Manuscripts & Bindings.

- 1 ABOAB (Isaac). Parafrasis comentado sobre el Pentateucho por Illustrisimo Sr Ishac Aboab H. del K. K. de Amsterdam (in Spanish).

With finely engraved title page (mounted).

Folio, contemporary red morocco gilt, with fine centre ornament on each side with inlay of blue leather almost entirely gilt, fully gilt back, inside dentelles, g. e.

Amsterdam, Jaacob de Cordova, 544I (1681).

£15 15s

Paraphrase and commentary on the Pentateuch by the Haham of the Spanish Jews of Amsterdam.

A fine copy in a splendid binding of an unusual book. The author was born in San Jan de Luz (Portugal) in 1609 and died in 1693.

- 2 ADDISON (Joseph). The Campaign. A Poem, to his Grace the Duke of Marlborough.

FIRST EDITION. Folio, half morocco gilt, g. e.
London, 1705.

£10 10s

"The success of his poem, the 'Campaign,' was rewarded by promotion to an under-secretaryship of state. Godolphin, according to Tickell, saw the poem when finished 'as far as the applauded simile of the angel,' and gave the commissionership in consequence. The anecdote has been coloured by the desire to represent Addison as a poor author raised from a garret to fortune by discerning patronage. Godolphin cared for horse-racing than poetry, and was much less likely to reward the author of a set of verses than to gratify an important politician by advancing an adherent. In any case, the poem and the simile achieved a great success. The poem, like all Addison's performances of the kind, shows facility and poetic sensibility, stopping short of poetic genius." (D.N.B.).

- 3 AERONAUTICS. KAISERER (Jakob). Ueber meine Erfindung einen Luftballon durch Adler zu regieren.

With a remarkable coloured large folding plate, showing the author driving a pair of Eagles from a balloon.

4to, original marbled paper wrappers as issued.

Vienna, 1801.

(SEE ILLUSTRATION, PLATE No. I.).

£25

This is the only example of the original we can trace. No copy known to bibliographers.

The author does not seem to have put his ideas into practice. Probably on reflection, he thought of the possibility of his pair of eagles turning on the balloon and its occupants and did not wish to incur the risk of going aloft with four eagles, one pair harnessed to the balloon and another pair inside the car, to take the place of the first pair, when they were tired, according to his scheme.

- 4 ÆSOP AND GAY'S FABLES. The Fables of Æsop, with a Life of the Author, and embellished with 112 engraved plates. 2 vols. London, 1793.

Fables by John Gay, with a Life of the Author, and embellished with 70 engraved plates. 2 vols. London, 1793.

Together 4 vols. Stockdale's finely printed Editions. Roy. 8vo, full polished calf gilt, g. e., by Riviere.

London, 1793.

£16 16s

PRINTED FOR PRIVATE CIRCULATION.

- 5 AINSWORTH (W. H.). The Lancashire Witches. A Novel. By William Harrison Ainsworth.

THE ACTUAL FIRST EDITION IN BOOK FORM. Folio size, original half calf.

London, Printed for Private Circulation only, 1849.

£10 10s

 "About the time The Lancashire Witches completed its serial appearance in The Sunday Times, Ainsworth had a few copies of the story printed off from the newspaper type, and these, bound in a folio volume with pages of two columns, he presented to his own friends; this was the first edition, and it is now exceedingly scarce." (S. M. Ellis).

ILLUMINATED MANUSCRIPT.

- 6 A'KEMPIS (Thomas). Imitatio Christi.

Manuscript in Latin written by a French scribe on 75 leaves of vellum, finely written in semi-Roman letters, 33 long lines to a page, in the XVth century.

The margins of the reverse of first page finely decorated with a large illuminated initial in gold and colours, and elaborate border and marginal decorations in gold and colours, three other fine large initials magnificently illuminated with marginal decorations.

Small folio, old Russia gilt, green silk linings.

Dated 1474.

£185

The manuscript starts with the words "incipit libellus compositus a domino Johane Gersenii Cancellario Parisiensi, De imitatione Christi."

Magnificent and unusual manuscript of the Imitatio which is especially interesting owing to the fact that it attributes the authorship of the Imitatio to Gerson while the consensus of modern authorities has decided on the authorship of Thomas A'Kempis.

7 ALDINE. Apollonius Rhodius.

THE EARLIEST REFORMED PORTION OF THE ENGLISH LITURGY.

- 11 [ALES, SEU HALES (Alexander, Scotus).] Ordo Distributionis Sacramenti Altaris sub utraque Specie.

12 leaves, 12mo, full morocco, g. e.

 THE COMMUNION OFFICE OF EDWARD VI. AND THE EARLIEST REFORMED PORTION OF THE ENGLISH LITURGY; made known to the churches abroad by ALES who afterwards translated the Prayer Book into Latin. This Latin version of the English Reformed Communion Service appeared a year before the First English Prayer Book.

Alexander Ales, Lutheran divine, was born at Edinburgh, 1500. At Wittenberg in 1533 he made the acquaintance of Luther and Melancthon, and he came to England in August 1535 the bearer of a letter and a book for King Henry from Melancthon.

"In the reign of Edward VI. Alesius seems once more to have visited England, where Archbishop Cranmer employed him to translate into Latin the first liturgy of King Edward VI. for the use of Martin Bucer and Peter Martyr, whose views on the 'Communion Book' were desired by Cranmer, but who lacked the requisite knowledge of the English tongue. It is with reference to this piece of work and the changes afterwards introduced into the communion service that, at a disputation held at Oxford 18 April, 1554, between Latimer and a numerous body of opponents, the prolocutor Dr. Weston declared that a 'runagate Scot did take away the adoration or worshipping of Christ in the sacrament; by whose procurement that heresy was put into the last communion book; so much prevailed that one man's authority at that time.'" D.N.B.

Folio, half morocco gilt.

Mexico, 1770.

£38

This account by Miguel de Costanso of the San Carlos and San Antonio Expedition along the coasts of Northern California is extremely scarce. It bears at the end the author's autograph signature.

- 14 AMERICA. Esquemeling (John). Bucaniers of America: or, a True Account of the Most Remarkable Assaults Committed of late Years upon the Coasts of THE WEST INDIES, By the BUCANIERS of Jamaica and Tortuga, Both ENGLISH AND FRENCH. Wherein are contained more especially, The unparallel'd Exploits of Sir Henry Morgan, our English Jamaican Hero, who sack'd Puerto Velo, burnt Panama, &c.

Written originally in Dutch, by John Esquemeling, one of the Bucaniers, who was present at those Tragedies, and Translated into Spanish by Alonso de Bonne-maison, M.D., &c.

The Second Edition, Corrected, and Enlarged with two Additional Relations, viz. the one of Captain Cook, and the other of Captain Sharp.

Now faithfully rendred into English.

The Four Parts Complete.

Illustrated with maps, portraits of the Buccaneers, and Scenes of their Exploits.

4to, original calf.

London, 1684-5.

£68

 The first three parts were written in Dutch by the Buccaneer Esquemeling. The translator's name is not known.

The fourth part was written by the English Buccaneer Basil Ringrose.

The publisher, William Crook, was sued for Libel by Sir Henry Morgan, on account of the description of him as a pirate—in the London Gazette June 8, 1685, the Publisher made his public Apology.

“Westminster, June 1. There have been lately Printed and Published two Books, one by Will. Crook, the other by Tho. Malthus, both Intitled The History of the Bucaniers: both which Books contained many False, Scandalous and Malitious Reflections on the Life and Actions of Sir Henry Morgan of Jamaica Kt. The said Sir Henry Morgan hath by Judgment had in the Kingsbench-Court, recovered against the said Libel 200L. Damages. And on the humble Solicitation and Request of William Crook, hath been pleased to withdraw his Action against the said Crook, and accept of his Submission and Acknowledgement in Print.”

Folio broadside, printed on both sides, preserved in buckram case.
Printed by Charles Brown, 1775.

£25

 A very curious folio sheet, giving an account of Battle at Roxborough July 19, 1775.
"I am now to give an account of the complete and most glorious victory gained over the Mercenaries by the gallant Provincials on the 19th of July, on which day Heaven gave up our enemies into our hands, and made us entire masters of this country, purchased by our ancestors. I shall endeavour to be as particular as the tumult of my joy will permit. July 18, our whole army, consisting, with the reinforcements from Virginia, Philadelphia, New-York, and Albany, of 80,000 foot, and 10,000 horse, having been reviewed by General Washington, and the Major Generals Lee, Ward, and Schuyler, it was agreed in Council, to drive the Enemy from their post on the Neck, and oblige them to evacuate Boston.

“The defeat was entire; we pursued them into Boston itself, took 2,000 prisoners, and destroyed their whole army, excepting a few Marines, who escaped with the Sailors on board the ships. Three of their Generals are among the dead, Gage, Howe, Clinton, and Burgoyne; Lord Percy was taken prisoner by the hands of the resistless Ward, as he was running through the streets of Boston.”

“We only lost two of our Generals, Lee and Putnam. With sorrow I must say, the former fell by the hands of Gen. Washington. Confident of his military abilities, he disputed the propriety of some orders, and said, ‘he had seen service’; on which the General shot him immediately through the head.

Hain-Copinger 15760. Proctor 3647. Voullième, Berlin 3436. Harris (Bibliotheca Vetustissima Americana) p. 45. Only one copy in the U.S. of America (according to the Census) viz., in the library of the late Henry Walters of Baltimore.

"Non desunt alia in ecclesiam merita: primum quod cepta navigari Ethiopia est. Alterum quod in eodem tempore in oceano athlantico 10 insule vix ipsis orbis descriptoribus cognite a nostris invente sunt et in omnes Lusitanie colonie deducte, in quib. christiana fides colitur. Ita ut mihi vere Alfonsus rex ad christ, relig. colendam non contentus majorum suor. finibus videatur: nisi etiam novas provincias, nova regna, novas insulas et quasi novos et incognitos orbes Christi nomini et Rom. ecclesie addiceret."

(English translation):—

"He (the King) has merited well of the Church in other ways. Firstly, he sent expeditions to Ethiopia: Secondly, at that same time ten islands in the Atlantic Ocean which were hardly even known to Geographers were found by our countrymen and in all of them Portuguese colonies were founded to promote the Christian faith. It seems to me that King Alfonsus was not satisfied with promoting the Christian religion in his own dominions. He had to add new provinces, new kingdoms, new islands, and may I say it NEW AND UNKNOWN WORLDS to the name of Christ and the Church of Rome."

Laying downe that which may both enrich the knowledge of the mind-travelling Reader, or benefit the future Voyager.

Folding woodcut map "The South part of New-England, as it is Planted this yeare, 1635."

Small 4to, bound by Riviere in full levant morocco extra, g. e.

Printed at London by Tho. Cotes for John Bellamie, 1635.

£175

 A VERY BEAUTIFUL AND TALL COPY WITH THE VERY RARE MAP. This is one of the most interesting of the early New England books.

The work details the natural features of the country, tells of the habits and customs of the Indians, etc. An Indian vocabulary is placed at the end and takes precedence of the linguistic labors of Roger Williams, John Elliot, and others. It is possible that the author may have had the co-operation of both Williams and Elliot, who came to New England in 1631. The map, which is dated in each edition to correspond with its imprint, is more correct and fuller in its details than any previous one.

The majority of the few known copies of this work are in public institutions.

ORIGINAL MANUSCRIPT.

Punicorum libri XVII cum interpretatione Petri Marsi de Cesa.

Roman letter, 43 and 64 lines to a full page.

Folio, wooden boards, with leather covered back.

Venice, B. de Tortis, May 6th, 1483.

£125

Hain-Copinger 14739. Proctor 4619. This is the first edition of Silius Italicus to be published with a commentary.

 A copy of exceptional interest, originally belonging to George Antonio Vespucci, the Tutor and Uncle of the famous Amerigo Vespuccio, who gave his own name "Americo" to the Newly Discovered World.

George was a monk in the Dominican Order and resided in the Convent of St. Mark at Florence. He taught Latin to his nephew (as mentioned by the latter in an extant letter) and to the flower of the Florentine Nobility who attended his public lectures in that City on Latin Literature and Latin Language.

On folio A 4, is a manuscript note in the hand of George Antony Vespucci "Conventus Conventus," on the last leaf is another autograph manuscript note "(Olim) Georgii Antonii Vespucci liber—Emi a Barth . . . die 18 Sept. 1489."

 The translator, Sir John Harington, was godson of Queen Elizabeth. He studied law at Lincoln's Inn, but not to much purpose, for his reputation as a wit and a man of the world was soon established, and he looked to court favour rather than the exercise of a profession. About 1584 he married Mary, daughter of Sir George Rogers of Cannington in Somerset, but marriage does not seem to have sobered his exuberant spirits. His epigrams began to pass current, and he enlivened the court by his sallies, which were not always adapted to a fastidious taste. Among other things, he translated for the amusement of the ladies of the court the story of Giocondo, from the twenty-eighth book of Ariosto's "Orlando Furioso," and his translation was handed about in manuscript till it fell into the hands of the queen. She reprimanded Harington for corrupting the morals of her ladies by translating the least seemly part of Ariosto's work, and ordered him as a punishment to leave the court for his country house till he had made a translation of the whole. To this we owe the translation of the "Orlando Furioso," which was first published in folio in 1591, and reissued in 1607 and 1634. It is written in the same stanza as the original, and is easy and flowing. It is rather a paraphrase than a translation. As a preface to it Harington wrote "An Apologie of Poetrie," an essay in criticism which resembles Sir Philip Sidney's treatise of the same name. The most remarkable part of it is that concerned with his use of metre, especially his defence of two-syllabled and three-syllabled rhymes. (D.N.B.).

and as an instrument of war; the second part contained practical hints for becoming proficient in the art. The most remarkable characteristics of the work are its vigorous, flexible, and pure English prose, and its plea for the literary use of the "Englyshe tonge," as opposed to Latin or Greek, which is set forth in an introductory address "to all gentle men and yomen of Englande."

- 42 BACON (Sir Francis, Lord Verulam). The Confession of Faith: Written by Sr. Francis Bacon.

Woodcut portrait on title.

FIRST EDITION. Small 4to, full crushed morocco extra, g. e.

Printed in the Year 1641.

£38 10s

 "It has been stated that the religious feelings and sentiments of Bacon are almost everywhere to be found in his various works, but it is not from such 'incidental allusions,' as Spedding says, that 'we are left to gather his Creed.' In his own Confession we have it explicitly set forth. This formulary was first printed in quarto form in the year 1641, and is a little work of excessive rarity. Indeed, this special edition was unknown to Lowndes and Hazlitt, and of late years, so far as I know, only two copies have appeared for sale—one in May, 1903, and the other in May, 1905, both at Messrs. Sotheby's rooms. It contains a large portrait of Bacon on the title. It was probably written in the year 1603, and it is interesting to remember that at this very time his life was full of anxiety, not only with weighty problems of State, but also with pressing private concerns. In his ambition he was then most eager to obtain high office under James the First, and the appointment of King's Counsel was then bestowed upon him." (G. W. Steeves).

Spedding closes his remarks on this subject thus: "If any one wishes to read a summa theologiae digested into seven pages of the finest English in the days when its tones were finest, he may read it here."

* * * A Magnificent Copy, bound especially for Charles I. when Prince of Wales. In centre of each side appear in gold the Arms of the Prince—a crown surmounted with the Prince of Wales' Feathers, and below his motto "Ich Dien." The book itself is a most interesting one.

"On the accession of James I., Barlow, as one of the leading members of the Church party as opposed to the puritans, was summoned in January, 1604, to take part in the Hampton Court conference for discussing the points of difference between the two sections of the church. Of the proceedings of this conference Barlow drew up, by Archbishop Whitgift's desire, a report entitled 'The Summe and Substance of the Conference,' which is the chief authority on the subject. The puritans afterwards denounced Barlow's account as grossly partial to his own side, and very unfair to them. Their leaders, Dr. Reynolds and Dr. Sparkes, complained that 'they were wronged by his relation,' a charge which is to a certain extent endorsed by Fuller, the church historian, in his remark that Barlow, 'being a party, set a sharp edge on his own and a blunt one on his adversaries' weapons.' It admits of question, however, how far these complaints are well grounded. The fact that, as Heylyn observes, 'the truth and honesty of the narrative was universally approved for fifty years,' and the absence of any more correct narrative on the other side, acquit Barlow of anything like wilful misrepresentation, and his report is probably as fair a one as could be expected from a warm partisan who could hardly fail to do, perhaps unconsciously, injustice to objections he could not sympathise with and a tone of feeling which was at variance with his own. The story that Barlow was much troubled on his death-bed with the injustice he had done the puritans in his narrative is rejected by Heylyn as 'a silly fiction.' A graver charge is brought against Barlow of having suppressed the strong charges brought by James against 'the corruptions of the church' and 'the practice of prelates,' when Bishop Andrewes is reported to have said 'for five hours his majesty did wonderfully play the puritan.' Certainly no such language, if ever uttered by the king, is to be found in Barlow's report; and it was subsequently objected by the impugnors of Barlow's veracity that such a suppression threw doubt on the faithfulness of the whole for 'if the king's own speeches were thus dishonestly treated, it would be much more likely that those of other men were tampered with.' However this may be, there is no doubt that, in the interest of decorum, Barlow lopped off excrescences, and toned down James's coarse and abusive language. Barlow's own preface offers a painful example of the gross sycophancy which was the disgrace of the churchmen of that age when speaking of kings and others in high rank, of which the conference as a whole affords a pitiful spectacle."—D. - 46 BAXTER (Richard). The Saint's Everlasting Rest: or, a Treatise of the Blessed State of the Saints in their enjoyment of God in Glory. Wherein is shewed its Excellency & Certainty; the Misery of those that lose it, the Way to Attain it, & Assurance of it: & how to live in the continual delightful Forecasts of it, by the help of Meditation.

FIRST EDITION. Small 4to, original calf.

London, 1650.

£18 18s

 Complete with the General Title, the three separate titles (Second, Third and Fourth parts), the Errata leaf and the poem by Herbert, 4 pp. at end.

"The Saints' Everlasting Rest" in its deep piety, its clear and beautiful style, the dignity and enthusiasm and modernness of its language, have made it an English classic. Narrow as Baxter's system may seem, we feel that he is more tolerant than his creed, and at the root of all his stubborn individuality lies a true and tender conscience. If the Nonconformity of the Stuart age laid heavy burdens on men's shoulders, it suffered from the consequences of its actions. In its provision for men of religion it brought upon itself the severity of secular opinion. But it left two priceless gifts to English literature and English religion in the "Pilgrim's Progress" and the "Saints' Rest." (William Holden Hutton.)

regent, in an injunction to the Clergy, ordered to be set up in "sum convenient place wythin the said church that ye have caire of, where as your parishoners may moste comodiously resorte to the same and reade it."

In April, 1541, Anthony Marler received permission to sell copies of the Great Bible unbound for x.s. sterling, and bound, being trimmed with bullyons, for xii.s. sterling (equivalent to about £6 and £7 5s. to-day). And in the next month a royal proclamation announced the heavy penalties to which each parish was liable which failed to provide its church with a copy by the November following.

Thick folio, original calf (repaired).

Imprinted at London by Robert Barker, Anno Dom. 1613. (New Testament, 1611).

£31 10s

 The First Edition, Second Issue, of the "Authorised" Version, with the "She" reading in Ruth III. 15, commonly known as the "Great She Bible." Another remarkable error occurs in MATT. XXVI. 36, JUDAS appearing for JESUS. The general title is dated 1613, though the N.T. title bears the date 1611. Probably the greater part of the book was printed in 1611, but the publication, for some reason or other, was delayed till 1613. Scrivener supposes that this delay was due to the incorrectness of the edition; Smith suggests an accident in the printing-office, which destroyed a large number of sheets.

The words "Appointed to be read in Churches" appear on the N.T. title, as well as on the general title.

Together in one volume, thick small 4to, calf. 1685-1681. £21

 The Editio Princeps of the Old Testament in the Irish language, and the Second Edition of the New Testament.

"The Old Testament was translated by William Bedel, or Bedell (1571-1642), the eminent Bishop of Kilmore, who died from the results of hardships endured in the Irish Rebellion of 1641; aided by Murtagh O'Ciong, or King (who had assisted William Daniel in preparing the N.T. of 1602), and Dennis O'Sheriden, or Sheridan; though it was not printed till more than forty years after the death of the principal translator. The translation was made in the first instance from the English Bible, the marginal readings of which are sometimes preferred to the textual readings; but it appears to have been to some extent compared with other versions and—immediately before publication—revised by A. Sall, Narcissus Marsh, Provost of Trinity College, Dublin, and subsequently Archbishop of Armagh, and other scholars.

"This edition (consisting of about 500 copies), like the New Testament of 1681, with which it is uniform, was printed with the Irish type presented by the Hon. R. Boyle, and chiefly at his expense.

"The type was modelled on that which had been cast for the Jesuits, and which was used by them in printing Irish Books at Louvain and Antwerp from 1608 to 1728, for circulation among Roman Catholics in Ireland. Boyle's type continued in use down to so late as 1820, and the matrices still exist, in the possession of Messrs. Stephenson, Blake and Co. and Sir Charles Reed and Sons, the type-founders."

BISHOP LLOYD'S BIBLE.

- 54A BIBLE. The Holy Bible, containing the Old Testament and the New. (With the Apocrypha).

Elaborate title-page engraved by STURT.

2 vols., large folio, a very beautiful copy, ruled with red lines, and in a contemporary binding of full dark blue morocco, the sides and backs elaborately gilt, gilt leaves.

London, 1701.

£12 12s

This is known as "BISHOP LLOYD'S BIBLE" as it is commonly admitted that William Lloyd (1627-1717), created Bishop of Worcester in 1700, undertook, apparently on the motion of Archbishop Tenison and at the request of Convocation in 1699, to prepare an improved edition of King James' version; and that his Bible appeared in 1701.

It contains for the first time the system of Chronology "Before Christ" and "Anno Domini" which has been followed ever since.

THE " SIR JULIUS CAESAR " TRAVELLING LIBRARY

PRESENTED BY SIR JULIUS CAESAR TO

JOHN MADDEN, ESQ.,

(Attorney to King James 1st).

- 56 BINDING. The Travelling Library of Sir Julius Caesar, afterwards presented by him to John Madden (One of King James 1st's Attorneys), with his Arms and Motto emblazoned in gold, silver and colours on inside of case.

The Library consists of 43 little volumes, very prettily bound in white vellum, the largest measuring $4\frac{1}{4}$ by $2\frac{3}{8}$ inches, and the smallest $2\frac{3}{4}$ by 2 inches.

They are contained in the original travelling case, 16 inches long, 11 inches wide, and rather more than 3 inches deep, of wood, covered with leather, the back being of light olive morocco, gracefully tooled, and shaped to resemble a folio volume.

The books are arranged in three Series:—Theology and Philosophy, History, and Poetry.

The case is divided into three Compartments, each compartment taking one series.

The Theological and Philosophical Works occupy the first shelf, the Historical Works are placed on the second shelf, and the third row consists of the Poetical Works.

All the volumes are bound in white vellum, with gold panel lines on each side, within which is a figure in gold of an angel bearing a scroll, with the legend GLORIA DEO; gold lines on backs with gilt ornamentation, gilt leaves.

The inside of the lid of the case is gracefully illuminated on vellum in gold and colours, and has a list of the works, written in gold, on a blue background in three columns, with the Arms and Motto of John Madden below. (This is in its original condition and has not been touched up, therefore it shows some traces of age).

Inside the bottom division of the case can be faintly seen written in letters of gold the date January 1617 and a Coat of Arms.

The first book in the Middle Column of the list is JULIUS CAESAR, which is the only one written in Capital Letters. From this it can be assumed that it was the ORIGINAL CASE made for Sir Julius Caesar and presented to him as a New Year's Gift by the unknown owner of the Coat of Arms; and that Sir Julius Caesar, after having had a duplicate made (now in the British Museum), presented it in his turn to John Madden as a Wedding Gift upon the latter's marriage in 1635 to Miss Waterhouse, and for this purpose had Madden's and his bride's Arms emblazoned in place of his own.

 SIR JULIUS CAESAR'S Travelling Library is considered one of the great treasures of the British Museum, and hitherto was supposed to be the only one in existence, and is always on view in the "King's Library." The one in the Museum was made not earlier than 1619, thus the present one antedates it by two years.

It is interesting to know what books a rich and learned man of the days of Elizabeth and James I. took with him when travelling by post-chaise to pass away the time. The books in this collection being:—

Theology and Philosophy.	History.	Poetry.
1. Salamonis Regis Sapientissimi. 1557.	1. Julius Caesar. 1614.	1. Virgil. 1612.
2. S. Augustin, S. Anselm, S. Bernard. Meditationes. 1616.	2. Sallust. 1613.	2. Ovid. Metam. 1612.
3. Thomas Aquinas. Theologica.	3. Tacitus. 1595.	3. Ovid. Epistles, etc.
4. Bussei Enchiridion. 1616.	4. Justinus. 1613.	4. Ovid. Fasti.
5. A' Kempis. Imitatio. 1614.	5. Valerius. 1612.	5. Lucanus. 1612.
6. Navar. Compendium. 1608.	6. Suetonius. 1611.	6. Catullus. 1613.
7. Toleti Compendium. 1607.	7. Curtius. 1613.	7. Horace. 1608.
8 & 9. Moulin. De L'Amour Divine. 1612.	8. Petronius. 1614.	8. Juvenal and Persius. 1609.
10. Precationes. 1614.	9. Florus, etc. 1615.	9. Terence. 1613.
11. Dubartas. Les Oeuvres. 1608.	10. Aurelius.	10. Martial. 1612.
12. Lipsius. De Constantia. 1593.	11. Cassiodorus.	11. Seneca. 1612.
13. Epictetus. 1596.	12. Lipsius. Politicorum. 1615.	12. Claudian. 1607.
14. Cicero. 1610.	13. Lipsius. Flores.	13. Prudentius. 1610.
	14. Danzi Politicorum. 1612.	14. Lucretius. 1611.
		15. Buchanan. 1609.

A BEAUTIFUL BINDING BY SAMUEL MEARNE.

- 61 BINDING. Reflexions upon the Devotions of the Roman Church, with the Prayers, Hymns and Lessons themselves.

8vo, contemporary English binding by Samuel Mearne, morocco, the sides covered with most elaborate decoration in gold of flowers (the leaves enamelled black), and a series of small quarter circles, the spaces filled with stars and gold dots, the whole surrounded with a charming dentelle border, gilt leaves.

London, 1674.

(SEE ILLUSTRATION, PLATE No. VI.).

£42

A rich specimen of Samuel Mearne's best work in beautiful state of preservation.

"The work of Samuel and Charles Mearne undoubtedly had a great influence on English book-binding, and although for a time after their death the art in England fell into a low state, it presently revived, and in this revival Mearne's example had a marked effect, as I hope to show in a later article on the bindings of Roger Payne. Moreover, although Mearne imitated Le Gascon in some points, yet his work as a whole is distinct and original, and, as I have said, I think in the decoration of large books he was even more successful than the French master. It is difficult indeed to find finer specimens of gold-stamped design than can be seen on several of Mearne's bindings, and the English lovers of book-bindings may find just occasion for pride in the work of this seventeenth century binder, for it will safely bear comparison with that of any of his contemporaries." (Cyril Davenport.)

- 62 BINDING. The Book of Genesis.

Illustrated in colours by F. Gayley Robinson.

Limited Edition on hand-made paper. 4to.

Riccardi Press, 1914.

£18 18s

 In an elaborate "Romantique" Binding by Sangorski and Sutcliffe, brown levant morocco, with leather joints, green silk doublures and fly-leaves, gold tooled and inlaid with over 100 separate pieces of various coloured leather.

The decoration of the covers and back of the book endeavours to simply suggest the Creation, and the story of Eden.

In the centre of the front cover, the Sun, Moon and Waters, and the Air, are symbolically presented, and on the back cover are depicted floral emblems of the Seasons.

The outer portion of the covers is inlaid and gold tooled with a roll border and a diaper design, in which apples, birds and flames suggest the fall of Earth's first parents.

The back of the book is panelled and emblematically tooled and inlaid, and the silk doublures and fly-leaves enclosed by roll borders.

- 63 BINDING. Goldsmith (Oliver). The Vicar of Wakefield.

The First Issue Illustrated by Wm. Mulready, R.A.

8vo. London, Van Voorst, 1843.

£27 10s

 Elaborately bound by Sangorski and Sutcliffe in full green levant, with leather joints, brown morocco doublures and silk fly-leaves, the whole gold tooled and inlaid with 120 pieces of various coloured leather.

Each cover is decorated with the Author's monogram, inlaid and gold tooled in the centre, surrounded by an interlacing line design, and completed by a border of flowers and foliage, also inlaid and gold tooled.

The doublures and fly-leaves have ornamental borders, and the back of the book is panelled and tooled with a scroll design.

Together with The Garden of CYRUS, or THE QUINCUNCIAL, LOZENGE, or Net-work Plantations of the Ancients, Artificially, Naturally, Mystically Considered. With Sundry Observations.

With the engraved plate of Urns, and the frontispiece to "The Garden of Cyrus," which has a separate title page; also the very rare leaf at end, frequently missing, "The Stationer to the Reader."

FIRST EDITION. Small 8vo. Fine copy in the original calf.

London, 1658.

£16 16s

 "In 'Hydriotaphia' Browne discusses with great learning the burial customs that have existed in various countries at various times. More than one quotation is from Dante; he was among the very few men of his time who had read the 'Inferno.' The concluding chapter is a solemn homily on death and immortality, unsurpassed in literature for sustained majesty of eloquence. Lamb was an enthusiastic admirer of 'Hydriotaphia.'

"The 'Garden of Cyrus' is the most fantastic of Browne's writings. Beginning with the garden of Eden, he traces the history of horticulture down to the time of the Persian Cyrus, who is credited with having been first to plant a quincunx, though Browne discovers that figure in the hanging gardens of Babylon, and supposes it to have been in use from the remotest antiquity."

WITH PRESENTATION INSCRIPTION BY THE AUTHOR, FILLED WITH CORRECTIONS IN HIS HANDWRITING AND WITH AN AUTOGRAPH LETTER.

71 BROWNING (Robert). Paracelsus.

FIRST EDITION. Post 8vo, fine copy in its original boards, uncut.
(Preserved in a blue morocco case.)

London, 1835.

 Frederick Locker's Copy with his bookplate inside cover, and inscription in Browning's Autograph on title—

“To Frederick Locker from R. B.”

Also with S. A. Browning's Autograph on title.

This Copy was used by the Poet for revising for a later edition. It is filled with alterations and additions by him.

On the half title Browning has written—

“First corrections, made at Pisa, in the Spring of 1847.”

The alterations throughout are too numerous to describe (as they occur on every page), but we might mention that at page 21 the Poet has added 18 new lines, at page 37 four, page 43 five, page 47 four, page 50 nine, page 55 twenty-two, page 56 eleven, page 57 eight, page 59 thirteen, page 71 seven, page 90 seven, page 99 four, page 165 sixteen, and so on.

Loosely inserted is an Autograph Letter (1½ pp.) from Browning to Locker, sending this copy and two other of his books “as they went to—and were used for—press a second time.”

THE POET ROBERT BROWNING'S COPY CORRECTED FOR A LATER EDITION AND PRESENTED TWICE BY HIM.

72 BROWNING (Robert). Strafford, An Historical Tragedy.

FIRST EDITION. Fine copy in the original wrappers, with printed label on side. (Preserved in a morocco case.)

London, 1837.

£110

 A Copy of Unique Interest. On the wrapper the poet has boldly written his full signature—

“ Robert Browning.”

and on title page has noted in ink—

“ Corrected at London, 1862.”

These corrections were those made for a later Edition, and are very extensive. The preliminary matter has been cancelled, likewise the names of the Actors and the text revised throughout, many new lines being added in pencil.

A further point of interest in this copy is that Browning has presented it twice, and it carries two inscriptions by him—

(1) Capt. Pritchard from his most obliged friend R. B. May-Day, 1837.

(2) To Frederick Locker from R. B. Apl. 13, 69.

It was therefore after obtaining it back from Capt. Pritchard that Browning made the corrections throughout the copy.

Inserted at the beginning, is a very interesting letter of Browning to Mason, 3 pp., 8vo, with Envelope: “ I'll be bound, now, people are always ‘ snubbing ’ me like friend Harness t'other day, just because they fancy I have nobody to take my part. . . . If he goes and does the ‘ quizzing article ’ he hints at, I'll be hanged if I don't rhyme him to death like an Irish Rat.” Etc.

THE DUKE OF WURTEMBERG WHOSE TRAVELS ARE HERE RELATED, IS REFERRED TO BY SHAKESPEARE AS "THE DUKE DE JARMANY," IN THE MERRY WIVES OF WINDSOR, ACT IV., SCENE 5. In the early 4to editions of the Merry Wives of Windsor and only therein occurs the word "Garmombles," altered in the folio to "Iermans." The meaning of Garmombles has puzzled Shakespearean annotators, and, as Mr. Rye in his "England as seen by foreigners" suggests, was probably an illusion to the Duke of Wurtemberg, who had been travelling in England as Count of Mombeliard. The volume is not only of importance to the Shakespeare collector but is interesting as a description of England and of the Court of Queen Elizabeth in 1592 as seen by a German Prince.

Second edition, with the interesting portraits of the Duke, which are quite different from those of the first.

 The poem, which possesses considerable merit, was edited by Izaak Walton, whose preface is dated 7 May, 1678, though the work was not published till five years later, when the editor was ninety years old. Walton, who had known the writer, says of him: 'And I have also this truth to say of the author, that he was in his time a man generally known and as well belov'd; for he was humble and obliging in his behaviour, a gentleman, a scholar, very innocent and prudent; and indeed his whole life was useful, quiet, and virtuous.' In the 'Compleat Angler,' published thirty years before, there occur two songs—'O, the sweet contentment' and 'O, the gallant fisher's life'—signed 'Io Chalkhill.' So meagre were the facts known of the author of 'Thealma and Clearchus' until a comparatively recent period that the Rev. Samuel W. Singer, in the introduction to a reprint of the poem issued from the Chiswick Press in 1820, advanced from the theory, afterwards adopted by a writer in the 'Retrospective Review,' that Walton was its author as well as its editor, and that Chalkhill was altogether 'a fictitious personage.' But Mr. F. Somner Merryweather, in two letters in the 'Gentleman's Magazine' for 1860, has shown from the Middlesex county records that towards the close of Queen Elizabeth's reign Ivon or Ion Chalkhill, Gent., was one of the coroners for that county, and that he subscribed his name 'Ion' and sometimes 'Io Chalkhill,' just as it is subscribed to the songs in Walton's 'Angler.' It is conjectured, therefore, that the coroner may have been identical with the poet. Moreover it is worthy of note that Walton married Ann Ken, a sister of Bishop Ken and daughter of Thomas Ken, an attorney, by his first wife. This Thomas Ken married a second wife, Martha Chalkhill, the second daughter of John Chalkhill of Kingsbury in Middlesex, and of Martha his wife, daughter of Thomas Brown, great-aunt to John Brown, who was clerk of the parliament." "The fate of Charles the First has aroused deep emotions in the minds of Britons for close on two hundred and fifty years. A few hours after the King's execution, his book was in the hands of the people, and so marvellous was its effect, that contemporary authorities declare that nothing but the Government's ingenious and persistent condemnations of the work prevented an immediate restoration of the monarchy. Those engaged in the publication were hunted down and imprisoned; but, in spite of every obstacle, the anxiety of the Cavaliers to possess copies of this touching memorial was so great, and the perseverance of the printers so determined, that the work was newly put in type over and over again, and published with a rapidity that has never to this day been equalled. Fresh editions appeared almost daily at first, and afterwards every week."

With numerous woodcuts.

3 vols., folio, Chinese binding. 1801.

£14 14s

Magnificent edition on white paper of the most ancient encyclopædia of Chinese characters, with the meaning explained and reproduced in the shape which they have at the present time. According to the authorities quoted in Kienlong's great catalogue the author of this book was Tchew Kong, brother of the Emperor Wen-Wang (1100 B.C.). Afterwards the book was added to by Confucius and his disciples. The edition we offer for sale was made after the edition which appeared in the time of the Song Dynasty (2nd century A.D.). It is divided into 19 sections and contains numerous woodcuts of the objects described, antiques, animals, etc.

92 CICERO. Oratio.

Thick small 12mo. Paris, 1543.

Contemporary calf binding, gold lines, and in centre of each side the private badge of Queen Elizabeth: A crowned falcon holding a sceptre, standing on a pedestal.

(SEE ILLUSTRATION, PLATE No. VIII.).

£120

 Books from Queen Elizabeth's Library, bearing her private badge, are excessively rare, as she only used this badge for her personal books. Her mother, Anne Boleyn, bore it, as one of her many devices, and it was in turn adopted by Queen Elizabeth, and was exhibited on the occasion of her visit to Norwich, in 1578, as her own badge; it occurs also on the iron railing on her tomb in Henry VII.'s Chapel.

Books with this badge are exceedingly rare, and excepting the specimens in the library of Westminster Abbey, Windsor Castle and the British Museum, it is almost unknown. The British Museum reproduces it in their "Hand list of the King's Library."

£15 15s

Complete with the final leaf "Proposals for publishing by subscription Imitations from the Modern Latin Poets."

"Coleridge's First Publication, the 'Fall of Robespierre,' was projected by the three friends, Coleridge, Southey and Lovell, each of them having one day agreed to produce an act of a tragedy by the next evening. Coleridge produced the first act, though not in the time proposed; Southey the second and ultimately the third, as Lovell's work would not fit. The tragedy was published as Coleridge's at Cambridge in September, 1794. An appended prospectus of a work by Coleridge in two volumes, containing imitations from the modern Latin poets, with an essay on the 'Restoration of Literature, shows that he was looking to writing for support.' GEORGE CRUIKSHANK AND WILLIAM HONE.

- 112 A REMARKABLE COLLECTION of Autograph Letters and Original Sketches by George Cruikshank, all addressed to his friend William Hone.

The Letters deal with illustrating the various political pamphlets which Hone issued. Many of them have to do with Money Matters and show how impecunious was George during his early years. The sketches are originals for many of these Illustrations.

Many of the letters are written in a humorous strain, several having quaint signatures, such as "George Monday," also pictorial signatures, punning on his name of Cruikshank, etc.

Among the Sketches are a number very important, as two original designs for the "Ladder" belonging to the pamphlet "The Queen's Matrimonial Ladder."

There are further many India Proof Impressions of his illustrations for Hone's tracts, which are probably unique.

The whole Collection was acquired by the former owner from Hone's grand-daughter, and is in 2 vols., thick 4to, original half binding.

This former owner had the intention of publishing a Monograph on Cruikshank and Hone worked on these letters and sketches. This Monograph was written but never printed.

The Original Manuscript of the Monograph accompanies the Collection.

(SEE ILLUSTRATION, PLATES No. IX. AND X.).

£325

The Collection comprises about 75 Letters of Cruikshank a number of which have interesting sketches and about 112 sheets of Sketches besides a number of Proof Impressions of his work for Hone, including "Original Sketch of Southey's Vision of Judgment inserted in Hone's Slap at Slop"; Sketches for Slap at Slop; Unpublished Sketches for same; Original Sketch for the "Political Showman," etc., etc.

- 113 CRUIKSHANK. An Album containing a number of very interesting engravings and etchings by George Cruikshank.

Folio, half morocco.

£15 15s

Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester, the celebrated favourite of Queen Elizabeth, was born in 1532. He married in 1550 Amy Robsart, who was found dead at the foot of a staircase in Cumnor Hall, Oxfordshire, in 1560.

On the death of the boy king, Edward VI., Dudley proclaimed as Queen his sister-in-law, Lady Jane Grey. When Elizabeth was Queen, he became her lover and was supposed to have brought about the murder of his wife Amy in order to be free to marry the Queen. He entertained her with Masques at Kenilworth in 1575, and in 1577 took part in Drake's Expedition; lost the Queen's favour and married Countess of Essex. He died in 1588.

 The Original Issue of the Most Complete Edition of this famous collection of Songs. The first two volumes are entirely filled with D'Urfey's own Songs with a few of his prems and prologues at the end. Sir Richard Steele in the Guardian wrote concerning the collection: "A judicious author some years since published a collection of sonnets, which he very successfully called 'Pills to purge Melancholy.' I cannot sufficiently admire the facetious title of these volumes, and must censure the world of ingratitude, while they are so negligent in rewarding the jocose labours of my friend Mr. D'Urfey, who was so large a contributor to this treatise, and to whose humorous productions so many rural squires in the remotest parts of this island are obliged for the dignity and state which corpulency gives them. The story of the sick man's breaking an imposthume by a sudden fit of laughter, is too well known to need a recital. It is my opinion, that the above pills would be extremely proper to be taken with asses' milk, and mightily contribute towards the renewing and restoring decayed lungs."

CONTEMPORARY MANUSCRIPT OF THE LIFE OF THE BLACK PRINCE.

137 EDWARD, PRINCE OF WALES (The Black Prince).

La vie et les faitz d'armes d'un très noble prince de gales et d'aquitaine qu'avoit a nom Edward et que filts au Roi Edward tierce queux dieux assoille. (In French verse).

Illuminated manuscript on 65 leaves of vellum (9½ by 5½ inches). Written by an English scribe at the end of the 14th century in lettres batardes, 40 long lines to a page, chapter headings in red.

THE FIRST LEAF HAS ON RECTO THE WORDS "MA JOYE MA SURTEY" AND ON VERSO A FULL PAGE MINIATURE BEAUTIFULLY EXECUTED IN GOLD AND COLOURS IN TWO COMPARTMENTS, THE UPPER DEPICTING THE TRINITY, THE LOWER SHOWING EDWARD THE BLACK PRINCE KNEELING ON A CUSHION, DRESSED IN ARMOUR WITH A SWORD AND DAGGER AT HIS SIDE AND GOLDEN SPURS AND KNEE-PIECES, WEARING A SHORT COAT IN WHICH ARE EMBLAZONED THE ARMS OF ENGLAND AND FRANCE (IN GOLD, RED AND BLUE). ON EACH SIDE OF HIM IS THE LARGE OSTRICH FEATHER (IN SILVER) AND THE FAMOUS MOTTO "ICH DENE."

The first page of text has a large initial O containing the Prince's Arms emblazoned, with full borders of gold strap work and flowers. With numerous small initial letters in burnished gold on coloured background.

Long 8vo, old calf, with gold ornaments in centre and at outer angles.

(SEE ILLUSTRATION, PLATE No. XII.). 14th Century.

 The importance of this manuscript is a double one:—

Firstly it is an unpublished manuscript in French verse of the doings of one of the most romantic and gallant royal knights in both English and French history, who unfortunately came to an untimely end and was not able to impress his mark on the page of history.

Secondly the miniature of the Prince of Wales, one of the few contemporary portraits that are left to us of him, contains not only the ostrich feather (now augmented to three) the badge of the Princes of Wales, but the original and correct form of the motto. Some years ago Sir Israel Gollancz discovered that the only extant piece of writing of the Black Prince bears as a motto "ICH DENE" (not Ich diene), and he was convinced that this was the correct form. On this portrait the same spelling occurs. The historical as well as the philosophical importance of "ICH DENE" as opposed to "Ich diene" was set forth by Sir Israel Gollancz in a series of letters that appeared in "The Times Literary Supplement," August 1, 8 and 22, 1918. Until he noticed this inscription in this our manuscript Sir Israel had failed to find the early corroboration for which he had been looking everywhere. Our manuscript is very early, being written at the end of the 14th century, and practically confirms the theory adduced by Sir Israel that the motto was "ICH DENE," which points philologically to the dialect of Gelderland, where the Prince's aunt was reigning Princess, the principality which Edward III. linked to him by the strongest alliance, through the marriage of his sister, to the Duke, an important aspect of Edward's policy, to unite with the Netherland principalities. This policy really marked the first step in what was destined to culminate in the Anglo-Belgian alliance. The German form "Ich diene" or "Ich Dien" must have been due to an attempt, successful, to replace the dialect form by the more regular High German. Accordingly it may be accepted from the evidence of the Black Prince's own sign manuel (dated 1370), and from this contemporary French manuscript that the form of his motto was "Ich dene" not "Ich dien." From an historical point of view it would appear from Sir Israel Gollancz's investigation that the Black Prince deliberately and for obvious reasons used as the motto for his Badge of Peace the dialect of the Duchy of Gelderland, so closely identified with the interests of the English Royal House. The popular legend that the Black Prince took the motto together with the ostrich feathers at Crecy from the vanquished King of Bohemia does not stand the test of inquiry. The early historians do not state thus; at most they tell that the ostrich feathers were taken by the Prince from the conquered monarch. Camden carefully noted that the motto was apart from and "adjoined" to the ostrich feathers (as in our illustration) and erroneously endeavoured to prove the motto to be of old English origin.

£26

 This commentary was appointed by public authority to be placed in all our churches. The first volume was executed by Nicholas Udall, and the second by Coverdale, John Olde and Leonard Coxe. The Paraphrase upon the Revelation was written by Leo Jude, and translated by Edmonde Allen. Vol. I. has prefixed to the whole, a preface "Unto the Kynges Maiestee"; another "To the Jentill christian reader"; and an epistle dedicatory "To the moste vertuous Ladie Quene Katherine dowager," Each of them by Nicholas Udall. Before S. Mark, S. Luke, S. John, and the Actes of the Apostles, are other dedications to the Queen Dowager, the first by Thos. Key, the others by Nich. Udall. The leaves of each of these books are numbered separately. Vol. II. begins with a dedication to the King, by "Myles Couerdall," an address to the Christian by John Olde. The Catholic epistles are dedicated to Lady Anne Dutchess of Somerset. The leaves of the epistles, etc., are numbered separately.

Frontispiece and a fine genuine Impression of the very Rare Mezzotint Engraving by Prince Rupert of “The Little Executioner.”

FIRST EDITION. Small 8vo, fine copy in full levant morocco extra, g. e. London, 1662.

£42

 This work by John Evelyn is the first English book treating on the then newly discovered art of Mezzotint Engraving, which Prince Rupert introduced into England. The Mezzotint Engraving of The Executioner's Head, known as “The Little Executioner” was especially scraped by the Prince for this book. Evelyn informs us that it was presented to him by the Prince himself, as a specimen of the newly invented art.

Samuel Pepys in his Diary, relates calling upon Evelyn about the time of the publication of this book:—

“By water to Deptford, and there made a visit to Mr. Evelyn, who, among other things, showed me most excellent painting in little, in distemper, in Indian incke, water colours, graveing, and, above all, the whole secret of mezzo-tinto, and the manner of it, which is very pretty and good things done with it. . . . In fine, a most excellent person he is, and must be allowed a little for a little conceitedness; but he may well be so, being a man so much above others.”

Small 8vo, folded and sewn in wrappers as issued. 1853. £16 16s

 This was never published, nor was a title page ever printed for it. Fitzgerald had it put into wrappers for presentation to his friends.

"The two translations were evidently intended to be embodied in the Pickering Calderon of 1853. Fitzgerald was without doubt dissatisfied with his work, and withdrew these two plays from the 1853 volume. In the preface to the latter, he says: 'Such plays as the Magico Prodigioso and the Vida es Sueño (I cannot rank the Principe Constante among them), require another translator and another form of translation.' It was consequently not published, and this is one of the few copies the author had sewn together for himself; it contains some slight corrections by him."

160 FROISSART (Jehan). Chroniques, "Cy commencent les croniques de sire Jehan froissart contenant les nouvelles guerres de france, dangleterre, descoce, despaigne, dalemaigne, et de bretagne.

ILLUMINATED MANUSCRIPT ON VELLUM [FRENCH, XV. CENT.], 384 leaves ($16\frac{1}{2}$ by $11\frac{1}{2}$ inches), written in bold lettres bâtarde, in double columns, 53 lines to a page, chapter headings written in red.

The first page has a magnificent large arched miniature ($6\frac{1}{2}$ by $7\frac{1}{4}$ inches), very finely painted in gold and colours, depicting two battles, probably, judging by the banners carried by the opposing armies, those of Crecy, 26 August, 1346, and Neville's Cross, 17 Oct. 1346, in which mounted knights in armour and armoured archers and arquebusiers are taking part; large ornamental initial below with elongations of strapwork and borders composed of flowers and scrolls, pen tendrils and gilt ivy-leaves; at foot is a coat-of-arms emblazoned, az., a castle or with 2 trees sa. on each side, below 3 sugar loaves (?) arg.

Two other finely executed miniatures ($3\frac{1}{2}$ by 3 inches) occur in the volume, one depicting mounted knights in armour proceeding towards a castle, the other shows the funeral procession of a king.

Numerous capitals painted in burnished gold on coloured grounds.

Thick folio. Old binding of oak boards covered brown velvet, sheep-skin back, five large brass protective bosses on each cover. Early XVth Century.

 A SPLENDID EXAMPLE OF FRENCH CALLIGRAPHY AND THE MINIA-TURIST'S ART. THE CONDITION THROUGHOUT IS EXCELLENT.

This Manuscript describes the stirring events and battles between England, France, and Scotland from 1326 to the year 1379.

This period includes the time of Froissart's Journey to England, when one may readily suppose he had discontinued the work, for he considered it then as being finished, since he says he carried it to England, where he presented it to the Queen.

Jean Froissart was born at Valenciennes in 1337. He was educated for the church; but his love of festive pleasure and romantic gallantry directed him into other pursuits. At the age of twenty he began to write chronicles of the wars of his time and to obtain the requisite information he travelled much, and associated with the nobles and principal actors in public affairs. In the year 1361 he visited the court of Edward III. of England, where he remained five or six years and was treated with great favour, especially by the Queen Philippa, who employed him as her clerk or secretary. He attended Lionel, Duke of Clarence, when he went to Italy to marry the daughter of the Duke of Milan. After the death of Phillipa, in 1369, he officiated a short time as curate of Lestines, in France. About the year 1385, Guy, Count of Blois, employed Froissart as clerk, and the latter soon afterwards, in quest of historical materials, visited Gaston, Count of Foix. His active curiosity, even in his declining years, led him to frequent courts, festivals, and tournaments, and his Chroniques present a "faithful mirror of the age of chivalry, with its beauties and deformities." He is esteemed for his veracity, and admired for picturesque description and a charming simplicity of expression.

 An exceedingly rare little volume of Verse. It is an amusing Satire upon the vanity and change of apparel, and of the proneness of the English to imitate Foreigners. There are also several very early references to Tobacco.

"Skind superficies of this crew is ripe,
And riper would be, but for Tiburns rod:
The faint they worship a Tobacco pipe,
And their bedawbed loosenes is their God,
Yet let me giue this counsell to that ward,
That maister Tiburne capers very hard.

One snurts Tobacco as his nose were made,
A perfumd Iakes for all scurrilities,
Another with his haire (as if a iayde),
Had lost his tayle to feede his enormities,
Hangs ore his shoulders with a fond deuise,
To make a warmer couert for the lice.

Venus appuyée sur son cher Adonis, lui conseille de ne chasser que les betes a qui la nature n'a point donné des armes .

- 164 GAZOPHILACIUM. (Begins): "Hic incipit prologus. Cupientes aliquid de premiaria ac tenuitate nostra cum Paupercula in Gazophilacium bni mitte," etc. (Libri IV.)

Manuscript on vellum of the 14th Century written in Gothic Letters, double columns, 35 lines red rubrics, ornamental pen-letters imperfect in the beginning and middle, "Explicit liber IIII" on last leaf with two fly-leaves of an older vellum MS. folio, Saec XIV.

XIVth or Early XVth Century binding of oak boards, and leather, with two medallion stamps (repeated many times), one with figure of a lamb, and flag surrounded by the name "Jehan de Doienval," the other with a figure of a Saint and name "S. E. de la Meaure," with leather bands for fixing the boards, in pairs. £31 10s

An interesting and uncommon specimen of binding of the XIVth or early XVth century. Some scribblings in English, and the signature "Thomas Ellys" of the XVIth century, show that the MS. was in England and in York at that period, and the whole production may be English.

- 165 GERARDE (John). The Herball; or General Historie of Plantes, Gathered by John Gerarde, of London, Master in Chirurgerie.

With the finely engraved title by William Rogers (somewhat rubbed), portrait of the Author on verso of B6, and hundreds of woodcuts in the text.

THE EXCESSIVELY RARE FIRST EDITION.

Thick folio, new russia, g. e.

Imprinted at London by John Norton, 1597. £34

 The publication of this volume made Gerarde's name a household word—it is dedicated to Lord Burghley and contains more than 1,800 woodcuts. The book has many references to localities in various parts of England for scarce plants, and many allusions to persons and places now of high antiquarian interest. He lays claim to a purely scientific object, but accepts much contemporary folklore which does not detract from the interest of his volume.

In the opening pages figure some quaint verses by "Thomas Thorney, Master in Chirurgerie."

The engraved title, besides containing a portrait of the Author, has a view of the gardens at his house in Holborn.

- 166 GIBBON (Edward). History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire.

Volume the First. 4to. Very fine copy in full contemporary red morocco gilt.

London, 1776. £25

A highly interesting "association" volume emphasising the close friendship which existed between the great historian and the celebrated statesman John Baker Holroyd, 1st Earl of Sheffield. The two became acquainted at Lausanne in 1764, and their friendship lasted till Gibbon's death after which Lord Sheffield edited his Posthumous Works.

The above volume bears Edward Gibbon's presentation autograph inscription "From the Author to John Baker Holroyd Esq." and also carries Holroyd's bookplate.

 A few leaves stained, and some worm holes at beginning and end.

"This is a work continuously cited by all the editors of Shakespeare, and has been described as 'Shakespeare's Encyclopaedia.' In Douce's 'Illustrations' of Hamlet, Timon of Athens, Coriolanus, The Tempest, Merchant of Venice, As You Like It, Macbeth, King Henry VI., Parts II. and III., there are endless references to it. He says: 'It will be seen in the course of these notes that Shakespeare was extremely well acquainted with this work.'"

In conclusion Douce remarks: "The frequent use which has been made in the course of these remarks of a work cited under the title of Bartholomaeus de proprietatibus rerum, may require that a more particular description of it should be given. It is a general history of nature, composed in Latin by Bartholomew Glanville, an English Minorite or Franciscan, of the family of the Earls of Suffolk. He flourished about the year 1360, and appears to have been the Pliny of his time. It was several times printed abroad in the infancy of the typographic art, and translated into the English, French, Dutch, and Spanish languages. The English version was made by John Trevisa, a Cornish man, and vicar of Barkley in Gloucestershire, at the request of his patron Thomas Lord Barkley, in the year 1398, and originally printed by Wynkyn de Worde; for there is no evidence that it came from Caxton's press in English, though it has been so asserted. Neither is the date of Wynkyn de Worde's edition, if it ever had any, been ascertained. The next edition was printed in 1535, by Thomas Berthelette, in folio."

A NEARLY CONTEMPORARY MANUSCRIPT OF THE CELEBRATED POEM BY ENGLAND'S FIRST POET LAUREATE.

172 GOWER (John). Confessio Amantis.

A very early Manuscript of this the First Important Poem in the English Language.

Written by an English Scribe in English (in black and red) in a very legible hand on 408 pages of vellum, double columns (40 lines to a full page).

Five pages are adorned with strap ornamentation of flower sprays, etc., in gold and colours. Towards the end of the Prologue is a Miniature in gold, silver and colours (3 by 2 $\frac{3}{4}$ inches) of the Statue in "Nabuchodonosor's Vision." There are further several hundreds of small initials in gold and colours, many of them being adorned with floral spray ornamentation.

Thick folio, calf. Circa 1420.

£680

 A most interesting Manuscript of the famous poem by the "first of our Authors, who can be properly said to have written English." It is practically contemporary with him, as he died in 1408.

On the margin of one leaf is a couplet by, probably the original owner, which may well be Edward IV.'s step-son, or some of the Thomas Greys of Northumberland.

"Like as thys reson doth devysse
I do my selfeyn same wysse.
Gray, T."

On two other leaves are inscriptions in Elizabethan penmanship: "John Gouer wrotte this Booke with his owne hand."

"John Gouwer wrott Bocke with his oune haunde, a poett Lawriet—pr ME, WILLIAM MEATCAFE."

On the blank leaf preceding the commencement of the poetic matter, is this entry, probably of Jacobean date: "Frances Tomsone, of Westmester, servant to the King's ma'tie, dwelling in Longe Diche by the Hank in Sword."

And above it, in an earlier hand: "John Gower wrott this booke, poeett Lawrrett."

This leaf and the reverse are both adorned with a very clever and life-sized portrait in pencil, probably of Gower.

 Of the few Manuscripts of this great work which are known to be in existence (practically all being in Public Libraries) few are so perfect as this one, which only lacks the first leaf of the prologue and about 6 other leaves. It apparently was unknown to Prof. Macaulay, but formed the subject of a lecture by Dr. Charlton at the Newcastle Archæological Society, and this lecture is printed in their proceedings.

"Gower's 'Confessio Amantis,' his only English poem, is in about 30,000 eight-syllabled rhymed lines.

The poem consists of a prologue and eight books. The prologue deals largely with the degradation of the clergy and of the people, which Gower reminds his readers it is in their own power to check. He concludes with a moralised interpretation of Nebuchadnezzar's dream. In Book I. Gower represents a lover as appealing to Cupid and Venus to cure him of his sickness. Venus sends a confessor, Genius, to shrive him.

The confessor arrives, and the dialogue between him and the lover occupies the rest of the poem. The confessor first asks the lover how he has used his five senses, and, in a number of stories chiefly derived from classical authors, warns him of the vices which the senses are prone to encourage. In the later books the confessor describes in turn the seven deadly sins, pride, envy, anger, sloth, avarice, gluttony, and lust, with their different ministers, and illustrates their ravages by a series of stories loosely strung together after the manner of Boccaccio's 'Decameron.' The last and eighth book concludes with the confessor's absolution of the lover. There are occasional digressions, as in the account of the rise of the mechanical arts in Book IV., or of the religions of the ancient world in Book V. In Book VII. the general plan is interrupted by a summary of philosophical knowledge—of 'theorique,' 'rhetorique,' and 'poetique'—derived from the popular 'Secretum Secretorum' falsely attributed to Aristotle, and assumed to embody the instruction given by Aristotle to Alexander. Gower adds to this interpolation many stories illustrating the duties of kingship, with unfriendly allusions to Richard II.

Gower contrives to tell in all 112 different stories, and shows himself acquainted with much classical and mediæval literature. The sources of nearly all his stories have been traced. About twenty come from Ovid's 'Metamorphoses,' three from Ovid's 'Heroides.' Others are extracted from the Bible, the 'Gesta Romanorum,' Josephus, Valerius Maximus, Trogus Pompeius or Justin. The chronicles of Cassiodorus and Isidorus, Godfrey of Viterbo's 'Pantheon,' 'Vincent de Beauvais' 'Speculum Historiale,' the 'Geste de Troy' (in the prose of Dares Phrygius or the verse of Guido di Colonna), the romances of Alexander the Great and Sir Lancelot were also among his works of reference. Statius's 'Thebais' supplied the story of the knight Capaneus (Book II.). Gower mentions Dante, and was clearly familiar with Boccaccio and Ovid's 'Ars Amandi.' Scattered through the work are Latin rubrics and elegiacs. The latter, written in imitation of Boethius, are often notable for their bad prosody and loose grammar."

176 GREENAWAY (Kate). Birthday Book for Children.

With 382 illustrations, drawn by Kate Greenaway, printed by Edmund Evans, verses by Mrs. Sale Barker.

16mo. 1880.

A most interesting set of three, showing variations, as follows:—

(1) With the 12 full-page plates before the colouring bound in white leather, lettered in gold and ornamented with flower spray in black and gold and with a circular panel on front cover in which is a charming design in colours by K. G.

(2) The 12 full-page plates printed in colours by Edmund Evans, bound in red cloth, the same device as in preceeding.

(3) The 12 full-page plates printed in colours by Edmund Evans, bound in white buckram, lettered in centre, and at four corners on each side a charming design in colours by K. G. £18 18s

 This was the Artist's own set and the first two copies have her Autograph Signature, "K. Greenaway."

The Birthday Book was one of Kate Greenaway's most successful works. For the 382 drawings (370 of which were tiny uncoloured figures) she received £151 10s., whilst the royalties eventually exceeded £1,100. Every day had its own delightful little pictorial conceit, and each month had a full page in her happiest manner. "But perhaps the most interesting thing connected with the Birthday Book is the fact, which we learn from Mr. Graham Balfour, that Robert Louis Stevenson was first prompted by it to try his hand at those charming verses for children which were afterwards published in the Child's Garden of Verse. 'Louis took the Birthday Book up one day,' says Mr. Balfour, 'and saying, 'These are rather nice rhymes, and I don't think they would be very difficult to do,' proceeded to try his hand.'"

 A very uncommon volume, interspersed with poetry.

"The Author was Henry Hawkins, jesuit, born in London in 1571 or 1575. After studying classics in the college of the English jesuits at St. Omer, he entered the English College at Rome, under the assumed name of Brooke, on 19 March, 1608-9. Hawkins on coming to England was captured and imprisoned. In 1618 he was sent into perpetual exile with eleven other jesuits, but, like most of his companions, soon returned to this country, where he laboured, principally in the London district, for twenty-five years. He is named among the 'veterani missionarii' in the list of jesuits found among the papers seized in 1628 at the residence of the society in Clerkenwell." D. N. B.

Illustrated with 14 full-page miniatures, finely painted in gold and colours within architectural borders and floral scrolls, natural flowers and fruit on dull gold ground, with birds sometimes introduced: 18 small miniatures in the text, depicting the Trinity, male and female saints, etc., hundreds of initials painted in gold and colours, and considerable textual ornament of bar pattern in solid colours with gold pen flourishes.

8vo, old crimson morocco gilt, line borders, corner mounts and clasp of chased silver, the clasp bearing the name "H. Revell" engraved on its inner side, edges tooled and gilt (preserved in a leather slip case).

(France, 15th Century).

A MAGNIFICENT ILLUMINATED MANUSCRIPT OF THE XIIITH CENTURY.196 PSALTERIUM LATINUM, cum Kalendario.

Superbly illuminated Manuscript in surprisingly fresh and clean condition on 218 leaves of thick vellum ($6\frac{1}{4}$ by $4\frac{1}{2}$ inches), written by a Flemish Scribe in the North of France about the year 1287.

Beautifully written in large and clear Gothic letters; 19 long lines to a full page. The Calendar is written in red and black with decorative initial letters in burnished gold, ornamental borders of red, gold and blue and also twelve very large miniatures in bright colours on a background of burnished gold, illustrative of the occupations of the twelve months of the year. These miniatures are of exceptional size (averaging 5 by 2 inches) and quality, and we know of no manuscript with such a fine suite of calendar miniatures.

There are further 15 large full-page miniatures with superb burnished gold backgrounds magnificently executed by a great Master of Thirteenth Century illumination and 8 very fine small miniatures. With 218 fine borders (one to every page) consisting of blue and gold ornamental work with occasional grotesque heads in red.

Also hundreds of large and small initial letters in burnished gold and fine textual decoration in burnished gold and colours.

8vo, Old French red floreate silk, g. e.

(North of France, about 1287.)

(SEE ILLUSTRATIONS, PLATES No. XIX. AND XX.).

£4,750

A MOST MAGNIFICENT EXAMPLE OF THE FINEST STYLE OF MEDIEVAL ILLUMINATION OF THE FINEST NORTH OF FRANCE SCHOOL, ABOUT 1287, IN UNRIVALLED CLEAN CONDITION. THE CONDITION OF THE MANUSCRIPT, MINIATURES AND BORDERS IS EXCEPTIONAL, AND IT IS AMAZING THAT A MANUSCRIPT OF THE THIRTEENTH CENTURY SHOULD HAVE BEEN PRESERVED TO OUR DAYS IN SUCH A FINE STATE.

The miniatures are beautifully executed and are painted invariably over a layer of thick burnished gold, which is also used for the backgrounds. The miniatures represent:—

The Calendar.

1. (January) A man seated before the fire, warming his bare leg and drinking.
2. (February) Woman with Candlemas taper.
3. (March) A man pollarding a willow-tree.
4. (April) A Youth holding flowers.
5. (May) A Lady and a Gentleman riding pillion on horseback, hawking.
6. (June) A man carrying branches.

7. (July) A countryman with his scythe cutting grass.
8. (August) A man cutting standing corn, and a woman binding it into bundles.
9. (September) Plucking grapes and treading grapes for wine.
10. (October) A man sowing.
11. (November) A man killing pigs.
12. (December) A butcher killing an ox.

The other Miniatures represent:—

1. The Annunciation.
2. The Nativity.
3. The Adoration of the Magi.
4. The Flight into Egypt.
5. The Baptism of Jesus in Jordan by St. John the Baptist.
6. The Flagellation.
7. The Crucifixion, surrounded by a border composed of 16 squares alternately blue and red, each containing one of the Old Testament Prophets, each with forefinger of right hand pointing to Jesus on Cross, as culmination of Prophecy.
8. The Resurrection above, and below The Last Judgment, the whole forming the letter "B."
9. Saint Peter with the Key (small miniature).
10. Jesus and Mary Magdalen.
11. Jesus appearing to Saint Thomas.
12. Saint Paul with the Sword, the fox at the corner of the border is biting off the rabbit's ear, whom he was going to teach to read the Psalter (small miniature). (Legend of Reynard, the Fox.)
13. St. Laurence on the grill being prodded with a pitchfork (small miniature).
14. The Ascension.
15. St. Stephen being stoned to death (small miniature).
16. The Descent of the Holy Ghost.
17. St. Margaret with the Dragon (small miniature).
18. St. Dominic preaching to an audience of men and women.
19. Saint Nicholas (small miniature). A juggler (at foot of page) is balancing a long box on his nose.
20. St. Francis of Assisi preaching to the birds. This is the first known representation of this scene.
21. Saint Martin dividing his cloak with a beggar (small miniature). At side of page, a juggler balancing a long wooden pole, on the top of which is a saucer on which is seating a large squirrel with fine brown tail eating a green nut.
22. The Coronation of the Virgin (small miniature). At foot of page is a large monkey eating fruit.
23. The Resurrection, with two angels holding the emblems of the Passion.

Of great interest are the cleverly painted numerous grotesques at foot of pages, such as parrot, owl, monkey, fox and rabbit, dog, jugglers, cat, etc., which are most unusual at this early date.

MAGNIFICENT ILLUMINATED MS. FROM THE LIBRARY OF THE ARCHBISHOP OF LYONS.197 HORÆ BEATÆ MARIÆ VIRGINIS, cum Kalendario.

A magnificently illuminated Manuscript on 228 leaves of fine vellum ($9\frac{1}{2}$ by $6\frac{3}{4}$ inches), written by a French Scribe at the end of the Fourteenth Century.

Beautifully written in large and clear Gothic characters, 16 long lines to a full page. The Calendar is written in gold, red and blue with richly decorative initial letters and full borders and also twelve circular miniatures in gold and colours illustrative of the Signs of the Zodiac.

With 24 superb miniatures very finely executed by two or more artists, one of the artists being one of the great unnamed Masters of fourteenth Century French miniature art. With 455 especially large and full floreated borders (being one to every page) composed of elaborate and minute pen scroll work of a most tasteful floreate pattern with ivy leaves in gold and colours, occasionally a broader design has been used and sometimes there are charming designs of grotesque birds and animals.

Also many hundreds of large and small ornamental initial letters in burnished gold and colours and much textual decoration.

Royal 8vo, old calf gilt, on the sides are borders and frames of gilt floreate scroll work, with centre and corner panels containing vase ornaments, g. e., in the old box which was made for the book at the time of the binding (formerly in the possession of Monseigneur de Villeroi, Archbishop of Lyons).

(France, end of XIVth Century.)

(SEE ILLUSTRATION, PLATE No. XXI.).

£4,200

A SUPERB EXAMPLE OF THE FINEST STYLE OF THE ILLUMINATOR'S ART OF THE BEST FRENCH SCHOOL AT THE END OF THE 14th CENTURY, WRITTEN FOR A ROYAL CHAPEL, AS TESTIFIED BY THE FLEUR-DE-LYS ADORNING THE CEILINGS OF THE CHAPEL IN THE MINIATURE OF THE ANNUNCIATION (No. 5). The condition of the Manuscript, Miniatures and borders is unrivalled, and it is almost a miracle that it has escaped the ravages of time, which is no doubt owing to the fact that it had been carefully handed down and treated as a family heirloom since 1565, as long manuscript descriptions of former owners. Canons of the Church at Poitiers and members of the Gayand and Gaudon families of Poitiers attest. One of whom has even added the date and price of binding the MS. and mentions the old box in which it is still preserved. The descriptions form a long pedigree since 1565.

The Miniatures are painted most delicately and with supreme good taste in gold and brilliant colours, nearly all of them have beautiful richly diapered backgrounds.

They represent:—

1. St. John the Evangelist writing (with his attribute), the devil stealing his ink-pot and emptying it into the sea.
2. St. Luke the Evangelist.
3. St. Mathew the Evangelist.
4. St. Mark the Evangelist.
5. The Annunciation.
6. The Visitation.
7. The Nativity.
8. The Angel appearing to the Shepherds.
9. The Presentation in the Temple.
10. The Flight into Egypt.
11. The Coronation of the Virgin.
12. King David praying.
13. The Betrayal.
14. Jesus before Pilate.
15. The Crowning with Thorns.
16. The Crucifixion.
17. Jesus bearing the Cross.
18. The Descent from the Cross.
19. The Entombment.
20. Jesus on the Cross, the two Maries at the foot.
21. The Descent of the Holy Ghost.
22. The Vigil of the Dead.
23. The Virgin and Child with the Angels.
24. The Day of Judgment.

It is not easy to select the finest miniatures in this superb manuscript, but we should like to point out No. 23, The Virgin and Child, a composition of tranquil beauty and purity; No. 22, one of the finest miniatures we have ever seen, in which the characterisation of the attendants and choir is carried so far that every one of the semi-hooded monks has a different expression; No. 13, The Betrayal, a magnificent night-piece with superbly contrasted colours, and in which every face is characterised; No. 12, King David Praying, includes delightful country scenes including a mill, and with a stream painted with silver, a colour rarely used by miniaturists.

MAGNIFICENT ITALIAN MANUSCRIPT.

198 HORÆ BEATÆ MARIÆ VIRGINIS, cum Kalendario.

Manuscript magnificently written in minuscules of the Italian Renaissance type, known as "scrittura umanistica," by an Italian Scribe on 79 pages of fine vellum. The margins are cut away and the pages inlaid on paper (7½ by 5½ inches).

With 15 large and magnificent miniatures beautifully illuminated by an Italian artist of exceptional ability within Florentine framework borders of gold shaded with red, and 15 beautiful full-page borders of arabesque designs suggestive of wrought metal work, in shaded gold on richly coloured backgrounds.

Also 3 small miniatures and over a thousand small initial letters in gold and colours.

8vo, purple velvet, g. e., with four finely chased gilt clasps. (Italy, XVth Century.)

(SEE ILLUSTRATION, PLATE No. XXII.).

£275

Each page of text of this magnificent manuscript is surrounded with a gold border of knotted cord with tassels at foot.

The subjects of the large miniatures are:—

- (1). Gethsemane.
- (2). The Annunciation.
- (3). The Visitation.
- (4). The Nativity.
- (5). The Angel appearing to the Shepherds.
- (6). The Adoration of the Magi.
- (7). The Presentation in the Temple.
- (8). Flight into Egypt.
- (9). The Coronation of the Virgin.
- (10). The Angel Gabriel greeting the Virgin.
- (11). The Crucifixion.
- (12). The outpouring of the Holy Ghost at Pentecost.
- (13). David and Bathsheba.
- (14). Dives and Lazarus.
- (15). Job and his comforters.

199 HORÆ BEATÆ MARIÆ VIRGINIS, secundum usum Romanum, cum Calendario.

A finely executed Manuscript on 139 leaves of Vellum, by a French Scribe.

Embellished with an unusually large number of charming miniature paintings in gold and colours, comprising 12 of large size, full page: 36 smaller square miniatures in the text, and 24 in the Calendar: in all 72, besides hundreds of small painted initials and terminal ornaments, also many floral borders; at commencement is a large miniature representing the original owner of the book in widow's weeds, kneeling before a full-length figure of the Christ, with the initials "I. M." on a shield at foot.

8vo, bound in old French dark green morocco, gold lines on sides, full gilt back, and gilt edges. XV. Century.

(SEE ILLUSTRATION, PLATE No. XXIII.).

£220

 A fine example of a 15th Century Book of Hours. The large miniatures are:—

- | | |
|---------------------------------|---|
| I. St. John writing his Gospel. | VII. The Circumcision. |
| II. The Annunciation. | VIII. The Flight into Egypt. |
| III. The Crucifixion. | IX. Death of the Virgin. |
| IV. Descent of the Holy Ghost. | X. David and Bathsheba. |
| V. The Nativity. | XI. Job and his three Friends. |
| VI. Adoration of the Wise Men. | XII. The Holy Trinity (a curious representation). |

The Miniatures in the Calendar represent Country Occupations for each month; and the other paintings are of Scenes in the Life of Christ and of the Saints.

 Jonson in his "Timber: or Discoveries made upon Men and Matter" (at end of vol. 2), gives his opinion upon Shakespeare as follows:—

"I remember, the Players have often mentioned it as an honour to Shakespeare, that in his writing (whatsoever he penn'd) hee never blotted out line. My Answer hath beene, would he had blotted out a thousand. Which they thought a malevolent speech. I had not told posterity this, but for their ignorance, who choose that circumstance to commend their friend by, wherein he most faulted. And to justifie mine owne candor (for I lov'd the man, and doe honour his memory (on this side idolatry) as much as any). He was (indeed) honest, and of open, and free nature, had an excellent Phantasie, brave notions, and gentle expressions: wherein hee flow'd with that facility, that sometimes it was necessary he should be stop'd. . . . There was ever more in him to be prayed than to be pardoned."

"Gebir" is jewelled with lines that are faultless, alike in rounded beauty of expression and majesty of rhythm.

Never was there a swifter stride made than from Landor's prenticework to "Gebir," which displayed his royal poetic genius in full robes. Where now be his politics and polemics? Henceforth his verse, for the most part, is wedded to pure beauty, and prose becomes the vehicle of his critical or controversial thought. In "Gebir," art, treatment, imagination, are everything; argument very little; the story is of a remote, Oriental nature, a cord upon which he strings his extraordinary language, imagery, and versification. The structure is noble in the main, though chargeable, like Tennyson's earlier poetry, with vagueness here and there; the diction is majestic and sonorous, and its progress is specially marked by sudden, almost random, outbursts of lofty song. I do not hesitate to say that this epic, as poetry, and as a marvellous production for the period, and for Landor's twenty-two years, stands next to that renowned and unrivalled torso, composed so long afterward, the "Hyperion" of John Keats. Countess of Buckingham, who was attracted towards the church of Rome by the arguments of Percy, a jesuit who went by the name of Fisher. By the King's orders there had been two conferences held in her presence between Fisher and Dr. Francis White, and on 24 May, 1622, a third conference was held, in which Laud took the place of White. The subject then discussed was the infallibility of the church.

"Laud's arguments on this occasion, together with their subsequent enlargement in his account of the controversy published in 1639, mark his ecclesiastical position in the line between Hooker and Chillingworth. On the one hand he acknowledged the church of Rome to be a true church, on the ground that it 'received the Scriptures as a rule of faith, though but as a partial and imperfect rule, and both the sacraments as instrumental causes and seals of grace.' He strove against the position 'that all points defined by the church are fundamental,' attempting as far as possible to limit the extent of 'soul-saving faith.' The foundations of faith were 'the Scriptures and the creeds.' When doubts arose 'about the meaning of the articles, or superstructures upon them—which are doctrines about the faith, not the faith itself, unless when they be immediate consequences—then, both in and of these, a lawful and free general council, determining according to Scripture, is the best judge on earth.' Laud, in short, wished to narrow the scope of dogmatism, and to bring opinions not necessary to salvation to the bar of public discussion by duly authorised exponents, instead of to that of an authority claiming infallibility." "'Euphues' is a story, relating the adventures, correspondence, and conversations of a young gentleman of Athens, who gives his name to the work, and of his friend Philautus, a native of Naples. The young men are engaged in the pursuit of a strictly moral training. The scene of the first part is laid in Naples, that of the second part in England. There is practically no action, and the author mainly discusses educational or religious problems, love, and the proper conduct of life. The section on education, called 'Euphues and his Ephoebus,' is directly borrowed from Plutarch on 'Education.' When treating of England, the author introduces some shrewd comments on the extravagances of his contemporaries' fashions of dress. But the leading interest of the book lies in its prose style, which is chiefly characterised by a continuous straining after antithesis and epigram. Lyly, when enforce-ing his sententious moralisings, delights in long series of short parallel sentences, all in the same syntactical form, and embodying fantastic similes drawn from natural history or classical mythology. Pliny's 'Natural History' appears to have supplied him with many of his illustrations, as Plutarch supplied him with much of his sentiment. He had at the same time an ear for alliteration, and was liberal in the use of the rhetorical question." (D.N.B.).

£22 10s

"In his prologue the author styles himself Jehan de Mandeville, of Jöhn Maundevylle, knight, born and bred in England, of the town of St. Aubin or St. Albans; and he declares that he crossed the sea on Michaelmas Day 1322 (1332, in the Egerton and some other English manuscripts), and had passed in his travels by Turkey (i.e., Asia Minor), Great and Little Armenia, Tartary, Persia, Syria, Arabia, Upper and Lower Egypt, Libya, a great part of Ethiopia, Chaldea, Amazonia, and Lesser, Greater, and Middle India. He adds that he wrote especially for those who wished to visit Jerusalem, whither he had himself often ridden in good company.

"The work itself is virtually made up of two parts. The first treats mainly of the Holy Land and the routes thither and in the Paris manuscript it gives the title to the whole, viz., 'Le Livre Jehan de Mandeville, chevalier, lequel parle de l'estat de la terre sainte et de merveilles que il y a veues.' Although it is more a guide-book for pilgrims than strictly a record of the author's own travel, he plainly implies throughout that he wrote from actual experience.

"The second part of the work describes nearly all Asia. The place of Boldensele is here taken by Friar Odoric of Pordenone, whose intensely interesting narrative of eastern travel was written in 1330, shortly after his return home. Odoric left Europe about 1316-18, and travelled slowly overland from Trebizond to the Persian Gulf, where he took ship at Hormuz for Tana, a little north of Bombay. Thence he sailed along the coast to Malabar, Ceylon, and Mailapur, now Madras. After visiting Sumatra, Java, and other islands, Champa or S. Cochin-China, and Canton, he ultimately made his way northward through China to Cambalec or Pekin. There he remained three years, and then started homeward by land." (D.N.B.)

FINE TALL COPY. Complete with the Youthful Poems and leaf "on the faults of the printer."

Thick small folio, original calf.

Printed at London: Anno 1557.

£52 10s

 William Rastell, More's nephew, to whom many of his manuscripts seem to have passed, collected most of his English writings in "The Workes of Sir Thomas More, 1557." It is dedicated to Queen Mary by Rastell. The table of contents precedes an index by Thomas Paynell. After his English poems come the "Pico," "Richard III.," "The Dyaloge," and all his controversial publications. The previously unpublished material includes an unfinished treatise "uppon these words of Holy Scripture, 'Memorare novissima et in eternum non peccabis,'" dated in 1522, and dealing with reflection on death, and several devotional works written by More in the Tower, viz.: "Treatise to receaue the blessed Body of our Lorde, sacramentally and virtually both"; "Upon the Passion" (unfinished); "An Exposition of a Part of the Passion" (translated by More's granddaughter, Mary Bassett, from the Latin); "Certein deuout and vertuouse Instructions, Meditations and Prayers," and some letters written just before his death to his family and friends, including his pathetic correspondence with his daughter Margaret. In this copy is an unpagged leaf after p. 1138—at the close of the "Answer to the Supper"—supplying More's apology "to the Christen reader" for a few printer's blunders.

"The massive folio of Sir Thomas More's 'English Works' remains a monument of our language at a period of its pristine vigor. Viewed in active as well as in contemplative life, at the bar or on the bench, as ambassador or chancellor, and not to less advantage, where 'a good distance from his house at Chelsea, he builded the new building, wherein was a chapel, a library, and a gallery,' the character, the events, and the writings of this illustrious man may ever interest us. . . . More, however skilful as a Latin scholar, to promulgate his opinions aimed at popularity, and cultivated our vernacular idiom, till the English language seems to have enlarged the compass of its expression under the free and copious vein of the writer."—Israel Disraeli.

249 MORLEY (John). Collection of his Esteemed Writings.

256 NABBES (Thomas). The Springs Glorie.

Vindicating Love by temperance against the tenent. Sine Cerere & Baccho friget Venus. Moralized in a Maske, with other Poems, Epigrams, Elegies & Epithalamiums of the Author.

FIRST EDITION. Sm. 4to, new half levant morocco, g. e.

London, Printed by I. D. for Charles Greene, 1638.

£28 10s

 "As a writer of masques Nabbes deserves more consideration. His touch was usually light and his machinery ingenious. His 'Spring's Glory' bears some resemblance to Middleton's 'Inner Temple Masque,' published in 1618. The 'Presentation intended for the Prince his Highnesse on his Birthday' is bright and attractive, although it does not appear to have been actually performed. It was printed with 'The Spring's Glory,' together with some occasional verses. The volume was dedicated to William, son of Peter Balle." (D.N.B.).

CLOVIS EVE BINDING.

THE WORK WAS PRINTED.

- 258 NAUNTON (Sir Robert, Secretary of State to James I.). Fragmenta Regalia, or Observations on the late Queen Elizabeth, her Tymes and Favourites.

A MANUSCRIPT WRITTEN ON 84 FOLIO PAGES in a clear Court hand of the period.

Folio, half calf, circa 1635.

£52 10s

 This work consists of observations on Queen Elizabeth, her times and favourites, of whom the author gives a brief description and character, which being the result either of personal observation or derived from the best authority and delineated by one who was himself admitted into the secrets of Court Policy, can hardly fail to be interesting.

It deals with Queen Elizabeth, Earl of Leicester, Lord Burleigh, Sir Philip Sidney, Sir Francis Walsingham, Lord Willoughby, Sir Nicolas Bacon, Sir Francis Knowles, Sir John Perrot, Lord Howard of Effingham, Sir John Packington, Lord Hunsdon, Sir Walter Raleigh, Sir Foulke Greville, Earl of Essex, Lord Buckhurst, Lord Mountjoy, Sir Robert Cecill, Sir Francis Vere, Earl of Worcester.

The author received his education at Cambridge, and in 1601 was elected Orator of that University.

James I. created him Secretary of State. Naunton's daughter married Philip, Earl of Pembroke, Shakespeare's Patron.

Hunter in his "New Illustration" of "The Merry Wives of Windsor" refers to the book as printed in 1641.

CONTEMPORARY MANUSCRIPT.

- 259 [NAUNTON (Sir Robert).] The First Fyve Yeares Rainge of Kinge James.

£75

 Sir Isaac Newton's Own Copy, with Notes in his handwriting on 44 pages, being either additions to, or alterations of the printed text.

"It has been said that the history of Sir Isaac Newton is also the history of science; yet the character of his life and the work does not entirely exclude him from the category of men of letters. . . . Milton and Dante dealt with the spiritual order of creation, Sir Isaac Newton with the material; yet to those who perceive an almost mystical significance in numbers—to whom mathematics are, in a sense, gateways to the unseen—the author of the 'Principia' and of the 'Treatise on Optics' will seem scarcely less a teacher than the poets." THE FIRST EDITION IN CONTEMPORARY BINDING OF
 "SHAKESPEARE'S STORE HOUSE OF LEARNED HISTORY."

272 NORTH'S PLUTARCH. First Edition. London, 1575.

THE LIVES
 OF THE NOBLE GRE-
 CIANS AND ROMANES, COMPARED

together by that grave learned Philosopher and Historiogra-pher, Plutarcke of Chaeronea:

Translated out of Greeke into French by James Amyot, Abbot of Bellozane,
 Bishop of Aurerre, one of the Kings privy counsel, and great Amner of Fraunce, and out of French into Englishe, by

THOMAS NORTH.

Imprinted at London by Thomas Vautroullier and John Wight.

1579.

A magnificent copy of the First Edition in its original binding of oak boards covered with leather and blind tooled in panels, with the stamps of the Tudor Rose, Portcullis surmounted with crown, medallion portraits, etc.

Thick folio.

£125

 A finer copy of this excessively rare book would be almost impossible to find. It has only one very slight defect, i.e., the bottom blank of last leaf has been cut off. Shakespeare made more use of this book than perhaps any other, and Halliwell-Phillips says that "It is one of the books that can be positively said to have been in his own hands."

"Sir Thomas North exerted a powerful influence on Elizabethan Writers, and has been described as the first great master of English Prose. His Plutarch is dedicated to Queen Elizabeth, and it was one of the most popular books of her day. It is written throughout in admirably vivid and robust prose.

"But it is as a Shakespeare's Storehouse of Classical learning that it presents itself in its most interesting aspect. To it (it is not too much to say) we owe the existence of the Plays of 'Julius Cæsar,' 'Coriolanus,' and 'Antony and Cleopatra,' while 'A Midsummer Night's Dream,' 'Pericles,' and 'Timon of Athens' are all indebted to it. In 'Coriolanus' whole speeches have been transferred bodily from North, but it is in 'Antony and Cleopatra' that North's diction has been most closely followed."—D. N. B.

 Excessively rare. It is referred to in full in "Books Condemned to be Burnt," and described as "A Literary and Political Curiosity of the highest order, and not easily accessible."

The Authors whose books were condemned are sometimes referred to quite generally, so that some are difficult to identify, but the following appear to be the principal ones that incurred the fury and indignation of the University:—

Milton's Eikonoklastes.

„ Defensio Populi Anglicani.

Rutherford's Lex Rex.

Buchanan's De Jure Regni apud Scotos.

Bellarmino's De Potestate Papae.

Bellarmino's De Conciliis et Ecclesia Militante.

Goodwin's Obstructours of Justice.

Baxter's Holy Commonwealth.

Dolman's Succession.

Hobbe's De Cive and Leviathan.

After the Conspiracy known as the "Rye House Plot" to kill Charles II. and his brother the Duke of York, the University of Oxford issued this decree ordering the Public Burning of certain books which ran counter to the doctrine of the Divine Right of Kings.

and impious; and most of them to be also Heretical and Blasphemous, infamous to Christian Religion, and destructive of all Government in Church and State.

"We farther decree that the Books which contain the foresaid propositions and impious Doctrines, are fitted to deprave good manners; corrupt the minds of unwary men, stir up seditions and tumults, overthrow States and Kingdoms, and lead to Rebellion, Murther of Princes, and Atheism itself; and therefore we interdict all members of the University from the reading the said Books, under the penalties in the Statutes exprest.

"We also order the before recited Books to be publicly burnt, by the hand of our Marshal in the court of our Scholes." Etc.

Turkestan, 1392.

(SEE ILLUSTRATION, PLATE No. XXIX.).

£250

"Sadi's Bostan or Fruit-garden, composed in the year 1257, is a kind of didactic epopee in ten chapters and double-rhymed verses, and is a masterpiece which has immortalized his name. He passes in review the highest philosophical and religious questioning and his book abounds with sound ethical maxims and matchless gems of translucent speculation. It is illustrated by a rich store of clever tales and charming anecdotes."

- 288 PERSIAN MANUSCRIPT. Salman Sawaji. The Diwan, or poems of Salman Sawaji.

Persian Manuscript written in a neat and legible hand in double columns. 17 lines to a full page, with magnificent anwan at the commencement in a deep blue and green, with the title of the work in white square characters.

With 8 charming and delicate miniatures in the finest possible state of preservation, mostly of garden scenes or interiors, bearing traces of Mongol influence.

8vo, Oriental binding of stamped leather.

Persia, about 1530.

coming difficulties attending him on his journey for and with his bride Mary of Burgundy. He himself had a considerable share in the composition of the poem, and, in fact, had made the first drafts in 1505-8 and by 1512 with the assistance of Dietrichstein, a large part of the work was already written. The finishing and general editing was then undertaken by Maximilian's private secretary, M. Pfintzing. This edition is to be considered as a privately printed book, not intended for sale. It seems that no copies passed out of the possession of Maximilian until some time after his death, for the whole stock of copies lay in six chests at Augsburg until March 1526, when the Archduke Ferdinand decided to distribute, through Treitzsauerwein, the contents of five of the chests to different German subjects as memorials of the late Emperor. The other chestful the Archduke kept for himself.

"The printer is supposed to have been brought from Nürnberg to Augsburg for the purpose of printing the work; and the type, which has extraordinary added flourishes, appears to have been specially made for this book. It is said that the patterns for the type were written by Vincenz Röckner, the Emperor's 'Court-Secretary.'

"In connection with the question of Maximilian himself having any hand in the designing of these cuts, one naturally recalls the incident of the charcoal pencil breaking in the Emperor's fingers when sketching for Dürer's instruction, as recorded by Melancthon. No doubt the Emperor indicated the manner in which he required himself represented in each cut and the alterations made on the block were according to his own order." FROM THE LIBRARY OF HENRY VIII., KING OF ENGLAND.

291 PLINY. C. Plinii Secundi Epistolarum Liber Primus.

Small 8vo. Lyons, 1529. (Title page missing.)

Contemporary English binding of oak boards covered with brown calf, the centre panels of both covers carry the Royal Arms of KING HENRY VIII. surrounded by the garter and surmounted with the crown. In compartments on either side of the Arms are the four badges—

- (1) The Tudor Rose.
- (2) The Castle.
- (3) Pomegranate.
- (4) Fleur-de-lis.

In the border around, in Gothic letters, appears a pious motto—

"Deus det nobis suam pacem et post mortem vitam eternam amen."

£52 10s

 A special point of interest in this volume is the fact that the binder has used for end leaves what is probably an unique example of an English Catholic Indulgence, granted by Thomas Wolsey, Cardinal of York. The upper part of this Indulgence is printed in red and black in Gothic letters, and is in English. The lower part is in Latin, and unfortunately of this lower part only half is intact, the other has been torn away. It commences:—

"The most reverende father in God Thomas cardynall of Yorke/legate de latere of the See Apostolyke . . . chancellor of Englade: of his goodness & charyte hath gyuen . . . to all that say this psalme with the suffrages here after folowyng for the most noble & psperous estate of our souerayne lorde kyng Henry the VIII the quene & the pryncesse for every day that they do say the same . . . of pdon." Etc.

TWELFTH CENTURY MANUSCRIPT.

- 292 PRUDENTIUS (Aurelius). Cathemerinon; Peristephanon; Apotheosis; Amartygenia; Psycomachia; contra Symmachum libri duo; Opuscula; Physiologus.

Very fine manuscript of the twelfth century, beautifully written on stout vellum, with large ornamental capitals in red and green, titles rubricated, in fine preservation, calf, gilt back.

Small folio. XII. Century.

 Very rarely are manuscripts to be found containing so many Works of this author. Sanderus in his "Bibl. Belgica" mentions this identical MS. It formerly belonged to a Belgian monastery, and bears on the first page the following benediction and malediction, "Liber Sancte [Marie Bonae Spei] servanti benedictio: Tollenti maledictio fiat. Amen."

- 293 PRESTON (Thomas). A Lamentable Tragedie, mixed full of Pleasant mirth, containing the life of CAMBISES KING OF PERCIA, from the beginning of his Kingdome, unto his death, his owne good deed of execution, after that many wicked deedes and tyrannous murders, committed by and through him, and last of all, his odious death by Gods Justice appointed.

Black Letter. Small 4to. A magnificent copy handsomely bound by Riviere in full crushed levant morocco extra, g. e.

(Colophon) Imprinted at London by Edward Allde, N.D. (1570.) £425

 There were two issues of this Play, both printed without date. This is the piece which gave rise to the phrase employed by Shakespeare "King Cambyse's vein": "That it may be thought I have wept; for I must speak in passion, and I will do it in King Cambyse's vein." (1 Hen. IV., II.)

 Preston was a pioneer of the English Drama. The play of Cambyses illustrates the transaction from the morality play to historical drama. The bombastic grandiloquence of the piece became proverbial, and Shakespeare alludes again to it by making Falstaff say, "I will do it in King Cambyse's vein." The play was reprinted in Hawkin's Origin of the English Drama and in Dodsley.

Harrisse 68. Eames-Sabin No. 66477.

Latin version of Jacobus Angelus, edited with many corrections by Bernardus Sylvanus of Eboli, the principles of which are developed in the introduction.

Sylvanus was the first to break with the blind confidence that almost every scholar in the beginning of the 16th century had in the atlas of the old Alexandrian geographer. In this edition . . . the usual addenda is omitted. . . . For the first time we here meet with maps printed in two colours, and contrary to what generally was and yet is the custom, both sides of the paper are used for the map print; excepting for the new map of the world, where the reverse is left blank. The maps are from woodcuts, for which the legends in black are produced by types fitted into blocks. . . .

The greatest importance of this edition to the history of cartography, consists in the cordiform map of the world . . . the first on this projection. This is the second

(This map) "contains the first printed delineation of any portion of the North American continent, under the names of regalis domus . . . and terra laboratoris—the former a fragmentary coast line and the latter as a large island. Below these are ispaniar insu., terra cube, and a part of the southern continent with the inscription Terra sanctae crucis. Greenland (engronelat) is put down as part of northern Europe."

Small 8vo (portrait inserted). Fine copy in contemporary calf.

Printed at Antwerpen (1680).

£42

 The Excessively rare First Edition, containing many very free poems never reprinted. This volume was published within a few months of Rochester's death, professedly at "Antwerpen" but really in London. The volume was reprinted in 1685, with some omissions and modifications.

"John Wilmot, Earl of Rochester, poet and libertine, was the boon companion of Charles II. His debaucheries and his riotous frolics were often the outcome of long spells of drunkenness. Towards the end of his life he declared that he was under the influence of drink for five consecutive years. At the same time he cultivated a brilliant faculty for amorous lyrics, obscene rhymes, and mordant satires in verse, and, although he quickly ruined his physical health by his excesses, his intellect retained all its vivacity till death.

"The king readily admitted him to the closest intimacy. He was Charles's companion in many of the meanest and most contemptible of the king's amorous adventures, and often acted as a spy upon those which he was not invited to share. But although his obscene conversation and scorn for propriety amused the king, there was no love lost between them, and Rochester's position at court was always precarious. His biting tongue and his practical jokes spared neither the king nor the ministers, nor the royal mistresses, and, according to Gramont, he was dismissed in disgrace at least once a year. He clearly exerted over Charles an irresistible fascination, and he was usually no sooner dismissed the court than he was recalled."

In the poem "In defence of Satyr" he refers to Shakespeare—

When Shakes. John Fletcher, rul'd the Stage," etc.

We can only trace one copy of this First Edition having been sold during the past 25 years, when it fetched £46.

"With a fine frontispiece representing Astronomia enthroned between 'Vrania musa caelestis' and 'Ptolemaeus princeps astronomor' (praised by Dr. Lippmann as 'not unworthy to have been executed after some design of the elder Bellini) and numerous diagrams, some of them printed in black, yellow, and red, some pictorial, e.g., those illustrating the 'Radius visualis' and 'Vmbra perpendicularis.' As was pointed out by the Prince d'Essling the verses in praise of the printers distinctly assert that the 'invention' of the designs was Santritter's, and the cutting by Hieronymus de Sanctis. Whether Santritter may be credited on this evidence with the design of the frontispiece is perhaps doubtful. The identification of his temporary partner as a woodcutter is the more interesting since besides this he issued other illustrated books, a Fiore di virtu with a frontispiece of a rather grim-looking Friar in a Garden, the important edition of the Meditatione sopra la passione di Cristo, in which some of the blocks of the early Venetian blockbook reappear slightly cut down (this with a certain 'Cornelius'), and in this same year 1438, and also with Santritter, the De ente et essentiis of Thomas Aquinas, with a fine cut of a boy and a burning-glass." A. W. Pollard. Catalogue of Early Italian Books in the Library of C. W. Dyson Perrins.

In addition to the diagrams printed in red, black, and yellow, a few are coloured by hand.

"SIGNORELLI (Lucas), born at Cortona about 1441, his style of painting is essentially Florentine, and his frescoes show the influence of Donatello. The work of Signorelli is characterised by nobility of conception and breadth and vigour in execution. The Titanic grandeur of his figures anticipates that of Michael Angelo's; they have the same solemnity without its tragic melancholy. He was complete master of anatomy, and specially skilful in his rendering of complicated movement and crowded action, in which he has never been surpassed. At the same time his figures have often a grace and beauty rare among the realistic painters of his day. No painter has given to the human frame a like degree of nobility, of vehemence and strength, nor treated his themes with more stately dignity."

 "The 'Arcadia' was written by Sidney for the amusement of his sister, the Countess of Pembroke.

The book at once established itself in popular esteem, and for more than a hundred years enjoyed an undisputed vogue. In Holinshed's 'Chronicle,' while Sidney was still alive, and the work in manuscript, the 'Arcadia' was eulogised by his friend Edmund Molyneux for 'its excellencie of spirit, gallant invention, varietie of matter, orderlie disposition, and apt words.' Greville described the work as, in the opinion of Sidney's friends, much inferior to 'that unbounded spirit of his,' but he regarded it as at once an artistic and ethical tour de force. Gabriel Harvey eulogised it as 'the simple image of his gentle wit and the golden pillar of his noble courage.'

Hakewill called it 'nothing inferior to the choicest piece among the ancients.' Almost from the day of its publication court ladies imitated its affected turns of speech. Early in the seventeenth century a gentleman of fashion would compliment a lady 'in pure Sir Philip Sidney.' A prayer spoken by Pamela was almost literally reproduced, and one of the charges made against the king's memory by Milton was that he stole a prayer 'word for word from the mouth of a heathen woman, praying to a heathen god, and that in no serious book, but in the vain amatorious poem of Sir Philip Sidney's 'Arcadia.'

The influence of the romance on contemporary literature was considerable. Shakespeare based on Sidney's story of the 'Paphlagonian unkind king' the episode of Gloucester and his sons in 'King Lear,' while many phrases in his plays, especially in the 'Tempest' and 'Midsummer Night's Dream,' closely resemble expressions in the 'Arcadia,' and justify the conjecture that he studied the romance as carefully as he studied Sidney's sonnets or his masque of the 'Lady of May.' There is an unmistakeable resemblance between Holofernes in 'Love's Labour's Lost,' and Rombus, the pedantic schoolmaster in Sidney's masque, which reads like a first draft of one of the pastoral incidents of the 'Arcadia,' and was from 1598 onwards always printed with it. Spenser's 'Faerie Queene' also stands indebted at many points to Sidney's romance."

 Excessively Rare in Uncut State.

"To speak of Adam Smith as the author of 'The Wealth of Nations' brings before us at once his chief claim to a place among the immortals in literature. Few books in the world's history have exerted a greater influence on the course of human affairs; and on account of this one work, Adam Smith's name is familiar to all well-educated persons in every civilised land. . . . All the economists before the time of Adam Smith must be regarded as his predecessors; all the economists who have lived since Adam Smith have carried on his work: and his position in economics is therefore somewhat like that of Darwin in natural science. There are many schools among modern economists, but their work all stands in some relation to that large work of this "old master."

"It is said that Smith often met Benjamin Franklin and carefully discussed chapters of the 'Wealth of Nations' with him.

"It should be remembered that this book which Buckle calls "The most important book ever written," and 'the most valuable contribution ever made by a single man toward establishing the principles on which governments should be based,' was the first work by an European scholar which made use of the American colonies as apt illustrations of its doctrines and pointed to those colonies as the country where the new political economy should develop in all its strength. Had Franklin done nothing else in the world but contribute these illustrations to Adam Smith's book, he would have had a high place among the great educators of mankind. As the first book on the economy basis of modern government in America, the 'Wealth of Nations' should be classed with the 'Federalist,' De Tocqueville's 'Democracy in America,' and Bryce's 'American Commonwealth.'"

 A Magnificent Copy, with large margins, of this exceedingly rare book.

The Author, Sir Thomas Smith, was born about 1558, and in June, 1604, he was appointed to be special ambassador to the Czar of Russia.

"When the East India Company was formed in October, 1600, he was elected the first governor, and was so appointed by the charter dated 31st Dec. In 1604 he was appointed one of the receivers for the Duchy of Cornwall, and, in June, to be special ambassador to the Tsar of Russia. His grandfather, Sir Andrew Judd, was one of the founders of the Muscovy Company, and he himself would seem to have been largely interested in the Muscovy trade. Sailing from Gravesend on 13th June, he, with his party, arrived at Archangel on 22nd July, and was conducted by way of Kholmogori and Vologhda to Jaroslav, where the Emperor then was. In the course of the winter he obtained a grant of new privileges for the company, and in the spring went on to Moscow, whence he returned to Archangel and sailed for England on 28th May.

"In 1603 Smith was re-elected governor of the East India Company, and with one break, 1606-7, continued to hold the office till July, 1621, during which time the company's trade was developed and established. In January 1618-19 he was appointed one of the commissioners for the settlement of the differences with the Dutch, which, however, after some years of discussion, remained for the time, unsettled. His connection with the East India Company and the Muscovy Company led him to promote and support voyages for the discovery of the North-West Passage, and his name, as given by William Baffin to Smith's Sound, stands as a memorial to all time of his enlightened and liberal energy. In 1609 he obtained the charter for the Virginia Company, of which he was the treasurer, an office which he held till 1620, when, on being charged with enriching himself at the expense of the company, and on a demand for inquiry, he resigned. The charges against him, which were urged with great virulence, were formally pronounced to be false and slanderous, though Smith was not held to be altogether free from blame; and the renewed inquiry was still going on, when he died at Sutton-at-Hone in Kent on Sept. 1625. He was buried at Sutton, where, in the church, there is an elaborate monument to his memory. The charges against him had met with no acceptance from the king; to the last he was consulted on all important matters relating to shipping and to eastern trade, and for several years was one of the chief commissioners of the Navy, as also governor of the French and Somer Islands companies."  The Liber Studiorum was designed and carried out by Turner in the early-middle period of his career, its publication ranging from 1807, when he was thirty-two, to 1819, when he was forty-four—these twelve years coinciding pretty nearly with what is generally known as his "second manner" in Art.

In the year of its inception, Turner's position as the first English landscape-painter of his day was assured, and this series of plates Turner regarded as his magnum opum.

The Liber Studiorum of Turner was designed from the first as a series, not of sketches, but of fully-finished pictures, which were to illustrate of his whole range of powers, and to embrace every kind of subject of which he considered himself master. Projected therefore with this aim, the groundwork of every plate the work of his own hand, and each after-stage entrusted to the best engravers of his day over whom he kept strictest supervision, it is not surprising that the Liber Veritatis was utterly distanced, and that the Liber Studiorum, produced during twelve years of Turner's life in which many of his strongest, although not his most imaginative, pictures appeared, came forth a truly monumental work, taking rank with the highest expressions of his genius.

Folio, crushed crimson morocco extra, g. e., by F. Bedford.

Ulm, Johann Goerlin, 1639.

£65

This book is excessively rare in a complete state. Copies like the above in which impressions of the plates are absolutely magnificent are almost unknown. This copy appears to be printed on specially thick paper. "Each cut has its title at top in Latin (Roman letter), at foot in German (Gothic letter), with verses in the latter language. The series embraces all grades of society, different nationalities, and both sexes, from the Emperor downwards, illustrating perhaps better than any book, the costume of the period, which was apparently very rich and costly, in the case of the more wealthy people.

"The dresses appropriate to festivals, balls, marriages, are shewn, sometimes with 2 or 3 figures on the page. German towns as Nurenberg, Augsburg, Meissen, Strassburg and others are fully treated, but other places receive their share of attention, as Sweden, Holland, France, England, Italy, Spain, Hungary, Russia, Africa, America, Greece, Turkey, etc. The last leaf is occupied by a full-page cut evidently by Amman, but unsigned, representing St. John the Baptist preaching in the desert, the design surrounded by a border of naked boys supporting three shields of Arms; these are the Imperial Eagle, single headed, crowned, but without nimbus."  "The work by which Cotta is best remembered. The erroneous ways of proving a witch confuted by Cotta are those by means of fire and water and the like, which are convincingly shown to be foolish and misleading; but the author would have deserved more credit had he not at the same time expressed the interested opinion that the best method of discovering witchcraft is to take a physician's advice on the subject." (D. N. B.)

- 383 WITHER (George). A Memorandum to London

occasioned by the Pestilence there begun this present year MDCLXV, and humbly offered to the Lord Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the said City.

Thereto is added, A Warning-piece to London, discharged out of a Loophole in the Tower upon meditating the Deplorable Fire, which consumed the house of an eminent Citizen with all the persons and goods therein . . . also, a Single Sacrifice, offered to Almighty God by the same Author in his lonely confinement, for Prevention of the Death feared, and probably portended by immoderate Rains in June and July 1663.

8vo (title soiled), full calf gilt.

Imprinted in the Year 1665.

£8 15s

 Written in verse. The Author remained in London during the great plague of 1665 and drew from it many pious morals in this work.

384 WITHER (George). What Peace to the wicked?

or, An Expostulatorie Answer to A Derisorie Question, Lately made Concerning Peace. By A Free-man, though a Prisoner.

6 pp., small 4to, bound by Bedford in full polished calf, g. e.

Printed in the Year 1646.

£12 12s

 This is a Poem in short rhyming couplets, printed in double column, denouncing the clergy for the dissensions of 1645, evidently written and published by Wither whilst in prison on account of his book "Justiciarius Justificatus," which was examined by a Committee of the House of Commons and voted to be "false and scandalous." Wither for that book was directed to pay a fine of £500, and the book was burned at Guildford by the hangman. Subsequently, Wither states, the House discharged him "both from the said fine and imprisonment without his petitioning or mediation for it."

WITH THE ARMS EMBLAZONED.

385 YORKE (James, Blacksmith). The Union of Honour.

Containing THE ARMES, MATCHES AND ISSUES of the KINGS, DUKES, MARQUESSES and EARLES OF ENGLAND from the Conquest, untill this present yeere, 1640.

With the Armes of the English Viscounts and Barons now being: and of the Gentry of Lincolnshire.

Whereunto is Annexed, A briefe of all the Battels which have beene fought and maintained by the English since the Conquest, till the yeere 1602.

Collected out of the most approved Authours, former or moderne, by James Yorke, Black-Smith.

Beautiful engraved title page, and upwards of 800 Coats of Arms emblazoned in gold and colours.

Folio, contemporary calf (rebacked).

London, Printed by Edward Griffin for William Leake, 1640. £8 8s

 "James Yorke, heraldic writer, appears to have been a blacksmith in the city of Lincoln, and was, says Fuller, 'an excellent workman in his profession, insomuch that if Pegasus himself would wear shoes, this man alone is fit to make them.' He is a servant, continues Fuller, 'as well of Appollo as of Vulcan, turning his stiddy (stithy) into a studdy. And although there be some mistakes (in his Baronage), no hand so steady as always to hit the nail on the head, yet is it of singular use and industriously performed.'

"The heraldy and genealogy is based for the most part upon Milles, Guillim, Brooke, and Vincent, but the work has the great advantages of being arranged in alphabetical order of titles. From 1622 to 1640 Yorke claims the 'creations and continuance of families' as his own work. The historical details, and the list of battles appended he derived from Speed and Stow. Prefixed to the volume are dedicatory verses by Richard Brathwaite, Or. Elyot, Jo. Prujeau, Sir George Buc, T. Langford, Edward Bullingham, Percy Enderby, and Thomas Heywood, the actor. The 'Union of Honour' retains some interest as a link between Vincent and Dugdale. A portrait of the learned blacksmith, attributed to T. Rawlins, adorns the engraved title."—D. N. B.
