READE R.

THE following is a Collection of Poems, written by my Father at different periods of his life. Those, which have been before printed, have been generally admired; and, I hope, the few, now published for the first time, will meet with as favourable a reception.

The Poem De Animi Immortalitate having been out of print fome years, a new Edition, with fome corrections from the Author's Manufcript, cannot be unacceptable to the Publick. Mr. Soame Jenyns has very obligingly permitted his elegant Tranflation to be printed with it.

The Epiftle addreffed to Mr. Highmore upon Defign and Beauty was one of the A Author's

TO THE READER.

Author's first performances. The Platonic idea of Beauty is purfued through the whole poem; by Defign is meant, in a large and extensive fense, that power of Genius, which enables the real Artist, to collect together his feattered ideas, to range them in proper order, and to form a regular plan, before he attempts to execute any work in Architecture, Painting, or Poetry.

The Pipe of Tobacco was written in imitation of Cibber, Ambrofe Phillips, Thomfon, Young, Pope, and Swift. The Imitation of Ambrofe Phillips was not written by my Father, but fent to him by an ingenious Friend.

There is no occasion to fay any thing of the other Pieces; but the Latin Fragment may require fome little explanation. The Author defigned to have confuted the opinions of Lord Bolingbroke concerning concerning the moral Attributes of the Deity, and the Doctrine of a future State; though unfortunately he never accomplifhed this defign, the verfes, which he had finifhed, were thought too valuable to be fuppreffed.

TO THE READER.

It will not be neceffary for me to enlarge upon the Character of the Author. His merit is well known; and these Poems will be an ample, and, I hope, a lasting testimony, not only of an extensive and improved Genius, but of a Reason employed upon the noblest Subjects, and a Heart anxious for the Publick Good.

Isaac Hawkins Browne.

A 2 SON-

SONNET.

ONCE more, my Hawkins, I attempt to raife
My feeble voice to urge the tuneful fong
Of that fweet Mufe, which to her Country's wrong
Or fleeps, or only wakes to Latian lays.

Great is the Merit, well-deferv'd the praife Of that laft Work, where Reafoning juft and ftrong In charming verfe thy name shall bear along To learned foreigners, and future days:

Yet do not thou thy native language fcorn,
In which great Shakespear, Spenser, Milton fang Such strains as may with Greek, or Roman vie:
This cultivate, raise, polish, and adorn;
So each fair Maid shall on thy numbers hang,
And every Briton bless thy melody.

THOMAS EDWARDS.

Ergo

220

Ergo age qua ducit nos conjectura fequamur, Nec spernamus opem si quam Ratio ipsa ministrat.

Haud equidem inficior mentem cum corpore multis Confentire modis ; Lex mutua fæderis illa eft: 230 Aft eadem in multis difpar fe difparis effe Naturæ probat ac divina ftirpe profectam.

Sæpe videmus uti folido ftant robore vires Corporeæ, cum mens obtufior; invalidoque Corpore ineft virtus perfæpe acerrima mentis. 235 Quinetiam interitu fi corporis intereat mens, Confimili pacto par eft ægrotet ut ægro Corpore, quod fieri contrà quoque fæpe videmus. Namque ubi torpefcunt artus jam morte propinqua Acrior eft acies tum mentis, et entheus ardor; 240 Tempore non alio facundia fuavior, atque Fatidicæ jam tum voces morientis ab ore.

Corporeis porrò fi constat mens elementis,

Quî

Quî fit ut in fomnis, cum claufa foramina fensûs, Nec fpecies externa manet quæ pabula menti 245 Sufficiat, magis illa vigens, tum denique veras Expromat vires, tum fe plaudentibus alis Tollat, avi fimilis, cavea quæ fortè reclufa Fertur ad alta volans, cœloque exultat aperto.

Jam fi corporea eft animi Natura, neceffe eft 250 Partibus hæc eadem conflata fit infinitis; Ergo et fenfus erit cuique, et fua cuique libido Particulæ, totidemque animi in diversa trahentes. Has inter turbas atque in certamine tanto Dic, quo more queat verum confistere et æquum; 255 Et vitæ tenor unus, et hæc fibi confcia virtus.

At

At quodam ex motu fit Vis quæ cogitat omnis : Quid non conficiat motus ? Nempe ipfa voluntas, Difcurfus, ratio, rerumque fcientia conftant Vectibus ac trochleis ; pueri, credo, actus habena 265 Concipit Ingenium, fapit et fub verbere turbo : Nec non lege pari, liquor ut calefactus aheno eft, Eloquii tumet atque exundat divite vena. Unde autem exoritur motus ? Mens fcilicet una, Mens, non corpus iners fons eft et origo movendi : 270 Utque Deus Mundum, fic molem corporis omnem, Arbitrio nutuque fuo, mens dirigit intus.

Define quapropter mirari quomodo poffit Vivere mens omni detracto corpore, miror Hoc potiùs qua vi poterit labefacta perire : 275 Utpote quæ nullis confiftat partibus, ac non Divelli queat externo violabilis ictu : Tum porrò ipfa fuî motrix eft, non aliundè Inftincta ; at quodcunque fua virtute movet fe, Vivet in æternum, quia fe non deferet unquam. 280 Verùm

Verùm haud conceptu facile est existere quidvis Posse quidem, formam si dempseris et posituram. Quidnam igitur censes de Numine? Nam neque formam Mens (quà fcire licet) recipit divina, nec ullo Circumferipta loco eft, nisi forte putaveris ipsum 285 Materiam effe Deum; fin vero Spiritus Idem, Integer et, purusque, et fæce remotus ab omni Corporis, humana pariter de mente putandum : Ecquid enim per se pollet magis, aut magis haustus Indicat ætherios, genus et divinitus ortum? 290 Atque adeo dum corporei stant fædera nexús, Exit sæpe foras tamen, effugioque parat se; Ac veluti terrarum hofpes, non incola, furfum Fertur, et ad patrios gestit remeare penates.

I nunc, ufuram vitæ mirare caducam; Sedulus huc illuc, ut muſca, nitentibus alis Pervolita, rorem deliba, veſcere et aura Pauliſper, mox in nihilum rediturus et exſpes. Hæccine vitai ſumma eſt? Sic irrita vota?

IMMORTALITY OF THE SOUL.

TRANSLATED FROM THE LATIN OF

ISAAC HAWKINS BROWNE, Efq; BY SOAME JENNYNS, Efq;

BOOKL

• O all inferior animals 'tis given T' enjoy the flate allotted them by Heaven; No vain refearches e'er difturb their reft, No fears of dark futurity moleft. Man, only Man follicitous to know The fprings whence Nature's operations flow, Plods through a dreary wafte with toil and pain, And reafons, hopes, and thinks, and lives in vain; For fable Death still hov'ring o'er his head, Cuts fhort his progrefs, with his vital thread. IO Wherefore, fince Nature errs not, do we find Thefe feeds of Science in the human mind, If no congenial fruits are predefign'd?

For

For what avails to Man this pow'r to roam Through ages paft, and ages yet to come, T' explore new worlds o'er all th' ætherial way, Chain'd to a fpot, and living but a day? Since all muft perifh in one common grave, Nor can thefe long laborious fearches fave. Were it not wifer far, fupinely laid, To fport with Phyllis in the noontide fhade? Or at thy jovial feftivals appear, Great Bacchus, who alone the foul can clear From all that it has felt, and all that it can fear?

Come on then, let us feaft : let Chloe fing, And foft Neæra touch the trembling ftring; Enjoy the prefent hour, nor feek to know What good or ill to-morrow may beftow. But thefe delights foon pall upon the tafte; Let's try then if more ferious cannot laft : Wealth let us heap on wealth, or fame purfue, Let pow'r and glory be our points in view; 20

In courts, in camps, in fenates let us live, Our levees crowded like the buzzing hive: Each weak attempt the fame fad leffon brings, 35 Alas, what vanity in human things!

What means then fhall we try? where hope to find A friendly harbour for the reftlefs mind? Who ftill, you fee, impatient to obtain Knowledge immenfe, (fo Nature's laws ordain) 40 Ev'n now, tho' fetter'd in corporeal clay, Climbs ftep by ftep the profpect to furvey, And feeks, unweary'd, Truth's eternal ray. No fleeting joys fhe afks, which muft depend On the frail fenfes, and with them muft end; 45 But fuch as fuit her own immortal fame, Free from all change, eternally the fame.

Take courage then, these joys we shall attain; Almighty Wisdom never acts in vain;

Nor

Nor fhall the foul, on which it has beftow'd 5°
Such pow'rs, e'er perifh, like an earthly clod;
But purg'd at length from foul corruption's ftain,
Freed from her prifon, and unbound her chain,
She fhall her native ftrength, and native fkies regain:
To heav'n an old inhabitant return, 55
And draw nectareous ftreams from truth's perpetual urn.

Whilft life remains, (if life it can be call'd T' exift in flefhly bondage thus enthrall'd) Tir'd with the dull purfuit of worldly things, The foul fcarce wakes, or opes her gladfome wings; 60 Yet ftill the godlike exile in difgrace Retains fome marks of her celeftial race; Elfe whence from Mem'ry's ftore can fhe produce Such various thoughts, or range them fo for ufe ? Can matter thefe contain, difpofe, apply ? 65 Can in her cells fuch mighty treafures lye ? Or can her native force produce them to the eye?

Whence

Whence is this pow'r, this foundrefs of all arts, Serving, adorning life, thro' all its parts, Which names impos'd, by letters mark'd thofe names, Adjufted properly by legal claims, 71 From woods, and wilds collected rude mankind, And cities, laws, and government defign'd ? What can this be, but fome bright ray from heaven, Some emanation from Omnifcience given ? 75

When now the rapid ftream of Eloquence Bears all before it, paffion, reafon, fenfe, Can its dread thunder, or its lightning's force Derive their effence from a mortal fource ? What think you of the bard's enchanting art, 80 Which, whether he attempts to warm the heart With fabled fcenes, or charm the ear with rhime, Breathes all pathetic, lovely, and fublime? Whilft things on earth roll round from age to age, The fame dull force repeated; on the ftage 85

The

The Poet gives us a creation new, More pleafing, and more perfect than the true; The mind, who always to perfection haftes, Perfection, fuch as here fhe never taftes, With gratitude accepts the kind deceit, 90 And thence forefees a fyftem more compleat. Of those what think you, who the circling race Of funs, and their revolving planets trace, And comets journeying through unbounded space? Say, can you doubt, but that th' all-fearching foul, 95 That now can traverse heaven from pole to pole, From thence descending visits but this earth, And shall once more regain the regions of her birth?

Could fhe thus act, unlefs fome Power unknown, From matter quite diftinct, and all her own, 100 Supported, and impell'd her? She approves Self-confcious, and condemns; fhe hates, and loves, Mourns, and rejoices, hopes, and is afraid, Without the body's unrequefted aid:

I

Her

Her own internal strength her reason guides, 105 By this fhe now compares things, now divides; Truth's scatter'd fragments piece by piece collects, Rejoins, and thence her edifice erects; Piles arts on arts, effects to caufes ties, And rears th' afpiring fabric to the fkies : IIO From whence, as on a diftant plain below, She fees from caufes confequences flow, And the whole chain diffinctly comprehends, Which from th' Almighty's throne to earth defcends: And laftly, turning inwardly her eyes, 115 Perceives how all her own ideas rife, Contemplates what she is, and whence she came, And almost comprehends her own amazing frame. Can mere machines be with fuch pow'rs endued, Or confcious of those pow'rs, suppose they could? 120 For body is but a machine alone Mov'd by external force, and impulse not its own.

Rate

Rate not th' extension of the human mind By the plebeian standard of mankind, But by the fize of those gigantic few, 125 Whom Greece and Rome still offer to our view; Or Britain well-deferving equal praife, Parent of heroes too in better days. Why fhould I try her num'rous fons to name By verse, law, eloquence confign'd to fame ? 130 Or who have forc'd fair Science into fight Long loft in darknefs, and afraid of light. O'er all fuperior, like the folar ray First Bacon usher'd in the dawning day, And drove the mifts of fophiftry away; 135 Pervaded nature with amazing force, Following experience still throughout his courfe, And finishing at length his destin'd way To Newton he bequeath'd the radiant lamp of day.

Illustrious souls! if any tender cares 140. Affect angelic breasts for man's affairs,

If

If in your prefent happy heav'nly ftate, You're not regardless quite of Britain's fate, Let this degen'rate land again be bleft With that true vigour, which fhe once poffeft; 145 Compel us to unfold our flumb'ring eyes And to our ancient dignity to rife. Such wond'rous pow'rs as thefe must fure be given For most important purposes by heaven; Who bids these stars as bright examples shine 150 Befprinkled thinly by the hand divine, To form to virtue each degenerate time, And point out to the foul its origin fublime. That there's a felf which after death shall live, All are concern'd about, and all believe; 155 That fomething's ours, when we from life depart This all conceive, all feel it at the heart; The wife of learn'd antiquity proclaim This truth, the public voice declares the fame; No land fo rude but looks beyond the tomb 160 For future profpects in a world to come.

Hence,

Hence, without hopes to be in life repaid,
We plant flow oaks pofterity to fhade;
And hence vaft pyramids afpiring high
Lift their proud heads aloft, and time defy. 165
Hence is our love of fame, a love fo ftrong,
We think no dangers great, or labours long,
By which we hope our beings to extend,
And to remoteft times in glory to defcend.

For fame the wretch beneath the gallows lies, 170 Difowning every crime for which he dies; Of life profufe, tenacious of a name, Fearlefs of death, and yet afraid of fhame. Nature has wove into the human mind This anxious care for names we leave behind, 175 T' extend our narrow views beyond the tomb, And give an earneft of a life to come : For, if when dead, we are but duft or clay, Why think of what pofterity fhall fay? Her praife, or cenfure cannot us concern, 180 Nor ever penetrate the filent urn.

What mean the nodding plumes, the fun'ral train, And marble monument, that fpeaks in vain, With all those cares, which ev'ry nation pays To their unfeeling dead in diff'rent ways ! 185 Some in the flower-ftrewn grave the corpfe have lay'd, ] And annual obfequies around it pay'd, As if to pleafe the poor departed fhade; Others on blazing piles the body burn, And ftore their ashes in the faithful urn; 190 But all in one great principle agree To give a fancy'd immortality. Why fhou'd I mention those, whose ouzy foil Is render'd fertile by th' o'erflowing Nile, Their dead they bury not, nor burn with fires, 195 No graves they dig, crect no fun'ral pires, But, washing first th' embowel'd body clean, Gums, fpice, and melted pitch they pour within ; Then with ftrong fillets bind it round and round, To make each flaccid part compact, and found; 200

And

And laftly paint the varnish'd furface o'er With the fame features, which in life it wore : So ftrong their prefage of a future state, And that our nobler part furvives the body's fate.

Nations behold remote from reafon's beams, 205 Where Indian Ganges rolls his fandy ftreams, Of life impatient rufh into the fire, And willing victims to their gods expire ! Perfuaded, the loofe foul to regions flies, Bleft with eternal fpring, and cloudlefs fkies. 210

Nor is lefs fam'd the oriental wife For ftedfaft virtue, and contempt of life: Thefe heroines mourn not with loud female cries Their hufbands loft, or with o'erflowing eyes; But, ftrange to tell! their funeral piles afcend, 215 And in the fame fad flames their forrows end; In hopes with them beneath the fhades to rove, And there renew their interrupted love.

In

In climes where Boreas breathes eternal cold, See numerous nations, warlike, fierce, and bold, 220 To battle all unanimoufly run, Nor fire, nor fword, nor inftant death they fhun: Whence this difdain of life in ev'ry breaft, But from a notion on their minds imprest, That all, who for their country die, are bleft. 2251 Add too to thefe the once prevailing dreams, Of fweet Elyfian groves, and Stygian ftreams : All fhew with what confent mankind agree In the firm hope of Immortality. Grant these th' inventions of the crafty priest, 230 Yet fuch inventions never cou'd fubfift, Unlefs fome glimm'rings of a future state Were with the mind coaval, and innate : For ev'ry fiction, which can long perfuade, In truth must have its first foundations laid. 235

Becaufe we are unable to conceive, How unembody'd fouls can act, and live,

The

The vulgar give them forms, and limbs, and faces, And habitations in peculiar places; Hence reafoners more refin'd, but not more wife, 240 Struck with the glare of fuch abfurdities, Their whole exiftence fabulous fufpect, And truth and falfehood in a lump reject; Too indolent to learn what may be known, Or elfe too proud that ignorance to own. 245 For hard's the tafk the daubing to pervade Folly and fraud on Truth's fair form have laid; Yet let that tafk be ours; for great the prize; Nor let us Truth's cæleftial charms defpife, Becaufe that priefts, or poets may difguife. 250

That there's a God from Nature's voice is clear, And yet what errors to this truth adhere ? How have the fears and follies of mankind Now multiply'd their gods, and now fubjoin'd To each the frailties of the human mind ? 255 Nay fuperflition fpread at length fo wide, Beafts, birds, and onions too were deify'd. Th'

Th' Athenian fage revolving in his mind This weaknefs, blindnefs, madnefs of mankind, Foretold, that in maturer days, though late, 260 When Time fhould ripen the decrees of Fate, Some God would light us, like the rifing day, Through error's maze, and chafe their clouds away. Long fince has Time fulfill'd this great decree, And brought us aid from this divinity. 265

Well worth our fearch difcoveries may be made By Nature, void of the cæleftial aid : Let's try what her conjectures then can reach, Nor fcorn plain Reafon, when the deigns to teach.

That mind and body often fympathize 270 Is plain; fuch is this union Nature ties: But then as often too they difagree, Which proves the foul's fuperior progeny. Sometimes the body in full ftrength we find, Whilft various ails debilitate the mind; 275

At others, whilft the mind its force retains, The body finks with ficknefs and with pains : Now did one common fate their beings end, Alike they'd ficken, and alike they'd mend. But fure experience, on the flighteft view, 280 Shews us, that the reverfe of this is true; For when the body oft expiring lies, Its limbs quite fenfelefs, and half clos'd its eyes, The mind new force, and eloquence acquires, And with prophetic voice the dying lips infpires. 285

Of like materials were they both compos'd, How comes it, that the mind, when fleep has clos'd Each avenue of fenfe, expatiates wide Her liberty reftor'd, her bonds unty'd ? And like fome bird who from its prifon flies, 290 Claps her exulting wings, and mounts the fkies.

Grant that corporeal is the human mind, It must have parts in infinitum join'd;

And

ON THE IMMORTALITY OF THE SOUL. 65 And each of these must will, perceive, design, And draw confus'dly in a diff'rent line; 295 Which then can claim dominion o'er the rest, Or stamp the ruling passion in the breast?

Perhaps the mind is form'd by various arts Of modelling, and figuring thefe parts; Juft as if circles wifer were than fquares; 300 But furely common fenfe aloud declares That fite, and figure are as foreign quite From mental pow'rs, as colours black or white.

Allow that motion is the caufe of thought, With what ftrange pow'rs muft motion then be fraught? Reafon, fenfe, fcience, muft derive their fource 306 From the wheel's rapid whirl, or pully's force; Tops whip'd by fchool-boys fages muft commence, Their hoops, like them, be cudgell'd into fenfe, And boiling pots o'erflow with eloquence. 310

F

Whence can this very motion take its birth ?
Not fure from matter, from dull clods of earth;
But from a living fpirit lodg'd within,
Which governs all the bodily machine:
Juft as th' Almighty Universal Soul 315
Informs, directs, and animates the whole.

Ceafe then to wonder how th' immortal mind Can live, when from the body quite disjoin'd; But rather wonder, if the e'er could die, So fram'd, fo fathion'd for eternity; 320 Self-mov'd, not form'd of parts together ty'd, Which time can diffipate, and force divide; For beings of this make can never die, Whofe pow'rs within themfelves, and their own effence lie.

If to conceive how any thing can be 325 From fhape abftracted and locality Is hard; what think you of the Deity?

His

His Being not the leaft relation bears, As far as so the human mind appears, To fhape, or fize, fimilitude or place, 33° Cloath'd in no form, and bounded by no fpace. Such then is God, a Spirit pure refin'd From all material drofs, and fuch the human mind. For in what part of effence can we fee More certain marks of Immortality ? 335 Ev'n from this dark confinement with delight She looks abroad, and prunes herfelf for flight; Like an unwilling inmate longs to roam From this dull earth, and feek her native home.

Go then forgetful of its toil and ftrife, 340 Purfue the joys of this fallacious life; Like fome poor fly, who lives but for a day, Sip the fresh dews, and in the funshine play, And into nothing then diffolve away. Are these our great pursuits, is this to live ? 345 These all the hopes this much-lov'd world can give !

How

How much more worthy envy is their fate, Who fearch for truth in a fuperior flate? Not groping flep by flep, as we purfue, And following reafon's much entangled clue, 350 But with one great, and inflantaneous view.

But how can fenfe remain, perhaps you'll fay, Corporeal organs if we take away! Since it from them proceeds, and with them muft decay. Why not ? or why may not the foul receive 355 New organs, fince ev'n art can thefe retrieve ? The filver trumpet aids th' obftructed ear, And optic glaffes the dim eye can clear; Thefe in mankind new faculties create, And lift him far above his native ftate; 360 Call down revolving planets from the fky, Earth's fecret treafures open to his eye, Th' whole minute creation make his own, With all the wonders of a world unknown.

How

How could the mind, did fhe alone depend 365 On fenfe, the errors of thofe fenfes mend? Yet oft, we fee thofe fenfes fhe corrects, And oft their information quite rejects. In diftances of things, their fhapes and fize, Our reafon judges better than our eyes. 37° Declares not this the foul's preheminence Superior to, and quite diftinct from fenfe? For fure 'tis likely, that, fince now fo high Clog'd and unfledg'd fhe dares her wings to try, Loos'd, and mature, fhe fhall her ftrength difplay, 375 And foar at length to Truth's refulgent ray.

Inquire you how these pow'rs we shall attain, 'Tis not for us to know; our search is vain: Can any now remember or relate How he existed in the embryo state? Or one from birth insensible of day Conceive ideas of the solar ray?

The mind contemplative finds nothing here 385 On earth, that's worthy of a wifh or fear: He, whofe fublime purfuit is God and truth, Burns, like fome abfent and impatient youth, To join the object of his warm defires, Thence to fequefter'd fhades, and ftreams retires, 390 And there delights his paffion to rehearfe In wifdom's facred voice, or in harmonious verfe.

To me moft happy therefore he appears, Who having once, unmov'd by hopes or fears, Survey'd this fun, earth, ocean, clouds and flame, 395 Well fatisfy'd returns from whence he came. Is life a hundred years, or e'er fo few, 'Tis repetition all, and nothing new : A fair, where thousands meet, but none can ftay, An inn, where travellers bait, then poft away; 400

A fea, where man perpetually is toft, Now plung'd in bus'nefs, now in trifles loft : Who leave it first, the peaceful port first gain; Hold then! no farther launch into the main : Contract your fails; life nothing can bestow 405 By long continuance, but continu'd woe : The wretched privilege daily to deplore The funerals of our friends, who go before : Difeafes, pains, anxieties, and cares, And age furrounded with a thousand fnares. 410

But whither hurry'd by a generous fcorn Of this vain world, ah, whither am I borne? Let's not unbid th' Almighty's ftandard quit, Howe'er fevere our poft, we must fubmit.

Could I a firm perfuafion once attain That after death no being would remain ; To those dark shades I'd willingly descend, Where all must sleep, this drama at an end :

BOOK

BOOK II.

GOD then through all creation gives, we find, Sufficient marks of an indulgent mind, Excepting in ourfelves; ourfelves of all His works the chief on this terreftrial ball, His own bright image, who alone unbleft 5 Feel ills perpetual, happy all the reft. But hold prefumptuous! charge not heav'n's decree With fuch injuffice, fuch partiality.

Yet true it is, furvey we life around, Whole hofts of ills on ev'ry fide are found; 10 Who wound not here and there by chance a foe, But at the fpecies meditate the blow: What millions perifh by each others hands In war's fierce rage? or by the dread commands Of tyrants languifh out their lives in chains, 15 Or lofe them in variety of pains?

What

What numbers pinch'd by want, and hunger die, In fpite of Nature's liberality? (Thofe, ftill more numerous, I to name difdain, By lewdnefs, and intemperance juftly flain;) 20 What numbers guiltlefs of their own difeafe Are fnatch'd by fudden death, or wafte by flow degrees?

Where then is Virtue's well-deferv'd reward! Let's pay to Virtue ev'ry due regard, That fhe enables man, let us confefs, 25 To bear those evils, which fhe can't redress, Gives hope, and confcious peace, and can affuage Th' impetuous tempests both of luft, and rage; Yet sa guard fo far from being fure, That oft her friends peculiar ills endure : 3° Where Vice prevails feverest is their fate, Tyrants pursue them with a three-fold hate; How many struggling in their country's cause, And from their country meriting applause,

Have

Have fall'n by wretches fond to be inflav'd, 35 And perifh'd by the hands themfelves had fav'd?

Soon as fuperior worth appears in view, See knaves, and fools united to purfue! The man fo form'd they all confpire to blame, And Envy's pois'nous tooth attacks his fame; 40 Should he at length, fo truly good and great, Prevail, and rule with honeft views the ftate, Then muft he toil for an ungrateful race, Submit to clamor, libels, and difgrace, Threaten'd, oppos'd, defeated in his ends, 45 By foes feditious, and afpiring friends. Hear this, and tremble! all who would be great, Yet know not what attends that dang'rous wretched ftate.

Is private life from all these evils free? Vice of all kinds, rage, envy there we see, 50 Deceit, that Friendship's mask infidious wears, Quarrels, and feuds, and law's entangling snares.

But

But there are pleafures still in human life, Domestic ease, a tender loving wife, Children, whofe dawning fimiles your heart engage, 55 The grace, and comfort of foft-stealing age: If happiness exists, 'tis furely here, But are these joys exempt from care and fear? Need I the miferies of that ftate declare, When diff'rent paffions draw the wedded pair? 60 Or fay how hard those paffions to difcern, Ere the die's caft, and 'tis too late to learn? Who can infure, that what is right, and good, These children shall pursue ? or if they should, Death comes, when least you fear fo black a day, 65 And all your blooming hopes are fnatch'd away.

We fay not, that thefe ills from Virtue flow, Did her wife precepts rule the world, we know The golden ages would again begin, But 'tis our lot in this to fuffer, and to fin. 70

Obferving

Obferving this, fome fages have decreed That all things from two caufes muft proceed; Two principles with equal pow'r endu'd, This wholly evil, that fupremely good. From this arife the miferies we endure, 75 Whilft that administers a friendly cure; Hence life is chequer'd still with blifs, and woe, Hence tares with golden crops promifcuous grow, And poifonous ferpents make their dread repose Beneath the covert of the fragrant rose. 80

Can fuch a fyftem fatisfy the mind? Are both these Gods in equal pow'r conjoin'd, Or one fuperior? Equal if you fay, Chaos returns, fince neither will obey; Is one fuperior? good, or ill must reign, Eternal joy, or everlasting pain. Which e'er is conquer'd must entirely yield, And the victorious God enjoy the field :

78 ON THE IMMORTALITY OF THE SOUL. Hence with these fictions of the Magi's brain ! Hence ouzy Nile, with all her monstrous train ! 90

Or comes the Stoic nearer to the right? He holds, that whatfoever yields delight, Wealth, fame, externals all, are useles things; Himfelf half starving happier far than kings. 'Tis fine indeed to be fo wond'rous wife ! 95 By the fame reas'ning too he pain denies; Roaft him, or flea him, break him on the wheel, Retract he will not, though he can't but feel: Pain's not an ill, he utters with a groan; What then? an inconvenience 'tis, he'll own : 100 What? vigour, health, and beauty? are these good? No: they may be accepted, not purfued: Abfurd to fquabble thus about a name, Quibbling with diff'rent words that mean the fame. Stoic, were you not fram'd of flesh and blood, 105 You might be bleft without external good;

But

ON THE IMMORTALITY OF THE SOUL: 79 But know, be felf-fufficient as you can, You are not fpirit quite, but frail, and mortal man.

But fince thefe fages, fo abfurdly wife, Vainly pretend enjoyments to defpife, 110 Becaufe externals, and in Fortune's pow'r, Now mine, now thine, the bleffings of an hour; Why value then, that ftrength of mind, they boaft, As often varying, and as quickly loft ? A head-ach hurts it, or a rainy day, 115 And a flow fever wipes it quite away.

See * one whofe councils, one * whofe conqu'ring hand

Once fav'd Britannia's almoft finking land : Examples of the mind's extensive power, Examples too how quickly fades that flower. 120 <sup>c</sup> Him let me add, whom late we faw excel In each politer kind of writing well ;

Whether he ftrove our follies to expose In eafy verfe, or droll, and hum'rous profe; Few years alas! compel his throne to quit This mighty monarch o'er the realms of wit, See felf-furviving he's an ideot grown! A melancholy proof our parts are not our own.

Thy tenets, Stoic, yet we may forgive, If in a future state we cease to live. For here the virtuous suffer much, 'tis plain; If pain is evil, this must God arraign; And on this principle confess we must, Pain can no evil be, or God must be unjust.

Blind man! whofe reafon fuch ftrait bounds confine, That ere it touches truth's extremeft line, 136 It ftops amaz'd, and quits the great defign. Own you not, Stoic, God is juft and true? Dare to proceed; fecure this path purfue:

Twill foon conduct you far beyond the tomb, 140 To future juftice, and a life to come. This path you fay is hid in endlefs night, 'Tis felf-conceit alone obftructs your fight ; You ftop, ere half your deftin'd courfe is run, And triumph, when the conqueft is not won ; 145 By this the Sophifts were of old mifled : See what a monftrous race from one miftake is bred!

G

Fools

Fools view but part, and not the whole furvey, So crowd existence all into a day. Hence are they led to hope, but hope in vain, 160 That Justice never will refume her reign; On this vain hope adult'rers, thieves rely, And to this altar vile affaffins fly. " But rules not God by general laws divine? " Man's vice, or virtues change not the defign:" 165 What laws are thefe? inftruct us if you can :----There's one defign'd for brutes, and one for man : Another guides inactive matter's course, Attracting, and attracted by its force: Hence mutual gravity fubfifts between 170 Far diftant worlds, and ties the vaft machine.

The laws of life why need I call to mind, Obey'd by birds, and beafts of every kind; By all the fandy defart's ravage brood, And all the num'rous offspring of the flood; 175

Of these none uncontroul'd, and lawless rove, But to some destin'd end spontaneous move : Led by that instinct, heaven itself inspires, Or so much reason, as their state requires : See all with skill acquire their daily food, 180 All use those arms, which Nature has bestow'd; Produce their tender progeny, and feed With care parental, whils that care they need; In these lov'd offices compleatly blest, No hopes beyond them, nor vain fears molest. 185

Man o'er a wider field extends his views; God through the wonders of his works purfues, Exploring thence his attributes, and laws, Adores, loves, imitates the Eternal Caufe; For fure in nothing we approach fo nigh 190 The great example of divinity, As in benevolence: the patriot's foul Knows not felf-center'd for itfelf to roll, But warms, enlightens, animates the whole:

When focial virtue individuals joins, And in one folid mafs, like gravity combines ! This then's the first great law by Nature giv'n, Stamp'd on our fouls, and ratify'd by Heaven ; All from utility this law approve, 210 As ev'ry private blifs must fpring from focial love.

great,

Why

205

Why deviate then fo many from this law? See paffions, cuftom, vice, and folly draw! Survey the rolling globe from Eaft to Weft, How few, alas! how very few are bleft? 215 Beneath the frozen poles, and burning line, What poverty, and indolence combine, To cloud with Error's mifts the human mind? No trace of man, but in the form we find,

And are we free from error, and diftrefs, 220 Whom Heaven with clearer light has pleas'd to blefs? Whom true Religion leads? (for fhe but leads By foft perfuafion, not by force proceeds;) Behold how we avoid this radiant fun ! This proffer'd guide how obftinately fhun, 225 And after Sophiftry's vain fyftems run ! For thefe as for effentials we engage In wars, and maffacres, with holy rage; Brothers by brothers' impious hands are flain, Miftaken Zeal, how favage is thy reign ! 230

Unpunish'd

Unpunifh'd vices here fo much abound, All right, and wrong, all order they confound; Thefe are the giants, who the gods defy, And mountains heap on mountains to the fky; Sees this th' Almighty Judge, or feeing fpares, 235 And deems the crimes of man beneath his cares? He fees; and will at laft rewards beftow, And punifhments, not lefs affur'd for being flow.

Nor doubt I, though this ftate confus'd appears, 'That ev'n in this God fometimes interferes; 240 Sometimes, left man fhould quite his power difown, He makes that power to trembling nations known; But rarely this; not for each vulgar end, As Superflition's idle tales pretend, Who thinks all foes to God, who are her own, 245 Directs his thunder, and ufurps his throne.

Nor know I not, how much a confcious mind Avails to punish, or reward mankind;

Ev'n

Ev'n in this life thou, impious wretch, muft feel The Fury's fcourges, and the infernal wheel; 250 From man's tribunal, though thou hop'ft to run, Thyfelf thou can'ft not, nor thy confcience fhun : What muft thou fuffer, when each dire difeafe, The progeny of Vice, thy fabric feize? Confumption, fever, and the wreaking pain 255 Of fpafms, and gout, and ftone, a frightful train ! When life new tortures can alone fupply, Life thy fole hope thou'lt hate, yet dread to die.

Should fuch a wretch to num'rous years arrive, It can be little worth his while to live; 260 No honours, no regards his age attend, Companions fly; he ne'er could have a friend: His flatterers leave him, and with wild affright He looks within, and fhudders at the fight: When threatning Death uplifts his pointed dart, 265 With what impatience he applies to art,

G 4

Life

Life to prolong amidft difeafe and pains ! Why this, if after it no fenfe remains ? Why fhould he chufe thefe miferies to endure, If Death could grant an everlafting cure ? ?Tis plain there's fomething whifpers in his ear, (Though fain he'd hide it) he has much to fear.

See the reverfe ! how happy thole we find, Who know by merit to engage mankind ? Prais'd by each tongue, by ev'ry heart belov'd, 275 For Virtues practis'd, and for Arts improv'd : Their eafy afpects fhine with finiles ferene, And all is peace, and happines within : Their fleep is ne'er difturb'd by fears, or strife, Nor luft, nor wine, impair the springs of life. 280

Him Fortune can not fink, nor much elate, Whofe views extend beyond this mortal flate; By age when fummon'd to refign his breath, Calm, and ferene, he fees approaching death,

As

As the fafe port, the peaceful filent fhore, 285 Where he may reft, life's tedious voyage o'er: He, and he only, is of death afraid, Whom his own confcience has a coward made; Whilft he, who Virtue's radiant courfe has run, Defcends like a ferenely-fetting fun: 290 His thoughts triumphant Heaven alone employs, And hope anticipates his future joys,

So good, fo bleft the illuftrious <sup>a</sup> Hough we find, Whofe image dwells with pleafure on my mind; The Mitre's glory, Freedom's conftant friend, 300 In times which afk'd a champion to defend; Who after near a hundred virtuous years, His fenfes perfect, free from pains and fears, Replete with life, with honours, and with age, Like an applauded actor left the ftage; 305 Or like fome victor in the Olympic games, Who, having run his courfe, the crown of Glory claims.

From

From this juft contraft plainly it appears, How Confcience can infpire both hopes and fears; But whence proceed thefe hopes, or whence this dread, If nothing really can affect the dead? 311 See all things join to promife, and prefage The fure arrival of a future age! Whate'er their lot is here, the good and wife, Nor doat on life, nor peevifhly defpife. 315 An honeft man, when Fortune's ftorms begin, Has confolation always fure within, And, if the fends a more propitious gale, He's pleas'd, but not forgetful it may fail.

Nor fear that he, who fits fo loofe to life, 320 Should too much fhun its labours, and its ftrife; And fcorning wealth, contented to be mean, Shrink from the duties of this buftling fcene; Or, when his country's fafety claims his aid, Avoid the fight inglorious, and afraid : 325

Who

Who fcorns life most must furely be most brave, And he, who power contemns, be least a slave: Virtue will lead him to Ambition's ends, And prompt him to defend his country, and his friends.

But ftill his merit you can not regard,330Who thus purfues a pofthumous reward;His foul, you cry, is uncorrupt and great,His foul, you cry, is uncorrupt and great,Who quite uninfluenc'd by a future ftate,Embraces Virtue from a nobler fenfeOf her abftracted, native excellence,335From the felf-confcious joy her effence brings,The beauty, fitnefs, harmony of things.It may be fo: yet he deferves applaufe,Who follows where inftructive Nature draws;Aims at rewards by her indulgence given,340And foars triumphant on her wings to heaven.

Say what this venal virtuous man purfues, No mean rewards, no mercenary views;

Not

But we th' inglorious common herd of man, Sail without compass, toil without a plan; In Fortune's varying ftorms for ever toft, 359 Shadows purfue, that in purfuit are loft; Mere infants all, till life's extremest day, Scrambling for toys, then toffing them away. Who refts of Immortality affur'd Is fafe, whatever ills are here endur'd: 355 He hopes not vainly in a world like this, To meet with pure uninterrupted blifs; For good and ill, in this imperfect state, Are ever mix'd by the decrees of Fate, With Wifdom's richeft harveft Folly grows, 360 And baleful hemlock mingles with the rofe;

94 ON THE IMMORTALITY OF THE SOUL.

With wond'rous pow'rs to know, and calculate 380 Things too remote from this our earthly ftate; With fure prefages of a life to come, All falfe and ufelefs; if beyond the tomb Our beings ceafe: we therefore can't believe God either acts in vain, or can deceive. 384

If ev'ry rule of equity demands, That Vice and Virtue from the Almighty's hands, Should due rewards, and punishments receive, And this by no means happens whilst we live, It follows, that a time must furely come, 390 When each shall meet their well-adjusted doom : Then shall this scene, which now to human sight Seems so unworthy Wisdom infinite, A system of consummate skill appear, And ev'ry cloud dispers'd, be beautiful and clear. 395

Doubt we of this, what folid proof remains, That o'er the world a wife Difpofer reigns?

Whilft all Creation fpeaks a pow'r divine,
Is it deficient in the main defign ?
Not fo: the day fhall come, (pretend not now 400 Prefumptuous to enquire, or when, or how)
But after death fhall come th' important day,
When God to all his juffice fhall difplay;
Each action with impartial eyes regard,
And in a juft proportion punifh and reward. 405

DESIGN AND BEAUTY. AN EPISTLE.

O N

HIGHMORE, you grant, that in the painter's art, Though perfpective and colours claim a part, Yet, the more noble skill and more divine, Are proper Characters and just DESIGN; DESIGN, that particle of heavenly flame, Soul of all Beauty, through all Arts the fame.

This to the ftately dome its grandeur gives, Strikes in the picture, in the ftatue lives; Perfuades in Tully's, or in Talbot's tongue; And tunes the lyre, and builds the lofty fong.

The love of Order, fure from Nature fprings, Our tafte adapted to the frame of things: Nature the pow'rs of harmony difplays, And Truth and Order animate the mafs.

I

Who

IO

Who that this ample theatre beholds, 15
Where fair Proportion all her charms unfolds;
This fun, and thefe the ftars that roll above,
Meafuring alternate feafons as they move;
Who, but admires a fabric fo compleat;
And from admiring, aims to imitate? 20

Hence various Arts proceed, for human wit But imitates the plan by Nature fet; Truth of DESIGN, which Nature's works impart, Alike extends to every work of Art, To compafs this, both fkill and genius meet, 25 Genius to bring materials, fkill to fit; Where both confpire, is BEAUTY; which depends On the fair aptitude of means to ends: Parts corresponding, if devoid of this, Are affectation all and emptinefs. 30 If Cloacina's cell with cumbrous flate Appear fuperb, and as a palace great,

We

We laugh at the fuperfluous pomp, unfit, As Cibber's odes to Handel's mufic fet. Reverfe of this, the true Sublime attains The nobleft purpofe by the fimpleft means; More perfect, as more wide its branches fhoot, While all are nourifh'd by one common root. And fuch, if man Immenfity could pierce, Such are the beauties of the Univerfe; The various movements of this great machine All are directed by one Pow'r within; One Genius, as in human frame the Soul, Rules, and pervades, and animates the Whole.

Alike on Art Simplicity beftows An awful stillness and sublime repose; Great without pomp, and finish'd without toil; Such as the plans of Angelo or Boyle.

Yet here, unless due boundaries be plac'd, Oft will the Simple spread into the Vast;

Vaft

50

35

40

45

Vaft, where the fymmetry of parts a-kin Lies too remote, and is but dimly feen. In Nature's wondrous frame if ought appear Vaft, or mifhapen, or irregular, 'Tis, that the mighty ftructure was defign'd 55 A Whole proportion'd to the all-feeing Mind. But Art is bounded by perception ftill, And aims not to opprefs the mind, but fill. All beyond this are like his project vain, Who meant to form mount Athos into man. 66

Nor lefs their fault, who fhunning this extreme Grow circumftantial, and but croud the feheme. BEAUTY, when beft difcern'd, is moft compleat, But all is Gothic which is intricate: Conformity of parts, if too minute, 65 Is loft, before the fenfes trace it out; And contrafts which in modern ftyle abound, Sever ideas, till they quite confound;

Ħ 2

Fops

Fops are diffinguish'd by this little taste, But if a genius err, his error is the Vast.

On trifles ne'er let Art her strength exhaust, There is a littlenefs in lavish cost: Who read thee, Swift, fo frugal is thy fkill, Think they fupply, when they but comment still. True elegance appears with mild reftraint, 75 Decent, difcreet, and proper, yet not quaint. Some works are made too accurate to pleafe; But graceful those, that seem perform'd with ease: It profits oft to play the careless part, As tumblers trip but to conceal their Art; 80 Nature alone can move: the pow'rs of wit Her shape assuming, charm but while they cheat. Be thou not formal, yet with method free; Sole fountain this, of perfpicuity: 'Tis lucid Order will the parts unite, 85 Like parts to like, opposing opposite.

In found, 'tis Harmony that charms the ear, Yet difcords intermingled here and there, Still make the fweet fimilitude appear. Each by its oppofite a luftre gains, 00 As hills the vales affift, and woods the plains; Grateful variety! fo fair DESIGN Loves to diffinguish where it cannot join ; Yet then, to Truth and Nature ever juft, Nor joins, nor feparates, but when it muft. 95 Fondly fome authors deck the dainty piece With falfe refemblance, falfe antithefis; Fantaftic apes of BEAUTY, who beget Romance in science, quaint conceits in wit; Such phantoms, when we think the fubstance near, Mock our embrace, and vanish into air. IOI

Of all, which late pofterity will own, Truth is the bafis, lafting Truth alone. For what can fymmetry of parts avail, T'uphold a building, of materials frail?

H 3

105 To

To reach perfection then, whoe'er afpires, Extent of knowledge adds to native fires.

He, not content the shallow shore to keep, Dauntless expatiates in the boundless deep, Ranging through earth, and air, and sea, and sky, 119 Where'er the scatter'd seeds of BEAUTY lye; Surveys all Nature, and together brings The wide-dispers'd dependency of things. Hence those enlarg'd ideas which impart The common sympathies of Art with Art; 115 Hence Order built on Order seems to rise A comely series, till it touch the skies.

At length when fearching thought, and ceafelefs toil, Have gather'd and fecur'd the noble fpoil; Well may the learned Artift then DESIGN, 120 His fancy teeming, fraught his magazine; Thence draw materials, next, in order range, Compare, diftinguish, raife, diminish, change,

Aggroupe

Aggroupe the figures here, and there oppofe,To thefe a luftre give, a fhade to thofe:125Till each with each confenting form a Whole,Firm as a phalanx, as a concert, full.

Such charms the pow'rs of fymmetry difpenfe, Bright Emanation of Intelligence ! From Mind alone delightful Order fprings, 130 She tempers and adjusts the mass of things; From darknefs calls forth light, defign from chance, And bids each atom into form advance. But if the workmanship of Mind appear So lovely to behold, Herfelf how fair ! 135 Thus though in Nature endless beauties shine, Lovelieft she seems, in human face divine; Her other works a calm delight impart, Those charm the genius, this allures the heart : Can outward form the tender paffion move, 140 A lifeless statue, wake the foul to love?

'Tis

'Tis not exteriour Harmony we call
BEAUTY, or fure fuch BEAUTY means not all;
But fomething more exalted, more refin'd;
BEAUTY that warms, is Harmony of Mind; 145
Height'ning each air, improving ev'ry grace,
The Mind looks out and lightens in the face:
And when the Mind informs a lovely mein,
Herfelf more lovely, then, is BEAUTY feen
Attractive, and fhines forth apparent Queen. 150

How fweet the tafk ! thefe lineaments to trace, And each in lively portraiture express ! Such, HIGHMORE, thine; thy comprehensive draught To the fair outfide joins the charms of thought.

Search then Perfection, BEAUTY fearch, around 155 Through all her forms, faireft in Virtue found, Elfe could the memory of each ancient fage, Themfelves unknown, delight a diftant age?

Ancients,

Ancients, who life enrich'd with Arts, and Laws; Or fell, or conquer'd, in their country's caufe: 160 What fhrines, what altars to their afhes rear'd, As heroes honour'd, and as Gods rever'd; And Godlike They, whofe virtues unconfin'd Blefs lateft times, and dignify mankind; Not with low duties fill a private fpace, 165 But are the guardian pow'rs of human race.

Virtue, the more diffus'd, the fairer fhows; Faireft, That only which no limits knows. Hail fov'reign Good! unmixt, unfading Good! BEAUTY, whofe effence fills infinitude! 170 Whate'er of fair and excellent is found Through earth, through heav'n, above, beneath, around, All that in Art, and Nature can invite, Are but faint beamings of thy perfect light.

Bear me fome God to groves of Academe! 175 There, let eternal Wifdom be my theme.

Or

Or Thou, whom erft by contemplation led Plato difcover'd in the filent fhade, Urania! thee, the Sire delighted view'd, Holy, divine, pure, amiable and good. 180 They too, thy fweet attractive influence feel, They chiefly, who in liberal Arts excel; Scorning delights that lull the vulgar throng, The cups of Circe and the Siren's fong; Nor lefs th' allurements of wealth, honours, pow'r, 185 The gaze of fools, the pageant of an hour; They, from irradiance of thy genial beam Prolific, with immortal offspring teem.

Such Poets once, while Deity poffeft With facred fires the mufe-enamour'd breaft; Divine enthufiafts! born in happier times, E'er Gothic laws prevail'd, and fervile rhimes; Now, quaint expression, or an eafy line, Is all the claim to Phœbus and the Nine,

Not fo the Attic hive, and bards of Rome; 195 Ranging industrious they, from Nature's bloom Gather'd variety of fweets, and thence Diftill'd a pure ætherial quinteffence. Hence the fair fictions of the Mufe excel What fages dictate, or historians tell; 200 With living leffons, rules unmixt and pure Her aim to teach, and teaching, to allure. All Arts their tribute bring, her numbers move Harmonious, as angelic choirs above; Immortal colours in her pictures glow; 205 Her speech the rhetoric of the Gods below.

True Poets are themfelves a Poem, each A pattern of the lovely rules they teach; Thofe fair ideas that their fancy charm, Infpire their lives, and every action warm; 210 And when they chaunt the praife of high defert, They but transcribe the dictates of their heart.

Thus

Thus is Apollo's laureat prieft endow'd, Himfelf a temple worthy of the God. Such, Homer, Solon, Phineus are enroll'd; 215 Sages, and lawgivers, and prophets old: All Poets, all infpir'd; an awful train, Seated on Pindus' head, apart from the profane.

POLLIO, with flame like thine, my verse inspire, So fhall the Mufe from fmoke elicit fire. Coxcombs prefer the tickling fting of fnuff; Yet all their claim to wifdom is-a puff: Lord FOPLIN fmokes not-for his teeth afraid : Sir TAWDRY fmokes not-for he wears brocade. Ladies, when pipes are brought, affect to fwoon; They love no fmoke, except the fmoke of town; But courtiers hate the puffing tribe,—no matter, Strange if they love the breath that cannot flatter! Its foes but fhew their ignorance; can he Who fcorns the leaf of knowledge, love the tree? The tainted templar (more prodigious yet) Rails at TOBACCO, tho' it makes him-fpit. CITRONIA vows it has an odious flink; She will not fmoke (ye gods!) but fhe will drink : And chafte PRUDELLA (blame her if you can) Says, pipes are us'd by that vile creature Man : Yet crouds remain, who still its worth proclaim, While fome for pleafure fmoke, and fome for fame:

RUDES, forbear your scandal-picking, Own that Phæbe is no Chicken; If maturity be meafur'd By the virtues, that are treafur'd, She at fifteen can reckon more Than you can boaft of at threefcore; And while your paffion, tafte, and skill, Is drefs, and fcandal, and quadrille, 'Tis Her's, with books and arts refin'd, To drefs and cultivate the mind, In eafy converse to delight, A foe to calumny and fpight; In cards and follies you grow old, Life paffing like a tale that's told, She, like the fun's aufpicious ray, Shines more and more to perfect day, Her very pastimes shew good fense; Her Beauty her least excellence.

AUTHOR'S BIRTH-DAY.

OW fix and thirty rapid years are fled, Since I began, nor yet begin, to live; Painful reflection! to look back I dread, What hope, alas! can looking forward give!

Day urges day, and year fucceeds to year, While hoary age fteals unperceiv'd along; Summer is come, and yet no fruits appear, My joys a dream, my works an idle fong.

Ah me! I fondly thought, Apollo fhone With beams propitious on my natal hour; Fair was my morn, but now at highest noon Shades gather round, and clouds begin to lour.

136 ON THE AUTHOR'S BIRTH-DAY.

Yes, on thy natal hour, the God replies,

I fhone propitious, and the Mufes finil'd; Blame not the pow'rs, they gave thee wings to rife, But earth thou lov'ft, by low delights beguil'd.

Poffeffing wealth, beyond a Poet's lot,

Thou the dull track of lucre haft prefer'd, For contemplation form'd and lofty thought,

Thou meanly minglest with the vulgar herd.

True Bards felect and facred to the Nine

Liften not thus to pleafure's warbling lays; Nor on the downy couch of eafe recline, Severe their lives, abstemious are their days.

Oh! born for nobler ends, dare to be wife,

'Tis not e'en now too late, affert thy claim; Rugged the path, that leads up to the fkies, But the fair guerdon is immortal fame.

A FIT OF THE GOUT.

ANODE,

With active joints to traverse hill or plain, But to contemplate Nature in her prime,

Lord of this ample world, his fair domain? Why on this various earth fuch beauty pour'd, But for thy pleafure, Man, her fovereign lord?

Why does the mantling vine her juice afford Nectareous, but to cheer with cordial tafte? Why are the earth and air and ocean ftor'd

With beaft, fish, fowl; if not for Man's repart? Yet what avails to me, or taste, or fight, Exil'd from every object of delight?

138 ON A FIT OF THE GOUT,

So much I feel of anguish, day and night

Tortur'd, benumb'd; in vain the fields to range Me vernal breezes, and mild funs invite,

In vain the banquet fmokes with kindly change Of delicacies, while on every plate Pain lurks in ambush, and alluring fate.

Fool, not to know the friendly powers create These maladies in pity to mankind : These abdicated Reason reinstate

When lawlefs Appetite ufurps the mind ; Heaven's faithful centries at the door of blifs Plac'd to deter, or to chaftife excefs.

Weak is the aid of wifdom to reprefs

Paffion perverse; philosophy how vain! 'Gainst Circe's cup, enchanting forceres;

Or when the Syren fings her warbling strain, Whate'er or fages teach, or bards reveal, Men still are men, and learn but when they feel.

Ceafe then, oh ceafe, fond mortal, to repine At laws, which Nature wifely did ordain; Pleafure, what is it ? rightly to define, 'Tis but a fhort-liv'd interval from pain;

Give to our lives a fweet vicifitude.

ADDRESSED TO THE

HONOURABLE CHARLES YORKE.

CHARLES, fon of Yorke, who on the mercy-feat
Of juffice ftates the bounds of right and wrong;
Not like the vulgar law-bewilder'd throng,
Who in the maze of error hope to meet
Truth, or hope rather to delude with lies
And airy phantoms, under truth's difguife.

Some wrapt in precedents, and points decreed,

Or lop or ftretch the law to forms precife : Some, who the pedantry of rules defpife, Plain fenfe adopt, from legal fetters freed ; Senfe without fcience, fleeting, unconfin'd, Is empty guefs, and fhifts with ev'ry wind.

But

TO THE HON. CHARLES YORKE. 141

But he, thy fire, with more difcerning toil, Rang'd the wide field, fagacious to explore,

Where lay difpers'd or hid the precious ore; Then form'd into a Whole the gather'd fpoil. Law, reafon, equity, which now unite, Reflecting each on each a friendly light.

Bleft in a guide, a pattern fo compleat,

Tread, as thou do'ft, his footfteps; for not rude Thy genius, not uncultur'd, unfubdu'd.
Yet there are intervals, and feafons meet,
To fmooth the brow of thought; nor thou difdain
Fit hour of vacance with the Mufe's train.

Let meaner fpirits, cast in common mould,

Who feed on hufks of learned lore, refufe To hear the leffons of the warbling Mufe; Nor know that bards, the law-givers of old, By foothing fong to moral truth beguil'd Man, till then fierce, a lawlefs race, and wild.

What

142 TO THE HON, CHARLES YORKE.

What means the lyre, by which the fabled fage

Drew beafts to liften, and made rocks advance

Around him as he play'd, in myftick dance? What, but the Mufe? who foften'd human rage: Parent of concord, fhe prepar'd the plan Of focial life, and man attun'd to man.

She taught the fpheres to move in fair array,
Each in their orbits heark'ning to her ftrain;
Elfe would they wander o'er th' etherial plain
Licentious, but that fhe directs their way:
She aw'd to temper, by her magick fpell,
The warring elements, and powers of hell.

They err, who think the MUSES not ally'd

To THEMIS; both are of celeftial birth :

Both give peace, order, harmony to earth: Both by one heav'nly fountain are fupply'd; And men and angels hymn, in general quire, What law ordains, and what the NINE infpire.
