CONDITIONS OF SALE.

- I. The highest bidder to be the buyer; and if any dispute arise between bidders, the lot so disputed shall be immediately put up again, provided the auctioneer cannot decide the said dispute.
- II. No person to advance less than 1s.; above five pounds 2s. 6d.; and so on in proportion.
- III. All lots are sold subject to the right of the seller or his agent to bid, or else to impose a reserve.
- IV. The purchasers to give in their names and places of abode, and to pay down 10s. in the pound, if required, in part payment of the purchase-money, in default of which the lot or lots purchased will be immediately put up again and re-sold.
- V. The lots to be taken away, at the buyer's expense, immediately after the conclusion of the sale; in default of which Messrs. SOTHEBY & Co. will not hold themselves responsible if lost, stolen, damaged, or otherwise destroyed, but they will be left at the sole risk of the purchaser. If, at the expiration of ONE WEEK after the conclusion of the sale, the books or other property are not cleared or paid for, they will then be catalogued for immediate sale, and the expenses, the same as if re-sold, will be added to the amount at which the books were bought. Messrs. SOTHEBY & Co. will have the option of re-selling the lots uncleared, either by public or private sale, without any notice being given to the defaulter.
- VI. All the books are presumed to be perfect, unless otherwise expressed; but if, upon collating, any should prove defective, the purchaser will be at liberty to take or reject them, provided they are received back within FOURTEEN DAYS after the conclusion of the sale, when the purchase-money will be returned.
- VII. The sale of any book or books is not to be set aside on account of any worm-holes, stained or short leaves of text or plates, want of list of plates or blank leaves, or on account of the publication of any subsequent volume, supplement, appendix, or plates. All the manuscripts, autographs, all magazines and reviews, all books in lots, and all tracts in lots or volumes, will be sold with all faults, imperfections and errors of description. The sale of any illustrated book, lot of prints or drawings, is not to be set aside on account of any error in the enumeration of the numbers stated, or error of description.
- VIII. No Imperfect Book will be taken back, unless a note accompanies each book, stating its imperfections, with the number of lot and date of the sale at which the same was purchased.
- IX. To prevent inaccuracy in the delivery, and inconvenience in the settlement of the purchases, no lot can on any account be removed during the time of sale.
- X. Upon failure of complying with the above conditions, the money required and deposited in part of payment shall be forfeited; and if any loss is sustained in the re-selling of such lots as are not cleared or paid for, all charges on such re-sale shall be made good by the defaulters at this sale.

Messrs. SOTHEBY & CO. are prepared to execute bids, and in addition to advise intending purchasers as far as possible, if requested by them to do so, without making any charge for either service. Lots will be procured as cheaply as is permitted by other bids or reserves, if any.

To C. K. Shorter - from J. M. Barrie

Dec 1899.

The Allahakbarrie
Book of Broadway Cricket for 1899.

- 5 BARRIE (J. M.) THE ALLAHAKBARRIE BOOK OF BROADWAY CRICKET FOR 1899, ([A]-E 2 in fours, E 2 blank), illustrations, original parchment wrappers, in a folding silk case, all within a pull-off case of brown morocco by Zaehnsdorf 12mo. [1899]
-  Inscribed on title "To C. K. Shorter from J. M. Barrie. Dec. 1899." Inserted loose is an A. L. s. from J. M. Barrie dated 16 Dec. '99: "Delay in sending the cricket book is owing to want of envelope. The present one I have constructed with my own hands and am so proud of it I can hardly let it go..."
- 6 BARRIE (SIR JAMES) SHAKESPEARE'S LEGACY. A Play, typewritten draft, with many corrections in the author's hand, 15 leaves, note on title by Clement Shorter dated Aug. 1, 1916, half calf gilt, t. e. g. 4to. [1916]
- 7 Berington (Joseph) The History of the Lives of Abeillard and Heloisa ... with their genuine Letters, FIRST EDITION, the letters in Latin and English, tree calf, rebacked 4to. Birmingham, 1787
- 8 BLAIR (ROBERT) THE GRAVE. A POEM (A-E in fours), FIRST EDITION, half green levant morocco, g. e. by Riviere 4to. London, Printed for M. Cooper ... 1743
-  Inserted are two pages in the poet's hand of an earlier draft of the poem. This fragment contains 51 lines and differs widely from the printed version. Thus the lines
- "Hushd, as was ever foot, of midnight thief
That slides his warry hand, below the pillow,
Of the Grey Jealous Gold-adoring Miser:
And carrys off the finger-tempting prize."

which occur in the draft before line 27 of the printed text, are omitted in the latter and are not introduced into the episode of the Miser in lines 337-349, but appear in briefer form in lines 481-483

“Time hurries on . . .
Yet treads more soft than e'er did Midnight Thief,
That slides his Hand under the Miser's Pillow,

In a letter to Philip Doddridge written in 1742, Blair states that The Grave was mostly composed several years before his ordination, which took place in 1731. This manuscript no doubt preserves the original form of the opening lines.

[See ILLUSTRATION.]

-  Inserted is the original A. L. s. (1 page, 8vo) from Dickens to Leigh Hunt, dated 23 June 1859, here first printed, together with its envelope. The letter is important for the light it throws on Dickens' attitude to Leigh Hunt after his caricature of him in Bleak House :
 "Believe me, I have not forgotten that matter; nor will I forget it. To alter the book itself, or make any reference in the preface of the book itself, would be to revive a forgotten absurdity . . . Gads Hill Place,

Higham by Rochester, Kent.

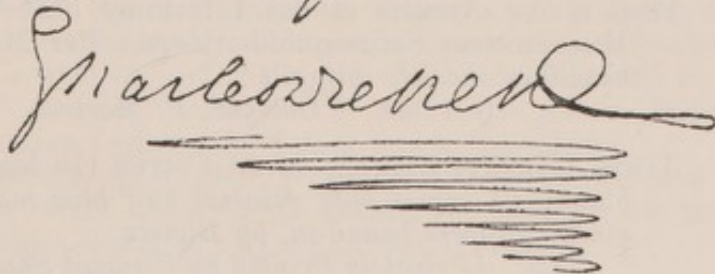

Thursday the 17th June 1859

Dear Sir

Believe me, I have not forgotten that matter; nor will I forget it. To alter the book itself, or to make any reference in the preface of the book itself, would be to revive a forgotten allusion, and to establish the very association that is to be denied and discarded.

In the matter of the smitten cheek, I hold you to be thorough right in principle. But to see that you do not give importance to what is worthless and insignificant, or drag any obscure person, or thing into your own light. That is always the risk when a man of your mark honors Gads Hill with a look.

JOHNSON (DR. SAMUEL) A COLLECTION OF HIS WRITINGS.

- 46 JOHNSON (SAMUEL) AUTOGRAPH LETTER SIGNED, 1 page, 8vo, addressed "To Mr. Strahan," with seal (almost intact), dated Dec. 7. 1784; Document signed, oblong strip from a folio leaf, with embossed Revenue stamp, dated Dec. 10, 1784; the document inlaid and the letter inserted loose in an album, blue levant morocco, lettered "The Last Signature of Dr. Johnson," g. e. by Riviere oblong 8vo. 1784

 TWO DOCUMENTS OF GREAT INTEREST. The letter is addressed to Johnson's lawyer, William Strahan, inquiring how much of his pension he can now call for and how much will be due at Christmas; the document is a receipt for Eighty Eight Pounds Five Shillings (expressed in figures as £88 : 15 : 0) in full for his pension to Michaelmas.

This is probably the last letter Johnson ever wrote. Boswell quotes two written on Dec. 2nd, and Courtney cites one to John Nicols dated Dec. 6th, but the latter appears to have been dictated. The letter to Strahan is holograph and is firmly written in a legible hand, in great contrast to the signature on the receipt three days later, which was obviously accomplished with great difficulty. Johnson died on the thirteenth.

[See ILLUSTRATION.]

- 47 [JOHNSON (S.) POPE'S MESSIAH TRANSLATED INTO LATIN HEXAMETERS] A Miscellany of Poems By several Hands. Publish'd by J. Husbands, A.M. Fellow of Pembroke College, Oxon, ORIGINAL EDITION (2 ll. unsigned; A-C 2, a-p 6, A-L 1 in fours; Bb 2 recto paged 195, and Bb 4 recto 197, the intervening pages being unnumbered), half calf gilt, t. e. g. Svo. Oxford: Printed by Leon. Lichfield . . . 1731

 This volume of poems contains Johnson's earliest published work and the first mention of his name in print. "The Translation of Mr. Pope's Messiah was deliver'd to his Tutor, as a College Exercise, by Mr. Johnson, a Commoner of Pembroke College in Oxford, and 'tis hoped will be no Discredit to the excellent Original."—Preface, p. [4]. His Tutor, William Jorden, appears among the Subscribers to the volume.

Johnson was not apparently able to read the proofs, as of the seventeen errata noted in the poems, six occur in his translation, which occupies only 6½ of the 270 pages.

15. 48 | Johnson (S.)—Lobo (Jerome) A Voyage to Abyssinia [epitomised in English by Samuel Johnson], FIRST EDITION, soiled copy, calf, rebaked Svo. 1735

 EXCEEDINGLY RARE AND PERHAPS UNIQUE. There seems to be no record of the separate publication of this important and amusing document. Boswell (Life, first edition. vol. I, p. 165-6), says: "The celebrated Mr. Wilkes . . . sallied forth with a little Jeu d'Esprit upon the following passage in his [i.e. Johnson's] Grammar of the English Tongue, prefixed to the Dictionary: "H seldom, perhaps never, begins any but the first syllable." In an essay printed in the Publick Advertiser, this lively writer enumerated many instances in opposition to this remark; for example, "The authour of this observation must be a man of a quick apprehension, and of a most comprehensive genius." The position is undoubtedly expressed with too much latitude.

This light sally, we may suppose, made no great impression on our Lexicographer, for we find that he never altered the passage."

Courtney (Bibliography, p. 41) referring to Wilkes' letter, remarks, "said by Boswell to have been inserted in the Public Advertiser, but I have not been able to find it." He notes that Johnson did amend his dictum regarding the letter H in the third edition (1765) and further modified it in the fourth (1773).

Mr. Shorter seems to have overlooked Boswell's reference to the letter, for the special title he has had printed reads "A Contemporary Letter on Johnson's Dictionary" and does not mention Wilkes.

- 276 HARDY (T.) A. L. s. 2 pp. Svo, with addressed envelope
Max Gate, Dorchester, Feb. 20, 1908

 AN INTERESTING LETTER. "I have often seen the possibility of a play in "The Mayor of Casterbridge" & knowing how my novels are ransacked for situations by dramatists I have sometimes thought of trying my hand on that one. But as most novels become mere melodramas in adaptation, & as, moreover, everything connected with the stage is so shifty & uncertain, I have not been tempted to set about it."

* * * Inserted is an important A. L. s. of Mr. Lloyd Osbourne, 3½ pp. 8vo, Belvedere, Marin County (California), December 15th, 1899. This letter, which was written by desire of Mrs. Stevenson, gives full details of the original manuscripts of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," "St. Ives" and "Weir of Hermiston"; it also furnishes particulars of certain of Stevenson's first editions which were printed at the Davos Press.

- 287 [SWINBURNE (A. C.)] UNDERGRADUATE PAPERS, No. I AND No. II, PARTS I AND III ONLY, No. I is complete with the advertisement leaf, recto blank, and white wrappers, and the two parts present of No. II are protected by the interesting covers of the Publisher's Book List for Jan. 1858 in which the "Papers" were announced, the upper cover of No. I has a slight slit in it, and the back strip is partly defective; and there are small stains in both numbers, F4 is a cancel leaf, EXCESSIVELY RARE, according to Mr. Wise's Bibliography of Swinburne no complete set in the wrappers is known

Oxford: printed and published by W. Mansell, High Street, etc. 1858

 The complete set is comprised of three numbers as follows:
* The second was first published in four separate parts, without wrappers, and then as a complete number:—no. 1, pp. 1-50, December, 1857; no. 2, part I, pp. 51-66, part II, pp. 67-82, part III, 83-102, part IV, 103-122, issued in February and March, 1858; no. 3, pp. 123-186 in March and April, 1858.

The parts offered for sale contain three articles by Swinburne, viz:—

The Early English Dramatists (pp. 7-15); Queen Yseult, canto I (pp. 41-50); and the Monomaniac's Tragedy and other Poems (pp. 97-102).

- 288 BURNS (ROBERT) POEMS, chiefly in the Scottish Dialect, FIRST EDINBURGH EDITION, misprint "stinking" on p. 263, portrait, slight water-stains, sprinkled calf gilt, t. e. g.

 The list of illustrations has a correction and a note "Complete copy I.XII. 26 T.E.S." in the author's hand. A plate "Prickly pear" not included in the list of illustrations is inserted after the five photographs of Jedda at the end of the text.

The Property of a Gentleman.

- 292A LAWRENCE (T. E.) THE SEVEN PILLARS OF WISDOM, half Niger morocco, g. t., other edges uncut New York: George H. Doran Company, 1926

 This is the American edition of the text of the original subscribers' edition. The printer's certificate states that twenty-two copies were printed, only ten of which are for sale. The author's note on the published texts remarks that these were offered "at a price high enough to prevent their ever being sold."

A four-page leaflet "Some Notes on the writing of the Seven Pillars of Wisdom by T. E. Shaw" is inserted. A drawing for the book by Kennington, with a note on it by the author, is also inserted loose.

We believe this to be the first copy of the American issue to appear at auction.

- 319 DODGSON (CHARLES LUTWIDGE) ALICE'S ADVENTURES UNDER GROUND, THE ORIGINAL AUTOGRAPH MANUSCRIPT OF THE BOOK SUBSEQUENTLY REVISED AND PUBLISHED AS "ALICE'S ADVENTURES IN WONDERLAND," 92 pages, illuminated title and dedication, and THIRTY-SEVEN PEN-AND-INK ILLUSTRATIONS BY THE AUTHOR, with a photograph of "Alice," taken by the author, pasted at the foot of the last page, bound in the original morocco covers, g. e. (7 $\frac{3}{8}$ in. by 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ in.)
[July 1862-Feb. 1863]

 IT IS HARDLY TOO MUCH TO DESCRIBE THIS LOT AS THE MOST ATTRACTIVE LITERARY MANUSCRIPT EVER OFFERED FOR SALE. Its general appearance, as well as the remarkable vigour and imagination of the author's drawings (many of which Sir John Tenniel followed very closely) is familiar through the facsimile published by Macmillan in 1886, but the technical resources of reproduction processes were at that time too meagre to convey more than a suggestion of the extraordinary delicacy of the penmanship and the intimate association of the drawings with the text. There is a charm inherent in the manuscript which defies transmission to the printed page. The facsimile is also slightly reduced, and the omission of the photograph, which necessitated the re-writing of the last line, diminishes very greatly the sense of the peculiarly private and personal circumstances surrounding the inception of the story. The manuscript itself is so essentially a gift to one particular child; the fairy tale told under a hayrick on a hot summer afternoon has not yet become a "book."

Accompanying the manuscript is a series of six Autograph Letters from the author to Mrs. Hargreaves concerning the production of the facsimile:

- (i) . . . Many thanks for your permission—The greatest care shall be taken of the MS. (I am gratified at your making that a condition!) My own wishes would be distinctly against reproducing the photograph. 1 p. 8vo, Ch. Ch. Mar. 7 /85, with envelope
- (ii) Acknowledging receipt of the MS. 1 p. 8vo, Ch. Ch. Mar. 21 /85, with envelope
- (iii) . . . Dear Mrs Hargreaves,
I adopt your emen-
-dation most gladly; it is very pleasant to think that you are thus connected with the fac-simile edition. Of the existence of the original you were of course the chief, if not the only, cause. You shall have the original back again in (I hope) exactly the state in which I received it, and (of course) one of the earliest copies of the fac-simile.

... I adopt your emendation most gladly: it is very pleasant to think that you are thus connected with the fac-simile edition. Of the existence of the original you were of course the chief, if not the only, cause—you shall have the original back again in (I hope) exactly the state in which I received it ... The pages have all been photographed now ... I enclose, for your approval, the proposed Preface ... I hope you won't think it too serious to be prefixed to your fairy-tale.

very sincerely yours,
C. Dodgson

3 pp. 8vo, 7 Lushington Road, Eastbourne, Aug. 14/85, with envelope, and the proof of the Preface, 4 pp. stamped "5 Aug. 85"

- (v) ... Many thanks for your suggestion ... I still keep the book to compare with the proofs of the facsimile ...
 1 p. 8vo, 7 Lushington Road, Eastbourne, Sep. 23/85, with envelope
- (vi) Would you mind me extending the benefits of the profits (if any) of "Alice Under Ground" to Hospitals for children? You suggested Homes only ...

Little maidens, when you look
On this little story-book,
Reading with attentive eye
Its enticing history,
Never think that hours of play
Are your only HOLIDAY,
And that in a HOUSE of joy
Lessons serve but to annoy:
If in any HOUSE you find
Children of a gentle mind,
Each the others pleasing ever—
Each the others vexing never—
Daily work and pastime daily
In their order taking gaily—
Then be very sure that they Have a Life of HOLIDAY.

- 337 DODGSON (C. L.) A. L. s. to his cousin Miss F. Minella Wilcox, written in "script," recounting an amusing adventure with a little girl on the Parade at Eastbourne:

... Wasn't she a queer little vegetable? ... Is Matilda Jane [a doll] quite well? And has she been running out in the rain again without her shoes on? ...

3 pp. 8vo, Grosvenor House, 44 Grand Parade, Eastbourne, July 14, 1877, A FINE LETTER

- 338 DODGSON (C. L.) A. L. s. to Miss F. Minella Wilcox, written in the "script" hand he used in his correspondence with children:

... Thank you very much for the ring, but do you know, I never use anything of the sort ... if you really want to make something for me, make me a little bag ... The other day, at Eastbourne, I saw—what do you think? Of course you guess "a Snark" Well, no: . . . He describes how he heard a boy addressed "Oh, Boojum! Wasn't it a grand thing to see a live Boojum at last?" ...

3 pp. 8vo, Ch. Ch. Oxford, Oct. 20, 1878, A FINE LETTER

- 339 Dodgson (C. L.) A. L. to Miss F. Minella Wilcox, written in "script":

What a darling little bag it is! And it will be very useful to me, particularly when I go a journey: it'll hold any thing I want to take with me—butter-cups, or live mice or anything ...

With a message written in the corner in "mirror" writing, 1 p. 12mo, the address and signature put in with a rubber stamp, Christchurch, Oxford, Nov. 19. [1878]

- 340 DODGSON (C. L.) THE ORIGINAL AUTOGRAPH MANUSCRIPT OF THE "VERSES TO MATILDA JANE," called here "Nella's Song," 16 lines, written in "script," 1 leaf, 8vo, torn at the folds into three pieces, one line defective

 A revised version of the poem was published in S. D. Collingwood's Life and Letters of Lewis Carroll.

With A. L. s. from the Author to Miss F. Minella Wilcox:

Many years ago, when you were quite young, and before your hair had even begun to turn grey (do you remember the time) I wrote for you (or rather for your doll) a little song, called "Matilda Jane"—If you happen still to have it, or if you can remember it, I should be glad to to have the words ...

- 362 BEWICK (THOMAS) A History of British Birds (with the Supplements), 2 vol. woodcuts, interleaved, contemporary boards, uncut 1821

 Note in Jane Bewick's hand:—"I once asked my Father to write some remarks on the vignettes.—He did so in pencil & added his initials T.B.—these remarks I went over with pen & ink, lest they might wear out. They were written thus in this book only. J.B." Miss Bewick added considerably to these notes.

At her sale (Feb. 5, 1884) it was acquired by the late owner at 100 guineas, the under-bidder acting for that fine collector William Law, whose two letters (written Feb. 8 and Feb. 11) to Mr. Mounsey offering £130 and then £150 for the 2 vol. are inserted.

Mr. Mounsey added pencil notes showing whether the cuts of the birds were from life, nature, etc. These notes were obtained from a copy of the 1826 edition in which Bewick had made alterations, etc.—but the particulars of the cuts appeared to be in Miss Bewick's hand. This copy was lent to him by J. W. Barnes of Durham, one of Miss Bewick's executors.

The Argive Host moves panoplied along;
The plain is black with dust, and silver foam
Dips from the panting horses. Eteocles!
Play the good pilot, set the town in trim
Lest war engulf us in a whirling cloud.

Yesterday I had an unpleasant experience with a Planchette. I feel quite a wreck after it. ... I haven't seen Symple Symons since the Book of the week appeared. He should be enchanted.

- 384 JAMES (Henry) A fine A. L. s. 6 pp. 8vo (Bologna) as from Casa Biondetto, Venice, June 21st (1894), to Henry Harland, Editor of the "Yellow Book," relating to one of his finest stories, "The Coxon Fund," which appeared in the "Yellow Book" in 1894, with envelope :

He is returning the corrected proof, but regrets that owing to a bad attack of Influenza he has been unable to revise his corrections. "If you find the proof too roughly & hastily read (though I gave a whole languid day to it!) please don't scruple to correct obvious *Bévue*s—or beviews as I call them. The beastly elongation you won't alas, be able to mitigate. Tu l'as voulu, Georges Dandin!—*Volu*lu, I mean, in applying to a creature constitutionally unable in advance to answer for the number of his words—& yet constitutionally amiable enough to take in advance an optimist's view of it. However, on seeing the thing in print I find the words pretty words enough, the fault of the thing really in the extreme raccourci of the angle at which the subject is seen. I had, as I read it yesterday, an appalled sense of having omitted everything that I had most intended to put in—put into the illustration of Saltram's character. He is too dimly suggested; the end like all my horrid ends, is too squeezed & hurried. But à la guerre comme à la guerre."

THREE APPARENTLY UNPUBLISHED AUTOGRAPH STANZAS TO THE "DEVIL'S WALK" on a sheet of 4to notepaper, endorsed in his handwriting "with Mr. Coleridges Compliments," the verses consist of 12 lines, one of which has been erased and re-written. The edges of the paper on the back are badly ink-stained, probably at the time of writing.

 These additional stanzas to this famous poem are of exceptional interest in view of the controversy as to whether Coleridge, Southey or Porson were the author.

The first of these verses is as follows :

Till at last in the pulpit there came up a man
With a tone that was dull as his look,
And with face of most ominous look he began to read out of a black Sermon book. ...

Bologna, Dominicus de Lapis, 23 June "1462" (1477)

- * * * THE FIRST EDITION OF PTOLEMY'S GEOGRAPHY WITH MAPS ENGRAVED BY TADDEO CRIVELLI OF FERRARA. The correct date and thereby the priority of the "Bologna 1462" edition has been established from documents in the Bologna archives by L. Sighinolfi: "I Mappamondi di Taddeo Crivelli e la stampa Bolognese della Cosmografia di Tolomeo." in Bibliofilia X. (1908), pp. 241-269.

Taddeo Crivelli, the famous miniaturist and one of the artists who decorated the celebrated Bible of Borso d'Este, had left Ferrara after the death of his patron in 1471. As early as 22 April, 1474, we find him entering a contract with Franc. Puteolanus at Bologna for the production of copper-engraved "mappamondi," an enterprise which proved successful and was followed soon after by the more ambitious undertaking of engraving all the 26 maps of Ptolemy's geography and issuing them with a printed text. The first document relating to this work is an agreement concluded on 8 September, 1474, between Filippo di Giacomo dei Balduini, chancellor of the reigning prince Giovanni Bentivoglio, Giovanni di Baldassare dei Accursi of Reggio, Lodovico and Domenico dei Ruggeri of Bologna on the one hand and Taddeo Crivelli on the other to "stampare Cosmographiam Ptolomei cum suis oportunis." It was thus to Crivelli that the whole enterprise was entrusted, and he had to find a printer to do the text-portion. Sighinolfi has also found the document relating to this further step. This is a contract dated April, 1477, in which the printer Dominicus de Lapis undertakes to produce for the syndicate named above 500 copies of Ptolemy's text within two months and a half. The money advanced by the syndicate was 100 gold ducats, the selling price of the books "finiti, figurati e dipinti" was 1½ ducats a copy, as we learn from further documents in 1478, when differences and lawsuits had arisen between those concerned in the venture. That the date printed in the end "ANNO MCCCCLXII. MENSE IVNII. XXIII BONONIE." really stands for 23 June, 1477, we learn beyond any possibility of doubt from a document put in by Accursio in a lawsuit in May, 1478, in which he claims that Lapis had received 24 copies "stampati et dipinti" on 11 July, 1477.

Accordingly the sequence of the fifteenth-century editions of Ptolemy is the following. After the first unillustrated edition of Vicenza 1475, this Bologna edition is THE EARLIEST EDITION CONTAINING THE MAPS, and the date "1462" which most bibliographers from Gamba (1797) and Hain (1830) to Proctor (1905) regarded as a misprint for 1482, is established as 1477; the printer did not omit two X's, but a XV. This edition is followed, and not preceded, by Buckinck's edition of Rome 10 October, 1478, which has for over a century been looked upon as the first with maps engraved by or under the direction of Conrad Sweinheim. The Berlinghieri maps produced at Florence for the Italian translation of Ptolemy cannot be earlier than 1481. The Ulm edition of 1482 has woodcut maps, while the Roman edition of 1490 contains reprints of the 1478 maps.

That the Crivelli maps of 1477 are entirely independent of the Sweinheim maps of 1478, has indeed been already noted by Nordenskjöld (Facsimile Atlas, p. 12 and p. 85) who places this Bologna edition correctly before the Roman, but with the erroneous date 1742. The Roman maps and all the other fifteenth century Ptolemy maps go back to MSS. of the Donnus Nicolaus Germanus type and are drawn on a rectangular projection, i.e. the parallels and meridians cross at right angles. The Crivelli maps are totally different and are designed in a conical projection with the meridians converging from the equator. (See especially Map 15: the Interior of Africa).

This copy, which belonged in the fifteenth century to a German geographer who had it bound at Nürnberg, has a number of annotations in his handwriting mostly on the wide margins of the maps. On the map of Egypt (14) he has noted the ancient canal from the Nile to the Red Sea, stating that Hans Tucher of Nürnberg still saw vestiges of it on his pilgrimage in 1480.

Apart from one stain and one mended tear on a map and a few slight damages in the joints where the double-page maps are bound in, THIS IS A MAGNIFICENT COPY IN REMARKABLY FRESH AND PERFECT CONDITION, WITH SPLENDID WIDE MARGINS AND IN ITS ORIGINAL BINDING.

No copy of this book appears to have occurred for public sale within the last fifty years at least.

 * Gratiosus Benincasa, born at the beginning of the 15th Century in Ancona, was in his youth a great traveller. Kretschmer (Die italienischen Portulane des Mittelalters) says of him: "Gratiosus Benincasa war einer der fruchtbarsten Kartographen des 15. Jahrhunderts. Es ist für uns nicht ohne Bedeutung, dass Kartograph und Portulanverfasser ein und dieselbe Persönlichkeit ist." He is by far the most important of the 15th century cartographers. Of the 31 others enumerated by Nordenskiöld, only eight are now represented by more than one map or atlas, and these by two or three only, except Jacobus Giroldis of Venice of whom four (or possibly five) examples survive. But of Benincasa Nordenskiöld records no fewer than twenty-five specimens—thirteen charts and twelve atlases. Of these nine are in the British Museum, nine in public institutions in Italy, two in the Bibliothèque Nationale at Paris and one in the Hofbibliothek at Vienna. Another, an atlas dated 1468 is in the collection of Prince Lanza di Trabia at Palermo. The remaining three (two atlases, dated 1463 and 1469, and a chart, dated 1470) seem to be at present untraced. The atlases, being on a minuter scale on small sheets of vellum are of less interest than the large-scale charts.

The majority of 15th century portulans represent only the coasts of the Mediteranean, Adriatic, Ægean, and Black Sea; this chart conforms in general to the type of those which also show the Atlantic, but presents some features of special interest. The Isola de Braçil (not to be confused with the island of the same name in the Azores, which is shewn here almost due West of Gibraltar) appears off the West coast of Ireland; it is circular, with a serrated edge, and has the name "Montorius" across the centre. The Isola de Mam lies much further South, west of the Bay of Biscay. Saluaga, which according to Nordenskiöld should be rectangular and lie slightly north of Antillia (not shown here) is placed North of Ireland and shaped somewhat like a horse-shoe

THE RARITY OF FIFTEENTH CENTURY PORTULANS as compared with those of the following century is pointed out by Nordenskiöld (Periplus, 1897, p. 63). Of the seventy or so enumerated by him about sixty are in public institutions, and the existence of the others is in some cases doubtful; and of all these only seven are recorded as being as large as or larger than the present example, the majority being of far smaller dimensions.

No fifteenth century portulan seems to have occurred for sale since July, 1917, when three were offered from the Huth collection (lots 5913-5915); but these being unsigned, undated and much smaller were in no way comparable to this fine production of Benincasa's.

 KING HENRY VIII'S COPY PRINTED ON VELLUM AND WITH HIS ARMS EMBLAZONED ON THE VERSO OF TITLE. ONLY ONE OTHER COPY APPEARS TO BE KNOWN, THAT IN EXETER COLLEGE, OXFORD.

The earliest edition recorded in the S. T. C. (No. 3002) is printed by Berthelet, 25 May 1544 (two copies only known).

The earliest edition recorded by Herbert (p. 449) is dated 1545.

This collection consists of 15 psalms made up of pious ejaculations in the manner of the Psalms of David. They are followed by two of the regular Psalms, Nos. 21 and 100, and two prayers, "A Praier for the King," and "A Prayer for men to say entring into batayle." The prayer for the king is an early version of the "Prayer for the King's Majesty" in the present Book of Common Prayer.

This copy on vellum emblazoned with the royal arms was in all probability specially printed for King Henry VIII. The present owner is eleventh in direct descent from the Protector Edward Seymour, Duke of Somerset, Henry VIII's executor.

A note of provenance pasted inside the front covers, vol. I (evidently by Henry Seymour of Knoyle, 1776-1849, son of Henry Seymour and of Louise, Comtesse de Ponthon in Normandy and grandfather of the present owner) read as follows:

J'ai acheté ce manuscrit de la Nouvelle Heloise, de la Veuve de J. J. Rousseau dans l'année 1810 ou 1811.

J. J. Rousseau avait deux Manuscrits de cet ouvrage célèbre—il donna l'un a Mad. la Marechal de Luxembourg—celui ci etait le Sien et l'on y voit beaucoup de changements, &c.

THE MANUSCRIPTS OF LA NOUVELLE HÉLOÏSE.

M. Daniel Mornet (La Nouvelle Héloïse, 1925) enumerates the known manuscripts of this work as follows:

1. The complete copy in six volumes made by the author for Mme. de Luxembourg (referred to in the note just quoted). This contains Gravelot's drawings and is now in the Library of the Palais-Bourbon.
2. A copy described as Rousseau's own, of which parts I and II are lost, part III is in the collection of M. Barthou, and parts IV-VI are in the Palais-Bourbon library.
3. A quantity of odd sheets containing drafts, rough copies, etc., for different sections and stages of the work, the majority at the Palais-Bourbon, but a few elsewhere (e.g. lot 3070 in the Morrison collection, now at Geneva).

Two others are known at one time to have existed:

4. The complete copy executed by Rousseau for Mme. d'Houdetot, with whom his relations were closest at the time the work was composed. Cp. Buffenoir, La Comtesse d'Houdetot, une amie de J. J. Rousseau, ed. Calmann-Lévy, 1901, p. 47: "il fit pour elle une copie extrêmement soignée de la Nouvelle Héloïse . . . elle gardait comme un trésor précieux le manuscrit."—p. 157: "en 1760, il envoya à la comtesse un exemplaire de la Nouvelle Héloïse, et poussa même l'amitié jusqu'à faire pour elle une copie de ce célèbre ouvrage. Voici comment elle le remercia," etc.
5. The first printer's copy, written out by the author, with alterations, from his own (No. 2), which he did not consider "assez net pour vous être envoyé dans cet état" (Mornet, op. cit. p. 159).

The possible identity of the manuscript now offered with one or other of these lost copies naturally requires consideration.

Mme. d'Houdetot's manuscript remained in her possession until her death in 1813. Her effects were then sold, and it appears in the catalogue (May 28-June 3, 1813, lot 596) described as in 6 vol., the first containing a long note by the owner (of which our copy has no trace). M. Buffenoir (La Comtesse d'Houdetot—Sa Famille—Ses Amis, ed. Leclerc, 1905, p. 252) states his belief, though without quoting the evidence, that it failed to sell at the auction but subsequently passed from the owner's family to a "riche amateur étranger." To identify this collector with Mr. Seymour, we must not only assume that the latter gentleman's memory was greatly at fault in writing his note of provenance some twenty-five years later, but must also disregard completely the auctioneer's description. The discrepancies seem almost, though perhaps not wholly decisive.

As regards the manuscript used by the printer, we can trace no positive evidence on which a serious opinion could be based. It appears conceivable, however, that the curious marginal references "Pr. E." "Pr. H." etc., which appear at intervals (e. g. Pt. IV. pp. 133, 169; Pt. V, pp. 48, 88; Pt. VI, p. 128) have some connection with the printing office.

There is, of course, no great inherent improbability, having regard to Rousseau's profession as a copyist, that the Seymour manuscript might be one of which no record has survived.

The note of provenance suggests at least a reasonable line of enquiry as to its history prior to 1810/11: since that time it has remained at Knoyle.

HANDWRITING AND TEXT.

It is closely written in a careful hand, showing no signs of haste such as appear in many of the notes and drafts which have been preserved. Where foot-notes occur, space is neatly allowed for them at the foot of the page and they are divided from the text by rules.

The accentuation varies in places from the Luxembourg version and the first printed text as well as from accepted usage; but the differences are not more than would be expected from a writer notoriously careless in this regard.

The text as a whole represents a finished version. At the passages quoted by M. Mornet to illustrate successive re-writings, it corresponds in every case with the published form. But erasures and corrections, of greater or lesser extent, appear on almost every page and it is clear that but a small proportion of these can be regarded as mere slips of a copyist's pen.

The Second Preface does not appear in this manuscript; but between Parts V and VI is inserted a remarkable variant version of the First Preface. The variations are too extensive to quote at length: the following parallel extracts are typical: Par. vi.

NORMAL TEXT.

Quiconque veut se résoudre à lire ces lettres doit s'armer de patience sur les fautes de langue, sur le style emphatique et plat, sur les pensées communes rendues en termes empoulés; il doit se dire d'avance que ceux qui écrivent ne sont pas des François, des beaux-esprits, des académiciens, des philosophes; mais des provinciaux, des étrangers, des solitaires, de jeunes gens, presque des enfans, qui dans leurs imaginations romanesques prennent pour de la philosophie les honnêtes délires de leur cerveau.

VARIANT TEXT.

On dont songer, en lisant ces lettres, que ceux qui les écrivent ne sont pas des François, de Beaux-esprits, des académiciens, des philosophes; mais des provinciaux, des étrangers, des solitaires, de jeunes gens, presque des enfans, qui dans leurs imaginations Romanesques ne connoissent rien, jugent à tort et à travers de toutes choses, et prennent pour de la philosophie les honnêtes délire (sic) de leur cerveau.

The final paragraph (rejected by M. Mornet) appears in the following form :

Allez bones gens avec qui j'aimai tant a vivre et qui m'avez si souvent consollé des outrages des méchants; allez au loin cherchez vos semblables allez dans d'Humbles aziles chercher quelque couple d'epoux fidèles dont l'union se resserre au charmes de la vôtre, quelque homme simple et sensible qui sache aimer votre etat quelque solitaire ennuyé du monde, qui blamant vos erreurs et [here "vos attendrissements" is written and erased] vos fautes, se dise pourtant avec attendrissement, ah; voila les ames qu'il faut a le mienne!

A serious critical study of such a manuscript by Rousseau, whose texts present greater difficulties and have been more exhaustively studied than those of any other writer of his century, is totally outside the sphere of an auction catalogue. The above notes will convey some idea of the nature of this manuscript and of its possible history. UPON THE HIGH LITERARY AND HISTORICAL IMPORTANCE OF THE DISCOVERY OF A NEW TEXT OF THIS WORLD-FAMOUS WORK, ALMOST UNIQUE IN ITS INFLUENCE ON CONTEMPORARY THOUGHT, IT IS UNNECESSARY FOR US TO DWELL.

The letter is a searching criticism of the Tragedy from the point of view of the ordinary spectator "place yourself in imagination, in the pit, and you will feel it"; showing Dickens' very thorough grasp of the technical difficulties of the Stage; and ends: "I do not feel justified under these circumstances, in exposing Mr. Macready to the pain and vexation which I know he would feel if he felt it necessary to decline a play which I recommended to him. But I still think he ought to see the Tragedy: for while I know that he has many better plays upon his desk at this moment, I know equally well that he has many which will bear no comparison with it."

The correspondence describes Holkar's Invasion of the Peswah's Territories, the Capture of Poonah, the War against Scindiah, the Battle of Assaye, the Battle of Agarim, the Siege and Capture of Gawaighur, the Peace with Scindiah, the Peace with the Rájá of Berar, Wellington's discontent with the Government and his proposed resignation, the War with Holkar, Wellington's resumed command in Mysore, his Knighthood and his return to England.

Later letters deal with the value of Seringapatam as a Fort and Wellington's dissatisfaction at the plan of destroying it, the difficulties of sending supplies for troops; the recent attack on one of the enemy's strongholds, and the enemy's plans for peace; the troops sent from Calcutta and the various and detailed operations of his own troops; doubts whether the capturing of a certain town is absolutely necessary, "If it is, it must be taken at all risks and whatsoever may be the consequences."

The final letters relate to the secret correspondence with the Nuyogee, and his (Wellington's) intention of capturing the Palace of the Peshwah; Malcolm's peace proposal, and similar proposals of the enemy; the state of the Peshwah's mind; the cordial reconciliations with the latter and Amrut Rao; and the recent victory of the British troops.

- 619 LUKE HUTTON'S REPENTANCE. MS. Poem, possibly autograph, 10 leaves, dated 29 Oct. 1595. Besides the main Poem, consisting of eighty-four 6-line stanzas, there are at the beginning of the volume, A Dedication to the Right Honourable Henry Hastings, Lord President of York and Lord Lieutenant of the North; An Epistle to the Reader; and Poetical Alphabets on the names of Henry Hastings, the Right Reverend Father in God Matthew Hutton by God's Divine Providence Lord Archbishop of York; and on the Right Worshipful Sir John Popham Knight, Lord Chief Justice of England

THIS POEM APPEARS TO BE UNPUBLISHED, though the writer states in his Epistle that he has "put my repentance into the Printer's Presse"; other books reputed to be by him were published and are exceedingly rare. This MS. appears to have been for a time in Thoresby's collection

Luke Hutton, believed to be the son of Matthew Archbishop of York, received a scholar's education, but took to a violent life; was arrested for a crime committed on St. Luke's Day, and was executed in 1598. In his Poetical Alphabet on Popham's name he craves for mercy

This MS. bears every mark of having been a Theatre Copy, possibly a pirated copy taken down in shorthand from a performance. In almost all cases it follows the most natural readings where the other MSS. (of which there are two known, one imperfect) or Quartos go astray. There are a number of stage directions, often placed several lines before they occur in other copies. There is an interesting variant reading in the stage directions at the beginning of Act V, where this MS. reads "Lowe Music." Only one other MS., formerly in the library of Bridgewater House, has this direction, but there it reads "Lowde Music." From the Context "Low Music" would seem more appropriate.

The Prologue is omitted.

- 628 BURNS (ROBERT) A VERY FINE A. L. s. "ROBERT BURNS," 4 pp. 4to, to Peter Miller, Junr., Esq., dated on back "Nov. 1794"

This extraordinarily interesting letter was printed in part by Cromek in 1808, and followed by editors since. Cromek adds the following note :

"In a conversation with his friend Mr. Perry (the proprietor of the Morning Chronicle) Mr. Miller represented to that gentleman the insufficiency of Burns's salary to answer the imperious demands of a numerous family. In their sympathy for his misfortunes, and in their regret that his talents were nearly lost to the world of letters, these gentlemen agreed on the plan of settling him in London . . . Mr. Perry, very spiritedly, made the Poet a handsome offer of an annual stipend for the exercise of his talents in his newspaper. Burns's reasons for refusing this offer are stated in the present letter."

The letter as hitherto printed concludes : . . . "and all my reward shall be, his treating me with his paper, which by the bye, to anybody who has the least relish for wit, is a high treat indeed," but the MS. continues : "How do you like the following clinch? Extempore, pinned to a Lady's coach—

If you rattle along like your Mistress' tongue,
Your speed will outrival the dart :
But, a fly for your load, you'll break down on the road,
If your stuff be as rotten's her heart. Nith.—

- 630 BURNS (Robert) A VERY FINE A. L. s. 1½ pp. 4to, June 26th, 1796, from Dumfries, to "Mr. James Clarke, Schoolmaster at Forfar," bearing the Dumfries postmark for June 27th; the paper bears water-mark of 1794, the folds and seal-hole have been skilfully repaired

THIS FAMOUS LETTER IS ONE OF THE LAST THAT BURNS EVER WROTE. He died on the 21st of July following:

"My dear Clarke,

Still, still the victim of affliction: were you to see the emaciated figure who now holds the pen to you, you would not know your old friend. Whether I shall ever get about again, is only known to Him, the Great Unknown, whose creature I am. Alas, Clarke, I begin to fear the worst!—as to my individual self I am tranquil;—I would despise myself if I were not: but Burns's poor widow! & half a dozen of his dear little ones, helpless orphans: there I am as weak as a woman's tear—Enough of this! 'tis half my disease!

I duly rec^d your last, inclosing the note—It came extremely in time, & I was much obliged to your punctuality—Again I must request / you to do me the same kindness—Be so very good as by return of post to inclose me another note—I trust you can do it without much inconvenience, & it will seriously oblige me—If I must go, I leave a few friends behind me, whom I shall regret while consciousness remains—I know I shall live in their remembrance—

Adieu, dear Clarke! That I shall ever see you again, is, I am afraid, highly improbable.

THE WARD DIARY.

Sold by Order of the Medical Society of London.

- 631 WARD, JOHN (1629-1681) VICAR AND PHYSICIAN OF STRATFORD-ON-AVON FROM 1662 UNTIL HIS DEATH. MANUSCRIPT DIARY AND COMMONPLACE BOOK, closely written in a hand which is generally very legible (except where in a few cases the ink is faded or the paper is stained), 16 vol. measuring 5 $\frac{3}{4}$ in. by 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ in. approximately, old calf, initials "I. W." stamped in gold on sides of some volumes 1648-1679

 BY FAR THE GREATER PROPORTION OF THE DIARY IS UNPUBLISHED. Casual extracts amounting to perhaps one sixteenth of the entire work were printed in 1839 by Charles Severn, M.D.; the diary has probably never been systematically transcribed or even examined.

THE IMPORTANCE OF THIS FAMOUS DIARY LIES LARGELY IN THE VERY EARLY REFERENCES TO SHAKESPEARE, in the form of gossip current at Stratford, where many who remembered Shakespeare and in contact with Ward must have been still living. The references hitherto discovered are as follows :

"Shakespear had but two daughters, one whereof Mr. Hall, the physitian married, and by her had one daughter married, to wit, the Lady Bernard of Abbingdon."

"I have heard that Mr. Shakespear was a natural wit, without any art at all; hee frequented the plays all his younger time, but in his elder days lived at Stratford, and supplied the stage with two plays every year, and for itt had an allowance so large, that hee spent att the rate of £1,000 a-year, as I have heard."

"Shakespear, Drayton, and Ben Johnson, had a merry meeting, and itt seems drank too hard, for Shakespear died of a feavour there contracted."

"Remember to peruse Shakespear's plays, and bee versed in them, that I may not bee ignorant in that matter."

"Whether Dr. Heylin does well, in reckoning up the dramattick poets which have been famous in England, to omit Shakespear."

"A letter to my brother, to see Mrs. Queeny, to send for Tom Smith for the acknowledgment."

Besides these references there are several alluding to the Quiny (or Queeny) family, into which Shakespeare's daughter Judith married: (e.g. "Persons yt have full and goggling eyes seldom see farre or long, as Mr. Quiny . . ."); to one "Goodie Hathaway"; also to "Mr. Hall (Shakespeare's son-in-law) who was a considerable practitioner in yt place," and the Hall family; and to Sir Thomas Lucy, of Charlecote Park. Ward was apparently on terms of close friendship with Sir Edward Walker, Garter, who bought New Place, and who is frequently quoted throughout the diary; and with Lady Clopton, his daughter.

Apart from the interest of these references the diary is a veritable mine of information of the happenings, literature, science and medicine, and of the personalities of the time.

John Ward had been educated at Christ Church with a number of men of some note, whom he mentions throughout as fellow-students, or "of his table."

He was much interested in medicine and devotes considerable space to medical prescriptions and information of interest to students of medical history.

Ward knew Hobbes, and frequently mentions the experiments of Bacon, of Boyle, Harvey, Wren, and Sir Kenelm Digby in England—and of Copernicus, Galileo, Kepler, and Tycho Brahe abroad. He had insatiable curiosity as to the families of England; Dugdale's "Antiquities of Warwickshire" and "Baronage of England," Fuller's "Worthies," Stowe's "Surveys," and Sir Richard Baker's "Chronicle" were among his favourite reading. Like a true gentleman of his age, he showed great interest in religious controversies, and repeatedly copies information from the numerous pamphlets published through his life-time. He apparently heard or heard of the important sermons by the famous preachers of his day, from many of which salient points are noted down.

His interest in literature was very great; among his favourite books appears to have been Sir Thomas Browne's "Religio Medici," and Sidney's "Arcadia"; from the latter he fills almost a third of one volume with favourite quotations.

His interest in painting extends to random notes about Vandyk and the miniaturists, Oliver, Hoskins, and Cooper, and the engraver Faithorne.

He was not content with staying placidly at Stratford, but made frequent visits to Oxford, where he apparently had a brother living, and where he frequented the great college libraries.

He also notes visits to London, during which he made it his business to meet the great physicians of the time, and to record their conversations; as well as to enquire into a great variety of points which interested him in connection with manufactures and trades.

He notices at length wire-drawing, bell-founding, sugar refining, soap making, etc. He notes current values of gold, silver and pearls, the prices paid for his chemicals, etc. He also made an interesting tour through the West Country.

Occasionally he mentions his family: "Mr. Catton of Killworth occasioned my father's imprisonment at Naseby fight." His interest in politics would not appear to have been very great, but he has enough curiosity to notice on one of his visits to London "Enquire who y^t Prince William is who is so much talkt of in y^e Low Countries," and he is always interested in doings of the Court and of Lady Castlemaine.

He apparently took great interest in the antiquities of his own parish; Stratford is frequently mentioned. A man of very great mental energy, he continually notes books to be read, and information to be acquired, and the whole diary is leavened with entertaining miscellaneous memoranda:

"I hear that Law the organist of Ch. Ch. is mad and Parson Thurman saies y^t a Musition if hee bee not a great drinker must of necessitie grow madd."

"Remember that y^e next I goe toe London I see Fathorne the Ingraver and y^e manner of y^t Arte."

"Hakluit was prebent od Westminster hee held acquaintance with y^e sea men of Wapping and so wrote Voyages."

"Campian suck'd every drop of his abilities into a bubble by his ostentation."

"One Moseley in London a great man for romance-printing told Mr. Robinson that when they found a book they have the third part of the printing for London."

Above all Ward is an antiquary of the most persevering kind; the motto of his diary might be his own note: "Records are the stairs whereby antiquaries climb into the knowledge of former times."

The diary of a country parson, living largely in his midland parish, could not in the nature of things reflect the daily contact with historic figures, the easy familiarity with public events, which illumine the pages of Evelyn and of Pepys. None the less, Ward is a man of education and standing, fully endowed with the industry, the observation and the wide and tireless curiosity from which a true diarist is made; and even had he never visited Stratford, his work would have ranked high in historical importance as a minute and living record of the thought, manners and happenings of his time. The fact that, in addition, he worked for twenty years at Shakespeare's home, within a long generation of the poet's death, promotes his jottings to a rank in which they stand alone. The astonishing dearth, which confronts the Shakespearean student, of information based, even at second hand, upon personal acquaintance or contact, invests the lightest allusion of this character with more than ordinary significance. The curious vicar, recording talk current with parishioners to whom, or to whose parents, Shakespeare was a homely and familiar neighbour, cannot but hold a position unique among English literary annalists.
