Founded for the express purpose of supporting the King's (Geo. IV.) actions against Queen Caroline, then agitating the whole press of the country against the King. Shackell was appointed nominal Editor, but Theodore Hook was the real director and principal contributor, he being proposed for that position by Sir Walter Scott. Only 750 copies were printed of the first number, but in its sixth week the circulation rose to 10,000. Hook's best work was the "Ramsbottom Letters," published at intervals between 1823 and 1828.
In addition to the vast number of scurrilous jokes, cruel slanders, and elaborate falsehoods and falsifications skilfully kept up, it contains foreign and colonial news, account of the death of Shelley, attacks on Lord Byron, mutinies and war in India, &c.
