PREFACE.

SO much has been said in the Press of the circumstances which have brought these collections into the market, that there is no need to dwell on them here. In this brief Preface it is only necessary to call attention to a few of the most important lots, and to point out their interest to students of the Brownings' works and lives.

There has been much controversy, at various times, about Robert Browning's ancestry, but it cannot unfortunately be said that anything included in this catalogue helps to clear up the mystery, the earliest relic of which the identity has been definitely ascertained being the picture of his paternal grandmother (Lot 63). Her husband, a domestic tyrant, but exemplary Bank Official, quarrelled with his son, the poet's father, and, in consequence, there is little or nothing to recall him; nor are the memorials of the poet's mother's family of much greater interest (Lot 301).

Far more valuable are the numerous documents and books which recall his father (Lots 127-9, 522-5, etc.), for they point very clearly to the source from which the Poet derived some of his most remarkable characteristics; his passion for the grotesque in Art and Literature, his love for the byways of Mediæval History, even his interest in crimes are traceable to his father.

But, indeed, the Poet's life and work will be found to be fully illustrated here; of his changing countenance, which he himself said would puzzle posterity (see Lot 172), there are at least eleven different representations, dating from about 1835 to within a few months of his death in 1889. Though no portrait of him as a child has been preserved, the events of his childhood are not without record; we see his first, not discreditable, imitations of his father's drawings (Lot 173), we see his first introduction to the Greek and Latin classics and to the works of Shelley, by whom he was to be so greatly influenced, while the fine copy of Pauline (Lot 467) recalls his own first published composition. His later bachelor days, too, are well represented; the letters from Arnould and Domett (Lot 100) recall his early friendships in Camberwell, and his recognition by a wider circle is shown as well by the letters from Carlyle, John Forster, R. H. Horne, W. C. Macready, "Barry Cornwall," and W. S. Landor, as by the famous letter from D. G. Rossetti (Lot 266), and the historic lock of Milton's hair given to him by Leigh Hunt (Lot 1370), while the presentation copy of "Ion" recalls the celebrated supper given by Talfourd after the production of that play in 1836, at which Browning's health was drunk as the youngest poet in England by a company which included Landor and Wordsworth. But his success at this time was only a succès d'estime, as we are reminded by his publisher's account of the sale of Sordello (Lot 174), and by the acting copy of "A Blot in the Scutcheon" (Lot 193). Finally, that we may not linger too long over this early period of the Poet's life, we will only mention the quaint illustrations to the "Pied Piper of Hamelin" by the boy for whom it was written, the first of the many who have read the poem with delight (Lot 251).

The records of Mrs. Browning's unmarried life are even more abundant than is the case with her husband. A large number of her early unpublished manuscripts have been preserved, as well as some of the manuscripts of her first published volumes, for the printing of which her father paid, and earlier than any of these is the pastel drawing of her, aged only nine, by Charles Hayter (Lot 10). This drawing was made at Hope End, and Miss Barrett's girlhood in Herefordshire is further illustrated by her correspondence with friends in the neighbourhood, including Sir Uvedale Price, Mrs. Martin and Hugh Stuart Boyd, the blind scholar of Malvern often mentioned in her poems (Lots 103, 131 and 132).

In 1833 the Barretts removed to Sidmouth, and in 1835 to London, where in 1844 Miss Barrett published a volume of poems, and about the same time made the acquaintance of Miss Mitford, Mrs. Jameson, B. R. Haydon, Landor, and Wordsworth (Lots 130, 134, 223, 232 and 304).

The name of John Kenyon (Lots 9, 133 and 1326), Miss Barrett's cousin, schoolfellow of Robert Browning's father, and friend of the Poet himself, has not yet been mentioned in these notes. It occurs appropriately at this point, for a letter to him marks an important step towards the acquaintance of Browning with his future wife (Lot 169), and it was on his advice that Browning wrote the first of his letters to Miss Barrett (Lot 166). Of the Love Letters themselves there is nothing new to be said; with the Sonnets from the Portuguese, which date from the same period (Lots 152 and 153), they form an invaluable record of the Poets' love.

Their married life, too, is amply illustrated, and indeed it is from Mrs. Browning's numerous letters to her friends in England that our knowledge of it is chiefly derived. For an account of its opening days, however, we must turn to the letters from Mrs. Jameson to Lady Byron, in which may be traced the fugitives' slow progress down the Rhone to Marseilles and Italy (Lot 228). Once permanently settled at Florence, in Casa Guidi, they undertook the important work of furnishing, and the old pictures which Browning picked up for a few pauls each (Lots 64-66, etc.), and the bookcases, built up of carved demons and angels (Lots 1403 and 1404), the chairs, tables and mirrors (Lots 1306-12, 1315, 1382-3), the tapestries (Lots 1385-1391), and the books—some bought by weight (Lot 416)—remain as permanent memorials of the home where, as a tablet on its walls records, Elizabeth Barrett Browning wrote and died.

Much of the furniture is shown in the picture, painted for Browning after his wife's death, of the room in which, as he said in a letter to his sister, there was "not an inch without a memory" for him (Lot 14). There Mrs. Browning wrote her poems devoted to the cause of Italian freedom (Lots 149 and 151); there, in March, 1849, was born their son, Robert Wiedemann Barrett Browning (Penini), who, as an only child, was to play so great a part in their lives, and of whom there are portraits not a few (e.g. Lots 6, 8, 12, 15, 68 and 1262). In Italy, too, they made many new friends, among them the future Lords Leighton and Lytton (Lots 246 and 250), the artists Page, Fisher, and Hamilton Wild (Lots 57, 60 and 68), the sculptors, W. W. Story and Alexander Munro (Lots 1261 and 1262), and various American ladies residing in Italy, including Margaret Fuller, Countess of Ossoli, and, closest of all, Miss Isa Blagden, with whom both husband and wife corresponded so voluminously (Lots 165 and 775).

The literary activities of the Brownings necessitated several visits to England, notably one in 1855-6, during which they supervised the publication of "Men and Women" and "Aurora Leigh" (Lots 155 and 194). This was the culminating period of their married life; many of the most interesting letters to Browning from Carlyle, Ruskin and Rossetti, date from these years, and the September evening of 1855, on which Tennyson read out "Maud" in the Brownings' rooms in Dorset Street, is perhaps the most famous occasion in their literary history (Lot 11). The portrait of Tennyson, drawn that night by D. G. Rossetti, is the earliest memorial of a friendship between the two greatest Victorian poets, which ended only with Browning's death (Lots 289, 293).

The later years of Browning's married life in Italy were marked by his guardianship of Walter Savage Landor, assumed after the latter had finally quarrelled with his family at Fiesole. To Landor's gratitude the collection owes the interesting copies of his rare early pamphlets (Lots 816, etc.), the numerous manuscripts of his poems, etc. (Lots 233-244), and the books from his library, including the copy of Folengo's Orlandino in its handsome binding by Derome, already dignified by association with the greatest of English Military Historians (Lot 688). About this time Mrs. Browning published her last volume "Poems before Congress," and there could be no more touching relic of the last days of their married life than the copy of this book which she gave to her husband (Lot 441).

Of Browning's literary activities after his return to London, the most important memorials are the notes for the "Ring and the Book" and "Red Cotton Night-Cap Country" (Lots 184-186), the manuscript, unfortunately incomplete, of Hervé Riel (Lot 195), a short poem on a forgotten English hero, which seems to have eluded the vigilance of all his editors (Lot 196), and the original manuscript of his last volume of poetry (Lot 197). In these years, which were also years of great social activity, he made many new friends and acquaintances, of whom we need only mention Swinburne, George Meredith, Jowett, Robert Buchanan, Ernest Benzon, and Miss Egerton Smith (Lots 284-288, 229, 201, 1291-1300 and 172). His greatness was now fully recognised, as is proved by the honours he received from Scotch and English Universities (Lot 224), the societies founded for the study of his works (Lot 200), and the immense number of letters which he received from admirers.

Even more gratifying to Browning than his own popularity, was the success of his son, who studied painting in Antwerp and Paris, under T. Heyermans and Jean Paul Laurens, and sculpture under Rodin (Lots 265 and 1274). Of Mr. Barrett Browning's work in both mediums there is a representative selection (e.g. Lots 23-40, 61-62, 1260, 1263-4, 1268 and 1270), and his father's interest in it is recalled by the mottoes and suggestions which he wrote for him (Lots 180 and 182; see also Lot 1271).

Finally, we may draw attention to the portraits and relics of Pope Clement XIII (Lots 48, 1256-7, etc.), a member of the Venetian family whose palace was occupied for a time by Mr. Barrett Browning.

There, on Dec. 12, 1889, Robert Browning breathed his last.

as the frontispiece to vol. V of Mrs. Browning's collected works.

LEIGHTON (LORD).

- 6 HEAD OF R. W. B. ("PEN") BROWNING
Drawing in chalk on grey paper, endorsed by Miss Browning, with the names of the artist, the subject and the date, July 1863 6½ in. by 6 in.
Framed

MONCLAR (COMTE AMÉDÉE DE RIPERT).

- 7 PENCIL DRAWING OF ROBERT BROWNING, seated and looking to the right
Signed "Amédée de M., 7 juillet 1837," and endorsed by Miss Browning
7½ in. by 6½ in.
Framed

* * * With the exception of the photograph (Lot 1235), this is believed to be the earliest extant portrait of Browning. The Comte de Ripert Monclar was a friend of Browning's uncle, William Shergold Browning, who was at the Rothschilds' Bank in Paris ; he became a close friend of the poet at this time. Paracelsus—Browning's first acknowledged poem—was dedicated to him. Years afterwards —in 1854—he met Browning and his wife in Rome, and delighted the latter by assuring her that her husband "was not changed for the intermediate years."

MURRAY (C. FAIRFAX).

9 ANDREA DEL SARTO AND HIS WIFE

Pencil drawing after the picture at Florence which suggested Browning's poem, "Andrea del Sarto," with inscription stating that it was presented to him "on his 71st Birthday, 7th May, 1883, by a few of his admirers and friends," with a reproduction in photogravure fitted in at the back

Both framed

* * * The circumstances in which Browning was lead to write this poem are interesting. Mr. Kenyon asked Browning whether a copy could not be procured for him of this picture, which hangs in the Pitti Palace. No copy however was obtainable, so Browning wrote and sent his poem in its place (cf. Lots 133 and 1326).

HAYTER (CHARLES).

10 PORTRAIT OF MRS. BROWNING AS A CHILD, walking into the porch at Hope End, followed by a spaniel carrying her hat

15 in. by 12 in.

Pastel, in colours

Framed

* * * This charming drawing is probably the earliest extant of Mrs.
Browning. It is reproduced as the frontispiece to vol. I of the collected edition of Mrs. Browning's poems.

ROSSETTI (D. G.)

11 PORTRAIT OF TENNYSON READING "MAUD"

Drawing in pen and ink, with inscription on the drawing in the artist's writing: "I hate the dreadful hollow behind the little wood," and AUTO. INSCRIPTION (slightly defective) at the back by BROWNING, AN UNIQUE RECORD OF A WONDERFUL LITERARY OCCASION

7 in. by  $4\frac{1}{2}$  in.

Framed

* * * Browning's inscription is as follows: "Tennyson read his poem of Maud to E. B. B., R. B., Arabel and Rossetti, on the evening of Thursday, Septr. 27, 1855, at 13 Dorset St., Manchester Square. Rossetti made this sketch of Tennyson as he sat reading to E. B. B. who occupied the other end of the sofa."

R. B., March 6, '74,
19 Warwick Crescent.

μεταπιπτοντος δαιμονος

W. M. Rossetti and Miss Browning were also present on this famous evening, which is vivaciously described by Mrs. Browning in a letter to Miss Mitford, written shortly afterwards: "One of the pleasantest things which has happened to us here is the coming down on us of the Laureate, who, being in London for three or four days from the Isle of Wight, spent two of them with us, dined with us, smoked with us, opened his heart to us (and the second bottle of port), and ended by reading 'Maud' through from end to end, and going away at half-past two in the morning. If I had had a heart to spare, certainly he would have won mine. He is captivating with his frankness, confidingness, and unexampled naïveté! Think of his stopping in 'Maud' every now and then—'There's a wonderful touch! That's very tender. How beautiful that is!' Yes, and it was wonderful, tender, beautiful, and he read exquisitely in a voice like an organ, rather music than speech."

14 SALON AT CASA GUIDI

11 in. by 15 in.

* * * In a letter of Aug. 30, 1861, to W. W. Story, Browning says that he "had a very exact picture made of the room in Casa Guidi, after vainly trying to get it photographed," but does not say who painted it. It was executed during the few weeks that he stayed in Florence after his wife's death—the last weeks that he ever spent at that city. The many objects shown in the picture, which are included in the present sale, are all indicated by letters in the reproduction.

[See Frontispiece].

HAWORTH (MISS FANNY).

15 PORTRAIT OF R. W. B. ("PEN") BROWNING PLAYING THE PIANO

11 in. by 8 in.

* * * "Pen" was taught music by his father, and there are several references in Mrs. Browning's letters to his performances on the piano. Miss Haworth was one of Browning's oldest friends, he had known her since 1836, if not earlier, and in that year she wrote two sonnets on the author of "Paracelsus." The portrait may have been painted in the Winter of 1856-7, when Miss Haworth was staying in Florence.

 AN ANGEL ON EACH SIDE.

On old Italian panel

Centre panel, 3 ft. 6 by 3 ft., sides 26 in. by 21 in.

From Casa Guidi

* * * This is the picture referred to in Mrs. Browning's Letter to Mrs. Jameson, May 4, 1850 (vol. I, 448): "The curious thing is that two angel pictures, for which he had given a scudo last year, prove to have been each sawn off the sides of the Ghirlandaio, so called, representing the 'Eterno Padre' clothed in a mystical garment and encircled by a rainbow, the various tints of which, together with the scarlet tips of the flying seraphs' wings, are darted down into the smaller pictures and complete the evidence, line for line. It has been a grand altar piece, cut to bits," etc.

WILLIAM PAGE, 1854.

- 57 PORTRAIT OF ROBERT BROWNING
Painted in Rome
On panel
20 in. by 16 in.

* * * This picture was hailed as a masterpiece when it was painted, and is frequently referred to by the Brownings and their friends in their letters. It was sent to the Royal Academy by D. G. Rossetti for Browning but rejected.

Within two years Browning is found expressing the fear that it is deteriorating. "So it fares," he writes to D. G. Rossetti, "with Page's pictures for the most part; but they are like Flaxman the Poet's famous Kings, in a great line he wrote—"Kings do not die—they only disappear!"—Griffin & Minchin, p. 193.

28 in. by 23 in.

PORTRAIT OF ELIZABETH BARRETT BROWNING, seated, wearing dark purple dress trimmed with lace (a pair)
29 in. by 23 in.

* * * These portraits were painted in 1860 for Mrs. Eckley, an American lady; Mrs. Browning's was pronounced by her husband to be the best portrait of the poetess. The portrait of Robert Browning has been reproduced as frontispiece to "The Letters of Robert Browning and E. B. Barrett," vol. I.

[See Illustrations.]

W. FISHER, 1854.

- 60 PORTRAIT OF ROBERT BROWNING
Painted at Rome
24 in. by 20 in.

* * * Mentioned by Mrs. Browning in her Letters (vol. II, p. 163):

Robert has been sitting for his picture to Fisher, the English artist . . . . It is an admirable likeness. The expression is an exceptional expression, but highly characteristic. It is one of Fisher's best works.

It is reproduced as the frontispiece to vol. II of the "Letters of E. B. Browning."

[See Illustration.]

R. B. BROWNING.

- 61 PORTRAIT OF ROBERT BROWNING

5 ft. by 3 ft. 6

Exhibited at the Grosvenor Gallery, 1889

* * * Begun at the Palazzo Dario, Venice, 1888, and finished at the Palazzo Rezzonico, 1889. Reproduced in Mrs. Orr's "Life and Letters of Robert Browning," 1908.

[See Illustration.]

WRIGHT (OF DERBY).

- 63 PORTRAIT OF MRS. BROWNING, THE POET'S GRANDMOTHER, née Margaret Tittle, in low-necked, dark red dress, her hand resting on a book—Thomson's "Seasons"
30 in. by 25 in.

* * * Browning's grandmother died in 1788, ten years after her marriage, and his grandfather married again. Mrs. Orr says that he fell greatly under the influence of his second wife, who caused him to banish this portrait to a garret, on the plea that a man does not need two wives; afterwards it hung for many years in the poet's dining-room. Mrs. Orr is also our authority for the identity of the book ("Life of Robert Browning," pp. 5 and 8, 1908).

2 ft. 6 by 2 ft.
An old Italian panel.
From Casa Guidi. See Frontispiece

* * * This is the picture referred to by Browning in "Old Pictures in Florence," Stanza XXVIII:

Could not the ghost with the close red cap,
My Pollajolo, the twice a craftsman,
Save me a sample, give me the hap
Of a muscular Christ that shows the draughtsman?

HAMILTON WILD.

- 68 R. W. B. BROWNING AS A BOY ON HORSEBACK, in a landscape (distant View of Siena)
13 in. by 10 in.

- * * An interesting notice of the artist is given in Mr. Henry James's
"W. W. Story," vol. I, p. 369. Mrs. Browning mentions this picture in a letter to Miss Browning, September or October, 1859 ("Letters," II, 345):

Robert will have told you, I am sure, what a lovely picture Mr. Wilde (sic), the American artist . . . has made of Penini on horseback and presented to me. It is to be exhibited in the spring in London, etc.

LOT 96.

ACTORS, MUSICIANS, ETC., including Salvini (8), Joachim, Sir H. Tree, Sir H. Irving, Sir S. and Lady Bancroft, Mrs. Bernard Beere, etc. a parcel

- 97 ALLINGHAM (W.) Twenty-five A. L. s. 62 pp. 8vo and 4to, 1853-89, delightful and entertaining letters, the early ones being full of good-natured gossip of the many famous artists and authors who were friends both of the writer and of the Brownings; he speaks of D. G. Rossetti's marriage, of William Morris's "miraculous" house at Greenwich, describes Carlyle:

Just back from Scotland, sitting on the hearth rug by a hot fire with back against the mantelpiece, in a rich dressing gown and smoking cap, smoking—face rustic brown, eyes flaming—vigorous altogether, but still refusing comfort as usual, grumbling about Frederick the Great, etc.

There are many glimpses of Tennyson, for whose "Idylls of the King" Allingham had only a lukewarm admiration, and an interesting description of a visit to Goethe's house, where the writer found a presentation volume of Carlyle's "German Romance"—unopened. Elsewhere we read of Holman Hunt's picture "Christ found by Mary in the Temple" being sold by the artist to Gambart for £5,500, and shown in Bond Street to "crowds after crowds" at a shilling a head. Finally, remembering Mr. Sludge, the medium, it is amusing to read this story of his prototype, Hume, the spiritualist:

who brought up a ghost the other evening at some grand house who intimated ... that he was in Heaven, and being asked how he liked it, said "better than he expected."

- 98 AMERICANS, including C. E. Norton, Bret Harte, Paul Hamilton Hayne and Hatty Hosmer, the American lady sculptor, who knew the Brownings at Rome in the Fifties; Letters relating to Mr. Thaxter, for whose tomb Browning wrote an epitaph; Letters to Mrs. Browning; many Letters from admirers (some addressed to "Robert Browning, Poet, London"); etc. a parcel
- 99 ARNOLD (Matthew) Fourteen A. L. s. 1861-77, referring to "The Ring and the Book," "Agamemnon," "Artemis Prologizes," and the writer's intention not to stand for the Lord Rectorship of St. Andrew's University when he thought Browning was a candidate in 1877; and two others (16)
- 100 ARNOULD (Joseph) afterwards Sir Joseph Arnould, Judge of the High Court at Bombay, one of Browning's earliest friends, a trustee of his marriage settlement, Ten A. L. s. 27 pp. 8vo and 4to, 1842-50. —DOMETT (Alfred) the prototype of "Waring," also referred to in "The Guardian Angel," the closest of Browning's early friends, Seventeen A. L. s. 56 pp. 1846-87, and the "farewell scrap" that he wrote to Browning just before sailing for New Zealand in 1842; three of the letters are written from New Zealand, one of which describes Domett's feelings on reading "Waring"; the rest are written after his return to England in 1872; with a book containing copies of Browning's Letters to him (28)
- 101 ARTISTS, including W. Page, the American artist who painted Browning's portrait; G. Natorp, Sir E. J. Poynter, Sir E. Burne-Jones, Sir W. B. Richmond, G. F. Watts, Val Prinsep, W. P. Frith, Felix Moscheles, Sir J. E. Millais, Sir H. Herkomer, etc. a packet
- 102 AUTHORS, SCHOLARS AND JOURNALISTS, including Thomas Hardy, J. L. Warren (Lord de Tabley), The Hon. Mrs. Norton (original of "Diana of the Crossways"), Jean Ingelow, Sir Henry Taylor, Sir Edwin Arnold, William Clyde Fitch, W. G. Wills, Edmund Yates, Leslie Stephen, David Masson, Andrew Lang, William Bell Scott, C. J. Lyall, Sir Francis Doyle, A. Birrell, C. G. Leland, etc. a parcel

- 103 BARRETT (Miss E. B.) afterwards Mrs. BROWNING, Twenty Letters to Sir Uvedale Price, 1826-7 (some incomplete), with a copy in her handwriting of a Letter from him, and a Letter to a mutual friend, in all 119 pp. 4to in her handwriting; with two Auto. MSS. 5½ pp. 4to of a Poem addressed to him on his birthday, 1827; and eleven Letters from him to her (34)

* * Sir Uvedale Price was the friend and neighbour of the Barretts in Herefordshire. Miss Barrett wrote an elegy on his death, an autograph manuscript of which was sold in these rooms on July 30, 1912.

- 104 BARRETT (Miss E. B.) A. L. 4½ pp. 4to, March 19, 1828, to her grandmother, but never sent, giving a most interesting account of her first meeting with H. S. Boyd, and of a carriage accident which happened to her when she was on her way to see him; with two Auto. MSS. of a Poem entitled "The Reply of Malvern to the Address of H. S. Boyd, Esq. on the occasion of the Arrival of the Princess Victoria," 2½ pp. 4to and folio, one torn and mended

- 105 BARRETT (Miss E. B.) Early Letters, including a Letter in Latin to her eldest brother, 1 p. 8vo; Letter to her uncle, Samuel Barrett, apparently written for her by her mother, Nov. 1818; Political Letter to a member of the Government; etc.

- 106 BARRETT (Miss E. B.) Draft of an A. L. s. to the Ladies' Committee in Leeds of the Anti Corn Law League, refusing to write a poem for them, Feb. 10, 1845; Auto. Drafts of other Letters; in all about 11 pp. (6)

- 107 BARRETT (Miss E. B.) A Note Book, containing some of her earliest Poems, 1814-6, some written down by her mother, probably none autograph; Childish Verses, written when she was only 8 to 10 years old, to her parents, brothers, sisters, etc., with a copy of a Narrative of a Visit to Paris in 1815 by her brother; in all 94 pp. 4to

- 108 BARRETT (Miss E. B.) Julia or Virtue, a Novel, MS. 15 pp. 4to, with dedication to her grandmother, Hope End, July 17, 1816

* * It is extremely difficult to say whether these early MSS. are autograph or not, this appears to be partly in Miss Barrett's writing.

- 109 BARRETT (Miss E. B.) Glimpses into my own Life and Literary Character, Auto. MS. 80 pp. sm. 8vo

* * This must have been written in 1821, for in a sentence on the last page the writer says "I have carried up the tragi-comedy to the epoch when I have reached my fifteenth year." Her early work, "The Battle of Marathon," is mentioned, and an extremely interesting account is given of her early enthusiasms and disappointments.

- 110 BARRETT (Miss E. B.) Pocket Diary for 1823, with some Auto. Notes for reading in that year; and a Pocket Note Book, 1824-5, with many notes and criticisms on books read; in all over 200 pp. bound in russia, with clasp
- * * The books criticised or analysed include Locke's "Essay on the Human Understanding" and Kant and Berkeley's "Philosophies." There are also translations from the Spanish, Notes for a Preface to the "Essay on Mind," "List of Books I wish to have," etc.
- 111 BARRETT (Miss E. B.) Three small Note Books, 1842-4, containing in all about 60 pp. of her writing, including Rough Notes for Passages in "A Drama of Exile"; Notes on Italian artists, Addresses (including that of Mr. Browning, New Cross, Hatcham, Surrey); Translations from Petrarch; the Sonnet on Haydon's Portrait of Wordsworth; Sonnet to George Sand ("A Desire"); "The Princess Marie," a poem apparently not included in the collected edition of her works; etc.
- 112 BARRETT (Miss E. B.) Three Note Books, containing Auto. Notes, some in pencil, one said to contain her "Day and Night Thoughts"; and a tiny Book, in a red silk case, containing a poem "To Mary"
- 113 BARRETT (Miss E. B.) Two Note Books, containing about 125 pp. folio and 8vo, including portions of an early Draft of the translation of "Prometheus Bound"; Notes for the Preface to the "Essay on Mind"; a Note in French on Swedenborg, etc.; one of the books is dated 1824 (2)
- 114 BARRETT (Miss E. B.) Note Book, with Auto. Poems, about 58 pp. 4to, mostly fair copies, entitled "MSS. by Elizabeth B. Barrett"
- * * The titles of the poems are as follows: The Cry of the Human, Wisdom Unapplied, The Maiden's Death, To a Friend painting my Picture, The Gorse ("written in sickness—but in happiness"), The Repose ("written in sickness, but much happiness, 1839"), Calls on the Heart, A Sabbath on the Sea, L. E. L.'s Last Question, Once, From Below and from Above, Sonnets in the Night (9), The Fourfold Aspect, and Valediction. Several of them are unpublished, at least under the above titles, in the collected edition.
- 115 BARRETT (Miss E. B.) Note Book, containing copies of Letters addressed to the Rev. Dr. Adams, Master of Pembroke College, Cambridge; various Auto. MSS. of Miss Barrett; and her collection of Autograph Letters; purple morocco, gilt and blind tooled, g. e. with clasp 4to
- * * There are about 30 pp. in Miss Barrett's writing, all being apparently copies, they include: Extracts from the Letter of a Lady in Russia, detailing the History of Mme. Collins' Elizabeth; the original story of the "Bride of Lammermoor," in a letter addressed to Sir James Stuart of Caithness, to whom she was great-grand-aunt; Letters from Canon Riego to T. Easthope, Esq. M.P. relating to his sister, the patriot's widow; Poems and Epigrams by H. S. Boyd; Extracts from the Rev. George Barrett Hunter's

Sermons, preached extempore at the Independent Chapel, Sidmouth, 1833 (where the Barretts were living at the time), and Poems by A. Crosse, Esq.

The autograph collection includes A. L. s. by the following: Lord Brougham, Sydney Smith, W. Wordsworth, Southey, S. Rogers, T. Campbell and others, mostly very short.

The book also contains a pencil drawing of a young man, and his character in French (headed "Portrait d'Edmond") in what appears to be the early hand-writing of Miss Barrett; possibly it represents one of her brothers.

- 116 BARRETT (Miss E. B.) Early unpublished Poems, MSS. 27 pp. 4to and folio, chiefly addressed to her father and other members of her family, and about leaving Hope End (her father's place in Herefordshire) for Dorking, 1819-25, some possibly not in Miss Barrett's writing

- 117 BARRETT (Miss E. B.) ESSAY ON MIND, two Auto. MSS. (neither quite complete), 165 pp. 4to, with Auto. MSS. of two other Poems published with it in 1826, and a written Criticism of the volume, 4 pp. 4to (? by John Kenyon); and a copy of the Book, presented by Miss Barrett's father to John Kenyon, and by him to Robert Browning, with inscriptions, original boards, uncut

* * The other poems, of which the auto. MSS. are included in this lot, are the Lines on the Death of Lord Byron (incomplete), and two MSS. of Lines on a Portrait of Riego's Widow; in all 6 pp. 4to.

- 118 BARRETT (Miss E. B.) A Drama of Exile, Auto. MSS. of portions of this dramatic Poem, about 50 pp. 8vo

- 119 BARRETT (Miss E. B.) Poems, mostly early, believed to be unpublished, Auto. MSS. on 28 pp. folio and 4to, with some Poems, apparently not autograph, 6 pp., dated 1817

* * The titles of the auto. poems are Rime and Reason, The Vision of Epicurus, Meditations, Fragment of an Essay on Woman, To my Sister on her Birthday, On the Present State of Greece, Upon a Piece of the Palm that grows on the top of the Acropolis at Athens, The Rose and Zephyr, Fortune Telling, etc.

- 120 BARRETT (Miss E. B.) Poems, mostly early, believed to be unpublished, Auto. MSS. on about 40 pp. 4to

* * The titles of the poems are: The Poets' Enchiridion, The Poets' Record (Two MSS. and a fragment), The Suliot Boy, A Sunset, Kings, Hymns sung on the occasion of the annual sermon for the benefit of the Sabbath school, Verses written in the Olney Hymn-book, The Appeal, The Statesman's Funeral (on the death of the Rt. Honble. George Canning, 1829), etc.

- 121 BARRETT (Miss E. B.) A large number of Auto. Fragments of Poems (mostly early and probably unpublished), including portions of the auto. MS. of Leila, a tale in verse, songs, moral and philosophical poems, etc. a parcel

- 122 BARRETT (Miss E. B.) A large Collection of Auto. Fragments of Prose, including sketches for a tragedy (? Psyche), fragments of Novels, Anecdotes, Essays, Translations, etc. a large parcel
- 123 BARRETT (Miss E. B.) Auto. Draft of a Letter, entitled "A Thought on Thoughts," 9½ pp. 4to, addressed to the editor of the New Monthly Magazine
- 124 BARRETT (Miss E. B.) A large number of Auto. Scraps in prose and verse, mostly too fragmentary to be classified, but many of considerable interest a parcel
- 125 [BARRETT (Miss E. B.)] LINES, H. H. Pencil Drawing of Hope End, Miss Barrett's early home, dated Apl. 11, 1877
- 126 BRIGHT (John) Auto. Transcript of John Logan's poem "To the Cuckoo," 28 lines, 2 pp. 8vo, endorsed by Browning with a note (dated March 23, 1867) of the reason why Bright sent the poem, namely that, in an argument as to the respective merits of Logan's and Wordsworth's poems to the Cuckoo, Bright, in opposition to Browning, supported the claims of the former; and a covering note from Lady Hobart, at whose house they had met (2)
- 127 BROWNING (Robert) father of the poet, 1781-1866, various Auto. MSS., several illustrated by himself with grotesque drawings, including many notes on literary topics, etc.
- * * * It is well known that Browning's father sometimes wrote on the same subjects as his son; for instance, he began to compose a poem on the Pied Piper, and suggested the plot of a romance on Sordello; it is, therefore, not surprising to find among these papers one on "Sludge the Medium," with grotesque illustrations; it seems to resemble, in parts, his son's famous poem, but there is nothing to show whether father or son first chose the subject or found the name. There is also an amusing set of illustrated verses called "The Anatomical Parish," written to teach his grandson the names and positions of the principal bones of the human body; such a rhyme as the following is not unworthy of his son:
- And in vestry affairs that the clerk Gastroenemius
In all parish matters so very abstemious.
- 128 BROWNING (R.) father of the poet, Twelve A. L. s. 45 pp. 8vo, to his son and daughter, chiefly about obscure points of mediæval papal history; one letter congratulates his son and daughter-in-law on the birth of their son (13)
- * * * In view of the use which Browning made of the "Roman murder story," it is interesting to find that one letter discusses at length the mystery of a murder at the house of Mr. Kent, at Roade, which thrilled England in 1859; the writer even made a plan of the house (included in this lot), which bears a note in his son's writing of the circumstances in which it was made.

- 129 BROWNING (R.) father of the poet, "The Nomenclator," Two Auto. MSS. of about 350 pp. 8vo, with an A. L. s. 3 pp. 8vo [n. d. but 1855], from his son about the work, and a preface, 3¼ pp. 8vo, by Mrs. Browning

* * * This work was intended to facilitate reference to any name in the Old Testament, and Browning's letter refers to negotiations undertaken with a view to getting it published. He also sends the title-pages of the two volumes of "Men and Women."

- 130 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) A LARGE PACKET of A. L. s. to Miss Mitford, authoress of "Our Village," probably between Three Hundred and Four Hundred Letters, mostly unpublished

* * * In her "Recollections of a Literary Life," Miss Mitford has left an interesting account of her first meeting with Miss Barrett in 1836, and from that date till the death of the elder lady in 1855 the two were on terms of intimate friendship. It was she who gave Miss Barrett her little dog "Flush," which she carried with her when she left her father's house on Sept. 19, 1846. It was to Miss Mitford, again, that Mrs. Browning entrusted the printing of the "Sonnets from the Portuguese," and she wrote of her to Ruskin after her death that:

It was a great, warm, outflowing heart, and the head was worthy of the heart.

FORTY-NINE OF THESE LETTERS have been published by Sir F. G. Kenyon in the "Letters of Elizabeth Barrett Browning," 2 vol. 1897, the rest are believed to be unpublished.

- 131 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) A Correspondence with Hugh Stuart Boyd, the blind scholar, whose friendship with the authoress is commemorated in her poem "Wine of Cyprus," and in three sonnets expressly addressed to him

* * * They seem to have become acquainted about 1826, when Boyd was living at Great Malvern, where Miss Barrett used frequently to visit him, reading and discussing Greek literature with him, especially the works of the Greek Christian Fathers. He died on May 10, 1848.

There are about TWO HUNDRED AND FORTY LETTERS in the handwriting of Miss Barrett (including some written for Mr. Boyd and his wife), and about One Hundred and Seventy from Mr. Boyd to her.

SIXTY-SIX OF THESE LETTERS have been published by Sir F. G. Kenyon; the rest are believed to be unpublished.

- 132 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) ONE HUNDRED AND TWO LETTERS to Mrs. Martin, 1832-61; and Two Letters, 6 pp. 8vo, to her from Robert Browning

* * * Mrs. Martin was a life-long friend, the acquaintance probably having been made while the Barretts were at Hope End and the Martins living near Tewkesbury.

SEVENTY-ONE LETTERS addressed to her are printed in Sir F. G. Kenyon's collection.

- 133 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) upwards of FIFTY LETTERS to John Kenyon, with three Letters to him from Robert Browning, one from Sarah Coleridge, and one letter from him to Mrs. Browning before her marriage * * John Kenyon played a very important part in the lives of the Brownings. He was a schoolfellow of Browning's father, and it was through him that the poet first met his future wife. After their marriage he assisted them financially and made them a generous legacy in his will. "Aurora Leigh" was partly written at his house in the Isle of Wight and is dedicated to him.

One of Robert Browning's letters refers at some length to the picture of Andrea del Sarto in the Pitti Palace, which Kenyon wanted Browning to get copied, and which inspired Browning's poem; the writer complains that copyist's terms are exorbitant. TWENTY-SEVEN LETTERS to Kenyon are printed in Sir F. G. Kenyon's collection.

- 134 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) FIFTY-FIVE LETTERS and Three Fragments to Mrs. Jameson, authoress of "Sacred and Legendary Art," Nine Letters from her to Mrs. Browning, and Four Letters to her from John Kenyon (68)

* * Miss Barrett does not appear to have met Mrs. Jameson till 1844, but from that date till the latter's death on March 17, 1860, they were very close friends. It will be remembered that the Brownings travelled with her from Paris on their first visit to Italy, and owed much to her kindness.

THIRTY-ONE LETTERS to Mrs. Jameson are printed by Sir F. G. Kenyon.

- 135 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) SEVENTEEN LETTERS to Miss Thomson, afterwards Mme. Emil. Braun

* * Miss Thomson was a friend of Kenyon's, and in 1845 edited an anthology to which she invited Miss Barrett to contribute. After her marriage she visited the Brownings in Florence with her husband. Four letters to Miss Thomson are printed by Sir F. G. Kenyon.

- 136 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) A. L. s. 4 pp. 8vo, n. d. [April, 1857], to Napoleon III, in an envelope endorsed by Miss Browning "never sent"

* * A dignified and touching letter, asking the Emperor to pardon Victor Hugo, who was at this time living in exile in Jersey; it is reproduced in facsimile in the "Letters of Elizabeth Barrett Browning":

I am only a woman, and have no claim on your Majesty's attention, except that of the weakest on the strongest. Probably my very name as the wife of an English poet, and as named myself a little among English poets, is unknown to your Majesty. I never approached my own sovereign with a petition, nor am skilled in the way of addressing kings, yet having, through a studious and thoughtful life, grown used to great men (among the dead at least), I cannot feel entirely at a loss in speaking to the Emperor Napoleon, etc.

- 137 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) Letters to her from Fanny Kemble, Hatty Hosmer, the American lady-sculptor, Vernon Lushington, etc., Poems addressed to her by G. P. R. James, and others; letters about her to Robert Browning a parcel

- 138 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) Note Book containing 45 pp. (a few in pencil) of passages copied from various authors in her handwriting
- * * * The passages copied include fourteen poems by William Blake, passages from Schlegel's course of dramatic criticism, the Elizabethan dramatists, Swedenborg, Bishop Andrewes, Fuller's "Holy State."
- 139 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) Two Note Books, one presented by her sister Arabel, with inscription, containing the first very rough autograph drafts for "Aurora Leigh," which was apparently at first to have been called "Aurora Vane," and other poems, in all about 470 pp. 8vo
- * * * The other poems include: "The Dead Rose," "Not Gay," "How a lady should love," "Hector in the Garden," "Sonnets on the Silence," "Flush or Faunus," "The Finite and Infinite," "The Runaway Slave," Stanzas on Life, Loving, etc. The MS. of "Aurora Leigh" is full of erasures and in parts quite illegible.
- 140 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) Two Note Books, containing about 175 pp. of her auto. poems and notes
- * * * The poems are all written after her marriage, and include rough drafts of some of her latest poems included in "Poems before Congress," such as "Napoleon III in Italy," "Italy and the World," "The Dance," etc.; or uncollected such as "The Musical Instrument," "King Victor Emmanuel entering Florence," "The Sword of Castruccio Castracani." There are also fair copies of earlier poems: "The Morning at Sea," "A Child's Thought of God," "Calls on the Heart," "Confessions," "Wisdom Unapplied," "The Runaway Slave at Pilgrim's Point," and translations from Homer, Hesiod and Heine.
- One of the books was used for scribblings by R. W. B. Browning as a child.
- 141 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) Two small Note Books, one containing about 60 pp. of Auto. Notes, many in Greek, mostly on Greek literature; the other bears the inscription "To my dearest Ba, from her affec<sup>to</sup> Arabel—to write her notes, preparatory to the great work on Italy! Feb. 19, '47," and contains Auto. Notes of Italian painters, and pencil sketches by Mrs. Browning; and two Pencil Portraits, one of "Penini," perhaps by Mrs. Browning (4)
- * * * The sketches are extremely interesting, since they recall the places visited by the Brownings in Italy. Slight sketches of Bagni Caldi and of wooded hills on the way to Prato Fiorito recall their summer visits to the Bagni di Lucca in 1849 and 1853; others, of Vallombrosa, remind us of their attempt to spend the summer there in 1847, a project foiled by the abbot, whom Mrs. Browning, in a letter to Mrs. Jameson, called "an austere man, jealous of his sanctity and the approach of women." And, finally, there are sketches of Byron's favourite seat in the gardens of the Villa Salurro, near Genoa, and of Mme. de Warens' villa, Les Charmettes, near Chambéry, where Rousseau, in his early days, found a refuge, to remind us of the interest in things and places associated with great men of letters, which the Brownings never failed to show.

- 142 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) PROMETHEUS BOUND, a Dramatic Poem, translated from the Greek of Æschylus, Auto. MS. 50 pp. 4to, with other MS. relating to the same (probably written by her brother, George Barrett), 9 pp. 8vo; and AUTO. NOTES BY ROBERT BROWNING on the translation, 7½ pp. 8vo * * * Browning's notes are chiefly on grammatical points, and at the close he says :

And so it is all magnificently rendered. The above attempts at notification are the merest stoppings for a moment where I did not know my old path thro' the text again. . . . If the work were mine, I should be happy and proud, and let it alone. . . . This is not the opportunity I waited for to say my humble say on your works. Æschylus is here, and I would find you alone. As it is, take my true praise and congratulations.

- 143 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) Auto. Criticisms on some of her husband's poems, 56 pp. 8vo, EXTREMELY INTERESTING

* * * The poems criticised are the following: "The Flight of the Duchess," "Luria," "A Soul's Tragedy," "The Englishman in Italy," "The Italian in England" ("A serene, noble poem this is—an heroic repose in it—but nothing to imagine queries out of, with whatever good will"), "Pictor Ignotus," "The Confessional," "Ghent to Aix," "Time's Revenges," "Saul," "The Flower's Name," "The Boy and the Angel," "The Bishop orders his Tomb at St. Praxed's Church," "The Laboratory."

"Ghent to Aix" seems to have fascinated Mrs. Browning, as it has fascinated so many other readers, and she devotes 2 pp. to its eulogy :

You have fairly distanced the rider in "Rookwood" here—not that I should think of saying so if we had not talked of him before. You hear the very trampling and breathing of the horses all through—and the sentiment is left in its right place through all the physical force and display. Then the difficult management of the three horses, of the three individualities—and Roland carrying the interest with him triumphantly. I know you must be fond of this poem; and nobody can forget it who has looked at it once; etc.

- 144 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) Her photograph presented to her husband, with her Auto. inscription; Auto. Copy of a Note by Carlyle on Browning; and an Auto. Note to her from her husband (3)

* * * The photograph, which is stained and dirty, is inscribed :

Elizabeth Barrett Browning—for R. B. only—with all her love and very little likeness.—Sept. 17, 1858.

It does not appear ever to have been reproduced.

The note from Carlyle contains the following, in Mrs. Browning's writing :

Chelsea, 16 Feby., 1851.—If at Florence you know the poet Browning (one of the bravest and most gifted English souls now living), I will send my affectionate remembrances to him.

and in Robert Browning's writing :

. . . . written to a friend of his, who showed it to E. B. B., who characteristically would preserve what I ought to destroy.—Aug. 13, '85, R. B.

Browning's other note to his wife is as follows :

DEAREST,—You will find a letter from Arabel [her sister]. I noticed the black seal, and, knowing your ways, could not help breaking it, to be able to save you even a moment's fear by telling you, as I now can, that it is all right—as the first line—all I read—convinces me. Won't you forgive me, for the true motive's sake?—Your own R. B.

- 145 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) Translations, Auto. MSS. 38 pp. 8vo and 4to, including an early version of a portion of Horace's "Ars Poetica" and translations of the first book of Dante's "Inferno," the opening lines of the "Iliad," and the following translations included under that heading in the collected works, some incomplete: "Cyclops and Galatea," "Paraphrases of Apuleius," "Cupid and Psyche," "Bacchus and Ariadne," from Nonnus and Hesiod, "Hector and Andromache" (portions of two versions), "The Daughters of Pandarus," and "Anacreon's Ode to the Swallow"
- 146 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) Auto. MS. of Poems, apparently not included in the collected edition of her works, 28 pp. 8vo and 4to, including several duplicates
- * * * The poems include the following: "A true dream, dreamed at Sidmouth, 1833," "A Night Watch by the Sea," "The Maiden's Death," and "To my friend the Rev. G. B. H. [George Barrett Hunter], with my poems omitting his name."
- 147 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) Two Note Books, containing rough drafts or fair copies of some of her latest poems and translations, about 60 pp. 8vo and 4to
- * * * The poems and translations include, "The Favourers," "The New Amadis," "The Little Field Rose," "Prometheus," "Anacreon's Grave," "The Divine," "The Singer," "The Violet," "The Erl King," "The Fisherman," "The King in Thule," "Eagle and Dove," "A Lament for Adonis," etc.
- 148 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) An Album containing photographs of contemporary politicians, mostly with the name pencilled underneath by Mrs. Browning; and another Album containing dried flowers sent to her from Palestine (2)
- * * * The photographs are a characteristic selection, including Napoleon III, Gladstone, Palmerston, Cavour, Pius IX, etc.; of personal friends there are only W. S. Landor and Seymour Kirkup.
- 149 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) "CASA GUIDI WINDOWS," part II, Auto. MS., 31 pp. 8vo; and fragments of the Auto. MS. of part I, 36 pp.
- 150 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) CASA GUIDI WINDOWS, another, apparently an earlier MS. incomplete, 85 pp. 8vo, the first book being called "A Meditation in Tuscany"
- 151 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) POEMS BEFORE CONGRESS, Auto. MS. of the poems included in this, the last volume of poetry published by Mrs. Browning, the original MS. used by the printers, 43½ pp.
- * * * This MS. is, unfortunately, incomplete: it lacks the last five stanzas of "The Dance." Of "A Curse for a Nation," the poem which excited so much resentment, there is a printed version (probably from a magazine), with numerous auto. corrections, from which the poem was apparently printed in "Poems before Congress." There is also an early MS. of the poem as it was originally published.

- 152 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) "SONNETS FROM THE PORTUGUESE," AUTO. MS. of Forty-three Sonnets, the original MS. from which they were printed (probably in 1850), with the printer's marks.

* * * "Sonnets from the Portuguese" were first printed at Reading, in 1847, under the title of "Sonnets," and they were included in the Collected Poems published in 1850 under their present title. There are now 44 sonnets, but no. 43 (of which there is no MS. in this Lot) was not included in the edition of 1850.

- 153 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) Catarina to Camoens, Auto. MS. early Draft, and Sonnets from the Portuguese, Auto. MSS. of 27 of the Sonnets, probably also early drafts; in all 29½ pp. 8vo

* * * The "Sonnets from the Portuguese" are simply headed "Sonnets," as in the Reading edition of 1847; it was Robert Browning who chose the name by which they have become famous, taking the idea from the poem Catarina to Camoens, which was one of his favourites.

- 154 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) "Last Poems," Auto. MSS. of all the poems included under that heading in her Collected Works, except "The Best Thing in the World," "North and South," and "My Heart and I" (see below), 79 pp. 8vo, of Mrs. Browning's MS.

* * * The poems include, "Little Matie," "A False Step," "Void in Law," "Lord Walter's Wife," "Bianca among the Nightingales," "My Kate," "A Plea for the Ragged Schools of London" (with a copy of the poem as originally printed in the form of a pamphlet), "May's Love," "Amy's Cruelty," "My Heart and I" (in the handwriting of G. P. R. James), "Where's Agnes," "De Profundis," "A Musical Instrument," "King Victor Emmanuel entering Florence, April, 1860," "The Sword of Castruccio Castracani," "Summing up in Italy," "Died . . .," "The Forced Recruit," "Garibaldi," "Only a Curl," "A View across the Roman Campagna," "The King's Gift," "Parting Lovers," "The Childless Poetess" (afterwards called "Mother and Poet"), "Nature's Remorses."

- 155 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) "AURORA LEIGH," ORIGINAL AUTO. MS. from which the poem was printed, about 410 pp. 8vo (numbered up to 419, but pp. 291-9 omitted), plain brown morocco, by Proudfoot, with the Browning coat-of-arms on the upper cover, t. e. g.

* * * In addition to the poem, this volume includes the title-page and dedication to John Kenyon. Page 347, in Book 8, is inserted from another manuscript, probably for the sake of the following inscription:

Read this Book, this divine Book, Wednesday night, July 9th, '56.—R. B., 39, Devonshire Place.

An amusing story is told of this manuscript by Lady Ritchie. When the Brownings came to England in 1855, it was packed in a box with Penini's velvet trousers; the box went astray for a time, and Mrs. Browning was far more agitated about the loss of her son's clothes than of her own manuscripts.

[See Illustrations.]

- 156 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) A large number of Auto. Poems, Proof Sheets with auto. corrections, etc. apparently a portion of the copy from which the edition of 1850 was printed, some of the directions to the printers being in the handwriting of Robert Browning, in an old black leather case
- * * The chief MSS. amounting in all to about 42 pp. are the following: Advertisement to the New Edition, Life, A Sabbath Morning at Sea, Hiram Power's Greek Slave, The Mask, Calls on the Heart, Wisdom Unapplied, Human Life's Mystery, A Child's Thought of God, The Claim, Life and Love, Inclusions, Insufficiency, Confessions, The Runaway Slave at Pilgrim's Point and A Child's Grave at Florence.
- Of the printed poems the following contain numerous important auto. corrections: Memory and Hope, The Exile's Return, Cowper's Grave, Sounds, The Name, My Doves, The Soul's Travelling, An Island, The Virgin Mary to the Child Jesus, A Romance of the Ganges, etc.
- 157 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) Sonnets, Auto. MSS. 24 pp. some duplicates
- * * The Sonnets included are: Hugh Stuart Boyd, His Blindness, Legacies, His Death; Life, Heaven and Earth, The Prospect, Love, Hiram Power's Greek Slave, Future and Past, Finite and Infinite, Two Sketches, A Thought, The Soul's Expression, Flush or Faunus, The Prospect, Poet and Child, and Mountaineer and Poet.
- 158 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) Auto. MSS. of various Poems, in all 36 pp. 8vo and 4to (some duplicates, many incomplete), including a List of Poems sent to magazines, Preface to the American edition, Title-page to Aurora Leigh, The Brown Rosary, L. E. L.'s Last Question, The Cry of the Children, and The Runaway Slave at Pilgrim's Point
- 159 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) Auto. MSS. of various Poems, in all about 40 pp. 8vo and 4to (some duplicates, many incomplete), including The Gorse, Lessons from the Gorse, A Dead Rose, A Sabbath Morning at Sea, Hector in the Garden, The Fable of the Rose (afterwards called "A Lay of the Early Rose"), A Madrigal of Flowers, The Sword of Castruccio Castracani; and some unpublished Poems, including The Queen in Scotland, Mr. Rogers, and The Young Girl's Song (the latter being translated from Balzac)
- 160 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) Auto. MSS. about 33 pp. 8vo (some duplicates, some incomplete), including the following Poems: The Claim, A Mask, Confessions, How a Lady should Love, Calls on the Heart, The Child's Grave in Florence, Valediction, and The Lady's Yes
- 161 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) Auto. MSS. of various Poems, about 33 pp. 8vo and 4to (some duplicates, some incomplete), including The Despair and Rebuke, Pan is Dead, Wisdom Unapplied, Voyd in Law, and The Sword of Castruccio Castracani

- 162 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) FOURTEEN LETTERS to H. F. Chorley; and BROWNING (R.) Three A. L. s. 6 pp. 8vo, to the same; one with a P.S. by Mrs. Browning

* * Chorley was a contributor to the Athenæum, and Mrs. Browning's letters are largely taken up with literary matters. He was also, however, a musical critic, and Robert Browning's letter, written in 1853 from the Bagni di Lucca, is full of news of Italian music. Chorley was one of the trustees of the Brownings' marriage settlement, to which two of the letters refer. Twelve letters to Chorley are printed by Sir F. G. Kenyon, but one of these has since been given to the British Museum.

- 163 BROWNING (Mrs. E. B.) Upwards of ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY LETTERS to Miss Sarianna Browning; and Eight Letters, 14 pp., from ROBERT BROWNING

* * Most of these letters are naturally taken up with family matters, the death of Miss Browning's mother, in March, 1849, being the subject of several. But there are also references to the copying by Miss Browning of the MSS. of her brother and sister-in-law. The later letters are full of stories of the sayings and doing of Mrs. Browning's child. THIRTY-FIVE OF THE LETTERS are printed by Sir F. G. Kenyon.

- 164 BROWNING (R.) Twelve Letters to Miss Euphrasia Fanny Haworth; and Browning (Mrs. E. B.) Fifty-Four Letters to the same (66)

* * Browning met Miss Haworth, who lived near Elstree, while staying with Macready about 1836, and she remained his friend till her death in 1883. His letters include a very interesting and important letter of 1838 (printed by Mrs. Orr), which gives an account of his foreign travels, and speaks at length of his love of flowers, and identifying the reference to Miss Haworth in Sordello, where she is addressed as "My English eyebright." Another mentions "Pauline," and the writer's friendship with W. J. Fox; and yet another includes the first seven lines of "In a Gondola," written for a picture by Maclise. But the finest of all is the very pathetic letter which he wrote on July 20, 1861, describing his wife's last illness and death. This, and several of the other letters, are published wholly or in part by Mrs. Orr.

Mrs. Browning's letters are all written after her marriage. They contain much talk of literature and of spiritualism, as well as more personal news. There is also a reference to Miss Haworth's portrait of Penini playing the piano.

TWENTY-ONE OF MRS. BROWNING'S LETTERS are published by Sir F. G. Kenyon.

- 165 BROWNING (R.) About ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY LETTERS, and Mrs. BROWNING, upwards of ONE HUNDRED LETTERS, to Miss Isa Blagden

* * Miss Blagden was perhaps the Brownings' most intimate friend in Florence: it was her villa at Bellosguardo which suggested the one described in "Aurora Leigh"; she accompanied the Brownings to the Bagni di Lucca in 1857, and nursed Lytton through a dangerous illness there; and it was she who helped Browning to settle his affairs in Florence after his wife's death, and won his lasting gratitude by her sympathetic and efficient help. TWENTY-FOUR OF MRS. BROWNING'S LETTERS are printed by Sir F. G. Kenyon.

After Browning's return to London he made a practice of writing to Miss Blagden on the 19th of every month, and this habit continued till her death in 1872. His letters are largely concerned with his daily doings, his son, his health, his furniture left in Florence, etc., but there are many interesting references to things and people of social and literary interest. He mentions, for example, a call of four hours duration paid him by Swinburne, a meeting with Thackeray a fortnight before the latter's death, and going with Dickens to see the illuminations on the Prince of Wales's marriage.

- 166 BROWNING (ROBERT AND ELIZABETH BARRETT) THE LOVE LETTERS, a series of Two Hundred and Eight-four from Robert and Two Hundred and Eighty-seven from Elizabeth Barrett Browning, in the original cases where they were always kept until sent for publication, her letters being kept by him in a marqueterie box, and his by her in a collapsible gold tooled leather case

* * * It is impossible to exaggerate the importance of this, probably the most famous series of letters in the world. We may, however, point out that it is unique in a double sense, for not only are these the only love letters which have passed between two great poets, but also they are the only letters which passed between Browning and his wife, for after their marriage they were never separated for a day. We reproduce the first and last letters of the series.

[See Illustrations.]

- 168 BROWNING (R.) and Mrs. BROWNING. Copy by Robert Browning of a Letter written by his wife to John Forster [May 1860], (printed in the Letters of Mrs. Browning, II, 383); Copy, also by Browning, of an allusion to his wife in "The Parisians" as "the greatest of English poetesses married to a great English poet"; and Copy by him, in pencil, of a Poem to her on her later sonnets; in all 6 pp., 8vo and 4to
- 169 BROWNING (R.) A. L. s.  $2\frac{1}{4}$  pp. 8vo, from New Cross, Hatcham, to Mr. Kenyon, n. d. [1843], with envelope, on which Miss Barrett has written "Mr. Browning's autograph"

* * * This is a very important letter, marking a step forward towards the acquaintanceship between Browning and his future wife.

Miss Barrett sent the MS. of her poem "Dead Pan" to her cousin, Mr. Kenyon; he forwarded it to Browning, whom he knew well, and to whom he had often spoken of Miss Barrett. This letter is Browning's letter of thanks, sent by Kenyon to his cousin, and retained by her as an autograph. Afterwards she sent it to R. H. Horne, who had criticized the "Dead Pan," in order that he might see the opinion of a poet "whom they both admired":

Thank you very heartily for the leave to read (and re-read) the noble verses I return. Most noble! And what famous versification! The grand rhymes pair in virtue of their essential characteristics only, and the accidents (of a mute or a liquid) go for nothing, just as tree matches with tree in a great avenue, elm-bole with elm-bole, let the boughs lie how they may; etc.

170. BROWNING (R.) Auto. Draft, 1 p. folio, of his Letter of thanks, written in Latin, for the degree of M.A. conferred on him by the University of Oxford in 1867

- 171 BROWNING (R.) Rough Draft of an A. L. s. 2 pp. 8vo (one page in verse), to the Editor of the Pall Mall Gazette; the verses, 12 lines, which are on the subject of Art, are a translation from Pindar's seventh Olympian, Epode III. The quotation, according to the letter, "immediately precedes the passage which was illustrated, some years ago, by one of the finest pictures of the President."

- 172 BROWNING (R.) Eleven A. L. s. (some signed with initials only), ten with envelopes, 43 pp. 8vo, Oct.-Nov. 1876, to Miss Egerton-Smith; and another, 2½ pp. 8vo, March 5, 1869

* * Intimate letters written to a lady who was at this time one of the closest friends of Browning and his sister. In 1876 they had all been spending the summer together in Arran, and these letters were written after the Brownings had returned to London, while Miss Smith was still in Scotland. There is much talk in them of musical matters, in which both the writer and recipient were deeply interested: they used to visit concerts regularly together. An interesting reference is made to some portraits:

Our two portraits are hung up in the dining-room. I wonder how they will strike you. It is my belief that posterity will pronounce me a puzzle in that respect, no two transcripts of my respectable features being alike.

The Brownings again spent the summer with Miss Smith, this time in Switzerland in the following year; her sudden death on Sept. 14, a few days after the friends had been discussing the immortality of the soul, occasioned Browning's poem "La Saisiaz." The letter of 1869 describes an interview of the writer with Queen Victoria.

- 173 BROWNING (R.) Nine Pencil Sketches, in a small paper-backed book, and Two Drawings on a loose sheet of paper; with the book is a slip of paper with pencilled inscription by his father, "Sketches by R. Browning, author of Paracelsus, etc., when a child," and a lock of his hair when young

* * The drawings are spirited and rather grotesque, being obviously much influenced by his father's caricatures. They include drawings of a quack, a man on horseback who has lost his wig, another attacked by a bird, two men playing violins, men singing, a clergyman reading prayers, etc.

- 174 BROWNING (R.) Account with his publisher, Edward Moxon, of the sale of "Sordello," 1855
 * * It appears from this account that of an edition of 500 copies, only 157 had been sold, while 86 had been given away to reviewers and friends since the publication of the poem in 1840.
- 175 BROWNING (R.) Auto. Character of Ferdinando Romagnoli, the writer's servant, 1 p. 8vo, Sept. 5, 1861; and Romagnoli's Marriage Licence from the Archbp. of Florence, with Auto. Note by Browning on the back, stating that he was married in Paris on July 11, 1855, to Elizabeth Wilson * * Wilson was Mrs. Browning's maid who accompanied her when she left her father's house, and always travelled with her. There are many references to her in Mrs. Browning's letters. In 1859, when Browning undertook the care of W. S. Landor, Wilson and her husband, who was also in the Brownings' service, went to keep house for him, and remained in charge of him till his death.
- 176 BROWNING (Robert) Lock of Hair, in an envelope with Auto. inscription by Robert Browning :
 Ba. told me years ago that the widow of Riego sent her a lock of her own hair as all the acknowledgment she could make for some verses of Ba. upon Riego. This must be the hair. RB. Alone, Casa Guidi, July, 1861
- 177 BROWNING (R.) Scraps of Paper with jottings in his writing, an interesting collection, including notes of rhymes (e.g. radishes—made-dishes—baddish cheese), and a note of dates connected with his second voyage to Italy in 1844, copy of a magic formula, note on Goethe, etc. a small parcel
- 178 BROWNING (R.) Auto. Notes, 7 pp. 8vo, including an Epigram on the voluntary imprisonment of the Pope as proving his infallibility; Notes for the preface to "Agamemnon"; Copies of Letters to the Press from critics of "Fifine at the Fair" and "Halbert and Hob," etc. 8
- 179 BROWNING (R.) Blotter and Penwiper, in a brown paper wrapper with inscription, dated Dec. 1889, by Mrs. Barrett Browning, to the effect that they were used up to the last by the poet
 * * The papers found in the blotter have not been disturbed, they include 7 pp. folio of corrections in Browning's writing for vol. IV, etc. (? of the collected edition of his Poems), and a page of his household accounts, also autograph.
- 180 BROWNING (R.) Suggestions for Subjects of Pictures, probably for his son, 4 pp. 8vo and 4to, of Pan and Pheidippides, The Witch of Atlas, Ion and Augustus Cæsar; none of these appear to have been utilized (4)
- 181 BROWNING (R.) Auto. Motto in verse for a picture by Felix Moscheles, "The Isle's Enchantress"; and another for Leighton's picture, "Orpheus and Eurydice," which was exhibited at the Royal Academy, the motto being printed as prose in the Catalogue (2)

- 182 BROWNING (R.) Auto. Motto in verse, seven lines, for his son's picture, Joan of Arc and the Kingfisher; another, in Spanish and English, five lines each, for "A Scene in the Building of the Inquisitors at Antwerp"; and a suggestion for the treatment of his statue Dryope, interesting, with Newspaper Cuttings referring to his son's pictures; two Letters from Burne-Jones, about one of his pictures exhibited at the Royal Academy, etc.
- 183 BROWNING (R.) His Russian Passport, 1834; Flint Arrow Heads, picked up by him on his last visit to Asolo, 1889, and found on his writing desk after his death; Caricatures of him from "Punch," "Vanity Fair," etc.; and other interesting Relics, including a Passport issued to W. S. Landor with his Signature a parcel
- 184 BROWNING (R.) Auto. Notes for "The Ring and the Book," 1½ pp. 4to
 * * Very interesting, as showing the extreme care with which Browning verified his statements. On the first page all the dates of events connected with the poem are set down, concluding with the Death of Pope Innocent XII in 1700; on the other side is an Almanack for January and February, 1698, the months of Pompilia's murder and Guido's Trial, with a note of the date of Easter-day, 1697, and of the phases of the moon during April of that year; on April 21, there was a new moon, as Browning has here noted, and Professor Griffin states that the poet actually consulted the Astronomer-Royal on this point, before inserting the words of Caponsacchi to Pompilia with regard to their flight on April 22:
 Leave this house in the dark to-morrow night
 Just before daybreak :—there's new moon this eve—
 It sets, and then begins the solid black.
- 185 BROWNING (R.) Another series of similar Auto. Notes, 1¼ pp. 4to; in this case, however, the dates are somewhat elaborated, but the Astronomical notes and the Almanack are omitted
- 186 BROWNING (R.) Auto. Notes for "Red Cotton Night Cap Country," 2¼ pp. 4to
 * * These begin with the birth of Antonio Mellerio in 1827, and include notes of some of his eccentricities; a transcript of his last Will, Oct. 21, 1869; Extracts from the legal proceedings taken after his death, etc.
- 187 BROWNING (R.) Auto. MSS. 5 pp. 8vo
 * * These MSS. include seven separate translations, into Latin verse, of the sentence "You ought to sit upon the safety-valve," made in response to a challenge, Feb. 22, 1866. Translations of songs or epigrams from Anacreon, and a draft of a poem, 30 lines, beginning:
 She was fifteen—had great eyes
 Deep with dreams of Paradise, etc.
- 188 BROWNING (R.) Auto. Draft of a Poem, in blank verse, 4 pp. 8vo, unfinished and perhaps unpublished, apparently intended for 'Aristophanes Apology,' but not used, beginning:

Lot 188—continued.

I am an old and solitary man
 And now at set of sun in Sicily
 I sit down in the middle of the plain
 Which drives between the mountains and the sea
 It's blank of nature.

- 189 BROWNING (R.) Auto. Verses, 23 lines, 1 p. 8vo, headed "Replies to Challenges to Rhyme"; and a Scrap of Paper, with a number of words in his handwriting, apparently other challenges to rhyme

* * We give a specimen of the rhymes :

Ah, massa ! such a fiery oss
 As him I rode at Timbuctoo !
 He would not suit a quiet boss !
 Him kick, him rear, and him buck too !

- 190 BROWNING (R.) Auto. Verses, 1 p. 4to, 30 lines, translation from the Iliad, Bk. XIII, 202-231

* * A rough draft with erasures, apparently unpublished.

- 191 BROWNING (R.) Auto. List of the Titles of six Sonnets, which, during his lifetime, were not included in any edition of his works ; printed copies of two of them, "The Names to Shakespeare," and "The Founder of the Feast," with Auto. corrections ; and Auto. MS. of another, "Rawdon Brown," initialled and dated Venice, Nov. 28, 1883 (4)

* * The first of these sonnets was written for the "Shakespearean Show-Book," published in May, 1884, in connection with the Shakespearean Show held at the Albert Hall in aid of the Hospital for Women in the Fulham Road ; it is printed as a separate leaflet and dated March 12, 1884. The second was contributed to the album presented to Mr. Arthur Chappell, organizer of the Popular Concerts at St. James's Hall, in 1884 ; the present copy is from "The World," April 16. As given there, and in the Centenary Edition it consists of 15 lines—Browning's corrections cut it down to 14, thus making it a regular sonnet.

- 192 BROWNING (R.) Scraps of Verse in his handwriting, 7 lines, for the tomb of Levi Thaxter, a citizen of Boston, Mass. dated Apr. 19, 1885 (printed by Mrs. Orr), 4 lines to Sir Squire Bancroft ; and two other Scraps, one with 4 lines of verse (apparently a transcript), the other with 8 lines

* * We quote the last two sets :

Yellow and pale as ripened corn
 Which autumn's kiss frees,—grain from sheath,—
 Such was her hair, while her eyes beneath Showed Spring's faint violets freshly born.

Incerti Auctoris

Hail to the man who upward strives
 Ever in happy unconcern
 Whom neither blame nor praise contrives
 From his own nature's path to turn
 On and still on the journey went,
 Yet has he kept (words erased) in view
 Working in age with youth's intent
 In living fresh, in loving true.

- 193 BROWNING (R.) A BLOT IN THE SCUTCHEON, Acting copy of the Play in Miss Browning's handwriting, 40 pp. folio, with Macready's excisions and alterations; and two Auto. Notes by the author, both dated Oct. 20, 1884, paper covers

This is the copy (in my sister's handwriting) which was altered for acting by Macready : some of the excisions may have been restored in consequence of the play's production in print just before the production took place : but very few.

The other note is to be found at the end of the play, below the following two verses, which are written in pencil :

Within a convent's shade in stranger lands
Penance and prayer shall wear my life away.

The above, in Macready's handwriting, was the substitution for [what] he found written : this to avoid giving the piece the dignity of a Tragedy, and Mr. Phelps the distinction of playing in one !

Macready's excisions appear to amount to about 290 lines, and he has in addition substituted the following lines for Mildred's speech at the end of Act II, Scene I :

His foot is on the yew tree bough—the turf
Receives him ;—now the moonlight, as he runs,
Embraces him ;—but he must go :—is gone !
Ah ! once again he turns !—thanks, thanks, my love !
He's gone !—Oh ! I'll believe him every word. (Exit)

Browning's lines were :

He is gone. Oh I believe him, every word !
I was so young. I loved him so—I had
No mother. Heaven forgot me—and I fell
There may be pardon yet—all's doubt beyond.
Well, I have made him happy—Let me sleep—
No mother—Heaven forgot me—and I fell—
Surely the bitterness of death is past.

It is remarkable these lines particularly struck Charles Dickens, who had read and admired the play before it was produced. In a letter to Forster of Nov. 25, 1842, he said :

I know nothing that is so affecting, nothing in any book I have ever read, as Mildred's recurrence to that "I was so young—I had no mother," etc.

Which lines were actually spoken when the play was produced, and whether Phelps as Tresham ended the play by swallowing Browning's poison or entering Macready's convent, does not appear. A brief account of the first production of "A Blot in the Scutcheon," based on that given by Messrs. Griffin and Minchin in their Life of Robert Browning, pp. 113-119, may not be out of place. The play was accepted by Macready before he began his second management at Covent Garden, on Dec. 27, 1841; he seems, however, to have had doubts of its success, and delayed its production, till Browning insisted; ten days before the day fixed (Feb. 11, 1843), Macready declined to take his part (Thorold, Lord Tresham) unless the play was postponed till after Easter. Browning declined this and asked Phelps to take the part. At the last rehearsal Macready appeared and hinted that he would play the part after all. Browning refused to take it from Phelps. It is alleged that Macready then took steps to ensure the failure of the play, which would probably have failed in any case, owing to the absence of his name from the bill; it was only played for three nights, the pit and boxes being almost empty.

- 194 BROWNING (Robert) A LAST WORD, TO E. B. B., Auto. MS. on 6 pp. 8vo of the poem now called "ONE WORD MORE," initialled at the end, and dated Sept. 22, 1855, the original MS. used by the printers, with their marks

* * This Manuscript differs slightly from the version printed in the Centenary edition; the arrangement of the sections (of which there are seventeen, instead of sixteen as at present) has also been altered. It was the last poem in the original collection of "Men and Women," published in two volumes in 1855, which is dedicated to Mrs. Browning. Though in subsequent editions of Browning's poems there have been only thirteen poems placed under this title, originally there were fifty, as stated in the opening lines of "A Last Word," and they included many of his finest works:

Here they are, my fifty men and women
Naming me the fifty poems finished;
Take them, Love, the book and me together—
Where the heart is, let the brain lie also.

- 195 BROWNING (Robert) HERVÉ RIEL, Auto. MS. of the first five stanzas of this famous ballad, and the first seven lines of the sixth stanza (fifty-one lines in all) on 2 pp. 4to, the first page much stained

* * In the Centenary edition of Browning's works Sir F. Kenyon gives the following account of the circumstances in which this poem was written and published:

This fine ballad was the result of Browning's holidays at Croisic, near the mouth of the Loire, in 1866 and 1867. . . . Mr. George Smith, the poet's publisher, endeavoured to secure it for the Cornhill Magazine, but Browning, in accordance with his usual practice, rejected the idea of publication in a periodical. In February, 1871, being anxious to contribute to the fund for the relief of the distress in Paris after the siege, he wrote to Mr. Smith, offering him the right of publishing, in the Pall Mall or Cornhill, this poem ("which I like better than most things I have done of late") for whatever sum his liberality might be disposed to give. Mr. Smith responded with a cheque for a hundred guineas, which duly went to the distressed Parisians, and the poem appeared in the Cornhill Magazine for March, 1871. It was reprinted in the Pacchiarotto volume at Mr. Smith's particular request, and has since become one of the most popular and best known of Browning's poems, etc.

In Browning's letter to Mr. Smith, published by Mrs. Orr, he refers to this manuscript:

The copy is so clear and careful that you might, with a good Reader, print it on Monday, nor need my help for corrections; . . . return the copy, if you please, as I promised it to my son long ago.

- 196 BROWNING (Robert) EPPS, Auto. MS. of this unpublished poem, 60 lines, 2½ pp. 4to, signed at the end (initials only) and dated Jan. 6, '86

* * A spirited ballad, commemorating the death of an English Volunteer at the defence of Ostend against the Spaniards in 1606. Blinded in one eye, he headed a sortie as standard bearer, and, being attacked by a number of the enemy, wrapped the standard round his arm in order that it might not be captured. We quote the first and last verses of the ballad :

Asks anyone—"Where's a tag for steps?"
 I answer—Waiting its time
 Till somebody versed in the English tongue
 Shall start at the challenge, cry "Unsung
 Till now, and all for want of a rhyme,
 Is the prowess of Kenneth Epps?"

* * * * *

And die did Epps, with his English round:
 Not so the fame of the feat:
 For Donne and Dekker, brave poets and rare,
 Gave it honour and praise, and I join the pair
 With a heart that's loud though my voice compete
 As a pipe with their trumpet sound.

Donne's reference to Epps occurs in his seventh satire, "To Sir Nicholas," l. 26; Dekker's, in "Knights Conjuring," ch. viii.

- 197 BROWNING (Robert) ASOLANDO, Fancies and Facts, THE ORIGINAL AUTOGRAPH MANUSCRIPT from which the volume was printed, 93 pp. 4to, brown morocco, by Proudfoot, with the poet's coat-of-arms on the upper cover, t. e. g.

* * This was Robert Browning's last volume of poetry, and was published on Dec. 12, 1889, the day he died at the Palazzo Rezzonico, Venice, his last moments being cheered by news of the success of the book. Of the manuscript, 90 pp. [numbered up to 97] are occupied by the text of the poems, the remaining three being given to the title, dedication to Mrs. Arthur Bronson [initialled, and dated Asolo, Oct. 15, 1889], and the table of contents. Some of the pieces in the volume were written during the poet's last stay at Asolo, in 1889; others are earlier, one, "The Cardinal and the Dog," having been written for Willie Macready at the same time as the "Pied Piper."

The "Epilogue" shown in our illustration, one of the best-known of Browning's shorter poems, is the subject of an anecdote told by Miss Violet Hunt in a letter to the "Spectator" Oct. 25, 1902, and quoted by Sir F. G. Kenyon in the Centenary edition of Browning's works :

On one occasion [at a lecture or concert] I quoted the lines from Browning's Epilogue, commencing

"One who never turned his back, but marched breast forward."

I was promptly asked to say it over again slowly; pencils and odd scraps of paper were produced, and all over the tent I saw laborious efforts being made to scribble down the verse. The audience included yeomanry, C.I.V.'s, gunners, sappers, and men from three or four line battalions. I suggested that it would be better to wait until the close of the evening, when those who wished for the verse could stay behind, and I would dictate

it as slowly as they wished. When the time came, more than three hundred men left their places, and carried away the words pencilled inside pocket Testaments, note-books, on the backs of envelopes, or on any piece of paper that could be raised. "Mind you give us a fresh one next time, Miss," remarked a private in a Lancashire regiment. "Words like that stick in a fellow's head, and come to his mind more than once or twice, I can tell you."

This manuscript is of particular importance to collectors because autograph manuscripts by Browning are of extreme rarity; of the earlier poems very few are known to exist in autograph, and the original manuscripts of all the volumes published after "The Ring and the Book," with this one exception, are in the library at Balliol College, Oxford.

[See Illustration.]

- 198 BROWNING (Miss) Papers in her handwriting, including Copies of Criticisms on the works of her brother and sister-in-law; Copy of a Poem said to have been written by Mrs. Browning when only eleven years old; Copy of a passage from "Notes sur le Croisic," by Caillio jeune, which narrates the story of Hervé Riel, with  $\frac{1}{2}$  p. 4to copied from another authority on the same subject by her brother; and other notes by her, apparently relating to her brother's poem entitled "The Two Poets of Croisic"
- 200 BROWNING SOCIETY. Furnivall (Professor F. J.) and Miss Emily Hickey, Letters, chiefly about the Browning Society, of which they were the founders; with a Letter about the Chicago Browning Society; and two Letters from J. O. Halliwell-Phillipps about his quarrel with Professor Furnivall, etc. (36)
- 201 BUCHANAN (Robert) Forty A. L. s., 1864-79, chiefly on literary subjects (40)
- 202 CARLYLE (Thomas) A. L. s. 4 pp. 8vo, June 21, 1841, with envelope, A MOST INTERESTING LITERARY LETTER, criticising "Sordello" and "Pippa Passes":
 Unless I very greatly mistake, judging from these two works, you seem to possess a rare spiritual gift, poetical, pictorial, intellectual . . . to unfold which into articulate clearness is naturally the problem of all problems for you, etc.
 Further on he remarks that:
 If ever your choice happened to point that way, I for one should hail it as a good omen that your next work were written in prose!
 And concludes by wishing him:
 Good speed in the name of God!
- 203 CARLYLE (T.) A. L. s. 4 pp. 8vo, July 29, 1841, another fine letter, evidently written in answer to Browning's reply to the foregoing letter:
 Doubt it not at all, you will prosper exactly according to your true quantity of effort,—and I take it you already understand that among the "true quantities of effort" there are many, very many which the "public," reading or other, can simply know nothing of whatever . . . But the everlasting Heart of Nature does know them, and will truly respond to them, etc.

- 204 CARLYLE (T.) Two A. L. s. 3 pp. 8vo, 1841-3, about meetings with Browning (2)

- 205 CARLYLE (T.) A. L. s. 4 full pp. 4to, June 23, 1847, a remarkable letter, commencing with congratulations on Browning's marriage :

If ever there was a union indicated by the finger of Heaven itself, and sanctioned and prescribed by the Eternal Laws under which poor transitory Sons of Adam live, it seemed to me, . . . to be this! . . . unless I altogether mistake, here is a life-partnership which, in all kinds of weather, has in it a capacity of being blessed to the Parties !

He proceeds to discuss a proposal that he should visit Italy ; speaks in a very despondent way of his own work, and of the state of England :

We seem to me a People so enthralled and buried under bondage to the Hearsays of the Cants and the Grimaces, as no People ever were before. Literally no. From the top of our Metropolitan Cathedral to the sill of our lowest cobbler's shop, it is to me, too often, like one general somnambulism, most strange, most miserable—most damnable? Surely men called "of genius" . . . are . . . commanded under pain of eternal death, to throw their whole "genius" into the remedy of this . . . And they spend their time in traditionary rope-dancing and Vauxhall gymnastics ; and talk about "Art" and "High Art."

Further on he specifies some of the men "of genius" alluded to :

Dickens writes a Dombey and Son, Thackeray a Vanity Fair . . . In fact, the business of rope-dancing goes to a great height ; and d'Israeli's Tancred (readable to the end of the first volume), a kind of transcendant spiritual Houndsditch, marks an epoch in the history of this poor country.

- 206 CARLYLE (T.) Four A. L. s. 10 pp. 8vo, 1842-7, with envelopes, all relating to his edition of Cromwell's Letters and Speeches ; etc. (7)

* * One letter asks for the loan of some books ; the others refer to a certain letter written by Cromwell to his son Henry, of which Carlyle wanted a copy, and used Browning as his mediator to obtain it. The owner, a Mr. Field (two letters from whom to Carlyle are enclosed), seems to have both exasperated and amused Carlyle by suggesting that he was the author of a book called Heroes Worshipped, and by offering a sketch of New Hall by himself instead of the letter, of which, however, he at last sent a transcript (included in the lot). The matter is alluded to in the Letters of Robert Browning and Elizabeth Barrett Barrett (vol. I ; pp. 16 and 25).

Two other Letters relating to it, from Carlyle and Browning respectively, were sold in these rooms on Feb. 19, 1913.

- 207 CARLYLE (T.) A. L. s. 4 pp. 8vo, Aug. 21, 1851, with envelope, asking Browning's assistance for a proposed life of Margaret Countess Ossoli (née Fuller) by Emerson

* * The Brownings had known this lady in Florence in 1849, and she spent her last evening in Italy at their house. She was drowned, with her husband and son, on her voyage to America. Her death was a great shock to Mrs. Browning.

- 208 CARLYLE (T.) A. L. s. 4 pp. 8vo, Oct. 10, 1851, promising Browning an introduction to George Sand from Mazzini, and suggesting that he should write for Chapman the publisher, who had just taken the Westminster Review

* * * This letter was written a few days after Carlyle had left the Brownings in Paris, and he compares his journey home "to one of Jonah's days in the whale's belly."

- 209 CARLYLE (T.) A. L. s. 2 pp. 8vo, Oct. 28, 1851; the letter begins:

Here is the Mazzini letter (referred to in the last lot), not achieved till last night, the Triumvir being busy with Kossuth and other chaotic objects.

* * * It may be mentioned that the Brownings duly called on George Sand, and Browning met her on several occasions.

- 210 CARLYLE (T.) A. L. s. 6 full pp. 8vo, March 8, 1852, thanking Browning for his essay on Shelley, and criticising it and the letters to which it was a preface

* * * These were shortly afterwards found to be forgeries, and the book was withdrawn from circulation, but when Carlyle wrote the fraud had not been detected. He calls the essay:

A solid, well-wrought massive manful bit of discourse, and interesting to me, over and above, as the first bit of prose I had ever seen from you—I hope only the first of very many. . . . This essay of yours and a little word of Emerson are the only new things I have read with real pleasure for a great while past . . . I admire very much the grave expressiveness of style (a little too elaborate here and there), etc.

Shelley, however, Carlyle did not approve of; he calls him:

An extremely weak creature, and lamentable much more than admirable . . . one of those unfortunates to whom the talent of silence . . . has been denied, etc.

He presses Browning at some length to write more, either in prose or verse, and then says that he has given a card of introduction to M. Montégut, of the "Revue des deux Mondes," and concludes by a reference to "the flat hat of the old chansonnier," which, Browning explains in a note, refers to "Béranger, whose appearance I had described. R. B."

- 211 CARLYLE (T.) A. L. s. 4 pp. 4to, Dec. 4, 1855, asking Browning, who was in Paris, to obtain some information which the writer needed for his Frederick the Great about the Marquise du Châtelet; at the end of the letter he says:

I got a glimpse of your "Men and Women," and will not rest till I have read it there. That old "corregidor" is a diamond.

- 212 CARLYLE (T.) A. L. s. 4 pp. 4to, Jan. 27, 1856, in answer to Browning's reply to the last letter, thanking him for information; the letter proceeds:

We were at a country house in Hampshire during Christmas time, and the entertainment of two evenings, much the best two that turned up, was reading out of Browning's "Men and Women." The Old Corregidor (How it appears to a Contemporary), that Devil's Bishop and Gigadibs: we sat . . .

in rapt attention with the little ripples of assent (chiefly nasal, laughter being prohibited as it were), and understood everything—as indeed the melodious clear voice (Lady Ashburton's) had beforehand taken care to do, etc.

He also promises to send him his "poor counsel and judgment about these things."

- 213 CARLYLE (T.) A. L. s. 4 full pp. 4to, April 28, 1856, a very fine letter, criticising "Men and Women," written in fulfilment of the promise made in the last letter, with envelope * * Carlyle praises the poems most generously, alluding specially to the insight, manful character, rugged humour, power of expression and rhythm—"fine dancing if to the music only of drums"—displayed in them.

Nay, in a private way, I admit to myself that here apparently is the finest poetic genius, finest possibility of such, we have got vouchsafed us in this generation, and that it will be a terrible pity if we spill it in the process of elaboration.

He then proceeds to charge him with being obscure ; says he has had to read more than one of the poems as "a very enigma" :

If you took up some one great subject, and tasked all your powers upon it for a long while, vowing to Heaven that you would be plain to mean capacities, then—!—! But I have done, done. Good be with you always, dear Browning, etc.

- 214 COLERIDGE (S. T.) Auto. Notes, 3½ pp. 4to, on the Differences between the Beautiful, the Picturesque and the Sublime, etc., with a Note by John Kenyon

- 215 DE QUINCEY (Thomas), A. L. s. 2½ pp. 8vo, to Thomas Hone, Esq., rare.—SYMONDS (J. A.) Two A. L. s. 11 pp. 1877, about the Professorship of Poetry at Oxford (3)

- 216 DICKENS (Charles), A. L. s. (initials only), 1 p. 8vo, March 12, 1866, inviting him to come and hear him read "Dr. Marigold," and meet Forster, and suggesting that he should later on go to St. James's Hall and hear him read "David Copperfield," "my own particular favourite"

- 217 ELIOT (George), Four A. L. s. 7 pp. 8vo, 1869-79, with envelopes (4)

- 219 FORSTER (John), Biographer of Dickens and Landor, Seventeen A. L. s. 64 pp. 8vo, interesting letters referring to Landor, Macready, and Dickens (one letter is written from Gad's Hill Place); another acknowledges the dedication of the third edition of Browning's works. Browning twice quarrelled with Forster, once in 1843, and again after Browning's return from Italy ; on the second occasion the two men were only imperfectly reconciled ; and Three Letters about Forster (20)

- 220 FOX (W. J.) Two A. L. s. 12 pp. 8vo, 1859-9, enthusiastically praising Aurora Leigh, and mentioning the bust of Mr. R. B. Browning by Munroe.—TALFOURD (T. W.) Author of Ion, Four A. L. s. 5 pp. 8vo and 4to, one asking Browning to dinner to meet Wordsworth; another, sending him a sonnet in his honour composed by the writer (6)
- 221 GASKELL (Mrs.) Two A. L. s. 9½ pp. 8vo and 4to, one written Dec. 15, 1853, is A MOST REMARKABLE LETTER, showing the writer's sympathetic nature, and giving a most vivid description of a visit to Haworth, and of Charlotte Brönte's lonely life there with her father and her old cook, then aged 93
On the left . . . is the sitting-room, where five Miss Bröntes were reared . . . She lives alone in this haunted room, looking on the grave-stones and the desolate moors beyond—while he, the all but blind old man, leads his solitary life in the room on the right hand side, etc.
- 222 HAMERTON (P. G.) Five A. L. s. 19 pp. 8vo, 1879-82, asking for Browning's support in his candidature for the Professorship of Fine Arts in Edinburgh, for permission to dedicate to him his book "The Graphic Arts," and asking him to join in the protest against the destruction of the façade of St. Mark's at Venice.—ZIMMERN (Helen), Eleven A. L. s. (16)
- 223 HAYDON (B. R.) Artist, Five Letters to Miss Barrett, and Twenty-one from Miss Barrett to him (several incomplete), 1842-5
* * One of Haydon's letters contains a replica in pen-and-ink of his sketch of Keats, and an amusing anecdote of a breakfast party given by Leigh Hunt: (26)
Knowing the poetical irregularity of Hunt's domesticities, I told Keats I should breakfast before I went, and go over about 11, saying "I'll bet 5 to 1 by that time you will not have seen the breakfast cloth."
At 11 I walked over, and found Keats and a party patrolling before the house on the grass, in doleful sarcasm, as they had been there two hours without a morsel. I laughed ready to drop, and said "What's the matter? for this is worse than usual." "Oh," said Keats, "his wife's sister tried to drown herself this morning in one of the ponds, and it was so shallow she only tumbled in the black mud, and has just gone in covered, being pulled out by two labourers!"
- 224 HONOURS AND DISTINCTIONS. Letters requesting Browning to allow himself to be nominated for the Lord Rectorship of Glasgow and St. Andrew's Universities; others referring to the degrees conferred on him by Oxford University, and his diploma as M.A., his notice of election to the Athenæum Club, Feb. 4, 1862; etc.
a parcel
* * In spite of many applications, Browning would never allow himself to be nominated for an honorary post at any university, fearing the public speaking and the expense which it would entail.
- 225 HORNE (R. H.) early friend of Mrs. Browning, Author of Orion, Thirty-seven A. L. s. 1863-83, including a pathetic letter written at the age of 81 asking Browning to sign his request to the Government for an increase of his pension, etc. (37)

- 226 HOUGHTON (Richard Monckton Milnes, Lord) Thirty-nine Letters and Notes, 1856-89, including an unused letter of introduction to Victor Hugo, 1866.—DUFFERIN (Lord) Viceroy of India, Nine Letters, several referring to the sonnet Browning wrote ("Helen's Tower") for the tower which he put up to his mother's memory at Clandeboye (48)
- 227 HUNT (Leigh) Six A. L. s. 18 pp. 8vo, 1856-7, expressing the writer's admiration for "Men and Women," making arrangements for a meeting, alluding to his religious beliefs, etc. (6)
- 228 JAMESON (Mrs.) Authoress of "Sacred and Legendary Art," etc., Five A. L. s. 19 pp. 8vo and 4to, Sep. 22-Oct. 17, 1846, to Lady Byron, widow of the poet, with Two Letters from Lord Wentworth, Lady Byron's grandson, presenting them to Browning; and a Sketch of Avignon, by Mrs. Jameson, Oct. 8, 1846; Two Pencil Sketches of Caterina and The Gipsy Bewitches the Duchess, by Miss Jameson's niece, Pisa, 1846 (11)
- * * * These very interesting letters were written while Mrs. Jameson was travelling towards Pisa from Paris with the Brownings, who, it will be remembered, were married on Sep. 12, and left London on Sep. 19. The first letter describes the arrival in Paris of "my poet and my poetess—a pretty pair to go thro' this prosaic world together"! Mrs. Jameson appears to have had doubts of the success of the marriage, for though she calls them a "charming, fugitive pair," and admits that they are both "so good," and that "the deportment of both is in the best taste," she had not faith in the "poetical temperament as a means of permanent happiness":
- He is full of spirit and good humour, and his unselfishness and his turn for making the best of everything, and his bright intelligence, and his rare acquirements of every kind render him the very prince of travelling companions, but (always BUTS!!) he is in all the common things of this life the most unpractical of men, and the most uncalculating, rash—in short the worst manager I ever met with; she in her present state—and from her long seclusion almost helpless—now only conceive the menage that is likely to ensue and without fault on either side!! etc.*
- 229 JOWETT (B.) Forty-five A. L. s., and one from Florence Nightingale while she was nursing him, interesting letters about Browning's D.C.L. degree, his portrait by his son, which he presented to Balliol College, "Sordello" and other poems, a visit to Tennyson in 1889, etc. (46)
- 230 KELSALL (T. F.) A packet of Letters, with some from Mrs. Kelsall, chiefly referring to T. L. Beddoes, the poet, whose friend and executor Kelsall was (Beddoes' MSS. were given by Mr. Kelsall to Browning, by whom they were handed to Mr. Edmund Gosse to be used for his biography); and a Photograph from a picture of Beddoes, aged 23, presented to Robert Browning by Mr. Kelsall, with inscription by the former to that effect a parcel
- 231 KINGSLEY (Charles) A. L. s. 3 pp. 8vo, July 9, 1867, about an essay by Mr. Dowden on "Sordello."—KINGLAKE (A. W.) A. L. s. 3 pp. 8vo, Oct. 20, 1884.—TRENCH (Archbishop), Seven A. L. s. (9)

- 232 LANDOR (W. S.) Two A. L. (one signed, one with signature cut off) to Miss Barrett, October, 1844, and July, 1846, the first expressing his admiration for her poetry, and the second thanking her for her appreciation of his works, containing the following amusing excuse for not having written earlier :

The fact is I could not, by any exertion of ingenuity, decypher your signature. Do you write your name in such manner that nobody may attempt a forgery? There are higher and better things in which you ought to be content to be inimitable.

- 233 LANDOR (Walter Savage) Savonarola e il priore di San Marco, Auto. MS. in Italian, with signature and dedication, 4 pp. folio, and a copy of the Printed Pamphlet, Sep. 7, 1860 (2)

* * * This was the last of Landor's Imaginary Conversations : it is dedicated to Garibaldi, and was sold for the benefit of his soldiers wounded in the campaign of '59.

- 234 LANDOR (W. S.) Note Book : Auto Notes, about 30 pp. 4to, many on literary or autobiographical topics. Some of the opinions expressed are remarkable, e. g. :

We have had in England no poet comparable to Otway since his lamentable death.

The greatest works of genius are the oldest.

Two things ... are to be especially avoided ; namely to recommend a medicine and a wife, etc.

- 235 [LANDOR (W. S.)] Miss Rose Paynter (afterwards Lady Sawle), Album, with her auto. verses, and several short auto. poems or epigrams, over 150 lines in all, by W. S. Landor, 1840-56, bound in contemporary blue morocco, gold tooled * * * Landor made this young lady's acquaintance at Bath about 1840. She was a connection of the Aylmer family, and her lineage and Christian name revived memories of that Rose Aylmer to whom Landor had been tenderly attached more than forty years before. It was of her that he wrote that famous and exquisite elegy beginning "Ah, what avails the sceptred race," which it is said that Charles Lamb, drunk or sober, would always be repeating. In this volume there is another brief poem to her :

ROSA MAJOR, Oct. 1796.

She who inspires this verse shall be Unrivall'd evermore with me,
Until the happier one draws nigh
Who loves her half so well as I.

Hardly any one of the poems by Landor in this book is without some felicity of thought or expression. Among the best is the following :

I never thought to see thee end in blanks
So soon, O cherisht book !
Return to her who filled a few, with thanks
Upon thy saddened look.
Bid her, in these or other lands, be blest
With health and love and peace,
Devoting thus one vacant page, we rest,
For here our wishes cease.

May 1, 1841.

- 236 LANDOR (W. S.) Note Book, about 40 pp. 4to, containing Auto. notes on Campbell's "Gertrude of Wyoming," which he preferred to the "Faerie Queene," Dickens' "All the Year Round," the prospective secession of the Southern States of the U.S.A., 1861, etc.
- 237 LANDOR (W. S.) Another similar Note Book, over 70 pp. 4to, with notes on Macaulay, Washington Irving, who is called "the Addison of America," an epigram in Latin Alcaics on Charlotte Corday, criticisms of Shakespeare, Milton and Byron, a Latin epitaph on his dog Pomero, etc.
- 238 LANDOR (W. S.) Seventy-one A. L. s. to Browning, about 160 pp. 4to, 1840-64, a very interesting and important series, not only from a literary point of view, but also as throwing light on the intimate personal relations between the two poets. Landor was a great admirer of Browning's work, as Browning of his, and in a fragment of a letter of 1836 to some friend (included in this lot) he says that the author of "Paracelsus" is already a great poet, and will be among the greatest. Other letters contain verses to Mrs. Browning, an epitaph on himself as the poet of Rose Aylmer, fragments of an imaginary conversation between Abelard and Heloise, and much enthusiastic praise of Browning's poetry, which is, however, somewhat discounted by the writer's equal enthusiasm for the poems of Thomas Campbell and Mrs. Hemans. Some of the later letters, of which there are many written between Browning's departure from Florence after his wife's death in 1861 and Landor's death in 1864, contain pathetic accounts of the writer's infirmities (71)
- 239 LANDOR (W. S.) A. L. s. 1 p. 8vo, June 26, 1864 [dated by Browning], his last letter to Browning, written within three months of his death, which took place on Sep. 17, 1864:
- DEAR BROWNING
- It is now several weeks since I totally lost my voice and hearing. My last effort of writing is being made now, to thank you for your innumerable proofs of kindness, and to say that I have ever been most justly and affectionately
- Your obliged
- WALTER LANDOR.
- Need I tell you how how grateful I am to Mr. Twisleton?
- [See Illustration.]
- 240 LANDOR (W. S.) Various Auto. MSS. in prose and verse, some probably unpublished, about 40 pp. 8vo and 4to
- * * * Among these interesting MSS. are two brief sets of verses, first published by Sir Sidney Colvin in his monograph on Landor, on Giallo, the poet's dog, the successor of Pomero, given to him by W. W. Story, and the other to Ionè and Ianthè, addressed to two young ladies whom Landor knew when he lived in S. Wales about 1794-7, and whose names in everyday life were Jones and Jane (Swift, afterwards Countess Molande). Among the other MSS. are several Odes in Latin and English to Garibaldi (those in Latin

- were written in August, 1859, they are mentioned by Mrs. Browning, Letters II, p. 324), Prose Dialogues between Agatha and Theodore, and Emma and her Parents, A Dialogue in Verse between Diana and her Nymphs, Comments on his Trial for Libel in 1858, A Sicilian's Hymn to Proserpine, The Confession of a Pythagorean, An Ode to the Princess Belgiojoso, etc.
- 241 LANDOR (W. S.) A large number of Auto. Scraps in verse and prose, some in Latin, many of great interest, with photographs of Landor, a water-colour Sketch of one of his dogs, several copies of his Remarks on the Libel Action against him in 1858, printed Appeal to the Italian Supreme Court in the case between Landor and M. Antoir, his neighbour at Fiesole, presented to Browning, with inscription by him, etc.
- 242 LANDOR (W. S.) Auto. MSS. about 12 pp. folio and 4to, with several Auto. Scraps, including a Proclamation to the Sicilians; a Letter to Landor from his son Walter, with a pencil Sketch by him of Landor's villa; and a pencil Sketch of Llanthony Abbey, probably by Lady Sawle, for the name "Rose" is written beneath by Landor, etc.
- 243 LANDOR (W. S.) Lead for Casa Guidi Windows, Auto. Poem, 26 lines (one couplet written twice over), 1 p. 4to, signed in full and dated June 29, "in the morning before breakfast"; and an Auto. Couplet in Latin elegiacs on Italy, signed "W. Landor," Sep. 15, with auto. inscription by Browning "written impromptu on a book, it being too dark to see at the table," Siena, Sep. 15, '59, R. B.) (2)
- * * The "Lead for Casa Guidi Windows" is about Syracuse and Gariibaldi, and was no doubt written shortly after the latter's conquest of Sicily in 1860.
- 244 Landor (W. S.) Auto. MS. of his Sonnet to Robert Browning,  $\frac{1}{2}$  p. 4to
- * * This sonnet contains the lines:
- Since Chaucer was alive and hale
No man hath walked along our roads with step
So active, so enquiring eye, or tongue
So varied in discourse, etc.
- 245 [LANDOR (W. S.)] Thirty-one A. L. s. from Landor's niece, Miss Sophia Landor, and other members of his family, about Browning's care for the poet, business and family questions, the accounts kept for Landor by Browning, etc. (39)
- 246 LEIGHTON (Lord) Thirty-eight A. L. s., including one important Letter of 1862 about the monument over Mrs. Browning's grave, which the writer was designing; other later letters refer to Mr. Barrett Browning's pictures, the motto Browning wrote for Leighton's picture "Orpheus and Eurydice," "Balaustion's Adventure"; and a Letter from W. E. Gladstone, referring to Leighton, July 2, 1885 (39)

- 247 LETTERS of Congratulation on the marriage of Robert Browning and Miss Barrett, from R. H. Horne, Monckton Milnes (Lord Houghton), Mr. and Mrs. Basil Montagu.—KENYON (John) Seven A. L. s. to Browning, his father and his sister, one about the marriage (14)
- 248 LOCKER-LAMPSON (F.) Poet and Book Collector, Ten A. L. s., including one to Miss Browning, 1870-90; one an interesting Letter suggesting that Browning should write the life of his, Browning's, father, and speaking of the latter's love of old books and prints, of his drawings, etc.; one of the other Letters, of 1877, accompanies a Sonnet addressed by Lord Rosslyn to Browning (10)
- 249 LOWELL (J. R.) Ten A. L. s. 12 pp. 8vo and 4to, 1880-5, when the writer was American Minister in London; one about "How we brought the good news from Ghent to Aix"; another about a proposed copyright treaty between England and the U.S.A. (10)
- 250 LYTTON (Lord) Poet and Viceroy of India, about Fifty A. L. s. to Browning and Mrs. Browning, and some MS. Verses, many being interesting letters on literary subjects; with an A. L. s. 8 pp. 8vo from Mrs. Browning, Aug. 19, 1860, and one from Browning, 4 pp. 8vo, Aug. 20, to Lord Lytton, both criticising a volume of his poems a parcel
- * * Lord Lytton made the acquaintance of the Brownings when he was attached to the Legation at Florence in 1853, and soon became intimate with them. In 1859 he spent the summer with them at Bagni di Lucca, and was nursed by them through a severe illness. He remained a life-long friend of Browning.
- 251 MACREADY (W. C.) Twelve A. L. s. 1835-56, with one from Mr. William Archer, 1888, about Macready's biography (13)
- * * The earlier letters refer to "Paracelsus," "Strafford" (which Macready produced), a reading of Bulwer Lytton's play "Richelieu," etc.; a letter of 1852 thanks Browning warmly for condolences on the death of Mrs. Macready, and another of 1856 invites him and Mrs. Browning to Elstree. These two letters are of some importance in the biographies of the two men, as they show that though they did not meet till after Mrs. Browning's death, they were reconciled very much earlier. They had quarrelled in 1843 over Browning's play "A Blot in the Scutcheon."
- 252 MACREADY (W. C. junior) Four pencil Drawings to illustrate "The Pied Piper of Hamelin," and three to illustrate "Crescentius"; two A. L. s. 2 pp. 8vo, about the drawings, one dated May 18, 1842; and an Auto. Note by Miss Browning, which we quote in full, describing the circumstances under which the drawings were made and the poems written (7)
- In May, 1842, Macready's eldest little boy was confined to the house by a cough. To amuse him, Robert wrote two poems which the child was to illustrate—"Crescentius, the Pope's Legate," and the "Pied Piper." At first, there was no thought of publishing them, but I copied the "Pied Piper" and showed it to Alfred Domett, who was so much pleased with it that he persuaded Robert to include it in the forthcoming number of "Bells and Pomegranates."

"Crescentius" he did not publish till the last in "Asolando" [as "The Cardinal and the Dog."]

These are the boy's illustrations.

- 253 MARTIN (Lady, Helen Faucit) Twenty A. L. s. 1853-88, and three A. L. s. from Sir Theodore Martin; Lady Martin's first letter asks permission to produce "Colombe's Birthday," which was in fact first played in this year, with Lady Martin as the heroine; another letter describes a visit to Queen Victoria at Osborne, and there is a very long enthusiastic letter written after finishing "The Ring and the Book" (23)
- 254 MARTINEAU (Miss) Ten long Letters to Miss Barrett, on literary matters and referring to Wordsworth, etc.; with Letters from Rhoda Broughton, Adelaide Sartoris and other ladies, to Mrs. Browning or her husband (52)
- 255 MAZZINI (G.) A. L. s. 2 pp. 8vo, n. d., in Italian, saying he has read and re-read "The Italian in England."—ANDERSEN (Hans Christian) Four Lines of Verse, in Danish, copied out by Browning, and dated Rome, May 28, 1860.—GOBINEAU (Comte de) Author of "La Renaissance," and other works in which the ideas of Nietzsche are anticipated, MS. adaptation in French of Browning's Poem "Confessions"; and other Poems and Letters, in French, Italian or German (14)
- * * Browning probably met Hans Andersen at the Storys' in Rome. It is recorded that at a children's party at their house, the Palazzo Barberini, after Hans Andersen had read out his "Ugly Duckling," Browning followed with the "Pied Piper," and finally Story, playing on his flute, which passed for bagpipes, headed a grand march of the children. Hans Andersen, too, was a favourite of Mrs. Browning, and the subject of "The North and the South," the last poem she ever wrote.
- 256 MILSAND (J.) French Critic and Author, one of Browning's closest friends in middle life, his portrait is drawn in "Red Cotton Nightcap Country," and to him was dedicated "Parleyings with certain people of importance in their day," Sixty-six A. L. s. all in French, many on literary matters, some to Miss Browning (66)
- 257 MISCELLANEOUS, including Sir Henry Parkes, F. T. Palgrave, Mrs. Drew (daughter of Mr. Gladstone), James Knowles, Frances Power Cobbe, G. J. Holyoake, T. H. Huxley, and the Hon. Mary Boyle, the latter of whom was one of the Brownings' earliest friends in Florence a parcel
- 258 MORRIS (William) Three A. L. s. 9½ pp. 8vo, all appeals to sign protests or memorials of different kinds.—SHARP (William) (Fiona MacLeod), Biographer of Browning, Three A. L. s., two mentioning D. G. Rossetti.—ROSSETTI (Wm.) Six A. L. s., one to Mrs. Browning

- thanking her for sending him a copy of "Poems before Congress," others referring to the production of "Strafford" in 1886 and to some Shelley documents mentioned by Forster in his "Life of Landor"; etc. (14)
- 259 NOEL (The Hon. Roden) Six A. L. s. 15 pp. 8vo, 1885-6, one criticising the performance of "Strafford" in 1886, etc.—DE VERE (Aubrey) Seventeen A. L. s. and a Card, 20 pp. 8vo, 1857-75, interesting literary letters, one containing a detailed criticism of "Men and Women," another referring to Landor.—ROBINSON (Mary) Ten A. L. s. mostly on literary matters (33)
- 260 PEERS AND DIVINES. Lord Coleridge, L.C.J. (15), Lord Carnarvon (7), Lord Rosebery, Dean Farrar, Dean Milman, Canon MacColl, Dean Stanley, etc. (45)
- 261 POEMS by various hands, including a copy by Browning, dated Oct. 3, 1859, of Landor's verses to Mrs. Browning; Two Sonnets written by Miss Haworth "To the author of Paracelsus," copied out by Macready; Poems copied out by Miss Browning; etc. (22)
- 262 PROCTER (B. W.) Barry Cornwall, Thirty-seven A. L. s. 1837-69, with Eight A. L. s. from his wife, and one from his daughter Adelaide Procter, sending a transcript of some cancelled lines in Locksley Hall (46)
- * * * An interesting series of letters from one of the first of Browning's admirers. The earliest letter of the series thanks him for sending a book—presumably "Paracelsus." The later letters are full of news of Tennyson, Forster, Kenyon, and other friends. In one letter Procter says quaintly of "Aurora Leigh" that it is "a fine, manly poem."
- 263 PROUT (Father Francis Mahoney), Author of "The Bells of Shandon," Four A. L. s. 4½ pp. 4to (damaged), 1847-50, amusing, high-spirited Letters, giving glimpses of Dickens eating dinners in the Temple, Thackeray riding in the Park, Carlyle, Forster, Macready, etc. It may be mentioned that Father Prout met the Brownings at Leghorn in 1846, and cured Browning of fever at Florence in 1848 by a liberal dose of port wine and eggs.—KIRKUP (Seymour) Fifteen A. L. s. about 60 pp. 8vo, giving Browning the news of Florence in the sixties, speaking much of Landor and his family. There is a good deal of talk about spiritualism, in which Kirkup was a firm believer. He even attempted to convert Landor, and Browning had a very curious experience with a medium at his house (see Mrs. Orr, and Mrs. Browning's Letters, vol. II, p. 395). Kirkup is perhaps chiefly remembered as the discoverer of the portrait of Dante in the Bargello.—GOETHE (W. von) grandson of the poet, A. L. s. in German, 1 p. 8vo, Nov. 1850, written after spending two days with the Brownings at Florence (20)
- 264 PUBLISHERS, including Charles S. Francis (about the American issue of "Aurora Leigh"), Theodore Tilton, James T. Fields, Samuel Lucas, Baron Tauchnitz, C. Kegan Paul, and Chapman a parcel

- 265 RODIN (A.) A. L. s. 1 p. 8vo, Jan. 2, 1883, "Permettez moi de vous écrire pour vous exprimer combien je suis honoré de pouvoir donner quelques conseils de sculpture au fils du Grand Poète Anglais, etc."; a signed Photograph of his Bust of Victor Hugo; and another A. L. s. 1 p. 8vo, n. d. about the Bust (3)
- 266 ROSSETTI (D. G.) A. L. s. 4 pp. 8vo, Oct. 17, 1847, from 50, Charlotte St., Portland Place, with envelope
- * * * A LETTER OF EXCEPTIONAL LITERARY INTEREST, the first ever written by Rossetti to Browning, when the former was only 19 years of age, and A REMARKABLE MEMORIAL OF TWO GREAT POETS:
- It is now two or three months ago that I met, at the British Museum, with a poem published in 1833, entitled Pauline, a Fragment of a Confession, which elicited my warm admiration, and which, having failed in an attempt to procure a copy at the publishers, I have since transcribed. It seemed to me, in reading this beautiful composition, that it presents a noticeable analogy in style and feeling to your first acknowledged work, "Paracelsus"; so much so, indeed, as to induce a suspicion that it might actually be written by yourself, etc.
- [See Illustration.]
- 267 ROSSETTI (D. G.) Six A. L. s. 8 pp. 8vo (one to Mrs. Browning), all written during the Brownings' stay in London and Paris in 1855-6 (6)
- * * * One letter asks permission to bring his brother with him on Thursday evening; as the post-mark on the envelope is Sep. 26, this probably refers to the famous meeting on Sep. 27, when Tennyson read out "Maud." The other letters contain offers to send Page's portrait of Browning to the Royal Academy, and references to a proposed portrait of Miss Browning by Rossetti, and to an illustration for "Pippa Passes," by a lady pupil of Rossetti.
- 268 ROSSETTI (D. G.) A. L. s. 6 pp. 8vo, Feb. 6, 1856, a very interesting letter, speaking of "Men and Women," Ruskin and "Modern Painters," Carlyle, William Allingham, etc.
- * * * After criticising Page's portrait of Browning at some length, and referring to his own
- indifferent head from the same model (now looking down at me from the mantelpiece).
- the writer observes:
- After all, I am not sure whether one has not one's own view of a poet as much as of his poetry; is one much likelier to be pleased with a portrait of him than with an illustration to his works?
- 269 ROSSETTI (D. G.) Two A. L. s. 11½ pp. 8vo, April-May, 1856, interesting letters about the rejection of Page's portrait of Browning by the Academy, and speaking at some length of many important Pre-Raphaelite pictures exhibited at the Academy that year; he particularly praises W. L. Windus' "Burd Helen," Hughes' "Eve of St. Agnes," Millais' "Autumn Leaves" (now in the Public Gallery at Manchester), and Holman Hunt's "Scapegoat" is also mentioned. Further he quotes from vol. IV of "Modern Painters," and Ruskin's praise of "The Tomb at St. Praxeds."

- 270 ROSSETTI (D. G.) A. L. s. 5 pp. 8vo, Sep. 21, 1859, a letter of introduction presented by Burne-Jones, with envelope

* * * A very interesting letter, which begins :

You know my friend Edward Jones very well ; only, being modest, he insists that you do not know him well enough to warrant his calling on you in Florence ; and as this is to be one of the best of the many pleasures in his trip to Italy, I must even ensure it to him by this note, etc.

The writer also refers to Page, the American artist, and continues :

I have to thank Mrs. Browning most warmly for wonderful "Aurora Leigh !" I can recall my first feeling on reading that book, only as a sort of wonder that one should be able actually to know, as a person, the origin of so much that was new in the world, etc.

- 271 ROSSETTI (D. G.) A. L. s. 4 pp. 8vo, from 16, Cheyne Walk, n. d. ; but post-mark Jan. 14, 1863, about restoring Browning's pictures, and asking Browning to give him that "Helen" subject which he had mentioned to Leighton :

Pray do give it me if you don't want it ; and if you can increase the gift with the correct original passage relating the fact I will paint it forthwith, for I want to paint a life-size "Helen."

- 272 ROSSETTI (D. G.) Three A. L. s. 12 pp. 8vo, Jan. Feb. and March, 1869, all expressing the writer's admiration for "The Ring and the Book," SUPERB LETTERS OF GREAT LITERARY INTEREST (3)

* * * In the first letter Rossetti calls "Caponasacchi" :

The very greatest thing you have yet done !

In the second letter he says that "Pompilia" is :

As noble and lovely as "Caponasacchi," and what more can be said ?

While in the third letter, in which his enthusiasm culminates, he notices :

The serene splendour of the Pope's section.

which, he supposes,

Must be admitted as the grandest piece of sustained work in the whole cycle of your writings.

The details everywhere he finds "too right to be real," and thinks that if he were to follow in detail all the heartfelt beauties of Caponasacchi's narrative . . . there would be no end to my letter—only to your patience.

Even the lawyers he finds

Both admirable and astonishingly individual. And how intensely Italian is the humanity of "Dominus Hyacinthus." It quite recalls the domestic life of my childhood, passed wholly among Italians, though in England.

Finally, at the end of the third letter, he sums up the causes of his admiration in noble and eloquent phrases, concluding as follows :

And highest of all is the fact that it is to the inmost centre of the emotion that the mind reverts in closing the book, and finds itself still gazing with Caponasacchi on the "lady, tall, pale, beautiful, strange and sad," and still thrilling to those all-expressive words of his :—

"You see, we are

So very pitiable, she and I,

Who had conceivably been otherwise."

- 273 ROSSETTI (D. D.), Six A. L. s. 13½ pp. 8vo, 1863-72, thanking Browning for several of his works, including the "Selections," 1863, "Dramatis Personæ," 1864; "Balaustion's Adventure," "Prince Hohenstiel-Schwangau," 1871, and "Fifine at the Fair," 1872

* * Of the first of these he remarks:

Concerning this book, all your lieges of oldest standing will feel some pangs of selfishness. "Had I," each will say, "but had the doing of it." For not even the poking of one's own fire, perhaps, is so peculiarly unapproachable a privilege as the insight into one's own poet.

Of the "Dramatis Personæ" he praises especially "Rabbi Ben Ezra," "A Death in the Desert," and "Caliban upon Setebos."

- 274 ROSSETTI (D. G.) Seven A. L. s. 13 pp. 8vo, 1862-1871, and two from other members of his family, asking permission for Henry Wallis, painter of the "Death of Chatterton," to see Leigh Hunt's original bust of Shelley, which belonged to Browning, inviting him to contribute a poem to the "Fortnightly Review," to allow his name to appear on the committee of a subscription list for a testimonial to George Cruikshank, etc. (9)

- 275 RUSKIN (John) A. L. s. 12 pp. 8vo, Dec. 2, 1855, to Robert Browning, a most important and amusing letter, complaining of the obscurity of Browning's verse, and containing a detailed criticism of his poem "Popularity"

* * Ruskin treats the poem as he has done a famous passage from "Lycidas" in "Sesame and Lilies," analysing it line by line, almost word by word. The results are occasionally ludicrous, as in his comments on the last line of the poem:

"What porridge had John Keats?"

"Porridge is a Scotch dish, I believe; typical of bad fare. Do you mean that Keats had bad fare? But if he had—how was he kept safe to the world's end? [see stanza II of the poem], I don't understand at all!!!!!"

But the writer admits that he has found great things in Browning; and compares him to an Alpine glacier, bright and deep, but full of clefts.

- 276 RUSKIN (J.) A. L. s. 2 pp. 4to, Nov. 27, 1856, an important letter, beginning:

I think "Aurora Leigh" the greatest poem in the English Language, unsurpassed by anything but Shakespeare—not surpassed by Shakespeare's sonnets—and therefore the greatest poem in the language. I write this, you see, very deliberately, etc.

After making a few criticisms of details, he continues:

For the rest, I am entirely subdued—or raised—to be Mrs. Browning's very humble votary and servant; I feel, for the time, as if I could do nothing more in describing—or in saying anything—as if, indeed, nobody could say anything more now—without appearing to be saying something weak in thought and unmelodious in English, etc.

- 277 RUSKIN (J.) Twenty A. L. s. 36 pp. 8vo and 4to, 1856-1884, to Robert Browning, including interesting and characteristic letters on Art, Literature and Politics and Dante," to poems by William Morris, which the writer calls "most noble—very, very great indeed," presumably alluding to the "Defence of Guenevere," as the letter dates from the year of its publication, 1858. A letter of Nov. 17, 1861, condoles affectionately with Browning on the death of his wife, and speaks of the writer's own "established sense of unredeemable, unparalleled loss." In a letter of Jan. 28, 1865, he denounces with unconventional vigour what he calls "that poem of yours on table rapping," no doubt "Mr. Sludge the Medium." "I am violently grieved and angered (he says) by the abuse of a talent like yours on such a matter," etc. Another very remarkable letter is concerned with Browning's poem "The Lost Leader" and Shelley, for whom the writer expresses unmeasured contempt, asserting that "one might write Shelley by Shrewsbury clock." He gives two specimens of his powers in that direction, of which we quote the following, preserving the author's spelling:

It was a little lawny islet
By anemone and violet
Like mosaic-paven.
There sat a gentleman—flushed and shy—
And a girl with a corkscrew curl in her eye
On the grass, between—was a large eel-pie—
And a ham-bone—cleanly shaven,
And the gentleman asked—in accents mild—
"Was it quite enough soaked, before it was biled?"
And the lady replied—as she pulled a violet
Off the little lawny islet
"Didn't I tell you—Jane would spile it."

- 278 RUSKIN (J.) Thirteen A. L. s. 39 pp. 8vo and 4to, 1855-61, to Mrs. Browning, including some very interesting letters about the future of Italy, his own works, a visit to Miss Mitford, Robert Browning's poetry, Jane Austen's novels, the paintings of Paul Veronese and of Turner, Mrs. Browning's use of the English Language, etc. (15)

* * Throughout the letters he shows the most enthusiastic admiration for Mrs. Browning's genius as a writer, and great despondency about his own work. The last letter is dated May 13, 1861, and is accompanied by two notes in the handwriting of Mrs. Browning, probably first drafts of her answer.

- 279 SARGENT (John Singer) Photograph of a Picture by him of a Spanish Dancer, presented to Mr. R. B. Browning, with inscription by the artist

- 280 SMART (Christopher) 1722-71, Auto. MS. headed Psalm 131, translated by Sir Philip Sydney, 10 lines, 1 p. 4to; with printed receipt signed by Smart and dated by him June 8 (the year 1764 is printed), for 5/3 received from the Rev. Mr. Percy, being first payment for a new translation of the Psalms and a Set of Hymns

* * Smart's translation of the Psalms was published in 1765, his one poem, the "Song to David," first published two years earlier, and said to have been composed in a madhouse, being reprinted with them. The Rev. Mr. Percy was most probably the Bishop of Dromore and editor of the ballads.

It should be added that Browning was all his life an admirer of Smart's "Song to David"; perhaps he first heard of the poet through his translation of Horace, which Reuben Browning gave him, in 1824; at all events he refers to him in "Paracelsus" [Act I, l. 770-4], and one of the "Parleyings to certain people of importance in their day," published in 1887, is addressed to him.

- 281 SMART (Christopher) On Gratitude, to the memory of Mr. Seaton, Auto. MS. poem, 48 lines, 2 $\frac{1}{4}$  pp. 4to, signed in full \* \* Mr. Seaton was no doubt the Rev. Thomas Seaton, 1684-1741, founder of the Seatonian prize for sacred poetry at Cambridge, which was won by Smart in 1750, the first year it was offered.

- 282 STOWE (Mrs. Harriet Beecher) Author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," A. L. s. 10 pp. 8vo, Nov. 20, 1860, to Mrs. Browning, about a spiritualistic experience

- 283 SUMNER (Charles) Abolitionist, a Leaf from his Common-place Book, containing a quotation of 12 lines in his handwriting from "Casa Guidi Windows," with a note in the handwriting of Mrs. Browning.

- 284 SWINBURNE (A. C.) A. L. s. 3 pp. 8vo, June 7, 1869, with envelope, disclaiming any intention "to filch the office of Landor's biographer" from Forster

- 285 SWINBURNE (A. C.) A. L. s. 4 pp. 8vo, Feb. 25, 1875, with envelope, an interesting letter expressing the writer's gratification that Browning was pleased with the enthusiastic eulogy of his poems contained in Swinburne's preface to Chapman's works. After speaking at some length of the obscurity of Chapman's poems, the letter continues:

At nineteen I knew "Sordello" by heart from end to end—nay, I believe my blood is on your head and his, for I got "ploughed for Smalls" owing to my confining my study for the month previous to that in lieu of Euclid—and the hard hearts of examiners would not have accepted a declamation of Salinguerra's soliloquy as compensation for a sum in rule-of-three; etc.

- 286 SWINBURNE (A. C.) A. L. s. 2 $\frac{1}{2}$  pp. 8vo, Oct. 24, 1877, with envelope, thanking Browning for sending him his "Agamemnon," and praising the "fine scholarship and subtle dexterity of the version."

- 287 SWINBURNE (A. C.) A. L. s. 3 $\frac{1}{2}$  pp. 8vo, May 27, 1878, with envelope, thanking Browning for his "new book" (? La Saisiaz): he has been laid up with influenza and has been summoned to Paris by "My master Victor Hugo—and from him an invitation is to me a summons—to come and sit near him at the forthcoming Voltaire festival," etc. He hopes to send Browning shortly a new volume of his own poems.

- 288 SWINBURNE (A. C.) Three A. L. s. 11 $\frac{1}{2}$  pp. 8vo, Jan.-Feb. 1881, sending Browning a volume of his poems, and referring at considerable length and with great bitterness to the attack made on the writer by Professor F. J. Furnivall (3)

- 289 TENNYSON (A.) Four short A. L. s. to Mrs. Browning, all with envelopes, written during the Brownings' stay in London in 1852 (4)
- 290 TENNYSON (A.) A. L. s. 1½ pp. 8vo, n. d., a curious letter in the form of a dialogue between himself and his wife, who urges him to write to Mr. Browning:
 . . . he has given you a crown of violets.
H. : He is the greatest-brained poet in England. Violets fade; he has given me a crown of gold.
W. : Well, I meant the Troubadour crown of golden violets . . .
H. : Then I'll go up and smoke my pipe and write to him.
W. : You'll go up and concoct an imaginary letter over your pipe, which you'll never send.
H. : Yes, I will. I'll report our talk; etc.
- 291 TENNYSON (A.) A. L. s. 1 p. 8vo, Farringford, Oct. 11, 1865 :
 Very welcome is the nosegay [the selection from Browning's poems published this year in Moxon's Miniature Poets], not only for the love in the gift—which makes me, who am physically the most unbumptious of men and authors, proud—but also for its own very peculiar flowerage and fructification, for which I think I have as high a respect as any man in Britain. . . . My wife always remembers you—and another.
- 292 TENNYSON (A.) A. L. s. 1 p. 8vo, Aug. 1889, in answer to one from Browning congratulating him on his 80th birthday :
 I thank you with my whole heart and being for your noble and affectionate letter, and with my whole heart and being I return your friendship. To be loved and appreciated by so great and powerful a nature as yours will be a solace to me, and lighten my dark hours during the short time of life that is left to me.
 This fine letter is no doubt the last which passed between the poets.
 [See Illustration.]
- 293 TENNYSON (A.) Eleven short Letters, 1864-1880, and one to Mr. R. B. Browning, seven of them thanking Browning for gifts of his successive volumes of poetry as they appeared; in no case is any criticism of the poems attempted, but all the letters testify to the admiration and affection which Tennyson felt for Browning. In one of the other letters, dated Feb. 8, 1880, he expresses his gratification that he, "whom Professor Morley calls a born dramatist, should approve of my little play." The letter to Mr. R. B. Browning thanks him for sending "Asolando," "of course he would have given me his new volume had he lived."
- 294 TENNYSON (Lady) Eight A. L. s. 1865-89, one of the letters sympathizing with Browning about the unfortunate reference to his wife published in the Letters of Edward FitzGerald, 1889 (8)
- 295 TENNYSON (Lady) Six Letters to Mrs. Browning, 1852-57, with envelopes, all friendly letters, one long and interesting, about Tennyson's work; with a Note from Lord Tennyson to his caretaker, telling him to let the Brownings have his house, if not already let (7)

- 296 TENNYSON (Frederick) brother of the Laureate, Two A. L. s. 17 pp. 8vo, 1857, one a very long and rambling letter to Mrs. Browning about the climate of Jersey, Napoleon III and the number 666, spiritualism, his brother's "Idylls of the King," etc.
- 297 TENNYSON FAMILY. Ten Letters from the poet's sons and daughters-in-law (10)
- 298 THACKERAY (W. M.) A. L. 1 p. 8vo, Nov. 19, 1859, with envelope, a charming letter, which we quote in full:
- A friend of Robert Browning and Elizabeth Barrett, his wife, has agreed to become Editor of a Magazine <sup>wh</sup> is to appear with the New Year. He wishes to provide for the public as much amusement, as much instruction, as much knowledge, pleasure, poetry, pathos, fun, as can be procured for love or money. He has a great deal of the first and a liberal portion of the latter to offer to such contributors as R. and E. B. B. Have one or both of you a short poem <sup>wh</sup> you can give for an early number of the Cornhill Magazine?
- (Private). Two young ladies named Thackeray send very kind remembrances to the above-mentioned lady and gentleman.
- 299 THACKERAY (W. M.) A. L. s. 2 pp. 8vo, April 2, 1861, to Mrs. Browning, with envelope, explaining with great delicacy and consideration why he had been unable to use a poem by Mrs. Browning in the Cornhill Magazine:
- . . . . You see that our Magazine is written not only for men and women, but for boys, girls, infants, sucklings almost; and one of the best wives, mothers, women in the world writes some verses, <sup>wh</sup> I feel certain would be objected to by many of our readers . . . there are things my squeamish public will not hear on Mondays, though on Sundays they listen to them without scruple. . . . To have to say No to my betters is one of the hardest duties I have—but I'm sure we must not publish your verses—and I go down on my knees before cutting my victim's head off, and say, "Madam, you know how I respect and regard you, Browning's wife and Peniny's mother: and for what I am going to do, I most humbly ask your pardon."
- The poem in question was "Lord Walter's Wife." Both these letters are printed in the Letters of E. B. Browning, vol. II, pp. 444-6.
- 300 TROLLOPE (ANTHONY) A. L. s.  $\frac{1}{2}$  p. 8vo, Oct. 13, 1882, inviting Browning to dine at the Garrick Club; with a Note by Browning stating that Trollope "was taken ill the day after the dinner, and died some weeks after!"
- 301 WIEDEMANN (William), father of Sarah Anna Wiedemann, Browning's mother. Eight Pen-and-ink Drawings, viz. three shields, one containing the signature of the poet's mother; another, that of his aunt, Christiana Wiedemann (afterwards Silverthorne, who paid for the publication of "Pauline," 1833; mother of James Silverthorne), all authenticated by inscriptions by Browning, Oct. 1884; four architectural drawings (damaged), copied from line engravings, three similarly authenticated, the other with inscription by Miss Browning; and a text, also authenticated by Miss Browning (8)

- 302 WILLIAMS (Rev. J. D., Vicar of Bottisham, nr. Cambridge) Upwards of Fifty A. L. s., 1876-89, many referring to English or classical literature.—WEDGWOOD (Julia) A large packet of Letters, some on literary topics, referring to Landor, Lord Houghton, etc.
- 303 WOOLNER (Thomas), the pre-Raphaelite sculptor, Twelve A. L. s. 15½ pp. 8vo, including one long letter to Mrs. Browning expressing the writer's enthusiastic admiration for "Aurora Leigh," which, he says, is shared by the Tennysons and the Rossettis; the writer also refers to his portrait bust of Tennyson, to Ruskin, Carlyle, Patmore, etc. One amusing letter contains a newspaper cutting describing the arrest and punishment of "an eccentric man called Robert Browning" for disorderly conduct; another letter thanks the poet for the verses he wrote for Woolner's group "Deaf and Dumb" (12)
- 304 WORDSWORTH (William) A. L. s. to John Kenyon; A. L. s. to Miss Barrett, in all 5 pp. 8vo, 1842-44; and a portion of an Auto. Account by her of an interview with Wordsworth, 2 pp. 4to
- * * * One of the letters to Miss Barrett is that which is printed in the Letters of Mrs. Browning (vol. I, p. 113), referring to her sonnet: "On a portrait of Wordsworth by B. R. Haydon." Writing to H. S. Boyd, she said of it:
- King John's barons were never better pleased with their Charta than I am with this letter.
- Her Auto. MS. of the Sonnet is also included in the Lot.

- II. No person to advance less than 1s.; above five pounds 2s. 6d.; and so on in proportion.
- III. All lots are sold subject to the right to impose a reserve; and subject to the right to bid by or on behalf of the seller.
- IV. The purchasers to give in their names and places of abode, and to pay down 10s. in the pound, if required, in part payment of the purchase-money, in default of which the lot or lots purchased will be immediately put up again and re-sold.
- V. The lots to be taken away, at the buyer's expense, immediately after the conclusion of the sale; in default of which Messrs. SOTHEY, WILKINSON & HODGE will not hold themselves responsible if lost, stolen, damaged or otherwise destroyed, but they will be left at the sole risk of the purchaser. If, at the expiration of ONE WEEK after the conclusion of the sale, the books or other property are not cleared or paid for, they will then be catalogued for immediate sale, and the expenses, the same as if re-sold, will be added to the amount at which the books were bought. Messrs. SOTHEY, WILKINSON & HODGE will have the option of re-selling the lots uncleared, either by public or private sale, without any notice being given to the defaulter.
- VI. All the books are presumed to be perfect, unless otherwise expressed; but if, upon collating, any should prove defective, the purchaser will be at liberty to take or reject them, provided they are returned within TEN DAYS after the conclusion of the sale, when the purchase-money will be returned.
- VII. The sale of any book or books is not to be set aside on account of any worm-holes, stained or short leaves of text or plates, want of list of plates or blank leaves, or on account of the publication of any subsequent volume, supplement, appendix, or plates. All the manuscripts, autographs, all magazines and reviews, all books in lots, and all tracts in lots or volumes, will be sold with all faults, imperfections and errors of description. The sale of any illustrated book, lot of prints or drawings, is not to be set aside on account of any error in the enumeration of the numbers stated, or error of description.
- VIII. No Imperfect Book will be taken back, unless a note accompanies each book, stating its imperfections, with the number of lot and date of the sale at which the same was purchased.
- IX. To prevent inaccuracy in the delivery, and inconvenience in the settlement of the purchases, no lot can on any account be removed during the time of sale.
- X. Upon failure of complying with the above conditions, the money required and deposited in part of payment shall be forfeited; and if any loss is sustained in the re-selling of such lots as are not cleared or paid for, all charges on such re-sale shall be made good by the defaulters at this sale.

* * * PROBABLY THE MOST INTERESTING COPY OF THE BOOK IN EXISTENCE, being the presentation copy to Robert Browning, who has written his name on the half-title, above an inscription by the authoress :

from Elizabeth B. B.
*Faccia opra di se degne in chiara luce,
 E rimirando Te maestro e duce.*

TASSO.

On one of the fly-leaves is pasted a drawing in pen-and-ink by Mrs. Browning, with an inscription by her below :

1860. Oct. 7—Villa Alberti.

Siena—My fig tree—E. B. B.

and another by her husband :

Drawn the last time she ever sat under it. We left, the next day. R. B.

Two different Photographs of Mrs. Browning—the last ever taken—each with inscription by Robert Browning beneath “Rome, May 27, 1861,” are inserted at the beginning and end of the text

On the back of the last page of text is pasted a pencilled plan, with the following note beneath :

This plan was made on the spot by Ba [Mrs. Browning], shortly before we left Rome, of the Apartment in the Palazzo Barberini for which we were in negotiation up to the last. We would have taken it for “five or six years.” She spoke anxiously about it this day last month.

Alone, Casa Guidi, July 28, '61. R. B.

On the opposite page are two other remarkable Notes by Robert Browning :

Note. Tuesday, July 21, 1863. Arabel [Mrs. Browning's sister] told me yesterday that she had been much agitated by a dream which happened the night before, Sunday, July 19: she saw Her and asked “When shall I be with you?” The reply was “Dearest, in five years”: whereupon Arabel woke. She knew in her dream that it was not to the living she spoke—and her question referred to her own death.

R. B.

(Arabel died in my arms yesterday a little before 12 o'clock: R. B. Friday, June 12, 1868).

(Arabel was born July 4th, 1813).

On the last leaf of the book is a copy in Browning's writing of the inscription placed on Casa Guidi :

Qui scrisse e morì—Elisabetta Barrett Browning—che in cuore di donna conciliava—scienza di dotto e spirito di Poeta—e fece del suo verso aureo anello—fra Italia ed Inghilterra—Pose questa memoria—Firenze grata—1861.

The book is wrapped in paper on which is written by Miss Browning a description of the contents, which does not however tally exactly with what is at present in the book.

- 816 [LANDOR, W. S.] Gebir; a Poem, in Seven Books, FIRST EDITION, a few stains, otherwise a very fine and clean copy, uncut, in the original paper covers, scarce sold by Rivington's, St. Paul's Church-yard, 1798
- * * * PRESENTATION COPY, with autograph inscription by the author, "Walter Savage Landor to his friend Robert Browning, a mark of admiration for his genius and his virtues"; the place and date are added by Browning, "Florence, July 13, '59." The date is significant, for it was in the first week of this month that Landor finally quarrelled with his family, left the villa at Fiesole, and took refuge in an hotel on the Arno with eighteenpence in his pocket—and perhaps this book as well; for it appears from a letter written by Browning to W. W. Story on July 28 that the bulk of his clothes, books, plate, pictures, etc. had not then been sent from the villa. From this time till his death Landor was under Browning's guardianship.
- 817 LANDOR (W. S.) GEBIR; a Poem, in Seven Books, FIRST EDITION, with inscription on verso of title, "Walter Savage Landor, to his kind and truly noble friend Edw. Twistleton, May 11, 1803," in the autograph of the author, original wrappers sm. 8vo. 1798
- 818 LANDOR (SAVAGIUS) Gebirus, Poema, some leaves stained, two pages at the beginning and one at the end appear to have been removed, original boards, rough edges, uncut Oxonii, 1803
- * * * AUTHOR'S OWN COPY, presented to Browning, with autograph inscription by the latter, and very numerous autograph corrections and additions to the text by Landor, slips with additional verses inserted, etc. This Latin translation was prepared at the instigation of the writer's brother Robert, and was intended to help the piece into popularity.
- 819 Landor (W. S.) Gebir, Count Julian and other Poems, proofs with numerous corrections in the autograph of the author, and inside cover the signature "W. S. Landor," to which Robert Browning has added "To R. B." sm. 8vo. 1831
- 820 Landor (W. S.) Gebir, Count Julian and other Poems, with autograph signature of "E. B. Barrett" on title, calf sm. 8vo. 1831

4to. Warwick, printed by H. Sharpe, High-Street; and sold by Messrs. Rivingtons, St. Paul's Church Yard, London, 1800

* * * AUTHOR'S OWN COPY, with autograph note added in old age on the first page: "I wrote these poems after reading what has been translated from the Arabic and Persian by Sir W. Jones and Dr. Nott." In his preface Landor claims to have followed a French version of the poems, but neither translation nor originals are known to exist. EXTREMELY RARE.

- 822 [Landor (W. S.)] Poems from the Arabic and Persian, with Notes by the Author of Gebir, with inscription on half-title in the autograph of the author, "I wrote these Imitations after reading what poems of Hafiz have been translated from the Arabic and Persian by Sir W. Jones and Dr. Nott. W. S. L." 4to. Warwick, 1800

* * * Miss Browning was as constant and tireless a companion to her poet-brother as was Dorothy Wordsworth to hers; and cheerfully accepted such primitive accommodation as happened to satisfy his taste. Thus at St. Pierre de Chartreuse, their place of sojourn in 1881 and 1882, the "hotel" was "the roughest inn, and its arrangements the most primitive I have yet chanced upon, but my sister bears them bravely."—(Griffin and Minchin's "Life of Browning," Methuen, 1911).

* * * BROWNING'S OWN COPY, WITH AUTOGRAPH INSCRIPTION:

This book was given to me—probably as soon as published, by my cousin J. S. [James Silverthorne]: the foolish markings and still more foolish scribbings show the impression made on a boy by this first specimen of Shelley's poetry.

ROBERT BROWNING,

June 2, 1878.

"O World, O Life, O Time."

Apparently after this was written Browning repented of the "foolish scribbings," for nearly all of them have been scribbled over, scratched out with a knife, or cut out, hence the defects in the volume. There remain a few corrections of titles and the epithet splendid applied to the Hymn of Apollo. The "foolish scribbings" are signs of appreciation; they are given most generously to the poem To Night, to the Lines to an Indian Air, to the Stanzas Written in Dejection, near Naples, and to the Hymn of Pan.

Professor Griffin states that Browning first became acquainted with Shelley's work "at the end of his sixteenth year," i.e., in March or April, 1828, through reading a pirated copy of Queen Mab. But if Browning's memory did not fail him, it was this book which first introduced him to the poetry which was to exercise such a profound influence on his own work. Perhaps, however, he first became acquainted with Shelley's philosophy through Queen Mab, for the present volume contains for the most part only the shorter lyrics.

It may be added that James Silverthorne, with his two brothers, John and George, were Browning's chief companions in his early years. James was one of the two witnesses at Browning's marriage (the other being Wilson, Mrs. Browning's maid), and his death in 1852 is commemorated by the touching lines May and Death.

- II. No person to advance less than 1s. ; above five pounds 2s. 6d., and so on in proportion.
- III. In the case of lots upon which there is a reserve, the auctioneer shall have the right to bid on behalf of the seller.
- IV. The purchasers to give in their names and places of abode, and to pay down 10s. in the pound, if required, in part payment of the purchase-money ; in default of which the lot or lots purchased will be immediately put up again and re-sold.
- V. The sale of any lot is not to be set aside on account of any error in the enumeration of the numbers stated, or errors of description.
- VI. The lots to be taken away, at the buyer's expense, immediately after the conclusion of the sale ; in default of which Messrs. SOTHEBY, WILKINSON & HODGE will not hold themselves responsible if lost, stolen, damaged, or otherwise destroyed, but they will be left at the sole risk of the purchaser. If, at the expiration of Two Days after the conclusion of the sale, the lots are not cleared or paid for, they will then be catalogued for immediate sale, and the expense, the same as if re-sold, will be added to the amount at which they were bought. Messrs. SOTHEBY, WILKINSON & HODGE will have the option of re-selling the lots uncleared, either by public or private sale, without any notice being given to the defaulter.
- VII. Upon failure of complying with the above conditions, the money required and deposited in part of payment shall be forfeited, and if any loss is sustained in the re-selling of such lots as are not cleared or paid for, all charges on such re-sale shall be made good by the defaulters at this sale.

The Browning Collections.

SIXTH DAY'S SALE.

WORKS OF ART.

LOT 1235.

EARLY Photograph on tin of Robert Browning, partly coloured by hand, 2 in. by 1½ in., in papier-maché frame

* * This is probably the earliest portrait of the Poet; it was reproduced (enlarged but reversed) in 1844 (in R. H. Horne's "New Spirit of the Age"), and often since. Mrs. Browning speaks disparagingly of the reproduction in her letters.

- 1236 Photograph of a Picture by R. W. B. Browning, representing a nude woman lying on a tiger-skin couch, with inscription underneath in pencil by his father, the Poet, "Induitur formosa est, exuitur, ipsa forma est."—Mercerus et Aristaeneto.
- 1237 Water-colour Drawing of the Browning arms, crest, and motto Virtute; and another (2)
- 1238 Zobel—Picture, in marble dust, of two dogs; framed
- 1239 Two Photographs in a shield-shaped frame; one of Hope End, Herefordshire, Mrs. Browning's early home; the other of her tomb in Florence

CHINA AND POTTERY.

The following Nine Lots are believed all to have been the Property of MRS. BROWNING.

- 1240 A Venice Cream Jug and Cover, with blue and gilt scale pattern and floral sprays ; and a Venice Tea Pot and Cover, with detached sprigs of flowers (4)
- 1241 An Old English Miniature Set of Tea Pot and Cover, Sucrier and Cover, and Cream Jug (5)
- 1242 An Oriental Mug, with encarpa of flowers round the rim, a vase of flowers and detached sprigs on the sides, and double interlaced handle (1)
- 1243 An Imari Tea Pot and Cover, with key pattern in relief round the rims and vertically-fluted sides (2)
- 1244 A Venice Cup and Saucer, with floral monogram G.B. under a wreath, and detached spring (2)
- 1245 A Berlin Trembleuse Cup and Saucer, with floral initial B, detached sprigs of flowers, and ribbon pattern in relief terminating in a knot handle ; and a Doccia Saucer with floral initial B. (3)
- 1246 A pair of Venice Cups and Saucers, with lake and gilt borders, and painted with fruit (4)
- 1247 A Venice Cup and Saucer, with scrolls and medallions ; and an Ironstone China Jug, the latter used regularly by Mrs. Browning at Casa Guidi (3)
- 1248 A small Derby Basket, with pierced lid of mayflower pattern, the sides with painted roses on a blue ground (2)
- * * * This basket is figured on the side table in the drawing-room at Casa Guidi.
[See Frontispiece.]
- 1249 A small Oriental Dish, in enamel colours, mounted as a tazza ; and a blue and white Oriental Dish, mounted as a basket. Both of these belonged to Robert Browning (2)
- 1250 A mother-o'-pearl Tea Caddy, finely engraved with landscape and panels of birds or flowers, 2 compartments, fitted with lock and key. This belonged to Mrs. Browning

- 1251 Three small rose-wood Boxes, inlaid with engraved ivory, and ivory knobs on the lids. These belonged to Robert Browning (3)
- 1252 A rose-wood Box, brass mounted; and a small engraved wood Box from St. Moritz, with inscription inside the lid: "Presented to Mr. Robert Browning by Lord Houghton's Sister, August 1887" (2)
- 1253 An oak Stationery Cabinet
- * * This is from the table in the Poet's study at Warwick Crescent, and was constantly in use by Mr. Browning. It is shown in the drawing of the study at 19, De Vere Gardens, by Felix Moscheles, which is reproduced in Mrs. Orr's Life (ed. 1891).
- 1254 A walnut Inkstand, with large cut-glass ink bottle. This belonged to Robert Browning
- 1255 A Box containing one hundred Plaster Casts of Antique Gems, in five compartments. These belonged to Robert Browning
- 1256 Two small carved Wood Panels, with figures of Dryades; and a carved wood gilt Shield of Arms of Pope Clement XIII, from the Rezzonico Palace where the Poet died (3)
- 1257 The Mitre Box of Pope Clement XIII (Rezzonico), red morocco, gold tooled, with coat of arms on the cover

- * * The bust of Robert Browning was done in Rome in 1861, and Mrs. Browning speaks of it in her letters as being "likely to be a success." The companion bust was done very shortly after her death, and both were subsequently executed in marble for Mr. George Moulton Barrett, who presented them to his nephew, Mr. R. W. B. Browning.

The bust of Mrs. Browning is reproduced as the frontispiece to vol. I of her Letters

[See Illustration.]

- 1262 MUNRO, ALEXANDER. Marble Bust of Robert Barrett Browning, when a child, on circular socle, 21½ in. high; and a Letter from the artist about the same, Jan. 1860
- * * * Mentioned by Mrs. Browning in a letter to her sister-in-law about November, 1858; she says that it "is exquisite in the clay, and will be exhibited in London in the marble next May. The likeness, the poetry, the ideal grace and infantile reality are all there." ("Letters" II, 294.)
- 1263 BROWNING (R. B.) "Hope," Bust in Marble of a Young Woman with Upturned Face, illustrating the lines from "Pictor Ignotus":
- . . . Hope rose at once in all the blood
A-tiptoe for the blessing of embrace.

 * * It may be mentioned that Mr. R. Barrett Browning was for some months a pupil of Rodin ; cf. the latter's letter to Robert Browning. (Lot 265.)

[See Illustration.]

The following Ten Lots all belonged to Robert Browning.

- 1275 A bronze Statuette of Pegasus, on marble socle. From the mantelpiece in the Poet's study at De Vere Gardens
- 1276 A pair of bronze Tripod Candlesticks, the feet formed by Leopards with tails coiled round the shafts, rams' heads round the tops of the shafts. Also from the study mantelpiece at De Vere Gardens (2)
- 1277 A pair of bronze Pillar Candlesticks, with ornamental design in relief
- 1278 A bronze Spill Vase, with relief design of Convolvuli, and two medallions on the sides
- 1279 A bronze Figure of Ariadne, reclining on a couch
- 1280 Three small Bronzes—A Lizard, a Tortoise, and a Crab (3)
- 1281 Three bronze Bedroom Candlesticks, and a Taper Stand (4)
- 1282 A bronze Inkstand, shaped as a stout man at sword play, the body forming the cover to the ink-well and the head a stopper for the sand box ; and another, shaped as a vase in a circular stand. From the dining-room at De Vere Gardens (2)
- 1283 Two small bronze Vases, and a brass Inkstand, the lid shaped as an owl's head with glass eyes (3)
- 1284 A bronze Vase, with swing handle ; Taper Stand ; Models of a Human Hand, a Fowl's Foot, a Sword ; and an electro Plaque of the Apotheosis of Homer (6)

- 1285 A pair of gilt brass Gondola Lamps, mounted on red plush brackets (2)
- 1286 A Louis XIV buhl and bronze Bracket Clock, with figures of Phaeton driving the chariot of the Sun in front, and Time on top ; 41½ in. high. This belonged to Robert Browning (1)
- 1287 A pair of carved wood tripod Vase Stands, the legs ornamented with scrolls, the shafts as children standing against tree trunks which support the flower-shaped cups. From De Vere Gardens (2)
- 1288 A pair of carved wood Vase Stands, on four claw feet, the shafts as boys holding on their shoulders baskets, 55 in. high. From De Vere Gardens (2)
- 1289 A pair of carved wood Statues of Women, old Venetian work, 40 in. high (2)
- 1290 An old German wood carving of the Entombment, 10½ in. high by 17½ in. wide. From the mantelpiece in the Poet's study at De Vere Gardens (1)

The Collection of Oriental Arms comprised in the following Ten Lots was bequeathed to Robert Browning by his friend Ernest Benzon, and is described in "A Forgiveness," 1876.

I think there never was such—how express?—
 Horror coquetting with voluptuousness,
 As in those arms of Eastern workmanship—
 Yataghan, Kandjar, things that rend and rip,
 Gash rough, slash smooth, help fate so many ways,
 Yet ever keep a beauty that betrays
 Love still at work with the artificer
 Throughout his quaint devising, etc.

- 1291 An Oriental flint-lock Pistol, damascened in gold on barrel and stock (1)
- 1292 Two Oriental flint-lock Pistols, the barrels and stocks ornamented in silver (2)
- 1293 A long-barrelled European flint-lock Pistol with carved stock, chiselled lock and gilt bronze mounts ; and a pair of Italian flint-lock Pistols (3)
- 1294 An Indian Dagger, damascened blade, with ivory grip damascened and jewelled ; velvet Scabbard, silver-mounted (2)
- 1295 Two Indian Daggers with damascened blades, ivory grips with damascened bosses ; and velvet Scabbards with damascened mounts (4)
- 1296 An Indian CHILANUM with double curved blade ; a Dagger with ivory grip, the blade and mounts damascened, with Scabbard (3)

- 1297 A Sind PESHKABZ, with green jade hilt carved as a bird pecking at fruit ; in Scabbard, with gilt copper mounts (2)

* * The hilt of the writer's favourite weapon, described in "A Forgiveness," is taken from this ; the blade with its " mazy lines meandering " is from one of the other daggers :

And mark the handle's dim pellucid green
Carved, the hard jadestone, as you pinch a bean,
Into a sort of parrot-bird ! He pecks
A grape-bunch ; his two eyes are ruby-specks
Pure from the mine ; seen this way,—glassy blank,
But turn them,—lo the inmost fire, that shrank
From sparkling, sends a red dart right to aim !

- 1298 A Nepalese KUKRI, with double fluted and engraved blade, hilt inlaid with mother-o'-pearl ; another, with ivory hilt ; and another ; all with Scabbards (6)
- 1299 An Indian Spear Head, with haft pierced as animals supporting an umbrella ; and two Knives, all with Sheaths (6)
- 1300 A Dagger, with ivory blade, carved bone grip ; a Skien Dhu ; and three others, three with Sheaths (8)

- 1301 Two Hunting Swords ; and a Cutlass, two with Scabbards (5)

- 1302 Three Spanish Clasp Knives, two with bone and pearl inlaid handles (3)

- 1303 A bracket Clock, by Bates, of Huddersfield, in rose-wood brass-mounted case. This belonged to Robert Browning (1)

- 1304 A mahogany pedestal Writing Table, with inlaid leather top, each pedestal fitted with three drawers on one side and a cupboard on the other, and six other drawers below the top, 31 in. high by 5 ft. by 3 ft. 3 in. (1)

* * The Poet's writing table from his study at Warwick Crescent and De Vere Gardens. Shown in the drawing by Felix Moscheles.

- 1305 A carved wood Italian Eseritoire, with folding top and fall-down front, inside fitted with three drawers, three drawers in the knee-hole and three others at each side, all the fronts carved, 3 ft. 6 in. high by 4 ft. by 2 ft. 1½ in. From Casa Guidi (1)

- 1306 An Italian ebonized Table, with inlaid ebony and ivory top, spirally fluted legs, 2 ft. 3 in. high by 3 ft. 7 in. by 2 ft. 4 in. From Casa Guidi (1)

[See Frontispiece.]

- 1307 Another Table, en suite with the foregoing. From Casa Guidi (1)

[See Frontispiece.]

- 1308 A North Italian walnut marquetry topped Table, with ebonized spirally fluted legs, 2 ft. 4 in. high by 4 ft. 1 in. by 2 ft. 1 in. From Casa Guidi (1)
- 1309 A North Italian walnut Table, with marquetry shaped top and bowed legs, 2 ft. 5 in. high by 3 ft. 6½ in. by 2 ft. 4 in. From Casa Guidi (1)
[See Frontispiece.]
- 1310 A mahogany Writing Table, the centre of the top opening and forming a writing slant, turned legs and stretchers, fitted with one drawer, 2 ft. 3½ in. high by 2 ft. 5 in. by 17¾ in. (1)
* * This was used by Mrs. E. B. Browning, and stood in the drawing-room at Casa Guidi; and on it she is said to have written "Aurora Leigh."
[See Frontispiece.]
- 1311 A lady's maple-wood Work Table, with centre pedestal, on four feet, the top painted with a landscape in oils and ornamental corner pieces, fitted with one drawer, 25 in. high by 21¾ in. by 15¾ in. (1)
* * This was Mrs. E. B. Browning's work table, and is figured in the drawing-room at Casa Guidi. It also stood in Robert Browning's study at his two London houses, and is shown in the drawing by Felix Moscheles.
[See Frontispiece.]
- 1312 A large carved wood gilt Mirror, the frame of scroll design, with two amorini at the sides, each supporting two candle branches, 4 ft. 8 in. high by 4 ft. 2 in. wide. This hung on the wall of the drawing-room at Casa Guidi (1)
[See Frontispiece.]
- 1313 A high-backed walnut-wood Chair, with open back of marquetry work, carved bowed legs and shaped stretchers, green plush seat
* * From the Poet's study at Warwick Crescent
- 1314 A mahogany Arm Chair, open-work back, the back, arms and bowed legs carved, claw and ball feet, cane seat, with silver monogram "R. B." let into the back * * From the Poet's study at Warwick Crescent.
- 1315 A folding deck Arm Chair, with plain slats
* * This is Mrs. Browning's chair from Casa Guidi; shown in the drawing-room.
[See Frontispiece.]
- 1316 A mahogany box Writing Desk, brass bound with corners and centre plate inscribed "Browning"
* * This was the desk used by the Poet at Warwick Crescent; many of his poems were written on it.

- 1317 BROWNING (E. B.) WRITING CASE, with sloping lid, in dark blue leather, tooled with gold, containing her bead-work Purse, a Box with quill nibs, a miniature Portrait of Napoleon III at the back of a penwiper, two small Inkstands, and three numbers of the Italian newspaper "La Nazione," dated June 30, July 1 and 2, 1861

* * Mrs. Browning died on June 29, 1861, and her writing desk must be almost as she left it. Lady Ritchie speaks of her quill-nibbed pens, in her "Recollections of Tennyson, Ruskin, Browning," p. 162. The three Italian newspapers recall Mrs. Browning's passionate interest in the cause of Italian freedom. It is said that the last things she read were the Italian newspapers, and her own life was perhaps shortened by her grief for the death of Cavour, which took place on June 6. "La Nazione" was the paper she always read, and no doubt the newsagent continued to send it when it was no longer needed.

[See Frontispiece.]

- 1318 An ivory Paper Knife, silver-mounted. The knife in ordinary use by the Poet in both his London houses

- 1319 A large ivory Paper Knife, with rough tusk handle; and another, in tortoiseshell, with silver handle. The first of these belonged to Robert Browning, the second to his son (2)

- 1320 Four gilt terra-cotta Plaques, oval, with busts in high relief representing The Seasons,  $17\frac{1}{2}$  in. high by 13 in. From De Vere Gardens (4)

* * "Another acquisition, made only a few months before he left for London for the last time, was that of a set of casts representing The Seasons, which were to stand at intervals on brackets in a certain unsightly space on his drawing-room wall; and he had said of these, which I think his son was procuring for him, 'Only my four little heads, and then I shall not buy another thing for the house,' in a tone of child-like satisfaction at his completed work." —(Mrs. Orr, 1908 edition, p. 377.)

- 1321 Two small Busts of a Man and a Woman, in circular ebonized and gilt frames, 14 in. diam. From the wall of the drawing-room at Casa Guidi; they were greatly admired by Ruskin (2)

[See Frontispiece.]

- 1322 A marble cameo Head of Franklin, on oval base,  $13\frac{3}{8}$  in. by 10 in. From Casa Guidi

- 1323 A marble cameo Head of a Nun, circular base,  $11\frac{1}{4}$  in. diam. From Casa Guidi

- 1324 A pair of Venetian carved wood Statues,  $25\frac{1}{2}$  in. high. From the Palazzo Rezzonico (2)

- 1359 Asparagus Tongs ; and two pairs of Nutcrackers (3)
- 1360 Two Pickle Forks with the Browning crest ; two Dessert Forks, King's pattern ; and Sugar Tongs with monogram R. B. B. (5)
- 1361 Two Gravy Ladles, beaded edges, with the Browning crest ; and an oval Salver with reeded rim (3)
- 1362 An American Drink Mixer, a cylindrical Box, a small Tray, an Extinguisher ; and a Bottle Top (5)
- 1363 The Poet's favourite Paper Knife, bronze, the handle formed as the Venus de Milo. Given to him by his great friend M. Joseph Milsand
- 1364 Two Crown Pieces of William III ; one engraved Tho. Browning, Dec. 26th, 1793, and R. B., and the other Mrs. Sarah Mill, 31 Augt. 1791, and R. B. ; and a Sodality Medal of Clement XIII, 1761 (3)
- 1365 An 18-carat gold Watch, engraved with the Browning crest, and fetter-pattern gold Albert, with gold telescope Pencil, a small gold Signet Ring engraved A. E. I., and a coin attached. This was the Poet's watch and chain (5)

* * * The ring and coin are mentioned in an article by Mrs. Bronson which appeared in the Cornhill Magazine, 1901 : "He [Robert

Browning] wore a small gold ring on his watch-chain. 'This was hers' he said. 'Can you fancy that tiny finger? Can you believe that a woman could wear such a circlet as this? It is a child's.' The only other souvenir on his chain was a coin placed there years ago, the date 1848, a piece of the first money struck by Manin in Venice to record the freedom from Austrian dominion. "I love this coin," he said, "as she would have loved it. You know what she felt and wrote about United Italy." The lot is accompanied by an A. L. s., 1 p. 8vo, from Mrs. Browning to Miss Blagden, thanking her for the gift of the ring.

- 1366 A pair of oval gold Cuff Links, engraved with initials R. B. Worn by the Poet and his father

* * A curious anecdote is told by Mrs. Orr about a pair of Browning's sleeve links, whether these or others cannot be determined (ed. 1908, p. 213).

- 1367 A gold Finger Ring, with octagonal setting of the Browning crest in intaglio

* * This was the signet ring of Robert Browning.

- 1368 A set of three gold Studs attached by a chain, a pair of Sleeve Links and a Scarf Pin, all set with large Pearls (one pearl doubtful), in case (7)

* * These were worn by Robert Browning.

- 1369 A small gold Locket, containing a lock of the Poet's hair, the inside of the lid engraved "R. B., 12.12.89."

* * This belonged to his sister.

- 1370 A silver shell-shaped Reliquary, with centre double-glazed case, containing a Lock of John Milton's Hair, and a Lock of Hair of Elizabethan Barrett Browning and engraved inscriptions: Milton's Hair the gift of Leigh Hunt in a Reliquary given by K. de K. Bronson to Robert Browning on one side, and on the other E. B. B. to R. B. Nov. 29, 1845; with silk ribbon attached

* * A letter written by Leigh Hunt to Browning, Dec. 31, 1856, now unfortunately lost, but printed in the Cornhill Magazine, gives the pedigree of the lock of Milton's hair. It was given to Hunt by Dr. Batty, who had it from Hoole, the translator of Tasso, to whom it was presented by Dr. Johnson; Johnson had it from some person unknown, who had it from Addison. (Robert Browning, by Messrs. Griffin and Minchin, 1910, p. 77.)

It is also memorable as having been shown by Leigh Hunt to Keats, who mentions it in a letter of Jan. 1818, and made it the subject of his poem, which begins "Chief of organic numbers."

- 1371 A gold drop-shaped Fob Seal, set with an intaglio sard with the Browning crest
\ * This was worn by Robert Browning's father.*
- 1372 A silver Medal of Clement XIII, set in a spiral frame with a loop as a pendant
- 1373 An ivory Watch Stand
\ * This was used by the Poet up to his death.*
- 1374 A bronze Match Box, with classical figures in relief on the sides
\ * This belonged to the Poet.*
- 1375 An ivory Head of Christ, very finely carved, 16th Cent. From Casa Guidi
- 1376 An ivory Crucified Christ, without the arms and lower part of the legs, 16th cent.
- 1377 A carved Wood Cross with short stem, from Mount Athos, with scenes of the baptism and crucifixion in the central panels, surrounded by smaller scenes of Evangelists and Saints
\ * This belonged to Robert Browning.*
- 1378 An 18-carat gold and enamel Mourning Ring, on the outside In Memory of, and on the inside Robert Browning Esq. Ob. 11 Dec. 1833, Aet. 84, in case (2)
\ * This was in memory of Robert Browning's grandfather.*
- 1379 An Italian needlework Picture, half-length of Pope Clement XIII surrounded by drapery, and with the Papal arms; framed
- 1380 Silk needlework Picture, a girl with a hay rake over her shoulder passing through a field with poppies; gilt oval frame
- 1381 Silk needlework Picture, a woman with a child by her side standing in a field, and a dog tugging at the child's dress, houses in the distance; in gilt oval frame
- 1382 A deep back plush upholstered Arm Chair. This is figured in the drawing-room at Casa Guidi, and was daily used by E. B. B.
[See Frontispiece.]
- 1383 A plush upholstered Arm Chair with arched back, carved bowed legs. From Casa Guidi
- 1384 The Poet's Robe, as Doctor of Civil Law at Oxford. The degree was conferred on him on the completion of his 70th year, in 1882, and Browning was very proud of the distinction

- 1385 A large oblong Tapestry Panel: Hermes driving the cattle of Apollo off to Pylos, and Apollo piping among his herds, with a fine border of foliage, flowers, fruit, birds and animals; on one of the trees hangs an Italian coat-of-arms; 5 ft. 11 in. high by 17 ft. 2½ in. wide. From Casa Guidi

* * * The horse in this tapestry is said to have suggested the description of the horse in "Childe Roland."

[See Illustration.]

- 1386 The companion Panel: Maia showing the infant Hermes asleep to Zeus, Apollo piping to mortals, and a woman dancing with a faun, in the upper part of the scene an Italian coat-of-arms; 5 ft. 11 in. high, by 16 ft. 5½ in. wide

[See Illustration.]

- 1387 A large upright Tapestry Panel: a landscape with lake in the centre, and buildings in the distance, in the foreground under great trees a cavalier walking beside a lady and a servant in charge of his horse, the whole within an architectural frame relieved by flowers, at the lower edge on the left the initials B. B. and on the right B. V. Beveren; 11 ft. 4½ in. high, by 13 ft. 3 in. wide.

- 1388 The companion Panel: a landscape with a man leading a horse in the middle distance, in the foreground a man with a dog in company of a shepherdess with a following of sheep; same signatures at the lower edge; 11 ft. 5 in. high by 13 ft. 1 in. wide

- 1389 A similar Panel: a landscape with a stag in the middle distance, in the foreground a cavalier with two greyhounds followed by a huntsman with a horn, and a peasant leading a horse; at the lower edge on the left the initials B. B. and on the right I Cardus; 11 ft. 4 in. high by 11 ft. 10 in. wide

- 1390 An upright tapestry Panel: Christ appearing to Mary Magdalene, with a distant view of Jerusalem through the garden arch, within an architectonic frame, at the top of which is the arms of the Medici family; 8 ft. 10 in. high by 6 ft. 7 in. wide

- 1391 An upright tapestry Panel: a shield with the Medici arms enclosed within a frame-work of fruit and flowers; 8 ft. 2 in. high by 5 ft. 7½ in. wide

- 1392 The Holy Family, a marble Group in a shield-shaped panel in high relief, on a small square black marble base

* * * From the drawing-room at De Vere Gardens.

- 1393 Three Profile Heads, modelled in plaster on circular bases, signed T. W. Woolner sc., and dated 1855 and 1856, in maple-wood frames with convex glasses (3)

* * * These belonged to Robert Browning.

- 1394 A plaster Death Mask of Keats, on circular base
* * * This was the Poet's, and very greatly prized by him.

- 1395 A bust of William Shergold Browning, Robert Browning's uncle, modelled in plaster

* * * W. S. Browning was in the Paris office of Messrs. Rothschild from 1824 to 1845. It was through him that his nephew became acquainted with Count Amédée de Ripert Monclar.

- 1396 An oblong Rhodian Tile, in frame. On the back is written "A Fancy of Ferishtah to Robert Browning, Esq., J.O.C., 1.1.85."

Dedication to
John Kenyon Esq<sup>r</sup>.

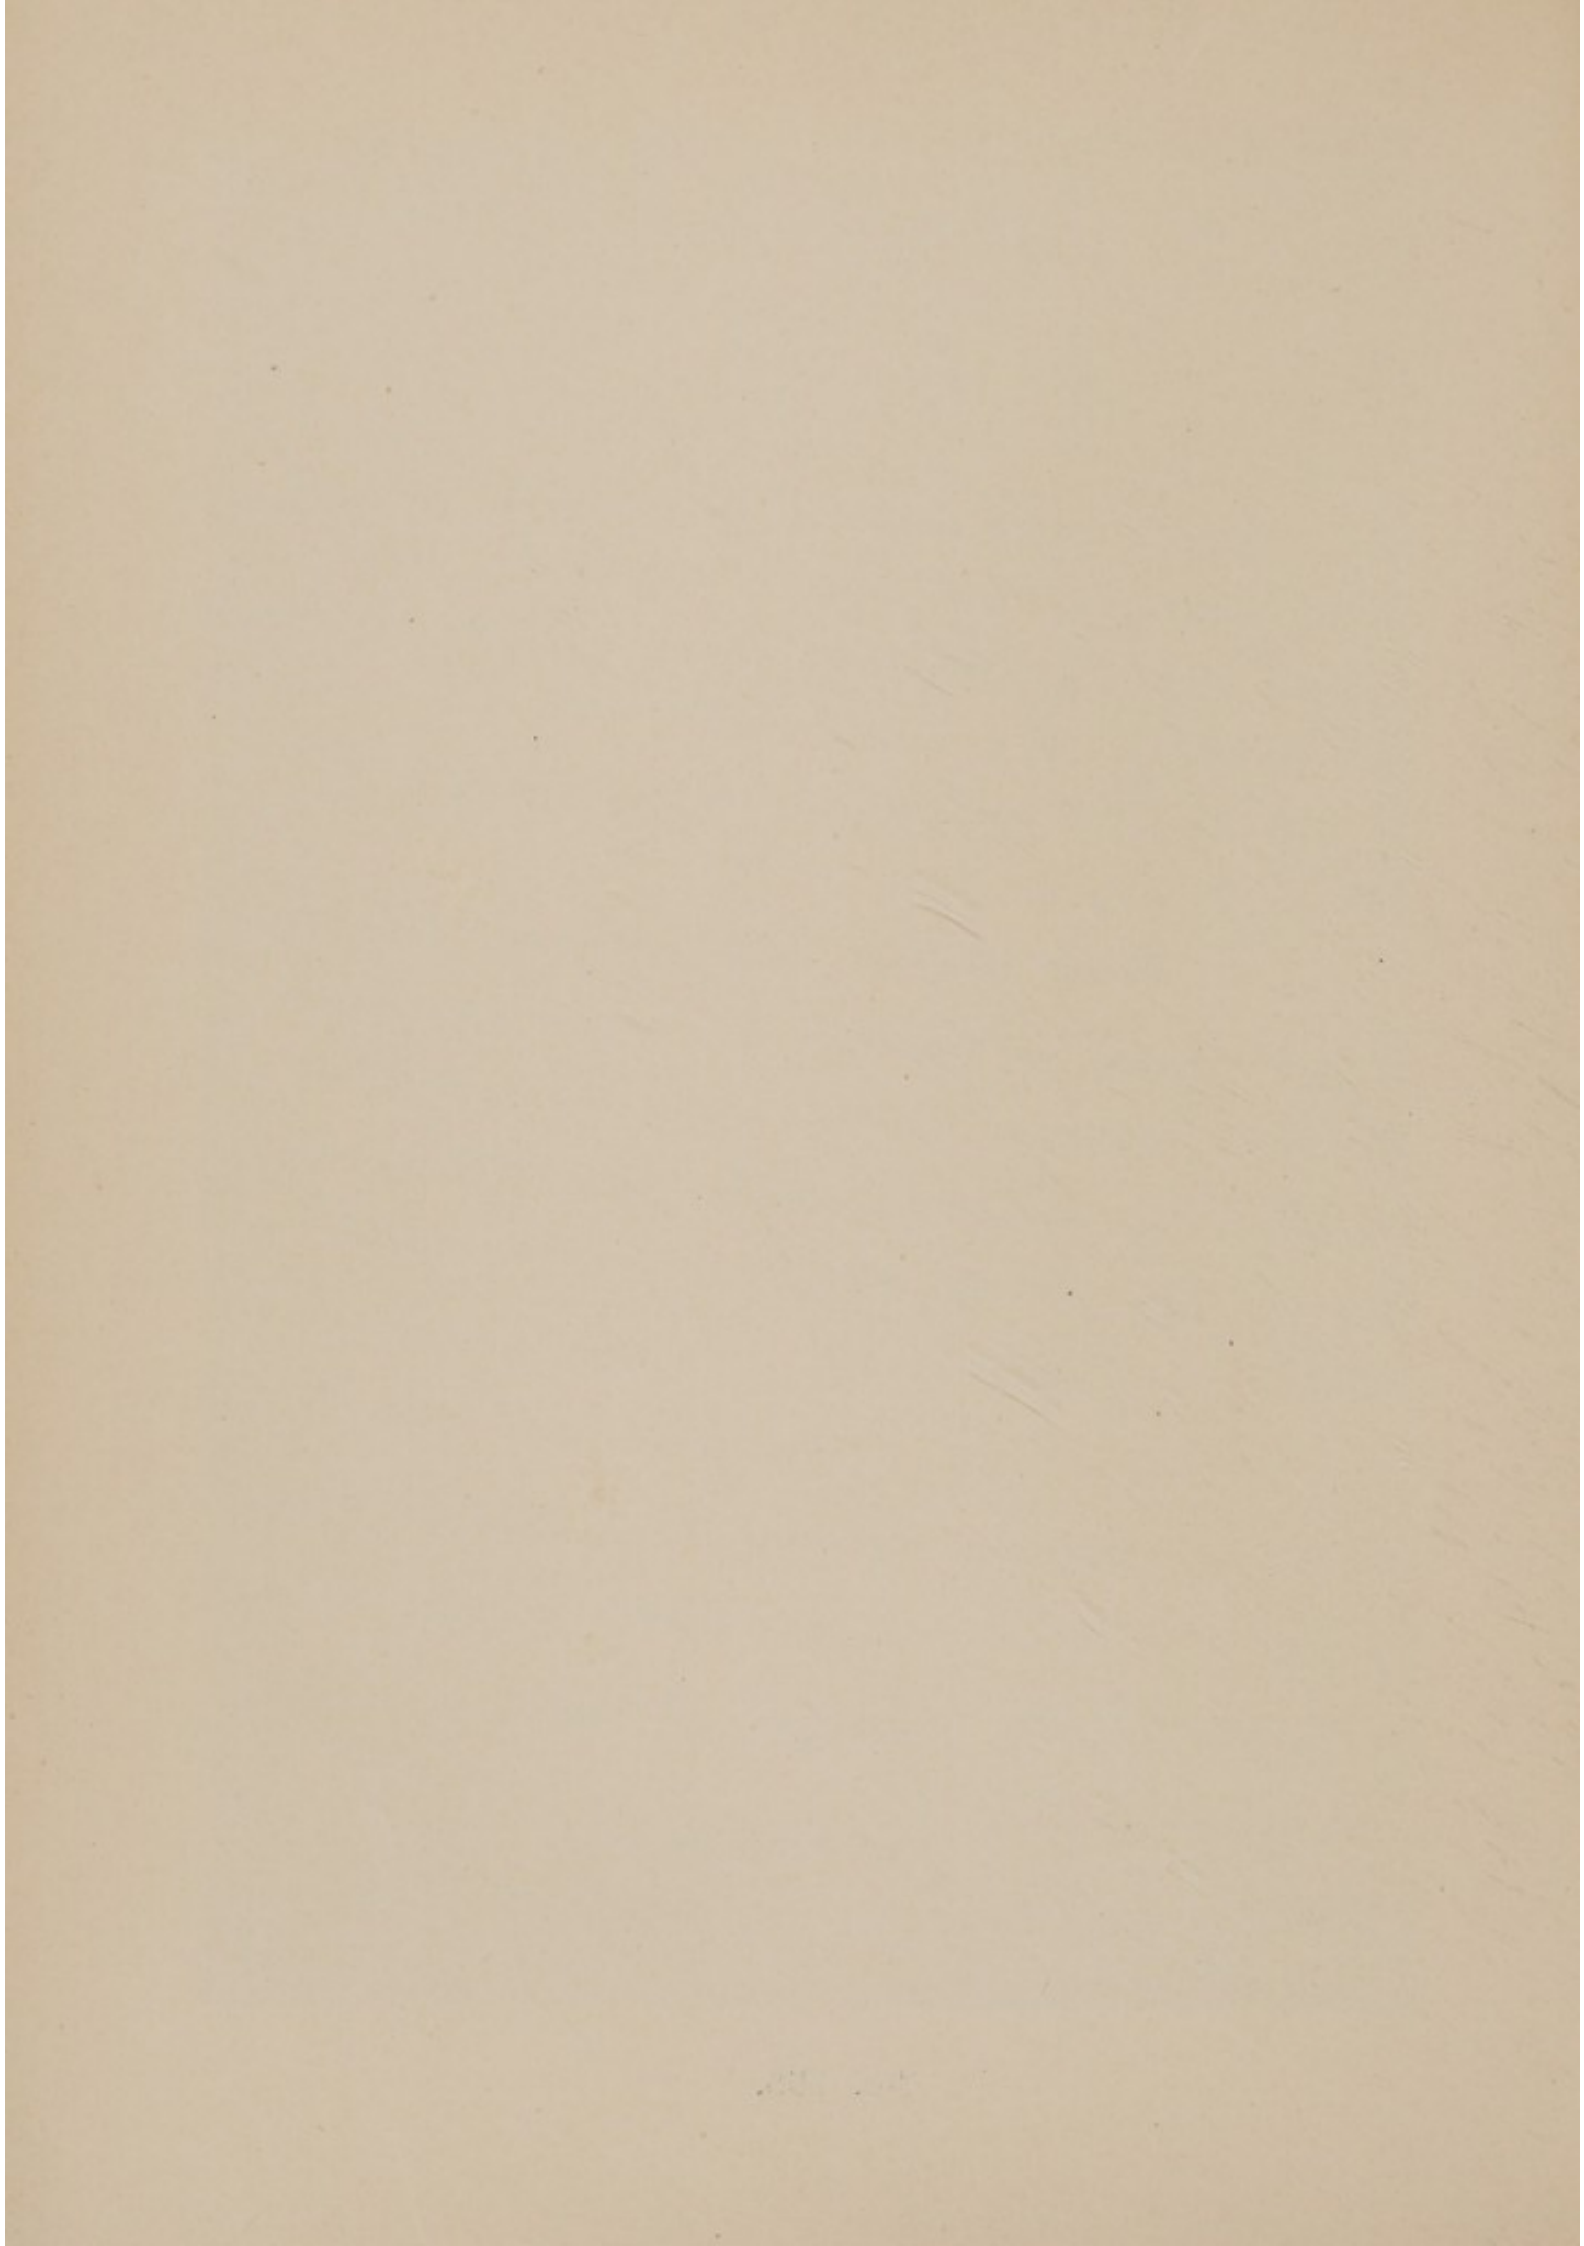

The words 'cousin and friend' are constantly recurring in this poem, the last pages of which have been written under the hospitality of your roof, my own dearest cousin and friend; - cousin and friend, in a sense of less equality and greater disinterestedness than Norman's was -

Ending therefore, and preparing once more to quit England, I venture to leave in your hands this book, the most mature of my works, & the one into which my highest convictions upon life and art have entered: that as, through my various efforts in literature and steps in life, you have believed in me, borne with me, & been generous to me, so far beyond the common uses of mere relationship or sympathy of mind, you may kindly <sup>accept</sup> receive in reply of the public, this poor sign of esteem, gratitude & affection, from, your unforgotten

As some drowned city in some enchanted sea,
 Cut off from nature, - drawing you who fare
 With passionate desire, to leap & plunge
 And find a sea-king with a voice of waves,
 And treacherous blue eyes, and slippery locks
 You cannot slip but you shall bring away
 Their salt upon your lips - the Scamocwell
 Shakes ten as if it struck ten fathom down!
 So deep! and fifty churches answer it
 The same, with fifty various instances -
 Some fast light huddle along the squares & streets,
 The Pitt's palace - front is drawn in fire.
 And past the page, Maria Novella's place,
 In which the mysticobelisks stand up
 Triangular, pyramidal, each based On a single line of barren tortoises,
 To guard that fair church, Buonarrotti's hide
 That stares out from her large blind dial,
 Her quadrant & armillary dial, black
 With shyness of many suns & moons, in vain Inquiring for as rare a soul as his -
 The tents I have played; - does it all is clear
 - And oh, my god... the sea-king!
In my ears
 1379 The sound of waters. Here he stood, my king.

Newcross, Wateham, Surrey.

I love your verses with all my heart, dear Miss Barrett, - and this is no off-hand complimentary letter that I shall write; whatever else, no prompt matter-of-course recognition of your genius and there a graceful and natural end of the thing: since the day last week when I first read your poems, I quite long to remember how I have been twisting and turning again in my mind what I should be able to tell you of their effect upon me - for in the first flush of delight I thought I would this once get out of my habit of purely passive enjoyment: <sup>when</sup> I do really enjoy, and thoroughly justify my admiration - perhaps even, as a loyal fellow-craftsman should, try and find fault and do you some little good to be proud of hereafter! - but nothing comes of it at - so into me has it gone, and part of me has it become, this great living poetry of yours, not a flower of which but ~~has~~ took root and grew - oh, how different that is from lying to be dried and pressed flat and prized highly and put in a book with a proper account at top and bottom, and shut up and put away - and the last called a "flower," besides! After all, I long to need not give up the thought of doing that, too, in time; because even now, talking with whoever is worthy, I can give a reason for my faith in one and another excellence, the fresh strange music, the affluent language, the exquisite pathos and the new brave thought - but in this adoring myself to you, you own self; and for the first time, my feelings rises altogether -

I do, as I say, love these books with all my heart - and I love you too: do you know I was once not very far from seeing
- really seeing you ~~then~~ Mr Kempe said to me one morning "would you like to see Miss Barrett?"

- then he went to announce me,
- then he returned... you were too unwell - and now it is years ago - and I feel as at some time toward passage in my travels
- as if I had been close, so close, to some world's wonder in chapel.

as crypt - ~~then~~ <sup>only</sup> a screen to push and I might have entered - but there was some slight - so it was seems... slight and just-sufficient bar to admission, and the half-opened door shut, and I went home my thousand miles - and the night was never to be!

well, these poems were to be - and this time thankful joy and pride with which I feel myself
yours ever faithfully,

Robert Browning.

dear Mary

W. you say just time, to you, time - but will not, I suppose, be too late - I will write you - I want - of course at this time, I shall have you only, & then me - my friend -

you only - As if we had said only - you are shall have him beside,

I have of you -

I shall send to you address at New York as soon as I can, I shall have pleasure to see you in your new form - I hope too soon to be in your new, which I shall have been in a spirit of hastening of leaving them with me - till you ask our sister to put the parcel into a drawer, so as to keep it for us?

You later, to me I shall like me, let the 'ances' only out of hand, even so.

I tried to leave them, & I could not - that is, they would not be left - if was not my fault - I will not be sorry, as this my last letter to you, ever

dear - & if I should see you a little later -

Why I should like you that our marriage was invalid, or ought to be.

or that you should by no means come for me because I'm dreadful & dreadful. It's hard to perceive here by a voluntary act - for the first time in my life.

Reminds you mother & father of me affectionately & gratefully - & your sister too! Could she live it is too bold of me to say our sister, if she had had it on the last page?

Do you pray for me tonight, Robert?
Pray for me, & love me, that I may have courage, feeling both -

Your own son -

The letters are very sent - but one has been perfect to me - and I'm calling her mine apart of her kindness! I begin to think that now one is bold as the times, when there are just mine

At the midnight in the silence of the sleep-time, — When you set your fancies free,
With their pass to where — by death, <sup>you</sup> think, imprisoned —
Low he lies who once so loved you, whom you loved so, — Pity me?

Oh to love so, (so he) loved, yet so mistaken! <sup>to</sup>
What had I on earth to do
With the slothful, <sup>with</sup> ~~and~~ the mawkish, <sup>then</sup> ~~and~~ unmanly?
Like the aimless, helpless, hopeless, did I drowse — Being — who?

One who never turned his back but <sup>marshalled</sup> ~~forth~~ breast forward,
Never doubted clouds would break,
Never dreamed, though right were worsted, wrong would triumph,
Held me fall to rise, was baffled to fight better,
Sleep to wake.

No, at noonday in the bustle of man's work-time
Greet the unseen with a cheer!
Bid him forward, breast and back as either should be,
"Strive and thrive!" cry — " ~~March~~ " Speed; fight <sup>on, fare</sup> ~~with~~
There as here!"

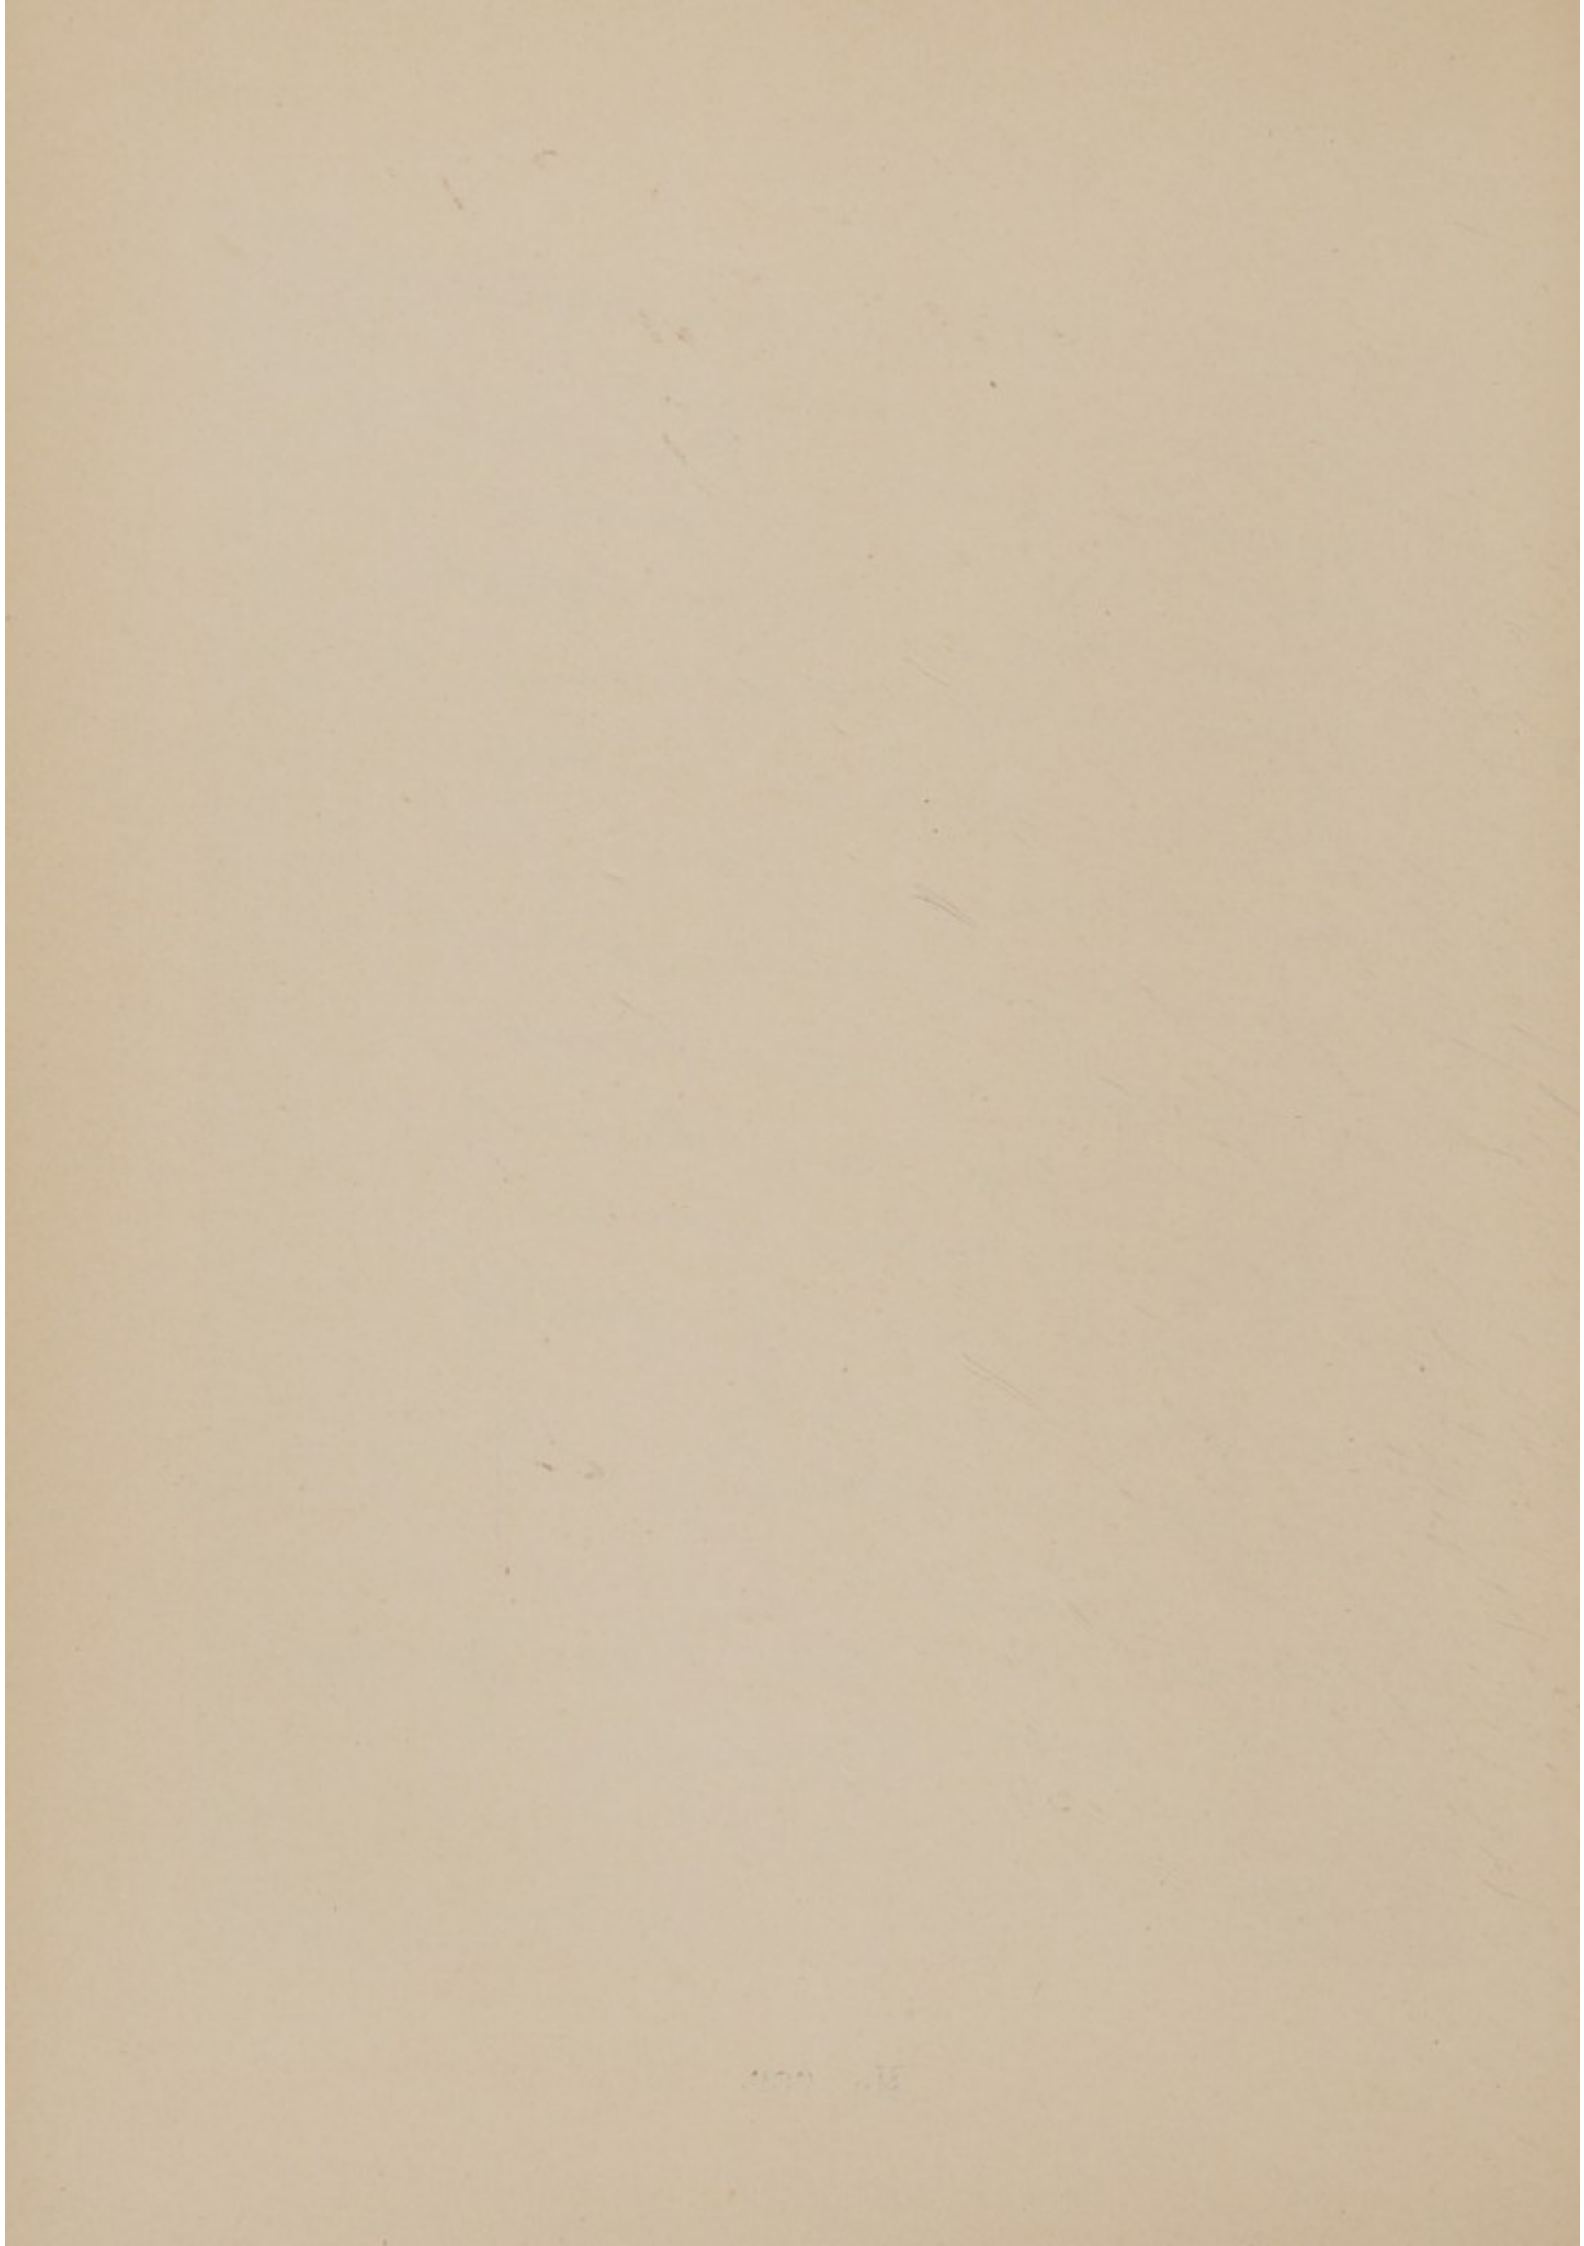

Dear Browning,
It is now several

It is now two or three months ago that I met, at the British Museum, with a Poem published in 1883, entitled "Pauline, a Fragment of a Confession", which elicited my warm admiration, and which, having failed in my attempt to procure a copy at the publisher's, I have since transcribed. It seemed to me, in reading this beautiful composition, that it
