Lord Cave on our Hospitals.

Viscount Cave, the Lord Chancellor, speaking to a large gathering, said he was certain that wise people of to-day were in favour of maintaining their own hospitals and by voluntary means. It was said sometimes, rather thoughtlessly, that all hospitals ought to be State hospitals. He was certain that was wrong. They could not get in State institutions the same constant, thoughtful, daily care which was given by doctors and nurses alike in our voluntary hospitals.

ADMISSION OF PATIENTS.

IN-PATIENTS.

Patients are required to contribute in accordance with their means towards the cost of their maintenance. The amount of a Patient's contribution is agreed upon after enquiries made, either before or after admission to the Hospital, from the Patient or the Patients' relatives or friends; but no distinction is made between those who can and those who cannot afford to contribute.

IN-PATIENTS are received daily at 3 o'clock; ACCIDENTS and URGENT CASES at any hour, on application to the Resident Medical Officers.

RULES (IN-PATIENTS).

In-Patient Letters of Recommendation give priority of admission.

I. The Patient must attend (if able), for examination as to suitability for admission, at 11 a.m.

II. If the Patient is unable to attend, a Certificate from a qualified Medical Practitioner must be sent, clearly stating the NATURE and STAGE of the case.

III. Patients are required to make a statement as to their circumstances to the Inquiry Officer and to contribute towards their maintenance in the Hospital according to their means, and before admission a Guarantee for removal must be signed by a responsible person.

IV. Patients are not allowed to bring boxes for their clothes, and, except the destitute, must be provided with a change of linen, towels, flannel, soap, brush and comb, nightdresses, and some tea, butter and sugar.

V. In lieu of bringing knives and forks, as formerly, each Patient is required, unless destitute, to contribute two shillings, to cover losses and breakage.

VI. The Hospital Authorities regret that it is impossible to give information as to the condition of Patients, to Patients' friends, through the Telephone.

VII. The Visiting days are Sundays and Thursdays, from 2 to 4 p.m. Not more than two Visitors at a time can see a Patient on each Visiting day.

RULES (OUT-PATIENTS).

Out-Patient Letters of Recommendation. The Board of Management wish to point out that it is not necessary for patients to be furnished with a letter of recommendation. But letters of recommendation are issued because some Subscribers and Donors like to have such letters to hand to patients whom they may wish to send to the Hospital, and because the letters contain useful information for patients as to hours, etc., and may save a fruitless journey.

1. The Out-Patients' Department is Open Daily at 1.30 o'clock (except Sundays and Bank Holidays, Christmas Eve and Christmas Day, and the Saturday before the Easter, Whitsun and August Bank holidays). For Special Departments from 9 to 10 o'clock.

2. The door is CLOSED in the afternoon precisely at 2.30. In the Mornings at 10. (Country Patients 10.30)

3. Patients are required to make a statement as to their circumstances to the Inquiry Officer and to contribute according to their means. Patients pay One Shilling on the issue or renewal of a Registration Card.

4. For the issue or renewal of Registration Cards Patients must attend punctually at 1.30 o'clock. In the Mornings at 9.

DENTAL DEPARTMENT.

It must be understood that the advantages of the Dental Department are designed for those only who are unable to afford to pay adequate fees to qualified dentists, and that artificial teeth and dentures are not included in the ordinary work of the Department.

PERSONS WHO CAN AFFORD TO MAKE FULL PAYMENT FOR MEDICAL ADVICE ARE NOT ELIGIBLE, as the Hospital is intended for the Poor only. Patients are required to make a statement as to their circumstances to the Inquiry Officer and submit to have such statement investigated.

THE 73rd ANNUAL REPORT

LONDON HOMŒOPATHIC HOSPITAL

Everybody knows that public health and medical investigation are advancing with rapid strides and the whole position of the physical well-being of the world is under review. Everybody knows, too, that the position of the voluntary hospitals has during the last few years been critical and is hardly less so at the present moment.

73rd ANNUAL REPORT.

Great efforts have been made by the Board of Management during the past year to place the London Homœopathic Hospital upon a stronger financial basis, and they note with satisfaction the marked improvement in the financial position as compared with the previous year, and are enabled to present to the Governors, Donors and Subscribers the 73rd Annual Report and Statistics for the year 1922 in circumstances that are somewhat brighter and relieved to some extent, though by no means devoid, of the keen anxiety concerning the Hospital's financial security which has been present in recent times.

The year has been one of progress and increased usefulness, and the benefits conferred by the Hospital could not receive better testimony than that afforded by the many expressions of gratitude from patients, accompanied in numerous instances by thankofferings towards its funds, and ample evidence of the growing extent of the Hospital's practice is furnished by the increasing number of patients drawn from all parts of the United Kingdom, thus demonstrating in the truest sense of the word the "national" character of the Institution.

PHYSICIAN IN ORDINARY TO H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES.

It will be fresh in the minds of the Governors, Donors and Subscribers that H.R.H. the Duke of York accepted with ready kindness the office of Patron of the London Homœopathic Hospital in 1921, and it may be recollected that H.R.H. the Princess Mary Adelaide Duchess of Teck also was a Patron and succeeded the Duchess of Cambridge, who had been Patron of the Hospital since its foundation in 1849.

The Board of Management now have the gratification to congratulate Dr. John Weir, one of their senior physicians, on his being appointed by H.R.H. the Prince of Wales to be one of the Physicians in Ordinary to his Royal Highness.

Dr. Weir is one of the Medical Staff representatives on the Board of Management of the Hospital, and was elected to the Board in 1915 and has served continuously since. He is one of the most regular attendants and has a wonderful eye for seeing the way out of difficulties; his practical energy, counsel and experience are always in the highest degree stimulating and encouraging to his colleagues on the Board.

It has been known to Dr. Weir's many friends that he had the honour in the past of being consulted by members of the Royal Family, but this gracious act of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales is the first official recognition of a Homœopathist on the part of a member of the Royal Family. The pleasure at his official appointment is a source of great gratification to his colleagues on the Board of Management, and will also be keenly shared by all friends of the Hospital.

COMBINED PUBLIC APPEAL.

The outstanding feature of the hospital world in the Metropolis during the year has been the issue of a Combined Public Appeal for £500,000 on behalf of the hospitals of London by the King Edward's Hospital Fund, from which the London Homœopathic Hospital has received two awards, totalling £2,130 out of the £250,000 already distributed. It is understood the remaining quarter of a million is in hand for distribution.

LORD CAVE'S COMMISSION.

The Commission appointed by the Government under the chairmanship of Lord Cave has also sent, through the Treasury, two awards to the Hospital totalling £1,760. Both these amounts (the Combined Appeal and Lord Cave's Commission) have been placed to the reduction of the deficits of past years.

HOSPITALS SAVING ASSOCIATION.

The King Edward's Hospital Fund has instituted a contributory scheme for patients, under the name of the "Hospitals Saving Association," by which workmen who contribute 3d. per week (12s. a year) and their wives and families will be exempt from all contributions when admitted as in-patients to this Hospital or any other hospital participating in the scheme. At present a contribution of one guinea a week is asked from in-patients admitted to the wards—if they can afford to pay—the cost per bed to the Hospital being £3 per week.

APPROVED SOCIETIES.

As a result of numerous conferences between the representatives of hospitals and National Health Insurance Approved Societies, arrangements have now been made with certain societies to contribute during the next five years a minimum of one guinea per week towards the maintenance of eligible members whilst in the Hospital. It is realised by them that these grants do not represent the whole cost of treatment, but are merely a contribution towards the cost. The scheme, it is to be understood, does not preclude additional voluntary gifts also by patients to the Hospital. The maximum to be paid by the societies is the amount set apart for this purpose out of the ascertained surplus at the recent valuation of their funds. It will be seen, therefore, that some measure of success has at last attended the prolonged efforts of the hospitals to secure some recognition of a long felt need, and though the amount receivable by the Hospital from this source is not considerable in view of the fact that less than 4.6 per cent. of the patients admitted during the year were eligible to benefit, it is nevertheless a most welcome addition to our funds and gives rise to the hope that the adoption of a similar form of benefit will extend itself to many of the numerous other approved societies.

CONTRIBUTIONS BY PATIENTS.

The practice of inviting all patients to contribute whenever possible towards the cost of their treatment continues and is the means of providing a substantial source of revenue upon which the stringency of the times demands that the Hospital must inevitably rely. Experience shows that the necessity which now exists for this means of assisting in the provision of their treatment is proving an accepted fact to the majority of patients, and most of them are only too willing, when able, to acknowledge in this practical manner the obligation under which they are placed. The sum thus produced, forming as it now does an essential part of the Hospital's income, represents but a small proportion of the patient's weekly cost of £2 18s. 9d., when it is remembered that an average weekly sum of only 12s. 10d. is received from each in-patient, and means must necessarily be found for meeting the additional cost involved, as well as to make adequate provision for the treatment of the large number of patients admitted and out-patients treated who, by reason of their circumstances, are quite unable to contribute anything and have to be entirely provided for. No difference whatsoever is made in the treatment of patients, and admission to the Hospital is dependent entirely on the medical and surgical aspects of each individual case. These contributions by patients towards maintenance, and the interest being aroused among employees and employers in the neighbourhood, and also among all classes, by bringing before them the true uses of a large General Hospital, with the resultant increase in support, also reduction in expenditure, are all factors towards which the Board hopefully look forward to improve their financial position and confirm the Board's opinion that the voluntary system, worked on right lines, will successfully emerge from its pressing difficulties.

ORDINARY INCOME.

The Board are thankful to be able to report that, comparatively speaking, the Hospital's ordinary income has been well maintained during the year, resulting in an increase of £2,657 over the previous year, which is attributable for the most part to the fact that, unlike last year, when the Hospital was closed two months for decoration and the installation of a new electric lift, etc., the work has proceeded without interruption throughout the year, with a consequent increase in certain sources of revenue. They are glad to be able to acknowledge the generous help rendered by Lady Perks and members of the Ladies' Guild, which took the form of a special donation of £400 to maintain the Hospital for a week in commemoration of the Guild's 21st birthday, a most practical and beneficent manner of assisting the Hospital's needs and expressive of the keen interest that is displayed by the Guild at all times in its welfare.

Vigorous efforts are being made to eradicate the discrepancy which still exists between ordinary income and expenditure, and a gratifying illustration of the success which has attended the Board's efforts in this direction is furnished by the reduction in the deficit of last year, when it was £5,018, to £1,491 this year.

Its complete eradication, however, can only be accomplished by the combined help of every friend and supporter, and while extending their most cordial thanks to them for the help which has rendered possible the present reduction, the Board of Management would appeal for such influence as they possess to secure for the Hospital that additional financial support necessary to achieve this much desired object.

The income of the Hospital for the past four years is set forth as follows under separate heads:—

NEW ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTIONS.

The Treasurer, Lord Donoughmore, has not been unmindful of the excellent suggestion made by H.R.H. the Duke of York who, as Patron of the Hospital, at the last annual meeting, said:—

He would urge the need of combined effort to swell the subscription list in order that the Hospital's activities may not be curtailed, and that it may continue to carry on its beneficent work among the sick poor.

It had been impractical, however, to do much in this direction during the past year in view of the extensive campaign made by the Combined Hospitals Appeal, preventing Lord Donoughmore from "broadcasting" his new annual subscription appeal, but notwithstanding this restriction of the Hospital's appealing activities, it is exceedingly satisfactory to state that an increase of some £300 had been realised during the year towards this end (see page 90). Now, however, that the Hospital is enabled to resume its activities in this direction with the close of the Combined Appeal, a strong effort is to be made during the present year to amplify the admirable start which has already been made by endeavouring to increase the annual subscriptions by £1,000, and it is hoped that a record subscription list may be presented to His Royal Highness for inspection at the end of 1923. New annual subscribers or increased annual subscriptions for inclusion in this list may be sent to the Treasurer or Secretary at the Hospital.

The Board feel strongly that the financial future of the Hospital must be based on the increase of dependable income by regular annual help as opposed to occasional responses to special appeals.

COLLECTING BOXES AND CARDS.

A striking example of how "every little helps" is furnished by the list on page 91 of holders of collecting boxes and cards, which has been considerably extended during the year in response to an appeal by the Hospital for help in this direction, and a gratifying feature of the response has been the large number of patients who have gladly availed themselves of this opportunity of expressing their appreciation of the benefits they have received from the Hospital. The value of the help to be derived by this means on a sufficiently extensive scale is at once appreciated and it is hoped that many others will respond in a similar manner to the Hospital's needs.

The collection cards and boxes are ready waiting for issue, and the Board will be very grateful to any friend who will kindly undertake the charge of a small collection. The Secretary will be glad to receive applications for these boxes or cards.

ORDINARY EXPENDITURE.

The expenditure for the last four years is tabulated as follows:—

Expenditure.	1922.	1921.	1920.	1919.

	22213 13 8	23170 2 2	24917 15 1	24232 1 9

There is undoubtedly much satisfaction to be derived from the fact that, notwithstanding the closing of the Hospital for two months in 1921, a comparison of the ordinary expenditure for the present year, when the work of the Hospital proceeded without interruption, shows a reduction of £957, thus affording a gratifying illustration of the Board's unceasing vigilance and the exercise of the strictest possible economy in the department of supply.

The reduction in the prices of certain commodities notably affects the cost of provisions and contributes in a great measure to the saving of £309 under this head; while it quite naturally follows that as a result of the larger number of patients treated throughout the year, surgery and dispensary are adversely affected to the extent of £358.

Expenditure in other departments gives rise to little comment with the exception of the apparently rather big reduction of £1,474 in establishment charges, which finds an explanation in the additional expense involved in 1921 for the carrying out of certain decorations incidental to the installation of the new electric lift and electric lighting, etc.

With the return to more reasonable prices the prospect is certainly more reassuring than was the case some time back, but it must not be overlooked that, with the growing needs of the future, the added responsibilities which will of necessity be undertaken by the Hospital will tend, if anything, towards keeping to the present expense, rather than any appreciable diminution in the existing cost.

AVERAGES.

The average daily number of the household, including the officers, nursing staff, porters, and domestic servants, was: 102 in 1918, 116 in 1919, 120 in 1920, 107 in 1921, and 123 in 1922.

The daily average number of beds occupied by patients was: 157 in 1918, 109 in 1919, 114 in 1920, 96 in 1921, and 117 in 1922.

The average length of stay of each in-patient was: 35½ days in 1918, 26½ in 1919, 33¼ in 1920, 28½ in 1921, and 26¼ in 1922.

The average weekly cost per head in 1922 for provisions for patients and household was 7s. 4d. against 9s. 3d. for 1921, whilst the average cost of provisions per bed occupied was: In 1918, £49 9s. 9¼d.; 1919, £52 3s. 4d.; 1920, £51 6s. 7d.; 1921, £50 14s.; 1922, £38 19s.

The average cost per occupied bed in 1922 has been £152 16s. 8d., against £193 8s. 6d. in 1921. Average number of nurses on duty has been 65 with a daily average of two on holiday and three invalided, out of 70 on the Hospital Staff.

FIRE DRILL.

Attention has been given to fire precautionary measures, and drills have again been carried out by the staff under the instruction of fire brigade experts.

DEFICIENCIES.

Though the Board view with much satisfaction the reduction in the deficiency during the year of the Hospital's ordinary income to meet ordinary expenditure, which has been accomplished after much effort, they nevertheless feel that the harmful effect produced on the financial stability of the Hospital by the appearance each year of this deficit cannot be too greatly emphasised. Some idea of the distressing proportions it has now reached may be gathered from the following table:—

STILL REQUIRED.

There remains a Deficit (met temporarily by overdraft from Bankers and Loans from other Funds, and partly by the withholding of legacies which should have been invested to the credit of Capital Funds) at date, January 1, 1923

£13,219

The Board appreciates to the fullest extent the value of the help afforded by the above-mentioned grants, but with the close of the Combined Hospital Appeal Campaign allowing a resumption of the Hospital's appealing activities, they think it expedient to urge on all supporters the desirability of doing all that is possible to reduce still further this heavy charge on the Hospital's Capital Funds and so lessen the handicap which is thereby placed on the Hospital's continued progress and activity.

CAPITAL ACCOUNT.

The free capital of the Hospital—that is to say, capital which is not earmarked for endowments or other special purposes—now stands (December 31st, 1922) at the market value of £22,457 16s. 5d., against £19,733 11s. 2d. in 1921—the increase of £2,724 being accounted for by the appreciation in the value of the securities since the valuation in 1921. The accumulated deficit for the past years at the end of 1922 amounted, as stated, to £13,219. As it is generally considered expedient, with old institutions, that the free invested capital should be equal to at least five years expenditure, and as at present the amount is only about one year's expenditure, the situation is a matter of great concern to the Board. It further accentuates the fact that some additional means should at once be found to repay these amounts still due to capital.

KING EDWARD'S FUND.

The visitors of King Edward's Fund in 1922 were Sir Lenthal Cheate, K.C.B., C.V.O., and Mr. G. C. Griffiths. They inspected the Hospital on Wednesday, September 29th, and expressed themselves as much interested in and pleased with all they saw.

ENDOWED BEDS.

To those who contemplate the establishment of a fitting memorial to the departed, or who are desirous of conferring a lasting benefit on the suffering poor, the method of endowing a bed, by the payment of £1,000, or, in the case of a cot, £750, cannot be too highly commended as one which will worthily fulfil the object desired. There can surely be no more fitting way of perpetuating a revered memory than by an endeavour, in this manner, to bring solace and comfort to the afflicted, to whom such a practical expression of sympathy does much towards securing ultimate recovery. A list of Endowed Beds and particulars of them will be found page 72.

LADIES' GUILD 21st BIRTHDAY.

The Board cannot sufficiently express the indebtedness of the Hospital to this association of ladies working in many ways for the welfare of the Hospital and the good of its patients, for their unselfish and successful efforts. They are happy to acknowledge the beneficent manner in which the Guild has commemorated its 21st Anniversary.

In view of the ever increasing expense of the Hospital and the absolute necessity of providing further Annual Income the ladies of the Council decided to hold a Garden Fete and Sale of Work, on Tuesday, July 4th, at 11, Kensington Palace Gardens (kindly lent by Sir Robert and Lady Perks). The Fete was opened by Lady Clare King, and by the generous efforts of these ladies a sum of £400 was raised and handed over to the Hospital, with the practical object of maintaining it for a week.

The Guild does much unostentatious but excellent work, and they have continued their most helpful exertions with energy and success during the past year. Lady Perks, in her capacity as Chairwoman of the Council, has, in her usual kind and generous spirit, contributed her share to the year's successful proceedings. The Ladies' Guild of the Hospital deserves very special praise; by its means patients are also provided with garments, and valuable donations of linen are made to the Hospital, which in these times are a welcome asset to the Hospital's funds. It is a "live" organisation, and one that the Hospital would find it extremely difficult to do without.

POUND DAY.

"Pound Day," also organised by the Ladies' Guild, was held in the Board Room of the Hospital, on Friday, October 20th, when Lady Ebury kindly received the gifts, which graceful act the Board much appreciate, as well as the excellent financial results which amounted to £126 12s. The Council of the Guild have allocated £82 as the balance required to complete their special donation to maintain the Hospital for a week of £400, and £12 to the Christmas Turkeys Fund. The function proved quite a successful one. The gifts in kind, which aggregated 786 lb., were handed over to the Hospital. The Board take this opportunity of thanking all those who again contributed so freely and generously with gifts of money, groceries, and other commodities, thereby making our Pound Day a great success.

" HAHNEMANN HOUSE " MUSEUM.

As previously stated, Homœopathy and the Board of Management owe a very deep debt of gratitude to Mr. Mazzini Stuart, of Liverpool, and his brother, Mr. Orsini Stuart, for their priceless gift of Hahnemannian relics, together with "Hahnemann House" (which is freehold), wherein to preserve and exhibit them.

Hahnemann House is in Powis Place, adjoining the London Homœopathic Hospital, and has now been placed in the hands of Trustees, who will be grateful for:—

(1) Further relics of Hahnemann, on loan or gift; to be exhibited, together with their donors' names and family connections with Hahnemann.

(2) Donations for furnishing the rest of the house, which will be used for purposes vital to Homœopathy.

Not only are relics in gifts or loans desired, but also monetary support to mount, exhibit and preserve them in suitable cases and surroundings. It is hoped so soon as the Rent Restrictions Act will allow, to secure possession of these premises, and, after decoration, to open same as the Hahnemann Museum.

RETIRING MEMBERS OF THE BOARD.

The following members of the Board retire in the usual annual rotation, and, being eligible, are proposed for re-election: Mr. R. H. Caird, J.P. (Chairman), Mr. Edward Clifton Brown, J.P. (Vice-Chairman), Mr. W. Lee-Mathews, Mr. John A. Scrimgeour, Hon. Sir Arthur Lyulph Stanley, K.C.M.G., Colonel J. C. Tyler, J.P.

The two medical members of the Board, Dr. John Weir and Dr. Hall Smith, retired in the ordinary course, and the Board have, on the nomination of the Medical Committee, re-appointed Dr. Hall Smith, and appointed Mr. James Eadie, F.R.C.S., to a seat on the Board.

MEDICAL COUNCIL.

The Board record their sorrow at the death of Dr. T. W. Burwood, and their appreciation of the important aid which Dr. Burwood gave to the Hospital in its earlier years. He was an active member of the Medical Council from 1889 until his death, he never failed to show the deepest possible concern in the welfare of the Hospital, and was most successful in raising considerable sums of money among his patients and friends.

The Board has conveyed to Mrs. Burwood their expression of regret and condolences with her in the loss of her husband and the Hospital at the loss of so old and valued a friend.

CHRISTMAS, 1922.

Many thanks are due to all the kind friends who so generously responded for funds to provide the Christmas fare, gifts for patients and entertainments, without calling upon the general funds of the Hospital. As a result of this appeal, £123 was collected. A great number of charming gifts were sent, and, thanks to the kind contributions in money, no patient was left without an appropriate present, and, by the gift of the members of the Ladies' Guild, all were able to enjoy the time-honoured Christmas fare of turkeys, plum puddings, etc., supplemented by an excellent dessert.

The Hospital's friends and supporters were invited to inspect the gaily decorated wards with their effective display of Chinese lanterns and fairy lamps. Patients and visitors alike were infected by the joyous spirit prevailing, and much fun was in progress in the Children's Ward, where the little ones found great enjoyment in the Punch and Judy entertainment, which was followed by a distribution of toys from the Christmas Tree by Mr. Ernest F. Woods, of the Comedy Theatre, in the guise of Father Christmas.

Tea was daintily served in the Board Room, to the accompaniment of carols rendered by members of the nursing staff, after which visitors assembled in the King Edward Ward to witness a performance by the Staff of "The Palace of Truth," by W. S. Gilbert. The whole performance was carried out with great enthusiasm and was very much enjoyed and earned the well merited applause of an appreciative audience.

The Matron (Miss Clara Robinson, R.R.C.), wishes to thank all who sent gifts and donations, and those adult patients past and present who sent donations indicating their sustained interest in the welfare of the Hospital.

MEDICAL AND SURGICAL STAFF.

Numerous changes have taken place in the personnel of the Medical Staff during the past year, the chief of these being as follows:—

Mr. James Johnstone, F.R.C.S., having reached the limit of service under by-law 2, retires after 27 years service on the Honorary Medical Staff. The Board desire to record their high appreciation of the service he has rendered to the Hospital as physician for diseases of women, and during the last 11 years as surgeon, and have pleasure in appointing him an honorary consulting surgeon, and hope he may be spared for many years to continue in that capacity his association with the Institution for which he has so long and consistently laboured.

Dr. Giles F. Goldsbrough has also been appointed to the Consulting Staff as consulting physician for diseases of the nervous system. The Board expresses deep appreciation of the long and valued services of Dr. Goldsbrough.

Dr. Granville Hey has been appointed by the Board, physician for diseases of women, and Dr. Arthur Gray, assistant physician for diseases of women.

Mr. David Morgan Hughes has been appointed full surgeon (in place of Mr. James Johnstone appointed to consulting staff), and Mr. Cecil Burnham assistant surgeon.

Dr. Charles H. Eccles and Dr. W. W. Rorke have resigned their appointments as assistant physicians, and Dr. C. Yarrow Eccles has been appointed to one of the vacant posts.

Dr. W. W. Rorke has been appointed physician for diseases of the nervous system in place of Dr. Giles F. Goldsbrough appointed to the consulting staff.

Dr. Harold G. Broadbridge becomes third anaesthetist, vice Dr. Lansdown resigned, and Dr. Bach having resigned his appointment as pathologist, the Board have appointed Dr. Innes Pearse to the post.

THANKS TO HONORARY MEDICAL STAFF.

The Board feel some difficulty in expressing adequately their sense of obligation to the Honorary Medical and Surgical Staff, all of whom have given their valuable labour so ungrudgingly during the year. Their increased activity, their skilful attention to the patients, and their constant efforts to make the Hospital second to no other hospital in efficiency, have merited the warm thanks of the Board and of the Governors, Donors and Subscribers.

It must not be forgotten that these services are rendered gratuitously, and in some cases at the sacrifice of their own private practice, and the Board feel sure the public have little idea of the time given by the honorary staff to their duties, and their readiness at all times, both by night and day, to attend for the treatment of serious cases and emergencies.

THE WORK OF THE YEAR.

The Hospital contains 10 pay beds, 162 free beds = 172 beds.

INQUIRY OFFICER'S DEPARTMENT.

The work in this department has grown considerably in consequence of the arrangements under which contributions are received from both in- and out-patients, when they are able to contribute towards their cost of treatment and maintenance. The results of the work of this department fully justify the step taken by the Board of Management in instituting it in 1920.

PATIENTS' WELFARE.

A gratifying instance of the development of the work connected with the Inquiry Department, is that furnished by the many opportunities that have arisen in the course of the year to render some assistance to necessitous patients, such as convalescent treatment, the provision of surgical instruments, glasses, dentures, etc., and the supply of specially prescribed forms of nourishment either directly through the Hospital or through other charitable societies and agencies. By this means 50 patients have benefited by convalescent treatment, and assistance has been obtained for many patients requiring surgical instruments and other appliances.

IN-PATIENTS.

1,630 in-patients or their relatives were interviewed for admission to the Wards, and of this number 1,404 were able to contribute some sum towards their maintenance, the remainder being admitted entirely free of any contribution.

The following statement records the districts from which in-patients have been received:—

St. Pancras .....	38
Islington .....	20
Finsbury.....	120
Other London Districts .....	855
Outside London .....	304
	1,630

During the past year the total number of cases under treatment in the Hospital was 1,630.

In the preceding year—1921—it was 1,236. The average stay of patients was somewhat shorter than in 1921, viz., 26·2 days, against 28·3 days; and the average number resident daily in the Hospital throughout the year was 117, compared with 96 the year before, an increase due to the work of the Hospital having proceeded without interruption, which was not so in 1921, when the Hospital was closed for two months for structural alterations and repairs.

In this connection it must be appreciated that homœopathic treatment is particularly successful in chronic cases where the patient may have been for years a sufferer, and that such cases must be expected to require a prolonged stay in the Hospital, and it will be understood that even two or three such cases, with a stay of many months in the Hospital, must materially increase the average duration of stay. The undoubted success of the homœopathic treatment makes it desirable to allow such cases to remain over many months. From the report of the Medical Registrar on page 51, it will be seen that no less than 34 of the 1,630 in-patients treated to a conclusion made a stay of three months and over.

OUT-PATIENTS.

33,495 registrations were effected on behalf of the 9,918 new out-patients, and, after interviewing, 27,775 contributed from 3d. upwards per month, and 5,720 were unable to contribute anything.

New patients, 9,918. The total number of out-patient attendances was 53,513.

The cost of each out-patient's attendance was reduced from 1s. 4d. to 1s. 1 $\frac{3}{4}$ d., and the average cost of each out-patient's treatment from 6s. 11d. to 6s. 2 $\frac{1}{4}$ d.

The following are the totals for the in-patients and out-patients for the last five years:—

	In-patients.	Out-patients (counting separate persons only).	Out-patients. No. of consultations.
1922 .....	1,630	9,918	53,513
1921 .....	1,236	9,195	48,108
1920 .....	1,231	10,427	55,001
1919 .....	1,509	10,459	52,209
1918 .....	1,942	8,829	48,482

1918—Out-Patient Department closed July 13th to September 16th.

1919—Out-Patient Department closed August 2nd to September 1st.

1920—Out-Patient Department closed from July 31st to September 1st.

1921—Whole Hospital closed from July 15th to Sept. 15th for structural alterations.

COST OF TREATMENT.

The following is the cost of in-patients and out-patients:—

To ascertain the average cost of in-patients as given below, the sum of £1,267 3s. 3d. for rates and taxes, and of £3,065 3s. 2d. for 9,918 new out-patients and 53,513 out-patients' consultations, making a total of £4,332 6s. 5d. is deducted from the expenditure for the year, £22,213 13s. 8d., in accordance with the requirements of the Metropolitan Hospital Funds.

The average cost of each in-patient per week in 1922 was £2 18s. 9d.; in the year 1921 the average cost was £3 14s. 5d., the reduction being accounted for by the Hospital remaining open throughout the whole of the year, with a consequent increase in the average number of beds occupied, which did not apply in 1921, when the calculation was necessarily based on a 12 months' average instead of the actual working period of 10 months.

PRIVATE PAYING ROOMS.

These paying bedrooms, opened on October 31st, 1911, afford comfortable accommodation, with trained nursing, at a cost which also includes medicines and dressings, and does not impose anything like such a burden upon patients of moderate incomes as would residence in a private nursing home. The charges are six guineas per week and upwards.

The rooms have been well occupied during the year, and on many occasions intending patients have had to wait their turn for admission. No less than 95 patients have availed themselves of these facilities.

The regulations for admission of private patients will be sent on application to the Matron of the Hospital. Telephone No. Museum 2950 will put applicants in immediate communication with the sister-in-charge.

PART COST CONTRIBUTING WARDS.

The Vaughan-Morgan Wards have again been reserved for the reception of Contributing Patients able to contribute four guineas a week and their doctor's fees. The accommodation provided is exactly the same as in the General Wards, and consists of a Female Ward, containing seven beds, and a Male Ward, two beds, for the reception of medical and surgical cases of both sexes. Here, patients can be attended by their own doctors, who make some reduction in their fees. Thus the Board has provided a stepping-stone between the General Ward and the Private Paying Rooms, a want which has been long felt by the middle classes.

THE ELECTRO THERAPEUTIC AND X-RAY DEPARTMENT

has again done much valuable work, both with regard to electro-therapeutic treatment and also X-ray screen examinations and photographs. The Department is now under the charge of Dr. Albert Bowie.

MECHANO-THERAPY DEPARTMENT.

The gymnasium, fitted with the necessary appliances, in the Out-Patient Department, has enabled many varied conditions of injury and disability to be remedied and relieved which were not within the range of medicinal therapeutics. The work continues to be successful under the direction of Mr. P. B. Roth, F.R.C.S.

LABORATORIES.

The amount of work done in the Laboratories has been well up to the average. The work includes chemical, histological and bacteriological examinations and the preparation of therapeutic agents, and is of the greatest service to the Hospital. It is now under the supervision of Dr. Innes Pearse, and contributes greatly to diagnostic and curative efficiency. The Report for the year appears on page 66.

PRESENTS.

The Board have again to thank the proprietors of the Daily Telegraph, Lloyd's News, and the Daily Chronicle for kindly supplying copies of their papers for the use of patients, a concession which is very much appreciated.

The Board also desire to thank the numerous ladies and gentlemen who have generously sent gifts of game, eggs, vegetables, cakes, clothing, etc., and to express the hope that these gifts will be continued.

SAMARITAN FUND.

The Board desire to call attention to the small amount of the Samaritan Fund in connection with the Hospital. If the amount were greater, this fund could do an increased amount of good in helping destitute patients when they leave the care of the Hospital. It helps routine hospital work by sending patients to convalescent homes and, where necessary, paying their railway and cab fares to and from the home at which they wish to stay. It is also desirable to meet from this fund the expense of artificial teeth, surgical boots and crutches for little patients, which in many cases the parents cannot afford.

It is hoped that increased support may be accorded in future to this Fund, so that by its means the stay of patients in the Hospital itself may be shortened, and they may be more quickly fitted for their several employments through the beneficial effect of a change of air at a convalescent home, or by the necessary appliances required to enable them to take up work again.

THE HOSPITAL NURSING STAFF.

Our Nurses' Training School, under the management of the Matron (Miss Robinson, R.R.C.), and under the tuition of the Assistant Matron (Sister Firth) Home Sister (Sister Davies), and Night Sister (Sister Noblett), has maintained a high standard of efficiency.

The new and extensive curriculum adopted by the General Nursing Council for England and Wales as the basis upon which probationers training in this Hospital shall be examined in the nursing of the sick as provided in the Nurses' Registration Act, of 1919, has considerably increased the difficulties in maintaining a nursing staff. This curriculum requires such a high standard of education in all candidates for the nursing profession that those of only average attainments stand but little chance of success in the examinations. Hence the number from which candidates can be selected has materially decreased, while on the other hand, facilities for education in the Hospital have had to be considerably increased. This, coupled with the extended hours for relaxation and off duty time, necessitates the retention of a much larger staff to nurse the same number of patients. The total nursing staff now numbers 76. Greater facilities have also had to be provided for the lectures and demonstrations to nurses.

Following the establishment of an improved scale of salaries reported last year, a revision has been made of nurses' hours of duty, which has been reduced to 60 hours a week. The Matron has been authorised gradually to make such additions to the staff as may be required to meet the altered conditions.

AFFILIATED NURSES.

This Hospital having been adopted by the General Nursing Council as an approved Training School for Nurses, has been approached by the representatives of some of the smaller homœopathic hospitals, which are not now eligible to take nurses for the full time training, as to the possibility of members of their staff completing their training at the London Homœopathic Hospital, and a scheme has been arranged for affiliation, and probationers from these hospitals are now under training here.

GOLD MEDAL.

As an encouragement to nurses undergoing training in the Hospital, the Board founded in 1909 a gold medal and prizes to be presented annually to the nurses who gain the highest number of marks at the final examination. The standard of training amongst the nurses has always been high, and these prizes help to maintain its excellence.

The salaries of the probationer nurses now stand at:—

£20 the first year,		£28 the third year,
£22 the second year,		£40 the fourth year,

with board, lodging, laundry, medical attendance, and uniform.

Arrangements have been made for the fourth year of training to be remitted in the case of suitable candidates who have had not less than two years nursing V.A.D. experience in a recognised military or naval hospital of not less than 100 beds, and the facilities offered at the Hospital now provide for the full requirements of the State Syllabus for the Training of Nurses to secure State Registration.

Candidates desirous of entering the nursing profession are invited to communicate with the Matron of the Hospital, who will always advise them on the subject. The age limit for admission of probationers to the Hospital is from 20 to 30.

LONDON HOMŒOPATHIC CONVALESCENT HOME.

The ability to provide, or assist in providing, rest and change of scene and air for patients during convalescence is always a source of much gratification to the Board. The Convalescent Home at Eastbourne, which, although a separate institution, is associated with the Hospital, continues to be of much service to women and children requiring further aid after leaving the wards, and also to other convalescents recommended by subscribers. The 34th Annual Report of the Home appears at the end of the Hospital Report, page 141.

VISITING THE HOSPITAL.

It would encourage all who are working for the Hospital, and all who are working in it, if the Donors and Subscribers would come and visit it (see map, page 2). They could see for themselves the character of work which is being carried on; for an extended knowledge of this charity cannot fail to bring the additional means necessary for the effectual conduct of its work. From 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. each weekday, except Saturday (or on a Sunday by previous arrangement), is the most convenient time for the officers of the charity to show visitors over the Hospital.

Railways.—The railway termini at Euston, King's Cross, Marylebone and St. Pancras are within easy reach by omnibus. The Hospital is very near Southampton Row, and is also approached by Red Lion Street, Holborn, and is within a few minutes' walk of the Euston and Tottenham Court Roads, and only ten minutes walk from Euston Square (formerly Gower Street) Station Metropolitan Railway).

Omnibuses.—Omnibuses reach Great Ormond Street from Waterloo and Victoria Stations. The King's Cross and Victoria omnibuses pass Cosmos Place, in Southampton Row, leading to the Hospital.

Tubes.—The Holborn and Russell Square Stations of the Piccadilly, Brompton and King's Cross Railway, and the British Museum Station of the Central London Railway (Shepherd's Bush and City Tube) are within five minutes' walk of the Hospital.

SUMMARY OF NEEDS FOR 1923.

Methods of Assisting the Hospital.—Friends may aid the Hospital by contributions in any of the following ways:—

Steam Supply.—The increase in surgical work which is now being performed necessitates the provision of boiling water at all times of the day and night to each Theatre. It is at present being supplied by gas boilers, and the steam sterilisers are heated by gas. It is felt that a supply of steam can no longer be deferred and would be a true economy. Unfortunately, it is a costly matter and there are no funds available for the purpose. At this stage it is impossible to accurately estimate the amount required, but it would be approximately £2,000. The Board's burdens would be lightened if some generous donor would shoulder the responsibility of this scheme.

(1) Annual Subscriptions or Annual Donations, to be paid at any time during the year, and continued at the will of the donor.

(2) Donations for the endowment, at a cost of £1,000, of a Bed in the General Wards, or £750 for a Cot in the Children's Ward.

(3) Donations to the Deficit on Maintenance Fund (£13,219 required to meet deficits in the six years 1917 to 1922).

(4) Donations or presents of furniture, etc., towards furnishing and fitting up Hahnemann House, No. 2 Powis-place, as a Museum for Hahnemann relics. Any relics of the illustrious Hahnemann for exhibition will be most welcome.

(5) Donations towards purchase of freehold (£1,250) of No. 3, Powis-place.

(6) Donations of money in any amount and at any time for ordinary expenditure, as it is always needed; also of fruit, flowers, vegetables, provisions, books, bandages, old linen, and whatever is necessary or useful for the sick. Two typewriters are sadly needed for the Secretary's and Inquiry Offices, and would be a real and welcome help.

Contributions for any of the above needs will be most gratefully received, and should any particular item in this list especially claim your sympathy, a note to that effect will ensure the application of any gift being placed to the fund desired.

CONCLUSION.

The Board feel that there is cause for congratulation in the marked increase in the current income, but it must not be forgotten that a still larger increase is necessary to maintain the Hospital at its full strength, and the renewed efforts of all its many friends are needed to avoid in future the serious deficits which have marked previous years. Hoping that the income will in time equal the expenditure of the Hospital the Board feel that the future of the Hospital is full of promise.

In conclusion, the Board desire to thank all those who have helped in any way towards the maintenance of the work during the past year, and they ask for still further support in the uncertain period that is to come. With an average expenditure of £20,000 to £21,000, and a fixed income of not more than £4,000 drawn from investments, it will be seen how great a faith the Hospital has in relying from year to year on the generosity of its friends. To this generosity it has never appealed in vain.

The Board of Management do not believe that either the State or the public will readily concur in the abolition of our great and unique system of voluntary hospitals, or that voluntary help will cease to be the backbone of our hospital system. Under that system the London Homœopathic Hospital has attained a high reputation for economical and efficient administration. In the belief that such reputation is not undeserved the Board confidently appeal for a continuance of the generous support of the charitable and compassionate.

They again renew their thankful acknowledgments of the continued proofs of Divine favour, and look forward to even greater usefulness in years to come.

Cannes.

I am very sorry indeed to have to write that I am afraid I shall not be able to get back for the meeting on the 20th as I must remain out here until after Easter. I hope you make my apologies and express my great regret to the Chairman.

Yours very truly,

CHEYLESMORE.

The Right Hon. Lord Dysart wrote :—

I very much regret that I shall not be able to attend the Annual General Meeting on the 20th inst., as it would have given me great pleasure to support the Chairman and the Treasurer who have such an excellent Annual Report on which to base their remarks.

I should not have been able to add anything in the least useful to what they are in the position to say from their intimate knowledge of the working of the Hospital, but I should like to take this opportunity of congratulating all concerned in the striking results obtained during the past year, which results it must have been impossible to bring about unless the entire staff and directorate of the Hospital had united in a whole hearted effort to maintain a record of which they might be justly proud.

Yours very truly,

DYSART.

Alderman Sir George Wyatt Truscott, Bart., wrote :—

This is my first day in town after influenza, and I have just been to visit my doctor. He says I must go very slow this week, and in view of the fact that I have to take duty at the Guildhall on Thursday, I must do that and nothing more. I told him of my promise to you for to-morrow, and he said I must put his view before you and ask to be excused from attendance. I am so sorry—for just now when Homœopathy is coming more and more into a front place, the meeting to-morrow must be an interesting and important one. Please explain to Lord Cheylesmore as to my absence and wish him from me a very successful gathering. He may like to see the enclosed letter, which came to me quite unexpectedly this morning. It has reference to a matter I touched on at the last meeting—a curious coincidence.

The National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children,

March 15, 1923.

DEAR SIR GEORGE TRUSCOTT,

I have learned that your attention has been called to the mentally defective children that are being treated by Dr. Margaret Tyler at the Homœopathic Hospital.

For an extended period I have been carefully watching and have been very gratified with the marked improvement that has been obtained in a number of these cases.

Knowing your interest in the N.S.P.C.C. cases, I thought you would be pleased to hear from me of the good results that are being obtained at the Homœopathic Hospital.

I remain, Yours faithfully,

(Signed) N. D. JARMAN,

Medical Officer, N.S.P.C.C.

The SECRETARY (Major E. A. Attwood) read the notice convening the meeting.

The CHAIRMAN, in opening the proceedings, said that the minutes of the last Annual General Meeting, on Monday, March 29, 1922, had been printed and circulated, and he suggested, therefore, as the meeting had other important business to do, they might take those minutes as read. (Hear, hear.)

This was agreed to, and the minutes were duly confirmed and signed.

The Chairman continued that they were fortunate that afternoon in having among them Sir Arthur Stanley, a gentleman well-known to them all for his many activities. Among other things, he was chairman of the Joint War Committee of the British Red Cross and the Order of St. John. Sir Arthur had very kindly consented to present the Gold Medal and the other prizes, which, as they knew, the Board of Management had founded in 1909 to be presented annually to the nurses who gained the highest number of marks at the final examination. This was done for the encouragement of nurses undergoing training in the Hospital.

Sir ARTHUR STANLEY then presented the Gold Medal to Nurse Ray, who had gained 1,962½ marks out of a possible maximum of 2,300; a prize of books to Nurse Stokes, who had obtained 1,897½ marks, and another prize of books to Nurse McCowan, who had obtained 1,834½ marks, both out of a possible 2,300.

The CHAIRMAN, resuming his address, announced the Bazaar to be held on Friday May 4 by the Matron and Nursing Staff, in aid of the funds of the Hospital to provide new bedsteads and bedding, which HER HIGHNESS THE PRINCESS HELENA VICTORIA has graciously consented to open, and then read the following letter that had been received from Wing-Commander Louis Greig, Comptroller to

His Royal Highness the Duke of York.

Buckingham Palace,
9th March, 1923.

DEAR LORD CHEYLESMORE,

The Duke of York, as Patron of the London Homœopathic Hospital, desires me to acknowledge with thanks the receipt of the 73rd Annual Report of the Hospital, and to convey his sincere congratulations on the continued successful work of the Institution, an achievement which, in view of the many difficulties now confronting the voluntary hospitals, reflects the greatest credit on those responsible for the medical and administrative work.

The improvement which has been effected in the Hospital's financial position testifies in a praiseworthy degree to the efficient manner in which the Board of Management have exercised their control over the affairs of the Institution, and His Royal Highness is happy to note the increase in annual subscriptions following his remarks of the previous year.

The Duke would, however, renew the hope that he expressed on that occasion, and trusts that the need for new annual subscribers will meet with an adequate response during the present year, in order that the Hospital may continue to carry on unrestrictedly its most valuable and beneficent work.

Believe me to be,

Yours faithfully,

(Signed) LOUIS GREIG,

Comptroller to H.R.H. The Duke of York

The President of the London Homœopathic Hospital, Great Ormond Street, Bloomsbury, W.C. 1.

The Chairman continued that it was with gratitude they desired that that letter should be entered on their minutes, and with special gratitude because of the fact that at this time His Royal Highness was naturally thinking very much of other things, but had not forgotten the Hospital, and had sent them this letter. He was sure that all present wished His Royal Highness good luck in the other business that was now confronting him. (Applause.) He (the Chairman) had no doubt that as usual the meeting would be willing to take the 73rd Annual Report as read. It was on the table and available to all, and he therefore now rose to formally move its adoption. He was sure he was re-echoing the thoughts of all when he said how sorry he was that Lord Cheylesmore, their President, was not with them that afternoon, but under doctor's orders his lordship was staying on the Riviera, where it was to be hoped he was enjoying the heat that was certainly denied us at home. Even among homœopaths the doctor's orders had to be obeyed. Their sympathy went out to Lord Cheylesmore, and they wished him a speedy return to his native country as soon as he desired it. He would like to offer their most sincere congratulations to Dr. John Weir, on the very important appointment that had recently come his way when he had been made

Physician-in-Ordinary to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales.

(Applause.) Dr. Weir, if he might be permitted to say so, was one of their most regular colleagues. He did great work for the Hospital, but his services to homœopathy were not by any means confined to that work, as many of those present knew; and they congratulated him on having received recognition of the fact that homœopathy could do good. They did not want to put it higher than that. He was sure they wished Dr. Weir many years of happiness to enjoy his new office, and years of opportunity—which he would consider very much more important—to continue the excellent work that had obtained him this very important appointment. (Hear, hear.) He (the Chairman) would not attempt to go fully into all the paragraphs of the report, which was splendidly clear and understandable; and he would venture to say without hesitation that anyone who had never heard of the London Homœopathic Hospital before that morning, could pick up that report and read it, and have no difficulty whatever in understanding what the Hospital was and what it did. As he, personally, had no share whatever in penning one word of this Report, he might be allowed to offer his congratulations to those whose labours they profited by when reading the interesting document. He associated himself with all the thanks that were offered in the Report to those who notably to their medical and nursing staff to whom they could never be sufficiently grateful for continued application to the Hospital's business. He thanked all contributors, public and private—the King's Hospital Fund, the Hospital Sunday Fund and the Hospital Saturday Fund, among others; and among private helpers he could not help mentioning the Ladies' Guild, whom he saluted at having attained the age of 21 years, though, of course, they showed no signs of the fact. (Laughter and applause.) He would particularly like to thank Sir Robert and Lady Perks, who, he was sorry to say, were not present on that occasion, for what they had done last summer, when they allowed their house to be used for the organisation of that excellent Bazaar which had been taken in hand by Lady Clare King and her assistants, and which had resulted in the raising of no less a sum than £400 for the Hospital. We were all taught from childhood that every little helped, but it was a very big little that had been contributed on that afternoon. He would also like to refer to the success of the Pound Day this year, a success which had been due to the efforts put into it by those concerned. He would pass over a good deal of the rest of the report rather lightly; but there were some things he must refer to, and he was very glad to be able to refer to them in a spirit of far less anxiety and strain than had been the case in past years. Although they still had many anxieties, there had been a marked improvement this year in their financial position, and he could unhesitatingly congratulate all concerned over that fact. He could sum up the position in one sentence, that their expenditure had been less and their income had been more, and no man, woman or child could ask for anything better than that. Take expenditure first. This was very clearly summarised on Page 21 of the Report. Expenses last year had been £22,213; in 1921 they had been £23,170; in 1920, £24,900; and in 1919, £24,232. There had really been, therefore, as they would see,

A Very Substantial Saving in Expenditure, in spite of the fact that the average number of beds occupied had not been decreased. (Applause.) Those two figures, it seemed to him, were far more eloquent than any high flown oratory as to the excellence of the management of their institution. Again, turning to income, things were better, though they wanted to do better still. It was the classic right of every treasurer to say this, and on this occasion, as usual, he really meant it, because their income after all had not met their expenditure. Vigorous efforts had been made during the past year, and the result had been that whereas in the preceding year they had had a deficit of £5,000, this year they had ended the year with a deficit of only £1,491. That was a great deal better. (Applause.) On Page 20 of the Report they would find the figures as to income, which showed amongst other things the satisfactory fact that their annual subscriptions had increased this year by over £300. Indeed, they stood higher than at any time during the previous four years. That was a satisfactory thing as going in the right direction, but he need not reinforce what had been said by His Royal Highness the Duke of York last year, and again this year, that

They Must Increase Their Annual Subscriptions.

He (the speaker) had no hesitation in saying they were going to make a supreme effort to this end during the year, and they wanted all the help they could get in this matter. Roughly speaking, their annual subscriptions were less than 11 per cent. of their total income, which was not a satisfactory basis on which to build up the work of a great hospital like this. He hoped he was not making a medical mistake when he said that regular annual help was a symptom of a sound heart in a hospital body. All except the doctors would understand what he meant by this, though the doctors might find some technical fault in his simile. (Laughter.) Looking at the table on Page 20, to which he had already referred, there were one or two interesting things that ought not to be passed by in silence. They would notice the receipt of £570 from the approved societies and public authorities. That was an interesting new venture from which untold good was to be hoped. It was very carefully and clearly described in the report, and he would not go further into it than to say he was sure it was a good thing, and in no way conflicting with the voluntary system, a point that they would, of course, all watch very closely. Another matter was the large increase of contributions by in- and out-patients, which were now very nearly up to £6,500 a year. These, of course, were genuine contributions to the Hospital, and everybody concerned in its management was very grateful for them. He was very glad to notice that so large a proportion of the in-patients last year had been able to make some contribution towards the cost of their treatment. These, of course, were voluntary contributions in the very best sense of the word, because there was no pressure on the patients to induce them to contribute in this way; but any patient who said he could not afford to contribute got exactly the same treatment as another patient who could contribute. While speaking of the patients' contributions he could not pass by in silence the scheme of which this Hospital had joined, and which was described on Page 18 of the Report. He touched on this subject with a little hesitation, because in some of their sister hospitals a hornets' nest was raised whenever this subject was suggested. He thought he might sum up the attitude of those who controlled this Hospital accurately by saying that they had joined the scheme after very full and very careful consideration of its effect upon the contributors and upon the Hospital, and he would again emphasise the fact that while they welcomed this help and participated in it those who gave to the Hospital under it would get as good, but no better treatment than any other patient who came to the Hospital as an in- or out-patient. But having said this, and having spoken he hoped more or less in a tone of optimism, he must emphasise the all-important point in their financial situation that everything in the garden was not quite so lovely as they would like. They

to liquidate, and it would not be a really satisfactory state of affairs until they got rid of that. He knew that he was preaching to the converted, but at the same time he would reinforce all that the report said to the effect that no single effort must be relaxed until they had wiped out that deficit and were clear of it. The Hospital's immediate needs were tabulated at the end of the Report, and there was nothing in that list which was not worthy of their urgent attention; and he therefore left it in their hands with confidence that they would do all they could to help. Before he sat down might he say one passing word on what had been after all the principal hospital event of the year, that was the Combined Public Appeal by the King Edward's Hospital Fund. He associated with that, of course, the distribution that had also been made by Lord Cave's Commission. The organisation had not been quite the same, but the events might be allied as kindred events in view of the discussions that had taken place. From the Combined Public Appeal they had received a first grant of £2,130, and from Lord Cave's Commission £1,760, and, of course, these contributions had been of outstanding importance to all concerned in their Hospital's work. They were grateful for the grant received from Lord Cave's Commission, and they offered their unhesitating congratulations to the King's Fund on the great success that had been made. The voluntary system, as he felt, had had a real chance given it of saving itself. In fact, just now the voluntary system stock was on the rise, and that purely by its own merit and for no other reason. As regards this Hospital, they had joined in the appeal, and he thought, as he had always thought, that they were right in doing so. In all these things they were ready to take their part, ready to help where they could, and to co-operate where they could, having in mind that this should be the London Homœopathic Hospital, and should also be an important unit in the hospital life of London. (Applause.) That was really all he had to say. It was with real pleasure that the old firm of Caird and Donoughmore were presenting this Report. He relied on his partner, Mr. Caird, when seconding the adoption of the Report, to fill in any of the interstices in what he had said, and with a full hope he formally moved the adoption of this, the 73rd Annual Report. (Applause.)

Mr. R. H. CAIRD, J.P. (Chairman of the Board of Management), said he had very great pleasure in seconding the adoption of the Report. He did not know that there was anything he could add or any interstices that he could fill up. One thing he might emphasise, however, was the desirability of #### Increasing Their List of Annual Subscribers.

He knew there was a difficulty in getting new subscribers, because they did not appeal so much to the general body of the public as they did to the people who practised homœopathy; and therefore he thought it really came to this, that they must try to get their present subscribers to increase their present subscriptions. He had made a suggestion to their Secretary Major Attwood that if a certain number of other people could be got to double their subscriptions, he would be very glad to double his own.* (Applause.) He would like to see if something could not be done on those lines. He did not think there was anything more for him to say than just to formally second the report.

The motion for the adoption of the Report was then put and carried unanimously.

The Hon. Sir ARTHUR STANLEY, G.B.E., C.B., M.V.O., moved a vote of thanks to the Board of Management, House Committee, Nursing Committee, Treasurer, Vice-treasurer and Lady Visitors. He said that with regard to a vote of thanks to the Board of Management and the House Committee, the Report that was before that meeting spoke for itself. The old days, when any benevolently-minded lady or gentleman could wander in once a week to the Board of Management of a hospital, and feel that they were carrying out a great charitable work by just listening to a few minutes desultory conversation on the part of the secretary, were now over. They all knew that the management of a voluntary hospital in these days entailed very real work, and those who did that work must not only be capable but they must have their hearts in it. The task had been an uphill one during the last few years, but daylight could be seen at last, and if the position of the voluntary hospital to-day was so much better than it had been a few years ago, that was very largely thanks to the devoted and unselfish work of such boards of management as they had got in this Hospital. Might he say in connection with the Nursing Committee how very grateful he was for the privilege of being allowed to present the gold medal and prizes that day, because he felt that after all the backbone of the whole of the work of the Hospital—and nobody would agree with him more heartily in this than the doctors and the surgeons—the backbone of the work of the Hospital was in the Matron and Nursing Staff. (Hear, hear.) As chairman of the College of Nursing, and connected with them in every way, he was most heartily glad that that fact was beginning to be recognised. He thought if one could say that anything connected with the voluntary hospitals in the old days had been scandalous it was the way in which the nurses had been treated. The length of hours, the poorness of pay, the poverty of the outlook to any woman who had voluntarily sacrificed three or four of the best years of her life in learning her profession, had been a real reproach to all who were in any way responsible for it; and he was glad to think that that reproach was being removed. He was quite sure that any nurse present would agree that the pay was not yet sufficient, but he thought she would also agree that the Hospital authorities were moving in the right direction and

Recognising their Duties to the Nurses.

As regards the Treasurer, he found it difficult, in the face of one he knew to be most diffident, to say quite what he thought. He had had the pleasure of being very intimately connected, during the war, with their Treasurer, Lord Donoughmore. At a time of very great difficulty for the Red Cross in France, when they had very big work to carry out, work that required an infinity of patience and tact—he did not mean to say patience or tact because they were dealing with the War Office authorities—(laughter)—but a voluntary organisation working alongside a Government organisation naturally did require the right person in the right place, and it had been a very fortunate day for the Red Cross and the Order of St. John when they had secured Lord Donoughmore's services. (Applause.) From the day Lord Donoughmore had landed in France, so far as their work was concerned, there had been nothing but one perpetual smile. Whatever he wanted from anybody he seemed to get, and equally they were perfectly certain that if there was any possible way in which Lord Donoughmore could help them they could rely upon him that that assistance would be forthcoming. Lord Donoughmore was an experienced chairman—he was Chairman of Committees of the House of Lords—and had sufficiently covered the ground, so that there were only two points to which he (the speaker) rather wished to allude. One of these was the very great satisfaction that all present must feel in the fact of the Hospital having so largely reduced its deficit. In these days, owing to heavy taxation and other calls upon our pockets, it was not easy to get money to reduce their Hospital's deficit from £5,018 to £1,491, so this

Was Really a Very Great Achievement.

There was one other figure to which he would like to call attention, Lord Donoughmore had just alluded to it—it was the patients' contributions. Three or four years ago, or perhaps four or five, the voluntary hospitals of this country had begun, in the phrase that we had borrowed from Tommy Atkins, to "get the wind up." They had begun to be frightened as to their position, though after all he thought that the difficulties in which they began then to find themselves were really very largely to be easily explained. During the war, as we saw in the housing problem, and many other things—during the war the ordinary expenditure of the year in repairs and renewals had necessarily to be abandoned. Hospitals were all working at a great strain, and it had been all they could do to meet the actual work that was thrown upon them by the number of wounded they had to receive. Thus arrears naturally accumulated. That was one difficulty that had to be faced, and had had to be faced at the very moment when prices and wages were absolutely at their very highest. At St. Thomas's Hospital it had been his experience in doing repairs and other things that were absolutely necessary, that these cost at least three or four times the amount that they would have done in pre-war days. The two difficulties he had mentioned had to be faced, and there were a good many people among those most interested in voluntary hospitals who seemed to think that those difficulties were insurmountable. They thought the only way to deal with them was either to put the hospitals on the rates or to get a grant from the Imperial Exchequer.

Panic Legislation was Notoriously Bad, and he was very glad that hospitals and others had been able to resist that tendency, because it was most interesting to see in the reports of the hospital for 1920 and 1921 a most decided improvement, which improvement had been still more marked in the year under review—1922. Sir Napier Burnett, who had been engaged during the last few months for the Red Cross in making a very careful statistical survey of the hospital finances throughout the country, had been able to show that even in the year 1921 the hospitals had turned the corner. That was to say that by then 50 per cent. of the hospitals of the country were paying their own way. Now he (Sir Arthur Stanley) knew the figure for 1922 would show an even better result, and he was glad therefore that they could see the marked improvement that there was generally throughout the hospitals of the country. That marked improvement they could see very typically exemplified in the London Homœopathic Hospital. He was hanging these few remarks upon the peg of the voluntary contributions. As they knew, the voluntary hospital system was founded on the idea that there was a large number of sick poor who could not possibly afford the treatment that was necessary if their sufferings were to be mitigated or their diseases cured. It had been to meet that need that pious founders and donors of ancient days had given their money. But within the last few years we had gone through a very quiet but very steady revolution in this country, and what we had been used to look upon as the poor class

Were no Longer the Poor Class Really.

Wages had gone up enormously. It was true the price of living had gone up, but not, he thought, in proportion; and now those who had been most needy in old days, he thought, could afford to contribute to the cost of their treatment in hospital. That was an interesting fact that was borne out in the returns and records of this and very many other hospitals that he had seen. In the case of this hospital, the contribution from the Hospital in and out patients in 1919 had been £785. In that year they had brought before their patients their needs and difficulties, and asked them whether out of their gratitude for the treatment they had received they could not possibly do something to help the Hospital. The result was that the £785 of 1919 had become £3,750 in 1920, £5,518 in 1921, and £6,493 in 1922. (Applause.) Was not this the most splendid series of figures they could possibly read? (Applause.) Did it not show more conclusively than any speeches or any report that the treatment they were giving in this hospital was good, and that those to whom they were giving it were supremely grateful to them for it? (Hear, hear.) He must not detain the meeting too long, but there were two other matters he wanted to mention. One thing was this, that he was perfectly certain with their Treasurer in the chair, and with other Treasurers such as he knew them to be, that however good their circumstances might be, they were always going to be

Asked for More Money.

That, after all, was only necessary. If they remained stationary, they would really be going backward. They had all this vast amount of research going on which was vital for the health and interests of the country, and it was absolutely necessary that they should be in the forefront of progress. Therefore the hospitals would always be requiring more money, though if they did not require it more urgently than the London Homœopathic Hospital, they would be in a very lucky condition. As he had said, the fact of their Treasurer asking them for money made it absolutely necessary for them to give, for he was perfectly certain they could not refuse him. And they were lucky also to have a Chairman of the Board of Management who, without being asked, promptly doubled his own subscription. (Laughter.) He thought this was all he had to say, except to congratulate the meeting most heartily upon the work that had been done. He thought possibly one mistake made in a good many hospitals was that in their reports they talked a good deal too much about what they needed and their many difficulties, and did not tell the people half enough of the

Very Excellent Work that had been Done.

(Hear, hear.) In the case of his own hospital, he was going to try to make a feature in the report this year of showing the really wonderful things that had been done.

The speaker renewed his thanks for having been invited to address the meeting, and once again congratulated the Hospital upon its excellent report. Before sitting down, he added a personal word of congratulation to Dr. John Weir on the high honour that had fallen upon him. Those, he said, who had ever had the honour to be under Dr. Weir's direction, or could call him in any way a friend, congratulated him most heartily on his very well deserved recognition.

Dr. J. C. POWELL seconded the resolution, saying that it gave him very great pleasure to be able to associate himself with the vote of thanks.

The resolution was then put and carried unanimously.

Mr. EDWARD CLIFTON BROWN, J.P. (Vice-Chairman of the Hospital) responded to the vote of thanks, saying he was sure that all present would appreciate his feelings. After all the flattering remarks that had been made, not only about himself personally, and all the nice things that had been said about the Hospital, it was a little difficult for a Vice-Chairman to get up and return thanks as he ought to do; but he did thank all present very sincerely for having passed the vote of thanks, and he thanked Sir Arthur Stanley for all the kind words he had said that day. It was really very gratifying indeed to have Sir Arthur Stanley come there that afternoon, and it had given them great encouragement, and helped them to carry on the work, which was a work of pleasure, but at the same time sometimes had its difficulties. Perhaps everybody did not understand how much help a vote of thanks and kind words, said by a person holding a position such as that of Sir Arthur Stanley, gave, not only to the Board of Management, but to all the Committees and all the workers in the Hospital. The meeting must not take the length of his speech as a measure of the gratitude that he felt, because time was getting on and there were other duties to do; but he wanted to say that a great deal of success of the work of the Board of Management had been owing to the

of this Hospital, and he wished to assure the medical staff that, while the views of the Board of Management must necessarily clash with those of the medical staff—because the Board of Management dealt with the money in hand, and the medical staff dealt with the wants of the Hospital, which were often very extensive—they had tried on both sides throughout the year to understand each other's point of view, and it was only in this way that a hospital could be carried on successfully. He would like to take this opportunity of repeating to the medical staff of the Hospital that the Board of Management appreciated the way that the medical staff had sincerely and honestly tried to see the Board of Management's point of view, whenever there was not perfect agreement between the two sides. As a consequence, the working had been most amicable. It was chiefly the Chairman who did the work, and this made it the more difficult for him (the speaker) to get up and respond. The firm had been called Caird and Donoughmore, and he felt that their Chairman ought to have really got up and responded to the vote of thanks. The Chairman of the Board

Had Promised to Double his Subscription,

and it was to be hoped there would be many followers of this praiseworthy example. Personally, he had a little Scotch blood which made him cautious, and he would not say anything at a meeting like this. (Laughter.) So far as he knew, not a word had been said by the proposer or seconder of this vote of thanks as regards their Lady Visitors. They were mentioned at the end of a long sort of omnibus resolution which he presumed was because it was something to do with ladies—he had heard that a lady always put the most important part of a letter at the end, or even in a postscript. The Board of Management were extremely grateful to those which did undoubted good in the Hospital to the patients. He was sorry that more had not been said about the subject, and sincerely hoped that these Lady Visitors would continue to give the Hospital all their support. He felt that the Vice-Treasurer (Mr. John Mews) deserved a special note of praise, for he most quietly and unofficially did an enormous amount of work. He (the speaker) attended a great many boards and several committees, and it was not often that he had the privilege of seeing their Vice-Treasurer on those committees, but that was because their Vice-Treasurer had a great deal to do elsewhere. Every time he came into the Hospital, he saw the result of their Vice-Treasurer's handiwork, and recognised what a lot of the real work of the Hospital their Vice-Treasurer had been attending to. On the Board, they thanked him very sincerely indeed for the excellent work he had done and the help he had given. Might he (the speaker) conclude with a word about homœopathy? Homœopaths were not cranks, although they were often told they were cranks and something worse; they were working really for the good of humanity. They were not opposed to any school, they had no feeling whatever, for all they were out to do, after a great deal of work, and a great deal of research, was to try and give the world the benefit of their knowledge. They were pleased at the recognition they had recently received through Dr. Weir; that had been already mentioned. They welcomed any investigation and any recognition that came because they felt that the

Lady Visitors, who did Good, Quiet Work,

the greater would be the service that it could render. (Applause.) Nor were they yet quite dead, either as homœopaths or in this hospital. Perhaps some of those present had seen in a newspaper the other day, not indeed that they were actually dead, but that if they were not dead, they were dying! He could assure those present, however, that with their support the members of the Board of Management did not feel like dying, and those letters which had appeared in the paper had been very ably answered by some of the hospital's own doctors, and the Board of Management had been very grateful when they saw those answers. They did not feel a bit like dying, and on the contrary, the encouragement they had recently received had given a great deal of life. He mentioned this because he felt that at a meeting like this, when everything was optimistic, they must not forget those champions of homœopathy who, during many years in the past, when there was not the same encouragement as was given to-day, had nobly fought the battle of homœopathy, and whether in London or in the country—where they had a still harder fight—had helped to put homœopathy in the position that it was in to-day of taking advantage of the honour and the recognition that had been given it. It had been an uphill fight, and on an occasion like this should be remembered. As had been mentioned, the reduction of the deficit on this year's working to £1,400 as against £5,000 last year, and the increase in income of some £2,000, was really no mean effort or success. They wanted to do better, but it had been a very fine year. The result had not been due entirely to the great efforts of the Board of Management, or to the recognition that homœopathy had received. It had been

which had been done in this hospital. For that work the Board of Management were not alone to be praised, though they were to be praised very greatly, and their Chairman particularly. He had thought this was an occasion on which they ought to remember those who had so ably helped them, and he was going to mention three names, perhaps rashly, but he trusted that so doing would give encouragement to others. First of all, he wished to mention with particular gratitude their Secretary, Major Attwood. He as a secretary, was naturally accustomed to kicks, and of these he got plenty. He was there to be kicked on both sides, and had become quite used to it, so much so that his unflinching courtesy, even when being kicked, was quite a pleasure. Anyhow, their Secretary was an enormous help to them; and both he and his department were to be congratulated on the way in which they had carried out their arduous duties during the past year. (Applause.) Another name to be mentioned was that of the Matron, Miss Robinson. She had had a particularly difficult time, for, as many of those present knew, there had been an exceptional number of nurses and sisters laid up at various times. As a result, heavy work and responsibility had fallen on the Matron; and he wished to state publicly before the meeting how much the Board appreciated the way that work had been carried on. (Hear, hear.) Another name that he would like to mention was that of the housekeeper, Miss Hewison. She also had particularly difficult and trying work at times. Everybody knew how trying patients sometimes were, and how difficult in their tempers when things did not go quite right. The general looking after of the Hospital with the domestic labour difficulties required a great deal of attention, and he wished to congratulate the housekeeper, and tell her how much her work and that of her department was appreciated. (Hear, hear.) He was sorry to have taken up so much time; he appealed to all to support the Hospital again in the coming year, and thanked both proposer and seconder, and the meeting, for the very hearty way in which the vote of thanks had been passed. On behalf of the Board of Management and the other committees for whom he was responding, he promised that they would give their best attention to the Hospital's interests again; and he trusted that those present at that meeting would continue their support. (Applause.)

Dr. NEATBY moved a vote of thanks to the Ladies' Guild of the Hospital. He said that the fact that this resolution was placed so early on the list was a sign of the importance that the Board placed upon

The Work of the Ladies' Guild.

He was quite sure that the audience would require very few words from him to explain that work, because most of them knew about it. In some ways it had a peculiar character. He would like to associate it in a certain way with the work of the Medical Staff and the Nursing Staff of the Hospital. That was to say, it brought the workers into a personal touch with the patients, because the Ladies' Guild not only collected money for the Hospital, but they did actual work with their fingers, which was a personal blessing and comfort to the patients themselves; and they often came and spoke to the patients and made their sojourn in the Hospital more pleasurable, and perhaps even shorter than it would have been without their ministrations. Therefore it was really a work which blessed both those who gave and those who received. It was

Essentially a Work of Mercy.

Lord Donoughmore had given already one or two reasons why the Ladies' Guild should be most sincerely thanked for the work it had done. He (the speaker) would only add one more instance of how the Ladies' Guild carried the Hospital in their hearts and minds, namely, the recent At Home that had been given by Mrs. Balfour Williamson and Lady Perks, at Mrs. Balfour Williamson's home. That had been a very great success, particularly as to the charming evening that the ladies had given to those who had had the privilege of being present; but something more than a charming evening was expected to come of it, and he had the feeling that the officials of the Ladies' Guild had worked hard and worked regularly and worked well, and had done what all knew—for it had been recorded from year to year at those meetings and mentioned in the Report—in the way of money and in the way of sympathy. Some institutions of a similar kind were called not ladies' guilds, but fellowships, in connection with the work they were doing, and he thought that perhaps it was possible that the officials of the Ladies' Guild might think over that side and get the rank and file, if he might so put it—that was the unofficial members of the Guild—to take a little more personal part in the work. It was only by multiplying the agencies in that way that they would really get into touch with new members, and, as had already been pointed out by the Chairman of the meeting

New Members were what were Wanted.

If the individual members of the Ladies' Guild would not only go on doing the good work that they had been doing, but would go a little further, and talk to their next door neighbours, or someone with whom they had personal touch, of the work the Hospital was doing, then he thought they would succeed in bringing a considerable accession of membership to the Ladies' Guild. He thought, too, that the Hospital's medical staff really did not take the interest in the Ladies' Guild that they ought to take. For instance, there were not as many members of that staff present as he would like to see to-day, and he thought that somebody might give them a prod. He did not know who this was to be. But the younger men, and the men in general practice who were within easy radius of London and who had no hospital responsibilities of their own on their shoulders were the people that they ought to try to get hold of. He did not know how the Ladies' Guild or the Board of Management of the Hospital could do it, but they should try and interest the new public that it was hoped to get in connection with the Hospital, and he thought perhaps a personal circular signed by the President, as he thought the lady was called, of the Guild, and the Treasurer of the Hospital, and backed by the very venerable founder of the Ladies' Guild, might have some effect in inducing others to join the membership of it. He would like to support what Lord Donoughmore had said, that not only did they do a certain amount of homœopathic work at the Hospital, but they played an integral part in the hospital work of London, and could appeal even to a wider circle than those who were already homœopaths. The great science and art of medicine had larger functions than the very important branch of homœopathy, and all they were fighting for was that in that great work which it certainly deserved, and which other branches of science and art had already taken. He would make another suggestion whereby the Ladies' Guild might perhaps secure new members. The Board of Management might use the Ladies' Guild as its almoner with the patients who contributed for coming to, or at any rate, for being in the Hospital; and he thought the ladies in their visits to the wards might get hold of the patients and make them contribute to go out. (Laughter.) In other words the patients all went out happy, and some were very sorry to leave. There was really trouble in turning out some because they had found their time in the Hospital so pleasant and so useful. Such people ought to be followed to their homes, and asked to show their gratitude by trying to get someone else to help support the Hospital through the ensuing year. He thought he had given quite enough reasons, if these were at all needed, for giving a very sincere vote of thanks to the Ladies' Guild for all they had done for the Hospital during the past year, and during the past 21 years. He thought there really ought to be in some way a fresh movement made, and a fresh step taken forward in celebration of these 21 years of the good work of the Ladies' Guild.

Homœopathy Should Have the Place

Mr. LEE-MATHEWS, in seconding the resolution, said that Dr. Neatby's knowledge of the Ladies' Guild was something like Sam Weller's knowledge of London, it was "extensive and peculiar." He therefore had little to add to the remarks already made, but to second with much pleasure a resolution with which all were in such hearty agreement, and it was carried by acclamation.

Mrs. C. FELLOWS-PEARSON said that in the very regrettable absence of their Chairman (Lady Perks) she had been asked to respond to the very kind things that had been said about the Ladies' Guild. As had been stated, the Ladies' Guild had come of age last year, and she was not going into details of what it had done, for that matter had been spoken of already. But she would like to say that throughout all these 21 years they had had a very keen feeling among the Ladies' Guild of trying to do what they could for the benefit of the Hospital. This had been their dominant note. Homœopathy, like the Waverley pen, came as a boon and a blessing to men. And after these 21 years the Ladies' Guild was still going strong, but she thought they needed new life, as Dr. Neatby had stated. The past belonged to her own generation, but she felt that the future belonged mostly to the younger generation; and the Ladies' Guild hoped that the members of this younger generation would come forward and help in its work, so that a great deal more might be done than had been done. She was quite sure that anybody who joined the Ladies' Guild would enjoy the work, and feel a satisfaction at really doing #### Something Personal to Help the Hospital.

She would like also to appeal to the doctors very earnestly, because, after all, it was very greatly to them, especially to the young doctors, and she was sorry there were not many there that afternoon, to whom the Ladies' Guild had to look. Doctors could interest their patients by telling them about the work that the Ladies' Guild were doing, and in the case of any lady whom a doctor thought would be likely to join the Ladies' Guild, he could give the name and the Ladies' Guild would do the rest. On behalf of the Council of the Ladies' Guild, she thanked the meeting very much for the kind things that had been said. The Ladies' Guild hoped not only to do what it had done in the past, but a great deal more. (Applause.)

Dr. GEORGE BURFORD proposed the re-election of the retiring members of the Board of Management: Mr. R. H. Caird, J.P. (Chairman), Mr. Edward Clifton Brown, J.P. (Vice-chairman), Mr. W. Lee-Mathews, Mr. John A. Scrimgeour, the Hon. Sir Arthur Lyulph Stanley, K.C.M.G., Colonel J. C. Tyler, J.P., and Dr. Hall-Smith, and election of Mr. James Eadie, F.R.C.S., to a seat on the Board. He said it was a very well-recognised principle in good administration that a government should always keep in close contact with its supporters; and it was a very wise procedure in this Hospital that a certain number of the Board of Management resigned in rotation year by year, submitting themselves for re-election. It had always been the proud boast of this Institution that statesmen of eminence, captains of industry, and gentlemen who were past masters in the subtleties of finance, had sat upon its council board, and given their fellow members of the Institution the benefit of their special advice and experience. Such were the men of affairs whose names he had just read over. They were willing to stand for re-election, and with their very excellent past work they must feel conscious that they could say what had been attributed to a very celebrated Englishman whose bicentenary was now being celebrated: "Si monumentum requiris, circumspice"—for this Institution was practically their monument. Fortunately, the meeting had not come to bury Cæsar, but to praise him; and they could all give Godspeed to the members of the new Board in the stress and strain of hospital administration. There was added to that the saving grace of a certain element of the medical profession. Dr. Hall-Smith, one of the physicians of the Institution, and who had been connected with it for many years, was down for re-election; and Mr. Eadie to replace Dr. John Weir, who was retiring after having served five years. Mr. Eadie had made a very brilliant reputation in connection with this Institution. He (the speaker) could recall Mr. Eadie coming there many years ago, first of all as a student from Glasgow, where all the good people came from. (Laughter.) Later, Mr. Eadie had been house-surgeon and now full surgeon, he now sought the proud honour of membership of the Board, and the meeting could not do better than trust a man whose life had been so sincere and constant, and whose good work everybody was speaking of. So much concerned the past; with regard to the future, no one must imagine for a moment that the hospital, or any voluntary hospital, was going to be entirely out of deep waters during the forthcoming 12 months. On one vital issue in particular, he was quite sure the new Board might feel certain of the enthusiastic support of the meeting. Public opinion nowadays wanted something more from a hospital than the solely philanthropic side, though that came first. It was very desirable that the doors of this and similar institutions should be open day and night, so that no one needing their help should be turned away. But that was not all. Public opinion held that the hospitals should be centres of light and leading for medical practice. They were really pace-makers for the general medical profession. Earl Balfour had put it very nicely some time ago when he said that it was not only the business of hospitals to heal the sick, but

By Research and Discovery to Advance the National Health.

This was as much part of the hospital's business as was healing the sick; and public opinion was now very much influenced by the increasing perils which beset the national health. There was one thing in particular the dread of which had crept into every family circle. There was nothing in medicine which excited the public interest so much, or which made the pulses of the public throb more quickly and filled the whole country with so much satisfaction, as when a new drug was discovered for the treatment of cancer. He had heard it said that for cancer research enough money had been raised to equip a fleet of Dreadnoughts, but that still not very much was known about the cause of cancer or about its cure. He had been at a meeting of the Royal Society of Medicine the other day where Sir Arthur Stanley was the principal speaker. Sir Arthur Stanley had been exceedingly cautious about his deliverances, but on one point he had raised the enthusiasm of the meeting, when he said that the Red Cross organisation was prepared to do its very best to publish information far and wide as to the control of cancer, the avoidance of the habits which would lead to cancer, and the methods which should be adopted for the cure of cancer, if the medical profession would only put such information in the hands of the Red Cross Association. Why did not homœopathy have a look in here? Not so long ago, he (the speaker) had met one of the leading surgeons of this country on the steps of this Hospital, and he had then been told that in 50 years' time cancer would be a curable malady. Asked whether this would be by surgery, the surgeon had replied that it would not be by surgery but by medical measures. This Institution was by no means dead or asleep with regard to cancer; there had been held in it repeated cancer conferences, attended by homœopathic physicians from all parts of the country endeavouring to put their heads together to see whether something could not be done to speed up

The Homœopathic Treatment of Cancer.

Some most extraordinary results had rewarded their efforts, and a good deal of this might be read in recent numbers of the Homœopathic World. There had been cures of malignant disease when the case had been given up by the orthodox profession, and after the failure of repeated operations; and these cases had stood in some instances the test of 20 years good health to follow. He was proud to say that by far the best results had been achieved in the neighbourhood of London and in Glasgow, results which previously to the conferences had been kept in the bosoms of the individuals who were sufficiently fortunate to secure them. What he (the speaker) wanted to know was why this kind of thing could not be done a little oftener, and why should not every homœopathic physician repeat these results? What was there wanting in homœopathy in order to put it into the very forefront of effective antagonism to cancer? Speaking with some knowledge of both sides, he knew no method of procedure, surgical or medical, which would hold a candle to the possibilities of homœopathy with regard to the effective meeting of the problem of malignant disease—and he said that with full sense of responsibility. He had had opportunities in this country and abroad of making a considered judgment on this point. What was wanted now? What was wanted was an endowment to establish for we did not know much about cancer. What was wanted was a department which would go into the subject effectively on homœopathic lines, and develop possibilities of treatment on homœopathic lines. An endowment was wanted which would co-ordinate all the homœopathic work done throughout the country by different people who had got very good results, but of which very little was known. A position might be made for homœopathy in this country with regard to cancer research, for the purpose of discovering what remedies would cure, what it was not desirable to waste time on, and what it was desirable to explore to the fullest extent; and he was quite sure that the cancer problem would then possibly be as near to solution as had been suggested by the gentleman who had put 50 years as the time limit. An endowment of at least and he had hoped to have come there that afternoon and to say that endowment had been effected; but had lost his opportunity by a head, so to speak. However, he hoped and expected that at the next annual meeting he might be able to report that the £5,000 had been donated, and that the Cancer Department was at work, with very satisfactory results. He could imagine nothing better after the general support of this institution than that public money should be allotted to cancer research. One of the tests that the public would apply to the maintenance of institutions such as this was, what was it doing for the chief plagues of the day? He was perfectly certain that in the increased work that would thus be put on the shoulders of the new Board, they would have the hearty and enthusiastic approval of those at the present meeting. He had much pleasure in proposing the re-election of the retiring members of the Board of Management. (Applause.)

A Department for Cancer Research

Dr. C. GRANVILLE HEY seconded the resolution, which was then put, and carried unanimously.

Mr. R. H. CAIRD, J.P. (Chairman of the Board of Management) thanked the meeting on behalf of himself and colleagues for their re-election. He said the Board was a very hard working one, its members worked very harmoniously together, and he hoped this would continue to be the case in the future.

Mr. J. F. BADELEY, C.B.E., moved the following resolution: Re-election of the Honorary Medical Staff; re-election of Dr. Margaret Tyler, who, having passed the limit of service, has kindly consented to continue to serve for another year as Auxiliary Assistant Physician; confirmation of the appointments of Dr. C. Granville Hey, Physician for Diseases of Women, Mr. David Morgan Hughes, F.R.C.S., Surgeon; Mr. Cecil Burnham, F.R.C.S., Assistant Surgeon; Dr. Yarrow Eccles, Assistant Physician; Dr. William W. Rorke, Physician for Diseases of the Nervous System; and a vote of thanks to the Medical Staff. The speaker said that the shortness of the time that could be allowed him in moving this resolution reminded him of a story of Queen Victoria. A clergyman had been honoured with a command to preach before Her Majesty, at Windsor, and he had prepared a lengthy discourse for the occasion. Just as he was going to begin, a gentleman stepped up to him and told him that Queen Victoria had a strong aversion to long sermons, and she thought no sermon should last more than 10 minutes. The clergyman had asked, "What can I say in 10 minutes?" and the reply had been, "That is a matter of entire indifference to Her Majesty." (Laughter.) Sir Arthur Stanley had said that the nursing staff were the backbone of the institution; the Honorary Medical Staff might be described as the keynote that gave it its tone. They had a system in their Honorary Medical Staff which was explanatory of the whole voluntary system of the hospitals of this country. They gave time and skill to individual cases, and skill and knowledge to student work. More than that, they exercised an extraordinary influence on the tone of the hospital. When he had been a newcomer to the Hospital, he remembered remarking to a gentleman who had been mentioned a good many times that afternoon, that what struck him most about the hospital was

Its Tone of Helpfulness and Homeliness.

He did not know the honorary staff well enough to say so, but he thought that if the note was a true one it was largely due to them.

Mrs. BALFOUR WILLIAMSON seconded the resolution, and it was carried.

Dr. VICTOR ELLWOOD, M.A., M.D. (Oxon), on behalf of the Honorary Medical Staff thanked the meeting for their re-election. He said he was voicing the feeling of every member when he said that it was the esprit de corps or Pride of Institution which largely provided the motive power of all concerned. Without this, work would be deadened by the narcotic effect of routine, but that this was not the case in the London Homœopathic Hospital he had on the authority of an outside medical critic, who had remarked to him with a certain surprise on the prevalence of a combination of science with a personal interest in the patients. He (Dr. Ellwood) had replied: "That is our tradition." It was a good thing to live up to that tradition, but here was an ever-growing feeling that progress or advance was a very necessary complement, and in this respect the critical onlooker would take a spirit of thoughtful enquiry, and the Honorary Medical Staff were glad to have in their ranks those who were in the forefront of investigation in matters pertaining to biology and the electrical phenomena associated with the manifestations of life. One felt that the missionary spirit was aggressively alive, and that this could only be the case where, as in the present instance, there was an open mind among those concerned to receive, make use of, and apply to their own attitude of therapeutics—namely, the homœopathic—the discoveries abroad in the large general field of science. The broader outlook increased the range of homœopathic practice. He felt, therefore, that it was the ambition of each member of the Medical Staff to justify the election of past annual general meetings by keeping alive their common privilege and tradition, and by a system of co-ordinated research, as, for instance, in the cancer problem, justifying their rank and status among the great general hospitals of London.

Mr. JOHN MEWS, LL.D. (Vice-Treasurer), moved the re-election of the auditors, Messrs. Prideaux, Frere, Brown and Co., Chartered Accountants, 12 Old-square, Lincoln's Inn, W.C.

Mr. R. C. OWST seconded the resolution, and it was carried unanimously.

The London Homœopathic Convalescent Home.

The 34th Annual Report of the London Homœopathic Convalescent Home, Eastbourne, was then submitted by the SECRETARY and taken as read.

Dr. JOHN WEIR moved its adoption and said he was only an understudy, and before saying anything else he would say he was sure that all regretted the absence of Sir George Truscott that afternoon and hoped he would soon be better. No one regretted Sir George Truscott's illness more than he, who had been suddenly promoted from the position of an understudy to that of principal part. He admired the way Mr. Clifton Brown had spoken about the beginning of things in homœopathy and how the present generation should never forget those who had had the hard work to do in the earlier days. It was far easier to keep a thing going than to start it. The present Report of the London Homœopathic Convalescent Home, was the 34th, and it might interest the audience to know that it had been due to the late Major Vaughan Morgan, Mrs. Clifton Brown and Mr. Hugh Cameron that the Convalescent Home had been started at Eastbourne. It had been started for women and children only, and unfortunately there was still no place for men. They had paid their way this last year, which was very satisfactory for a Convalescent Home, and the pleasant feature of the year had been that the King Edward Hospital Fund had given them a grant for the first time. It amounted to £50, and they very gratefully acknowledged it. Altogether, the Home had received about 7,000 patients during its 34 years of existence. It was not always remembered that the Convalescent Home was a great help to the Hospital, and although it was far away, it must not be forgotten that the work done there was done just as if it were done under the eye of the Board in London. Indeed, he thought it was really better done, because the people in control at the Home were on their mettle.

Dr. Croucher had been very kind in looking after cases that required help, and Sister Alicia also must be mentioned. If you went there at any time you would find the house cleaner than you would expect to find it if your visit had been anticipated. Major Attwood had said that what the Home needed first was funds, so that it might be extended, and a place made for men. The list of those who gave an annual subscription to the Home was a very small one, half the people present in that room were not on it—he, himself, had just got on by the skin of his teeth, so that he could talk. (Laughter.) The value of a Home like this was that it shortened convalescence. The male patients were, at present, sent to Bexhill, and the female patients to Eastbourne, so as to shorten their stay in the Hospital. People could not be kept in the Hospital too long, as they must remember the poor souls who were waiting to get into the Hospital. Donations were needed towards the maintenance fund for the Convalescent Home, and also for providing rides for the patients. The Home was really too far away from the sea for a convalescent home; patients had to get down to the sea, and it was tiring work for them coming back. Above all, what was wanted was the personal interest of those he was speaking to in visiting the Home; then they could see what fine work was being done and know what they were asked to subscribe for. With the greatest pleasure he moved the adoption of the Report and Accounts for the year 1922. (Applause).

The Rev. BROWN-GOLD seconded the resolution. He said they had thanked the nursing and medical staffs for the success the Hospital had achieved, and surely if they were logical people and wanted that success to be made permanent, they could not do better than support such an institution as the Convalescent Home.

The resolution was carried unanimously.

Sir ARTHUR STANLEY moved a very hearty vote of thanks to the Chairman for presiding. This was carried by acclamation, and, the Chairman having briefly responded, the proceedings terminated.

Patients attending the Hospital contribute, when able, towards the cost of their maintenance.

Patients, unless DESTITUTE, provide their own tea, butter and sugar.

† N.B.—The low average number of beds occupied and the relatively high cost of same in 1921 are attributable to the fact that they are calculated on a full year, in accordance with the three Funds requirements, regardless of the two months, July 15—Sept. 15, during which the Hospital was closed for structural alterations. Had they been calculated on the period during which the Hospital was open they would have been 115 and £3 2s. 1d. respectively.

‡ These averages are found by dividing the amounts against each of the sub-heads (7) to (14) and against the totals, by the average number of In-Patients resident daily (No. 2 above) and dividing by the number of weeks in the year.

Note.—These Statistical Tables are prepared in accordance with instructions issued by the three Hospital Funds. It is, however, necessary to point out that the division of Expenditure between In-and-Out-Patients is based upon estimates, and must not be regarded as the actual Expenditure in either case.

LONDON HOMŒOPATHIC HOSPITAL,
with particulars of
ENDOWED BEDS AND COTS,
Specially Named, Endowed or Supported.

The highest form of Benefit conferrable upon the Hospital is the Endowment of a Ward, Bed, or Cot. It is the most satisfactory method of helping the Charity, as the amount is invested and thus becomes a permanent source of income.

The benefactions which confer the privilege of Endowment are as follows:—

	Bed.	Cot.
Perpetual Endowment - - -	£1,000*	£750*
Annual Endowment - - -	50	35

Subject to the General Rules and Regulations of the Hospital, Donors endowing or supporting Beds and Cots as above will enjoy the privilege of naming such Beds or Cots, and also of nominating Patients to occupy them, it being always understood that the Medical Officers of the Hospital shall decide whether any Patient so recommended is a fit and proper person to be admitted to the benefits of the Charity.

* May be paid in four annual instalments.

The Board earnestly Appeal for LEGACIES to enable them to keep pace with the urgent and increasing cost of maintaining the always growing work and activities.

The following Forms of Devises of Real Estate, and Bequests of Personal Estate, are recommended to all benevolent Persons who wish to become Benefactors to this Charity by Will:—

The sum to be expressed in words or figures.

Similar forms may be used in a codicil, as for instance:—

In witness, &c.

Persons making a will or codicil should always remember that no will or codicil is valid unless it is signed by the testator in the presence of two witnesses, both present at the same time, who must then sign their names in the presence of the testator; and it is best to put the following form at the foot of the will before they sign.

Signed and acknowledged by the said A.B. as his will in the presence of us, present at the same time, who in his presence, at his request, and in the presence of each other, have herunto affixed our names as witnesses } A.B.

These efforts, which have received so admirable a start, are being continued with increased vigour during the present year, and a strong appeal is made to every friend of the Hospital for the help that is required in fulfilment of His Royal Highness' desire.

LIST OF LIFE GOVERNORS, DONORS AND ANNUAL SUBSCRIBERS, 1916 to 1922.

In view of the growing inadequacy of the Hospital's Income from Annual Subscriptions, a strong appeal is now made to existing Subscribers for an introduction of further support in this direction from among their relatives and friends. Much valuable help could thus be rendered and would largely contribute towards the Hospital's efforts to raise an Annual Income from this source of £3,000.

A Yearly Subscription of THREE GUINEAS constitutes an Annual Governor.

*A Donation of THIRTY GUINEAS constitutes a Life Governor, which sum may, if desired, be paid in Annual Instalments.
Annual Subscription from 10s. 6d.*

Bold Capitals denote the Subscription was obtained through the kindness of a Branch of THE LADIES' GUILD.

If any Subscriber's proper Title be here misstated or inadvertently omitted, it is requested that notice thereof may be forwarded to the Secretary, in order that it may be rectified in future lists.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.—As no collector is employed (thereby avoiding considerable expense) the Secretary has instructions to send a notice to each Subscriber during the month in which the Subscription is registered. Annual Subscriptions are considered due on the corresponding date of the first payment, and their prompt remission considerably facilitates the Hospital's financial arrangements and lightens the difficulties now experienced in efficiently maintaining the Hospital.

Annual Subscribers' Bankers' Orders.

The Secretary begs to draw the attention of Subscribers to the advantages of the system—now extensively adopted—of giving an order upon their Bankers for the payment of each year's subscription as it falls due. By this method the Subscribers are saved the trouble of drawing an annual cheque for the subscription, and at the same time they assist in the work of the office, as the Hospital does not employ a Collector, while economy is effected by a saving of the increased stamp duty, amounting to 2d. for cheques and 1½d. for letter postage.

A form is enclosed with this Report, which, if signed and returned to the Secretary, he will, after entering in the Register, forward to the Bankers in due course.

THE FOLLOWING LIST

Contains the Names of Subscribers and Donors. to the General Funds, and the Special Appeal Funds since January 1st, 1916.

For Donations prior to 31st December, 1915, see the Annual Report for that year, the list to that date not being now reprinted.

Donations of less than £1 appear by name in the list for the year in which they were received, and do not appear by name in this list, but in Total Amounts under £1.

MEMORANDA.

If every one who takes an interest in the London Homœopathic Hospital will enlist the sympathies of a few more friends in its behalf to become Annual Subscribers much valuable aid will be rendered and great good accomplished.

The Secretary will be very glad to receive from supporters of the Hospital the names and addresses of any friends to whom they would like a copy of this report to be sent.

The total expenditure for the last three years averages £23,434 per annum.

The Subscription List for the last three years averages £2,131 per annum.

A Subscription List of £3,000 per annum must now be raised for the continued welfare of the Hospital

The average yearly Deficit for the last three years is £8,045.

The average length of Patients' stay in the Hospital is 26·2 days

The cost of each occupied bed was last year £2 18s. 9d. per week.

It should also be borne in mind that the Hospital is usually full; and that there are often a certain number of eligible cases on the Admission List awaiting their turn to be admitted as vacancies arise.

The parents, relations, and friends of the Patients are admitted on Sunday and Thursday afternoons between 2 and 4 o'clock.

Visitors are reminded of the danger of coming to see the children in the Hospital after having been in contact with any infectious disease.

Those interested in the work of this Hospital are invited to visit it any week-day between 11 and 5 o'clock; and if desirous of becoming regular weekly visitors, to communicate with the Matron.

Collection Cards are already printed, and the Committee will be very grateful to any Lady who will kindly undertake the charge of a small Subscription List. The Secretary will be glad to receive applications for these cards or for Collecting Boxes.

It would much facilitate the collection of contributions if Subscribers, for whom such a method might be convenient, would kindly make use of the Banker's Form—now extensively adopted to give an order upon their Bankers for the payment of each year's subscription as it falls due. Now that the Stamp Duty on cheques is increased to 2d. and the Letter Postage to 1½d. the use of this Bank Order Form would be a true economy. Also if those whose subscriptions become due in December would be so good as to forward them before the 25th AT LATEST.

In view of the objectionable use made of Subscription Lists in compiling appeal directories, and for begging purposes, the addresses of contributors are omitted from the printed list.

Early advice of changes of address, or of any inaccuracies in the entries, is particularly requested.

REPORT TO DECEMBER 31st, 1922.

THE GUILD consists of a central association and branch associations each with its own officers, and managing its own business.

OBJECTS OF THE GUILD :

1. To increase the annual subscriptions to the Hospital.
2. To support one or more beds in the Hospital.
3. To make garments for the use of patients in the Hospital.
4. To arrange for ladies to visit the patients in the wards.
5. To take up any other work in connection with the Hospital which may commend itself to a general meeting of the Guild.

The members are of two classes

(a) Honorary members, who shall pay a minimum annual subscription of one guinea to their Branch for the Hospital, and half-a-crown to the funds of their Branch.

(b) Working members, who shall pay a minimum annual subscription of five shillings to the funds of their Branch, and who will be expected to take an active part in the work of their Branch, either by visiting in the wards, attending the working party, or undertaking to contribute at least two garments a year.

TWENTY-FIRST ANNUAL REPORT.

The Twenty-first Annual Report of the Council of the Ladies' Guild for the year ending December 1922

The year has been an outstanding one in the history of the Ladies' Guild by reason of the fact that on July 3, 1922 it completed twenty-one years of service to the Hospital. The Guild was inaugurated on July 3, 1901 at a drawing-room meeting arranged by the Countess Cawdor, at which Dr. Neatby successfully advocated his idea that a Ladies' Guild would be of use to the Hospital. The Countess Cawdor became the President—which position she still holds.

The first branch was started in Hampstead—others quickly followed and in the autumn of the same year, the first Council of the Guild met and appointed Lady Perks the first Chairman, and Mrs. S. H. Holman the Honorary Secretary.

Mrs. Fellows-Pearson, the President of the Hampstead branch, and Mrs. Kimber, the first Honorary Secretary of the branch, were also at the first meeting of the Council, and it is interesting to note that all these ladies are still on the Council of the Guild.

At the beginning of 1922 the Council decided to commemorate the twenty-first year of the life of the Guild by giving some extra help to the Hospital, and with this end in view they decided to hold a Birthday Fete and Sale of Work in order to raise extra funds. This Birthday Fete accordingly took place on July 4, 1922 at 11 Kensington Palace Gardens, which was most generously lent to the Council by Sir Robert and Lady Perks—and which resulted in the sum of £317 16s. 10d. being raised. The Council then decided to hold the Annual Pound Day in the autumn and to add the money which would then be given, to the proceeds of the Birthday Fete, so as to bring the total amount up to £400, which sum it was estimated would keep the Hospital for a week.

This plan was carried out and after a successful Pound Day which was held on October 20, 1922, the sum of £400 was given to run the Hospital for a week in commemoration of the twenty-first Birthday of the Ladies' Guild.

Other gifts from the Ladies' Guild to the Hospital in 1922 include Christmas turkeys and pheasants, annual subscriptions, and garments made by the members according to the following lists:—

About 900 lb. in goods were also given on the Pound Day, which was again a most successful function.

We are glad to be able to give such an encouraging report, and hope that the year 1923 will bring further encouragement in increased membership.

January 31st, 1923.

EMMA HOLMAN,
Hon. Secretary Ladies' Guild.

THIRTY-FOURTH ANNUAL REPORT

The Board of Management, in presenting their Thirty-fourth Annual Report of the London Homœopathic Convalescent Home, are pleased to state that during the past year 224 persons have benefited by residence, against 213 the previous year, bringing the total, since the opening of the Home in 1888, up to 6,665.

The Annual Subscriptions and the donations show a slight increase, the fees from Patients are more than the previous year to the extent of £71.

The Home has received an award of £50 from the King Edward's Fund an award of £5 from the League of Mercy, (for which grant the Board are again much indebted to the kind offices of Mr. Alderman H. W. Keay, J.P.) The Metropolitan Hospital Sunday Fund's award was £10 as against £5 of the preceding year, and the Hospital Saturday Fund £100, as against £100 in 1921.

The Home still suffers under the disadvantage of not being able to admit Male Patients, the scheme for the extension of the Home having been deferred by the Trustees on account of the present unfavourable time for building or acquiring property. The Board would, however, be encouraged to advise its procedure should any of the friends and supporters of the Home be able to offer, or obtain an offer at a reasonable cost, of premises which could be adapted for the required purpose, and will communicate with the Secretary.

The disadvantage is especially felt in the case of men who have undergone operations, to whom an entire change of air and scene is imperative to enable them to speedily regain robust health, and it is especially desirable that they should be sent to a Convalescent Home under Homœopathic auspices.

The fund now stands at £4,573 10s. 2d., being increased by interest on investments on behalf of the fund, amounting to £187 18s. 3d. for the year. It is sincerely hoped, with the generous aid of the Home's supporters, it will be so augmented that the Board may be enabled to proceed with the provision of this long-felt need.

In the meantime the very excellent arrangement made with a Convalescent Home at Bexhill-on-Sea, to receive our male patients, is being continued.

The cost of maintaining each patient per week has been £1 11s. 2d. against £1 19s. 10½d., last year. This amount includes domestic staff, rent, rates, repairs, coals, lighting, salaries, printing (with Annual Report), and travelling expenses.

The benefits of the Home are not limited to those who have been patients in the London Homœopathic Hospital, but convalescents from the Hospital with a Subscriber's Letter have a prior claim for admission. Patients can be received from outside the Hospital, and there is a Private Room for paying patients at Four Guineas per week.

The Board desire to express their thanks to Dr. Croucher for his assiduous attention to his duties as medical officer of the Home; to the Honorary Auditors, Messrs. Whinney, Smith and Whinney, Chartered Accountants, 4B, Frederick's Place, E.C., who have so generously audited the accounts gratuitously for the last thirty-four years; and to the many friends who have made useful presents for the advantage of the patients.

Visitors to Eastbourne are invited to pay a visit to the Home (36, Enys Road), where they will always find a hearty welcome from the Matron.

The Board trust that some of the friends of the London Homœopathic Hospital, and others who have not hitherto given any support to the Convalescent Home, may be induced to subscribe to it and so help on further development.

Full particulars regarding the privileges of donors and subscribers are given on inside of back cover of this report.

In conclusion, the Board desires to express its appreciation of the assistance received from the Lady Visitors; its thanks to the Matron and her Staff for their care in promoting the comfort of the Patients; and its gratitude to the kind friends who have so generously contributed to the funds during the past year.

Signed on behalf of the Board of Management,

EDWARD A. ATTWOOD, F.C.I.S.

Secretary.

ADA COT.—Endowed by the Executors of the Estate of the late Miss LUCY PFEIL, 1915.

The cost of Endowment of a Bed in the Home (by Legacy or Gift) entitling to have one bed always at the disposal of the Executors or Donor, absolutely free of any payment by the patient—is £1,000. The Wards are named in memory of the larger supporters of the Home.

The Endowment of a Bed is a most effective manner of helping the Home, as the amount is invested and thus becomes a permanent source of income. A brass plate with details of the benefaction is placed above the bed if so desired.

Homœopathic Convalescent Home

36, ENYS ROAD, EASTBOURNE.

For Women and Girls Only.

FOUNDED AND OPENED AUGUST 25TH, 1888.

Appeal for Funds to extend the present Home, or provide a new Home for the admission of MALE PATIENTS.

With the increasing attention which the medical profession give to the provision of proper convalescent accommodation, too much importance cannot be attached to this branch of charitable work.

It directly increases the usefulness of the Hospital by enabling patients to be admitted to the Convalescent Home, thus increasing the accommodation at the Hospital, sooner than would otherwise be possible.

There are always a large number of patients during the year who would lose most of the benefits received in the Hospital wards if they had to return direct to their own homes, with the probability that they would at once endeavour to resume their daily work. For these the Convalescent Home at Eastbourne is an indispensable adjunct to the Hospital.

Accommodation for the reception of Male Patients is urgently required.

The Board is emboldened to make this appeal by the fact that the Convalescent Home Funds are strictly administered on the principle of helping those who help themselves. No less than 50 per cent. of the Expenditure for the past year was provided by the patients themselves, or by persons or societies on their behalf.

The benefits of convalescence in the fresh air of the country or the sea-side are recognised by all. The sick poor who are treated within the walls of the London Homœopathic Hospital greatly need this convalescence, and the Board ask for the additional means to give it to the Male Patients of the Hospital as well as to the Children and Women, as at present, and can assure contributors that what is given will be wisely and economically administered.

Nearly £4,600 has been already promised or paid.

The Board feel that they have only to make this want known to the many friends of the Hospital to secure the remaining sum still required at an early date. Donations or promises may be addressed to any member of the Medical Staff of the Hospital, or the Home, or to any Homœopathic Physician, or to the undersigned—at the Convalescent Home, 36, Enys Road, Eastbourne.
