"Coleridge's First Publication, the 'Fall of Robespierre,' was projected by the three friends, Coleridge, Southey and Lovell, each of them having one day agreed to produce an act of a tragedy by the next evening. Coleridge produced the first act, though not in the time proposed; Southey the second and ultimately the third, as Lovell's work would not fit. The Tragedy was published as Coleridge's at Cambridge in September, 1794. An appended prospectus of a work by Coleridge in two volumes, containing imitations from the modern Latin poets, with an essay on the 'Restoration of Literature,' shows that he was looking to writing for support."—D.N.B.

 This, next to Pickwick, is the rarest of the writings of Charles Dickens which were issued in Monthly Parts. Cruikshank made 15 additional engravings for this serial issue, and re-engraved in a larger size the 25 plates which had appeared in the 3 volumes.

Two of the plates are very interesting. One, the "balloon" etching, used as a vignette title-page, is supposed to show Dickens and Cruikshank in the basket of the balloon; the other, "Public Dinners," represents Messrs. Chapman & Hall as well as Dickens and Cruikshank.

The Copyright of the "Sketches" belonged to Macrone, the Original Publisher. Dickens considered that his share of the profits on this publication was insufficient, so when Macrone proposed to issue it in Monthly Parts, Dickens realised that he had made a bad bargain, and tried to undo it as cheaply as possible. Backed by Chapman & Hall, he re-purchased the copyright for £2,250, and the "Sketches" were thus issued as a serial by Chapman & Hall.

MACRONE, HOWEVER, HAD ENGAGED CRUIKSHANK TO DESIGN THE WRAPPER, AND ONLY TWO PROOF IMPRESSIONS ARE KNOWN OF THIS WRAPPER WITH MACRONE AS PUBLISHER. ONE OF THESE TWO IS PRESERVED WITH OUR COPY, THE OTHER WAS PRESENTED TO THE BRITISH MUSEUM BY MRS. CRUIKSHANK.

With this proof wrapper there is also preserved a proof impression of the Chapman and Hall wrapper, which shows variations from the published state.

In addition is an Autograph Letter from Cruikshank to Macrone concerning engraving the design for the wrapper, and a portion of another letter from and to the same in which Cruikshank expresses the hope of showing Macrone "a proof of the wrapper in a day or two."

FIRST EDITION, with the 5 line errata.

8vo, original boards, uncut (enclosed in a levant morocco pull-off case). London, 1818. £85

 From the library of the celebrated artist B. R. Haydon, one of Keats' warmest friends and admirers, with his Autograph Signature on title-page, many passages underlined by him, and the following extremely interesting Autograph Note on margins of pp. 14-15 concerning the beautiful Ode "Address to Pan":—

"I was walking with Keats one summer evening in the Kilburn meadows, when he had just written the sublime Ode or Address to Pan. He repeated the whole in a trembling tone of feeling and nervous flush of cheek that kept me mute till he had done. I was impressed with its beauty, and I heard him, as Milton says of the Angel, 'long after.' His manner and the music of his delivery affected me so touchingly, and still resounded in my ears. Poor dear Keats! hadst thou never met Hunt, your fate would have been different. B. R. H."

Against the lines on page 8:—

"Apollo's upward fire," etc.

Haydon writes:—

"How could Gifford be such a brute as to ridicule this exquisite passage? B. R. H."

Haydon introduced Keats' portrait into his great picture of Christ's Entry into Jerusalem, now in the Museum at Philadelphia. There is also a mask of Keats, believed to have been moulded from the life by Haydon, which Keats' sister considered the most satisfactory portrait of her brother.

Printed by William Morris at the Kelmscott Press, 1896. £1,000

 Only 13 copies were printed on vellum.

Printed in black and red, with elaborate woodcut borders, woodcut title, and 87 woodcut illustrations by Sir Edward Burne-Jones.

Mr. S. C. Cockerell, in his note on the Kelmscott Press, gives the following interesting account of this book:—

“The history of this book, which is by far the most important achievement of the Kelmscott Press, is as follows. As far back as June 11, 1891, Mr. Morris spoke of printing a Chaucer with a black-letter fount which he hoped to design. Four months later, when most of the Troy type was designed and cut, he expressed his intention to use it first on John Ball, and then on a Chaucer and perhaps a Gesta Romanorum. By January 1, 1892, the Troy type was delivered, and early in that month two trial pages, one from The Cook's Tale and one from Sir Thopas, the latter in double columns, were got out. It then became evident that the type was too large for a Chaucer, and Mr. Morris decided to have it re-cut in the size known as pica. By the end of June he was thus in possession of the type which in the list issued in December, 1892, he named the Chaucer type. In July, 1892, another trial page, a passage from The Knight's Tale, in double columns of 58 lines, was got out, and found to be satisfactory. The idea of the Chaucer as it now exists, with illustrations by Sir Edward Burne-Jones, then took definite shape.”
