- * * * A VERY RARE INCUNABULUM, and the only edition of this work mentioned in Hain (who had not seen it) and Proctor. It is printed in very neat gothic letters on thick paper, and begins with the dedication to the Sfortia family. This first leaf has the signature A j, but all the rest are without signatures. It has very wide margins, and is in fine state, with some rough lower edges. Proctor gives only three works issued by this printer alone, and two others in conjunction with Jacobus of Marliano. The British Museum copy has no colophon. Pelechet, no. 2833, mentions signatures, as if they ran through the book, but this copy has only a signature on the first leaf.
