PREFACE.

UR industrious and learned Antiquary Mr. Hearn of Oxford, has lately given us this History from the ancient Manuscripts, among his Additions to the Chronicle of Thomas Sprott; but the same being all in Latin, I have here translated it into English, for the Benefit of such as either do not understand the Latin Language, or do not take a pleasure in reading that antiquated Stile. Besides, that the Book being extraordinary scarce, by reason of the small number printed, sew or none but Subscribers can come at it, the Editor chusing that Method to oblige Antiquaries, and render his Labours the more valuable. I shall not attempt either to assert the Veracity of this Relation, nor will I go about to lessen its Reputation; I deliver it only in a different Tongue, the same as the learned Editor has transmitted it to his Readers. It would be a presumptuous Undertaking

ing to go about to decide the Controversy concerning their Antiquity between the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, that shall be left to themselves, they have both able Pens enough to plead for them. My Design is only to follow my Author; and accordingly I shall here give some short Hints of what Mr. Hearn has more fully collected from several Writers, concerning this Nicholas Cantalupe.

Hearnii, Leland in his Work de Scriptoribus, informs Sprottus, us, That Nicholas Cantalupe was of Welsh Ex-

Cantalupe, Bishop of Hereford, nothing degenerating from his Sanctity, and therefore in his Youth became a Carmelite Frier; was very studious, and particularly in Divinity, and writ in praise of his Order; as also a short History, which Leland says he had not seen, and died the 27th of September, 1441.

Bale, p. 585. Edit. fol. Adds to what has been faid above, the following Catalogue of his Works.

On the first Book of the Sentences, Lib. I. Omnià in sapientia secisti Domine.

An Encomium of his Order, Lib. I. Fratres Carmelitæ honesta conver.

Epitome of Chronicles, Lib. I. Anno ante Chrifti Incarnationem.

Appendixes to History, Lib. I. Papa Innocentius tertius confir.

Lent Sermons, Lib. I. Ecce nunc tempus acceptabile.

A Brief H story of Cambridge, Lib. I. Anno à mundi creatione 4321.

And many more.

He was Superior of his Order at Several Times in divers Places, as Cambridge, Bristol Glocester, and lastly at Northampton, where he dy'd the Day and Year as above.

Brian

Brian Twyne in his Antiquities of Oxford mentions him, but as a very fabulous Writer.

Pitts, in his English Writers, gives much the same account of him as above, with the same Catalogue of his Works.

What Vossius in his Latin Historians has concerning this Cantalupe, is no Improvement to what has been already said, and is therefore omitted, as are Mr. Selden's Reflections, as being Controversial; and Bishop Nicholson's Discourse concerning the same, in his English Historical Library. This may suffice concerning Cantalupe, and therefore I shall only add here, as much as the same Mr. Hearn in the same Place gives us of

A Speech deliver'd in Parliament by Sir SI-MONDS D'EWES, touching the Antiquity of CAMBRIDGE.

Stand up to perswade, if it may be, the de-16. p. 242. clining of the present Question, and the further Dispute of the Business. Yesterday we had long Debate about the putting out of a Word, and now we are fallen into a Dispute of putting one Word before another. I account it no Honour to Cambridge that it got the precedence by Voices at the former Committee, nor will it be any Glory to Oxford to gain it by Voices here, where we all know the multitude of Burrough Towns in the Western Part of England do fend so many worthy Members hither, that if we measure things by Number, and not by Weight, Cambridge is sure to lose it. I would therefore propound a more noble Way and Means for the Decision of the present Controverfy, than by Question: In which, if the University of Oxford, (which for my own part I do do highly Respect and Honour), shall obtain the Prize; it would be far more Glory to it, than to carry it by Multitude of Voices, which indeed can be none at all. Let us therefore dispute it by Reason, and not make an Idol of either Place; and if I shall be so convinc'd, I shall readily change my Vote, wishing we may find the same Ingenuity in the Oxford Men.

There are two principal Respects besides others, in which these samous Universities may claim Precedence each of other.

First, In respect of their Being, as they were Places of Note in the elder Ages.

Secondly, As they were ancient Nurseries and Seed-Plots of Learning.

If I do not therefore prove that Cambridge was a renowned City at least 500 Years before there was a House of Oxford standing, and whilst brute Beasts fed, and Corn was sown on that Place, where that City is now feated; And that Cambridge was a Nursery of Learning before Oxford was known to have a Grammar-School in it, I will yield up the Bucklers. I should lose time to reckon up the vain Allegations produc'd for the Antiquity of Oxford by Twyne, and of Cambridge by Cains; I should but repeat Deliria senum, for I account the most of that they have publish'd in print to be no better. But I find by Authorities, without exception, that in the ancient Catalogue of the Cities of Britain, Cambridge is the ninth in Number, where London itself is but the eleventh; and who would have thought that ever Oxford should have contended for Precedence with Cambridge, which London gave it above 1200 Years fince? This I find in Gildas Albanius's British History, who dy'd about the Year 520, being the ancientest Domestick Monument we have

p. 60. And in a Saxon anonymous Story, written in Latin, touching the Britains and Saxons, p. 39, who said of himself, that he lived in the Days of Penda, King of the Mercians, in the 10th Year of his Reign, and that he knew him well, which falls out to be near upon the Year 620. And lastly, I find the Catalogue of the said British Cities, with some little Variation, to be set down in Nennius his Latin Story of Britain, p. 38. and he wrote the same, as he says of himself, in the Year 880. They all call it Cairgrant, the word Cair, in the old Celtick Tongue, fignifying a City.

These three Stories are exotick and rare Monuments remaining; yet only in ancient Manuscripts amongst us, not known to many; but the Authority of them is irrefragable, and without exception. The best and most ancient Copies that I have feen of Gildas Albanius and Nennius, remain in the University Library of Cambridge, being those I have vouch'd, and the Saxon anonymous, in a Library here near us. This Cairgrant is not only expounded by Alfred of Beverley to fignify Cambridge, but also by William de Ramsey, Abbot of Croyland, in his Manuscript Story of the Life of Guthlanus, ignorantly in those elder Days reputed a Saint. The faid William goes further, and fays, it was fo call'd à Granta flumine. This Place remain'd still a City of Fame and Repute a long time, under the Reign of the English Saxons, and is call'd in divers of the old Saxon manuscript Annals, Granteceaster. And notwithstanding the great Devastations it suffer'd, with other Places, by reason of the Danish Incursions, yet in the first Tome or Volume of the Book of DOMESDEI (for now I come to cite Record) it appears to have been a Place of confiderable moment, moment having in it Decem custodias, and a Castle of great Strength and Extent; and so I have done with Cambridge as a renowned Place.

And now I come to speak of it, as it hath been a Nursery of Learning, nor will I begin higher with it than the Time of the learned Saxon Monarch, King Alfred, because I suppose no Man will question or gain-fay, but that there are sufficient Testimonies of certain Perfons that did, together in Cambridge, study the Arts and Sciences much about the Time. And it grew to be a Place so famous for Learning about the Time of William the First, the Norman, that he fent his younger Son, Henry, thither to be there instructed; who himself being afterwards King of England, by the name of Henry the First, was also sur-nam'd Beauclerk, in respect of his great and invulgar Knowledge. If I should undertake to alledge and vouch the Records and other Monuments of good Authority, which affert and prove the Increase and flourishing State of this University in the succeeding Ages, I should spend more time than our great and weighty Occasions, at this present, will permit. It shall therefore suffice to have added, That the most ancient and first endow'd College of England was Valence College in Cambridge, which after the Foundation thereof, as appears by one of our Parliament Rolls, remaining upon Record in the Tower of London, receiv'd the new Name or Appellation of Pembroke-Hall. It is in Rotu. Parliam de anno 38 H. 6. Num. 31. It appearing therefore so evidently by all that I have said, that Cambridge is in all respects the elder Sister; (which I speak not to derogate from Oxford) my humble Advice is, That we lay afide the present Question, as well to avoid Division among our selves, as to entomb all further further Emulation between the two Sisters, and that we suffer the present Bill to pass, as it is now penn'd; and the rather, because I think Oxford had the Precedence in the last Bill of this Nature that passed this House.

Having said as much as is sufficient concerning our Author Cantalupe, with the addition of the Speech above, in favour of the Antiquity and Precedence of Cambridge, it will be time to proceed to the History it self, leaving each Reader to pass his Judgment upon it, which is a Liberty every Man will claim, and has some right to: But in this, as in most other Cases, which are not Mathematical Demonstration, Nature is generally biass'd by Affection; so that as the Cantabrigian will not yield to Oxford; so the Oxonian will scarce ever be brought to give Place to Cambridge. I shall only observe, That the Bulls which Mr. Hearn has, according to his Manuscript, as I presume, presix'd before the History, I have plac'd after it.

But I will not here omit a notable Account of a Mutiny of the Inhabitants of Cambridge, against the University, as it is an Incident belonging to the History thereof, which Mr. Hearn has given us after the Bulls of Popes, in Latin, and is here exactly translated into English.

Mutiny at Cambridge against the University.

MEMORANDUM, That on Saturday next after the Feast of Corpus Christi, in the 4th Year of the Reign of King Richard the 2d. after the Conquest, the Bailiffs and Commonalty of Cambridge assembling in the Town-Hall, appointed John Granceter their Captain; and compelling him, for fear of death, to take an Oath of Fidelity in that Condition, to the same Bailiffs and Burgesses, to perform all that they design'd to attempt from thence forward; and there constituted the ajorefaid James a Burgess of the Town of Cambridge; together with his Brother Thomas Grancester. Then going to Corpus Christi College, breaking open the House and Doors, they traiterously carry'd away the Charters, Writings and Muniments, with the Jewels and other Goods of the Same College.

Item, The aforesaid Malefactors in a violent manner falling upon some Masters and Scholars of the University of Cambridge, oblig'd them under pain of Death, and of destroying their Dwellings, to renounce all Privileges granted to the said University by any of the Kings of England, after any manner what-Soever, from the beginning of the World: So that as well the Masters as Scholars aforesaid should for ever remain under the Government of the Borough. And moreover, they compell'd the aforesaid Persons, under the aforesaid Penalty, to enter into certain Bonds to pay three thousand Pounds to the Said Burgesses, in case they should for the future fall under such Obligations, for discharging and acquitting all the Burgesses of the said Town, as well towards our Lord the King, as any other Persons what soever, from all Bonds, and Obligations made on account of any late Suits or Controversities arisen between the University and the said Burgesses, and a Release of all Actions to be brought on account of the Premisses for the time to come.

Item, The aforefaid Malefactors compell'd the Doctors and Masters, for fear of Death, to give up, and deliver to them several Letters Patents, some of them of our Lord the King then reigning, which they traiterously burnt in the Market-Place. And the more to exercise their Malice, they inveterately broke the Seals of the said Letters with Axes and Clubs, and burnt and tore them. And not satisfail

fy'd with those evil Practices, they repair'd to the Church of St. Mary, and broke open the common Chest of the University, containing the Muniments, with other remarkable things relating to the University, and burnt and destroy'd the Bulls, Charters, Writings, Muniments and other Things of Note. And proceeding thence the same Day to the House of the Carmelites, they seiz'd another Chest belonging to the University.

Item, the next Sunday after the aforesaid Festival, the Mayor and Bailiss, and Commonalty of the Town, about two Hours before Midnight, caus'd the great Bell in St. Mary's Church to be rung; at the Sound whereof, they assembled in the Town-Hall, and after publick Proclamation made, they went to the House of William Wigmore, then Beadle of the University, destroy'd and burnt the same, conveying away his Goods. They also proclaim'd, That the first that could light on the said William, should kill him.

Item, Proclamation having been made by virtue of our Lord the King's Letters, That no Person from that time, under pain of Death and Forfeiture of all other things that could be forfeited, should Rise, or make Riots or Assemblies; nevertheless the Mayor and Bailiffs taking along with them very many Malefactors, after publick Proclamation made in the Grenecroste, repairing to the Priory of Bernewell, broke down the Prior's Enclosure, and with Axes cut down and carry'd away some Trees growing about the said Priory, and sacrilegiously did much Mischief there.

Item, After the same Proclamation, the aforesaid Malefactors publickly feloniously and traiterously burnt the Ordinances and Statutes of the University in the Market-Place; and an old Woman, call'd Margaret Steere, gathering the Ashes, scatter'd them in the Air, crying, Away with the Skill of the Clerks, away with it.

But

The PREFACE.

But the aforesaid Malefactors receiv'd the Punishment due to their horrid Vilanies; for some of them fled their Country and liv'd in Exile, some Suffer'd perpetual Imprisonment, and some underwent several sorts of Penalties.

Learned and much Celebrated

University of Cambridge.

N the Year of the Creation of the World 4321, the Renowned King of the Britons, Gurgunt, the Son of Belin, a Man just, prudent, and in all points a Lover of Peace and Justice, tollowing the Example of his Father, who gave Proof of his Probity in all Affairs, as well in Peace as in War, and was below'd by all the Kings and Princes of the Universe above all the Kings of Britain. Thus when his Neighbours rebell'd against him, resuming the Courage of his Ancestors, he gave bloody Battles, and reduc'd bis Enemies to due Subjection. It hapned, among other things, in the 6th Year of his Reign, that Sutlac, King of the Danes, who us'd to pay Tribute in his Father's Days, refus'd to pay the same to him, and to yield him due Subjection; which he resenting, sail'd over with a Fleet against him into Denmark, and having vanquist'd that King in great Battles, slew him, and brought his Country under the former former Toke of Subjection. Then returning home victorions by the Isles of the Orcades, he met with 30 Ships full of Men and Women: Enquiring into the Occasion thereof, their Chief, whose Name was Partholaym, came to him with his Brother Canteber, Heir to the City Cantebra in Spain; who was expell'd his Country by his People, and follow'd by his Friends and Relations. tholaym had paid his Respects to the King, he su'd to him for Peace and Pardon; and representing to him the Dangers of the Ocean, begg'd of his Bounty Some small Parcel of Britain to inhabit, to avoid any longer the odious travelling by Sea; for he said it was then an Year and an half since, being drove from his Country, he had wander'd over the Ocean with his Brother and Companions. Being inform'd that he came from Spain, and what it was that they requested, he was appear'd, and receiv'd them into his Protection. With them he sent his Mesengers into the Mand of Ireland, which at that time was destroy'd and void of Inhabitants, and which he gave to them under an yearly Tribute, appointing Partholaym their Prince, as he had been before. there afterwards increas'd, and being multiply'd, have held the Island to this very Day. But King Gurgunt kept with himself Canteber, the Brother of the chief Partholaym, a discreet and prudent Man, and of a graceful Countenance, because he had been formerly fully instructed in Learning at Athens. Continuing with him, he became so intimate with the King, that he lov'd him as a Father: Being thus highly in the King's Favour, that Monarch, with the Advice of his People, refolv'd to give him his Daughter Guenolena to Wife, and with her the Eastern Part of Britain: He overjoy'd, return'd the King thanks for so great an Honour; and going to the Lordhips bestow'd on him, discreetly built Cities and Towns in proper Places. Then observing the pleasantness ness of the Place, and being desirous to perpetuate his own Name, he built a large City on the River Cante, of his own Denomination, to which he brought Astromers and Philosophers from Athens, and appointed them Stipends. From that time the said City was in the British call'd Caergrant, from his Son Earl Grantin, who there built the Bridge, or else from the Multitude of Philosophers; but in Latin it was nam'd the City of Cante from Canteber, its Founder. But in process of Time it came to be call'd Cantebrigia [Cambridge]

King Guttelim, the Son of Gurgunt, endeavour'd to adorn this City with Buildings and Walls, where residing, his Wife Marcia, a noble Lady, learned in all Sciences, by the Advice of the Philosophers proceeding thence, enacted a certain Law, which the Britons call Marcian.

Anaximander, one of the Disciples of Thales, came to this City on Account of his Philosophy and great Skill in Astrology, where he left much Improvement in Learning to Posterity. After his Example Anaxagoras quitting his Possessions, after a long Peregrination came to Cambridge, where he writ Books, and instructed the unlearned, for which reason that City was by the People of the Country call'd the City of Scholars.

King Cassibelan, when he had taken upon him the Government of the Kingdom, bestow'd such Preheminence on this City, that any Fugitive or Criminal, desirous to acquire Learning, slying to it, was defended in the Sight of his Enemy, with Pardon, and without Molestation, Upbraiding or Affront offer'd him. For which Reason, as also on Account of the Richness of the Soil, the Serenity of the Air, the great Source of Learning, and the King's Favour, young and old, from many Parts of the Earth resorted thither, some of whom Julius Cæsar, having vanquish'd Cassibelan, carry'd away to Rome, where they afterwards flourish'd.

In process of time Maurius, King of the Britons, the Son of Arviragus, having obtain'd the Crown of the Kingdom; fortify'd the Scholars City with stately Walls and Towers, to prevent the Philosophers being disturb'd by the noise of Enemies.

At length King Lucius coming to that City, and being inform'd by the Sayings of the Poets, and the Oracles of the Prophets, of a Trine God fingle and but one, destring to know the Mystery of Faith, he writ to Pope Eleutherius, requesting to receive Christianity from him. The Holy Pope sent to him two Religions Do Fors, Faganus and Damianus, who preaching the Incarnation of Christ, baptis'd Lucius himself, and converted him to Christ. Then repairing immediately to those Philosophers of the City of Cambridge; they begging Forgiveness for their Offences, duly and effectually embracing the Faith, gave Glory with Praise to the most High; by whose Example the People on all sides being cleans'd, were re-for'd to the beavenly Kingdom.

At length, the aforesaid Doctors having sow'd the Words of Life throughout the Island, they came to Cambridge, where after many and fundry Disputations with the Philosophers, Three Thousand of them were Baptis'd in one Day, from that time perfectly believing in CHRIST, who in brotherly Love constantly preach'd the Law of Christ, showing in like manner Signs and Prodigies. But alas! Cambridge the Renowned City, the Mother of Philosophy, beautiful for Dwelling-Houses, fortify'd on all Sides with Towers, encompass'd with Walls of square Stones, was confum'd with Fire by Maximian Herculeus, Dioclesian's Prince: By whose command all the Churches in the aforesaid City, and all the Sacred and Catholick Writings that could be found, were burnt in the middle of the Market-Place. the chosen Priests, with the faithful Servants Subject and committed to them were flaughter'd in a Crowd, and and hasted to the delighful Kingdom of Heaven. Among whom, together with Alban, the Governor of the City of Verolam, suffer'd the Champion of God's Cause Amphibalus, Ruler of Cambridge, the City of Scholars.

From that time Cambridge remain'd destitute of Children till the Days of King Octavian, who by the Industry of Caradoc, Duke of Cornwall, cam'd Dwellings to be provided for the poor Students; over whom he appointed Maurice, Ddiscreet Man, and knowing in all the Liberal Sciences, to be Warden or Chief. He also granted them Privileges, lest they should be diverted from their Studies by any Affairs of the Country whatsoever.

Guytilin, Archbishop of London, that noble, wise, chast and modest Man, who invited Constantine to the Entertainment of the King of the Armorici in Britain, was a Disciple of this Maurice.

Afterwards came the Saxons, who wasting Britain by vile Treachery, did much barm to the Scholars of Cambridge. Therefore when Pelagius, a chief Doctor of that City, fell into Heresy, other faithful Persons stood up against him, for which Rea-Son the City was again ravag'd by the Favourers of Pelagius, who afferted, that Man might be fav'd without the help of Grace. And when almost all the Inhabitants of Cambridge had been destroy'd by God's Enemies, Vortumer, the Son of Vortigern, defended the Cambridge Scholars with a strong Hand; of which Number the holy Doctors Germanus and Lupus carry'd about the several Parts of the Kingdom Affistants to expel Herefies and Errors showing the way of God, and by God's Assistance they came to the City of Legions Glotomargancia, where they not only taught the Holy Scripture, but also explain'd to the Youths of the Country other Liberal Sciences by the Experience of Reason, and the Form of Nature. So that being Astronomers, and giorious form d inform'd in other Sciences, they diligently observed the Course of the Stars in the natural Way. Others foretold to the Britons, Prodigies to come; and others despising the World, and its Delights, wholly gave themselves up to God by means of Prayer and Contemplation, for the Love of the Heavenly Life. Among whom Tremerius, Dubricius and Thenotus, Eldad, David, Swithun and Damian, labour'd most continually at Cambridge in expounding the Holy Scriptures, where King Arthur had appointed Kynot, a provident Man, Rector, in the Year from the Incarnation of our Lord 529, to whom the King granted the following Privilege.

A RTHUR relying on the Regal Power receiv'd from God to all his Servants greeting. For as much as Almighty God through the Mercy of his Clemency, without any antecedent Merit, has bestow'd on me the Scepter of a King, I willingly return to him some part of what he has given. Being therefore instructed by his Grace, for the Love of the Heavenly Country, and the Health of the Souls of my Predecessors, Kings of Britain, for the Advancement of the Publick Weal of my Kingdom of Britain, and the spiritual Benefit of the Scholars continually studying at Cambridge, by the Advice and Confent of all and fingular the Prelates and Princes of the same Kingdom, with License of the Apostolick See, I by this present Writing enact and firmly Decree, that the aforesaid City of Scholars, in which hitherto my Predecessors through the Grace of the Founder have receiv'd the Brightness of Knowledge and the Light of Learning, be exempt from publick Taxes and burdensome Works, that the Doctors and Scholars there may adhere to the Study of Literature undisturb'd, as the glorious

of CAMBRIDGE.

glorious King of Britain, Lucius decreed, embracing Christianity by the Preaching of the Doctors of Cambridge. Wherefore the Scholars and Doctors of Cambridge are to remain in perpetual Tranquility, safe and defended by Regal Privileges, with their Families and Estates, from all secular Servitude, as also from Regal Taxes great or small. This Charter was written in the Year from the Incarnation of our Lord 531, on the 7th of April, in the City of London. And for the more Security, King Arthur transmitted the aforesaid Charter to Kynot, the Rector of the Schools of the aforesaid City, by his Nephew Walwan of known Integrity.

But alas! the City that was full of People, the Mother of Virtue, Cambridge, after the Death of Arthur, through the ill Practices of Warriors, the Havock of Books, and the plundering of Enemies, became as it were widow'd of her Doctors. Thus the borrid Ambrones, Picts and Saxons, whom the Traitor Mordred had invited, extirpated both the Christian Students and Citizens of Cambridge with Fire and Sword, like Wolves among Sheep, wasted the fruitful Eastern Country of Britain, destroy'd Churches, and almost extinguish'd Christianity from Sea to Sea. The Archbishops Theonot of London, and Cadeoc of York, perceiving this, fled with all that were in Orders, and the Students of Cambridge, that had surviv'd that great Danger, to the shelter of the Woods in Wales, where Christianity always flourish'd, which having been receiv'd in the Days of Pope Eleutherius had never fail'd among them. But such as were detain'd by Force remain'd at Cambridge, with Bitterness of Mind bewailing the Desolation of the venerable City.

But the aforesaid Prelates, with the other Remains of the Saints, to avoid being destroy'd by the Irruption of the Barbarians, shone most brightly, keeping the Christian Religion, and being inflam'd with the defire of the Heavenly Kingdom, and affecting a solitary Life, abandoning the World, follow'd God. From whom that most noble Abby of Bangor flourish'd among the People, in which Two Thousand One Hundred Monks persever'd in continual Praises of the Name of God.

Afterwards in the Year 522, when St. Augustin Here is an preach'd the Word of God to the Saxons, being the Year, much afflicted for the Destruction of the City of for St. Au- Cambridge, he, through the Munificence of Ethelbert King of Kent, Sent for Some Persons extraorgultine came into dinarily knowing in the liberal Sciences from the Village England in 595.

of Canterbury, whom he diligently instructed in the Faith; to whom afterwards King Ethelbert, by the Advice of Augustin, and special command of Pope Gregory, affign'd a Dwelling at Cambridge for their Probity of Life, and the Benefit of others. Thus he distributed Alms among the needy Doctors, who employ'd their Industry about restoring the Clergy and Churches, reviving the Law, and establishing Peace and Justice. Among whom Cedwel, King of the Britons, having obtain'd the Crown of the Kingdom, and being victorious over his Enemies, fortify d Towns and Cities, and repair'd the City of Canterbury, then almost destroy'd. He restor'd the lost Liberties to the Students, by whose Advice he perform'd many brave Exploits.

At that Time flourish'd at Canterbury, the famous Doctors Theodore, Adrian, Sivar, (or Sinan) Aldelin, Aidan, Paulin, Felix, and Ebert their Rector and principal Preacher.

Penda, King of the Mercians, perceiving what great Wonders God had wrought among the People by the laudable Preaching of the Scholars and Doctors of Cambridge; he went to King Cedwel, intreating that he would permit him to erect an University in the City of Criclade; and King Cedwald, at the Request of his Wife, who was Penda's Sister, granted leave. Penda, immediately by Honours and Gifts drew many from Cambridge, who were perfectly knowing in the Hebrew and Latin Tongues. But Ninety Learned Scholars remain'd at Cambridge, whom King Ceadwald honour'd, and afterwards his Son Cadwald granted them the following Privilege.

CADWALD, by the Divine Grace King of all Britain, to all the faithful of CHRIST, as well Noble as Plebeians, greeting. I notify to you, that I have granted to Almeric, Rector of the Scholars at Cambridge, and to fingular his Successors rightly ordain'd, Liberties, Rights, Customs and Privileges, above all Scholars staying there. And the Scholars and Doctors of that most celebrated Mother of Philofophy, the City of Cambridge built by Canteber, and honourably wall'd in by Earl Grantin, shall be free from all Claim, Disturbance and Scandal, as my Heirs are to me. Moreover I grant to the faid Almeric and his Vicegerents Power to try unknown as well as known Causes, as well small as great, and he shall have the same Power to punish and pardon as my Court has, excepting only the Crime of High-Treason, in the same manner as my Predecessors granted and confirm'd it to the Rectors of the same City, viz. Lucius, Asclepiodorus, Constantin, Uterpendragon, Arthur and my Father Ceadwal, by the Grace of the most High, Kings of Britain, who honouring the Inhabitants of the City of Cambridge for their Learning and Sanctity of Life, had a Respect and Love for it, when the Philosophers and Lovers of Science of all Europe came out of that principal City. Wherefore by the Authority B 2 thority of the Almighty God, Father, Son and Holy Ghost, and of the perpetual Virgin, I prohibit, and command all the Governors and prime Men of my Kingdom, and of the other Nations round about the same, that none prefume to disturb or molest the Rector of the aforesaid City, or any Scholar of whatsoever Family within the same; but that all and singular Prelates, Rulers, and Princes, as to the Scholars and their Servants, expect the Judgment of the aforefaid Rector as well in Secular as Ecclefiaffical Causes, as our Predecessors enacted. But if any one shall hereafter any way, upon any Account, endeavour to break through or make void the Testimony of this Privilege, may he be cut off from the Fellowship of Piety by the Fan of the last Judgment. Written at Cambridge, in the Year from the Incarnation of our Lord 681.

See this in Latin. Num. II.

Afterwards the Power of the Britons ceas'd throughout the Island, and the English began to reign, preserving Peace and Unity among themselves, tilling the Land, rebuilding the Towns and Cities, and giving the greatest Honour to Learned Men. Egbert, Rector of Cambridge, a Repository of all the Liberal Sciences, who succeeded Paulinus in the Bishoprick of York, had the Government of Cambridge, and there receiv'd the Degree of Doctor under that same Father. Under whom flourish'd God's Champion Alquinus in the Government of the Scholars of Cambridge, and succeeding him in the Treasures of Wisdom, writ several elegant Books concerning the Trinity, of the Reason of the Soul, of Ecclesiastical Opinions, of the Property of the agreeable Names of God, the Mirror of Little Ones; he also composed Questions concerning the Blessed Trinity, in Logick and Rhetorick; as also Flowers of Astronomy, and writ leveral.

Several Epistles of Sanctity, Cleanness and Virtue. Among which, he directed one to the Scholars of Cambridge, when he was in the Service of Charles in France, as follows.

TO the discreet Heirs of CHRIST, the Scholars of the unspotted Mother Cambridge, Alquinus, by Life a Sinner, Greeting and Glory in the Virtues of Learning. For as much as Ignorance is the Mother of Error, I earnestly intreat, that Youths among you be us'd to be present at the Praises of the supreme King, not to unearth Foxes, not to hunt Hares, let them now learn the Holy Scriptures, having obtain'd Knowledge of the Science of Truth, to the end that in their perfect Age they may Teach others. Call to mind, I befeech you, most dearly beloved, the most noble Master of our Time, Bede the Priest, Doctor of your University, under whom, by the Permission of the Divine Grace, I took the Doctor's Degree in the Year from the Incarnation of our Lord 692, what an Inclination he had to Study in his Youth, what Praise he has now among Men, and much more what Glory of Reward with God. Farewel always in Christ Jesus, by whose Grace you are affisted in Learning. Amen.

This Bede above-mention'd, at the Request of Doctor Wilfrid, by the Command of Abbat Chelfrid, being led by our Lord, came to Cambridge in the Year of the Incarnation of our Lord 682, from the Territory of the Monastery of Peter and Paul of Wirenuder, when he was only in Intention, not in Habit, a Monk, but already living under Discipline; where he profited incomparably before God and Men for himself and others, sowing the Fruits of Knowledge, writing Books, informing the Igno-B3 rant, and dispelling the Errors of many. Whose notable Sayings were profitable to our Lord Pope Sergius against the Impugners of the Church, who granted many Privileges to the Inhabitants of Cambridge, one of which is as follows.

SERGIUS, Servant to the Servants of God, &c. See it among the Latin Bulls and Charters which follow. Num. V.

This Bede, after many and fundry Disputations against the Insults of the Pagans, was in the Year from the Incarnation of our Lord 689, by the Confent of the Clergy and Prelates of the Kingdom, venerably to his Praise, rais'd to the Chair of the Elders with the Mantle of Honour and Cap of Dignity, after the manner of the Athenians. Under whom grew up in Name and Renown John Scotus, of the Welsh Race, most excellent in Wit, famous in Philosophy, and glorious in all Probity; who at the Instance of the King of France, entirely translated from the Greek into Latin the Hierarchy of Dionysius Areopagita. He likewise writ a Book of the Division of Nature, good and useful for solving the Prolixity of many Questions, the which, being allur'd by the Munificence of King Etheldred, he brought to Cambridge, with Grimbald, a Man of much Literature, and Rabanus, the Beloved of God, both excellently knowing in Holy Writ, and Liberal Sciences; who discovering Wonders there, receiv'd Authority to teach under John Scotus, by Direction of Aldelm, Master of the aforesaid City, in the Year of the Incarnation of our Lord 844.

This Grimbald, afterwards Bishop of Winchester, divers ways honour'd Cambridge. Rabanus returning to France, full fraught with Learning, was made Abbat of Fulda, and afterwards Bishop of Mentz.

After Aldelm, Fristan succeeded in the Government of the City of Cambridge, under whom commenc'd Dunwolf, fruitful in Literature; and under him stourish'd Denebert, Bristan, Bretelin, Ethelwold, and other glorious Doctors afterwards.

Master Bede also left at Cambridge Persons loving God above all Things, and duly exercising Justice; among whom were Cheulf, Maurice, Oswald, Cadoc, and others great in Grace and Virtue before God and all the People; for whose sake, both the Clergy and Religious were held in great veneration.

For it was the principal Care of these Scholars to serve God faithfully, not the World; Virtue in a particular manner, not the Belly; to adhere to divine Learning, not to Pleasure, or the Vices of miserable Senfuality.

These and others the venerable Bede, before his Departure from Cambridge, admonish'd saying; Learn, my Children, whilst I am with you; for I know not how long I shall continue; and if my Master take me away after a short time, and my Soul return to him that sent it, and permitted it to come into this Life; I have lived long. My Lord Jesus takes good Care of me in this space of Life; I desire to be dissolv'd and be with CHRIST.

Returning from Cambridge far advanc'd in Age, he departed this World fill d with the Measure of Sufficiency by the Grace of the Holy Ghost, and now lives in our Lord.

His Disciples following his Footsteps, and for saking the World and its Delights, not being destitute of Literature, they from their Hearts rejected Vanity for the holy Desire of Contemplation. living religiously.

King Edmund observing their Purity, highly honoured the Inhabitants of Cambridge, and brought B 4 thither thither the Youths of his Country to be inform'd in Virtue and Learning.

But alas! the most wicked Agents of Satan, the Pagans Hyngar and Hubba slew King Edmund, with an innumerable Multitude of the Faithful of CHRIST, in the Year from the Incarnation of our Lord 869.

Then with their execrable Armies, which were worse to meet than a Bear that has lost her Cubs, they wasted Cambridge with Fire and Rapine, covering the Land like Locusts, when there was no Defender; ravaging cruelly without Pity or Mercy they spoiled both the Doctors and the Students, who were fully instructed in the Liberal Sciences, daily meditating on the Law of God, unprovided and unarm'd, whom they crully slew, chopping off their Heads and privy Members, and inhumanly butcher'd their Servants, and the Inhabitants of the City and Country. Then about the fixth Hour of the Day (that is about Noon) by reason of this Whirlwind of Persecution, the Desolation of the Holy Places, and the Slaughter of the Saints, there happened such mighty Inundations, Thunders, Lightning and Darkness, that they could not see one another.

At length, when the raging Executioners had ceas'd, Justice looking down from Heaven, CHRIST, their Master, advantagiously trying his Disciples under the perseverance of Patience, and at the proper Season affording Comfort to his beloved on all sides, reserv'd some Doctors of Cambridge unburt; who again returning into the Island, so productive of Tyrants, spread about the various Learning they had before acquir'd at Cambridge, through the Favour, Munisicence, Advice, Protection and Industry of King Sedwal, who having got into Power, whilst Alfred lay conceal'd at Ethelyng, in the Year of our Lord 867, reviv'd the publick Schools of several Sciences at Cambridge, which he procur'd to be endow'd with many Privileges, making good Ordinances for the Students.

In process of Time, when Alfred, or Alred, supported by divine Comfort, after many Tribulations, had obtain'd the Monarchy of all England, he translated to Oxford the Scholars which Penda, King of the Mercians, had with leave of King Ceadwal, carry'd from Cambridge to Kirneflad, (rather Criclade, as above) to which Scholars he was wont to distribute Alms in three several Places. He much honour'd the Cantabrigians and Oxonians, and granted them many Privileges.

Afterwards he erected and established Grammar-Schools throughout the whole Island, and caus'd the Youth to be instructed in their Mother-Tongue. perceiving that the Scholars, whom he had convey'd to Oxford, continually apply'd themselves to the Study of the Laws, and expounded the Holy Scriptures; he appointed Grimbald their Rector, who had been Rector and Chancellor of the City of Cambridge; and he being of a very great Age, he granted him his Quietus in the Year of our Lord 898; and that noble Man Beteganus was, with the good liking of the Scholars, appointed Rector and Chancellor of Oxford in the Place of Grimbald. Edward, his Son, succeeded Alfred, who confirm'd all the Privileges granted by his Predecesfors, ratifying the Same in the following manner.

In the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ, I Edward, by the Grace of God, King of the English, being induc'd by the Divine Love, by the Direction of John, Bishop of the Apostolick See, and of Phlegmond, Archbishop of Canterbury, with the Advice of all the Princes of my Dominion, do decree, That all and singular the Privileges, either by me given, or any way granted by my Predecessors, to the Doctors and Scholars of Cambridge, as also to their Servants, where from ancient Times the Nursery

Nursery of Philosophy has continually flourish'd, and at present is the Source of Clerkship, shall continue establish'd by Law, consirm'd and ratify'd as long as the Vertigo of the Pole shall rouse the Skies by the appointed Insluence of the Stars about the Earth and Sea. Given at Grantcester, in the Year from the Incarnation of our Lord 915. Directed to the venerable Frithstan, Chancellor and Doctor of the City of Scholars Cambridge, by his Council and Heir Athelstan.

See this in Latin, NUM. III.

This Edward began to reign in the Year of our Lord 901, and dy'd in the Year 924. To whom succeeded his Son Athelstan, crown'd the same Year, who in the Chronicles is sometimes call'd Aethelstan, sometimes Adelstan, and sometimes Ethelan.

Of the most ancient Inns in that UNIVER-SITY, and Catalogues of the Heads of the several Colleges, and of the Bishops who have had their Education in it for about 100 Years past.

Written in Latin by the Reverend Mr. RICHARD PARKER, Batchelor of Divinity, and Fellow of Caius College in Cambridge, in the Year 1622, and publish'd in the same Language by the learned Antiquary Mr. RICHARD HEARN, in his Edition of Leland's Collectanea.

Now first translated into ENGLISH.

Of Mr. Richard Parker, from Dr. Fuller's History of the Worthies of England, p. 159, in Cambridgeshire.

ICHARD PARKER, for so is his Christian Name, defectively written in my Book, was born in Ely (therefore Placenaming himfelf Elienfis) was Son (as I am confident) to Master Parker, Arch Deacon of Ely, to whom that Bishoprick in the long Vacancy (after the Death of Bishop Cox) was profer'd, and by him refus'd. Our Parker was bred in, and became Fellow of Caius-College, an excellent Herauld, Historian, and Antiquary, Author of a sbort, plain, true and brief Manuscript, called Sceletos Cantabrigiensis, and yet the bare Bones thereof are flesh'd with much Matter, and hath furnished me with the Nativities of several Bishops, who were Masters of Colleges. He was a melancholly Man, neglecting all Preferment, to enjoy himself, and died in the Place of his Nativity, as I conjecture, about 1624.

CAMBRIDGE:

With an Account of their Founders, Benefactors, &c.

HERE were Hostels, Houses, HALLS, and INNS, in which the Cambridge Scholars liv'd, before the Modern Colleges were built. Tho', to fay the Truth, many of these Buildings long fince receiv'd the Nature and Form of Colleges; because they had their proper Provosts and Scholars to be maintain'd on their own Lands and Revenues, before the Name of Colleges had prevail'd, and those Students took all Scho-

lastick Degrees in each Faculty in the Univerfity, and went through all Offices and Dignities in it, as if they had been, if we may believe the ancient Statutes, of the same Academick Body. All which I will therefore infert, to the End that the Courteous Reader may have a View of the State of our University in those ancient Times, before the coming of the Normans. We have pointed out the proper Places at this Time, as Things are now, of those Inns and also of the Monasteries, as far as I could guess by the Asterisms in the Chorographical Table, publish'd in the Year 1572, by Matthew Parker, Archbishop of Canterbury, to the End that those who have, or do now walk these Streets of Cambridge, may at least see the Situation of those Houses, in which our Ancestors study'd the Sciences taught in the University, as also that no Man may seek for and scarce find Cambridge within Cambridge. These Things require a Volume. But I am not here to exceed the Rules prescrib'd my self in this short View; I must rather press forward, being oblig'd against my Will, like a Tithe-Gatherer, to fix a Mark and hasten on.

St. PETER'S-HOUSE.

TUGH DE BALSHAM, 10th Bishop of I Ely, to be reckned among the first of the Patrons of the Colleges now in being, to promote the Knowledge of good Sciences in this Place of his Diocese, for the Improvement of this University, founded this College, in the Year of our Lord 1280, and the 9th of the Reign of King Edward I. on the very Ruins, on which formerly had stood two most ancient. Hostels of Scholars, viz. in Trumpington Street, without the Gates of Cambridge, having been Monuments of the greatest Antiquity, call'd the Hostels of the Brothers of Penance, and of JESUS CHRIST; and to the End the Number of Scholars might be the greater, that Reverend Father translated the Secular Brothers of the Order of St. John Evangelist, from their Oftle in the Fewry, for so the Street is still call'd where the Jews formerly liv'd in Cambridge, to this his College, because they did not well agree with the Regulars of that Place. When he had carry'd it on about half way, in the 12th Year of King Edward I. and of our Lord 1284, two Years before his Death, and affign'd to it the Right of Patronage of Triplowe, he appointed the Bishops of Ely its nurfing Patrons; where to this Day there are maintain'd upon the old Foundation, I Provost, 14 Fellows, 2 Students in Divinity, and 8 poor Scholars. This Number may be increas'd or diminish'd according to the Yearly Revenue of the College, and the Dearness of Provisions. How it came to have the Name of St. Peter's House is not to be pass'd by in Silence, for it was fo call'd from St. Peter's Church, on whose Burial Place it was founded. As this Church lost its Name, about the Year 1352, for that of St. Mary's Church, on Account of the beautiful East End or Chancel, built, and dedicated to the ever Blessed Virgin St. Mary; this House had the like Fortune, being even in the Writings of its own Domesticks, about 50 Years after its Foundation, sometimes call'd St. Mary's College, sometimes the Hall of St. Mary of Grace, sometimes St. Mary's, and sometimes St. Peter's House. But let us return to Hugh the Founder. He gave to his Domesticks of Peterhouse the said Church of St. Peter, with all the Rights and Tithes belonging to the fame. With his last Breath, he bequeath'd 300 Marks for raifing of new Structures, with which they purchas'd a Piece of Ground on the South Side of the Church, and built a very beautiful Hall. He also gave them many Books. this this great Generosity of the said Hugh, Geoffrey Pachenham, Chancellor of the University, and all the Master's Regents, by their Decree pass'd in a full Assembly, on the 7th Day before the Calends of June, 1291, granted that there should be a solemn Congregation of all the Regents, in their Robes, Yearly, on the Vigil, or Eve of the Saints Vitus and Modeftis, after Dinner, in the Church of Peter-House, for the Soul of the Lord Hugh, who, as the Register of Peter-House reports, entirely devoted himself to the Scholars, and diligently promoted their Interest, Conveniency and Honour, with charitable Eyes, and a pious Mind, bestowing many Benefits on the Regents and poor Scholars, during his Life, and after his Death, and adorning the University with many Privileges. The Lands and Possessions of this House have been much increas'd, through the Generofity of many Benefactors. Among whom Ralph, Bishop of Norwich, gave two Messuages at Cambridge, in the Year 1290. Mr. Thomas Pacching and Mr. William Novon, the latter Rector of Hadenham, are in the Archieves reckon'd among the chiefest Benefactors. William Cavendish, once a Fellow there, gave much. The Lord Thomas de Infula, 18th Bishop of Ely, many Things, and such as serv'd for performing of the Divine Service. Mr. John Kelburne, Fellow of this House, before the Year of our Lord 1427; Mr. William Rekishawe, Fellow, and Doctor of Divinity, in 1492; Mr. Walter Lacy, Fellow and Doctor of Physick, in 1522; these three bestow'd many Ounces of wrought Plate. Mr. Robert Gilbert, Rector of Wing, in the County of Bucks, of the Diocese of Lincoln, at his Death, left 20 1. in Money. The Widow Elizabeth of Cambridge 20 Acres of Land, and Jewels; Pieces of Plate were given by Dr. Lancaster, Mr. Kuk-Mall shall, the Doctors Dunton and Carwen, once Fellows. Why should I omit John Hotham; Simon Langham, who gave the Rectory of Cherry Hinton, in the County of Cambridge; John Fordham, all of them Bishops of Ely; of whom John Fordham affigns one Cause, which mov'd him to appropriate to this House the Rectory aforesaid, because the Foundation was not then sufficient to maintain one Master and 14 Fellows; Robert Shirton, Doctor of Divinity, Warden of Pembroke-Hall, Edmund Hanson, Doctor of Divinity: These were follow'd by Simon Montacute, the 17th Bishop of Ely, who having in the Year 1338, made void the Statutes of Hugh, the Founder, and establish'd others, appropriated the Rectory of Tripelowe, in the County of Cambridge, and gave the Lands call'd Chewel in Hadenham, in the Isle of Ely; Edward, Baron North of Katlidge, in the County of Cambridge, Six Students in Divinity; Henry Wilhaw, Batchelor of Divinity, Three; the most Reverend Father John Whitgift, late Archbishop of Canterbury, added one; who being yet Rector of Teversham, in the County of Cambridge, Batchelor of Divinity, and Fellow of this House, together with Margaret Folverby, Widow of Bartholomew Folverby of Teversham, his Kinswoman, gave Four Marks a Year of their Manor of Curles in Effex, to found the Student in Divinity. Which Benefactors have been lately succeeded by the Lady Mary Ramfey of London, Widow, which most pious Woman gave a Pension of 40 l. per Annum, for the Maintenance of 2 Fellows and 4 Students in Divinity. There are besides in this House, as in all the other Colleges and Halls of this University, Three other Sorts of Students, of whom there is a great Multitude. The first Sort of them are the greater Pensioners, whom we commonly call Fellow-Commoners, most of them of Quality. The second are the lesser Pensioners, who are Dieted as Scholars, but both of them live at their own, or the Expence of their Friends. The third Kind is of the Sizars, as we call them, or Poor Scholars, who receive some small inconsiderable Matter from their Friends; but because they are with the Fellows, Scholars, and both Sorts of Penfioners in their Chambers and at Table, and serve them there, they deservedly have almost all their Meat and Drink and some other Things from them. Which threefold Sort of Scholars, besides the Foundation, we purposely omit in this and other Colleges, because their Number is uncertain and not determin'd.

Provosts of St. PETER's House.

The courteous Reader will easily pardon this Chasm, when he is inform'd, that the ancienter Archives of this House, together with the Charters, Evidences and Registers were unfortunatly destroy'd by Fire, before the Year of our Lord 1420. However we can deliver some Matters of more Moment and Antiquity from the Register of Ely, than from the Monuments of the College.

CLARE-HALL.

1326. II. HIS House, now call'd CLARE-HALL, had its first Original from Richard Badew, Chancellor of the University, Anno 1338; who being descended from the Knightly Family of the Badews, of Great Badew near Chelmsford in Esfex, added to the Lustre of his Family by his excellent Behaviour. He, with the Masters Regents, in the 19th Year of King Edward II. of our Lord 1326, purchas'd certain Houses belonging to Nicholas Thornton, Physician, whose Houses those were also, where now the great Schools are; in which a small Chapel was defign'd to pray for his Soul; in that then call'd the Miller's Street, between King's College and Clare-Hall, and call'd that Structure Univerfity-Hall; where he plac'd one Principal, and admitted none but Scholars Pensioners, who liv'd 16 Years at their own Expence, without any Foundation Revenues. But this House having been burnt down, the Lady Elizabeth Burk, Countess of Clare in Suffolk, 3d Sister and Coheir to Gilbert Clare, last Earl of Clare, Glocester and Hertford; Wife to John Burk, Lord Connaght, and Mother to William Burk, last Earl of Ulster, extended her Generosity to this distressed House; and having obtain'd License of King Henry III. entirely rebuilt, endow'd, and gave it the Name of Clare-Hall, after Walter Flaxfted, formerly Master of this Place, had, with the Consent of the aforesaid Richard Badew, and of the whole University in General, refign'd resign'd all his Right to the said Countess. This Lady's Example was afterwards follow'd, tho' not in the same Degree, by others, who increas'd the Number of the Fellows and Scholars. Among them, not to mention Richard Thaxton, Editha Green, William Ducket, and Walter Worleigh, Master Cave gave 12 Pounds a Year for the Maintenance of two Scholars. Nor was Richard Plantaginet, Duke of Glocester wanting; who having taken upon him the Crown, by the Name of Richard III. falfly eneavour'd to palliate the Exercise of his Tyranny with the specious Pretence of encouraging Learning, afferting the Right and Title of this Hall, as descended to him from his Ancestors, the Earls of Clare and Glocester, and devolv'd to him by Inheritance, in the Days of William Wilflest Warden, to the great Benefit of the College; for he increas'd the Number of the Fellows and Scholars, and ordain'd, that there should be a Warden, 12 Fellows, 4 Scholars, and 6 poorer, to be maintain'd on the Revenues of the Hall. Lastly, The most honour'd Heroe Thomas Cecil, Earl of Exeter, Councellor to King Fames, and Knight of the Garter, has been deservedly reckoned among the greatest Benefactors; having generously given to the College the Yearly Value of 108 Pounds in good Farms, for the Maintenance of 3 Fellows and 8 Scholars. The last to be nam'd, as to Time, but not as to Worth, are John Freeman of Great Billing, Esquire, and William Butcher of Ipfwich, formerly Honorary President of this Hall, our English Esculapius, the most acceptable prime Physitian to the Court, the City, the Clergy, and the Commonalty reforting to him from all Parts, to the eternal Honour of his Name, and the Admiration of future Ages. Of which two, the latter latter not only gave a Chalice of solid Go'd for the Divine Service, as a Testimony of his Christian Faith, and a stately Carpet for the Communion Table; but also lest to it by Will, two curious Flaggons, the one of Christal, the other Serpentine tipp'd with Silver, and all his Books in Folio: The other, a singular Honourer of the Muses, beslow'd 2000 Pounds for the Maintenance of 2 Fellows and 8 Scholars. Thus there are at this time maintain'd upon the College Revenues, a Master, 16 Fellows, 51 Scholars, besides the meaner Servants.

PEMBROKE-HALL.

III. THE Lady Mary de Valence, Countess of Pembroke, Baroness of Veisser and Montenact, Daughter to Guy Chastillon, Earl of St. Paul, in France, and his Wife Mary, the Daughter of John the 2d, Duke of Britany and Earl of Richmond, by his Wife Beatrix, the Daughter of King Henry III. third Wife to Audomar de Valence, Earl of Pembroke, is reported to have been the same Day, Maid, Wife and Widow; her Husband Audomar being on the Wedding-Day unfortunately kill'd in a Tilting. Being struck with the untimely Loss of her Husband, who had nevertheless solemnly appointed her his joint Executrix with others, began altogether to give her Mind to a religigious Life, and apply'd a confiderable Part of her Possessions to pious Uses, bestowing Part on Churches, part on the Poor, and Part on her faithful Servants. Among the rest, she founded Denney Monastery in Cambridgshire, in Honour, and of the Order of St. Clare, which was begun before this Hall; fill'd with an Abbess and Nuns, translated from Waterbeach, and endow'd with considerable Lands, and the Mannor of Stroud in Kent. Afterwards, about the Year of our Lord 1343, having purchas'd of Henry Stanton, a Messuage without Trumpington Gate, extending from King's Ditch to University Hostel, Mary de Valence, King Henry III. granting his License, began to found this College, and in the Year of our Lord 1347, mostly finish'd it, assign'd Lands, ordain'd Statutes for the Warden and Fellows, and left the Number of Fellows uncertain, to the Discretion of the Warden and Fellows, in Proportion to the Revenues; and that by her own Example, who having obtain'd the King's License to found 24 greater Fellowships, and fix lesser; left only fix greater and two lesser there. There were by degrees added, for the enlarging of the Situation of this College, which in a few Years was call'd Pembroke-Hall, University Hostel, and the Places call'd Knapton, Boulton and Coufing; besides the two Tenements, one of which belong'd to St. John's Hospital, and was call'd Thomas's Hostel, and the other to the Chantry of the lesser Church of St. Mary. But to show how fuccessfully this House increas'd, it soon obtain'd a Bull of Pope Clement the 6th, for appropriating three or four Rectories to the College. Afterwards, we understand, that there were for ever annex'd to the Use of this Hall, the Church of Saxtborpe, in the Diocese of Norwich, by Ralph Stratford, Bishop of London, in the Year 1352; the Rectory of Tilney in the same Diocese, by Michael Norbrooke, Bishop of London, Anno 1360, and the Rectory of Warefley in Huntingdonshire, by Simon Sudbury, Bishop of London, in 1362, the Patronage whereof the faid said Mary had before conferr'd on it. She also endow'd this House with other Revenues at Rapindon, Wissenden and Buruell, besides Plate, Jewels, and other Gifts she bestow'd on it. King Henry VI. either follow'd the Example of, or exceeded this Foundress; for he made the Foundation almost three times larger by the Donation of the Rectory of Sohum, with the Mannor adjoyning, the Priory and Rectory of Lynton, with the Chapel of St. Margaret at Iselham the Lesser. This Hall being call'd, that King's adoptive Daughter, King's College being reputed his true and first begotten Daughter. The King was follow'd by Edward Storey, Fellow, afterwards Warden of Michael's House; and at the same Time for 9 Years Bishop of Carlifle, and Chancellor of the University, afterwards Bishop of Chichester, Donor of the Lands of Long Stanton and Heselingfield: Gerrard Skipwith, Batchelor of Divinity and Fellow, besides Money, gave the Farm call'd Diccons at Eltifley, another call'd Hatley, at Wearsley, and an Annuity of 20 s. at Gamlingog. Nicholas Skipwith, likewife Batchelor of Divinity and Fellow, gave as much as his Brother Gerard. William Atkinfon, Doctor of Divinity, and Fellow, gave the Lands called of the Ladies, Willoughby and Bray. William Huffey of Sleford, in the County of Lincoln, Knight, Lord Chief Justice of England, gave the Farm at Teversham. Charles Booth, Bishop of Hereford, bred in this Hall, gave three large Houses in London; Roger le Strange of Hunstanton in Norfolk, Knight, the Farm of Barton Lancafter, in the County of Cambridge; Thomas Watts, Doctor of Divinity, and Archdeacon of Middlesex, Farms at Ashwel and Sauston, for the Maintenance of 7 Scholars, long known by the glorious Name of Greek Scholars; among the first

first of which were Lancelot Andrews, Bishop of Winchester, and Thomas Dove, Bishop of Peterburg. William Smart, Alderman of Ipswich, and his Relict Alice, afterwards Wife to Ralph Scrivener, Alderman of the same Place, gave the Farm of Wiverston, with an Annuity of 211. at Bramford; Jane Cox, the Daughter of George Auder, Alderman of Cambridge, Widow of Richard Cox, 34th Bishop of Ely, in Memory of her former Husband, William Turner, Doctor of Physick, Dean of Wells, and once Fellow, an Annuity of 3 l. 6 d. 8 d. out of the Pasture at Knapwel. Lastly, William Marshal, Servant to Edmund Grindal, Archbishop of Canterbury, the like Sum out of Brantingthorp. These were the Donors of Lands and Revenues, besides those who are still to be reckoned among the Wardens. Those who formerly and lately gave Books are too many to be here enumerated. Besides, very many conferr'd Money, Plate, Vestments, Cloaths and other Presents; among whom are chiefly reckoned Mr. Thomas Moor, once a Fellow, and Dean of St. Paul's; William Linwood, Fellow, and Bishop of St. David's ; Robert Pyke, Fellow; John Clench, Doctor and Fellow; John Somerseth, Fellow, Doctor of the Liberal Arts, and of the Art to preserve Human Life, for so he stiles himself, being Physician to King Henry VI. John Woodcock, Fellow, Doctor of Physick; Mr. Howson, Fellow, Vicar of Tilney; Stephen Saunders, Batchelor of Divinity; Henry Kay, Fellow, Rector of Burnvell; Thomas Langhton, Fellow, Bishop of Winchester and elect of Canterbury; Gawen Blenkensop, Fellow, Doctor of Divinity; William Chubbs, Fellow, Doctor of Divinity, and first Provost of JESUS College; Richard Sockburne, Rector of Soham, and John Firby, Fellows, Doctors of Divinity; John Feukerer, Feukerer, Fellow, afterwards Prior of Sion; John Dafford, Citizen of London; Robert Patchet, Fellow, Vicar of Tilney; Henry Farre, Fellow; Gregory Downhall, the first Pupil of Dr. Watts; lastly, Swithun Butterfield. The Pembrochians also show most favourable Grants of the Popes, Clement the 6th, Innocent the 6th, Urban the 5th, Gregory the 11th, Boniface the 9th, and Nicholas the 5th; and chiefly of the Kings, Richard the Ild, Henry the IVth, Henry the VIth, Edward the IVth, Henry the VIIth, Henry the VIIIth, Queen Elizabeth, and the most August King Fames; from some of whom they also had most high Commendations; viz. from Henry the VIth granting, and Edward the 4th confirming some Lands under the Great Seal of England, in these Words, The noble and renowned and most precious College, which does, and always did wonderfully Shine, among all Places in the University, as we have been certainly inform'd. And Queen Elizabeth paffing by the Door, faid, O ancient and religious House! This Hall at present has a Provost, 17 Fellows, and above 30 Scholars. The Foundation of this House may be faid to have been laid in a happy Moment, some of its Fellows having been preferr'd to the highest Dignities in England, even during the Life of the Foundress. Who having liv'd 42 Years or more, after the founding of the College, and at least fixty after the death of her Husband; and having adorn'd the Church of St. Alban with a Silver Image gilt: At length, being of a great Age, departed to Heaven, and was interr'd in her Abbey of Denney, in a Marble Tomb, between the two Choirs of the Nuns and the Seculars. From that time this Hall reckons up many Doctors, Masters and Prelates who have come out of it.

He purchas'd the Tost call'd Bolton's Place, built the Warden's Chappel, and added under it the House for poor Scholars. He enrich'd the common Chappel and Library. At last he dy'd Bishop of St. David's, about the Year 1446, being still Warden. The College is oblig'd to his and Doctor Somerseth's Favour with the King, for the Donations of Henry VI.

7. Hugh Damlet, Fellow, Doctor of Divinity, Rector of St. Peter's Church in Cornhil, London. Resign'd the Wardenship Anno 1450, dy'd in 1476. I have reason to believe Prior, or Abbat of the same Place.

8. Laurence Booth, Deacon, Rector of Cotenham, March 6. 1444, made Priest in 1446; Warden in 1450. The third Week after Easter 1454, was made Licentiace of Law; Chancellor to Queen Margaret, Wife to King Henry VI. being Keeper of the Privy Seal, refign'd Cotenbam on the 2d of December 1450; Bishop of Durham in 1457, and Chancellor of the Univerfity when he made a Composition between the University and King's College; was Lord High Chancellor of England, and Archbishop of York in 1472. He had one Brother, William Booth, Bishop of Litchfield, and afterwards of York; another Roger Booth of Barton, in the County of Lancaster, Knight, his eldest Brother, Father to the Lady Margaret, Wife to Ralph Nevil, third Earl of Westmorland; a third Brother John Booth, Bishop of Exeter. He gave to the College all that Parcel of Houses which are between the College and the Church of St. Botulph, call'd Bottulph's Hospital, but alterwards alienated. Thomas's Hostel obtain'd the perpetual Release of the said Tenement. He redeem'd a Pension of 5 l. yearly going out of the Rectory of Tilney. He adorn'd the Chapel, as appears by the Escutcheon of the Arms of his Family upon all the Windows. He built the Library. He finish'd the publick School, now appointed for the Lectures of the Regius Professor, under which are the Philosophy Schools; but as others will have it the Logick Schools, with the Terentian, which is now for the Law, and those for Rhetorick. He provided by his Will, that his Executors Executors should endow this Hall with the Mannor and Patronage of Overton-Warewile, in the County of Huntingdon. By his Means King Edward IV. became a Benefactor to the College. For when the said King Edward annull'd and made void all the Acts of King Henry VI. he was so much in Favour with the victorious King, that he prevail'd with him to confirm all the Donations made to this Hall by the said King Henry; he also surnish'd the Divinity Schools with Seats, and at last dy'd Warden, in the Year 1480.

9. Thomas Rotherham, fo call'd from Rotherham, the Place of his Birth, in the County of York; otherwise call'd Scott, among the first Fellows of King's College, Chaplain to John Vere, 12th Earl of Oxford, afterwards to King Edward IV. # CORPUS CHRISTI, vulgarly BENEDICT COLLEGE.

IV. THE Brethren of the Gild, or Society, 1344. of Corpus Christi, and the Brethren of the Gild of the Bleffed Virgin Mary, joining their Stocks, began to build this College, in the 18th Year of King Edward the IIId, and of CHRIST 1344, dedicating the same to the Name of Corpus Christi and the Blessed Virgin Mary, tho' it be now commonly call'd Benedict College, and receiv'd this Name about the Year 1380, from the nearness of the Church of St. Benedict; and on February the 3d, 1353, they obtain'd the Confirmation of their College of Thomas de Insula, Bishop of Ely. The fame Year the Warden and Fellows of this Place chose for the Patron of their Society, or Brotherhood, and appointed Elder of their Gild, that is, Alderman, or Provost, the most Renowned Hero, Henry Plantagenet, first Duke of Lancaster, Earl of Leicester, Lincoln and Derby, the Second among the Prime Men of England, Lord of Monmouth and Pontefract, surnam'd the Brave and Good Duke, Lord High Steward of England, Lieutenant of Aquitain, and Knight of the Order of the Garter. Thus being supported by so great a Prince for their Founder, or Patron, they not only chang'd this Gild, feated near the Street call'd Luthburn, into a College, and obtain'd a License of Mortmain, as the Lawyers call it, but also, either by Intreaty or Money, acquir'd many stately Houses of the E 3 Townsmen.

Townsmen. Besides the most Illustrious Duke gave them for ever the Right of Patronage of the neighbouring Church of St. Benedict; and because the Revenues of this House were so small, that they could scarce supply the Master and Scholars with Necessaries, prevail'd with Thomas Arundel, Bishop of Ely, to appropriate to it his Church of Grantesete. And tho' from the first Year of the Foundation, the Number of Fellows and Scholars was long left at Pleafure, according to the yearly Income of the College, and confequently uncertain, the number of Students wonderfully increas'd through the Generosity of other Benefactors: For Elizabeth Mowbray, Duchels of Norfolk, eldest Sifter and Coheir of Thomas Fitz-Alan, last Earl of Arundel, Warren and Surrey, and Wife to Thomas Mowbray, first Duke of Norfolk, added one Fellow and Scholar, Matthew Parker, most renowned Metropolitan of Canterbury among Antiquaries, once Fellow of this Place, and afterwards Head of the College, added two Fellows, and 15 Scholars, with a Library well stor'd with ancient Manuscripts; and Roger Mannors, Knight, of the Bedchamber to Queen Elizabeth, 4 Scholars. Nor was it a small Addition to the Buildings in former Times, that John de Cantabrigge, Knight, one of the King's Judges, and his Son Thomas de Cantabrigge, a most Renowned Knight, formerly Brethren of this Society, granted to it the Stone Hall, now call'd Stonehouse; and Nicholas Bacon, Knight, our British Nestor, Keeper of the Great Seal, and Privy Counsellor to Queen Elizabeth, in Token of his Affection towards this College, where he had first been instructed in the Liberal Arts, built a neat Chappel, over which is the Library, a Repository of all Antiquities, and by Will left to it Stipends for 6 Scholars. Also Roger Manors, 5th Earl of Rutland, formerly an honourable Commoner, here contributed much towards adorning of the College and Chappel. Others, well affected to Learning and Learned Men, gave other Fellowships and Scholarships. Thus at present there are a Provost, 10 Fellows, 34 Scholars, besides Servants of inferior Rank, who are all maintain'd on the Revenues of the College.

14. Matthew Parker, of Norwich, Fellow, Doctor of Divinity, chosen Warden in 1544, Rector of Landbeach in 1554, Prebendary of Ely, Dean of Lincoln, as also of the Collegiate Church of Stoke-Clare in Suffolk, an Addition to whose Commendation is, that the faid Monastery being design'd for Ruin, together with its noble Library, he rescu'd the Books of Antiquity and History from perishing, and plac'd them in the Library of this College. During the Reign of Queen Mary, he liv'd beyond the Seas, having for his Successor Mr. William Whaley, in the Rectory of Landbeach, and John Young, Provost of Pembroke-Hall in his Prebend, but under Queen Elizabeth he return'd, and was Archbishop of Cante bury. All we Cantabrigians ought to Honour his Memory, who in his little Chorographical Table of Cambridge, publish'd in 1574, earnestly wish'd, that the little New River near Vandlebury, commonly call'd Gogmagog-Hills, might be brought to the City of Canterbury by Trumpington Ford, to wash the great King's Ditch. For the Good Archbishop foretold it would turn so much to the Advantage of this Place, that, to use his own Words, no City would be finer than Cambridge, and the Memory of so great an Action, would not be so grateful to Posterity, as pleasing to the Inhabitants. In short, he was the first Projector of this Work among us Cantabrigians, and the rest afterwards following his Design, lately brought the same to Perfection.

TRINITY HALL.

V. IN this Place formerly flourish'd a Society 1347. of Students, where every one liv'd upon his own Expence. Which House John Craudene, 22d Prior of Ely, purchas'd with his own Money, in the Reign of King Edward III. and appointed it an Hostel for Reception of the Monks of Ely, coming hither at their leafure Time, to improve in Learning. To these Beginnings, Richard Ling, Chancellor of the University in 1353. Archembald Norwich, Simon Rekenghal, and Walter Elveden, Rector of Smitterton in Norfolk, added 4 Tenements. Likewife Robert Stratton, John French, Walter Bakton, Walter Aldeley and Peter Bittering gave 7 Parcels and 2 Meffuages, one of which was call'd Drake's-Entry. Afterwards William Bateman, Doctor of Law, appointed 18th Bishop of Norwich by Pope Clement VI. purchas'd all this Hostel of the aforesaid Prior and Monks, giving some Rectories in Exchange for it, and there founded this his Hall, dedicated to the Holy and Undivided Trinity, in the Year of our Lord 1347, being the 21st of King Edward III. appointing a Master, 20 Fellows, and 3 Scholars, all to study the Canon and Civil Law, exceptione Divine, should be maintain dupon its Revenues. This was that Prelate, to speak in the words of the Register of Norwich, who having been a famous Auditor of the Pope's Palace, pretended to the King, that he would visit Stephen, once his familiar Acquaintance at Rome, and then beginning to be known by the Name of Pope Innocent VI. because he had heard he was about creating many Cardinals; by which Tourney he reap'd this Advantage, that he prevail'd with that Pope to have the Rectories of Bristown, Kimberley, Brimingham, Woodalling, Cowlidge and Stalling, in the Diocess of Norwich, united for the Maintenance of the Fellows and Schollars; Simon Islip, Archbishop of Canterbury, confirming the same under his Seal for ever, by that Pope's Command But this Patron, being taken off from his Design by a sudden Death, left only a Master, 3 Fellows, and as many Scholars of his own Foundation. But as Providence so uses to order it in Works of Piety, happily begun, that Seminary of Literature, was at length much improv'd by the Favour of others. Thus through the Generofity of Robert Goodnape, once a Fellow here, Lawrence Maptyd, Fellow here, and Provost of Benedict College, Gabriel Dun, Canon of St. Paul's, Richard Nix, Bishop of Norwich, Matthew Parker, Archbishop of Canterbury, Henry Harvey, Doctor of Law, and once Warden here, and Humphrey Bishby, Doctor of Law and others, the Revenues of the College were fo much increas'd. that there are now a Provost, 18 Fellows, and 14 Scholars, who have their Maintenance out of the same.

GONEVILE and CAIUS COLLEGE.

dation whereof was laid Anno 1348, in that Place where now is the Orchard and Tennis Court of the College of St. Benedict, by Edmund Gonvile, Rector of Tirrington in Marshland, in Norfolk, and of Rushworth, in the same County, who in the Absence of the Bishop, was with others appointed Vicar of Spirituality. This Beginning was so laid by Edmund Gonevile, younger Brother to Nicholas Gonvile of Rushworth aforesaid, Knight, that most famous Courtier, Walter Manly, Knight of the Garter, born at Cambray in the Netherlands, who had Marry'd Margaret

Margaret Brotherton, Duchess of Norfolk, obtaining the License from King Edward III. in the 22d Year of his Reign, of our Lord 1347, after the faid Edmund had founded the little Church of St. John Evangelist, at Rushworth. And he having dedicated this College to the Salutation of the Bleffed Virgin Mary, on Thurfday in Whitson Week, in the 23d Year of King Edward III. of our Lord 1348, it presently after began to be call'd Gonevile-Hall, where, before his Death, he plac'd a Warden and 4 Fellows, and whilft he liv'd, supply'd them with Money, appointing John Colton, afterwards Rector of Tirrington, the first Warden, the Statutes being confirm'd under the Chancellor's Seal, tho, as appears by the faid Statutes he had refolv'd to found 20 Scholars. But he being untimely fnatch'd away by Death, in the Year 1350, and bury'd at Tirrington, by his Will lest a great Sum of Money in Trust to William Bateman, Bishop of Norwich, for him to finish and endow the Hall, which he had begun. After the Death of Edmund, the said William Bateman, to bring this Hall nearer, and as it were make it of Kin to his own Trinity-Hall, which he had begun to build, prevail'd with the Warden and Fellows, to exchange this House of theirs for other Buildings in the Place call'd Henny, in St. Michael's Parish, not far from St. John Zachary's Church, where now stands the Hall of Queen's College, near the Hostel of St. Mary on the South, there to build the College, more agreeably to the Bishop's Mind. One of these was the Capital Messuage of John de Cantabrigge, Knight, and one of the King's Judges; the other was the House of John Goldcombe, where the ancient Monuments of this College tellify the Schools of Philosophy phy flourish'd in those former Days. Which two Messuages afterwards belonging to the Gild of Corpus Christi, and St. Mary, by Contract made between Henry Plantagenet, first Duke of Lancaster, Alderman of that Gild, and the Warden and Fellows of this Hall, each Gild refign'd up to the other and exchang'd their Right to the Ground and Buildings, in the Year of our Lord 1353. Thus out of those Buildings fo transform'd, was built Gonevile-Hall in that Place, where the North Side of this College stretches out in Length. Bateman, aforesaid, confirm'd this Translation of the Warden and Fellows, in the Year of our Lord 1353, and began to promote it with the Revenues of the Rectories of Foulden and Wilton in Norfolk, and Mutford in Suffolk, for the Maintenance of a Warden and 3 Fellows. But that none may be ignorant, with what a favourable Eye the Popes of Rome presently beheld this Hall, the Warden and Fellows fo far prevail'd with Pope Boniface IX. about the Year of our Lord 1390, that he granted the Rectory of Great Mansel in Norfolk should be impropriated for the Maintenance of the Hall, writing to Richard Scroope, Bishop of Coventry and Litchfield, to confirm the said Church to the Hall. Ralph Hemenhall, Knight, had before granted the Patronage of that Rectory to the Hall, that three Fellows, Priests, should make Commemoration of the Lady Mary Pakenham, Lady of Pakenham, of Thomas Pakenham, Knight, Son to Mary, and of Ralph Hemenhall, Knight, and his Wife Catherine Aspal. And tho' it had been decreed by Pope Benedict XI. about the Year 1300, that all Benedictin Monks should follow their Studies in the University-Hall, or College, nevertheless Pope Sixtus IV. in the Year 1481, fo fo far favour'd the Monks of the said Order in the Diocese of Norwich, as to ordain they should Study in none but this Hall. And for the more easy and plentiful advancing of the Honour of Literature, the Revenues were increas'd by others graciously contributing, so that 7 more Fellows, and it Scholars were added to the former Number. Thus, if we consider the Fellowships, the Buildings, and the Stipends of the Scholars, we shall find above an Hundred Benefactors on our Register of Gonevile: Particularly William Phiswick, Beadle of the University, Esquire, is to be mention'd, who gave his own House to this Gonevile-Hall, and within the Year made it a little College, to be as it were a Holy Colony to the numerous Youth of this Hall, where two Principals, as they are call'd, the one to be chosen out of Gonvile-Hall, and the other out of this Hostel of Phiswick, should preside, not so noted for Government, as for their Knowledge in the Liberal Arts. Thus this Hostel was fill'd with Students from Gonevile, still belonging to it, as the Halls at Oxford belong to the Colleges. But to the End that these two Houses might be the more strictly united, the Master and Fellows of the said Hall requested of Pope Alexander V. that the Scholars of Phiswick-Hostel might repair to the Divine Service, and for burying of their Dead, to the Chappel of Gonevile, by Papal Authority, without having Recourse to the Ordinary. William Renele, once Fellow of King's College, and Rector of Tichwell in Norfolk, in the Year 1381, enlarg'd the Buildings of Phiswick Hostel, and built several Rooms in his aforesaid Parish, in those Farms, which had belong'd to this Hall, to which the Fellows and Scholars might retire both from the Hall and Hostel, when soever the Plague, or any other greater contagi-OUS

ous Distemper should appear in the University. This Hostel, in which above 400 Commoners resided, formerly stood in the same Place, where now is the South-fide of Trinity College, and was added as an Improvement to the faid College, by the most August King Henry VIII. paying 3 l. a Year out of the Exchequer to this our College, till such time as other Satisfaction and Provision should be made by his Majesty. I might here mention the Smiths, WillowJeys, Knights, Baileys, Willisons, and Atkinses, who were long conspicuous Favourers brought up in this Hall, and Pope Alexander the 6th himself, who in the Year 1502, granted full Metropolitical License to our Predecessors to send out two Preachers yearly throughout all England; and I think they might have been Fortunate, had they known how to improve these Times of King Henry to their own Advantage. I unwillingly pass by Nicholas Shaxton, Bishop of Salisbury, President of this Hall, and Guardian of the Hospital of St. Giles, at Norwich; John Betlesham, Bishop of Rochester; John Wakering, Keeper of the Privy Seal under King Henry V. Henry Spencer, and John Goldwell, three Bishops of Norwich; John Ufford, younger Brother to Robert Ufford, alias Peyton, Commoner of the first Gonevile-Hall, who forefaw the rifing again of the translated House, and favour'd it with his good Wishes, having been approv'd Archbishop of Canterbury by King Edward III. and Pope Clement the 6th, but dy'd before his Installation; Walter Elveden, who was learning the Rudiments of Human and Divine Wisdom at Gonevile, in the Reign of King Richard II. as appears by his Calender, ingeniously and fignificantly compacted with three Cycles of ten Years; John Fitzralph, Knight, who gave the Advouson of the Church of Capele in Suffolk, Anno SUO

Anno 1353; Edward Hemegrave in Suffolk; Thomas Lovel in Norfolk; Robert Thorpe, Lord High Chancellor of England, all of them Knights; Humphrey de la Poole, Clerk, and Edward de la Poole, Archdeacon of Richmond, Commoners of this Hall, the Sons of John de la Poole, 2d Duke of Suffolk, and John le Strange of Mastingham in Norfolk, Esquires. Among whom shall I forget William Lynwood, and not take Notice of him as Doctor of Canon and Civil Law, Official of the Court of Canterbury, Bishop of St. David's, Keeper of the Privy Seal under King Henry V. the Compiler of the Provincial Constitutions, and formerly Commoner of this Gonevile-Hall? All whom being Benefactors the very Walls declare, the Treasury or the Library testify, or the Windows themselves make appear. Whilst I call these to Mind, you Flowers of Piety and Lights appear before my Eyes, viz. the most excellent Ladies Mary Pakenham, Elizabeth Cleere, Anne Scroope, and Anne Drury, because you pour'd the Streams of your Munificence into this our College, and water'd this Garden of Gonevile. Among whom the Lady Mary Pakenham, in 1369, increas'd the Warden's Stipend, founded one Fellowship, and gave to four other Fellows an Allowance proceeding from the Rectory of Matsel. Elizabeth Cleere, Daughter and Heir to John Uvedale of Takleston in Norfolk, Esq; most devout Widow of Robert Cleer of Ormesby in Norfolk, Esq; in the Year of ourLord 1480, gave Lands at Tuttington in Norfolk, for the Maintenance of one Fellow; and as a Mother and Nurse to the Hall, made several other Donations; First, 40 l. to increase the Number of Scholars; Secondly, She built the East-side of the College; Thirdly, She gave 46 l. to repair the Buildings of the Hall, befides that Sum of Money which the bestow'd on our Cheft and the Treasury of the Univerfity, being above 20 Marks. Nor will we pass you by, Lady Anne Scroope, Daughter and Heir to Robert Harling of Harling in Norfolk, Knight, by his Wife Joanna, Daughter and Heir of John Gonevile, Knight, which Robert was also the Son of John Harling, Knight, and his Wife Cicily, Daughter, and at last Co-Heir of Constantine Mortimer of Attleborough in Norfolk, Knight. This Anne was first Wife to William Chamberlain, Knight of the Order of the Garter; 2dly, to Robert Wingfield, Knight of the Order of the Sepulchre, and Governour of Calais; 3dly, to the Lord John, Baron Scroope of Bolton, in the County of Richmond, Knight of the Order of the Garter. Having had no Child by thefe three Husbands, she wonderfully enlarg'd the little College of Canons founded by her Great Great Uncle's Great Uncle Edmund Gonevile at Rushworth in Norfolk, and gave to it her Lordthip there, being the ancient Seat of the Gonevile's, besides this Heroine of singular Piety, descended, as appears above from the Gonevile's, gave to this Gonevile-Hall, in the Reign of King Henry VII. her Mannor of Mortimer, at Cambridge, for the Maintenance of one Fellow; for the confirming of which Mannor in Mortmain, as the Lawyers term it, the Lady Anne Drury, Daughter and Heir of William Huntingfield of Huntingfield in Suffolk, Esq; and Widow of Richard Drury of Hamsted in Suffolk, Knight, left as a Legacy 40 l. But in the Year of Grace 1557, there arose to us John Caius of Norwich, the Son of Robert Cains of Yorksbire, Doctor of Physick, 16th Warden of this Hall. I mean that same most learned Cains, whom no Man that has had the least Sight of any of the several Monuments of his Ingenuity, still extant in his Writings, can deny to have been most abu n-

abundantly fill'd with all the Medicinal Knowledge of the Esculapian Schools, and as it were a living Library; Queen Mary's most acceptable Oracle; a most renowned publick Reader of Physick for several Years at Padua, in Italy; a great Ornament of this University, and a notable Afferter of the Antiquity of Cambridge. That Man born to advance the Commonwealth of Learning, enrich'd this Seat of the Muses with ample Lands and Possessions for the Maintenance of 3 Fellows, 20 Scholars and a Porter; encreas'd the Store of the Treasury, added his most beautiful new Fabrick to the former quadrangular Structure, and abolishing the Name of a Hall, as a most worthy Founder, call'd it Gonevile and Caius College, caufing the following Words on the Corner Stone, towards the West, viz. JOANNES CAIUS POSUIT SAPIEN-TIÆ ANN. DOM. 1565. MENSE MAIO, That is, John Caius erected this to Wisdom in the Month of May, of the Year of our Lord 1565. And that no ignorant Drone may flander him as some slight inconsiderable Founder, he gave us the Lordships of Crokesley and Rickmanesworth, in the County of Hertford, Bincombe, with the Advouson, and Woobourne in the County of Dorset, Rungton and Burnham-Thorp in Norfolk, with the Mannor of Crokesley at Caxton, in the County of Cambridge. He also to honour this College, procur'd to it a noble Coat of Arms, viz, Or, semee of Slips of purple Amarant, or Flower Gentle, two Serpents erect, on whose Heads Houseleek-Leaves, their Tails interwoven rest on a Green Marble Stone, and between them is a Black Book adorn'd with Vermillion and Gold Clasps. The Amarants and Houseleek, or Sempervive, denote Immortality, meaning, to use the Words of the Original, Ex PRUDENTIA ET LITERIS VIRTUTUM PETRA FIRMATIS IMMOR-

TALITAS,

TALITAS, That is, From Prudence and Learning establish'd on the Rock of Virtue, proceeds Immortality. Give me leave, courteous Reader, to present you with another List of Benefactors. Here you have Thomas Wendy, of Suffolk, Do-Etor of Physick, President of this Place, Physician to four most August Princes; viz. Henry VIII, Edward VI, Mary and Elizabeth, who gave one Fellowship in 1561. whose Stipend, his Nephew by his Brother and Heir, Thomas Wendy of Hallingfield in the County of Cambridge, Esq; increas'd out of his Lands at Barrington, Anno 1609. Robert Trapps, Goldfmith of London, and his Wife Joanna, who gave Lands at Whitstable and Swaycliffe in Kent, for the Maintenance of four Scholars. Jocosa Frankland of London, Widow, Daughter and Heir of the aforesaid Robert and Joanna, who was long reckon'd among the principal Patrons, not only for having given certain Houses in Philip-street, London, and much plain and gilt Plate, but also above 1600 l. with which we purchas'd the Mannor of Dokefworth St. Peter, or of Albernoon in the County of Cambridge, on whose Revenues 6 Fellows, 12 Scholars, one Chaplain and a Hebrew Profesfor are maintain'd, pursuant to her last Will. And now but very lately, who will grudge us to extol the Munificence of Stephen Perse of Norfolk, Pupil under the Founder John Caius, Doctor of Physick, Fellow of the College for above 40 Years, when before he is well cold in his Grave, we behold here in the College the new Buildings on the North fide rifing, and in the City the Walls of the Grammar-School, capable to contain an Hundred Scholars, and the Alms-Houses. He at his Death, in the Year of our Lord 1615, bequeath'd by Will 5000 L. to purchase a Revenue of 250 l. for the Main-SOMMI STAMBIT ARTIS MUTUTALY ST tenance

tenance of 6 Fellows, at 10 l. per Annum each, 6 Scholars at 4 l. 6 Alms-Men at 4 l. and the Master and Usher of the aforesaid School, and for augmenting the Stipends of the four eldest Fellows, and those 6 of Jocosa Frankland, and the High-Way from Jesus-Street to Sturbridge to be finish'd, with a rais'd Causeway, out of what Estate remain'd. I will not here make mention of 500 l. for the building of the Rooms for the Use of the Fellows and Scholars; 8%. a Year to repair the New River; 61. 13 s. 4d. additional Yearly to the Cheft, and 31. for keeping his Anniversary Festival, to avoid speaking of trivial Things. I would willingly have proceeded to Thomas Martin of Steplemorden, in the County of Cambridge, Doctor of Law, Fellow of New College in Oxford, and one of the Masters in Chancery; Christopher Haydon, Senior, of Bacanthorp in Norfolk, Knight, Donor of the Advouson of the Rectory of Patesley in Norfolk; Thomas Stutevile of Dalham in Suffolk, Esquire; Richard Swale of Yorkshire, President of this College, Doctor of the Civil Law, one of the Masters in Chancery, Doctor of the Court in the Arches, and Knight; Matthew Parker, Archbishop of Canterbury, excellently deserving of the Clergy; William Paston of Paston in Norfolk, Kt. William Barker Esq; Fellow of the College, Secretary to the most illustrious Prince Thomas Howard, 4th Duke of Norfolk, and even the most renowned Peter Manwood of St. Stephen's in Kent, Knight of the Bath, an extraordinary Admirer of venerable Antiquity, and Favourer of the most learned Persons: I would willingly, I fay, have proceeded to produce these Persons remarkable for Piety, honourable for their Charity towards the College of Gonevile and Caius, for the fingular Comfort and Instruction of their Posterity, F 4

Posterity, and to the great Benefit and Advantage of the faid College; but that I fear any should charge me with being too profuse in setting off the Catalogue of the College that has given me my Education. Be that as it will, it cannot but be lawful for me first taking my Leave, and to all us of Gonevile and Cains College, to express our Gratitude to the Wisdom of our Founders, who did not without the Direction of God, consecrate the Foundations of this College to the Nation and Genius of the East-Angles; perhaps because they foresaw the Sunthine of fo many Patrons rifing out of this Corner, who might in Process of Time cherish this their Country Structure with their Rays. For through the commendable Goodness of these and other Benefactors, this College from an inconfiderable Beginning, is grown up to fuch a Grandeur, as to reckon up a Warden, 26 Fellows, one Chaplain, 61 Scholars, besides many Officers, who all receive the most that is necessary for their Support, from the yearly Revenues of this College.

Wardens of GONEVILE and CAIUS COLLEGE.

1. John Colton of Trimington, in Norfolk, Chaplain to William Bateman, Bishop of Norwich, appointed first Warden of this Hall by Edmund Gonevile the Founder, Anno Dom. 1348. Afterwards Rector of Tirrington, and at length Archbishop of Armagh, and Primate of all Ireland; who during the long Schism begun under Pope Urban the 6th, about the Year of our Lord 1380, thought it his Duty to apply some Remedy to that Disease, and take up the Pen, and being a most most learned Divine, writ two Books, the one of the Cause of the Schism, the other of the Remedy to be apply'd to it.

This John Rikinghale being elected Chancellor of the University in 1415, continu'd in the same till 1422, as I take it, by Reason of the mighty Strife and Pleadings before the King and Parliament between the University and the Townsmen, wherein he was a strenuous Asserter of the University, in 1417 and afterwards; together with Markams and Thomas Thurkill, Proctors, John Phiswick and Thomas

Thomas Wearing, Beadles. Brother John Stockton was this John's Vice-Chancellor. Thomas Makaunt, above-mention'd, was he who gave to the University the most ancient Book of Privileges, with the Chest.

8. Edmund Sheriffe, Clerk, Warden in 1472, at whose Election Laurence Booth, Licentiate of Law, then Bishop of Exeter, afterwards Archbishop of York, occasion'd much Disturbance, and our Annals complain grievously of him. This Edmund compos'd a Register of the College Foundations, Appropriations, Spiritual and Temporal Possessions, Books, Jewels and the like.

15. Thomas Bacon, Batchelor of Divinity, Prebendary of Ely, Warden in 1542, Brother to Nicholas Bacon, Merchant of London, dy'd at Shelfield in Kent, having run himself and the Col-

When he was brought from London to Cambridge, all Degrees in the University met him in honourable Manner, near Trumpington Ford, and conducted him with the greatest Funeral Pomp to the College, where he was handsomly bury'd in the Chappel, with this Inscription, I know not whether to call more ingenious or magnificent, Fui Caius, I was Caius.

Trinity College, next of Jesus College, then by John Cains the Founder, still living, he was appointed Warden of this College in 1573; Doctor of Law, one of the Masters in Chancery, Doctor in all the Courts of Arches, Commissary of the University, and twice Vice-Chan-

Chancellor in 1587, and 1592. With his Money, arifing from our Mannor of Mortemar at Cambridge, granted to him by us for 20 Years, the Revenues whereof, amounting to the Value of 600 l. he, at his Death, piously restor'd to the College-Chast, the East-Side of the new Building was erected, and he left by Will 40 l. to build a new Hall.

18. William Branthwait, of Norwich, bred in Clare-Hall, Fellow of Emanuel College, Doctor of Divinity in 1598, the first of all our Wardens that I know of, inducted by the Chancellor of the University, on the 14th of December, 1607. ### KING'S-COLLEGE.

VII. THE 7th College is truly Royal, having so very august a Prince for its Founder, that it knows no other Benefactors to have supported it, viz. King Henry VI. who in the Year of our Lord 1441, and the 19th of his Reign, built his College, dedicated to St. Nicholas, where he plac'd a Rector, and 12 Scholars; within the Compass of which College, there were in those ancient Times two famous Churches of St. Nicholas, and St. John Baptist, or Zachary, where now is St. Augustin's Hall, no inconsiderable Hostel, and the House ormerly call'd The House of God. But within wo Years he quite chang'd its Form, and Name, placing therein a Provost, 70 Fellows, o Priests, 6 Clerks, and 16 Choristers, and alling it the College of the Blessed Virgin Mary and the glorious Confessor St. Nicholas; ho' it is now univerfally known by the Name f King's College. At this Time there are in a Provost, 70 Fellows and Scholars, 3 hir'd riests, 6 Clerks, 16 Choristers, 13 Scholars, ervitors to the Elder Fellows, 16 Servants to ne College, besides the poorer Scholars, who te daily reliev'd with what is left at Meals. ut that the said Prince's Piety might be the tore conspicuous, he did not settle the College, ad finish the Kitchin, but first began to build le Chappel, which is so majestick, that it aims a Place among the most beautiful Strucres in the World. He also design'd the Magficent Structure of the College should be Quadrangular

drangular, which, being involv'd in the Domestick Broils of the House of York, he did not finish, but left the same to be perform'd by his Successors. Among whom, King Edward IV. was so far from complying with the Desires of his faid Predecessor, that he rather took from it many good Lands and Revenues, and, what then appear'd most grievous, gave some Part of them to the Oxfordians at his Court. Thus the Collegians here having receiv'd no Benefit by the Reign of the faid Edward, they nevertheless seem to have sacrific'd to that King, that he might do them no Harm. But that nothing might be wanting in King Henry towards the ennobling of his College, he granted it a Coat of Arms on the first of January, in the 27th Year of his Reign, at Westminster, viz. Sable, 3 Roses Argent, to the end that the College then founded for Ages, whose Perpetuity, to use the Words of the Grant, he would have denoted by the Unchangeableness of the Black, might produce most beautiful Flowers in all Sorts of Literature. And to impart to them fomething, which might express the truly regal and renowned Work, he ordain'd part of the Arms due to him as King of France and England, to be plac'd in Chief, viz. Party, first Azure a Flower-de-Luce, and next Gules a Leopard Passant Or. Nor was his Zeal so satisfy'd, but he erected the College of Eton, near Windfor Castle, where a Provost, 7 Fellows and 70 Singers and Grammer Scholars are maintain'd, from among whom, and no others, Scholars are every Year preferr'd to this College. By which so noble Monuments of his Munificence he gave such great Testimony of Christian Piety to all the World, that King Henry VII. propos'd it to Pope Julius II. to canonize the faid Henry

Henry VI. the effecting whereof was obstructed by the Avarice of that Pope, who demanded too great a Sum of Money for the said Canonization, as if he would have granted that Honour to the Princes Gold and not to his Sanctity.

Provosts of KING's-COLLEGE.

I. William Millington, born in Yorkshire, 8th Provost of Clare-Hall, Doctor of Divinity, first Provost of this College, by appointment of King Henry VI. the Founder, April 10, 1443; but the said King having entrusted him to compose the Statutes, and he being found too much to favour his Northern Country Men, King Henry sent him back to Clare-Hall, where he had been bred. TO what our Author Mr. Richard Parker has faid concerning King's College, it may not be improper here to add what we find in Stow's Chronicle, P. 379, of the Edition of 1631, as follows.

THIS Year (1440) King Henry, being of himself always naturally inclin'd to do Good, and fearing left he might feem unthankful to Almighty God for his great Benefits bestow'd upon him, fince the Time he first took upon him the Regimen of his Realm, determin'd for his primar notable Work, to erect and found two famous Colleges in the Honour and Worship of his Holy Name, and for the Increase of Virtue, the Dilatation of Cunning, and Establishment of Christian Faith, whereof the one in Cambridge, to be call'd his College Royal of our Lady and St. Nicholas, and the other at Eaton, beside Windsor, to be call'd his College of our Blessed Lady. And for the Performance of this his devout Purpose, he enfeoffed certain Bishops, with other noble and worthy Personages, by his Letters Patents, with Lands and Possessions, Parcel of his Inheritance of the Duchy of Lancaster, to the clear Value of well near 3400 l. a Year; which Letters Patents he after confirm'd by his Act of Parliament, declaring also by his Will unto his faid Feoffees his Intent and Meaning, how the fame should be employ'd upon the Edifications of his faid two Colleges, whereof, in my Judgment, the Device is fo excellent, and the Buildings fo princely, and apt for that Purpose, as I cannot omit to set forth unto you the very Plat of the whole College in Cambridge.

Cambridge, even as I find mention'd, almost verbatim, in his said Will, supposing, that if the Rest of the House had proceeded according to the Chappel already finish'd, as his sull Intent and Meaning was, the like College could scarce have been found again in any Christian Land. This College was begun in his Time, and finish'd so far, that in the Year 1443, which was the 23d of his Reign, the Cemitery, or Church-Yard, the Altar, &c. as the Manner was, were consecrated by the Bishops of Salisbury and Lincoln. The Words of the Will are thus:

A S touching the Dimensions of the Church of my faid College, of our Lady and St. Nicholas of Cambridge, I have devised and appointed, that the same Church shall contain in Length 288 Foot of Affise, without any Isles, and all of the Wideness of 40 Foot; and the Length of the same Church, from the West End unto the Altars at the Choir Door, shall contain 120 Foot; and from the Provost's Stall, unto the Greece, call'd Gradus Chori, 90 Foot, for 36 Stalls on either Side of the said Choir, answering to 70 Fellows, and 10 Priests Conducts, which must be de prima forma; and from the faid Stalls unto the East-End of the faid Church 22 Foot of Affife. Also a Reredosse bearing the Roodlost, departing the Choir and the Body of the Church, containing in Length 40 Foot, and in Breadth 14 Foot. The Walls of the same Church to be in Height 90 Foot imbatteled, vaulted and Chareroofed, sufficiently butteressed, and every Butteress fix'd with Finials. And in the East-End of the same Church shall be a Window of 9 Days, and betwixt every Buttress a Window of 5 Days; and G 2 betwixt betwixt every Buttress a Window of 5 Days; and betwixt every of the same Buttresses in the Body of the Church, on both Sides of the faid Church, a Closet with an Altar therein, containing in Length 20 Foot, and in Breadth 10 Foot, vaulted and finished under the Soyle of the Isle-Windows; and the Pavement of the Church to be Enhanced four Foot above the Ground without; and the Height of the Pavement of the Choir one Foot and a Half above the Pavement of the Church; and the Pavement of the Altar 3 Foot above that; and on the North Side of the Choir a Vestry, containing in Length 50 Foot, and in Breadth 22 Foot, departed into two Houses beneath, and two Houses above, which shall contain in Height 22 Foot in all, with an Entry from the Choir vaulted. And at the West End of the Church a Cloister Square, the East Pane containing in Length 175 Foot, and the West Pane as much; the North Pane 200 Foot, and the South Pane as much; of the which the Deambulatory 13 Foot Wide, and in Height 20 Foot, to the Corbil Table, with clear Stones and Buttreffes with Finials, vaulted and embattled; and the Ground thereof 4 Foot lower than the Church Ground. And in the Middle of the West Pane of the Cloister a strong Tower Square, containing 24 Foot within the Walls, and in Height 120 Foot to the Corbil Table; and 4 small Turrets over that fined with Pinacles; and a Door into the faid Cloister inward, but outward none. #### QUEEN'S-COLLEGE.

VIII. HE Lady Margaret of Anjou, Daugh-Titular King of Sicily, Naples and Jerusalem, Wife to the most devout Prince Henry VI. King of England, observing the singular Piety of her Husband, bent upon the above-spoken of Illustrious and Royal Monument of King's College, gave her Mind wholly to erecting of Queen's College close by, if not upon the Borders of the Monastery of Carmelites, dedicating the same to St. Margaret and St. Bernard, in the Year of our Lord 1448, and endowing it with the Value of 200 l. per Annum; on the Corner Stone whereof the caus'd these Words to be cut, ERIT Do-MINÆ NOSTRÆ REGINÆ MARGARETÆ DOMINUS IN REFUGIUM, ET LAPIS ISTE IN SIGNUM; that is, The Lord will be a Refuge to our Lady QUEEN Margaret, and this Stone a Token, or Monument. But when the Kingdom was rent with Civil Wars, and Queen Margaret hasted to the Defence of her Husband's Lancastrian Party, the noble Work of this College was somewhat interrupted. However, the Divine Providence was not wanting, which mov'd the Lady Queen Elizabeth, eldest Daughter and Coheir of Richard Woodvile, Earl Rivers, Relict of Edward Grey of Grooby, Knight, and Wife to King Edward IV. to promote this College. She, in the Year of our Lord 1465, more successfully finish'd the same, and obtain'd of her Victorious Husband, King Ed-H 4 ward ward IV. many Privileges for it. The first Perswader of this Work was Andrew Ducket, 2 Minorite Frier, a most worthy and discreet Man; who being Rector of the Church of St. Botulph at Cambridge, was by the Lady Margaret appointed Warden of her College. He having continu'd 40 Years in the Provostship, did not only beg a very great Sum of Money among the most generous of the Nobility, for carrying on the Building of the College, but brought many to favour this rifing House, on which he had fettled his Affection, and partiticularly George Plantagenet, Duke of Clarence; the Lady Cecily, Duchess of York, Daughter to Ralph Nevil, first Earl of Westmorland, Wife of Richard Plantagenet, Duke of York; the most illustrious Ladies, Margaret Roos, Joanna Inglethorp, and Joanna Borough, who perhaps look'd the more benignly on this College, because two Princely Ladies had led them the Way. But in this Roll of Benefactors, the first is Marmaduke Lumley, of the ancient Family of the Barons Lumleys, Chancellor of the University in 1428, first Bishop of Carlise in 1430, and afterwards of Lincoln in 1450; who, besides a great Number of Books, gave 200 Marks. And what is more to be admir'd, Richard Plantagenet, Duke of Glocester, afterwards known by the Name of King Richard III. tho' he fided with the House of York, as also his Wife Anne, second Daughter and Coheir to Richard Nevil, the most renowned Earl of Warwick and alisbury, at the Suit of the aforesaid Andrew Ducket, was so favourable, as to add to this College, Priests, Fellows and Possessions. And not so satisfy'd, that he might by some pious Artifice conceal the Blemish of his Cruelty, he gave to this College, that great and honourable Patrimony of and a of John Vere, 13th Earl of Oxford, with all his Lordships, Mannors, Castles and Feefs, because he had made St. Michael's Mount in Cornwall the Seat of War against King Edward IV. and always firmly adher'd to the House of Lancaster. But King Henry VII. recovering the Throne, restor'd the same to the Earl as his Inheritance. It would be tedious to infert the whole Catalogue of Benefactors, amounting to about 150, within four over or under, all of them Peers, Knights and Esquires. Among whom, the last, as I take it, who offer'd the Grace Cup, was George Montague, born in Yorksbire, Fellow of the College, Proctor of the University in the Year 1600, Dean of Westminster, Bishop of Lincoln, and Almoner to King James I. in 1617, laftly Bishop of London. I must nevertheless beg leave to take Notice, that the Great Desiderius Erasmus of Rotterdam, weary of growing old among the German Muses, and resolving to make Tryal of himself, plunging into the vast Ocean of Learning, came to our University of Cambridge, as to a spacious and deep Sea of Erudition, and chose this College for a Retreat in his Travels; and how great an Honour and perpetual Glory it was to the same, when in the Year 1506, the Favour was granted him by the University to commence in Divinity, let any one confider and envy, who looks with an evil Eye upon the Reputation of our University. The Revenues of the College have been so much increas'd by each of the aforesaid Founders and other Benefactors, that there now flourish in it with plentiful Salaries, a Provost, 19 Fellows, 8 Divinity and 23 other Scholars, besides the Professors of Mathematicks, Geometry and Hebrew.

JESUS-COLLEGE.

Monasteries to be chang'd into Col-Monasteries to be chang'd into Colleges, behold here this Nunnery of veil'd Virgins of St. Radegundis, of the Order of St. Benedict, which was most nobly Founded in the Reign of King Stephen, by Malcolm IV. of the Name, and 91st King of Scots, call'd the Virgin, Earl of Cambridge and Huntingdon, in Honour of that Saint. He mindful of that ancient most strict Alliance between the French and the Scots, continu'd from the Days of Charlemaign of France, and Achaius King of Scots; was the first, I know of, that brought the Name of St. Radegundis into England. To acquaint you with whose Original, the was Queen of France, Daughter of Bertram, King of Thuringia, in Germany, and Wife to the most Potent Lothair, King of the Francs, the Son of Glouis the Great, the first Christian King in France. She about the Year of our Lord 460, leaving her Husband, retir'd into a Monastery at Poitiers, and there founded the Abbey of the Holy Cross, where they still show her Tomb. Presently after the Coming in of the Normans, there feems to have been only a little poor Cell of Nuns about this Place, to whom Pope Honorius II. gave some Life, granting them the Impropriation of the Rectory of St. Clements at Cambridge, in the Year of our Lord 1133, being the 5th of his Pontificate, the 33d of the Reign of King Henry I. and the first of Nigellus lus, Bishop of Ely. About this same Time we read, that the Lady Constance, Countess of Bologne, Daughter to Lewis the Gross, King of France, and Wife to Eustace, Earl of Bologn, Son and Heir to Stephen, King of England, became a Benefactress; for she entirely gave to this House of St. Radegundis all the Fishery, from the Bridge of Cambridge to the Abbey of Barnwell. But the aforesaid Malcolm is more conspicuous than all the rest, for he gave those Nuns Land, on which he built a Church, and for their better Support, to speak from the Archives of the College, he conferr'd on the Priory 10 Acres of Land adjoyning to it, as being Lord of all this Town, and receiving the 3d Penny of the County of Cambridge by Inheritance. For his Father Henry, Son and Heir of David King of Scots, was by King Stephen created Earl of Cambridge and Huntingdon. He dying before his Father, left 3 Sons; first Malcolm above-mention'd, who dy'd without Issue; 2dly, William, King of Scots, Earl of Cambridge and Huntingdon, whose Son Alexander succeeding his Father in all his Honours, left a Son, Alexander III. King of Scots, who dy'd childless; 3dly, David, Earl of Cambridge and Huntingdon, the Propagator of the Royal Race, who marry'd Maud, eldest Sister and Coheir of Ralph Meschines, last Count Palatine of Chester: from which Marriage proceeded only one Son and Heir, viz. John, furnam'd Sco Earl Palatine of Chester, who dy'd without Issue. But there were three Daughters of the faid David, and at length Coheirs of the faid John. the 3d of them, pardon me Reader for inverting the Order, 3d Sister and Coheir of the said John, Wife to Henry Hastings, Knight, was Grandmother to the Lord John Hastings, who was one of the Competitors for the Kingdom of Scotland, under King Edward I. in Right of his Grandmother Ada. Margaret, first Sifter and Coheir of John, Wife of Alan, Lord of Galloway and Constable of Scotland, was Grandmother of John Baliol, King of Scotland, in Right of his faid Grandmother Margaret. Elizabeth, 2d Sister and Coheir of John, by her Husband Robert Bruce, Lord of Anandale in Scotland, descended from Robert Brus, younger Son of Robert Brus, Lord of Cleveland in Yorkshire, was Mother to Robert Brus, call'd the Noble Earl of Carrick, who not only succeeded in the Wealthy Inheritance of the two Earldoms of Cambridge and Huntingdon, in the Right of his Mother Elizabeth, and confirm'd the Donation of the aforesaid Malcolm to the Nuns of St. Rodegundis; but also claim'd before King Edward I. as the honourable Umpire, the Kingdom of Scotland, in Right of his Mother Elizabeth, against John Baliol, as nearer Heir to Alexander. His Son Robert Bruce, in the War between the Bruces and the Baliols, by his own Valour, gain'd to himself and secur'd the Kingdom of Scotland, upon the Title transmitted to him through his faid Grandmother Elizabeth from the Kings of Scotland. His Daughter Margery, only Sister and Heir to King David Bruce, Wife to Walter Stuart, Lord High Steward of Scotland, was the Mother of Robert Stuart, King of Scots, in Right of his Mother, to whom we Britons owe the Sacred Majesty of King Charles, wishing he may live, be victorious, and prosper. Prioresses and their Nuns flourish'd long in this Monastery, till at length, I know not by whose Fault, all their Estate being squander'd, and their Goods taken away, they all, except one or two, went away and left the House destitute.

tute. Which being known to the most Reverend Father in God John Alcock, 28th Bishop of Ely, he refolv'd quite to alter the Pollure of Affairs there. He being a Man of wonderful Sanctity, great Faith, and highly in Favour with King Henry VII. who had for this Reason appointed him Comptroller of all his Works and Buildings, and particularly those at Richmond; and from Master of the Rolls preferr'd him to Lord High Chancellor of England, obtain'd License of the said King, as also of Pope Alexander VI. of the House of Borgia, to convert this abandon'd Monastery into a College, Pope Julius II. at the Instance of King Henry VII. confirming the faid Grant. This he perfected in the 11th Year of the faid Henry VII. of our Lord 1496, placing in it a Provost, 6 Fellows. and as many Scholars, in Honour of the Bleffed Virgin Mary, St. John Evangelist, and the Glorious Virgin St. Radegundis. Which College, tho' now known by the Name of Jesus, he built as fine as his own Palace of Ely, and committed it to the perpetual Protection of the Bishops of Ely, to whose Patronage the Place had before belong'd. Therefore, I think it not impertinent to observe, that the Bishops of Ely, when they came hither, are in the Register of Ely, in the Years 1556 and 1557, faid to have resided in their own House in JESUS-College. Afterwards other Favourers of Learning show'd their Generosity towards it; viz. James Stanley, 30th Bishop of Ely, younger Brother to Thomas Stanley, first Earl of Derby, who, in the 22d Year of King Henry VII. impropriated the Rectory of Great Shelford, in the County of Cambridge, to the Use of this College; Thomas Thirlby, Bishop of Ely, who granted to it the Vicaridges of Fordham, Gildenmorden, Wichford, Iteng fton, Hengston, Swasey and Cumberton, in the County of Cambridge; Mr. Roberts, Mr. Thorn, Dr. Andrews, Mr. Gaynsford, Mr. Foliambe, Thomas Sutton of Balfbam in the County of Cambridge, another Crafus for Wealth among the English Esquires, Mr. Vaughan and others. It would be a Crime not to mention among these, Richard Read of Bore-place, in Kent, Knight, who was first Fellow of King's-College, and afterwards, Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, and bestow'd on this College that great Brewhouse by the Bridge of the City, on the South Side of Magdalen College, being no inconsiderable Addition, and at his Death left it in Charge to William Capon, the Provost, and Mr. Bland his Executors, to cause 41. a Year Stipend to be paid to each of the Professors of Philosophy and Logick. From these Beginning soon came abroad Geoffrey Downs, a notable Divine, John Bale, born in the Village of St. Cove, not 3 Miles from Swold in Suffolk, Bishop of Sodor, vulgarly call'd of the Isle of Man, the Protestant Writer of the Centuries, and more particularly Thomas Cranmer, Fellow of the College, come from the County of Nottingham; who stood up for Henry VIII's Divorce from Queen Catherine, and was therefore foon preferr'd by that King to the Archbishoprick of Canterbury. By the Goodness of the aforesaid Benefactors, and some others, the Lands, Possessions and Wealth of this College fo much increas'd, that there now live on the Revenues of the faid College, a Provost, 16 Fellows, and 22 Scholars.

This John was at first Fellow of this College; but had so neglected the Fellowship, that the Bishop, by way of Lapse, substituted in his Place John Ramesey, Master of Arts, on the 16th of December. King Henry VI. would, on account of his removing its Situation, have increas'd this to 60 Scholars, had not that fatal War betwixt the Torkists and the Lancastrians, which cruelly ravag'd all England, obstructed his pious Design But to the End it may appear how much the Genius of this Place was always favour'd, the most pious Princess the Lady Margaret, Countess of Richmond and Derby, Daughter and Heir to John Beaufort, first Duke of Some set, Wife to Edmund Hadham, Earl of Richmond, Brother by the Mother's Side to King Henry VI. Mother to the most Prudent King Heavy VII. and confequently great by Birth, greater by Marriage, and greatest in her Offspring, arose a Tutelar Deity to this House. She, having first obtain'd License of her Son, King Henry VII effected what had been hop'd for, and ordain'd that which Henry VI. had projected, and so plentifully endow'd the College out of her own Lands and Possessions, that only her Revenues afford an easy Subsistance to a Master, 12 Fellows, and 47 Scholars, who, at length when the College was built, had it confirm'd by the Authority of Pope Julius II. # St. JOHN EVANGELIST'S COLLEGE.

1508. XII. IGELLUS, 2d Bishop of Ely, and Treasurer to King Henry I. gave the first Reputation to this Place; for he, in the Year of our Lord 1134, being the last but one of that King, foon after which our British World was infested with Wars, under Maud the Empress and King Stephen, built the Hospital of the Prior and Brethren of the Order of St. John Evangelift, according to the Rule and Institute of St. Augustin, in the Jewry, a Place fo call'd from the Jews living there, and endow'd it with a Revenue of 140 l. a Year. Moreover, besides the Donation of Eustachius 5th Bishop of Ely, who in the Reign of King Richard I. gave the Impropriation of the Church of Horningsey in the County of Cambridge to those Regulars, the growing Zeal of our Kings so far cherish'd this Religious House, that they granted to it many Fines or Forfeitures impos'd by the Judges on Account of the Price and Sale of Provisions. Hugh Northwold, at first Abbat of St. Edmunds-Bury in Suffolk, when made the 8th Bishop of Ely, in the Reign of King Henry III. about the Year of our Lord 1240, brought into this House Secular Brothers of the same Order, who apply'd themselves more to study than to pray. But because they did not well agree with the Regulars, Hugh Balsham, 10th Bishop of Ely, remov'd those Secular Brothers, to increase his own House of St. Peter. The Regular Brothers, to whom the faid Hugh Balsham, in the Year of our Lord 1283, gave Rud Hospital, where now is the Castle Inn, on the West Side of Emanuel-College, remain'd in this ancient Place, confirm'd to them by Bull of Pope Innocent IV. in the 9th Year of his Pontificate, and of our Lord 1250, till the End of the Reign of King Henry VII. for at that Time, to speak in the very Words of the ancient Regifter, this Priory was reduc'd to fuch Ruin, Want and Smallness of Number, that of an once flourishing and numerous Company, there only remain'd the Prior and 2 Brothers; and the Possessions both Real and Personal were so wasted and spent, that of 140 l. yearly Income given them by the aforefaid Nigellus, there remain'd only 30. But the Lady Margaret, Countess of Richmond, the aforesaid Foundress of this College, arose an Auspicious Star to this Place, who after having founded that College, erected this Second most illustrious Monument here of her Piety, rendring the same of a private Structure Publick, of an Hospital a College, and of an Edifice of Brick, equal to one of Marble, if you have regard to the Muses. She, a most indulgent Promoter of Learning, founded this College in the Year of our Lord 1508, under the ancient Invocation of St. John Evangelist, and so plentifully endow'd it with Lands, Manors and Possessions, that a Provost, 50 Fellows, and as many Scholars daily return Thanks to God for the Lady Margaret. And tho' fhe was fnatch'd away by an untimely Death, to the great Detriment of the College, when she had scarce laid the Foundation of so great a Structure, yet she appointed for her Executors, Executors, Richard Fox, Bishop of Winchester, and Warden of Pembroke-Hall, John Fisher, Bishop of Rochester, who by the bye suppress'd the Nunnery of Higham in Kent, and gave it to this College, Charles Somer Set, Baron Herbert of Gower in the County of Glamorgan, afterwards Earl of Worcester, Thomas Lovel, Knight of the Garter, Henry Marney of Laer-Marney in Effex, and John St. John of Bletso in the County of Bedford, a molt renowned Knight, Robert Shirton, Fellow of Pembroke Hall, and Warden here, Hugh Ashton, Archdeacon of York, and Henry Hornby,-Clerk, all who were so far from failing in the Discharge of the Trust repos'd in them, that they rather built a most beautiful College, put in Possession of all its Lands, perform'd other Things committed to them, and appointed Alan Percy, younger Son to Henry Percy 4th Earl of Northumberland, Master, Pope Julius II. in compliance with their Petition, in the Year 1510, about the first of King Henry VIII. authorifing them to dissolve and suppress the aforefaid Priory and erect this College. But Henry VIII. had expell'd the Priors and Brethren of the Monasteries of Bromhall and Higeham, and confiscated their Lands, the Master and Fellows in the Year of our Lord 1524, being the 15th of King Henry VIII. obtain'd of the faid King and of Pope Clement VII. that the faid Priories should be transferr'd, and for ever confirm'd to this College. Nor was it a small Addition to this Nursery of Learning, that John Morton, Archbishop of Canterbury, gave 4 Scholarships; the Lady Catherine Willoughby, Duchess of Suffolk, whose Sons Henry and Charles Brandon, Dukes of Suffolk, were Fellow Commoners of this College, a yearly Stipend of 61. more more or less; the Lady Mildred Cecil, Daughter to Antony Cook of Giddy-Hall at Rumford in Esex, Knight, Wife of William Cecil, Baron Burleigh, Lord High Treasurer of England, the Yearly Revenue of 30 l. for the Maintenance of 6 Scholars; the Lady Elizabeth Talbot, Countefs of Shrewsbury, Daughter and Co-heir of John Hardwick in the County of Derby, Esquire, Mother by her first Husband William Cavendish, Knight, of Charles Cavendift, Knight, and of William, Baron Cavendish of Hardwick, afterwards created Earl of Devonshire by King James, Widow of George Talbot, 6th Earl of Shrewsbury, contributed her fignal Generofity to beautify the New Building; the Lady Anne Rokesley, Dr. Felton, Hugh Ashton, Archdeacon of Ely aforesaid, which pious Man lies here in the outward Chappel, in a Tomb adorn'd on all Sides; Roger Laxton, Provost of Eton, Robert Ducket, Thomas Lane, Henry Billingsley, Knight; besides, Doctor and Citizens lent their helping Hands. Through the Liberality of all whom, not only a Provost, 54 Fellows, and 84 Scholars are reckoned; but the very Structure of the College is become so beautiful, that scarce any can match it.

In the Margin of the Manuscript are these Words, I read of Fulk Bridges, Master of St. John's-College in Cambridge, who was younger Brother to John Bridges, Maior of London in 1520.

St. MARY MAGDALEN'S COLLEGE.

XIII. HIS Place is faid to have then first 1519. become noted, when the most famous Monasteries of the Order of St. Benedict, of Ely, Ramsey and Walden, for their Money purchas'd three Houses, where the Priory of St. Giles before flourish'd, being convenient for their Design, to be a Receptacle, as granted by Pope Benedict the XIth's Bull, in the Year 1300, for their Monks (whence it is still call'd Monk's Corner) who had reforted thither to acquire Learning, as had been before done by those of Croyland. But it improv'd, after Edward Stafford, 3d Duke of Buckingham, Earl of Stafford, Hereford and Northampton, Lord of Brechin and Holderness, Knight of the Garter, and Privy-Counsellor to King Henry VII. a most honourable Heroe, purchas'd these three Houses, built them for the Use of the Univerfity, and call'd the same Buckingham-Hall, in the Year of our Lord 1519, being the 11th of King Henry VIII. Afterwards Thomas, Baron Audley of Walden, Lord High Chancellor of England, Privy-Counsellor to King Henry VIII. and Knight of the Garter, by Authority of the faid King and Parliament, took upon him the Patronage and Protection of this Hall, call'd it the College of St. Mary Magdalen in 1542, and gave to it Lands and Tenements, Parcels of the Priory of the Holy Trinity, in London; the Name of

of Magdalen, vulgarly in English pronounc'd M-AUDLET-N, contains the Founder's Name, with the Addition of two Letters, one at the Beginning, and the other at the End. And this is the only College beyond the Cant, that is on the North-side of that River; about which Place we shall freely acknowledge the Remains of the former City of Cambridge, if we confider the Monuments frequently dug up, as a Sort of Gigantick Bones, which I have feen, and Abundance of Roman Coins found there. But the unexpected Death of this Patron, was so prejudicial to the College, that there remain'd only four Fellows and one Divinity Scholar. King Henry VIII. added two Fellows more, and gave the College 20 l. a Year for ever. At length, to pass by Thomas Parkinson, Rector of Wyvelingham, in the County of Cambridge, a Man worthy to have his Praises mention'd among the Benefactors, in the Year of our Lord 1582; Christopher Wrey, Knight, and Lord Chief Justice of England, finish'd that unpolish'd Work with his Buildings, and a very beautiful Porch, and gave Lands to the College, for the Maintenance of 3 Fellows and 4 Scholars. To those above-mention'd, his Widow Anne Wrey added two Scholars; Edmund Grindal, Archbishop of Canterbury one, and Mr. Roberts of Norfolk three. Since then Mr. Spenloffe of Lincoln affign'd to this College Lands to the Value of 40 l. a Year, for the Maintenance of one Fellow, two Scholars, and one Preacher at Alford in the County of Lincoln. The Happiness of which College has receiv'd this great Addition or Honour, that the Lady Margaret, Duchels of Norfolk, Daughter and Heir to the aforesaid Thomas, Baron Audley of Walden, 3d Wife to the most illustrious Prince Thomas Howard, 4th Duke of Norfolk, brought forth to him that most renowned Hero, Thomas Earl of Suffolk, Baron Howard of the Honour of Walden, Privy-Counsellor to King James, One of the Commissioners for the Office of Lord High Marshal of England, Knight of the Order of the Garter, most Excellent Chancellor of the University of Cambridge, and Lord Lieutenant of the Counties of Cambridge and Dorset, under whose truly hereditary and honourable Patronage this College quietly reposes, as in a safe Harbour.

in Arts and Law, being those of Gregory, Oving, 6 Hopello St. Margaret, Gerard, St. Catherine and Tiler, there flourish'd three others of greater Note: The first of these was the College or House of St. Michael the Archangel, founded on the 5th Day before the Calends of October 1324, by Henry Stanton, Priest, Canon of the Churches of St. Peter at York, and St Andrew at Wells, Rector of East Dearham and Northcreak in Norfolk, and Chancellor of the Exchequer to King Edward II. as appears by his Will, and enrich'd with many Possessions of John Ilney. This was frequently call'd a compleat College, and was fo, as much as any of our Days. Henry Stanton dy'd in 1337, the 11th of Edward III. and his House was sufficiently endow'd, the Fellows of it taking their Degrees in the publick Schools of the University, as the Archives thereof do testify.

and Chaplain to Queen Mary before the came to the Crown; he translated Erasmus's Paraphrase on the Gospel of St. John into English, and was last Master of St. Michael's House.

Next to this was the College call'd King's-building of Houses of Literature; so this Hall succeeded the six foregoing Colleges erected within the Space of an hundred Years; and tho' Edward II. began to build it, and allow'd the Scholars Salaries for their Maintenance; yet the most potent King Edward III. his Son, after having over run France with his victorious Arms, consecrated it to the Muses in the Year 1376, and in the 51st Year of his Reign, being as great a Favourer of Learning as of Martial Exploits; he endow'd it with large Possessions, the Fellows of his Hall taking their Degrees in the University under the Title of a College. Having laid some Foundation of this Hall, in the 8th Year of his Reign, which was of CHRIST 1343, for the better establishing of the same, he about the Time of the said Foundation, writ to Pope Benedict XII in these words, We have ordained and new founded the Number of 32 Scholars sit to advance in Learning,

Learning, in the University of Cambridge, which has fent forth many fruitful Branches into the ' Church, appointing them to be govern'd by a discreet Warden; for the Maintenance of ' whom, we have in Charity given them cer-' tain Possessions, with the Right of Patronage of St. Peter's Church at Northampton, in the ' Diocese of Lincoln, and we design to give ' more.' Nor were the Master and Fellows wanting in their Time, who in the Year 1440, being the 18th of Henry VI. the King himself interceding, obtain'd of Pope Eugenius IV. the annexing of the Rectory of Chesterton near Cambridge, which had been before by Pontificial Authority annex'd to the Monastery of Verceil; and tho' it had been given by Pope Martin V. to William, Bishop of Milan, yet was it by the aforesaid Eugenius taken from that William, after he had been depriv d of the Bishoprick of Milan, on Account of his too much adhering to the Council of Bafil, after it had been translated to Ferrara, and his favouring Amadeus, first Dike of Savoy, chosen Pope by the Name of Felix V. In this Hall there were elderly Fellows, so noted for Gravity and Wisdom, that it was at that Time look'd upon as the Oracle of the University. And to the End that it might be in all Respects a Work truly Regal, this Hall was made of fo magnificent a Structure, that it was capable of entertaining King Richard II. when he held the Parliament at Cambridge.

Out of these three Nurseries of Learning, viz. St. Michael's, King's, and Phiswick's Halls, King Henry VIII. compos'd his most stately College, dedicated it to the Holy and Undivided Trinity, and endow'd it with fo many Revenues, Lands, Privileges and Royalties, besides its ancient Possessions, as to leave it the yearly Income of 1300 l. on which a Provost, 60 Fellows, 40 Scholars, and 10 Almoner Orators are maintain'd, owning King Henry VIII. for their only Patron; referving to himself and his Royal Successors for ever this Prerogative, that the Kings of England shall always appoint the Warden, as was us'd of old in King's Hall. Which good Example fet by her Father, Queen Mary refolv'd to follow, and not only honour'd this College of his with a most beautiful Chappel, but added to it a Revenue of 3381. per Annum arising from good Lands, for the Maintenance of 20 Scholars, 10 Choristers, one Master of them, 4 Chaplains, 13 poor Scholars, and 2 Under-Sizers. Thus the Prophet Isaiah formerly most truly foretold of the Increase of the Church, Kings shall be your Nursing Fathers, and Queens your Nursing Mothers. The next to her K 4

her was Thomas Allen, Rector of the Parish Church of Steven-haugh in the County of Hertford, who added two Students, with the Maintenance of 3 Grammar Scholars, and 4 Poor, with Lands to the Value of 75 l. per Annum. Among these deserves to be remember'd Frances Jermin, Sister to Robert Jermin of Rusbbrooke in Suffolk, Knight, and Daughter of Ambrose Fermin, Knight, who added one Scholar, with the yearly Income of 7 l. 10 s. To these must be subjoin'd, the most Reverend John Whitgift, Archbishop of Canterbury, Provost there before, the most noble Lord Devereux, 2d Earl of Es-Jex, Commoner of this College, and most flourishing Chancellor of the University, and many other great Men. Among them is to be reckoned, the most renowned Edward Stanbope, 4th Son of Michael Stanhope of Shelford in the County of Nottingham, Esquire, Grandson to the most potent Anne, Duchess of Somerset, Wife of Edward Seymour, Duke of Somerfet, himfelf Knight Batchelor, Doctor of the Civil Law, Vicar General of the Diocese of London, Chancellor and formerly Fellow here, who gave at least 900 l. to furnish the Library and maintain a Librarian in this learned Place, where he had his Education. For the better Conveniency of the Sons of the Muses, this Habitation of theirs was beautify'd, and as it were new built, under the Direction of Thomas Nevile, Provost, and Dean of Canterbury: He being descended from that Family of the Neviles, which being English-Saxon, was not only ancient, but also of the most Noble, as having produc'd one Duke and Marquis, 14 Earls, and 24 Barons; he, I say, added to the Lustre of his Family by his Virtues, and to him this College owes that Magnificence which renders it inferior to no other in Christendom. He is much to be honour'd for having in his old Age spent above 3000 l. in erecting the Buildings on the Westside in such a beautiful Manner, which are therefore juffly call d Nevile's-Court. To the Honour of this College, the most Potent Princes, Charles Prince of Wales, and Frederick V. Elector Palatine of the Rhine, vifited it, and King James kept his Court there two feveral Years. There is yearly paid out of the Treasury of this College, the Sum of 120 l. to 3 Publick and Royal Professors, that is 40 l. per Annum to each, King Henry VIII. being Founder. There are in this College a Provost, 60 Fellows, 62 Scholars, 13 poor Scholars, 4 Hirelings, one Master of the Choristers, 10 Choristers, 6 Singers, 24 Alms-Orators, besides many other Officers belonging to it.

XV. THE next College founded, leads us 1584. into Preacher's Street, fo call'd from the Monastery of Friers Preachers, of the Order of St. Dominick, commonly call'd Black Friers, first Founded and endow'd about the Year of our Lord 1280, by the Lady Alice, Countels of Oxford, Daughter and Heir of Gilbert, Baron Samford, hereditary Lord Chamberlain to the Queens of England, Lord of Great Hormead in the County of Hertford and Wooburne, in the County of Bedford, and Wife of Robert Vere, 5th Earl of Oxford. After the fatal Suppression of Monasteries, the Friers having been turn'd out, Walter Mildmay, Knight, Chancellor and Treasurer of the Exchequer, Privy Councellor to Queen Elizabeth, founded Emmanuel-College in this Place, to the Glory of God, in the Year of CHRIST 1584, being the 26th of Queen Elizabeth, placing in it a Master, 3 Fellows and 4 Scholars; to which Number were afterwards added it Fellowships, partly by the same Founder's Liberality, and partly by Robert Jermin of Rusbrooke in Suffolk, Knight, Francis Haftings, Knight, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Skinner, Mr. Fuller, and other Benefactors; as also 50 Scholarships; and 10 of the inferior Rank, call'd Poor Scholars. Thus this College at present consists of a Master, 14 Fellows, 50 Scholars, besides to poor Students, and Servants necessary for the Affairs of the House.

Wardens of EMMANUEL-COLLEGE.

I. Laurence Chaderton, of the ancient Family of the Chadertons in Chesbire, was Fellow of CHRIST'S College, chosen Provost of this College by the Founder in 1584, Doctor of Divinity in 1612, at the Time when Charles, Prince of Wales, and Frederick the 5th Elector Palatin were at Cambridge.

SIDNEY-SUSSEX COLLEGE.

TE are at length come to the last College; which tho' in Number the 16th, yet is the 7th built within the Space of an Hundred Years in this Learned Age. (Note, That the Author writ this about 1620, or Soon after; So that the Hundred Years are to be reckoned back from that Time, and yet he takes them in the gross, for the Time of building the Seven Colleges much exceeds an Hundred Years). It was erected on the very Place on which the Monastery of Franciscans, commonly call'd Grey Friers, built by King Edward I. had flourish'd. This Monaftery was very famous among all the others at Cambridge, because formerly the yearly Asfemblies of the University, and the Publick Exercises were kept in it, by Reason of its Largenefs. When the Friers had been expell'd, the Lady Frances Sidney, Countels of Suffex, the Daughter of William Sidney made Knight Banneret neret at Floddon, and Steward to the Houshold to King Edward VI; Sister to Henry Sidney, Knight of the Garter, and Lord President of Wales: Aunt to Philip Sidney, Knight, famous for his Arcadia, and to Robert Sidney, Baron Sidney, Viscount Liste, Earl of Leicester, Lord Chamberlain to Queen Anne; and Widow of Thomas Radcliffe, 3d Earl of Sussex, dying without Issue in the Year 1589, by her last Will left 5000 l. to be laid out in Founding this College, to be call'd Sidney-Sussex. Her Executors were Henry Grey, 5th Earl of Kent, and John, Baron Harrington of Exton in the County of Rutland, who performing the Trust repos'd in them, built this College, and endow'd it with Revenues for the Maintenance of a Master, 10 Fellows and 20 Scholars, pursuant to the Will of the Foundress. The said two Executors added much to this Foundation of their own Generosity. The Reverend Father in God James Montague, Bishop of Winchester, and Dean of the Royal Chappel, descended from the noble Family of the Montacutes, Earls of Salisbury, and the Knightly of the Harringtons and Sidneys, by his Mother, was first Provost of this College, and a Benefactor, as was his elder Brother Edward Montague of Boughton, in the County of Northampton, Knight, and Baron John Harrington, Junior. It had afterwards other Benefactors, John Hart of London, Knight, who added 2 Fellows and 4 Scholars; Peter Blundel, 2 Fellows and 2 Scholars; John Freeston one Fellow and 2 Scholars; Mr. Leonard Smith, one Fellow and one Scholar, who all affign'd Stipends for their Maintenance.

Wardens of SIDNEY-SUSSEX COLLEGE.

Montague of Boughton in the County of Northampton, Knight, one of the Judges of the Common Pleas, younger Brother to Henry Montague, Knight, Lord Chief Justice of England, Fellow Commoner of Christ's College, chosen Warden of this College by the Foundress's Executors; afterwards Dean of King James's Chappel and of Worcester, Bishop of Bath and Wells, and next of Winchester, Prelate of the Order of the Garter, and Privy Counsellor to King James.

2. Francis Aldrich, of Kent, bred in Clare-Hall, first a Fellow and then 2d Provost of this College, Doctor of Divinity.

3. Samuel Ward, born in the Bishoprick of Durham, of a good Family, Fellow of Emmanuel College, chosen Warden of this, Doctor of Divinity, Archdeacon of Taunton in Somersetshire, Rector of Munden-Furnival in Hertfordshire, Prebendary of Wells, sent to the Synod of Dort by King James.

Bishops who came out of the University of CAMBRIDGE from the Year of our Lord 1500 to 1622.

OM E who were plac'd in feveral Sees before the Hundredth Year, are nevertheless inserted here, because having been translated to other Dioceses, they dy'd there that Year, or much about it. Among them are those whom I freely own to have been Fellows, or Wardens in the Colleges of our Sister Univerfity of Oxford; but in regard that they had their first Education among us, and received first Nourishment here, Sisterly Love will permit me to put them into this Catalogue. Matthew Parker, Archbishop of Canterbury led on to draw this Sketch, for I am not asham'd to own by whom I have been Instructed; for he collected those Bishops from the Year of our Lord 1500 to 1572, as may be feen in his Memorable Appendix to Florilegus of Westminster. Why may not I follow his Steps? And depend entirely on his Veracity, in publishing this Table, fince he was almost Contemporary with many of those Bishops, and knew how to transmit the Truth to Posterity? He persorm'd this Part well, well, bating that he omitted their Colleges, which I have endeavour'd to affix to each, as far as I could be inform'd. If there happen to be any Omissions, I intreat you, courteous Reader, to fill up the Chasm with your Improvements, for when Occasion shall offer, which God grant, I will make the same more perfect.

Yours in the Lord,

RI. PARKER.
