The Book indeed, which I now offer, is not my own, it was written by my Father, who, after he had for Fourty Years laboured to bring it to A 3 that that Measure of Perfection it attained at last, a little before he died, had the Honour to present it to Her MAJESTY. When that was done, and he had the Satisfaction to see his Son placed so near Your ROYAL HIGHNESS, he looked upon his Business in this World to be at an end, and joyfully embraced that Summons which called him to a better.

I beg leave therefore, SIR, to begin where my Father left off: And what he laid before Her MAJESTY, I humbly defire to lay before Your ROYAL HIGHNESS. This I do with the greater Cheerfulness, because my Father had the Honour to acquaint You with the Substance of it, at Your first Arrival amongst us : A piece of Service which, I have reason to believe, was graciously accepted, fince it has procur'd me the Happiness of being near Your ROYAL HIGHNESS. A Happiness which otherwise I durst not have

One Advantage I reap from it, which I must not forget, and that is, that I have hereby a nearer Prospect of the Great Blessing which this Nation enjoys in Your ROYAL HIGHNESS. I see now, what every Man else in England believes, that all Your Care and Study is employ'd in making Her MAJESTY and her Subjects, great and glorious. And that this Design, truly worthy of Your ROYAL HIGHNESS, might the more effectually be executed, You chose to to take our Naval Affairs under Your immediate Inspection.

Our Fleet is our Glory and our Defence : Hereby we can be terrible to our Enemies, and protect our Friends : Hereby we are fafe in Time of War, and grow rich in Time of Peace : This prevents Infults from abroad, and enables us to wound our Enemies in the most fenfible Part. then are due to Your ROYAL HIGHNESS, to whose Paternal Conduct, next under God's good Providence, we owe the furprifing Succeffes which Her MAJESTY and Her People have met with at Sea, fince this War began. That our Fleet has been victorious, and our Trade secured : That our Enemies have been disheartned, and our Allies encouraged : That the Brave have been rewarded, and the Undeserving punished : That Divisions in the Fleet have scarce been hear'd of; and no Strife amongst our Naval Officers, but who should best serve Her MAJESTY: That in the midst of War the Merchant repines not at the Husbandman, nor the Husbandman upbraids the Merchant. And lastly, That when the Hand of God had destroyed several of our greatest Ships, and swept away so many of our bravest Men, timely and effectual Care has been taken to repair the Nation's Dammage, and alleviate the respective Sufferer's Loss;

SINCE upon my Father's Death, the Care of publishing New Editions of his Present State of England, does of course devolve upon me, it will be expected I should say something of This, and give an Account of what is done in it. And that indeed is but reasonable and necessary for my own Sake, and for the Sake of the Work.

TE STATES THORE INC.

First then, I have taken Care to adjust it exactly to the present Time : The last Edition which was published about a Year agoe, was unluckily printed just before the Death of King William, of Glorious Memory ; and being fitted to the Time, appeared very much out of Season when it came forth. The Whole therefore has been carefully revised, and I hope no Improprieties of that kind are left. Some, I know, will complain, that these frequent Publications make former Editions become useles, and that every Two or Three Tears they must buy a new Present State. But that flight Inconvenience is unavoidable; and most Men, with-without murmuring, every Tear buy a New Almanack. For Nations (like the Men that compose them) are floating Bodies, and hourly Alterations in something or other, which a Work of this kind must take Notice of, will necessarily happen. But then on the other Hand it ought to be confider'd, that Old Editions of this Book are so far from being despisable, that Time makes them become great Curiofities. For inquisitive Men can make great use of such a View of the Alterations which have happen'd in England, as a perfect Collection of all the Twenty Editions this Work would afford. No old Man would throw away a Series of Pictures of his own Face, which have been drawn exactly, and to the Life, every Two or Three Tears, for Forty Years together.

But when I had done what I could, I did in the next Place call in the Affiftance of my Friends, to revise this Work, jointly with my self. And their Observations I have added to my own, that nothing might be wanting that could contribute to the perfecting the Book. My Father's Plan has been strictly followed, and no Additions, Alterations, or Amendments have been made, but such as I have reason to believe himself would have agreed to. There is in this Edition an Account of the Societies for Propagating Religion at Home, and and in Foreign Parts, and for Reformation of Manners, which is entirely new : Leffer Matters are left to the Observation of the Curious, who, by comparing this with former Editions, will best be able to judge of what is done.

Here I should have left off, if I had not thought my self bound in Justice to the Memory of my deceas'd Father, who spent so much Time and Pains to bring this Work to the Condition it is now in, to take Notice of a Writer who has been ferving the Publick (as he magnificently tells the World) with his Pen for near Twenty five Years. This Writer, for So he ought to be call'd rather than an Author, is Mr. Guy Meige, by Birth, a Swiffer, who, after he had busied bimself laudably enough in compiling French Dictionaries and Grammars, lookt upon himself as one sufficiently qualified to set forth a New State of England; in which, without mentioning my Father, unless it be to find fault, he has rifled his Book, and with some infignificant and dry Additions of his own, has set up for an Author. An easy and cheap way to acquire Fame. And, as if the Performance were all his own, he is angry that the Publick has so little regarded his eminent Services. For thus he concludes his Advertisement, with as much good Modesty as English, prefixed to the Third

Third Impression of his Book. As I am the most free from Resentment, so great Care has been taken for near 25 Years, I serv'd the Publick with my Pen, that I should not be transported with a Sense of Gratitude.

If be has deferved no better of the Publick in other Things than he has done in this, he has had no Wrong done him in being Slighted. But the Injury Mr. Miege has done to the Publick has been greater, and of greater Consequence, than any little Inconvenience which we have suffer'd by this Means. By setting up a New State of England in Opposition to my Father's Present State, he has hindred very many People from buying a Description of their Native Country, upon diverse Accounts, very much preferable to Mr. Meige's : The great Advantage of these Books, is to inspire Men with a Love to their Country, which will naturally lead honest Men to follow after those Things which make for its Peace. An Englishman has a constitutional Fund of Discontent beyond the Inhabitants of most other Nations: And the Wealth of this Kingdom being more equally diffused than in Foreign Countries, the Common People have more Leisure here than they have abroad, and that Leisure is often turn'd to mischievous Purposes. He therefore that gives an honest and a full Representation of our Government in all its Branches, and the the Reasonableness and Excellency of every Part, especially in an Age, in which our Constitution bas been, in the Memories of many yet alive. fatally over-turned, that Man does his Country. a fignal Piece of Service. When the Monarchy and the Church are destroyed, this Nation is undone, and proportionably as the Reverence. to either of them is lost, proportionably the Foundations of the Kingdom's Peace are undermined. My Father therefore, who was an Eye-witness of our former Confusions, and who, consequently, was a better Judge of the likelieft Ways to prevent any such for the future, took Care in his Present State of England, to enlarge upon those Heads, that so his Countrymen might learn to practife those National Virtues, in which their Fathers had been most defective, might love their Country upon rational Grounds, and so might be able to give a Reason to their Children, of such their Love. In this Part of his New State, Mr. Meige has been most deficient : He has complimented the Enemies of our Constitution so far as to make it a Question, Whether those Part II. Page 23. who first took up Arms against King Charles I. were Rebels, or no. A. Foreigner, one would have thought, should have been more referved upon such an occasion. But Mr. Meige weakly imagind (as he infinuates in his Dedication) that this was the way to

to make his Court to the then Ministry, and that under Pretence of justifying our late happy Revolution, he might teach Rebellion without Controul. Otherwise, when he Speaks of the Power of an English Parliament, he would scarcely have produc'd Votes of the House of Commons in Decem-Part III. ber 1641, against King Charles I. Pag. 26 & 27. when that difinal Rebellion, which quickly after broke out, was upon the Anvil. Necessities, such as ours were in 1688, will always justify a Nation, if it accepts of the Assistance of a Foreign Prince, who comes to its Relief. And when a Government is again setled, as ours was by the Pr. of Orange's Acceptance of the Crown of England, which the States then assembled offer'd him, he that teaches the People to obey their Governours, not he that insinuates in what Cases they may be opposed, is the usefullest Member of the Commonwealth. An English Parliament, will (it may be hoped) never stand in need of Mr. Meige's Instructions to be taught their Duty; and those things which in their Natures are Arcana Imperii, ought, for certain, never to be put into the People's Heads.

But I ought to enlarge here no farther : I am too nearly concerned to fay what would become a Third Person. The Publick, by the very many Editions of my Father's Book, have shew'd Shew'd their Approbation of his honeft and loyal Intentions in writing it; and therefore as I am bound in Gratitude to take care of those farther Editions of it, which may be published in time to come, so I shall endeavour to answer any Expectations which may be conceived of me in this Matter, to the utmost of my Power.

ALTERATIONS and ADDITIONS.

Note, THAT besides the Errata before-mention'd, which were almost unavoidable, during the Impreffion of almost 43 Sheets, of which this Book confifts, there have been many Alterations in Officers, Grc. by Deceafe, Removal, Refignation, and otherwife, which could not be foreseen : The most remarkable are as follows. Instead of Daniel Earl of Nottingham, Principal Secretary of State, read, The Right Honourable Robert Harley, Efg; Principal Secretary of State, and Richard Warr, Efg; and Erajmus Lewis, Efg; his Under-Secretaries. For Edward Earl of Jerfey, as Lord Chamberlain of her Majefty's Houshold, read Henry Earl of Kent. In the room of Sir Edward Seymour Comptroller, place Thomas ManJel, Efq; adding them with Robert Harley, Efq; to the Lift of the Privy-Council : To the Admiralty Board as Council to his Royal Highnefs, is joined William Paget, Efq; In the room of William Blaithwait, Efq; Secretary at War, read Henry St. John's, Elq; For Colonel of the First Regiment of Foot-Guards, read John Duke of Marlborough instead of Henry Earl of Romney, deceas'd. In the Lift of the Gentlemen of the Bed-Chamber to the Prince, add Thomas Earl of Westmorland; and in the Lift of the Commillioners of his Royal Highnefs's Revenues, dele George Churchil, Efq; and after Edward Nicholas, Eig; read George Clarke, Eig; For Cofferer, read, The Honourable Francis Godolphin, Elq; instead of Sir Benjamin Bathurst deceas'd; and for the Honourable Francis Godolphin, Elq; one of the Tellers of the Exchequer, read, Thomas Coke, Elq;

Conj. 1277 albuit, dagov, Feft. album) as the Snowy Hills between France and Italy are called Alpes. Afterwards, as appears in the time of Lucretius and Julius Cafar, it had the name of Britannia, from Brith, which in the old Britifb Tongue fignifies Painted, (for the fame reason that some of the Britains were afterwards called Picts; from painting their Skins in a manner terrible to their Enemies) and was about 800 years after the Incarnation of Christ (by a special Edict of King Egbert, descended from the the Angles, a People of the Lower Saxony, in whofe Possession the greatest part of this Country then was) named Angle or Englelond, thence by the French called Angle-terre, by the Germans Engeland, and by the Inhabitants England.

Climate.] It is fituated between the Degrees 17 and 22 Longitude, as are beet any and Normandy in France, and between 50° and 50° of Northern Latitude, as are Flanders, Zealand, Holland, Lower-Saxony, and Denmark : Advantageoufly for Traffick to all parts of the World.

The longest Day in the most Northern part is 17 Hours, 30 Minutes, and the shortest Day in the most Southern parts, is almost 8 Hours long.

Dimensions.] It is in Shape Triangular, the longest fide from Berwick North, to the Lands End South West 386 Miles; from Berwick to Sandwich S. S. E about 280 Miles; from Sandwich E. to the Lands End W. by S. 279 Miles. And the Perpendicular from Berwick to Portsmouth N. and S. 320 Miles: Contains, by Computation of Mr. Houghton, 39938500 of Acres, 1175951 Houses, is almost ten times as big as the United Netherlands; five times as big as the Spanish Netherlands; less than all Italy by almost one half, and in comparison with France, is as 30 to 82. The Yearly Rent of all the Lands in England and Wales, is computed at 7500000 pounds, besides the Rent of Houses.

Division.] That part of Eritain now called England, was in the time of the Romans, divided into Britannia Prima, Britannia Schanda, and Maxima Oxfanirafts.) The first of these contained the South Part of England, the second, all that Wistern part now called Wales, and the third the Northern parts beyond Trens, at the more accurate division, into Brimainia. Brima, Britannia Secunda, Flavia Casariens, Maxima Chefarichter, and Valentia.

When the Britains thad received the Christian Faith under Killausia about the year 180, 'tis faid they divided the fame (for the better Government Ecclefiaffical) into three Provincessor Archbishopricks, miz. the Archbishoprick of London, which contained Britannia Prima, the Archbishoprick of York, which contained that part called Maxima Cafarienfis; and the Archbishoprick of Cardian, an ancient great City of Soath Wales upon the River Use, under which was Britannia Secanda. Dorcefter was a large Bishoprick, whose See was at Dorcefter near Oxford; Founded by Kinglis, or Kingils, the first Christian King of the West Saxons, about the year 640, in the Person of Berinus or Birinus an Italian Priest, who was succeeded by Agilbert a Frenchman; promoted thereto by Kenwald Son of Kingils, who afterward disliking the broken and bad English of Agilbert, divided the Bishoprick into two; one to continue in the See of Dorcester under Agilbert, and the other he founded at WINCHESTER about the year 660, in the Perfon of Wina, another Frenchman, but who could speak better English. Agilbert discontented at this division, left England, and so the two Bishopricks was united again both in the See of Winchester. King Ina afterwards added his Conquests of the South Saxons, and the Bishoprick of Selley to it; fo it became a vast Bishoprick, containing both Kingdoms of the South and West Saxons.

But about the Year 704. Ina took out of it the Bishoprick of Sherborne, which was afterwards divided into the Bishopricks of Wells, Ramesbury, Kirton and Bodmyn; but Ramesbury in Willsbire was reunited to Sherborns in Bishop Herman by Edward the Confessor: Bodmyn was translated to St. Germans, and after that united with Kirton, by King Canutus. CHAP.

CHAP. IV.

Of its Air, Soil, and Commodities.

Mit. THE Air is far more mild and temperate (if not more healthy) than any part of the Continent under the fame Climate.

By reason of the warm Vapours of the Sea on every fide, and the very frequent Winds from the huge Western Ocean, the cold in Winter is less sharp than in some parts of France and Italy, which yet are seated far more Southerly.

And by reafon of the continual Blafts of Wind from Sea, the very often interpoling of Clouds betwixt the Sun and Earth, and the frequent Showers of Rain, the Heat in Summer is lefs fcorching than in fome parts of the Continent that lieth much more Northward, where neither Rain nor Clouds appear for fome Months, and not much Wind felt.

As in Summer the gentle Winds and frequent Showers, qualifie all violent Heats and Droughts, and make the Day pleafant; fo in Winter the Nights are moftly ferene and bright, and the Frosts do only meliorate the cultivated Soil, and the Snow keeps warm the tender Plants. In a word, here is no neceffity of Stoves in Winter, nor Grottoes in Summer.

Doil.] It is bleffed with a very fertile wholfom Soil, watered abundantly with Springs and Streams, and in divers parts with great navigable Rivers; and many more Rivers might eafily be made Navigable; and feveral of late years have been made fo. It hath few barren Mountains and craggy Rocks, but generally pleafant Hills rifing with eafie Afcents, and fruitful Valleys, apt for Corn, Grafs, or Wood. The excellency of the English Soil may be learn'd (as Varro advifed of old) from the complexion of the Inhabitants, who therein excel all other Nations, or elfe from the high value put upon it by the Romans and the Saxons, who looked upon it as fuch a precious fpot of Ground, that they thought it worthy to be fenced in, like a Garden-Plat, with a mighty mighty Wall, of fourfcore Miles in length, viz. from Tinmouth on the German Sea, to Solway-Frith on the Irifh Sea, and with a monstrous Dike of ninety Miles, viz. from the mouth of the River Wye, to that of the River Dee. Laftly, the excellency of her Soil may also be learned from those transcendent Eulogies bestowed on her by ancient and modern Writers, who called England, The Granary of the Western World, The Seat of Geres, The inexhaustible Well, Gc. That her Valleys are like Eden, her Hills like Lebanon, her Springs as Pifgah, and her Rivers as Jordan : That the is a Paradife. of Pleafure, and the Garden of God. " Oh happy and " bleffed Britain ! above all Countries in the World, Na-" ture hath enriched thee with all the Bleffings of Heaven " and Earth : Nothing in thee is hurtful to Man's Life, no-" thing wanting in thee that is defirable; infomuch that "thou feemest another World placed besides, or without " the great World, meerly for the delight and pleafure of " Mankind.

Commodities.] As it is divided from the reft of the World, fo by reason of its great abundance of all things neceffary for the Life of Man, it may without the Contribution of any part of the World, more eafily fubfift than any of its neighbouring Countries.

Terra Juis contenta bonis, non indiga mercis.

First, For wholfom fubstantial Food, what plenty every where is here of Sheep, Oxen, Swine, Fallow-Deer, Coneys, and Hares? It wants not Red-Deer, Goats, nor Roes. What abundance are here of Hens, Ducks, Geefe, Turkeys, Pigeons? Of Partridge, Pheafants, Plovers, Teals, Thrushes, Merles, Field-fares, Oufles, or Black-birds, Larks, Wild-Ducks, Wild-Geefe, Coal-Geefe, Swans, Wigens, Peacocks, Buntings, Snipes, Quails, Woodcocks, Lapwings.

It wants not Sandling, Knot, Curlew, Bayning, Dotterel, Roe, Cur, Ruff, Maychit, Stint, Sea-Plover, Pewits, Red-Ihanks, Rails, and Wheat ears, Herons, Cranes, Bitterns, Buftards, Puffins, Godwits, Heath-cocks, Moor pouts, or Groufe-Thrushes, and Throstles.

Then for Fifh, what plenty of Salmons, Trouts, Lamperns, Loches, Gudgeons, Carps, Tenches, Lampreys, Pikes, Perches, Eels, Breams, Roches, Dace, Flounders, Plaice, Shads, Mullets, Kingstones, Dorees. What

What great abundance of Herrings, which in former times kept themfelves altogether about Norway, but of late take their Rounds about Midfummer to Scatland, July to Scarborough in Yorkshire, afterwards to the Thames mouth, and so round about by Ireland back into the North Seas in incredible Shoals; as on these Coasts are likewife of Mackrel, Whitings, Cods, Gurnets, Haddocks, Pilchards, Sprats, Oysters for goodness and number almost incredible? We have great plenty likewife of Lobsters, Crabs, Shrimps, Prawns, Muscles, Cockles, Efcalops, Crayfish, &c.

We want not Soles, Conger, Turbots, Scate, Thornbacks, Mades, Smelts, &c.

How doth England abound with Wheat, Barley, Rye, Pulfe, Beans, and Oats, with excellent Butter and Cheefe, Honey, Saffron, and many other choice Commodities for Food, Medicine and Pleafure?

The Fields are fufficiently full of Tares, Vetches, Clover-grafs, Hop-Clover, Saint-foin, Ray-grafs, Trefoil, Cinque-foil, Hops, Woad, Flax, Hemp, Rape-feed, Lucern, Dantzick Flax, Canary-feed, Mustard-feed, &c.

For Drinks, England abounds with Beer, Ale, Sider, Perry, Metheglin and Mede, Brandy, made either of Mault or Apples, Gr.

Here is great plenty of excellent Fruit. Fields, Woods and Hedges are ftored with Apples, Pears, Cherries, Plums, Wall-nuts, Small-nuts, Cheft-nuts, Filberts, Strawberries, Bullace, Slows, Crabs for Verjuice, Blackberries, Huccleberries, Dewberries, Elderberries, Services, and the like.

But in Orchards and Gardens you have for Apples, the Pippin, Kentifb, Kirton, Golden, Ruffet, Holland, French, Pearmain, Reinet, Deux-ans, or John, Queening, Greening, Julyflower, Harvey-Apple, Marigold, Early ripe Junettings, and Codlings, and innumerable many excellent forts for Sider, as Red-ftreak, Genet-Moyle, & For Pears, the Summer and Winter Bon-Chrêtienne, the Bergamot, Poppering, Beurre des Rois, Orange, Greenfield, Windfor, Lording, Meffire-Jean, Sugar, Musque, Catherine, Warden, and forty others.

For Plums, Pear-plum, Arline, Damfons, Damazens, Muffel, Ferdrigon, Date, Imperial, S. Julian, Morocco, Great Anthony, Turkey, &c.

Oherries :

Cherries : May Cherries, Kentish, Black Cherries, Flemish, Carnation, Morella, Black Duke, Hartlib, Cornelians, Black Heart, Morocco, Egriot, &c.

Peaches: Nutmeg, Isabella, Newington, Muscat, Violet, Roman, Rambouillet, Crown, Bourdeaux, Malacoton, Mignon, Alberge, Syon, Orleans, &c.

Apricots, divers forts.

Nectarines :: Murry, Tawney, Red, Roman, Green, Yel-

Grapes : Ambois, Burgundian, Corinth, Cluster-Grapes, Frontinac, Muscats, Early-blew, Raison, Parsley, &c.

Figs: Scio, White and Purple, Yellow, Dwarf, Blew, &c.

Quinces : Barbary, Brunswick, Portugal.

Gaoleberries : Chrystal, Early-red, Amber, English, Yellow, White, Dutch.

Corinths all forts.

Strawberries : Common Wood, English Garden, Virginian, White Coped, Long, Red, Green, Scarlet, Polonian.

All forts of Raspis, Mulberries, Berberries, Medlers, Services, Quinces, Filberts, &c.

The Kitchin-Garden affords many excellent Difhes, not only of pleafant Fruit, but of fubftantial Food; as Afparagus, Artichoaks, Alifanders, Beans, Kidney and Lupine Beans of all forts; Beets, Cabbage, Cardons, Carrots, Cauly-flowers, Clary, Cucumbers, Endive, Gourds of all forts, Lettuce of all forts, amongit them that delicious one of Selefia, thrives here as if it were its original Soil. Melons of all forts, Mekins, Parfnips, Peafe of all forts, Poratoes, Pompions, Radifh of all forts, Rochambole, Scirrets, Scorzonera, Sellery, Savoy, Turnips.

Nor doth every commonOlitory wantBaulm, Bafil, Borrage, Buglofs, Chervil, Cole-worts, Corn-Salad, Creffes all forts, Fennel, Garlick, Hyfop, Horfe-Reddifh, Lavender, Leeks, Marjoram, Marigold, Mint, Nausturtium's, Onions, Parfley, Purflain, Penyroyal; all forts of Pot-herbs, and edible Roots, and Salad; Rofemary, Sage, Savoury, Scurvygrafs, Shallot, Spinnage, Succory, Sorrel, Thyme.

The Flower-Garden hath Africans, Alaternus, Agnus caftus, Almond-Trees, Aloes, Amaranth, Amomum Plinii, Anemonies, Arbutus, Auricula's, Balfomina, Balfamum Mas, Barba Jovis, Belvedere, Bottles, Box, Chalcedon, Candytufts, Canna Indica, Capficum, Carnations, Chamæ-Iris, Chamælæa 42

læa, Ciffus, Cloves, Colchicum, Columbine, Convolvulus, Crocus, Cedrus Libani, Crown Imperial, Cyanus, Cyclamen, Cypress, Cytifus, Daffodils; Exoticks and Evergreens of innumerable many forts ; Foxgloves, French Marigolds, Fraxinella, Fritillaria, Firs, Gentianella, Geranium, Gladio-Jus, Hedyfarum, Hepatica, Hollyhoc, Holly-ftriped, Humble Plant, Hony-fuckles, Hyacinth, Jasmines, Iris, Junquills, Larks-fpur, Lentifcus, Lillies, Limon-Trees. Lupines all forts, Lychnis, Laurels, Laurustinus, Laburnums, Marum, Syriacum, Martagon, Matricaria, Mezerion, Mirabile Peru, Muscaris Muscipula, Myrtils all forts, Nigella, Oleander, Orange-Trees, Olive-Trees, Peonies, Paffion-flower, Polyanthæa, Phillyrea, Pinks, Pomegranate, Pomum amoris, Poppies double, Pyracantha, Platanus, Primula, Ranunculus, Rofes all forts, belides the monthly Rofe, blowing in the midst of Winter; Sea Ragwort, Spanish Broom, Sena. Stock-Gilly-flowers, Sweet Scabious, Sweet Sultan, Sweet-Williams, Senfitive Plant, Tragacantha, Tulips, Tuberofe. Valerian, Venus Looking-Glafs, Navel-wort, Violets, Wall-Flowers, Oc.

But many of the Exoticks are housed in Winter; and if fo, there is scarce any Plant in the World but will thrive here, witness the Indian Fig-tree, bearing ripe Fruit : and many other curious Exotick Plants in these two celebrated Physical Gardens, that of the University of Oxford, and of the London Apothecaries in Chelsey, not to mention divers others.

The Woods are not only flock'd with large and durable Timber Trees and Pollards, Alder, Afh, Beech, Birch, Blackcherry-Tree, Chefnut, Holly, Oak, Yew, &c. but every where with medicinal Herbs which grow plentifully likewife in every Forreft, Lawns, Shaft and Hedge; and what of Phyfical Drugs the Woods and Fields want, the Goodwife's Garden for the moft part fupplies.

Alehoof, Angelica, Annis, Adders-tongue, Avens, Betony, Birthwort, Biftort, Broom, Bryony, Burnet, Brooklime, Bloodwort, Bugle; Camomil, Carduus, Centory, Comfrey, Celandine, Cammock, Colts-foot, Cowflip-flowers, Cummin; Dane-wort, Dill, Dodder, Drop-wort, Devils-bit; Egrimony, Elder, Epithymum, Eye-bright, Enulacampane; Fennel, Fleawort, Fumitory, Feaver-tue; Germander, Gromel, Hellebore, Hore-hound, Harts-tongue; Juniper, Ivy; Knee-holm, Knot-grafs; Lungwort, Liver-wort, Lilly of the

the Valley; Madder, Maiden-hair, Mallows, Melilot, Miffeltoe of Oak and Hazel, befide that on Fruit Trees, Mugwort, Moufe-ear; Orris; Plantain, Polypody, Pelitory of the Wall, Poppies; Rofa-folis, Rue, Rhubarb; St. Johnfwort, Spurge, Saxifrage, Scabious, Scordium; Tormentil, Tanfie: Violets, Vervein; Wormwood, Wild-Time, Wood-forrel, &c.

Now of all these things there is such a constant continuance, by reason of the clemency of the Climate, that scarce the least Famine, which frequenteth other Countries, hath been felt in England these 400 Years.

Then for Raiment, England produceth generally not only very fine Wool, which makes our Cloth more lafting than other Country Cloth, and better conditioned againft Wind and Weather; but alfo fuch great abundance of Wool, that not only all forts, from the higheft to the loweft, are clothed therewith; but fo much hath been heretofore transported beyond the Seas, that in Honour of the English Wool, that then brought fuch plenty of Gold into the Territories of Philip the Good, Duke of Burgundy, (where the Staple for English Wool, was in those Days kept) he inflituted (as fome write) that famous Military Order of the Golden Fleece, at this Day in higheft Effeem with the whole House of Austria.

The Wool of Lamster, Cossmold, and the 1ste of Wight, when truly manufactured by the English Clothiers, doth for foftnels and finenels, vie with the choiceft Silks ; and altho' Spanish Wool bears a Name amongst us, as a thing far fetch'd and dear bought ; yet the Clothiers and Merchants know that the greatest part of that Wool, which when manufactured, they call Spanish Cloth, doth grow in England; and so absolutely necessary is English Wool to the making of good Cloth, that the French can make no Work of their own Wool, without about one part in three of ours is mixt with it; so that the Fable of the Golden Fleece hath its Moral in England, our Fleeces producing for much Riches to us.

The Yearly produce of Wool in England, is calculated by the abovementioned Dr. Davenant and G. King Efq; at 2 Millions Sterling : And when manufactured at 8 Millions, whereof 3 quarters for Home Confumption, and a 4th part for Exportation.

This

This abundance and cheapnels of Wool in England proceeds not only from the goodnels of the Soil, but allo from a Freedom from Wolves, and from exceflive Heats and Colds, which in other Countries create a charge of conftant guarding their Sheep, and houfing them by Night, and fometimes by Day alfo. And for advancing the Manufactures of Cloth, that neceflary Earth, called Fullers Earth, is no where elfe produced in that abundance and excellency as in England.

It wants not Linnen for all ufes, at leaft not Ground to produce Flax and Hemp, although there hath been much Linnen imported, with much Paper, and fine Paper made of Linnen, to the fhame and damage of the Nation. But there are lately many Paper-Mills erected, and tolerably fine Paper made in feveral places of England: and the Paper-Makers are incorporated by a Royal Patent into a Society. The fame Encouragement hath alfo the incorporated Linnen Manufacture; whereof we are capable of making fo much as not to fend abroad for any, if the Wifdom of the Government had not thought fit to referve the Encouragement of that Manufacture for Ireland, a Country much more proper for it, and to promote the Woollen Manufacture here at Home.

Befide, there is in England great Plenty of excellent Leather for all forts of Ufes, infomuch that the pooreft People wear good Shoes of Leather ; whereas in our neighbouring Countries, the Poor generally wear either Shoes of Wood, or none at all ; whilft the pooreft of our Labourers have not only Shoes, but good ftrong Leather Boots too, to preferve 'em from Cold when they work in Ditches or other wet Places.

For Building, it wants not Timber, nor Iron, Stone nor Slate, nor Ardoise or blue Slate, Brick nor Tiles, Marble nor Alabaster, Mortar nor Lime, Lead nor Glass.

For Firing, either Wood, Sea-coal, or Pit-coal, is almost every where to be had at reasonable Rates; and also Turf. In many Places of England, a Horse-load of good Sea-coal is bought for Two-pence, and a great Waggon-load of Oaken Billeting for a Crown.

For Shipping, no where better Oak, no where fuch Knee-Timber, (as they call it) for which four Forests are eminent and convenient likewise for Portage, viz. New-Forest in Hamshire, near the Sea, Shirewood on the Trent, Dean on the the Severn, and Windfor-Forest on the Thames. We have likewife great flore of Iron to make ferviceable and durable Guns, Bombs, Carcaffes, and all other Ufes. For War, for Coach and Waggon, for Travelling Pads, Hunting and Racing, no where greater plenty of Horfes; allo for Plough and Pack-Carriage; infomuch as Mules and Affes fo generally made use of in France, Italy and Spain, are utterly despised in England. Here are great Numbers likewife of excellent milch-Cows; every Peafant almost who rents but ten or twelve Acres of Land, keeps a Horfe or Mare to ride upon, and one or two good Cows to fupply his Family with Milk, Cream, Butter and Cheefe. And here it may be of Note to Foreigners, that Geldings are used more than Stone-Horfes twenty to one, as being more eafily kept, and not fo fubject to Accidents, and are also more convenient for Horfemen that travel upon the Road.

Here are Dogs of all forts, fizes and uses, as Mastiffs, Grey-hounds, Spaniels for Land and Water, Hounds for Stag, Buck, Fox, Hare and Otter; Terriors, Tumblers. Lurchers, Setting-Dogs, Curs, Turn-Spits, little Lapdogs, &c. The Bear and Bull-dog Maftiffs, feem to be the boldest and strongest Creatures of their fize in the World; one of 'em will encounter fingly a Lion, Bear, Bull, or any Greature they are fet upon, and not give over to the last Breath of Life. Our Game-Gocks likewife are fo ftout and hardy, that if two of 'em are well match'd, they both become dying Conquerors by flaying one another; but it is well known both of English Cocks and Dogs, that (as if Courage were more natural to the Climate than to the Creature) if they are carried into another Countrey, after fome confiderable time they degenerate. Gats are here very curious to the Eye, the Cyprus and Tabby Cats especially. Here are likewife divers forts of Hawks, as the Faulcon, Lanar, Lanaret, Lanius, Sparrow-hawks, Or.

Moreover, England produceth besides a mighty Quantity of Tin, Lead and Iron, some Brass and Copperas, Copper, and Lapis Calaminaris to make Brass: much Allom, Salt, Hops, Liquorice, Wax, Tallow, Coney-Furs, Salt-Peter, Madder, and Woad for Dying; all forts of Glass, Flax, Hemp, &c. and divers other beneficial Commodities. It wants not Mines of Silver, yielding more in their small quantities of Oar, and therefore richer than those of Potoss in the West-Indies, whence the King of Spain hath most of his his Silver; those yielding usually but one Ounce and half of Silver in one hundred Ounces of Oar; whereas these in Wales, Cornwall, Lancashire and the Bishoprick of Durham, yield ordinarily fix or eight Ounces per Cent. but most of these lying deep, are hard to come unto, and Workmen dear, which is otherwise in Potes.

It wants not Hot Batbs, as in Semorsetshire, Derbyshire; and abounds in Medicinal Springs, working either by Stool or Urine; as at Tunbridge, Ebsham, Scarborough, Astrop, Acton, Barnet, North-Hall, Dullidge, Islington, Sellenge, Cobham, Shooters-hill, Richmond, and Hampsted.

Vineyards have been heretofore common in moft of the Southern and middle parts of England; and Silks might be here produced, as it was once defigned by King James the first; but a great part of the Natives, prone to Navigation, fupplying England at a very cheap rate with all forts of Wines, Silks, and all other Foreign Commodities, (according to that of an ancient Poet, it hath been found far better Husbandry to employ English Ground rather for producing Wool, Corn and Cattle, for which it is most proper.

Though fome Countries excel England in fomethings, yet generally there is no one Country under Heaven, whole Air is better ftored with Birds and Fowls ; Seas, Rivers and Ponds with Fifh; Fields with all forts of Corn; the Paftures with Cattle; the Forefts, Parks, Warrens and Woods, with wild Beafts (only for Recreation and Food;) the Mines with Metals, Coals, Alabaster, Marble, Free-Stone, and other Minerals; the Country Farms with Hens, Capons, Turkeys, Geefe, Ducks, Peacocks, Dove-houfes, Fifhponds, Coney-Warrens, Pigs, Milk, Fruit, &c. Where are fewer ravenous and hurtful Beafts, fewer venemous Serpents, or noifome Flies and Vermin, fewer Droughts, Inundations or Dearths; fewer unwholfome Serenes, peftilential Airs, tempestuous Hurricanes, subterraneous Fires, burning Mountains, or deftructive Earthquakes : And altho' a Pestilence hath formerly visited us once in about twenty Years, (yet never but when the Contagion hath heen brought hither from other Countries.) God be praffed praised 'tis now 38 Years fince we felt that Calamity, and God grant it may never more return. In a word, where is there greater Abundance of all things neceffary for Man's Life, and more especially for all kind of Food? infomuch that it hath been judged, that there is yearly as much Flesh and Beer confum'd in England by over-plentiful Tables, as would ferve three times the number of People. Add to all this; That being encompassed with the Sea, and well furnished with Ships, and abundance of commodious and excellent Havens and Ports, it excels for Safety and Security (which is no fmall Praise) all the neighbouring Countries, if not all the Countries in the World; and needs not much to fear any Nation but only that which grows potent in Shipping; for they only can deprive us of our main Security, and of an Island can make us a Continent.

CHAP. V.

Of its Inhabitants, their Number, Language, Character.

Inhabitants. E NGLAND hath been posses by five feveral Nations, and coveted by many more; and no wonder so fair and rich a Lady should have many Lovers, it being a Country (as was faid of the Tree in the midst of Paradife) good for Food, pleasant to the Eyes, and to be defired. Whereas the Highlands of Scotland, Biscay, Switzerland, and other like Countries, continue still in the possession of the Aborigines, of the first that laid Claim to them, none fince judging it worth their pains to difposses them.

The first Inhabitants in England are believed to be the Britains, defcended from the Gauls, whose Language was once almost the fame; (See a late Book entitl'd l' Antiquité de la Nation et de la Langue des Celtes by Mr. Pezron, as also the Archæologia Britanica by the Ingenious Mr. Edward Lhwyd, Keeper of the Astmolean Laboratory in Oxford,) subdued after by the Romans, who, by reason of their Troubles measure home, were constrain'd to abandon this Country about about 400 years after Chrift; whereupon the Picts, Inhabitants of Scotland, invading the Britains, they call to their aid the Saxons, who chafing away the Picts, foon made themfelves Mafters of the Britains: But thefe not able to endure the heavy Yoke of the Saxons, after many Battles and Attempts to recover thir loft Liberties and Country, retired, or were driven, fome of them into Britaigne in France, (from whence fome think they first came) but most of them into the two utmost Western barren and mountainous parts of this Country, called afterwards by the Saxons Walishland, as the Germans still call Italy Welfbland, because inhabited by the Cifalpine Gauls; and the French call our Country of Britains, Le Pais de Galles.

The Saxons folely possessed of all the best parts of this Isle, were for a long time infested, and for some time almost subdued by the Danes, and afterwards wholly by the Normans, who drove not out the Saxons, but mixed with them; so that the English Blood at this day is a mixture chiefly of Norman and Saxon, not without a Tincture of Danish, Romish, and British Blood.

"Vid. Dr. Davenant's Book, How a People may be Gamers in the Ballance of Trade." To give the Reader an exact account of the Number of People in England, will be very difficult, but a near Conjecture may be thus made. *

England contains, according to the accurate Calculation of the judicious Mr. Houghton, in his Account of the Acres and Houfes, with the proportional Tax of each County of England and Wales, printed Anwo 1693. 1175951 Houfes. Now allowing to each Houfe, one with another, 6 Perfons, there will be found in all 7055706 Souls, and amongft them 1000000 of Fighting-men. All the Souls in France are computed at 13500000, or at the most 15000000, of which 270000 are Church-men, besides Nuns; the Clergy of England being scarce 20000.

In Their Language.] The English Tongue being at prefent much refined, exceeding copious, expressive and figuificant, (by reason of a liberty taken by the Natives, of borrowing out of all other Languages what ever might conduce thereunto) is (as their Blood) a mixture, chiefly of the Old Saxons (a Dialect of the Teutonick) and the Old Norman, (a Dialect of the French) not without fome favour of the Britagins, Romans, and Danes Languages.

Part I.

The Romans possessing England; caused their Tongue; the Latin, to be generally used in this Country.

The Saxons fucceeding, introduced their Language wherefoever they feated themfelves.

The Normans afterwards getting possession of England, caused the Norman or French Tongue to be learned at School by the Saxons; and for a long time, till 36 of Edward the Third, Laws, Statutes, Pleadings, Sermons, Schools, Writings, were in French.

The Latin Tongue at prefent is made use of in Court-Rolls, Records, Processes of Courts, in Charters, Commissions, Patents, Writs, Bonds, and some Statutes are still kept in that Language.

The Names of Shires, Cities, Towns and Villages, Places and Men in England, are generally Saxon; and fo are most Nouns Appellative, and a great part of the Verbs.

In French, or rather Norman, are still written the Common Laws, and learnt by young Students thereof; all Reports, Pleadings, all Moots and Law Exercises, are wholly French; Declarations upon Original Writs, all Records are written in French; some old Statutes are still in that Tongue: In Parliament the Assent or Dissent to Bills, made by the King Lords or Commons, is in French: Almost all our Terms in Hunting, Hawking, Dicing, Dancing, Singing, Heraldry, Gr. are still French.

Character.] The Natives of England, by reason of the temperate Climate, mild Air, plenty of wholfom Food ; and the use of Beer rather than Wine, are commonly tall and big of Stature, if compared with Southern Nations. They are fair, especially the Women, whose Beauties are lafting, Shapes fine, Mien agreeable, Air fweet and charming. Both Sexes are here well proportioned in Body, and graceful in Carriage : Grave, well-spoken, prudent, modest, free, fincere, plealant, ingenious : The Men are ftrong, couragious, warike, (Bellicofifimi, faith Bodin the French Politician) refolute, enterprizing, constant, not knowing how to fly in Battel: Liberal to Prodigality, open-hearted, hard to be provoked, yet when exafperated, ftomachful till fatiffaction be given, and then they are easie to be reconciled : They are fumptuous and splendid, great lovers of Hospitality, magnanimous and beneficent, learned, fagacious, grateful : They are thought to be wanting in Industry, (excepting Mechanicks, wherein they are, of all Nations the greatest Improvers) Caution, Suspicion, Craft, Obsequiousness, and which is most of all to be deplored, Contentedness: but these Wants are supplied by many eminent Qualifications, as Dexterity, Sagacity, Eloquence, Fidelity, Friendschip, Publick-spiritedness.

The Daringness of the Soldier, the Profoundness of the Scholar, the Magnificence of the Gentry, the Robustness of the Labourer, are not surpassed, if equalled by any People in the World.

The Women are tender, chafte, conftant, prudent, loyal, induffrious, paffionately loving to their Relations, effectially their Husbands and Children, even to Fondnets: They are not without Vanity (particularly in Cloaths, being changeable in their Fashions and Furniture, which is fometimes prodigal) pretensions to Satyr, Raillery, and the like : But no Women out-do 'em in Modesty, Clemency, Simplicity, Patience, Charity, Providential Care, Temperance, Wit, good Humour, Cleanlines; and that which crowns all the reft, in the fincerity and zeal of Religious Devotion.

Good Nature is a qualification peculiar to the English, fo peculiar, that as a noble Critick observes, there is no Word for it in any other Language.

The Inhabitants are generally of a warm and elevated Genius, of brisk and folid Parts, apprehenfive and fubtle; fuccefsful in finding out new Difcoveries; but most of all in improving of old, especially, as I faid, Mechanicks; there being few Curiofities of Art brought over trom beyond fea but are here improved to a greater height.

Here are the best Clocks, Watches, Locks, Barometers, Thermometers, &c. The late Queen had a Clock made by Mr. Watfon, late of Coventry, worth a thoufand pound, in which are all the Motions of the Celeffial Bodies. Locks are here made of Iron and Brais, of fifty, nay a hundred pound a Lock. Watches to curious, that one part of the Movement of a Repeating Watch comes to ten pound, which makes them ordinarily fifty or fixty pound a Watch ; and yet these prove profitable Merchandize when we fend them into foreign Countries, fo valuable and io inimitable is the Work! Curious Telefcopes, Microfcopes, Perfpe-Chives, Mirrors, Spheres, Globes, Charts, Maps, and all forts of Mathematical Inftruments, Dials, Ballances, Sea-Compaffes, drc. Why should I mention the various Mutical Automata, in which a very agreeable Confort is performed by St. Peter came to Rome, and about five Years after the death of Chrift.

It is also affirmed by some, That immediately after St. Stephen's Death, and the Jews dispersion, Joseph of Arimathea, with twelve others here preached and died : That the first Fabrick of a Christian Church or Temple in all the World, was at Glastenbury in Somersetsbire, 31 Years after Christ's death ; but some better Authorities speak of Simon Zelotes and Aristobulus, mentioned by St. Paul, their preaching the Gospel here, and sealing it with their Martyrdom. Afterwards, Anno 180, the Christian Faith was here professed (as 'tis faid) by publick Authority under King Lucius, the first Christian King in the World, and with Christianity, no doubt came in the Epifcopal Government, as may be feen in the Catalogue of British Bishops : And it is certain, that at the Council of Arles, Anno 347, there were three Archbishops of England, viz. of London, York, and Caerleon ; whereof the first had for his Province under him the South; the fecond, all the North; and the third, all beyond Severn, or the West part of this Island. Under these three Archbishops, there were reckoned about that Age, twenty eight Bishops, all which did observe the Customs and Orders of the Greek or Eastern Churches, and particularly that of Easter, different from the Latin Customs, or Western Churches, notwithstanding Vistor, Bishop of Rome Anno 200, had excommunicated all Churches that did fo; nor did they acknowledge Rome to be the Mother of the Britannick Church. We were obedient to Christianity when we were Strangers to Rome : Britannorum inacceffa Romanis loca Christo vero subdita, Tertul. adv. Jud. cap. 7. And if the Gospel was received here sooner than in France or Spain, it is one reafon why we fhould have the Precedence. Britain was then a Patriarchal Jurifdiction in Substance, though perhaps not in Name, and fo continued, until about the year 596, when Austin the Monk, fent hither from Rome, by Pope Gregory the Great, affifted by the Fraud of 40 other Monks, and by the Power of the then Heathen Angle Saxons (who had long before driven the Britains into Wales) and their King Et belbert, whom he had converted to the Chriftian Faith, constrained the British Bishops, here being then but feven, belides the Archbishop of Gaerleon, to fubmit themfelves to the Bishop of Rome, not without the Massacre of 1 200 Religious Perfons at Bangor, who had oppofed the Inreoduction 52 troduction of Papal Authority; fo foon began the bloody Game here in England. After which by the Connivence or Condescensions of the fucceffive Saxon or Norman Kings. this Church was in fome things fubjected to the Bifhop of Rome, as its Patriarch or Primate : But fince England hath become one entire Monarchy, none of our Kings ever fubjected themfelves to any foreign Power, either Spiritual or Temporal, till King John, perfecuted in the midft of his Barons War by the Pope, refigned his Crown to Pandulphus the Pope's Legate, and took it again from him as from the Pope: But, (as Sir Thomas Smith faith, from whom I have borrowed divers Passages in this Treatife,) " That Act be-" ing never ratified by Parliament, was never of any force " to bind this Realm, Com. W. of Eng. pag. 20. However, it could never free it felf from Papal Usurpation, until Hen. VIII. by his Royal Authority (as he and all other Kings might remove their Chancellors or other Officers. and dispose of their Offices to others) did remove the Primacy or Metropolitanship from the See of Rome to the See of Canterbury; as being far more agreeable to civil Policy and Prudence, that fuch a high Power should be placed rather in a Subject of our own Nation, than in a Sovereign Prince (for fo is the Pope over feveral Territories in Italy) and he far remote beyond the Seas: Which ejection of the Pope's Authority was not done, as in other Nations, by popular Fury and Faction, but by the mature deliberate Counfel of godly and learned Divines affembled in Convocation, with the express Authority of the King, and ra-. tified by the Three States in Parliament.

The Minds of English Christians thus delivered from the Spiritual Tyranny of the Bifhop of Rome, and the Dignity of English Kings from the Spiritual Slavery under him, King Edward the Sixth, and (after a direful interval of Queen Mary's Reign) Queen Elizabeth of bleffed Memory, and the Clergy, took this Occasion more fully to reform the many Abuses and Errors crept into the Church, in length of time, by the great negligence and corruption of Governours; wherein the Wildom of the English Reformers, had been to be admired to all Posterity, had not the Enemy fowed Sacrilegious Tares in this large Field of Reformation, which fetting afide the yet inexpiated Robberies of Church-Lands and Goods, committed in those times by the infatiable Avarice

The Liturgy, an extract of the best Primitive Forms ; the Ceremonies few, but neceffary, and fuch as tend only to Decency and increase of Piety : That she flands upon the whole, and (nothing but the) true Catholick Foundation according to the Scripture, and the four first general Councils; that fhe adheres clofely to Tradition truly Univerfal; that is, doth willingly receive, quod ab omnibus, quod ubique, quod femper receptum fust; which is the old Rule of Catholicifm ; fo that none can fay more truly with Tertullian than the English, in ea regula incedimus quam Ecclesia ab Apostolis, Apostoli a Christo, Christus à Deo accepit, Search all the Religions in the World, none will be found more confonant to God's Word for Doctrine, nor to the Primitive Example for Government; none will be found that afcribes more to God, or that conftitutes more firm Charity amongst Men ; none will be found fo excellent, not only to the Community, as Chriftians; but also in the special Notion, as Reformed : for it keepeth the middle way, between the Pomp of Superffitious Tyranny, and the meannefs of Fanatick Anarchy.

In two Points the Church of England is truly transcendent: First, it hath the grand Mark of the true Church, which most European Churches feem to want, and that is, Charity towards other Churches; for it doth not fo engrois Heaven to its own Professors, as to damn all others to Hell. Secondly, it is the great Glory of the English Protestant Church, that it never relifted Authority, nor ingaged in Rebellion, nor ever allowed of taking up Arms without lawful Authority, or invincible Necessity, in which only, known and univerfally acknowledged Laws and Conftitutions are to direct ; that it did ever maintain the Primitive Doctrine of Paffive Obedience and Non-refistance; a Praise, that makes much to her Advantage, in the Minds of all those who have read or heard of the difmal and devillish effects of the Holy League in France by Papifts, the Holy League and Covenant of Puritans in Scorland, and the Solemn League and Covenant of Presbyterians in England.

As for the Scandal begotten by the late Troubles, and Murder of King Charles the First, which some of the Romish Incendiaries endeavour to throw upon the English Religion; it hath been sufficiently manifested, that not one Person that was a known Favourer, and Practicer of that E Λ Religion

Part I.

Religion as now by Law established in England, was any way an Abetter of that horrid Murther ; for that our Religion neither gives fuch Rules, nor ever did fet fuch Examples; nor indeed can that be truly faid to be an Act, either of the Parliament or People of England, but only of a few wretched Mifcreants, Sons of Belial, that had not fear of God before their Eyes. In a word, here is nothing wanting in order to Salvation : We have the Word of God, both Old and New Teftament in the vulgar Tongue; then Faith of the Apostles, the Creeds of the Primitive Church, the Articles of the four first General Councils, a Holy Liturgy, and due Administration of Sacraments. We teach Faith and Repentance, and the neceffity of Good Works, and strictly exact the feverity of a Holy Life. We are taught Obedience to God, to be ready to part with all for his Sake, to honour his most Holy Name, to worship him at the mention of his Name, to confeis his Attributes, and frequent his Ordinances; to have Places, Times, Perfons, and Revenues confectated and fet apart for the Service and Worship of our Great God, Creator of Heaven and Earth.

We hold a charitable Refpect towards all Chriftians : We confels our Sins to God, and to our Brethren, whom we have offended, and to God's Minifters and Priefts, in cafes of Scandal, or of a troubled Confcience ; and they duly abfolve the penitent Soul. We have an uninterrupted Succeffion of Reverend, Learned, and Pious Bifhop's, who Ordain Priefts and Deacons, Confectate Churches, Confirm the Baptized at a due Age, Blefs the People, intercede for them, Vifit oft their respective Diocefes, taking care of all Churches, that they be ferved with as good and able Paftors as the finall Maintenance can invite; keep Hofpitality as St. Paul admonifheth, and Preach as often as occafion requiretb.

An ABSTRACT

Of the ARTICLES of the Church of England which are a Summary of its Doctrine.

1. THE Unity of the Godhead, and Trinity of Perfons 2. That the fecond Perfon, The Word was made Flefb being in two diffinct Natures, and one undivided Perfon-Chrift, very God, and very Man; who fuffered, was crucified, dead, and buried; a Sacrifice to God for original and actual Sin.

3. That he descended into Hell.

4. That he arose again from Death, and ascended into Heaven, and shall return again to judge all Men at the last Day.

5. That the Holy Ghoft proceedeth from the Father and the Son; of the fame Substance, Majesty and Glory; very and eternal God.

6. That the Holy Scripture containeth all things neceffary to Salvation, viz. these Books, which are Canonical: Gen. Exod. Levit. Numb. Deut. Josh. Judg. Ruth, 1 of Sam. 2 of Sam. 1 of Kings, 2 of Kings, 1 of Chron. 2 of Chron. 1 of Eldras, 2 of Eldras, Esther, Job, Plalms, Prov. Eccles. Cant. four greater Prophets, twelve less Prophets.

The Apocryphal are to be read for Example of Life, and Inftruction of Manners; viz. third and fourth of Esdras, Tobit, Judith, the reft of Esther, Wisdom, Ecclesiasticus, Baruch, Song of the three Children, History of Susannah, of Bell and the Dragon, Prayer of Manasses, first and second Book of Maccabees.

That all the Books of the New Teffament as commonly received, are Canonical.

7. That the Old Testament doth agree with the New, in offering Eternal Life by the Mediatorship of Christ: That the old Fathers look'd farther than on transitory Promises; and that altho' the Ceremonial and Ritual Law doth not still bind, yet the Moral Commandments do.

8. That the three Creeds, wiz. of the Apostles, Nicene, and Athanasian, ought throughly to be believed, and may be warranted out of Scripture.

9. Tast

9. That Original Sin is the Corruption of every Man's Nature, and a continual Propenfity to Evil, deferving God's Wrath.

neceffarily fpring out of a true Faith, which is known by rem as a Tree by its Fruit.

- 13. That no Works done before the Grace of Chrift, and Infpiration of his Holy Spirit, are good.

14. That the Doctrine of Supererogation (to wit, that there are Good Works which God hath not commanded) is false.

16. That after Baptism and the Holy Ghost received, a Man may fall into deadly Sin, and by the Grace of God may again arife, repent, amend, and be forgiven.

17. That some are predestinated of God to Life eternal by Christ; such are called accordingly, and through Grace, obeying the Call, are justified freely. That as the Consideration of Predestination is comfortable and beneficial to Spiritual Men, so it is of dangerous Concern to Carnal Men: And that we must receive God's Promites as they are reveal'd, and acquiesce in his Will as it is declared in Holy Writ.

of any Law or Sect, but only by the Name of Jefus Chrift.

19. That the visible Church of Christ is a Congregation of faithful Men, in which the pure Word of God is preached, and the Sacraments duly ministred : And that the Church of Rome hath err'd in matters of Faith, as some other ancient Churches have done.

20. That the Church hath Power to decree Rites and Ceremonies, and Authority in Controversies of Faith, yet cannot lawfully ordain any thing contrary to God's Word, or expound any one place of Scripture repugnant to another, or enforce any thing to be believed for necessity of Salvation, beside what is in Holy Writ.

21. That

21. That general Councils are not to meet without the Will of Princes; That they may err, and sometimes have err'd; nor have they Authority to ordain any thing as neceffary to Salvation, but out of Holy Scripture.

22. That the Romifb Doctrines of Purgatory, Pardons, Worship of Images, Relicks and Invocation of Saints, cannot be warranted by Scripture, but are rather repugnant to the Word of God.

23. That no Man ought to preach publickly, or adminifter the Sacraments, unlefs he be lawfully called, and fent thereto by publick Church Authority.

24. That praying, or administring the Sacraments in an unknown Tongue, is repugnant to the Word of God, and the Cuftom of the Primitive Church.

25. That Sacraments ordain'd of Chrift, are not only Badges or Tokens of Chriftianity, but rather fure Witnefles, and effectual Signs of Grace, and God's good Will towards us. That the two Sacraments ordain'd of Chrift, are Baptifm and the Supper of the Lord; and that Confirmation, Penance, Orders, Matrimony, and extream Unction are not Gofpel Sacraments, having no vifible Sign or Ceremony in the Gofpel. That the Sacraments were not ordained to be gazed upon, or carried about in Proceffion, but for a due ufe, and that they have a wholfome effect only upon worthy Receivers, and a quite contrary to others.

26. That the unworthinels of Ministers make none of Chrift's Ordinances ineffectual to worthy Receivers.

27. That Baptism is a visible Sign and Seal of Regeneration; and that the Baptism of young Children is most agreeable with the Institution of Christ.

28. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper is to worthy Communicants, a partaking of the Body and Blood of Chrift: That Transubstantiation cannot be proved by Holy Writ, but is repugnant to it: That the Body of Chrift is given, taken, and eaten only after an Heavenly and Spiritual manner by Faith; and that this Sacrament was not by Chrift's Ordinance referved; carried about, lifted up, or worshipped.

29. That the wicked are not in this Sacrament Partakers of Chrift; but rather to their Condemnation, do eat and drink the Sign of fo great a thing.

30. That the Cup is not to be denied to the Laity.

31. That the one Oblation of Christ, as a Propitiation and Satisfaction for Sin, was finished upon the Crois; and that the Popish Sacrifices of Masses were blasphemous.

32. That Marriage of Priefts is not unlawful.

33. That the Conversation of Persons excommunicated; is to be avoided.

34. That Traditions and Ceremonies are variable, according to the Authority of every particular and National Church.

35. That the fecond Book of Homilies contains that Doctrine which is godly and wholfome.

36. That the Book of Confectation of Archbishops and Bishops, and ordering of Priests and Deacons, set forth in the time of Edward the Sixth, is religious and godly; and they that are Confectated and Ordained according to the same Rites, are rightly, orderly and lawfully Confectated and Ordained.

37. That the Sovereign Perfon in this Realm, is chief Governour in this Realm, of all Effates, in all Caufes Ecclefiaftical or Civil, acccording to that only Prerogative which we fee to have been given always to all godly Princes in Holy Scriptures by God himfelf; That the Bilhop of Rome hath no Jurifdiction in England: That the Laws of the Realm may punifh Chriftian Men with Death for heinous Offences. That it is lawful for Chriftian Men at the Command of the Magistrates, to wear Weapons, and ferve in the Wars.

38. That the Goods of Chriftians are not common, yet that Almfgiving is every Man's Duty, according to his Ability.

39, That as vain and rash Swearing is forbidden by Christ and his Apostle St. James, so when the Magistrate requires, a Man may testifie upon Oath in a Cause of Faith and Charity, so it be done in Justice, Judgment, and Truth.

This is a faithful Summary or Abridgement of the 39 Articles, agreed upon by the Archbishops and Bishops of both Provinces, and the whole Clergy, in the Convocation held at London, 1562, for the avoiding of diversities of Opinions, and for the establishing of Confent touching true Religion, with the Assent of Queen Elizabeth of happy Memory, and again confirmed by the fame Authority Anno Dom. Part I.

Dom. 1571. The Articles themfelves at large, with the Learned Annotations of Mr. Rogers upon them, and lately the Exposition of Dr. Burnet the Lord Bishop of Salisbury, are well worth any Man's perusal.

Ever fince the beginning of our Reformation, there are fome few Families in feveral parts of England, have perfifted in the Romifb Religion, and are ufually called Papifts, from Papa, a Title anciently given to all Bilhops, and now by the Weftern Christians appropriated to the Bifhop of Rome. Against these there are divers fevere Laws still in force, but those Laws have been more rarely put in Execution; that the Clemency and gentle Usage shewn to them here, may beget in Romifb States and Potentates abroad, the like gentle Treatment of their Protestant Subjects, and of the Englifb, living within their Dominions.

And tho' there be feveral other Periwalions in this Nation, that differ from the Church of England, as eftablished by Law, and were liable to fome Inconveniencies becaufe of their Perswasions, till of late ; fuch as Presbyterians, Independants, Anabaptists, Quakers, and others; Nevertheless fince this happy Revolution, all Her Majefty's Protestant Subjects diffenting from the Church of England, are by an Act Primo Guliel. & Maria, exempted from the Penalties of certain Laws therein mentioned. And as it was observable, that many of our eminent Clergy were inftrumental and active in procuring this Indulgence for their weak Brethren, fo the Clergy in general, to fhew how far they are from a Spirit of Perfecution, are fully fatisfied and pleafed with it, provided the Diffenters will be fo too, and not trouble again the Stream of Unity that should now run clear. So that a free Toleration is granted to all the diffenting Protestants, and none is to be molested upon any account of his Religion, that takes the Oath of Allegiance to Her prefent Majefty, and fubfcribes the Declaration enjoyn'd in an Act of 30 Car. 2. Entituled, An Act to prevent Papists from Sitting in either Houle of Parliament, when tengred to them.

There is also a Toleration granted to certain other Perfons, Diffenters from the Church of England, who fcruple the taking of an Oath; and the Declaration every fuch Perfon shall make and fubscribe, is as follows:

of Trade.

N Ext to the Purity of our Religion, we are the most confiderable of any Nation in the World, for the vafiness and extensiveness of our Trade. Trade is either Inland or Maritime.

By our Inland Trade, we appear to have great Stocks of Money, well divided into many Purfes. The Queen's Exchequer, as in other Countries, doth not hoard up the greateft part ; nor is it in the Hands only of Nobles and Patricians, no nor Merchants and Bankers, much lefs of Monopolizers and Usurers ; but the generality of Traders find fufficient for their ufe, buying and felling for ready payment, nor as formerly at 3, 6, or 9 Months end, but with ready Money; which hath here a fwift and conftant Circulation ; and which makes all forts of Commodities cheap amongst us, altho' Money be plentiful ; for Men can raife themfelves (with God's Bleffing) good Effates, from the modest Gains of 3 or 4 per Cent. sooner than they could formerly at 10 and 12; because felling for ready Money, there are great numbers of Traders who can make 3 or 4, nay, fome 5 or 6 Returns of their Money in a year. A Wool-Stapler or Corn-Merchant, (for inftance) can buy 100 pounds worth of Ware, and fell it again in two Months time at 3 of 4 per Cent. gain, upon the Foot of his Account, and can immediately go to Market both with the principal Money, and the Improvement; which if he be industrious and fortunate enough to return 6 times a year, and continues trading from 20 years of Age to 60 (when it is time you'll fay to leave off) his 100 l. will have gained . him 6 or 7000 l. the Improvement of another 100 l. being fufficient to maintain him all that time; and when he hath traded for himfelf 7 or 8 Years, if he marries a Wife with 2 or 300%. he may by just and righteous dealings, maintain his Family handfomely, and leave an Effate to his Wife and Children of 10000 1. whereas a Student who hath ipent 5001. in an University, is feldom known, beside his Patrimony and Wife's Portion, to leave 1000 l. behind him. What I fay might eafily be exemplified by Clothiers, Dyers, 201304 Tanners_ Tanners, Bakers, Woodmongers, Cordwainers, Vintners, Wine-Coopers, &c.

But that which makes us most confiderable in the Eye of theWorld is, the wonderful greatness of our Maritime Trade; for upon the Three Articles of Exportation, Transportation or Re-exportation, and Importation, no Kingdom or State in the World can any ways match us. France pretends to little more than the first of these; Spain, Italy, and the two Northern Growns, to the first and third; Holland only vies with us in the fecond.

First then for Exportation, our Country produces many of the most substantial and necessary Commodities in the World, as Butter, Corn, Cattle, Cloth, Iron, Lead, Tin, Copper, Leather, Coperas, Pit-coal, Allom, Saffron, &c.

Our Corn fometimes preferves other Countries from ftarving; as at prefent Holland, Flanders, and Portugal. Our Horfes are the most ferviceable in the World, and highly valued for their Hardines, Beauty, Strength, Courage, Goings, of all Nations. With Beef, Mutton, Pork, Poultry, Bisket, we victual not only our own Fleets, but all Foreigners that come and go. Our Iron we export manufactur'd in Great Guns, Carcasse, Bombs, & C. Our Cloth is fent to all parts of the World, the Baltick, the Mediterranean, the East and West-Indies, &c.

The Manufactures of Wool in Broad-Cloth, long and fhort; Northern Dozens, Rafhes, Kerfies, Bays, Serges, Flannel, Perpetuano's, Says, Stuffs, Frize, Peniftons, Stockings, Caps, Ruggs, &c. exported, may be computed to amount to 2000000 l. per Annum. Lead, Tin, and Coals, to the value of 500000 l. per Annum.

Prodigious and almost incredible is the value likewife of other Goods from hence Exported; viz. Hops, Flax, Hemp, Hats, Shooes, Ale, Beer, Red-Herrings, Pilchards, Salmon, Oysters, Saffron, Liquorice, Watches, Ribbands, Toys, &c.

The Vestments, Hats, Shoes, Houshold-stuff, carried from hence yearly to America, is computed at 200000 l. I mention not Wooll and Fullers-Earth, because they are prohibited.

England produces yearly 5000000 Chaldrons of Sea-coal, 1200000 pounds of Tin, 800 Fodders of Lead, 800 Furnaces of Iron, 800 Tuns of Allom; of all which great quantities are exported to foreign Parts.

Secondly, our Transportation or Re-exportation, to wit of Commodities brought hither from other Nations, and exported

Part I.

Part I.

ported again, is very confiderable, and of great advantage to the Kingdom for the increase of our Shipping, and Mariners, Money and Credit. And first, we make great advantage herein by the Kingdom of Ireland; enriching that our Nation by buying their Commodities, and our felves by transporting 'em to other Countries, with gain: For the Wooll, Butter, Hides, Tallow, Beef, Herrings, Pilchards, and Salmon, which we transport from Ireland, being the concerns of our Merchants, and paying Duties to her Majesty, have been reckoned at 300000 l per An.

We transport from our Plantations in America, besides what we confume our felves, of Sugar, Indico, Tobacco, Cacao-Nuts, &c. besides the Fish, Pipe-Staves, Masts, Bever, &c. from New-England and the Northern parts of America, to 400000 l. per An.

'Twould be tedious to enumerate the value of our Tranfportations from Denmark and Sweden, Spain, Portugal, the Streights, Turkey, Guinea, &c. The most confiderable of all is that from the East-Indies, from the first beginning of that Trade till now. In its Infancy, viz. Anno 1613. of Pepper only, besides what we confumed at home, we transported in one year to other Countries, after it had paid Duty here, to the value of 200000 l. and now of late years, our Exportation; of what we bring from thence, after we have fufficiently fupplyed our felves, is computed at 500000 l. per Ann. viz in Pepper, Salt-petre, Calicoes, Silks, Druggs, Diamonds Pearls, &c.

The third Article of Trade is Importation, the bringing hither fuch Goods from beyond Sea which we confume among our felves, and which is of great advantage to us, when we deal with fuch Nations as are willing to take our home Commodities in exchange for theirs, as Turkey, Spain, &c. are; for this increases still our Shipping, encourages Mariners and Merchants, and makes foreign Princes fet a greater value upon us then on those Hucksters who deal with 'em only for Lucres fake: whereas the generous English are the greateft Confumers of foreign Commodities of any Nation in the World: And yet by the richness and excellency of our own Product, we can keep even the Ballance of Trade, without impoverishing our felves, unless when we deal with fuch a Nation as France, who in times of profound Peace, ufed to lay intolerable Impositions upon English Commodities, especially our principal one of Woollen Cloth, to difcourage courage our fending any over thither; whilft at the fame time, we let in most of their Commodities of a great deal less use, upon easie Terms, to the great Detriment of this Nation, as the ingenious Mr. Samuel Fortrey, in his excellent Difcourse of Trade, hath made appear; (See Dr. Davenant's feveral Discourses of Trade) where he tells us, that we yearly imported from France, almost 1600000 poundsworth of Goods, more than the value of what we exported thither; viz. of Silks, Sattins, Taffeta's, Stuffs, Armoylins, Poudefoys, Tabbies, Cloths of Gold and Silver, Velvets, Ribbands, Gallowns, Laces, Silk Buttons, to the value of 600000 l. per Annum. Linnen 400000 l. per Ann. Wines 600000 l. per Ann. Serges and Calons 150000 l. per Ann. Hats 1 20000 l. per Ann. Hatbands, Feathers, Fans, Girdles, Hoods, Masks, Looking-glaffes, Watches, Pictures, Medals, Cabinets, Cafes, Bracelets, Tablets, and other Toys, 150000 l. per Ann. Paper 100000 l. per Ann. Houshold-stuff, as Beds, Matreffes, Coverlets, Hangings, Fringes, &c. 100000 L per Ann. Brandy, Sider, Vinegar, Verjuice, Oc. 100000 1. per Ann. Caftle-Soap, Honey, Almonds, Olives, Capers, Prunes, Grc. 150000 l. per Ann. Pins, Needles, Box and Tortoife-fhell Combs, Oc. 20000 l. per Ann. Perfumed and Trimm'd Gloves, 10000 l. per Ann, Fine Ironmongers Ware, 40000 l. per Annum. All which, belides Salt, Cork, Rofin, and other things to a great value, amount to 2540000 l. per Annum.

Now tho' it is poffible Mr. Fortrey, might reckon the Over-Ballance of the French Trade much greater than truly it was, fince at the very fame time, the French estimated the Over-Ballance on the English Side : yet doubtles, the Nation lost yearly by the French Trade a confiderable Sum.

And at the fame time, all the Commodities exported out of England into France, as Woollen Cloth, Serges, Knit-Stockings, Lead, Pewter, Allom, Coals, &c. did not amount to above 1000000 l. per Annum. So that the Nation was yearly impoverished by the French Trade, almost 600000 l. per Annum. Thus our Gold and Silver was exported to fetch from thence Strong Drink, and Fripperies, to the debauching and emasculating our Bodies and Minds.

For the Toys and Trumperies of other Nations we likewife expend great Sums of Money, or leffen our Effects abroad by Bills of Exchange, and that (which is the greateft fhame Part I.

fhame of all to us) even for bare Freight; fuffering the Hollanders, Flemmings, and Hamburghers, to be (in a manner) the common Carriers between us and all parts of the World ; a Grievance which Grommel's Government (the worft of times) and afterwards the A& of Navigation, 12 Cha. 2. remedied, by forbidding all Foreigners to import any thing hither, but each one the Product of his own Country.

Every way we are indeed too lavish of our Silver and Gold ; not only expending great quantities needlefsly, but wafting it prodigally and irreparably. About 80 years ago, upon examination it was found, that more than 80000 L per Ann. was yearly wasted here in England in Silver Thread, Purles, Spangles, &c. befides Gold ; and how much more we now fpend, may be eafily computed by the increase of our Luxury : For whereas we complain of Taxes, it may reasonably be supposed, that the superfluous Expences of Women and Children, would almost have half maintain'd the late War.

And indeed, should I discourse fully of all our difadvantages, with the caufes of 'em, in reference to the ballance of Trade, to gain, and profit as it is a National concern, it would take up too great a fhare in this Book. Every one knows well enough, how lazy, prodigal, and expensive, even Servants, and the poorest fort amongst us are ; how much we want Hands for the Improvement of our Manufactures, and yet how many Beggars and unimploy'd Perfons there are in the Nation! How many Loyterers and Vagabonds are every where to be met with, who might do themselves and their Country good Service by Sea or Land, and earn 2000000 l. per Ann. more than they now do! How little our Fishing Trade, that might be of so great advantage to the Kingdom, is encouraged ! The Fifh which fwims on our Coafts, is faid to employ the Hollanders 1200 Ships and 20000 Men. Sir Walter Raleigh made appear to King James the First, that the Dutch yearly feil of Herrings catch'd on our Coast, to the value of 137200 l. besides what they spend themfelves, and fend to the Streights, Spain, and a great part of France. Sir Jogah Child's Book tells us, they gain 500000 l. a year by our Fish : And with how much more advantage we can be the gainers when we pleafe than they, let any Man judge : How much likewife we fhould enrich the Land by fo much Treasure got out of our own Seas, which F 2 afford afford two or three Millions of gain to our Neigobours yearly, if we reckon others with the Dutch; how many poor People it would fet at work: How plentiful and cheap fuch an increase of Edibles would make all forts of Provifions; How it would encrease Shipping, be a Nurfery of Mariners; fo that we fhould never want Men to fet out a Fleet, if our Fishery were encouraged, as it might eafily be.

Inftead of fuch Encouragements for the Improvement of Trade, how many Misfortunes do we lie under? The Datch have got most of the Eastland Trade from us, and almost all that of Russia; they have quite outed us in a manner of the Greenland Trade, only we have fome hopes that a late Act of Parliament may have fome good Effect for the retrieving that; but still they are like to engross the great Trade for China and Japan, and greatest part of the Plate Trade from Cadiz, as they have all the East-India Trade for Nutmegs, Cloves and Mace, and most of the Trade from our own Territories of Scotland, if not Ireland.

Why fhould I mention how much we contribute to thefe Misfortunes by our own Carelefinefs, not to fay Difingenuity, the falfe making of our Cloth (tho' the falfer Flemmings ftretch it fometimes to unreafonable lengths) and the falfe Packing of our Fifh, & I am weary of this ungrateful Topick, and leave it for abler hands to purfue.

The Advantages in which we fhine are ftill very great, and of late years in many refpects vaftly improved.

In ancient times the great Trade of this Nation confilted in unmanufactur'd Wool, which Foreigners coming from all parts, bought of us; infomuch that the Cuftoms of Englifh Wool exported in Edward the Third's Reign, amounted at 50 s. a Pack, to 250000 l. per Ann. an immense Sum of Money in those Days : And that excessive Cuftom upon unmanufactur'd Woolfoon gave Encouragement to the making of Cloth here, more effectually than the Sanguinary Laws against Exportation of Wool are now found to do : yet most of this Wool being fent but just cross the Seas to Flanders, France, or Holland, the Exportation for the most part was in very imall Veffels to what are now in ufe; and neither of the Indies being then difcovered to our Merchants, we had for almost two Centuries after but few Ships of any confiderable bignefs. In the Year 1540 there were but four Ships in the Thames to big as to be computed each at 120 Tuns, befides the Navy-Royal. And towards the latter end of Queen Elizabeth's Reign 'tis faid, there was not in all England above three Merchants Ships of 300 Tuns and upwards each; but then they began here to build great Ships apace; for about the middle of King James the First's Reign, viz. 1615, the East-India Company alone had 12 Ships of 400 Tun and upwards each ; among which the Dragon of 1060 Tun was look'd upon as an old Ship; and fo was the Hettor of 800 Tun, which they bought of the Turkey Merchants. And how little our Maritime Trade in Queen Elizabeth's time was, appears by the Cuftoms in all England not amounting to above 30 or 40000 l. per Ann. And how much the Stock of Money in the Nation hath fince King James's time encreased, may in part be computed by the Price of Lands, which were Anno 1620, at 12 years Purchase, and now at 21 of 23.

Our Trade, notwithstanding the troublessomeness of late Times, and the War, is even at present vastly great. We have a great Trade to Turkey, Italy, Spain, Portugal, the Baltick, the East and West-Indies. Our Fish-Trade would be very confiderable, if that of the Hollanders was not much more. The Red-Herrings at Tarmouth, Pilchards in the West, Cod-fish in Newfoundland and New-England, are very advantageous Branches.

We trade with almost all the World, and have Stock enough (faith Sir William Pettr) to drive all the Trade of the Commercial World; and have a vast number of Shipping; they that compute the Cash, as Sir William Petty did, at 6000000 l. come doubtless very short of the whole. And when he computes the Shipping of England at 600000 Tun, I am perswaded he doth not exceed.

We daily get Artificers from the French for the Improvement of divers Manufactures. We are pretty fecure of keeping the Red-Herring Trade to our felves; not only besaufe they fwim on our Coaft, but becaufe they mult be fmoak'd with Wood, which they cannot afford to do in Holland. And the Pilchards are almost peculiar to us, and are cured where they are taken in the remote parts of England, where Provisions are cheaper than in Holland.

We have divers very confiderable Societies of Merchants, who have great Stocks, and deep Knowledge in the Mysteries of Trade; the Merchants Adventurers, the Turkey, the East-India, the Muscovy, the Eastland, the Greenland, the F 3 Spanish

Part I.

Spanifb, the African, the Hudsons-Bay Companies. Some of these trade in Joynt-Stock, as the East-India and African Companies, that part of the Turkey call'd the Morea Company, the Greenland: The others act upon Separate Stocks, but in a publick Community as to the defraying of publick Expences, keeping out Interlopers, and the like.

In a word, England may justly be accounted the principal Nation for Trade in the whole World, and indeed the most proper for Trade, being an Ifland having innumerable many large, fafe and commodious Ports and Havens; excellent and natural Products, confiderable and Staple Manufa-Stures, all contributing to the Increase of its Exportive Trade; and not only the Riches and Luxury of its Inhabitants, but its vaft and ftrong Territories abroad, the great Encouragement it hath from the State for the fake of Cuftoms and Duties paid, the breeding of Seamen, and the Increase of Shipping; the great Concourse of Foreign Merchants, by reafon of Freedom in Religion; the Pleafure and Healthfulness of our Clime, the Ease and Security of our Government, and the Reputation of our Merchants for fair and generous Dealings : All no lefs conducing to the Encouragement of Maritime Trade.

And no lefs advantages have we for Inland Trade. The Freedom of Cities and Burroughs is eafily purchafed. We have very few Holidays befides Sundays, in which the Poor do not work, viz. fcarce 12 in a Year, except occafional Fafts and Thankfgivings. We have, in favour of Diffenters, a Relaxation of the Penal Laws; a thing which hath been fo popularly exclaim'd for by fome eminent Traders. The Intereft of Money is here but 6 per Cent. at the utmoft, and upon fome Securities, but at 5, 4, or 3.

And thus having given the Reader a fhort and curfory Description of this Nation, I proceed to the Second Part of the Prefent State of E N G L A N D.

the most Ancient, as appears by the Patriarchs (who were Monarchs) in the Old Testament, and throughout the whole Jewish Oeconomy, the Government was Monarchical; be the Title Duke, or Prince, or Judge, or Captain, or King.

Oun aga for monunoleavin a's noisand "Esw, Eis Baond's. — Hom. II. a.

For the Iran/greffions of a Land, many are the Princes or Rulers thereof, Prov. 28.2.

Of Monarchies, fome are Despotical, where the Subjects, like Servants, are at the Arbitrary Power and Will of their Sovereign, as the Turks and Barbarians. Others Political or Paternal, where the Subjects, like Children under a Father, are governed by equal and just Laws, confented and fworn unto by the King; as is done by all Christian Princes at their Coronations.

Of Monarchies, some are Hereditary, where the Crown descends either only to Heirs-Male, as in France hath been long practifed; or to the next Blood, as in Spain, England, &c. Others Elective, where, upon the Death of every Prince, without respect had to their Heirs or next of Blood, another by solemn Election is appointed to succeed, as in Poland, and till of late in Denmark, Hungary, and Bohemia.

Of Hereditary Paternal Monarchies, fome are Dependent, and holden of Earthly Potentates; and are oblig'd to do Homage for the fame; as the Kingdom of Scotland, (tho' this be fliffy denied by Scotch Writers) and of Man, that held in Capite of the Crown of England, as appears plainly by the Writs of Summons to Parliament, directed to the King of Scotland before the time of Edward the Third, in fide & homagio, and afterwards in fide & legiantia, and the Kingdom of Naples, holden of the Pope. Others Independent, holden only of God, acknowledging no Superiour upon Earth. Our Government is purely Monarchical.

England is an Hereditary Paternal Monarchy, governed by one Supreme Independent Head, according to the known Laws and Customs of the Kingdom.

It is a Free Monarchy, challenging above many other European Kingdoms, a Freedom from all Subjection to the Emperor, or Laws of the Empire: (for that the Roman Emperors obtaining anciently the Dominion of this Land by force of Arms, and afterwards abandoning the fame, the Right by the Law of Nations returned to their former Owners, pro derelicto, as Civilians Speak.)

PartII.

It is a Monarchy free from all manner of Subjection to the Bishop of Rome, and thereby from divers inconveniences and burdens, under which the Neighbouring Kingdoms groan; as Appeals to Rome in Sundry Ecclesiaftical Suits, Provisions, Dispensations, Confirmations, Bulls, &c. on feveral Caufes to be procured from thence ; many Tributes and Taxes paid to that Bishop, Ge.

It is a Monarchy free from all Interregnum, and with it from many Milchiefs whereunto Elective Kingdoms are fubject.

England is fuch a Monarchy, as that, by the necessary fubordinate Concurrence of the Lords and Commons in the making and repealing all Statutes or Acts of Parliament, it bath the main advantages of an Ariflocracy, and of a Democracy, and yet free from the Difadvantages and Evils of either.

It is fuch a Monarchy as by most admirable Temperament affords very much to the Industry, Liberty and Happiness of the Subject, and referves enough for the Majesty and Prerogative of any King that will own his People as Subjects; not as Slaves.

It is a Monarchy that without Interruption hath been continued almost 1000 Years (and till of late) without any attempt of Change of the Government : So that to this fort of Government the English feem to be naturally inclined. Romilly Religion, but fince continued by Aft of Parks

Of the King of ENGLAND, and therein of his Name, Title, Perfon, Office, Supremacy, and Sowereignty, Power, and Prerogative, Dominions, Strength, Patrimony, Arms and Respect.

JRame.] THE KING is called from the Saxon word Koning or Cyning, from Can, intimating Power; or Ken, Knowledge, wherewith every Sovereign should especially be invested.

Hitle.] The Title anciently of the Saxon King Edgar was Anglorum Basileus & Dominus quatuor Marium, King or Emperor of the English, and Lord of the four Seas, viz. The British, German, Irish, and Deucalidonian Seas: Sive Anglorum Basileus omniumque Regum, Insularum, Oceanique Britanniam circumjacentis, cunctarumque Nationum quæ infra eam includuntur, Imperator & Dominus.

The Modern Title more modest, is Dei Gratia of England, Scotland, France, and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith.

Defender of the Faith, was anciently used by the Kings of England, as appears by several Charters granted to the University of Oxford; but in the Year 1521, more affixt, by a Bull from Pope Leothe Tenth, for a Book written by Henry the Eighth against Luther, in defence of some Points of the Romish Religion, but since continued by Act of Parliament for defence of the Ancient, Catholick, and Apostolick Faith.

Primogenitus Ecclesia belongs to the Kings of England, because their Predecessor Lucius was the first King in the World that embraced Christianity.

Christianissimus, was by the Lateran Council under Pope Julius the Second, conferred on the Kings of England in the Fifth Year of Henry the Eighth, though before used by Henry the Seventh, and fince only by the French King.

The Title of Grace was first given to the King about the time of Henry the Fourth; to Henry the Sixth, Excellent Grace;. to Edward the Fourth, High and Mighty Prince; to Henry the Seventh, Seventh, fometimes Grace, and fometimes Highnels; to Henry the Eighth, first Highnels, then Majesty, and now Sacred Majesty, after the Custom of the Eastern Emperors that used Axia Baonheia.

The King of England, in his Publick Inftruments and Letters, ftiles himfelf Nos, We, in the Plural Number. Before King John's time, Kings ufed the Singular Number; which Cuftom is ftill feen in the End of Writs, Tefte meiofo apud Weft. In fpeaking to the King is ufed often (befides Tour Maiefty, Sir, from Cyr, in the Greek, Kup, an Abreviation of KueiG, Dominus, much ufed to the Greek Emperors; but Syr or Sir, Domine, is now in England become the ordinary Word to all the better Rank, even from the King to the Gentleman. It was anciently in England given to Lords, afterwards to Knights, and to Clergy-men, prefixt before their Chriftian Names; now in that manner only to Baronets, and Knights of the Bath, Knights Batchelors, and Batchelors of Arts in both the Univerfities; yet in France, Sire is referved only for their King.

Berton.] Ren Auglia est Persona mixta cum Sacerdote, fay our Lawyers; he is as it were a Prieft as well as a King. He is Crown'd; an Honour (faith Guillim) which the Kings of Spain, Portugal, Navarr, and divers other Kings have not; at which Coronation he is anointed with Oyl, (a Ceremony that hath been here in use these 1000 Years) as the Priests were at first, and atterwards the Kings of Ilrael, to intimate that his Perfon is Sacred and Spiritual. Inunguntur Reges (faid Thomas a Becket) in Capite, etiam pectore & brachiis, quod fignificat, Gloriam, Sanctitatem & Fortitudinem; and therefore at the Coronation hath put upon him a Sacerdetal Garment, called the Dalmatica, or Colobium, and other Priestly Vefts; and before the Reformation of England, when the Cup in the Lord's Supper was denyed to the Laity, the King, as a Spiritual Perfon, received in both kinds; and he is capable of Spiritual Jurifdiction.

The Ring at his Coronation is a Symbol of Faithfulness a a Bracelet of Good Works; a Scepter of Justice; a Sword of Power or Vengeance; Purple Robes, of Reverence or Majesty; a Diadem of Glory; a Globe of Extent of Empire by Sea and Land; the Cross on it, of Faith.

Of this facred Perfon of the King, of the Life and Safety thereof, the Laws and Cuftoms of England are fo tender, that they have made it High Treason only to imagine or intend tend the Death of the King. And because by imagining, or confpiring the Death of the King's Counfellors, or Great Officers of his Houshold, the Destruction of the King hath thereby sometimes ensued, and is usually aimed at, (faith Stat. 3. H. 7.) that also was made Felony in such as were upon the Check Roll, as being the King's Houshold Servants, to be punished with Death, altho' in all other Capital Cases, the Rule is, Voluntas non reputabitur pro facto; and an English-man may not in other Cases be punished with Death unless the Act follow the Intent.

The Law of England hath fo high Efteem of the King's Perfon, that to offend against those Perfons, and those things that represent his Sacred Person, as to kill fome of the Crown Officers, or to kill any of the Kings Judges, executing their Office, or to counterfeit the King's Seals, or his Monies, is made High Treason; because by all these the King's Perion is represented : And High Treason is in the Eye of the Law fo horrid, that belides loss of Life and Honour, Real and Personal Estate of the Criminal, his Heirs also are to lose the fame for ever, and to be ranked amongst the Peafantry and Ignoble, till the King shall please by Act of Parliament to reftore them. Eft enim tam grave crimen (faith Bracton) ut vix permittatur hæredibus quod vivant, High Treaton is fo grievous a Crime, that the Law not content with the Life, and Eftate, and Honour of the Criminal, can hardly endure to fee his Heirs furvive him.

And rather than Treason against the King's Person shall go unpunished, the Innocent in some Cases shall be punished : For if an Ideot or Lunatick (who cannot be faid to have any Will, and so cannot offend) during his Idiocy or Lunacy, shall kill or go about to kill the King, he shall be punished as a Traytor ; and yet being, Non compos mentis, the Law holds that he cannot commit Felony or Petit-Treafon, nor other forts of High Treason.

Moreover, for the precious Regard of the Perfon of the King, by an ancient Record it is declared, That no Phyfick ought to be administred to Him without good Warrant, this Warrant to be figned by the Advice of his Council; no other Physicians but what are mentioned in the Warrant, are to administer to him; the Physicians to prepare all things with their own Hands, and not by the Hands of any Apothecary; and to use the affistance only of fuch Chirurgeons, as are prefcribed in the Warrant.

Part II.

Part II.

He is Pater Patriæ, Father of his Country: And fo precious is the Perfon and Life of the King, that every Subject is obliged aud bound by his Allegiance, to defend his Perfon in his Natural as well as Politick Capacity, with his own Life and Limbs; wherefore the Law faith, That the Life and Member of every Subject, is at the Service of the Sovereign.

Dffice.] The Office of the King of England in the Laws of King Edward the Confessor, is thus described, Rex quia Vicarius summi Regis est, ad hoc constituitur ut Regnum Terrenum & populum Domini, & super omnia sanctam Ecclessiam ejus veneretur, Regat, & ab injuriosis defendat : And (according to the learned Fortescue) it is, Pugnare bella populi sui, & eos rectissime judicare, to fight the Battles of his People, and to see Right and Justice done unto them.

Or more particular (as is promifed at the Coronation) to preferve the Rights and Priviledges of the Church and Clergy, the Royal Prerogatives belonging to the Crown, the Laws and Cuftoms of the Realm, to do Justice, love Mercy, keep Peace and Unity, &c.

Supremacy and Sobereignty.] Whatfoever things are proper to Supreme Magistrates, as Growns, Sceptres, Purple Robe, Golden Globe, and Holy Unction, have as long appertained to the King of England, as to any other Prince in Europe; he holdeth not his Kingdom in Vassalage, nor receiveth his Investure or Instalment from another: Allows no Superiority to any, but God only. Not to the Emperour; for Omnem potestatem habet Rev. Anglia in Regno suo quam Imperator vendicat in Imperio; and therefore the Crown of England hath been declared in Parliament long ago to be an Imperial Crown.

He acknowledges only Precedence to the Emperor, Es quod Antiquitate Imperium omnia Regna superare creditur.

He owns no fuperiority to the Bishop of Rome, whose long arrogated Authority in England was 1535, in a full Parliament of the Lords Spiritual as well as Temporal, declared null, and the King of England declared to be by ancient Right, In all Causes, over all Persons, as well Ecclesiafical as Civil, Supreme Governour.

The King hath the Supreme Right of Patronage through all England, called Patronage Paramount, over all the Eccleliastical Benefices of England; fo that if the mean Patron prefent not in due time, nor the Ordinary, nor Metropolitan, the Right Right of Prefentation comes to the King, beyond whom it cannot go.

The King is Summus totius Regni Anglitani Jufficiarius, Supreme Judge, or Lord chief Juffice of all England. He is the Fountain from whence all Juffice is derived. He alone hath the Sovereign Power in the Administration of Juffice, and in the Execution of the Law, and whatfoever Power is by him committed to others, the dernier refort is flill remaining in himfelf, fo that he may fit in any Court, and take Cognizance of any Caufe (as anciently Kings fat in the Court now called the King's-Bench; Henry the third in his Court of Exchequer, and Henry the feventh, and King James the Firft, fometimes in the Star-Chamber) except in Felonies, Treafons, & c. wherein the King being Plantiff, and fo Party, he fits not perfonally in Judgment, but doth perform it by Delegates.

From the King of England there lies no Appeal in Ecclefiaffical Affairs to the Bifhop of Rome, as it doth in other principal Kingdoms of Europe, nor in Civil Affairs to the Emperor, as in fome of the Spanish, and other Dominions of Chriftendom; nor in either to the People of England (as fome of late have dream'd) who, in themfelves, or by their Reprefentatives in the House of Commons in Parliament, were ever Subordinate, and never Superiour, nor so much as Coordinate to the King of England.

Dowet and Decrogative.] The King for the better performance of this great and weighty Office, hath certain Jura Majeftatis, extraordinary Powers, Pre-eminences, and Priviledges inherent in the Grown, called anciently by Lawyers, Sacra Sacrorum, and Flowers of the Grown, but commonly Royal Prerogatives; whereof fome the King holds by Law of Nations, others by Common Law, (excellent above all Laws in upholding a free Monarchy and conferving the King's Prerogative) and fome by Statute Law,

The King only, and the King alone by his Royal Prerogative, hath Power without A& of Parliament, to declare War, make Peace, fend and receive Ambassadors, make Leagues, and Treaties with any Foreign States, give Commissions for levying Men and Arms by Sea and Land, or for pressing Men, if need require, disposing of all Magazins, Ammunition, Castiles, Fortresses, Ports, Havens, Ships of War, and Publick Monies, appoint the Metal, Weight, Purity, and Value thereof, and formerly by his Proclamation to make any Foreign Coin to be lawful Money of England, By Unable to display this page

Son at the Age of Fifteen, and to marry his eldeft Daughter at the Age of feven years : Which reafonable Aid is twenty Shillings for every Knight's Fee, and as much for every twenty Pounds a Year in Soccage. Moreover if the King be taken Prifoner, Aid-Money is to be paid by the Subjects to fet him at Liberry.

The King upon reafonable Caufes Him thereunto moving, might protect any Man against Suits at Law, &c.

In all Cafes where the King is Party, his Officers with an Arreft, by force of a Process at Law, may enter, and (if Entrance be denied) may break open the House of any Man, altho' every Man's House is faid to be his Caftle, and hath a Priviledge to protect him against all other Arrefts.

A Benefice, or Spiritual Living, is not full against the King by Institution only without Industion, altho' it be for against a Subject.

None but the King can hold a good Plea of falle Judgment in the Courts of his Tenants.

The King of England by his Prerogative, is Summus Regni Custos, and hath the Custody of the Persons and Estates of such, as for want of Understanding cannot govern themfelves, or ferve the King; so the Persons and Estates of Ideots and Lunaticks are in the Custody of the King: That of Ideots to his own use, and that of Lunaticks to the use of the next Heir.

The King by his Prerogative is Ultimus Hæres Regni, and is (as the great Ocean is of all Rivers) the Receptacle of all Effates, when no Heir appears; for this Caufe all Effates for want of Heirs, or by Forfeiture, Revert or Efcheat to the King. All Treafure-Trove, (that is Money, Gold, Silver, Plate or Bullion, found, and the Owners unknown) belongs to the King; fo all Waifs, Strays, Wrecks, not granted away by him, or any former Kings; all Wafte Ground or Lands recovered from the Sea; all Land of Aliens dying before Naturalization, or Denization, and all things whereof the Property is not known. All Gold and Silver Mines, in whofe Ground foever they are found; Royal Fifhes, as Whales, Sturgeons, Dolphins, &cc. Royal Fowl, as Swams not marked, and fwimming at Liberty on the River, belong to the King.

In the Church, the King's Prerogative and Power is extraordinary great. He only hath the Patronage of all Bishopricks, none can be chosen but those whom he hath first nominated by his Gonge d'Essive ; none can be Confectated Bilber.

Bifhop, of take possession of the Revenues of the Bifhoprick, without the Kings special Writ or Assent. He is the Guardian or Nursing-Father of the Church, which our Kings of England did so reckon amongst their principal Cares, as in the three and twentieth Year of King Edward the First, it was alledged in a Pleading, and allowed. The King hath power to call a National or Provincial Synod; and with the Advice and Confent thereof, to make Canons, Orders, Ordinances and Constitutions; introduce into the Church what Ceremonies shall be thought fit; Reform and Correct all Herefies, Schilms, punish Contempts, &cc. and therein and thereby to declare what Doctrines in the Church are fit to be published or professed; what Translation of the Bible to be allowed, &c.

The King hath a Power not only to Unite, Confolidate, Separate, Enlarge or Contract the Limits of any old Bifboprick, or other Ecclefiastical Benefice; but also by his Letters Patents may erect new Bifbopricks; as Henry the Eighth did fix at one time; and the late King Charles the Martyr intended to do at St. Albans, for the Honour of the first Martyr of England, and for contracting the too large Extent of the Bifboprick of Lincoln; may also erect new Archbifbopricks, Patriarchates, &cc.

In the twenty eighth of Elizabeth, when the House of Commons would have passed Bills touching Bishops granting Faculties, conferring Holy Orders, Ecclesiastical Censures, the Oath ex Officio, Non-residency, &c. The Queen much incensed, forbad them to meddle in any Ecclesiastical Affairs, for that it belonged to her Prerogative; yet later Parliaments have not icrupled to intermeddle in those Affairs.

The King hath Power to difpense with the Rigour of Ecclesiastical Laws, excepting such as have received the Sanction of an Act of Parliament, as has been declared by the Bill of Rights; and with any thing that is only Probibitum & malum per accidens, & non malum in se: As for a Bastard to be a Priest, for a Priest to hold two Benefices, or to succeed his Father in a Benefice, or to be Non-resident, &c. For a Bishop to hold a Vacant Bishoprick, or rather Ecclesiastical Benefice in Commendam or Trust.

Hath power to difpense with some Acts of Parliament Penal Statutes, by non obstante, where himself is only concerned; to moderate the Rigour of the Laws according to Equity and Conscience; to grant special Privileges and Chartere on of Blood; for by taking of the Crown, all former the' juft Attainder, (and fuch Attainder made by Act of Parliament) is iplo facto purged. No Nonage or Minority; for his Grant of Lands, though held in his Natural, not, Politick Capacity, cannot be avoided by Nonage. Higher than this the Law attributeth a kind of Perpetuity, not to fay Immortality to the King, Rex Anglia non moritur; his Death is by the Law termed the Demise of the King, becaufe thereby the Kingdom is demifed to another. He is faid not to be fubject to Death, becaufe he is a Corporation of himfelf, that liveth for ever, all Interregna being in England unknown; the fame moment that one King dies, the next Heir is King fully and abfolutely, without any Coronation, Ceremony, or Act to be done Expost facto.

Moreover, the Law feemeth to attribute to the King a certain Ubiquity; that the King is in a manner every where, in all his Courts of Justice; and therefore cannot be Nonfuited, (as Lawyers speak.)

And yetthere are fome things that the K. of England cannot do. Rex Angliæ nibil injuste potest, and the King cannot divest himself, or his Successors, of any part of his Regal Power, Preregative and Authority, inherent and annext to the Crown.

There are also divers things which the King cannot do. Salvo Jure, Salvo Juramento, & Salva Conscientia sua; becaufe by an Oath at his Coronation, and indeed, without any Oath by the Law of Nature, Nations, and of Christianity, he holds himfelf bound (as do all other Chriftian Kings) to protect and defend his People, to do Justice and to shew Mercy, to preferve Peace and Quietnels amongst them ; to allow them their just Rights and Liberties ; to confent to the Repealing of bad Laws, and to the Enacting of good. Two things effectially the King of England cannot do without the Confent of both Houles of Parliament. wiz. make New Laws, and raife New Taxes, there being fomething of Odium in both of them, the one feeming to diminish the subjects Liberty, and the other to infringe his Propersy : Therefore, that all occasion of Dilaffection towards the King (the Breath of our Nostrils, and the Light of our Eyes, as he is stiled in Holy Scriptures) might be avoided, it was wifely contrived by our Anceftors, that for both thefe, should Petitions and Supplications be first made by the Subject.

It the King of England be in any Foreign Nation, he may try any of his offending Domesticks by the Laws of England, England, faith Fleta; as in the Cafe of Engelram of Nogent in France, and of whom K. Ch. II. caus'd to be try'd, and executed in the Duke of Newburg's Territories in Germany.

These, and divers other Prerogatives, rightfully belong, and are enjoy'd by the King of England.

Bominions.] The ancient Dominions of the Kings of England, were first England, and all the Seas round about Great Britain and Ireland, and all the Isles adjacent, even to the Shores of all the Neighbouring Nations; and our Law faith, The Sea is of the Leigeance of the King, as well as the Land; and as a mark thereof all Ships of Foreigners have anciently demanded leave to Fifb, and pass in these Seas, and do at this day lower their Top-fails to all the Queens Ships of War; and therefore Children born upon those Seas (as it fometimes hath happened) are accounted natural born Subjects of the Queen of England, and need no Naturalization, as others born out of her Dominions.

To England, Henry the First annexed Normandy, and Henry the Second Ireland, being stilled only Lord of Ireland, till the Three and thirtieth of Henry the Eighth, although they had all Kingly Juri [distion before.

Henry the Second also annext the Dukedom of Guyenne and Anjou, the Counties of Poittou, Tourain, and Mayn; Edward the First all Wales, and Edward the Third the Right, tho' not the Possession, of all France, but Henry V. added both, and his Son Henry VI. was Crowned and Recogniz'd by all the States of the Realm at Paris.

King James I. added Scotland, and fince that time there have been fuperadded fundry confiderable Plantations in America.

The Dominions of the Queen of England are at this day in poffession (besides her just Right and Title to the Kingdom of France) all England, Scotland and Ireland, Three Kingdoms of large extent, with all the Ifles about 'em, above 40 in number, fmall and great, whereof fome very confiderable; and all the Seas adjacent. Moreover, the Iflands of Jerley, Garnley, Aldernay, and Sark, which are parcel of the Dutchy of Normandy, belides those profitable Plantations of New-England, New York, East and West Jerley, Penfylvania, Maryland, Virginia, Barbadoes, Jamaica, Florida, North and South Carolina, Bermudos, with feveral other Ifles and Places in those Quarters, and some in the East-Indies, and upon the Coait of Africa; allo upon the North parts of America, by right of first discovery, to Estotiland, Terra Corterialis, New-found-G 3 land, maintaining fuch a mighty Fleet, fufficient Money for ² competent time may be raifed only by a Land-Tax, and for a long time, by a moderate Excife, and that upon fuch Commodities only as naturally occasion Excess or Luxury, Wantonnefs, Idlenefs, Pride, or Corruption of Manners.

When they confider that the Shipping of England was computed lately by the most ingenious Sir William Petty at Six hundred thousand Tun, all which, with Forty thousand skilful Mariners, are wholly at the King's Service when he shall think fit, for the fafety of his Crown and Dominions, to require, or if need be, Impres' em.

In a word, when they shall consider, that by the most commodious and advantageous Situation of England, the King thereof (if he be not wanting to himfelf, or his Subjects wanting to him) must be Master of the Sea; and that as on Land, whosoever is Master of the Field is also faid to be Master of every Town when it shall please him; so he that is Master of the Sea, may be faid, in some fort, to be Master of every Country, at least bordering upon the Sea; for he is at liberty to begin or end a War, where, when, and upon what Terms he pleaseth, and to extend his Conquests even to the Antipodes.

Patrimony.] King William the Conqueror getting by right of Conquest, as some affirm all the Lands of his Oppofers (except Lands belonging to the Church, to Monasteries, and Religious Houses) into his own Hands in Demesn, as Lawyers speak, soon bestowed amongst his Followers a Part thereof, referving fome Retribution of Rents, or Services, or both, to him and his Heirs, Kings of England; which Refervation is now as it was before the Conqueft, called the Tenure of Lands, the reft he referved to himself in Demesn, called Corona Regis Dominica, Demains, and Sacra Patrimonia, Prædium Domini Regis, Directum Dominium, cujus nullus est Author nife Deus : All other Lands. in England being held now of fome Superiour, depend mediately, or immediately on the Crown ; to that the King is Lord Paramount, Supreme Landlord of all the Lands of England; and all landed Men are mediately or immediately his Tenants by fome Tenour or other ; but the Lands poffeit by the Crown, being held of none, can ejcheat to none; being Sacred, cannot become Prophane, are, or fhould be permanent and unalienable. And yet they have been (by Time the Gift and Bounty of our Kings, and fome Neceffities G 4 Ceffities for the Prefervation of the Weal Publick) much alienated. However, there is yet left, or was lately, almost in every County of England, a Forest, a Park, a Castle, or Royal Palace belonging to the King; and in divers Counties there are many Parks, Castles or Palaces, and Forests, still belonging to his Majesty, for to receive and divert him, when he shall please in his Royal Progress to visit those parts: A Grandeur not to be paralell'd perhaps by any King in the whole World.

The certain Revenues of the King of England, were anciently greater than of any King in Europe, they enjoying in Domains and Fee Farm Rents, almost enough to discharge all the ordinary Expences of the Crown, without any Tax or Impost upon the Subject.

Upon the happy Reftauration of King Charles the Second, the Lords and Commons affembled in Parliament, finding the Crown-Revenues much alienated, and the Crown-Charges exceedingly encreased, by reason of the late waft Augmentation of the Revenues and Strength by Sea and Land, of our two next Neighbour-Nations abroad, did unanimoully conclude, That for the Peace and Security, for the Wealth and Honour of the King and Kingdom, it would be necessary to fettle upon his Majesty a yearly Revenue of Twelve hundred thousand Pounds; and accordingly, with the King's Confent, at the humble Request of the Lords and Commons, there was eftablished by Imposts, upon imported and exported Goods, upon Liquors drank in England, and upon Fire-Hearths; (which last Branch the late King William and Queen Mary of ever-blefled Memory were gracioully pleafed by Act of Parliament, to remit) fo much as was judged would bring up the former impaired Crown-Revenues to the faid Sum. Notwithftanding which, the whole Yearly Revenues of the King of England was not then above the Tenth Part of the Revenues of his Kingdom ; whereas the King of France hath Yearly above One hundred and fifty Millions of Livers ; That is, above Eleven Millions of Pounds Sterling, a fourth part of the whole Revenues of France. And the publick Revenue of the United Netherlands, coming all out of the Subjects Purfes, are near Seven Millions of Pounds Sterling.

The ordinary charge of the Government in times of ferene and profound Peace, is estimated at Six hundred thoufand fand Pounds per Ann. besides extraordinary Expences. And the Crown of England in late times of Peace was as little in Debt, as perhaps any State of fo great a confideration in the World ; the greateft Debt upon it, was that which King Charles the Second contracted, by fhutting up the Exchequer. whereby the Credit of that Bank hath fuftained great damage, and many hundreds of Families been almost undone : but during the Reign of King Charles and King James the Second, the Intereft-Money was duly paid ; and we must not doubt, but that Interest or Principal will be paid, as foon as we are a little more recovered from the Encumbrances which the late War with France brought upon us ; for after feveral grave and deliberate Hearings of late on both fides, the King's Judges and ableft Lawyers have declared. That the Debt is upon the Possesfor of the Crown of England; and we may acquiesce in this, That Queen Anne. who professet to hold the Crown of England upon the Title of Juffice, will give to others their due, as well as claim her own.

Respect.] In confideration of these, and other transcendent Excellencies, no King in Christendom, nor other Potentate, receives from his Subjects more Reverence, Honour and Respect than the King of England. All his People at their first Address kneel to him: He is at all times ferved upon the Knee; all Persons (not the Prince, or other Heir apparent excepted) stand bare in the Presence of the King, and in the Presence-Chamber, though in the King's Absence. Only it was once indulged by Queen Mary the First, for fome eminent Services performed by Henry Ratcliff, Earl of Sussex, that (by Patent) he might at any time be covered in her Presence; but perhaps in imitation of the like liberty allowed by King Philip her Husband, and other Kings of Spain at this day, to fome of the principal Nobility, there called Grandees of Spain.

Any Thing or Act done in the King's Prefence, is prefumed to be void of all deseit and evil meaning; and therefore a Fine levied in the King's Court, where the King is prefumed to be prefent, doth bind a Feme Covert, a married Woman, and others, whom ordinarily the Law doth difable to tranfact.

The King's only Teffimony of any thing done in his Prefence, is of as high a Nature and Credit, as any Record; and in all Writs fent forth for the dispatch of Juftice, 90 flice, he useth no other Witness but himself, viz. Teste meipso.

Arms.] The Saxon Kings before the Conquest bare Azure, a Cross Formy between four Martlets, Or; yet some are of opinion that Arms, as now used, are not older than Richard the First: See Mezeray's Hist. of France, Sir H. Spelmans Aspilogia, &c.

Afterwards the Danish Kings reigning in England, bare Or Semi de Harts, Gales, 3 Lions Paffant Gardant, Azure.

After the Conquest, the King's of England bare Two Leopards, born first by the Conqueror, as Duke of Normandy, till the time of Henry the Second, who in right of his Mother, annext her Paternal Coat, the Lion of Aquitain, which being of the same Field, Metal, and Form with the Leopards, from thence-forward they were jointly marshalled in one Shield, and blazoned Three Lyons, as at present.

King Edward the Third, in right of his Mother, claiming the Crown of France; with the Arms of England quartered the Arms of France; which then were Azure, Semi-Flower de-Luces, Or; afterwards changed to Three Flower de-Luces; whereupon Henry the Fifth of England caufed the English Arms to be changed likewife. King James upon the Union of England and Scotland, caufed the Arms of France and England to be quartered with Scotland and Ireland, and are thus Blazoned.

The Present Queen of England beareth for her Sovereign Enfigns Armorial, as followeth :

In the first place Azure, Three Flower-de-Luces, Or, the Regal Arms of France, quartered with the Imperial Enligns of England, which are Gules, Three Lyons Paffant Gardant in Pale, Or. In the fecond place, within a Double Treffure Counterflower de lys, Or, a Lion Rampant, Gules, for the Royal Arms of Scotland. In the third place, Azure, an Irijb Harp, Or, Aringed, Argent, for the Royal Enfights of Ireland. In the fourth place, as in the first. All within the Garter, the chief Enfign of that most Honourable Order; above the fame an Helmet, answerable to her Majesty's Sovereign Jurifdiction ; upon the fame a rich Mantle of Cloth of Gold doubled Ermin, adorned with an Imperial Crown, and furmount ed for a Crost by a Lyon Passant Gardant, Growned with the like; supported by a Lyon Rampant Gardant, Or, Crowned as the former, and an Unicorn Argent Gorged with a Crown. thereto a Chain affixt, paffing between his Fore-legs, and 11168 reflexed

CHAP. III.

Of Succession to the Crown of England, and of the King's Minority, Incapacity, and Absence.

HE King of England hath Right to the Crown by Inheritance, and the Laws and Cuftoms of England.

Upon the Death of the King, the next of Kindred, born of Parents in lawful Wedlock, though born out of the Dominions of England, or born of Parents not Subjects of England, (as by the Law and many Examples in the English Histories, it doth manifestly appear) is, and is immediately King, before any Proclamation, Coronation, Publication, or Confent of Peers or People.

The Crown of England defcends from Father to Son and his Heirs: For want of Sons, to the Eldeft Daughter and her Heirs: For want of Daughter, to the Brother and his Heirs: And for want of Brother, to the Sifter and her Heirs. The Salique Law, or rather Cuftom of France, hath here no more force than it had anciently among the Jews, or now in Spain, and other Christian Hereditary Kingdoms. Among the Mahametans the French Cuftom is still, and ever was in use. So the King dying without iffue or younger Brothers, it returns to his eldest Sister, whether by the fame or another Venter, or for want of such to the next Branch.

At the Death of every King, die not only the Offices of the Court, but all Commissions granted to the Judges durante bene placito, and of all Justices of Peace.

"Pino?ity.] During the Minority of the King of England, whatfoever is enacted in Parliament, he may afterwards at the age of 24 Years, Revoke and utterly Null by his Letters Patents, under his Great Seal, and this by Stat. 28. H. 8. C. 17.

If the King be likely to leave his Crown to an Infant, he doth ufually by Teftament appoint the Perfon or Perfons that fhall have the Tuition of him; and fometimes for want of fuch Appointment, a fit Perfon of the Nobility or Bifhops is made choice of by the Three States affembled in the Name of the Infant King, who by Nature or Alliance, hath most Interest in the prefervation of the Life and Authority of the Infant, and to whom least Benefit can accrue by his Death or Diminution; as the Uncle by the Mother's side, if the Crown come by the Father, and so wice werfa, is made Protector: So during the Minority of Edward the Sixth, his Uncle by the Mother's side, the Duke of Somerset, had the Tuition of him, and was called Protector, and when this Rule hath not been observed, (as in the Minority of Edward the Fifth) it hath proved of ill confequence.

- Ablence.] If the King be absent upon any Foreign Expedition, or otherwife, the Cuftom was to constitute a Vicegerent by Commission under the Great Seal, giving him feveral Titles and Powers, according as the Neceffity of AFfairs have required ; fometimes he hath been called Lord Warden or Lord Keeper of the Kingdom, and therewith hath had the general Power of a King, as was practifed during the Abfence of Edward the First, Second and Third, and of Henry the Fifth; but Henry the Sixth, to the Title of Warden or Guardian, added the Title of Protector of the Kingdom, and of the Church of England, and gave him fo great Power in his Absence, that he was tantum non Rex, Swaying the Scepter, but not wearing the Grown; executing Laws, fummoning Parliaments under his own Tefte, as King, and giving his Affent to Bills in Parliament, whereby they became as binding as any other Acts.

Sometimes during the King's Abfence, the Kingdom hath been committed to the Care of feveral Noble Men, (with the Title of Lords Juffices, which was frequently done in the late Kings time; and fometimes of Bifhops, as lefs dangerous for attempting any Ufurpation of the Crown; fometimes to one Bifhop; as Hubert, Atchbifhop of Canterbury, was Viceroy of England for many Years; and when Edward the Third was in Flanders, tho' his Son then but nine Years old, had the Name of Protector, John Stratford, Archbifhop of Canterbury, was Governour both of the King's Son and of the Realm; fo King Henry the Firft during his Abfence (which was fometimes three or four Years together) ufually conflituted Roger, that famous Bifhop of Salisbury, fole Governour of the Realm, a Man excellently qualified for Gevernment.

Laffly.

Lastly, sometimes the Queen, as twice during the Abfence of Henry the Eighth in France, and several times in the late Reign.

Incapacity.] If the King of England be Non composementis; or by reason of an incurable Disease, Weakness, or Old Age, becomes uncapable of governing, then is made a Regent, Protector, or Guardian to govern.

King Edward the Third being at last Aged, Sick, and Weak, and by Grief, for the Death of the Black Prince, fore Broken in Body and Mind, did of his own Will create his Fourth Son, John Duke of Lancaster, Guardian or Regent of England.

Of the present Queen of England; and therein of Her Name, Title, Surname, Genealogy, Birth, Education, Travels, Marriage, Succession to the Crown, and Character in part.

H Er Majesty now Reigning is, ANNE by the Grace of God, of England, Scotland, France and Ireland; Queen, &c. Defender of the Faith; descended from the Royal Family of the Stuarts, under whom these Kingdoms have enjoyed many unspeakable Advantages, with respect to the three great Interests of Trade, Government and Religion for above a Century past.

She is fecond Daughter to the late K. James, only Sifter to Mary II. Queen Regent, and Confort of K. William III. Neece to K. Charles II. Grand-Daughter to K. Charles I, by Henrietta Maria Daughter to K. Henry the Great of France, and Great-Grand-Daughter to K. James I. by Queen Anne a Princefs of Denmark : From which Royal Stock the hath in her Veins fome of all the Blood Royal of Europe, and is lineally defcended from the British, Saxon, Danish, Norman, and Scottish Kings, and Princes of this Illand : From the first of the former of which Royal Races Her Majesty is reckon'd 142d Monarch, from the second the 49th, from the third the 34th, from the fourth the 29th, from the last the 111th; as allo from the Union of England and Scotland the 6th Sovereign vereign Prince of Great Britain and Ireland: So that for Royal Extraction and long Line of Descent, Her Majesty is thought to excel all Christian Princes at least, if not those of the whole World.

She was born the 6th of February 1664 at the Royal Palace of St. James's, and there folennily baptized after the manner of the Effablish'd Church, profess'd then by her Mother Anne Dutchess of York, and Daughter to the Earl of Clarendon: Her God-father was the most Reverend Father in God Gilbert Sheldon then Lord Arch-Bishop of Canterbury His Grace, Her God-mothers the Lady Mary her Sister and the Dutchess of Monmouth.

She had her Education together with her Royal Sifter, under the Government of the Honourable Lady Frances Villiers Daughter of the Earl of Suffolk, and Mother to the Earl of Jersey, now Lord Chamberlain of Her Majefty's Houfhold: Their Chaplains and Tutors were the very Reverend Dr. Doughty late Canon of Windsor: and Dr. Lake the prefent Arch-Deacon of Exeter, under the Direction and Superintendence of the Rt. Honourable and Rt. Reverend Henry Lord Bishop of London.

In 1681 She gave a Specimen of the found Principles inftill'd into her, in paying her Duty perfonally to her Father then as it were exil'd at Bruffels, and foon after in taking two Journeys to Scotland for the fame Purpofe; where 'tis very remarkable, that no Temptations of any kind, either under an adverfe or more profperous Fortune, could in the leaftwife fhock Her Allegiance to God Almighty; or prevail upon Her to alter Her Perfwasion.

In the Year 1683 after a Treaty between England and Denmark, by the provident Care of Her Uncle K. Charles II. She was happily difposed of in Marriage for the Security of these Protestant Nations, to His Royal Highness George Prince of Denmark, on the 28th of July, being St. Anne's Day, by whom She hath had divers Children, the Lady Mary, the Lady Anne, the Duke of Cloucester, another Lady Mary, and a Son named George, &c. of which the longest Liver was his late Highness William Duke of Gloucester, of whom, and His Royal Highness the Prince, See more Chap. VIII. concerning the Princes and Princestes of the Blood.

On the 8th of March 1702 by the Decease of the late King, Her Majesty succeeded Her Royal Brother and Sister ni 96 in the Imperial Throne of these Kingdoms, thro' each of those Claims by which good Princes usually make the justeft Pretensions to their Crowns; and for the sake of which their Loyal Subjects more willingly render them Obedience, viz, Ancient Hereditary Right, or elfe a Declaration of it by the States of the Realm, as is the Case by the Act for the further Limitation of the Succession: And accordingly Her Majesty began Her Reign with a more general Satisfaction of all Her loving People, than hath been at other times observ'd. Since which it hath pleafed God to give greater Successes to the Arms of Her Majesty and Her Allies, than have been for many Years known in so small a compass of Time: As if Providence would thereby set its Seal to the sincere Endeavours of a Heart intirely Protestant as well as English.

Nor can we from fo aufpicious an Entrance of fuch a Queen, but prefage equal Benefits to Her People thro' the feveral Stages of a Reign, that fhall be influenc'd by an enlarg'd Capacity, and those uncommon Perfections whether Natural, Political or Moral, fo much admir'd in Her Majesty at this Day, which have been rarely lodg'd together in the most celebrated Crown'd Heads of this or any other Nation: Such are

That charming Sweetness of Temper, and those agreeable Condescensions, not at all derogatory to Her High Birth and Station, as have been the diffinguishing Graces of Her Life hitherto, and might without the least Tincture of Flattery, have denominated Her The Courteous Princess.

That laudable Desterity in the Choice of Her Ministers and Counsels, acquir'd by a long Experience and due Obfervations on former Governments, as may maugre Envy and Detraction, confer upon Her Majesty the Character of The Prudent Queen.

That confirm'd Probity with respect to Her Obligations and Trusts, as hath all along evidenc'd the Truth of Her Majesty's Royal Impress (Semper eadern) and challenges for Her the no less valuable Title of, ANNE the Just.

Not to mention at large Her confpicuous Temperance, Charity, Munificence, and other Princely Excellencies which have render'd Her Gracious in the Eyes of Her most inquifitive Enemies (if so much Goodness had ever any really fuch) that all may be Crown'd with Her Majesty's confummate Piety.

All which Virtues and Accomplishments, with many more, (the accounting for which would be unfuitable to the Defign of this fmall Treatife) as they have already render'd Her Majefty the Darling of England, and Delight of the beft part of Europe; So if no unquiet Spirits interrupt the Progress of her Great Deligns for the general Good of then World, the Glories of a Female Reign, may at length become the Joy and the Amazement of the Universe.

Of the present Queen Dow ager of England.

DONNA CATHARINA Infanta of Portugal, being now Queen Dowager, and the Third Perfon of the Kingdom, was Daughter of Don Juan, the Fourth of that Name, King of Portugal, defcended from our English John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaster, and King of Castile and Leon, Fourth Son of Edward the Second, King of England, and of Donna Lucia, Daughter of Don Gusmun el Bueno, a Spaniard, Duke of Medina Sidonia, who was lineally defcended from Ferdinando de la Cerda, and his Confort Blanche, to whom St. Lewis King of France, her Father, relinquished his Right and Title to Spain, defcended to him by his Mother Blanche, Eldest Daughter and Heir of Alphonso the Spanish King.

She was born the 14th of November, 1638. at Villa Viciofa in Portugal: Her Father being then Duke of Braganza, (though right Heir to the Crown of Portugal) the most potent Subject in Europe ; for a third part of Porsugal was then holden of him in Vaffallage. She was only Sifter of Don Alphonfo, the Sixth of that Name, and the Three and twentieth King of Portugal, who in the Year 1657, was dethroned and kept Priloner in Portugal for iome time, from whence he was fent to the Tercera Islands. where he was under Confinement for certain Years, and then brought back and kept in the Palace of Cintra, about fifteen Miles from Lisbon, where he died in the Year 1683. His Brother the Prince Don Pedro, born in the Year 1648. the prefent King, was after his Brother's removal, made Prince Regent of Portugal, and married to the Queen his Brother's Wife, after her Divorce, by whom he had one Daughter.

She had another Brother called Don Theodofio, the eldeft Son of that King, who was the most gallant and hopeful Prince of all Europe, but died 1653, aged about 18 Years, yet his Life thought worthy to be written by divers grave Authors of Portugal,

She having been most carefully and piously educated by her Mother, and at the Age of 22 defired in Marriage by King CHARLES the Second; the Marriage was foon after concluded by the Negotiation of Sir Richard Fanshaw, His Majesty's Ambassador in the Court of Portugal, and Don Francisco de Melo, Conde de Ponte, Marquis de Sande, the extraordinary Ambassador of the King of Fortugal, and folemniz'd at Lisbon by his Excellency the Earl of Sandwich. She embark'd for England upon the 23d of April 1662, and was fafely, by the Earl of Sandwich, conducted with a Squadron of Ships to Portsmouth, where the King first met her, and was re-married.

On the 23d of August 1662. Her Majesty coming by Water from Hampton-Court, was with great Pomp and Magnificence, first received by the Lord Mayor and Aldermen of London at Chelfey, and thence conducted by Water to Whitehall.

The Portion she brought with her, was Eight Hundred Millions of Reas, or two Millions of Grusadoe's, being about Three hundred thousand Pounds Sterling, together with that ancient City of Tangier, upon the Coast of Africk, and the Isle of Bombaim, near Goa in the East-Indies, with a Privilege, that any Subjects of the King of England, may trade freely in the East and West-India Plantations, belonging to the Portugueles:

Her Majetty's Jointure by the Articles of Marriage, is Thirty Thoufand Pounds Sterling per Annum; and King Charles out of his great Affection towards her, did as an Addition, fettle upon her Ten thoufand Pounds per Annum more: Of which Joynture, fhe is allowed to fpend but Twenty thousand Pounds out of the Nation.

The Queen's Arms, as Daughter of Portugal, are Argent 5 Scutcheons, Azure, crofs-wife, each Scutcheon charged with 5 Plates, Argent, Sailter-wife, with a Point Sable, the Border Gules, charged with 7 Caffles, Or. This Coat was first worn by the Kings of Portugal, in Memory of a fignal Battel obtained by the first King of Portugal, Don Alphonfo, against five Kings of the Moors, before which Battle appeared Chrift crucified in the Air, and it is faid that a Voice was heard, as once to Constantine the Great, In hoc Signo vinces. Of the Sons and Daughters of England.

THE Children of the King of England, are called the Sons and Daughters of England, because all the Subjects of England have a special Interest in them.

Clott Sou.] The Eldeft Son of the King was filed in the Saxon times, Clito, quase, KAUTO illustris : And fo likewife Ætheling or Atheling, which is a Patronymick of the Saxon Word Athel, Nobilis. As Eadgaring was the Son of Eadgar, fo Atheling the Son of a Noble, was afterwards used only for the King's Eldest Son. ng? Zoxtw. He is born Duke of Cornwal, and, as to that Dutchy, and all the Lands, Honours, Rents, and great Revenues belonging thereunto, he is upon his Birth-day prefumed, and by Law taken to be of full Age; fo that he may that Day fue for the Livery of the faid Dukedom. and ought of Right to obtain the fame, as if he had been, full 21 Years of Age. Afterwards he is created Prince of Wales, whose Investiture is performed by the Imposition of a Cap of State, and Coronet on his Head, as a Token of Principality, and putting into his Hand a Verge of Gold," the Emblem of Government, and a Ring of Gold on his Finger, to intimate that he must be a Husband to his Country, and Father to her Children. Alio to him is given and granted Letters Patents, to hold the faid Principality, to him and his Heirs, Kings of England, by which Words, the separation of this Principality is for ever avoided : His Mantle which he wears in Parliament, is once more. doubled, or hath one Guard more than a Duke's ; bis Coronet is of Croffes and Flower-de-luces, and his Cap of · State Indented.

Since the happy Reftauration of King Charles the Second it was folemnly ordered, That the Son and Heir apparent of the Crown of England, shall use and bear his Coroner of Groffes and Flower-de-luces, with one Arch, and in the midst a Ball and Crofs, as hath the Royal Diadem. That the Duke of York, and all the immediate Sons and Brothers of the Kings of England, fhall use and bear their Coronets, composed of Croff's and Flower-de-luces only, but all their Sons respectively, having the Title of Dukes, shall bear and use fuch Coronets as other Dukes, who are not of the Royal Family.

From the Day of his Birth he is commonly filled The Prince of Wales, a Title which is ancient, and was first given by King Edward the First, to his eldeft Son; for the Welfb Nation, till that time, unwilling to fubmit to the Yoke of Strangers, that King fo ordered, that his Queen was delivered of her first Child in Carnarvan Castle in Wales, and then demanded of the Welfb, as fome affirm, If they would be content to jubjest themselves to one of their own Nation, that could not speak one word of English, and against whose Life they could take no just Exception. Whereunto when they had readily confented, the King nominated this his new-born Son, and afterwards created him Prince of Wales, and bestowed on him all the Lands, Honours, and Revenues belonging to the faid Principality.

The Prince hath ever fince been stilled Prince of Wales, Duke of Aquitain and Cornwal, and Earl of Chester and Flint; which Earldoms are always conferred upon him by Letters Patent. Since the Union of England and Scotland, his Title hath been Magne Britanie Princeps, but more ordinarily the Prince of Wales. As eldest Son to the King of Scotland, he is Duke of Rothjay, and Seneschal of Scotland from his Birth.

The King of England's eldeft Son (fo long as Normandy remain'd in their Hands) was always ful'd Duke of Normandy.

Anciently the Princes. Arms of Wales, whilst they were Sovereigns, bare quarterly Gules, and Or, four Lions paffant, gardant counterchanged.

The Arms of the Prince of Wales at this day, differ from those of the King, only by addition of a Label of three Points, charged with nine Tourteaux, and the Device of the Prince is a Coronet, beautified with three Offrieb Feathers, inferibed with Ich Dien, which in the German, or old Saxon Tongue, is, I ferve. This Device was born at the Battel of Creffy, by John King of Bohemia, ferving there under the French King, and there flain by Edward the

To imagine the Death of the Prince, or to violate the Wife of the Prince, is made High Trealon.

He hath had Privilege of having a Purveyor, and taking Purveyance as the King.

He can retain and qualifie as many Chaplains as he shall pleafe.

To the Prince, at the Age of 15, was a certain Aid of Money from all the King's Tenants, and all that held of him in Capite, by Knights-Service, and Free-Socage, to make him a Knight.

Yet as the Prince in Nature, is a diffinct Perfon from the King, fo in Law allo, in fome Cales, he is a Subject, holdeth his Principalities and Seigniories of the King, giveth the fame Refpect to the King, as other Subjects do.

Rebenues.] The Revenues belonging to the Prince, fince much of the Lands and Demeins of that Dutchy have been alienated, are especially out of the Tinn-Mines in Cornwal, which with all other Profits of that Dutchy, amount yearly to the Sum of 14000 l.

The Revenues of the Principality of Wales, furveyed Three hundred Years ago, was above 4680 l. yearly, a rich Estate, according to the Value of Money in those Days.

Till the Prince came to be fourteen Years old, all things belonging to the Principality of Wales were wont to be disposed of by Commissioners, confisting of some principal Perfons of the Clergy and Nobility.

Cadets.] The Cadets, or younger Sons of England, are created, (not born) Dukes or Earls, of what Places or Titles the King pleafeth.

They have no certain Appanages, as in France, but only what the good pleasure of the King bestows upon them. All the Kings Sons are Confiliarii nati, by Birth-right Counfellors of State, that fo they may grow up in the weighty Affairs in the Kingdom.

To all the King's Children belong the Title of Rayat Highmit : all Subjects are to be uncovered in their prefence, to kneel when they are admitted to kils their Hands, and, at Table, they are fout of the King's Prefence) ferved on the Knee.

1) The Ghildren, the Brathers and Sifters of the King, being Plantiffs, the Summons in the Process need not have the Solemnity of fifteen Days, as in Cafe of other Subjects.

Ail the King's Sans, Grandfons, Brothers, Uncles, and Nepheme of the King, are by Stat. 3. Hen. VIII. to precede others in England. It is true, the Word Grandfon is not there in terminis, but is underflood (as Sir Edward Cook holds) by Nephew, which in Latin being Nepos, fignifies also, and chiefly, a Grandfon.

Of the Princess Sophia, and her Descendants.

Aft of all therefore, but first in the English account, is L the Princefs Sophia, youngest Daughter to the Queen of Bohemia, Grand-Daughter to King James I, Niece to the Royal Martyr, Sifter to our famous Prince Rupert, Coufin German to Charles and James II. with their Sifter Mary the Princels of Orange, and nearest Relation now living of the Protestant Religion to her prefent Majefty; the was born at the Hague the 13th of October, 1630, and in 1658 wedded to Ernest Auguste, Duke of Brunswick and Lunenburg, Bishop of Ojnaburg, late Duke of Hanover, and Prince Elector of Branswick, by whom she had fix Sons and one Daughter, viz. George Lewis, Frederick Augustus, Maximilian William, Sophia Charlotte, Charles Philip, Christian Erneftus Augustus. The eldest Son George Lewis in the year 1682, married Sophia Dorothy, the only Daughter of the Duke of Zell his Uncle, by whom he has Iffue George Augustus the Electoral Prince, born 83, and Dorothea Sophia, 87. The fecond and fourth Sons of the Princefs, were honourably flain in Hungary, 90; the third died in the Morea ; the fifth lately unfortunately drown'd in the Danube, in the very heat of Action ; fo there is the fixth only furviving : Her only Daughter Sophia Charlotte, was married to Frederick the Electoral Prince of Brandenburg, now King of Pruffia, by the Name of Frederick III, by whom the has living only the Prince Royal, Frederick William, born 1688. that remarkable year for the Revo-Jution in England.

The faid Princels Palatine Sophia, is a Person of extraordinary Addrefs, and one of the most accomplish'd Lady's in Europe. She is declared, as was hinted, the next Protestant Heir, who is to have the right of Succession to the Crown of England after King William, and her Royal Highness the Princels Anne of Denmark, and the Heirs of their Bodies: By a solemn Ast of Parliament past in the last Sessions, 1701. Afterwards the Bifhops being necessitated to meet about publick Affairs of the Church, at Confectations, Confultations, for Remedy of general Diforders, for Audiences Judicial, when the Action of any Bilhop thould be called in Queffion, or Appeals from Bilhops, Ge. our Anceftors (according to other Christian Churches even before the first Nicene Council) had amongst a certain Number of Bishops, one to be the Chief in Authority over the reft, from thence named Archiepiscopus, Arch, or Chief Bishop, whereof we have Two in England, called Primates, Metropolitans or Archbishops, that is, Chief Bishops; the one of Canterbury, the other of York ; each of which have, befides their peculiar Diocefe, a Province confifting of leveral Diocefes, and by Grants of feveral Kings, they have each one certain Privileges, Liberties and Immunities in their own States.

Under these two Archbishops are 24 Bishopricks, whereof 21 are reckoned in the Province of Canterbury, and 3 in the Province of York. (besides the Bishop of Sodor or Mau) all which have the Title of Lords, by reason of their Baronies annexed to their Bishopricks, and have Precedence to all other Barons, both in Parliament and in other Assemblies; amongst these the first place belongs to the Bishop of London; who, by ancient Right is Dean of the Episcopal College of that Province, and by virtue thereot, is to fignifie the pleasure of his Metropolitan to all the Bishops of the Province, to execute his Mandates, to disperse his Mislives on all Emergency of Assa.

Next to London, in Parliament, precedes Durham, and then Winchefter; all the reft of the Bifhops take place according to the Seniority of their Confectations.

The Function of an English Bishop confiss in what he may act, either by his Episcopal Order, or by his Episcopal Juxisdiction.

By his Episcopal Order he may Ordain Deacons and Priests; he may Dedicate Churches and Burying-Places; may adminifter the Rites and Ceremonies of Confirmation; without whom none of these may be done.

The Jurisdiction of a Bishop is either Ordinary or Delegated; his Ordinary Jurisdiction is what by the Law of the Land belongs to each Bishop in his own Diocese; the Delegated is what the King is pleased to confer upon him. not as a Bishop, but as he is a Subject, and a considerable Member of the Kingdom. I 114

In the Ordinary Jurisdiction of a Bishop, as a Bishop; may be considered either the Jurisdiction it self or what is instated in him by the Law of the Land, for the better Execution of that Jurisdiction.

The Jurifdiction it felf is eftablished partly by Statute Law; as to License Physicians, Chirurgeons, and Sckoolmasters; to Unite and Consolidate small Parishes, (N. B. that no Bishop in England has this last Power now, but the Bishop of Norwich, and that only within a certain Distance; and he alone has such a Power by virtue of which an Incumbent can take a third Living, by an Archiepiscopal, or Royal Dispensation; otherwise in any other Discesse he that has two Livings, cum cura Animarum is a Pluralist, by the Statute of 21 Hen.8.) to affift the Civil Magistrates in Execution of statutes concerning Ecclessifical Affairs; to compel the payment of Tenths and Subsidies due from the Clergy to the King.

Partly by Common Law, as upon the King's Writ, to certifie the Judges touching Legitimate and Illegitimate Births and Marriages.

And partly by Common and Ecclefiastical Law together, as to cause Wills of the Deceased to be proved, to grant Administration of Goods of fuch as die intestate, to give Order for the gathering and preferving of perifbable Goods, where none is willing to Administer, to cause Account to be given of Administrations, to collate Benefices, to grant Institutions to Benefices upon Prefentations of other Patrons, to command Induction to be given, to order the collecting and preferving of the Profits of vacant Benefices for the ufe of the Successors, to defend the Franchises and Liberties of the Church, to visit their particular Dioceses once in three Years, and therein to inquire of the Manners, Carriages, Delinquencies, &c. of Ministers, of Church-wardens, of the reft of the Parishioners, and amongst them especially of those that profess themselves Physicians, Chirurgeons, School-masters, Midwives; of Wardens of Hospitals, how they performed their feveral Duties and Trufts ; alfo of all other profeffing Christianity, and offending either against Piety, as by Blafphemy, Idolatry, Superfition, Perjury, Herefies Errors against the Thirty nine Articles, Schifm, Conventicles, Absence from Divine Service, unlawful Abfence from the Sacrament; or elfe offending against Jufuce, as the delaying of the Legacies given to the Poor, or Pious pious Ufes, Dilapidations of Buildings, or Goods belonging to the Church ; taking Ufury beyond the Rate allowed by Statute, Simony & c. or by offending againft Sobriety, as by Drunkennels, Inceft, Adultery, Fornication, filthy Speech, tempting of any ones Chaftity, Clandeftine Marriages, as for want of thrice publishing the Banns, the want of Parents Confent, the want of Witneffes, which must be above two, or marrying in a private place, in an undue time, before Eight in the Morning, and after Twelve of the Clock in the Day.

Now, for the better executing of this Jurifdiction, the Bilhops in virtue of their Office are funific with a Power of Ecclefiaftical Cenfurer, whereof fome may be inflicted both upon Lay-men and Church-men, as Sufpension from entring into the Church, or elle from receiving the Sacrament, or greater Excommunications, &c. Other may be inflicted only upon Ecclefiaftical Perfons, as Sequestration of their Ecclefiaftical Profits, Sufpensions, fometimes ab officio, fometimes à Beneficio, or both Deprivation and Deposition, which is fometimes verbal, by Sentence pronounced against them, and fometimes real, by Degradation. Here note, That of all these Censures, Excommunication is never to be inflicted but only for Contumacy; as when a Perfon being duly fummoned, will not appear, or appearing, will not obey the Orders of the Bishop.

archbiftop.] Before the coming of the Saxons into England, the Christian Britains had three Archbishops, viz. of London, York and Gaerleon, an ancient great City of South-Wales, upon the River Uske (as before-mentioned.) The Britains being driven out of these Parts, the Archbishoprick of London feems to have been wholly extinct. And when Pope Gregory the Great had afterwards fent hither Augustine and his Fellow-Labourers to preach the Gofpel to the then Heathen Saxons, the Archiepiscopal See was planted at Canterbury, as being the Metropolis of the Kingdom of Kent, whole King Æthilbert had received the fame St. Augustine, and with his Kingdom was Baptifed, and Embraced the Doctrines of Christianity before the rest of the Heptarchy. The other Archbishoprick of Caerleon was translated to St. Davids in Pembrokeshire, and afterwards fubjected wholly to the See of Canterbury ; fince which, all England and Wales reckon but Two Archbishops, Canterbury and Tork. Canterbury.] Giraldus Cambrenfis writes, That the Archbiflop of Canterbury anciently had Primacy as well over all Ireland as England, and the Irifb Bifbops received their Confecrations from him; for Ireland had no other Archbilhop until the Year 1152; and therefore in the time of the two first Norman Kings, it was declared that Canterbury was the Metrapolitical Church of England, Scotland, and Ireland, and the Illes adjacent. He was therefore fometimes stiled a Patriarch, (and a Patriarch was a chief Bifbop over feveral Kingdoms or Provinces, as an Archbishop is of feveral Diocefes) and had feveral Archbishops under him; was sometimes called Alterius orbis Papa, & orbis Britanici Pontifex; and Matters done and recorded in Ecclefiaftical Affairs, ran thus; Anno Pontificatus nofiri primo, Secundo, &c. He was Legatus natus, that is, a perpetual Legatine Power was annext to that Archbishoprick fome hundred Years ago; whereby no other Legate, Nuncio, or Ambassador from the Bishop of Rome could here exercise any Legatine Power, without fpecial License from the King. He was so highly respected abroad, that in General Councils he was placed before all other Archbishops, at the Pope's right Foot. He was at home to highly honoured by the King of England, that according to the practice of Gods own People the Jews, where Aaron was next in Dignity to Moles, and according to the practice of most other Christian States, where the next in Dignity and Authority to the Sovereign, is usually the chiefest Person of the Clergy, he was accounted the fecond Perfon in the Kingdom, and named and ranked even before the Princes of the Blood. He enjoyed fome fpecial Marks of Royalty, as to be Patron of a Bilhoprick, (as he was of Rochefter) to coin Moneys, to make Knights, and to have the Wardship of all those who hold Lands of him Jure Hominii, (as it is called) altho' they hold in Capite other Lands of the King ; a Princely Prerogative, even against the King's written Prerogative.

In an ancient Charter granted by William the Conqueror to Lanfranc, Archbishop of Canterbury, he is to hold his Lands with the fame freedom, in Dominio suo, (as the Words are) as the King holdeth his in Dominio suo, except only in two or three Cases, and those of no great Importance. The Archbishop of Canterbury, is judged fit to enjoy still divers confiderable Pre-eminences. He is Primate of all England, and Metropolitan, hath a Super-eminency, and had had Power, even over the Archbilhop of Tork; had Power to summon him to a National Synod, and Archiepiscopus Eboracensis venire debet cum Episcopis suis, ad nutum ejus, at ejus Canonicus dispositionibus obediens existat.

The Archbishop of Canterbury is at this Day Primus Par Regni, the first Peer of England, and next to the Royal Family to precede not only all Dukes, but all the great Officers of the Grown.

He is filled Primate of all England and Metropolitan.

At the folemin Coronation of King Charles the Second, it was exprelly order'd in doing Homage to the King, that according to ancient Cuftom, the Archbilhops and Bilhops fhould precede even the Duke of York, and all the Lay-Lords.

He is stilled by the King in his Writs directed to him, Dei gratia Archiepiscopo Cantuariens, and writes himself Divina Providentia, whereas other Bishops write Divina Permissione; and he is faid to be Inthroned, when he is invested in the Archbishoprick. A Marble Chair remaining for that purpose, in the Catheral Church of Canterbary.

To Crown the King belongs to him, and it hath been refolved, that whereloever the Court shall happen to be, the King and Queen are Speciales Domestici Parochiani Domini Arch. Cant. and had anciently the Holy Offerings made at the Altar by the King and Queen, wherefoever the Court should happen to be, if his Grace were there prefent.

The Bishop of London is his Provincial Dean, the Bishop of Winchester his Sub-Dean, the Bishop of Lincoln his Chancellour, and the Bishop of Rochester his Chaptain.

In writing and fpeaking to him is given the Title of Grace, (as is to all Dukes) and Most Reverend Father in God.

He hath by Common Law the Power of Probate of all Testaments, and granting Letters of Administration, where the Party dying had Bona Notabilia, that is, Five Pounds worth, or above, out of the Diocese wherein he died; or Ten Pounds worth within the Diocese of London; or if the Party dying be a Bishop, though he have no Goods out of the Diocese where he died. Also to make Wills for all fuch as die intestate within his Province, and to Administer their Goods to the Kindred, or to pious Uses, according to his Discretion: Which most transcendent Trust and Power is so anciently in England belonging to I 3

Bifhops, that the best Antiquary cannot find the first Original thereof.

By Stat. 25. Hen. VIII. he hath the Honour and Power to grant Licenses and Dispensations in all Cafes heretofore fued for in the Court of Rome, not repugnant to the Law of God, or the King's Prerogative; as to allow a Clerk to hold a Benefice in Commendam or Truft ; to allow a Son (contrary to the Canons) to fucceed his Father immediately in a Benefice ; to allow a Clerk rightly qualified to hold two Benefices with Cure of Souls; to difpense with Irregularity contracted without a Man's own Default, as by defect of Body or Birth, or by accidental killing of a Man, Or. to take off the Guilt of Simony ; to allow a Benefic'd Clerk, for certain Caufes, to be Non-refident for fome time; to grant Difpenfations to Sick, to old People, to Women with Child, to eat Flesh on days whereon it was forbidden; to conffitute Publick Notaries, whole fingle Teftimony is as good as the Teftimonies of any two other Perfons. All which aforementioned Licenfes, Dispensations, &c. the faid Archbishop grants by himfelf, or by his Deputy, called the Master of Faculties, in all his Majefties Dominions, except Scotland and Ireland; for all the new late Acquisitions to this Crown, as Virginia, New-England, Barbadoes, Bermudos, &c. were heretofore added by due Authority to the Province of Canserbury, and put under the Diocefe of London. He hath alfo the Power to grant Literas tuitorias, whereby any one that brings his Appeal, may profecute the fame without any moleftation ; to beftow one Dignity, Prebend, or Living, in any Diocefe within his Province, otherwife in the Gift of the Bishop thereof, which soever he shall chuse, which is therefore called the Archbishops Option, upon every Creation there, of a new Bishop; who was formerly also to provide a sufficient Benefice for one of the Chaplains of the Archbishop, or to maintain him till it be effected.

By the Stat. primo Eliz. it is provided, That the Queen by the Advice of the Archbishop, might ordain and publish such Rites and Ceremonies, as may be for God's Glory, for Edifying of the Church, and due Reverence of the Sacraments.

He hath the Prerogative to confectate a Bishop (though it must be done in the presence and with the affistance of two other Bishop, as every Bishop gives Ordination, but usually with the affistance of Presbyters) to affign Ceadjue

Coadjutors to infirm Bilhops, to confirm the Election of Bilhops within his Province; to call Provincial Synods according to the King's Writ always directed to him; to be Prefident of those Synods or Convocations, to give Sanction to their Acts; to visit the whole Province, to appoint a Guardian of the Spiritualities, during the vacancy of any Bilhoprick within his Province, whereby all the Episcopal Rites of that Diocese belong to him, all Ecclesiastical Jurifdictions, as Visitations, Institutions, &c.

The Archbishop may retain and qualifie eight Chaplains, which is two more than any Duke by Statute is allowed to do.

The Archbishop of Canterbury hath moreover the Power to hold divers Courts of Judicature, for deciding of Differences in Ecclesiaftical Affairs, as his Court of Arches, his Court of Audience, his Prerogative Court, and his Court of Peculiars; all which shall be handled particularly.

These and other Prerogatives and Privileges, the Wisdom of our first Reformers thought fit to be retained, and added to the chief Person (under the King) of the Church of England.

102k.] The next Perfon in the Church of England, is the Archbishop of York, who was anciently also of very high repute in this Nation, and had under his Province not only divers Bishopricks in the North of England, but all the Bishopricks of Scotland for a long time, until the Year 1470. when Pope Sixtus the Fourth created the Bishop of St. Andrews, Archbishop and Metropolitan of all Scotland.

He hath still the place and precedence of all Dukes, not of the Royal Blood, and of all great Officers of State, except only the Lord Chancellor; hath the Title of Grace, and Most Reverend Father in God; hath the Honour to crown the Queen Confort, and to be her perpetual Chaplain.

He is also stiled Primate of England, and Metropolitan, and hath under him the Bishopricks of York, Durham, Carlisle, Chefter, and that of Sodor, or Man; only Durham hath a peculiar Jurisdiction, and in many things is wholly exempt from the Jurisdiction of the Archbishop.

He had the Rights of a Count Palatine over Hexamshire in Northumberland; may qualifie also eight Chaplains, and hath within his Province divers other of the forementioned Prerogatives and Privileges, which the Archbishop of Canterbury hath within his own Province.

Billops.] The next in place among the Clergy of England, are the Bilhops, fo called from the Saxon Word Bilcop, and that from the Greek, 'EnioxonG, Speculator, Explorator, wel Superintendens, an Officer among the Heathens, so called, Quia præcrat pani & vietui quotidiano, Episcopus enim apud Christianos præcst pani & vietui (pirituali.

All the Bifhops of England are Barons and Peers of the Realm ; they are Barons by a threefold manner, (which cannot be faid of the Lay Lords) they are Feudal, in regard of Lands and Baronies annexed to their Bishopricks ; they are Barons by Writ, being fummoned by the King's Writ to Parliament ; and they are created Barons by Patent, which by their Confectation is always exhibited to the Archbilhop. They have the Precedence of all Temporal Barons under Viscounts : In Parliament have Place in the Upper House, in a double Capacity, not only as Barons, but as Bishops; for before they were Barons, they had in all times place in the Great Council of the Kingdom, and there ever placed on the King's Right Hand, not to give their Advice as Judges do, but ad tractandum, ordinandum, statuendum, definiendum, &c. They have the Title of Lords, and Right Rewerend Fathers in God.

All Bifhops in England have one or two transcendent Privileges, which feem almost Regal, as in their own Court to judge and pass Sentence alone by themselves, without any Collegue or Assessment alone by themselves, without any Collegue or Assessment which is not done in other of the King's Courts; for the Bishop's Courts (the held by the King's Authority, Virtute Magistratus Jui, and though all Juristiction in England is infeparably annexed to the Grown, yet) are not accounted to be properly the Kings Courts, and therefore the Bishops fend out Writs in their own Names; Tiste the Bishop, and not in the Kings Name; as all the King's Courts, properly for called, do.

Moreover, Bilhops have this other transcendent Priviledge, to depute their Authority to another (as the King doth) either to their Bishops Suffragans, to their Chancellors, to their Commissaries, or other Officers, which none of the Kings Judges may do.

All Bishops have one Privilege above and beyond all Lay-Lords, viz. That in whatsoever Christian Prince's Dominions they come, their Episcopal Dignity and Degree is acknowledged; and they may quaternus Bishops, confer Orders, Gr. Whereas no Lay-Baron, Viscount, Marquiss, nor Duke, Part II.

Duke, is in Law acknowledged fuch, out of the Dominions of the Prince who conferred those Honours

The Laws and Cuffoms of England are fo tender of the Honour, Credit, Reputation, and Perfons of Bifhops, our Spiritual Fathers, that none might (without fpecial Licenfe from the King first obtained) be indicted of any Crime before any Temporal Judge.

Upon fevere Penalty by our Laws, no Man may raife Reports, whereby Scandal may arife to the Perfon of any Bifhop, or Debate and Difcord between them, and the Commons of England.

In Civil Tryals where any Bilhop is Plaintiff or Defendant, the Billiop may, as well as any Lay-Lord, challenge the Array, if one Knight at least be not returned of the Jury, and it shall be allowed unto him as a Privilege due to his Peerage.

In Criminal Trials for Life, all Bilhops by Magna Charta, and Stat. 25. Edw. 3. are to be tried by their Peers, who are Barons, and none under; notwithitanding the late Conceit of fome Lawyers, fuppoling that Bilhops may not be on the Criminal Tryals of a Peer, and therefore are not to be tryed by Peers; for fo neither may Bifhops be tryed by a common Jury, becaufe they may not be on the Tryal of fuch Men. Moreover, Noble Women may not be on the Tryal of Peers, and yet they are to be tryed by Peers of the Realm: And there is no legal Precedent in England of a Bilhop, remaining a Bilhop, that ever was tryed for his Life, but by Peers of the Realm. Anciently indeed, Bilhops were fo exempted, as not at all to be tryed by Temporal Judges, till after Depriwation and Degradation, and then being thereby rendred no Peers, but common Perfons, they might be tryed by common Juries.

Since the Reformation, the English Protestant Bishops have been so constantly Loyal and True to the Crown, (to the Envy of Nononformists) and so free from all Capital Crimes, that there is yet no Precedent in England, unless we reckon Archbishop Lands Cafe to be so, for their manner of Tryal for Life. As for that common Affertion, That no Lords of Parliament are to be tryed by their Peers, but fuch as sit there, Ratione Nobilitatis, and that all Lay-Lords have place in Parliament for that Reason, it is not only falle but frivolous, in the Judgment of very many judicious Men. Next to the two Archbishops of England, the Bishop of London amongst all the Bishops hath the Pre-eminence. Episcopus Londinensis (faith an ancient Record) Speciali quadam dignitate cateris anteponendus, quia Ecclesia Cantuariensis Decanus est Provincialis. Being Bishop over the Imperial and Capital City of England, it is by a Statute of later Times express provided, that he should have the Preference and Precedence of all the Bishops of England, whereby he is become (as heretofore, the Lord Prior of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem) Primus Baro Regni, as the Lord Bergavenny is Primus Baronum Laisorum.

Next amongst those of the Episcopal College, is the Bishop of Durham, within the Province of York, who hath been a Count Palatine fix or seven hundred Years: Wherefore the common Seal of the Bishoprick hath been of a long time an Armed Knight holding in one Hand a naked Sword, and in the other a Church.

He hath also at this day the Earldom of Sadberg, annexed long ago to the Bishoprick by the King,

In the fifth place, by Virtue of the forementioned Statute is the Bishop of Winchester, reputed anciently Earl of Southampton, and so stilled in the Statutes of the Honourable Order of the Garter, by Henry the Eighth; though soon after that Earldom was otherwise disposed of. He is Sub-Dean of the Province of Canterbury, and in the Vacancy of the See of London, executes the Archbishop's Mandates for Convocation, Gre which Office belongs to the Bishop of Lincoln as Chancellour of the Province, in the vacancy of both those other Sees of London and Winchester.

After these aforenamed, all the other Bishops take place according to the Seniority of their Confectation, unless any Bishop happen to be made Lord-Chancellour, Treafurer, Privy-Seal, or Secretary of State; which anciently was very usual, as reputed for their Piety, Learning, Single Life, Diligence, & far more fit for the Advantage and Service of the King and Kingdom, than any Lay-man; and in fuch a Case, a Bishop being Lord Chancellour, had place next to the Archbishop of Canterbury, and above the Archbishop of Tork; and being a Secretary of State, had place next to the Bishop of Winchester.

Next follow the Commons Spiritual, confifting of Suffragan Bifhops, Deans, Arch-deacons, Prebendaries, Rectors, and Vicars; to whom also belong divers confiderable Privileges.

For

For easing the Bilhop of some part of his Burthen, as the number of Christians waxed great, or the Diocele was large, there was ordained in the Primitive Times, Chordpifcopi, Suffragans or Subsidiary Bishops. Accordingly, in the English Church, of a long time, there have been such ordained by the Name of Bishop's Suffragans, or Titular Bishops, who have the Name, Title, Stile and Dignity of Bishops and (as other Bishops) are confectated by the Archbishop of the Province, each one to execute such Power, Jurifdictition, and Authority, and receive such Profits as are limited in his Commission by the Bishop or Diocelan, whole Suffragan he is.

Suffragan Bijbops, by an Act of Parliament of Henry the Eighth, still in force, are to be only of these Towns folowing.

The Suffrag an Bilbop for the Diotefe of Canterbury, mult be at Dover only; for York, at Nottingham and Hall; for London, at Colchester ; for Durham, at Berwick ; for Winchefter, at Guilford, Southampton, and in the IDe of Wight ; for "Lincoln. at Bedford, Leicefter, Grantham, and Huntington; for Norwich, at Thefford and Ipfwich ; for Salisbury, at Shaftsbury, Melton, and Marlborough ; for Bath and Wells, at Taunton ; for Hereford, at Bridgnorth ; for Coventry and Lichfield, at Shrewsbury; for Ely, at Cambridge; for Exeter, at St. Germans ; for Carlifle, at Pereth. These only to be the Sees of Bifbops Suffragans, and no more Suffragans allowed, than To many to each Diocefe, as above-mentioned. In publick Affemblies they were to take place next after the Temporal Peers of the Realin. In the abfence of the Bilhops imployed oft upon Einbaffies abroad, or refiding at Court, to advise the King ; these did usually supply their places. A suffragan Billiop is made, in cafe the Archbilhop; or fome other Bifbop, for the better Government of his Diocefe, defire the fame; and in fuch cafe, the Bifhop is to prefent two able Men for any one place afore named, whereof his Majesty chuseth one; but we have none now in England of this kind,

For fupply of able and fit Perfons to affift Bifliops, or to make Bifliops, it feemed good to our Anceftors, that in every Diocefe a certain number of the more prudent and pious Paftors flouid be placed in a Collegiate manner, at every Cathedral, or Episcopal See; where they might not only be ready to affift the Bifliop in certain weighty Cafes, but Part II.

but alfo fit themfelves, by gaining Experience (and lofing by little and little their former Familiarity with the inferiour Country Clergy) for Government and Authority of the Church. Accordingly in every Cathedral Church in England, there are a certain number of Prebendaries, or Canons, and over them a Dean, in Latin Decamo, from AERCE; becaufe anciently fet over ten Canons at the leaft ; who is fometimes stiled Alter Episcopi Oculus, (the other being the Archdeacon, who tho' a Presbyter himfelf, is fo named, for his Charge over the Deacons) who are to be guided and directed by him under the Bifhop. more than a started to will Antiently Bifhops did not ordinarily transact Matters of Moment, fine Confilio Presbyterorum principalium, who were then called Senatores Ecclefie, and Collegues of the Bishops, represented in some fort by our Cathedrals ; whereof the Dean and fome of the Prebends, are upon the Bilhop's Summons, to affift him in Ordinations, in Deprivations ab Officio & Beneficio, in Condemnations of obstinate Hereticks, in the Great Excommunications, and in fuch like weighty Affairs of the Church. Upon the King's Writ of Conge d' estire (as before-mentioned) the Dean and Prebendaries are to elect the Bifhop of that Diocefe. Cathedral and Collegiate Churches are, as it were, Seminaries or Seed-plots, whereout from time to time may be chosen fit Perlons to govern the Church : For having left the Country, and living here in a Society together, they learn Experience; they read Men; they, by little and little, put off the Familiarity of the Inferiour Country Clergy, and thereby render themselves more fit to be set over them in Government. The Dean and Prebendaries, during their required Refidence in their Cathedral or Collegiate Churches, are to keep Hofpitality upon all Feftivals, to read Divinity in their Turns, which is now turned to Sermons, or Set-Speeches in the Pulpit; at due time to administer the Lord's Supper; to frequent publick Divine Service; to inftruct the Country Clergy, and direct them how, and what to preach, whereby they may beft profit their Auditors: In a word, as they excel others in Dignity, and are therefore stiled Prelates; fo by their more eminent Piety and Charity, they are to be Examples and Patterns to the Inferiour Clergy. ; win hander a seried here anon shade do you along have by Preferiptions their Courts and Officials as timment of we are builded

In almost every Cathedral, or Bishop's See, there is a Dean, and divers Prebendaries, or Canons, whose number is in some more, in some less.

Deans of the old Foundations, founded before the Supprefion of Monasteries, are brought to their Dignities, much like Bishops; the King first sending forth his Conge d'estere to the Chapter, they electing, and the King granting his Royal Assent, the Bishop confirms him, and gives his Mandate to instal him.

Deans of the new Foundation (upon Suppression of Abbies or Priories, transformed by Hen. VIII. into Dean and Chapter) are by a shorter Course Installed by Virtue of the King's Letters Patents, without either Election or Confirmation,

In most of the old Foundations the Prebendaries are of two forts; some are Canons or Residentiaries, who, with their Dean make one Body or College, or Corporation, these are what they call the Chapter: And some are minor Prebendaries, who have each his own separate Estate or Corpse: They are not obliged to Residence, only to Preach upon certain Days, they have a Stall in the Quire, but no Vote in the Chapter.

Note, That the Canons in these old Foundations, cannot regularly be made so, unless they are first minor Prebendaries.

A Prebend is properly the Portion which every Prebendary of a Collegiate or Cathedral Church receiveth in the right of his Place for his Maintenance, quasi pars wel portio prabenda.

UrchOtacons.] Next in the Government of the English Church, may be reckoned Archdeacons, whereof there are Sixty in all England; Their Office is to visit Two Years in Three, and to enquire of Reparations and Movables belonging to Churches, to reform Abuses in Ecclesiaftical Matters, and to bring the more weighty Affairs before the Bishop of the Diocese; and therefore he is called, Alter Episcopi Oculus (the other being the Dean.) Moreover, the Office of an Archdeacon, is, upon the Bishop's Mandate, to induct Clerks into their Benefices, and thereby to give them possible of all the Profits belonging thereto;

Many Archdeacons and some Prebendaries in old Foundations have by Prescriptions their Courts and Officials as Bishops have : whereof more hereafter. Rurai Rural Deans.] After the Archdeacons, are the Archipresbyteri or Rural Deans, fo called perhaps at first for their over-fight of Ten Parish-Priest. They were here anciently called Decani Christianitatis. Seld. not. ad Eadmerum, p. 208. Their Office is now, upon Orders, to convocate the Clergy, to signifie to them, sometimes by Letters, the Bishop's pleasure, and to give Induction for the Archdeacon, living afar off.

Parifis Diefts or Rettozs.] next are to be confidered the Priefts of every particular Parish, who are commonly called the Rectors, unless the Predial Tythes are impropriated, and then they are ftiled Vicars, quasi vice fungentes Rectorum. Their Office is to take care of all the Parishioners Souls, and like good Shepherds, to handle every particular Sheep apart ; to cathechize the ignorant, reduce the ftraying, confirm the wavering, convince the obftinate, reprehend the wicked, confute Schifmaticks, reconcile Differences among Neighbours, to exercise the power of binding and loofing of Souls, as occasion shall offer; to read duly Divine Service, to administer the Holy Sacraments, and to preach, if the Bishop shall think fit; to visit the Sick, to marry, to bury, to render publick Thanks after Child-bearing, to keep a Register of all the Marriages, Chriftnings and Burials, that shall happen within the Parifh.

Laftly, Deacons, whole Office was to take care of the Poor, is now to Baptize, read in the Church, affift the Prieft at the Lord's Supper, by giving the Cup only, &c.

In England are Two Archbishops, Twenty Four Bishops, no Suffragan Bishops at prefent, Twenty fix Deans of Cathedrad and Collegiate Churches, Sixty Archdeacons, 544 Prebendaries, many Rural Deans, and about 9700 Restors and Vicars, besides Curates, who for certain Stipends affist fuch Restors and Vicars that have the Care of more Churches than one.

After this brief Account of Ecclesiastical Persons, somewhat may here not unfitly be added, touching those Persons, who, though not in Holy Orders, yet have a peculiar Relation to the Church, and are quasi semi Ecclesiastici: as first, Patrons of Churches, who, by first building of Churches, or first endowing them with Lands, have obtained for them and their Heirs, a Right of Advowsion or Patronage, whose Office and Dury is to propose a fit Clerk (when the Church is void) to the Bifhop to be by him Canonically inftituted, and to protect the faid Church as far as he can from all Wrong; and in cafe his Clerk prove unfit for the Place, to give notice to the Bifhop.

Note, That although the Gift of the Higher Dignities of the Church of England, as Bifhopricks and most Deaneries are only in the King, in whom is allo the Donation of most of the best Prebends and Canonicates, and of several Great, and very many small Parsonages, which are under the Visitation of the Bishops and Anchbishops; yet there are some Donatives and Free-Chappels, which are subject to the Visitation only of the Lord Chancellor, and wholly exempted from the Jurisdiction of any Bishop.

Next are the Occonomi, vel Ecclesia Guardiani, the Churchwardens, whole Office is to fee that the Church be in good Repair, fitly adorned, and nothing wanting for Divine Service. Sacrament and Sermons: That the Church-yard be fufficiently bounded or enclosed ; That there be an exact Terrier of the Glebe-Land; and if any thing belonging to the Church be detained, to fue for the fame; to obferve that all Parishioners come daily to Divine Service; to require the penalty for Absence; to inquire after, to admonish and to prefent to the Bilhop fcandalous Livers; to collect the Charity of Parishioners for the Poor Strangers ; to declare and to execute the Orders of the Bifbop ; to fee that none prefume to vent his own Conceptions in the Pulpic, unless he hath a special License so to do. The Church wardens are Elected every Easter-Week, usually by the Parion and Parithioners, if they fo agree; if not, then one by the Parfon. and the other by the Parishioners.

There are also in greater Parishes joined with the Churchwardens, Testes Synodales, anciently called Synods-Men, now corruptly Sides-Men, who are to affist the Church-wardens in Inquiries into the Manners of inordinate Livers, and in presenting Offenders at Visitations.

Lastly, the Sacristan, corruptly called the Sexton or Glerk, who is ordinarily to be chosen by the Parson only; he ought to be Twenty Years old, or above, of good Life, that can read, write, and sing: His Office is to serve at Church the Priest, Curate and Church-wardens.

CHAP. X.

Of Ecclefiastical Courts of England, and first of the Convocation.

L'OR the Church Legislative Power, or the making of L' Ecclefiastical Laws, and confulting for the more weighty Affairs of the Church, the King, by the Advice of his Privy-Council, as often as he calls a Parliament, convokes a National Synod, commonly called the Convocation, which is fummoned in manner following :

The King directeth his Writ to the Archbishop of each Province, requiring him to fummon all Bishops, Deans, Archdeacons, Cathedrals and Collegiate Churches, Gre. according to their best Discretion and Judgment, affigning them the time and place in the faid Writ; whereupon the Archbifhop of Ganterbury directs his Mandate to the Bifhop of London, as his Dean Provincial, first Citing him peremotorily, and then Willing him in like manner to cite all the Bishops, Deans, Archdeacons, Cathedral and Collegiate Churches, and all the Clergy of his Province to fuch a place, and fuch a day prefixt in the Writ ; but directeth withal, that one Proctor fent for each Gathedral and Collegiate Church, and two for the Body of the inferiour Clergy, of each Diocefe, may fuffice. The Bishop of London accordingly directs his Letters to the Bishop of every Diocese of the Province, citing them in like manner to appear, and to ad monish the Deans and Archdeacons to appear personally; and the Cathedrals, Collegiate Churches, and inferiour Clergy of the Diocefe, to fend their Proctors to the place, and at the day appointed, to certifie also to the Archbishop the Names of all fo fummoned by them.

The place where the Convocation of the Clergy in the Province of Canterbury, hath ufually been held, is St. Paul's Church in London, from whence they have been of late by the Archbishop prorogu'd to St. Peter's in Westminster, in the Chappel of Henry the Seventh, or in the Jerufalem Chamber, where there is an upper and lower Houfe.

K Satter to The

The higher Houfe of Convocation in the Province of Canterbury, confifts of Twenty two Bifhops, whereof the Archbifhop is Prefident, fitting in a Chair at the upper end of a great Table, and the Bifhops on each fide of the fame Table, all at the opening of a Convocation in their Scarlet Robes and Hoods, the Archbifhop's Hood furr'd with Ermin, the Bifhop's with Minever.

The lower House consists of all the Deans, Archdeacons, one Proctor for every Chapter, and two Proctors for all the Clergy of each Diocese, in all 166 Persons, viz. Twenty two Deans, Twenty four Prebendaries, Fifty four Archdeacons, and Forty four Clerks representing the Diocesan Clergy.

The first day, both Houses being affembled, the Archbishop presides at the head of the Clergy of his Province, and the lower Clergy being required by the Most Reverend, chuse them a Prolocutor or Speaker; which done, they present him to the upper House by One or Two of the Members, whereof one makes a Speech in Latin, and then the Elect Person makes another Speech in Latin. Lastly, the Archbishop answers it in Latin, and with the consent of the Bishops approves of the Person.

In the upper Houfe things are first ordinarily proposed, and then communicated to the lower House.

The Major Vote in each House prevails.

On days when the Houfe of Lords do's not Meet, they ufually aliemble about Nine of the Clock; and first the Junior Bishop fays Prayers in Latin, beginning with the Litany, and then for the King, &c. And in the lower House the Prolocutor fays Prayers.

In Convocation are debated only Matters concerning Religion and the Church, and aforetimes of giving his Majefly Afliftance in Money; for as the Laity cannot be Taxed without their own Confent, fignified by their Reprefentarives in Parliament, fo the Clergy could not (till they difus'd that Privilege,) be Taxed without their own Confent, fignified by their Reprefentatives in Convocation.

The Clergy in Convocation might anciently, without asking the Royal Affent, and now may with the Royal Affent make Canons touching Matters of Religion, to bind not only themfelves, but all the Laity (as fome have afferted) without Confent or Ratifications of the Lords and Commons in Parliament, within the Limitations fet down in the Statute of 25 Hen. 8. Till

Part II.

Till the Rebellion in the Reign of King Charles the First, the Parliament did not ordinarily meddle in the making of Canons, or in matters Doctrinal, or in Translation of Scriptures, or Annotations thereon; only by their Civil Sanctions (when they were defir'd) did confirm the Refults and Confultations of the Clergy, that fo the People might be the more effectually induced to obey the Ordinances of their Spiritual Governours.

The Clergy of England had anciently their Representatives in the lower House of Parliament, as appears by that ancient Record, so prized by the late Lord Coke.

All the Members of both Houfes of Convocation have the fame Privileges for themfelves and Menial Servants, as the Members of Parliament have, and that by Statute.

The Archbishop of York at the same time holds at York a Convocation of all his Province in like manner, and by constant Correspondence, doth debate and conclude of the same Matters as are debated and concluded by the Provincial Syned of Canterbury.

All Suffragan Bishops, and Deans, Archdeacons, Prebendaries, Reffors and Vicars have Privileges, some by themselves, others by Proxy, or by Representative, to Sit and Vote in the lower House of Convocation.

High Commifion-Court.

NOW for the Executive Power in Church-matters throughout the Kingdom of England, there have been provided divers excellent Courts, whereof the higheft for Criminal Caufes was the High-Commifton-Court; for Jurifdiction whereof, it was enacted primo Elizabetha, That her Majefty and Succeffors, fhould have Power by Letters Patents under the Great Seal, to nominate Commiffioners to exercife Jurifdiction throughout the whole Realm, to wift, reform, and correct all Errors, Herefies, Schifms, Abufes, and Delinquencies, that may, by an Ecclefiaftical Power be corrected or reformed. Court of Delegates.

FOR Civil Affairs that concern the Church, the higheft Court is now the Court of Delegates; for the Jurifdiction whereof it was provided, 25 Hen. VIII. That it shall be lawful for any Subject of England, in cafe of defect of Justice in the Courts of the Archbishop of Canterbury, to appeal to the King's Majesty in his Courts of Chancery, and that upon such Appeal, a Commission under the Great Seal shall be directed to certain Persons particularly designed for that Business; so that from the Highest Court of the Archbishop of Canterbury, there lies an Appeal to this Court of Delegates, and beyond this to none other.

Next to the Court of Delegates, are the Courts of the Archbishop of Canterbury, where any Ecclesiastical Suits between any Persons within this Province, may (waving all Inferiour Courts) be decided.

The Court of Arches.

A Mongst them, the highest Court is the Court of Arches, fo called from the Arched Church and Tower of St. Mary le Bow in London, where this Court was wont to be held; the Judge whereof is called Dean of the Arches, having Jurisdiction over a Deanary confisting of Thirteen Parishes within London, exempt from the Jurisdiction of the Bishop of London. Hither are directed the Appeals in Ecclesiastical matters within the Province of Canterbury. To this Court belong divers Advocates, all Doctors of the Civil Law, Two Registers and Ten Proctors: The Dean at present is Sir John Cook, Court of Audience.

IN the next place, the Archbishop of Canterbury hath his Court of Audience kept within the Archbishop's Palace, and medleth with any Difference between Parties concerning Elections and Confectations of Bishops, Admission, and Institution into Benefices, dispensing with Banns of Matrimony, &c.

Bishops Court.

Befides these Courts, serving for the whole Province, Bevery Bishop hath his Court held in the Cathedral of his Diocese, over which he hath a Chancellour, termed anciently Ecclesseedicms, & Episcopi Ecdicus, the Church-Lawyer, who being skilled in Civil and Canon Law, fits there as a Judge; and if his Diocese be large, he hath in some more remote place a Commission, whose Authority is only in some certain places of the Diocese, and some certain Causes, limited to him by the Bishop in his Commission, and these are called Consistency Courts.

Archdeacon's Court, &cc.

Moreover, every Archdeacon hath his Court and Jurifdi-Ation, where fmaller Differences, arifing within his Limits, are pleaded. Alfo the Dean and Chapter have a Court, and take Cognizance of Caufes happening in places belonging to the Cathedral.

Causes belonging to Ecclesiaftical Courts.

C Aufes belonging to Ecclefiastical Courts are Blasphemy, Apostacy from Christianity, Herefie, Schism, Ordinations, Institution of Clerks to Benefices, Gelebration of Divine Serwices, Rights of Matrimony, Divorces, General Bastardy, Tythes, Oblations, Obventions, Mortuaries, Dilapidations, Reparation of Churches, Probate of Wills, Administrations, Simony, Incess, Formication, Adulteries, Sollicitations of Chastity, Pensions, Procurations, Commutation of Penance, &c. the Cognizance whereof belongs not to the Common Law of England.

The Laws and Confficutions whereby the Ecclesiafical Government doth ftand, and the Church of England is governed, are first General Ganons made by General Councils; also the Arbitria Sanctorum Patrum, the Opinion of Fathers, the grave Decrees of feveral Holy Bishops of Rome, in its purer times, which the Kings of England from time to time have admitted.

Next, our own Constitutions made anciently in feveral Provincial Synods, either by the Legates Otho and Othobon, fent from Rome, or by several Archbishops of Canterbury; all which are by 25 Hen. VIII. of force in England, so far as they are not repugnant to the Laws and Customs of England, or the King's Prerogative. Then the Canons made in Convocations of latter times, as primo Jacobi, and confirmed by his Royal Authority. Also in some Statutes enacted by Parliament, touching Ecclesiastical Affairs; and lastly, divers Customs not written, but yet in use beyond the Memory of Man: And where these fail, the Civil Law takes place.

The manner of Tryals by these Laws and Customs are different from the Tryals at Common Law, and are briefly thus: First goes forth a Citation, then a Bill and Answer, then by Proofs, Witnesser and Prefumptions, the Matters are argued Pro and Con, and the Canon and Civil Laws quoted; then, without any Jury, the definitive Sentence of the Judge paffeth, and upon that Execution. And this is the manner of Trying Ecclesiastical and Civil Causes; but Ecclesiastical Criminal Causes are tryed by way of Accusation, Denunciation, or Magnistion. This High Office is in the Hands of the Right Honourable Sydney Lord Godolphin.

Lozd Dzefident.] The Fourth Great Officer named in the Statute 31 Hen. VIII. is the Lord President of the King's Privy-Council; an Officer as ancient as King John's time; was usually called Confiliarius Capitalis. His Office is to attend upon the King, to propose Business at Council-Table, and then to report to the King the feveral Transactions there. It hath been always granted by Letters under the Great Seal, durante bene placito.

This

Part II.

This Office of later times was grown obfolete; ceafing in the first Earl of Manchester; the Lord Chancellor afterward supplying that Place; till of late the Earl of Shaftsbury was made Lord President, and since that the Lord Roberts succeeded him, and was created Earl of Radnor, who was succeeded by the Marquis of Hallifax, and he by the Duke of Leeds. The present Lord President is the Right Honourable the Earl of Pembroke and Montgomery.

Lozo Delive Seal.] The Fifth Great Officer is the Lord Privy-Seal, who is a Lord by his Office, under whole Hands pais all Charters and Grants of the King, and Pardons Signed by the King, before they come to the Great Seal of England; also divers other Matters of less Concernment, as for the Payment of Money, &c., which do not pais the Great Seal.

He is by his Place of the King's Privy-Council, and was Chief Judge of the Court of Request; and besides this Oath of Privy-Counsellour, takes a particular Oath as Lord Privy-Seal.

His Salary was 1500 l. per Annum, but it is now doubted.

His Place, according to Statute, is next to the Lord Prefident of the King's Council.

The prefent Lord Privy-Seal, is his Grace the Duke of Buckingham and Normanby.

Dignity.] It is an Office of great Trust and Skill, that he put not his Seal to any Grant without good warrant under the King's Privy Signet; nor with Warrant if it be against Law or Custom, until that the King be first acquainted.

This great Officer is mentioned in the Statute of 2 Rich. II. and then ranked among the chief Perfons of the Realm.

Note, That anciently the Lord Chancellor, Treasurer, Prefident, and Privy-Seal, were generally Clergy-men.

Chamberlain.] The Sixth Great Officer of the Crown, is the Lord Great Chamberlain of England, an Officer of great Antiquity, to whom belongs Livery and Lodging in the King's Court, and certain Fees due from each Archbishop or Bishop, when they do their Homage or Fealty to the King, and from all the Peers of the Realm at their Creation, or doing their Homage or Fealty; and at the Coronation of every King, he is to have Forty Ells of Crimson Velvet for his Unable to display this page berland) and at folemn Tryals by Combat (as that which was intended between Rey and Ramsey, 1631. was made Robert Earl of Lindsey) there is created Pro illa Vice, a Lord High Constable. His Power and Jurisdiction is the same with the Earl Marshal, with whom he sits Judge in the Marshal's Court, and takes place of the Earl Marshal.

Carl Marlhal.] The Eighth Great Officer of the Crown, is the Earl-Marlhal of England. In French Marefchal, and ufed by them to fignifie indifferently that great Military Office, as well as a Smith or Farrier; it is derived from . the old Gothic and Saxon Terms, wherein Mare fignified a Horfe, and Schalck a Servant; and agreeable to that Etymology, the first Marefchals of France were only Superintendants of the King's Stables. See Mezeray in the Hift. of Philip August. He is an Earl, fome fay, by his Office, whereby he taketh, as the Constable doth, Cognizance of all Matters of War and Arms, determineth Contracts touching Deeds of Arms, out of the Realm upon Land, and Matters concerning Wars within the Realm, which cannot be determined by Common Law; and in these Matters he is commonly guided by the Civil Law.

Note, That anciently he had feveral Courts under him, but hath now only the Marshalses, where he may fit in Judgment against Criminals offending within the Verge of the King's Court.

This Office is of great Antiquity in England, and anciently of greater Power than now.

Thomas Mowbray Earl of Nottingham, was the first Earl-Marshal of England, made to by Rich. II. from whom, by the Mother's fide, Henry the late Duke of Norfolk, and Earl-Marshal of England was defcended, who executed that place till his Death, fince which time during the Minority of his Heir, this Place is committed to the Right Honourable the Earl of Carlile.

Admiral.] The Ninth and laft Great Officer of the Crown, is the Lord High Admiral of England; whole Truft and Honour is fo great, that this Office hath ufually been given either to fome of the King's younger Sons, near Kinfman, or to fome one of the highest and chiefest of all the Nobility,

He is called Admiral from Amir in Arabick, and AMG in Gresk; that is Præfectus Marinus, a Word borrowed from the Eastern Empire, where fuch kind of Compounds were much much in request, and introduced in England after the Wars in the Holy Land, by King Richard, or, as some fay, by King Edward the First.

The Patent of the Lord Admiral did anciently run thus: Anglia, Hibernia, & Aquitania Magnus Admirallus; but at prefent thus, Anglia, & Hibernia; ac Dominiorum & Infularum earundem, Villa Cylifia & Marchiarum ejusdem, Normandia, Gasconia, & Aquitania, Magnus Admirallus & Prafectus Generalis Classis & Marium distorum regnorum.

To the Lord High Admiral of England, is by the King intrufted the management of all Maritime Affairs, as well in refpect of Jurifdiction as Protection. He is that High Officer or Magistrate, to whom is committed the Government of the King's Navy, with Power of Decision in all Cafes Maritime, as well Civil as Criminal; of all things done upon or beyond the Sea, in any part of the World; all things done upon the Sea-Coasts, in all Ports and Havens, and upon all Rivers below the first Bridge next towards the Sea.

The Lord Admiral hath a Power to Commissionate a Vice-Admiral, a Rere-Admiral, and all Sea-Captains; all Deputies for particular Coasts; Coroners to view dead Bodies found on the Sea-Coasts, or at Sea; Commissioners or Judges for exercising Justice in the Court of Admiralty, to Imprison, Release, &c.

He hath fometimes a Commission to bestow Knighthood on fuch as shall deferve it at Sea.

To the Lord High Admiral belongs, by Law and Cuftom all Penalties and Amercements of all Transgreffors at Sea, on the Sea-fhore, in Ports, and from the first Bridge on Rivers towards the Sea; also the Goods of Pirates, Felons, or Capital Faulters, Condemned, Out-lawed, or Horned. Moreover, all Waifs, Stray Goods, Wrecks of Sea, Deodands, a share of all lawful Prizes, Lagon, Flotson, and Jetson, as our Lawyers term it; that is Goods lying in the Sea, on Ground, Goods floating on the Sea, and Goods cast away by the Sea on the Shoar, not granted to Lords of Mannors adjoyning to the Sea: All great Fishes, as Sea-Hogs, and other Fishes of extraordinary bigness, called Royal Fishes, except only Whales and Sturgeons.

This Great Office is at prefent executed by His Royal Highnels Prince George, who is affifted by a Council compofed of Five Perfons, viz. Sir George Rook, George Churchis

Of the Privy-Council.

THE Primum Mobile of the Civil Government of England, from whence all the inferior Orbs derive their Motion, is that Noble, Honourable, and Reverend Affembly, called Confilium Secretum privatum, vel continuum Regis Concilium, which is a Court of great Antiquity and Honour.

Before the latter end of Henry the Third, Quod provisime fuit per Regem & Confilium suum privatum, sigilloque Regis confirmatum, procul dubio Legis vigorem habuit, faith Spelman.

The primitive and ordinary way of Government in England, was by the King and his Privy-Council, and all our King's have acted much by it, determining Controversies of great Importance, fometimes touching Lands and Rights between Party and Party, whereof there are very many Presidents; and the Judges of England, in some difficult Cafes were not wont to give Judgment, until they had first confulted the King or his Privy-Council. Moreover, the Lords and Commons allembled in Parliament, have ofttimes transmitted Matters of high Moment to the King and his Privy-Council, as by long experience, better able to judge of and by Secressies and Expedition, better able to transact some State Affairs, than all the Lords and Commons together.

At prefent the King and his Privy-Council take Cognizance of few or no Matters, that may well be determined by the known Laws, and ordinary Courts of Justice; but only confult for the publick Good, Honour, Defence, Safety, and Benefit of the Realm, not medling with Matters that concern Free-holds, but Matters of Complaint, and fudden Emergencies.

The Lords of the Privy Council are, as it were a part of the King, incorporate with him and his Cares, bearing upon their Shoulders that great weight, that otherwife would lie wholly upon his Majefty; wherefore of fuch high Value and Effeem they have always been, that if a Man did but firike in the Houfe of a Privy-Councellor, or elfewhere in his prefence, he was grievoufly fined for the fame; and to confpire the Death of any of them, was made Felony, in any of the King's Servants, within the Cheque Roll, and to kill one of them was High-Treafon.

A Privy Counfellor, though but a Gentleman, fhall have Precedence of all Knights, Baronets, and younger Sons of all Barons and Vifcounts.

The Substance of their Oath is, That they shall according to their Power and Difcretion, truly, justly, and evenly counsel and advise the King, in all Matters to be treated in his Majesty's Council; That they shall keep secret the King's Council, &c.

By force of this Oath, and the Cuftom of the Kingdom of England, a Privy Councellor is made without any Patent or Grant, and to continue only during the Life of the King that makes him, nor fo long unlefs the King pleafeth.

To his Privy-Counfellors, the King of England may declare or conceal from them, whatfoever he alone judgeth fit and expedient, quâ in re (faith that excellent Sir Thomas Smith) absolutissimum est hoc Regnum Angliæ præ Venetorum Ducatu, aut Lacedæmoniorum Principatu.

The King, with the Advice of his Privy-Council, doth publish Proclamations binding to the Subject, provided that they are not contrary to Statute, or Common-Law, but in Execution of them.

The Members of this most Honourable Council, are such, as the King of his own free Will, and meer Motion, shall please to chuse, and are commonly Men of the highest Rank, Eminent for Estates, Wisdom, Courage, Integrity, &c. And because there are few Cases of Moment fo Temporal, but that they may some way relate to Spiritual Affairs, therefore according to the general Rules of Policy and Government, which God himself ordained amongst his chofen People the Jews, the Privy-Council, (as well as the great Council of Parliament) is composed of Spiritual as well as Temporal Persons, and some of the principal Bissops of England, have in all times been chosen by his Majesty, to be of his Privy-Council.

Part II.

They

They are all to wait on his Majesty, and at Council-Board to fit in their Order bare-headed, when his Majesty presides.

At all Debates, the lowest delivers his Opinion first, that fo he may be the more free, and the King last of all declares his Judgment, and thereby determines the matter of Debate.

A Council is feldom or never held without the Prefence of one of the Secretaries of State; of whole Office and Dignity, much more confiderable in England than in other Nations, take here this brief Account.

Secretaries of State.] The King of England had anciently but one Secretary of State, until about the end of Henry the Eighths Reign, it was thought fit, that weighty and important Office fhould be difcharged by Two Perfons. both of equal Authority; and both flied Principal Secretaries of State. In those days and some while after, they fate not at Council-Board, but having prepared their Business in a Room adjoyning to the Council-Chamber, they came in, and flood on either hand of the King; and nothing was debated at the Table, until the Secretaries had gone through with their Propofals. But Queen Elizabeth feldom coming to Council, that Method was altered, and the Two Secretaries took their places as Privy-Councellors, which Dignity they have retained and enjoyed ever fince; and a Council is feldom or never held without the prefence of one of them at the leaft.

Their Employment being of extraordinary Truft and Multiplicity, renders them moft confiderable in the Eyes of the King, upon whom they attend every Day, as Occafion requires; and of the Subject alfo, whofe Requests and Defires are for the moft part lodged in their Hands, to be represented to the King, and always to make Dispatches thereupon, according to his Majesties Answers and Directions.

As for Foreign Affairs, the Secretaries divide all the Kingdoms and Nations, which have intercourfe of Bufinefs with the King of England, into Two grand Provinces; whereof each Secretary taketh one to himfelf, receiving all Letters and Addreffes from, and making all Difpatches to the feveral Princes and States comprehended within his own Province.

But

But in all Matters of Home-concern, (excepting Ireland and the Plantations, which are deem'd to belong to the Elder Secretary, who has the Southern Province) whether they relate to the publick, or to particular Perfons, both the Secretaries do equally and indiffinctly receive and difpatch whatfoever is brought to them, be it for the Church, the Militia, or private Grants, Pardons, Difpenfations, \dot{O}^{c} .

They have this fpecial Honour, that if either of them be a Baron, he taketh place, and hath the Precedence of all other Perfons of the fame Degree, though otherwife by their Creation fome of them might have Right to precede him; and a Knight in like manner, if he hath no other Qualification; but if above the Degree of a Baron, then he takes place only according to the Seniority of his Creation.

They have their feveral Lodgings appointed them in all the King's Houses, as well for their own Accommodation, as for their Office, and those that attend upon it. They have also a very liberal Diet at the King's Charge, or Boardwages in lieu of it.

And to shew how confiderable their Place is, their fetled Allowance from the King, in Salary and Pension, is little less than Two thousand pounds Sterling per Annum to each of them.

The Secretaries and Clerks, whom they employ under them, are wholly at their own choice, and have no dependance upon any other Power or Perfons befides themfelves.

The Secretaries of State have the Cuflody of that Seal of the King, which is properly called the Signet; the Ufe and Application whereof, gives Denomination to an Office, conftantly attending the Court, called the Signet-Office, wherein there are Four Clerks, who wait alternately by Months, and prepare fuch things as are to pass the Signet, in order to the Privy-Seal, or Great-Seal.

These have no Fee from the King, but only Diet, which at Pension is 2001. yearly; their Office is in White-Hall: they wait by Month, each of them three Months in a Year. One of them always attends the Court wherefoever it removes, and by Warrant from the King, or Secretaries of State, or Lords of the Council prepare such Bills or Letters for the King to sign, as not being Matter of Law, are by any any Warrants directed to them to prepare. In their Office all Grants, either prepared by the King's Learned Council at Law, or by themselves, for the King's Hand, when figned, are returned, and there transcribed again, and that Tranfcription is carried to one of the principal Secretaries of State, and fealed, and then it is called a Signet, which is directed to the Lord Privy-Seal, and is his Warrant for iffuing out a Privy-Seal upon it, (yet Privy-Seals for Money do now always begin in the Treasury, from whence the first Warrant iffues counter-fign'd by the Lord Treafurer : But when the Nature of the Grant requires the paffing the Great-Seal; then the Privy-Seal is an Authority to the Lord Chancellor to pais the Great-Seal, as the Signet was to the Lord Privy-Seal, to affix that Seal to the Grant : But in all Three Offices, &c. Signet, Privy-Seal, and Great-Seal, the Grant is transcribed. So all which paffes from the King, hath these feveral ways of being confidered before perfected.

There are also Four Clerks of the Privy- "Vid. Their Names Seal. " in the Lift.

More of their Office is to be feen in Stat. 27. of Hen. 8. worthy to be noted.

To this Office in time when the Court of Requests is in being, belongs the Sealing of all Commissions and other Processes out of that Court.

The Two prefent Secretaries of State are the Right Honourable Daniel Earl of Nottingham, and the Right Honourable Sir Charles Hedges.

Moreover, depending on the Secretaries of State, is an ancient Office called the Paper-Office, the Keeper whereof hath in his Charge all the publick Papers, Writings, Matters of State, and Council; all Letters, Intelligences, Negotiations of the Queen's publick Ministers abroad, and generally all the Papers and Difpatches that pais through the Offices of the Two Secretaries of State, which are from time to time transmitted into this Office, and here remain, disposed by way of a Library, within her Majesty's Palace of White-Hall. This confiderable Officer hath a Fee of 160 lo per Annum, payable out of the Exchequer, and being by the late King left to the Disposal of the then Secretaries of State. it was, after the death of the Right Honourable Sir Jofeph Williamson, given to John Chamberlayne Efg; but her Prefent Majesty has been fince pleas'd to grant it by Patent to John Tusker Efg;. 1 2 CHAP. King cannot do, his Power cannot be confined for Caufes or Perfons within any Bounds. He can, with the Concurrence of his Lords and Commons, abrogate Old Laws, make New, change Right and Possession of private Men, alter Weights and Measures, raise Taxes, give Indemnity or Pardon in general, reftore Condemned Perfons and Families in Blood and Name, legitimate one that is born illegitimate, baftardife one that is born by Common Law legitimate ; (that is to fay, one begotten in Adultery, the Husband being then within the Four Seas.) He can make an Infant of full Age, make an Alien or Foreigner an English-Man, can attaint a Man of Treason when he is dead. when he is no more a Man, Gc. In a word, a Parliament's Authority is most Absolute; a Parliament can do all that Senatus populujque Romanus could do, centuriatis Comitiis seu Tributis; it reprefents the whole Kingdom; fo that the Confent of the Parliament is prefumed to be the Confent of every Man in England.

A Parliament is fummoned in manner following : About Forty Days before the Parliament doth Affemble, the King iffues out his Writ, cum Advisamento Concilii Sui; and the Warrant is, Per ipfum Regem & Confilium.

The King's Writ (which is a fhort Letter or Epiftle) is directed and fent to every particular Perfon of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, commanding the Lords Spiritual in Fide & Dilectione, and the Lords Temporal, per Fidem & Allegiantiam, to appear at a certain time and place, to Treat. and give their Advice in some certain important Affairs concerning the Church and State, Gr.

Other Writs are fent to the Sheriff of each County, to fummon the People to elect two Knights for each County, Two Citizens for each City, and One or Two Burgeffes for each Burrough, according to Statute, Charter, or Cuftom.

In these Elections anciently all the People had their Votes, and most Votes carried it; but for avoiding of Tumults and Trouble, it was enacted by Hen. VI. That none fhould have any Suffrage in the Election of Knights of the Shire, but fuch as were Free-holders, did refide in the County, and had yearly Revenue 40 s. (which, till the Difcovery of the Gold and Silver in America, was as much as 30 or 40 k now) whence it came to pais, that the Lay-Commons were then elected as the Clergy-Commons, the Procuratores Cleri were, and ever have been, viz. fine Prece, fine Pretio, fine Poculo, &cc.

Yet there was then, as now, this Defect or Abfurdity, That whereas all English-men, who have confiderable Effates, ought not to be taxed without their own Confent in Parliament, by themfelves, or by their Representatives, yet Copy-holders in England, whereof there are some who have a Thousand Pounds a Year, have no Voice in the Elections of Knights of the Shire.

The Perfons elected for each County, are to be Milites Notabiles, or at least Elquires, or Gentlemen fit to be made Knights, as it is in the Statute of Hen. VI. They ought to be de discretioribus Militibus, & ad laborandum potentioribus, as the Words in some Writs have been : They ought not to be of younger Years; for then it would be Juvenatus (if the Word may be allowed) rather than Senatus, not lazy Epicures, but Men of Years, vigorous, active and abstemious; Men that will be content to give their conftant Attendance in Parliament, or elfe to enjoy neither Privileges nor Wages, allowed to every Member of the Commons-House. They ought to be Native Englishmen, or at least, fuch as have been Naturalized by Act of Parliament; no Alien or Denizen, none of the Twelve Judges, no Sheriff of a County, no Ecclefiaftical Perfon, may be chofen a Parliament-man, to ferve for any County, City, or Burrough.

Two things are faid to be requifite to the Legality of fitting in Parliament : First, That a Man should be of full Age ; that is, Twenty-one Years old at least ; for if no Man under that Age can dispose of his own Estate, nor can make one legal Act to that purpose, then much less may he bear any part in the Supreme Power of the Nation, to Judge, Vote, or dispose of the Estate of the whole Realm. Secondly, That he should receive the Sacrament according to the Rites of the Church of England.

All Members of Parliament, both Lords and Commons, that they may attend the publick Service of their Country, are priviledg'd, with their Menial Servants attending on their Perions, together with all their neceffary Goods brought along with them, from all Attachments and Imprifonments for Debts, Trefpaffes, Account or Covenant, all the time that they are on the way to the place of Parliament, all the time of the Seffion, and all the time they are on their way home again, Eundo, Morando, ad propria Redeundo (for fo were the old Words;) but they are not priviledg'd from Arrefts Atrefts for Treason, Felony, or Breach of the Peace. Note, that the Privileges of Members of Parliament having been much abus'd fince the Restoration of the Royal Family, are wifely restrain'd by an A& of Parliament made about the end of the late King's Reign.

The Place of meeting for this High and Honourable Affembly, is in whatfoever City, Town or Houfe the King pleafeth; but of later times it hath ufually been held at the King's ancient Palace, and ufual Refidence at Weftminfter; all the Lords in a fair Room by themfelves, and the Commons not far from them in another fair Room, which was heretofore the ancient Free Chappel of St. Stephen.

The manner of sitting in the Lord's House is thus.

The King, as oft as he comes (which hath ufually been only at the opening of Parliaments, or at the paffing of Bills, or at fome folemn Debates, as fome Kings have frequently done) is placed at the upper End of the Room, in a Chair of State, having a Cloth of State over his Head, under which, on either Hand, are none but the King's Children.

On the King's Right Hand is a Seat, anciently for the King of Scotland, when he was fummoned to Parliament, as he fometimes was, in Fide & Legiantia; but now it is for the Prince of Wales. On the King's Left Hand is a Seat for the Duke of York.

On the King's Right Hand, and next the Wall, are placed on a Form, first the King's Vicar-General in all Caufes Ecclesiaftick, in case his Majesty shall (as Henry the Eighth did) create any such; and then next to him on the same Form, the Two Archbishops; below these on another Form, the Bishops of London, Durham and Winchester; then upon other Forms on the same side, all the rest of the Bishops sit, according to the priority of their Confectation.

On the King's Left Hand, upon Forms are placed the Lord Chancellor, Treasurer, President of the King's Council, and Lord Privy-Seal; if they are Barons, above all Dukes, except those of the Royal Family.

On the fame fide fit the Dukes, Marquisser and Earls, according to their Creations.

Upon

Upon the first Form a-cross the House, below the Wool-Sacks, fit the Viscounts, and upon the next Form the Barons all in order.

The Great Chamberlain, the Constable, the Marsbal, the Lord Admiral, the Great Master, or Lord Steward, the King's Chamberlain, shall sit above all other of the same degree of Nobility with themselves, by an Act of Parliament in Rot. Parl. 3 Hen. 8. N. 10. and the chief Secretary being a Baron, shall sit above all Barons, who have none of the aforementioned Offices; and if he be a Bishop, above all other Bishops not having any of the said Offices.

The reft of the Peers to fit according to the order of their Creation.

The Lords Chancellor, Treasurer, President, Privy-Seal, and Secretary of State, being under the degree of Baron, were wont to sit at the uppermost part of the Wool-Sacks in the midst of the Parliament Chamber; but now no Privy Councellors nor Secretaries of State may sit in that House, unless they are Peers.

Of late the Lord Chancellor, or Keeper, (if the King be prefent) ftands behind the Cloth of Eftate, otherwife fits on the firft Wool-Sack, thwart the Chair of State, his Great Seal and Mace by him : He is Lord Speaker of the Lord's Houfe. Upon other Wool-Sacks fit the Judges, the King's Council at Law, and the Masters of Chancery. These being not Barons, have no Suffrage in Parliament, only fit to give their Advice when it is required. The reason why these Sages are placed upon Wool-Sacks may probably be, to mind them of the great Importance of Wool and Sheep to this Nation, that is never to be neglected.

Heretofore, on the lowermost Wool-Sack, were placed the Clerk of the Crown, and Clerk of the Parliament; whereof the former is concerned in all Writs of Parliament, and Pardons in Parliament; the other records all things done in Parliament, and keepeth the Records of the fame. This Clerk hath alfo Two Clerks under him, who used to kneel behind the fame Wool-Sack, and write thereon; but now they fit on a Form behind a Table. Without the Bar of the Lords House fits the King's first Gentleman-User, called the Black-Rod, from a Black Staff he carries in his Hand; under whom is a Teoman-User, that waits at the Door within, a Cryer without, and a Sergeant at Mace always attending the Lord Chancellor.

Part II.

When

When the King is prefent with the Crown on his Head, none of the Lords are covered.

The Judges stand till the King gives them leave to fit.

When the King is absent, the Lords at their Entrance do Reverence to the Chair of State, as is, or should be done by all that enter into the King's Prejence-Chamber.

The Judges then may fit, but may not be cover'd, till the Chancellor or Keeper fignifie to them the Leave of the Lords.

The King's Council, and Masters of Chancery fit alfo, but may not be cover'd at all.

The Commons in the Houfe fit promifcuoufly, only the Speaker hath a Chair placed in the middle, and the Clerk of that House near him at the Table. They never had any Robes (as the Lords ever had) but wear every one what he fansieth most, which to Strangers seems very unbecoming the Gravity and Authority of the Great Council of England : And during the Attendance on Parliament, a Robe or grave Vestment would as well become the Honourable Members of the House of Commons, as it doth all the Noble Venetians, both Young and Old, who have a Right to fit in the Great Council at Venice, and as it doth the Senators of Rome at this Day, Orc.

The time of fitting in Parliament, is on any Day in the Morning, or before Dinner, only it hath anciently been observed, not to affemble upon some high Festival Days, nor upon Sundays, but upon the most urgent Occafions.

When the Day prefixt by the King in his Writs of Summons is come, the King ufually cometh in Perfon, with his Crown on his Head, and cloathed with his Royal Robes, declares the Caufe of the Summons in a fhort Speech, leaving the reft to the Lord Chancellor, (but this has been difcontinued fince the Revolution, the late King not only Speaking, but Composing also his Speeches to the Parliament) who then flands behind his Majefty ; the Commons in the mean time standing bare at the Bar of the Lords House, are afterwards in the King's Name commanded to chuse them a Speaker (which without the King's Command they may not do) whereupon, they returning to their own House, make choice of one of their own Members, whom afterwards, upon another Day, they prefent to the King; and being approv'd of by his Majefty fitting 120. 1923 . - 4 a. 1 111 in his Chair, all his Lords both Spiritual and Temporal being in their Robes of Scarlet, he makes a modeft Refufal; which not allowed, he petitioneth his Majefty, That the Commons may have during their Sitting, Firft, a free Accefs to his Majefty; Secondly, Freedom of Speech in their own House; Thirdly, Freedom from Arrefts. They ufed likewife to pray, That they might have folely the privilege of Punishing their own Members or other Offenders against their House and Privileges.

Before any Affair be medled with, all the Members of the Houle of Commons take the Oath of Allegiance and Supremacy in the prefence of an Officer appointed by the King ; but fince the late Revolution, they take the New Oaths appointed by an Act of Parliament, I Will. & Mary; and of late, they are all, after the Choice of a Speaker, to declare their Opinions against the Doctrine of Iran fubstantiation, Invocation and Adoration of Saints, and the Sacrifice of the Mass, which Teft the Lords also are now obliged to take in their House before they can fit and debate upon any Affair. Note alfo that all the Members are obliged, befides the other Oaths and Tefts, to Abjure the Pretended Prince of Wales, before they can be admitted to fit in either House of Parliament; the Form of which Oath at length may be seen in the A& of Parliament; whereof this is a singular and remarkable Circumstance, that it was the last Bill the late King Sign'd, and that it was past not above twelve hours before his Death.

By the old Manufcript, called Modus tenendi Parliamentum, it doth appear, That the House of Commons did anciently (as the House of Lords at this Day) confist, 1. ex procuratoribus Cleri; 2. Militibus Comitatuum; 3. Civibus & Burgensibus : To wit, of Clergy-men as well as Lay-men ; there fate the Procuratores Cleri, Two for each Diocefe representing all the Clergy-Commons of the Diocefe, as the Knights of the Shire do all the Lay-Commons of the Shire : For it was then judged expedient, that every Free-man of England, as well Clergy as Laity, should in passing of Laws touching Property, whereunto they were to be fubject, give their Confent perfonally, or immediately by themfelves, or elfe by fome that by their Election, fhould immediately undertake for them; and the Words of the Writ for fummoning the Procuratores Cleri, as aforefaid, feem to warrant the fame at this day. Belides, tories; they fwear and examine Witness, and at length pass Sentence, whilst the Members of the Commons House stand bare at the Bar of the Lords House, (which yet the Commons of late have refus'd to do) produce Witness, manage Evidences, &c.

Note, That although every Member of the Commons House be chosen to serve for one particular County, City, or Burrough, yet he serves for the whole Kingdom, and his Voice is equal to any other, his Power absolute to consent or diffent without ever acquainting those that sent him, or demanding their Affent, as the States-General of the United Netherlands are obliged to do in many Cases.

Yet are they to make it their special Care to promote the good of that County, City, or Burrough, for which they serve, and from which heretofore they usually did receive Instructions and Directions concerning their Grievances, Wants, &c.

Although the Lords of Parliament are to bear their own Charges, becaufe they reprefent there only themfelves ; yet all the Commons, both Lay and Clergy, that is, Procuratores Cleri, are to have rationabiles Expensas, (as the Words of the Writ are) that is, fuch Allowance as the King conlidering the prices of all things, shall judge meet to impose upon the People to pay; in the 17th of Ed. II. it was Ten Groats for Knights, and five Groats for Burgeffes ; but not long after it was Four Shillings a day for Dubbed Knights, and Two Shillings for all other; which in those days, as appears by the prices of all things, was a confiderable Sum, above Ten times more than it is now; for not only their Expences were confidered, though that was great, by reafon of the fuitable Attendance that then every Parliament-Man had, but alfo their Pains, their lofs of time, and neceffary neglect of their own private Affairs for the Service of their Country ; and when the Counties, Cities and Burroughs paid fo dear for their Expences, they were wont to take care to chufe fuch Men as were best able, and most diligent in the speedy dispatch of Affairs; by which means, with fome others, more Business in those times, was difpatch'd in Parliament in a Week, than is now perhaps in Ten: So that the Protections for Parliament-Men. and their Servants from Arrefts, were not then grievous, when fcarce any Parliament or Seffions lafted fo long as One of the Four Terms now at Westminster: The 14.16 1 10 1 verences, delivereth it to the Lord Chancellor, who, for that purpose comes down to the Bar.

A Bill fent by the Lords to the Commons, is usually fent by fome of the Masters of Chansery, or other Perfon whole place is on the Wool-Sacks (and by none of the Members of the House) and they coming up to the Speaker, and bowing Thrice, deliver to him the Bill, after one of them hath read the Title, and defired it might be there taken into Consideration; if afterwards it pass the House, then it is written on the Bill, Les Commanes ont assentes. In Messages of great Importance, the Lords make use of one or two of the Chief Judges to go to the House of Commons.

When any one in the Commons House will fpeak to a Bill, he ftands up uncovered, and directs his Speech only to the Speaker; then if what he delivers be confuted by another, yet he is not allowed to answer again the fame day, left the whole time should be spent by two talkative Perfons. Also if a Bill be debated in the House, no Man may speak to it in one day above once, unless the whole House be turned into a Committee, and then every Member may reply as oft as he judges it expedient.

If any one in either House speaks Words of Offence to the King's Majesty, or to the House, he is called to the Bar, where commonly on his Knees he receives a Reprimand from the Speaker, and asking Pardon of the House he returns to his place, but if the Offence be very great, he is sent to the Tower.

The Speaker is not allowed to perfwade or diffwade in paffing of a Bill, but only to make a fhort and plain Narrative; nor Vote, except the Houfe be equally divided.

After Dinner the Parliament ordinarily affembles not, tho' many times they continue fitting long in the Afternoon, and fometimes after Candle-light.

Committees fit after Dinner, where it is allowed to fpeak and reply as often as they pleafe.

In the Lords Houle they give their Suffrages, or Votes, beginning at the Pui/ne, or loweft Baron, and fo the reft feriatim, every one answering apart, [Content, or Not Content.] And if the Affirmatives and Negatives are equal, Semper presumitur pro Negante, the Speaker being not allowed a caffing Voice, unlefs he be a Peer of the Realm.

In the House of Commons, they Vote by Yea's and No's altogether; together ; and if it be doubtful, whether is the greater Number, then the Houfe divides, and the Tea's are to go forth, and the No's are to fit still (because these are content with their prefent condition, without any fuch addition or alteration of Laws, as the other defire) and fome are appointed to number them : But at a Committee, though it be of the whole House, as is oftentimes, the Yea's go on one fide, and the No's on the other, whereby they may be difcerned.

If a Bill pass in one House, and being sent to the other House, they demurr upon it, then a Conference is demanded in the Painted Chamber, where certain deputed Members of each Houfe meer, the Lords fitting covered at a Table. the Commons flanding bare with great Refpect, where the Butinefs is debated; if they then agree not, that Bufinefs is nulled ; but if they agree, then it is at last brought (with all other Bills which have paffed in both Houfes) to the King, who comes again with his Crown on his Head. and clothed with his Royal Robes, and being feated in his Chair of State, and all the Lords in their Robes, the Clerk of the Crown reads the Title of each Bill, and as he reads, the Clerk of the Parliament, according to his Instructions from the King, who before hath maturely confidered each Bill, pronounceth the Royal Affent. If it be a publick Bill, the Anfwer is, Le Roy le weut) which gives Life and Birth to that Bill that was before but an Embrio. If a private Bill, the Answer is, (Soit fait comme il eft desire.

If it be a Bill, which the King likes not, then the Anfwer is, Le Roy s'avisera) which is taken for an absolute denial in a more civil way, and that Bill is wholly nulled.

Note, That the King without his Perfonal Presence, can, by Commission granted to some of his Nobles, give his Royal Assent to any Bill that requires hafte.

If it be a Bill for Moneys given to his Majesty, then the Anfwer is, Le Roy remercie ses loyaux Sujets, accepte leur Benevolence, or auffi le vent.)

The Bill for the King's General Pardon, hath but one Reading in either House, for this Reason, because they must take it, as the King will pleafe to give it, When the Bill for the General Pardon is paffed by the King, the Anfwer is thus, (Les Prelats Seigneurs & Communes en ce Parlement allemblez assemblez au nom de tous vos autres Sujets remercient tres humblement votre Majeste & prient Dieu vous donner en sante bonne. vie & longe.

All Acts of Parliament before the Reign of Henry the Seventh, were passed and enrolled in Latin, English, and French, now in English only.

Most of our ancient Acts of Parliament run in this Stile, The King at the humble Request of the Commons, with the Assent of the Prelates, Dukes, Earls and Barons, hath ordained, or Enaeted. After, it was thus; the King by the Advice and Asfent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and with the Assent of the Commons, doth Enast. Of later times it hath been thus: Be it Enasted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by, and with the Advice and Consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and of the Commons: Although the Words of the Writ for summoning the Commons, is only ad Consentiendum, and not ad Concilium impendendum, as it is in the Writ of the Lords; and it is evident that the Commons, in the late Long Parliament, made an Advantage of that for justifying their Usurpations against King Charles the Martyr.

When those things, for which the Parliament was fummoned, have been fufficiently treated and brought to a conclusion, then the King doth usually Adjourn, Prorogue, or Diffolve the Parliament in manner following.

The Adjournments are usually made in the Lords House by the Lord Chancellor in the King's Name, to what other day the King pleaseth, and also to what other place, if he think fit to remove them, as sometimes hath been done, and then all things already debated and read, in one or both Houses, continue to the next meeting in the same state they were in before the Adjournment, and so may be refumed. Note, That this is to be understood only of such Adjournments as are in order to a Recess for some time; for in all other cases' tis the undoubted Privilege of each House to Adjourn themselves, &c.

In the like manner the Parliament is Prorogued; but by a Prorogation there is a Seffion ended, and then the Bills that were almost ready in both Houses for the Royal Affent, not having it, must at the re-affembling of the Parliament begin a new.

The Speaker of the House of Commons, upon Notice given, That it is the King's Pleasure that House shall also Adjourn, doth fay, with the Assent of the House, This House is Adjuorned. When

CHAP. XIV.

Of Particular Governments, and first of the Ecclefiastical, Civil and Military Government of the King's Houshold.

FOR the Ecclefiaffical Government of the King's Court, there is first a Dean of the Chappel-Royal, who is usually fome grave, learned Prelate, chosen by the King, and who, as Dean, acknowledgeth no Superior but the King; for as the King's Palace is exempt from all inferiour Temporal Junifdiction, fo is his Chappel from all Spiritual; it is called Gapella Dominica, the Domain Chappel; is not within the Junifdiction or Diocefe of any Bishop, but as a Regal Peculiar exempt and referved to the Visitation and immediate Government of the King, who is Supreme Ordinary as it were, over all England.

By the Dean are chosen all other Officers of the Chappel, wiz. a Sub-Dean, or Præcentor Capellæ; Thirty two Gentlemen of the Chappel, whereof Twelve are Priests, and one of them is Confessor to the King's Houshold, whose Office is to read Prayers every Morning to the Family, to visit the Sick, to examine and prepare Communicants, to inform such as defire advice in any case of Confcience, or point of Religion, &c.

The other Twenty Gentlemen, commonly called the Clerks of the Chappel, are with the aforefaid Priefts to perform in the Chappel the Office of Divine Service, in Praying, Singing, & One of thefe being well skilled in Mufick, is chofen Mafter of the Children, whereof there are Twelve in Ordinary, to inftruct them in the Rules and Art of Mufick, for the Service of the Chappel. Three other of the faid Clerks are chofen to be Organist, to whom are joyn'd upon Sundays, Collar-days, and other Holy-days, a Confort of the King's Mufick, to make the Chappel Mufick more full and compleat.

There

There are moreover Four Officers, called Virgers, from the Silver Rods carried in their Hands, being a Sergeant, Two Yeomen, and a Groom of the Chappel.

In the King's Chappel thrice every day Prayers are read, and Gods Service and Worfhip performed with great Decency, Order and Devotion, and fhould be a Pattern to all other Churches and Chappels of England.

The King hath alfo his private Oratory, where fome of his Chaplains in Ordinary are to read Divine Service to the King on working Days every Morning and every E-Evening.

The Lord High Almoner is he who difpofeth of the King's Alms, and for that use receives (besides other Moneys, allowed by the King.) all Deodands, & bona Felonum de se to be that way disposed.

Moreover, the Lord Almoner hath the Privilege to give the King's Difh to whatfoever poor Man he pleafes, that is, the first Dith at Dinner, which is fet upon the King's Table, or instead thereof 4 d. per dism, (which anciently was equivalent to 4 s. now) next he distributes to Twenty four poor Men, nominated by the Parishioners of the Parish adjacent to the King's Place of Refidence, to each of them 4 d. in Money, a Two-penny Loaf and a Gallon of Beer, or inftead thereof, 3 d. in Money, equally to be divided among them every Morning at Seven of the Clock at the Court Gate; and every poor Man before he receives the Alms, is to repeat the Creed and the Lords Prayer in the prefence of one of the King's Chaplains, deputed by the Lord Almoner to be his Sub-Almoner, who alfo is to fcatter new coin'd Two-pences in the Towns and Places where the King paffeth through in his Progrefs, to a certain Sum by the Year. Belides, there are many poor Penfioners to the King and Queen below Stairs ; that is, fuch as are put to Penfion, either because they are so Old, that they are unfit for Service, or elle the Widows of fuch of his Majefty's Houfhold Servants that died poor, and were not able to provide for their Wives and Children in their Lifetimes : Every one of these hath a Competency duly paid unto them.

The prefent Lord Almoner is the Most Reverend Father in God, John Lord Archbishop of York.

to read Divine Service before the King, out of Chappel daily (as aforementioned) twice in the King's private Oratory, to give Thanks at the Table in the Clerk of the Clofet's abfence, &c.

In the time of Lent, according to ancient laudable Cuftom, the Divine Service and Preaching is performed in a more folemn manner.

Lent-Sermons.] Anciently at Court there were Sermons in Lent only, and that in the Afternoon, in the open Air, and then only by Bifhops, Deans, and principal Frebendaries. The Lent Preachers are appointed by the Archbifhop of Canterbury, and the Lord Chamberlain: On the first Wednesday, called Astronomy, in the Morning, begins the Dean of the Chappel to preach, on each Wednesday after, one of his Majesty's more eloquent Chaplains, every Friday the Dean of fome Cathedral or Collegiate Church: On the last Friday, called Good Friday, is always to preach the Dean of Wessminster; on every Sunday in Lent fome Bishop preacheth; and on the last Sunday of Lent, called Palm-Sunday, is to preach an Archbischop, and upon Easterday, the Lord High-Almoner.

Collar-Daps.] Twelve Days in the Year, being high and principal Feftivals, his Majefty after Divine Service, attended with his principal Nobility, adorned with their Collars of the Garter, together with the Heralds, in their rich Coats, in a grave folemn manner at the Altar, offers a Sum of Gold to God, in fignum Specialis Dominii, that by his Grace he is King, and holdeth all of him.

All Offerings made at the Holy Altar by the King and Queen, did anciently belong to the Difpofal of the Archbifhop of Canterbury, if his Grace were prefent, wherefoever the Court was; but now to the Dean of the Chappel, to be diffributed amongst the Poor.

Those twelve Days are, Christmas, Easter, Witfunday, and All-Saints, called Housbold-days, upon which the Byzant or Gold to be offer'd, is deliver'd to the King by the Lord Stemard, or fome other of the principal Officers: Then Newyears-day, Twelfth-day, upon the latter of which, Gold, Frankincense, and Myrrh, in several Purses, are offer'd by the King. Lastly, Candlemas, Annunciation, Ascension, Trinity-Sunday, St John Baptist, and Michaelmas-day; when only Gold is offer'd. Upon Christmas, Easter, and Whitsunday, his Majesty usually receives the Holy Sacrament, none but but two or three of the principal Bishops, and some of the Royal Family communicating with him; but with the present Queen (who with great Piety and Exemplary Devotion, receives the Sacrament once a Month) any of the Houshold are allow'd to communicate.

The Gold offer'd by the King at the Altar when he receives the Sacrament, and upon high Feftivals, is ftill called the Byzantine, which anciently was a piece of Gold, coin'd by the Emperors of Conftantinople, and call'd Byzantium. That which was used by King James the First, was a piece of Gold, having on the one fide the Pourtrai& of the King kneeling before an Altar, with Four Crowns before him, and with this Motto circumfcrib'd, Quid retribuam Domino pro omnibus que tribuit mibi? and on the other fide was a Lamb lying by a Lyon, with this Motto, Cor contritum & humiliatum non despiciet Deus.

Of the Civil Government of the King's Court.

[Lozo Steward of the King's Pouchold.]

FOR the Civil Government of the King's Court, the chief Officer is Lord Steward, called alfo in the time of Henry the Eighth, The Great Master of the King's Houshold, after the French Mode; but primo Maria, and ever fince call'd, The Lord Steward of the King's Houshold.

The State of the King's House is committed to him, to be ruled and guided by his Discretion, and all his Commands in Court to be obey'd and observ'd. And as his Power is great, so is his Dignity, State and Honour. The Steward and Treasurer within the King's House, faith an old Manusseries, represent the State of an Earl.

He hath Authority over all Officers and Servants of the King's Houfe, except those of his Majesty's Chappel, Chamber, and Stable, Gr.

He, by his Office, without any Commission, judgeth of all Enormities, as Treasons, Murthers, Felonies, Blood/heds, committed in the Court, or within the Verge, which is every way within twelve Miles of the chief Tunnel of the Court, (only London by Charter is exempted) for the Law having an M 4 high Efteem of the Dignity of the King's fetled Manfion-House, laid out fuch a Plot of Ground about his House (as a Haut pas or Foot Carpet, ipread about the King's Chair of State, that ought to be more clear'd and void than other places) to be subject to a special exempted Jurisdiction depending on the King's Perfon, and great Officers, that fo where the King comes, there should come with him Peace and Order, and an Awfulnefs and Reverence in Mens Hearrs ; besides, it would have been a kind of Eclipsing of the King's Honour, that where the King was, any Justice fhould be fought, but immediately from the King's own Officers ; and therefore from very ancient times, the Jurifdiction of the Virge hath been executed by the Lord Steward, with great Ceremony, in the nature of a Peculiar Kings-Bench, and that not only within, but without the King's Dominions : For fo it is recorded, that one Engelram of Negent in France, for stealing Silver Dishes out of the House of Edward the First, King of England, then at Paris, (after the Matter had been debated in the Council of the King of France, touching the Jurifdiction ; and order'd, That the King of England should enjoy this Kingly Prerogative of his Houshold) was condemned by Sir Robert Fitz-John, then Steward to the King of England, and hang'd in St. Germans-Fields, Vid. p. 85.

Note, That to the Lord Steward belongs at the beginning of Parliaments to attend the King's Perlon, and to minister the Oaths of Allegiance and Supremacy to all the feveral Members of the House of Commons, and at the end of Parliaments to adjust the Parliamentary Expences, &c.

The Lord Steward is a White-Staff-Officer, for he in the King's Prefence carrieth a White Staff; and at other times going abroad, it is carried by a Footman bare-headed. This White-Staff is taken for a Commission: At the Death of the King, over the Hearle made for the King's Body, he breaketh this Staff, and thereby dischargeth all the Officers. The prefent Lord Steward, is William Duke of Dewonshire.

Lozo Chamberlain.] The next Officer is the Lord Chamberlain, who hath the overfight of all Officers belonging to the King's Chamber, except the Precinct of the King's Bed-Chamber, which is wholly under the Groom of the Stole ; and all above Stairs, who are all fworn by him (or his Warfant to the Gentlemen-Ujbers) to the King. He hath alfo the OverOverlight of the Officers of the Ward-robe, at all his Majefty's Houles, and of the removing Ward-robes, or of Beds, of the Tents, Revels, Musick, Comedians, Hunting, and of the Mef-Jengers, of the Trumpeters, Drummers, of all Handicrafts and Artefans retained in the King's Service.

Moreover, he hath the Overfight of the Sergeants at Arms, of all Physicians, Apothecaries, Chirurgeons, Barbers, &c. To him alfo belongeth the Overfight of the Chaplains, though himfelf be a Lay-man; contrary in this particular to the ancient Cuftom of England, and modern Cuftom of all other Kingdoms, where Ecclefiafticks are never under the ordering of Lay-men.

Alfo the Charges of Coronations, Marriages, Entries, Cavalcades, Funerals, &c. Of all Furniture in the Parliament, and in the Rooms of Addrefs to the King, &c. The prefent Lord Chamberlain is Edward Earl of Jersey.

Wafter of the Dorfe.] The Third Great Officer of the King's Court, is the Master of the Horfe, anciently call'd Comes Stabuli, or Constable, to whom a higher Imployment and Power was then given.

This Great Officer hath now the ordering and disposal of all the King's Stables, and Races, or Breed of Horses, and had heretofore, of all the Posts of England. He hath also the Power of Escuries and Pages; over the Footmen, Grooms, Riders of the Great Horses, Farriers, Smiths, Coachmen, Sadlers, and all other Trades working to the King's Stables; to all whom he (or by his Warrant the Avener) giveth an Oath to be true and faithful.

He hath the Charge of all Lands and Revenues appointed for the King's Breed of Horses, and for Charge of the Stable, and for Litters, Coaches, Sumpter-Horses, &cc.

He only hath the Priviledge to make Use of any Horses, Pages, or Footmen, belonging to the King's Stables.

At any folemn Cavalcade, he rides next behind the King, and leads a leer Horfe of State.

The Accounts of the Stables for Horse-meat, Livery, Wages, and Board-Wages, are brought by the Avener, being chief Clerk of the Avery, to be pass'd and allow'd by the Board of Green-Cloth. The present Master of the Horse, is Charles Duke of Somerset.

Under these three Principal Officers of her Majesty's Houshold, are almost all the other Officers and Servants.

Firft,

170 The Present State Part II. First, under the Lord Steward, in the Compting-House, are the,

Treasurer of the Housbold. Comptroller. Cofferer. Master of the Housbold. Two Clerks of the Green-Cloth. Two Clerks Comptrollers.	Two Yeomen. The Cofferers Clerks, or Clerks of the Assignment. Two Grooms. Two Messengers.

It is called the Compting-House, because the Accompts for all Expences of the King's Houshold are there taken daily by the Lord Steward, the Treasurer, Comptroller, the Cofferer, the Master of the Houshold, the two Clerks of the Green-Cloth, and the two Clerks Comptrollers, who also there make Provision for the Houshold, according to the Law of the Land, and make Payments and Orders for the well governing of the Servants of the Houshold.

In the Compting-House is the Green-Cloth, which is a Court of Juffice continually fitting in the King's House, compofed of the Persons last mention'd; whereof the three first are usually of the King's Privy Council. To this Court being the first and most ancient Court of England, is committed the Charge and Oversight of the King's Court-Royal, for Matters of Justice and Government, with Authority for maintaining the Peace, within twelve Miles distance wherefoever the Court shall be, and within the King's House the power of correcting all the Servants therein that shall any way offend.

It is called the Green-Cloth, of a Green-Cloth where they fit, over whom are the Arms of the Compting-Houfe, bearing Vert, a Key, Or, and a Staff Argent Saultier, lignifying their Power to reward and correct, as Perfons for their great Wildom and Experience, thought fit by his Majefty, to exercife both these Functions in his Royal House.

Ereaturer of the king's Doult.] The Treasurer of the King's House in absence of the Lord Steward, hath power with the Comptroller, and other Officers of the Board of Green-Cloth, together with the Steward of the Marsballes, to hear and determine Treasons, Felonies, and other Crimes committed within the King's Palace, and that by Verdict of the King's Houshold.

1. They are to be Perfons of Birth and Parts.

2. They have formerly had a Salary ; but of late none demands it, ferving for the Honour of the Place.

3. Their number is Forty Eight, of which Twelve are to be in waiting, and reliev'd every Quarter; Two of them lying every Night in the Privy-Chamber.

4. Their Privileges are great in all Places.

They were first established by King Henry the Seventh, and fo continued fucceffively in every King and Queens Reign fince : They have always place at Publick Solemnities and Cavalcades. But in the Absence of the Lord Chamberlain and Vice-Chamberlain, the Gentlemen of the Privy-Chamber represent either of them, and do all that belongs to them, and have place in the King's Barge accordingly.

5. The Gentlemen of the Privy-Chamber execute the King's Orders without any written Orders; and their Perfons are fufficient Warrants: For Example:

In King Henry the Eighth's time, Cardinal Woolsley was arrested for High Treason by a Gentleman of the Privy-Chamber without any written Order: The Cardinal obey'd, saying, His Person was a sufficient Warrant, after the said Cardinal had refus'd to submit to the Arrest by a Great Lord, and an Order in Writing.

King James the First sent a Privy-Counsellor with a written Order, sign'd and seal'd with the King's own Seal, also a Ring from the King's Finger, commanding the Lord Chancellor to deliver the Broad-Seal of England to that Noble Lord to carry to the King.

But the King fent a Gentleman of the Privy-Chamber haftily to follow that Lord, forefeeing what would happen. This Gentleman coming to the Lord Chancellor, told him, He came from the King, to know if his Lordship had deliver'd the Broad Seal to that Lord, on fuch Orders and Tokens as above. The Lord Chancellor made Answer, No; nor could be with Safety obey; but he would carry it himself to the King: The Gentleman of the Privy Chamber then used these Words:

My Lord Chancellor, I command your Lorafbip in the King's Name, to deliver the Broad-Seal of England unto me, to carry is to the King.

The Lord Chancellor ask'd him who he was? He anfwered, A Gentleman of his Majesty's most Honourable Privy-Chamber.

In the Prefence Chamber, Gentlemen-Ujbers daily Waiters in Ordinary are four; whereof the first hath that confiderable Office of Black-Rod; and in time of Parliament is to attend every Day the Lords House, and is also Ujber of the most Noble Order of the Garter. To his Custody also are Delinquents committed by the Lords; and he is employ'd in fitting up the Lords House, before the fitting of Parliament, and afterward, for introducing Lords into that House.

There are four Gentlemen-Ufbers daily Waiters.

One Affistant.

Of the Military Government of the King's Court.

Of the Gentlemen Pensioners.

T home within the King's House it is thought fit, that The King's Person should have a Guard both above and below-Stairs.

In the Prejence-Chamber therefore wait the Honourable Band of Gentlemen Pensioners, first instituted by King Henry the Seventh, and chosen usually, in all times fince, out of the best and most ancient Families of England, not only for a faithful Guard to the King's Person, but to be as a Nurfery to breed up hopeful Gentlemen, and fit them for Employments both Civil and Military, as Captains of the Guard, and Commanders in the Wars both by Land and Sea; of all which there have been Examples, as George Lord Hunsden, Captain of the Pensioners, at the Death of Queen Elizabeth, intimated in a Letter to King James the First, before he came to England.

Their Office is to attend the King's Perfon with their Pole-Axes, to and from his Chappel-Royal, and to receive him in the Prefence-Ghamber, or coming out of his Privy-Lodgings; as alfo at all great Solemnities, as Coronations, St. Georges Feast, Publick Audiences of Ambassadors, at the King's going to Parliament, and at their Funerals.

Besides this, there is a more strict Duty and Attendance weekly on the King's Person on Foot, wheresoever he walks, from his Rising to his going to Bed; and this is perform'd by one of the Three Captains, who always waits immediately next to the King's own Person, before all others, carrying in his Hand an Ebony Staff or Truncheon, with a Gold Head, engraven with his Majesty's Cypher and Crown: Near him also attends another Principal Commission'd Officer, with an Ebony Staff, and Silver Head, who is ready to relieve the Captain on occasions, and at the fame time also Two Brigadiers, having likewise Ebony Staves, headed with Ivory, and engraven as the others.

One Division of Granadiers mounts with a Division of the Troop to which they belong; they go out on small Parties from the Guard, perform Centry-duty on Foot, and attend the King also on Foot, when he walks abroad, and always march with great Detachments.

The Pay of the Said Guards of Horse is as followeth, viz.

THE Captain's Pay of the First Troop of Guards is 1 l. 10 s per Diem.

The other Two Captains their Pay is to each 1 l. per Diem.

A Lieutenants Pay of the Guards is 15 s. per Diem.

A Cornet's Pay of the King's Troop is 14 s per Diem.

Of each of the other two Troops is 13 s. per Diem.

A Guidon's Pay is 12 s. per Diem.

A Quartermaster's Pay is 9 s. per Diem.

A Chaplain's Pay is 6 s, 8 d. per Diem.

A Chirurgeon's Pay is 6 s. and his Cheft-Horfe 2 s. in all 8 s. per Diem.

A Brigadier's or Corporal's Pay of the King's Troop, is 7 s. per Diem.

Of each of the other two Troops is 6 s. per Diem.

A Trumpeter and Kettle-Drummer, each is 5 s. per Diem. A Sub Corporal, or Sub-Brigadier's Pay is but equal to a Gentleman of the Troop, wiz. 4 s. per Diem.

The Pay of the Granadiers of Horse is as followeth.

Lieutenant's Pay is 8 s. per Diem.

A Sergeant's Pay is 4 s. per Diem.

A Corporal's Pay is 3 s. per Diem.

A Hautboy's and Drummer's Pay is 2 s. 6 d. per Diem.

A private Soldier's Pay is 2 s. 6 d. per Diem.

As to the Precedency of the respective Officers of her Majesty's Guards of Horse, by their Commissions, the Captains always command as eldest Colonels of Horse; the Lieutenants as eldest Lieutenant-Colonels of Horse; the Cornets and Guidons, as eldest Majors of Horse; the Quartermasters as youngest Captains of Horse; the Brigadiers, as eldest Lieutenants of Horse; and amongst themselves every Officer, according to the Date of his Commission when on Detachments, but not when the Three Troops march with their Colours; for then the Officer of the eldest Troop commands those of equal Rank with him in the others, tho' their Commissions be of elder Date.

Next immediately after the Three Troops of Guards, her Majefty's Regiment of Horfe, commanded by His Grace the Duke of Northumberland, takes place, and the Colonel of it is to have Precedency after the Captains of the Guards, and before all other Colonels of Horfe, whatfoever Change may be of the Colonel, and all the Officers thereof, in their proper degree, are to take place according to the Dates of their Commiflions.

As to the Foot, the Queen's own Regiment of Guards takes place of all other Regiments, and the Colonel thereof is always to precede as the first Colonel The Coldstream Regiment takes the next place, and then all other Colonels according to the Dates of their Commissions,

All other Regiments of Horfe or Foot, not of the Guards, take place according to their respective Seniorities from the time they were first raised; and no Regiment loses its Precedency by the Death or Removal of its Colonel.

Of Offences committed within the Verge of the King's Court.

THE King's Palace Royal (ratione Regia dignitatis) is exempted from all Jurifdiction of any Court, Civil or Ecclefiaftical, but only of the Lord Steward, and in his Abfence, of the Treajurer and Comptroller of the King's Houfhold, with the Steward of the Marshallea, who may, by virtue of their Office, without Commission, hear and determine all Treasons, Felonies, Breaches of the Peace, committed within the King's Court or Palace. The most excellent Orders and Rules of the Demeanour and Carriage of all Officers and Servants in the King's Court, are to be seen in several Tables hung up in several Rooms at the Court, and sign'd with the King's own Hand, and worthy to be read of all Strangers.

The King's Court, or Houfe where the King refideth, is accounted a place fo facred, that if any Man prefume to firike another within the Palace where the King's Royal Perfon refideth, and by fuch a Stroke only draw Blood, his Right Hand fhall be firicken off, and he committed to perpetual Imprifonment, and fin'd. By the ancient Laws of England, only firiking in the King's Court, was punifh'd with Death and lofs of Goods.

To make the deeper Impression and Terror in Mens Minds for striking in the King's Court, it hath been order'd, That the Punishment for striking shou'd be executed with great Solemnity and Ceremony, in brief thus:

Punishment foz ariking in the King's Court.

The Sergeant of the King's Wood-Tard brings to the place of Execution a square Block, a Beetle, Staple and Cords to fasten the Hand thereto; the Teoman of the Scullery provides a great Fire of Coals by the Block, wherein the Searing Irons, brought by the chief Farrier, are to be ready for the chief Chirurgeon to use; Vinegar and cold Water, brought by the Groom of the Saucery; the chief Officers alfo of the Cellar and Pantry are to be ready, one with a Cup

Cup of red Wine, and the other with a Manchet, to offer the Criminal. The Sergeant of the Ewry is to bring Linnen to wind about, and wrap the Arm ; the Teoman of the Poultry a Cock to lay to it; the Teoman of the Chandlery, Seared Clothes ; the Master Cook a sharp Dresser-Knife, which at the place of Execution is to be held upright by the Sergeant of the Larder, till Execution be perform'd by an Officer appointed thereunto, &c. After all, the Criminal shall be imprison'd during Life, and fin'd, and ransfom'd at the King's Will.

In the King's Court, not only ftriking is forbidden, but alfo all Occasions of striking; and therefore the Law faith, Nullas Citationes aut Summonitiones licet facere infra Palatium Regis, apud Westm. vel alibi ubi Rex residet.

Finally, The Court of England may for Government and exact Accompts, be a Pattern to all the Courts in the World.

CHAP. XV.

Of the Civil Government of England in the respective Courts of Judicature : and first of the Court of Justice, call'd the KING'S-BENCH.

FOR the Execution of Laws, after the Houfe of Lords in Parliament, the higheft Court in England at Common Law, is the Kings-Bench, (now the Queen's-Bench) fo called, becaufe anciently the King fometimes there fate in Perfon on a high Bench, and his Judges on a low Bench at his Feet, to whom the Judicature belongs in the abfence of the King.

In this Court are handl'd the Pleas of the Crown, all things that concern the Lofs of Life or Member of any Subject; for then the King is concern'd, becaufe the Life and Limbs of the Subject belong only to the King; fo that the Pleas are here between the King and the Subject. Here are handl'd all Treasons, Felonies, Breach of Peace, Oppression, Milgovernment, &c. This Court moreover hath Power to examine and correct all Errors in Facto, and in Jure, of all the the Judges and Juffices of England in their Judgments and Proceedings; and this, not only in Pleas of the Crown, but in all Pleas Real, Perfonal and Mix'd, except only in the Exchequer.

In this High Court fit commonly Four Grave Reverend Judges; whereof the first is stiled the Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench, and is created not by Patent, but by a short Writ, thus: A. B. Militi Jalutem. Sciatis quod constituimus vos Justiciarium nostrum Capitalem, ad Placita coram nobis tenenda, quam diu te bene gesseris. Teste meipso apud Westm.

The reft of the Judges of the King's-Bench hold their Places by Letters-Patents in these Words; Rex omnibus ad quos prasentes litera pervenerint, salutem. Sciatis quod constituimas dilectum & fidelem A. B. Militem, unum Justiciariorum, ad Placita coram nobis tenenda, durante bene placito nostro. Teste, &c.

These Judges, and all the Officers belonging to this Court, have all Salaries from the King, and the chief of them have Robes and Liveries out of the great Wardrope.

In this Court all young Lawyers that have been call'd to the Bar, are allow'd to plead and practife.

This Court may grant Prohibitions to keep other Courts, both Ecclefiaftical and Temporal within their Bounds and due Jurifdiction.

The Jurifdiction of this Court is general, and extendeth to all England: Is more uncontroulable than any other Court, (for the Law prefumes, that the King is always there in Perfon.)

None may be Judge in this Court, unless he be a Sergeant of the Degree of the Coif; that is, a Sergeant at Law, who upon taking this high Degree, is obliged to wear a Lawn Coif under his Cap, for ever after.

The Jurifdiction of this Lord Chief Justice is very great over all England, and even in Parliament time; the Lords fometimes waving their own Power, have directed him to fend his Warrant to feize Perfons suspected of Capital Crimes.

Of the High Court of CHANCERY.

NExt to the Kings-Bench in Westminster-Hall, is wifely placed this High Court, to mitigate the Rigour, of that; it is Curia Cancellariæ; because, as some think, the Judge of this Court sate anciently intra Cancellos, or Latices, as the East end of our Churches, being separated per Cancellos, from the Body of the Church, as peculiarly belonging to the Priest, were thence called Chancels.

This Court is the Officina Justitiæ, the Womb of all our Fundamental Laws, the Fountain of all our Proceedings in Law, the Original of all other Courts. It is as ancient as the Civility of the Nation, though perhaps by another Name.

This Court proceeds either ordinarily, according to the Laws, Statutes, and Cuftoms of the Nation, and in Latin, granting out Writs Mandatory and Remedial: Writs of Grace; or elfe according to Equity and Confcience, and by English Bill; fo that the Chancery hath two Courts in one; the Equitable part is by Bills, Answers, and Decrees, to examine Frauds, Combinations, Trust, Secret Uses, Gr. to moderate the Rigour of the Laws, and refcue Men out of the Hands of their Oppressors: To relieve a Man, espeally in three things, wiz. against Cheats, unfortunate Accidents, and Breaches of Trust.

Out of this Court are isfued Writs, or Summons for Parliaments, Edicts, Proclamations, Charters, Protections, Safe-conducts, Writs of Moderata Milericordia, when any Perfon hath been amerced too high, and for a reafonable part of Goods for Widows and Orphans, Patents for Sheriffs, Writs of Certiorari to remove Records and Falfe Judgments in inferiour Courts, Writs of Audita Querela, and Scire facias : Here are fealed and enrolled Letters Patents, Treaties and Leagues with Foreign Princes, Deeds between Party and Party, touching their Lands and Effates, or Purchafers taking Recognizances, and making of Extents upon Statutes and Recognizances for payment of Money, or fecuring of Contracts, Writs Remedial or Magisterial, Commissions of Appeal, Oyer and Terminer, &c. The Court of Common-Pleas, which are betwixt Subject and Subject, hath its Original ginal and Commission from the Chantery, and cannot hold Pleas without it.

For the Latin part of this Court, are the Twenty four Cursitors; and for the English part are the fix Clerks.

The Court of Equity, that proceeds not according to Law, is no Court of Record, and therefore binds only the Perfon, not his Lands or Goods.

Chancelloz.] The Judge of this Court is the Lord Chancellor, or Lord Keeper of the Great Seal of England. He is here the Sole Judge, whereas in other Courts there are three or four Judges: But he may, and doth often, in Cafes of greater weight and difficulty, in Cafes of Law, call fome of the other Judges to his Affiftance, and therefore it is faid this Office may be difcharged by one that is no profeffed Lawyer, as it was almost always anciently; and fo of later times by Sir Christopher Hatton, and after by Dr. Williams Bishop of Lintoln, to their great Praise and Commendation.

This is the highest Office in England that a Lay-man is capable of : And the Chancellor under the King, is Magistratuum omnium Antistes, Chief of all Magistrates.

Anciently the Lord Chancellor had fometimes his Vice-Chancellor, commonly called Keeper of the Great Seal, but of later times they differ only in Name.

In France the Chancellor is fo much obliged to attend the fole Interest of the King and People, that he must not be sensible of any Relations, or other Consideration; and therefore may not put himself in Mourning, neither for his own Father, nor for the King himself.

Chancellors have been in England, as the Learned Sir William Dugaale finds, as foon as Christianity was embraced by the Saxons.

The Chancellor is faid to be Keeper of the King's Confcience, to judge fecundum equam & bonum, according to Equity and Confcience; he is to moderate the ro dreißodfnaior, the exact Rigour and Letter of the Law, whereunto other Judges are strictly tyed; for the Princes of this Realm (in imitation of the KING of Kings, governing the World by Justice and Mercy) have erected two Supreme Tribunals together, at the upper-end of Westminster-Hall, one of Justice, wherein nothing but the strict Letter of the Law is observed; and the other of Mercy, wherein the Rigour of the Law is tempered with the sweetness of Equity, ty, which is nothing else but Mercy qualifying the Sharpnels of Justice.

This Court being a Court of Confcience, the lefs it is perplexed with the Quirks of Lawyers, the more it is guided by Confcience and Equity; and therefore in all former times, the Judges of this Court were cholen out of the Clergy, able Divines, who by their Skill in the Law of God and of Nations, were beft able to judge according to Moderation and Equity, and moft willing to execute accordingly, alfo thought fitteft to difpose of the King's Spiritual Benefices.

Befides, when this High Office was given to Bilhops and Clergy-men, and thereby Wealth and a publick Spirit ufually conjoyned: What great publick Acts of Piety and Charity were done by them for this Nation? To mention only in Oxford; What Noble and Rich Foundations are Chrift-Church, Magdalen's, New-College, and Merton-College? All founded by Bilhops that were Chancellors.

The manner of proceeding in this Court, is much like that in the Courts of the Civil-Law, the Actions by Bill or Plaint, the Witneffes examined in private, the Decrees in English or Latin, not in French. No Jury of Twelve Men, but all Sentences given by the Judge of the Court.

Waffers of Chancery.] The Chancellor, or Lord Keeper, hath Twelve Affiftants, anciently called Clerici Clerks, or Magistri Cancellariæ, because they were usually all in Holy Orders, and Doctors of Laws; for Master and Doctors were anciently the same, as at this day, a Doctor in the Arts, is called Magister in Artibus; and sometimes they were called Coadjutores.

Dafter of the Rolls.] The first of these is the Master of the Rolls : In Latin, Sacrorum Scriniorum Magister, and Rotulorum Custos five Prafectus, so called from the Chappel wherein the Rolls are kept : It is a place of great Dignity, and is in the Gift of the King, either for Life, or during his Majesty's Pleasure ; and this Officer hath Jure Officii, the Gift of those considerable Offices of the Six Clerks in Chancery, hath the keeping of the Rolls, hath all the House of the Converted Jews, now called the Rolls ; and in the absence of the Chancellor, hears Causes there, and makes Orders, by Virtue of a Commission, with Two Masters, and that Jure Officii.

When

When he fits in the Lords Houfe in Parliament, he fits next to the Lord Chief Justice of England, upon the second Wool-Sack.

One Reafon why the Mafters of Chantery were ever Civilians, may be, because for all Causes almost imaginable, fome Law, or Cafe conformable theteunto, may be fetched, by a good Civilian, out of that Law of Laws, called the Civil-Law. Another may be, becaufe the Chancery, more ancient than any other Court of England, (for all Original Writs and Commiffions whereupon the other Courts do ground all their Proceedings, proceed from thence) hath probably been taken from the Givil-Law, as divers points of Proceedings, not used in Common-Law Courts, as the Defendants answering to the Bill, and sometimes to the Interrogatories upon Oath, though to the acculing of a Man's felf in divers matters damageable and penal; the whole matter of Publication, the Depolition of Witneffes upon Interrogatories, and in perpetuam rei memoriam, the Term and Ule of Final Decree, and many other Points differing from the Common-Law, and wholly agreeing with the Civil-Law.

This Court is always open, whereas all the others are fhut, but only in Term-time; fo that if any Man be wrongfully imprifon'd in the Vacation time, out of the Term, the Lord Chancellor may grant his Writ of Habeas Corpus, and do him Juffice according to Law: So likewife may this Court grant Prohibitions in time of Vacation, as well as in Term-time.

The Salary of the Masters in Chancery, is One Hundred Pounds to each of them, paid out of the Exchequer, quarterly, besides Robe-Money. These Masters do sit at Westminster-Hall with the Lord Chancellor, or Lord Keeper, Three at a time in Term-time, and Two at a time out of Term, when the Lord Keeper sits to hear Causes at his own House. And to these Masters the Lord Keeper does often refer the further bearing of many Causes, &c. Furthermore, they have a publick Office, where one or more of them do constantly attend to take Affidavits, &c.

The House founded at first for the Converted Jews, was, after their Expulsion out of England, annex'd for ever to the Office of Master of the Rolls, where he hath the Custody of all Charters, Patents, Commissions, Deeds, Recognizances, zances, which being made up in Rolls of Parchment, gave occasion for that Name.

At prefent there are kept all the Rolls fince the beginning of Richard the Third : The reft are kept in the Tower of London.

In his Gift are, belides the Six Clerks Office, the Offices of the Examiners, Three of the Clerks of the Petti-Bag, and the Six Clerks of the Rolls Chappel, where the Rolls are kept.

Clerk of the Crown.] Next is the Clerk of the Crown. This Office is of high Importance ; he is either by himfelf, or Deputy, continually to attend the Lord Chancellor, or Lord Keeper, for special Matters of State, and hath a place in the higher House of Parliament : He makes all Writs for Election of Members of Parliament, fitting in the Parliament, upon Warrant directed to him upon the Death or Removal of any Member; and allo Commissions of Oper and Terminer, Goal-delivery, Commissions of Peace, and many other Commissions distributing Justice to his Majefty's Subjects : Which Office has been fometimes executed by a Deputy.

Protonotary of this Court. This Office is chiefly to expedite Commissions for Embassies. It is executed by a Deputy.

Clerk of the Hamper or Hanaper, sometime stiled Warden of the Hanaper; whole Office is to receive all the Money due to the King for the Seals of Charters, Patents, Commitfions, and Writs, and to attend the Keeper of the Seal daily in Term-time, and at all times of Sealing, with Leather Bags now (but anciently probably with Hampers) wherein are put all fealed Charters, Patents, &c. and then those Bags are delivered to the Comptroller of the Hamper.

Warden of the Fleet, or Keeper of the Fleet Prison, is an Officer very confiderable. He is to take care of the Prifoners there, who are commonly fuch as are fent thither from this Court, for Contempt to the King or his Laws, or fuch as will not pay their Debts, Orc.

Sergeant at Arms. His Office is to bear a Gilt Mace before the Lord Chancellor or Keeper, for the time being.

Six Clerks are Officers of great Account, next in degree to the Twelve Masters in Chancery, whose Office is to inroll Commissions, Pardons, Patents, Warrants, &c. that are paffed the Great Seal. They were anciently Clerici, and after 15 1

194 afterwards forfeited their Places if they did marry, till by Act of Parliament, in the time of Henry the Eighth, they were allowed to take Wives.

They are also Attorneys for Plaintiffs and Defendants in Causes depending in this Court.

They keep their feveral Offices at a place called the Six Clerks Office in Chancery-lane, and conftantly keep Commons together in Term-time.

Under the afore-named Six Clerks, there were Sixty, now Ninety other Clerks, wiz. Ten to each of the Six Clerks, and who, with their under Clerks, difpatch the Bufinefs of that Office. Some of these Ninety do severally get four, five, or fix hundred Pounds per Annum, or more.

Examiners in Chancery there are Two. Their Office is to examine the Witneffes on their Oaths in any Suit on both fides.

This Office alfo is executed at the Rolls.

Clerks of the Petty bag in Chancery are Three.

They are under the Master of the Rolls: Their Office is to make all Patents for Customers, Comptrollers, all Conge d' Estire's, first Summons of Nobility, Clergy, Knights, Citizens and Burgesses to Parliament, &c.

The Subpana Office is to iffue out Writs, to fummon Perfons to appear in Chancery.

Clerk of the Patents, or Letters Patent, under the Great Seal of England.

The Principal Register of the Court of Chancery. This Office is kept at Symond's Inn in Chancery-lane.

Clerk of the Reports, Keeper of the Old Book, and of one of the Entry-Books.

The Office for filing all Affidavits in the fame Court of Chancery, is an Office granted by Letters Patent.

This Office is now kept at Symond's-Inn in Chancerylane.

Cursitors Office in the Chancery, is to make out Original Writs; they were anciently called Clerici Brevium de cursu: Of these there are Twenty four, whereof each one hath certain Counties and Cities allotted to him, into which they make out such Original Writs as are required. These Clerks are a Corporation of themselves, who execute these Offices by themselves, or by their Deputies,

Part II. of ENGLAND.

That for London and Middlesex, at Symond's-Inn in Chancery-lane.

From this High Court are also isfued out Commissions for charitable Ufes throughout England, where there is occasion to enquire of any Abuses, Misdemeanours, Breaches of Truft, Negligences, Misemployments, not Employing, Concealing, Defrauding, Misconverting, or Mifgoverning any Lands, Tenements, Rents, Annuities, Profits, Hereditaments, Goods, Chattels, Money, or Stocks of Money, which have been at any time given, limited, appointed, or affigned for the Relief of Aged, Impotent, and Poor People; Maintenance of Sick and Maimed Soldiers or Mariners: Schools of Learning, or Free Schools, or Scholars in Universities; Repair of Bridges, Ports, Havens, Caufe-ways, Churches, Sea-Banks, or Highways; Education or Preferment of Orphans, Relief, Stock, or Maintenance of Houfes of Correction, Marriage of poor Maids; Supportation, Aid, or Help of young Tradefmen, Handicraftsmen, or Persons decay'd; Relief or Redemption of Prisoners or Captives; or Aid or Eafe of any poor Inhabitants concerning payment of Fifteens, fetting out of Soldiers, or any other Taxes, &c. Which fort of Commissions, as they have been highly useful in retrieving many finking Benefactions, may the Piety of this Age be exerted in foliciting more of them, that the Nation may at length be refcued from the heavy load of Sacrilege, Oppression, and Injustice, which 'ris fear'd it labours under in too too many places.

Alienation Office.

There is also an Office called the Alienation Office, whereunto all Writs of Covenants and Entry, whereupon Fines are levyed and Recoveries suffered, are carried to have Fines for Alienation set and paid thereupon. This Office is executed by three Commissioners.

In all are counted Seventy two Officers under the Lord Chancellor, or Lord Keeper.

ender tor and Abrie

THE next Court for Execution of Laws, is the Court of Common-Pleas, fo called, becaufe there are debated the afual Pleas between Subject and Subject. Some fay, this Court, as well as other Courts, was at first held in the King's House, wherefoever he resided; but by the Statute of Magna Charta, it was ordained, That this Court should not be Ambulatory, but be held at a certain place, and that hath been ever fince in Westminster-Hall.

None but Serjeants at Law may plead in this Court, and fo many of them as the King shall appoint, are bound by Oath to affist all that have any Caule depending in that Court.

This Court may grant Prohibitions, as the Court of the King's Bench doth.

The chief Judge in this Court, is called the Lord Chief Justice of the Common-Pleas, or of the Common-Bench, he holdeth his Place by Letters Patent quam diu se bene gesserit, and so do the other inferior Judges of this Court, whereof there are commonly Three.

In this Court all Civil Caufes, Real and Perfonal, are usfually tryed, according to the strict Rule of the Law.

Real Actions are pleadable in no other Court, nor Fines levied, or Recoveries fuffered, but only at this Court at Westminster, at a Judges Chamber, at the Affizes, or by special Commission out of Chancery.

The King allows to the Lord Chief Justice of this Court a Fee, Reward, Robes, and Two Tun of Wine, as is done to the Lord Chief Justice of the other Bench; also to the other Judges of this Court; and to four Serjeants is allow'd Fees, Reward, and Robes to each one.

In the 11th and 12th of Edward III. there were Eight Judges belonging to the Common-Pleas; at other times Seven. Six, and Five; and fo in the time of Henry 6. and Edward IV. but fince usually but Four, as at this day.

Before the Reign of Queen Mary, these and the rest of the Twelve Judges rode upon Mules, and not upon Horse, or Coaches, as they now do in great State, at the beginning of the Term.

Then

of ENGLAND.

Then there is an Officer call'd Cuftos Brewium, the first Clerk of the Court, whose Office is to receive and keep all Writs returnable in that Court, to receive of the Protonotaries all Records of Niss Prime, call'd Postea's. He holdeth his Place by Patent from the King, and hath the Gift of the second Protonotaries Place, and of the Clerk of the Juries.

There are three Protonotaries, a Word compounded of Greek and Latin, (fuch with the Ancients were ufual) and fignifies the first Notaries; they are chief Clerks of this Court, and by their Office are to enter and enroll all Declarations, Pleadings, (which the Filazers did formerly promiscuoufly do) Affizes, Judgments, and Actions; to make out Indicial Writs, &c. for all English Counties except Monmouth. These confiderable Offices are in the Hands of Three Perfons, in whofe Offices all the Attornies of the Court of Common-Pleas do enter their Caufes ; each of the faid Protonotaries hath a Secondary, whole Office is to draw up the Rules of Court, and to do other matters relating to the Business of the Court. These Secondaries are commonly the ancienteft and the ableft Clerks or Attorneys of the Court. The Chirographer (alfo from two Greek Words,) fignifying to atteft a Writing, by fetting ones Hand, is an Officer who ingroffeth Fines acknowledged, &c. He holdeth his Place alfo by Patent.

In this Office there are feveral Clerks, who have their feveral Counties allotted them, and for which they are to engrofs the Fines levied of Lands in their respective Divisions.

The Register of the Fine-Office; which Office is the only proper place for fearching for Fines, they not being perfect till they are brought thither and recorded.

All these Protonot aries and Chirographer aforementioned, fit in the Court, crown'd with black round Caps, according to the Mode, immediately before the Invention of Hats, which was fince the beginning of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth. Moreover, they are all fworn, and have their Offices for Life, as a Free-hold.

There are in this Court Three Officers unsworn, and hold their Places durante bene placito.

1. One Clerk of the Treasury, who hath the Charge of keeping the Records of this Court, and makes out all Records of Nifi prims, and divers other things. This Office is in the Gift of the Lord Chief Justice of this Court.

2. The Clerk of the Enrollments of Fines and Recoveries is, by Statute, under the Three puifné Judges of this Court, and removable at their Pleafure. Note, that the Enrollment of the Fines and Recoveries, or any part thereof, by Stat. 23. Eliz. Chap. 3. is of good Force and Validity in Law, to all Intents and Purpoles, for for much of any of them for enroll'd, as the fame being extant and remaining, were, or ought by Law to be: The general Neglect whereof in this Kingdom hath occasion'd many Law-Suits, and hath prov'd in process of time exceeding dangerous to many Mens Effates.

3. The Clerk of the Outlawries, who make out the Writs of Capias Utlegatum (after the Parties are return'd Outlawed) in the Name of the King's Attorney, whose Deputy he is pro tempore.

There are Five Clerks or Officers more.

r. Clerk of the King's Silver, unto whom every Fine or Final Agreement upon Sale of Land is brought, after it hath been with the Cuftos Brevium, and who makes an Entry of what Money is to be paid for the King's ufe, executed by a Deputy.

2. Clerk of the Warrants, executed by a Deputy, who entreth all Warrants of Attorney for Plaintiff and Defendant, and enrolleth all Deeds acknowledg'd before any of the Judges of this Court.

3. Clerk of the Juries, who maketh out the Writs, call'd Habeas Corpus, and distring as Juratorum, for Appearance of the Jury, either in this Court, or at the Affizes in the Country, by his Deputy.

4. Clerk of the Effoins or Excuses for lawful Caufe of Absence.

5. Clerk of the Supersedeas, which is held by Patent. But before King James the First's time the Writs of Super-Jedeas were made by the Exigenter.

In this Court are alfo Filazers for the feveral Counties of England, fo call'd from the French, Fil, a Thread, becaufe they file their Writs. Thefe make out all Process upon Original riginal Writs, and do many other things too long to be here fet down : Of these there are Fourteen ; the last of which, is Protonotary, Filazer, and Exigenter of Monmouth, by Patent ; the rest are in the Gift of the Lord Chief Justice of this Court, and hold for Life.

There are also Four Exigenters, whose Office is to make all Exigents and Proclamations in all Actions, where Process of Outlawry doth lie. This Writ is call'd an Exigent, because it exacteth the Party; that is, requireth his Appearance to answer the Law, and lies against a Transgressor of the Law, that cannot be found, nor any of his Goods within the County : So that after Summons by the Sheriff at five several County Courts, if he appears not, he is Outlawed.

These are all in the Gift of the Lord Chief Justice of this Court ; and are for Life.

There are also belonging to this Court Four Cryers and a Porter.

Of the Court of Exchequer.

THE next Court of Execution of Laws, is the Exchequer; fo call'd, as fome think, from a Chequer-wrought-Carpet, covering the great Table in that Court, (as the Court of Green-Cleth in the King's Houfe, is fo call'd from the Green Carpet) or elfe from the French Word Elchequier, a Chefs-Board; becaufe the Accomptants in that Office were wont to use fuch Boards in their Calculation. Here are try'd all Caufes which belong to the King's Treasury or Revenue, as touching Accompts, Disbursements, Customs, and all Fines imposs'd upon any Man. In this Court may fit,

The Lord Treasurer, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, the Lord Chief Baron, and Three other Learn'd Judges, call'd Barons of the Exchequer; also one other Cursitor Baron.

But the Two first seldom sit, and the Five last seldom fail. The first of the five is the principal Judge of this Court, and answers the Bar of the Barristers, who direct O the their 200 their Speech to him, takes Recognizances for the King's Debts, &c. It is an Office of high Honour and Profit ; He is stil'd Lord Chief Baron ; Tribunus, or Juridicus Rationalis primus, or Princeps; is created by Letters Patent, to hold this Dignity, Quam diu se bene gefferit, wherein he hath a fix'd Eftate ; for the Law intends this an Eftate for Life : He alone, without the other Barons, fits at Guild-Hall the Afternoon in Term-time, upon Nisi priss in London ; takes Audits, Accompts, Recognizances, Presentations of Offices, and many other things of Importance. In the Abfence of the Lord Chief Baron, the other three Barons supply his Place, according to their Seniority; but the Fifth is faid to be the Curfitor of the Court, and administers the Oath to the . Sheriffs, under-Sheriffs, Bailiffs, Searchers, Surveyors, Orc. of the Custom-House; but is no itinerant Judge, nor counted one of the Twelve Judges.

In the Exchequer are held two Courts, one of the Law, another of Equity.

All Judicial Proceedings according to Law, are Coram Baronibus; but the Court of Equity held in the Exchequer Chamber, is Coram Thefaurario, Cancellario & Baronibus. This Court had its beginning prime Phil. & Mar.

The Authority of this Court is of original Jurifdiction, without any Commission.

Note also, That all the other foremention'd Courts were not inftituted by any Statute or Written Law, but have their Original from the ancient Cuftom of the Kingdom.

For a long time after the Conquest there fate in the Exchequer both Spiritual and Temporal Barons of the Realm; and in later times there fate in their Places others that were no Peers of the Realm, yet stilled Barons, quia ubi sedere solution Barones, because Barons used to sit there.

All the Twelve Judges belonging to these high Tribunals, sit in Robes and Square Caps, like Doctors of Divinity; because (as some fay) they were anciently most commonly Clergy-Men and Doctors, Bishops or Prelates.

of ENGLAND.

Part II.

A Lift of the several Offices belonging to his Majesty's Court of Exchequet.

The King's Remembrancer's Dffice.

A Fter the Lord Treasurer, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and the Barons of the Exchequer aforemention'd, the next Officer is the King's Remembrancer: In whose Office are Eight Sworn Clerks; whereof two are Secondaries.

In this Office are entred the States of all the Accompts concerning the King's Revenue, for Cuftoms, Excife, Subfidies, and all Aids granted to the King in Parliament, and all other Accompts of what nature foever, except Sheriffs and Bailiffs Accompts; and alfo Accompts for Moneys imprefted to any Perfon to perform Service for the King, concerning the King's Revenue, either certain or cafual, all Securities either by Bonds or Recognizances, to the King's Majefty by Accomptants and Officers, for the faithful Exercifing of their Offices, and many of his Debts are taken here. All Proceedings upon any Statute by Information for Cuftom, Excifes, or any other Penal Law. All Proceedings upon the faid Bonds or Recognizances, or any other Bonds taken in the King's Name, by Officers appointed thereunto, under the Great Seal of England, and transmitted hither for Recovery thereof, are properly in this Office ; from whence iffue forth Process, to caufe all Accomptants to come in and accompt. In the Court of Exchequer there being a Court of Equity, all Proceedings touching the fame, are in this Office ; with many other things concerning the King's Revenue. This Office is in the King's Gift.

The Lozd Areafurer's Remembrancer's Dffice.

Next is the Lord Treasurer's Remembrancer; whose Office is to make Process against all Sheriffs, Receivers, Bayliffs, &c. for their Accompts, and many other things, of moment, as Estreat Rules, &c. All Charters and Letters Patent, whereupon any Rents are referv'd to the King, are transcribed and and fent into this Office by the Clerk of the Petty-bag, to the end fuch Moneys are thereby payable to his Majefty, may be transmitted to the Clerk of the Pipe; and Process made to recover the same by the Comptroller of the Pipe. Out of this Office Process issues to levy the 20 l. per Month due from Popish Recufants, when convicted; and also to feize the two Thirds of their Lands, when Schedules thereof are made by the Clerk of the Pipe, and transmitted hither. Out of this Office Process is also made to levy the King's Fee-Farm Rents, &cc.

When the Auditors of the Revenue have made Schedules of fuch Arrears, and transmitted them to the Remembrancer, the States of all Impress Accompts, and other great Accompts, and other Accompts whatfoever are also entred in this Office, as well as in the Office of the King's Remembrancer. In this Office there were heretofore Twelve fworn Clerks, whereof the Two first were called Secondaries. This is also in the King's Gift.

All Accompts which pais the Remembrancer's Office, are brought to the Office of the Clerk of the Pipe, and remain there, to the end that if there be any determin'd Debt due by any Accomptant, or any other Perfon in any fuch Accompt, the fame may be drawn down into the great Roll of the Pipe, or the Pipes thereof, and by the Comptroller of the Pipe taken into his Roll, verbatim with the great Roll; and Procefs may be made by him for the Recovery thereof by a Writ, call'd the Summons of the Pipe; which is in the nature of a Levare facias.

And if upon Summons of the Pipe, a Nichil be return'd by the Sheriff, then a Schedule is made of 1uch Debts as are Nichiled, and fent to the Treasurer's Remembrancer, who makes a long Writ, and annexes the fame to it; which Writ is a Capias Fieri Facias, & extendi Facias.

All Tallies which vouch the Payments contain'd in fuch Accompts, are examin'd and allow'd by the chief S2condary in the Pipe, and remain for ever after in this Office.

All Accompts of Sheriffs and Bailiffs, are made up by the Clerk of the Pipe, and he gives them, and all the other Accompts before-mention'd, their Quietus eft, in cafe their Accompts be even.

The Clerk of the Pipe makes Leafes of the King's Lands, and extended Lands, when he is warranted fo to do by the Lord Lord Treasurer and Chancellor of the Exchequer, or Lords Commissioners of the Treasury. And these Leases are sometimes directed to be made under the Great Seal, but for the most part pass the Exchequer. He hath under hun Eight Attorneys, whereof the Two first are Secondaries.

Comptrolier of the Dipe.] He writeth in his Roll all that is in the great Roll; and nothing entred in the great Roll can be difcharg'd without his Privity. And if Nichils be return'd, fuch Schedules are made to the Treasurer's Remembrancer, as before is mention'd.

He writeth out the Summons twice every Year to the High Sheriffs to levy the Debts charg'd in the great Roll of the Pipe.

Clerk of the Pleas.] In his Office all the Officers of the Exchequer, and other privileg'd Perfons, as Debtors to the King, &c. are to have their Privilege to plead, and be impleaded, as to all matters at the Common Law : And the Proceedings are accordingly by Declarations, Pleas, and Trials, as at the Common Law, becaufe they fhould not be drawn out of their own Court, where their Attendance is requir'd. In this Office there are Four fworn Attorneys.

fozeign Dpposer.] His Office is to oppose all Sheriffs upon the Schedules of the Green Wax. This Office is kept in Gray's-Inn.

Clerk of the Effreats.] His Office is to receive every Term the Effreats, or Extracts out of the Office of the Remembrancer of the Lord Treasurer, and to write them out, to be levied for the King; alfo to make Schedules for fuch Sums as are to be difcharg'd.

Auditozs of the Impleff.] Audit the great Accompts of the King's Cuftoms, Wardrobe, Mint, First-Fruits, and Tenths, Naval and Military Expences, Moneys imprested, &c.

Auditors of the Revenue.] Are Seven.

These Audit all Accompts of the King's Revenue, and Taxes given by Act of Parliament.

There are also several Receivers of the King's Revenues, arising from Lands and Rents, whose Accompts the Auditors do make up yearly.

Remembrancer of the first fruits.] Takes all Compositions for First-Fruits and Tenths, and makes process against fuch as pay not the same. This Office is kept in the Middle-Temple.

Auditor of the First-Fruits.

Receiver

204

Receiver of the Revenue of the First-Fruits. The Bishops are Collectors of the Tenths, and accompt annually for the fame.

Deputy-Chamberlains.] There are also two other confiderable Officers, call'd Deputy-Chamberlains; in whose Office at Westminster are preferv'd all the Counter-foils of the Tallies (whereof more anon) so exactly rank'd by Months and Years, that they may prefently be found out, to be join'd with their respective Stock or Tally, when thereunto requir'd; which being done, and prov'd true, they deliver the same, attested for a lawful Tally, to the Clerk of the Pipe, to be allow'd in the great Roll: But in case any Corruption hath been used, the same is easily and soon discover'd, and the Offender severely punish'd by Fine and Imprisonment.

Dther Dfficers.] There are moreover divers other Officers, as Clerk of the Parcels, Clerk of the Nichils, the Marshal, the chief Usher of the Exchequer, whole Office is an Office of Inheritance, Four under Ushers, and Six Messensers, whole Offices are all in the Gift of the Chief Usher. He is alfo by Inheritance Proclamator of the Court of Common-Pleas, and hath the Gift of all the Ushers alfo.

Of the other part of the Exchequer, call'd by some, the Lower Exchequer, where the King's Revenue is receiv'd and disburs'd with admirable Order and Frugality.

THE principal Officer is the Lord Treasurer. Supremus Erarii Anglici Quastor : Or, Tribunus Erarius Maximus,

There is one Secretary.

Next Officer is the Chancellor of the Exchequer, who is alfo an Officer of great Account and Authority; he hath a principal Power, not only in the Exchequer Court, but alfo here in the managing and disposing of the King's Revenue: He hath alfo the Custody of the Exchequer-Seal. He fits in the Court not only above all the Barons of the Exchequer, but (as fome fay) above the Lord Treasurer, having a Superperintendency and Comptrolment over the Lord Treasurer's Rolls.

Part II.

He hath the Gift of the Comptroller of the Pipe, and of the Clerk of the Pleas, also of the Clerk of the Nichils, and of the Seal of the Court.

He is moreover an Under-Treasurer, and hath the Gift of the two Praisers of the Court.

Then there are Two Chamberlains of the Exchequer, in whofe Cuftody are many ancient Records, Leagues, and Treaties with Foreign Princes, the Standards of Money's, Weights and Meafures, those ancient famous Books, call'd Dooms-day Book (which is in two Volumes,) and the Black Book of the Exchequer; whereof the former is Liber Cenfualis totius Anglia, the Tax-Book of all England, made by William the Conqueror, wherein is defcrib'd all the Lands of England, except the Counties of Cumberland, Westmorland, Northumberland, and the Bifhoprick of Durham, (which might probably have been entred in a third Volume, now loft) with a true Value, and their Owners Names; it was fix Years in making, viz. from the 14th to the 20th Year of that King, and call'd at first Rotulus Wintonia, but fince nam'd Dooms-day Book ; becaufe therein was fet down an exact Account, notonly of all the Cities, Towns, and Villages of England, but the Number of Families, of Men, Soldiers and Husbandmen, Bondmen, Servants, Cattel; how much Money, what Rent, how much Meadow, Pafture, Woods, Tillage, Common, Marsh, Heath, every one poffefs'd : And when any one was cited, or any difference arofe about those things, and Taxes, Oc. there was no place for denying or deceiving the King (whereof many Men now make little Confcience, though all good Chriftians ever accounted it a grievous and heinous Sin) when this Book was open'd, like as it will be at the opening of the Book at the great Day of Doom, or general Judgment of the World. This Book is kept under three Locks and Keys, not to be look'd into under 6 s. 8 d. and for every Line P-Cours In trac -transcrib'd, is to be paid 4 d.

Next is the Auditor of the Receipts of the Exchequer; whole Office is to file the Bills of the Tellers, whereby they charge themfelves with all Money receiv'd, and to draw all Orders to be fign'd by the Lord High Treasurer, having a Warrant from him first fo to do, for illuing forth all Monies by virtue of Privy-Seals, which are recorded by the Clerk

The Prefent State

Clerk of the Pells, and entred in the Office of the faid Auditor, and lodg'd in his Office. He also by Warrant of the Lord Treasurer, makes Debentures to the feveral Perfons, who have Fees, Annuities, or Pentions by Letters Patent from the King, out of the Exchequer, and directs them for Payment to the Tellers. He receives every Day the State of the Accompt of each Teller; and also weekly certifies the whole to the Lord High Treasurer, or Lords Commissioners, who immediately prefent the Effimate or Balance to the King. He makes half-yearly, at Michaelmas and Lady-day, a Book, call'd a Declaration, which contains a methodical Abstract of all Accompts and Payments, made in the preceding half year, and delivers one of them to the Lord Treasurer, and another to the Chancellor of the Exchequer. By him are kept the feveral Registers appointed for paying all Perfons in courfe, upon feveral Branches of the King's Revenue: He is Scriptor Talliorum, hath Five Clerks to manage the whole Eftate of Moneys, receiv'd, disburs'd, and remaining. With a true Vallace and their O

Next thefe are Four Tellers.

Their Office is to receive all Monies due to the King, and thereupon to throw down a Bill through a Pipe into the Tally-Court, where it is receiv'd by the Auditor's Clerk, who there attends to write the Words of the faid Bill upon a Tally, and then delivers the fame to be entred by the Clerk of the Pells, or his Under-Clerk, who there attends to enter it in his Book; then the Tally is cloven by the Two Deputy-Chamberlains, who have their Seals, and while the Senior-Deputy reads one part, the Junior examines the other part with the other Two Clerks.

Clerk of the Pells : His Office is to enter the Tellers Bill into a Parchment-Skin (in Latin Pellis, whence this Office hath its Name) and all Receipts and Payments for the King, for what Caufe, or by whomfoever, and is in nature of a Comptroller; hath Four Clerks; whereof one is for the Introitus, and another for the Exitus.

In the Tally-Court fit the Deputies of the Two Chamberlains, who cleave the Tallies, and examine each piece apart; also the Tally-cutter attends there.

A Tally in the Exchequer, from the French Verb, Tailler, and the Italian, Tagliare, to cut, is a very ancient and most certain way of avoiding all Cozenage in the King's Revenue, the like no where else in Christendom : And is after this manner :

Part II.

15 DIVISION 11 110 2703 Y

He that pays or lends the King any Moneys, receives for his Acquittance or Acknowledgement a Tally, which is a Stick, with Words written on it on both fides, containing the Acquittance proper to express what the Moneys received is for, which being cloven afunder by the Deputy Chamberlains, one part thereof call'd the Stock, is deliver'd to the Party that pays that Money, and the other part, called Counter-Stock, or Counterfoil, remains with them, who afterwards deliver it over to the other Deputies, to be kept till it be called for, and join'd with the Stock; after which they fend it by an Officer of their own to the Pipe, to be applyed to the difcharge of the Accomptant.

This most ancient way of striking of Tallies, hath been found by long Experience to be absolutely the best way that ever was invented; for it is morally impossible so to fallifie or counterfeit a Tally, but that upon rejoyning it with the Counterfoil, it will be obvious to every Eye, either in the Notches, or in the cleaving, in the Length, or in the Breadth, in the natural Growth, or in the Shape of the Counterfoil: Whereas Acquittances in Writing cannot be so made but that they may be counterfeited by skilful Penmen, and that so exactly, as that he who wrote the Original shall not be able to know his own Hand from the Counterfeit, as hath been frequently feen in all the Courts of Westminster.

Other Officers in the Receipt of the Exchequer, are the Ufbers of the Receipt, a Tally-cutter, and Four Mellengers of the Receipt. The Ufber's Duty is to take care to fecure the Exchequer by Day and by Night, and all the Avenues leading to the fame, and to furnish all Neceffaries, as Books, Papers, Gre.

By long continuance, and the wifeft contrivances, that the ableft Men of many Ages could invent, the Exchequer of the King of England is become the best ordered publick Revenue in the World.

Though the number of Officers in the Exchequer is far greater than in any of the King's Courts; yet not near fo great as the Financiers, and other Officers belonging to the Revenues of the French King, who are fo many, that their Fees eat up a very confiderable part of the whole Revenue; Whereas, for rewarding all the Officers in the English Exchequer, whereof most are ever Persons of Estates, Parts, and great Integrity, it costs the King a very inconfiderable Sum of Money, as will easily appear to any one who shall con-confider, That in cafe of a Gift from the King of Moneys or Pention out of his Exchequer, he that receives it pays but 5 l. per Cent. amongst the Tellers, Auditors, Clerk of the Pells, and their Clerks; and to all other Officers whatfoever; and which is remarkable, there goes not amongst the faid Officers and Clerks, fo much as 5 s. per Cent. out of publick Payments, as for the Navy, Ordnance, Wardrobe, Mint, to the Cofferer, Treasurer of the Chamber, &c.

In cafe of Moneys paid in by any of the King's Tenants, Receivers, &c. it coft them fometimes but 6 d. and at most but 3 s. for every payment under a Thousand Pound, and that goes only to the Clerks for their pains in writing and attending.

The bringing in of all Moneys to the King, cofts his Majefty, amongft Receivers, Collectors, and all others in the Country, not above 2 s. in the Pound; and at his Exchequer it cofts him in a manner nothing at all: For the Tellers, who are bound to the King in 20000 l. Security, for the true difcharge of their great Trufts, have under 33 l. per Annum for their Salary from the King, and the Two Clerks of each Teller, who conftantly attend their Offices, have nothing at all from the King.

The Court of the Dutchy-Chamber of Lancaster, at Westminster.

THis Court takes Cognizance of all Caufes that any way concern the Revenue belonging to that Dutchy, which hath been long lince annexed to the Crown.

The chief Judge of this Court is the Chancellor of the Dutchy, who is allisted by the Attorney of the Dutchy.

There are divers other Officers of this Court, as may be feen among the Lifts.

This Court is kept at Westminster, by the lower Ex-

All the forementioned Courts of Judicature at Westminster, are opened four times a Year, called the Four Terms, viz.

Terms.] Easter Term, which beginneth always the seventeenth Day after Easter, and lasteth twenty seven Days.

Part II.

Trinity Term begins the 5th Day after Trinity Sunday, and lasteth twenty Days.

Michaelmas Term began heretofore a little after that Feaft, but now by a late Statute, begins the 23d of October, and lafteth thirty feven Days.

Laftly, Hillary Term begins now ten Days after St. Hilary, or the 23d of January, and lasteth twenty one Days : The four Terms in all continue 105 Days: From whence must be deducted about twenty Sundays and Holydays, wherein the Courts fit not; fo that in one fourth part of the Year, and that in one City, all confiderable Caufes of the greatest part of England, are fully decided and determined : Whereas in Foreign Parts the Courts of Justice are open all the Year except High Holy-days and Harveft-time. and that in all great Cities. This may feem therefore ftrange to all Foreigners, till they know that the English have always been given more to Peaceableness and Industry than other People; and that rather than go fo far as London, and be at fo great Charges with Attorneys, and Lawvers, they will either refer their Differences to the Arbitration of their Parish-Priest; who do, or ought to think it a principal part of their Duty to reconcile Differences within their Parishes, or to the Arbitration of honest Neighbours : or elfe are content to fubmit their Differences to Tryal before the Judges of Affices, called alfo Justices in Eyre, or the Itinerant Judges.

Affizes are held twice a year, viz. after the end of Hilary Term, and after the end of Trinity Term, the twelve Judges, two by two, ride feveral Circuits, and at the principal Town of every County, fit to hear and determine all Caufes of leffer Moment, both Civil and Criminal; a most excellent wife Confficution, begun by King Henry the Second, Anno 1176. who at first divided England into lix Circuits, (not the fame that are now) and to each Circuit allotted three Judges. Wales also is divided into two Circuits; North and South Wales; for which are defign'd in like manner, two Serjeants at Law for each Circuit. These Judges give Judgment of the Pleas of the Crown, and all Common Pleas within those Counties, dispatching ordinarily, in Two or Three Days, all Controversies in a County, that are grown to Isfue in the aforementioned Courts at London, beween Plaintiff and Defendants, and that by their Peers, a Jury of Twelve Men, ex visineto, out of the Neighbourhood whereabout of the Government of Counties, &c.

Having given a brief Account of the Civil Government of all England in general, next shall be described the particular Government of Counties, Hundreds, Cities, Boroughs and Villages.

Juffices of the Peace.] For the Civil Government of all Counties, the King makes choice of fome of the Nobility, Clergy, Gentry, Lawyers, Men of Worth and Parts, who have their ufual Refidence in the County; fo many as his Majefty pleafeth, to keep the Peace of the County; and thefe, by Commiflion under the Great Seal, are called Juffices of the Peace, at first still'd Wardens of the Peace, and fuch of them whom the King doth more particularly confide in or respect, are called Justices of the Quorum; from these Words in the Commission; Quorum A. B. unum effe volumus; that is, fome Business of more Importance may not be transfacted without the Presence or Concurrence of one of them.

One of the principal Justices of Peace and Quorum, is by the Lord Chancellor made Custos Rotulorum, fo called, because he hath the Custody of the Rolls, or Records of the Sessions, and is to bring them to each Quarter Sestions.

The Original of Juffices of the Peace is from the first Year of Edward the Third.

Their Office is to call before them, examine, and commit to Prifon all Thieves, Murderers, wandring Rogues, those that hold Confpiracies, Riots, and almost all other Delinquents, that may occasion the Breach of Peace and Quiet to the Kings Subjects, to commit all such to Prison, as either cannot, or by Law are not to be bailed; that is, cannot be fet at Liberty by Sureties (taken for their Appearance at a place and time certain) and to fee them brought forth in due time to Tryal.

the the INSTRUCTION TO BE THE

Duars

Quarter Settions.] Every Quarter, or Three Months, the Juffices meet alternately at the Shire, and other chief Towns in their respective Counties, which are accordingly appointed by the Custos Rotulorum, and there the Grand Inquest, or Jury of the County is summon'd to appear, who upon Oath are to enquire of all Traytors, Hereticks, Thieves, Murderers, Money-Coyners, Rioters, &c. Those that appear to be guilty, are by the faid Justices committed to Prison, to be try'd at the next Assiss, when the Judges at Westminster come their Circuits aforementioned.

Sheriffe.] For the Execution of Laws in every County, except Westmorland and Durham, the King every Michaelmas Term nominates for each County a Sheriff, to called from the Saxon Scyre-Gerefa, Præpositus, or Præfestus Comitatus, a Governour or Guardian of the County; for the Words of the Patent are, Commissionus tibi custodiam Comitatus nostri de N. and he is properly Quæstor Provincia, he that gatheteth up and accounteth to the King for the Profits of the Shire that come to the Exchequer, but call'd in our Law-Latin, Vicecomes.

The Sheriffs Office is to execute the King's Mandates, and all Writs directed to him, out of the King's Courts, to impannel Juries, to bring Caufes and Criminals to Tryal, to fee the Sentences both in Civil and Criminal Affairs executed, to wait on and guard the Itinerant Judges twice a year, fo long as they continue within the County, which at the Affizes is performed with great Pomp, Splendour, Feaffings, &c. In order to the better executing of his Office, the Sheriff hath Attendant his under-Sheriff, divers Clerks, Stewards of Courts, Bailiffs of Hundreds, Conftables, Gaolors, Sergeants or Beadles; belides a gallant Train of Servants in tich Liveries, all on Horfe-back at the Reception of the Judges.

Before 9 Ed. II. he was chosen as Knights of the Shire are; but to avoid Tumults it is now thus :

Every Year, about the beginning of November, the Judges Itinerant nominate Six fit Men of each County; that is, Knights or Efquires of good Effates; out of thefe the Lord Chancellor, Treasurer, Privy Councellors, and Twelve Judges affemble in the Exchequer-Chamber, and fworn, make choice of three; of which the King himfelf after chufeth one to be Sheriff for that year only, tho' heretofore it was many years, and fometimes Hereditary: as at this day to the Gliffords, who by their Descent from Robert de Vipont, are Sheriff's Hereditary of the County of Westmorland, by Charter from King John.

Furthermore, the Sheriff's Office is to collect all publick Profits, Cuftoms, Taxes of the County, all Fines, Diffreffes and Amerciaments, and to bring them into the King's Exchequer, or Treafury at London, or elfewhere, as the King fhall appoint: To fupprefs Riots, execute Writs, fecure Prifoners, diffrain for Debts, attend the Judges, fee the Execution of Malefactors, protect them from the Infults of By-ftanders, return Knights for Parliament, &c.

The Sheriff of each County hath a double Function : Firft, Minifterial, to execute all Procefies and Precepts of the Courts of Law, and to make Returns of the fame : Secondly, Judicial, whereby he hath Authority to hold Two feveral Courts of diffinct Nature, the one called the Sheriff's Turn, which he holdeth in feveral Places in the County, enquiring of all Criminal Offences against the Common Law, not prohibited by any Statute : The other called the County Court, wherein he hears and determines Civil Caufes of the County under Forty Shillings, which anciently was a confiderable Sum; fo that by the great fall of Moneys now, the Sheriff's Authority in that part is much diministed.

No Suit begins, and no Process is ferved but by him; no Execution of the Law but by him. Lastly, he is the chief Confervator of the Peace in the whole County.

Bailiffs.] Every County being fubdivided into Hundreds (lo called at first, either for containing an Hundred Houses, or an Hundred Men bound to find Arms) or Wapentakes, so called from touching a Weapon when they swore Allegiance (as the manner at this day is in Sweden, at their folemn Weddings, for the chief Witness to lay all their Hands upon a Launce or Pike Jevery such Wapentake or Hundred, hath commonly a Bailiff, a very ancient Officer, but now of small Authority.

Digh-Constable.] Allo Officers called High Constables, Custodes pacis, first ordained by the Statute of Winchester, 13 Ed. 1. for the Conservation of Peace, and view of Armour; they disperse Warrants and Orders of the Justices of the Peace to each petty-Constable.

An Auditor of the Mufter-Rolls.

A Clerk of the Books, who have feveral Clerks under them.

The Commission-General of the Musters, is the Right Honourable Henry Earl of Suffolk, by Patent under the Great Seal of England.

Next under him is David Crawford Efq; Deputy-Commiffary-General, by Commission from her Majesty, constantly residing in London, keeps his Office at the Horse-Guards at White-Hall, and gives from time to time such Orders to the Deputy-Commission as her Majesty's Service requires.

There are Eight Deputy-Commiliaries, who have their Commillions from the Commillary-General; and the feveral Counties in England and Wales are divided into Eight Circuits, and each Commillary is to take care to muster all fuch Forces as at any time comes into his Circuit : Immediately after each Muster is taken, the faid Deputy-Commillaries make a Return of all their Rolls upon Oath to the faid David Crawford Efq; who keeps one Roll of each Troop and Company as a Record in his Office ; and another Roll is deliver'd to the Pay-Master-General upon Oath, and fign'd by the Commillary who musters them ; and fign'd also by two Commission-Officers of each Troop or Company, and the Mayor or chief Magistrate where each Troop or Company quarters.

These have their diffinct Circuits in the Country, for mustering the Forces which lie in several Garifons.

The Honourable William Blathwait Efq; is the Secretary at War, who has two chief Clerks; the last of which is Messenger to the Secretary.

These Three confiderable Offices are kept at the Horse-Guard.

The Judge-Advocate is George Clark Efq;.

In the Horfe-Guards, each Troop has an Adjutant.

The Marshal of the Horse-Guards.

The Chirurgeon-General of all her Majefty's Force: .

Of the Standing Militia or Trained Bands.

Besides the foremention'd Forces, there is a Standing-Militia by Land of all England, settl'd in the King, to be Govern'd, and Order'd, and Enlarg'd from time to time as his Majesty shall see occasion. They are at present computed to be near 200000 Horse and Foot.

For the Management of these standing Land Forces, the King himfelf makes choice of divers of the principal Peers of this Kingdom, and by Commission creates them Lord Lieutenants of the feveral Counties of England, with Power to Arm, Array and Form into Companies, Troops, and Regiments, to conduct (upon occasion of Rebellion or Invation) and employ the Men fo arm'd within the Counties and Places for which the faid Lords are commissionated, or into any other County, as the King shall give order, to give Commissions to Colonels, or other commissionated Officers, to prefent to the King the Names of the Deputy-Lieutenants, who have, in the Absence of the Lord Lieutenant, the fame Power; (and thefe are to be of the prime Gentry of the County) to charge any Perfon in the County with Horfe, Horfemen and Arms, or Foot-Soldiers and Arms, within the faid County proportionably to their Effates, with Limitation, That no Perfon be charg'd with a Horse, unless he hath 500 l. yearly Revenue, or 6000 l. personal Estate; no person can be charg'd with a Foot-Soldier, unless he hath 50 l. yearly Revenue, or 600 l. perfonal Estate; those that have meaner Estates are to join Two or Three together to find a Horfe and Horfeman, or a Foot-Soldier.

The foremention'd Horfe and Foot are to muster once or twice a Year, and each Horfeman during the time of the Muster, to be allow'd him, from whom he ferves, 2 s. a day, and each Foot Soldier 1 2 d. a day.

For furnishing Ammunition, and other Necessaries, the Lord Lieutenant or Deputy Lieutenant may levy every Year one fourth part (if they judge it expedient) of each Man's Proportion in the Tax of 70000 l. a Month, upon the whole Kingdom; and in the case of marching against an Enemy, they have Power to cause every Man so charged, to allow each Soldier one Months Pay, which the King is after to repay, before they may be charg'd with another Month's Pay.

These Forces are always in readiness, with all things necellary, at the Beat of Drum, or Sound of Trumpet, to appear, muster, and be compleat with Men, Horse, and Arms; and are at certain times Train'd and Disciplin'd, that they become able, skilful, and useful Soldiers.

Thefe are to be commanded only within the Kingdom for the fecurity of the King and Kingdom.

Subservient in the Standing Militia to the Lord Lieutenant and Deputy Lieutenant, are the Justices of the Peace of every County, who upon all occasions, according to the Orders of their Superiors, are to fend their Warrants to the High-Constable of the Hundred, or Petty-Constable of the Parish, &c.

Beacons.] For the better fecuring of the Kingdom from Foreign Invation, belides the Ships of War (whereof more anon) there are upon certain eminent places of all parts of England high Poles erected, whereon are faftned Pitch Barrels to be fir'd by Night, and a Smoke made by Day, thereby to give notice in a few Hours to the whole Kingdom of the approaching Invations: Whereupon the Inhabitants in Arms make hafte to the Sea-Coafts. Thefe are call'd Beacons, from the Saxon Word Beacen, or Beacnian, to fhew by a Sign. In all times of Danger fome are fet to watch at every Beacon.

Anciently there were many Caftles in all parts of England, but Inland Caftles generally have been demolifh'd in latter times, or wittingly fuffer'd to decay, that to Rebels they might be no Shelter, to Invaders no Stay, nor to the Invaded any Refuge in Flight; and confequently, that there may not be any lingting War again in England, which is the greateft Mifery and Calamity that can ever happen to a Nation.

In 1588. upon Expectation of the Spanish Armado, stil'd Invincible, there went forth from the Queen Commissions to muster in all Parts of England, all Men that were of perfect Sense and Limb, from the Age of Sxteen to Sixty, except Noblemen, Clergymen, University-Students, Lawyers, Officers, and such as had any publick Charge, leaving only in every Parish fo many Husbandmen as were sufficient to Till

Till the Ground. In all those Musters, there were then numbered Three Millions; but of those fit for War, about Six Hundred Thousand.

In another Muster of Queen Elizabeth, there were found in all England, fit for War, of Common Soldiers, about four hundred thousand, and of those Arm'd and Train'd, one hundred and eighty five thousand; besides Horse, near forty thousand; and that the Nobility and Gentry were then able to bring into the Field, of their Servants and Followers, twenty thousand Men, Horse and Foot, choice Men, and excellent Horses; and in all, fit for War, and ready upon all Occasions, Six hundred forty two thoufand, leaving fufficient to Till the Ground, and to furnish Trades, besides Nobility, Gentry, &c.

Of the present Maritime Power belonging to the Crown of England.

THE Kingdom of England being a Peninfula, almost furrounded by the Sea, there will always be a Necessity of Maritime Forces; and as Neighbours grow potent at Sea, the King of England will be necessitated to augment his Maritime Forces proportionably (how great foever the Charge thereof may be) or else to quit his Ancient Right to the Sovereignty of the Narrow Seas, and to fuffer his Merchants to be abus'd, and their Traffick every where interrupted.

It is true, that in the 24th of Elizabeth, upon a general View and Muster, there were found but Thirteen Ships of War, and one hundred thirty five Ships of confiderable Burden, belonging to all the Subjects of England. And in the Year 1600, his Majesty had but Thirty Six Ships of War, and Thirteen or Fourteen Pinaces; the biggest Ship was then a Thousand Tun, carry'd Three hundred and forry Mariners, One hundred and thirty Soldiers, and but Thirty Pieces of Ordnance. The lesser Ships of War were of One hundred Tun, Forty or Fifty Mariners, Seven or Eight Soldiers, and Eight Guns. The Pinaces of Thirty Tun, Eighteen or Twenty Mariners, and Two or Four Guns. So fmall was the Royal Fleet in those Days, when our Neighbour 220 bour Nations were weak, and always engag'd with Civil and Foreign Wars. But now, that their Strength at Sea is of late fo prodigioufly encreas'd, it will be moft expedient for this Kingdom to be always well provided : And, God be thank'd, we have a Queen who intirely feeking her Subjects Welfare, will confequently delight in Promoting our Naval Strength, which is the peculiar Intereft of this Nation.

The Forces of the Potentates at Sea, Sont des Marques de Grandeur d'Estat, saith a French Author, whosoever commands the Sea, commands the Trade of the World; he that commands the Trade, commands the Wealth of the World, and consequently the World it self.

To the Crown of England belongs the Dominion of all the Narraw Seas round about the whole Island of Great Britain, and by ancient Right thereof it hath had Possefion in all times. First, the Aborigines, or Ancient Britains, were posseff thereof, (as Mr. Selden makes appear) and in their Right the Romans held it: Then the Saxons having gotten Possefion of England, kept that Dominion; their King Edgar, amongst his Royal Titles, called himself Sovereign of the Narrow Seas.

Afterwards the Normans posseling England, claim'd, and quietly possed the fame Dominion; in Testimony whereof the Swedes, Danes, Hans-Towns, Hollanders, Zealanders, &c. were wont to ask leave to pass the British Seas, and to take Licenses to fish therein, and to this Day do strike Sail to all the Ships of War belonging to the King of England, as oft as they pass by any one of them, thereby to express that they acknowledge the Severeignty of the British Seas to belong to the King of England, according to an Ordinance made at Hastings in Suffex, by John King of England, about four hundred and fifty Years ago.

Histories mention a Great Fleet of Julius Cafar, a Fleet of the aforemention'd King Edgar, confisting of three thoufand fix hundred Sail; a Fleet of Lewis Son to Philip, King of France, of fix hundred Sail, that arriv'd at Sandwich, to affist the English Barons against King John: But those doubtles were but as so many Cottages to Castles, in respect of the present Ships of War.

Henry VIII. in the Fifth Year of his Reign, built a Ship, then accounted, the greatest that ever had been seen in England, and named it Henry Grace de Dieu, or the Great Henry; it was 1000 Tun.

Part II.

In the Eighth Year of King James the First, was built by the Londoners, a Ship of 1200 Tun, and call'd The Trades Increase; which being lost in the East-Indies, King James caus'd another to be built of 1400 Tuns; which being given to Prince Henry, was by him nam'd The Prince.

We have now many brave First and Second Rate Ships; and even our Third Rates are now built to large and strong, that they may engage fingly with a First Rate Ship of any other Nation.

The Charges of Building a Ship of the First Rate, together with Guns, Tackle and Rigging (besides Victualling) doth ordinarily amount to about 60000 l. These of lower Rates proportionably.

That the Reader may have a more perfect Idea of the prodigious fize of a First Rate English Man of War, let him take the following Account as we receiv'd it from the Gentleman that built the Royal Sovereign, viz.

The Royal Sovereign built at Woolwich by Mr. Fisher Harding, Master Shipwright of his Majesty's Yard at Debtford, was Launch'd the 25th of July 1701, and is of the following Dimensions, ziz.

To Man the Navy Royal of England requires about Thirty fix thousand Mariners; which is not half the Number which this Nation could upon occasion number; whereas according to judicious Computation, all the Seamen of France do not amount to above one and twenty thousand.

The Management of all the Naval Affairs of England was very anciently committed to three Lords Admirals of England; one for the North, another for the South, and the third for the West Division. Afterwards it was intrusted solely in One; and Richard Fitz Alan Earl of Arundel was the first fole Admiral of England that we read of

In the Admiralty Court of England use is made not only of the Civil Laws, but the Laws of Rhodes and Oleron, whereof the former is an Island in the Mediterranean Sea, about 20 Miles distant from the Continent of Asia Minor, and is now under the Turk, the ancient Inhabitants whereof, by their mighty Trade and Power at Sea, grew fo expert in the Regulation of all Maritime Matters and Differences, and their Determinations therein were efteem'd to Juft and Equitable, that their Laws in fuch Affairs have ever fince been obferv'd for Oracles. Those Laws were long ago incorporated into the Volumes of the Civil Law : and the Romans, who gave Laws to other Nations, and excell'd all Nations in making of good Laws, yet for their Sea Affairs referr'd all Debates and Controversies to the Judgment of those Rhodian Laws.

Oleron is an Illand anciently belonging to the Crown of England, feated in the Bay of Aquitain, not far from the Mouth of the Garonne, where our famous Warriour King Richard the First, caus'd to be compil'd fuch Excellent Laws for Sea Matters, that in the Ocean Sea. Weftward, they had almost as much Repute as the Rhodian Laws in the Mediterranean, and these Laws were call'd La Roll d'Oleron.

King Edward the Third (who first erected this Court of Admiralty, as fome hold) made at Queenborough, 1375. very Excellent Conffitutions concerning Maritime Affairs, and many Statutes and Ordinances have been made by other Princes and People, as at Rome, Pifa, Genoa, Marseilles, Barcelona and Messina, yet that Fragment of the Rhodian Law still extant, with the Comments thereon by the old Juris-Confults, inferted in the Pandetts, and the Conffitutions made by the Roman Emperors, contained in the Code, and in the Novelles, ftill holds the Preand more will The eminence, Lords Commissioners executing that Place, and to pay all Charges of the Navy, by Warrant from the principal Officers of the Navy; for which he had formerly a Salary of 220 l. 13 s. 4 d. per Annum, besides 3 d. per Pound out of all Moneys paid by him; but hath now an Honourable Allowance certain from her Majefty in lieu thereof viz. 2000 1. per Annum, and 800 1. per Annum more for his Infiruments.

Comptroller. The fecond is the Comptroller of the Nawy, whole Office is to attend and comptrol all Payments of Wages, to know the Market Rates of all Stores belonging to Shipping, to examine and audit all Treasurers Vi-Etuallers and Store-keepers Accompts, Or. His Salary is 500 l. yearly.

Surbeyoz.] The third is the Surveyor of the Navy. whofe Office is generally to know the State of all Stores, and fee the Wants fupply'd; to furvey the Hulls, Mafts, and Yards, and estimate the Value of Repairs by Indenture; to charge all Boatswains and Carpenters of her Majesty's Navy, with what Stores they receive; and at the end of each Voyage, to state and audit their Accompts, His Salary is 500 l. per Annum.

Clerk of the alts.] The fourth is Clerk of the Acts, whole Office is to record all Orders, Contracts, Bills, Warrants, and other Businesses transacted by the Principal Officers and Commissioners of the Navy, at the Salary of 500 l. per Annum. In time of War there is an extraordinary Clerk of this kind, by reason of the Multiplicity of Business.

The Commissioners of the Navy.

The First executes that part of the Comptroller of the Navy's Duty, which relates to the comptrolling of the Victuallers Accompts. His Salary is 500 l. per Annum.

The fecond executes another part of the faid Comptroller's Duty, relating to the Comptrol of the Accompts of the Store-keepers of the feveral Yards : His Salary is 500 l. per Anzum.

The Third relides at Portfmouth, and has the care of managing the Navy at that Port: His Sal. is 500 1 per An. The

The Fourth refides at Chatham, and has the fame charge of Affairs in the Queen's Yard there: His Sal. is 500 l. per Annum.

A Fifth refides at Plymouth, and discharges the like Employ there.

There are other Commissioners at large, the number more or lefs according to the Exigencies of Publick Affairs.

The principal Officers and Commissioners, do hold their Offices by Patent under the Great Seal of England. And fince the great Increase of her Majesty's Navy, have feveral Clerks under them, with Salaries allow'd by the Queen, for the dispatch of the Business of the Navy, under their respective Managements.

Commissioners foz Midualting the Maby.

The Victualling of her Majefty's Navy hath formerly been undertaken by Contract, but is now manag'd by Commiffioners, who keep their Office on Tower-bill, within the Parifh of St. Botolph Aldgate, and these have their Agents also at Chatham, Portsmouth, Plymouth, and other convenient Ports in England and Scotland.

Bards.] There are belonging to her Majefty's Navy, Six great Yards, viz. Chatham, Deptford, Woolwich, Portfmouth, Shyrenels and Plymouth, where her Majefty's Royal Ships are laid up in Harbour; which Yards are fitted with feveral Docks, Wharfs, Lanches, and Graving places, for the Building, Repairing and Cleaning of her Majefty's Ships; and therein are lodg'd great Quantities of Timber, Mafts, Planks, Anchors, and other Materials. There are alfo convenient Store-houfes in each Yard, in which are laid up vaft Quantities of Cables, Rigging, Sails, Blocks, and all other forts of Stores needful for her Majefty's Navy-Roval.

The Queen hath also another Yard at Harwick, which is chiefly made use of in the times of some great Sea-War, and there are also Officers to take care of the Storehouses there.

In the aforementioned Yards her Majefty hath divers great Rope-Yards, as at Woolwich, Chatham, Portfmouth, &c. wherein are made Cables, and all forts of Cordage for her faid Navy.

Part II.

All the faid Officers, and whole Navy-Office, are governed by the Lord High-Admiral of England.

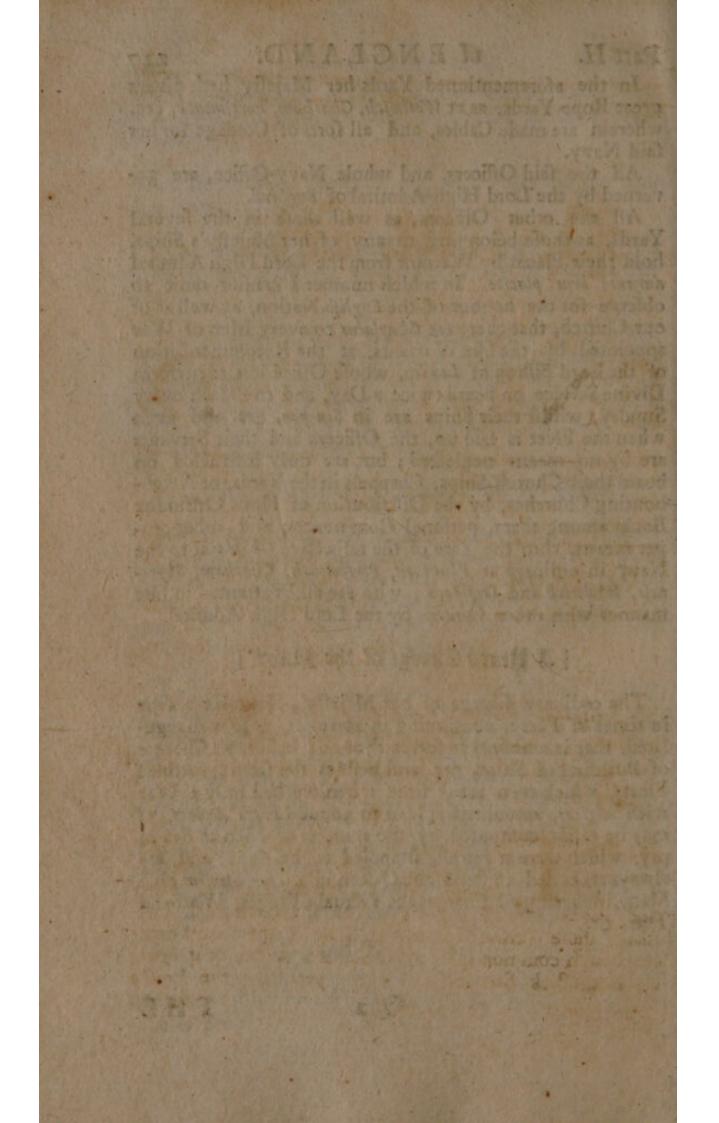

All the other Officers, as well those in the feveral Yards, as those belonging to any of her Majesty's Ships, hold their Places by Warrant from the Lord High Admiral durante bene placito. In which number I cannot omit to observe for the honour of the English Nation, as well as of our Church, that there are Chaplains to every Man of War appointed by the like Warrants, at the Recommendation of the Lord Bishop of London, whose Office it is to perform Divine Service on board twice a Day, and to Preach every Sunday, whilst their Ships are in Sea-pay, Oc. and even when the Fleet is laid up, the Officers and their Servants are by no means neglected; but are duly inftructed on board their Church-Ships, Chappels in the Yards, or Neighbouring Churches, by the Distribution of Pious Orthodox Books among them, perfonal Conferences, and other proper means, thro' the care of the refpective Chaplains to the Navy in ordinary at Plymouth, Portfmouth, Chatham, Shyrenefs, Woolwich and Deptford ; who are all Warranted in like manner with other Officers by the Lord High Admiral.

[3 Pears Charge of the Maby.]

The ordinary Charge of her Majefty's Navy for a Year in times of Peace, continuing in Harbour, is fo well regulated, that it amounts to fcarce 130000 l. befides all Charges of Building of Ships, &c. and befides the fetting forth of Fleets, which even at the time when we had only a Warwith Algiers, amounted at leaft to 300000 l. per Annum, as may be eafily computed by the number of Men at Sea in pay, which were at fewess, supposed to be 6000, and are always reckoned to stand the Queen in 4*l*. per Menjem each Man, including all Charges, as Victuals, Wages, Wear and Tear, &c.

229 THE Present State OF ENGLAND. Part III. Of Manners, Customs, Laws, Gc. CHAP. I. Of Religious Manners, viz. of the Clergy; Their Name, Orders, Privileges, Revenues, Munificence, &cc. Also of Dissenters from the Established Church. HE Clergy were fo called, because they are God's KANpo or Portion; for al-Mames. though all Christians may be stiled God's Portion as well as God's Servants ; yet amongft Chriflians, those Persons whom God hath set apart, and separated from common Use to his Service, to be, as it were, his Domestick Servants, are more peculiarly the Lord's Portion Portion: And therefore from the First Age of Christianity, the Perfons fo fet apart, have been called Clerici, Clerks, or Clergy.

Diders.] The Clergy of the Church of England have in all Ages, ever fince our first Conversion to this present Day, confisted of Archbishops, Bishops, Priests and Deacons. If any shall object, that Austin the Monk was not an Archbishop, notwithstanding the venerable Bede gives him that Title; and that Bede writes in the Stile of his own Age; but that no such Word appears in the Epistle of Pope Gregory, either to Austin the Monk, or Eleutherius Bishop of Arles who confectated him, we shall not contend; let 'em but allow Theodorus Gracus, the fixth Metropolitan from Austin the Monk to have had the Stile of Archbishop, Anno 668.

Notwithstanding Archbishops have a Jurisdiction Superiour to their Suffragans, yet they are of the same Order as Bishops; for we have only these Three Orders, Bishop, Priest, and Deacon; of which see Part 2. Cap. 10. of Ecclesiastical Government. But here it may not be unacceptable to entertain the Reader a little with an account of

The Solemn manner of making a Bifhop in England.

When any Bifhop's See becomes vacant, the Dean and Chapter of that Cathedral giving notice thereof to the King, who is Patron of all the Bishopricks in England (except that of the Iste of Man, whom the Earl of Darby names) and humbly requesting that his Majesty will give leave for them to chufe another; the King hereupon grants to the Dean his Gonge d' Estire, which in French (wherein it was anciently penn'd) fignifies leave to elect. Then the Dean fummons a Chapter, or Affembly of the Prebendaries, who either elect the Perfon recommended by the King's Letters, or fhew caufe to the contrary. Next, the Election is certified to the Party elected, who doth modeftly refuse it the first and fecond time; and if he doth refuse it a third time, then that being certified to his Majefty, another is recommended. When the Election is accepted by the Party, it is certified to the King, and the Archbishop of that Province; whereupon the King gives his Royal Affent under the Great Seal of England, which 15 is exhibited to the Archbishop of that Province, with command to Confirm and Confectate him. Hereunto the Archbishop fubscribes fiat Confirmatio, and gives Commission under his Archiepifcopal Seal, to his Vicar-General, to perform all the Acts required for perfecting his Confirmation.

The Vicar-General then, in the Name of the Archbishop fends forth a Citation, fummoning all Oppofers of che faid Election, or Person elected, to appear at a certain Time and Place, especially affigned, to make their Obje-Stions: This is done by an Officer of the Arches, ufually at Bow Church in Cheap-fide, London, by Proclamation Three times, and then affixing the faid Citation on the Church Door, for all People to read, the faid Officer returns an Authentick Certificate thereof to the Archbishop and Vicar-General. At the day and place affigned for the Appearance of the Oppofers, the Vicar-General fits; then the Proctor for the faid Dean and Chapter exhibits the Royal Affent, and the Commission of the Archbishop; which read and accepted by the Vicar-General, the Proctor exhibits the Proxy from the Dean and Chapter, and then prefents the elected Bifhop, and returns the Citation, and defires the Oppofers to be publickly called Three times ; which being done, accordingly he accufeth their Contumacy; and for Penalty thereof defires that the Bufinefs may proceed, which the Vicar-General in a Schedule by him read and fubfcribed, doth order. Next, the Proctor giving a Summary Petition, wherein is deducted the whole Procefs of Election and Confent, defires a time to be affigned to proveit; which the Vicar-General admits and decrees : After which the Proctor exhibits the Royal Affent, with the elected Bishop's Affent, and the Certificate to the Archbithop, and defires a Term prefently to be affigned to hear final Sentence; which the Vicar-General decrees. Then the Proctor defires that all Oppofers fhould again be called, which being thrice publickly done, and none appearing, nor oppofing, they are pronounced Contumacious, and a Decree made to proceed to Sentence, by a Schedule read and fubfcribed by the faid Vicar-General. Then the elect Perfon takes the Oaths of Supremacy, Simony, and Canonical Obedience.

Next the Judge of the Arches reads and fubfcribes the Sentence, after which ufually there is an Entertainment made 232 made for the Officers and others there present; which being once done at the Sign of the Naggs Head in Cheapfide, near the faid Bow Church, gave occasion to our Adversaries of the Romifb Church to affirm that Fable, That there our Bishops, after the Reformation were confectated.

When a Bishop is elected, and the Election confirmed, he may give Institution, and do his ordinary Jurisdiction, and may sit in Parliament as Lord thereof; according to Sir Edw. Coke 4. Inst. p. 47.

After the Confirmation then according to the King's Mandate, is the folemn Confectation of the Elected Bifhop; which is done by the Archbifhop, with the Affiftance of Two other Bifhops, in manner following:

Upon some Sunday or Holy-day, after Morning Service, the Archbishop beginneth the Communion-Service after a certain Prayer appointed for this occasion, one of the Bifhops there prefent readeth the Epiftle, 1 Tim. 3. v. 3. to v. 8, or Alts 20, V. 17. to v. 26. Another readeth the Gofpel, John 21. V. 15, to V. 18. or John V. 19 to V. 24, or Mat. 28. v. 19. to the end; and after the Nicene Creed, and a Sermon preached by fome learned Divine upon the Occafion, the elected Bishop, vested with his Rochet, or Linnen Garment, is by Two Bishops presented to the Archbilhop, or fome other Bilhop commissioned by him, fitting in his Chair, who demands the King's Mandate for the Confectation, and caufes it to be read : Then the Elect Bithop takes the Oath of Supremacy and of Canonical Obedience to the Archbishop. And after divers Prayers, and feveral Interrogatories put to the Bishop, and his Answers, the reft of the Epifcopal Habit is put upon him; and after more Prayers, the Elect Bifhop kneeleth down, and the Archbishop and Bishops there present lay their Hands on his Head, and by a certain pious, grave Form of Words, they confectate him : Afterwards the Archbishop doth de-Jiver to the Bifhop Elect a Bible, with another fet Form of Words, and fo all proceed to the Communion-Service ; and having received the Sacrament and the Bleffing, they repair from Church to Dinner, which is at the Charge of the Bifhop Elect.

This Form and Manner of Confectating Bishops, is according to the Rule laid down in the Fourth Council of Carthage, about the Year 470. generally received in all the Provinces of the Western Church.

Part III,

Note,

Part III. of ENGLAND.

Note, That by our Order of Confecrating Bishops, it is evident Bishops are look'd upon as a distinct Order of themselves; and not only as a different Degree from the rest of the Presbytery, as some would have it.

Next goes forth a Mandate from the Archbishop to the Archdeacon of his Diocefe, to install the Bishop Elected, Confirmed, and Confecrated : Which Inftalment is almost on the fame manner in all Cathedrals, and is usually thus : Upon any Day, between the hours of Nine and Eleven, in the prefence of a publick Notary, the Bishop Elect, or his Proxy, which is usual, is introduced into the Cathedral Church by the Archdeacon of Canterbury; by whom all the Bifhops of that Province are installed (or elfe by his Proxy fometimes;) and first he declares his Affent to the King's Supremacy, and fwears, That unlefs he be otherwife difpenfed with, he will be refident according to the Cuftom of that Cathedral, and observe the Customs of the faid Church, and cause others to observe the same. Then the Archdeacon, with the Petty-Canons, and Officers of the Church, accompany the Bishop up to the Quire, and there place him in the Seat prepared for the Bilhops, between the Altar and the Right fide of the Quire ; and then the Archdeacon pronounces these Words in Latin, Ego authoritate mihi commissa, induco & inthronizo Reverendum in Christo Patrem Dominum N. N. Episcopum, & Dominus custodiat suum introitum & exitum ex boc nunc. & in feculum, &c.

Then the Subdean, and the Petty-Canons fing the Te Deum; mean while the Bishop is again conducted from his own Place to the Deans Seat, and there in token of taking real Possession, he stands till Te Deum is ended, together with other Prayers, the Archdeacon reading fome Verficles, as, O Lord fave this thy fervant N. our Bishop; (the People answering) And Send him Health from thy Holy Place, &c. Then the Archdeacon reads a short Collect for the Bishop by Name. After Prayers the Bishop is conducted into the Chapter-Houfe, and there placed on a high Seat. Then the Archdeacon and all the Prebendaries and Officers of the Church, come before the Bifhop, and acknowledge Canonical Obedience to him. Finally, the publick Notary is by the Archdeacon required to make an Instrument, declaring the whole Matter of Fact in this Affair.

Then the faid Bifhop is introduced into the King's Prefence, to do his Homage for his Temporalities or Barony, by kneeling down, and putting his Hands between the Hands of the King fitting in a Chair of State, and by taking of a folemn Oath to be true and faithful to his Majefty, (which Oath is read to him by one of the Principal Secretaries of State) and that he holds his Temporalities of him.

Lastly, the new Bishop compounds for the First-Fruits of his Bishoprick, that is, agrees for his first Years Profits, to be paid to the King within two Years or more, if the King pleases.

The Translation of a Bishop from one Bishoprick to another, differs only in this from the manner of making a Bishop, that there is no Confectation.

The Translation of a Bishop to be Archbishop, differs only in the Commission, which is directed by his Majesty to Four, or more Bishops to confirm him. Note, that the Difference between an Archbishop and a Bishop is, that the Archbishop, with other Bishops, doth confectate a Bishop, as a Bishop with other Priests doth ordain a Priest; the Atchbishop visits a whole Province, the Bishop only his Diocefe; the Archbishop can convocate a Provincial Synod, the Bishop only a Diocesan Synod: The Archbishop is Ordinary too, and hath Canonical Authority over all the Bishops of his Province, as the Bishop hath over all the Priests of his Diocese.

None may be admitted a Bifhop till he is full Thirty Years old.

The Ordination of Priefts and Deacons is Four times the Year; upon four feveral Sundays in the Ember, or Fasting Weeks, fo appointed first by the Holy Martyr Calixtus, Bishop of Rome, about the Year of our Lord 220. that fo all the Nation may at once in their joint Prayers to God, recommend them that are to receive Ordination; which is performed by a Bishop in a Solemn, Grave, Devout manner, which it is needless to particularise, because the Offices of such Ordinations may be seen in every Church-Common-Prayer-Book.

None is to be Ordained Priest till he be Twenty four years of Age, nor a Deacon under Twenty three.

How a Clergy-man becomes fetl'd in a Living.

Part III.

Upon the Vacancy of a Church, the Ckergy-man defiring to fucceed, must take special care that he doth not procure a Presentation thereunto by any Promise, Contract, or Agreement, directly or indirectly, which may make him become Simoniacus; or that any Body on his behalf make any fuch Contract or Agreement, he himfelf being privy or not privy thereto, whereby he may enter the Church Simoniace; for that's the Diffinction; and both cafes of Simoniacus, and Simoniace, are utterly unlawful ; and fo much the more heinous, because Perjury must enfue : For no one can be admitted into a Benefice before he take a Solemn Oath against Simony, wiz. That he is not directly or indirectly privy to any fuch Agreement; and if any one unknown to him, hath on his behalf made any fuch Simoniacal Contract, that he will in no wife fland by it, or answer it.

Now by Simony is underftood not only an Agreement for Money in hand paid, or yearly to be allow'd, but aliquid aliud emolumentum pacto interveniente, as the Words of the Englifb Canon are, Anno 1229. Lindwood: any other Profit, Emolument or Advantage; and the Words of the Statute of 31 Eliz. c. 6. are, Sum of Money, Reward, Gift, Profit, or Benefit, directly or indirectly, for or by reason of any Promise, Agreement, Grant, Bond, Covenant, or other Assurance, &c. And this holds not only in Acceptance of a Living, but likewife in Exchange or Refignation.

The Penalty of this Statute is, that the corrupt Patron fhall forfeit the next Prefentation to the King, and two Years value of the Living; not according to the Valuation in the King's Books, but according to the true and utmost Value of the Benefice.

And the corrupt Incumbent shall be for ever difabl'd to have and enjoy the fame Living.

Having therefore obtain'd the Confent of the Patron lawfully and honourably, he must get a Prefentation fign'd and feal'd by him in this or fome fuch like Form :

Form of a Prefentation to a Living.

Reverendo in Christo Patri & Domino, H. divina permissione, I. Epilcopo ejulve vicario in spiritualibus generali, A. B. Armiger indubitateus Patronus Ecclesta Parochialis de C. in Comitatu D. Salutem in Domino sempiternam. Ad Ecclesiam de C. prædictam vestræ Diocescos modo per mortem, (if void by the Death of the last Incumbent; or, modo per resignationem, if by refignation; or, per Ceffionem, if by taking a Second Living without Qualification ; or, per Deprivationem, if by Deprivation) E. F. ultimi incumbentis ibidem jam vacantem, or ad meam donationem pleno jure Spectantem; dilectum mihi in Christo, G. H. Clericum in Artibus Magistrum Paternitati ve-Are presento, humiliter Supplicans quatenus prefatum, G.H. ad dictam Ecclesiam admittere, eumq; Rectorem, (if it be a Re-Etory, or Vicarium, if a Vicarage) Ejuldem Ecclesie instituere eum suis juribus, & pertinentiis universis, cæteraq; expedire, & peragere que vestro in hac parte incumbunt Officio pastorali, dignemini cum favore. In cujus rei testimonium his præsentibus figillum meum appolui : Datum die M. annog; Regni Dominæ noftre Annæ, Dei Gratia, Anglia, Scotia, Francia, & Hiberniæ, Regina, Fidei Defenforis, &cc. Secundo Annog; Domini, 1703.

Which Prefentation, the Clerk prefented muft carry to the Bilhop of that Diocefe, in which the Church is, or to his Vicar-General; or if the Bifhoprick be vacant, to the Guardian of the Spiritualities. And he muft carry with him and exhibit, if requir'd, Letters Teftimonial, either from the Mafter and Fellows of the College where he laft refided, or under the Hands and Seals of Three, at leaft, Reverend Divines, who knew him well for three Years laft paft, and can give a good Account of his Vertue, Uniformity, and Learning, in this, or fome fuch like Form :

Form of a Teftimonial.

nobis in Christo, A. B. in Artibus Magistrum per triennium proxime elapsum assiduam Officio suo operan dedisse, witamq; & mores suos pie & sobrie instituisse; dignumq; judicamus qui ad quidlibet munus in Ecclesia promoveatur, & quam de eo opinionem concepimus eandem apud omnes libere prositemur. In cujus rei testimonium sigilla nostra presentibus apposuimus. Dat. die. M. Anno Dom. 1703.

Such a Teffimonial as this is always indifpenfably required before holy Orders are conferr'd; and the Bifhop demands it even from a Priest, before he admits him to a Benefice.

Note, That if any one living in a certain Diocefe, and not in either of the Two Universities, go to the Bishop of another Diocese for Orders, he must have Letters Dimissory from the Bishop of that Diocese where he last resided, to the other Bishop; and so he ought to have if he goes for a Living.

Note allo, That the Prefentation must be tendred to the Bishop within an hundred eighty two Days after the Living is vacant, else it lapses to the Bishop; and if the Bishop then doth not collate in half a Year more, it lapses to the Archbishop; and if the Archbishop doth not collate in half a Year more, it lapses to the King; and the next Prefentation continues so, till the King (if the Living be 201. per Annum in the Valuation Book, or the Lord Keeper's, if under 201.) prefents, be it when it will; for Nullem Tempus occurrit Regi. After this, the Person to be admitted is examin'd, and if he be found duly qualify'd, the Bishop or his Surrogate inflitutes him in these or other Words: Institue te Restorem Ecclesia Parochialis de C. & babere curam animarum & accipe curam tuam & meam.

Then a Mandate is iffu'd out under the Bifhop's Seal, to the Archdeacon of the Place; who himfelf, or by fome Clergyman whom he fhall appoint, is to induct the Clerk into his Living; which is done by delivery of the Bell-Rope; and then the new inflituted Clerk being left alone in the Church, he tolls the Bell; and now he is inducted.

Within two Months after this he must in the faid Church during Divine Service (i. e. after fome part of the Church-Service, and before the whole is finish'd) read the Nine and Thirty Articles of Religion, and declare aloud loud his unfeign'd Affent and Confent to all that is therein contain'd, positively, and without any Referve, one or two fubstantial Parishioners reading along with him, who may testifie he omitted no part. Likewise within two Months after his Induction, he muss read the Book of Common-Prayer upon fome Lord's Day, both Forenoon and Afternoon; that is, the whole Service of the Church appointed for that Day, as it is there appointed, and likewise declare his Affent and Confent to all therein, contain'd in these Words:

I A.B. do declare my unfeign'd Affent and Confent to all and every thing contain'd and prescrib'd in, and by the Book, intitul'd The Book of Common-Prayer, and Administration of the Sacraments, and other Rites and Ceremonies of the Church, according to the Use of the Church of England; together with the Platter or Plalms of David, pointed as they are to be sung or said in Churches; and the Form and Manner of Making, Ordaining, and Confecrating of Bishops, Priests and Deacons.

And whereas before he be inflituted, he must subscribe to this Declaration following.

I A. B. do declare, That no Foreign Prince, Person, Prelate, State or Potentate, bath, or ought to have any Jurisdiction, Power, Superiority, Preeminence or Authority, Ecclesiastical or Spiritual within this Realm; And that I will conform to the Liturg; of the Church of England, as it is now by Law establish'd.

After he hath subscrib'd this Declaration, he must have a Certificate from the Bishop, &c. of his Subscription to the faid Declaration.

So likewife within three Months after his Institution, upon fome Lord's Day, during Divine Service, he must publickly and openly read his Certificate from the Bishop, &c. of his Subscription to the faid Declaration, and he must at the fame time read the faid Declaration it felf.

And if he hath fail'd in any of the forefaid things, he hath forfeited his Living.

Part III.

And whenever any Parson or Vicar goes to Law for Dilapidations, Tythes, or any thing belonging to the Church, if the Defendant infift upon it, he must prove the doing of all these things.

Therefore he must have credible Witnesses when he subfcribes before the Bishop.

And two credible Parishioners having read along with him the Thirty nine Articles, should endorse upon the Book in which they read, their Attestation; which Book so attested, the Patson is to keep by him fafely.

So likewife fome intelligent Parishioners must attest under their Hands, That fuch an one on fuch a Day, read the Common-Prayer and Declaration as aforefaid; and all these Attestations are to be carefully preferv'd.

See more in the Acts of Uniformity, printed before the Book of Common-Prayer.

Divideges of the Clergy.] It hath been provided, not without fingular Wifdom, that as the ordinary courfe of common Affairs is difpofed of by general Laws; to likewife Mens rarer incident Neceffities and Utilities, fhould be with fpecial Equity confider'd. Hence it is that fo many Privileges, Immunities, Exemptions, and Difpenfations have been to the Clergy of England, granted at all times: Our Anceftors thinking it very reafonable, that as Soldiers were wont by the Roman Emperors, to be endow'd with certain Privileges for their Warding and Fighting to preferve the State from External Enemies, fo the Clergy ought to have certain Immunities and Privileges for their Watching and Spiritual Warfare, to preferve the State from Internal Enemies, the World, the Fleih and the Devil.

Of Privileges, fome belong to Archbishops, fome to Bishops, as they are fo, and fome belong to them, and the inferior Clergy as they are Ecclesiasticks or Churchmen.

Clergymens Goods are not to pay Tolls in Fairs and Markets.

No Clergymen may be compell'd to undergo any perfonal Functions, (as to be Sheriff, Constable, Overseer of the Poor, &c. or Services of the Common-wealth.

All Clergymen are free from the King's Purveyors, the King's Carriages, the King's Post, & for which they may demand a Protection from the King, Cum Claufuls solume.

If a Clergyman acknowledge a Statute, his Body shall not be taken by Vertue of any Process thereupon; for the Writ runs, Si Laicus sit, &c.

No Clergyman can be arrested in the Church or Churchyard, or any where attending on Divine Service, going, ftaying, or returning.

Clergymen are not obliged to appear at Sheriff's Tourns or Views of Frank Pledge, there to take their Oath of Allegiance; the ancient Laws prefuming, that those whose principal care and office should be to teach the People Loyalty and Allegiance to their King, could not themselves want Loyalty.

No Preacher may be disturb'd, vex'd, or molested while he is preaching or officiating.

By Magna Charta no Clergyman is to be fined or amerced according to his Spiritual Means, but according to his Temporal Eftate, and according to the Crime committed.

The Goods of Clergymen are discharged by the Common Law of England from Tolls and Customs, (Si non exerceant Merchandizas de eisdem) of Average, Pontage, Murage, Pavage, for which they have the King's Writ to discharge them.

The Glebe Lands and Spiritual Revenues of Clergymen, being held in Pura & perpetua Eleemosyna (i.e.) in Frankalmoine, are exempted from arraying and mustering of Men or Horses for the War, as appears in a Statute still in force, wiz 8 Hen. 4. Numb. 12. in the unprinted Rolls of that Parliament.

If a Clergyman have Lands, by the Tenure of which he is fubject to be Bayliff, Reeve, or Beedle, and be chosen into any fuch Office by reason thereof, he hath a Curfory Writ out of the Chantery to discharge himself.

The Clergy being by their Function prohibited to wear a Sword, or any Arms (their Habit being alone their Defence) cannot ferve in Perfon in War; they ferve their Country otherwife; and for that Service have always been thought worthy of their Spiritual Profits and Revenues, and of the King's Protection.

A Clergyman is not bound to the Leet, nor to follow Hue and Cry.

A

A Clerk in holy Orders convict of a Crime, for which the Benefit of the Clergy is allowable, fhall not upon the producing his Orders, be burn'd in the Hand.

A Clerk in holy Orders at this day shall have his Clergy ad infinitum, from time to time; which no Layman can have above once.

It was an ancient Maxim in England, Nullus pro decimis debet onerari aliqua de reparatione Pontis, seu aliquibus oneribus temporalibus. No one on the Account of Tythes is chargeable with Reparation of Bridges, or any other Temporal Burthen.

These and other Immunities of the Clergy, the great Aquinas thought agreeable to natural Equity, or the Law of Nature; thence it was that King Pharaoh, Gen. 47. when all the Lands of his Subjects were mortgaged to him for Bread, yet spared the Lands of the Priests. So Ezra 7. 24. and so in our Ancient Laws we find, De Danigeldo, libera & quieta erat omnis Ecclesia in Anglia & etiam omnis terra quæ in proprio Dominio Ecclesiæ erat, ubicunque jacebat, mihil prorsus in tali redditione perfolvens; and the reason thereof is added, Quia Rex magis in Ecclesiæ confidebat Orationibus quam in Armorum defensionibus.

The Sheriff may not intermeddle with the Clergy in refpect of their Spiritual Promotions, but return, Quod Clericus est beneficiatus in Epilcopatu non habet Laicum fædum in Baliva mea. And this Privilege is confirm'd to them by Magna Charta.

It appears fully by the Common Law and Statutes of this Land, that the Clergy are not to be burthen'd in the general Charges with the Laity of this Realm, neither to be troubl'd or incumber'd, untels they be fpecially nam'd, and exprefly charg'd by fome Statutes : For general Words do not affect 'em : Therefore if a Robbery be committed, and the Hundred be brought into Trouble for it, it is not understood that the Minister should contribute, though the Words are Gentes demorantes. So they are not to be affefsed for Watching and Warding, nor for mending the Highways, &r.

Many more Privileges, Immunities, Liberties, and Franchifes there are rightly belonging to the Clergy of England; fo many, that to fet down all, faith Sir Edward Ceke upon Magna Charta, would take up a whole Book. 242 The Privileges of the Clergy, and Franchifes of the Church were (with the Liberties of the People) granted, confirm'd, and fettl'd by the King in full Parliament. Anno 1253. in fuch a folemn manner, as no Story can parallel it: The King food up with his Hand upon his Breaft, all the Lords Spiritual and Temporal flood with burning Tapers in their Hands, and the Archbishop pronounc'd as

By the Authority of God Omnipotent, of the Son, and of the Holy Ghoft, Sic. We Excommunicate, Anathematize, and Sequester from our Holy Mother the Church, all those who henceforth knowingly, and maliciously deprive and spoil Churches of their Right; and all those that shall by any Art or Wit, rashly violate, diminish, or alter secretly or openly, in Deed, Word, or Counsel, these Ecclesiastical Liberties, &c. granted by our Lord the King, to the Archbishops, Bishops, Prelates, &c. For everlasting Memory whereof we have hereunto put our Seal. After which, all throwing down their Tapers, extinguish'd and fmoaking, they all faid, So let all that shall go against this Curle, be extinct and flink in Hell.

Since which, all King's of England at their Coronations have by folemn Oaths promis'd to preferve the fame ; and they have been confirm'd by above Thirty fucceffive Parliaments, and commanded to be read once a Year in all Churches; and if any A& shall be made to the contrary, it is to be held for null and void, by the Statute of 4 Ed. 3.

Revenues of the Ciergy.] To the end that Men of the best Rank and Ability, thould in all times be encouraged to embrace the most painful and severe Profession of a Clergyman, and that the People should the more willingly be guided and conducted by them, our most Christian Anceffers, according to the Pattern of Gods ancient People the Jews, and of all other Christian Common-wealths. judged it expedient to allot large Revenues, and a most plentiful Maintenance to the English Clergy, having obferved with Solomon, That a wife Man for his Poverty is too often contemn'd and despis'd, and that there is nothing more contemptible and ridiculous than a poor Clergyman.

The first King's of England had all the Lands of England in Demein, the fecond fole Monarch among the Saxon Kings, Ethelwolphus An. 855. by the Advice of his Nobles, gave for ever to God and the Church, both the Tithe of all Goods

Part III. of ENGLAND.

Goods, and the Tenth part of all the Lands of England, free from all fecular Service, Taxations and Impolitions whatfoever. The Charter of Donation is to be feen in Ingulphus and other Authors; which Charter thus ends, Qui augere voluerit nostram Donationem (as many pious Kings and Nobles fince have done) Augeat Omnipotens Deus dies ejus prosperos, st quis vero mutare vel minuere presampferit, noscat se ad Tribunal Christi rationem redditurum. He that shall add to our Donation, may the Almighty God encrease his happy Days; but if any one shall presume to change or diminish it, let him know that he must give an account thereof at the Tribunal of Christ.

This folemn Sanction was afterwards confirm'd by divers Acts in following Reigns, as of Edmund, Edgar, Ethelred, Alured, and William the Conqueror; fo that the Clergie of England (whether they have Jus divinum or no) have an ancienter Right by Common Law to their Tythes than any Lay Subject can shew for his Lands in Fee-fimple.

Befides the Tenths of Lands, and the Husbandman's Profits, Merchants alfo and Shopkeepers paid to their Spiritual Paftors the Tenth of their Gain, Servants in divers places the Tenth of their Wages; and in fome places, Alefellers the Tenth Flagon; alfo Handicrafts-men and Day-labourers paid the Tenth of their Wages upon their Oaths, if required.

Per Affilas Foresta, and other Records it doth appear, That Tithes have been paid, even of Venison in divers parts of England, Men making Conficience in those Days, as amongsit the Ancient Jews, to pay Tithes of all they posseful.

Belides all those, in some Places were paid to the Paftor Obventions, Oblations, Pensions, Mortuaries, &cc. So that the English Clergy were the best provided for of any Clergy of the whole World, except only the Nation of the Jews, amongst whom the Tribe of Levi, being not the Twenty seventh part of the Twelve Tribes, as appears in the Book of Numbers, yet had, as Mr. Selden confesset, and that by God's own Appointment, three times the Annual Revenue of the greatest of the Twelve Tribes; infomuch that the poorest Priest in the Twenty four Courses might be reputed a wealthy Person.

And as amongst the Jews, the Twenty four Chief Priests, for the better Maintenance of their Authority and Dignity had means far exceeding those of the inferior Clergy, and the High-Priest had a Maintenance as far exceeding any of the faid 24 Priests; so in England the Bishops, by the great Piety and Bounty of several English Kings, had, in Lands and Revenues, Temporal and Spiritual, a Maintenance far more ample than those of the inferiour Clergy, and the two Archbishops more ample than the Bishops.

William the Conqueror at his coming into England, found the Bishopricks then in being, so richly endow'd with Lands that he erected them all into Baronies, and every Barony then consisted of thirteen Knights Fees at the least.

Besides, there belong'd to Bishops several Perquisites and Duties for the Visitation of their Dioceses, for Ordinations, Institutions, Census Gathedraticus, Subsidium Charitativum, which upon reasonable Gauses they might require of the Clergy under them, also other Duties called Decimarum Quarta, Mortuariorum & Oblationum pensitatio, Jus Hospitii, processo, Livania, Viatici vel Commeatus collatio, which upon a Journey to Rome they might demand.

Tenths and First-Fruits were anciently paid, (as is believ'd) to the feveral Diocefans, as was continu'd to the Bishop of Norwich, till Hen. VIII. depriv'd him thereof, and depriv'd the Pope of all the reft; moreover all Cathedral Churches were, by divers Kings and Nobles richly furnished with Lands, for the plentiful Maintenance of a Dean. and a certain Number of Prebendaries; infomuch, that together with the Lands given to Monasteries, a Third part of the Lands of England belonged to the Church and Churchmen; whereby did accrue much Benefit to this Nation : Great Hospitality was kept; many Hospitals, Colleges, Churches, Bridges built, and other publick, pious and charitable Works; all Leafes held of them by the Laity. were not only much more easie than other Tenures, but fo unquestionable, that there was little Work for the Lawyers ; fo much Peaceablenels, that an hundred and forty fworn Attorneys were thought fufficient to ferve the whole Kingdom.

At prefent the Revenues of the English Clergy are generally very small, and insufficient, near a third part of the best Benefices of England, being anciently by the Pope's Grant appropriated to Monasteries, towards their Maintenance, were upon the Dissolution of Monasteries, made Lay Fees. Besides what what hath been taken by fecret or indirect means, through corrupt Compositions, Compacts, and Customs in many Parifhes, there are also very many large Estates wholly exempt from paying Tythes; as Lands belonging to Monafteries, of which about 190 were diffolved in Henry VIII's time, of between 200 and 3 500 l. per Annum value a piece; which at a Medium of 1500 l. per Annum each, amounts to 285000 l. per Annum Tyth-free, befides all the leffer Priories, Abbies, and Monasteries, the Church being not allowed the Tythe of that Land which was once exempted from Tythes, becaufe it belonged wholly to the Church, and which always did pay Tythes before it did belong to the Church. Milerere Deus! And those Benefices that are free from these things. yet (befides First Fruits and Tenths to the King, and Procurations to the Bishops) are taxed towards the Charges of the respective Parishes, and towards the publick Charges of the Nation, above and beyond the Proportion of the Laity.

Instead of having the Tenths, as the Tenth Sheep, the Tenth Lamb, or whatever the product of the Land is, what by reason of Impropriations, Prescriptions, Alienations, Cousenages, and the like, they have not a fortieth Penny of the yearly Rent of England; whereas the Clergy of France hath a Sixth part of the whole yearly Revenue.

The Bishopricks of England have been also, fince the latter end of Hen. VIII. to the coming in of King James I. most miserably robbed and spoiled of the greatest part of their Lands and Revenues; so that at this day a mean Gentleman of 200 l. Land yearly, will not change his worldly State and Condition with divers Bishops. An Actorney, a Shop-keeper, a common Artisan, will hardly change theirs with ordinary Pastors of the Church.

Some few Bishopricks do yet retain an Honourable Revenue; amongst which the Bishoprick of Durham is accounted one of the chief.

Of this and other principal Bishopricks, the Revenues have been much diminished, some enjoying not a fourth part of their ancient Rights.

The great Diminution of the Revenues of the Clergy, and the little care of augmenting or defending the Patrimony of the Church, is the great Reproach and Shame of the Englifb Reformation, and 'tisto be fear'd will one Day prove the Ruin of Church and State.

Ju-

Judicious Mr. Hooker (who in the Preface of his Works, foretold our late Troubles forty Years before they came to pass) observing in his time how the Church was every day robbed of her Dues, and that it was then an Opinion rife, That to give to the Church, Smelt of Judaism and Popery, and to take from the Church what our Ancestors had given, was Reformation declared that what Mofes faith in the goth Pfalm, was likely to be verified of Religion, and God's Service amongst us, the time thereof may be Seventy Years ; if it continue till Eighty, it will be but finall Joy to those that thall then behold the Condition of the English Church ; nor can the best-read Historian produce one Example of a Happy State, where the Clergy hath been exposed to the Peoples Contempt, which must happen where their Benefices, their Maintenance is fcandalous, and thereby their Perfons despicable.

It is the last Trick, faith St. Gregory that the Devil hath in the World, when he cannot bring the Word and Sacraments in difgrace by Errors and Herefies, he invented this Project to bring the Clergy into Contempt and low Efteem, as it is now in England : Whereas anciently in England (as among the Jews, the Tribe of Levi was counted noble above all other Tribes, except that of the Royal Tribe of Judah) the Function of the Clergy was of fo high-Account and Effeem, that not only the beft Gentry and Nobility, but divers of the Sons and Brothers of feveral English Kings fince the Conquest, and before, difdained not to enter into Holy Orders, and to be Clergymen, as at this Day is practis'd in most other Monarchies in Christendom. Ethelwolph, Son and Succeffor to Egbert, first fole King of England, was in Holy Orders, and Bishop of Winchefter at his Father's Death. Odo, Bishop of Bayeun in Normandy, was Brother to William the Conqueror. Henry de Blois, Brother to King Stephen, was Bithop of Winchester. Geofry Plantagenet, Son to Henry the Second, was Bishop of Lincoln, Henry de Beaufort, Brother to Henry the Fourth, was Bishop allo of Winchefter : And of latter times, that most prudent Henry the Seventh had defign'd his fecond Son to be a Clergyman, to omit many other of noble Blood; which Policy is still observed even amongst the few Families of the Romifb Religion in England; wherein are to be found at this Day fome Brothers or Sons of Dukes, Marquiffes, Earls, and Barons in Holy Orders, and most of the rest of

of the Stock of Baronets, Knights, or Gentry; and for this Caufe find Respect, not only amongst those of their own Opinion, but even of the most fober, moderate, and best civiliz'd Proteffants.

Nor is this present Age wholly defitute of this Honour ; witnefs the prefent Bishop of London, Dr. Compton, Brother to the Earl of Northampton.

Dr. Fane, Brother to the late Earl of Westmorland.

Dr. Montague, Uncle to the Earl of Sandwich.

Mr. Edward and Mr. Henry Finch, both Brothers to the Earl of Nottingham, the younger of which is lately made Dean of York.

Dr. Booth, Uncle to the Earl of Warrington.

The Right Honourable the Lord Crew Bifhop of Durbam.

Dr. Grahme, Dean of Carlifle, Brother to the late Lord Vifcount Preston.

Sir Robert Sutton her Majesty's Embassador to Turky, and nearly related to the Lord Lexinton. Not to mention the Right Reverend the Lord Bifhop of Oxford, defcended from the ancient Earls of Shrewsbury, and not above the fourth or fifth Perfon from the Earldom.

Sir George Wheeler, Prebendary of Durham.

And many others now living, or lately dead.

And when this Policy was more in use, the Clergy were judged the fitteft Perfons to execute most of the chief Offices and Places of the Kingdom (according to the Divine Policy amongst God's peculiar People, where the Priests and Levites were the principal Officers and Judges in every Court, to whom the People were to be obedient on the fevereft Pain) and the Laity did with much Reverence and Respect fubmit to them, and as then, Os Sacerdotis Oracu-Jum erit plebis, (according to that of Malach. Chap. 2. 7.) So, Os Episcopi Oraculum erat Regis & Regni, & Rex ample-Etebatur universum Clerum læta fronte, & ex co semper sibi eligebat primos à Consiliis, primos ad Officia Regni obeunda. Primi igitur sedebant in omnibus Regni Comitius & Tribunalibus Episcopi, in Regali quidem Palatio cum Regni Magnatibus, in Comitatis mitatu uns cum Comite, in Turno cum Vicecomite, & in Hundredo cum Domino Hundredi, & nibil inconfulto Sacerdote vel Ebiscopo, ageretur. And this Union of Civil and Ecclesiastical Persons Authority and Courts of Judicature, did continue, as Selden 1. 2. de Synedriis, makes apparent above four thoufand Years amongst God's own People, both Jews and Christians, till Pope Nicholas the First, about the Eighth Century, to exclude the Emperor from medling in the Ecclesiastical Government, began to exclude the Clergy from medling with the Civil, Vide Grat. distinc. C. cum ad werum.

But to return to our Bishops, upon whom the Weal of this Kingdom, and the Service of the King so much depended; and their Prefence for that end so much required at London, that it was judged expedient, that every Bishoprick should have a Palace or House belonging to it, in or about London; and it is known at this Day where should the Houses of every one, except that of St. Asapb, which also might probably have had one.

Great was the Authority of the Clergy in those Days, and their Memory should be precious in these Days, if we confider, that they were the Authors of fo great Benefits and Advantages to this Kingdom, that there are few things of any importance for promoting of the Welfare of this Church and State, wherein the Bithops and Prelates, under . God, have not been the principal Inftruments. The excellent Laws made by King Ina, King Athelftan, King Edmond, and St. Edward the Confessior, from whom we have our Common Laws, and our Privileges mentioned in Magna Charta, were all made by the Perswasions and Advice of Archbishops and Bishops named in our Histories. The Union of the Two Houfes of York and Lancaster (whereby a long and bloody War was ended) was by the most wife Advice and Counfel of Bishop Morton, then a Privy-Counfellor. The Union of England and Scotland, that inexpreffible Advantage to both Nations, was brought to pass by the long forelight of Reverend Bilhop Fox, a Privy-Counfellor, in advising Henry VII. to match his eldest Daughter to Scotland, and his younger to France. Most of the great publick Works now remaining in England, acknowledge their ancient and prefent Being, either to the fole Coft and Charges, or to the liberal Contributions, or at least to the powerful Perswalions of Bithops, as most of the best endowed Colleges leges in both our Universities, very many Hospitals Churches, Palaces, Castles, have been founded and built by Bishops, even that famous, chargeable and difficult Structure of London-Bridge, stands obliged to the liberal Contributions of an Archbishop; and it was a Bishop of London, at whose earness Request William the Conqueror granted to the City of London so large Privileges, that the Lord Mayor and Aldermen upon some solemn Days of their refort to St. Paul's. Church, did, before the late dreadful Fire, go in Procession about the Grave-stone where that Bishop lay interred.

But above all, the converting England to the Christian Religion, the reforming that Religion when corrupted; and fince that, the maintenance of the Doctrine thereof, against all Romifb Writers, and of the Discipline thereof (none of the least good Offices) against all the Practices and Power of the Puritan and Presbyterian Factions, and all those other Sectaries lineally descended from them; All this, and more is owing (if not folely, yet principally) to Bishops and Prelates; by the late want of whom to fit at the Stern, how foon was this goodly Vessel split upon the Rocks of Anarchy and Confusion!

Even fince the late Restauration of Bishops, to set down the many confiderable and publick Benefits flowing from them, and other dignified Clergy, would tire the Reader.

I have been very particular in my former Editions as to the Beneficence of our English Bishops, in Founding, Building, and augmenting Schools, Colleges and Hofpitals, in repairing of Cathedral Churches and Episcopal Houses, in their magnificent and useful Works (as the Theatre at Oxon, intirely built at the fole Charges of Dr. Gilbert Sheldon Archbishop of Canterbury (who likewife gave a confiderable Effate to the University for the keeping it in conftant Repair,) publick Libraries, and the like; in the Redemption of Captives from Algiers, all the English that were Slaves there being at once redeemed by the English Bi-Ibops; In Augmentation of poor Vicarages to 80 l. per Annum: In Sublidies, Poll-Money, Benevolences, First-Fruits, Abatements to Tenants, &c. in furnishing Churches and Chappels with Plate, and other decent Ornaments, buying of Impropriations, relieving fequestred Clergymen, their Widows and diffressed Cavaliers, even during the time that they themfelves were fequeftred. 'Tis true, those Bishops, Deans, and Prebendaries had much greater Abilities than ours at prefent have, to do what they did, the three or four first Years after the Restauration of the Royal Family bringing them in much more than their ordinary Revenues.

During the Vacancy of a See, or when the Bilhop is employed by the King in publick Negotiations beyond Sea, the Law provides an Officer in his Place, to whom Prefentations may be made, and by whom Institutions, Admiffions, Ore. may be given, which Officer is called Guardian of the Spiritualities. by the Archbishop of the Province, or his Vicar-General, or the Dean and Chapter of the vacant See.

All Clergymen are in England (as anciently among God's own People the Jews, and amongst the primitive Christians so soon as they were under Christian Emperors) judged fit to enjoy divers Temporal Honours and Employments, as,

First, To be in the Commission of the Peace; for who fo proper to make and keep Peace, as they whose constant Duty is to preach Peace? Who so fit as they whose main business and study is to reconcile those that are at variance? And therefore fince his late Majesty, King Charles his happy Restauration, as well as before, divers grave, discreet Divines have been made Justices of the Peace, and thereby not only the poor Clergymen have been protected from the Oppression of their causeless Enemies, but many differences have been composed without any Law-fuit, in a more Christian and less expensive way.

Moreover the Archbishops and Bishops were called by our Ancestors to their Witena-gemote or Parliament, not so much in respect of their Tenure (for in those Days all their Tenures were by a Frank-Almoigne) as for their Gravity Learning, and Wisdom, as appears by Britton, Glanvile, and Bracton.

Secondly, To be of his Majesty's Privy-Council, where frequently Cases of Conscience may arise, relating to State matters, that will admit neither of delay nor Publication, and therefore after the Pattern of that excellent Christian Emperor Constantine the Great, our good Kings, before and since the Reformation, have always admitted fome Spiritual Persons to their Council-Tables, and Closetdebates.

Thirdly, To be employed in publick Treaties and Negotiations of Peace, and this both the ancient and modern practice will juffifie, that none have been more frequently and fuccesfully ufed in fuch Meflages, than the Ambaffadors of Christ: Of which the Reverend Mr. Hill, Envoy from the late King at the Court at Bruffels, and now from her prefent Majesty to the Duke of Savoy, the Reverend Dr. Robinson in Sweden, and Sir Robert Sutton Embassiador in Turkey are living Instances.

Fourthly, To enjoy fome of the great Offices of the Crown, as to be Lord Chancellor, Lord Treasurer, &c. and.

Two

and it hath been observed, that in a late Reign, when the Bishop of London was Lord Treasurer, that Office was executed with as much Diligence, Faithfulness, Dexterity and Content to the Subject as well as to the King, as it ever had been by his Lay Predecessors.

I shall only add, that in the glorious Reign of that Wife and Experienced King Edward III the Lord Chancellor, Lord Privy-Seal, Master of the Rolls, Ten Masters in Chancery, Chief Chamberlain of the Exchequer, the Receiver and Keeper of the King's Treasure and Jewels, Clerk of the Privy-Seal, Treasurer of the Houshold, Master of the Wardrobe, one of the other Chamberlains of the Exchequer. Surveyor and Comptroller of the King's Works, Treasurer of Ireland, and he for Guisnes and Calais, were all Clergymen.

DISSENTERS.

"H E Inhabitants of this Land being a fenfible and civilized People, are generally much addicted to Religion, and whereas in those Countries where the Roman Catholick Religion is National, Ignorance is the Mother of Devotion, People of the best parts being least affected with a Religion fo contrary to Reafon ; here in England those who are of the best Capacities are generally most Devout; and again, the devouteft Men of this Church are always the best Moralists, which shews their Devotion to be unfeigned and without Hypocrifie. But the greatest blemish to Religion amongst us is, the deplorable number of Diffenters from the established Church, some prejudiced by Education, fome by Senfuality, fome by Intereft, and fome few by a milguided Zeal; who having repented of their former ill Courfes, whilft they call'd themfelves Members of the Church of England, they think they cannot throughly change their Lives without changing their Religion too, becoming like ftray Sheep, an easie Prey to the next Seducer.

If we divide the People of England into 60 parts, perhaps five of them are fuch Differenters of all forts who never come to the publick Service of the National Church.

Two parts there may be who hold Communion with the National Church, and with their own particular Sect at the fame time, as occasion or opportunity offers. These are a foolifh and inconfiderate People, who are little valued by either fide, by reason of their Inconstancy and Prevarication with God and Man, that is to fay, when it appears to be done upon a felfish and Temporal Account.

Three parts more are those who being in constant Communion with the Church of England, seldom or never joyning openly with any other, seem nevertheless fomewhat displeased with the Church; and the only Reason they continue in it, is, because they are more displeas'd with every Sect of the Differencess from it: For they acknowledge this to be the best Form of Religion in the Country; but this they (having new Schemes in their Heads) would reform or refine.

All Protestant Diffenters from the Church (except Antitrinitarians) are tolerated, fo long as they live peaceably and conformably in the State; and every Man in England doth now enjoy a free Liberty of Confcience, and Use of what Religion best pleases him.

The Diffenters from the Church of England are of these five forts, principally Libertines, Papifts, Anabaptists, Independants, and Presbyterians.

First, By Libertines, we mean those that live ad libitum. whether they be Atheists, Scepticks, Deists, and the like ; of these there are not many amongst us, at least wife professedly fo, and those that be, are a Vain, Fantastick, Unthinking People, fome of whom having a little fmattering of Learning, are troublefome with it to themfelves and the reft of Mankind. Thefe Men have fome fuperficial Knowledge in fecond Caufes, but for want of due Confideration, they are altogether ignorant of the first Mover, and of his Reveal'd Will; fo that fuppofing themfelves to be Wife, they become Fools: And from a long Indulgence to the Gratifications of Senfe, they fall into the Want of all abstracted Notions and Thoughts, and have no diftinct Apprehentions of any but meer fenfitive Things, till a little before their Death, when the Soul begins to separate, ftand off, or loofe from the Body, then they attempt to unfold the Original Idea's, but not without Horror and Confusion.

The Prelent State Part III.

The Number of Jews and Socinians amongst us is still more inconfiderable.

Secondly, Papifts we have many; yet not fo many but that In a late Government, when they all appear'd publickly, it was, and is a Wonder how the Defigns of that Handful of Men could put the whole Nation into fuch Convulfions.

I may note here, to the Honour of the Church of England, which in the worft of times durft oppofe the Craft and Violence of the Bigotry towards Rome in King James II's time, that, excepting a few, who were corrupted with Money, even then, there appear'd fcarce any in favour of the Romifb Faction, but who were born of Popifh Parents, or who were at leaft bred up in the Communion or Favour of that Church, from their Infancy.

And whereas fome of the most inconfiderable Diffenters would formerly charge the Church of England with Inclinations to the Church of Rome; the many learn'd Treatifes published, the many Triumphant Disputations held, the many Sermons every where preach'd, in bold, and open Defiance to Rome, and the strong Resistances made by the alone Members of the Church of England, against all the Allurements and Threats that were then used, hath not only powerfully quashed that Calumny, but might tempt them very severely to retort it, if it were not a Church of the most forgiving temper in the World.

3. Anabaptists are of two forts : First, those who go vulgarly by that Name; and, Secondly, those who are distinguish'd by the name of Quakers.

The Anabaptifts which go by that Name are a more reafonable fort here in England than those of Flanders and Germany; very few of ours are fo Wild, Extravagant, and Enthusiaftical as those abroad: These fubmit themselves to Civil Government; and the chief Article of their Diffent in Religion, is concerning Pedobaptism, which they hold unreasonable: Yet there is in many other things fome of the Femile Leaven fill among them, as accounting themselves the only pure Church; are envious at the Establish'd Church; abhor paying of Tithes, and affect Parity: But that which is worst of all, fome of them have strange Notions concerning our Blessed Saviour and his Incarnation, the Holy Trinity, the Soul of Man, & Some of these, as well as Quakers, are great Admiters of Jacob Behmen and his his fort of Cant; and many of them are closely wrapt up in Reficrusian Divinity ; they look upon all Liturgy and Ceremonies as Popish, allow that Laymen may administer Sacraments, expect an universal Monarchy of Christ here on Earth. Some of them are call'd Brownifts, from Rubert Brown of Northamptonshire, but there are fome Brownists who allow of Padobaptifm. Familifts, or the Family of Love, we have scarce any remaining: Adamites none : But here are fome Antinomians, who hold, That no Tranfgreffion is Sin in the Children of God : Traskites, now called Seventhday-men, who keep the Jewish Sabbath : Antifabbatarians, who keep none at all; and the Muggletonians are fcarce extinct. who fay, That God the Father leaving the Government of Heaven to Elias, came down on Earth and fuffered in Humane Form ; these deny the Holy Trinity, the Creation of Earth and Water, the Immortality of the Soul, Religious Ministry, and some of them, the Authority of the Civil Magistrate.

Quakers.] The other fort of Anabaptifts are called Quakers or Shakers, from the Trembling and Quaking, caufed in them by Vapours in their Ecstatick Fits, especially after long Fasting, and Exercise very much practised by the first Disciples of this Sect here in England, but of late almost wholly diffused.

We have ftrong Motives to believe, that this Sect was fet a-foot here in England, and propagated by the Industry of Remis Emissaries, fent on purpose from Spain and Italy; in the time of the late Troubles: Mr. William Prynn made many pertinent Discoveries of it, in feveral of his Treatifes; wherein he shews their very near Alliance to the Order of Franciscans, who ever propagated their Doctrine here in England; the first Author of their Opinions, not to mention their Agreement in fome only Particulars with divers Hereticks of old, feems to have been Cafpar Schwenckfeldius of Offing, a Nobleman of Silefia, who died Anno 1551. from whom they are called abroad Schwenckfeldians, and by fome, Enthusiasts, from their pretence to Inspiration. He taught that the Scripture was a dead Letter; That Men cannot be converted by the means of external Ministry, but meerly by Visions, Inspirations, and Raptures : He denied the Divine Nature of Chrift while he was here on Earth, and the Humane Nature, after his Afcenfion into Heaven; affirm'd that Baptilm is of no use in order to Regenerageneration; that the Body and Blood of Chrift are not exhibited in the Eucharift; his followers neglected the Use of the Word and Sacraments, and pretended to determine the precise Year in which the Day of Judgment shall happen.

Upon these Tenets our English Quakers have improv'd.

They reject Ministerial Ordinances, and place Religion wholly in the inward Light of every Man's private Spirit. and how different loever the Impulses of one Man's Spirit are from another, and how different Notions foever they create, they account it all the fame Light infused by the Spirit of God in different Measures and Degrees. They agree with other Anabaptifts against Infant Baptism, and go far beyond them, even to the neglecting all Baptifin, and the other Sacrament of the Eucharift, all Human Learning, Appropriate Places and Times of Worship, and abhor paying of Tithes: They practifed formerly Abftinence and Self-denial, but now of late none are prouder and more luxurious than the generality of them: They formerly wore plain and course Clothes, now the Men wear very fine Cloth, and are diffinguish'd from others only by a particular fhaping of their Coats, a little pleated Cravat, and a flender Hat band ; the Women neverthelefs wear Flower'd, or Strip'd, or Damask Silks, and the finest Linnen cut and pleited, in imitation of Lace ; but they wear no Lace or fuperfluous Ribbons; however they are extreamly nice in the choice of Taylors, Semftreffes and Laundreffes. Those of the Men who wear Perriwigs, have 'em of genteel Hair and Shape, tho' not long : They are as curious in their Meats, and as chearful in their Drink. and as foft in their Amours, and as much in the Enjoyment of Life, as others.

They have generally deny'd the Trinity of Perfons in the One Godhead, the Refurection of the Body; the Incarnation of Chrift (which they feem to look upon as a Figure) the Locality of Heaven and Hell, and many other Catholick Tenets.

Independants.] Independants are a Sect lately fprung up from the Brownifts. These have no general Church-Government, but each particular Congregation is ruled by their own Laws and Methods without dependance on one another; are against all set Form of Prayer, even the Lord's Prayer. They give Power to private Men to erect and gather ther Churches, Elect, Ordain, Depose, Excommunicate, and Determine finally in all Church-Causes. The Laity fometimes administer the Sacraments, and Magistrates administer the Office of Matrimony. They are most of them Millenaries, and commence the last thousand Years of Christ's Kingdom from the beginning of Independancy. All those of the Laity whom they account Gifted Men, are permitted to preach, and pray, and to catechize the Preacher concerning the Doctrine he hath preached. They Communicate frequently, fitting at a Table, or without a Table.

Part III. of ENGLAND.

Dresbyterians.] Presbyterians maintain, That there is only a Nominal Difference between Bishop, Presbyter, and Pastor ; and that Priest is not a Gospel Word, but belongs only to Sacrifices: They will not allow Deacons to preach, but only collect for and administer to the Poor. In every Church they appoint Lay-Elders and Rulers, who are to inspect Mens Manners, and to bear a part in the Government of the Church: They acknowledge, a Priority of Order ought to be amongst Church Governours, but not a Priority of Jurisdiction : They deny the Civil Magistrate any Authority in Church Government, making the King mere Laicus, and subject to the Censures of Parochial Church Governours: They have two Church Judicatories, the Classical Assembly, and the General Assembly, to which there lies an Appeal from the Classical.

When we speak of any of these Sectaries indifcriminately, we call them Diffenters and Nonconformists; and they that speak more freely term them Fanaticks and Enthusias. It must be confessed that in all these Sects there are some good Moral Men, nay, some of them zealous towards God, but in such a Zeal as is not according to Knowledge.

TN England at the beginning of Christianity they counted, as all other Christians, according to the then Roman Accounts, by the Year fince the building of Rome, by the Confuls, or by the Years of the Reign of the Emperors, after wards (in the Reign of Constantine the first Christiam Emperor) by Indictions, or Fifteen Years. At length, in the Reign of the Emperor Justinian, 532 Years after Christs Incarnation, (and not before) all Christians generally began to account ab Anno Christi Incarnati ; at which time one Diony fus Exigure, or Abbas; a worthy Roman, had finished a Cycle for the Observation of Easter, which was then generally receiv'd, and is still observ'd by the Church of England; the Ground whereof is this; the Vernal Equinox at that time was accounted to be the 21st of March, and by confequence must be the earliest Full Moon, and then March the 8th, must be the earliest New Moon, and April the 18th, must be the latest Full Moon, which happing on a Sunday, (as it will when the Dominical Letter is C, and the Golden Number 8.) then Easter that Year will be April the 25th. So when the New Moon thall be on March 2. (as it will when the Dominical Letter is D. and the Golden Number is 16.) then Easter will be on the 22d of March, as was in the Year 1668.

But the Romifb Church inventing new Rules for finding of Easter, it happens fometimes their Easter is full Five Weeks before ours, and fometimes with ours, but never after ours; for Pope Gregory the Thirteenth, in the Year 1582. having observed that upon an exact Account, the Year contained above 365 Days, not full 6 Hours (as had been from the time of Julius Cessar hitherto reckoned) but only five Hours, forty fix Minutes, and fixteen Seconds; and this difference difference of almost eleven Minutes in the space of about 134 Years make one whole Day; which not confidered fince the Regulation of Easter, had brought back the Year at leaft ten Days; infomuch that the Vernal Equinoz, which was at hill on the 21ft of March, was now on the 11th of March ; by reason whereof sometimes two Full Moons pais between the Equinox and Eafter, contrary to the primitive Inftitution thereof; which was, That Easter should always be observ'd on the Sunday following the first Full Moon after the Vernal Equinox. Pope Gregory then having obferv'd thefe Inconveniences, refolved at once to take away ten Days, and that out of the Month of October, by calling the 5th Day thereof the 15th; and that for that Year, those Festivals which fell in those ten Days, which by reason of the Vintage time, were but few, should be celebrated upon the 15th, 16th, and 17th Days of that Month ; and that the Equinox might never retrocede for the future, it was then provided, that every 400 Years three Biffextile Years flould be left out ; that is, in the Year 1700, 1800, and 1900; and fo again in 2100, 2200, and 2300, leaving the Year 2000 to have its Biffextile, and fo every 400th Year.

The English Nation, as all other States that withdrew themselves from under the Bishop of Rome's usurp'd Authority before the faid Year 1582, except Holland and Zealand, observe still the Ancient Account made by Julius Casfar forty three Years before the Birth of Chriss, and is therefore called the Old Stile, or Julian Account; the other observed by those who are still under the Romiss Toke, is call'd the New Stile, or Gregorian Account; and is, (by reason of the aforefaid ten Days taken away, with the Bisserile the last Year) now eleven Days before curs, for the beginning of Months, and for all fixed Festivals; but various for all moveable Feasts.

Easter, and the other moveable Feasts in England, are most certainly thus found ; Shrove Tuesday is always the first Tuesday after the first New Moon after January, and the Sunday following is Quadragelima, and the fixth Sunday after is Easter-day, and the fifth Sunday after Easter is Rogation Sunday, and the Thursday following, being forty Days after the Referrection, is Ascension Day; Ten Days after which, or fifty Days after Easter is Pentecost, or Whitsunday, and the Sunday following is Trinity-Sunday: Which Computation of the Church of England, agrees with all the Eastern Christian S 2

Churches; for they and we find Easter by the Rules which were generally received by all Christendom, Anno 532. and ever fince, till 1582. it was altered by the Pope as aforefaid, and that was, That Easter Day should always be on the first Sunday after the first full Moon after the 21st of March, which was then the Vernal Equinox. Yet it cannot be denied, but that this old Computation may fometimes be inconvenient; for though the Church begin the Year January 1. yet the State beginning the Year March 25. according to our Lawyers reckoning, two Easters will be observed in one Year; as in the Year 1667, the first Easter fell out the 25th of April, and the fecond the 22d of March following, and not one Easter in the ensuing Twelve Months, as the Author observed formerly in his Proposals to the Parliament, concerning England's Wants.

But to reduce all to the fame order, as it was at the Birth of Chrift, that to the Annuntiation or Conception of our Saviour may be at the Vernal Equinox, his Nativity at the Winter Solftice, as it ought to be, may eafily be effected, if the King had been pleafed to command, That from the Year 1681. forward, there might have been omitted fifteen Leap Years; that is, if there had been no more Dies Intercalares for the next fixty Years to come, but that every Year should confift of 365 Days only, for thereby would the Year be brought back just twelve Days, eleven Hours, fix Minutes and eight Seconds; for the Year confifting of 365 Days, four Hours, forty nine Minutes, and fixteen Seconds, every fourth Year putting in a whole Day, or twenty four Hours, there is put in too much by forty, two Minutes, and fifty fix Seconds, which by 418 Leap Years fince Chrift's Birth, to the Year 1681, have thrust back our Year 12 Days, eleven Hours, fix Minutes, and eight Seconds.

Advent Sunday hath a peculiar Rule, and is always the fourth Sunday before Christmas Day, or the nearest Sunday to St. Andrew's Day, whether before or after.

The Year in England, according to the Cycles of the Sun and Moon; and according to Almanacks, begins on the first of January; but the English Church begins the Year from the Day of Christs Incarnation, on the 25th of March; which is also observed in Spain: Yet the Portugueses (as in divers Countries in Africa) begin their Year on the 29th of August; the Venetians on the first of March, according to the Epast; the Grecians on the longest Day; as the Old Romans did on the

The Natural Day confifting of twenty, four Hours, is begun in England, according to the Cuftom of the Egyptians and ancient Romans, at Midnight, and counted by Twelve Hours to Mid-day, and again by Twelve Hours to next Midnight; whereas in Italy, Bohemia, Poland, and fome other Countries, their Account is from Sun-fetting by twenty four of the Clock, to the next Sun-fetting : and at Noremberg and Wittemberg in Germany, according to the Old Jewish and Babylonian Account, they begin at the first hour after Sun-rifing, to count one of the Clock, and fo again at the first hour after Sun-fetting; but Astronomers accomodating their Calculations to the most noble time of the Day, begin their Account from Noon to Noon, as do shill the Arabians and some others.

English Rumbering.] There was a time when Names of Number amongst all civiliz'd Nations were unknown to them, and probably they then applyed the Fingers of one, and sometimes of both Hands to things whereof they defired to keep Account; (as is yet done amongst the illiterate Indians) and thence it may be that the numeral Words are but Ten in any Nation, and in some Nations but Five, and then they begin again, as after Decem, Undecem, Duodecem, &c.

"Meights and Beafures.] For Weights and Measures at prefent used in England, there are very many excellent Statutes and Ordinances, and abundance of care taken by our Ancestors to prevent all Cheating and Deceit therein.

By the 27th Chap. of Magna Charta, the Weights and Measures ought to be the same over all England, and those to be according to the King's Standards of Weights and Measures, kept in the Exchaquer, by a special Officer of his-House, called the Clerk, or Comptroller of the Market.

Of Weights there are two forts used at present throughout all England, viz. Troy-weight, and Avairdupsis: In Troyweight, 24 Grains of Wheat make a Penny-weight Sterling, 20 Penny-weight make one Ounce, 12 Ounces make a Pound; fo there are 480 Grains in the Ounce, and 5760 Grains in the Pound.

By Troy-weight we weigh Bread, Corn, Gold, Silver, Jewels, and Liquors : The Apothecaries and Goldsmiths have the fame Pound, Ounce, and Grain; but they differ in their intermediate Divisions.

The Apethecaries reckon 20 Grains Gr. make a Scruple D, 3 Scruples 1 Drachm 3, 8 Drachms 1 Ounce 3, 12 Ounces 1 Pound 10, fo that there is in

ENON3

Goncy.] At first all Nations bartered, and exchanged one Commodity for another, but that being found troublefom, by a kind of Custom, good liking, or Usage, amongst all civiliz'd Nations, Silver and Gold, as most portable, pliable, and beautiful, and less subject to rust, have been as early as the days of Abraham, chosen to be the Instruments of Exchange and Measure of all things, and were at first paid only by Weight, till in process of time, the way of Coining or Stamping Money was found out.

When Julius Cafar first entred this Island, the Britains used Brass Money, and also Rings of Iron instead of Money. And afterwards divers of their Kings and Queens coined Money of other Mettals, of all which there are several Specimens yet remaining in the Cabinets of the Curious. Not to mention the Roman Money, which by the great Quantities continually found, seems to have been of common Use.

In the time of King Richard I. Money coined in the East parts of Germany, being for its purity highly effected, fome of those Easterlings were sent for over, and employed in our Mint, and from thence our Money was called Easterling, or Sterling Money, as some think, (as the first Gold coin'd in England, was by King Edward III. and those pieces called Florences, because Florentines were the first Coiners thereof) though others say of the Saxon Word Ster, Rule or Standard, from Steoran to steer, guide, or govern; and a third opinion is, that it is so called from the Stars on the Saxon Groats, which therefore by our Ancestors were probably term'd Steorlings.

Silver.] King Edward I. fince the Norman Conqueit, eftablished a certain Standard for Silver Coin in this manner: 24 Grains make one Penny Sterling, 20 penny-weight one Ounce, and 12 Ounces or 5660 Grains make a Pound Sterling, confisting of 20 5. Of these 12 Ounces, 11 Ounces two penny-weight of Sterling was to be of fine Silver, and the weight of 18 d. Sterling in Allay the Minter did add; fo that anciently a Pound Sterling was a Pound Troy weight; whereas now a Pound Sterling is but the third part of a Pound Troy, and a little more than the fourth part of Avoirdupois Weight.

The Money of England was abused and fallified for a long time, till Queen Elizabeth in the Year 1560, to her great great Praife, called in all fuch Money, fince which time, no bafe Money hath been coined in the Mint of England, but only of pure Gold and Silver, called Sterling Money; only of latter time, in relation to the Neceffity of the Poot, and Exchange of great Money, a finall piece of Copper, called a Farthing, or Fourth part of a Penny, hath been permitted to be coined; and fo likewife an Half-penny or piece of two Farthings; but no Man infore'd to receive them in pay for Rent or Debt above a Shilling, which can't be affirm'd of any other State or Nation in the Chtiftian World; in all which there are feveral forts of Copper Money as currant with them for any Payment, as the pureft Gold or Silver.

No Moneys in any Mint are made of pure Silver, becaufe Silver in its Purity is almost as flexible as Lead, and therefore not to useful as when hardened with Copper.

Gold minted pute would also be too flexible, and therefore is in all Mints allayed with some Copper, or with Silver, and most Mints differ in more or less Allay.

In the time of the aforenamed King Edward I. the Coins were only 4 d. 3 d. 2 d. 1 d. the Half-penny and the Farthing, all of Silver.

The Pound weight Troy of Silver, fince the Reign of Queen Elizabeth hath been currant at 62 s. and the feveral Silver Coins now currant in England, are the Crown or 5 s. which is almost the Ounce Troy, the Half-Crown, Shilling, Sixpence, 4 d. 3 d. 2 d. and 1 d.

For the Coinage there was allowed 25, in the pound Troy of Silver; so that the Merchant who brought in the Bullion, received only 605, for lb. each, which made the Ounce to be just 55. But by an Act of Parliament 1665. for encouragement of Coinage, the Charge of Coinage was defrayed by an Imposition on Brandy, and nothing payable by the bringer in of the Bullion; so that the Merchant receives 625, for every pound Troy of Bullion.

The Pound weight, or twelve Ounces Troy of Gold is divided into twenty four parts, which are called Carrats; So that each Carrat is ten penny-weight Troy, or half att Ounce; and this Carrat is divided into four parts, which are called Carrat Grains; fo that the Carrat Grain is 2 d, weight and an half, or fixty ordinary Grains; and the Carrat Grain is divided into divers parts; the Standard of Crown Crown Gold is twenty two Carrats of fine Gold, and two Carrats of Allay in the pound weight Troy; the Allay of fome Gold Coins is all Silver, as the Guiney-Gold, and fome all Copper, which renders the Gold Coins fome more white, fome more yellow.

In England at prefent the Found weight Troy of Gold is cut into forty four parts and an half, each part is to pals for 20 s. and the half part for 10 s. Yet now by the learcity of Gold imported, each of the faid parts is currant 1 is 6 d. There are also coined fome pieces of 40 s. and fome of 100 s. which holds proportionably in weight and fineness to the 20 s. piece.

The English Gold was coined at 44 l. 10 s. to the pound Troy, whereof 15 s. were taken by the King for his Seignorage; and Charge of Coinage; and the Merchant for a pound of Gold received but 43 l. 15 s. whereas he now receives by the faid A& of Parliament 44 l. 10 s.

The Standard of Sterling Silver in England is eleven Ounces and 2 d. weight of fine Silver, and 18 d. weight of Allay of Copper out of the Fire, and fo proportionably; fo that twelve Ounces of pure Silver, without any Allay is worth 3 l 4 s. 6 d. and an Ounce is worth 5 s. 4 d. 1 ob. but with Allay is worth but 3 l. and the Ounce 5 s.

The Spanish, French, and Flemish Gold is almost of equal fineness with the English.

The English Silver Money hath less of Allay than the French or Dutch.

The Moneyers divide the Pound weight into twelve Ounces Troy.

The Proportion of Gold to Silver in England, is as One to Fourteen, and about one Third; that is to fay, one Ounce of Gold is worth in Silver fourteen Ounces, and about one Third; or 3 1. 14 s. 2 d. of English Money.

Thize

274 That the English Coin may want neither the Purity nor Weight required, it was most wifely and carefully provided, That once every Year the chief Officers of the Mint should appear before the Lords of the Council in the Star-Chamber at Westminster with some pieces of all fort of Money coined the foregoing Year, taken at adventure out of the Mint, and kept under several Locks by several Persons, till that Appearance, and then by a Jury of Twenty four able Goldimiths, in the presence of the faid Lords, every piece is most exactly affay'd and weighed.

Since the happy Reftauration of his late Majefty King Charles the Second, the Coining and Stamping of Money by Hammers hath been laid afide, and all ftamp'd by a Mill or Screw, whereby it comes to pafs, that our New Coins for Neatnels, Gracefulnefs and Security from Counterfeiting, do furpafs all the most Excellent Coins not only of the Romans, but of all the Modern Nations of the World.

But we must not on this Subject forget that fince the late happy Revolution, the Silver Coin of this Kingdom was fo miferably debas'd by Clipping, that it was a prejudice to all Trade, and indeed a Scandal to the Nation. And had it been much longer permitted, we should have loft the true valuation of Goods, and the proper use of Money : Upon which many Projects were contriv'd to remedy that abominable Mifchief. But none could have been effectual without calling in all the old current Stock, and coining all into new Mill'd Money; which compleat Reformation was made at fuch a Juncture of Difficulties, under which the Publick then labour'd, that this great Expedient and absolute Success of it, must be an eternal Honour to that Parliament that ordain'd it, and to those particular Members who did continue and follicite fuch a Work of Interest and Honour to this Age, and to fucceeding Generations.

Of Names, Titles of Honour, Privileges, &c.

English Notamina Quasi Notamina. Names were first Mames.] Notamina quasi Notamina. Names were first imposed upon Men for Diffinction fake by the Jews at their Circumcission, by the Romans at they Ninth day after their Birth, and by the Christians at their Baptism, of such Signification for the most part that might denote the future good Hope or good Wishes of Parents towards their Children.

The English Names at Baptism, are generally either Saxon and Norman, as Robert, Richard, Henry, William, Edward, Edmond, Edwin, Gilbert, Walter, Leonard, &c. which are all very fignificative; or elfe (especially in later Ages) out of the Old and New Testament, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, John, Thomas, James, &c. or sometimes the Mother's Suname, and rarely two Christian Names, which yet is usual in oher Countries, especially in Germany, to omit some other fententious Names imposed by some Fantastical People upon their Children, such as, Praise God, Fear of the Lord, &c. Surnames.] Names superadded to the Christian Names the French call Surnames, (i. e.) Super nomina.

The Hebrews, Greeks, and most other Nations, had no Surnames fix'd to their Families, as in these Days; but counted thus: For Example among the Hebrews, Melchi Benaddi, Addi Ben Casam, &cc. So the Britains, Hugh ap Owen, Owen ap Rheje: So the Irifb, Neal Mac Con, Con Mac Dermoti, &c.

As Christian Names were first given for distinction of Persons, so Surnames for distinction of Families.

About Anno 1000 the French Nation began to take Surnames, with De prefixt, of a Place, and Le prefixt, for fome other Qualifications, as at this Day is their ufual manner. The English alfo took to themfelves Surnames, but not generally, by the Common People, till after the Reign of Edward the First.

Great Offices of Honour have brought divers Surnames, as Edward Fitz Theobald, being long ago made Butler of T 2

Ireland, the Duke of Ormond and his Anceftors defcending from him, took the Surname of Butler. So John Count Tankerville of Normandy, being made Chamberlain to the King of England, above 400 Years ago, his Defcendents of Sherborn Castle in Oxfordsbire, lately extinct, and of Prestbury, Maugersbury, and Oddington in Gloucestersbire, from whom the Author of this Book was descended, bear still the same Coat of Arms, by the Name of Chamberlayne.

At first, for Surnames the English Gentry took the Name of their Birth-place, or Habitation, as Thomas of Aston, or East-Town, John of Sutton, or South-Town, Henry of Wotton, or Wood-Town; and as they altered their Habitation, so they altered their Surname. After, when they became Lords of Places, they called themselves Thomas Aston of Aston, John Sutton of Sutton, Henry Wotton of Wotton.

The Saxon Common People for Surnames, added their Father's Name with fon at the end thereof, as Thomas Johnfon, Robert Richardfon, and fometimes their Mother's Name in like manner as Bettison, Nelson, and Margetson; they also oft took their Father's Nick-name, or Abbreviation with Addition of s, as Gibs the Nick-name or Abbreviation of Gilbert, Hobs of Robert, Nicks of Nicolas, Bates of Bartholomew, Sams of Samuel, Hodges of Roger, Sander of Alexander, and thence also Gibson, Hobson, Nickson, Batlon, Sampson, Hod-Jon, Sanderson, and Hutchinson, &c. Many also were furnamed from their Trade, as Smith, Joyner, Weaver, Walker, that is Fuller in Old English, and Goff, that is Smith in Welch, Sec. Or from their Offices, as Porter, Steward, Shepherd, Carter, Spencer, (that is, Steward) Cook, Butler, Kemp, that is in Old English, Soldier; or from their Place of abode, as Underwood, Underhill; alfo Atwood, Atwell, Athill, which three last are shrunk into Wood, Wells, Hill; or from their Colour or Complexion, as Fairfax, that is Fair-locks, Pigor, that is, Speckled, Blunt or Blund, that is, Flaxenhair : So from Birds, as Arundel, that is, Swallow, Gorbet, that is, Raven, Wren, Finch, Woodcock, Sec. So from Beafts, as Lamb, For, Moyle, that is, Mule; from Colours, as Black, White, Brown, Red, Green ; from the Winds, as East. Welt, North, South.

The Normans at their first coming into England, brought Surnames for many of their Gentry, with De prefix'd, as the French do generally at this Day, and their Christian Names were generally German, they being originally descended fcended from Norway, inhabited by Germans; and fome for about 200 Years after the Conqueft took for Surnames their Father's Christian Name, with Fitz ar Fils prefix'd, as Robert Fitz Williams, Henry Fitz Gerard, which is as much as Williamson, Gerardson, &c.

The Britains or Welch, more lately refin'd, did not take Surnames till of late Years, and that for the most part only by leaving out a in ap, as annexing the P to their Fathers Christian Names, as, instead of Evan ap Rice, now Evan Price; so instead of ap Howel, Powel; ap Hugh, Pugh; ap Rogers, Progers, &cc.

The most ancient Families, and of best Account for Surnames in England, are either those that are taken from places in Normandy, and thereabouts in France, and from fome other Transmarine Countries; or else from Places in England and Scotland, as Evereux, Chaworth, Seymour, Nevil, Montague, Mohun, Biron, Bruges, Clifford, Berkley, Arcy, Stourton, Morley, Courtney, Grandilon, Hastings, &cc. which anciently had all De prefix'd, but of latter times generally neglected, or made one Word, as Devereux, Darcy, &cc. unless we should more esteem those, whose Ancestors were of great Account here before the Norman Conquest, and their Posterity have still flourist'd ever since, as Arden, Asternbam, &c.

Titles of Honour, and Degrees of Nobility.

Mame.] Nobles, Nobiles, quasi viri noscibiles, or Notabiles. In all Christian Monarchies, Men that have been notable for Courage, Wisdom, Wealth, &c. have been judged fit and worthy to enjoy certain Priviledges, Titles, Dignities, Honours, &c. above the Common People, to be placed in an high Orb, and to be a Skreen between the King and the inferiour Subjects, to defend the one from Infolences, and the other from Tyranny; to interpose by their Counsel, Courage and Grandeur, where common Persons dare not; to support their King, and defend the Kingdom with their Lives and Fortunes.

The Nobility of England is called the Peerage of England, because they are all Pares Regni, that is, Nobilitate Pares, though gradu impares.

Degrees.]

The Prefent State

Part III.

DEGREES.] The Degrees of the English Nobility are only five, viz. Duke, Marquiss, Earl, Viscount, and Baron.

Duke.] A Duke in Latin, Dux à ducendo, Noblemen being anciently either Generals and Leaders of Armies in time of War, or Wardens of Marches and Governours of Provinces in time of Peace, afterwards made fo for term of Life; then held by Lands and Fees, at length made Hereditary and Titular.

The first Duke since the Conqueror was Edward the Black Prince, created Duke of Gornwal by Edward III. in the 11th Year of his Reign: A Duke is at this Day created by Patent, Cincture of Sword, Mantle of State, Imposition of a Cap, and Coronet of Gold on his Head, and a Verge of Gold put into his Hand.

His Mantle is guarded with four Guards.

His Title is Grace; and being written unto may be Stiled, Most High, Potent and Noble Prince.

His Coronet hath only Leaves, without Pearls.

Barquifs.] Marchio a Marquifs; was first so called from the Government of Marches and Frontier Countries: The first that was so created, was Robert Vere, Earl of Oxford; made Marquis of Dublin.

A Marquifs is created by a Cincture of a Sword, a Mantle of State, Impolition of a Cap of Honour, with a Coronet, and Delivery of a Charter or Patent.

His Mantle is double Ermind, three Doublings and an half.

His Title is Most Noble, Most Honourable, and Potent Prince.

His Coronet hath Pearls and Stramberry Leaves, intermixt round of equal height.

Earls.] Earls, anciently called Comites, becaufe they were wont Comitari Regem, to wait upon the King for Counfel and Advice. The Germans call them Graves, as Lantgrave, Margrave, Palfgrave, Rheingrave; the Saxons called them Earldomen, unlefs that Title might be more properly applyed to our Dukes, the Danes, Eorlas, and the Englifb, Earls. They had anciently for the fupport of their State, the third Penny out of the Sheriff's Court, iffning out of all Pleas of the Shire, whereof they had their Title: But now it is otherwife: For whereas heretofore Comes and Comitatus were Correlatives, and there was no Comes or Earl, but had a Country or Shire for his Earldom.

dom. Of latter Years the number of the Earls encreasing, and no more Counties left, divers have made choice of fome eminent part of a County, as Lindsey, Holland, Cleveland, Craven; fome of a leffer part, as Stafford, a Wapentake in Torkshire, &c Others have chosen for their Title some eminent Town, as Exeter, Bridgewater, Bristel, &c. And some of late have taken for their Title the Name of a simall Village their own Sear, or Park, &c. as Bolton, Clarendon, Mulgrave, Danby.

An Earl is created by the Cincture of a Sword, Mantle of State put upon him by the King himfelf, a Cap and a Coronet put upon his Head, and a Charter in his Hand. All Earls are ftiled by the King, Confanguinei noftri, Our Coufins, and they anciently did, and ftill may use the Stile of Nos.

All the Earls of England are local, or denominated from fome Shire, Town, or Place, except two, whereof one is Perfonal, as the Earl Marshal of England, who is not only Honorary, as all the reft, but allo Officiary. The other is Nominal, viz. Earl Rivers, who takes his Denomination from an illustrious Family, as the reft do, from fome noted Place.

An Earl's Mantle hath three doublings of Ermin.

His Title is, Most Potent and Noble Lord.

His Coronet hath the Pearls raised upon Points, and Leaves low between.

Milcount.] Vicecomes, quasi Vice Comitis gubernaturus Comitatum. This Title was first given, some say by Hen. VI. in the 18th Year of his Reign, to John Beaumont, though it may be found, that 5 Hen. V. Sir Robert Brent was by the King created a Viscount.

Viscounts are stiled by the King, Consanguinei nostri, Our Cousins; and his Title is Right Honourable and truly Noble or Potent Lord.

A Viscount is made by Patent, as an Earlis.

His Mantle hath two doublings and an half of plain white Furr; his Coronet only Pearld with a Row of Pearls without certain number, close to the Chaplet.

Baron.] In the Laws of the Longobards, and of the Normans, this Word was used for Vir, as at this Day, Baron, or Varon, in the Spanish Tongue is used for the fame; to that Baron is Vir, var 'Zo Xbu, Ver Notabilis, & Principalis; lis ? So the chief Burgeffes of London anciently, and still those of the Cinqueports are called Barons.

Bratton faith, they were called Barons, quafi Robur Belli, in the time of War, the fafety of the King, and of all his People, did depend upon their Courage, Wildom, Conduct and Skill in Martial Affairs.

Antiently those Barons only were accounted Peers of the Realm, that held of the King per integram Baroniam, which confisted of thirteen Knights Fees, and one third pate (each Knight's Fee being 20 l.) which makes in all 400 Marks; and whoever had fo much, was wont to be funmoned to Parliament. Now to hold per Baroniam, is to hold per Hereditatem Baronis, whether greater or lefs.

Barons in the beginning of the Reign of Hen. III. were not of fo much Repute as afterwards, when that King (afrer that great Rebellion was fupprefs'd) call'd by Writ unto Parliament, only fuch great Men as had continued Loyal; which the fucceeding Kings obferving, they only were accounted Peers of the Realm, that were called by the King's Writ, and the other loft their Peerage, as fome great Authors affirm.

The Earl Palatines, and Earl Marches of England, had anciently alforheir Barons under them; as in Chejbire there are yet fuch Barons: But as no Bifhop but those that hold immediately of the King, are Peers of the Realm (for the Bifhop of Sodor or Man, holding immediately of the Earl of Derby is no Peer of England) to no Barons but those that hold immediately of the King, are Peers of the Raulm.

Copur Baroniæ is some Castle, or chief Seat of a Nobleman, which is not to be divided amongst Daughters (if there be no Sons) but must descend to the eldest Daughter.

Land holden by Barony, doth not make the Purchafer that is Ignoble, to be Noble, although the Charge of fuch Tenuredoth lie upon him, in refpect of the Service of the Realm; no more than Land by Villain-Service doth make the Purchafer, that is a Freeman, a Villain, though the Thall thereby be bound to his Villain-Service due for his Lands.

Barons are fometimes made by Writ, being thereby calted to fit in the higher Houfe of Parliament; but most ufually by Patent.

His Title is Right Noble Lord,

Part III.

He hath two Guards or Doublings on his Mantle. His Coronet hath fix Pearls upon the Circle, given to that Degree by King Charles II.

Part III.

All the forementioned Degrees have the Title of Lord, from the Saxon Word Hlaford, Dominus.

All the Lords of England, both Spiritual and Temporal, are Feudataries to the King, and in their Creation, and alfo in their Succession, do Swear an Oath of Fealty, and do Homage to the King their Sovereign; and pay certain Duties, as Sign and Symbols of their Subjection to their Prince.

All Honours of England are given by the King, who is the fole Fountain of Honour.

The Laws of England prohibit all Subjects of the Realm to receive any hereditary Title of Honour or Dignity, of the Gift of any foreign Prince or Emperor.

None of these Honours bestowed by the King on a Family can be lost, but by want of Issue Male, nor then neither if the Patent extends to Issue Female, as sometimes it doth; or elfe by some hemous Crime, and then that Family cannot be restored to their Blood but by Parliament.

All Noblemen at their Creation have two Enfigns, to fignifie two Duties; their Heads are adorned ad confulendum Regem & Patriam tempore pacis, and they are girt with 2 Sword ad defendendum Regem & Patriam tempore belli.

The Nobility of England have in all times enjoyed many confiderable Priviledges.

All Peers of the Realm being look'd on as the King's Hereditary conftant Counfellors, their Perfons out of Parliament-time are priviledg'd (as others in Parliament-time) from all Arrefls, unless for Treations, Felony, or breach of Peace, Condemnation in Parliament, or Contempt to the King. No Supplicative can be granted againft them; no Capias or Exigent fued out against them for Actions of Debt or Trespass, no Effoin lyes against any Peer of the Realm; in Criminal Caufes, Treafon or Felony, they cannot be tried by any other Jury, but by a Jury of Peers of the Realm, who are not as other Juries, to be put to their Oath, but their Verdict given in Upon their Honour fufficeth. In Civil Caufes they are not to be impanell'd upon any Jury, nor upon any Inquests de fatto, though in a matter between two Peers. In cafe any Peer be returned upon any fuch Jury, there is a special Writ for his Discharge. They

They are upon no cafe to be bound to their good Behaviour, nor put to fwear they will not break the Peace, but only to promife it Upon their Honour, which was ever accounted so facred, as upon no Terms to be violated. A Peer of the Realm was not to be put to the Rack or Torture to discover the Truth, though accused of High Treafon. Every Peer of the Realm called to Parliament hath the Priviledge in his lawful Abfence to conflitute a Proxy to vote for him, which none of the Commons may do; alfo in Places of Truft committed to them, they are allowed to make Deputies, by reason of the necessity, supposed in the Law, of their attendance on the Perfon of the Though neither Civil-Law nor Common-Law allow King. any other Testimony to be valid but what is given upon Oath ; yet the Teltimony of a Peer of England, given in Upon his Honour, without any Oath, is effeemed valid ; and they were wont to be examined upon their Allegiance, and the Loyalty of their Chivalry, and to put in their Answer to a Bill, Super Honorem, without taking an Oath, though of latter times that Priviledge, by the neglect of fome Lords hath been infringed sometimes. A Day of Grace, by the favour of the Court, is not to be granted to the Plaintiff in any Suit or Action wherein a Peer of the Realm is Defendant ; and this by Statute-Law, because the Law prefumes. that a Peer of the Realm must always be ready to attend the Person of the King, and the Service of the Commonwealth, and therefore it is not to be delayed any longer than the ordinary use of the Court, but to have expedition of Justice. In all Cafes wherein the Privilege of the Clergy is allowed to other Men, and also in divers Cafes where that Privilege is taken away from other Men, every Peer of the Realm, having Place and Voice in Parliament, shall, upon his Request, by Stat. 1. Ed. VI. without burning in the Hand, lofs of Inheritance, or Corruption of Blood, be adjudged for the first time as a Clerk convict, though he cannot read. The Title of Lord is due to all Barons, and to none others befides Bishops, and some great Officers of the Kingdom.

Only of Courtefie the Title of Lord is given to all the Sons of Dukes and Marquiffes, and to all the eldes Sons of Earls, and none under.

Part III. of ENGLAND.

All Barons of England are exempted from all Attendance at Sheriff's Tourns, or any Leets where others are obliged to take the Oath of Allegiance.

A Peer can't be outlawed in any Civil Action, becaufe he can't be Arrefled by any Capias; and by the fame reafon there lies no Attachment against him.

A Peer mute upon his Trial, shall be convict, but not prest to Death, as a Commoner is; for by the Custom of England (as is by the Law of the Empire) Nobiles non torquentur in quibus Plebei torquerentur, & Nobiles non suspenduntur, sed decapitantur: Yet this by the meer Favour of the King, and in some Cases, especially of Felony, hath been otherwise fometimes.

For the fuppressing of Riots and Routs, the Sheriff may raife the Poffe Comitaria, that is, all able Men are to affift him, yet may not the Sheriff command the Person of any Peer of the Realm to attend that Service.

A Baron of Parliament being fent for by the King's Writ or Letter, or by his Meffenger to come to Court or to Parliament, or to appear before the Council Board, or in his Court of Chancery, may both coming and returning by the King's Forest or Park, kill one or two Deer.

In any Civil Tryal where a Peer of the Realm is Plaintiff or Defendant, there must be returned of the Jury at least one Knight, otherwise the Array may be quashed by Challenge.

The Laws of England are fo tender of the Honour, Credit, Reputation, and Perfons of Noblemen, that there is a Statute on purpole to hinder all Offence by falle Reports, whereby any Scandal to their Perfons may arile, or Debate and Difcord between them and the Commons : And becaufe it is to defend not only Lay-Lords, but Bifhops, and all great Officers of the Realm, it is called Scandalum Magnatum.

The House of Peers can't in some Cases (as in fearch for prohibited Books, &c.) be entred by Officers of Justice without a Warrant under the King's own Hand, and the Hands of six of his Privy Council, whereof Four to be Peers of the Realm.

No Peer can be affeffed towards the Standing Militia but by fix or more of themfelves.

The Law allowing any one of the Commonalty, being Arraigned for Felony or Treason, in favorem vita, to challenge lenge thirty five of his Jury, without flewing Caufe, and others by fhewing Caufe; yet allows not a Peer of the Realm to challenge any of his Jury, or to put any of them to their Oath, the Law prefuming, that they being all Peers of the Realm, and judging upon their Honour, cannot be guilty of Fallhood, Favour, or Malice.

All Peers of the Realm have a Privilege of qualifying a certain number of Chaplains, who (after a Difpensation from the Archbishop, if to him it feems good, and the fame ratified under the great Seal of England) may hold plurality of Benefices, with Cure of Souls. In this manner every Duke may qualifie fix Chaplains, every Marquis and Earl five a piece, every Vifcount four, and every Baron chree.

A Peer of the Realm may retain fix Aliens born, whereas another may not retain above four.

In cafe of Amercements of the Peers of the Realm upon Non-Suits, or other Judgments, a Duke is to be amerced only ten Pounds, and all under only five Pounds : and this to be done by their Peers, according to Magna Charta, altho' it is often done now by the King's Juffices, inftead of their Peers; particularly by the Barons of the Exchequer, because formerly there fat no other in that Court, but Batons of England; and now the usual Amercement of a Duke is 100 pounds, and of a Baron, not lefs than five Pounds.

All Peers of the Realm being constant Hereditary Counfellors of the King, in his great Council of Parliament, and being oblig'd upon the King's Summons to appear, and attend in all Parliaments upon their own Charges, were priviledged from contributing to the Expence of any Member of the Houfe of Commons; for which no levy might be made upon any of their Lands, parcel of their Earldoms or Baronies, any of their Ancient Demesn, Copy-hold or Villain Tenants. 1 95 01

The Estates of Peers of the Realm, being judged in the Eye of the Law fufficient at all times to fatisfie all Debts and Damages, fatisfaction is to be fought by Execution taken forth upon their Lands and Goods, and not by Attachments, Imprisonments of their Persons, (those are to be always free for the Service of the King and Kingdom) not by Exigents, or Capias Utlegatum, &c.

Other Privileges belong to the Peers of England, as eight Tun of Wine Cuftom-free to every Earl, and to the reft" proportionably, &c. But no Lord hath these Privileges of Peerage, but Lords of Parliament, viz. no Dukes or Earls eldeft Sons, Scotch or Irijb Lords, unless fummoned by the King's Writ to an English Parliament.

Notwithstanding these great Privileges belonging to the Nobility of England, yet the greatest of them (no not the Brother or Son of the King) ever had the Priviledge of the Grandees of Spain, to be covered in the King's Prefence. except only Henry Ratcliff, Earl of Surrey. Nor ever had that higher Priviledge of the Nobility of France, whole Domain Lands and their Dependants holding them, are exempted from all Contributions and Taxes, by which Favour they are tied to their King, and fo enabled to ferve him. that although Rebellions are frequent, yet feldom of long Continuance, and never prosperous, whereas the highest born Subject of England hath herein no more Privilege than the meaneft Ploughman, but utterly wants that kind of Reward for ancient Virtue, and Encouragement for future Industry.

If an Appeal of Murder or Felony be fued by any common person against a Peer of the Realm, he shall be tried by Commoners, and not by Peers, as was the Cafe of Fines Lord Dacres, faith Guillim.

No Peer muft go out of the King's Dominions without Leave; and if any have Leave to go, he is to return upon the King's Writ under the Privy Seal, or forfeit Goods and Chattels.

Drecedence.] Touching the Places or Precedencies amongst the Nobility of England, it is to be observed, that (after the King and Princes of the Blood, viz. the Sons, Grandfons, Brothers, Uncles or Nephews of the King, and no farther) and after the two Archbishops, Dukes amongst the Nobility have the first place, then Marquiffes, Dukes eldeft Sons, Earls, Marquilles eldeft Sons, Dukes younger Sons, Vifcounts, Earls eldest Sons, Marquiffes younger Sons, Barons, Vifcounts eldeft Sons, Earls younger Sons, Barons eldeft Sons, Knights of the Garter Quatenus tales, Privy Counfellors, Chancellor, and Under-Treasurer of the Exchequer, Chancellor of the Dutchy, Lord Chief Juffice of the Kings Bench, Mafter of the Rolls, Lord Chief Juffice of the Common Pleas, Lord Chief 286

Chief Baron of the Exchequer, other Judges and Barons of the degree of the Coif of the faid Courts, Bannerets made under the King's Banner, or Standard difplayed in an Army Royal in open War, and the King perforally prefent, Vifcounts younger Sons, Barons younger Sons, Baronets, Mafters in Chancery, Knights Bannerets of a mean Creation, Knights of the Bath, Knights Batchellors, Colonels, Serjeants at Law, Doctors, Elquires, Lieutenant Co-Ionels, Majors, Captains, Gentlemen, Orc.

Moreover observe, that all Nobles of the same degree take place according to the Seniority of their Creation.

The Lord Chancellor, the Lord Treasurer, Lord President of the King's Council, Lord Privy Seal; thefe being Barons, or above, fhall in Parliament fit above all Dukes except the Son, Brother, or Nephew of the King.

The Lord High Steward of England is not here named. because it was intended that he should not continue beyond the Occasion for which he should be made.

Next hath place the Lord Great Chamberlain of England, then the Lord High Constable, the Earl Marshal, the Lord High Admiral, Lord Steward of the King's Houfhold, Lord Chamberlain of the King's Houshold : These shall fit after the Lord Privy Seal, above all of their Degree only. And if the King's Principal Secretary of State be a Baron, he takes place of all Barons that are not of the Offices beforementioned; but if he be a Viscount, or higher Degree, he shall take place only according to his Degree. Alfo, if the King's Secretary be a Bifhop, as anciently was ufual, he takes place next to the Bishop of Winchester, before all other Bilhops that have none of the Offices aforefaid.

All Dukes, Marquiffes, Earls, Vifcounts, and Barons not having any of the faid Offices, shall take place according to the Seniority of their Creation.

The Scotch Nobility and Gentry while they are in England, take place next to those of the same degree in England, and the Irifb next to the Scotch; as for inftance; a Scotch or Irifb Duke, doth here in England take place of an English Marquis; a Scotch or Irifh Earl of an English Viscount; and fo the reft, unlefs in Parliament; for there they take place according to their English Degree only; and if they are not Peers of England, they are tried here but as Commoners. lity of their Husbands, agreeable to that old Maxim, Uxor fulget radius Mariti.

State.] There are certain Marks of State that belong to each Degree amongst the Nobility, which they may prastife or not practife at pleasure.

Duke.] A Duke may have in all places out of the King's prefence, a Cloth of State hanging down within half a yard of the Ground ; fo may his Dutchefs, and her Train born up by a Baronefs ; and no Earl is to wafh with a Duke without the Dukes permifion.

Darquis.] A Marquis may have a Cloth of Effare reaching within a yard of the Ground, and that in all places out of the Prefence of the King, or a Duke; and his Marchionefs to have her Train born by a Knight's Wife, out of the prefence of her Superiours; and in their prefence by a Gentlewoman: And no Vifcount is to wafh with a Marquis, but at his pleafure.

Carl.] An Earl alfo may have a Cloth of Effate without Pendants, but only Fringe; and a Countefs may have her Train born by an Efquire's Wife, out of the prefence of her Superiours, and in their prefence by a Gentleman. Clifcount.] A Vifcount may have a Cover of Affay hol-

Clifcount.] A Vifcount may have a Cover of Affay holden under his Cup while he drinks, but no Affay taken as Dukes, Marquiffes, and Earls may have, and may have a Travers in his own Houfe; and a Vifcountefs may have her Gown born up by a Woman, out of the prefence of her Superiours, and In their prefence by a Man.

Garon.] A Baron may also have the Cover of his Cup holden underneath whilst he drinketh, and a Baroness may have her Gown born up by a Man in the presence of a Viscountes.

All Nephews and Grandfons of a King are born as Arch-Dukes, and have Title of Highnels; their Caps of State indented.

All Dukes eldeft Sons are born, and have Title as Marquiffes, and the younger as Lords, with the addition of their Christian Names, as Lord Thomas, Lord John, &c.

A Marquis's eldeft Son is called Lord of a Place, (and by the Courtefy of England, Earl) and is to go as an Earl, buc shall give place to an Earl, and the younger Sons Lords, as Lord Thomas, Lord John, &c.

An Earl's eldeft Son is born as a Vifcount, and fhall go as a Vifcount, and fhall have as many Powderings as a Vifcount; fo their younger Sons are faid to be born as Barons, but fhall go after all Barons, and before all Baronets; And an Earls eldeft Son is called Lord of a Place, and all his Daughters Ladies; but his youngeft Sons not Lords.

A Viscount's eldest Son is no Lord, nor his Daughters Ladies; And therefore the eldest Son and the eldest Daughter of the first Viscount of England, is faid to be the first Gentleman and Gentlewoman without Title in England; Yet a Viscount's eldest Son is faid to be born as a Baron.

A Nobleman, whether English or Foreign, who hath his Title of Nobility only from a Foreign Monarch or State, tho' he comes into England by the King's fafe Conduct; and tho' the King stile him by his Title of Dignity, yet in all our Law Proceedings no notice is taken of his Nobility; nay, tho' he be Naturaliz'd by Act of Parliament, or born in England with that Foreign Title, unless the King's Writ hath summoned him to Parliament: For it appertaineth to the Royal Prerogative of the King, to call and admit an Alien born, to have Place and Voice in his Parliament at his pleasure. Guil. Herald. p. 2. p. 16.

Note allo, That the higheft and loweft Degrees of Nobility are univerfally acknowledged; for a Knight (English or Foreigner) is a Knight in all Nations. Also if the Emperor or any Foreign King come into this Realm by fafe Conduct, (as he ought; for a King or absolute Prince, though he be in League, may not enter this Land without Licence) in this case he shall here fue and be fued by the Name of Emperer or King, or elfe the Writ shall abate. Guillim. pag. 17.

Revenue.] The Laws and Customs of England (always willing that Decorum and Conveniency should be every where observed, and confidering the Charges and Expences appertaining to the several Degrees of Honour, as they belong to Men of principal Service to the King and Realm, both in time of War and Peace) expected that each of 'em should have a convenient Estate, and Value of Lands of Inheritance, for support of their Honours and the King's Service. Therefore anciently when the intrinsick Value of a Pound Sterling was worth 30 l. of our Money now, as appears appears by the then Price of all things, every Knight was to have about 800 Acres, reckoned at 20 l. yearly in Land; that is, about 600 l. of our Money at this day: A Baron to have thirteen Knights Fees, and one third part, which amounted to about 267 l. which multiplied by 30, was as much as 8010 l. a year at this day: And an Earl twenty Knights Fees; a Duke forty. And in cafe of decay of Nobility, or that they had fo far wafted their Revenues, that their Honours could not decently be maintain'd, (as the Roman Senators were in fuch cafes removed from the Senate, fo) fometimes fome Englift Barons have not been admitted to fit in the Higher Houfe of Parliament, tho' they kept the Name and Title or Dignity fuill.

But to prevent this wasting of Revenues, whereof at prefent there are too many woful Examples in England, the Spanish King puts a Curator or Guardian over any Lord of Spain that by Prodigality is like fo to wast his Estate, as that his Honour and Title cannot be fufficiently supported.

For the better fupport of these Degrees of Honour, the King doth usually upon the Creation of a Duke, Marquis, Earl, or Viscount, grant an Annuity or yearly Rent to them and their Heirs, which is so annexed to the Dignity, that by no Grant, Assurance, or any manner of Alienations can be given from the same, but is still incident to, and a support to the same Dignity, contrary to that Principle in Law, That every Land of Fee-Simple may be charged with a Rent in Fee-Simple, by one way or other.

To a Duke the King grants 40 l. heretofore a confiderable Pention; to a Marquis 40 Marks; to an Earl 20 l. to a Viscount 20 Marks: To Barons no fuch Pensions are ordinarily. granted, only King Charles the First creating Mountjoy Blount (the late Earl of Newport) Lord Mountjoy of Thurlstone, granted him a Fee of 20 Marks per Annum to him and his Heirs for ever.

As the Kings of England were formerly reputed to be the richeft in Domains of any King in Europe, fo the Nobility of England have been accounted the richeft in Lands of any Neighbouring Nation; fome having above 20000 l. yearly, others 15000 l. and fo many of them above 10000 l. that if one with another they have but 8000 l. yearly, it will amount in all among the 171 Lords, to above 1500000 l. a year, above the tenth part of the yearly Revenue of all England.

The

The English Nobility for Valour, Wildom, Integrity and Honour, hath in all former Ages been equal to any in Christendom.

Every Lord's Houfe was a kind of well disciplin'd Court, infomuch that the Gentry, Males and Females, were wont to be sent thither for vertuous Breeding, and returned excellently accomplished.

At home their Table, Attendance, Officers, Exercifes, Recreations, Garb, was an Honour to the Nation.

Abroad they were attended with as brave, numerous, and uniform Train of Servants and Followers as any in Europe; not thinking it confiftent with their Honours to be feen walk in the Streets almost in Cuerpo with one Lacquey, or not that, much lefs to be found drinking in a Tavern or Coffee-House.

CHAP. IV.

Of the Commons of England, and therein of Baronets, Knights, Esquires, Gentlemen, Yeomen, Citizens, Handicrafts, &c.

THE Law of England, contrary to the Laws and Cuftoms of other Countries, calleth none Noble under a Baron; fo that not only all Baronets, all forts of Knights, all Equires and Gentlemen, but alfo the Sons of the Nobility are by our Law reckoned amongst the Commons of England; as in Rome there was a middle Rank, inter Senatores & Plebem, namely the Ordo Equestris, io in other Christian Kingdoms they are stilled, Nobiles Minores.

The lower Nobility then of England confifts of Baronets, Knights, Elguires, and Gentlemen.

Earonets.] The next Degree to Barons, are Baronets, which is the lowest Degree of Honour that is Hereditary: They are constituted in the Room of the Ancient Valvasours, between the Barons of England, and the Orders of Knights. Now this Honour was first instituted by King James the First, Anno 1611, given by Patent to a Man and his his Heirs Males of his own Body lawfully begotten; for which each one is obliged to pay into the Exchequer as much as will for three Years at 8 d. per diem, pay thirty Foot Soldiers to ferve in the Province of Ulfer in Ireland; which Sum amounts to 1095 l. which, with Fees, doth commonly erife to 1200 l.

Baronets have Precedence before all Knights, except Knights of the Gatter, Knights who are Privy-Counfellors, or Knights Bannerets, made under the King's Banner or Standard, difplayed in an Army-Royal in open War, and the King perfonally prefent.

Baronets and their eldeft Sons being of full Age, may claim Knighthood.

Baronets have the Privilege to bear in a Canton of their Coat of Arms, or in a whole Elcutcheon, the Arms of Ulfter, viz. in a Field Argent, a Hand Gales. Alfo in the King's Armies to have place in the grofs near the King's Standard, with fome particulars for their Funsrals.

The whole number of Baronets in England were not to exceed 200 at one and the fame time; but now their number is without limitation: Their Qualifications are, That they be of a good Reputation, and defcended of a Grandfather, at leaft by the Father's fide, that bore Arms, and have alfo a certain yearly Revenue of 1000 l. per Annum de claro. They take places according to the priority of the Date of their Patents. The Title Sir is granted to Baronets by a peculiar Claufe in their Patents of Creation, though they be not dubb'd Knights; and their Wives are Ladies.

No Honour is ever to be created between Baronets and Barons.

The first Baronet that was created was Sir Nicholas Bacon[®] of Suffolk, whose Successor is therefore Stiled Primus Baronetorum Anglia.

Bright.] The Word Knight is derived from the German Word Knecht, fignifying originally a Lufty Servicer, afterwards, commonly used for a Soldier or Man of War.

The Germans (as the ancient Romans gave their young Men Togam Virilem) by publick Authority bestowed on their young Men able to manage Arms, a Shield and a U 2 Iavelin 292

Javelin as fit for Martial Service, and to be a Member of the Commonwealth, accounted before but a part of a Family; and fuch a young Man publickly allowed, they call Knecht; whence we had our Inftitution of Knighthood.

A Knight is at this day fignified in Latin, French, Spanifb, Italian, and also in High and Low Dutch Tongues, by a Word that properly fignifies a Horfeman, because they were wont to ferve on Horfeback: yet our Common Law ftiles them Militer, Soldiers, because they commonly held Lands in Knights Service, to ferve the King in his Wars as Soldiers.

The Honour of Knighthood is commonly given for fome Perfonal Defert, and therefore dies with the Perfon deferving and defcends not to his Son.

Knights of the Garter.] In England there are feveral forts of Knights, whereof the chiefest are those of the Order of St. George, commonly called Knights of the Garter.

This Order is effeemed the most Honourable, and most Ancient of any Lay-Order now in use in Christendom. It began, as appears in the Statutes of this Order in 1350. (50 Years before the Institution of the French Order of St. Michael by Lewis II. 80 Years before the Order of the Golden Fleece was instituted by Philip the Good of Burgundy; 190 Years before King James the Fifth refined the Order of St. Andrew in Scotland; and 209 Years before the King of Denmark began the Order of the Elephant) and the 23 Year of the Warlike and Puissant King Edward III. who triumphed feveral times over France and Scotland; who held Prisoners at one time in England King John of France, and King David of Scotland; who, by his Son Edward the Black Prince, expulsed the Rebels of Castile, and inthroned Don Pedro their lawful King. He that did thefe Mighty and Glorious Exploits, was the Founder of this Most Noble Order of the Garter, and at first made choice of the most Illustrious Persons of Europe to be of that Royal Society (no doubt) upon a Martial, and not upon any fuch amorous Account as a Garter falling from a Lady's Leg; which ridiculous Story, to the Dishonour of the Order, was first fansied by Polydore Virgil, and fince upon his Credit taken up by many late Authors; but lately confuted at large by Mr. It Alpano.c.

Part III.

Part III. of ENGLAND.

It was fince commonly called The Order of the Garter, because this only part of the whole Habit of the Order was made choice of at first to be constantly worn, and that to put in mind the Companions of the Order, that as by this Order they were joyned in firm League of Amity and Concord, fo by their Gatter, as by a fast tye of Affection, they were obliged to love one another.

Now least this firict Combination might seem to have had any other Aim or End but what was Honourable and Juft, ad obviandam malam Interpretationem, (as the ancient Records of Windfor Speak) the faid King commanded that Motto or Impress to be wrought on the Garter, viz. Honi loit qui mal y penje, May be be asham'd who thinks ill of it : Or as 'tis Proverbially faid, Evil to him who evil thinks.

The Reason why this Motto was put in French, was, because then the King of England being posses'd of a great part of France, not only our Laws, Pleadings and Sermons were in French, but that was the ordinary Language in the Court of England.

It appears by ancient Writings, that this Honourable Company is a Colledge or Corporation, having a great Seal belonging to it, and a little Seal of the Sovereign (which is always the King of England) and of twenty five-Companions, called Knights of the Garter; of a Dean, and twelve Canons, besides Petty-Canons, Vergers, and other inferiour Officers, and of twenty fix poor Knights, who have no other Maintenance but the Allowance of this Colledge, which is given them in respect of their Prayers for the Welfare of the Sovereign and Companions, and as a Reward for Military Service.

This Society is intituled to St. George, who hath been accounted (as St. Dennis is of France, St. Andrew of Scotland, St. Patrick of Ireland, St. James of Spain, &c.) The Tutelar Saint and Patron of England, and of this Order in particular.

There be also certain Officers belonging to this Office, as the Prelate of the Garter, the Bilhop of Winchester; which Office is fettled on that Bilhoprick : A Chancellor of the Garter, the Bishop of Salisbury, which Office did anciently belong to the Bishops of Salisbury, and is of late Years by the Sovereign's Favour re-annex'd to that See : A Register, Dean of Windfor; which Office belongs to the Deanery. The principal King at Arms, called Garter ; whole chief Function U 3 Function is to manage and marshal their Solemnities at their Installations and Feasts. Lastly, the Ulber of the Garter. Ufher of the Black Rod.

There are also certain Orders and Conffitutions belonging to the Society, touching the Solemnities in the making thefe Knights, their Duty after Creation, and their high Priviledges, too long for this Place.

The Colledge is feated in the Caffle of Windfor, with the Chappel of St. George, there erected by King Edward the Third, and the Chapter-Houfe.

The Order of the Garter was wont to be bestowed upon the most Excellent and Renowned Persons for Honour and Vertue, and with it a Blue Garter deckt with Gold. Pearls and precious Stones, and a Buckle of Gold to be worn daily on the left Leg; also at high Feafts they are to wear a Surcoat, a Mantle, a high Black Velvet Cap, a Collar of SS's, composed of Rofes enamelled Red, within a Garter enamelled Blue, with the ufual Motto in Letters of Gold, and between each of these Garters, a Knot with Taffels of Gold, together with other Stately and Magnificent Apparel.

They are not to be feen abroad without their Garter upon their left Leg, upon Pain of paying 6 s. 8 d. to the Regifler; only in taking a Journey, a Blue Ribbon under the Boot doth fuffice.

Upon the Lefc Side, upon a Cloak, Coat, or riding Caffock, in all places of Affembly, when they wear not their Robes, they are to wear that Ornament and Imbelifament now worn, and called the Star, or rather the Sun in its Glory, of Silver Embroidery; and they ordinarily wear the Picture of St. George enamell'd upon Gold, and befet with Diamonds at the end of a blue Ribbon that hangs over their left Shoulder.

The greatest Monarchs of Christendem have been enrolled, and have taken it for an Honour to be of this Order.

There have been of this Order, fince the Inflitution, Eight Emperors, Twenty feven, or Twenty eight Foreign Kings, belides many Sovereign Princes, &c.

Note, That none can be of this most Honourable Order. that have been convicted of Herefie, of Treafon, or of Cowardife.

Note,

Note, That anciently Kings and Princes were placed according to their Creations, but now those only are placed according to their Degrees.

See more of this Noble Order in the Institution, Laws, and Ceremonies of the most noble Order of the Garter, written by Elias Ashmole Efq; Folio.

knights Bannerets.] In the next place are Knight's Banmerets, Equites Vexilliferi, anciently made only in the Field in time of War, an high Honour, now obfolete, there being at this time none of this Order in England.

These may bear their Arms with Supporters, and none under this Degree.

Knights of the Bath.] Knights of the Bath, fo called of their Bathing, uled before they were created. The first of this fort were made by Hen. IV. Anno 1399. who preparing for his 'Coronation, made forty fix Knights at the Tower that were bathed, tho' bathing was used in making Knights Batchelors long before that time in France, and probably in England. See Selden's Tit. of Hon. p. 2. c. 5. fs. 34 and 45. They are now commonly made at the Coronation of a King or Queen, or Greation of a Prince of Wales, or Duke of the Royal Blood. They wear a Scarlet Ribbon Beltwife. They are ftill made with much Ceremony, too long here to be defcribed. See at large in Dugdale's Defcription of Warwicksfire.

Knights Batchelozs.] Other Knights called Equites aurati from the gilt Spurs usually put upon them, and Knights Batchelors. These were anciently made by girding with the Sword and Gilt Spurs, and this Honour was bestowed only upon Sword-men for their Military Service, or upon Children who came of Noble and Puiffant Parentage, to encourage them when they grew up to do like their Ancestors. I have heard, faid Judge Thirning (upon the Bench in the Reign of Henry IV.) That a Lord had Iffue a Son, and carried him to the Font, and prefently as foon as he was Baptized, took his Sword and made him a Knight, Saying, be a good Knight, for you hall never be a good Elquire; meaning the greater Title drowns the less. Seld. Tit. Hon. p. 2. p. 642. For if an Esquire be made a Knight, he loseth his name of Esquire ; but yet if a Knight be made a Nobleman, he retains the name of Knight, and fo ought to be stiled in all Writs.

This aforefaid Lord, I fuppole, was fome Earl at least; for Earls had in ancient times a power of conferring Knighthood, but now none can make a Knight, but only the King, or a Lieutenant-General by his Commission.

This was reputed an excellent and glorious Degree, and a noble Reward for couragious Persons; but of late being made more common, and bestowed upon Gown-Men, contrary to the nature of the thing (as Degrees in the Universities are sometimes bestowed on Sword-men) it is become of much less Reputation in England than it hath been, although it be still accounted an honourable Degree both in England and Foreign Countries; yet amongst Gown-men, 'tis given only to Lawyers and Physicians. And sometimes to Artists, as Painters, Mathematicians, &c.

Thefe are now made with no other Ceremony but kneeling down, the King with a drawn Sword lightly touches them on the Shoulder; after which the King heretofore faid in French, Sois Chevalier au nom de Dieu, and then, Adwance Chevalier.

Knights have the Title of Sir, as Sir A. B. Knight, which is very ancient.

When a Knight is to fuffer death for any foul Crime, his Military Girdle is first to be ungirt, his Sword taken away, his Spurs cut off with an Hatchet, his Gauntlet pluckt off, and his Coat of Arms reversed.

Equire.] Next among the lower Nobility, are Esquires, fo called from the French Word Escuiers Scutigeri, because they were wont to bear before the Prince in War, or before the better fort of Nobility a Shield, Launce, or other Weapons, and therefore they are called Armigeri.

Of this Title are first all Viscounts and Barons eldest Sons, and all Viscounts and Barons younger Sons; and by the Common Law of England, all the Sons of Earls, Marquiffes and Dukes are Esquires and no more. Next are the Esquires of the King's Body, mentioned among the Officers of the King's Court; after these are reckon'd the eldest Sons of younger Sons of Barons, and of all Noblemen of higher Degree; then Knights eldest Sons, and their sider Sons for ever. Next, Esquires created by the King, by putting about their Necks a Collar of SS's, and beflowing on them a pair of Silver Spurs. Lastly, divers that are in superior publick Office for King or State, are reputed Esquires, or equal to Esquires, as Sergeants of the the feveral Offices in the Kings Court, and other Officers of Rank and Quality; fo Juffices of the Peace, Mayors of Towns; fo Counfellors at Law, Batchelors of Divinity, Law, or Phyfick, although none of them are really fo-

The Knights and Efquires of this Nation, for Valour and Courage, for Wildom, good Hofpitality, Literature, and other Genteel Qualities, might compare with any Kingdom in Christendom.

In the laft place, among the lower Nobility are account. ed the Gentry of England, that have no other Title, but are defcended ot ancient Families, that have always born a Coat of Arms.

This kind of Honour is derived from the Germans to the reft of Christendom, and was never known in any Country where the German Cuftoms were unknown, as in Afia, Africa, and America. The Germans anciently oft warring among themfelves, painted their Scutcheons with the Pifture of fome Beaft, Bird, or other thing for diffinction, and put fome eminent and visible Mark upon the Crefts of their Helmets; and their Ornament both of Arms and Creft, defcended by the Inheritance of their Children, to the eldeft pure, and to the reft, with fome note of diffinction, fuch as the old Master of Ceremonies, in High-Dutch, Herealt, now Herald, thought fit.

Gentleman, quasi Gentilis, which in the purest times of the Roman Tongue, fignified the fame thing with them, as Gentlemen doth with us, to wit, one of a good Family, none of whofe Anceftors were ever Servants, and who themfelves were never degraded by reason of Misdemeanour or Poverty, according to Cicero's definition In Top. Gentiles funt qui inter se codem sunt Nomine, ab ingenuis Oriundi, quorum Majorum nemo servitutem servivit, & qui Capite Diminuti non funt ; where Servitutem servire, is to be understood of mean and base Servitude, not serving a Prince or Senator; these were Gentlemen by Birth ; but fince the declining of the Empire, Gentility is, as the Lawyers Phrafe is, Dativa, as well as Nativa: And notwithstanding the Spanifb Proverb, El Rey no puede hazer Hidalgo, the King cannot make a Gentleman, yet the King of England can make a Gentleman by Charter, or by beftowing an honourable Employment on him.

Gentlemen

The Prefent State

Part III.

Some

Gentlemen well descended, and well qualified, have always been of fuch Repute in England, that none of the higher Nobility, no nor the King himself, have thought it unfitting to make them sometimes their Companions.

The Title of Gentlemen in England (as of Cavelier in France, Italy, and Spain) is not difdained by any Nobleman. All Noblemen are Gentlemen, though all Gentlemen are not Noblemen.

Guillim is of the Opinion, that if a Gentleman be bound an Apprentice to a Merchant, or other Trade, he hath not thereby loft his Degree of Gentility. Part 2. Cap. 26. P. 155.

The true English Nobility and Gentry have in all times made it their main Aim to endow their Sons with fuch Accomplishments especially, as might render them capable to defend their Country in time of War, and to govern it in time of Peace; for which two things all Centlemen feem to be born; and therefore their chief Studies have ever been that of the great Emperor Justinian, and should be of all Princes and Nobles, viz. Domi Leges & foris Arma quam optima callere; To be excellently skill'd in the Art of War abroad, and in the Laws of the Land at home.

Priviledges of the Lower Nobility.

THE lower Nobility of England have fewer and lefs Priviledges than those in other Monarchies.

Some few Priviledges belong to Knights, quatenus Knights.

Knights are excufed from attendance at Court Leets. Knights by Magna Charta, cap. 21. are fo freed that no Demefn Cart of theirs may be taken.

The Son and Brother of a Knight, by Statute Law, are capacitated to hold more than one Benefice with cure of Souls.

By the Stat. primo Jacobi primi, it feems that Knights and their Sons, (though they cannot fpend 10 1. per Annum, nor are worth 2001.) may keep Greyhounds, Setting-Dogs, or Nets, to take Pheafants or Partridges.

STRONG LA

Some Priviledges alfo belong to Gentlemen; anciently if an ignoble Perton did strike a Gentleman in England, he was to lose his Hand.

A Gentleman by Stat. quin. Eliz. cap. 4. may not be compelled to ferve in Husbandry.

If a Capias go against A. B. Yeoman, and if the Sheriff take A. B. Gentleman, an Action of false Imprisonment lyeth against the Sheriff.

The Child of a Gentleman brought up to fing, cannot be taken without the Parents and Friends Confent, to ferve in the King's Chappel, as others may.

The Horfe of a Gentleman may not be taken to ride Post.

Note, That as there are fome great Officers of the Crown, who for their Dignity, and worth of their Places, although they are not Noblemen, yet take place amongft the higheft of the higher Nobility, io there are fome Perfons, who for their Dignities in the Church, Degrees in the University, Offices in the State or Army, although they are neither Knights nor Gentlemen born, yet take place amongft them; fo all Deans, Archdeacons, Chancellors, Prebendaries, Do-Etors of Divinity, Law, Physick, and Musick, Heads of Houses in the Universities, usually take place next to Knights, and before ordinary Efquires and Gentlemen.

Yet in other Christian Countries where the Civil Law hath its due credit in fuch Acts as concern Learning, a Doctor of Law hath precedence of a Knight; as also at Court and foreign Parts, those Doctors that wait on the Prince, precede Knights who are Servants to the Prince; but otherwise Knights usually take place of Doctors.

Colonels are Honourable, and by the Law of Arms ought to precede fimple Knights; fo are all General Officers, as Mafter of the Artillery, Quarter-Mafter-General, &c.

All higher Officers in the King's Court or State, all Sergeants at Law, &c. thefe are to precede Efquires.

All Batchelors of Divinity, Law, and Phyfick, 2ll Doftors in Arts, commonly called Mafters of Arts, all Barrifters in the Inns of Court, all Captains, and other Military Officers who have the King's Commissions, divers other Officers in the King's Houshold, &r. may equal, if not precede Gentlemen that have none of these Qualifications,

Part III.

In England Gentry (as in Germany, all Nobility) and Arms are held in Gavel-kind, defcending to all the Sons alike, only the eldeft Son beareth Arms without difference, which the younger may not.

Of the lower Nobility in England, the number is fo great, that there are reckoned at prefent above 500 Baronets more than the first intended number; that is, in all above 700, who are polfest one with another, of about 1000 l. a year in Lands. Of Knights, above 1400, who one with another may have about 800 l. Lands a year. Of Esquires and Gentlemen above fix thousand, each one posses one with another, of about 400 l. a year in Lands, amounting in all to about a third part of the yearly Revenue of all England: Besides younger Brothers, whose number may amount to above 16000 in all England, who have small Estates in Land, but are commonly bred up to Divinity, the Law, Physick, to Court and Military Employments.

All in England are accounted Gentlemen who maintain themfelves without Manual Labour, and then well may those (be their Pedegree what it will) who have 6, 8, and 100000 l. a year in Lands, and divers Merchants who have 1000000 or 200000 l. in Goods and Effects, stile themfelves Gentlemen.

Beomen.] Next to the Lower Nobility, and the first degree of the Commons or Plebeians, are the Freeholders, in England, commonly called Teomen, from the Saxon Gemene, in English Common, or Between. So in the King's Court it fignifies an Officer which is in a middle place between a Sergeant and a Groom.

The Yeomanry of England having Lands of their own to a good value, and living upon Husbandry, are looked upon as not apt to commit, or omit any thing that may endanger their Estates and Credits, not apt to be corrupted or suborn'd, &c. wherefore they are adjudged fit to bear some Offices, as of Constable, Church-warden, to serve upon Juries, to be trained Soldiers, to vote in the Election of Knights of the Shire of Parliament, &c.

In many Cafes, the Law of England hath conceived a better opinion of the Yeomanry that occupy Lands, than of Tradefmen, Artificers or Labourers.

Husbandry hath in no Age rendred a Gentleman ignoble, nor incapable of Places of Honour.

Amongft

Amongst the Romans, some of the greatest Dictators and Confuls had been once Husbandmen, and some of them taken from ploughing their Ground, to bear those highest Offices and Dignities, as L. Q. Cincinnatus, one of the Cato's, and many others, fo divers Princes, Kings, and Emperors have exercifed Agriculture ; and Scipio the Great, and the Emperor Discletian, left their Commands to enjoy Hufbandry.

Of the Freeholders of England, there are more in number and richer than in any Country of the like Extent in Europe; 40 or 50 l. a Year apiece is very ordinary, 100 and 200 l. a year in some Countries is not rare; sometimes in Kent 1000, and 1500 l. per Annum, and 3 or 4000 l. Stock.

By the Statutes of England, certain Immunities are given to Freeholders. Vide Stat. I Jac. I. cap. 27. & abbi.

Besides these Free-holders which are so called, (because they hold Lands or Tenements inheritable by a perpetual Right to them and their Heirs for ever) there are in England a very great number of Copy-holders, who hold Lands within fome Mannours, only by Copy of Court-Roll of the faid Mannour, &c. and have Jus perpetuum & utile De-minium, though not Allodium & directum Deminium, which Freeholders may improperly be faid to have ; for properly none in England but the King hath.

These Yeomen were famous in old time for Military Valour and Hardinefs, when we fo often conquered France ; and of these is, or should be the Militia of England chiefly composed.

Amongst the Commons of England, in the next place; are reckoned Tradefmen, among whom Merchants of Foreign Traffick, have, for their great benefit to the Publick, and for their Endowments and generous Living, been of beft . Repute in England; and although the Law of England looks upon Tradefmen and Chapmen, that live by buying and felling, as a mean fort of People, and that a Ward within Age might bring his Action of Disparagement against his Guardian for offering any fuch in Marriage; yet in England, as well as Italy, to become a Merchant of Foreign Commerce, hath been allowed no Disparagement to a Gentleman born, especially to a younger Brother.

Amongst Tradefmen, in the first place are Whole-fale-Men, then Retailers ; laftly, Mechanicks, or Handicrafts-Men.

The Paclent Btate Part III.

The lowest Membar, the Feet of the Body politick, are the Day-Labourers, who by their large Wages and the cheapness of all Necessaries, enjoy better Dwellings, Diet and Apparel in England, than the Husbandmen or Farmers do in many other Countries.

Liberties and Privileges.

A S the Clergy and Nobility have certain Priviledges peculiar to themfelves, fo they have Liberties and Properties common to the Commonalty of England.

The Commons of England for Hereditary Fundamental Liberties and Properties, are bleft above and beyond the Subjects of any Monarch or State in the World.

First, No Freeman of England ought to be imprison'd, or otherwise restrain'd, without Cause shewn, for which by Law, he ought to be so imprisoned.

Secondly, to him that is imprisoned, may not be denied a Writ of Habeas Corpus, if it be defired, which brings em speedily to their Trial.

Thirdly, if no Caute of Imprisonment be alledged, and the fame be returned upon an Habeas Corpus, then the Prisoner ought to be fet at liberty.

Fourthly, no Soldiers can be quartered in the Houfe of any Freeman, (unlefs he be a Victualler, or fell Brandy and other firong Liquors by Retail) in time of Peace, without his Will, though they pay for their Quarters; nor in time of War, unlefs the Enemy be in our Country.

Fifthly, every Freeman hath fuch a full and abfolute Propriety in his Goods, That no Taxes, Loans, or Benevolences ordinarily and legally can be imposed upon them, without their own Confent, by their Representative in Parliament. Moreover, they have fuch an Absolute Power, that they can dispose of all they have how they please, even from their own Children, and to them in what Inequality they will, without shewing any Gause; which other Nations, govern'd by the Civil Law can't do.

Sixthly,

Sixthly, No Englishman can be prefs'd or compell'd) unlefs bound by his Tenure) to march forth of his Country, to ferve as a Soldier in the Wars, except in cafe of a Foreign Enemy's invading, or a Rebellion at home: Nor may he be fent out of the Realm against his Will, upon any Foreign Employment, by way of an Honourable Banishment.

Seventhly, No Freeman can be tried but by his Peers, nor condemned, but by the Laws of the Land, or by an Act of Parliament.

Eighthly, No Freeman may be fined for any Crime, but according to the Merit of the Offence, always Salvo fibi contenemento fuo, in fuch manner that he may continue, and go on in his Calling.

Briefly, It it be confidered only, that they are fubject to no Laws but what they make themfelves, nor no Taxes but what they impose upon themfelves, and pray the King and the Lords to confent unto, their Liberties and Properties must be acknowledged to be transcendent, and their worldly Condition most happy and bleffed, and so far above that of the Subjects of any of our Neighbour Nations, that as all the Women in Europe would run into England, (the Paradise of Women) if there were a Bride made over the Sea; so all the Men too, if there were but an Act for a general Naturalization of all Aliens.

CHAP. V.

Of the Women, Children, and Servants in England.

Touching the Women of England, there are divers things confiderable in the English Laws and Cuftoms. Women in England, with all their Moveable Goods fo foon as they are married, are wholly in potestate Viri, at the Will and Disposition of the Husband.

If any Goods or Chattels be given to a Fime Covert, (i. e.) to a married Woman, they all immediately become her Husband's: She can't Let, Set, Sell, Give away, or Alienate any thing without her Husband's Confent. 304

Her very necessary Apparel, by the Law is not hers in Property. If she hath any Tenure at all, it is in Capite, that is, she holds it of, and by her Husband, who is Caput Mulieris.

All the Chattels perfonal the Wife had at the Marriage, are fo much her Husband's, that after his Death, they shall not return to his Wife, but go to the Executor, or Administrator of the Husband, as his other Goods and Chattels, except only her Parapherna, or præter Datalia, which are her necessary Apparel, which, with the Consent of her Husband, she may demise by Will, not otherwise by our Law, because the Property and Possession, even of the Parapherna are in him.

The Wife can make no Contract without ber Husband's Confent, and in all Law Matters fine viro respondere non potest, can't reply without her Husband.

The Law of England Supposes in the Husband the Power over his Wife, as over his Child or Servant, and therefore he must answer for his Wife's Fault ; if she wrong another by her Tongue, or by Trespais, he must make Satisfaction.

So the Law makes it as high a Crime, and allots the fame Punishment to a Woman that shall kill her Husband, as to a Woman that shall kill her Father or Master; and that is Petit-Treason, to be burnt alive.

So that a Wifein England is de jure, but the best of Servants, having nothing her own, in a more proper sense than a Child hath, whom his Father suffers to call many things his own, yet can dispose of nothing.

The Woman upon Marriage lofeth not only the Power over her Perfon, and her Will, and the Property of her Goods, but her very Name; for ever after the ufeth her Husband's Surname, and her own is wholly laid afide; which is not obferved in France and other Countries, where the Wife fubfcribes her felf by her Paternal Name, as if Sufanna the Daughter of R. Clifford, be married to E. Chamberlayne, the either writes her felf Sufanna Clifford, or. elfe Sufanna Clifford Ghamberlayne.

Notwithstanding all which their Condition de facto is the best of the World; for fuch is the good Nature of Englishmen towards their Wives, fuch is the Tenderness and Respect, giving them the uppermost place at Table, and elsewhere, the Right-hand every where, and putting them upon no Drudgery and Hardship; that they are, generally speaking, the most happy Women in the World.

Befides in fome things the Laws of England are above other Nations, fo favourable to that Sex, as if Women had voted at the making of them.

If a Wife bring forth a Child, during her Husband's long Abfence, though it be for fome Years, yet if he lived all the time inter quatuor Maria, within this Ifland, he must Father that Child; and if that Child be her first born Son, he shall inherit that Husband's Estate, if Intailed, or left without Will.

If a Wife bring forth a Child begotten by a former Husband, or by any other, before Marriage, but born after Marriage with another Man; this latter must own the Child, and that Child shall be his Heir at Law.

The Wife after her Husband's Death, having no Joynture fettl'd before Marriage, may challenge the third part of his yearly Rents of Land during her Life; and within the City of London, a third part of all her Husband's Moveables for ever.

As the Wife doth participate of her Husband's Name, fo likewife of his Condition. If he be a Duke, fhe is a Dutchefs; if he be a Knight, fhe is a Lady; if he be an Alien, made a Denifon, fhe is ip/o facto fo too. If a Freeman marry a Bond-woman, fhe is alfo Free during the Coverture; whereof alfo it is faid as before, Uxor fulget radis Mariti.

All Women in England are comprised under Noble or Ignoble.

Noble-Women are fo three manner of ways, wiz. by Creation, by Defcent, and by Marriage.

The King, the Fountain of Honour, may, and oft hath created Women to be Baronesses, Countesses, Dutchesses, orc.

As by Richard the Second's Creation, Margaret, Countefs of Norfolk, was made Dutchefs of Norfolk for Life; to Anne Boleyn, afterwards Wife to Hen. VIII. was made Marchionefs of Pembroke; the Lady Mary Compton in King James the First's time, was made Countefs of Buckingham for Life; the faid King James made the Lady Finch Viscountefs of Maidfione, to her and the Heirs Males of her Body, with a special Clause, that such her Heirs Males fhould have Voice and Place in Parliament, & inter alsos Vicecomites & ante Barenes, X ut Viceconnites Maidstone ; See likewife in the Rolls her Patent of Creation fince made to her, alfo of the Title of Countefs of Winchellea, for an Example of Feminine Creations, Seld. Tit. Hon. P. 2. C. 9. J. I.

By Defcent all those Women are Noble, to whom Lands holden by fuch Dignity, do descend as Heirs : For Dignities and Titles of Honour, for want of Males do sometimes defcend to Females, but to one of them only, becaufe they are things in their own Nature intire, and not to be divided amongst many (as the Lands and Tenements are which defcend to all the Daughters equally,) befides, by dividing Dignities, the Reputation of Honour would be loft, and the Strength of the Realm impaired; for the Honour and Chivalry of the Realm, doth chiefly confift in the Nobility thereof.

By Marriage all Women are Noble, who take to their Husbands any Baron or Peer of the Realm ; but if afterwards they marry to Men not Noble, in the fense of the Law they lofe their former Dignity, and follow the Condition of their latter Husband; for eodem modo diffolvitur earum Nobilitas, quo constituitur. But Women Noble by Creation or Defcent, or Birth-right, remain Noble, though they marry Husbands under their Degree ; for fuch Nobility is accounted Charafter indelebilis. Here note, that by the Courtefie of England, a Woman Noble only by Marriage, always retaineth her Nobility ; and fo the Widow of a Knight, married to an inferior Perfon, retaineth by Courtefie the Title and Name gotten by her former Hufband; but if the King's Daughter marry a Duke or an Earl, illa semper dicitur Regalis, as well by Law as Courtefie.

Note alfo. That any Woman who is Noble by Birth, if fhe be married to a Baron, takes place according to the Degree of her Husband, though the be a Duke's Daughter: Bat if the marry to one under those of the higher Nobility, as to a Knight, or Gentleman, then, by Courtefie, place is given according to her Birth, and not her Husbandes.

Noble-Women in the Eye of the Law, are Peers of the Realm, and are to be tryed by their Peers, and to enjoy most other Priviledges, Honour and Respect, as their Hufbands; only they can't in the Opinion of fome great Lawyers, maintain an Action upon the Statute de Scandala dalo Magnatum, the Makers of that Statute meaning only to provide in that Cafe for the Great Men, and not for the Women, as the Words of that Statute feem to import : Likewife if any of the King's Servants within his Check-Roll, fhall confpire the Death of any Noble Woman, this were not Felony, as it is, if like Confpiracy be against a Noble Man.

None of the Wives Dignities can come by Marriage to their Husband, altho' all their Goods and Chattels do; only the Wife's Dignities with the Lands are to defcend to her next Heir: Yet is the Courtefie of England fuch, that as the Wife for her Dowry hath the third part of her Hufband's Lands, during her Life, fo the Husband for the Dignity of his Sex, and for getting his Wife with Child, (which must appear by being born alive) shall have all his Wife's Lands (for his Dowry, if it may be fo called) during his Life: But if a Foreign Lady or Gentlewoman marry an English Man, and she her felf be not denizen'd, she is barr'd all Priviledges and Titles due to her Husband, nor can fhe claim any Dowry by the Laws of England.

By the Conftitution of England, married Perfons are fo faft joyned, that they may not be wholly parted by any Agreement between themfelves, but only by Sentence of the Judges, and fuch Separation is either a Vinculo Matrimonii, and that is, ob præcontractum vel ob contractum per metum effe-Etum, velob frigitatem, vel ob affinitatem, sive Consanguinitatem, vel ob savitiam, or elfe such Separation is à Mensa do Thoro, and that is ob adulterium.

The Wife in England is accounted fo much one with her Husband, that she can't be produc'd as Witness for or against her Husband.

If there be no Sons, the Lands as well as Goods are equally divided amongst the Daughters, who are Co-heirs.

If an English Woman marry a French, Spanish, or other foreign Duke, though he be made a Denizen, yet she shall not bear his Title and Dignity in legal Proceedings.

The like if the marry a Scotch or Irifb Peer, by reafon fuch an ones Husband is not a Peer in England by Law.

Part III.

The eldeft Son commonly inherits all Lands, and to the younger Children are difpofed Goods and Chattels, and commonly the eldeft Son's Wife's Portion; and befides, they are carefully educated in fome Profession or Trade.

If there be no Son, the Lands, as well as Goods are equally divided amongst the Daughters; yet in fome Mannors, as that of Bray, the eldest Daughter fucceeds, like the eldest Son, to the whole Inheritance.

Of Servants.

THE Condition of Servants in England is much more favourable, than it was in our Ancestors Days, when it was so bad, that England was called the Purgatory of Servants, as it was, and is still the Paradise for Wives, and the Hell for Horses. Ordinary Servants are hired commonly for one Year, at the end whereof they may be free, (giving warning three Months before) and may place themselves with other Masters, only it is accounted difcourteous and unfriendly to take another Man's Servant, before leave given by his former Master; and unlawful (the Penalty being five Pound) to take a Servant without Certificate of his Diligence, and of his Faithfulnes in his Service, to his former Master.

All Servants are fubject to be corrected by their Masters, or Mistresses and Resistance in a Servant is punished with a fevere Penalty; but for a Servant to take away the Life of his Master or Mistress, is accounted a Crime next to High-Treason, and called Petit-Treason, and hath a peculiar punishment Capital.

Foreign Slaves in England there are none fince Christianity prevailed. A Foreign Slave brought into England, is upon landing, ip/o fatto free from Slavery, but not from ordinary Service.

Some Lands in England are holden in Villanage, to do fome particular Services to the Lord of the Mannor; and fuch Tenants may be called the Lord's Servants.

There

There is a twofold Tenure called Villanage, one where the Tenure is only Servile, as to plough the Lord's Grounds, Sow, Reap, and bring home his Corn, Dung his Land, &c. The other whereby both Perfon and Tenure is fervile, and bound in all Refpects at the Difpolition of the Lord; fuch Perfons were called in Law, Pure Villains, and were to do all Villanous Services, to improve the Land they hold to the Lord's use, themfelves to be wholly at the Lord's Service, and whatfoever they get is for their Lord; of fuch there are none now in England.

CHAP. VI.

Of the Laws of England.

Cibil= TA 7 Here Common and Statute-Law takes no Lam.] VV Cognizance, use is made of that Law of Laws called the Civil-Law; wherein is to be had what all the wifest and nobleft Men of the most flourishing and puisfant State that ever was in the World, could in the space of many hundred Years by their own Wifdom or Reafon devife, or from any other People learn; fo that this Law may be look'd on as the Product of the common Reafon of all Mankind, and fitted for the Interest and Welfare, not of one Nation only, but taking care for the general Affairs of all People. Of this Law Use is made in all Ecclefiaffical Courts of Bifhops, Archdeacons, Vicars-General, Chancellors, and Commiffaries, whenever Cognizance is taken of Wills and Teffaments, of Tythes, Oblations, Mortuaries, of Matrimony, of Divorce, Adultery, Inceft, Fornication, Chaftity attempted ; of Sacred Orders, Inftitutions to Church-Livings, Celebration of Divine Offices, Repararion of Churches, Dilapidations, Procurations; of Herefie, Apostacy, Atheism, Schism, Simony, Blasphemy, &c, where Statute-Law hath not particularly interpos'd. So of this Law is made use in the Court of Admiralty, in all Affairs immediately relating to the Royal Fleets, to all other Vessels of Trade, and to their Owners and Mariners, to Commanders at Sea, to Reprizals, to Piracies, to Merchants Affairs, to all Contracts made at Sea, or beyond Sea:

Sea, in the way of Marine Trade, and Commerce to all Matters touching Wrecks, Flotfam, Jetfam, Lagan, Marine Waifs, Deodands, &c. Moreover Ufe is made of the Civil-Law in the Court of the Earl-Marthal taking Cognizance of Crimes perpetrated out of England, of Contracts made in Foreign Parts, of Affairs of War within and without England, of Controversies about Nobility and Gentry, or bearing of Coats of Arms, of Precedency, &c. Of this - Law much use is made in Treaties with Foreign Potentates, where many Points are to be determined and concluded, according to the direction of this most excellent and generally approved Law, and for this Caufe Foreign Princes take especial care to choose such Persons for their Ambassadors as are skill'd in the Civil-Law; and this Policy was heretofore duly observ'd by our English Princes, with very good Succefs. Laftly, the Two Univertities of England ferve themselves of the Civil Law; for by their Priviledges no Student is to be fued at Common-Law, but in the Vice-Chancellors Court for Debts, Accompts, Iniuries. Orc.

Canon=Law.] The Canons of many ancient General Councils, of many National and Provincial English Synods, befides divers Decrees of the Bilhop of Rome, and Judgments of ancient Fathers, had been received by the Church of England, and incorporated into the Body of the Canon-Law, by which fhe did ever proceed in the Exercife of her Jurifdiction, and doth still by Virtue of the Statute 25 Hen. VIII. fo far as the faid Canons and Constitutions are not repugnant to the Holy Scripture, to the King's Prerogative, or the Laws, Statutes, and Customs of this Realm ; and thefe are called the King's Eccletiastical Laws, which have feveral Proceedings, and feveral Endsfrom the Temporal Laws; these inflicting Punishment upon the Body, Lands, and Goods, and to punish the outward Man; but those pro Jalute Anime, to reward the inward Man; both joining in this, to have the whole Man outwardly and inwardly reformed.

Common #Law.] The Common-Law of England is the Common Customs of the Kingdom, which have by length of time obtained the force of Laws: It is called Lex non Scripta, (not but that we have most of them written in the X 4 old old Norman Dialect, which being no where vulgarly ufed. varies no more than the Latin) but because it cannot be made by Charter or Parliament, for those are always matters of Record, whereas Cuftoms are only matter of Fact, and are no where but in the memory of the People, and of all Laws must be the best for the English, for the written Laws made in England, by King and Parliaments, are imposed upon the Subject, before any Probation or Tryal, whether they are beneficial to the Nation, or agreeable to the Nature of the People, except where they are first made temporary, and for their known Utility are afterwards made perpetual; but Cuftoms bind not the People till they have been tryed and approved time out of mind; during which time, no Inconveniency arifing to hinder, those Cuffoms became Laws; and therefore when our Parliaments have altered any fundamental Points of our Common-Law, (as fometime hath been done) those alterations have been by experience found fo inconvenient, that the fame Law by fucceeding Parliaments hath foon been reftored. This Common-Law is the Quinteffence of the Cuftomary Law of the Merciani, prevailing before the Conquest, in the middle Counties of England, called the Kingdom of Mercia, and of the Saxons among the Weft and South Parts, and of the Danes among the East-Angles, all first reduced into one Body by King Edward the Elder, about the year 900, which for fometime almost lost, were revived by the good King Edward the Confessor, and by Posterity named his Laws : Tho' it must be owned that our Saxon Ancestors had written Laws before this time, as the Laws of Æthilberht, Hlothere, and Eadric, Kings of Kent, ftill extant in the Textus Roffensis; and the Laws of King Ælfred, wherein are also contained those more ancient ones of King Ina, do plainly shew. To these the Conqueror added fome of the good Customs of Normandy, and then his Succeffor King Edward the First, having in his younger years given himfelf fatisfaction in the Glory of Arms, bent himfelf (like another Justinian) to endow his Estate with divers notable fundamental Laws, ever fince practifed in this Nation. The excellent conveniency and connaturalnels of the Common-Law of England, to the Temper of Englishmen is fuch, that the ferious Confideration thereof induced King James the First, in a folemn Speech to prefer it as to this Nation, before the Judicial Law of Moles. 47.

Befides

Besides the Common-Law of England in general, there are in divers parts of England, Cuttoms and Common Ufage, which have the force of Common-Law among those People to whose Property they belong, as Borough English, a Custom so called, because not in use out of England, where the youngest Son, or for want of Sons the youngest Brother is to inherit, being prefumed that in Boroughs or Trading Towns, the eldest Sons might probably have learned their Father's Trade, and that the youngest would always be least able to help himself. Gavel-kind; of which see Pag. 20. in Kent, &c.

Statute=Law.] Where the Common-Law is filent, there we have excellent Statute-Laws, made by the feveral Kings of England, by and with the Advice and Confent of all the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and of all the Commons of England, by their Reprefentatives in Parliament, whereunto the English eafily fubmit, as made at their own earnest Defire and Request.

All Tryals of Common and Statute-Law are tryed by a Jury of twelve Men, which is thus : The Sheriff lummons Twenty four Men, Houtholders, out of the Neighbourhood of that place, where the matter contested lies; against Twelve of these the Parties concerned may object, but Twelve must be chosen to try the Cause. The Lawyers on both fides plead in open Court before the Judges, thefe Twebve Men ftanding near, may hear all that is faid and produced on either part, and may ask what Queftions they please of the Witnesses. When all the Witnesses are examined, and all Pleading is over, one of the Judges briefly recapitulates all that has past, putting the Twelve Men in mind of what hath been alledged and defended on either fide, and informing them what Points are according to Law, and what not; after which these Jury of Twelve Men are bid to retire by themfelves, an Officer being charg'd with them, to fee that they have neither Meat, Drink, Fire, nor Candle, that they may the fooner conclude their Opinions, which must be all Unanimous. When they are agreed, they come back into Court, and defiring their Foreman, (i.e.) the first upon the Lift, may speak for them, he declares in two or three Words the Opinion of all the Jury, all being of one mind, (or elfe to be remanded back to their Confinement) and according to their Judg314

Judgment, the Sentence paffes finally. Note, the Returns of Verdict are bound up to Forms adapted to the nature of the Caufe: As in Criminal Caufes, Guilty, or Not Guilty; in Civil Actions, Finding for the Plaintiff, or for the Defendant, &c. This is the uncontroulable Property of every freeborn Subject of England to be tryed by his Peers, and that not only in matters of Claim and Propriety between Subject and Subject, but in all Criminal Cafes too at the King's Suit.

Peculiat and By=Lams.] By the King's Royal Charter granted to divers Cities of England, the Magifirates have a Power to make fuch Laws as may be beneficial for the Citizens, and not repugnant to the Laws of the Land, and thefe are binding only to the Inhabitants of the place, unlefs fuch Laws are for general good or against a general Inconvenience, for then they bind Strangers.

forest Law, The Forest-Laws are peculiar Laws, different from the Common-Law of England. Forefts in England are exceeding ancient, and before the making of Charta de Foresta, Offences committed therein were punished at the pleasure of the King, in fo sharp and grievous a manner, (as still in Germany) that both Nobles and Commons did fuffer many horrible Inconveniences and Oppreffions; and even in that Charter were fome hard Articles, which the Clemency of gracious Kings have fince by Statute thought fit to alter per Affas Forefte. Yet in the time of Edward the Third, and alfo at this day, Voluntas reputabitur pro facto; so that if a Man be taken hunting a Deer, he may be arrested as if he had taken a Deer. The Forester may take and arrest a Man, if he be taken either at Dog-draw, Stable-fland, Back-bear, or Bloody-band ; for in these four a Man is faid to be taken with the manner, though three of them may be but prefumptions.

"Partial-Lain.] Lex Caftrensis Anglicana, is that Law which dependeth upon the King's Will and Pleasure, or his Lieutenant, in time of actual War; for although in time of Peace, the King for the more equal Temper of Laws towards all his Subjects, makes no Laws but by the confent of the Three Estates in Parliament : Vet in time of of War, by reafon of great Dangers arifing fuddenly and unexpectedly upon fmall occasions, he useth absolute Power, infomuch as his Word goeth for a Law. Martial-Law extends only to Soldiers and Mariners, and is not to be practifed in times of Peace, but only in times of War, and then and there only where the King's Army is on foot. But this is very much regulated of late by Statute-Law.

CHAP. VII.

Of Humours, Manners, Diet, Attires, Recreations, and Buildings.

THE English differ from one another in their Humours, as they do in their Birth, Education, and Profeffion. The Nobility, Gentry, and Scholars, as well as most of the Merchants and chief Tradesimen, are extreamly well polished in their Behaviour; but the common fort are rude and even barbarous, as the effects of popular Tumults, (which are here called the Mobile) shews, who, when they are got together, commit the greatest Outrages, and render themselves sometimes very formidable, even to the Magistrate, who needs great Courage and Virtue to oppose them.

And here I would give the Reader one wholfom Caution, to wit, that if ever he happens to fall under the Difpleafure of the Mobile in a Tumult, that he doth not vim vi repellere, oppose them by Force, but by kind Words, pitiable Harangues, Condescension, or some such refigning Method get free from 'em, and leave them to themselves; for he who so treats them, divides them, and hereupon they generally fall out one amongst another.

The better fort are always Courteous and Obliging, Free, Generous, Grateful, engaging even with Charms; but the meaner fort are Rude, Boifterous, Infulting, Stiff, Uncertain, and Dangerous, efpecially to Strangers; to whom they are generally as Inhuman, as the better fort are indulgent. They treat their Guests most splendidly and freely; the more you eat and drink, the welcomer you are; but then amongst Equals, they expect for the most part to receive such Entertainment as they give.

The English are a People that are extreamly taken with Oratory, and they have the best fort of it, in the greatest Perfection, that of the Pulpit.

'Tis true, the Ignorant are as much pleas'd with that they call a Good Delivery, meaning the Graces of Elocution, which the Romans underftood by the Word Action. as they are with the Matter or the Stile; but as the Learned very well know, that Action is a Thing quite loft in the World, and that which the French and Italians pretend to, comes no nearer to the Action of the Roman Orators, than the Performances of modern Stage-players do, that of the famous Roscius; so the better Preachers give it over as a thing to be difpaired of, and inftead of taking the Eye and Ear, they feize on the Mind, with rational Force, a mighty and irreliftable Power and Authority; for Sermons in no part of the World are fo closely penn'd, with for much deep Learning, in fuch Accurate Methods, fuch ftrong Reasonings, fo Eastie and Elegant a Stile, as here in Empland; and withal fuch excellent Divinity, that it was a modest Opinion of the great Verulam, that the best Body of Politive Divinity that ever was compiled fince the Scriptures, might be eafily made out of the Sermons which are daily preached in England. By Politive Divinity, he means that which of all others is in his Judgment most Rich and Precious, fuch a Form as may be collected upon particular Texts of Scripture in brief Observations, not dilated into Common Places, nor chaling after Controverties, nor reduced into Method of Art, a thing abounding in Sermons, but defective in Books. Bacon's Advancement of Learning.

Danners.] The English according to their Climate are of a middle Temper. Graceful, and yet Easie; Cheerful, yet well Compos'd.

Their Ingenuity will not allow them to be excellent at the Cheat, but fubject in that point rather to take than give, and fuppoling others to be as open-hearted as themfelves, are many times in Treaties over-match'd by them, whom they over-match'd in Arms and true Valour; which hath hath been very eminent in all Ages, and almost in all Lands and Seas too of the whole World.

The English, fince the Reformation are fo much given to Literature, that all forts are generally the most knowing People in the World. Men and Women, Children and Servants cannot only read, but write Letters, to the great encrease of Commerce, and the prodigious Advantage and Augmentation of the Post-Office, in proportion beyond any other Post-Office in Europe. And yet fome compute the Revenues of the Post in France to be four times as great as the Revenue of the English Post, though they are not treble the Number of People. But then this inequality must arise from the Situation of France, that makes it in effect the Post-Rode of all Europe.

The English have been fo much addicted to writing of Books, especially in their own Language, and with so much Licente or Connivance, that according to the Observations of a learned Man long ago, there have been during our late Troubles and Confusions, more good, and more bad Books printed and published in the English Tongue, than in all the vulgar Languages in Europe.

For Solidity of Matter, for Elegancy of Stile, and Methods in their Sermons, Comedies, Romances; and allo in their Books of Divinity, Philosophy, Physick, History, and all other folid Learning, no Nation hath furpassed, and few equall'd them.

The English, especially the Gentry, are so much given to Prodigality, Sports and Passimes, that Estates are offner spent and sold than in any other Country: They think it a piece of Frugality beneath a Gentleman to bargain before-hand; or to account afterward for what they eat in any Place, though the Rate be most unreasonable; whereby it comes to pass, that Cooks, Vintners, Inn-keepers, and such like enrich themselves, and beggar and infult over the Gentry. In a Word, by their Prodigality it comes to pass, that not only those, but Taylors, Dancing Masters, and such trifling Fellows, arrive to that Riches and Pride, as to ride in their Coaches, keep their Summer-Houses, to be ferved in Plate, & an Infolence insupportable in other well-governed Nations.

Dift.] The English are generally great Flesh-Eaters, although by the Nearnel's of the Sea on every fide, the the great Multitude of Rivers, Brooks and Ponds, England abounds with almost all forts of excellent Fish, as is before mentioned. In former times their Table was in many Places covered four times a Day, they had Breakfasts, Dinners, Beverages and Suppers until the time of the late Rebellion, wherein many eminent Families being much impoverished by the prevailing Rebels, a Custom was taken up by some of the Nobility and Gentry, of eating a more plentiful Dinner, and but little Supper; as on the contrary, the Romans and Jews anciently, and the hotter Climates at this Day, have little or no Dinner, but fet Suppers.

The Englist are not now fo much addicted to Gluttony and Drunkenness as of late Years.

Feafting alfo is not fo common and profuse as anciently ; for although the Feafts of Coronations, at the Installation of Knights of the Garter, Chancellors of Universities, Confectations of Bishops, Entertainment of Ambassadors, the Feast of the Lord Mayor of London, of Serjeants at Law, and Readers Feafts in the Inns of Court, &c. are all very fumptuous and magnificent in thefe times; yet compared to the Feafts of our Ancestors, seem to be but Niggardly and Sparing : For Richard Earl of Cornwal, Brother to Henry the Third, had at his Marriage-Feaft, (as is recorded) Thirty thousand Dishes of Meat : Nevil Archbifhop of York had at his Confectation a Dinner or Feaft fufficient for ten thousand People ; one of the Abbots of St. Augustines at Ganterbury invited 5000 Guests at his Installation-Dinner; and King Richard the Second at a Christmas, fpent daily Twenty fix Oxen, Three hundred Sheep, befides Fowls, and all other Provision proportionably; fo anciently at a Call of Serjeants at Law, each Serjeant (faith Fortescue) spent fixteen hundred Crowns in Feaffing, which in those days was more than Sixteen hundred Pounds now.

The English that feed not over-liberally (whereto the great Plenty and Variety of Viands intice them) nor drink much Wine, but content themfelves with finall Ale or Sider, are observed to be much more healthy, and much longer lived than fome other of our Neighbouring Nations.

Since the Rebellion of Forty one, England hath abounded in Variety of Drinks, above any other Nation in Europe : Besides all sorts of the best Wines from Spain, Portugal, France, Isaly, Germany, Hungary, Greece, there are fold in London above twenty forts of other Drinks, as Brandy, Rattafia, Coffee, Chocolate, Tea, Rum, Punch, Ulquebaugh, Mum, Sider, Perry, Mead, Metheglin, Beer, Ale, many forts of Ales, very different, as Cock, Stepony, Stitchback, Hull, Derby, Northdown, Nottingham, Sandback, Betony, Scurvy-grafs, Sage-Ale, Sherbet, College-Ale, China-Ale, Butlers-Ale, &c. a piece of Wantonnels, whereof none of our Ancestors were ever guilty.

alttire.] For Apparel or Clothing, the French Mode hath been generally used in England of late Years; in the time of Queen Elizabeth fometimes the High-Dutch, fometimes the Spanish, and sometimes the Turkish and Morocco Habits were by the English worn in England; but after the Restauration of King Charles the Second, England never faw, for matter of wearing Apparel, lefs Prodigality and more Modesty in Clothes, more Plainness and Comlinefs than amongst her Nobility, Gentry, and Superior Clergy; only the Citizens, the Country People, and the Servants appear clothed, for the moft part above and beyond their Qualities, Effates or Conditions, and far more Gay than that fort of People was wont to be in former Times.

The Menat prefent are not much guilty of Extravagancy in Attire, the prefent Vanity of the better fort of Men being only Peruques and Powder; but the Women are in nothing fo fantaftical as in their Dreffes (Commodes as they call them) for the Head; and indeed in all their Apparel from the Lady to the Servant-Maid, they are too expensive and whimfical.

The King hath abroad his Forefts, Chafes, and Parks, full of Variety of Game; Red and Fallow-Deer, Foxes. Otters : Hawking, his Paddock-Courfes, Horfe-Races, Or. and at home, Tennis, Pelmel, Billiards, Comedies, Opera's, Mafquerades, Balls, Ballars, &c. The Nobility and Gentry have their Parks, Warrens, Decoys, Paddock-Courfes, Horfe-Races, Hunting, Courfing, Filhing, Fowling, Hawking, Setting-Dogs, Tumblers, Lurchers, Duck-hunting, Cock-fighting, Guns for Birding, Lowbells, Bat-fowling.

ing, Angling, Nets, Tennis, Bowling, Billiards, Tables, Chefs, Draughts, Cards, Dice, Back-Sword, Sword and Dagger, Sword and Gauntlet, Sword and Buckler, Rapier, Quarterstaff, Single Faulchion, Double Faulchion, these mostly practifed by those who stile themselves Master of the Noble Science of Defence, Stage-plays, Masks, Balls, Dancing, singing; all forts of Mulical Instruments, &c. The Citizens and Peasants have Hand-ball, Foot-ball, Skittles, or Nine-Pins, Shovel-board, Stow-ball, Goffe, Trol-Madams, Cudgels, Bear-baitings, Bull-baiting, Bow and Arrow, Throwing at Cocks, Cock-fighting, Shuttle-Cock, Bowling, Quoits, Leaping, Wtessing, Pitching of the Barr, and Ringing of Bells, a Recreation used in no other Country in the World.

Amongst the rest, Cock-fighting seems to all Foreigners too childish and unfuitable for the Gentry; and for the Common-People, Bull-baiting and Bear-baiting, and Stage-Plays with tharp Weapons, seem too cruel; and for the Citizen Foot-ball, Throwing at Cocks very uncivil, rude and barbarous within the City, and therefore of late happily restrain'd within the Walls of London.

Buildings.] Churches throughout all England, and the publick Editices are generally of folid Stone covered with Lead; Cathedrals and Collegiate Churches for the moft part Ample and Magnificent; and the Churches in Market Towns and Oppulent Villages spacious and solid enough, beautified with very high Pyramids, or Steeples, or at least with stately high Towers, Houses in the City that were heretofore usually of Wood, are now built with Stone or Brick, and covered with Slate or Tile; the Rooms within, Wainscotted, or hung with Tapistry, or other convenient Stuff, and all Ceiled with Plaister, excellent against the Rage of Fire, against Cold, and to hinder the Passage of all Dust and Noise; of late Years Deal Wainscot is found to be more convenient, and cheaper than Hangings.

The modern Buildings have been far more flight, and of lefs continuance than the ancient.

The Buildings of England, or rather the Seats of the Gentry, have been thus anciently valued :

The Houfes of the Nobles and Rich are abundantly furnished with Pewter, Brass, Fine Linnen, China Ware, and Plate, the mean Mechanicks and Husband-men want not Silver Spoons, and some Silver Cups in their Houses.

The Windows every where glazed, not made of Paper or Wood, as is ufually in Italy or Spain: Chymnies in most Places, no Stoves, although the far more Southern Parts of Germany can hardly fubliss in the Winter without them.

CHAP. VIII.

Of Vices and Punishments.

Mitts.] THE English National Vises were anciently Gluttony, and the Effects thereof Lastiviousness; So likewife Pride in Apparel, wherein they were so extravagant and foolish, so superfluous and obscene, that divers Statutes before our Reformation in Religion, and Homilies fince, have been made against that Excess; and an English-man was wont to be pictured Naked, with a pair of Taylors Sheers in his Hand, a piece of Cloth under his Arm, and Verses annext, intimating, that he knew not what Fashion of Clothes to have.

Excess of Drinking was anciently more rare in England, as appears by an old Poet.

Ecce Britannorum mos est laudabilis iste, Ut bibat arbitrio pocula quisque suo.

The Danes in the time of King Edgar, first brought it in; but it was afterwards banished hence, fo that we find no ancient Statute fince the Conquest against it; for tho' the Statutes heretofore made against Excess in Apparel and Diet, are ancient, yet those against Drunkenness are but of late Date : For till quarto of King James the First there was no Law to restrain that voluntary Madness.

As the English returning from the Wars in the Holy-Land, brought home the foul Difeafe of Leprofie, now almost extinct here, though not yet in our Neighbouring Countries : So in our Fathers Days, the English returning from the Service in the Netherlands, brought with them the foul Vice ot Drunkennels, as besides other Testimonies, the Term of Carous, from Gar-Auz, All out, learnt of the High Dutch there, in the fame Service; fo Quaff, &cc. do fhew. This Vice of late was more, though at prefent fo much, that some Persons, and those of Quality, may not fafely be vilited in an Afternoon, especially in the Country, without running the hazard of exceffive drinking of Healths, whereby in a fhort time twice as much Liquor is confum'd as by the Dutch, who fip and prate; and in some places it is esteemed a piece of Wit to make a Man drunk; for which purpose fome Swilling, Infipid Trencher-Buffoon is always at hand, under the boafted but Scandalous Title of Mayor-Domo.

However, it may be truly affirmed, That at prefent there is generally lefs Excels in Drinking, (efpecially about London, fince the Ufe of Coffee, Tea, and Chocolate) lefs Excels in Diet, but principally in Apparel than heretofore.

The Sin of Buggery, brought into England by the Lombards, as appears not only by the Word Buggeria, but alfo by Rot. Parl. 50 Ed. 3. N. 58. is now rarely practifed amongft English, although fometimes difcovered amongft Aliens in England, and then punished by Death without any Remiffion.

Impoisonments, so ordinarily in Italy, are so abominable amongst the English, as 21 H. 8. 'twas made High-Treason, though fince repealed; after which the Punishment for it was to be put alive into a Chaldron of Water, and there boiled to death. At present it is Felony, without Benefit of Clergy.

Stabbing in England is much more feldom than in Italy, the English being easily to be reconciled, to pardon and remit Offences, not apt to feek Revenge; the true wellbred English have more of Inclination to Goodnels, which the Greeks called Philantbropia, than other Nations, the Nobility and Gentry delighting to be Gracious and Couteous teous to Strangers, compassionate to the Afflicted, and Grateful to Benefactors, when their Purse or Estate, not diverted by other extravagant Expences, will give them leave to remember them.

Some of those who have more Wit than they can apply well, and a bold Dexterity above all Europeans, are the most exquisite Pick-pockets in the World, and the most daring Thieves and Pirates; though in robbing on the High-way they feldom commit any Murder, unless they be pursued.

So likewife 'tis no extraordinary, but a generous thing for those who rob on the High-way, to send back to the Owner, Papers, Parchments, or any other defired things that are of no intrinsick value to a Stranger.

Of Punifhments, and first Ecclesiastical:

A N D First, of those relating to Ecclesiastical Disci-A pline, which when inflicted upon Scandalous, Notorious, and Contumacious Offenders, proceeds in this manner : First, The Party delinquent is admonished, next goes forth Minor Excommunicatio, whereby he is Excommunicated or excluded from the Church, or if not from the Church, yet from the Communion of the Lord's Supper, is difabled to be Plaintiff in a Suit of Law, Oc. and this commonly for Stubbornness shewed, by not appearing in the Eccleliaftical Court upon Summens, or not obeying the Orders of the Court, which though in fmallest matters, yet may be a very great Crime, for Res præcepta, quo facilior est observatu, eo præcepti violatio est gravior, cum fit magis spontanea, as St. Auftin observes of the first Sin of Adam; Any Command, by how much the eafier it may be observed, by so much the more grievous is the Breach thereof, becaufe it is the more voluntary; Befides, in Contempts, it is not fo much the Violation of the Law, as of the Authority, which ought to be refented. And herein the Church of England proceedeth no otherwife than the State of England; for fo odious in the Eye of the Common-Law of England, is the Contempt thereof, that not only for Felonies, but even in an Action of the the Cafe, in an Action of a fmall Debt, Account or Detinue, if a Man will not appear and fubmit himfelf to a Tryal at Law, a Procefs of Outlawry is grounded againft him, and he being once Outlawed, he is out of the Protetion of the Law, Caput gerit Lupinum, faith Bracton, an out-lawed Perfon was anciently look'd upon as a Wolf lawfully to be kill'd by any Man that fhould meet him, as most just, that he who contemned the Law, and therein the King, fhould not have benefit by the Law, nor protetion from the King; and at this day he is to lose all his Goods and Chattels. The Reader will easily pardon this Digression, when he considers the general Cry against Excommunication at this day.

This Power of leffer Excommunication, the Bifhop may delegate to any grave Prieft with the Chancellor.

Excommunicatio Major is not only an Exclusion from the Company of Christians in Spiritual Duties, but also in Temporal Affairs, and this commonly for Herelie, Schifm, Perjury, Incest, and such grievous Crimes; and that it may be done with the more Solemnity and Terror, it is to be pronounced by the Bishop himfelf, in his proper Perfon; and being secommunicated, a Man cannot, in any Civil or Ecclesiastical Court, be Plaintiff or Witness. And in cafe any Man be so student, as to continue forty days Excommunicated, the King's Writ de Excommunicato capiendo, is granted forth of the Chancery against him; whereupon heis cast into Prison, without Bail, there to lie till he hath fatissied for his Offence.

Next, there is Anathematilmus to be inflicted only upon an obstinate Heretick, whereby he is declared a publick Enemy of God, and rejected, and curfed, and delivered over to eternal Damnation: And this is to be done by the Bishop also, in his own Person, affisted by the Dean and Chapter, or twelve other grave Priests.

Lastly, there is Interdictum whereby is prohibited all Divine Offices, as Christian Burial, Administration of Sacraments, & in fuch a place, or to fuch a People; and if this be against a People, it follows them wherefoever they go; but if against a Place only, then the People of that place may go to Divine Offices elsewhere.

Besides these general Censures of the Church which refpect Church-Communion, there is another which toucheth the Body of the Delinquent, called Publick Penance, when when any one is compelled to confels in publick his Fault. and to bewail it before the whole Congregation in the Church, which is done in this manner: The Delinquent is to ftand in the Church-Porch upon fome Sunday, barehead, and barefeet, in a white Sheet, and a white Rod in his Hand, there bewailing himfelf, and begging every one that paffes by to pray for him ; then to enter the Church, falling down and killing the Ground; then in the middle of the Church is he or fhe eminently placed in the fight of all the People and over against the Minister, who declares the Foulnefs of his Crime, odious to God, and fcandalous to the Congregation; that God can no way be fatisfied but by applying Chrift's Sufferings ; nor the Congregation, but by an humble acknowledging of his Sins; and teftifying his fincere Repentance and Sorrow, not in Words only, but with Tears, and promifing there in the fight of God and his holy Angels, that by God's Affistance, and by Prayer, Meditation, and daily works of Piety he will en« deavour hereafter more carefully to watch against the Temptations of the World, the Allurements of the Flefh, and the Snares of the Devil : Which being done, and the Prieft, in Chrift's Name, pronouncing the Remission of Sins, the Penitent humbly befeeches the Congregation to pardon him in that great Scandal against them, and receive him into their holy Communion, and account him again a Member of their Church ; and in teftimony thereof, out of their Christian Charity, to vouchfafe to fay with him aloud the Lord's Prayer. And this way of the Church of England, appears by divers Writers, to be the ancient way ufed by the Primitive Churches.

Note, That it is ordained by the Canons of the Church of England, that, in cafe the Crime be not notorious and publick, the fore-named Penance may, at the Party's Request, be commuted into a pecuniary Mul& for the Poor of the Parish, or some pious Uses; provided, that for the Reformation of the Delinquent, that may appear to be the more probable way; for fome Men will be thereby reclaimed, who by the publication of their Offence, would become more impudent and hardened, when they perceive their Reputation to be loft.

There remains one more Punishment, or Ecclesiastical Cenfure which touches the Body, and that is denial of Christian Burial, which is inflicted not in pagam mortuo-7774787.

Secondly, of Punishments relating to Civil Discipline.

DEcause the Punishments inflicted for several Crimes,) are different in most Nations, and those of England much different from those of all other Countries; a brief Account of them may probably not be unacceptable to Fcreigners effectally.

All Crimes in England that touch the Life of a Man, are either High-Treason, Petty-Treason, Rape, Buggery, Murder, or Felony.

Altho' fome High-Tteafons are much more heinous and odious than others, yet the Punishment by Law is the fame for all forts, (except Clipping and Coining of Money) and that is, that the Traytor laid upon a Hurdle or Sledge, be drawn to the Gallows, there hanged by the Neck, presently cut down alive, his Entrails to be fuddenly pulled out of his Belly, and burnt before the Face of the Criminal; then his Head to be cut off, his Body to be divided into four Parts; and lastly, that the Head and Body be hung up, or impaled where the King shall command.

Befides all this, he shall forfeit all his Lands and Goods whatsoever; his Wife shall lose her Dowry, his Children their Nobility, and all their right of inheriting him, or any other Ancestor; our Law thinking it most reasonable, that he who endeavoured to deftroy the King, the Breath of our Nostrils, and thereby to rend the Majesty of Government, his Body, Lands, Goods, and Posterity should be rent, torn, and deftroyed.

For Coining of Money, though adjudged High-Treason, the Punishment having been only Drawing and Hanging, before the Statute of 25 Edw. III. it remains fo still; but Howeden faich, that before his time the Panishment for fallifying of Money, was loss of Eyes and of the Genitals.

Petty-Treason is either when a Servant killeth his Mafter or Mistress, or a Wife killeth her Husband, or a Clergyman his Prelate, to whom he oweth Obedience and and for this Crime the Punishment is to be drawn (as before) and to be hanged by the Neck till he be dead. The Punishment for a Woman convicted of High-Treason, or Petty-Treason is all one, and that is to be drawn and burnt alive.

For Felonies, or other Capital Crimes, there were anciently feveral forts of Punishments, till Hen. I. ordained, that the Punishments for all Felonies, should be to be hanged by the Neck till they be dead.

But if a Peer of the Realm commit High-Treafon, Petty-Treason, or Felony, although his Judgment be the fame with that of common Perfons, yet the King doth ufually extend fo much Favour to fuch, as to caufe them only to be beheaded with an Ax, upon a Block, lying on the Ground, and not as in all other Countries, by a Sword, kneeling or flanding.

If a Criminal indicted of Petty-Treason, Felony, or any Capital Crime, refuseth to aniwer, or to put himfelf upon a Legal Tryal; then for fuch standing Mute, and Contumacy, he is prefently to undergo that horrible Punishment called Peine forte & dure; that is, to be fent back to the Prison from whence he came, and there laid in fome low dark Room, upon the bare Ground, on his Back, all naked beside his Privy-Parts, his Arms and Legs drawn with Cords, fastened to the several Quarters of the Room; then shall be laid upon his Body, Iron and Stone, fo much as he may bear, or more; the next day he shall have three Morsels of Barley-Bread, without Drink, and the third Day shall have Drink of the Water next to the Prison Door, except it be running Water, without Bread; and this shall be his Diet till he die. Which grievous kind of Death fome flout Fellows have fometimes chosen, that fo not being tryed and convicted of their Crimes, their Estates may not be forfeited to the King, but descend to their Children, nor their Blood flained.

But though the Law continues, yet we fo abhor Cruelty, that of late they are fuffered to be fo over-charged with Weight laid upon them, that they expire prefently.

But in cafe of High-Treason, tho' the Criminal fland mute, yet Judgment shall be given against him as if he had been convicted, and his Effate confilcated. 22 4 4 40

After

After Beheading or Hanging, the Criminals Friends ufually interr the Body decently, where they pleafe; only if the Crime be very enormous, as for murdering and robbing any Person, then by Order is the Criminal usually hanged by the Neck till he be dead, and afterwards hanged in Chains till the Body rot; and in some Cases his right Hand is first cut off, and then he is hang'd.

In all fuch Felonies where the Benefit of Clergy is allowed (as it is in many) there the Griminal was marked with a hot Iron, with a T or M for Thief or Manflayer, on the Left Hand; but by a late Act of Parliament it is now in the Cheek and near the Nofe, and wandering Rogues are to be mark'd on the Shoulder with an R.

Anciently in the time of the Saxon Christian Kings, and fometime after the coming of the Norman Kings, Men were rarely put to Death for any Crime, but either paid grievous Fines, or for the more enormous Crimes, to lose their Eyes or their Tefficles; and fo remain living Monuments of their Impieties, as Punishments far worse than Death; which among Christians is believed to be but a Passage, for all truely Penitent, from this Life to a far better; and so more a Reward than a Punishment.

For Petty-Larceny, or fmall Theft that is under the value of 12 d. the Punishment anciently was fometimes by Loss of an Ear, fometimes by Cudgelling; but fince Edward III. only by Whipping. But if fuch Petty-Thief be found by the Jury to have fled for the fame, he forfeiteth all his Goods.

Perjury, By bearing false Witness upon Oath, in a Court of Record, is punished with the Pillory, called Collistrigium, burnt in the Forehead with a P. his Trees growing upon his Ground to be rooted up, and his Goods confiscated.

Forgery, Cheating, Libelling, Falfe Weights and Meafures, Forestalling the Market, Offences in Baking and Brewing are commonly punished with standing in the Pillory, Whipping, and sometimes to have one or both Ears nailed to the Pillory, and cut off, or there bored through the Tongue with a hot Iron. But of late we have left off the Cruelty of cutting off Ears, severe Whipping, Branding on the Forehead, boring the Tongue, and the like.

Of the City of London.

Dudon.] Being the Epitome of England, the Seat of the British Empire, the Chamber of the King, and the chiefest Emporium, or Town of Trade in the World; the largest and most populous, the fairest and most opulent City at this day in all Europe, perhaps in the whole World, furpassing, (as some Learned Men have conjectured) even Paris and Rome put together; it will not, I hope, seem impertinent to give a particular Account thereof.

To defcribe all things in this City worthy to be known, would take up a whole Volume ; therefore according to the intended Brevity of this Treatife, here shall be inferted only τα μεγαλεία τ πόλεως, Magnalia Loudini; such things as Strangers and Foreigners commonly count remarkable.

Mame and Antiquity.] London, fo called, as fome conjecture, from Llong-din or-dinas, the British Word, fignifying in the Saxon Tongue Shipton, or Town of Ships, was built as fome write, 1108 Years before the Birth of our Saviour; that is, now above 2801 Years ago, in the time of Samuel the Prophet, and above 350 Years before the Building of Rome. The Ancientest Author that mentions London is Tacitus, who fays it was Copia Negotiatorum & Commeatu maximé Celebre, a Town very famous for its Trade and Commerce : And Ammianus Marcellinus afterwards called it Vetus Oppidum, an old Town, which fays he, later Ages (after it became a Roman Colony, as a particular Mark of Honour) call'd Augusta.

Situation. In the most excellent Situation of London. the Wildom of our Ancestors is very confpicuous and admirable. It is feated in a pleafant Ever-Green Valley, upon a gentle rifing Bank, in a wholfom Soil, mixt with Gravel and Sand, upon the famous Navigable River Thames, at a place where it is caft into a Crefcent, that fo each part of the City might enjoy the Benefit of the River, and yet not be far diftant one from the other, about 60 Miles from the Sea; not fo near that it might be in danger of Surprifal by the Fleets of Foreign Enemies, or be much annoyed by the boifterous Winds, or moift Vapours of the Sea ; yet not fo far, but that by the help of the Tide every twelve Hours, Ships of very great Burden may be brought into her very Bofom; nor yet fo far, but that it may enjoy the milder, warmer Vapours of the Eastern, Southern, and Western Seas; yet fo far up in the Country, as it might also easily partake even of all the Country Commodities : In an excellent Air upon the North-Side of the River, (for the Villages feated on the South-Side are noted to be more unhealthy in regard of the Vapours drawn upon them by the Sun) defended by gentle Hills from the North and South Winds. It lies in 51 Degrees, 30 Minutes Northern Latitude.

The High-ways leading from all parts to this Noble City, are Large, Straight, Smooth and Fair, no Mountains nor Rocks, no Marshes nor Lakes to hinder Carriages and Paffengers, fo that Corn may eafily be brought. and Cattle commodioufly driven unto it by Land ; and those heavy, though necessary Commodities, Hay and Fuel, are more cheaply conveyed by Water. The City of London is fupplyed with Coalsfrom New-Caftle, which in finaller proportion might be had nearer home, viz. from Black-Heath in Kent, within five Miles of the City; but the great Advantage the Nation finds by the Employment of Io many Hundreds of Ships, and Thoulands of Seamen in the Coal-Trade, who are reputed the ableft and hardieft Seamen we have, will not eafily fuffer those Mines at Black-Heath to be broke up. In a word, all the Bleffings of Land and Sea near about, and by the Benefit of Shipping all the Bleffings of the Terreftrial Globe may be faid to be here more eafily enjoyed than in any City of the World.

Bagnitude.] The City of London, (with that of Westminster, and the Borough of Southwark being contiguous to one another, seem to make indeed but one City, and accordingly shall be so consider'd when we speak of Buildings, (r_{\cdot}) is of a vast Extension from Lime-house, measured to the End of Tothil or Tuttle-Street, from East to West, it is above 7500 Geometrical Paces, that is, above seven English Miles and an half; and from the farther End of Black-man Street in Southwark, to the End of St. Leonard Shoreditch, is 2500 Paces, or two Miles and an half.

In this great City the Streets, Lanes, and Allies, are in Number above 5000, and yet fome of them above half a meafur'd Mile in length; Dwelling-Houfes before the late dreadful Fire, were computed only within the Walls above 15000, and that is now accounted but a feventh part of the whole City, as may appear by the weekly Bills of Mortality, the Number of Houfes at prefent may in all probability be 110000.

Mumber of Muhabitants.] That the Reader may the better guess at the Number of Inhabitants, or Humane Souls within this great City, he must know, that in one Year there were computed to be eaten in London, when it was less by two thirds, 67500 Beefs, ten times as many Sheep, befides abundance of Calves, Lambs, Swine, all forts of Poultry, Foul, Fish, Roots, Milk, &c. Also that Communibus Annis to supply London with New-Castle Coal, there is brought into the River of Thames 600000 Chaldron, and every Chaldron is 36 Bushels.

Again, the Number of Inhabitants may be gueffed at by the Burials in London. which in ordinary Years, when there is no Peffilence, amount of late to about 22000 in a Year and in the Year 1681, which was not accounted a fickly Year, there died according to the general Bill of Mortahity, 23971.

Drink brewed in London in a Dear.] As also by the Quantity of Beer drunk in London in a Year, which to all Foreigners will be incredible; for in the Year 1667, when the greatest part of the Buildings within the Walls, and some without, lay in Ass, and very many of the Inha-

Ver

Inhabitants forced to retire into the Country for Habitation; according to an exact Computation, there were brewed within that Year in London 452563 Earrels of firong Beer, fold at 125.6 d. the Barrel; and 580421 Barrels of Ale, fold at 165. the Barrel; and 489797 Barrels of Table-Beer, or Small-Beer, fold at 65.6 d. the Barrel: The Beer firong and finall, is 36 Gallons to the Barrel, and the Ale 32 Gallons to the Barrel; and now fince the Peftilence and the Fire, that this City is again fully peopled, there is much more Liquor brewed.

It is true that fome hereof is transported beyond the Seas, but that is fcarce confiderable; besides all this Beer and Ale, there is confumed in London a vast quantity of French and Spanish Wines, much Rhenish Wine, Syder, Mum, Coffee, Chocolate, Brandy, and other Drinks.

The Excise only of Beer and Ale for the City of London, (though it be a very moderate Impolition) was not long ago Farmed or Rented of the King at above 1 20000 Pound a Year, and about one fourth part of all that Excise throughout all England.

In a Word, the Author of the Map of London, published Anno 1684. reckons in this vast City 1200000 Souls, but the more accurate Sit William Petty counts but 115846 Families, and 695076 Souls, which is more than are in Paris, Rome, and Roven; more than in Paris and Amsterdam; more than in Amsterdam, Venice, Rome, Dublin, Bristol and Lyons; as many as in all the two Provinces of Holland and West-Friezland. Tho' fince then a Gentleman very well feen in Political Arithmetick reckons them up but at 530000 Souls.

Riber of Aljames.] The River whereon is feated this great City, for its breadth, depth, gentle, fireight, even courfe, extraordinary wholefome Water, and Tydes, is more commodious for Navigation, than perhaps any other River in the World; the Sea flows gently up this River 80 Miles, that is almoss to Kingsfon, 12 Miles above London by Land, and 20 by Water; Boats are drawn about 200 Mile to Oxford, and higher many Miles.

It is High water at this City, as often as the Moon comes to the North-East and South-West points of Heaven, the one in our Hemisphere, and the other in the other Hemisphere. The highest Tydes are about a Land-Flood, the Wind North-West, at the EquinoEtial, and the Moon at full; when when these four Causes concur (which is very rare) then the Thames fwells in fome places over its Banks, and Weltminster is a little endamaged in its Cellars, not in its Chambers and upper Rooms, as the City of Rome is fometimes by the Overflowing of the Tyber, and Paris by the Seyne.

This River opening Eastward towards Germany and France, is much more advantageous for Traffick than any other River of England; to fay nothing of the Variety of excellent Filh within this River. and above all, of the incomparable Salmon : The fruitful fat foil, the pleafant rich Meadows, and innumerable stately Palaces on both fides thereof : In a Word, the Thames feems to be the very radical Moisture of this City; and in some fense, the natural Heat too, for almost all the Fuel for Firing, is brought up this River from Newcastle, Scotland. Kent, Effex, &c. or elfe down the River from Surrey, Middlelex, Berkshire, Scc.

From this River, the City, by Water-Engines is in many places supplied with excellent wholesome Water, also from almost Twenty Conduits of pure Spring-Water : fo commodioufly placed, that they ferve all the chiefest parts of this City; and moreover, by a New River, brought at a vaft Charge, and exquisite Skill (by Sir Hugh Middleton, who deserves his Statue in Brais) from Amwell and Chadwell : two Springs near Ware in Hartford-shire, from whence, in a turning and winding Courfe, it runs 60 Miles before it reaches this City; in fome Places the Channel is neceffarily 20 Foot deep, in other places it is carried over Valleys more than 20 Foot high above Ground in open Troughs : over this new River are made 800 Bridges, fome of Stone. fome of Brick, and fome of Wood ; 600 Men have been at once employed in this great Work : It was begun in 1608, and finished in five Years; it ferves the higheft Places in London in the lower Rooms, and the lower Parts in their highest Rooms. Moreover this City is fo fituated, that in all Parts (though on the higheft Groun1) it is abundantly ferved with Pump-Water. and those Pa nps in many Places not fix Foot deep in the Ground.

Trade.] The vaft Traffick and Commerce whereby this City doth flourish, may be gueffed at chiefly by the Cuftoms which are paid for all Merchandife imported or exported, ported, which are but very moderate Impositions, in Comparison of the Imposts of most other Countries of Europe, and yet the Customs of the Port of London only (without counting the Customs of other Cities) did lately amount to above 330000 Pounds a Year, and are now rifen to a much greater Sum, by the infinite Number of Ships, which by their Masts refemble a Foress as they lie along the Thames; besides many that are fent forth every Year, to carry and fetch Commodities to, and from all Parts of the known World; whereby it comes to pass that no small Number of Merchants of London, for Wealth, for stately Houses within the City for Winter, and without for Summer; for rich Furniture, plentiful Tables, honourable Living; for great Estates in Money and Land, & excel some Princes in divers of our Neighbouring Nations.

Moreover, one may conjecture at the huge Commerce, by the infinite Number of great well furnished Shops, which a Spaniard once observing, together with the great Number of Law-Suits in Term-time, made this Report of London to his Countrymen. That it was a great City, but made up of nothing but Tiendas y Contiendas, Shops and Suits ; whereas he might rather have faid more truly in a few more Words, That London is a huge Magazine of Men, Money, Ships, Horfes and Ammunition, of all forts of Commodities necessary or expedient for the Use or Pleafure of Mankind : That London is the mighty Rendezvous of Nobility, Gentry, Courtiers, Divines, Lawyers, Physicians, Merchants, Seamen, and all kind of excellent Artificers, of the most refined Wits, and most excellent Beauties : For it is observed, that in most Families of England, if there be any Son or Daughter that excels the reft in Beauty, or Wit, or perhaps Courage, or Industry, or any other rare Quality, London is their North Star, and they are never at reft till they point directly thither.

Laftly, Very remarkable alfo is this great City for the Champaign of the Country on all fides; for the Number of the Royal Palaces; the Multitude of ftately Houfes, and Gardens of Noblemen; the innumerable fair Summer Dwelling-Houfes of the wealthy Citizens; the pleafant fertile Meadows, inclosed Paftures and Corn-Fields; the abundance of Nurferies and Seminaries, where are to be fold all forts of Fruit-trees, Flowers, Herbs, Roots, as well for Phylick as for Food and Delight; the Frequency,

Of the Government of the City of London.

THE Government of this City, confidering the Greatness and Populousness thereof is very Admirable.

Ecclefiaffical Government.] The Ecclefiaftical Government is by a Bifhop; was in the time of the Britains, by an Archbifhop; but when it became fubject to the Saxons, the Archiepifcopal See was placed at Canterbury, the Metropolis of the Kingdom of Kent, where the Gofpel was first preached to our Saxon Ancestors. Since which time it hath been under a Bifhop above ten Centuries and an half, in a continual Succession; in which space there are reckoned 92 Bifhops of London to the present worthy Bifhop thereof, the Learned and Pious, Dr. Henty Compton, Son to the late valiant E. of Northampton, Confectated Bishop of Oxford 1674, and translated to London 1675. To this Cathedral also belongs a Dean, Dr. William Sherlock; three Residentiaties, I. Dr. Henry Godolphin, 2. Dr. William Stanley, and 3. Dr. John Younger; a Treasurer, Precentor, and thirty Prebendaries.

For the Ecclefiaftical Government of the feveral Parifhes, there are placed many excellent Divines that have the Cure of Souls, a Rector or Vicar for every Parish; and these have for a long time had the most excellent way of Sermonizing in Christendom; infomuch, as divers Divines of Foreign Reformed Churches have come hither on purpose to learn their manner of Pulpit-Oratory. For maintaining these Divines with their Families, there is in almost every Parish a Parsonage or Vicarage-House, and in most a competent Allowance in Tythes. Anciently the Ministers Due in London, belides the Tythes of the Tradefmens Gains and Mortuaries, Obits, &c. was 3 s. 5 d. in the Pound of the yearly Rent of all Houses and Shops; and this was paid as Offerings, a Half-penny for each Pound, every Sunday and Holy-day in the Year; whereby the Parishioners did hardly feel it : Afterwards, many Holy-days being raken away, and the Clergy-Means thereby abated, it was Ordained ftos, or Guardian; and fometimes Provost of London: But after the coming in of the Normans, the Chief Magiftrate was called Ballivus, from the French Word Bailler, Tradere, Committere; that is Commission, or one that hath Commission to govern others: And there were fometimes Two Bailiffs of London, till King Richard the First, Anno 1189. changed the Name of Bailiff into Mayor; which also being derived from the French, hath continued ever fince, a Citizen chosen by the Citizens annually, unless fometimes for the Difloyalty of the Citizens, their Privileges and Franchises have been taken from them, and a Guardian fet over them, as was done by Hen. III. and Edw. I.

Dis Clettion.] He is ufually chofen on Michaelmas-Day by the Livery-Men, or Members of the feveral Companies within the faid City, out of the 26 Aldermen, all Perfons of great Wealth and Efteem. In which Election, the fenior Alderman that hath not been Mayor, hath ufually the Precedence ; yet in this particular, the faid Electors fometimes take a Liberty.

Dis Authouty.] His Authority reaches not only over this great City and part of the Suburbs, but also on the famous River of Thames, Eastward, as far as Tendale or Tenlett, and the Mouth of the River Medway; and Westward, as far as Coleny-Ditch, above Staines-Bridge : He hath a Priviledge by Charter to hunt in Meddlelex, Effex, and Surrey; and for this purpose is always maintain'd an excellent Kennel of Hounds, as afore-mentioned. He hath Power to punish or correct all that shall annoy the Stream, Banks, or Fish; and for that end he yearly keeps feveral Courts in the Counties adjacent to the Thames, for Confervation of the River, and Punishment of Offenders; only the Strength and Safety of the River against an Invalion, and fecuring Merchandizing and Navigation, by Block-Houfes, Forts or Caffles, is the immediate Care of the King.

Lozo Dapozs Court of Judicature.] To the Lord Mayor and City of London belong divers Courts of Judicature of high Importance.

The highest and most ancient Court, is that called the Hustings (i. e.)Domus Causarum, which doth preferve the Laws, Rights, Franchises, and Customs of the City.

There

There is a Court of Request or Conscience, so called, because medling with nothing above 40 s. value. The Oath of the Creditor himself is accepted.

The Court of the Lord Mayor and Aldermen, where alfo the Recorder and Sheriffs (who are Aldermen, or elfe ufually chofen upon the next vacancy) fit : Two Courts of the Sheriffs, one for each County.

The Court of the City Orphans, whereof the Lord Mayor and Aldermen have the Custody.

The Court of Common-Council, confifting as the (Parliament of England) of Two Houfes; one for the Lord Mayor and Aldermen, and the other for the Commoners; in which Court are made all By-Laws, which bind all the Citizens of London; for every Man either by himfelf, or by his Reprefentative, gives his Affent thereunto; wherein confifts the great Happinefs of the English Subject, above all the Subjects of any other Prince in the World; that neither in Laws nor By-Laws, neither in Taxes or Imposts, any Man is obliged, but by his own Confent.

There is another Court of the Chamberlain of the City, to whom belongs the Receipts of the Rents and Revenues of the City, and to his Court belongs the bufinefs of Apprentices, over whom he hath a great Authority.

To the Lord Mayor alfo belongs the Courts of Coroner and of Elcheater; and another Court for thr Confervation of the River of Thames.

Laftly, the Court of Goal-Delivery, held usually Eight times a year at the Old-Baily, both for the City and Middlefex, for the Tryal of Criminals, whereof the Lord Mayor is the Chief Judge, and hath the power of reprieving condemned Persons.

There are other Courts called Wardmote, or the Meeting of Wards, whereof there are 26 in the whole City; in which Court Inquiry is made into all things that can conduce to the Regulating and Well-governing of the City; alfo the Court of Halmote, or Affembly of every Guild or Fraternity, for regulating what belongs to each Company in particular.

Dis State.] His State and Magnificence is remarkable, when he appears abroad, which in former times was mosty on Horseback, with rich Caparison, himself always in ong Robes, sometimes of Scarlet Cloth richly Furred, and and fometimes Purple, and over his Robes a Hood of Black Velver, which fome fay, is a Badge of a Baron of the Realm, with a great Chain of Gold about his Neck, or Collar of SS's, with a great rich Jewel pendent thereon, with many Officers walking before, and on all Sides of him, &c. but more especially on the 29th of October, when he goes to Westminster in his Barge, accompanied with all the Aldermen, all his Officers, all the feveral Companies, or Corporations in their feveral Stately Barges, with their Arms, Colours and Streamers; and having there in the Exchequer Chamber taken his Solemn Oath to be true to the King, returns in like manner to the Hall of his own Company, or to Guild-Hall, (that is, the great Common-Hall of Guilds, or incorporated Confraternities) where is prepared for him and his Brethren, a most Sumptuous Dinner, to which many of the great Lords and Ladies, all the Judges of the Land, and oftentimes the Lords of his Majefty's most Honourable Privy-Council; alfo Foreign Ambaffadors are invited ; and, of late Years our Kings and Queens have been pleased to honour the Feast with their Prefence. This great Magistrate, upon the Death of the King, is faid to be prime Perfon of England ; and therefore when King James I. was invited to come and take the Crown of England, Robert Lee, then Lord Mayor of London, subscribed in the first place, before all the Great Officers of the Crown, and all the Nobility.

The Mayor of London, though always a Citizen and Tradefman, hath been of fuch high Repute and Effeem, that in all Writing and Speaking to him, the Title of Lord is prefixed, which is given to none others, but either to Noblemen, to Bifhops, Judges, and of latter times, to the Mayor of Tork, or to fome of the Higheft Officers of the Realm: He is alfo for his great Dignity, ufually Knighted by the King before the Year of his Mayoraky be expired, unlefs he had received that Honour before, whilf he was Alderman, as of late hath been ufual. The Lord Mayor, on the Day of the King's Coronation, claims to be chief Butler, and bear the King's Cup amongst the higheft Nobles of the Kingdom, which ferve on that Day in their Offices.

His Table is, and also the Table of each Sheriff, fuch, that it is not only open all the Year to all Comers, Strangers and others, that are of any confiderable Quality; but fo well furnished, that it is always fit to receive the greatest Subject of England, or of other Potentate : Nay, it is recorded, that a Lord Mayor of London hath feasted four Kings at once at his Table.

Also, for the Grandeur of the Lord Mayor there is allowed above 1000 l. a Year for his Sword-bearer's Table, in the House of the Lord Mayor.

His Domeftick Attendance is very honourable; He hath four Officers that wait on him, who are reputed Efquires by their Places; that is,

The Sword-Bearer.

The Common-Hunt, who keepeth a good Kennel of Hounds for the Lord Mayor's Recreation abroad.

The Common Cryer.

The Water-Bailiff.

There is alfo.

The Coroner, and divers other Officers as you will find in their proper Places.

Two Yeomen of the Chamber. Three Meal Weighers. Two Yeomen of the Woodhoufe.

Most of which have Servants allowed them, and have Liveries for themselves.

Sheriffs.] The two Sheriffs of this City are alfo Sheriffs of the Gounty of Middlefex, and are annually chofen by the Citizens of London from among themfelves, in the Guild-Hall, upon Midfummer-Day; a high Priviledge among many others, anciently granted to this City by feveral Kings and Queens of this Kingdom; but they are not fworn till Michaelmas-Eve, and are foon after prefented at the Exchequer, to be allowed by the Barons, and fworn: After which they enter upon their Office: If either of the Perfons fo chofen refufe to hold, he incurs a Penalty or Fine of 420 l. unlefs he will take a Solemn Oath, that he is not worth 10000 l.

Wards of the City: When any of these die, the Ward-mote A a 354 return two, and the Lord Mayor and Aldermen chuse one out of the most substantial Men of the City: If any so chosen refuse to hold, he is usually fined 500 L.

All the Aldermen that have been Lord Mayors, and the Three eldest Aldermen that have not yet arrived to that Honourable Estate, are by their Charter, Justices of the Peace of this City.

The Ameline Companies.] The Traders of London are divided into Companies, or Corporations, and are fo many Bodies Politick: Of these there are 12, called the chief Companies; and he that is chosen Lord Mayor, must be free of one of these Companies; which are,

I. Mercers.	6. Skinners.	10. Ironmongers.
2. Grocers.	7. Merchant-	11. Vintners.
3. Drapers.	Taylors.	12. Cloathwork-
4. Fiftmongers.	8. Haberdashers.	ers.
5. Goldsmiths.	9. Salters.

And if it happen, that the Lord Mayor Elect is of any other Company, he prefently removes to one of the Twelve. It hath been the Cuftom of fome of our Kings, to honour fome of these Companies, by taking their Freedom thereof; as his late Majesty was pleas'd to be made Free of the Drapers Company, one of his Predecessors of the Grocers, &c. Each Company or Mystery hath a Master annually chosen from among themselves, and hath other Subordinate Governours, called Wardens or Affistants, these do exactly correspond to the general Government of the City, by a Lord Mayor and Common Council, who are selected out of these several Companies; so excellent an Harmony there is in that Government.

There are besides near 60 other Companies or Corporations, all enjoying large Priviledges, by the King's Gracious Charter granted unto them, and most of them fair Halls to meet in.

Of

Of the Government of the CITY of WESTMINSTER.

THE Government of the City of Westminster is distinct from that of London; they have neither Mayor, Sheriffs, nor Aldermen: But instead of a Lord Mayor, they have an High-Steward, who is usually one of the prime Nobility.

The High Steward of Westminster is chosen by the Dean and Chapter, and holds this High Office durante with. The Nature of his Office is not much unlike the Chancellership of an University.

The Dean and Chapter here are invefted with Ecclefiastical and Civil Jurifdiction, as the Vice-Chancellor is in an Univerfity; and not only within the City of Westminster, but within the Precincts of St. Martins le Grand, near Cheapside, London; and in some Towns of Essex, exempted as well from the Jurifdiction of the Bishop of London, as from that of the Archbishop of Canterbury. And when the Convocation is prorogued by the A.B. from St. Pauls (for their greater Conveniency, nearer to the Parliament) to Westminster, the Bishops first declare (upon a Protestation made by the Dean there) that they intend not thereby to violate that high Priviledge, viz. That no Bishop or Arch-Bishop may come there without the leave of the Dean first optained.

The Under-Steward of Westminster is likewise an Officer of great Note, and is instead of a Sheriff; he holds this Honourable Office durante with.

The High-Bayliff is an Officer of Honour, and Profit, named by the Dean, and confirmed by the High-Steward ; he holds likewife for Life.

This City hath two Precincts; in each a Burgefs is annually chosen, out of the wealthieft Citizens, by the rest of the Burgesses, who represent Aldermen.

For Ecclefiastical Causes, and Probate of Wills, it hath a Royal Jurisdiction, under a Commissary; from whom no Appeal must be, only to the King, in his High Court of Chancery.

ST TONE

The Prelent State

Part III.

Southwark was granted by Letters Patents of Ed. VI. to be counted as one of the Wards of London, by the Name of Bridge ward without, and is governed by one of the 26 Aldermen of London. 'Tis vaftly Large, Rich, and Populous; a great part of it hath been burnt down fome Years fince the great Fire of London; but all those Ruins are now beautifully repaired.

Dilitary Bobernment of the City of Loncon.] Something of the Military Government, both Ancient and Modern, of this Mighty Populous City, is alfo well worthy to be known both to Englifb and Foreigners. In the 23d of Hen. VIII. 1532. at a General Mufter in London, were first taken the Names of all Men within this City and Liberties only. (which reach not far without the Walls) from the Age of 16 to 60; alfo the number of all Harness, and of all forts of Weapons for War: Then they drew out of these only such able Men, as had White Harness, and caused them all to appear in White Coats and Breeches, and White Caps and Feathers: What was the number then of Men in Arms, was not recorded; But Stow fays, there were mustered 15000.

City Trained Bands] At the time of the Happy Reftauration of King Charles the Second, there were in London and the Liberties, fix Regiments of Train'd-Bands, and fix Regiments of Auxiliaries, and one Regiment of Horfe : Thefe thirteen Regiments about fix Weeks before his Majesty's Arrival, Muster'd in Hide-Park, being then drawn out for promoting and fecuring his Majefty's Return: These twelve Regiments of Foot were 18000 compleat; eight of these Regiments had feven Companies in each, and the other four had fix Companies in each ; in all eighty Companies, the Regiment of Horfe of fix Troops, and a 100 in each Troop: This confiderable Army drawn together before the 29th of May, the Day of his Majesty's return, was judged to be highly useful for facilitating the happy Work : Some Months after, his Majesty sent to the City, Commissions of Lieurenancy, appointing feveral Perfons to act as his Lieurenants in London, giving them the fame Power that the Lords Lieutenants have in their respective Counties : and in purfuance of that Commillion, the Regiments were new 3-13/2 3 new fetled; there were fix Regiments of Train'd-Bands, commanded by fix Citizens, Knights, and their Lieutenant-Colonels were all Knights ; and there were fix Regiments of Auxiliaries. In all thefe twelve Regiments were 20000 Men; then were lifted two Regiments of Horfe, each confifting of five Troops, in all 800 Horfe : Thefe were all drawn to Hide Park, where his Majefty was pleafed to take a View of them ; but in cafe of Need, it is certain that in London and within the Liberty, there may in few Days be raifed 40000 Men, besides Southwark, one Regiment of Train'd-Bands 1500 Men; the Hamlets of the Tower two Regiments, in all 3000 Men; then Holborn Regiment, and Westminster Regiment 2000 each, and in case of Necessity they can raife 20000 more.

Artillery Company.] Befides thefe Train'd-Bands and Auxiliary Men, there is the Artillery Company, which is a Nurfery of Soldiers, and hath been fo above 60 Years ; King Charles the Second lifted himfelf there when he was Prince of Wales, and fo did the late King James at the. fame time, who after his Majefty's Return took the Command thereof, and owned it as his Company : Under his Highness there was a Leader, who exercised this Company every Tuesday Fortnight, and the other Tuesday the Exercife was performed by the feveral Members of the Company, who are there trained up to Command. Of this Society are many of the Nobility; also the Lord Mayor and most of the Aldermen; all the Commanders of the Train'd-Bands and Auxiliaries here exercise Arms. This Company confifts of 600 Men. Their Officers are, a Leader, two Lieutenants, two Ensigns, two Serjeants, a Provost Marshal, three Gentlemen of Arms, &c. they have alfo a Court-Marshal, confisting of a President and 24 Members of the Company; on the fecond Tuesday in February is a general Rendezvous every Year.

Now before I proceed to describe the present Glory of this Great and Unparalell'd City; and because that having spoken of its Antiquity, it yet too justly appears to the Beholders, as if the greatest Part of it were lately built; I shall for the Satisfaction of Foreigners especially, and those who are curious in Enquiries, exhibit here a short Account of the dreadful Fire of London, which begun the 2d Day of September 1666. and in three days space, consumed the greatest part of the City.

THE City of London within the Walls contains 448 Acres of Ground, whereof the Buildings on 373 Acres were utterly confumed by that late dreadful Conflagration; alfo 63 Acres without the Walls, in all 436 Acres, 89 Parifh-Churches, and 13200 Houfes, belides that vaft Cathedral of St. Paul's, and divers Chappels, Halls, Colledges, Schools, and other publick Edifices, whereof the whole Damage is hardly to be computed or credited.

In that one Commodity of Books only, wherewith London abounded, was loft (as judicious Stationers have computed) 150000 pound: For the Lofs fell most upon that, and three or four other cumberforme Commodities, not easie on a sudden to be removed, viz. Wines, Tobacco, Sugar and Plums, wherewith this City was furnished beyond any City in the World; infomuch that one Person, Alderman Jefferies lost of Tobacco, to the Value of 20000 Pound, yet in the vast Conflagration, not above fix or eight Persons were burnt. Of this dreadful Fire there were many concurrent Occasions.

Firft, Either the Drunkennefs or Supine Negligence of the Baker and his Servants, in whofe Houfe it began.

Next, The dead time of the Night wherein it began, viz. between one and two of the Clock after Midnight.

Thirdly, The dead time of the Week, being Saturday-night, when Traders were retired to their Country-Houfes.

Fourth-

Fourthly, The dead time of the Year, being then the long Vacation, on the fecond of September, when Tradefmen were generally abroad in the Country.

Fifthly, The Closeness of the Buildings in that Place, facilitating the Progress of the Fire, and hindring the usual Remedy, which was by Engines to shoot Water.

Sixthly, The matter of the Buildings thereabouts, which was generally Woodden and of old Timber.

Seventhly, The long continued Drought of the preceding Summer even to that Day, which had dried the Timber that it was apt to take Fire.

Eighthly, The Matters of Wares in those Parts, where were the greatest Store-houses of the City of Oils, Pitch, Tar, Rosin, Wax, Butter, Brimstone, Hemp, Cordage, Cheese, Wine, Brandy, Sugar, &c.

Minthly, An Easterly Wind, the drieft of all others, that then did blow very ftrongly.

Tenthly, The unexpected failing of the Water, the Thames Water-Tower near to the Place where the Fire began, then out of order, and burnt down immediately after the beginning of the Fire, fo that most Water-Pipes were foon dry.

Laftly, An unufual Negligence at first, and a Confidence of easily quenching the Fire, on a sudden changed into a general Consternation and Despondency, all chusing rather by Flight to fave their Goods, than by a vigorous Opposition to fave their Houses and the City.

These Causes thus strangely concurring, (to fay nothing of God's just Indignation for the notorious Impenitency of the Citizens, for their great Abominations in abetting and inftigating, the fhedding of the precious innocent Blood both of God's Anointed, and of their other chief Governours, both in Church and State) the Reader may take this little Prospect of the huge Damages done by this Fire. It hath been computed by an ingenious Person, that there being burnt in all about 13200 Houfes, which valued one with another at no more than 25 Pound yearly Rent, at the low rate of 12 Years Purchase, will amount in the whole to 3960000 Pound Sterling; the 87 Parish Churches besides the most spacious Cathedral Church of Sr. Paul, fix confecrated Chappels, the Royal Burfe or Exchange, the great Guild-Hall, the Custom-House, the many magnificent Halls of Companies, the feveral principal City-Gates, with other The A 3 4 publick Edifices, to 2800000 l.

Luk-

The Wares, Houshold-stuff, Moneys, and other moveable Goods, during the Fire, and bringing them back afterward, in the Hire of Boats, Carts, and Porters, may be well reckoned at the least two Millions ; the Total whereof is almost ten Millions of Pounds Sterling; and yet notwithstanding all these huge Losses by Fire, notwithstanding that most devouring Pestilence in the Year immediately aforegoing, and the then very chargeable War against three potent Neighbours, the Citizens recovering, after a few Months, their Native Courage, have fince to cheerfully and unanimoufly fet themfelves to rebuild the City, that within the space of four Years, they erected on the fame Ground 10000 Houfes, and laid out upon the fame 3000000 of pounds Sterling, counting but 300 pound a Houfe one with another, besides several large Hospitals, divers very stately Halls, 19 fair solid Stone Churches that did coft above 100000 pound, were all at the fame time erected. and foon after finished. Moreover as if the late Fire had only purg'd the City, the Buildings are become infinitely more beautiful, more commodious, and more folid (the three main Virtues of all Edefices) than before : Nay, as if the Citizens had not been any way impoverished, but rather enriched by that huge Conflagration, they may be faid to be even wanton in their Expences, upon the ftately Italian Faciata's, or Fronts of their new Houfes, Churches and Halls; (many of Portland-Stone, as durable almost as Marble;) upon their richly adorned Shops, Chambers, Balconies, Signs, Portals, &c. Their publick Halls are richly fet off with curious Architecture, carved Work in Stone and Wood, with Pictures and Wainfcot, not only of Firr and Oak, but fome with fweet-fmelling Cedar; their Churches beautified with excellent various Towers, and Fronts of true Roman Architecture ; they made their Streets much more large and straight; paved each fide with fmooth hewn Stone, guarded the fame with many Massie Posts for the Security of Foot-Passengers; and illuminated by Night with Convex Lights, for the Benefic of all: And whereas they before dwelt in low, dark, woodden Cottages, they now live in lofty, lightfome, uniform Brick-Buildings : So that although the then King could not fay of this his capital City as one of the Emperors faid of Rome; Lateritiam inveni, Marmoream reliqui: Yet he might fay of it what was almost equivalent; Ligncam inveni, " A CONTROLE ON AND AND ACC

Lateritiam reliqui : And of a principal Structure of this City, the Royal Exchange, King Charles II. might have faid, Lateritiam inveni, Lapideam reliqui.

Dublick Zuildings.] In this Noble City are very many and Magnificent; those most especially, that are confecrate to the Worship of God. There are besides the Royal Chappels of White-Hall and St. James's, that fpacious one of Guild-Hall, and many others ; 135 Parish-Churches; which, to the Glory of God, and the Honour of our Reformed Religion, is double the Number of any City in . Chriftendom; and most of these for Solidity of Building, for Spaciousness and Uniformity, for beautiful and durable Stone-Work without, and for curious Wainfcor, and exquisite Carvings within, for Lightfomnels and Convenience; do fufficiently evidence the extraordinary value that we have for the publick Worship of God : For it is notorious enough that those publick Places for Divine Service, which have been here built by this Age of Protestants, do abundantly furpafs, both for Cost and Care, those which were built by our Anceftors in the times of Popery. To begin with that already celebrated Piece of Archite-Eture, the Cathedral Church of St. Paul, which, though it be not finished, doth even now shew to what an Imperial Grandeur it is haftily afpiring; the Hiftory of what it was in former times, I abbreviated in all the preceding Editions of this Manual : But becaufe I keep my felf now more strigtly to the Prefent State of things; I shall only fay, That it was first founded by Segbert a Saxon King, An. 610. in a Place faith Mr. Selden, where had flood a Temple of Diana. But the Commentator on Antoninus's Itinerary, supposes our Antiquary not to be in earnest when he fays London was called Lhan Dien, i. e. The Temple of Diana. Afterwards 'twas enlarged by Erkenwald, the Fourth Bishop of this See. The greatest part was destroyed by Fire 1086. in a general Conflagration of almost the whole City, and rebuilt by Mauritius the 35th Bishop, but not finished till 1221. It was 690 Foot long, that's 20 more than St. Peter's in Rome. The Nave or Body of the Church 102 Foot high, 130 broad : It's Area 3 Acres and ; its Tower in the middle (for it was built as other Cathedrals, crofs-wife) 520 Foot high, besides a Pole of Copper gilt, 9 Foot in compais; on which was a Crois 15

15 and 1 Foot high; and on that an Eagle-Cock of Copper gilt, 4 Foot long.

Anno 1561, it was damaged much by Fire; and within 5 Years repaired by Q. Elizabeth; the Clergy of the Province of Canterbury, and the Citizens of London, all contributing thereunto.

A little before the Civil Wars, by the Care of Archbishop Land, whilst he was Bishop of London, this wast Building was in a great measure folidly and fumptuoufly repaired; and befides what was already expended, . 17000 l. reposited in the Chamber of London, for the finishing of it; but was taken out foon after, and employed in an unnatural War, as it too often happens that Rebellion ends in Sacrilege.

It is now rebuilding with greater Solidity, Magnificence and Splendor, by the most renowned Architect, Sir Christopher Wren; the Tax upon Sea-Coal still continuing, being 1. s. 6 d. upon every Chaldron ; besides the liberal Contributions of pious and devout Perfons, among whom Archbishop Sancroft, while he was Dean of this Church, was most eminent for the carrying on fo Religious and Glorious a Work.

The Body of this Noble Pile, is, for the most part, already built, and appears now, through a Wood of Scaffolding, the Wonder and the Glory of the Kingdom.

The next is, that Ancient Stately Abby-Church of Weftminster, founded before the Norman Conquest, by the pious King, Edward the Confessor; and most richly endowed; afterwards re-built from the Ground by King Hen. III. with that rare Architecture now feen, wherein are the most magnificent Tombs and Monuments of our Kings and Queens, of our greatest Nobles and famous Worthies of England. To the East End of which is added a Chappel of King Hen. VII. which, for the most admirable artificial Work without and within, for a Monument of maffy Brafs, most curioufly wrought, and other Mafter-Pieces of Art, is fcarce to be parallell'd in the World. This huge Fabrick flands on that, which was once the only firm piece of Ground in Westminster, formerly called Thorney Island; where is faid to have been a Temple dedicated to Apollo ; and afterwards the Saxon King Segbert, the first Builder of St. Paul's aforementioned, built here alfo a Church to St. Peter ; and yet it is the Conjecture of many Judicious ArchiteEts.

chitects, and Learned Autiquaries, that the ancient Structure yet standing betwixt Thieving-Lane, or Bow-street, and the great Sanctuary, now employed only as a Cellar for Wines, called Beech's Cellars, might very probably have been that Church of King Segbert; it being made Churchwife, with a double Cross; and the manner of its Building, certainly of greater Antiquity than any other whatfoever about the City; the Pillars are very large, square, and strong; but bearing no true Proportion with the rest of the Fabrick; the Arches pointed, yet in nothing imitating either the Gothick or Roman Building.

Queen Elizabeth converted this Abby into a Collegiate Church, and therein placed a Dean, and 12 Secular Canons, or Prebendaries, a Master and Usher, forty Scholars, Vicars, Singing-Men, and 12 Alms-Men.

This Magnificent Abby Church hath of late Years very much decayed; and notwithstanding the Dean and Prebendaries have largely contributed to the Repairing of it, to the great lessening of their yearly Income; yet being no ways able to fupport it without a publick Benefaction, the late Parliament was generously pleased to allow them 30000 Pounds out of the Tax upon Coals towards this pious Work.

Dr. Dolbin, the late Lord Archbishop of York, at his first coming to this Deanery, added a thirteenth Prebend, wiz. St. Petri the Patron, which was an equal Share to be allowed by the 12 Prebendaries, amounting to the full Value of one of theirs, and is employed towards the Repair of the faid Abby-Church. There are Petty Canons, and others belonging to the Choir, to the Number of thirty.

These are the two Mother-Churches; but it would be endless to speak particularly of all other Churches of great Rematk; as Bow-Church in Cheapside; whose costly new Tower, for Solidity, Beauty, and a Ring of Bells, is matchless. The spacious Church of Cowent-Garden hath not one Pillar in it, besides those Magnificent ones of its Portico; yet the Roos of which is flat, and plain, is substantially supported by Mysterious Workmanship, The Amplitude and Stateliness of divers other Churches is very wonderful; as Christ's-Church, St. Andrew's-Holborn, St. Lawrence's; where 164 where there are two celebrated Weekly Lectures, St. Mishael Corn-hill's , St. Margaret's, St. James's, and St. Ann's Westminster, St. Brides, where the Hofpital or Spittle Sermons in Easter-Week, and the Musick Sermon on St. Gecilia's Day have been commonly held, St. Margaret's Westminster, where the Sermons are on all Solemn Occafions preach'd before the Honourable Houfe of Commons : most of which are richly furnished with Massie Communion-Plate, fumptuous Altar-pieces, Marble, or Alabafter -Fronts, Carved Pulpits, Cloths of Gold and Silver, or Velvet, fringed and embroidered, Persian Carpets, and the like.

PALACES and HOUSES belonging to the CROWN.

NEAR the Abby-Church of Westminster stood the Royal Palace and usual Place of Residence for the Kings of England, who ordinarily held their Parliament and all their Courts of Judicature in their Dwelling Houfes (as was done at Paris by the King of France, in the Ile de Nostre Dame ; and is at this Day at Madrid by the King of Spain) and many times fate themfelves in the faid Courts of Judicature, as they do still sometimes in their Court of Parliament. A great part of this huge Palace was in the time of Hen. VIII. destroyed by Fire ; what remained hath been still employed for the Use of the Lords and Commons affembled in Parliament, and for chief Courts of Judicature, and for the King's Treafury. The Great Hall where the Great Courts of King's-Bench, Common-Pleas, and Chancery are kept, fome fay, was built by William Rufus; others, by Richard I. which, for all its Dimensions, is not to be equalled by any Hall in Christendom. It is, including the Walls, just 300 Foot long, and 100 broad; the height proportionable to its other ample Dimensions: And the Roof of Irifb Oak most cur rious.

Of the TOWER of LONDON.

L'OR the Security and Defence of this famous City and River, there hath been anciently divers Fortreffes ; but that called the Tower of London, hath been eminent 2bove all others: It is not only a Fort or Citadel to defend and command both City and River, but a Royal Palace likewife where our Kings with their Courts have fometimes lodged ; a Royal Arfenal, where are Arms and Ammunition for 60000 Soldiers : The Treasury for the Jewels and Ornaments of the English Crown, the great Mint for Coining of Gold and Silver; the Great Archive, where are conferved all the ancient Records of the Courts of Westminfter, &c. The chief Prifon for the fafe Cuftody of great Perfons that are Criminals in matters of State; in fliort, if the great Extent thereof within the Walls be confidered, and its Authority over the feveral Hamlets without, and the many high Priviledges and Liberties belonging thereto, it may rather be reputed a City than a Citadel. In the midft of it. the great white Square-Tower was built by William the Conqueror.

In what County the Tower is (or whether it be in any) is not determined; part of it fome hold to be in Middlefex, and part in the Liberty of the City: Those that were tryed for the Murder of Sir Thomas Overbury, by the Judges Opinion, were tryed as in the City, the Fact being done in that part of the Tower held to be in the City Libertics.

Within the Tower is one Parochial Church, and a Royal Chappel, called Cafar's Chappel, but 'tis now out of ule; the Church is called S. Petri ad Vincula infra Turrim, exempt from all Ecclefiaffical Jurifdiction of the Archbishop, and is a Donative bestowed by the King, without Institution and Induction.

Constables of the Tower.] The Tower of London, till the beginning of Queen Elizabeth's Reign, was governed by 2 Constable, and sometimes by a Custos Turris, and in his abfence by a Lieutenant, or Deputy; they had the Government of the Tower, sometimes during Life, sometimes Du-

Durante bene placito, were Privy Councellors, and had their Refidence in the Royal Palace within the Tower, and fometimes had the Cuftody of the Armories, Stores and Victuals : These were all oft-times Lieutenants and Confervators of the City of London, Sheriffs of Middlefex, and other adjacent Counties, had the Power to infpect all Offices within the Tower, and to report to the King all Mildemeanors or Neglects ; and in Stat. 28. of Edw. 3. Chap. 10. to declare the Penalty of the Mayor and Sheriffs, &c. of the City of London, for neglecting to redrefs Errors, Misprifions, &c. and the Tryals of Defaults shall be by Enquests of Foreign Counties, as Effex, Kent, &c. that the Conftable, or his Lieutenant shall, in fuch cafe, receive and execute the King's Writs. Many other Powers and Priviledges did anciently belong to the Constable of the Tower of London : And Anno Dom. 1697. the Right Honourable William Lord Alington, Baron of Wymondley in England, and Baron of Killard in Ireland, had that Dignity and Office of Constable of the Tower, and Liberties thereof, conferred upon him in the room and place of the Right Honourable James Earl of Northampton, with the Fee or Allowance of 1000 l. per Annum; he was Lord Lieutenant of the Hamlets, in Number 21, lying in feveral Parifhes of large extent belonging to the Tower ; whole Train'd-Bands being two entire Regiments of Foot, of eight Companies in each Regiment, and about 200 well-appointed Men in each Company, one with another, do form a Body of between 3 and 4000 Men, who are to attend the King's Person in time of need, and are to march no further than the King; they were fometimes the Guards of the Tower, and are, if there be occasion, ready to reinforce the Garifon by Command of the Conftable. who Virtute Officii, is to be in the Commission of the Peace for the City of London, Counties of MiddleJex, Kent, and Surrey.

Lieutenant.] The next Officer in Command, is the Chief Governour, or Lieutenant of the Tower; he is also by virtue of his Office, to be in Commission for the Peace of the Counties of Middlefex, Kent, and Surrey, and is to alt under, and be subordinate to the Constable for the time being.

He hath for the Execution of his Office a Salary of 200 l. per Annum, with all the Fees and Perquifites, which Sir John Robinson, or any other of his Predeceffors ever had. He hath, as appurtenant to his Office, by Grants of divers of the former Kings of England, the Priviledge of taking Unam Lagenam, two Gallons and a Pint. ante malum & retro, and a certain quantity out of every Boat laden with Lobsters and Oysters, or any other Shellfifh which paffeth by the Tower, and takes double the quantity out of every Aliens Boat, to what he takes out of the Natives. Every Perfon of the Quality of a Duke, being fent Prisoner to the Tower pays 200 l. as his Fee. Every Baron under the Degree of a Duke 100 l. and every Commoner 501. He hath also a further Perquisite, the dispofal of the 40 Yeomen-Warders Places as they die off.

Under the Command of the Conftable (and in his Abfence of the Lieutenant) are the Gentleman Porter, the Phylician Dr. Gideon Harvey, the, 40 Yeomen-Warders, and the Gunner of the Tower. The prefent Lieutenant of the Tower is the Honourable Lieutenant General Churchil.

Gentleman Dozter.] The Gentleman Porter, (who holds his Place by Patent,) hath charge of the Gates, to lock up, and open; and to deliver the Keys to the Conftable, (and in his Abfence to the Lieutenant) every Night, and to receive them of him in the Morning: He commands the Warders that are upon the Days-wait, and at the Entrance of a Prifoner hath for his Fee Vestimenta Superiora, or elfe a Composition for the fame, which is usually 30 l for a Peer, and 5 l a piece for others.

Note, That the ancient Allowance from the King to a Duke Pritoner in the Tower, was 12 l. a Week, now but 4 l. the like to a Marquifs; to all other Lords anciently 10 l. a Week, now 2 l. 4 s. 5 d. to Knights and Gentlemen heretofore 3 l. a Week, now 13 s. and 4 d. to indigent Prifoners, now 10 s. per Week.

Court

Court of Records.] In the Tower is an ancient Court of Record, held every Monday by Prefcription, for the Liberty of the Tower, of Debt, Trefpafs, and other Actions of any Sum greater or leffer, whereof you may read in the 4th of Eliz. 4. f. 36. a. b. Befides the ancient Liberty of the Tower which adjoins to it, the Old-Artillery-Garden by Spittle-Fields, and the Little Minories, are within the Tower-Liberty: The Gentleman-Porter of the Tower, for the time being, hath the fame Power and Authority in the faid Liberty, as Sheriffs within their Refpective Counties, and he conflituteth Bailiffs thereof to execute all fuch Procefs and Warrants as directed to them by the Stewards of the Court, and hath all Ejcheats, Decdands, and Goods of all Felons de fe.

(Matters.] The Teomen Warders of the Tower are 40 in number, who are accounted the Queen's Domeflick Servants, and are fworn by the Lord Chamberlain of her Majefty's Houfhold, or by the Clerk of the Cheque; their Duty is to attend Prifoners of State, and to wait at the Gates; Ten of them are ufually upon the Days-wait, to take an Account of all Perfons that come into the Tower, to enter their Names, and the Names of the Perfons they go to, in a Book, to be perufed by the Conftable, or Lieutenant. Two of them are upon the Watch every Night.

The Office and Reeper of the Records in the Tower.] The Office of his Majesty's Records kept in the Tower of London, is of very venerable Antiquity, and the Keeper and Deputy of the fame dignified with special Trust.

This Officer is first recommended by the Master of the Rolls to the King, and if he be found fitly qualified to execute the great Trust, he is admitted and sworn by the faid Master, and afterwards confirmed by the King's Letters-Patents.

It was before the taking away of the Court of Wards of great Profit, but now become very inconfiderable.

Before Mr. William Prynne came to be Keeper of these Records, they had lain many Years in one confused Chaos, buried under Dust and Cobwebs in a Corner of the White-Tower, in the cleansing whereof, faith Mr. Prynne, he found found many rare, precious Records, relating to the High-Court of Parliament, and to all the Courts in Westminster-Hall; to our Laws, Government, Trade, Merchants, Coin, Revenue, Militia, Navy, Wars ; to the Affairs of England, Wales, Scotland, Ireland ; to all the King's Dominions in France, and all the Mes adjacent, to Spain, Portugal, &c. Relating alfo to all Transactions with the Fope of Rome, Gardinals, Legates, &cc. to all the Privileges of our Clergy, and our Laity, befides many Records of private Concernment ; all which will require much time, and many Hands to kalendar, or reduce into Alphabetical Tables. Thus far for Mr. Prynne, whole worthy Succeffor is that Learned and Indefatigable Antiquary William Petys Elg;, fo well known by the feveral Treatifes publisht by him in defence of the Rights and Privileges of the Commons of England.

His Deputy is Mr. George Holmes.

As the Chappel of the Rolls in Chancery-lane, and Petty-bag-Office do fill with Records out of other Offices, they are transmitted into the Tower after some Years; for it hath been the Wisdom and Care of former Ages, to send the Records of the several Courts to the Tower, for their prefervation and Safety, not only as a Policy of State, but the particular Interest of all Men, having Estates, requiring it; there being many Presidents for it remaining in the Records of the Tower, and a particular Form of a Writ, to fend the Records in the Chappel of the Rolls to the Tower of London.

The Records of the Tower (amongft other things) contain the Foundation of Abbeys, and other Religious Houfes; and the Records in the Rolls contain the Diffolution of those Abbeys, and the Donation of the Lands, of which many Families are now posseff; and if those Records were all in one Place, the People might have access unto them all under one and the same Search and Charge, which would be a great ease and benefit to the People, and safery to the Records of this Nation.

Befides the Records at the Rolls being joined to those in the Tower, will make a perfect continuance of all the ancient Rights of the English Nation, which are now set forth in the Records of the Tower, whereof these following are a few Heads, or Particulars of them.

[Contents of some of the Records.]

The Leagues of Foreign Princes and the Treaties with them.

And all the Atchievements of this Nation in France, and other Foreign Parts.

The Original of all the Laws that have been enacted or recorded, until the Reign of Richard III.

The Homage and Dependency of Scotland upon England.

The Establishment of Ireland in Laws and Dominions.

The Dominion of the British Seas, totally excluding both the French and Hollanders to fish therein, without License from England, proved by Records before the Conquest.

The Interest of the 1ste of Man, and the Isles of Jersey, Guernsley, Sark, and Alderney; which four last are the remaining part of the Norman Possession.

The Title of the Realm of France, and how obtained.

And all that the Kings and Princes of this Land have, until that time done abroad, or granted or confirmed unto their Subjects at home or abroad.

Tenures of all the Lands in England, Extents or Surveys of Mannors and Land; Inquisitions post mortem, of infinite advantage upon Trials of Interest or Descent.

Liberties and Privileges granted to Cities and Towns Corporate or to private Men, as Court-Leets, Waiffs, Efirays, Markets, Fairs, Free-Warren, Felons Goods, or what elfe could come to the Crown, or pass out of it.

Several Writs, Pleadings, and Proceedings, as well in Chancery, as in all the Courts of Common Law; and Exchequer.

Inspeximus's and Enrollments of Charters and Deeds, made and done before the Conquest, Deeds or Contracts between Farty and Party, and the just Establishments of all the Offices in the Nation.

The Metes and Bounds of all the Forests in England, v ith the feveral respective Rights of the Inhabitants therein to Common of Pasture, &c. Besides many other Priviledges and Evidences, which are too long to be here repeated or inferted.

And are therefore in the Petition of the Commons of England England in Parliament, Anno 46. Edw. III. Numb. 43. faid to be the perpetual Evidence of every Man's Right, and the Records of this Nation, without which no Story of the Nation can be written or proved.

These Records are reposited within a certain Place or Tower, called Wakefield Tower, adjoining to the Bloody Tower. Near Traitors-Gate there is another Place called Julius Cafar's Chappel, in the White Tower; the going up to this Chappel is in Cold-Harbor, 84 Steps up, with 6 or 8 great Pillars on each fide; and, at the upper End thereof, there was a Marble Altar, which in the late times of Rebellion, was caused to be beaten down, as a Monument of Tyranny and Superstition.

There are many Cart-Loads of Records lying in this Place, out of which William Prynne Efq; late Keeper of the fame, with indefatigable Labour, collected and printed many of publick Utility, Anno 1659, 1660, 1662, 1664. in three feveral Volumes; the fecond beginning Primo Regis Jebannis: For before that time there were no Rolls, but only Chartæ Antiquæ; or ancient Transcripts made and done before, and fince the Conquest, until the beginning of John : There follows his Son Hen. III. where the first Office, post Mortem, begins; then there is Edw. I, II, and III, Rich. II. Hen. IV. Hen. V. Hen. VI. and Edward IV. and Inquisitions post Mortem of Richard III. who reigned only three Years; the Rolls of that King are in the Chappel of the Rolls in Chancery-Law.

[The feveral Warks on the Wreces which contain the Records.]

The Rolls of the Tower are varioufly diftinguished, viz. Rotali Patentium, Chartarum, Parliamentorum, Clausarum, Finium, Scotiz, Vasconiz, Franciz, Hiberniz, Walliz, Nomaniz, Alemanniz, Oblatz, Liberatz, Extractz, Perambulationes Forestz, Scutag. Rotul. Mareschal. Romz, de Treugis Chart. & Patent. fact. in partibus transmarinis, patent de Domibus Judzoa rum protection. de pardonation, de Subsidiis, Viagiis, & C. Stapule. cum multis aliis, which are lately depicted upon the outfide of every Press in the Repository belonging to each King's Reign; and very easily to be brought forth for the Use of the Client by Tables of Orders hanging up in the faid Office, and subscribed by the Keeper thereof. Bb 3 272

The fame is to be kept open, and conftantly attended for all Reforters thereto, from the Hours of 7 to 11 of the Clock in the Morning; and from 1 to 5 in the Afternoon, every Day of the Week, except in the Months of December, January, and February; and in them from 8 till 11 in the Morning, and from 1 till 4 in the Afternoon; except on Holy-Days, publick Fasting, and Thanksgiving Days, and times of great Pestilence.

Dffice of Dzonance.] Within the Tower is kept the Office of her Majefty's Ordnance, which hath been always an Office of great Account and Importance ; as being the only Standing and Grand Magazine of the principal Prerogatives, Habiliments, Utenfils, and Instruments of War, as well by Sea as Land for the Defence and Safety of the Kingdom ; and confequently hath Influence in the Navies, Forts, Cafiles, and Armies thereof; having the Superintendence, Ordering, and Disposing, as well of the Grand Magazine in the Tower, as at Woolwich, Chatham, Portsmouth, Upnor-Caftle, Plymouth, Hull, Berwick, and elsewhere; wherein generally in times of Peace, there is Powder to the Quantity of about 14 or 15000 Barrels; with Arms for Horfe and Foot, Ordnance, Shor, and other Stores proportionable, as well for Sea as Land, lodged in their feveral Store-houfes apart, with great Order and Care, for the better preferving, and more speedy dispatch in delivering out the same, as the Queen's Occasion shall require; which may not only defend England, but be so formidable to all our Neighbours. It is under the Government in chief, of the Master of the Ordnance, who is commonly a Perfon of great Eminence, and Integrity; and is in France called Le Grand Maistre d' Artillerie; which Word Artillerie, is either ab Arte Telorum Mittendorum; or else it denotes all manner of Ordnance, and may poffibly be derived from the Italian Artiglio, fignifying the Talons or Claws of Vultures, Eagles, and fuch rapacious Birds of Prey : As also of Dragons, Basilisks, and Griffons: By which they not only defend themselves, but tear and rend in pieces all that oppose them. Hence the feveral forts of Canon feem to be denominated from fuch kind of Creatures, as Falkons, Falkonets, Sakers, Culverines, (from the Latin Coluber, fignifying a Serpent or Dragon) and Balilisks, Ort.

WHITEHALL.

THE next Royal Place of Note is Whitehall, belonging heretofore to Cardinal Woolfey, feated between the Thames, and a most delectable and spacious Park, full of great Varieties. This Palace before the Fire which lately hapned and confumed the greatest part of it, was incredibly large and commodious; but the nobleft Room in it, and which escaped the faid Fire, is the Great Chamber, called the Banquetting-Houle; the like whereof for Spacioufnefs, Beauty, Painture and exact Proportion, no Room in Europe, can parallel; the Ceiling whereof was all painted by the Hand of the Famous Sir Peter Paul Rubens. This hath been the moft conftant Place of Refidence of the Kings and Queens of England fince Hen. VIII's time : It was very much enlarged and beautified by King James the Second ; and her late Majefty Queen Mary the Second added a Noble Terrace-Walk towards the Thames, under the Lodgings. All the great Officers of State had here their Offices, and those of the Houshold very ample Lodgings: Adjoining to it is a convenient House, but of little State, bought by King Charles the Second, and beftowed upon her Royal Highness the Princess.

In the Strand are two other Noble Palaces belonging to the Crown.

The Savoy, a vaft Building; first erected all of Stone, by Peter Earl of Savoy and Richmond, Uncle to Eleanor, Wife to our King Hen. III. who, after purchafed the fame for her Son Edmond, Duke of Lancaster; and is now made use on for Soldiers. Here are the Remains of an Ecclesiastical College or Hospital, now consisting only of a Master, called the Master of the Savoy; which Place is now vacant; Four Brothers who are all to be Clergymen; and Four poor Sisters. In this House is an ancient Chappel, now used as the Parish-Church of St. Mary Savoy.

The other is called Somerset-House, built by Edward Duke of Somerset, Uncle to King Edward VI. a beautiful and convenient Building, belonging at prefent to Queen Dowager. Of

Of the CUSTOM-HOUSE.

NOT far below the famous Bridge of London, is placed the Custom-House, where is received and managed all the Impositions laid on Merchandize, imported or exported from this City.

In this Office are employed a great number of Officers, whereof divets are of confiderable Quality and Ability.

As first, the Commissioners, who have the whole Charge and Management of all her Majesty's Customs, (the Petty-Farms excepted) in all the Ports of England; and likewife the Oversight of all Officers thereunto belonging. The present Commissioners are seven, and are allowed by the Queen a Salary of 1200 l. to each per Annum.

These Commissioners and several of the Chief Officers, hold their Places by Patent from the Queen; and the other Officers are appointed by Warrant from the Lord High Treasurer, the particulars of which we refer you to at the latter end of this Work.

The Houfe where this great Office was formerly kept, being destroyed by the late dreadful Fire, is now rebuilt in a much more magnificent, uniform, and commodious manner, by King Charles the Second, and cost 10000 l. the Building.

The Post-House-General is a noble Structure, built by Sir Robert Viner in Lombard-street, and purchased by the King.

The Admiralty-Office is a large new-built House, overagainst White-Hall.

The Navy-Office, Excise-Office, Pay-Office, Victualling-Office, Registry-Office, that for Sick and Wounded, &c. are of leffer note, than can be particulariz'd in this Breviary.

Here are kept the Mayor's Courts, the Sheriffs Court; and here the Judges fit upon Nifi prins, &c. Belonging hereto is a fine Chappel for the use of the Lord Mayor and Court of Aldermen, unlefs upon Sundays and great Solemnities, when they go in their Formalities, with the Livery-men of all the Companies, to St. Paul's Church. The Preacher before the Lord Mayor is appointed for every Sunday by the Bifhop of London, for which the Preacher hath 45 s. immediately paid him out of certain Legacys left for that use; by which likewise the Lord Mayor, or one of his chief Officers, hath a competent Allowance, to provide Lodging and Diet for the faid Preacher for certain days, fuppoling him to be a Stranger in London, and lately come from Oxford or Cambridge, instead of which. of late Years, the Lord Mayor doth only invite the faid Preacher to dine with him after Sermon, taking him in the Coach along with him. In this great Hall, the King, the Royal Family, and their Retinue, are entertain'd, when the King appears in the City on a Lord Mayor's Day.

Publick SCHOOLS and COLLEGES.

THE first is Messminister School.] There are two Schoolmasters of that renowned School and College, belonging to the Abbey of Wessminster. The Head Master is the learned and industrious The. Knipe, D. D. the Second Master Robert Friend, A. M. Ten Officers are belonging to the College, and Forty Scholars, commonly called King's Scholars, who being chosen out of the School, and put into the College, are there maintain'd; and as they are fitted for the University, are elected yearly away, and placed with confiderable Allowances in Christ-Church Oxford, ford, and Trinity-Colledge Cambridge, which are very different in their Duration, the former being for Life, the latter for a certain time. To the Church of Westminster belongs likewife a fair publick Library free for all Strangers in Term-time.

St. PAUL'S SCHOOL.

B Efides, there are in London divers endowed Schools, B which in France would be filled Colleges; as St. Panl's School, founded 1512, by John Collet, Dr. of Divinity, and Dean of St. Paul's, for 153 Children to be taught there Gratis; for which purpole he appointed a Mafter, a Submafter, or Ufher, and a Chaplain, with large Stipends for ever; committing the Overlight thereof to the Mafters, Wardens, and Afliftants of the Mercers in London, for his Father Henry Collet, fometime Lord Mayor of London, was of the Mercers Company. This famous School, fituated in Pnul's Church-yard, was burnt down 1666; and is now re-edified in a far more magnificent, commodious, and beautiful manner. The worthy Mafter thereof is Mr. Pojfelthwait.

MERCHANT-TAYLORS SCHOOL:

NExt is that eminent School near Cannon-street, built by Sir The. White, Alderman, and Merchant-Taylor of London, the noble Founder of St. John Baptist-College in Oxon. Here are 300 Scholars taught; 100 gratis; 100 at 2 s. 6 d. a Quarter; and 100 at 5 s. a Quarter.

To this School belong 46 Fellowships in the faid College at Oxon; to which, Scholars are from hence yearly elected as Places become vacant. This School was likewife burnt down in the great Conflagration; but was foon magnificently re-edified by the Worshipful Company of Merchant-Taylors, who were flithful Guardians and Truffees for it. One Side of it stands upon great Stone Pillars, in a large Court, paved with Free-Stone. It hath a very fine Library belonging to it, and a large House for the Master, with Apartments for each of the three Ushers. That noble Grammarian, and famed Meteorologist Dr. John Goad, presided here many Years; whose place is now worworthily fupplied by the Learned and Prudent Henry Shorting, D. D.

At Mercers-Chappel in Cheapfide is an excellent School, belonging to the most Beneficent and Worschipful Company of Mercers.

Belonging to Christ's-Hospital, is another famous Grammar Free-School.

And near St. Martin's Church, in the Liberties of Weffminster, is a very good Free-School, and excellent publick Library : Both of them in the late times of Popery, for the Security and the Honour of the Protestant Religion. Founded by the most Reverend Dr. Tenison, now Lord Archbishop of Canterbury.

That at Ratcliff was founded by Nicholas Gibson, Grocer of London, who built there an Alms-House for 14 poor aged People.

Of the COLLEGES in LONDON.

THE Famous City of London may not unfitly be filed an University: For therein are raught all Liberal Arts and Sciences; not only Divinity, Civil-Law, and Phylick, which in other Univerfities are usual, are read here; but also the Municipal or Common-Law of the Nation is here taught, and Degrees taken therein ; which can be faid in no other Nation: Moreover all forts of Languages, Geegraphy, Hidrography, the Art of Navigation, the Arts of Fortification, Anatomy, Chirurgery, Chymistry, Calligraphy, Brachigraphy, or Short-hand, the Arts of Riding, Fencing, Dancing ; Art military, Fire-works, Limming, Painting, Enamelling, Sculpture, Architecture, Heraldry : all forts of Mufick, Arithmetick, Geometry, Aftronomy, Grammar, Rhetorick, Poetry ; and any other thing that may any way contribute to the Accomplishment of an ingenious Nobleman of Gentleman.

This

This Library was at first well stockt by the generous munificencce of its Founder, and other early Benefactors; fuch were the Right Honourable Sir Paul Bayning Vifcount Sudbury, his Viscountels, Sir. Paul Pindar, Sir George Croke, Elizabeth Viscountess Cambden, Brian Walton Lord Bithop of Chefter, feveral Aldermen of London, with most of the Clergy thereof, and fome Citizens that were Wellwifhers to Sion : At length 'twas fo augmented, by the Books belonging to the Cathearal at St. Paul's, which were carried first to Cambden House, and thence brought hither 1647. that foon after An. 1656, the then Librarian Mr. Spencer, publishes a large Catalogue of them in 4to under this Title, Catalogus Universalis literorum omnium in Bibliotheca Collegii Sionii apud Londinenfes, &c. But the mercileis Flames in 1666, made fuch a Devastation as the Library still lamenes, and filently befpeaks every one that vifits it, to lend their helping Hand towards bringing it out of its forrowful Estate, notwithstanding the relief it has received fince that dreadful Conflagration, from the Interest and Purfes of most of the London Ministers, the accession of the Jesuits Books that were feized 1679. and granted to it by K. Gharles II, the ample Benefaction of George Earl of Berkley, who gave the Durden Collection to it which was formerly Sir Robert Cooks, with great helps from Mr. Wyn, the Reverend Mr. Calfe, and other ftated as well as occasional Supplies: To do it Juffice, the prefent flate of the Library is fuch, that it may be accounted a tolerable Set of Books, proper for Divines ; as that at Gresham is for Philo-Sophers, that in Warwick Lane for Physicians, &cc. yet it is capable of confiderable Improvements, and might be affifted to good purpose, would the Clergy of the Church of England be perfwaded themfelves, but to give a Copy of each Book they print, more especially if the London Bookfellers and Printers, and the two Univerfities would come inte fuch a Project : But if it shall be so fuccessful as to. compass the Bibliotheca Stillingfletjana, which is worthy the attempts of the whole English Clergy, and is I hear at prefent, under the confideration of those of this City, Sion College Library when the happy Repolitory of fo valuable a Treafure, will be the compleateft Armory for ought I know in Europe against Deists, Secinians, Papists, and all other ancient as well as modern oppefers of Orthodoxy :

Besides

Befides the Library, there has been built by the Contributions of the Fellows of this College, and what they could procure of well-difposed Persons, a Hall well finish'd, a House adjoining to it called the President's Lodgings, with feveral Chambers defigned for Students, and are generally filled with Ministers of the Neighbouring Parishes. who cannot well be better fitted any where, or at more reasonable rates, till their Parsonage Houses return into their own possession, of which they were disposses'd by the Fire, and are fill kept out by the Leafes for 40 Years granted to the Builders of them, 19 Gar. 2.

These Rents, with some neighbouring Ground-Rents, the Founders Original Bequest of 40 l. per Annum, and more than 3500 l. brought in fince the Fire by the Reverend Clergy, have not been able to keep the College out of Debt, but there still lies an Arrear upon them of 8001. contracted by improvements in Building, notwithstanding the utmost Husbandry. It is therefore humbly recommended to all lovers of Piety and Learning, as a proper object for their Charity and Munificence, that by their affiftance the Debt of this College may be discharged, and the Library augmented and compleated; and

Those who shall be pleased to contribute any thing towards fo good a Work, are defired to lodge their Benevolences in the hands of fome of the Governors, or other Ministers of London, who are Honorary Fellows of the College, that they may deliver it to the Governors for the time being, to be by them employed, according to the intent of the Donors. The Names of them you'l find at the end of the Book.

The Prefent Governors for this Year 1703, are

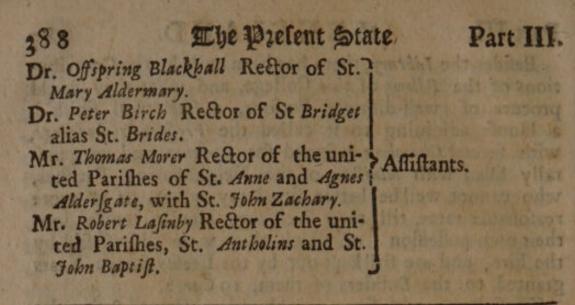

Mr. Lionel Gatford Rector of St. President. Diony's Back-Church.

Mr. William Whitfield Rector of St.) Martin Ludgate. Mr. Samuel Angier Rector of the uni->Deans. ted Parifhes, St. Mary Wolnoth, and

St. Mary Woolchurch.

Dr.

Doctors Commons, or the College of Civilians.

Lthough Degrees in the Civil Law may be taken only I in Oxford and Cambridge, and the Theory best there to be acquired; yet the Practice thereof is most of all in London, where a College was long fince purchased by Dr. Henry Harvey, Dean of the Arches, for the Profestors of the Civil Law in this City, and where commonly did refide the Judge of the Arches, the Judge of the Admiralty, and the Judge of the Prerogative Court, with divers other eminent Civilians, who there living (for Diet and Lodging) in a Collegiate manner, and commoning together, it was known by the Name of Doctors Commons, and flood near. St. Paul's, in the Parilh of St. Benet Pauls-Wharfe; which Buildings being utterly confumed by the late dreadful Fire, they all refided at Exeter-Houfe in the Strand, and are fince returned to their former Place, re-built in a very splendid and more convenient manner than the former, at the proper Cofts and Charges of the faid Doctors, where they now keep their feveral Courts and Pleadings every Term.

OF PROCTORS.

THE Proffors, or Procurators, belonging to the Courts aforementioned, are Perfons that exhibit their Proxies for their Clients, and make themfelves Parties for their Clients, produce the Witneffes, prepare the Caufes for Sentence, and attend the Advocates with the Proceedings.

Thefe

Part III. of ENGLAND.

Thefe are also admitted by the Fiat of the Archbishop, introduced by the two Senior Proctors, and are allowed to practife immediately after their Admiffion; they wear black Robes and Hoods, lined with white Furs, taking the Oaths of Allegiance and Supremacy.

The High Court of ADMIRALTY of ENGLAND.

L'O R the decision of Maritime Controversies, Tryal of Malefactors, and the like, there is a High Court of Admiralty here kept.

There is a Judge thereof, whofe Title is, Supremæ Curiæ Admiralitatis Angliæ Locum tenens Judex, five Præsidens: The Writs and Decrees run in the Name of the Lord High-Admiral, or Lords Commiffioners executing that Office; and are directed to all Vice-Admirals, Justices of Peace, Mayors, Sheriffs, Bailiffs, Constables, Marshals, and others, Officers and Ministers of our Sovereign Lord the King, as well within Liberties as without.

To this Court belongs a Register, and his Deputy, and a Marsbal-General, who attends the Court, and carries a Silver Oar before the Judge, whereon are the Arms of the King, and the Lord High-Admiral.

The Lord Admiral hath here his Advocate and Proctor, and all other Advocates and Proctors are prefented by them, and admitted by the Judge.

This Court is held on the fame day with the Arches, but in the Afternoon ; and heretofore at St. Margaret's-Hill in Southwark, but now in the fame Common-Hall at Doctors Commons ; but the Admiralty Seffion is ftill held for the Tryal of Malefactors, and Crimes committed at Sea, at the ancient place aforefaid.

The Places and Offices belonging to this Court, are in the Gift of the Lord High-Admiral.

Part III.

Note

TO this Court belongs a ftanding Register, and the Court is kept in the Common Hall, in the Afternoon, the next day after the Prerogative.

The Citations and Decrees here run in the Queen's Name.

From this Court lies no Appeal in the Common-Courfe.

But the Queen, of her meer Prerogative Royal, may, and many times doth grant a Gommiffion of Review under the Broad-Seal.

In this College alfo ufually refides the Vicar-General, belonging to the Archbishop of Canterbury; who, as he is a Primate, hath the Guardianship of the Spiritualities of every Bishop within his Province, during the vacancy, and executes all Episcopal Power and Jurisdiction by his Vicar-General.

The Archbishop of York hath the like Power in his Proyince.

Note, That either of the Archbishops, and every Bishop, Archdeacon, and Dean and Chapter throughout both Provinces of Canterbury and York, hath a particular Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction, and an Ecclesiastical Court thereto belonging, whereof there is a Judge, which for the most part, is one of the Doctors of the Civil-Law, also a Register and Proctors exercent in the same; and that before the Vicar-General, and Chancellors of the Bishops, are tryable all Ecclesiastical Causes within their respective Dioceses, except Letters of Request be granted by the Diocesan Bishop, or Ordinary of the Place, to the Party to sue in the Court of Arches, which is ordinary.

Note also, That the Vicar-generals and Chancellors are appointed by the respective Archbishops and Bishops, by Letters Patents under their Seal, and confirm'd by the Dean and Chapter of the respective Cathedrals.

In like manner, Note, That every Vice-Admiral hath the Power of keeping Courts within his Jurifdiction, touching fuch Affairs as belong to the fame.

Part III. of ENGLAND.

Note, That the Civil-Law Terms begin and end not much different from the Terms at Westminster, and in every Term there are several Court-Days in every of these Courts, which for the most part are fixt and known by preceding Holydays, or Saints days, and the rest are appointed ad arbitrium Judicis.

The ARCHES Court of Canterbury.

THE chief Court of the Archbishop is that of the Arches, whereof see more, Page 132. The Judge of this Court is stiled Dean of the Arches.

He fitteth alone, without any Affeffors, and heareth and determineth all Caufes, without any Jury of 12 Men, as is neceffary in Common-Law Courts.

To this Court belongeth an Actuary, a Register, and a Beadle.

The Office of the Actuary is to attend the Court, fet down the Judges Decrees, register the Acts of the Court, and fend them in Books to the Registry.

The Register of the Court, whole Office is by himfelf, or Deputy, to attend the Court, receive all Libels, or Bills, Allegations, and Exhibits of Witneffes : File all Sentences, and keep the Records of the Court.

The Beadle attends the Court, carrieth a Mace before the Judge, and calls the Perfons cited to appear.

Those that are allowed to be Advocates, and plead in this Court, are all to be Doctors of the Civil Law, in one of the Universities of England; who, upon their Petition to the Archbishop of Canterbury and his Fiat obtained, are admitted by the Judge of this Court, upon condition not to practife for one whole Year after such admittance. But rather the Method is this: The Person to be admitted having obtained the Archbishop's Fiat, is examined by the Judge of the Archbishop's Fiat, is examined by the Judge of the Archbishop's fiat, is examined by the Judge of the Archbishop's fiat, is examined by the Judge of the Archbishop's fiat, is examined by the Judge of the Indees, and admitted to plead, which he is to do very pertly for form sake, where unto to correct his Forwardness, the Judge says to him, Injungo tibi filentium per unum annum.

The manner of their Admittance is thus: The two fenior Advocates, in their fcarlet Robes, with the Mace before them, conduct him up to the Court, with three low Reverences, and prefent him with a fhort Latin Speech, and C c 4 the Unable to display this page keeps the Records : All original Wills and Teftaments of Parties dying, having Bona Notabilia, &c. The place is commonly called the Prerogative Office, now kept in the Dean's-Court near St. Paul's Church-yard; where, for a moderate Fee, one may fearch for, and have a Copy of any fuch Teftament, made fince the Rebellion of Wat Tiler and Jack Straw, by whom many Records and Writings in feveral places of London were then burnt and deftroy'd. Under the Register are fix Clerks, feverally appointed for fuch and fuch refpective Counties.

The Places belonging to this Court, are in the Gift of the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Of the College of Phylicians in LONDON.

A Mongst other excellent Institutions in the City of Lon-don, there is a College or Corporation of Physicians, who by Charters and Acts of Parliament of Hen. VIII. and fince his Reign, have certain Privileges, whereby no Man, tho' a Graduate in Physick, of Oxford or Cambridge, may, without Licence under the faid College-Seal, practife Phyfick in London, or within feven Miles of the City, (nor in any other part of England, in cafe he hath not taken any Degree in Oxford or Cambridge) whereby alfo they can administer an Oath, fine and imprison any Offenders in that, and divers other particulars; can make By-Laws, purchafe Lands, &c. whereby they have Authority to fearch all the Shops of Apothecaries, in, and about London, to fee if their . Druggs and Compositions are wholefome and well made ; whereby they are freed from all troublefome Offices ; as to ferveupon Juries, to be Constable, to keep Watch and Ward, to bear Arms, or provide Arms or Ammunition, &c. Any Member of that College may practife Surgery if he please, not only in London, but in any part of England.

This Society had anciently a College in Knight-Rider-Street, the Gift of Dr. Linacre, Phylician to King Henry the VIIIth. Since which, a Houfe and ground was purchafed by the Society of Phylicians, at the End of Amen-Street, whereon the famous Dr. Harvey 1652, did erect, at his own proper Charge, a magnificent Structure, both for a Library and a publick Hall, for the Meeting of the feveral Members of the Society, endowed the fame with his whole Inheritance, 394

tance, which he refigned up while he was yet living and in Health; part of which he affigned for an Anniverfary Oration, to commemorate all their Benefactors, to exhort others to follow their Examples, and to provide a plentiful Dinner for the worthy Company.

Anno 1666. This Goodly Edifice could not escape the Fury of that Dreadful Fire; and that Ground being but a Lease, the present Fellows of this College purchased with their own Moneys, a fair piece of Ground in Warwick-Lane, whereon they have raised a very magnificent Edifice.

The College has lately built at their own Charge, a very Noble Library, for the containing that excellent Library of Books, given them partly by the late Marquifs of Dorchefter, who was pleafed to do the College the Honour to be admitted Fellow among them, and chiefly by that Eminent Profeffor, Sir Theodore Mayerne, Kt.

Of this College there is a Prefident, four Cenfors, and twelve Electors, who are all principal Members of the Society, and out of whom one is chosen every Year to prefide.

The Four Cenfors of the College, have by their Charters, Authority to furvey, correct, and govern all Phylicians, or others, that fhall practife Phylick in London, or within feven Miles of the fame, to fine, amerce, and imprifon any of them, as they fhall fee caufe.

The Number of Fellows was only 30 before the Reftauration of King Charles II. But that King confidering the Increafe of London, fince the first Incorporation of the College by King Henry VIII. thought fit to increafe the Number of Fellows to Forty; and upon the fame Account, King James II. taking into Confideration the farther vast Increase of Buildings of late Years, was pleased in the new Charter, to appoint the Number of Fellows to be farther enlarged, fo as they shall not exceed Fourfcore; referving to himfelf the Power of placing, or displacing any Fellows for the future.

Before this new Charter none could be admitted Fellows of the College, but only fuch who had taken their Doctors Degree in one of our Universities, Oxford or Cambridge; But now all those who have taken their Degree in Foreign Universities, are qualified to become Fellows:

Befides the worthy Perfons mentioned in the Lift; there are divers Phyficians that have good Practice in London, altho' they never had any Licence, which is connived at by the College; and fo is too much the practice of Empericks, Mountebanks, pretended Chymifts, Apothecaries, Chirurgeons, Midwives, &c. in which piece of Folly the English furpafs all the Nations of Christendom.

And yet by the Law of England, if one who is no Phyfician, or Chirurgeon, or not expressly allowed to practife, shall take upon him a Cure, and his Patient die under his Hand, this is Felony in the Person presuming so to do; but the Reputation which the Dispensaries have got, will soon put an end to these, and all other unfair Practitioners; an account of which, take by way of Extract from the Proceedings of the College of Physicians in relation to the fick Poor, publish't by their order Anno 1697, as followeth.

The College (which appears in their Register) has frequently prefs'd its Members to the Generous and Charitable care of their Sick poor Neighbours, and the meaner Houfekeepers and Servants : Not only to recommend themfelves by this Service to the Publick, but improve their Knowledge of Difeases, and their Reputation by their Success : But this their concern for the Sick poor became ulelefs to them, when the Remedies advised were fold by the Apothecaries, (their Numbers every year increasing) at Rates, which the Poor could not purchafe; feveral of the Members had made a Collection of Drugs and Simples, to compare and examine their Goodness. Their frequent Meetings on this Delign, gave them a greater Knowledge of the low prices of the Dofes of the most useful Medicines : A Vore was made in the College Anno 1688, That because the former Refolution of advancing to the Poor Gratis, had not had the effect intended, by reason of the great Prices they are obliged to pay for their Medicines, the Elaboratory shall be fitted up for preparing Medicines for the Poor. This was not put in execution at that time, the Apothecaries ftirring up a Party in the College, who were eafily carried off to serve their Interest for their own private advantage: Notwithstanding these Discouragements from our own Members, the former Order was receiv'd Anno 1694, and the Defign of the College to affift and advise the faid Poor, was presented to the Lord Mayor, Court

Court of Aldermen, and Common Council Anno 1695. They appointed three Aldermen, Sir John Moor, Sir William Hedges, Sir Joseph Smart, and fix Common-Council-Men, to return the thanks of the Court to the College, Mr. Dorvile, Mr. Ballow, Mr. Eglestone, Sir Edm. Wissendn, Mr. Risher, and Mr. Palfryman. This Committee and that of the College had concluded in their feveral Meetings, who should be recommended as proper Objects of their Charity; and it was refolved, that the Prescript of Medicines and their Prices, should be noted on the Bill, and that the Callege and the Apothecaries should appoint and fettle the rates of them : The Apochecaries Company in their Answer presented to the City, refus'd to comply with the fetling these Prices by the Committee before proposed : But feveral honest and charitable Apothecaries, embraced the Propolal, and at the defire of the Physicians made a Subscription, in which they promised to furnish the Poor with Medicines at fuch rates, as the Committee of Phyficians fhould judge reasonable: But they were threatned with the most troublefome and expensive Offices of the Company, and charged with the breach of their Oaths upon this Compliance, and defired to withdraw their Subscription : The City Committee then ask'd the Physicians present, whether the College would provide Medicines for the Poor at reasonable rates, if the Apothecaries should continue to refuse : The College then made a Subscription to the number of 42, Anno 1696. to contribute to the necessary charge thereof, and accomplifh the generous Charity to the Sick Poor. They have fince erected two other Dispensaries, besides that at the College, one in St. Peter's Alley in Cornhill, the other in St. Martin's Lane Westminster. The best Medicines are fold at intrinsick value; the Patients are advised every day but Sunday, at one of these places from Three till Seven; By the great number of the meaner fort advifed there, the . City and the Nation have been informed of the low Prices of the most useful Medicines, and the proportions of them neceffary to be taken in all Difeafes:

Gresham-College, or the College of Philosophy, &c.

7 Ithin the Walls of London is also feated a College built by the aforementioned worthy Perfon Sir The. Gresbam, and Endowed in manner following : After he had built the Royal Exchange, he gave of the Revenue thereof the one moiety to the Mayor and Commonalty of London, and their Succeffors ; and the other moiety to the Company of Mercers in Truft; that the Mayor and Aldermen fhould find in all time to come, Four able Perfons to read within this College, Divinity, Geometry, Astronomy, and Musick : And to allow to each of them, belides their fair Lodging, 50 l. a year; and that the Company of Mercers thould find three more able Men to read Civil-Law, Phylick, and Rhetorick; and to allow to each one of them, befides fair Lodgings, sol. a year : And that these several Lecturers should read in Term-time, every Day in the Week (except Sundays) Morning in Latin, and Afternoon the fame in Englifb; The Musick Lecture to be read only in English.

The Professors or Fellows of this College, have ever been, and still are, Persons of the choicest Parts.

Divers other worthy Works were done by that most Noble Citizen Sir The. Grefham, as can testifie his Almf-Houses in Broad-street; the confiderable Sums of Money distributed quarterly for ever to 5 Prisons and 4 Hospitals, in and about this City.

In this College meet the Fellows of the Royal Society, fo much famed throughout the World : Concerning which the Reader may take this brief Account, extracted in part out of that excellent Hiftory of the Royal Society, written by Dr. Tho. Sprat, now Bifhop of Rochefter, and Dean of Westminster.

firit foundation of the Society.] The first Assembly which laid the Foundation of this Royal Society, was (some Years before the happy Restauration of our Dread Sovereign Charles the Second) at Wadham-College in Oxford, in the Lodging of Dr. Wilkins, late Lord Bishop of Cheffer; where did then usually meet Dr. Seth Ward, late Lord Bishop of Salisbury; the Honourable Robert Boyle, Sir William Petty, Mr. Matthew Wren, Dr. Wallis, Dr. Goddard, Dr. Willis, Dr. Bathurst, now Dean of Wells; Sir Christopher Wren, Wren, now her Majesty's Surveyor-General; Mr. Hook, and some others; all Men of excellent Learning and Sagacity.

Afterwards about the Year 1658. many of them living in London, had a meeting at Grefham-College, and this meeting was augmented by the Accession of the Lord Viscount Brounker, Lord Brereton, Sir Robert Moray, Sir Paul Niel, John Evelin Efq;, Tho. Henshaw Efq;, Henry Slingsby Efq;, Dr. Timothy Clark, Sir George Ent, William Ball Efq; Abraham Hill Efq; Dr. William Groon, and divers other Eminent Perfons, cill that wonderful pacifick Year 1660. Then the Defign being favoured by fome ingenious worthy Perfons, who, to their immortal Honour, had followed the King in his Exile; at length his Majefty took notice thereof, and was gracioufly pleafed fo far to favour and encourage it, as to grant a large Charter, bearing date the 22d of April, 1663. whereby they were made a Corporation, to confift of a Prefident, of a Council, and of Fellows, for promoting the Knowledge of Natural Things, and Uleful Arts by Experiments: Wherein his Majefty declares himfelf to be Founder and Patron, Sovereign and Companion of this Society ; Granting them Power to purchase Lands and Houses, to have a common Seal, a Coat of Arms, two Secretaries, two or more Curators of Experiments, one or more Clerks, and two Sergeants at Mace: To make Laws, Statutes, Orders, and Conftitutions among themfelves : To have one or more Printers or Gravers ; with a Power to print what they shall fee good; to take and anatomize dead Bodies of. Perfons, who have been put to death by order of Law; to erect Colleges.

Diffice of the Deefident.] The Office of the Prefident is to call and diffolve the Meetings, to propose the Matter whereon to confider; to put Questions, to call for Experiments, to admit the Members that from time to time shall be Elected, &c.

The Treasurer receives and disburses all Moneys.

Secretaries.] The Secretaries read all Letters and Informations; reply to all Addresses and Letters from Foreign Parts, or from others; take notice of the Orders, and material Passages at the Meetings; register all Experiments, all certain Informations, all Conclusions, &r. publish whatfoever is ordered and allowed by the Society.

Curato29.] The Curators or Experimentors are to receive the Directions of the Society, and at another Meeting, bring all to the Teft; and the Society judges thereof; whereby the World may have the concurring Testimony of many Persons of undoubted Credit, for the Truth of whatever they shall publish.

The manner of electing fellows.] Their manner of Electing Fellows, is according to the Venetian way, by Ballotting. At one Affembly the Candidate is proposed by some that know him well; the next he may be put to the Scrutiny, for which the Candidate must have the major number of 21 Suffrages at the leaft ; and then at that or the next Affembly, he may be introduced and folemnly admitted by the Prefident. At his Admission he subscribes this Promise following, That he will endeavour to promote the Good of the Royal Society of London, for the Improvement of Natural Knowledge. After this, he may at any time free himfelf from this Obligation, only by fignifying under his Hand to the President, that he desires to withdraw from the Society.

Bearly Charges and Admittance.] When any one is admitted, he pays to the Treasurer only 40 s. and then 13 s. a Quarter fo long as he continues a Member of the Society.

Their Meeting was before the dreadful Fire, at Gresham-College in London, every Wednesday at Three of the Clock in the Afternoon ; and fince was, by the Favour of the Lord Henry Howard, late Duke of Norfolk, and Earl Marthal of England, at Arundel-Houfe, the fame Day and Hour ; but it is now again at Gresham-College, every Wednesday about the fame Hour.

Their Defign.] The Defign of the Royal Society is, in brief, to make faithful Records of all the Works of Nature or of Art, which can come within their Reach : So that the prefent Age and Posterity may be able to put a Mark on the Errors which have been ftrengthened by long Prefcription, to reftore the Truth that have been neglected, to punish on those which are already known to more various Uses, to make the way more passable to what remains unrevealed, Oc.

Cleekly Beetings.] The Bufinefs of their Weekly Meetings, is to order, and to account, confider and difcourfe of Philosophical Experiments and Observations; to read, hear, and and difcourse upon Letters from all Parts, Ports, and other Papers containing Philosophy Matters; to view and discourse upon the Productions and Rarities of Nature and Art, to consider what to deduce from them, how they may be improv'd for the Benefit of Mankind, which is their main Aim.

In their difcourfing, they lay afide all Set-Speeches, and Eloquent Harangues; and every one endeavours to express his Opinion, or defire in the plainest and most concise manner.

Dependence of the second secon

Experiments made by the Society.] The Royal Society then, fince their first Institution, have made a vast number of Experiments in almost all the Works of Nature; they have made particular Enquiries into very many things; of the Heavens, as well as of the Earth; Eclipfer, Comets, Meteors, Mines, Planes, Animals, Earthquakes, Fiery Eruptions, Inundations; of Lakes, Mountains, Damps, Subterraneous Fires; of Tides, Currents, and Depths of the Sea; and many hundred other things; they have composed many excellent short Histories of Nature, of Arts, Manufactures, &c., whereof some are extream curious; in a word, the Discoveries and Inventions made, should we fay, but by some few Perfons of this Society, if well considered, seem to furpass the Works of many foregoing Ages.

al Duantages and Dout by it.] But what Advantage and Benefit appears, after fo many Meetings? It is true, they have made many Experiments of Lights, (as the excellent Lord Bacon calls them) and perhaps not fo many Experiments of Fruit, or Profit; yet, without doubt, fome may hereafter find out no finall Ufe and Benefit, even in those luciferous Experiments, which now feem only curious and delightful; but it is also as true, that the Royal Society hath made a great Number of Experiments, and Inventions, very profitable and advantageous to Mankind. They have mightily improved the Nawal, Ciwil, and Military Architesture; They have advanced the Art, Conduct, and Security of Navigation; they have not only put this Kingdom dom upon planting Woods, Growes, Orchards, Vineyards, Ever-greens, but alfo Ireland, Scotland, New-England, Virginia, Jamaira, Barbadoes; all our Plantations begin to feel the Influences of this Society; they have awakened the whole Civilized, Lettered and Intelligent World; fo that in all Countries they begin to be much more intent upon Experimental Knowledge, and Practical Studies; upon New Inventions and Difcoveries, which the Authors of them always recommended to this Society, to be Examined, Approved or Corrected : So that if any of the prefent English Nation be so blind, as not so fee the Ufefulness of this Society, Posterity will, to their Shame, acknowledge it with Gratitude, as Foreigners already do from all Parts. Angel Sectory is a Science with side

To conclude, They have registred Experiments, Hiftories, Relations, Observations, &r. reduced them into one common Stock, and laid fome part of them up in publick Registers, to be nakedly transmitted to the next Generation of Men, and fo to all Pofferity : Hereby laying a folid Ground-work for a vaft Pile of Experiments, to be continually augmented through all future Ages ; a thing, if begun in the time of the Learned Greeks or Romans; nay, it it had been begun but in the very last Refurrection of Learning in this last Age, What Wonders would it, in all probability, by this time have produced? What Depth of Nature would now have been unfathomed ? What Faculty of the Soul would be now in the Dark? What part of Human Infirmities would not have been provided against?

Their Library.] Moreover the Royal Society, for the Advancement of this Noble Defign, hath begun a Library to confift only of fuch Authors as may be ferviceable to that Defign ; toward which, the late Earl Marshal of England hath been pleafed to beftow on the Society, the whole Norfolcian Library; with a free Permission of Changing fuch Books as are not proper for their Work : whereby, in a fhort time, they will be able to fhew a compleat Collection of all that hath been published in Ancient and Modern Languages, which either regard the Production of Nature, or the Effects of all Manue. al Arts. the state of the state

The Repository.] At Gresham-College is the free and bountiful Gift of Daniel Colwal, Eig; lately described by Dr. Grew; wherein are to be seen many thousands of great Rarities, fetcht (some of them) from the farthest Corners of the habitable World; as Beasts, Birds, Fishes, Serpents, Flies, Shells, Feathers, Seeds, Minerals, Earths: Some things petrified, others offisied; Mummies, Gums, Gre. Divers of which have been fince added by other worthy Members of that Society, and by other ingenious Persons: And, in a short time is like to be (if not already) one of the largest and most curious Collections of the Works of Nature in the World.

The coat of Arms.] The Coat of Arms granted by his Majefty to the Royal Society, is a Scutcheon, with Three Lions of England in Chief: Intimating that the Society is Royal; the Creft is an Eagle, and the Supporters, Hunting Hounds, Emblems of the quickeft Sight and Smelling, to intimate the Sagacity employed in penetrating and fearching after the Works of Nature.

Time of Clettion.] Of the Members of the Council, eleven are to be continued for the next Year, and ten more to be added to that Number, all to be chofen yearly upon the Feaft of St. Andrew in the Morning; after which Election they all dine together at a Venifon Feaft.

The Reader may perceive by the Lift how many Sober, Learned, Solid, Ingenious Perfons of different Degrees, Religions, Countries, Professions, Trades, and Fortunes, have united and confpired, laying aside all Names of Distinction, amicably to promote Experimental Knowledge.

Inns of Court, or Colleges of Common-Lawyers.

THE Colleges of Municipal or Common-Law Professors and Students, are 14. called ftill Inns, the old English Word for Houses of Noblemen, or Bishops, or Men of extraordinary Note, and which is of the same fignification with the French Word Hostel at Paris.

There are Two Inns of Serjeants. Four Inns of Court. Eight Inns of Chancery.

Inns of Court.] The Inns of Court were fo named, as fome think, becaufe the Students therein are to ferve the Courts of Judicature; or elfe, becaufe anciently these Colleges received only the Sons of Noblemen, and better forts of Gentlemen, as Fortefcue affirmeth.

Of these there are Four, First.

The I wo I emples.] Heretofore the Dwelling of the Knights-Templers, and purchased by some Professors of the Common-Law above 300 Years agoe; they are called the Inner and Middle-Temple, in relation to Essex-House, which was part of the House of the Knights-Templers, and called the Outer-Temple, because it is seated without Temple-Bar.

Part III.

Lincoln's=Jnn, @2ay's=Jun.] The two other Inns of Court, are Lincoln's-Inn, belonging anciently to the Earls of Lincoln, and Gray's-Inn, formerly belonging to the noble Family of the Gray's.

In the Reign of Henry VI. they fo flourished, that there were in each of these about 200 Students, and a Student then expended yearly about 201. which was as much as 200 le now; for they had usually (as the French Noblemen have now in their Academies) every one an old difcreet Servant, and divers Masters for to instruct them in all laudable Qualities; and therefore faith the fame Fortefeue, Ultra Studium Legum funt quasi Gymnasia Omnium morum; and the Students were only, faith he, Nobilium filii, that is, Gentlemen at leaft ; for fo the Word Nobilis was then taken here, and is still in France; and therefore by command of King James the First. none were to be admitted into these Colleges, but Gentlemen by Defcent. Our Anceftors thought those of inferiour Rank would rather debafe the Honour of the Law, and would be prone to Chicanery or Play tricks, and not like to be fo fit for Trufts and Honours; whereas the confideration of Birth and Fortune, makes Men more careful of their Honour and Reputation. And our famous King Richard the First, is by a grave Author much commended for his care and love of the English Nation, and of Justice; for that many of his Juffices were of the Honourable Peers of the Realm, and not of Men bred up, and formerly innured to make Juffice and their own Tongues vendible for Fees If the Command of King James the First had been carefully observed, and one more added, viz. That none but Gentlemen should easily and ordinarily be admitted to Ecclefiaftical Dignities, there would be in England fufficient Provisions for the younger Sons of Noblemen and Gentlemen ; whereof now very many are the Objects of Pity, either for fuffering, or doing much Evil, for want of fit Employments ; and there would be, doubtlefs, lefs Corruption in our Ecclefiaffical and Civil Government, the ferious Confideration whereof would be a Work worthy of our Parliament.

These Societies are no Corporations, nor have any Judicial Power over their Members, but have certain Orders among themselves, which have, by consent, the force of Laws; for Lighter Offences they are only Excommoned, or put out of Commons, not to eat with the rest; and for greater Offences they lose their Chambers, and are expell'd the the College, and being once expell'd, they are never receiv'd by any of the three other Societies; which Deprivation of Honour to young generous Spirits, is more grievous than perhaps Deprivation of Life.

These also, when they meet at Chappel, or Hall, or at Court of Justice, wear a grave black Robe and Cap, at other times walk with Cloak and Sword.

There are no Lands or Revenues belonging to these Societies, which being no Corporations, are not enabled to purchase, or have they any thing for the defraying the Charges of the House, but what is paid at Admittances, and Quit-Rents for their Chambers. The whole Company of Gentlemen in each Society, may be divided into four Parts, Benchers, Utter-Barristers, Inner-Barristers, and Students.

Bencherg.] Benchers are the Seniors, to whom is committed the Government and Ordering of the whole House; and out of these is chosen yearly a Treasurer, who receiveth, disburseth, and accounteth for all Moneys belonging to the House.

Eltter=Barriffers.] Utter-Barrifters are fuch, as from their Leatning and Standing are called by the Benchers to plead and argue in the Society doubtful Cafes and Queftions, which are called Moots (from Mooting, the old Saxon Word for the English, Affemble, or elfe from the French, Mot, a Word) and whilft they argue the faid Cafes, they fit uttermost, on the Forms of the Benchers, which they call the Bar.

Readers of the Jinns of Chancery.] Out of these Most-Men are chosen Readers for the Inns of Chancery, belonging to the Inns of Court, whereof they are Members; where in Term-time, and Grand Vacations, they argue Cales in the Prefence of Attorneys and Clerks.

Anner- Barriffers.] All the reft are accounted Inner-Barrifters, who, for want of Learning, or Time, are not to argue in these Moors: And yet in a Moor before the Benchers, two of these Inner-Barrifters, sitting on the same Form with the Utter. Barrifters, do, for their Exercises, recite by Heart, the pleading of the said Moor-Case, in Law-French; which Pleading is the Declaration at large, of the said Moot-Case; the one taking the part of the Plaintiff, and the other of the Defendant.

The Year also amongst them is divided into three Parts ; the Learning Vacation, the Term-times, and the Dead, or Mean Vacation.

Exercites.] They have two Learning-Vacations, viz. Lent-Vacation, which begins the first Monday in Lent, and continueth three Weeks and three Days ; and Summer-Vacation, which begins Monday after Lammas-Day, and continueth alfo three Weeks and three Days: In thefe Vacations are the greatest Conferences and Exercises of Study, in manner folthe Similary, and infly by him that moved the lowing.

The Benchers appoint the eldeft Utter-Barrifter to read among them openly in the Hall, whereof he hath notice half a year before ; he then, the first day, about eight of the Clock . makes choice of fome Act or Statute, whereupon he grounds his whole Reading for that Vacation, and declares fuch Mifchiefs and Inconveniences as were unprovided before the fame Act, and are provided by the faid Act: And then reciteth certain Doubts and Queftions, which he hath devifed. that may grow upon the faid Stature, and declareth his Judgment therein : After which, one of the younger Utter-Barrifters repeateth one Queftion propounded by the Reader, and doth by way of Argument labour, to prove the Reader's Opinion to be against Law; and after him the Senior Utter-Barrifters, and Readers, one after another, according to Seniority, do declare their Opinions, and Judgments in the fame; and then the Reader who did put the Cafe, endeavoureth to confute Objections laid against him, and to confirm his own Opinion ; after which the Judges and Serjeants, if any be prefent, declare their Opinions : Then the youngest Utter-Barrifter again rehearleth another Cafe, which is profecuted as the former was, and this Exercife continueth daily three or four hours.

Out of those who have read once in the Summer-Vacation, and are Benchers, is chosen always one to read in Lent, who observes the like manner of Reading as before is ex-Froufe, as formithed, with furth mumber of Students, befler

At fuch times they have here divers Divertifements, as Feafting every Day, Singing, Dancing, Musick, Dicing; which last is allowed there to all Comers, and is so excelfive, that what the Dicers allow out of each Winning to the Butler's Box, usually amounts to about 50 l. a day and a night; wherewith, with small Contribution from each Student, are the great Charges of the whole Christmas defrayed.

Their Dince.] Sometimes, when their publick Treafury is great, they create a Prince among themfelves, with fuch Title as they pleafe to give him, and he hath all his Officers, and a Court fuitable to a great Prince; and many of the prime Nobility, and great Officers of State, are feafted and entertained by him, with Interludes, &c.

of CHANCERT.

THE Inns of Chancery were probably fo named, because there dwelt fuch Clerks as did chiefly fludy the forming of Writs, which regularly appertained to the Curlitors, that are Officers of Chancery. The first of these is call'd Thawis-Inn, begun in the Reign of Edward III. and fince purchafed by the Society of Lincoln's-Inn; New-Inn, Clement's-Inn, Clifford's-Inn, anciently the House of the Lord Clifford; Staple-Inn, belonging to the Merchants of the Staple ; and Lions-Inn, anciently a common Inn, with the Sign of the Lion, Furnival's-Inn, and Bernard's-Inn.

Thefe were heretofore preparatory Colleges for younger Students, and many were entred here, before they were admitted into the Inns of Court.

Now they are for the most part taken up by the Attorneys, Sollicitors, and Clerks, who have here their Chambers apart, and their Diet at a very eafie rate, in a Hall together, where they are obliged to appear in grave long-Robes, and black round knit Caps. These Colleges belong all to some Inns of Court, who fend yearly fome of their Barrifters to read to these. In each of these Inns of Chancery, one with another, may be about fixty Perfons.

IN the Learning Vacation, each Utter-Barrifter, who is a Reader in the Ians of Chancery, goes with two Students of the fame Inn of Court, to the Inn of Chancery, where he is appointed to read, and there meet him commonly two of each Inns of Court ; who fitting as the Benchers do in the Inns of Court at their Moots, they hear and argue his Cafe.

In the four Inn's of Chancery that are fituated in Holborn the Moots are read, either by those of Gray's-Inn, or Lincoln's-Inn, the others by those of the two Temples.

In Term-time, the only Exercises of Learning, is arguing, and debating Cafes after Dinner, and Mooting after Supper, in the fame manner as in the Vacation time. 112

The time between the Learning Vacations and Terms, is called the Mean Vacation; during which time every day after Dinner, Cafes are argued, as at other times, and after Supper Moots are brought in, and pleaded by the Inner-Barrifters, in the prefence of the Utter-Barrifters, which fit there in the room of the Benchers, and argued by them, as the Benchers do in Term-time, and Learning Vacation.

Set jrants-Jun, Lastly, there are two more Colleges called Serjeants-Jun, where the Common Law-Student, when he is arrived to the highest Degree, hath his Lodging and Diet; they are called Servientes ad Legem, Serjeants at Law, and are as Doctors in the Civil-Law, only these have heretofore been reputed more Noble and Honourable : Dector is enim appellatio est Magisterii, Servientis vero Ministerii, and therefore Doctors of Law are allowed to sit within the Bar in Chairs, and covered, whils Serjeants stand without the Bar, bare-headed, only with Coifs, or Caps on.

To arrive to this high Degree, take this brief Account.

Degrees by which they rife.] The young Student in the Common-Law, being bred two or three years in the University, and there chiefly versed in Logick and Rhetorick, both expedient for a Lawyer, and gotten some infight into the Civil-Law, and fome skill in the French Tongue, as well as Latin, he is admitted to be one of the four Inns of Court, where he is first called a Moot-man, and after about feven years Study, is chosen an Utter-Barrifter; and having then spent twelve years more, and performed the Exercises before-mentioned, he is chosen a Bencher, and some time after a Reader : During the Reading, which heretofore was three Weeks and three Days, as afore-mentioned, the Reader keeps a conftant and fumptuous Feaffing, inviting the Chief Nobles, Judges, Bilhops, great Officers of the Kingdom, and fometimes the King himfelf, that it cofts themfometimes 800, or 1000 l. Afterwards he wears a long Robe different from other Barrilters, and is then in a capacity to be made a Serjeant at Law, when her Majefty thall be pleas'd to call him, which is in this manner.

Serjeants at Law.] When the number of Serjeants is fmall, the Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, by the Advice and Confent of other the Judges, makes choice of fix or eight, more or less, of the most grave and learned of the Inns of Court, and prefents their Names to the Lord Chancellor, 416

Chancellor, or Lord Keeper, who fends by the Queen's Writ, to each of them, to appear on fuch a day before the Queen. to receive the State and Degree of a Serjeant at Law; at the appointed time, they being habited in Robes of two Colours, wiz. Brown and Blue, come accompanied with the Students of the Inns of Court, and attended by a Train of Servants and Retainers, in certain peculiar Cloth Liveries to Westminster-Hall, there in publick take a folemn Oath, and are clothed with certain Robes and Coifs, without which they may be feen no more in publick. After this, they feast the Great Persons of the Nation, in a very Magnificent and Princely manner; give Gold Rings to the Princes of the Blood, Arch-Bifhops, Chancellor, Treasurer, to the va-Ine of 40 s. each Ring; to Earls and Bilhops, Rings of 20 s. to other great Officers, to Barons, great Prelates, &c. Rings of lefs value. Belides a great number of Rings to private Friends.

Out of thefe are chosen all the Judges of the King's Bench and Common-Pleas; wherefore every Judge doth always wear the white Linnen Coif, which he had as a principal Badge of a Serjeant, and which he had ever the privifedge to wear at all times, even in the King's presence, and whilf he speaks to the King; tho' anciently it was not permitted to any Subject to be so much as Capp'd in the Prefence of the King of England, as at present is not allowed in the Presence of the Pope, or of the Emperor.

I Judge made.] When any of the afore-mentioned Judges are wanting, the Queen, by the Advice of her Council; makes choice of one of thele Serjeants at Law to fupply his place, and conffitutes him by Letters-Patents, Sealed by the Chancellor, who fitting in the middle of the reft of the Judges in open Court, by a Set-Speech declares to the Serjeant, (who upon this Occation is brought in) the Queen's Pleafure; and to the People the Queen's Goodness, in providing the Bench with fuch able honeft Men, as that Juffice may be done expeditely, and impartially to all her Subjects; and caufes the faid Letters-Patents to be read; and being departed, the Chief Juffice places the faid Serjeant on the Bench, Junior of all the reft; and having taken his Oath. well and truly to ferve the Queen, and all her People in the Office of Juffice, to take no Reward, to do equal and fpeedy Justice to all, &c. he fets himself to the Execution of his Charge. The

The Serjeant being thus advanced to be a Judge, hath thereby great Honour, and a very confiderable Salary, befides certain Perquifites ; for each one hath at least 10001. a Year from the King; and now in fome things, his former Habit of a Serjeant is altered ; his long Robe and Cap, his Hood and Coif are the fame; but there is belides a Cloak put over him, and closed on his Right Shoulder, and his Caputium is lined with Minever, or de Minuto vario, divers fmall pieces of white rich Furr. But the two Lord Chief Juffices, and the Lord Chief Baron, have their Hood, Sleeves and Collars turned up with Ermin.

Note, That to the two Serjeants Inns belong the 12 Judges, and about 26 Serjeants.

fees.] Anciently the Fee expected by a Serjeant from his Client, for Advice given in his Chamber, or pleading in any Court of Judicature, was no more than 203. and the Fee of a Barrifter 10 s. (which yet is much more than is ufually given in any of our Neighbour Nations at this Day) but at present it is become almost ordinary, to give some Serjeants 10 l. and some 20 l. and to a Barrister half as much, at the Hearing of any confiderable Caufe; whereby it comes to pass that some Lawyers in one Year, gain in Fees 3000 !. and fome 4000 l. and in few Years purchase Estates fit for Lords; and fometimes live to fee themfelves to be advanced to be Peers of the Realm, as the late Lord Keepers and Chancellors, Coventry, Finch, North, Jefferies, and Somers.

Reputation of our Law D20feflozs.] Now all thefe fore-mentioned Inns, or Colleges for the Students in our Common-Law, being not far diftant from one another, do make here the most famous Profession of the Law that is in the World; and it will be a very difficult thing to find in any one Foreign Univerfity, fo many Students in the Law, that are of that ripe Age, and of that high Quality.

Note, That out of the Serjeants afore-mentioned, the King by Writ, ufually calls fome to be of his Council at Law, allowing each one Wadage, Feodage, Vesturage, and Regardage ; these sit within the Bar in all Courts at Westminster, except in the Court of Common-Pleas, where all fit without the Bar.

HOSPITALS

Besides Colleges properly so called, there are in this City many richly endowed Hospitals, Alms-Houses, Work-Houses, and Houses of Correction. The most noted are, I. Sutton's Hospital, or, the Charter-House.

Little without the Walls stands this College, or Col-I legiate House, called anciently the Chartreule, now corruptly the Charter-Houle, it being heretofore a Convent of Carthusian Monks, in French, des Chartreux ; this College, now called Sutton's Halpital, confifts of a Mafter, or Governour, a Chaplain, and feveral other Officers, alfo a Mafter and Usher, to instruct 44 Scholars, besides 80 decayed Gentlemen, Soldiers and Merchants, who have all a plentiful Maintenance of Diet, Lodging, Cloaths, Phylick, Gr. and live all together in Collegiate manner, with much cleannefs and neatnefs; and the 44 Scholars have not only Neceffaries whill they are here taught, but if they become fit for the Universities, there is also unto each one, out of the yearly Revenues of this College, 20 /. yearly, and duly paid for eight years after they come to the University; and to others fitter for Trades, there is allowed a confiderable Sum of Money to bind them Apprentices; there are moreover all forts of Officers expedient for fuch a Society, as Phyfician, Apothecary, Steward, Cooks, Butlers, &r. who have all comperent Salaries. This Revenue, and Princely Foundation, was the fole Gift of Thomas Sutton Elg; a Lincombire Gentleman, and a Protestant; and is supposed to be fo great, as cannot be parallel'd by the Charity of any one Subject in Europe, notwithstanding the great Boafts of the Roman Gatholicks ; the Houfe coft him at first 13000 l. and the fitting up for this purpose, about 7000 l. more, in all 20000 1. and was endowed by him with 4000 l. per Annum, which is fince improved to near 6000 l. per Annum. Part III.

Having now given a brief Account of the richeft endowed Hospital that ever was founded by any one fingle Subject in Christendom, which is situated a little without the Walls of this City, the Reader will easily pardon me if I here make an Excursion but of one Mile farther from Londom, to entertain him with a short Description of the richeft endowed Hospital that ever was founded by any King of England, which is the Royal College, or Hospital at Chelfcy

Amongst the many fair Villages about London, there are none more worthy to be visited by Foreigners, than Kensington and Ghelley, the former for the pleasant wholfom Situation, Park, Gardens, Walks, &c. belonging to one of her Majesty's Summer Houses. The latter for the fake, not only of the Noblemens Houses, and of the Physick-Garden, full of most rare exotick Plants, but more especially of the famous Royal Hospital; whereof take this following brief Account, till a larger shall be published.

The Royal Hospital at Chelley, in the County of Middlefex, founded by King Charles the Second; carried on by King James the Second, and now perfected by the late King William and Queen Mary, is feated upon a piece of Ground, whereon a Building formerly ftood, which was defign'd by King James the First, for a College of Divines, to defend the Reformation of the Church of England, against all Opposers; which Ground did eicheat to the King. It is about a Mile from the Suburbs of London, near the famous River of Thames, in a most wholfom Air, upon a rifing gravelly Ground, about fixteen Foot higher than the River, from whence it is abundantly furnished with wholefom Water, even to the top of the Fabrick, by a most ingenious Machine, without the labour of Horse or Man; lately invented by a Shopkeeper of London.

The Main Building is a large Square, whereof one Side is open to the River, which is about one hundred Paces diftant, where is a most commodious and magnificent Landing-Place: Of the other three fides the Front-fide contains the Chappel and Hall, both very spacious and noble Rooms. The

The two other fides being four Stories high, are divided into Wards, or Galeries, two in each Story, containing each twenty fix diftin& Apartments for the Foot-Soldiers. At each one of the four Corners of this main Building there is a fair Pavilion, in one whereof is the Governours Lodging, and the Council-Chamber; the other three being fair Lodgings for feveral of the Officers of the Houfe, both Civil and Military. In the middle of this great Court, is placed, upon a Marble Pedestal, a most curious brazen Statue of the Founder King Charles the Second, at the Cost and Charges of Mr. Toby Rustat.

Besides this main Building, adorned with many stately Pillars, there are four Wings or out-Buildings, large uniform Piles, whereof one is the Infirmary, wherein to lodge the Sick; another for several Officers of the House; another for old maimed Officers of Horse and Foot; and the fourth for the Bakers, Landress, &c.

The number of Pensioners is 476, besides the Officers of the House, Matrons, Landrers, Washerwomen, &c.

The Penfioners have all Red Coats, lined with Blew, and are provided with all other Clothes, Linnen and Woollen, plentiful Diet, neat clean Lodging, Washing, Firing, and one Days Pay in every Week for Spending-Money.

They all meet at Chappel, Morning and Evening, and in the Hall at twelve of the Clock to Dinner, and at fix of the Clock to Supper, and at nine go all to their Lodgings. In a Word, they all live fo much at their eafe, that fome Soldiers coming to fee this Royal Hofpital, have almost longed to be old enough, or lame enough, that they might be immediately admitted of the Society, to live fo very pleafantly, without the least care for a Subfiftance, during the reft of their days, to pass their time with Men of the like Age and Fortune, in telling over their many Exploits, Adventures and Hazards ; in receiving Visits from their Kindred and Acquaintance, in Prayer and Praising God, and their Benefactors, &:

The Qualification to be admitted of this Society, is, That each one must first bring a Certificate from his Superior Officer, that he hath been maimed and difabled in the Service of the Crown; or elfe that he hath ferved the Crown twenty years, which must appear by the Muster-Rolls.

Part III.

For the Government of this Royal Foundation, there are appointed proper Officers, a Lift of which fee at the close of this Work.

They have all fair Lodgings, and fuitable Diet in the Hall. Moreover, there are feveral other Officers, or Servants, as Cooks, Butlers, Bakers, Sexton, Ufher, Porters, Women, Houfe-keepers, Matrons, 24: who have all Diet in the Hofpital. There are alfo Barbers, and divers other Servants, befides Smiths, Carpenters, Joyners, Plummers, Stone-cutters, &c.

To defray the vaft Charges of this Royal Hospital, there is a confiderable Sum paid yearly, out of the Poundage of the Army, besides one days Pay of each Officer, and of each Common Soldier once every Year, which at present amounts to above 3000 l.

The Over-fight, or Superintendency of this College belongs to five Commissioners, whose Names you will find in the Lift at the latter end of the Book, and these order all things relating to the Maintenance and well-government of this College.

GREENWICH Hospital.

JExt to this, Greenwich Hospital, built upon the River Thames, must hereafter take its place in this Book, as being not much farther from London Bridge Weftward, than Chelfea is Eastward : But if we should confider the Magnificence, Capaciousnels, or Ulefulnels of the Building, it should rather precede the former, as much excelling it on each account, as the Naval Strength of an Ifland is every way preferable in its value to the Land-Forces of ic: Tis built below-Bridge, as most proper for its Inhabitants, who are to be all fuch English Seamen, as by Age, Wounds, or other Accidents (ball be difabled from further Service at Sea, and for the Widows and Children of fuch as happen to be flain in Sea-Service : Where looking outwards upon the Ships, Stc. they may take occasion to blefs God, that they have been ferviceable to their Country with the lois of their Limbs, or the Lives of their Relations, and turning inwards upon the Holpital, may praise God for providing them fuch a noble Receptacle or Harbor, againft

An account of its Occonomy, Officers, &c. must be refer'd to the next Edition; a List of its Commissioners will be added at the end of the Book.

Chaifts-Dospital.] Formerly a Monastery of Gray-Friars, diffolved by Henry VIII, and converted by his Son Edward VI. into an Hofpital for poor Children, called by fome the Blue-Coat Hospital; all the Boys and Girls being cloathed in Blue Coats, very warm and decent, and provided with all fuitable Necessaries. It hath fince been enlarged by divers confiderable Benefactors. A great part of this Fabrick was burnt down in the great Fire; but is again re-built with much Splendour and Convenience, by the pious Care and Charity of its Governors, Trustees, and religious Benefactors. Nevertheless all would not do, without contracting a great Debt, and anticipating the Revenues of the Hospital, the Effect of which it still feels, and is like fo to do, unless administred to by the bountiful Hands, not only of willing, but of able Perfons. King Gharles the Second, of Peaceful Memory, founded here a Mathematical School, and liberally endowed it with Maintenance for an exquisite Teacher, where the more adult Lads, about 40 in number, are taught all Parts of Mathematicks; but efpecially the Art of Navigation ; and afterwards they are every Year, about ten ortwelve at a time, put Apprentices to Mafters of Ships, and fo become skilful and brave Commanders. Here was lately above a Thousand poor Children, most of'em Orphans, maintain'd in the Houfe, and out at Nurfe, upon the Charge of this Foundation, and fix or feven fcore put yearly forth to Apprenticeship; the Maidens to good and honest Services. ting want dented and admit e 4 Some

Some of the most pregnant Lads, are so good Proficients at the Grammar-School belonging to this Hospital, that they are sent to the University, and become excellent Scholars; and some of those that have been put to Trades, have arrived to the highest Dignities in the City, even the Pretorial Ghair hath been filled with one of these. But the stated Revenue not being at all answerable to the necessary yearly Expences, many of the most wealthy Citizens and Merchants are chief Governours, in hopes that they will commiserate those Wants which their own Eyes see. That venerable Alderman Sir John Moor Knight, set a noble Example of Munificence to this Hospital, in building a magnificent Writing-School, & which cost him (as it is computed) upwards of four thousand Pounds.

St. Bartholomew's Holpital,] adjoins to the faid Christs-Holpital, and formerly belong'd to the fame Gray-Friars, founded by REIDZ a Mulician, in the time of Henry the First, enlarged by Henry the Fourth. At the Diffolution of Monasteries, Henrythe Eighth left 500 Marks a year to it. for the relief of poor People, but was more largely endowed for the use of fick and lame Persons only, by Edward the Sixth. This Spital hath able Phyficians and Chirurgeons, careful Nurfes, and good Provision for wounded and tick Soldiers and Seamen, and other difeafed Perfons, which come from all Parts of the Kingdom hither for Cure ; and through God's Bleffing here is fometimes 2000 or upwards cured in a year, and relieved with Moneys, and other Neceffaries at their departure. This Houfe it felf escaped the fury of the great Fire, but most of the Estate belonging to it was confumed.

St. Thomas's Dospital] in Southwark is for the fame use, and underwent almost the same Fate in its Revenues, not only in 1666, but in the three great Fires of Southwark, 1676, 1681, 1689; founded by the same pious Prince, and not inferior at alk to the other in the number of those that are here yearly cured, and relieved. This they are rebuilding (being old and ill-contrived) with great State and Convenience; a great Contribution being begun by the Right Honourable Sir John Fleet, then Lord Mayor (who laid the first Stone) and carried on by the Generosity of other eminent Persons, who design to make the Work very great and splendid. Bethlem Dolpital] was an ancient mean Houfe in the Suburbs of the City, for the maintaining and curing of lunatick and diftracted Perfons, which going to decay, the Lord Mayor, Court of Aldermen, and Common-Council, granted a piece of Ground in Moorfields, for erecting a larger and more convenient Building for the Reception of those poor Wretches. The Building is very Magnificent, and Beautiful, in a good Air, with great Accommodations : It cost 17000 l. by reason of which this poor Hospital lies under the difadvantage of a great Debt, and deferves the Consideration of those that are charitably inclined. Here is commonly cured about 40, 50, or 60 in a year.

Bzidewell=Dolpital,] or Work-houfe, is a place where indigent, vagrant, and idle People are fet to work, and maintained with Clothing and Diet; and when it feems good to their Governour, they are fent by Paffes into their Native Countries.

To this Hofpital, divers hopeful and ingenious Lads are put Apprentices, and prove afterwards honeft and fubftantial Citizens—Hither likewife fawcy and incorrigible Servants, Night-walkers, Strumpets, and the like, are fent to Work; and, according to their Crimes, receive daily fuch a number of Stripes as the Governour commands; Bread and Water being their beft Allowance, unlefs by Repentance and Industry they deferve better. This Hofpital was likewife founded by that Pious young Prince, Edward the Sixth, it having been one of his own Places.

Here I cannot omit to acquaint the World, that befides the Holpitals mention'd, and many more in the City not fo remarkable, there is a Workhouse in Bishopfgate-Street, for employing the poor Children of the City and Liberties thereot, and all fuch as have no Settlement, purfuant to an Act made in the 13th and 14th of Charles the Second: It is not yet brought to Perfection, notwithflanding the Contributions of Parishes and private Benefactors: However it must be allowed, that there has been a great deal of good done by it, and if the preventing habits of Idlenes, Theft, Debauchery, Profaneness, and other Immoralities in Children, and on the contrary, fowing the early feeds of Piety, Honesty, Industry in them, and implying grown Persons, and preventing venting begging in the Streets, be acceptable to God and Men, and tend to the Reformation, Happiness, and Welfare of fucceeding Generations. 'Tis hoped so great, so good, and excellent Undertaking, will receive a fuitable encouragement from charitable Christians.

WALL and GATES.

'HE ancient City of London was wall'd in on all Parts with a ftrong Stone Wall of defence in height and thickness, proportionable to its design, which is now for the most part decay'd, dwelling Houses being now built upon the Foundations of that which is wanting, or upon the top of that little which remains. The City when that Wall was built, was not above three Miles in Circumference : but now the Suburbs being above four times bigger than that, the immense number of its Inhabitants are a more powerful Defence; yet most of the Gates of that old Wall still remain ; those which were burnt down, as Ludgate and Newgase, are rebuilt with great Solidity and Magnificence; and chofe which escaped, as Aldersgate, Cripplegate, Moorgate, Aldgate, are kept in good Repair, and all are fhut up every Night with great diligence, and a fufficient Watch at ten a Clock; none being fuffered to go in and out without Examination: In like manner, at the fame Hour, Watches are placed every where about the City, who feize all fuspicious Perfons, and fecure 'em till the next Morning, to be examined by a Juffice of the Peace; and if they are found to be Vagabonds, Strumpets, or Night-walkers, they are fent to a Houfe of Correction. Most of these Gates are of good Architecture, and adorned with Statues of fome of our Kings and Queens, as is that likewife called Temple-Bar in Fleet-freet, near the Middle-Temple-Gate,

Dzifons.] The defigned Brevity of this Treatife will not let me give a very particular Account of all the Prifons in and about this City. Two of the aforefaid Gates, wiz. Newgate and Ludgate, being ftrongly built, are Prifons, the first for Heinous Malefactors, as Traitors, Murderers, Felons, and the like, who are tried at the Seffions-House in the Old-Baily, hard by, and the other for Debtors, who are Freemen men of London. The Queen's-Bench Prifon in Southwark is the greatest for Debtors in England; not far from it is the Marshalfen, a Ptifon belonging to the Court of the Knight-Marshal of England; who is Sir Philip Medows. The Fleet near Fleet-ditch is a great Prifon likewife for Debtors; fo are the two Counters belonging more peculiarly to the City. The New-Prilon at White-Chappel, the Gate-House at Westminster, and others would take up too much room to be deferibed here; but each have their diftinct Privileges and Conveniences, according to the Circumstances of the Debtor, which is the Reason why he fo oft removes himsfelf from one to the other, by Writs of Habeas Corpus.

London-Bridge.] The next thing remarkable in the City of London, may be the Bridge; which, for admirable Workmanship, for Vastness of Foundation, for all Dimentions, and for solid Houses, and rich Shops built thereon, surpassed all other in Europe; it hath XIX Arches, founded in a deep broad River, and some fay, on a soft Ouzy Ground, 800 Foot in Length, 60 Foot high, and 30 broad; hath a Draw-Bridge almost in the middle, and 20 Foot between each Arch. It was begun by K. Henry the IId, and finished Anno 1209, in the Reign of K. John.

The Building of this Bridge of London, was an exceeding difficult and coffly piece of Work; and to those that confider the conftant great Flux and Reflux at that place, it feems almost impossible to be done again; the Charge of keeping it in Repair is fo great, that it hath been thought fit by our Ancestors to have a large House, a vast Revenue in Lands and Houses, and divers considerable Officers, &c. to be set apart for the constant Care and Repair thereof; the principal whereof are the two Bridge Massers, chosen out of the Body of the Liveries upon Mid/ummer-day, after the Sheriffs and Chamberlain.

Ale Royal Erchange.] Is next to be confidered as the nobleft Building of that use in the World.

The former Burfe began to be crefted in the Year 1566, just 100 Years before it was burnt; it was built at the Cost and Charges of a noble Merchant, Sir The Gresham, and in a folemn manner by a Herald and Sound of Trumpet, in the Prefence, and by the special Command of Queen Elizabeth, Proclaimed and Named the Royal Exchange. It was built built most of Brick, and yet was the most splendid Burse (all things confidered) that was then in Europe, before the Building whereof, the Burse for Merchants was kept in Lumbardstreet.

Now it is built within and without of the fore-mentioned excellent Stone, with fuch curious and admirable Architecture, especially for a Front, a high Turret, or Steeple, wherein are an Harmonious Chime of Twelve Bells, and for Arch-work, that it furpaffeth all other Burfes.

It is built quadrangular, with a large Court, wherein the Merchants may affemble, and the greatest part, in cafe of Rain, or hot Sun-fhine, may be sheltered in Side-Galleries, or Portico's; the whole Fabrick coft 50000 l. whereof one half was disburfed by the Chamber of London, or Corporation of the City; and the other half by the Company of Mercers; and to reimburse themselves, there is let to Hire 190 Shops above Stairs, at 20 l. yearly Rent each, and 30 l. Fine, befides the feveral Shops below, on the East and Weft Sides, and the huge Vaulted Cellars under Ground; So that it is the richeft piece of Ground perhaps in the whole World; for, according to exact dimensions, the Ground whereon this goodly Fabrick is creeted, is but 171 Foot from North to South, and 203 Foot from East to Weft (for it is Quadratum oblongum) fo that it is but very little more than 3 Quarters of an Acre of Ground, and will produce above 4000 l. yearly Rent.

In the midft of this great Quadrangle ftands that exquifite Statue of his late Majefty King Charles II. erected, at the Charge of the Society of Merchant Adventurers of England; 'tis done with great Beauty and Spirit, in the ancient Roman Habit of their Cafars, with a Wreath of Laurel on the Head, ftanding upon a Pedestal feven Foot high, on three Sides whereof are curioufly cut on three Escutcheons, First, the Arms of England and France quattered; Secondly, of Scotland; Thirdly, of Ireland; each supported by a Cupid; and on the Fourth Side is the following Infcription:

Carolo II. Cesari Britannico, Patriæ Patri, Regum Optimo, Clementissimo, Augustissimo, Generis Humani Deliciis, Utriusque fortunæ Victori, Pacis Europæ Arbitro, Marium Domino ac Vindici, Societas Mercatorum Adventur. Angliæ, Quæ per CCCC jam prope Annos Regia benignitate floret, Fidei Intemeratæ & Gratitudinis æternæ Hoc Testimonium Venerabunda posuit. Anno salutis Humanæ MDCLXXXIV.

The whole is made of White Marble, fomewhat bigger than the Life, and is the Workmanship of the Famous Carver and Statuary, Mr. Grinlin Gibbons, that Glory of our Nation, not only for his carving in Wood, for which he is admired all over Europe, and to which, nothing of Antiquitv, in that kind, now to be feen, is comparable, as his Works at Windsor, and elfewhere testifie; but likewife for his rare performances in Brass, and Marble; for which, amongst all Men of Skill and Judgment in those ingenious Arts, he has acquired the Reputation of equalling, if not furpassing the most fam'd Italian Masters.

Statue of King Charles the first.] Another Statue is fet up in one of the Niches of the fame Exchange, of the late King Charles the First; there, as may be supposed, whence the Rebels had impiously pulled down his Statue in the former Exchange which was burnt: The Inscription under this, is,

And as before the dreadful Fire there were all round the Quadrangle of this Royal Exchange, the Statues of all the Sovereign Princes of this Kingdom, fince the Norman Conqueft; fo now by the Care and Coft of the City Companies, most of those Niches are again filled with the like curious Statues in Marble or Alabaster, and the rest are daily defigned.

Statue at Charing-Crois.] There are other Statues, worthy to be taken notice of, particularly that at Charing-Grofs, of King Charles the First, on Horse-back, bigger than the Life, done in Brais, standing on a high Pedestal of White Marble, curioully adorned with Trophies of War, and all compassed about with Iron Rails: this excellent Piece of Work had also suffered the Despite of the Rebels, having been pulled down, and fold by them to a Brasser in Holborn, for the Rate of old Brass, by the Pound Weight; who preferved it entire till his late Majesty's happy Restauration. It was done by an admirable Artist La-Seur, who made that magnificent Brazen Monument in King Henry the Seventh's Chappel, for the D, of Buckingham, that was murthered by Felton.

In the midst of the Great Court at White-Hall, is a noble Statue in Brass, of King James the Second, upon a Pedestal of Marble, with this Inscription,

The Bonument] Not far from the Bridge, is the fatal Place where the dreadful Fire afore-mentioned first began ; near which is now erected (as was ordered by an A& of Parliament, immediately after the Fire) a Pillar in perpetual Memory thereof; It is of the Tuscan Order, 202 Foot high from the Superficies of the Ground, and 15 Foot Diameter, all of folid Portland Stone, with a fair Stair-cafe in the middle, of Black Marble, and an Iron Balcony on the Top (not unlike those two ancient White Marble Pillars at Rome, erected in Honour of the Emperors Trajan and Antoninus, those two excellent Princes, which were there built above 1500 Years ago, and are ftill ftanding entire) the Pedestal of this our Pillar is also all of Portland Stone, and is 21 Foot square, and 40 Foot high; the Front whereof is curioufly adorned with ingenious Emblems in Baffe Relievo, the Work of that admirable Sculptor and Carver in Stone, Mr. Gabriel Cibbar, another Praxiteles; and on the Sides thereof are these following Incomparable Inscriptions:

IN the Year of Chrift 1666, the fecond Day of September. L Eastward from hence, at the distance of 202 Foot (the Height of this Column (about Midnight, a tetrible Fire broke out, which, driven on by a high Wind, not only wasted the adjacent Parts, but likewife Places very remote, with incredible Noife and Fury, it confirmed 89 Churches, the City Gates, Gaild-Hall, many publick Structures, Hofpitals, Schools, Libraries, a vaft Number of flately Edifices. 13200 Dwelling Houfes, 400 Streets; of 26 Wards it utterly deftroyed 15, and left 8 others fhatter'd and half burnt; the Ruines of the City were 436 Acres, from the Tower by the Thames Side, to the Temple-Church, and from the North-East Gate along the City Wall to Holborn-Bridge. To the Estates and Fortunes of the Citizens it was mercilefs, but to their Lives very favourable, that it might in all things refemble the laft Conflagration of the World.

The Destruction was sudden; for in a small space of time, the fame City was feen most flourishing, and reduced to nothing.

Three Days after, when this Fatal-Fire had baffled all Human Counfels and Endeavours in the Opinion of all, as it were, by the Will of Heaven it ftopped, and on every Side was excinguished.

About the Plinth of the lower Pedestal is this following Infeription in English.

This Pillar was fet up in perpetual Remembrance of the most dreadful burning of this ancient City, begun and carried on by the Treachery and Malice of the Popish Faction, in the beginning of September, in the year of our Lord 1666. In order to the carrying on the borrid Plot for Extirpating the Protestant Religion, and the old English Liberty, and introducing Popery and Slavery.

Nore, That this Infeription was eraied by King James upon his Acceffion to the Crown; but reftored prefently after the Happy Revolution.

Companies Balls.] To fpeak now. particularly of the many noble Structures belonging to, and built at the fole Charges of each Guild, or incorporated Fraternity in this great City, would take up too much place in this little Book ; These are built like the Houses of great Nobility, with gallant Frontispieces, flately Courts, spacious Rooms, the Hall efpecially; from which the whole is named, is not only ample enough to entertain at a time of Featling, all of the Livery, in each Company, be they one, two, or three hundred ; but many of 'em are fit to receive a Crowned Head, with all its Nobles, those of each of the twelve Companies efpecially ; and in fome one of thefe Halls, as that of Merchant-Taylors, the Annual Feftivals of the most splendid Societies are celebrated, as of the Artillery Company, the most glotious; and the Sons of the Clergy, the most Beneficent. that this City can boaft of: One of these twelve Palaces (as I may call 'em) the Lord Mayor for the time being, ufually makes the place of his Refidence, with all his Family and his Officers ; there he ufually entertains all Poreign Princes and Embaffadors. The Company of Mercers, belides their Hall, have a fumptuous and spacious Chappel for Divine Service, which every Lord's Day during the most Populous feasons of the Year, is supplied by felect Preachers. To the Drapers Hall belongs a large and well-kept Garden, with Bowers for Retirement to fludy, open for all People of ingenious Appearance : And indeed each Hall bath fome or other particular Excellency.

Fountains

Fountaing.] I come now to confider the publick Fountains and Aqueducts, which are many and fumptuous, affording most excellent and wholfom Water, to omit those of Crowder's-Well, in Jew-in-street, that of Tower-Hill, and others of peculiar Vertues, as well as general use, some of the most eminent are these.

Statue of the King in Stocks-Market.] The neatly wrought Conduit in the Market-place, at the Weft-end of Lombard-freet, whereupon is placed a very magnificent Statue of King Charles the Second on Horfe-back, trampling upon an Enemy, all in White Marble, at the fole Coft and Charges of that worthy Citizen and Alderman of London, Sir Robert Viner Knight and Baronet.

The Dbelisk in Cheapfide.] A Piece of Workmanship, designed, and began to be erected by the City, at the Westend of Cheapside, where, before the Fire of London, shood the Church of St. Michael in the Quern : It is to be (if finished as was intended) an Obelisk, or Aguglia, upon a Pedestal, the height whereof to be 160 Foot, and made in imitation of those ancient ones, which formerly adorned old Rome, and in this, and the last Century, have been taken out of old Ruines, and again crected for the beautifying of new Rome.

Fountain in King's Square.] The Defign alfo of that Fountain in the middle of King's Square in Soe-hoe-Fields-Buildings, deferves Obfervation; where, on a high Pedestal, is King Charles's Statue, and at his Feet lie the Reprefentations of the four principal Rivers of England, pouring out their Waters into the Cistern, viz. Thames, Trent, Humber, and Severn, with Inscriptions under each.

There is an excellent and plentiful Fountain likewife at Algate, with many others of lefs note in and about the City; nor must we pass by without notable remark over it; the many huge Vaults on each fide thereof, to treafure up New-Caftle-Coals for the use of the Poor.

Observable likewife are the many fair and commodious Places of publick Sale and Markets. Blackwell-Hall, a place of Factors for Woollen Cloth; this is a large fumptuous Building adjoining to Guild-Hall, to which, Cloth is fent as to a publick Fair or Market, from all Parts of the Kingdom.

Smithfield] A vast weekly Market on Mondays and Fridays for Horses, and all forts of live Cattel; where the Annual Fair is likewise kept, beginning on St. Bartholomew's Day, and lasting 14 Days.

Leaden-Dail.] A noble ancient Building, where are great Markets for Hides and Leather, for Flefh, Poultry, Fifh, and all forts of Edibles; Queen-hith, and Bear-key, great Markets for Grain of all forts. All along the Thames fide, on both fides, are Wholefale-Traders, for Timber, Stone, Coals, and all manner of Fuel; the Stocks-Market, Milk-ftreet, New-gate, Clare, Covent-Garden, Blooms-bury, Hungerford, St. James's, Westminster Markets, &c. are places of note commodioufly fituated and built. There are divers other Exchanges likewife, befide the Royal-Exchange, where all Attire for Ladies and Gentlemen are fold, as that ftately Building called the New-Exchange, and Exeter-Change, both in the Strand: Not to speak of the Cloysters at St. Bartholomew's, and other fuch like places for fale of small Ware.

Dzibate Buildings.] In this City and Parts adjacent, of late years especially, they are generally very fair and stately; but within the City, the spacious Houses of Noblemen and Merchants, and many of the sumptuous Taverns, are hidden to Strangers, by reason that they are generally built backwards, that so the whole Room towards the Street might be referved for Tradessers. If they had been all built towards the Street, as in other Countries, no foreign City would, even in this particular, surpass London. Yet if a Stranger should view the several magnificent Piazza's, or open Places, which we call Squares (for which the Cities in Italy are so highly esteemed) as those of Lincolns-Ium-Fields, Covent-Garden, St. James's Square, South-Ff 3 hampton-Buildings, the King's Square in Sohoe, Leicester-fields, Red-Lyon-Square, Golding-Square, Spittle-fields-Square, Devonshire Square by Bilbopsgate and Moorfields, Marine Square by Goodman's Fields. The feveral straight and spacious Streets, as Cornhill, Lombard-street, Cheapside, Fleet-street, the Strand, Hatton-Garden, Great Queen-street, the Palle Mall, and divers others. The many curious and unitform Piles of late Buildings and Streets, as those near St. James's, Bloomsbury, York, Essex, Arundel, Beaufort-Buildings, Goodman's-Fields, &c. The many Palaces of Noblemen, as Nortbumberland-Heuse, Wallingford-House, Mount ague-House, Powis-House, the Residence of the Lord Keeper; Berkley-House, Buckingham, Leicester, Southampton, &c. Houses, they will find it equal to, if not furpals most of what they have feen abroad.

In the first Office.

The Rate for infuring rool. on a Brick-Houfe, is 6s. for one year, 12 s. for two years, 18s. for three years, 19s. 6d. for four years, 1l. to s. for 7 years, and 2l. 1s. for eleven years, and double for Timber, and no farther Payment or Trouble during the time infured : The Money infured to be paid as often as the Houfe is burnt down, blown up, or demolifhed by Fire; but if damaged only, then to be repair'd at the Coft of the Office. This Society hath alfo a great number of Men employed by them, with Liveries and Silver Badges. Their Device is a Sheaf of Arrows.

The number of infured Houfes in the first Office fince the year 1681, is 10000; and in the Friendly Society fince the year 1684, is 12500.

Belides the Offices of Infurance for Houfes, there is another called the Office of Affarance for Widows and Orphans, in which 2000 voluntary Subfcribers engage to pay a Crown each into a common Stock, at the Decease of any of the Company; by which their Widows and Dependants mention'd in the Policy, are fure of 500 l. ready Money without any defalcation, except 3 l. per Cent. to the Master of the Office. This Office is kept at St. Auflin's Gate near the East end of St. Paul's, where attendance is given from 1 to 5 every Afternoon except Holy-days for taking in Subscribers: There are at prefent about 600 thus contained, Bishops, Gentlemen of Quality, Clergy, Merchants, Tradesmen, & and there is a fair prospect of compleating the number foon, the benefit of the Project being very fensible.

The Arms of the City of London.] The Arms of the City of London, are Argent a Großs Gules, with the Sword of St. Paul, not the Dagger of William Walworth, as fome have conceited; for this Coat did belong to the City before Walworth flew Wat Tyler the Rebel, as learned Antiquaries affirm.

Of the Queen's Great Wardrobe.

[3]ts Antiquity.]

THis Office was ufually kept within the City near Puddlewbarf, in an ancient Houfe built by Sir John Beauchamp, Son to Guy de Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick, and afterwards fold to King Edward the Third.

The Master or Keeper of the Great Wardrobe, is an Officer of great Antiquity and Dignity.

High Priviledges and Immunities were conferred on him by Henry the Sixth, and confirmed by his Succeffors: King James the first enlarged the fame, and ordained, that this Great Office should be an Incorporation, or Body Politick for ever.

Several things furnished from thence.] This Office is to make Provisions for Coronations, Marriages and Funerals of the Royal Family ; to furnish the Court with Beds, Hangings, Clothes of Effate, Carpets, and other Necessaries ; to furnish Houses for Ambassadors, at their first arrival here; Prefents for Foreign Princes and Ambaffadors; Clothes of Estate, and other Furniture for the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, Lord Prefident of Wales; and all her Majesty's Amballadors abroad ; to provide all Robes for foreign Knights of the Garter, Robes for Knights of the Garter at home, and Robes and all other Furniture for the Officers of the Garter, Coats for Kings, Heralds, and Purfuivants at Arms, Robes for the Lord Treasurer, under Treasurer and Chancellor of the Exchequer, Scc. Livery for the Lord Chamberlain, Grooms of her Majesty's Privy-Chamber, Officers of her. Majesty's Robes, and divers other her Majesty's Servants ; Rich Liveries for the two Lords Chief Juffices; all the Barons Part III. rons of the Exchequer ; divers Officers in those Courts ; 21 Liveries for her Majesties Servants, as Yeomen of the Guard, and Warders of the Tower, Trumpeters, Kettle-Drummers, Drummers and Fifes; the Meffengers, and all belonging to the Stables, as Coachmen, Footmen, Littermen, Postillions and Grooms, &c. All Coaches, Chariots, Harneffes, Saddles, Bits, Bridles, &c. The Queen's-Watermen, Game-keepers, de. All Linnen and Laces for her Majefty's Perfon, &c. As alfo rich embroider'd Tilts and other Furniture for the Barges; Furniture for all Royal Yatchts ; Furniture of Courts for Arraignment of Peers, and very many other Services.

To defray all the fore-mentioned Charges, ordinarily there was expended formerly above 40000 l. but now much less, beside all Extraordinaries, as Coronations, Funerals, 050.

This Office is at prefent enjoyed by Patent for Life, by the Right Honourable Ralph Earl of Montagu, one of her Majefty's most Honourable Privy-Council.

The prefent Salary to him, in compensation of several ancient Fees and Allowances, is yearly 2000 l.

The faid House near Puddle wharfe, was long ago annexed for ever to the Master of this Office; but fince the great fire of London, this Office is kept in York-House Buildings.

The chief Officers under the Master are, a Deputy, and a Clerk of the faid Wardrobe, by Patent likewife for Life, whole Salary, in compensation of feveral ancient Fees and Allowances, is at prefent 300 l. per Annum. The Deputy is Charles Bland Elq; , Tho. Townfend Elq; Clerk.

Both those Officers had fair Dwelling-Houses, which were alfo confumed by the Fire.

Belonging to this Office are divers Tradefmen, Artificers, and others, to the number of at least 60, all fworn Servants to the Queen,

There are two principal Clerks acting in the Office above.

Of the EXCISE OFFICE.

THE Office for Receipt of the next confiderable Branch of the Queen's Revenue, is the Excile-Office, which is at prefent under an abfolute Management for her Majefty by Commissioners, in number seven ; who pursuant to an Act of Parliament, do receive the whole Product of the Excise of Beer and Ale collected all over England, and pay it into the Exchequer : They have 800 I. Salary each per Annum, and are obliged by Oath to take no Fee nor Reward, but from the Queen only.

The Excife-Office is kept in the Old Jewry.

From the afore-named Commissioners, there lies an Appeal to others, called the Commissioners of Appeal, who are five; and by her Majesty are allowed 200 l. Salary each per Annum.

of the Office of Post-Master-General.

THE Profits of the faid Office were fetled by A& of Parliament on his Royal Highness the Duke of York, but her Majesty doth constitute her Post-Master-General, by Letters-Patents under the Great Seal of England. This Office is now in the Hands of the Queen, and is executed by

and the Foreign Office.

Comptroller, Salary 150 l. per Annum. Alphabet-Keeper, Sal. 100 l. per Annum. Besides eight Clerks, 50 l. per Annum each.

Her Majesty keepeth one Grand or General Office in the City of London, from whence Letters and Pacquets are difpatch'd.

Every

442

Every Monday to France, Italy, Spain, Flanders, Germany, Sweden, Denmark, Kent, and the Downs.

Every Tuesday to the United Netherlands, Germany, Swedeland, Denmark, and to all Parts of England, Scotland, and Ireland.

Every Wednesday to Kent only, and the Downs.

Every Thurlday to France, Spain, Italy, and all Parts of England and Scotland.

Every Friday to the Spanish and United Netherlands, Germany, Sweden, Denmark, and to Kent, and the Downs.

Every Saturday to all Parts of England, Scotland and Ireland.

The Post goes also every day to those Places where the Court refides, as also to the usual Stations and Rendezvouz of her Majefty's Fleet, as the Downs, Spitkead, &c.

And the Answers of the faid Letters and Pacquets are received in the faid Office in due courfe, and from thence difperfed and delivered according to their refpective Dire-Stions, with all Expedition.

From all Parts of England and Scotland, except Wales, every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. From Wales every Monday and Friday ; and from Kent and the Downs every Day.

The faid Office is managed by a Deputy, and other Officers, to the Number of 77 Perfons, who give their actual Artendance respectively in the Dispatch of the Business.

Upon this grand Office depends 182 Deputy-Post-Masters in England and Scotland, most of which keep regular Offices in their Stages, and Sub-Poft-Masters in their Branches : And alfo in Ireland another general Office for that Kingdom, which is kept in Dublin, confifting of 18 like Officers, and 45 Deputy-Post-Masters.

Her Majesty keeps constantly for the Transport of the faid Letters and Pacquets in times of Peace

Spain, 2 Pacquet-Boats, one in a Fortnight. Between Eng- Flanders, 2 Pacquet Boats. land and Holland, 3 Pacquet-Boats. (Ireland, 3 Pacquet-Boats.

And at Deal, 2 Pacquet-Boats for the Downs. Not to mention the extraordinary Pacquet-Boats in time of War with France and Spain, as to Lisbon in Portugal, to All the Leeward Illands, &c.

All which Officers, Post-Masters and Pacquet-Boats, are maintained at her Majesty's own Charge.

And as the Master-piece of all those good Regulations established by the Post-Master-General, for the better Government of the faid Office, he hath annex'd, and appropriated the Market-Towns of England, so well to the respective Postages, that there is no confiderable Market-Town, but hath an easie and certain Conveyance for the Letters thereof, to and from the faid grand Office, in the due Course of the Mails every Post.

Tho' the Number of Letters millive in England were not at all confiderable in our Anceftors Days, yet it is now fo prodigioufly great (fince the meaneft People have generally learnt to write) that this Office was Farmed before the Addition of the Penny-Poft, at 40 or 50000 l. a Year.

Note alfo, That Letters are conveyed with more Expedition, and lefs Charges, than in any Foreign Country.

Charge.] A Letter containing a whole Sheet of Paper is conveyed 80 Miles for 2 d. and 2 Sheets 4 d. and an Ounce of Letters but 8 d. and above 80 Miles a fingle Letter is 3 d. a double Letter 6 d. and an Ounce 1 s. and that in fo fhort a time, by Night as well as by Day, that every 24 Hours the Post goes 120 Miles; and in five or fix Days an Anfwer of a Letter may be had from a Place 300 Miles diflant from the Writers.

Moreover, if any Gentleman defire to ride Post to any principal Town in England, Post-Horses are always in readiness (taking no Horse without the Consent of his Owner) which, in other Kings Reigns, was not duly observed, and only 3 d. is demanded for every English Mile; and for every Stage to the Post-Boy 4 d. for conducting.

Befides this excellent Convenience of conveying Letters and Men on Horfe back, there is of late fuch an admirable Commodioufnefs, both for Men and Women of better Quality, to travel from London to almost to any Town of England, and to almost all the Villages near this great City, that the like hath not been known in the World, and that is by Stage-Coaches, wherein one may be transported to any Place, sheltered from foul Weather and foul Ways, free from endamaging ones Health, or Body, by hard jogging, or over-violent Motion; and this is not only at a low Price, as about a Shilling for every Five Miles, but with fuch Speed, as that the Posts in some Foreign Countries make not not more Miles in a Day; for the Stage-Coaches, called Flying. Coaches, make 50 or 60 Miles in a Day, as from London to Oxford, or Cambridge, and that in the space of 12 Hours, not counting the time of Dining, setting forth not too early, nor coming in too late.

The Post-Office is now kept in Lombard-street, and is managed there by Sir Robert Cotton Knight, and Sir The. Franklin Baronet.

Of the PENNT-POST.

Moreover, to the great Benefit of this City, and Places adjacent, there is effablish'd another Post, called the Penny-Post, whereby for one Penny any Letter or Parcel not exceeding one pound weight, or ten pounds value, is most speedily and fafely conveyed to, and from all Parts within the Bills of Mortality, to most Towns within ten, and to fome within twenty Miles round London, not conveniently ferved by the General-Post.

The Profits of this, as well as of all other lawful Carriage of Letters, belong to her Majesty, being settl'd on her by Act of Parliament, and it is manag'd for her by a Comptroller : And for the better carrying on this uleful Delign, there are fix general Offices kept at a convenient diffance from one another; at all which, Officers do conftantly attend from Morning until Night, every Day, Sundays only excepted ; and a very great Number of Mellengers are imploy'd, who have all given Security for the Collecting and Delivering of Letters, &c. There are also five or fix hundred receiving Houses in London, and the other Towns, a Lift of which Towns will be deliver'd to any Perfon gratis, at the general Offices, which are kept as followeth, the Grand-Office in Crosby-Houfe in Bishopfgate- freet ; the Office for St. Paul's Precinct in Queens-Head. Alley in Pater-nofter-Row; that for the Temple in Chichefter's-Rents in Chancery-Lane; for Weftminster, in St. Martin's-Lane, for Southwark, in Green-Dragon-Court, near St. Saviour's Church ; for Ratcliff, and the Hermitage, upon little Tower-Hill.

And further Convenience of this Office, is, that what foever Letters come from all Parts of the World, by the General-Poft, directed to Perfons in any of those Country-Towns to which which the Penny-Post does goe; they are delivered by the Messengers thereof the fame Day they come to London, and the Answers being left at their Receiving-Houses, are by them fafely catried every Night to the Office in Lombardfireet. The Comptroller of this very commodious Pennyfort-Office is Nathaniel Gastleton, Gent. he resides at the General Penny-Post-Office. The Accomptant, Thomas Laws; the Receiver, Francis Colling.

Conveniencies.] The Conveniencies of this useful Undertaking of the Penny-Post, are as follow: All Gentlemen, Country-Chapmen, and others, may hereby speedily and cheaply give notice of their Arrival at London; Shop-keepers and Tradesmen may fend to their Workmen for what they want; Bills may be dispersed, or Publication of any concern; Summons or Tickets convey'd to all Parts, Brewers Entries fafely sent to the Excise-Office; Appointments of Meetings among Men of Business; much time fav'd in Solicitation for Money; Lawyers and Clients matually correspond; Patients may fend to Doctors, Apothecaries, and Chirurgeons for what they shall want, besides many other Advantages.

Of Coachmen, Carmen, and Watermens Rates.

THE Conveniency of Hackney-Coaches, Carts and Boats, in and about London, is very great : But Coachmen, Carmen, and Watermen, being for the most part rude, exacting and quarrelfome, I hope it will not be thought amils, to put down here those Rates which they may demand, and beyond which no body is obliged to pay them.

Of the two UNIVERSITIES.

U Riversity of Drfold.] Oxford, quast Ousford, Isidis Vadum, the Name of the chief River whereon it is seated; or perhaps from Bovis Vadum, a Ford for Oxen to pass through, before the Use of Bridges, as Thracius Bolporus, signifying the like, is by the Germans called Ochsenfurt.

It is feated at the meeting of two clear fifhy Rivers, in fuch a healthy Air, and pleafant rich Soil, that it hath anciently been called Bellofitum, Bellafis, or Beaulieu.

It lies in 51 Degrees 42 Minutes Latitude, and about 22 Degrees Longitude, above 13 Degrees more Northward than that most famous ancient City and University of Athens, that once fruitful Mother and careful Nurse of many Arts, Sciences, and beneficeal Inventions. But Oxford being seated in an Island, the Air is not much colder in the Winter, nor near fo troublesome or hot in the Summer as Athens.

Oxford was a place of publick Studies above nine hundred Years ago, and much augmented, (as fome fay,) not founded by the Learned Saxon King Alfred, and hath been very anciently reckoned the fecond University among the four principal of Europe; whereof the others are Paris in France, Bononia, now called Bologna in Italy, and Salamanca in Spain; and altho' Paris hath ufually been named in the first place, (which was first model'd by Alcuinus an English man, in the time of Charles the Great) yet it hath been acknowledged to be Oxoniæ Propago; and if Paris for a time was more flourishing, yet fince, in many respects, 'tis excelled by this of Oxford.

Oxford is an ancient City, confifting of two forts of Inhabitants, Students and Citizens, living one amongst another, tho' wholly separate for Government and Manners; For, when former Kings of England perceived that they could not (as at Paris) be separated by a River, they thought best to disjoin them, as much as might conveniently be, by Priviledges, and whole manner of Government ; fo that there are not the fame Limits; for the University have them much larger : Nor the fame Authority of Justice or Power of Magistrates; For the Chancellour of the University, and in his Absence, the Vice-Chancellor, is not only in Place, but in all Affairs of Moment (tho' concerning the City it felf (superiour to the Mayor of the Town.

Nor are they governed by the fame kind of Laws; for all Members of the University, are subject to the Vice-Chancellour's Judicial Courts; the Proceedings of which are wholly managed according to the usage and form of the Civil Law.

The University hath, time out of mind exercised Power and Jurifdiction in all Caufes (Maim, Felony, and Freehold excepted) whereof, or wherein a priviledged Perfon is one Party; and are warranted to do fo by divers Charters, whereof fome are confirmed by Act of Parliament : and the Proceedings are according to the Course of the Civil Laws. After Witneffes have been openly produced in Court and Sworn, their Examinations are taken in Writing by the Judge and Register, and then published, that all Parties may have. Copies of them, according to the Course of the Civil Law, the High Court of Chancery and the Admiralty : And the Sentences given there, are not as fome ill affected Perfons to the Church and Universities maliciously suggest, meerly Arbitrary and grounded upon no Law, but the Will of the Judge : But in all his Sentences the Judge is governed by the Justice and Equity of the Civil and Common Law, and the Statutes of the Land, against which he neither doth nor can give Decree or Sentence.

If the Judge be thought to give an erroneous or unjuft Sentence, Writs of Error are not brought to this Court, becaufe, as was faid before, the manner of Proceedings here are not as at the Common Law; but the Party aggrieved, may either appeal or complain of a Nullity, and have Redrefs; and there are in the University appointed yearly four or five Doftors, and fome Mafters, from the Convocation and Congregation delegated by them, to hear all Complaints against any Proceedings in the Vice Chancellour's Court, and from their Judgment there lies a further Appeal to the Supreme Power in Chancery, where the Judges of the Land, and other learned Lawyers both Common and Civil, have usually Chancelloz of Drfozo.] Over the University next under the King, is placed the afore-mentioned Magistrate, called the Chancellor, who is usually one of the Highess Prelates, or of the prime Nobility, and nearess in favour with the Sovereign Prince, elected by the Students themselves in Convocation, to continue durante vitâ, whose Office is to take care of the Government of the whole University, to maintain the Liberties and Privileges thereof, to call Affemblies, to hear and determine Controversites, to call Courts, to punish Delinquents, &c.

This great Honour is enjoyed at prefent by James Duke of Ormond.

Digh=Steward.] The next in Dignity amongst the Officers of the University of Oxford, is the High-Steward, who is nominated by the Chancellor, and approved by the University, and is also durante with, whose Office is to affist the Chancellor, Vice-Chancellor, and Proctors, upon their Requests, in the Execution of their Places; also to hear and determine Capital Causes according to the Laws of the Land, and Privileges of the University, so of as the Chancellor shall require him.

This Honour is held by Henry Earl of Clarendon.

The third is the Vice-Chancellor. who is yearly nominated by the Chancellor, to be elected in Convocation, and is always the Head of fome College, and in holy Orders. His Duty is, in the Chancellor's Abfence, to do whatever almost the Chancellor might do, if he were prefent. He Licenses all Books that are Printed in the Universities Press at the Theatre; he gives License to Taverns, Orc. and receives the Rents due to the University. unlefs otherwife fpecially appointed. Moreover, he takes care, that Sermons, Lectures, Disputations, and other Exercifes be performed ; that Hereticks, Pandors, Bawds, and Whores, Gre. be expelled the University, and the Converse with Students; that the Proctors and other Officers, and publick Servants of the University, duly perform their Duty; that Courts be duly called, and Law-Suits determined without delay; in a Word, that whatever is for the Honeur and Profit of the University, or may conduce to the Advance-Gg 3

Advancement of good Literature, may be carefully obtained. The Vice-Chancellor at his Entrance into the Offices chuies four Pro-Vice-Chancellors, out of the Heads of Colleges, to one of whom he deputes his Power during his Abfence. The Prefent Vice-Chancellor is William Delauns D. D. and Prefident of St. John's College.

P2ctt025.] Fourthly, The two Proctors chosen every Year out of the feveral Colleges by turns, according to the prefent Cycle which holds till the Year 1720. These are Matters of Arts, and do affiss in the Government of the University, more particularly in the Business of the Scholastick Exercises, and taking Degrees ; in fearching after, and punishing all Violators of Statutes, or Priviledges of the University; all Night-Walkers, &c.

The University doth claim the Power of the Night-walk, and Watch, the Right and Cuftom of which is fo ancient, to strengthened by Confirmation of Parliament; and the Benefit thereof fo great to all Inhabitants, by careful Practice and Exercise of it, and the Continuance of it so absolutely necellary for the Government of the University (especially for fecuring younger Scholars against the many Temptations to Lewdneis and Loofeneis, which they ordinarily are exposed to by means of fuch Townsmen as make their Advantage out of the Youth, Vanity, and Luxury of the others) that no Man of any Civil Conversation, Strangers, Sojourner or others, except fome factious and turbulent Citizens, hath ever express'd the least diflike of, or reluctancy against it. As for such diforderly Walkers, who are of a contrary Disposition, it is used only to reduce them to Civility; and the Proctors exercise the like power over them, which the Conftables and other Magistrates in other Places are allowed to do by the Laws of the Land, to preferve the Quiet of the Place, and to punish the Misdemeanours of fuch as are diforderly.

They have also the Overfight of Weights and Measures, that fo the Students may not be wronged.

fity to make folemn Speeches, &c. The prefent Orator is William Wiat, B. D. and Master of St. Mary-Hall.

Resper of the Records.] There is the Cuftos Archivorum, or Keeper of Records, whofe Duty it is, not only to collect and keep the Charters, Privileges and Records, that concern the University, but also to be so conversant with them, as to be always ready to produce them before the Chief Officers, and to plead the Rights and Privileges of the faid University. The present Custos Archivorum is Bernard Gardiner D.D. and Warden of All-Souls College.

The Register.] Laftly, is the Register of the University, whofe Office is to register all Transactions in Convocations, Congregations, Delegacies, Or. The present Register is - Comper, M. A.

Beadles.] Besides the fore-mentioned Officers, thereare certain publick Servants of the University, called Beadles, from the High-Dutch Bitten, or the Low-Dutch Bidden, to fummon, admonish, or pray : Of these there are Six, whereof three are called Esquire Beadles, and carry large Maces of Silver gilt and wrought ; the other three are stiled Teomen Beadles, and carry large Silver Maces ungilt and plain.

Their Office is always to wait on the Vice-Chancellor in publick, doing what belongs to his Place, and at his Command to feize any Delinquent, and carry him to Prifon; to fummon any one; to publish the calling of Courts, or Convocations ; to conduct Preachers to Church, or Lecturers to School, Or. And without one of these Teomen-Beadles at least, the Vice-Chancellor never appears abroad.

The Mirger.] Upon more folemn Times and Occasions there is a seventh, that carries in his Hand a Silver Rod, and is thence called the Virger, who, with all the other fix, walk before the Vice-Chancellor, and is ready to obferve his Commands, and to wait on grand Compounders, &c.

Other publick Servants of lefs note shall be passed by.

Dzibileges.] Many if not all the Kings of England from King Henry I. have been great Favourers of Learning, and Gg4 and effeemed it their Honour to give or enlarge the Priviledges of the University.

The Bayoz] By Charter of Edward III. the Mayor of Oxford is to obey the Orders of the Vice-Chancellor, and to be in fubiection to him.

The Mayor, with the chief Burgeffes in Oxford, and alfo the High-Sheriff of Oxfordshire, every year in a folemn manner, take an Oath, given by the Vice-Chancellor, to observe and conferve the Rights and Priviledges, and Liberties of the University of Oxford.

And every year on the Day of St. Scholastica, being the 10th day of February, a certain number of the principal Burgeffes publickly and folemnly do pay each one a Penny, in token of their Submifion to the Orders and Rights of the Univerfity.

The Occasion of which Custom and Offering, was a barbarous and bloody Outrage committed by the Citizens in the Reign of Edward III. against the Persons and Goods of feveral innocent Scholars, which drew a great and just Amercement upon the Criminals; the City pretended they were not able to pay this Fine, without their utter Ruine, and did humbly pray, and at Jast obtain'd a Mitigation from the University. An Annual Payment of 100 Marks was then accepted : And this by the further Favour of the University, was changed into a small yearly Acknowledgment viz. That the Mayor and 62 fuch Townsmen as had been fworn that year to preferve the Priviledges of the University, should yearly, upon St. Scholastica's Day, repair to St. Mary's Church, and fhould then and there offer fixty three Pence, in memory of that barbarous Murther of fixty three Innocent Scholars in the Reign of King Edward as abovefaid.

No Victuals to be taken by the King's Purveyors within five Miles of Oxford, unless the King himself comes thither.

King James the First of happy Memory honoured both Universities with the Priviledges of sending each two Burgeffes to Parliament.

It is none of the least Priviledges belonging to the two Univertities, that they are subject to the Visitation or Correction of none but the King.

Part III.

By Charter of Henry the Fourth, it is left to the Choice of the Vice-Chancellor, whether any Member in the Univerfity there inhabiting, accufed for Felonv, or High-Treafon, fhall be tryed by the Laws of the Land, or by the Laws and Cuftoms of the Univerfity; though now, where Life or Limb is concerned, the Criminal is left to be tryed by the Laws of the Land.

No Students of Oxford may be fued at Common Law for Debts, Accompts, Contracts, Injuries, &c. but only in the Court of the Vice-Chancellor, who hath power to determine Caufes, to imprifon, as aforefaid; to give Corporal Punifhment, to excommunicate, to fufpend, and to banifh.

Colleges and Balls.] Anciently in Oxford, as now in Leyden (and many other Universities beyond the Seas) the Students, without any diffinction of Habit, lived in Citizens Houfes, and had Meeting-places to hear Lectures, and Difpute; After that, there were divers Houfes for Students only to live together in Society (as now in the Inns of Court, and of Chancery in London) and those places were called either Inns from the Saxon, or Hoftels from the French, and at prefent are named Halls, where every Student lives wholly upon his own Charge, until divers bountiful Patrons of Learning, in their great Wildom, thought beft to fettle for ever, plentiful Revenues in Lands and Houfes, to maintain in Diet, Cloaths and Books, fuch Students, as by Merit and Worth, fhould from time to time be chofen, and to fettle large Salaries for Professors to instruct them, and for a Head to govern them, according to certain Statutes and Ordinances made by the faid Patrons or Founders, and thefe are called Colleges; whereof the first thus endowed in Europe, were University, Baliol, and Merton Colledges in Oxford, all made Colleges in the 12th Century, altho' University-Colledge hath been reckoned a place for Students, ever fince the year 872, by the Royal Bounty of our aforefaid Saxon King Alfred, and was anciently called Magna Aula Universitatis, as fince the University-College, where were divers Professors, and all the Liberal Sciences read.

Of fuch endowed Colleges there are in Oxford eighteen; and of Halls (where, with the like Difcipline, Students live upon their own Means, only excepting fome certain Exhibitions, 458 bitions, or annual Pensions annexed to some one or two of them) there are seven. See the List of the faid Colleges and Halls, as also of their Founders and Governours, &c. at the end of this Treatife.

These Colleges have, within their own Walls, Lectures, Disputations, all Professions and Liberal Sciences read and taught; and in some of them publick Lectures for all Comers, and large Salaries for the Readers, infomuch that they seem so many compleat Universities, and are not inferiour to fome in our Neighbour Countries. Lipsus (whose Testimony among the Learned is very confiderable) faith of one College of Oxford in his time, what might be faid of some others there and in Cambridge, Non Gredo in Orbe Terrarum entra Angliam simile esse; addam, aut fuisse. Magnæ illic apes & weltigalia, & Verbo wis, Dicam unum Oxoniense Collegium (rem Inquisivi) superat wel decem nostra.

The whole number of Students in Oxford, that live upon the Revenues of the Colleges, are about 1000; and of other Students about twice as many, befides Stewards, Manciples, Butlers, Cooks, Porters, Gardeners, &c.

There were anciently in this University, before the founding of Colleges, 200 Hespitia Studiosorum, Inns, Hostels, or Halls; and as Richardus Armachanus writes, there were 30000 Students; and twenty Miles round Oxford, were by the Kings of England set apart for Provision in Victuals for this University.

The Difcipline] of these Colledges and Halls is far more exact and excellent, than in any foreign University.

Eirft, All that intend to take their firft Degree, that of Barchellors of Arts, are to take their Diet and Lodging, and have a Tutor conftantly in fome Colledge or Hall; then they are to perform all Exercises, to be fubject to all Statutes, and to the Head of the House: Next they are to be fubject to the chief Magistrate of the University, to perform publick Exercise, and to be fubject to the publick Statutes thereof; they are to fuffer themfelves to be faut up by night in their feveral Houses; they are never to be feen abroad out of their Chambers, much less out of their Colleges, without their Caps and Gowns, an excellent Order no where observed in foreign Parts, but in Salamanca, Alcala de Henares, called in Latin, Complutum, and the rest of the Universities of Spain, and in Conimbra, and Evers in Portugal. Their

Their Gowns are all to be Black, only the Sons of the higher Nobility are herein indulged, for they may wear rich flower'd filk Gowns, and all Doctors are honoured with Scarlet Robes, which anciently were allowed only to Emperors or Kings; but now in England, befides the King, all Peers in Parliament, all Doctors in the Universities, all Mayors and Governours of Cities, and all the principal Judges, are, at certain times, cloathed in Scarlet.

DEGREES.] The Degrees taken in the University are only two, of Batchellor and Master (for so they are anciently called, as well in Divinity, Law, Physick, as in the Arts) at present the Degrees in those three Professions, are called Batchellors and Doctors, only in the Arts Batchellor and Master.

The Art.] Every year at the Act, or time of compleating the Degree of Mafter, both in the three Professions and Arts (which is always the Monday after the fixth of July) there are (unless some extraordinary Occasion hinders) great Solemnities, not only for publick Exercises, but Feastings, Comedies, and a mighty Concourse of Strangers from all Parts, to their Friends and Relations, then compleating their Degrees; whereby, and by the Set-Fees, it usually costs a Doctor of Divinity, Law, or Physick, about 100 l. Sterling, and a Master of Arts 20 or 30 l. Sterling.

In these three Professions, and in the Arts, there proceed Masters or Doctors yearly, about 150; and every Lene about 200 Batchellors of Arts.

The time required by Statute for Studying in the Univerfity, before the taking of the fore-mentioned Degrees, becaufe it is much longer than what is required in any foreign Univerfity, fhall be here fet down more particularly.

Batchellozs of Arts, and Baffers of Arts.] To take the Degree of Batchellor in Arts, is required four years, and three years more to be Mafter of Arts.

The four Acrine.] Now the year is divided into four Terms; the first begins the 10th of October, and ends the 17th of December, and is called Michaelmas-Term: The fecond called Hilary, or Lent-Term, begins the 14th of January, and 460 and ends the Saturday before Palm-Sunday: The third called Easter-Term, begins the 10th day after Easter, and ends the Thursday before Whitsunday: The fourth is called Trinity-Term, beginning the Wednesday after Trinity-Sunday, and ends after the Act sooner or later, as the Vice-Chancellor and Convocations think meet.

Dottoz of Wibinity.] To take the Degree of Doctor of Divinity, the Student must necessarily first have taken the Degree of Master of Arts, and then after seven years more he is capable of being Batchellor of Divinity, and then four years is requisite before the Degree of Doctor can be had.

Docto? of Law.] To take the Degree of Doctor of Law, the more ordinary way is this: After feven years flanding in the University, and the performance of all Exercises required, a Person is capable of taking the Degree of Batchellor in that Faculty, and then in five years more of Doctor in the fame.

Or otherwise in three years after, taking the Degree of Master of Arts, he may take the Degree of Batchellor in Law, and in four years more of D. L. L. according to the Method and Time limited in taking the Degrees of Batchellor and Dottor in Physick.

Exercises.] The Exercise required for taking these Degrees, are many, and difficult enough; yet not fuch, but that they may be performed in less time by any Men of good Abilities. But it was the Wisdom of our Ancestors to to order, that before those Degrees were conferr'd upon any, and they allow'd to practile, they might first gain Judgment and Discretion, which comes with time and years; and perhaps, that those of flower Parts might by Time and Industry, make themselves capable of that Honour, as well as those of quicker Abilities.

Dagnificence of Drf020.] To fpeak now particularly of the most magnificent and stately publick Schools in Oxford, of the large Salary to each publick Professor; of the most famous Bodleian Library, that for a noble, lightfome Fabrick, number of excellent Books, choice Manuscripts, diversity of Languages, liberty of Studying, facility of finding any Book, equals, if not surpasses, most of the foreign reign Libraries; the Reader may please to take this following Account.

Part III.

The first Publick Library in Oxford, was set up in Durbam hall, (where Trinity-College now stands) by Richard of Bury, or Richard Aungerwille, who was Lord Treasurer of England, and Bishop of Durham in the time of King Edward III.

This Learned Prelate, as he tells you more at large in his Philo-biblon, Spar'd no Cofts nor Pains in getting together a great Collection of Books, in Order to which, he fearch'd most of the Monastical Libraries here in England; unlock'd their old Chefts, which had not been open'd in many a year, purchas'd all the Books which he had occasion for ; others he caufed to be transcribed for him on purpose; and besides this, got from beyond the Seas vaft quantities of foreign Manufcripts, fo that at laft, partly by Money, partly by Prefents (his Favour being fought after by Gifts in Books) his Library exceeded that of a private Perfon, and he grew follicitous how to render it useful to Learning, and to preferve those Books together which had been the great Work of his Life to collect. This he rightly suppos'd might best be done, by fetling it for ever on the University, which he did in the place above-mention'd, and appointed certain Statutes for the Government of his Library, which are also extant in the Phile-biblon.

About the Year 1367, another Library built by Thomas Cobham, Bishop of Worcester, upon the old Congregationhoule adjoyning to St. Maries Church, began to be furnish'd with Desks and Books, and was mightily encreas'd by the bounty of the Founder, King Henry IV; all his Sons, and others of the Nobles Spiritual and Temporal, till about the year 1480, this Library was brought into a new one, . which it pleas'd that most Noble Prince Humfrey Duke of Gloucefter, to erect upon the Divinity-School, that he had just before built for the use of the University, and furnish'd it with those Manuscripts which he, at any rates, got out of foreign Parts, (chiefly from Italy,) and prefented the University with, at two Donations; the Names of which Books, together with his Letters which he fent along with them, are still extant in the Archives of the University. This Library was first open'd A. D. 1480, but within 80 years more was utterly deftroy'd upon this occalion :

cafion : In the beginning of the Reign of Edr. VI eight Commillioners were appointed to Visit the University, in order to purge it clean from Popery, to establish Learning in it, and to encourage Learned Men.

These Commissioners, under pretence of rooting out Popery, Superstition and Idolatry, utterly destroy'd these two noble Libraries, and embezl'd, fold, burnt, or tore in pieces all those valuable Books, which those great Patrons of Learning had been fo diligent in procuring in every Country of Europe : Nay their fury was lo fuccessful as to the Aungervilian Library, which was the oldeft, largeft, and choicest, that we have not fo much as a Catalogue of the Books left. Nor did they reft here ; they vifited likewife the College Libraries, and we may guess at the work they made with them, by a letter still kept in the Archives, where one of them boasts, that New College Quadrangle was all cover'd with the Leaves of their torn Books, and that they had us'd Duns Scotus like a Dunce as he was, &c. not to mention their plundering the Libraries of Baliol, Merton, Lincoln Colleges, &c. The University thought fit to complain to the Government of this Barbarity and Coveroufnefs. of the Vilitors, but could not get any more by it than one fingle Book, given to the Library by John Whethamsted, the Learned Abbot of St. Alban's, wherein is contain'd part of Valerius Maximus, with the Commentaries of Dionyfius de Burgo. And to this day, there is no Book in the Bodleian Library, befides this and two more, which are certainly known to have belonged to either of the former Libraries. Nay, and the University it felf, after this general Destruction of their Books, despairing ever to enjoy any other Publick Library; thought it advisable to difpofe of the very Desks and Shelves they flood on, in the year 1555.

This was the State of things when Sir Thomas Boaley confider'd the Damage which Learning had fuffain'd, and the great Ufe that a Publick Library would be of to the Student : For as yet, tho' Printing was grown common, yet Books were fo dear and fcarce, as that an ordinary Scholar could not pretend to have in his private Study any more than those that were necessary for the performing his Exercises. Sir Thomas had all the Qualities of a Mecenar, he was an excellent Scholar himfelf, a Lover of Learning in others, and the Owner of a very plentiful Eftate. After mature deliperation.

beration, he defir'd leave of the University to furnish Duke Humfrey's Library once more, with Desks, Seats, and Books at his own Cofts and Charges : Which being gain'd he acquitted himfelf in all points beyond their Expectation. He procured Benefactions from very many of the Nobility and Gentry both in Books and Money ; he fent over Men on purpose to buy Books in France, Italy, Spain, and Germany; he perfuaded his Learned Friends to repole there their ancient Manuscripts, as in a place where they would be safe, at least. till another general Revolution : And thereupon the Learned Society of Merton College where he was bred, likewife the Dean and Chapter of Exeter, where he was born, fent in great parcels. Another parcel was given by Mr. Thomas Allen, who had faved all he could get of the remains of the University and Abbey Libraries. Other Manuscripts were given by Sir Robert Cotton, others by Sir Henry Savile, (who afterwards enlarg'd his Benefaction by his Manufcripts of St. Chryloftom's Works, from whence he publish'd his Eaton-Edition) and others from many other Benefactors. The Library was open'd on the 8th of November 1602, the Vice-Chancellor, and the whole University coming thither in their Formalities, and this day still continues to be the Vifitation day, when the Curators (who are the Vice-Chancellor, the King's Profeffors, viz. of Divinity, Law, and Phylick, of the Hebrew and Greek Tongues, with the two Prostors) do infpect the Library and call over all the Books.

Sir Thomas in a few years found his Library to encrease fo faft, that he built up another Building close to it, which made it in the shape of a Roman T, this he furnish'd with all things neceffary, and efpecially with Books; wherein he was fo diligent, that (as he wrote to Dr. Tho. James his first Library-keeper) there was not 400 Pounds worth of Books in England fit for a Library, which were not actually plac'd therein, and that he would endeavour to compais them alfo.

Nor was his Care for the future State and Prefervation of it lefs than it ought to be: For after that the University had built the Publick Schools just by the Library up two Stories high, he himfelf at his own Charge raifed a Gallery all round a ftory higher, to the intent that when the new part of the Library fhould be fill'd with Books, they might goon to furnish these Galleries also. Besides this, he made in Agreement with the Stationers Company in London, to give one Copy to the Library of every Book which they fhould Print from thence forward; which Agreement, I believe they obferv'd very well, till about the year 1640. And laftly, by his Will, he left a confiderable Effate to the Univerfity in Land and Money, for Salaries to the Officers, for keeping the Fabrick in repair, and for buying new Books. But this is now fallen miferably fhort; for by the fraud of his Executor, by the Loan of a great Sum of Money to King Charles the First in his Diffrefs, and by the Fire of London, &c. the Effate will now do little more than pay the Officers the old Salary, tho' their trouble is encreafed.

Sir Thomas died January 28, 1612. after he had made fit Statutes for the Government of the Place, &t. and they had been Confirm'd in Convocation, and he declar'd by the University to be the Founder of the Library; but with him, the Genius of the Place did not seem to fall, since there are now more than double or treble the Number of Books in it, than were there at his Death.

For foon after, viz. A. D. 1629, the then Earl of Pembroke (thro' the perfuations of Arch-Bifhop Laud) bought and gave almost all that Collection of Greek Manuscripts, which Franeisco Baroccio, a Venetian Gentleman, had with great Cost and Pains gathered together, which are effeem'd the most valuable parcel of Books that ever came into England at one time. Those which that Peer kept for his own use, being about 22 in Number, Oliver Gromwell afterwards bought and gave. Sir Thomas Roe allo, who was the English Ambassador to Constantinople, at his return presented a choice parcel of Greek Manuscripts which he bought in Turkey.

Sir Kenelm Digby prefented a great parcel of Manufcripts newly bound, which he had from Mr. Allen above-mention'd, or otherwife procur'd in his Travels.

All this while Arch-Bishop Land had fent into the East to buy up Oriental Manuscripts, as also into Germany, from whence many excellent Manuscripts were gotten from the Swedish Soldiers who had ravaged the Libraries there. And at his Infligation, A. D. 1632, the University built up another Room, contiguous to the other end of the old Library, which makes it in the shape of a Roman H. This End of the Library is truly a Noble Room, as well for the goodness of the Wooden work, as for the Value of the Books it is furnish'd with. They are placed thus; on the Gallery on the Right

Right hand, are the Baroccian Manufcripts, Digbie's, Roe's, Cromwell's, and those which were before dispers'd over the Library, but now gather'd together and marked N.E. In the Gallery on the left hand, are the Manufcripts given by Arch-Bishop Laud, at 4 or 5 Donations: They are about 1300 in Number, and Written in above 20 Languages. All thefe well bound, except those he gave at his last donarion, which was in hafte, by reason of the badness of those Times. MICY BAS DO

The remaining part of that New fide of the Library, is. mostly, taken up with the excellent Study of the Learned Mr. John Selden : Tho' tisto be lamented, that his whole Library was not given by his Executors; for the Fire of the Templadestroyed in one of their Chambers, (as I have heard) 8 Chefts full of the Registers of the Abbeys, and other Manufcripts relating to the Hiftory of England; tho' his Law-Books are ftill fafe in Lincolu's-Inn.

'Twill be too tedious here to reckon up all the greater Benefactors to this Place, tho' one more I will not pais by, Sir Tho. Fairfax, afterwards Lord Fairfax, the General to the Parliament Forces, who amongst other Manuscripts presented 160, written by the hand of Mr. Roger Dodsworth, and relating to our English History, as may be guels'd by the first Vol. of the Monasticon, which was chiefly taken from them. These Books stand in one of the new Galleries, lately fet up in the middle part of the Library. Next to them on the Right hand fland that noble parcel of Oriental Manufcripts, bought by the University of the late Dr. Huntington, who collected them in the East. On the left hand fland the Manufcripts of the Lord Hatton; and those which the University bought of Mr. Greaves. In the other Gallery stand the Oriental Manufcripts, brought from the East by Dr. Pocock, and bought by the University, together with two other parcels of Books, Written and Printed, those of Dr. Mareschal, late Rector of Lincoln-College, and those of Dr. The. Barlow, late Lord Bishop of Lincoln, who bequeathed to the Library, all fuch Books of theirs, after their deceale, as were not in the Library before. This method of giving to the Library, fince it is now become fo large, is approved by many wife Men; and there are fome now living who have taken the fame Courfe.

The World has had feveral Printed Catalogues of the Books in the Bodleian Library. That of the Printed Books Hh 466 Duble Pretent State France France which publish'd by Dr. Hyde, was in the year 1674: fince which time, there have come in fo many Thousands more, that a new Catalogue is now composing by the Learned Dr. Hudson, the present Library-keeper, which will give the World full fatisfaction in this point, and that as soon as may be. As to the Manuscripts, an Account of them also was publish'd about 4 years ago: fince when, the Univerfity has bought all the Manuscripts of the Deceased Dr. Edward Bernard, with such of his Printed Books as were fit for the Library.

Upon the whole, this Library is much larger than that of any University in Europe; Nay, it exceeds those of all the Sovereigns in Europe, (let Foreigners fay what they please) except the Emperors and the French Kings, which are both of them older by almost an hundred years. These, as does the Vatican in Rome, the Medicean at Florence, and Bessarian's at Venice, exceed the Bedleian in Greek Manuscripts; which yet out does them all in Oriental Manuscripts: and as for Printed Books, no Italian Library is so Celebrated as the Ambrosian at Millan, tho' it is much inferior to the Bodleian; as is that likewise at Wolfenbuttel, both in Manuscripts and Printed Books, tho' we thould even allow the Account given of it by Conringins.

Besides the Bodlei an Library, there are some others vested in the University, as the Savilian, by the Geometry School, and the Ashmolean by the Museum, both which are replenish'd with Manuscripts proper to their Places.

The Studious Scholar has not only the benefit of the above-mention'd Libraries; but of the Infpection of two large Collections of Coins, one in the Mulaum, and the other in the Galleries of the Bodleian Library, which is the most confiderable, and whereof great part was given by Arch-Bishop Laud. These Galleries are replenished with the Pictures of the Founders of the Colleges, and of other Learned Men: And down below, by the Theater, is a great Collection of ancient Inferiptions and Marbles, most of them formerly part of the Arundellian Collection; the reft given fince by Mr. Selden, and Sir George Wheeler.

But as if all these Books were not sufficient for the Studious; and, in order to keep the Scholars as much within doors as possible, the University has encouraged Private Libraries, whereof every College has one, as also fome of the Hails. Amongst the test, those of Magdalen, Corpus Christi, Merton, Merton, Balliol, St. Johns, and New College, excel both in Manufcripts and Printed Books; Lincoln, Jefus, and Univerfity Colleges have leffer Libraries of both Kinds: Chrift-Church, Trinity, and Queens, confift moftly of Printed Books: The Cafe of which laft mention'd Library, is a flately Fabrick lately erected, and the Infide almost fill'd with the Books of the old Library, and the Benetactions of Dr. Barlow, late Bifhop of Lincoln, Sir Joleph Williamfon, and of Dr. Timothy Halton, the worthy Provost of the College, by whose Care and Management, this College has been of late years exceedingly advanced. Belides these Libraries, every Student has his own Study, better furnish'd, generally ipeaking, than in other Universities; and fome of the Heads of the University have Studies compleat in their feveral kinds.

Hheatre.] To speak of the curious Architecture, and vast Charge of the new Theatre, the Model whereof was contriv'd by the most ingenious Sir Christopher Wren, at the sole Cost and Charges of the most Reverend Father in God, Gilbert, the late Archbishop of Canterbury, for the use of Scholastick Exercises,

To speak of the beautiful solid Stone Buildings, Chappels, Halls, large Revenues, admirable Discipline of several Colleges, excellent Accommodation for young Noblemen and Gentlemen, Helps and Allowances for poor Scholars, &c. wou'd require another Volume; only of the Physick-Garden take this short Account.

Among the feveral Noble Structures and great Conveniencies of Learning, wherewith this famous University is adorned, this of the Physick-Garden, commodiously placed by the River Charwell, claims not the least Place; founded, built, and the Donation thereof made to the University in the Year 1632, by the Munificent Benefaction of the Right Honourable Henry Danvers, Earl of Danby, then living at his House at Cornbury; who purchasing Five Acres of Ground, South of St. Mary Magdalen's Colledge, thereon erected, about the Square thereof, most flately Walls and Gates, which Walls are 14 Foot high, of the best squared and Polish'd Stone, the like not to be elsewhere seen; and one Gate thereof to the Expence of 5 or 600 I. on the Front of which is this Infeription to be seen,

And Endow'd the fame with an Annual Revenue to perpetuity, for the Maintenance and keeping of the fame, and its great Variety and Plants, whereof it now contains many Thousands, for the Use and Honour of the University ; ferving not only for Ornament and Delight, and the pleafant Walking and Diversion of the Academical Students, and of all Strangers and Travellers; but of great Ufe allo, as is eafily found among all Perfons, defirous to improve their Botanical Inclinations and Studies; and for the pleafant Contemplation and Experience of Vigetative Philolophy, for which here is supposed to be as good Convenience as in any place of Europe (if not the best) as also for the Service of all Medicinal Practitioners, Supplying the Phylicians, Apothecaries, and who elfe shall have occasion for things of that Nature, with what is right and true, fresh and good, for the Service and Life of Man.

The Care of this Garden is now committed by the University to that skilful Botanist, Mr. Jacob Bohart, who has carried on the Universal Herbal, begun by the Learned Dr. Merison deceased.

Also the newly creeted Mulaum in Oxford cannot well be passed over without some brief Account thereof.

The MUS ÆUM, a large and stately Pile of squared Stone, was built at the Charge of the University, who found such a Building necessary, in order to the promoting and carrying on with greater Ease and Success, several Parts of uleful and curious Learning, for which it is excellently well contrived and design'd.

It borders upon the Weff End of the Theatre, having a very magnificent Portal on that Side, fuffained by Pillars of the Corinthian Order, with feveral Curious Frizes and other Artificial Embellifhments; the Front about 65 Foot, is to the Street, Northward, where is this Infeription over the Entrance in Gilt Characters, Masseum Askinelennam, Schola Naturalis Historia, Officina Chymica; The first Foundation was laid on the 14th of April, 1679, and it was happily finished on the 20th of March, 1683. at which time a tich and noble Part III.

ble Collection of Curiofities was prefented to the Univerfity by that excellent and publick-fpirited Gentleman, Elias Alhmole, Efq; a Perfon fo well known in the World, that he needs no farther Elogium in this fbort Narrative; and the fame Day there depolited, and afterwards digefted, and put into a juft Series and Order, by the great Care and Diligence of the Learn'd Robert Plott, Doctor of Laws, who, at the worthy Donor's Requeft, was entrufted with the Cuftody of the Museum, as is now the Learned Edward Lhwyd M. A.

Acceffions are continually made to the Musaum, by feveral worthy Perfons, as Dr. Robert Huntington, who hath given Hicroglyphicks, and other Ægyptian Antiquities. Mr. Aaron Goodyear, to whofe generous Favour they owe there an intire Mummy; and the eminently Learned Martin Lister, Dr. of Physick, who has prefented the University with a large Cabinet of Natural Rarities of his own Collection, and of feveral Roman Antiquities, as Altars, Medals, Lamps, &c. found here in England; fo that it is justly believ'd, that in a few Years it will be one of the most famous Repositoties in Europe.

OF CAMBRIDGE.

The University of Cambridge, in some few Particulars, differs from that of Oxford.

"Clife: Chancelloz.] This high Office is chosen every Year, on the 3d of November, by the Senate, out of two Perfons nominated by the Heads of the feveral Colleges and Halls.

Here note, That the Halls at Cambridge are endow'd and priviledged as the Colleges, and differ only in Name.

Diotozs.] The Two Proctors are chosen every Year, as at Oxford, according to the Circle of Colleges and Halls.

There are chosen after the same manner Two called Taxers, who with the Proctors, have care of Weights and Meafures, as Clerks of the Market.

Divileges.] This University, for the Encouragement of Students, hath also divers Priviledges, Rights and Liberties, granted by feveral Kings of England, which every Michaelmas day the Mayor of the Town of Cambridge, at the Entrance into his Office, takes a folemn Oath before the Vice-Chancellor, to observe and conferve, according to the purport of the faid Grants.

The Professors of Divinity, Law, Physick, and Mathematicks, are oblig'd by Statute, under a Penalty, to read four Days in every Week in Term-time.

As every Profettor is obliged to read publickly in the Schools, every Week in Term, to the Students in their feveral Faculties; fo thefe also are obliged to attend at their Lectures; and either of them, for every Omiffion, are liable to a pecuniary Mult: The Regime Profetfors of Divinity, Law, and Phylick, are obliged to moderate at every Doctors and Batchellors A& in their feveral Faculties, and to determine upon the Questions, The other Profetfors, as Greek, Hebrew,

The Exercise required for every Degree.

LInft, 'tis required of every one that takes the Degree of Batchellor of Arts, that he be Refident in the Univerfity twelve Terms, and his last Year keep two Philosophy Acts (i. e.) that he defend three Questions in Natural Phil. Math. or Ethicks, and answer the Objections of three feveral Opponents at two feveral times; and that he alio Oppose three times. After which he is to be examin'd by the Mafter and Fellows of his College, who, (if they find no Objection against him) give him leave to feek his Degree in the Schools ; where he is to fit three Days, and to be examin'd by two Mafters of Art, who are appointed by the Univerfity for that purpose; and by any other Regent that will take the Trouble upon him. After which, he puts up a Petition to the Senate, That he may be admitted to the faid Degree, which is read over three times in the Capat Senatus, once in the Non-Regent-House, and once in the Regent-Houle; and if the faid Petition be allow'd of by all, he is admitted to his Degree by the Vice Chancellor.

No Man can be admitted to the Degree of Master of Arts, till three Years after he has taken the Degree of Barchellor of Arts, during which time he is obliged three feveral times to maintain two Philosophical Questions in the publick Schools, and to answer such Objections as shall be urg'd against them by a Master of Arts; He must likewife keep two Acts in the Batchellors Schools, and Declaim once : When this is done, and three Years expir'd, he must first have the Confent of the Mafter, and major part of the Fellows of his College (which is requisite to all Degrees) and then visit every Doctor and Regent that is Resident in the University; then put up a Petition to the Senate, which is read at two feveral Congregations to the Caput Senat. Regents, and Non-Regents; afterwards (if it be not rejected) he is admitted to the Degree of Master of Arts, which is compleated on the first Tuesday in July.

It is required, that a Man be feven Years Master of Arts, before he takes the Degree of Batchellor of Divinity; in order Hh4 Unable to display this page

The Exercises perform'd every Term, are,

Every Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, in Term-time, or at least, within a little after the beginning of the Term, there are Philosophical Disputations in the Sophisters Schools, from one to three in the Afternoon.

Every Wednesday and Friday there are publick Disputations in the Batchellors of Arts Schools, upon some Philosophical or Political Questions; and Declamations in the same place upon Saturdays; all perform'd by Senior Batchellors (i. e) those of the third Year.

Every Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, between the hours of 9 and 11 in the Morning are held Philosophical Disputations, between a Master and Batchellor of Arts.

Every fecond Thursday in Term is held a publick Theological Disputation, in the Divinity-Schools, from 1 to 4 in the Afternoon, between a Master of Arts of fome considerable standing, who is respondent, and three others who oppose him.

The fixth Ibursday in every Term a Batchellor of Law, or Master of Arts, professing the Civil-Law, is obliged to keep a Law-Att, responding to two Opponents.

Publick Difputations in Phyfick are performed in like manner the ninth Thursday in every Term.

Note, That besides these Exercises required by Statutes, there are several others performed after the same manner, by those that take degrees in the several Faculties.

Befides all this, there is Exercife performed every day in Term-time, either by the Fellows, or the Schollars of every particular College in their refpective Colleges.

Exercise performed at a publick Commencement.

The first day (which is always the Monday before the first Tuesday in July) is kept a Divinity-Ast, by a Dostor in that Faculty, who is opposed by several Heads of Colleges and Dostors of the same Faculty, who are Gremials, the Vice-Chancellor, or the Regius Professor moderating; which faid Disputations continue from 8 to 11 in the morning-From 1 to 3 the same day is kept a Philosoph. The Merme.] In Cambridge the Lent-Term begins the 13th of January, and ends the Friday before Palm-Sunday; Easter-Term begins the Wednelday after Easter Week, and ends the Week before Whitfuntide: Trinity-Term they have none at Cambridge, for from Easter to the Commencement, is but one Term with them. Michaelmas-Term begins the 10th of October, and ends the 16th of December.

Commencement.] The first Tuesday of July is always Dies Comitiorum, there called the Commencement; wherein the Masters of Arts, and the Dostors of all Faculties compleat their Degrees respectively, and the Batchellors of Arts do theirs in Lent, beginning at Ash-Wednesday.

As to that part of Government in this University, whereby there is put a stop to extravagant Living, the Vice-Chancellor fometimes visits the Taverns and other publick Houses in his own Person; but the Proctors do it very frequently, and have power not only to punish offending Scholars, by pecuniary Mulcts, or carry them to the Tolbooth at his Pleafure; but also to fine all such publick Houses as entertain Scholars at unseasonable Hours, that is after eight in Winter, or nine in Summer; by which time they ought to be all in their respective Colleges.

For at those times the Gates are lock'd; and the Dean of each College visits every particular Chamber in the fame, to fee if any Scholars be wanting, that there may be care taken both for discovering and reforming all forts of Disorders.

Cambridge lies in 52 Degrees, and 20 Minutes Northern Latitude.

Both these Universities are placed two easie days Journey from the Capital City of London, and about the same distance from each other,

Thefe are the two glorious Fountains of Learning, to the Fame whereof, Foreigners come on Pilgrimage to offer up Honour and Admiration; and yet even thefe had lately been like to be dried up by the over-heated Zeal of fome ignorant Fanaticks.

These are the chiefest Store-houses of letter'd Men, which fend forth yearly a great number of Divines, Civilians, Phyficians, &c. to serve all Parts of this Kingdom.

Libraries.] After what has been faid of the Oxford Libraries, it may not be amils to fay fomething concerning those in this famous University, so far as is confistent with our intended Brevity. Every College and Hall in Cambridge has its Library like as in Oxford, and excelling in the same kinds of Books, Manuscript and Printed. We need not tell over the Names of each College in order to enumerate their Libraries, tho' some of them well deferve to be particularly mention'd, viz.

Trinity-College-Libzary.] Which is the most magnificent Building of its kind, in the three Kingdoms; and is daily more and more furnish'd with variety of good Books; not to mention the great number of choice Manuscripts which are here preferv'd; amongst which, the Codex Holmiens, containing a great part of Origen's Works in Greek; the Epistles of St: Paul, suppos'd to be writ by Venerable Bede; Eadwin's Pfalterium Triplex (being the most valuable Latin Pfalter in England) ought to be particularly mention'd. But in

Bennet-College-Libzary] There is a most valuable Collection of Manuscripts, and ancient Printed Books, given by Matthew Parker Lord Archbishop of Canterbury in the time of R Elizabeth. These Books were collected out of the Remains of the old Abbey-Libraries, and from those belonging to Colleges and Cathedral-Churches, and do chiefly relate to the History of England, as may easily be seen by the continual References which those that write on this Subject, do make to it: Not that this Collection is destitute of Writings, or most valuable, Books in other Faculties; as witness the Four Gospels, and Juveness, both in Capital Letters, Claudins Presbyter in Matthaum, D. Ambrosii Hexaëmeron, & Origenes in Lucam, both in Lombardic Letters, besides Numbers of other scarce Manuscripts. These, together with fome other Manufcripts formerly belonging to the learned Daniel Rogersius, are contained in the Inner Library: Besides which, there is another in this College, replenish'd with Books of both Sorts, Written and Printed. I had almost forgotten to fay, that Archbishop Parker took a particular Care to collect all the Saxon Manufcripts, he could : And 'ris not unlikely, that he had the greatest Collection of them, that was ever made by any one Man. For now in this very Library, there is the fecond or the third best Collection of them that is to be had; the other two being in the Cottonian and Bodleian Libraries. And in both these, especially in the former, many of them are known to have belong'd formerly to this most worthy Prelate; and perhaps might have been bought amongst Mr. Josceline's Books, who was the Archbishops Secretary. In Trinity-College-Library, there is another parcel of Saxon Manuscripts given by Mr. John Parker, Son to the Atchbishop: And his Grace himself, by Will, did bequeath another large Parcel of Saxon and other Manufcripts to the University Libzary,] Which are there very fafely preferv'd. Amongst these, there is a Gregories Pastoral Care in Saxon, admirably well written, and a large part of the Septuagint in very ancient Greek Letters. This Library feems to contain about 14000 Books in all: Amongst which are many very curious, as the worthy Library-keeper, the Reverend Mr. John Laughton of Trinity-Gollege does very well know. Amongst these, may be reckon'd the ancient Monuments of the Church of the Waldenfes or Vaudois, brought by Sir Samuel Moreland from Piedmout, and given here; as alfo that most ancient Copy of the Four Golpels and the Acts, taken out of the Monastery of St. Irenaus at Lyons, A. D. 1562. and prefented to this University by Theodore, Beza, A. D. 1581. This Book is written in Greek and Latin, not long after the Alexandrian Manufcript in her Majesty's Library; and tho' it differs in some places from the newer Copies, it is faid to agree very well with Ireneus and other ancient Beinen eine to tre Nor cher chie Collection is field

-Ros I W mange, or oroff valuable, Bookt in other Front-

St. John's College Libzary] was chiefly founded by Archbishop Williams, Keeper of the Great Seal of England in King Jame's the First's time, and a Man of a Noble Spirit. The Cafe is very large and beautiful, and the Collection as to Printed Books, the second or third in Cambridge. It has lately received a great Augmentation by the Accession of the Library of Dr. Gunning late Bishop of Ely, who gave it to that College. And so also Emanuel College-Libzary] has lately received another valuable Collection of curious Books by the Deceafe of Archbishop Sancroft. And here the Reader may please to obferve, that all the Libraries in Oxford are Studying Libraries; and those of Cambridge (except that of Kings-College) are Lending Libraries. That is, He that is qualifi'd may borrow out of it any Book that he wants. This now feems to be the best way of disposing Libraries, for thereby there is much Room gain'd, as is feen in the University and St. John's-College-Libraries. You are not diffurb'd by any other Students molefting you, as often happens when the Books are chain'd : Nor does chaining Books entirely answer the End; becaufe Careless Persons will clap a chain'd Book into the wrong place? and a Thief will cut off the Book notwithstanding the Chain, which also spoils the Cover tho it happens to preferve the Book.

In Cambridge alfo, the Scholars have Libraries furnish'd according to their Abilities and Inclination ; amongst which, those of the Reverend and Learned Dr. Covell Mafter of Christ's-College, and Mr. Laughton above-mention'd, deferve a peculiar Encomium, in regard to the many tare Manuscripts, and Coins, therein contained.

Cottonian Library.] Since fo much has been faid about Libraries, perhaps the curious Reader may expect in The Prelent State of England, fome fort of Account of the Cottonian Library, especially fince the Kingdom has put fo high a value upon it, as to make an Act of Parliament for the fecuring it to the Publick, and to prevent its being alienated from the Family. For this Reafon, I have taken the Liberty of inferting this flort Account of it, and of the Noble Founder.

Sir Robert Cotton (to whose diligent Care, Pains ond Charges we are beholden for it) was born A. D. 1570. and deceas'd A. D. 1631. By his last Will bequeating his great Ellate,

Part III.

Eftate, and therewith his invaluable Library, (which he had been Forty Years in collecting) to his Son Sir Thomas Cotton, and after his Difcease, to his Grandson, the late Sir John Cotton, who was then about ten Years old.

Sir Robers in his Life-time fix'd it at his Houfe in Weftminster, by Westminster-Hall, which was formerly part of the Palace of the Kings of England; and the Library stands in that very place, which is thought to have been the private Oratory of King Edward the Confessor, the lass (as I may to fay) of the English-Saxon Kings of the old Royal Line. And perhaps, it might therefore by Sir Robert, be thought a proper Place for the Prefervation of so many of their Authentic and Genuine Remains, as he had most fortunately gathered together.

The Library feems to have arrived almost at its Heighth during the Life of the Founder: For tho' fome few Books have been fince given thereunto by particular Gentlemen in Token of their Gratitude for the U/e they have made of it; and fome Books long wanting have been lately recovered : yet these are but few, and confidering the many Vacancier, (occasion'd, as 'tis thought, by lending the Books to those who were not sufficiently careful to see them fafely reflored) the Number is reputed to be much the same, with what it was before.

They are all Manufcripts, and as they are now Bound up together, are not above a Thoufund. The Subject chiefly aimed at by Sir Robert, was the Hiftory of England, whereunto he was naturally inclin'd, and in which he came to be a great Mafter; and confequently his Collections lean'd principally that way; tho' he feems to have been ready either to buy or receive any other Curiofity which had no Relation to his main Defign.

'Tis certain that Sir Robert had Opportunities of enlarging his Library, if he would have taken in other Faculties, Arts, and Sciences, which he feems to have fludioufly declin'd. Inflances of this might be given of his preferving fome Fragment, Leaf or Leaves of a Manufcript, and rejecting the remaining part of the Book; and by his accepting or buying up, in a parcel, those compos'd by English Writers, or relating to English Affairs, and refusing the reft.

wet we and housiders for it) was been A. D. 1570, and de-

By his continual Pursuit of this his First Design, he gathered together a most prodigious Collection ; nay, ic feem'd as if Things had fallen out on purpose to enrich his Library. He lived at a Time when there was many Noble Books yet remaining in Private Hands, which had been taken from the Monasteries at their Diffolution, and from our Universities and Colleges, &c. at their Visitation. He liv'd at a Time when divers Studious and Learned Men died, who had made it their chief Bufinels to fcrape up the fhatter'd Remains of our Monaffical Libraries and either by Legacy, or Purchafe, he became Mafter of all which he thought valuable, in their Studies. By this means he faved to many Books; Charters, &c. which had formerly been fearched out of Holes and Corners by the famous Josceline, Noel, Allen, Lambard, Bowyer, Elfing, Camden, and very many others. And as his Intent was publickly known, fo those who sought after his Favour, (as well as his Money) knew no better way of obtaining it, than by bringing unto him fome or other Piece of Antiquity.

His Collections being (by many confiderable Accelfions) grown very numerous, he confectates it to Pofterity in the Place I mention'd before, having newly repair'd it, and taken fufficient Precautions against Fire, which has hitherto been the common Destroyer of almost all the celebrated Libraries of former Ages. The Books are not fet out for Ostentation or a Pompous Shew, but so put together as to be of greatest Use to the Student : And very many Tracts being bound up in one Cover, the Vasue of his Books increas'd, as he lessen'd the number of his Volumes.

I have before faid that his main Defign was the Hiftory of England, but in relation to the whole, his Books may be ranked under these Heads.

I. Histories and Chronicles written on that Subject Ex Professo, together with other shorter Annals which ferv'd as Attendants on larger Pieces.

II. Register-Books of the Monasteries, with their Histories, Annals, Benefaction-Books, and infinite other Matters.

III. Original Charters and Inftruments of our Kings, Queens, Bishops, Nobility, &c.

IV. Original Letters of our Kings, Queens, Poyal Family, of other Sovereign Princes, our Nobility, Eminent Scholars, Oc.

V. Original Instructions to Ambassadors, &c. Petitions. Treaties, and Transactions between England and those other Kingdoms and Republicks it had any Concerns with.

VI. Originals and Transcripts of our public Records.

VII. Genealogies and other Treatifes and Memoirs relating to all the Bufinels of Heraldry, Church Hiftory of England from the beginning of Christianity here, to the time of King James I. especially about the time of the Diffolution of Abbeys and the Reformation by King Henry VIII. and Edward VI.

VIII. Remains of the Learning and Piety of our Saxon Anceftors, in Books as well Saxon as Latin. In Saxon are many Chronicles of England, Laws of the Saxon Kings, Books of Homiles, Pieces of the Holy Scripture, Prayers, Translations of many Latin Authors, Transcripts of Charters, and many Originals, Glossaries, &c. of all which, (and of those in our other English Libraries) a new Catalogue will be foon publish'd. In Latin are divers ancient and curious Manufcripts, fuch as Books of the Holy Scripture, Prayer-books, &c. belonging to our Kings, or other eminent Perfonages, Canons of the Councils, ancient Rituals, Lives and Paffions of the Saints, Orc.

IX. Divers excellent Manufcript Hiftories of other Nations either in Latin, or in their respective Languages.

X. Other Books curious in themfelves, tho' not appertaining to the History or Affairs of England : Such as the Fragments of the Gofpels in Greek, written all with Letters of Gold and Silver, which are thought to be the oldest pieces of Writing in England. The Book of Genefis in Greek being reputed to be the oldest and most magnificent Copy in the World. The Samaritan Pentateuch, and many other Curious Oriental Authors.

XI. Great Numbers of Original Bulls, Original and Valuable Charters, Grants, Gre. of the ancient and Modern Kings, Bifhops, and Nobility of England, and of most other Countreys in Europe, &c. lying in the Drawers, and not fix'd into any Books, as hundreds of others are. of good B capot 9

Sir Robert Cotton had also a due regard to Decency in. the Difpolition of his Manufcripts ; placing the Head of one of the twelve Roman Calars over every Sett of Shelves, which gives the Name to that Sett, adding the Heads of Cleopatra and Faustina, after Domitian : So that there are fourteen fuch Setts. Belides the Heads, (which feem to be copied from the Antique Statues)'tis adorn'd with Pictures, viz. Sir Robert Cotton, Sir Thomas, and Sir John; Judge Dodderidge, Sir Henry Spelman, Mr. Tho. Allen, John Buchanan, Mr. Cambden, Sir William Dugdale, Dr. Tho. James, Mr. William Lambard, and Mr. John Speed, not to mention the old Altar-piece anciently belonging to St. Bartholomens Hofpital; with other ancient and fome choice Pictures in the Houfe.

To make his Library a Compleat Magazine of Antiquities, Sir Robert procured also many of the Roman Lares and Tutelar Gods, Weapons, &c. and a very fine Set of Coins, Roman, British and Saxon ; a guess at which may be made by a view of Speeds Chronicle, wherein all the Coins and Seals were cut from the Originals still extant in this small but Noble Library.

CHAP. XIII.

Of the rest of her Majesty's Kingdoms, and Dominions, &c.

Scotland.] A Fter England, the ancient Kingdom of Scotland hath the Precedence, the chief Governour, whereof under her Majesty, is the Lord High-Commissioner of Scotland, who, by that Title, enjoys the ordinary Power and Authority of a Vice-Roy, and is at prefent his Grace the Duke of Queensberry.

The next is the Kingdom of Ireland; the Governour whereof is now the most Noble James Duke of Ormond, His Grace, who, by the Title of Lord Lieutenant, is as Vice-Roy of Ireland.

Other Dominions belong to the Queen of England, which either for number of People, or large extent, may as well deferve Ji deferve the Name of Kingdoms, as divers Countries, which under the King of Spain, have long enjoyed that Title, as New-England, Virginia, Jamaica, &cc. but our Kings have never affected those swelling Titles.

The Present State

Of Jerfey and Guernfey.

THE next and nearest are her Majesty's two small Islands of Jersey and Guernsey, lying near the Coast of France, with two lesser, Alderney and Serke, being the only Remains of the Dukedom of Normandy, now in her Majesty's Posfession; in both of which generally is still retain'd the French Tongue.

Herfey.] Jerfey, the biggeft of the two, tho' not above 40 Miles in circumference, is a most fertile Soil, producing all kinds of Grain, and several forts of good Fruit, especially Apples, of which they make great quantities of Sider : "Tis well stock'd with Cattel, particularly Sheep, furnishing the Inhabitants with great store of fine Wooll, which employs most of the poor in making Stockings, which in time of Peace were chiefly fent over into France, their nearest Market.

Cibil Government.] For the Civil Government of this Ifland, the Principal Magistrate is the Bailiff, now Sir Charles Carteret Baronet; who is of Royal Nomination; and with 12 Jurats, chosen by the People, administers Juflice, and determines all Causes within the same; Treafon only excepted. Appeals may be brought before the Council-Board in matters of Civil Property above the value of 300 Livres Tournois.

There are here several Seigneuries or Royal Fiefs; the chief whereof is St. Ouen, belonging to the faid Sir. Charles Carteret, and therefore commonly called Monsieur de St. Ouen.

The prefent Governour is the Honourable Lieutenant General Lumley; the Lieutenant Governour, Lieutenant-Colonel Collier.

Guernstry.] The Island of Guernstry, lying about 20 Miles distant from the former, is well defended with Rocks, as that also is, and is not much less in space, but is somewhat infeinferiour in the richness of the Soil, which hath this rare Quality, that it nourishes no venemous Creature in it. Both of them are furnished with great variety of Fish. Here are ten Parishes in the Island, the first of which is St. Peter Port, which is a very convenient and fafe Harbour for Shipping; upon the Peer, which is curiously paved, is the usual Walk of the Inhabitants of the Town.

There are two Royal Fiefs or Seigneuries in this Island, held of the Crown in Fealty and Hommage, viz. Anneville, by Madam d'Anneville, Relist of Charles Andros Elq; late Lieutenant-Bailiff; and Sammares, by Sir Edmond Andros the Bailiff.

The Right Honourable Christopher Lord Viscount Hatton is her Majesty's Governour here; rhe Lieutenant-Governour is fince the late Revolution, and in time of War, there has been generally a Regiment of Foot in the two Islands, which is now that Commanded by the Honourable Colonel Henry Mordaunt.

The Civil Government is like that of Jersey, by a Bailiff, of Royal Nomination, and 12 Jurats of popular Election; and the Inhabitants have the same liberty of Appeal to the Queen and Council.
