FINIS.

181 The first thing I saw when I stepped out of the car was a vast, open landscape. The ground was covered in a thick layer of snow, and the air was cold and crisp. In the distance, I could see the faint outlines of mountains under a pale sky. The silence was absolute, broken only by the occasional creak of a branch or the distant howl of a wolf. I felt a sense of awe and wonder as I took in the scene before me. The beauty of the wilderness was overwhelming, and I knew that this was a place where I had truly found something new and exciting.
