtitution, certain pleas and cauſes were eſpecially reſerved, and appropriated for diſcuſſion therein, which muſt have been properly entered of record according to their different nature; conſequently, thoſe Records have ſhared the fate of time and been mouldered away, or otherwiſe loſt or deſtroyed long ere this.

The Records of the Court of Common Pleas, from 1199, till the year 1509, are at the Chapter-houſe, and after that time at the Treaſury of the Common Pleas at Weſtminſter. The Exchequer Records are at the ſeveral offices of the King's Remembrancer's, Treaſurer's Remembrancer's, Clerk of the Pipe, Clerk of the Pleas, Foreign Appoſer, Clerk of the Nichills, Clerk of the Eſtreats, Comptroller of the Pipe, Auditors of the Land Revenue, Clerk of the Errors, Firſt Fruit and Tenths Office, and the Augmentation Office; this latter is now dependant on the Court of Exchequer, ſince the diſſolution of the Court of Augmentation of the Revenue of the Crown*.

The

The Chancery Records are ſome at the Petty Bag Office, Crown Office, Prothonatory's and Inrollment Offices, the Rolls Chapel and the Tower. The Records of the Court of Wards and Liveries, which was erected by act of parliament in the thirty-ſecond of Henry VIII. cap. 46, and aboliſhed in the twelfth year of Charles II. are ſome of them at the Chapter-houſe, others in private cuſtodies, and others totally loſt. Thoſe of the Court of Star Chamber, which was erected likewiſe by act of parliament in the third year of Henry VII. and aboliſhed in the ſixteenth year of Charles I. ſuch as bills, anſwers, depoſitions and proceedings of the court during that period, are at the Chapter-houſe; but what is become of the decrees made by this court appears too difficult to aſcertain. The Records belonging to the ſeveral Dutchies of Lancaſter and Cornwall, are in their reſpective Offices in Somerſet Place.

The Rolls of Parliament are ſome at the Tower, ſome at the Chapter-houſe, ſome at the Rolls Chapel, and ſome in the offices of the Clerks of Parliament. Treatiſes and Tranſactions with Foreign Nations, are to be found at the Tower, Chapter-houſe, States Paper Office, &c.

This ſummary view of the commencement of our preſent exiſting Records, and the ſeveral archives where they are depoſited, gives us but a very faint idea of their extent; nor will the limits of this diſcourſe afford our entering into any further particulars. From what has been already obſerved, we find them to be of that nature, as to command the public reſpect and attention from their general and univerſal ſervice, and as they are ſo many monuments of the wiſdom of our anceſtors. But, we alſo find, which is ſeriouſly to be lamented, that our different archives and public offices many of them contain parcels or parts of the ſame ſpecies of Records; this too often ſo confounds the enquirer, that he does not know which to ſelect for his application, renders ſearching exceeding troubleſome, and is the cauſe of perſons giving up the purſuit, when they have been unſucceſsful in one or two places, and makes it no ſmall ſtudy, in many inſtances, how to proceed in our enquiry with ſucceſs; whereas, had the different repoſitories contained expreſs and diſtinct ſpecies of Records, the labor would have been materially leſſened; or had we Indices of them publiſhed from the different offices as they are, it would be an acquiſition to the public ſufficiently worth a moderate expence. By this I do not mean to have an Index ſo as to contain a full full abſtract of each article, but ſimply in two or three lines at fartheſt; to have the name of the inſtrument, and that of either the perſon or place it relates to, and where it may be found; this, to ſome, may appear quite an utopian and impracticable idea; but I am far from being of that opinion: it is true, that it will require conſiderable induſtry and attention from ſeveral perſons for ſome time; but with thoſe requiſites, it would not be ſuch an herculian labor as many may imagine; as a proof of this, I would refer to Mr. Martin's MSS. in the Inner Temple Library, where the whole of the Records of the King's Remembrancer's Office are indexed ſufficiently full to aſſiſt in finding any grant, patent, or proceedings there recorded; yet, though numerous and extenſive as thoſe Records are, his MSS. are compreſſed into only two ſmall volumes in quarto.

And in the College of Arms, indices and abſtracts collected by individuals, Mr. Vincent and others, from ſuch a variety of the Record of this country as would aſtoniſh any one, nor does the world ſeem to be acquainted with them. There are abſtracts there of eſcheats from the firſt year of Henry III. to the middle of Edward IV. extracts of the patent rolls, and cloſe rolls for the ſame period; and of all grants relative to the Dutchy of Lancaſter. Alphabetical collections from the Tower, of all grants to monaſteries, cities, towns, boroughs, &c. extracts of reliefs from the Treaſurer's Remembrancer's Office from the firſt of Edward I. to the end of Edward IV. alſo abſtracts of plea rolls, fine rolls, and innumerable other Records. This kind of Index would be quite ſufficient for any purpoſe of ſearching, to ſhew where the thing enquired after might be found. It would not be neceſſary to give large extracts or copies in the manner Mr. Rymer, Mr. Prynne, Mr. Madox, and others have done; a work performed fully upon their plan, I admit, would be of a far greater national conſequence; but its magnitude would make the labor too great ever to accompliſh the taſk: whilſt the other, being quite an epitome, might be compaſſed in a reaſonable number of years. I do not mean to point out who would be the propereſt perſons to perform this taſk; but many profeſſional men might be found, who, poſſeſſing a tolerable competency of their own, would deem it reſpectable to ſerve the public in ſuch a work, for a reaſonable conſideration.

The reaſon why many Records have not already being indexed, is, that it takes ſome time before perſons are acquainted with their nature; that the youthful turn of the mind is ſeldom inclined to ſo ſe-

rious a ſtudy; and when they become able to judge, it becomes neceſſary to purſue other avocations to eſtabliſh themſelves in life; thereby, their ſituation, relative to whatever Record Office they belong, becomes only a ſecondary conſideration; and, as ſelecting of references is a work of application, the length of time it might take in being accompliſhed, and the lack of benefit ariſing gradually with the labor, is generally a ſufficient drawback upon the individual undertaking; but even the exertions of an individual is capable of performing more than we are generally apt to conceive, as we find from thoſe already mentioned, and from the preſent indefatigable labors of the Rev. Mr. Ayſcough, in the Britiſh Muſeum.

Having now ſo far treated of Records in general, it is incumbent, as hath been at firſt premiſed, to conſider the nature of the work before us; in the doing of which, it will in ſome degree, be neceſſary to conſider the conſtitution of the Exchequer; which, from its operation, produces the exiſtence of theſe Records in one of its offices, namely, the Lord Treaſurer's Remembrancer's: ſuch hath been the wiſdom of our anceſtors in forming the different branches of this court, (for no modern aſſiſtance hath it received), that they are continual checks upon the actions of each other, and prevent the poſſibility of fraud; whilſt in other inſtitutions, the poſſibility of fraud is the temptation which leads to the commiſſion of offences; and here I ſhall mention firſt the TALLY of the Exchequer, which, according to the wiſdom of perſons lately empowered to take them into conſideration, and of many others, are old-faſhioned, aukward ſort of things, and ought to be ſet aſide; and ſome new-fangled paper mode to be inſtituted in their room.

In anſwer to this, I think it neceſſary, only to lay down one evident propoſition: That mode which hath been found by the experience of many centuries to exclude the poſſibility of forgery, and thereby preſerve the lives of thoſe who would commit the act, were it within the compaſs of their reach, ought never to be diſturbed, without cauſes of equal conſequence.

I have never known but two attempts to forge Tallies, and the perpetrators were inſtantly detected; but in paper tranſactions, the offence, though politically held as an offence of almoſt the firſt magnitude, and invariably puniſhed with death without proſpect of pardon, is daily committed to an enormous extent.

The ſtudy of the Exchequer is like the ſtudy of a ſcience, the more perfect you are acquainted with it, the better you comprehend its operations and admire its principles.

I have obſerved, that the Exchequer hath received no modern aſſiſtance in perfecting its ſyſtem. I might more properly have ſaid, that the modern improvements, which have been attempted to be made in ſome part of it, have totally deſtroyed that object for which they were introduced; and that the ancient form, would itſelf have more readily operated a remedy; this proves that a thorough knowledge of the practice is neceſſary before it can be altered for the better. And that the wiſdom of politicians, or deplomatic characters of the firſt rank hath as little to do with the minutia of practice in the arcana of the Exchequer, as policks hath to do with the calculation of eclipſes.

I ſhall not go into the patriculars of paſſing the various accounts in the Exchequer, ſuch as ſheriffs, bailiffs of liberties, &c. nor ſhew with what care the crown proceſs is executed againſt defaulters, and at what a trifling expence the whole is conducted; but ſhall content myſelf with obſerving, generally, that human wiſdom can hardly deviſe any ſyſtem ſo fraught with neceſſary precaution, ſo ſecure by a proper check and controul from all poſſibility of fraud, as againſt the crown, and from injuſtice againſt the ſubject; but, perhaps, it may not be amiſs to point out the great inconvenience that ever ariſes from any the ſmalleſt innovations in the ancient practice; and this I ſhall endeavour to exemplify, in the caſe of paſſing the public accounts of the nation. Theſe were, till lately, paſſed before two patent officers, called the Auditors of the Impreſt, whoſe deputies and clerks drew the ſtate of account, followed them tilldeclaration, ſolicited them through the offices (if the parties requeſted it); and finally obtained the Accountant's Quietus.

As the Auditor's fees, in ſome inſtances, increaſed in a ratio proportional to the public expenditure, they became during the late American war exceſſive; which brought forward, from principles of œconomy, the abolition of thoſe offices; and a Board of Commiſſioners was by ſtatute 25 Geo. III. conſtituted in their room.

To the New Board, new and extraordinary powers were granted, for bringing forward the Accountants; but, in moſt other reſpects, the ancient mode of accounting continued, only the officers belonging to the board were forbidden to take any fees, or ſolicit any account. Trifling as this alteration may ſeem, it has been attended with very ſerious effects, as well to the intereſt of the Exchequer officers, as to the intereſt of the public; and will continue to do ſo while the Board think it expedient to adopt the practice they now do; which doubtleſs, they have ſome very wiſe reaſons for doing.

to

The bill enacts, by its 23d ſection, "That no article ſhall be "allowed in the account of any perſon intruſted with the expenditure "of the public money, without a written voucher, or other evi- "dence, of the actual payment of any ſum ſo claimed to be "allowed." Yet the Commiſſioners uniformly allow the Accountants the amount of the office fees of the ſeveral Exchequer offices, without any voucher or evidence whatever of the payment being made; nay, when they actually know, that no ſuch payment hath been made at all. The conſequence is, if the Accountant's receipts and diſburſements balanced before he was brought to account; at the time of the declaration of his account, he is put in poſſeſſion of ſo much money as the fees amount to, which operates to the prevention of his having his account recorded at all; becauſe, till that takes place, they, the officers, can make againſt him no regular demand of fees. If there is a balance againſt him, it tends ſtill ſtronger to prevent his carrying on his account through the ſeveral offices to be recorded: becauſe, till it is upon record, it is a maxim of the Court, that no writ can iſſue for the balance; conſequently, the very end of his accounting at all is defeated, and his original deficit to government is enlarged by the addition of the officers fees.

Under the preſent mode of accounting, therefore, beſides the injury to the officers, who pay land-tax for their offices, and in many caſes perform much public buſineſs without any emolument whatever, the public ſuſtain all poſſible injury that the caſe can admit of: for as I have ſhewn above, where the receipts and expenditures are equal, and where the balance is againſt the Accountant, he has no inducement whatever to proceed further than to the declaration of his account; and, conſequently, there is but one other body of accountants to diſpoſe of, and theſe are ſuch who have claims againſt the crown, and whoſe payments exceeding their receipts, are in ſurpluſage. Theſe want no motives to induce them to come forward, but the deſire to be reimburſed; and yet theſe are the only accountants that are at preſent compelled to record their accounts, and take out their Quietus; no Certificate of ſurplus being granted to them till they produce a voucher of the actual payment of the ſeveral office fees.

After entering into this evil, ſo far it will be thought neceſſary by the public, perhaps, that I ſhould point out ſome means of remedying the abuſe; but to this there is one very powerful objection, which is the reluctance the great always feel in adopting the meaſures of the humble; and yet it appears to me, that no ill conſequence whatever can ariſe by purſuing the words of the act, in compelling the payment of the fees before the declaration of the account, becauſe, that removes the reſponſibility from the Accountants, to the officers who are always on their duty, and whoſe neglect may be followed by immediate puniſhment; or if that mode is objectionable, the account may be paſſed without noticing the fees at all: and at the cloſe of each year the Auditors may certify to the Lords of the Treaſury, the amount of fees due to each office, on the accounts declared; and their Lordſhips may, on the grounds of this Certificate, ſafely direct the payment.

After thus glancing at the evils that uniformly follow the ſmalleſt alteration in this ancient, wiſe, and excellent ſyſtem, and in order to the right underſtanding of the further controul of the Exchequer, which always act by matter of record, it will be neceſſary for us to take a view of the cauſe of the ORIGINALIA coming from the Chancery into the Exchequer.

The Exchequer being the grand Conſervatory of the King's revenues, hath of Charge the land and caſual revenues of the crown; and all matters, deeds, charters or inſtruments, in any manner affecting thoſe revenues, muſt, therefore, be of record to anſwer the record of Charge: thus, all lands being the property of the crown, whilſt in the crown, muſt have been accounted for in the Exchequer; and when granted out, it was neceſſary that that grant ſhould be of record, to warrant the diſcharge of the original iſſues; and to charge the grantee by the proceſs of the court with the rent and ſervices reſerved.

And with reſpect to the caſual revenues ariſing from fines, iſſues and forfeitures; when any charter is granted to any city, borough or town, forming it into a body politic and corporate, it generally gives ſome immunities ariſing from the caſual revenue within that city, borough or town, town, or grants it fairs or markets, the profits of which had until then been accounted for; and they generally contain ſome dues, rents or ſervices reſerved to the crown, or from courts of juſtice being created therein, the caſual revenues ariſing in which ought to be returned to the Exchequer, to be there dealt with according to the courſe of the court. And alſo the commiſſions of the peace, the patents of creations, the licences of deafforeſtation, to alienate, to impark, to diſpark, patents of inventions, conſtitutions or patents of the officers of the crown, and various other matters under the great ſeal, by reaſon of their connection with the Exchequer, are tranſmitted there from the Petty Bag Office in Chancery, and bear the name of ORIGINALS, or ORIGINALIA.

Alſo fines and forfeitures ſet or impoſed as well in the ſaid Court of Chancery, as in the Court of King's Bench, Common Pleas, Courts of Seſſions of the Peace for counties, cities, boroughs, towns, &c. and before Commiſſioners of Sewers, are likewiſe returned into this court.

The firſt volume of this work being an Index NOMINUM VIRORUM, or of the names of grantees, contain reference to ALL THE GRANTS of abbey lands, and other property granted by the crown from the beginning of the reign of Henry VIII. to the end of the reign of Queen Ann, which are exceeding extenſive, as may be ſeen from the great ſpace occupied by the Index, although every article is compreſſed as ſmall as poſſible; and when it is conſidered that every two or three lines refer to an inſtrument of ſuch conſequence as a grant or charter, it will, in ſome degree, give us an idea of their extent, eſpecially when we conſider that moſt grants are exceeding long and generally contain a great number of places; and that charters, &c. are inſtruments of the firſt magnitude *, containing the conſtitution, regulation, and government of the place or company to which they belong; theſe are indexed according to the name of the city, borough, town, company, &c. to which they appertain.

With reſpect to the few places that are mentioned in ſome of the articles of Vol. I. which are afterwards arranged alphabetically at the end of the Index of ſome of the reigns; being ſo very few they are not of much uſe; but it were ſincerely to be wiſhed, that all the places in each grant were arranged in like manner, with a relation to the names of the grantees, by which means we ſhould have an Index Locorum to the Originalia as well as the preſent one.

But perſons who want to find grants of lands, have generally ſome knowledge of the families to whom they were originally granted; with that knowledge the preſent index to the Originalia will anſwer every purpoſe, but ſhould the grantee's name not be known, then by looking into Vol. II. which is an Index Locorum, under the name of the place, ſhould any pleadings have been had reſpecting it, you will upon the face of the pleadings there referred to, find the deſcent of the property; and almoſt invariably, a reference to the original grant. Should this mode alſo, not anſwer the purpoſe, it will be neceſſary to ſearch at the Augmentation Office, for the miniſter's accounts of the places granted; and at the foot of the laſt account, where the place ceaſes to be accounted for, is generally entered a Memorandum, ſtating, that it is accounted for no longer, becauſe it is granted to ſuch a perſon: with this information, we readily find, from this Index, the reference to the grant.

I had once an intention to apply for licence to extract the ORIGINALIA, for the purpoſe of making an Index Locorum; but, as it would be a labor of ſome time, and far from being advantageous, I have ſince judged it moſt prudent to decline the taſk, and hope ſome able hand will, ere long, render the public that eſſential ſervice.

The other part of this work, mamely, Vol. II. being an Index to the MEMORANDA, is an INDEX LOCORUM of inrollments of charters, grants, patents, &c. made to religious houſes*; to cities, boroughs and towns; lords of liberties, biſhops†, colleges, ſchools, trading companies, and other public bodies; patents of creations, warrants, writs, &c. under the great ſeal, privy ſeal, and ſign manual; deeds and conveyances of eſtates, made by private perſons; pleadings and proceedings relating to the tenures * and eſtates of the nobility, clergy and gentry, with judgments thereon; alſo proceedings called Claims of Franchiſes †, within the liberties of cities, boroughs, towns, lordſhips, manors, &c. and the judgments of the Court given in thoſe caſes.

Thoſe matters, when we conſider their import, muſt convey to our mind the great utility theſe Records, as well as the Originalia are of to the Public. That we may the better conceive their nature, I have given below, a few articles of the references, with an obſervation or two of their nature and extent; but every article in the work would equally admit of obſervations being made, each article being as conciſe as poſſible, and containing in the whole near THIRTY THOUSAND references, which, were they all to be a little extended or commented upon, would ſwell the Preface to as many volumes again as the body of the Work.

It is impoſſible to give general heads, ſufficiently deſcriptive of the nature of the Memoranda, as they contain ſuch a vaſt variety of things relating to ſecular and religious ‡ matters.

One other head of Records in the Memoranda may be proper to be mentioned, which are the Commiſſions § that have iſſued at various times, and for various purpoſes, as are therein ſtated, and the returns made to many of them; which generally contain a great deal of uſeful information, and contribute much to the liquidating matters in diſpute relative to landed property; and the general tenour of theſe Records tend much to the arbitrating and ſettling all matters of diſputes relative to landed property and to tythes, and innumerable other things.

The Lord Treaſurer's Remembrancer's Office, as hath been obſerved, is the repoſitory of an abundance of valuable Records; though at preſent, an office not very publicly known. From the buſineſs that hath been there tranſacted, it muſt have been an office of conſiderable conſequence. The reaſon of the change ſeems to have ariſen from a change of practice, and principally from the abolition of the Courts of Wards and Liveries, though the pleading greatly fell off in the time of Charles I.

In the reign of Charles II. a fire happened in Sir Thomas Robinſon's building, which burnt many of the Records of that reign; and of the ORIGINALIA, only thoſe of the 12th, 13th, 14th and 15th, and a very few of the 29th are in being: all the other reigns are complete, with the loſs only of very few parts which were burnt in the fire of London in 1666, at the Office in Ivy-Lane, where it was then held. The Originalia burnt, excepting thoſe of Charles II. are as follow:--- 9 Pars Original. 3 Car. I. 3 Pars Original. 9 Car. I. 5 Pars Original. 14 Car. I. 3, 4, 6, 7 & 10 Partes Original. 8 Jac. As the public are but little acquainted with the preſent Conſtitution of this office, I thought it would not be an unacceptable thing to give it to them at full length, as I find it. They will there find what public buſineſs is now tranſacted in that office; what fees, rewards, and wages are paid for the doing thereof; and what part is performed without any fee or reward; which are fully explained in the following pages.

The OATH of the JURORS.

" YOU ſhall diligently enquire and true Preſentment make, according to the beſt of your Knowledge, and ſuch Evidence as ſhall appear before you, what Officers, Clerks, and Miniſters do and ought of Right to belong and appertain to the Offices hereafter mentioned: viz. The Lord Treaſurer's Remembrancer's Office, in His Majeſty's Court of Exchequer; the Pipe Office; the Surveyor of the Revenue of the Green-Wax; Foreign Appoſer; Clerk of the Nichills; Clerk of the Eſtreats; Secretary to the Chancellor; Sealer; the Baron's Clerks; the Curſiter Baron's Clerks; the Examiner's; Meſſenger; Uſhers; Marſhal of the Court; Marſhal and Aſſociate at Niſi Prius in London and Middleſex; Cryer of Niſi Prius in London and Middleſex; Tipſtaff; Court Keeper; Clerks of the Errors in the Exchequer Chamber; Firſt Fruits and Tenths Office; and Augmentation Office; and what Service, Charge and Attendance doth belong to every of the ſaid Officers, Clerks and Miniſters; and what Fees, Rewards and Wages every of the ſaid Officers, Clerks and Miniſters, and their Subſtitutes, or Under Clerks, may or ought lawfully to have and take, for or in reſpect of their ſeveral Offices, and Places; and what Fees, Rewards and Wages, have of late been unjuſtly incroached and impoſed upon His Majeſty's Subjects by any of the ſaid Officers, their Subſtitutes, or Under-Clerks: And alſo what Extortions, Oppreſſions and Exactions have been uſed or committed by any of the ſaid Officers, or any of their Subſtitutes or Under Clerks, in the Execution of their ſeveral Offices and Places."

The PRESENTMENT of the JURORS, whoſe Names are hereunto ſubſcribed:

" WE, the Jurors, hereunder written, having upon our Oaths inquired into the ſeveral following Matters given to Us in charge, and conſidered of the ſame, and examined the ſeveral Officers intereſted and concerned in the reſpective Offices mentioned in our ſaid Charge, or their Deputies or Agents on their Behalfs, upon Oath do make the following Preſentment:

" As to the LORD TREASURER's REMEMBRANCER's OFFICE, in His Majeſty's Court of Exchequer, and what Officers, Clerks and Miniſters, do, and ought of Right to belong and appertain to the ſaid Office, we find, that by long and ancient Uſage, there do, and ought of Right to belong to the ſaid Office, the ſeveral Officers following, viz. The Remembrancer, and his Deputy, Five Sworn Clerks, and their Under-Clerks, a Filazer, (being one of the ſaid Five Sworn Clerks) and a Bagman."

" And we find, that the ſaid Remembrancer is a Patent Officer, by Grant from the Crown, for Three Lives, with a Power to execute the ſame by Deputy; and hath a Salary of 64*l. per Annum* paid by the Crown, ſubject to the Land-Tax, and 6*d.* Duty on Salaries, and to Treaſury and Tellers Fees. And he hath alſo a Livery-Fee yearly of 2*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* paid out of the Wardrobe for Robes, ſubject to the like Fees and Deductions; and an Allowance every Michaelmas Term of a Bag, for his Papers, a Pewter Stand-diſh, a Penknife, half a Hundred of Pens, a quarter of a Pound of Sealing-Wax, a ſmall Box of Wafers, a ſmall Piece of Red Tape, and a Ream of Writing-Paper every Term, and the Acts of Parliament every Seſſion. We find that the ſaid Remembrancer rarely attends the ſaid Office in Perſon, but executes the ſame by his Deputy, as hath been generally done; and that he pays his ſaid Deputy a Salary of 40*l.* a Year for executing the ſaid Office for him."

" And we alſo find, that the ſaid five Sworn Clerks and Filazer, hold their reſpective Offices under the ſaid Remembrancer for Life, and are appointed by him; and that by like ancient Uſage in this Office, the Senior Sworn Clerk is Firſt Secondary therein; and the next in Seniority is called the Second Secondary; and that all the Buſineſs that ariſes in this Office is tranſacted and done by the ſaid Remembrancer or his Deputy; the ſaid two Secondaries and ſworn Clerks, and their under Clerks as herein after is ſet forth and diſtinguiſhed."

" As to the Service, Charge and Attendance belonging to the ſaid Remembrancer or his Deputy, we find that the ſaid Remembrancer is by himſelf or Deputy, to attend the Chancellor and Barons of the Court of Exchequer in Court, in Term Time, and at their Chambers in Vacations, for the diſpatch of the Buſineſs of the Crown and the Subject; and to take the Minutes in Court, and draw up and enter all Orders thereon, make Reports and tax Coſts, as there is occaſion. And that the reſt of the Buſineſs in this Office is tranſacted and done by the ſaid five Sworn Clerks, and their Under Clerks; and that the greateſt Part of ſuch Buſineſs is afterwards examined and ſigned by the ſaid Remembrancer or his Deputy."

" And we alſo find, that the ſaid Remembrancer provides Parchment for writing the Crown Proceſs into all the Counties of England, and for all other Buſineſs of the ſaid Office; and convenient Chambers for the Execution of the ſame. And that in conſideration thereof the ſaid Salary of 64 l. per Annum is yearly allowed by the Crown to him as aforeſaid, being the ſame Allowance which hath been made, as we are informed, and apprehend, from the firſt Erection of the ſaid Office, when the value of Money was much greater, and the Remembrancer's Expences for Parchment and Chambers leſs. And that the Annual Charge and Expences of the ſaid Office to the ſaid Treaſurer's Remembrancer, including the Land-Tax, Deputy's Salary, Chamber Rent, Parchment, Candles, Laundreſs, and certain other Payments andAllowances by him made and paid, does amount to 100 l. and upwards."

" And we find that the ſaid Remembrancer, or his Deputy on his Behalf, claims, and as we apprehend, may lawfully take the ſeveral Fees, as due and appertaining to him for and on the Account of the ſeveral Buſineſſes done in the ſaid Office, mentioned and ſet forth in SCHEDULE I. or Table of Fees hereunto annexed; wherein we have diſtinguiſhed ſuch of the ſaid Fees as are eſtabliſhed by Act of Parliament made in the Third Year of the Reign of His late Majeſty King George I. and ſuch other Fees as are claimed and have been made out to us upon Oath, to have been taken by him, or his Deputy for Forty Years paſt."

" As to the Service, Charge, Attendance and Fees of the Firſt Secondary in the ſaid Office, we find that the ſaid Firſt Secondary, (beſides the Service, Charge, and Attendance incumbent upon him as one of the ſaid Five Sworn Clerks,) is as Firſt Secondary, to make Entries of Accounts of the greater and leſſer Accountants, for which he claims; and, as we apprehend, may lawfully take the ſeveral Fees mentioned in SCHEDULE II. or Table of Fees hereunto annexed, all which he hath made out to us upon Oath, to have been taken by his Predeceſſors in the ſaid Office for upwards of Forty Years, except ſuch Fees as are claimed and taken by him in reſpect of New Accounts, and which are taken in Proportion to the Fees taken for the Old Accounts. And we alſo find, that he receives an ancient Fee of 5 l. per Annum from the Crown, for his General Attendance upon the Crown Buſineſs in the ſaid Office; and we do not find, that as Firſt Secondary, he claims or takes any other Fees, Rewards or Wages, for ſuch his ſaid Service, than what are ſet forth in the ſaid Second Schedule hereunto annexed."

" And we alſo find, that although ſeveral of the ſaid Fees, ſo taken by the ſaid Firſt Secondary for entering the ſaid Accounts appear very large, yet on inſpecting Specimens of the Work done by him, for which he Charges theſe Fees, and which hath been done by a Committee of Four of Us, appointed for that Purpoſe, we conceive that the ſaid Fees are not unreaſonable, conſidering the Nature and Length of the ſaid Work. And we alſo find, that he pays out of every one of the ſaid Fees, a Fee of 6*s.* 8*d.* to the Remembrancer, for the greater Accounts only."

" As to the Office of Second Secondary in the ſaid Office, his Duty, Service, Charge, Attendance and Fees, we find, that he likewiſe receives from the Crown an ancient Fee of 4 l. per Annum for the General Attendance upon the Crown Buſineſs in the ſaid Office, ſubject to Fees and Deductions at the Treaſury, and Receipt of Exchequer on Payment thereof; and that it belongs to him as Second Secondary to execute the ORIGINALS, being the Eſtreats or Tranſcripts from the Chancery of all Patent Rolls, and Grants from the Crown, tranſmitted into the ſaid Office, which is done by making a Repertory to each Tranſcript, containing a ſhort Abſtract thereof by Way of Index to the Whole, and extracting the Rents reſerved to the Crown thereupon, to the End they may be put in Charge for the King's Service, for which Service a Fee of Forty Marks hath been allowed by the Crown; being the ſame Fee, as we are informed, hath been allowed ever ſince the ORIGINALS have been tranſmitted from the Chancery into the ſaid Office. And it is repreſented to Us, that as this Service is attended with much Trouble, and very inconſiderable Profit, it hath not been performed in that Manner it ought to have been, by the ſeveral Perſons who of late Years, have been Second Secondaries in the ſaid Office. And that MR. HENRY THOMPSON, lately deceaſed, who was Second Secondary, finding great Number of ORIGINALS remaining undigeſted that were tranſmitted from the Chancery, in the Time of his Predeceſſors, and that it would be a Work of much Difficulty and Expence to execute the ſaid ORIGINALS in the Manner they ought to be, did, for ſeveral Years, decline doing the ſaid Buſineſs and receiving the ſaid Forty Marks; as he apprehended the ſame to be by no Means a Recompence for that Service; and it is alſo repreſented to Us, that it will be for the Public Service to have the ſaid ORIGINALS and RECORDS, which have for many Years laid in diſorder, put into proper Order; and that a reaſonable Allowance ſhould be made to the ſaid Second Secondary for doing the ſame, ſo as that Work may be carried on for the future, in ſuch Manner as that the ſaid RECORDS may be preſerved and made uſeful, which at preſent they are not, for the Cauſe aforeſaid."

"And we further find, that the ſaid ORIGINALS have not been executed or put into due Order ſince the Reign of CHARLES II. which may be a diſſervice to the Crown; and, in our humble Opinions, ought to be redreſſed. And that no ORIGINALS have been tranſmitted from the Petty-Bag Office, into the ſaid Remembrancer's Office, ſince the beginning of the Reign of the late King George. And we further find, that for the aforeſaid Reaſons, the preſent Second Secondary hath not received the ſaid Fee of Forty Marks, or any Part thereof. And we do not find, that as Secondary, he claims any other Fees, Rewards, or Wages for ſuch his ſaid Service, than the ſaid 4*l.* and Forty Marks per Annum."

"As to the Office of Filazer, it belongs to him to make out yearly, a Scroll of the King's Accountants; ſuch as Sheriffs, Bailiffs of Liberties, Mayors and Eſcheators; and to attend and call them in Court at their ſeveral Days of Prefixions, to come and account, and to enter thereon the Time and Manner of their being ſworn to account; to file all Warrants; to make out the Proffer-Roll twice in every Year, as well of Sheriffs as others; and to attend at the Receipt of the Exchequer, and call them over on the Morrow of the Cloſe of Eaſter, and the Morrow of St. Michael to make their Proffers; to make the Bills of Writs and of Eſtreats, and to call the ſame over in Court; and to draw down and tranſmit to the Pipe-Office, Amerciaments upon ſuch Sheriffs who do not regularly return their Proceſs, or paſs their Accounts; and upon Clerks of the Peace and Aſſize; Clerks of Seſſions of Sewers; and Town Clerks, for not returning their Eſtreats in due Time. And we alſo find, the ſaid Filazer claims, and as we apprehend, may lawfully take, for ſuch his Service and Buſineſs, the ſeveral Fees mentioned in SCHEDULE II. or Table of Fees hereunto annexed; wherein we have diſtinguiſhed ſuch as are eſtabliſhed by the Act of Parliament herein before mentioned, and ſuch as the ſaid Filazer claims, and, as we apprehend he may lawfully take as accuſtomed Fees, made out to us upon Oath, to have been taken by him and his Predeceſſors for Forty Years laſt paſt and upwards."

"As to the Service, Charge, and Attendance belonging to the ſaid Sworn Clerks in the ſaid Office, we find it to be to attend the Chancellor and Barons of the Court of Exchequer in Court in Term Time, and at their Chambers in Vacation, for the Diſpatch of the Buſineſs of the Crown and the Subject; to attend the Court upon the Examination of the ſeveral Sheriffs, touching the due Execution of the King's Proceſs directed to them, when they come upon their Appoſals; and to certify to the Clerk of the Pipe what has been received; and what Lands, Goods and Chattels have been ſeized by the ſeveral Sheriffs upon the ſaid Proceſs; to the End they may ſtand charged with the ſame in their reſpective Accounts, for the King's Benefit; and to attend the Curſitor Baron upon the final ſtating of their Accounts to caſt them out of Court; to inroll the Orders and Judgments of the Court on Pleas upon the Statute of Henry VIII. commonly called the Statute of Equity; for the compounding, mitigating, or diſcharging of Fines, Iſſues, Amerciaments or Recognizances; and all other Orders, Judgments, and Warrants of the Court, touching the Land or Caſual Revenue of the Crown, or relating to the Accountants or Officers of the Court, and other Matters; to make out Commiſſions purſuant to the Directions of the Barons of the Exchequer, for ſwearing of Sheriffs, Clerks of the Peace, Mayors, Eſcheators, and other Accountants; to prepare and attend the making the Proffers of the Sheriffs, and Bailiffs of Liberties, Mayors and Eſcheators, &c. at Eaſter and Michaelmas yearly; to draw and inroll the Petitions of Sheriffs, for Allowance upon their Accounts, and the Allowances made thereupon; and for diſcharging them of ſuch Sums as have been charged upon them in their Accounts, as often as the Court thinks fit to direct the ſame; to inroll Grants, Patents, and Warrants under the Great Seal, Privy Seal, and Sign Manual, or from the Lords Commiſſioners of the Treaſury, and Deeds and Conveyances of Eſtates made by private Perſons; to ſearch for and make Copies of Records belonging to the ſaid Office, as often as the ſame ſhall be applied for; to make Remembrances of the Records in the ſaid Office, which are called the MEMORANDA, and which formerly contained a great Variety of Pleadings, relating to the Tenures and Eſtates of the Nobilty and Gentry in ENGLAND, with Judgment given by the Court of Exchequer thereupon; but now, and for divers Years paſt contain only ſuch Pleadings and Judgments as relate to Claims of Franchiſes, and Privileges within Manors; Towns and Liberties, Acts of the Court of Exchequer, concerning the Accounts of Sheriffs, Eſcheators, &c. Matters concerning the Charge and Diſcharge of the King's Debtors and Accountants, Acts and Orders of Court concerning the Land Revenue, and Caſual Revenue of the Crown; ſuch as Fee-Farms, Fines, Poſt-Fines, Iſſues, Amerciaments, Recognizances, &c. and alſo to make out Writs in Aid of Sheriffs, and other Accountants, and Grantees of the Crown as Purchaſers of Fee-Farm Rents, &c. and we alſo find that the ſaid Clerks write over all Debts due to the Crown on Account of Fines, Iſſues, Amerciaments, Recognizances, Arrears of Taxes, and other Land and Caſual Revenues; and twice in every Year ſend out Proceſs for levying the ſame for the King's Uſe; being a Service of much Trouble, and for which we find they do not receive any Salary, Wages, or Allowance whatſoever, ſave an ancient Fee of 22*l.* 10*s.* paid to them by the Crown, every ſecond Year, for Amerciament-Money, which is equally divided among them."

Crown

"And with regard to the Buſineſs of ſending out Proceſs, the ſaid Sworn Clerks have repreſented to us, and we beg Leave to obſerve, that the ſame hath been ſo greatly increaſed of late Years that in the Counties of LONDON and MIDDLESEX only, within the Space of the laſt Four Years, upwards of 5,500 Debts have been written into Proceſs, for the Service of the Crown by the Clerks of theſe Counties, without any Fee or Reward for the ſame; and in order to render the ſaid Service more Beneficial to the Crown, the ſeveral Debts in MIDDLESEX, about two Years ago were, and now continue to be by him wrote into Proceſs by themſelves; whereas, before, the ſame were all wrote promiſcuouſly together, by which Means the Time which was allowed the Sheriff to execute the ſaid Proceſs, was almoſt ſpent before the ſaid Proceſs was delivered over from the ſaid Sheriff of MIDDLESEX, to the Secondaries of LONDON; or if it ſo happened that the Proceſs was delivered to them firſt, from the ſaid Secondaries of LONDON, to the Sheriff of MIDDLESEX. The ſaid Clerks do likewiſe draw down and enter upon Record, all ſuch Debts and Sums of Money as appear by the Returns of the King's Accountants to have been levied upon the before mentioned Proceſs, and tranſmit the ſame to the Pipe-Office, to the End the ſaid Accountants may be charged therewith in their Accounts, and anſwer the ſame to the Crown; which Service the ſaid Clerks likewiſe do without receiving any Salary, Wages or Allowance whatever, ſave as aforeſaid."

"To the Third Clerk of this Office it doth likewiſe belong to make Entries of all Eſtreats from the King's-Bench and Common Pleas, and from the ſeveral Clerks of Aſſize, Clerks of the Peace, and Clerks of the Commiſſioners of the Sewers in ENGLAND, before they are tranſmitted to the Clerk of the Eſtreats; which Service is alſo performed without any Wages or Allowance whatſoever, ſave s aforeſaid."

"To the Junior Sworn Clerk in this Office, it belongs to make Books, containing the Names of thoſe who are named in the preceding Year by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and other Lords of His Majeſty's moſt honourable Privy Council, as proper Perſons to ſerve the Office of Sheriff in the ſeveral Counties of ENGLAND; for which, likewiſe, no Fee or Reward is allowed or taken, ſave as aforeſaid."

"And we find, that the ſaid Sworn Clerks claim, and as we apprehend, may lawfully take for ſuch their ſaid Service and Attendance, the ſeveral Fees mentioned in SCHEDULE IV. or Table of Fees hereunto annexed, and we have therein diſtinguiſhed ſuch of the ſaid Fees as are eſtabliſhed by the Act of Parliament herein before mentioned; and ſuch other Fees as the ſaid Sworn Clerks claim, and as we apprehend, they may lawfully take as accuſtomed Fees, made out to us upon Oath to have been taken by them and their Predeceſſors, for Forty Years laſt paſt and upwards."

"As to the Service and Buſineſs of the Bagman of the ſaid Office, and his Fees, we find that the Buſineſs of the ſaid Bagman is to attend the ſaid Office every Day; to carry Writs and Commiſſions to be ſealed; and to carry the Minute-Book, in Term Time every Day, to WESTMINSTER; and to carry all Matters belonging to the Sheriffs Buſineſs, and Records and Accounts, up to the Pipe Office. And we further find, that the ſaid Bagman claims, and as we apprehend, may lawfully take, for ſuch his Buſineſs the ſeveral Fees and Rewards mentioned in SCHEDULE V. or Table of Fees hereunto annexed; and we have therein diſtinguiſhed ſuch of the ſaid Fees as are eſtabliſhed by the Act of Parliament herein before mentioned, and ſuch other Fees as we apprehend, and as hath been made out to us upon Oath to be the old accuſtomed Fees taken by the ſaid Officer and his Predeceſſors Time out of Mind."

"And we find that the ſaid Side Clerks, Under Clerks, or Writing Clerks in the ſaid Office, claim to take the ſeveral Fees mentioned in SCHEDULE VI. hereunto annexed; which are all eſtabliſhed by the ſaid Act of Parliament, except the laſt Item, which hath been made out to us upon Oath, to have been taken by them and their Predeceſſors Time out Mind."

"And we do not find that the ſaid Remembrancer, or his Deputy, or any other Officers or Clerks aforeſaid, claim or take any other Fee, Reward or Wages, in reſpect of their Offices or Places; or that any Reward, Fees or Wages have of late Time been unjuſtly incroached or impoſed upon his Majeſty's Subjects, or that any Extortions, Exactions or Oppreſſions have been uſed or committed by them, or any of them in their ſaid Offices."

Considering

Conſidering the preſent State and Buſineſs of the Lord Treaſurer's Remembrancer's Office, this Preſentment doth give us a full and particular Account. The ancient State and Buſineſs we muſt gather from the Records themſelves: as the Preſentment only ſtates generally, "that the Memoranda formerly contained a great variety of Pleadings relating to the Tenures and Eſtates of the Nobility and Gentry, with the Judgments given by the Court of Exchequer thereupon." This relates only to what is called the Communia, whereas the Memoranda is compoſed of various Heads, as hath before been obſerved, which are arranged thus: The Adventus Vicecomituum Ballivorum & aliorum ad Computandum; the Communia; Recogniziones; Scripta obligatoria; Affidationes; Brevia; Status & Viſus Compotorum & Præcepta; all containing Proceedings according to their various Denominations.

The Obſervation in the Preſentment relative to the State of the Originals and Records, meaning the Originalia and Memoranda, makes it neceſſary to obſerve, for the Public Information, that the Originalia are all regular to the preſent Time, with the Exceptions before mentioned, and may eaſily be found; but they are not bound up with Vellum Backs, and properly indorſed and arranged as they ought to be from Cha. II. though Repertories of the Contents of all of them have been regularly made to the beginning of the preſent Reign; for I myſelf, on Behalf of Mr. CHAPMAN, the late Deputy Remembrancer and Second Secondary, made the Repertories for the Reigns of Geo. I. and Geo. II. but as they only contain Patents of Offices, Creations, Penſions, and Patents for Inventions, ſome few American Donations, and very few Charters, I did not conceive it would be worth the Public Attention to have them indexed; beſides, their being Matters ſo modern, that they are well known to all intereſted; and can be found without any Difficulty.

It may eaſily be perceived, by the Index to the Originalia of Queen Ann, that the Nature of that Specie of Record was declining to nothing but the kinds of Patents I have juſt mentioned; indeed, the Crown had been ſo laviſhing in Grants of Lands from the beginning of Henry VIII.* to the end of Charles I. that little ſeemed then left to be granted at all; which, probably, was the Cauſe of the Statute of the 1ſt of Queen Ann, to reſtrain the Crown from granting in Fee, excepting only forfeited Eſtates.

* Many Particulars upon which Grants were founded, during the Reigns of Henry VIII. Edward VI. Philip & Mary, and Elizabeth, are at the Augmentation-Office.

With reſpect to the Condition of the Memoranda, it is certainly true, as ſtated in the Preſentment, that they have not been arranged and methodized for above one Hundred Years paſt; which, doubtleſs, is a great public Loſs, and ought to be remedied: eſpecially as it may be done at a very ſmall public Expence. For however the preſent Officers may wiſh to ſerve the Public, it cannot be expected that they will without any Compenſation whatever; and at great Labor, and ſome Expence, remedy the Neglect of their Predeceſſors for ſuch a Number of Years, though I well know their Readineſs to aſſiſt, and their Anxiety to have the Records in proper Order.

When we conſider the preſent Work in an hiſtorical Point of View, we find almoſt in every Page it's authentic Corroboration of the Periods of the Exiſtence of many of the Perſons diſtinguiſhed in our national Hiſtory; ſome from the Offices * they held, others by the Grants made to them by the Monarchs of their Time, as well thoſe Perſons who for honorable Services, have deſerved well of their Country, as Court Dependants †, who have ſhone in temporary Greatneſs, whom the well informed hiſtorical Reader will eaſily diſtinguiſh.

And we ſhall likewiſe find it informing upon many general Tranſactions ‡, but moſt particularly on Topographical § Tranſactions ſo truly neceſſary to be known by Topographical Hyſtorians; whom, as hath been before obſerved, ought never to attempt to write without firſt conſulting fully thoſe Monuments of Information. Every Page, in

in Truth, is ſo full of Topographical Information, that to give more Inſtances would be totally unneceſſary.

The ſeveral Records belonging to the Lord Treaſurer's Remembrancer's Office, and referred to by this Work, are kept in the Record-Room, behind the Court of Exchequer at Weſtminſter, but are, in a ſhort Time, to be removed from thence into Somerſet Place, ſo as to be near the Office; which will be of great Conveniency to the Public.

There are ſome few References in this Work, made to Records on the King's Remembrancer's Side; when that happens, it is ſo mentioned or marked with R. R. meaning Rememorator Regis; and there are alſo ſome referring to the Great Roll of the Pipe, which are likewiſe ſo expreſſed.

The Editor has to aſſure the Public, that every Care and Attention hath been paid by him to render this Work as correct and as uſeful as poſſible; for great Part of the Materials of which, the Public are particularly indebted to the Labors of Mr. Tayluere, formerly Firſt Secondary in the Remembrancer's Office; to the late Mr. Madox, who wrote the Hiſtory of the Exchequer, who was alſo an Officer in the ſame Office; and to Mr. Chapman, the late Deputy Remembrancer there, from whoſe ſeveral Manuſcripts, and from the Records themſelves, the Materials to this Work have been collected; which, ſhould they be found of Utility to the Public, will fully gratify the Expectations of the Editor, for they muſt not look here for fine Writing, or Style of Manner, it being but rugged and crude Materials, tending only to inform the Reader where the Subject Matter is to be found; the Records of which are written in Latin with all the uſual Record Contractions: a conſiderable Collection of thoſe Contractions the Editor hath made from the ſeveral Records which he intends to publiſh with proper Expoſitions, and a full Specimen of the Hands Writing of the ſeveral Æras, to render the reading of Records familiar to the Public.

COR-

CORRIGENDA.

The EDITOR has exerted every Means in his Power to render this Work as correct as poſſible: and, conſidering the vaſt Number of Figures it contains, and its being in a Language that the Compoſitor could not correct a ſingle Typographical Miſtake, he hopes that the Public will conſider, that in an original Work of this Nature, the Errors are as few as could well be expected.
