DITION. It is well known for its fine woodcuts, and is the earliest German Antisemite publication and the first grammar printed with Hebrew type in Germany. This copy agrees exactly with Hain* 11886, but differs in collation and in the prefatory matter from the B.M. copy (B.M. Catalogue of Books Printed in the XV Century II, p. 516).

- 123 NITSCHWITZ (HERMANN) NOVUM PSALTERIUM B. MARIAE VIRGINIS, 116 ll. gothic letter, two full-page woodcuts and 166 smaller cuts, woodcut borders to 170 pp., a few slight water stains at end and unimportant marginal defects in sheet H, contemporary stamped calf, worn, over wooden boards, rebaked with a piece of old stamped calf, brass clasps, many uncut edges [Hain, *11891; B.M. Cat. XV Cent. Books III, 4to (216 mm. by 153 mm.) Zinna (Germany), Press of the Cistercian Monastery [not after 1496]

 AN EXCELLENT COPY OF THIS EXTREMELY RARE BOOK in original condition with the woodcuts and borders entirely uncoloured. These elaborate illustrations are the product of the mediaeval imagination at its most extravagant and entirely untouched by the slightest humanistic influence. The book was probably printed for presentation only at the expense of the Emperor Frederick III and his successor Maximilian whose portraits appear in many of the borders.

- 124 PTOLEMY. COSMOGRAPHIA, 132 ll. and 32 double-page maps, gothic letter, woodcut floriated initials, other initials supplied in red, a few wormholes at beginning, contemporary calf, defective, over beech boards, many edges uncut
folio (415 mm. by 292 mm.) Ulm, Johan Reger, 21 July, 1486

 A FINE COPY OF THIS SPLENDID EARLY ATLAS.

The maps and woodcut initials have been lightly and very neatly coloured by a contemporary hand which much enhances their effect, particularly in the case of the World map. There are MS. titles to the maps in red in a large and handsome Gothic hand.

The B.M. copy differs in the arrangement of the parts from that described by Hain, and the copy now offered varies from both. In it the Registrum Alphabeticum is first and the maps last, immediately preceded by the text of Ptolemy.

- 124A RUPE (ALANUS DE) UNSER LIEBEN FRAWEN PSALTER, 70 ll. gothic letter, five full-page woodcuts lightly coloured by a contemporary hand, has the final blank leaf, library stamp erased from last leaf, E 1 and E 8 in facsimile, old stamped pigskin, worn, pierced brass corner-pieces and bosses, brass clasps [Hain, *14043; B.M. Cat. 15th Cent. Books II, 400]
4to (180 mm. by 122 mm.) Augsburg, L. Zeissenmair, 29 July, 1495

- 124B SILVATICUS (MATTHAEUS) LIBER PANDECTARUM MEDICINAE, 308 ll. gothic letter, rubrication in red and blue, first blank leaf a little defective at corner, contemporary stamped pigskin over wooden boards, brass bosses and clasps, original iron staple attached to lower cover with chain of four links [Hain, 15192; B.M. Cat. of 15th Cent. Books I, 64]
folio (412 mm. by 283 mm.) Strassburg, The R. Printer, n. d.

 A rare medical incunable in its original monastic binding. Many edges uncut.

A SMALL COLLECTION OF FINE BINDINGS,

The Property of a Gentleman.

SIZES MIXED.

- 227 GIANNOTTI (DONATO) La Republica di Vinegia, folding plate of the Sala del Consiglio, late 16th Century French binding of golden-brown morocco, sides richly ornamented with a fanfare design, interlacing fillets forming geometrical compartments, the background filled in with leafy sprays and small azured tools interspersed with the small crowned cypher of Henri II and Catherine de Medicis, an H and two C's interlaced; the oval centre compartment contains a large cypher of K's and C's conjoined surmounted by a closed crown (see note below); the back is adorned with azured tools and the small cypher four times repeated, g. e. BOTH THE BOOK AND THE INTERESTING BINDING ARE IN FINE CONDITION; sold as a binding, not subject to return

Svo. Lyons, Gryphius, 1569

-  The H and C combined are common on books bound for Catherine de Medicis, who also not uncommonly used either a double C or a double K. But the combination found here, of C's and K's in a single cypher, is extraordinarily rare; we can, in fact, trace no other instance of its use. The book was published in the year in which Henri II died; it is not unlikely, therefore, that while K represents Katherine, C stands for Charles IX. From Sir Thomas Pilkington's collection (sale Dec. 14th, 1927, lot 594).

[See FRONTISPIECE.]

- 228 EPICTETUS. Les Propos d'Épictète. Recueillis par Arrian Auteur Grec son disciple. Translatez, du Grec en françois par Fr. I. D.S.F. A la Roine Marguerite, LARGE PAPER, title engraved with the arms of France and Valois, the Queen's monogram, and her motto in Greek, contemporary olive brown morocco (skilfully repaired); the sides and back covered with a semis of fleurs-de-lis alternating with the interlaced monogram of Marguerite de Valois ensigned by the Royal Crown, all in silver; sold as a binding, not subject to return

Svo. Paris, Chez Jean de Heuqueville [1609]

-  Quentin-Bauchart I, p. 152, no. 30. On the fly-leaf, in a contemporary handwriting, is the following note:

“Achapte en l'inventaire de la feu reine Margueritte
par moy Jean de Saintpee
4 liv. 10 sols.”

The many ornate bindings previously ascribed to Marguerite de Valois and bearing the legend “Expectata non eludet” having now been shown to have been made for Pierre Duodo, very few books with a real claim to have formed part of her library are known.

[See ILLUSTRATION.]

- 229 TACITUS. Opera C. Cornelii Taciti quae exstant Gnomologia & distinctis breviariis aucta, olive brown morocco, by Macé Ruette, the sides and back covered with a semis of fleurs-de-lis, WITH THE ARMS OF MARIE DE MEDICI, SECOND QUEEN OF HENRI IV, in the centre of both covers and her interlaced monogram crowned at the four corners and in the centre of the back, the whole within a narrow border of flowers, g. e.; sold as a binding, not subject to return

BOUND FOR MADAME HENRIETTE DE FRANCE, the second daughter of Louis XV (d. 1752); sold as a binding, not subject to return*

8vo. Paris, Briasson, 1742

 Apparently the only book from the library of "Madame Seconde" that has occurred for sale. There is no record of any book from her library either in Guigard or in the Bibliothèque Nationale (see the letter from M. Brun—librarian to the Bibliothèque Nationale—accompanying the book). The large collection of books bound for "Mesdames de France" in the Holford library (lots 508-532) also contained no example of Madame Henriette. The distinction lies in the colour of the morocco, each sister having her own, which was adhered to.

Corrected throughout by the Author and printed in "The Literary Works of Sir Joshua Reynolds," 3 vol., 1819, vol. 1, page cxx, where it is described as a "characteristic eulogy, in which the hand of the great master, and the affectionate friend, is so visible, that it is scarcely necessary to inform the reader that it was written by Mr. Burke, not many hours after the melancholy event which it commemorates."

This Draft has two lines more than the printed version. It commences with the date, above given, and continues: "Last night, in the sixty-ninth year of his age, died at his home in Leicester fields, Sir Joshua Reynolds." This was not printed. Other differences are: capitals used in the MS. are small letters in the book; the word "which" in the MS. altered to "and" in the book; "kindness" (book) for "tenderness" (MS.); "deserved" (book) for "merited" (MS.).

12 ll. discoloured brown and inlaid, unbound 8vo. DUBLIN: 1812

 EXTREMELY RARE. With this pamphlet is a contemporary advertisement of Shelley's "Poetical Essay on the Existing State of Things. By a Gentleman of the University of Oxford" of which no copy is now known to exist.

- 496 SHELLEYANA. THE DUBLIN WEEKLY MESSENGER. Vol. IV. No. 10.
Saturday, March 7, 1812. Price, six-pence, (4 ll.), unbound
folio. (14 $\frac{3}{4}$ by 10 in.) March, 1812

 Includes an article (3 $\frac{1}{3}$ columns) headed "PIERCE BYSHE SHELLEY, Esq.," beginning: "The highly interesting appearance of this young Gentleman, at the late Aggregate Meeting of the Catholics of Ireland, has naturally excited a spirit of enquiry as to his objects and views, in coming forward at such a Meeting; and the publications which he has circulated, with such uncommon industry, through the Metropolis, has set curiosity on the wing to ascertain who he is . . . and the character he assumes. To those who have read the productions we have alluded to we need bring forward no evidence of the cultivation of his mind—the benignity of his principles—or the peculiar fascination with which he seems able to recommend them."

At the end of the article is a reference to the unknown "Poetical Essay" mentioned above. "Mr. Shelly commiserating the sufferings of our distinguished countryman, Mr. Finerty, whose exertions in the cause of political freedom he much admired, wrote a very beautiful poem, the profit of the sale of which . . . Mr. Shelly remitted to Mr. Finerty; we have heard this amounted to nearly an hundred pounds."

- 618 BEETHOVEN (Ludwig van) A FINE A. L. s. "Beethoven," 3 pp. 4to, Baden, 26 July, 1824, to A. Probst, Music Publisher of Leipzig (according to the docket received by Probst Aug. 2nd, answered Aug. 9th, Probst's reply is referred to by Beethoven in a later letter); APPARENTLY UNRECORDED, and filling a gap in the correspondence between Beethoven and Probst:

Beethoven sends some corrected parts for publication and asks Probst to hasten the production of his Overture. He has rewritten the 6 Bagatelles to do him a favour. He says he will proceed with the other work as soon as this matter is settled: he prefers to deal with one or at most a few publishers.

Weak in the folds, the edges somewhat crumpled

- 619 BURKE (Edmund) A VERY FINE A. L. s. 2 pp. 4to, Beaconsfield, August 17, 1792, concerning the French Revolution:

... What in the name of God, is the Duke of Brunswick doing, or rather not doing? I hope he does not mean to imitate Mons. de la Fayette, who made a flourishing speech, & then ran away leaving his adherents to be butchered by their Enemies ...

- 620 BYRON (George Gordon, Lord) Auto Verses, "Hear my Prayer," 12 lines on 1 p. 4to, initialled and dated Oct. 10th, 1812:

The sacred song that on mine ear
Yet vibrates from that voice of thine,
I heard before from one so dear,
Tis strange it still appears divine, etc.

Auto. Poem, "Translation from the Portuguese," 28 lines on 2 pp. 4to:

In moments to delight devoted
"My Life" is still the name you give,
Dear Words! on which my heart had doated
Had man an endless race to live.
But oh! so swift the Seasons roll
That name must be repeated never
For "Life" in future say—"My Soul"
Which like my Love, exists forever, etc.

In excellent preservation

... Surely there is not in the British Islands such a pleasant slave as I. Work, labour, toil according to your strength! is the rigid mandate Nature gives to all men; to me too she speaks with a voice sharp as a two-edge sword, I listen, and tremble, and turn round and then—compose myself again to rest. O my dear Madam! if you loved me, you would not praise, but scold and threaten me...

- 632 MOZART (W. A.) A VERY FINE A. L. s. "W. A. Mozart Dr." OF THE GREATEST IMPORTANCE, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pp. 4to (closely written), Vienna, 21 May, 1785, to Prof. Anton Klein of Mannheim; AN OUTBURST ON THE SUBJECT OF NATIONAL GERMAN OPERA:

Mozart regrets not having acknowledged letters and a parcel containing a libretto "Rudolf von Hapsburg" for his consideration: asks permission to consider it further.

He then speaks of the National Theatre, "I fear I cannot give you any news of the future of the German Operatic Stage: everything is quiet with the exception of the building of the theatre at the Kartenerthor: I do not myself think it will be very successful as people are already beginning, after the start we have made to throw out German Opera completely." Speaks of Viennese musical circles. "German singers are numerous nowadays & should be the equals of, or better than those I have mentioned. The present idea is to help out German opera with actors & actresses who only sing when absolutely necessary . . . If only I had one single patriot to stand by my side it would put on a different complexion—perhaps then the promising National Theatre would come to full bloom but that would be perpetual disgrace for Germany—if only we Germans would seriously begin to think in German—to act as Germans,—speak German—and even to sing in German!!! . . . After pouring out my heart in this way I should very much like to have a good drink which would not do me any harm."

 Reproduced in Garsner's "Zeitschrift f. Deutschlands Musik Vereine" II, p. 161). Printed by Jahn & Schiedermair. The date appears to have been always wrongly given as "21 March." The letter bears an early editor's note "Wien 21 März 85 Mozart."

De Quincey held this cottage—formerly the home of Wordsworth—at a very low rental which was apparently always in arrears. De Quincey protested that he could never be induced to give up any place he had lived at, and the variety of excuses for the non-payment of the rent, and the desire to continue with the cottage apparently—and very justly—tried Mr. Benson's patience who accused De Quincey of trifling with him. . . . and the first thing I do after washing my face, is to write you account of myself. My poor little Goody, to whom else can I write my sorrows, my "Complaints—my joys, if I had any considerable? Bad luck to that quavering, tinkling musical jackass . . . who scared us out of one room with his tobacco, and is now singing audibly over all the house, sabbath tho' it is, and interrupting me now! . . . From Tuam . . . we got under way . . . for Castlebar . . . and thence for Westport, some forty miles in all; the morning was wettish, but I preferred the outside, smoked and looked, pretty well wrapped up, and nothing to complain of; Duffy inside, and silence allowed me . . . the mountain behind it called Croagh Phaedrig, where St. Pk. gathered all the serpents and all devils, and making a big mass of them all in one night, hurled them next morning into Clew Bay and the general Atlantic,—more power to his elbow. . .

 . . . Well, after all, one must not grumble at £150. They are going to publish the book "early next spring." Copies of "A Life's Morning" will be sent to Aybrigg. Everything is made so difficult by our want of money.
 I suppose there is no doubt that, if I live, five years will see the worst of these embarrassments over. But what of the intervening time?
 If you know anyone who collects autographs, here is one of Miss Thackeray, old Thack's daughter.
 I cannot and will not be reckoned among the petty scribblers of the day . . . I must for a time issue only one novel a year, & each book must have a distinct character,—a book which no one else would be likely to have written. "Dust & Dew" will be strong, if I sell the copyright I daresay I can get £150 from Smith.
 Mudie, I hear, took 60 copies of "Thyrza" to begin with, & he has sent for another 25 since. Over against this put the fact that he has just taken 2,000 of Rider Haggard's new book. Yes, but mine will be read when Haggard's is waste paper.

"it is the most flower-like time of one's life—one sees the shadows of things in silver mirrors . . ." In the second he speaks about two Poems that Mr. Wilkinson had sent him. The third letter he discusses his hotel I fear you wd. not like my hotel. I live there because I have no money ever. It is an absurd place; it is not a background . . . You asked me about "Melmoth," of course I have not changed my name: in Paris I am as well known as in London, it would be childish." In the last letter Wilde hopes that he is perfecting himself in French "to read Greek and speak French are two of the greatest pleasures in life" Goes on to recommend several books that should be read.

- 710 DICKENS (Charles) A. L. s. 1½ pp. 8vo, Tavistock House, June, 1855 :

I will come to you with the greatest pleasure, if you will come to me on the little occasion duly set forth in the accompanying bill. I know what an appreciative audience you are, and hope we may bring you out in force. Mrs. Dickens extorts a vow from me that I will tell you that we can't get anybody in after 8 . . .

A. L. s. of the same, June, 1855, 1 p. 8vo :

The defaulter blushes—but the beaten one pleads. I was quite knocked up yesterday, after four nights theatricals—had no legs—no head—no voice—nothing to bring to Greenwich but a suit of clothes . . .

With others of Miss Agnes Livingstone, concerning the safety of her father, John Livingstone, brother of the explorer, concerning the search for his brother, J. H. If I esteemed you less, Envy would kill
 Pleasure, & leave to Wonder & Despair
 The ministration of the thoughts that fill
 My mind, which, like a worm whose life may share
 A portion of the Unapproachable,
 Marks your creations rise as fast & fair
 As perfect worlds at the creator's will,
 And bows itself before the godhead there.
 But such is my regard, that, nor your fame
 Cast on the present by the coming hour,
 Nor your well-won prosperity & power
 Move one regret for his unhonoured name
 Who dares these words—The worm beneath the sod
 May lift itself in worship to the God.

[See ILLUSTRATION.]

- 714 THACKERAY (W. M.) A.L.s. 1 p. 8vo, Kensington, Wednesday :
 I am very sorry at the eleventh hour to be obliged to decline your hospitality for to day. My work was done and I had hoped to enjoy myself, but the Doctor has just been to see me and ordered me to lie in bed all day—and drink barley water instead of claret for the next mortal week.

Said the suffering Beckford
To her Doctor so dread
"Ah! what shall I take for't"

Said her Doctor so dread,
Whose name it was Newnham
"For this pain in your head,
Ah! what can you do Ma'am?"

Said Miss Beckford "Suppose
If you think there's no risk,
I take a good Dose
Of Calomel brisk."

"What a praise-worthy notion!"
Replied Mr. Newnham
"You shall have such a potion,
And so will I too Ma'am."

On the leaf succeeding each portrait is the Achievement of Arms of the Sovereign represented, and on the following leaves the arms of the knights, four to a page, with title below in French.

- 120A BRIGITTA (St.) Orationes, gothic letter, 23 lines, 10 ll. on the first page a full-page woodcut of S. Brigitta praying at the foot of a crucifix, tiny wormhole through five leaves, olive morocco, in slip case [Reichling, 1477; Pellechet, 3006; not in Hain; ? Proctor, 3770, Bodleian only]

 Except for old marginal notes on a 1 and a few slight water stains towards the end, the book is in PERFECTLY CLEAN AND UNPRESSED CON-

DITION. It is well known for its fine woodcuts, and is the earliest German Antisemite publication and the first grammar printed with Hebrew type in Germany. This copy agrees exactly with Hain* 11886, but differs in collation and in the prefatory matter from the B.M. copy (B.M. Catalogue of Books Printed in the XV Century II, p. 516).

- 123 NITSCHIEWITZ (HERMANN) NOVUM PSALTERIUM B. MARIAE VIRGINIS, 116 ll. gothic letter, two full-page woodcuts and 166 smaller cuts, woodcut borders to 170 pp., a few slight water stains at end and unimportant marginal defects in sheet H, contemporary stamped calf, worn, over wooden boards, rebaked with a piece of old stamped calf, brass clasps, many uncut edges [Hain, *11891; B.M. Cat. XV Cent. Books III, 4to (216 mm. by 153 mm.) Zinna (Germany), Press of the Cistercian Monastery [not after 1496]

 AN EXCELLENT COPY OF THIS EXTREMELY RARE BOOK in original condition with the woodcuts and borders entirely uncoloured. These elaborate illustrations are the product of the mediaeval imagination at its most extravagant and entirely untouched by the slightest humanistic influence. The book was probably printed for presentation only at the expense of the Emperor Frederick III and his successor Maximilian whose portraits appear in many of the borders.

- 124 PTOLEMY. COSMOGRAPHIA, 132 ll. and 32 double-page maps, gothic letter, woodcut floriated initials, other initials supplied in red, a few wormholes at beginning, contemporary calf, defective, over beech boards, many edges uncut

 A FINE COPY OF THIS SPLENDID EARLY ATLAS.

The maps and woodcut initials have been lightly and very neatly coloured by a contemporary hand which much enhances their effect, particularly in the case of the World map. There are MS. titles to the maps in red in a large and handsome Gothic hand.

The B.M. copy differs in the arrangement of the parts from that described by Hain, and the copy now offered varies from both. In it the Registrum Alphabeticum is first and the maps last, immediately preceded by the text of Ptolemy.

- 124A RUPE (ALANUS DE) UNSER LIEBEN FRAWEN PSALTER, 70 ll. gothic letter, five full-page woodcuts lightly coloured by a contemporary hand, has the final blank leaf, library stamp erased from last leaf, E 1 and E 8 in facsimile, old stamped pigskin, worn, pierced brass corner-pieces and bosses, brass clasps [Hain, *14043; B.M. Cat. 15th Cent. Books II, 400]
4to (180 mm. by 122 mm.) Augsburg, L. Zeissenmair, 29 July, 1495

- 124B SILVATICUS (MATTHAEUS) LIBER PANDECTARUM MEDICINAE, 308 ll. gothic letter, rubrication in red and blue, first blank leaf a little defective at corner, contemporary stamped pigskin over wooden boards, brass bosses and clasps, original iron staple attached to lower cover with chain of four links [Hain, 15192; B.M. Cat. of 15th Cent. Books I, 64]
folio (412 mm. by 283 mm.) Strassburg, The R. Printer, n. d.

 A rare medical incunable in its original monastic binding. Many edges uncut.

A SMALL COLLECTION OF FINE BINDINGS.

The Property of a Gentleman.

SIZES MIXED.

- 227 GIANNOTTI (DONATO) La Republica di Vinegia, folding plate of the Sala del Consiglio, late 16th Century French binding of golden-brown morocco, sides richly ornamented with a fanfare design, interlacing fillets forming geometrical compartments, the background filled in with leafy sprays and small azured tools interspersed with the small crowned cypher of Henri II and Catherine de Medicis, an H and two C's interlaced; the oval centre compartment contains a large cypher of K's and C's conjoined surmounted by a closed crown (see note below); the back is adorned with azured tools and the small cypher four times repeated, g. e. BOTH THE BOOK AND THE INTERESTING BINDING ARE IN FINE CONDITION; sold as a binding, not subject to return

Svo. Lyons, Gryphius, 1569

-  The H and C combined are common on books bound for Catherine de Medicis, who also not uncommonly used either a double C or a double K. But the combination found here, of C's and K's in a single cypher, is extraordinarily rare; we can, in fact, trace no other instance of its use. The book was published in the year in which Henri II died; it is not unlikely, therefore, that while K represents Katherine, C stands for Charles IX. From Sir Thomas Pilkington's collection (sale Dec. 14th. 1927, lot 594).

[See FRONTISPIECE.]

- 228 EPICTETUS. Les Propos d'Épictète. Recueillis par Arrian Auteur Grec son disciple. Translatez, du Grec en françois par Fr. I. D.S.F. A la Roine Marguerite, LARGE PAPER, title engraved with the arms of France and Valois, the Queen's monogram, and her motto in Greek, contemporary olive brown morocco (skilfully repaired); the sides and back covered with a semis of fleurs-de-lis alternating with the interlaced monogram of Marguerite de Valois ensigned by the Royal Crown, all in silver; sold as a binding, not subject to return

Svo. Paris, Chez Jean de Heuqueville [1609]

-  Quentin-Bauchart I, p. 152, no. 30. On the fly-leaf, in a contemporary handwriting, is the following note:

“ Achapte en l'inventaire de la feu reine Margueritte
par moy Jean de Saintpee
4 liv. 10 sols.”

The many ornate bindings previously ascribed to Marguerite de Valois and bearing the legend “Expectata non eludet” having now been shown to have been made for Pierre Duodo, very few books with a real claim to have formed part of her library are known.

[See ILLUSTRATION.]

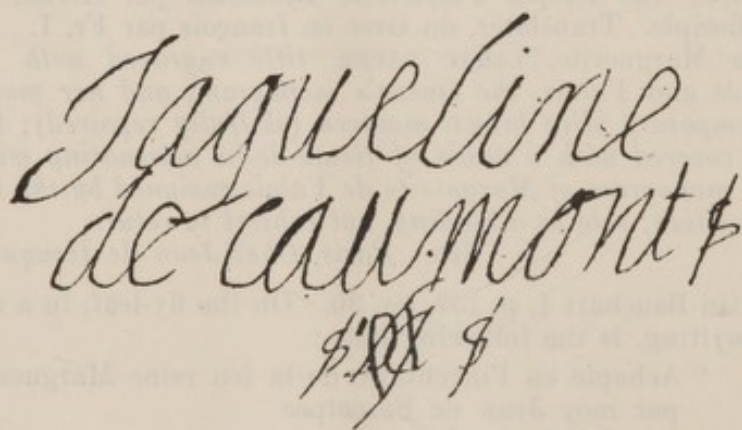

- 229 TACITUS. Opera C. Cornelii Taciti quae exstant Gnomologia & distinctis breviariis aucta, olive brown morocco, by Macé Ruet, the sides and back covered with a semis of fleurs-de-lis, WITH THE ARMS OF MARIE DE MEDICI, SECOND QUEEN OF HENRI IV, in the centre of both covers and her interlaced monogram crowned at the four corners and in the centre of the back, the whole within a narrow border of flowers, g. e.; sold as a binding, not subject to return

8vo. Paris, Briasson, 1742

 Apparently the only book from the library of "Madame Seconde" that has occurred for sale. There is no record of any book from her library either in Guigard or in the Bibliothèque Nationale (see the letter from M. Brun—librarian to the Bibliothèque Nationale—accompanying the book). The large collection of books bound for "Mesdames de France" in the Holford library (lots 508-532) also contained no example of Madame Henriette. The distinction lies in the colour of the morocco, each sister having her own, which was adhered to.

 VERY RARE. The Marquis de la Galissonnière, who was Governor of Canada in 1745, was appointed in 1750 to negotiate with the English Commissioners upon the border-line of the French and English possessions in North America. This is an account of the voyage undertaken for that purpose.

Corrected throughout by the Author and printed in "The Literary Works of Sir Joshua Reynolds," 3 vol., 1819, vol. 1, page cxx, where it is described as a "characteristic eulogy, in which the hand of the great master, and the affectionate friend, is so visible, that it is scarcely necessary to inform the reader that it was written by Mr. Burke, not many hours after the melancholy event which it commemorates."

This Draft has two lines more than the printed version. It commences with the date, above given, and continues: "Last night, in the sixty-ninth year of his age, died at his home in Leicester fields, Sir Joshua Reynolds." This was not printed. Other differences are: capitals used in the MS. are small letters in the book; the word "which" in the MS. altered to "and" in the book; "kindness" (book) for "tenderness" (MS.); "deserved" (book) for "merited" (MS.).

 Includes an article (3 $\frac{1}{2}$ columns) headed "PIERCE BYSHE SHELLEY, Esq.," beginning: "The highly interesting appearance of this young Gentleman, at the late Aggregate Meeting of the Catholics of Ireland, has naturally excited a spirit of enquiry as to his objects and views, in coming forward at such a Meeting; and the publications which he has circulated, with such uncommon industry, through the Metropolis, has set curiosity on the wing to ascertain who he is . . . and the character he assumes. To those who have read the productions we have alluded to we need bring forward no evidence of the cultivation of his mind—the benignity of his principles—or the peculiar fascination with which he seems able to recommend them."

At the end of the article is a reference to the unknown "Poetical Essay" mentioned above. "Mr. Shelly commiserating the sufferings of our distinguished countryman, Mr. Finerty, whose exertions in the cause of political freedom he much admired, wrote a very beautiful poem, the profit of the sale of which . . . Mr. Shelly remitted to Mr. Finerty; we have heard this amounted to nearly an hundred pounds."

- 618 BEETHOVEN (Ludwig van) A FINE A. L. s. "Beethoven," 3 pp. 4to, Baden, 26 July, 1824, to A. Probst, Music Publisher of Leipzig (according to the docket received by Probst Aug. 2nd, answered Aug. 9th, Probst's reply is referred to by Beethoven in a later letter); APPARENTLY UNRECORDED, and filling a gap in the correspondence between Beethoven and Probst:

Beethoven sends some corrected parts for publication and asks Probst to hasten the production of his Overture. He has rewritten the 6 Bagatelles to do him a favour. He says he will proceed with the other work as soon as this matter is settled: he prefers to deal with one or at most a few publishers.

Weak in the folds, the edges somewhat crumpled

- 619 BURKE (Edmund) A VERY FINE A. L. s. 2 pp. 4to, Beaconsfield, August 17, 1792, concerning the French Revolution:

- 620 BYRON (George Gordon, Lord) Auto Verses, "Hear my Prayer," 12 lines on 1 p. 4to, initialled and dated Oct. 10th, 1812:

The sacred song that on mine ear
Yet vibrates from that voice of thine,
I heard before from one so dear,
Tis strange it still appears divine, etc.

Auto. Poem, "Translation from the Portuguese," 28 lines on 2 pp. 4to:

In moments to delight devoted
"My Life" is still the name you give,
Dear Words! on which my heart had doated
Had man an endless race to live.
But oh! so swift the Seasons roll
That name must be repeated never
For "Life" in future say—"My Soul"
Which like my Love, exists forever, etc.

... Surely there is not in the British Islands such a pleasant slave as I. Work, labour, toil according to your strength! is the rigid mandate Nature gives to all men; to me too she speaks with a voice sharp as a two-edge sword, I listen, and tremble, and turn round and then—compose myself again to rest. O my dear Madam! if you loved me, you would not praise, but scold and threaten me ...

- 632 MOZART (W. A.) A VERY FINE A. L. s. "W. A. Mozart Dr." OF THE GREATEST IMPORTANCE, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pp. 4to (closely written), Vienna, 21 May, 1785, to Prof. Anton Klein of Mannheim; AN OUTBURST ON THE SUBJECT OF NATIONAL GERMAN OPERA:

Mozart regrets not having acknowledged letters and a parcel containing a libretto "Rudolf von Hapsburg" for his consideration: asks permission to consider it further.

He then speaks of the National Theatre, "I fear I cannot give you any news of the future of the German Operatic Stage: everything is quiet with the exception of the building of the theatre at the Kartenerthor: I do not myself think it will be very successful as people are already beginning, after the start we have made to throw out German Opera completely." Speaks of Viennese musical circles. "German singers are numerous nowadays & should be the equals of, or better than those I have mentioned. The present idea is to help out German opera with actors & actresses who only sing when absolutely necessary . . . If only I had one single patriot to stand by my side it would put on a different complexion—perhaps then the promising National Theatre would come to full bloom but that would be perpetual disgrace for Germany—if only we Germans would seriously begin to think in German—to act as Germans,—speak German—and even to sing in German!!! . . . After pouring out my heart in this way I should very much like to have a good drink which would not do me any harm."

Reproduced in Garsner's "Zeitschrift f. Deutschlands Musik Vereine" II, p. 161). Printed by Jahn & Schiedermair. The date appears to have been always wrongly given as "21 March." The letter bears an early editor's note "Wien 21 März 85 Mozart."

De Quincey held this cottage—formerly the home of Wordsworth—at a very low rental which was apparently always in arrears. The cottage empty—save for De Quincey's books and papers—had fallen out of repair and the owner decided to resume possession. De Quincey protested that he could never be induced to give up any place he had lived at, and the variety of excuses for the non-payment of the rent, and the desire to continue with the cottage apparently—and very justly—tried Mr. Benson's patience who accused De Quincey of trifling with him. The scene closes with a letter from Elizabeth Simpson, Penrith, July 8th, 1835 to Benson "The pearsons (sic) from Mr. de Quincey arrived hear from Edinburgh yesterday and hav been delayed by an axcident but will be at Grasmere to morrow with out fail that is on Thursday evening.

. . . and the first thing I do after washing my face, is to write you account of myself. My poor little Goody, to whom else can I write my sorrows, my "Complaints—my joys, if I had any considerable? Bad luck to that quavering, tinkling musical jackass . . . who scared us out of one room with his tobacco, and is now singing audibly over all the house, sabbath tho' it is, and interrupting me now! . . . From Tuam . . . we got under way . . . for Castlebar . . . and thence for Westport, some forty miles in all; the morning was wetish, but I preferred the outside, smoked and looked, pretty well wrapped up, and nothing to complain of; Duffy inside, and silence allowed me . . . the mountain behind it called Croagh Phaedrig, where St. Pk. gathered all the serpents and all devils, and making a big mass of them all in one night, hurled them next morning into Clew Bay and the general Atlantic,—more power to his elbow. . .

 I suppose there is no doubt that, if I live, five years will see the worst of these embarrassments over. But what of the intervening time?
 If you know anyone who collects autographs, here is one of Miss Thackeray, old Thack's daughter.
 I cannot and will not be reckoned among the petty scribblers of the day . . . I must for a time issue only one novel a year, & each book must have a distinct character,—a book which no one else would be likely to have written. "Dust & Dew" will be strong, if I sell the copyright I daresay I can get £150 from Smith.
 Mudie, I hear, took 60 copies of "Thyrza" to begin with, & he has sent for another 25 since. Over against this put the fact that he has just taken 2,000 of Rider Haggard's new book. Yes, but mine will be read when Haggard's is waste paper.

"it is the most flower-like time of one's life—one sees the shadows of things in silver mirrors . . ." In the second he speaks about two Poems that Mr. Wilkinson had sent him. The third letter he discusses his hotel I fear you wd. not like my hotel. I live there because I have no money ever. It is an absurd place; it is not a background . . . You asked me about "Melmoth," of course I have not changed my name: in Paris I am as well known as in London, it would be childish." In the last letter Wilde hopes that he is perfecting himself in French "to read Greek and speak French are two of the greatest pleasures in life" Goes on to recommend several books that should be read.

- 710 DICKENS (Charles) A. L. s. 1½ pp. 8vo, Tavistock House, June, 1855 :

I will come to you with the greatest pleasure, if you will come to me on the little occasion duly set forth in the accompanying bill. I know what an appreciative audience you are, and hope we may bring you out in force. Mrs. Dickens extorts a vow from me that I will tell you that we can't get anybody in after 8 . . .

A. L. s. of the same, June, 1855, 1 p. 8vo :

If I esteemed you less, Envy would kill
 Pleasure, & leave to Wonder & Despair
 The ministration of the thoughts that fill
 My mind, which, like a worm whose life may share
 A portion of the Unapproachable,
 Marks your creations rise as fast & fair
 As perfect worlds at the creator's will,
 And bows itself before the godhead there.
 But such is my regard, that, nor your fame
 Cast on the present by the coming hour,
 Nor your well-won prosperity & power
 Move one regret for his unhonoured name
 Who dares these words—The worm beneath the sod
 May lift itself in worship to the God.

[See ILLUSTRATION.]

- 714 THACKERAY (W. M.) A. L. s. 1 p. 8vo, Kensington, Wednesday:

I am very sorry at the eleventh hour to be obliged to decline your hospitality for to day. My work was done and I had hoped to enjoy myself, but the Doctor has just been to see me and ordered me to lie in bed all day—and drink barley water instead of claret for the next mortal week.

"Ah! what shall I take for't"

Said her Doctor so dread,
Whose name it was Newnham
"For this pain in your head,
Ah! what can you do Ma'am?"

Said Miss Beckford "Suppose
If you think there's no risk,
I take a good Dose
Of Calomel brisk."

"What a praise-worthy notion!"
Replied Mr. Newnham
"You shall have such a potion,
And so will I too Ma'am."
