THE CANCER HOSPITAL

(FREE)

FOUNDER-WILLIAM MARSDEN, M.D.

BROMPTON, S.W.,

FOR THE TREATMENT OF THE POOR AFFLICTED WITH CANCEROUS DISEASE.

The only Special Refuge for Poor Persons afflicted with this fearful disease, who are admitted free, without Letters of Recommendation.

This Hospital has been in operation since 1851. It began upon a very small scale, but by the generous support of a benevolent public it has gradually increased, and has given relief since its foundation to 25,747 persons suffering under this terrible scourge of humanity. It is difficult to imagine any attempt to remove or mitigate human suffering in which the impossibility of deception is more absolute, or in which the duty of sympathy with the sufferer is more undeniable.

It has recently undergone great extension, is freehold, is capable of receiving about 120 In-door Patients, who, from the nature of the disease, require most generous diet, as well as medicines of the most expensive kind. No restriction is placed on the admission of Out and In-Patients, the number of which amounts to nearly 500 constantly under treatment.

During the year 1886 the total number of New Patients was 1628. Of these 652 were admitted as In-Patients, and 976 were treated as Out-Patients. Of the In-Patients, 187 were Males and 465 Females. Of the Out-Patients, 271 were Males and 705 Females. The total number of visits made by new and old Out-Patients was 6276.

The average length of time which beds have been occupied by Patients is necessarily longer than at most London Hospitals, which have not to deal with such a terrible and chronic disease as Cancer.

In the last two or three years the necessary expenditure has been about £3000 more than the reliable income of the Charity. To meet such deficiency New Annual Subscriptions or Donations are earnestly solicited. A Form is attached hereto for the purpose of facilitating the transmission of contributions, which will be thankfully received

By the Treasurer, George T. Hertslet, Esq., F.R.G.S., St. James's Palace, S.W.

Extract from a Sermon preached in aid of the Cancer Hospital, by the Most Reverend the late Lord Archbishop of Canterbury.

"Relieving the halt and the blind is not to be recompensed here, but will be recompensed at the resurrection, when you will all have to appear before the judgment-seat; and those who have had talents assigned by the Lord must give an account of their stewardship. The faithful will be then judged. Giving what is due to charity shows faith; so also does it to suffer affliction; it shows our faith to employ our substance in complying with the will of God, which demands the sacrifice of part of our means, and passes for something beyond the present world. Whoever has in this world good things, and pays no regard to him who has little, does not fulfil the commandment of God. The special Hospital for which I plead to-day is dedicated to a malady of a most fearful character; but I would not distress your feelings for one moment by describing the sufferings from the first symptom of its attack to its close, yet I could wish that the greatness of those sufferings should be more apparent. I feel none could resist doing something to mitigate that misery, for we know that such misery does exist, as surely as if we saw it with our eyes. The Institution has been established but a few years, and great is the good it has already conferred. Much more, it is hoped, may be done by it for suffering humanity. The Lord went about doing good, and showing His Almighty power by works of mercy. God is pleased to see the exercise of faith in the practice of charity.

"I therefore, in conclusion, urge upon you the necessity of regulating your expenditure, and to bear in mind the command to do good and to distribute. Eternal life is the gift of God, and He does expect that we examine ourselves and form our faith. Let nothing, whether self-indulgence or not, be a hindrance to your bounty. Our inheritance is the kingdom of Christ above, which we gain by faith and keeping the commandments, which in the spirit of love, as the Apostle tells you, is the only good foundation in the life to come."
