TO OUR READERS.

"Swift speedy time, feathered with flying hours."

Has turned the cycle of another year, and once more we present our annual greeting to our millions of friends and patrons. Those who have dealt with us in the past will welcome our new testimonials and truly enjoy our renewed efforts to amuse and benefit. From those who may become new patrons we bespeak a careful consideration of the recommendations of Merchant's Gargling Oil and Merchant's Worm Tablets, offered in these pages. They have been selected from our business letters, and are unsolicited expressions of the merits of our remedies. Many more might have been added if the space in our book would permit. But as it does not, as greater and more convincing evidence we proudly point to the record of 57 years of continued and constantly increasing favors shown to Merchant's Gargling Oil. Nearly every proprietary medicine offered to the public is either superseded by something better, or dies out from lack of merit, in less than one-fifth of that time. It is an indisputable fact that a poor remedy, however well and much it may be advertised, soon falls into "innocuous desuetude" and ceases to be desired or called for. But through the span of life of nearly two full generations of mankind, the use and popularity of Gargling Oil has not only never waned but has steadily increased, and to-day it ranks among the most widely known and extensively used of popular medicines. This test of time, secured only by its unsurpassable merits, offers the strongest proofs of its healing qualities. This unparalleled history stamps conviction into every reasonable mind that Gargling Oil must truly be very "good for man and beast."

In closing this presentation of our Annual Brochure, we would add that, besides its reminders of our Remedies for physical ills, we have endeavored to provide acceptable entertainment, which we hope will as well "minister to minds diseased" as cheerful song and merry laugh are wont to do.

Read its testimonials, employ its remedies, sing its songs, and with it interpret your dreams, and we pledge you they will make you wiser, healthier and happier.

Dream Visions.

Published by permission of THE NEWHALL & EVANS MUSIC Co., Cincinnati, O., owners of the copyright, from whom copies of this song can be obtained,—price 50 cents.

Ev'ning shadows round me closed, in slumber I reclined,
Wings of fancy flittingly crept thro' my mind,
Fair was she who by me stood, she who I'd often seen,
And her face shown brightly as she kissed me in my dream.
Softly then she spoke to me as when first we had met,
She bade me again to love her and ne'er her forget,
O, it was but a dream with a heavenly theme,
I'd acted coldly yet she held me in esteem
And with kind words she now forgave and kissed me in my dream.

REFRAIN.—Sweet dreamland visions future and the past
Mind pictures forming, O, would they could last,
For tho' 'tis but fancy that doth caress
How often it relieves a mind in distress.

Gazing in her sweet face whose eyes with gladness beamed,
I told, 'twas her I loved, 'twas of her I dreamed,
And as there had been unkind words on my part I'd redeem,
Then she smiled so lovingly and kissed me in my dream.
And now pledged she her hand to me,—some day all will see
How true lovers can happy be after jealousy.
O, it was but a dream with a heavenly theme,
Then smilingly again like an angel did she seem,
She closely knelt beside me as she kissed me in my dream.

DREAMS.

Dreams in their development have breath,
And tears, and tortures, and a touch of joy;
They have a weight upon our waking thought,
They take a weight from off our waking toils,
They do divide our being.—Byron.

Dreams are probably as old as thinking brains, and hence are coeval with mind, and as there are minds and minds so there are dreams and dreams. The Bible certainly relates that they were made to represent allegorical pictures of coming events, and great distinction was won by those who could unfold the covered meaning of these visions of sleep. It is a fact that all along the course of historic times there are strange accounts of prophetic dreams. Still, we know there long have been, and are now, many persons who have ably disputed the correctness of any belief in dreams, and called them "children of the night, of indigestion bred," so that all we can do is to answer with Longfellow, if asked to-day,

Do you believe in dreams? Why yes and no.
When they come true, then I believe in them;
When they come false, then I don't believe in them.

Gargling Oil.

Merchant's Gargling Oil is a liniment utterly and absolutely devoid of the mysterious or miraculous in its origin, which character is designedly cast about so many proprietary remedies. It was formulated by a skillful physician and chemist, who gave the best years of his life to its elaboration. It is this element of science applied to both its composition and its adaptation to the afflictions of all flesh, that has made Merchant's Gargling Oil the standard liniment of the world, and has kept it in this high position for over half a century.

The range of its application is wide, and the directions very simple. It has proved itself invaluable in the following named ailments:

Burns and Scalds, Old Sores, Stringhalt, Windgalls, Sprains, Bruises, Cracked Teats, Foundered Feet, Flesh Wounds, Horn Distemper, Cracked Heels, Sand Cracks, Foul Ulcers, Farcy, Lamé Back, Sitfast, Ringbone, Contractions of Muscles, Swelled Legs, Toothache, Poll Evil, Spavins, Sweeny, Sore Nipples, Caked Breasts, Cramps, Boils, Swellings, Tumors, Frost Bites, Chilblains, Scratches or Grease, Garget in Cows, Foot Rot in Sheep, Chapped Hands, Callous, Lameness, Roup in Poultry, External Poisons, Crownscab, Quittor, Epizootic, Galls of all kinds, Abscess of the Udder, Hemorrhoids or Piles, Bites of Animals, Bites of Insects, Thrush, Rheumatism, Corns, Whitlows, Curb, Weakness of the Joints, Painful Nervous Affections, Bronchitis, Tonsillitis, etc., etc.

We Were Comrades.

Published by permission of THE NEWHALL & EVANS MUSIC Co., Cincinnati, Ohio, owners of the copyright, from whom copies of this song can be obtained,—price 40 cents.

It's strange what changes fortune makes
In the man you've known for years ;
I'll tell you of a scene to-day,
That fills my eyes with tears ;
There, side by side on the battle-field,
We were privates in the same campaign,
And as oft we march'd, when our throats were parched,
We drank from the same canteen.

REFRAIN.—To-day he passed and turned his head ;
Can he forget the scene ?
The bugle call,—the dying groans,—
When we drank from the same canteen.

I envy not his palace grand,
Nor the wealth he has in store ;
Old friends should greet whene'er they meet,
Though they be rich or poor.
The battle fought and the war is o'er,
Our flag waves peaceful and serene ;
Fortune's changed the friend that I fought with then,
When we drank from the same canteen.

But such is life,—as time rolls on
Our friends change with the years ;
So soon forgotten when we're gone,
And mem'ry has no tears.
God bless the old friends of other days,
I shall keep them in my mem'ry green,
Could he have forgot all the battles fought,
When we drank from the same canteen ?

TO DREAM of being abused or insulted signifies that you will have a dispute about business, if in love, that some one has attempted to injure you, if you have a law-suit, look sharp after your attorney ; of acquaintances, if you fight with them, is an unlucky omen, if you are in business some heavy loss will befall you ; of an adversary who opposes you, shows that you will dispatch your business speedily ; of seeing or eating almonds portends difficulties and troubles ; that you are asked for alms and you refuse, means misery, if you give them freely it is a sign of joy and long life ; that you discover an altar, betokens joy and gladness.

General Directions.

For outward application shake the bottle well, and apply the Oil three or four times a day, by rubbing it in with increasing friction; or if necessary, by saturating flannel with it and binding it on, after which cover the parts to keep the heat of the Oil in. Should the Oil prove too strong, as occasionally it does, causing much smarting, dilute it with a little whisky or water. For Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Etc., rub it on thoroughly near the fire. When the wound is a cut, raw, sore and tender, apply the Oil with a soft rag or feather, and do not rub, but simply wet the parts affected twice or thrice a day. Bruises, Sprains, and all troubles where the skin is not broken, should be treated as follows: First wash the parts affected with warm water and Castile Soap, thus opening the pores. After shaking the Oil thoroughly, bathe with considerable friction as often as three or four times daily. In some cases it might be well to saturate cotton or wool and bandage. Keep the bottle well corked. White Wrapper for family use, Yellow Wrapper for Stock. Always shake the bottle before using.

First Small Boy (smiling)—“Hello! Bill, been gettin’ yer head shingled?” Second Small Boy (weeping)—“No; ’tain’t my head.” Then the first boy held himself by a post and howled in a derisive manner.

F. M. Murray, Lisbon, Va., Sept. 4, 1889, writes: Gargling Oil is the best liniment for poll evil I have ever used.

Dar's a New Moon in de Sky !

De Jubilee am comin' on—

 De days ob worry now from dis yere chile will fly,—
 De heart am light for I see to-night
 Dar's a new moon in de sky !

To DREAM of an anchor signifies hope and assurance ; of an angel is a sure sign that some one is near you, but if you speak to them is evil ; that you have been provoked to anger shows that you have powerful enemies ; of angling indicates affliction ; of domestic animals signifies the return of absent friends ; of wild animals secret enemies of whom beware ; of apes denotes weak, malicious, secret enemies ; of an apparition, or ghost, indicates deceit, temptation to sin ; of apparel, if proper, denotes prosperity and happiness.

Since My Mother 's Dead and Gone.

In that dear old village church-yard,
 There I see a mossy mound,
 That is where my mother 's sleeping,
 In the cold and silent ground.
 Gently waves the weeping willow,
 Birds their warble sing at dawn,
 But my heart is sad and lonely—
 Since my mother 's dead and gone.

CHORUS.—In that dear old village church yard,
 Oft I stray with heart forlorn,
 For there 's no one left to love me
 Since my mother 's dead and gone!

I was young, but I remember
 Well the night my mother died,—
 When I watched her spirit fading,
 Till she called me to her side,
 Saying, "Darling, I must leave you,
 Angel voices guide me on,—
 Pray that we may meet in heaven,
 When your mother 's dead and gone,"

Oft I wander to that church yard,
 Flowers to plant with tender care
 On the grave of my dear mother,—
 Darkness finds me weeping there,
 Looking at the stars above me,
 Waiting for the heavenly dawn;
 There is no one left to love me
 Since my mother 's dead and gone.

TO DREAM of white apparel is good only for priests; for the sick to dream of being dressed in white is an omen of death; of black apparel signifies recovery; that you eat sweet ripe apples denotes joy; of sour apples contention and strife; of apricots betokens success in love, speedy marriage and good children; to dream of a banquet is good and prosperous; of a barn stored with grain that you will marry rich; of bathing, if the water is clear, you are sure to prosper; of a bear denotes you have a rich enemy.

Merchant's Gargling Oil

AS A

FAMILY LINIMENT.

We are now, and have been for some years, preparing the Oil free from stain, to be used as a common liniment for human flesh, by extracting the coloring ingredient which has heretofore rendered it objectionable. This Oil possesses all the medicinal properties of that prepared with the dark tinge for horses and cattle, and will be found one of the best remedies for all purposes where a liniment is required, that has ever been manufactured.

The Gargling Oil called "Family Oil," although prepared intentionally for human flesh, answers as well for beasts; vice versa the dark Oil answers as well for human flesh, only it will stain and discolor the skin, but not permanently. Yellow wrapper for animal and white for human flesh.

G. R. Coyle, of Coyle Bros.' Museum, writes from Iowa City, Ia., March 25th, 1889: Last September I met with a very painful accident. I was run over by a horse and buggy and my left collar bone broken. I was treated by one of the best doctors of the city, but somehow the break remained sore and painful, and would not heal. At last, discouraged by my sufferings, I be-thought of your valuable Gargling Oil, and commenced to apply it to the bruise over the broken bone. The first application gave me relief, and I continued the use of the Oil until I am now perfectly restored.

Some Other Girl Shall Wear the Ring.

Come my fond one, come my loved one, come my dear one close to me,
Will you wed a jolly sailor who has just come from sea?

Pretty maiden, pretty maiden a true heart to you I bring,—

Tell me sweetly, little maiden, will you wear for me the ring?

Go away you saucy sailor, please remember what you are,—

You're in sad need of a tailor, you're a poor young Jack Tar.

Do not ask me now to wed you, for I'll ne'er do such a thing,—

For a poor and ragged sailor I will never wear the ring.

Though my clothes are poor and ragged, said the sailor with heart sore,
I have silver in my pocket and bright gold I've in store.

When she thus had heard him answer, kneeling at his feet she fell,

Saying, "Still I love you, yes, I love you and right well!"

Then the sailor proudly answered, "Do you think that I am mad,

Thus to wed with a poor maiden when a fortune's to be had?

I will cross the bounding ocean and my gold and silver bring,—

And some truer-hearted maiden shall then wear the wedding ring."

Gargling Oil does not fall off in public favor. In a letter dated Sept. 25th, 1888, F. Windling & Son, General Dealers, Ebenezer, N. Y., testify thus: John Hodge, Esq., Lockport, N. Y.: Dear Sir:—Will you please forward us a supply of your songsters. In reference to your Gargling Oil, allow us to say that we have handled it for the past 20 years, and it is to this day the best selling liniment that we have in stock.

To DREAM of bees lighting on you without injury, you will be caressed by worthy persons, if they sting you it bodes a momentary injury; of bells ringing that you will receive some very good news and speedy marriage; that you catch birds is a sign of profit and to hear them sing is joy and delight; of blood of bright red color is good, dark colored blood indicates sickness; that you are in a boat on clear water is a good sign, if the water is muddy or rough, the contrary; of a broken bridge trouble in business; of getting a new bonnet is a promise of a new lover, if the color is blue he will prove affectionate, if green he will be deceitful, if pink his love will not be lasting; of bright buttons is always a good omen, if rusty it forbodes misfortune; of playing cards signifies that you will surely be in love, if you hold many picture cards marriage will make you happy, if you cards are mostly diamonds the person you marry will be of a sour and disagreeable temper, if mostly hearts your marriage will be very happy and blessed with many children, if mostly clubs you will get money by your marriage, if mostly spades your marriage will be unfortunate, your children undutiful.

METHOD OF ACTION.

The MERCHANT'S GARGLING OIL exerts its influence directly upon the Nervous System, inducing very prompt and satisfactory results. It allays pain, subdues inflammation, destroys the odor of foul sores and ulcers, and because of its penetrating, anodyne and antiseptic properties is an invaluable article for the cure of many diseases unyielding to other remedies. It is safe and sure, does its work quickly and effectually, and is just the article needed in every family.

Bobley—It seems to me, Tom, that you have a very queer way of petting strange dogs on the street.

Wiggins—Well isn't the good will of a dog better than his ill-will? You can't tell what dog's mistress you may be calling on in the course of a year.

Ed. Carter, Muncie, Ind., Sept. 27th, 1887. My mother was suffering severely with neuralgia in her face. I procured a bottle of Merchant's Gargling Oil and it eased the pain immediately after using it. I have used it for many other aches and pains since, and have always found that it gives ready relief.

Teacher—"Now children, I will give you three words—boys, bees and bears—and I want you to compose a sentence which will include all three words."

Small boy—"I have it."

Teacher—"John McCarthy, you may give us your sentence."

John McCarthy—"Boys bees bare whin they goes in swimmin'."

I've a darling waiting for me ;
 Pretty blue eyes so full of glee,
 Tiny red lips are lisping, "Papa"—
 While from him I'm away so far,
 While from him I'm away so far.
 When last I left him in his mother's arms,
 Sleeping sweetly, fearing no harm,
 Quickly I stole from the forehead so fair,
 This little lock of his golden hair.

CHORUS.—A curl from my baby's head,
 Yes ; a curl from the baby's head,
 It will never grow old this treasure of gold,
 Next my heart I'll wear it till dead.
 A curl from my baby's head,
 A curl from my baby's head,
 It will never grow old this treasure of gold,
 This curl from my baby's head.

A remarkable case. Mr. W. B. Berkhelser writes, Apr. 19, '89 : It is 15 years since my knee joint became much swollen and stiff and I began to use liniments, &c., but my leg grew worse every year. in 1888, on the 4th of Feb., I began to have so much pain in my knee joint I could not leave my room, and for 12 weeks I had to use a crutch and cane to walk. I have been unable to do any work since. A few weeks ago I read of an old lady who had a sore ankle for 14 years, and after using your liniment found instant relief, where all others failed ; so I made up my mind to give it a trial. I have used three 25c. bottles and they have done me more good than all the liniments and drugs that I have used these 15 years. I live at Summit Sta., Schuylkill Co., Pa.

To DREAM of cats indicates much trouble and vexation ; of chickens with a hen is the forerunner of ill luck, your sweet-heart will betray you and marry another ; of climbing a tree denotes that you will arrive at some honor in the state, if in love, that you will marry your sweet-heart, if up a steep hill or place foretells many difficulties in life, if you reach the top you will overcome them all ; of a church is portentous of evil ; of corn (wheat) in the fields or unthreshed is a very favorable omen, if you are gathering ripe corn it is the most fortunate dream you can have ; of a cross signifies sadness ; of a crow, if flying, is ill luck, and if you hear them croaking the dream is so much the worse ; of dancing at a ball or entertainment foretells some joyful news from an absent friend, also success and happiness in love.

CHORUS.—“Go waggle in, go waggle in !” I hear my marster say.
“No stragglin’, no stragglin’, from dawn till dark o’ day.”

I hear de captin callin’
O, doan yer want to go,
An’ jine de bugle army
Around old Jericho ?

GRAND CHORUS.

Tromp ! tromp ! tromp around dem walls of Jericho !
Tromp ! tromp ! tromp around, and blow de bugle, blow !
Tromp ! tromp ! tromp around dem walls of Jericho !
Toot de tiny trumpet horn and sound de big bazoo.

Dar’s watermillions handy,
For all de coons dat jine,
Dar’s lots of lasses candy,
An’ olemargarine.

Our little dude’s a lovey,
He chaws de gum tolu,
We wants no English covey,
A Yankee-doodle-do.

De prohibition howler’s
A gainin’ in de lan’,
So go and rush de growler
As lively as you can.

Win. L. Stirling, Newark, O., Jan. 30th, 1889 : I will do, as I have done, recommend your liniment, for I can do it truthfully, for it is the best for sprains I have ever used.

To DREAM of dandelions, if gathered, is ominous, to see a large bed of them indicates you have many new enemies forming, if in love be sure your sweetheart is playing false ; of being in the dark and unable to find your way denotes that the dreamer shall be blinded by some passion and much troubled ; of death signifies a wedding ; of the devil denotes that many dangers will threaten you, all of which you will overcome, if in love, it forbodes that some one is trying to alienate the affection of your sweetheart, but will be unsuccessful ; of dogs, if they fawn and fondle upon you, it is a lucky omen, if they snarl and bark at you, then depend that enemies are secretly endeavoring to destroy your reputation and happiness.

Merchant's Gargling Oil

AS AN

INTERNAL REMEDY.

MERCHANT'S GARGLING OIL is a diffusible stimulant and carminative, and can be taken internally when the use of such a remedy is indicated, and is a good substitute for pain-killers, cordials, and anodynes. For cramps, or spasms of the stomach, discomfort after eating, colic, asthma, or internal pain, the dose may be from fifteen to twenty drops, on sugar, or mixed with syrup or other convenient form, and repeated at intervals of three to six hours.

"I think," said a fond Galveston parent, "that little Jimmy is going to be a poet when he grows up. He doesn't eat, and sits all day by the stove and thinks, and thinks." "You had better grease him all over. He is going to have the measles. That's what ails Jimmy."—Galveston News. Symptoms are more like worms. Needs a box of Merchant's Worm Tablets.

H. Carlisle & Co., write, March 17th, 1862, from Sheldon, Vt.: We had a valuable horse; he was ailing apparently with consumption. After trying all the farriers and all kinds of medicine, he was given up to die. We gave him one small bottle of Gargling Oil. He soon began to eat his food and to improve. In a few days we gave him another bottle, and, as he continued to improve, we administered a third bottle. He recovered and is now well.

What did Lot do after his wife turned to a pillar of salt? He took a fresh one.

Whistling Coon.

Oh ! I've seen in my time some very funny folks ;
 But the funniest of all I know,
 Is a colored individual as sure as you're alive,
 As black as any black coon !
 You may talk until you're tired, but you'll never get a word
 From this very funny, queer old coon ;
 He's a knock-kneed, double-jointed, hunky-plunky moke,
 And he's happy when he whistles this tune.

[Whistling interlude.]

Oh ! he's got a pair of lips like a pound of liver, split ;
 And a nose like an India-rubber shoe ;
 He's a limpy, happy, chuckle-headed, huckleberry nig,
 And he whistles like a happy "killy-loo !"
 He's an independent, free and easy, fat and greasy ham,
 With a cranium like a big baboon !
 Oh ! I never heard him talk to anybody in my life,
 But he's happy when he whistles this tune.

Oh ! he'd whistle in the morning, thro' the day and thro' the night ;
 And he'd whistle like the devil going to bed ;
 Oh ! he'd whistle like a locomotive engine, in his sleep ;
 And he whistled when his wife was dead.

One day a fellow hit him with a brick upon the mouth,
 And his jaw swelled up like a balloon,
 Now he, shaking, goes along like a monkey in a fit,
 And this is how he whistles that tune.

 right, from whom copies of this song can be obtained.

Miss Myrtie Peck and B. H. Demarest, N. Y. City : This is to certify that we have used Merchant's Gargling Oil for the last two seasons in our stable of running horses, 15 in number, and can cheerfully recommend it as the best liniment in use.

To DREAM that you are drowning or seeing another drown, portends good to the dreamer ; to dream of elephants denotes riches and sagacity ; of losing your eyes indicates that you will violate your word, or else you or some of your children are in danger of death ; to dream that you see a smiling face is a sign of joy ; of a meager pale face is a sign of trouble ; of a fall from a tree betokens you shall lose your office or position ; that one sees his father-in-law, whether dead or alive, forebodes ill ; of fields and pleasant places signifies to a man he will have a discreet and true wife, and to a woman a prudent and loving husband.

Thoroughly and effectually destroy all worms, relieving the system of their injurious effects, imparting health and strength. In their certainty and safety they are unsurpassed by any other preparation. Parents can rely upon them, and all afflicted with worms will find them just the medicine they need.

They taste as pleasant as confectionery, and children take them readily as they are. Pulverized and mixed with milk, they can be completely concealed. They cause no pain, but impart health and vigor, and make children happy and cheerful. Price per box, 25 cents.

The little boy was on his knees, in his little night-dress saying his prayers, and his little sister couldn't resist the temptation to tickle the soles of his little feet. He stood it as long as he could, and then he said:

"Please, God, excuse me, while I lick the stuffing out of Nellie."

Isaac McNabb & Co., Salsbury, Ind., March 16th, 1872, write: The Merchant's Worm Tablets only lasted ten days. Every box was successful. The fame of their good qualities has spread and they are being called for every day. They are so far superior to anything we have ever had for worms. I wish you to send me six dozen boxes as soon as possible.

The Old Farm Bell.

Published by permission of THE NEWHALL & EVANS MUSIC Co., Cincinnati, Ohio, owners of the copyright, from whom copies of this song can be obtained,—price 40 cents.

Oh, the old farm bell, I remember it so well,
 It was perched on a post near the back kitchen door,
 When it called the weary toilers from the harvest field away,
 It was the sweetest music in those good days of yore.
 The red bird in the thicket and the quail in the meadow,
 Would break forth in song beneath its magic spell,
 But nothing stirred the heart of the sturdy honest farmer
 Like the satisfying music of the old farm bell.

CHORUS.—The old farm bell,
 The dear farm bell,
 It's tones so sweet and clear
 Are yet to mem'ry dear.
 The old farm bell.

On the old farm bell fond mem'ry loves to dwell,
 In storm or in sunshine its song was the same,
 Tho' its melody seemed joyful when wedding bells were near,
 And mournful was its requiem when the death angel came.
 How pleasant to return to the home of our childhood,
 Though under its roof the stranger may dwell,
 To sport in its woodland and ramble o'er its meadows,
 And listen for the echo of the old farm bell.

Physicians use and prescribe it. Dr. E. Bradley, Whitehouse, O., writes, March 16th, 1889: John Hodge, Esq., Sec. Merchant's Gargling Oil Co., Lockport, N. Y.:—I have been in the practice of medicine 36 years, am 61 years old. Have used your Gargling Oil since I was a boy and recommend it as the standard liniment for general use.

To DREAM that you are fighting denotes to the lover that you will lose the object of your affections through a foolish quarrel; of a fire forebodes that you will be very angry with some one on a slight occasion; to see falling lights is a very bad omen, portending some dreadful accident; of catching large fish is a token of profit; of going to a funeral of a friend is good, the dreamer will have money left him or marry fortune; to dream of walking in a garden and gathering flowers indicates a feeling of pride; of the cackling of geese denotes an increase of business and much profit; that you receive a gift signifies that some good is about to happen to you and that you will soon marry your sweetheart; of having given anything away is the forerunner of adversity.

Pit-ti-pat Patter, the Little Feet Go.

[Copyrighted.]

Words used by permission of CHAS. D. BLAKE & Co., Boston. Price, 40 cents, for words and music.

Home has its pleasures, tho' humble it be ;
Its laughter and frolic, its innocent glee.
But of all its attractions none charms me more
Than the patter of the little feet over the floor.

REFRAIN.—Pit-ti-pat patter the little feet go,
Pit-ti-pat patter all day to and fro ;
What music more charming, what echoes more sweet,
Than the pit-ti-pat patter of the dear tiny feet.

Busy, so busy from morning till night ;
Just toddling and tripping, the dear little sprite.
And the steps without number, fall by the score
As toddles the darling one over the floor.

Precious feet long ago flitted from home,
Through life's rugged pathway they now bravely roam.
But my fancy still catches, as in days of yore,
The patter of the little feet over the floor.

Mr. Harry Bowers writes from Ashtabula Harbor, O., Oct. 1st, 1888, as follows, of the beneficial effects of our liniment in injuries: Enclosed please find recommendation of the wonderful cure your Gargling Oil did for me. While performing on my flying trapeze in Toledo one of my guy lines broke and threw me off of my trapeze, a distance of over twenty feet. I fell on my back and feet and was carried back to my dressing room. The manager of the theatre (Mr. Ledford) sent out for a good liniment, and the druggist sent a bottle of your Gargling Oil. After bathing my back and feet with your liniment, I was able to walk back to my hotel and by constant use next day was able to work the next night. Would not be without your Gargling Oil for the world.

To DREAM of receiving a pair of gloves signifies an offer of friendship, if the gloves are light the connection will be pleasant, if dark it is doubtful; of gold is a very good omen, it indicates success in your present undertakings, after experiencing some little difficulties, if you receive gold coin you will prosper in business, and your lover will be true and marry you, if you pay gold it betokens an increase of friends and business; of grapes foretells happiness in marriage and success in trade; that you see a grave forebodes sickness and disappointment, to go into a grave a loss of property, to come out of one that you will become rich and rise in the world.

EMERGENCY CASES.

Accidents are liable to occur to every individual. When they do happen a little knowledge of the simple treatment required would be of great value. Hence the treatment which is at the same time the most readily obtained, the most easily applied and is the most efficient, will be briefly outlined.

Gargling Oil is the only remedy that perfectly meets all these requirements.

BRUISES.—Discoloration and the seat of pain will at once indicate the location of bruises. An easy position, with cold applications, followed by a thorough application of Merchant's Gargling Oil is the best treatment. Rub thoroughly and follow general directions.

What did Jake Kilrain most need after his great fight with Sullivan? A bottle of Merchant's Gargling Oil.

MASHED OR CRUSHED SURFACES.—When no bones are broken, or arteries or large veins torn, wash the injured parts in tepid water until a clear view can be had of the hurt, and then freely and often apply the Gargling Oil, bandaging with linen or cotton cloth.

A young lady at a ball called her escort an Indian because he was "on her trail" all the time.

A dude who was visiting friends in the country complained of the eggs. "They seem," said he, "lacking in flavaw, compared with our city eggs, they are rathaw insipid, aw."

"Are You With Us, Casey?"

[Copyrighted.]

Words used by permission of CHAS. D. BLAKE & Co., Boston. Price, 40 cents, for words and music.

A crowd of politicians by promise of high positions,
Enticed me into dine with them, expenses they'd defray;
O, I nearly lost my head when I first beheld the spread,
And I thought from life that I had passed away—
On the table there was sherry and a bowl of Tom and Jerry,
All delicacies in their season and others that long were out.
McGilligan had the call and a rolling sent the ball,
He introduced me to them and they all began to shout—

CHORUS.—Are you with us Casey, are you with us?
Are you with us, are you ready for the fray?
If you're with us we can trust you,
If against us we will bust you,
If you're with us we are sure to win the day.

When all were through with eating, they talked of the awful beating
They'd give the opposition when it came election day;
O, they said they'd hire a band, grasp each voter by the hand,
And have their votes or chase them far away—
For success they all were scheming, of defeat not one was dreaming
The way that they talked of money was "O, what did his nibs chip in."

McGilligan once again said, "Now Casey don't be vain,
We'll make a policeman of you if you're with us when we win."

The struggle soon was over, the boys they were all in clover,
They'd met success—their candidate had fairly won the day;
Invitations went around, to my sorrow I soon found
That none of them would ever come my way—
Then myself began a thinking, I did almost take to drinking,
I swore that I'd leave the — and go over to the —
When I started to tell them so they said "Casey you may go,"
I wanted to argue farther but they chased me off the steps.

Hopo & McDernien, Norfolk, Va., Jan. 20th, 1889, say: We are old customers for your liniment and find it the best we ever used for our horses, and it excels all others for what you advertise it for man.

To DREAM that you see people fire off guns augurs that the dreamer will have much to contend with, to fire them yourself it portends a law-suit prejudicial to you; dreaming you have a big head, or a head greater than ordinary, and highly raised denotes you are a swell. To dream of heaven and that you ascend up thither does not always indicate that you will get there.

Merchant's Gargling Oil

Is the Best Application in all cases of Injury.

CUTS AND WOUNDS. — Cleanse thoroughly with cold water when necessary. Bring the edges closely together and fix with adhesive plaster. Bathe the parts about the wounds with GARGLING OIL to keep out inflammation. For family use, the small bottle with white wrapper is the kind. Keep well corked and shake before using.

"Mr. Brown, your dog has broken his chain and has bitten your neighbor's little boy."

"What! that Smith brat?"

"No, the Jones boy."

"Oh, you don't know how you frightened me. That Smith boy is as full of scrofula as an egg is full of meat. I would not have anything happen to that dog for money."

SPRAINS.—They usually occur about the joints, and may be distinguished from fractures by the power to move the parts, and the absence of displacement. They are followed by swelling and extreme pain. Treatment—Rest is absolutely necessary. Apply the GARGLING OIL so frequently as to cause some local irritation of the skin. It will cure the worst sprain. Keep the bottle corked. Shake before using.

"Johnnie, what is a noun?"

"Name of a person, place or thing." "Very good, Johnnie, give an example." "Hand-organ grinder." "And why is a 'hand-organ grinder' a noun?" "Because he's a person plays a thing."

From the Cradle to the Grave.

Published by permission of THE NEWHALL & EVANS MUSIC Co., Cincinnati, O., owners of the copyright, from whom copies of this song can be obtained,—price, 40 cents.

From the cradle to the grave our life is but a span,
 When sorrow comes let it depart, forget it if you can,
 While roaming through this world you'll meet with many a frown,
 But always keep your spirit up, ne'er let it be cast down,
 And should fate e'er cause you grief, or pain e'er fill your heart
 Try with a will to banish them you'll find them soon depart,
 What little time we live all trouble try to save,
 And let your life be one bright dream from the cradle to the grave.

CHORUS.—From the cradle to the grave our life is but a span,
 When sorrow comes let it depart, forget it if you can ;
 What little time we live all troubles try to save,
 And let your life be one bright dream from the cradle to the grave.

From the cradle to the grave you'll meet with many a woe,
 But don't be sad while life is yours where ever you may go,
 When sorrow comes to you and trials chill your heart,
 Look always to a brighter day, bid all of them depart,
 For our life is but a dream that soon will pass away,
 To some their life is always night, to others always day,
 So always cheerful be, with joy your pathway pave,
 You'll then be happy all your life from the cradle to the grave.

E. E. Perry, Manager, Trenton Opera House, Humboldt, Tenn., March 29th, 1889 : While driving my thorough-bred horse last Tuesday he made a misstep and severely sprained his leg. I thought I would give your liniment a trial, and did so. I have to report a very beneficial effect. The swelling and lameness have nearly disappeared and the horse will be all right within a day or two.

To DREAM of ice may indicate that you are left out in the cold.
 To dream of conversing with a king indicates future honor ; of marriage is a token of the death of some friend or relative ; of the moon denotes sudden and unexpected pleasure, and that the dreamer is tenderly adored ; of the new moon is a good omen ; that the finger nails are longer than usual is an augury of profit, the contrary indicates a loss. To dream of an oak tree is a token of riches ; of owls betokens much melancholy ; that one walks in easy or broad paths denotes health, narrow or crooked paths the contrary ; that you see pigeons is a good sign, and to see them flying foretells good news ; of falling into a quagmire shows difficulties and obstructions in business.

I'm Always Misunderstood.

[Copyrighted.]

Words used by permission of CHAS. D. BLAKE & Co., Boston. Price, 40 cents, for words and music.

I'm just the most innocent man in the world,
I do all I can to be good—
I never did anything wrong in my life,
But I'm always misunderstood.
I remember when I was a bit of a lad,
That the people all thought I was shockingly bad,
And often for naught I was whaled by my dad,
I was always misunderstood.

REFRAIN.—For I'm always misunderstood,
I'm always misunderstood—
And often for naught I was whaled by my dad,
For I'm always misunderstood.

A hole in my pocket once gave me away,
As completely as anything could—
I never play cards for I think it is wrong,
But I'm always misunderstood.
An ivory, let's see, they call it a chip,
Through the rent in the lining did quietly slip,
I was taking it home for the children to flip,
But I'm always misunderstood.

I went to the insane asylum one day
And in front of a grating I stood—
But alas, for the ill-luck that follows me round,
I'm always misunderstood.
Some visiting ladies were walking about,
And one of them saw me and raised a great shout—
"O, Dorothy ! There is one that's got out."
I'm always misunderstood.

Dunbar & Daniels, Prop'rs, Central Drug Store, New Orleans, La.,
Feb. 2d, 1888 : Gentlemen :—Let us congratulate you on your success, for we have never sold a better preparation, nor one which has given better satisfaction than your Gargling Oil, in both of our drug stores.

To DREAM of seeing your mother living denotes joy, to see her dead, misfortune ; that you see mountains, steep and rocky, betokens difficulties in your undertakings, if you gain the top you will be successful.
To dream of a dark night, indicates trouble, but if the moon gives you some light, you will come out safely.

Merchant's Gargling Oil

Can always be readily obtained when needed in cases of accident. It is for sale by all druggists and general store keepers in this and other countries.

BURNS AND SCALDS.—In the treatment of these, where the skin is not removed, there is nothing equal to Gargling Oil. Soak lint or cotton thoroughly with the Oil, and with it cover the entire injured surface closely from the air, and it will cure the worst forms of these accidents.

It is no time to run for a remedy when an accident of this kind occurs. An immediate application of Merchant's Gargling Oil will arrest its progress, and prevent any soreness or pain.

How quick and direct slang often is. Mark the difference between it and scholarship in the following: The artiodactyle ungulate mammal of the genus Sus has succeeded the scholar in politics. The Hog is on deck.

FRACTURES.—These can be recognized by displacement and the inability to move the part. The grating of the fractured surface of the bone may be felt and heard by slightly moving the broken limb. A surgeon should be employed to set the bone. When knitting, a free use of Gargling Oil in bathing the injured part will much hasten the recovery, and be a great relief to the soreness and pain.

SMALLPOX DREADED LIKE SATAN.—"Name the sacraments," said a local Sunday-school teacher to a member of her infant class. "Baptism, confirmation and vaccination," was the prompt reply.

I wish to say in regard to "Merchant's Gargling Oil" that I had run the gamut of remedies for chicken cholera and tried it as a denier resort. To my surprise it cured two cases that according to precedent ought to have died. It has not failed once.—D. H. Webster Austin, Mo.

To DREAM of night-walks, presages trouble and melancholy ; that you find a nest betokens domestic bliss with one whose acquaintance you will form suddenly, if there are young in it, a large family ; that you are turned out of office presages loss of property and death, if in love want of affection in your lover, and misery if you marry the object of your affections ; that you hear the sound of an organ signifies joy.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

Merchant's Gargling Oil is a most wonderful alleviator of these excruciating maladies, and in many cases effect a cure where all other remedies have failed.

RHEUMATISM—Acute form generally comes on with fever, swelling and redness of the joints, with severe pain and local tenderness; the chronic form may follow the acute, and is marked by the pain without the febrile symptoms. When acute, saturate lint or cloth with the Oil and bind on the affected part and frequently repeat; when chronic, bathe the part with the Oil before a hot fire, or warm in. In all cases keep the feet dry and the body warm.

NEURALGIA—It is a severe pain following the line of the larger nerves and branches, frequently darting like lightning. Apply the Oil freely and often, and warm in if the sensation is pleasant.

LUMBAGO—A severe pain in the back and loins, often mistaken for kidney disease.

SCIATICA—It is a diseased state of the sciatic nerve; the pain is felt on the hip and follows down on the outside of the leg. Treat this and the preceding the same as Chronic Rheumatism.

"You never saw my hands as dirty as yours," said a mother to her little girl. "No, but your ma did," was the prompt reply.

FROST BITES—The affected parts should be warmed very gradually. Rub briskly with snow or cold water at first, adding small quantities of warm water till the frost is removed. Apply Gargling Oil to heal the soreness.

As We Wander in the Orange Grove.

Let us wander in the orange grove to-night,
 Where the moonlight falls so gently through the trees ;
 Oh, the birdies watch us love, while cooing up above,
 And nestling in the shadow of the leaves.
 Happy sweethearts, O how loving there,
 As through the flow'ry paths and dells we rove ;
 O, really it is bliss when we can steal a kiss,
 As we wander in the orange grove.

CHORUS.—The daisies and roses, the lilies and buttercups
 Pinks and the pansies greet us as we rove ;
 The bluebell, the cowslip, the primrose
 And clover bloom in the orange grove.

Let us wander in the orange grove to-night,
 When the perfume of the flowers fill the air ;
 Oh, the brooklet and the rill, the silent water mill,
 Add beauty to the picture I declare.
 Pretty roses and the creeping vine,
 There in a lover's knot together wove ;
 Come listen to the trill sung by the whip-poor-will,
 As we wander in the orange grove.

Let us wander in the orange grove to-night,
 In the silence of the pretty southern scene ;
 Where the golden fruit-like bells, from trees in glade and dells,
 Hang listless in the moonlight silver sheen.
 Echo answers to our laughter there,
 As through the woodland we together rove ;
 So swiftly do we tread, upon the leafy bed,
 As we wander in the orange grove.

In the silent midnight watches, when the house is calm and still, and the business-like mosquito brings around his little bill, laugh we now to hear the beggar, with a plaintive sigh, give up trying to collect it, saying "By and by," and, in the chill October weather, crawling off to die.

TO DREAM of a parrot augurs that slanderers will attack you, but if you try, you will live down these false troubles ; of peaches in season, health and pleasure, out of season, unreasonable trouble ; of making pies augurs joy and profit. To dream of being in poverty means good to some, but ill to slanderers.

They Can't Keep the Workingman Down.

Kind friends your attention I'll ask for awhile,
 And some facts I'll endeavor to show.
 The world is a net work that's made very small,
 But it snares us as through life we go.
 Of troubles and trials we all have our share,
 And oft heartless men gain renown,
 But the way that they do it I'll now tell to you—
 'Tis by keeping the workingman down!

CHORUS.—Then hold up your head and the world never dread,
 Don't care for its sneer or its frown,—
 Stare fate in the face, if your heart's in its place,
 They can't keep the workingman down.

The man who is working his wages will spend
 With his comrades so happy and gay;
 And scarcely before the week comes to an end,
 His wages have all passed away.
 But if he would lay by a dollar or two
 And place it in some bank in town,
 He would then wink his eye, tell his boss on the sly,
 That he can't keep the workingman down!

We'll just take this house as it stands here to-night
 And compare it,—for that is my plan;
 The roof's Aristocracy, so are the walls,—
 The foundation the hard workingman!
 We take off the roof and the walls still remain,—
 Take the walls,—the foundation is sound;
 But you take the foundation the workingman made,
 And the structure then falls to the ground.

Mr. A. Garrison, Pedlars' Run, Mo., writes, July 22, 1878: I use Gargling Oil for my horses and sheep. I consider it a splendid remedy for foot rot in sheep. I unhesitatingly recommend it to everyone.

To DREAM of a pedlar signifies you do not properly value friends, and that time will show hypocrites; that you are at a play is the presager of good luck; of plums promises but little good to the dreamer. To dream you lose your keys denotes passion, to him who sees a key in a dream a beautiful wife is foretold. Women never even dream of losing the key.

DISEASES OF ANIMALS.

That Gargling Oil is the greatest remedy for all the ills of animal flesh, has long ceased to be questioned and that it is equally as good for the smaller animals as for the larger. It has been successfully used with the dog, the cat and the monkey. It has also proved just as satisfactory in many of the diseases of Poultry, and for Chicken Cholera and Roup in Fowls it has been demonstrated to be a specific. To this point, W. H. Stewart, a breeder of fancy Poultry, writes from Fort Wayne, Ind.: I want to say a word for the Gargling Oil. It is a sure cure for Roup and Cholera in Poultry. I have cured several fine birds with Gargling Oil.

Mr. W. H. Lynd, Ironton, O., Feb. 20th, 1889, says: Having been selling your Gargling Oil for about five years, and having used it for about fifteen years, I will say it cannot be recommended too highly. It cured my cat of the mange.

Probably, of all sensational developments, boils are the worst.—Burlington Free Press. But if treated with Gargling Oil they soon lose their interest as sensations.

Miss Lee Clark, Hiseville, Ky., writes Aug. 31, 1889: I have been a great sufferer from tonsillitis and have tried various remedies to no effect. The last spell I had not swallowed anything but milk for seven days until I bought a bottle of Gargling Oil. The first application gave instant relief, and the next day I could swallow anything.

Homeward I'm Coming to Thee.

When the yellow corn is gathered and the grain is in the sheaf,
At the dear old home where first my love I met ;
While the grass upon the hillside and the meadow still is waving,
And the perfume of the roses linger yet,
Then across the briny ocean I will come my love to thee,
Bringing back again the pledge you gave to me,
And the parting kiss you gave, I'll return again to you,
When I come again my love from o'er the sea.

CHORUS.—Homeward ! Homeward !
Homeward I'm coming to thee, love !
One loving kiss, nothing but this,
Homeward I'm coming to thee.

And tho' far from home in other lands I still should absent be,
Yet the thought of that sweet kiss will ever seem
Still the brightest, sweetest mem'ry that my heart may ever know,
And my longing fancy loves of it to dream.
And when danger seems to threaten through the darkness and the gloom,
Like a guiding star I see my darling's face,
And my heart beats warm within, with the love I bear for thee,
Love for thee which time nor care can e'er efface.

GARGET OR SWOLLEN UDDER AND CAKED BAG.—These are very serious ailments, and, if not attended to promptly and properly, great danger will threaten the animal. Gargling Oil Liniment is very efficient in their treatment. First thoroughly sponge the bag and udder with water of a mild temperature (75° to 80°), continuing it long enough to open the pores. Then bathe them well with Gargling Oil. Do this twice a day. Shake the bottle well before using.

To GIVE a knife in a dream signifies injustice or quarrelling ; to dream of marriage indicates danger ; that you drink milk is a good omen ; that you hear melodious music implies that you will receive some very acceptable news. To dream that one has a fine and fair nose is profitable to all ; if any one dreams that his nose has increased in size, he will become rich ; if painted, a smiling disposition. To dream of eating oranges implies sorrow and vexation ; to even dream of eating oysters is good. To dream that you see a peacock shows you will grow rich and, some day, make a good spread. To dream that you fall into a pit and cannot get out easily denotes some serious calamity.

Merchant's Vegetable Worm Tablets.

They are rapidly superseding all other Worm Remedies, a fact arising from the completeness with which they do their work, and the facility with which they can be administered to children. The ingredients of these Tablets are purely vegetable, containing no calomel, antimony, or other poisonous drugs, and may be given freely, with the assurance that they will effectually destroy all Worms existing in the intestines, correct and cleanse the stomach, and restore the adult or child to health and vigor. Ask for Merchant's Worm Tablets, and take no other.

OTHER DISEASES.

Gargling Oil cures many other diseases. Among them we can only refer to the following:

MANGE.—It is a disease common to man and animals—particularly to dogs. In man it is called the Itch. It is supposed to be produced by minute insects, mites acri, and consists of a vesicular eruption of the skin. It is highly contagious. Gargling Oil and Sulphur are a specific for it. Mix sulphur with the Oil and bathe it in thoroughly.

MALLENDERS and SALLENDERS—are scurvy eruptions with oozing crust that cracks the skin, occurring in front of the hock or at the back of the knee. They are called Mallenders in the fore legs, and Sallenders in the hind ones. CURE—Twice a day wash the parts with saleratus water and wipe dry. Then apply Gargling Oil.

I have just had a letter from my dear old mother
And she wants her dear boy to come home—
But that I can't do, dear mother for you,
I'm an exile and here I must roam.
She says, "My heart 's breaking, there's no one to cheer me,
The cot you were born in is now all alone,
And your father is dead, oh! think of my sorrow,
Barney, dear Barney, oh! won't you come home?"

CHORUS.—"Barney, come home," sure it read in this letter,
I know she is old and I cannot forget her,
I'm an exile from Erin, in America I roam,
When Ireland is free, mother, your boy will come home.

Now this is the letter I got from my mother,
It's a year since I had one before—
And it makes my heart sad when I think of my dad,
For he's gone where I'll ne'er see him more.
A pardon she wants from the Queen for to get me,
I'll write her a letter to leave it alone,
And I'll wait till the sun shines on the cross-stones of Erin,
And if she is living her boy will come home.

Mr. Samuel Lippert, 158 York Street, Cleveland, O., Manager of the S. Lippert M'fg Co., Feb. 13th, 1888, writes as follows of Gargling Oil: I used it on a carbuncle on my neck and it worked wonderfully. My neck is nearly well now. Always will speak well for Merchant's Gargling Oil.

To DREAM of praying is good, it promises future joys. To dream you ride with a company of men is lucky indeed; but with women a misfortune. To dream of roses is a sign of joy; that you were riding a horse without a saddle indicates poverty; that you see a serpent signifies danger from enemies. To dream that you are in a tavern feasting with a party of friends, signifies joy and content. To dream you wear a tail signifies profit, that is a gain of something which you may have some time lost, but to see animals with tails, such as monkeys and apes, promises amusement and abundance of company. If a man dreams he sees his wife married to another, it betokens change of affairs or else separation. To dream of laughing betokens sorrow and weeping; it also denotes a change of circumstances and friends.

Charlie's Courting.

Young Charlie O'Niel came to me one day,
 And, bashfully speaking, he said ;
 "You are older and wiser than many I know,
 And by your advice I will be led."
 "Now tell me how shall I the question propose,
 To some pretty maiden I know ?
 I'm anxious to marry, but I cannot because,
 The asking it puzzles me so !"
 I told him what I thought, and urged him to try,
 The pleading a favor so sweet ;
 For life without love is like a field that is bare,
 With love, a field full of wheat !
 When next I saw the lad, so happy he seemed,
 I asked him if love prospered so ?
 He laughingly answered : "O, the pleading is so nice,
 I've asked every girl that I know !

Mr. W. S. Shedman, Manager of Shedman Bros.' Kuno-Drome of Dogs and Monkeys, writes from City of Merida, Yucatan, Dec. 1st, 1888: On account of having met with an accident last night, I can not help writing you a congratulatory letter on your Gargling Oil. In the leap, I received a very bad sprain in the foot ; Could not stand on it. Thanks to Gargling Oil, as I am ready to work to-day. It has also cured one of my monkeys which was very much disabled in the legs. It is well enough to work now. I cannot recommend your medicine too highly.

To dream of roaring winds is a warning to those who speculate; quiet breezes denote happiness. Joy and mirth follow dreams of weeping. To dream of being shaved is a very unfavorable omen; in love it denotes treachery and disappointment; to the the tradesman, loss of goods and business; to the sailor, an unpleasant and stormy voyage; to the farmer, bad crops and diseased live stock. To dream you go again to school and cannot learn your lessons, shows you are about to undertake something you do not understand.

Dean Ferris, Peekskill, N. Y., writes, Jan. 9, 1888: Some time ago I wrote you for directions for using Gargling Oil on a valuable horse hurt by slipping in the stall and breaking through the side of the barn.

I followed instructions, although believing you were wrong in supposing any splinters were left in the hoof, as she was hurt last September. I have extracted two large splinters from the cut, very much to my surprise. She will be sound as soon as the hoof grows out, and I shall always use and recommend Merchant's Gargling Oil.

Signor Bing Binger, the Baritone Singer.

I sing of a feminine gender,
 Delicate, gentle and kind,
 Innocent, sweet and so tender,
 And vowing one day she'd be mine.
 For operas this girl was crazy,
 And opera singers as well,
 But when I said be mine,
 She replied "I decline,"
 And the reason I'm going to tell.

CHORUS.—She said at the Chinese Theatre,
 There was the man of her choice,
 Signor Bing Binger, the baritone singer,
 With such a magnificent voice;
 I tried with my voice to enchant her,
 I sang her my tra la, la, la,
 But she said "Your no singer,
 Go hear my Bing Binger
 Sing tra la, la, la, la, la, la.

Said I, now my darling Ti-ti-ti,
 For that was the dear creature's name,
 My heart is as dry as old tinder,
 Don't add to the fuel with flame.
 I'll take lessons of Campanini,
 I'll strike the high "C" like a bell—
 That was all of no use,
 She gave me the duce,
 And she stuck to her baritone swell.

I imported an upright piano,
 And also a teacher that sings,
 He taught me sweet "Eileen Alanna,"
 And a new song he called "White Wings."
 He taught me "Sweet Violets" and chestnuts,
 And "When the Swallows Homeward Fly,"
 And "Sadly I Roam" and "Home Sweet Home,"
 And "We Never Speak As We Pass By."

Dr. John W. Moore, New Salem, Pa., a veterinary surgeon, says he has used Gargling Oil and found it one of the best remedies for all cuts, bruises and sprains, and that, if properly applied, it is a sure cure for ringbone, spavins, poll evil, etc.
