- * * This casket is a fine example of a most interesting type, and is very similar to one in the Victoria and Albert

LOT 89—continued.

Museum, from the Gibson-Carmichael collection, it is painted with medallions and scattered designs of scrolls, foliage and birds; the metal mounts are contemporary, and quite typical examples. On the front of the box is an inscription in Arabic, the writing is of about the XIV cent., but the decorator appears not to have been conversant with the proper formation of the letters, and has put into the work a number of diacritical points that either have no place there or simply render the meaning obscure. The sense appears to be founded upon the common custom of drawing omens from birds, and the words are: "Auspicious Bird, majesty, power and right be thine, who indicatest always what is approved and honourable."

Dr. Diez illustrates similar painted caskets in the Berlin Jahrbuch, 1910. Another which was discovered hidden in Bodmin Church, under the floor of the parvise chamber, and is now in the possession of the Corporation of that town, is said to have contained the relics of St. Petroc, the Cornish Saint.

The Property of a Gentleman.

- 90 FOUR VERY RARE XIV CENTURY INLAID TILES, the four forming one complete pattern, a circle, with two borders, on the outer one of which are four shields with red cross on yellow ground, conventional flowers between the shields, each tile 5 in. square; English, XIV Century 4
- 91 FOUR OTHERS, of chequer design, with alternate yellow and red squares; English, XIV Century 4
- 92 FOUR OTHERS, forming one pattern, with finely interlaced design border and narrow formal outer border, each 5 in. square; English, XIV Century 4

* * * These three lots of tiles are very similar to those excavated at St. Pancras Priory, Lewes, Sussex.

WILLIAM DE MORGAN TILES.

- 93 PANEL OF NINE TILES, each tile is painted with two formal yellow daisies and leaves, the whole with a narrow border of dark green tiles, the panel 20 in. by 20 in., each tile 6 in. by 6 in.

94 ANOTHER PANEL OF NINE TILES, the tiles painted in alternate large blue and yellow flowers and green leaves, with a narrow border of turquoise tiles, the panel 20 in. by 20 in., each tile 6 in. by 6 in.

* * * The above are fine specimens of Wm. de Morgan's work. The designs are bold and painted in brilliant enamel colours.

The Property of Miss A. J. Vernet.
