Programme of Census Reports and other census information

The Census 1961, England and Wales, Preliminary Report, published in June, 1961, contains a general note on the taking of the census, some brief preliminary statistical commentary and provisional figures of the population, private households and private dwellings for all local authority areas (counties, boroughs, urban and rural districts) regions, conurbations and New Towns.

The present series of County Reports comprises the statistics of local interest which were collected on a 100 per cent basis. The subjects covered are population and acreages of local government areas; distribution of the local populations according to sex, age and marital condition; birthplace, citizenship and nationality; private households and their size distribution, the buildings, dwellings and rooms in which they live, the tenure of their accommodation and certain household arrangements possessed by them; institutions of different types, housing various categories of non-private population. This series does not contain any information which was collected on a 10 per cent sample basis and therefore does not include distributions of the population by terminal education age or by social class as were included in the corresponding series of the 1951 Census.

The Report on Scientific and Technological Qualifications gives statistics of persons with those qualifications and the occupations and industries in which they work. This report is on a 10 per cent sample basis and relates to Great Britain.

The Report on the Welsh Speaking Population gives statistics derived from the question about speaking the Welsh language addressed to those enumerated in Wales and Monmouthshire.

The Birthplace and Nationality tables comprise summaries of the information given in the County Reports on birthplace, citizenship and nationality.

The Usual Residence tables compare the enumerated census population in local areas with the population usually resident in those areas and also give the numbers enumerated who are usually resident outside England and Wales classified by country of usual residence and by age.

The Age, Marital Condition and General Tables mainly comprise summaries of the information given in the County Reports on local populations, age and marital condition, with the various categories of non-private population.

The Housing tables Parts I, II and III include summaries of the information on housing and private households given in the County Reports, together with more extensive tabulations for England and Wales. There are tables of buildings, dwellings and households, tables of tenure and household arrangements and summary housing indices.

The Household Composition tables will provide figures on the composition and the social and economic characteristics of households and families and the types of person included in these groups and will be on a 10 per cent sample basis.

The Migration tables will give statistics of the numbers and characteristics of people who changed their usual residence in the year before Census Day; details of their age, marital condition, socio-economic group, occupation and industry will be given together with similar information about the remainder of the population classified by the length of time they have lived at their present usual residence. Numbers of people moving will also be given for local areas with some details for larger areas. These tables will be on a 10 per cent sample basis.

The Workplace tables will show the population resident in one area and working in another, the units of area being boroughs, urban and rural districts and New Towns. This report will be on a 10 per cent sample basis.

The tables on Occupation will give statistics of the occupied population based on their personal occupation (classified according to the Classification of Occupations, 1960)* including statistics for usually resident populations of the larger areas, and with reference to age, marital condition, employment status (manager, employer, etc.) and socio-economic group. These tables will be on a 10 per cent sample basis.

* H.M. Stationery Office, 1960, price 27s 6d net.

The tables on Industry will give statistics of the occupied population based on the branch of economic activity to which their occupations contribute with identification of employment status categories, age-groups and married women, the branch of economic activity units being those of the Standard Industrial Classification†. Statistics of local populations will be based on the area containing the place of work. These tables will also include an analysis of each important industry or group of industries showing the principal occupations which contribute to it. These tables will be on a 10 per cent sample basis.

The Education tables will give figures relating to the terminal education age of persons resident in local areas and, for England and Wales and the regions and conurbations, classifications by age and by occupation. These tables will be on a 10 per cent sample basis.

The Fertility tables will give statistics derived from the questions on date of marriage and number of children which were put to women who had ever been married.

The Index of Place Names will give the location and the census population of places with defined boundaries.

Commentaries. These will be compiled and published as soon as time permits. In addition there will be an administrative report on the Census as a whole and a statistical report on the quality of the figures. The latter report will include information on such topics as the post-enumeration survey, sampling errors, bias, and statistical methodology.

Note

With regard to census information not presented in the published reports and tables referred to above, Section 4(2) of the Census Act, 1920, empowers the Registrar General, if he so thinks fit, at the request and cost of any local authority or person, to cause abstracts to be prepared containing any such statistical information, being information which is not contained in the census reports made by him, and which in his opinion it is reasonable for that authority or person to require, as can be derived from the census returns.

General Explanatory Notes

General Note

This volume of tables contains demographic, social and economic information about people who gave as their birthplace Jamaica, other Commonwealth territories in the Caribbean, India, Pakistan, Commonwealth countries in Africa (excluding the Union of South Africa), Cyprus or Malta. For the sake of brevity they are described as 'Commonwealth immigrants'. The tables are confined to the Commonwealth immigrants who were resident in the six conurbations in England and Wales. For this limited section of the population they cover almost the full range of census information and these notes provide explanations of all the topics included.

The tables include everyone who gave one of the specified countries as their birthplace, whatever their race or citizenship; as a result the children born in India to former Indian army or civil service staff are included. Tables A1 to A12 exclude all the children of Commonwealth immigrants who were not born in the specified countries. Tables B1 to B5, however, include all the people who were enumerated in households of which the head or the wife of the head was born in one of the specified countries. Tables B1 to B5 therefore include all the children, wherever they were born, of people who were born in the specified countries, provided they spent census night in the same household as their parents; on the other hand Tables B1 to B5 exclude any people who were born in the specified countries but were in households where neither the head of the household nor the wife of the head of the household was born in the specified countries.

Population included in Tables A3 to A10

Tables dealing with Occupation give the distribution of the economically active population aged 15 and over, that is those who were in employment during the week before the census and those who though normally working were unemployed (including those who were unemployed because of sickness) at the time of the census. Those in employment include members of the Armed Forces and also people who worked for only a few hours a week (such as a housewife who helped in her husband's shop or did some office cleaning). People at school or university during term time are excluded even if they did paid work during the holidays.

Tables dealing with Industry are restricted to those in employment during the week before the census so that compared with Occupation Tables they exclude people who were "out of employment" at the time of the census. People temporarily laid off by their employer are included among those in employment. People who became unemployed during the week before Census day are included among those "out of employment".

It should be noted that the unemployed are those persons who returned themselves as "out of employment" on the Census schedule. This group consists of those who were not in employment but were looking for work, and those not in employment who were also sick or injured.

In the Industry tables presented in this volume, unlike the general Industry Tables for the whole population, people are allocated to the area where they live instead of the area where they work.

Industrial Status, Occupation and Socio-economic Group

These describe the economic activity of the individual - what he or she does at work, regardless of the nature of the business carried on at the place of work. The classifications used are fully set out in Classification of Occupations, 1960 (H.M.S.O. 1960).

Industry

This is a description of the nature of the business carried on at the individual's place of work, regardless of the occupation he or she performed there. The classification used is the revised edition of the Standard Industrial Classification (H.M.S.O. 1958).

* In designing these tables the General Register Office has received a great deal of help and advice from the Centre for Urban Studies, University College, London.

Persons qualified in Science and Technology

These are people who in response to Question Q on the schedule returned a suitable qualification in science or technology. A copy of the schedule faces page xviii. In "Census 1961, Great Britain, Scientific and Technological Qualifications" (H.M.S.O. 1962), Appendix A lists the qualifications and the subjects in which those qualifications were attained by the people included in this table.

Terminal Education Age

The figures on terminal education age are derived from the replies to Question O on the schedule. A copy of the schedule faces page xviii.

Duration of residence

This is a classification of the people included in these tables into three groups:-

- (i) Those who did not change their address during the year before census date
- (ii) Those who did change their address during the year before census date but were living in the United Kingdom on 23rd April, 1960
- (iii) Those who did change their address during the year before census date and were living outside the United Kingdom on 23rd April, 1960.

Private Households

A private household was defined to the enumerator as follows:-

"A household comprises one person living alone or a group of persons living together, partaking of meals prepared together and benefiting from a common housekeeping.

A person or persons living but not boarding with a household in a house, flat, etc. should be treated as a separate household. But a person living with a household who usually has at least one main meal a day provided by that household while in residence is part of that household. (Breakfast counts as a meal for this purpose).

A household must have exclusive use of at least one room. If two people share one room and do not have exclusive use of at least one other room they should be treated as one household".

The rules for identifying a private household in a hotel, boarding house, hospital or other institution were in general the same as those given above except that a person or group was only treated as a private household if they were living in structurally separate quarters and were either - a family group doing much of their catering separately from the institution or a person or group who did not have any meals provided daily by the institution.

Households sharing dwellings

Households which did not occupy the whole of a dwelling have been divided into two groups; those which had exclusive use of both a kitchen stove or range and a kitchen sink, and those households which did not have exclusive use of both facilities. The information to make this division was obtained by verbal enquiry by the enumerator who then made entries 'E' (exclusive use) or 'N' (not exclusive use) in the appropriate panel on the schedule.

Population included in private households

These households include usually resident members who were absent on Census night, and exclude visitors who were present on Census night. Households where all members were absent on Census night are excluded.

Household Type

Within a household, a family is defined as a married couple and their never-married child(ren) if any (see following section for definition of a child), or a lone parent with his or her never-married child(ren). "Lone parent" means a married parent whose spouse does not reside in the same household, and any single, widowed or divorced parent. Note that a lone parent unaccompanied by children does not constitute a family, while a married couple without children does. Children are defined as persons (of any age) who have never been married and who live in the same household as their parent(s), grandparent(s) or great-grandparent(s). This definition includes step-children and adopted children, but not foster-children.

On these definitions, households may be classified into the following types:-

1. No family, one person (and any domestic servants).
2. One family comprising a married couple and no others.
3. One family (married couple or lone parent) with children but with no others.
4. Other one family households.
5. Two or more families with or without others.
6. No family, two or more related persons, with or without others.
7. No family, two or more unrelated persons, or domestic servants only.

The information by which households are allocated to a household type has been based on that provided by column B of the Census schedule.

Dependent Children

In Tables B4 and B5, the children are defined as children under 15, or students in full-time education (who may be married).

Rooms

The count of rooms was obtained by the enumerator by verbal enquiry from the household. A room was defined to the enumerator as follows:-

"A room is any covered space surrounded by walls, doors, or windows and used by the household for living, eating or sleeping. Rooms available for these purposes but not actually in use e.g. unfurnished spare bedrooms, should be included.

Landings, lobbies, recesses, closets and bathrooms should not be counted as rooms, nor should store rooms, offices, warehouses, shops or any other rooms used for non-domestic purposes.

A kitchen, kitchenette or scullery should be counted if meals are regularly eaten there, otherwise it should not".

Tenure of dwellings

The question on tenure was asked of each household. From this information a classification of dwellings by tenure has been derived. When only one household was present at Census the dwelling was assigned the tenure of that household. When there was more than one household present and their tenure categories differed, the dwelling was assigned to the highest ranking tenure category returned by a household present in the dwelling. For this purpose the tenure categories were ranked in the following order:-

1. Owner-occupied
2. Rented with a farm, shop or other business premises
3. Held by virtue of employment
4. Rented from a Local Authority or New Town Corporation
5. Rented from a private person or company; unfurnished
6. Rented from a private person or company; furnished.

Non-private Households

The term "Non-private households" covers people who were enumerated in hotels, boarding houses, or institutions or were otherwise grouped in establishments with some functional purpose other than that of providing food or satisfying other domestic convenience. They also include people in defence establishments, ships at moorings or anchorage or on coastwise voyages, and a small miscellaneous element. A household classified by the enumerator as private was re-classified in the census office as non-private if the number of boarders or the number of inmates, patients or staff, etc., was five or more.

In some institutions, there are private households having separate accommodation and catering, e.g. the medical superintendent of a hospital with his family. These have been excluded from the institution and classified as private households.

For notes on the various types of non-private household see "Census 1961 - Age, Marital Condition and General Tables" (H.M.S.O. 1964) pages (viii) to (x) of the General Explanatory Notes.

QUALITY OF FIGURES

Sampling

The tables are all based on questionnaires distributed to one private household in ten and to one tenth of the people in hotels, institutions, defence establishments, etc. The procedure designed for selecting the sample of private households was as follows. England and Wales was divided into some 70 thousand enumeration districts. These enumeration districts were listed systematically and a random number between one and ten, taken serially from a table of random numbers, was allocated to each enumeration district. If this number was n then the enumerator was instructed to give a sample schedule to the n th, $(10 + n)$ th, $(20 + n)$ th, etc. households he contacted. The enumerator was issued with a pack of schedules in which the sample schedules were already placed in every tenth position and the random start was obtained by removing schedules from the top of the pack until the first sample schedule was in the n th position. The enumerator was instructed to deliver the schedules from the top of the pack to households in the order in which he contacted them. Unfortunately there is evidence that some enumerators did not follow these instructions so that the sample is biased (See notes on "Bias").

People in institutions, hotels, ships, etc. were not enumerated on the ordinary household schedule but on other special schedules. The size of these institutions varies too much for a sample of the institutions to give reliable figures, and the sample was of individuals. The sample questions were only asked of the person appearing on a specified line on each special schedule. The sample lines were also designated randomly and the person completing the schedule was told to maintain a strict routine when entering the names on the schedule and to avoid any pre-selection of the people for whom the additional sample details were required. Here too there is evidence that the instructions were not strictly followed so that the sample is biased.

The sample of people enumerated in defence establishments was selected at census headquarters; there was no sampling at the enumeration stage.

Sampling Errors

The possible error due to sampling (not due to bias) can be expressed as follows.

For any sample figure which is a small proportion (less than one quarter) of the total sample population the odds are approximately

- 2 to 1 that the error is less than the square root of the figure
- 20 to 1 that the error is less than twice the square root.

The following table shows for a few selected values the square root expressed as a percentage of the sample item.

Sample Item	Square Root	Square root as percentage of the sample item
1,000,00	316.2	0.3 per cent
100,00	100	1 per cent
25,00	50	2
11,11	33.3	3
6,25	25	4
4,00	20	5
2,04	14.3	7
1,00	10	10
25	5	20
4	2	50

For an example of how this information can be used there were 1,69 male carpenters and joiners (occupation 080) born in Jamaica in the sample. The odds are therefore 20 to 1 that the number in the whole population lies in the range $(169 \pm 2 \times 13) \times 10$ i.e. in the range of 1,430 to 1,950. It is important to remember that all such calculations should be made using the actual sample number and not the estimate obtained by grossing-up the sample.

These estimates of sampling error have been obtained by assuming that the sample is equivalent to a random sample of persons. It is assumed that the tendency for the sampling error to be increased by the effect of clustering with the use of a sample of households is offset by the high degree of stratification involved in a systematic sample which ensures that one in ten households has been selected evenly throughout the country.

Bias

After the 1961 Census, the 10% sample was checked for bias by comparing certain items of information common to the full census and the sample census. One such comparison showed clearly that the sample of households was biased. Although the total number of households in the sample is almost exactly one-tenth of the total in the whole country, the distribution of households by number of persons and number of rooms occupied is distorted. The amount of bias is shown in the table below.

Percentage Excess in 10% sample when compared with one tenth of the full count figures

Persons in the Household	Number of rooms occupied							All households
	1	2	3-4	5	6	7-8	9 and over
1	-11	-11	-8	-7	-4	-2	+10	-8
2-6	-7	-3	+0	+1	+5	+9	+20	+2
7 and over	-22	-28	-14	-10	-9	-7	-1	-10
All households	-10	-6	-1	+0	+3	+8	+17	+0

There is considerable under-representation of one person households and of large households. For any stated size of household there is a clear gradient from too few households occupying few rooms towards too many households with large numbers of rooms.

To allow for this bias, correcting factors have been calculated which users can apply to the 10% census data. It was not a practical proposition to calculate such factors for every entry in the tables. Instead they have been obtained for certain of the more important marginal totals. For example, a bias factor has been calculated for each of the 27 Occupation Orders defined in "Classification of Occupations, 1960" (H.M.S.O. 1960).

These bias factors are used by multiplying them into the appropriate Census figure to give a new figure corrected for bias. Thus a bias factor of 0.98000 denotes that the published Census estimate is too high by 2%.

A brief description of the method of calculation of these factors is as follows. The 100% Census count of private households and the 10% Census sample count of private households were each (separately) distributed over a four-way table whose axes were,

- (i) six categories of the number of persons in the household,
(1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 or more)
- (ii) six categories of the number of rooms occupied,
(1, 2, 3-4, 5, 6-7, 8 or more)
- (iii) three categories of sharing status, namely,
non-sharing,
sharing with exclusive use of stove and sink, sharing without exclusive use of stove and sink.

- (iv) seven geographical areas, namely, the six conurbations, and all conurbations combined.

Let X_{ijkl} = 100% count of private households in the i th persons category ($i = 1$ to 6)

 j th rooms category ($j = 1$ to 6)
 k th sharing category ($k = 1$ to 3)
 l th area ($l = 1$ to 7)

Let x_{ijkl} = corresponding 10% count of private households. A "raising factor" for each cell of this table was calculated as

As an example of the calculation of one bias factor, consider the males in Occupation Order I. This group of males can be distributed over the four-way table of private households from the 10% sample, according to the households in which they were enumerated. Let u_{ijkl} be the number of males in this group who were enumerated in the x_{ijkl} households in any one cell of this table. Then the bias factor for males in Occupation Order I who live in the l th area is defined as

$$B_l = \left[\sum_{i=1}^6 \sum_{j=1}^6 \sum_{k=1}^3 R_{ijkl} u_{ijkl} / 10 \sum_{i=1}^6 \sum_{j=1}^6 \sum_{k=1}^3 u_{ijkl} \right]$$

Similar bias factors are calculated in exactly the same manner for females in this Occupation Order, and for males and females in the remaining 26 Orders. The same method applied to all the other characteristics for which factors are listed in the ensuing bias factor tables. The exception is the classification of households by number of persons, by number of rooms, by sharing status (as in Table B1). The bias factors here are simply the raising factors R_{ijkl} divided by 10.

Thus $\left(R_{ijkl} / 10 \right)$ = bias factor for the i th persons category
 j th rooms category
 k th sharing category
 within the l th area.

In fact, the second sharing category in Table B1 corresponds to all sharing households, and bias factors for this group have been obtained by combining sharing households both with and without exclusive use of stove and sink and calculating raising factors in the same fashion for this combined group.

The bias factors listed in this volume have been calculated only for the group of people who were born in Cyprus, Pakistan, Ceylon, and the Caribbean Commonwealth territories and who were resident in conurbations in England and Wales at the time of the Census. This group was originally selected as the result of an exercise aimed at identifying Commonwealth birthplaces which were associated with the highest degree of bias. They do not therefore exactly correspond with the people tabulated in this volume whose birthplaces also include India (but not Ceylon) and African Commonwealth territories. The only bias factors to which this does not apply are those for the households by persons by rooms by sharing classification, which are based on all residents in conurbations in England and Wales regardless of birthplace. This group of factors may possibly be of limited accuracy in relation to Table B1.

It is important that these bias factors be correctly interpreted. They are only intended to remove that element of bias associated with the classification of households by numbers of persons by number of rooms by sharing status by area. They do not remove other elements of bias which may exist and may be fundamentally associated with some other characteristic such as occupation, socio-economic group, etc.

Presentation Conventions

Figures are shown in these tables with a comma in a position two digits from the right, which indicates thousands when the sample is grossed up. A single figure represents tens when grossed up.

A blank indicates that a particular combination of line and column is impossible or would contain a derived figure such as a rate which has not been calculated.

The symbol - indicates zero.

Census Schedule

A copy of the census schedule E.10 and the associated leaflet of notes and examples is included opposite this page.

FIO

Prescribed by Regulations under the Census Act, 1926, as the form to be used for approximately one tenth of the population in England (excluding Monmouthshire), for the purpose of returns in respect of (a) Private Households, and (b) Other persons in respect of whom no other form of schedule is prescribed.

For Engineer's Use

Census District No.		Enumeration District No.
Name and postal address of householder or other person responsible for making the return

NOTICE

- 1. The Head, or person acting as Head, of a private Household is required by law to make a return in this form in respect of all persons (members of the household) including himself, employees and Boarders who are present in the household on the night of Sunday, 28th April, 1961, in the dwelling, and all persons who arrive at the dwelling and join the household on Monday, 24th April, 1961, before the collection of the schedule, and who have not been enumerated elsewhere, and all other persons normally living in this dwelling.
- Note. Any one or more persons separately occupying a house or part of a house, flat, apartment, etc., will be regarded as a separate household for Census purposes. Persons who usually have or have shared a dwelling with others, but who are not normally living there, will be regarded as part of the household in which they are normally living.

2. Every person is required by law to give to the person responsible for making the return such information as may be necessary to enable the return to be made. No use may, however, be made of such information by the person to whom it is given except for the purpose of making the return.

3. A person who has applied in the prescribed manner to make a separate confidential return will not be liable to give information to the Head; and in such case the person responsible for making the return will only be liable to include in his return in respect of that person the employees specified in Columns A and B within.

4. The schedule will be called for on MONDAY, 24th April, by the appointed enumerator: in order that he may not be delayed it must be ready with the answers written in the proper columns early on the morning of that day. If the answers appear to be satisfactory, the enumerator must ask any questions.

5. The person responsible for making the return may, if unable to deliver the schedule to the enumerator personally, arrange for some other person to do so on his behalf. If desired, the schedule may be handed to the enumerator under cover.

6. If any person whose duty it is to make a return or to give information refuses to do so, or wilfully gives false information, or uses otherwise than for the purpose of making the return any information given him for that purpose, he will be liable to a fine not exceeding Ten Pounds.

3. The contents of the schedule are strictly confidential.

E. M. T. FIRTH,
Registrar General.

NOTES

- Names and surnames (Column A)
 - Names are wanted only to help in calling the Census.
 - Write first the name of the head of the household (if present) or acting head and then the names of relatives, visitors, boarders, employees, etc.
 - If a husband and wife are both present or both absent on Census Night write their names on consecutive lines in the appropriate parts of the schedule.
- Usual address (Column C)
 - School children, students, etc., who live away from home during term should give their home address, not their term-time address.
 - Members of H.M. Forces should give the address of their married quarters or other home address.
 - Resident staff should regard the private house, boarding house, or other premises where they live as their usual address.

- For persons with no settled address write "None".
- For boarders who have a settled residence with this household write "Here".
- Age (Column D)
 - If the age is not known exactly, give it as accurately as possible.
 - Even where the birthday is only a few days after Census day, the required age is the number of years at the last birthday and 11 months.
 - For babies under one month old write "Under 1 month".
- Marriage, etc., (Column E)
 - If a person is legally separated, not divorced, write "Married".
- Children (Column F)
 - Include in the number of children born alive to the mother in marriage, any children of a previous marriage and any that have died.
- End of first marriage (Column H)
 - Write at (i) the date of her first or only husband's death or date of divorce.

- Country of birth (Column J)
 - For the purposes of the Census, persons born in Mounmouthshire should write "Wales".
- Citizenship or nationality (Column K)
 - For citizens of the Irish Republic write "Irish".
 - For British protected persons give the protectorate or trust territory, e.g. Uganda, Tanganyika.
- Ownership and renting (Panel L)
 - Leasehold. If the household occupy their house, flat, etc., on a lease which was originally granted for more than 21 years, or has since been extended for more than 21 years, write "Yes" at (a). For shorter leases answer one of the other parts of the question in Panel L.
 - By virtue of employment. If the accommodation is provided in connection with the employment of a member of the household and ceases to be provided after the employment comes to an end (e.g. a tied cottage, caretaker's flat) write "Yes" at (c) whether rent is paid or not.

- Household arrangements (Panel M)
 - Cold water tap. This refers to a tap within the building. It does not include a tap in an open yard or a public standpipe. If only the latter are available, the answer "None" should be given.
 - Hot water tap. This means water piped to any form of heating appliance which will allow hot water to be drawn from a tap within the building, e.g. a boiler, tank with immersion heater, geyser, or sink heater.
 - Fixed bath. This means a bath permanently installed with a waste pipe leading outside the building. It does not matter for this purpose whether there is water piped to it or whether the room where it is installed is used only as a bathroom or not.
 - Watercloset. This means any watercloset emptying into a main sewer, septic tank or cesspool. It does not include a chemical closet or earth closet. It must be within the building or attached to it.

Notes (continued)

e.g. For a household which shares the use of a fixed bath and water-closet, and has the sole use of the cold water supply but has no hot water supply the entries would be—
(a) Cold water tap—Sole use. (c) Fixed bath—Shared.
(b) Hot water tap—None. (d) Watercloset—Shared.

11. Change of address, etc. (Column N)

(a) "Ten" means completed years, e.g., for 4 years 11 months write "4 years".
(b) Give the whole period since the person moved to the address indicated in column C even if he or she has since been temporarily away, e.g. owing to National Service, other war service, or evacuation.

12. End of full-time education (Column O)

For persons not now receiving full-time education, but intending to resume it later, state the age at which education was discontinued. For students actually enrolled in a course of full-time study which involves spending part of the time in employment, make no entry in this column.

13. Scientific qualifications (Column Q)

(a) The information required is in respect of all persons, irrespective of present occupation, who hold one or more of the qualifications listed below in a branch of science or technology excluding medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, optics, veterinary science, architecture, economics, geography and the social sciences.
(b) For all persons holding one or more of the following qualifications in a branch of science or technology, give particulars for the type of qualification as indicated below—

Qualifications	Examples
University degree or University Diploma of equivalent standard. (It is not necessary to list qualifications higher than a first degree or diploma.)	B.Sc. or B.A. or University Diploma
Associate'ship or Diploma of University Degree standard awarded by an educational institution other than a university.	Dip. Tech. (N.C.T.A.) or A. of Cambrone School of Mines, or A. of Manchester College of Science and Technology, or A. of Heriot-Watt College.
Graduate or Corporate membership of a professional institution.	Grad. M. of Institution of Electrical Engineers, or Corp. M. of Institution of Civil Engineers

(c) One of the following branches of science or technology should be entered at (ii) of column Q.

Agriculture (including dairying, estate management, forestry, and horticulture.)	Chemical Engineering
Biology (all branches)	Civil and Structural Engineering
Chemistry (other than pharmacy) including Biochemistry	Electrical Engineering
Geology	Mechanical Engineering
Mathematics	Mining Engineering
Physics	Metallurgy
General Science

Any other science, engineering or technology (please specify) except those excluded by definition in paragraph (a) above.

Industry and Occupation (Sections R, S and T)

14. In employment means that the person had a job during the week ending Saturday, 22nd April, 1961, even if he was away from work because of holidays, sickness, strikes, etc. That is, a sick person is in employment if his job is waiting for him when he gets well.

For persons temporarily laid off by their employer throughout the week, answer the questions in Section R and not in Section S.

For persons who retired or became out of work during the week, complete Section S and not Section R.

"Employment" includes any service in the Armed Forces, and also jobs at which a person worked for only a few hours; e.g. for a housewife who helped in her husband's shop or did some office cleaning answer the questions in Section R and not Section T.

For persons who are at school or university full-time during term answer Section T and not Section R, even if they did paid work during the holidays.

15. "Part-time" means less than the normal hours in the employment. Employment which is normally full-time but which was interrupted by sickness, holidays, short-time working, strikes or lockouts, or which was started or stopped part way through the week, should be returned as "full-time" in Section R, column (f).

Hours worked. For part-time workers whose employment was interrupted by sickness etc., state the hours usually worked.

16. More than one employment. If the person changed his employment during the week give details of the employment in the later part of the week.

If the person normally follows more than one employment during the week give details of the main employment only.

17. For sick persons who were off work but still have their job write "full-time" or "part-time" in Section R, column (d), according to whether they would have worked full or part-time if they had not been ill.

If they have been discharged by their employer answer the questions in Section S and not in Section R.

18. For persons who have never had full-time employment, write in Section S details of the last part-time employment. If the person is looking for a first job, write "Out of work" in Section S, column (f), and "None" in columns (g) and (h).

19. Employer and employer's business.

These details are required only to help in classifying the industry or service. Describe the business fully and try to avoid using abbreviations or initials.

The following are examples of terms insufficient by themselves—Manufacturer, Merchant, Agent, Broker, Factor, Dealer, Engineering, Iron Works, etc.

20. Employs others means having one or more employees other than his (her) relatives living in the same household.

21. Occupation. Full and precise details of the occupation should be given in columns (b) or (h). Terms such as scientist, technician, engineer, machine, foreman, inspector, checker, civil servant, are too vague and should not be used by themselves. Managers or foremen should give the department where applicable; civil servants and other public officials should give their rank and the department or branch in which they are serving.

If a job is known in the trade or industry by a special name, use that name.

22. Apprentices, trainees, etc. An entry should be made at (ii) of column (b) only if persons are undergoing training for a period fixed in advance, leading to recognition as a skilled worker or technician and/or to a recognised technical, commercial or professional qualification or managerial post. Boys undergoing probationary training who have not yet entered into formal apprenticeship or learnership should be excluded.

23. Domestic servants. If in private domestic service give the occupation (e.g. Cook) in column (b) or (h) but write only "Private" in column (a) or (g). But complete these columns as required by the questions for persons employed in hotels, restaurants, boarding houses, etc.

24. Place of work

Persons with no regular place of work such as sales representatives, inspectors, and building workers, who do not work daily from or at a fixed address or depot should state "No fixed place". Those working daily from or at a fixed address or depot e.g. certain transport workers, and building workers employed on a site for a long period, should give the address of the depot or site or other fixed address.

Dock workers registered under the National Dock Labour Scheme, who are in possession of a Pay Voucher Book issued by the National Dock Labour Board, should give the address of the call stand or control point where they are required to prove attendance. Registered dock workers not issued with a Pay Voucher Book by the Board, and other dock workers should give the name and address of the dock or wharf at which they are usually employed.

Seamen should give the name of their ship and the port in which it is lying.

25. Absent members of the household (Part III)

Include in Part III only those persons who usually live in this household but are temporarily away, e.g. include a schoolboy who lives at home during the holidays but is now away at boarding school, a son away on National Service or any one temporarily away on his job, on holiday or in hospital (including a new-born baby).

Do not include in Part III any one who is living in an institution such as an old people's home where he is staying permanently or for many months.

CENSUS, ENGLAND, 1961

NOTES AND EXAMPLES FOR SCHEDULE E.10

The schedule E.10 which accompanies this leaflet is being issued only to 10 per cent of the householders in England. The allocation of these 10 per cent schedules has been made on a numerical, automatic and quite impersonal basis. This arrangement will provide sufficient information on certain topics to be used for the country as a whole. These are the topics contained in columns N to T of the schedule. By this arrangement 90 per cent of the householders are relieved from giving these particulars.

In your case all these particulars are needed. Your co-operation is sought in providing accurate answers to these questions so that reliable statistics for the whole population may be obtained.

The notes will help you to give the particulars asked for. There is a reference to the number of each note in the column headings on the schedule. Please read the appropriate note and study the examples in this leaflet before you fill in the answers.

CONFIDENTIALITY

No information about any individual person, family or dwelling, will be given to anyone not employed on the Census.
