Report of the Board of Governors of the SOCIETY OF THE LYING-IN HOSPITAL 1932

The Board of Governors of the Society of the Lying-In Hospital submits herewith its report for the 134th fiscal year of the Society, ending December 31, 1932.

That year was notable in that it marked the removal of the Hospital from the building it had occupied for thirty years on Second Avenue from 17th to 18th Streets to its new home at the southwest corner of 70th and Exterior Streets, which was constructed with two million dollars generously provided by the Rockefeller Foundation as a memorial to Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Senior. On the south wall of the entrance hall of the new Hospital, is a tablet with the following inscription:

This Building
Dedicated to the well-being of
Mothers and Babies
Is given in memory of
Laura Spelman Rockefeller
Anno Domini 1928

Opposite this tablet on the north wall of the entrance hall is another tablet reading as follows:

Founded in 1799
The Society of the Lying-In Hospital
Initiated its work within
The New York Hospital in 1801
This work was later conducted in the building erected and endowed by
John Pierpont Morgan
(1837 - 1913)
at Second Avenue Seventeenth and Eighteenth Streets
Now joined with the New York Hospital
The work goes forward here
1932

On September 1, 1932, this building was opened for patients and is now fully occupied.

In the attached report of Dr. Henricus J. Stander, Obstetrician and Gynecologist-in-Chief, the details of the operation of the institution are set forth. From January 1st to September 1st, Dr. James A. Harrar, the former Chief Surgeon of the Lying-In Hospital, ably conducted this service. From September 1st to December 31st Dr. Stander assumed direction and is supported by Dr. Harrar and all the former Attending and Associate Attending Surgeons of the Lying-In Hospital. Dr. Stander's report shows how efficient and extensive this service has been for the entire year.

The Ladies' Auxiliary has established itself in its new quarters and continues its invaluable service. We are very grateful to the members of the Auxiliary for their devoted efforts in behalf of the Hospital and its patients. Mrs. Junius S. Morgan, Jr. has added to the Hospital Library complete sets of "Medicine" and "Acta Obstetricia et Gynecologica Scandinavica." This is a notable addition to our collection of books and will be of inestimable benefit to the members of the medical staff.

The new Hospital building reflects the most careful and scientific planning and is believed to be admirably adapted for obstetrical and gynecological work.

EDWARD W. SHELDON

Medical Report

I have the honor to present the report of the Society of the Lying-In Hospital for the year 1932.

During the first eight months of the year the work of the institution was conducted in the old building at Second Avenue and Seventeenth and Eighteenth Streets, under the able leadership of Dr. James A. Harrar. The results obtained during that period were even better than those of the preceding year, the maternal mortality being only 3.4 per thousand as compared with 4 per thousand in the Lying-In in 1931, and with over 6.5 per thousand throughout the United States.

On September first, 1932, the activities of the Lying-In were transferred to the new building on Seventieth Street and the East River. Due to the generous and unfailing interest of the Board of Governors we are now housed in a modern, exceedingly well-planned and well-equipped building, designed for the care of obstetrical and gynecological patients. We desire to express our appreciation to the Board of Governors, not only for having made this possible but also for the constant support they have given us. It is our earnest hope that our results will in a measure justify their efforts.

The Lying-In Hospital, in its new quarters, became part of the New York Hospital-Cornell Medical College Association and so assumed the form of a University Woman's Clinic. The new Lying-In Hospital is a unit complete for the care of maternity and gynecological patients, for the education of medical students in the field of obstetrics and gynecology, for the thorough training of doctors in this field, and for conducting research work in the many unsolved problems in this branch of medicine.

The closing of the Lying-In Hospital and the opening of the new clinic were effected without mishap to any patient. Although the first patient to the new hospital was not admitted until September first, emergency antenatal clinics had to be started by August fifteenth in order to effect a smooth and successful transfer of activities from the one to the other hospital.

The new Lying-In Hospital, opened September first, 1932, provides 134 maternity and 42 gynecological beds. Of these, 16 obstetrical and 10 gynecological beds are for private patients, all the remaining being for ward patients. Together with these 170 hospital beds, the clinic conducts an outdoor delivery service in the area east of Fifth Avenue, south of 86th and north of 34th Streets, as well as the Berwind Outdoor Delivery Service in the Harlem district. The Outdoor Service at 127 Chrystie Street, which for many years was conducted by the Lying-In Hospital, is now under the direction of the Bellevue School for Midwives which covers the district from its branch office at 256 Mott Street.

During the first four months of operation of the new hospital, there were 732 indoor and 375 outdoor deliveries, a total of 1,273 obstetrical patients discharged, including deliveries, abortions, and ante and postpartum admissions, there were four women who died, a gross maternal mortality of 3.4 per thousand, and a gross infantile death rate of 3.565 per cent.

In the gynecological division, during this four-month period, there were 154 patients discharged. The number of gynecological operations performed was 116. One patient died on the fourteenth post-operative day, giving a gross mortality of 0.649 per cent and a post-operative mortality of 0.862 per cent for this service.

Through the splendid assistance of the Ladies' Auxiliary Board a very complete department of Social Service has been developed, consisting of four workers and two secretaries. This department is now an intimate part of the Lying-In Hospital and the social workers come in close touch with all the patients in the out-patient clinics, in the hospital wards, and with a certain number in their homes. For the excellent help from the Ladies' Auxiliary Board, which has made this possible, I wish to express my appreciation.

The Department of Pediatrics, in charge of Dr. O. M. Schloss, has taken care of all our new-born babies. The results obtained, in full term as well as in premature babies, have been very excellent, and I desire to acknowledge my sincere thanks to Dr. Schloss and his staff.

To the Department of Nursing, under the direction of Miss Lila J. Napier during the first eight months, and in charge of Miss Verda Hickcox for the last four months of the year, we are indebted for nursing care of a very high order. This is reflected in the low maternal morbidity rate for the whole year. The nursing care in a maternity hospital is of the utmost importance and plays a major role in our constant fight to reduce maternal mortality. Any encouraging results that we may have been able to show in this respect are in large measure due to the efficient cooperation received from the members of our nursing staff.

Reports by Dr. James A. Harrar, Chief Surgeon, and Miss Lila J. Napier, Directress of Nurses, covering the first seven and one-half months of 1932, will be found in the next several pages. Following these are the reports for the remaining period of the year.

I cannot refrain from expressing to the members of my staff, both attending and house officers, my appreciation of their whole-hearted cooperation in this period of readjustment. Changes incident to the opening of the new hospital called for many sacrifices and these were, in all instances, willingly made.

H. J. STANDER, M. D.
Obstetrician and Gynecologist-In-Chief.

Medical Report

It is my privilege to present the Medical Report of the Society of the Lying-In Hospital of New York for the first seven and a half months of 1932, representing the final annual report of its service in the old building at Second Avenue and 17th Street, occupied these past thirty years.

To the last the Board of Governors were attentive and generous in their support of the work of the Hospital.

During these seven and a half months we confined 1,893 women on the Indoor Service and 435 in their homes, a total of 2,328 confinements.

Of those confined in the Hospital, including regular applicants and emergency cases, six died, a maternal mortality of 3.11 per thousand, less than one third of one per cent. Of those confined on the Outdoor Service, two were transferred after delivery into the Hospital wards, one on account of puerperal sepsis and one on account of ruptured uterus and died after transfer into the Hospital. During April, May, June and July we delivered 910 consecutive mothers on the Indoor Service without a maternal death.

As to the morbidity rate on the Indoor Service: using as an index any rises in temperature on two consecutive days to 100.4° or above, including labor day. We had 181 mothers with such elevation of temperature, a gross morbidity rate on the Indoor Service of 9.5 per cent. These figures include breast conditions and upper respiratory infections.

For these good results in addition to our airy and sunny wards we have to thank the care and technique of the Attending Surgeons, the Internes and the faithful Nursing Staff.

The Ladies' Auxiliary took even greater interest than in previous years and their visiting committee made monthly rounds of inspection and follow up on the social service that they had so generously established the previous year.

The antepartum clinic worked up to the last giving prenatal care to expectant mothers.

The last baby was born July 26th and the last mother left the Hospital on August 6th.

JAMES A. HARRAR, M. D.

Chief Surgeon.

REPORT OF THE NURSING SERVICE AT THE LYING-IN HOSPITAL

From January 1, 1932 to August 15, 1932

The nursing at the Lying-In Hospital in the last eight months of its existence was carried on as in former years by student nurses from other hospitals affiliating for their obstetric training. Post graduate students and graduate nurses on general floor duty.

The hospitals sending students were:

Lenox Hill Hospital.....	20
New York Hospital.....	4
Post Graduate Hospital.....	6
St. Mary's Hospital for Children	7
St. Vincent's Hospital.....	8
Total number pupil nurses.....	45
Post graduate students admitted....	52

Resignations were received from two of the post graduate nurses and one student nurse returned to her own school because of illness.

The students admitted on May 15th, which was the last class, were released on August 6th because of the decrease in the admission of patients. Graduate nurses were employed until the hospital closed to complete the nursing and assist in the closing of the different departments.

The affiliation of the New York Post Graduate Hospital with the Lying-In Hospital ended with the class admitted May 15th. No other changes were made in the relations with the affiliating hospitals during the year.

Most of the Charge Nurses left the hospital before it closed for similar work with The Margaret Hague Hospital in Jersey City, where the Lying-In Hospital technique was adopted. This affected the nursing organization somewhat but the remaining members of the staff were most cooperative and every effort was made to keep up the teaching and nursing standard.

Many former nurses returned to the Hospital before its closing to express their appreciation of the opportunities and experience they had received in their affiliation with the institution.

Respectfully submitted,

LILA J. NAPIER, R. N.

Directress of Nurses.

Report of Nursing Activities

From August 15, 1932 to December 31, 1932

I herewith submit the report of the nursing activities of the Lying-In Hospital for the last months of the year of 1932.

The organization of the department began in August. During this month about fifteen nurses were engaged in setting up equipment, preparing supplies and studying various techniques. Under the direction and guidance of Dr. Stander and members of his staff, definite techniques in the care and treatment of patients were evolved. Each division, namely, the admitting service, labor and delivery, operating, nursery and pavilion services were carefully organized to give the best possible care to patients.

The formal opening of the clinic was preceded by an informal meeting of the medical and nursing staffs. At this time Dr. Stander presented the aims and ideals of the department. He outlined the responsibilities of the clinic to the community and emphasized the part the nurses were to take in this responsibility.

On the morning of September 1, five of the seven pavilions were in readiness for the reception of patients. The nursing staff consisted of the following:

Head of Department.....	1
Supervisors.....	4
Assistant Supervisor.....	1
Head Nurses.....	8
Charge Nurses.....	2
Assistant Head Nurses.....	6
General Staff Nurses.....	18
Supplementary Staff
Secretary.....	1
Attendants.....	14
Orderlies.....	6
Total.....	61

In order to meet the demands made by the rapid increase of patients and the opening of the remaining two pavilions, the staff was necessarily enlarged by the first of October.

Eleven students of the New York Hospital School of Nursing, came to the clinic on September the first. Five had completed an affiliation at the old Lying-In Hospital and had elected additional practice in obstetrics. They finished their course of training in the department and upon graduation they were given positions in the clinic. The other six students were sent to the Out-Patient Department for four weeks of practice and instruction.

On October first seventeen graduate students entered the school for a four months' course in obstetrical and gynecological nursing. The majority of these were students who had applied for graduate study at the Lying-In Hospital.

On October fifth twenty-six affiliating students from the following schools entered for a three months' course in obstetrics:

Bloomington Hospital School of Nursing	1
Lenox Hill Hospital School of Nursing . . .	10
Moses Taylor Hospital School of Nursing .	3
Ogden Mills Hospital School of Nursing . .	4
St. Mary's Hospital School of Nursing . . .	4
St. Vincent's Hospital School of Nursing .	4

Formal classes were begun the first of October. They consist of lectures, clinics, demonstrations and conferences by doctors and nurses. Practice is given in antepartum and postpartum care, in care during labor and delivery, care of the new-born, and in assisting in the operating room and the Out-Patient Department. The latter includes one week with the Maternity Center Association.

The staff as of December 31, 1932 was as follows:

Head of Department	1
Supervisors	5
Assistant Supervisor	1
Head Nurses	10
Charge Nurses	2
Assistant Head Nurses	8
General Staff Nurses	82
Supplementary Staff
Secretary	1
Clerks	3
Attendants	26
Orderlies (2 in Pathological Laboratories)	8
Total	147

I wish to take this opportunity to thank Dr. Stander and his staff for their interest and helpful suggestions in the planning and administration of the nursing service, and for the course of lectures which they have given to the student nurses. Gratitude is also due to the other departments of the hospital who have cooperated with us in so many ways during these first difficult months of organization.

Respectfully submitted,

VERDA F. HICKCOX, R. N.

Head of Obstetrical and Gynecological
Nursing Service and Instruction.

History No. 7470—Acute pulmonary edema

Patient, age 28, primipara, colored, was admitted as an emergency from the Berwind Clinic following a low forceps delivery and repair of an episiotomy under ether anesthesia. Duration of labor was 15 hours. Shortly after delivery patient began to show signs of pulmonary distress and was sent to the hospital. Patient was moribund on admission and died shortly afterward. Infant discharged well. Diagnosis: Acute pulmonary edema.

History No. 2107—Postpartum hemorrhage

Patient, age 32, para 1, gravida 2, white, admitted with mild toxemia. Given medical induction of castor oil and 1.5 grains of quinine. One hour after termination of induction had an attack of cyanosis and labored respiration lasting two hours. Low forceps delivery after a labor of 8 hours and 47 minutes, repair of episiotomy and third degree tear. Child was stillborn—short cord with loop about infant's neck. Manual removal of placenta after third stage of 67 minutes, because of shock after loss of 400 cc. of blood. Later 600 cc. of blood were lost, and in spite of all methods of treatment, patient died 2 hours later. Diagnosis: circulatory failure, post-partum hemorrhage, shock, cervical tear.

History No. 13143—Lobar pneumonia

Patient, age 26, para 2, white, delivered spontaneously of a living child weighing 3,145 grams after a labor lasting 84 hours, second stage 72 minutes. Three weeks prior to admission patient had a severe cold. At time of admission, temperature was normal, chest normal, although patient had a productive cough. At time of labor, the respiratory symptoms became more marked. Following delivery respiratory condition cleared up, but on the second post-partum day there was marked respiratory distress and cyanosis. Patient sank into coma and died on the third day postpartum. Infant discharged well. Diagnosis: Lobar pneumonia, left side. Pneumococcus type IV.

History No. 16899—Lobar pneumonia

Patient, age 26, unregistered, primigravida, white, seven months pregnant, was admitted with diagnosis of left lobar pneumonia of four days' duration. Patient was unconscious and in marked respiratory distress. Condition continued to become worse and death occurred twelve hours after admission. Diagnosis: Lobar pneumonia, left lower. Pneumococcus, type IV.

REPORT OF THE BABIES' CLASS

January 1st to August 15th 1932

Number of former patients treated.....	4,804
Number of new patients treated.....	1,400
Total number of patients treated.....	6,204
Number of calls made on patients in their homes, by the two Class nurses.....	1,924

The last seven and a half months which the Babies' Class spent in its old quarters were busy ones notwithstanding the fact that toward the end the Class attendance became gradually smaller. As it became known to the mothers that the Class would no longer be continued at Second Avenue and Eighteenth Street, some of them joined clinics nearer to their own homes.

During May our usual special clinic for smallpox vaccination was held, all babies who were well enough and whose mothers would permit, were vaccinated.

At each Class session toxin-antitoxin was given to suitable cases, mothers seldom refusing to permit this preventive treatment, many of them even requesting to have this done.

As always our Sun Lamp Class was very popular with the mothers. The Class technician gave the general treatments three times weekly until the first of May, while the doctor in charge of this work gave the special treatments for several weeks longer.

On the whole, the year of 1932 was a healthy one for babies, while no doubt financial aid was needed more among many of our patients, somehow the babies of the families seldom suffered for lack of good milk or other food most needed by them during the first two years of life. When they could not have orange juice, tomato juice or mashed bananas could often be substituted as these foods are less expensive at many seasons.

By cooperating with other agencies, it was possible to secure good milk for our bottle-fed babies and suitable food for the mothers nursing their infants. The weekly gain in weight, noted for our Class babies, was quite as good this year as in more prosperous times. Hence we do not feel that economic conditions have seriously affected our babies thus far. Possibly older children in the same families have felt the pinch of depression times more.

It has certainly been a great satisfaction to all of us who established the Babies' Class in 1903, to watch its steady growth and to have been able to give so many thousands of babies, the right start in life. In many cases we have had patients from two generations of the same families. We hope the conduct of this work for babies will be as much enjoyed by those who now carry it on in its new quarters, as it has been by those of us who have had charge of it since its organization in the old building on Second Avenue.

Pediatrician.
