4to. London, Printed for Beniamin Fisher . . . 1636

Between A 4 and B 1 is inserted a 4to leaf (shaved at fore-edge, verso blank) on which is printed between two rows of ornaments (26 in each) "Doctor BURGES approved Medicine against the Plague," followed by three paragraphs (21 lines) in black letter, ending "Probatum est." This leaf (which seems otherwise unknown) has been long in its present position, as it is paged in sequence in an 18th Century hand. At the end are bound the last two leaves (the first signed S 3) of "Certain Necessary Directions," 1636 (see below, lot 116).

London, Printed by Robert Barker and John Bill . . .
MDCXXX.

** The S.T.C. (9342) does not separate this and the edition described below, but cites only two copies of a 1630 edition (B. M. and Huntington). No sale at auction of either edition seems to be recorded.

The make-up of the book is remarkable. The first nine leaves are identical with the first nine of the other edition, except that the signature A 5 on fol. 9 is there changed to ¶ A; the text of the page is from the same setting (see the damaged i of Prerogative and the g of ignorance). The other unpagged section (K3-N4) is also identical with those leaves of the other edition. The rest of the book is made up of the appropriate leaves of a publication of 1609, apparently the Foure Statutes specially selected of that year, with the addition of M 1 (second series) which has been set up afresh (note the hyphens) and the unsigned leaf between K 2 and 3 (recto blank, Physicians' preface on verso). A consideration of the evidence makes it certain this is the earlier edition, the misprint of K 3 for K 2 in the other being practically conclusive. Hazlitt (II, 580) describes this edition in a perfunctory manner

4to., August 10th, 1818
"I have seen the Portrait of Bonaparte, in Billiter Square, I think it painted in the Face, at least, by the same Artist—by Appiani; but a Picture in every respect exceedingly inferior to your Own, of which it is evidently a Repetition, and not painted from the Life.
The Drapery is not painted with, comparatively, the same vigour that it is in Yours. And, in short, the whole Work so inferior, that were I you, I would on no account purchase it. Nor be, in the least, chagrin'd at any other Person possessing it, since the only effect of its being seen
must be to enhance the value of your Own.
I am sure if you take Mrs. Angerstein to see it she will be of the same opinion."

" Whilst arranging some scattered papers previously to my departure from this place, which I am to leave to-morrow for Dumfriesshire, I happened to light upon your letter. Be assured I have not forgotten the many joyful days which long ago we spent together. Like most young men, I have had dreams of intellectual greatness—they were little else but dreams. The improvement of one's mind is the noblest object which can occupy any reasonable creature." Speaks disparagingly of his schoolmastering, and of the hardness of life. Mentions Byron, Gibbon, More, Kepler and Epictetus (whom he quotes in Greek). Speaks of a drunken poet friend, Stewart Lewis and of a friend who had committed suicide, William Irving. Hopes to visit the Cumberland hills and Galloway shortly

** RARE. The S.T.C. cites three copies only (B.M., Bodleian and Huntington). The only auction record is that of the Gordon Duff copy, sold in 1925

Between A 4 and B 1 is inserted a 4to leaf (shaved at fore-edge, verso blank) on which is printed between two rows of ornaments (26 in each) "Doctor BURGES approved Medicine against the Plague," followed by three paragraphs (21 lines) in black letter, ending "Probatum est." This leaf (which seems otherwise unknown) has been long in its present position, as it is paged in sequence in an 18th Century hand. At the end are bound the last two leaves (the first signed S 3) of "Certain Necessary Directions," 1636 (see below, lot 116).

7 115 BRASBRIDGE (THOMAS) THE POVRE MAN'S JEWELL . . . Now the second time set fovrth, somewhat augmented by the Author. 8vo. Londini, Impensis Geor. Bishop, 1592

** VERY RARE. The S.T.C. cites two copies only (B. M. and Bodleian); no sale at auction seems to be recorded. In spite of the statement on the title, there were editions in 1578 (B. M. and Bodl. only) and 1579 (B. M. only); also another (B. M. only, wanting title) which is presumably the 1580 edition referred to above.

The highest bid for the 1607 Collection, was <sup>18</sup> £220 not quite enough, So they were sold Superior

London, Printed by Robert Barker and John Bill . . . MDCXXX.*

** The S.T.C. (9342) does not separate this and the edition described below, but cites only two copies of a 1630 edition (B. M. and Huntington). No sale at auction of either edition seems to be recorded.

The make-up of the book is remarkable. The first nine leaves are identical with the first nine of the other edition, except that the signature A 5 on fol. 9 is there changed to ¶ A; the text of the page is from the same setting (see the damaged i of Prerogative and the g of ignorance). The other unpagged section (K3-N4) is also identical with those leaves of the other edition. The rest of the book is made up of the appropriate leaves of a publication of 1609, apparently the Foure Statutes specially selected of that year, with the addition of M 1 (second series)

which has been set up afresh (note the hyphens) and the unsigned leaf between K 2 and 3 (recto blank, Physicians' preface on verso). A consideration of the evidence makes it certain this is the earlier edition, the misprint of K 3 for K 2 in the other being practically conclusive. Hazlitt (II, 580) describes this edition in a perfunctory manner

The Physicians' preface on the verso is from the same setting of type as in the previous edition

A copy of the latter issue occurred in the Britwell sale of 31 Mar., 1925 (the Freeling copy, the only one mentioned by Lowndes); no other copy of either appears in modern auction records.

"I have seen the Portrait of Bonaparte, in Billiter Square, I think it
painted in the Face, at least, by the same Artist—by Appiani; but a Picture in every respect exceedingly inferior to your Own, of which it is evidently a Repetition, and not painted from the Life.

The Drapery is not painted with, comparatively, the same vigour that it is in Yours. And, in short, the whole Work so inferior, that were I you, I would on no account purchase it. Nor be, in the least, chagrin'd
at any other Person possessing it, since the only effect of its being seen
must be to enhance the value of your Own.

I am sure if you take Mrs. Angerstein to see it she will be of the same opinion." 40/ Mgo
