Programme of Census Reports and other census information

The Census 1961, England and Wales, Preliminary Report, published in June, 1961, contains a general note on the taking of the census, some brief preliminary statistical commentary and provisional figures of the population, private households and private dwellings for all local authority areas (counties, boroughs, urban and rural districts) regions, conurbations and New Towns.

A series of County Reports, already published, contains the statistics of local interest which were collected on a 100 per cent basis. The subjects covered are population and acreages of local government areas; distribution of the local populations according to sex, age and marital condition; birthplace, citizenship and nationality; private households and their size distribution, the buildings, dwellings and rooms in which they live, the tenure of their accommodation and certain household arrangements possessed by them; institutions of different types, housing various categories of non-private population. This series does not contain any information which was collected on a 10 per cent sample basis and therefore does not include distributions of the population by terminal education age or by social class as were included in the corresponding series of the 1951 Census.

The Report on Scientific and Technological Qualifications gives statistics of persons with those qualifications and the occupations and industries in which they work. This report is on a 10 per cent sample basis and relates to Great Britain.

The Report on the Welsh Speaking Population gives statistics derived from the question about speaking the Welsh language addressed to those enumerated in Wales and Monmouthshire.

The Birthplace and Nationality tables comprise summaries of the information given in the County Reports on birthplace, citizenship and nationality.

The Usual Residence tables compare the enumerated census population in local areas with the population usually resident in those areas and also give the numbers enumerated who are usually resident outside England and Wales classified by country of usual residence and by age.

The Age, Marital Condition and General Tables mainly comprise summaries of the information given in the County Reports on local populations, age and marital condition, with the various categories of non-private population.

The Housing Tables, Parts II and III and the Household Composition Tables will include summaries of the information on housing and private households given in the County Reports, together with more extensive tabulations for England and Wales. There will be tables of tenure and household arrangements, summary housing indices and household composition tables. The latter will provide figures on the composition and the social and economic characteristics of households and families and the types of person included in these groups and will be on a 10 per cent sample basis.

The Migration tables will give statistics of the numbers and characteristics of people who changed their usual residence in the year before Census Day; details of their age, marital condition, socio-economic group, occupation and industry will be given together with similar information about the remainder of the population classified by the length of time they have lived at their present usual residence. Numbers of people moving will also be given for local areas with some details for larger areas. These tables will be on a 10 per cent sample basis.

The Workplace tables will show the population resident in one area and working in another, the units of area being boroughs, urban and rural districts and New Towns. This report will be on a 10 per cent sample basis.

The tables on Occupation will give statistics of the occupied population based on their personal occupation (classified according to the *Classification of Occupations, 1960) including statistics for usually resident populations of the larger areas, and with reference to age, marital condition, employment status (manager, employer, etc.) and socio-economic group. These tables will be on a 10 per cent sample basis.

* H.M. Stationery Office, 1960, price 27s 6d net.

The Tables on Industry will give statistics of the occupied population based on the branch of economic activity to which their occupations contribute with identification of employment status categories, age-groups and married women, the branch of economic activity units being those of the Standard Industrial Classification[†]. Statistics of local populations will be based on the area containing the place of work. These tables will also include an analysis of each important industry or group of industries showing the principal occupations which contribute to it. These tables will be on a 10 per cent sample basis.

The Education tables will give figures relating to the terminal education age of persons resident in local areas and, for England and Wales and the regions and conurbations, classifications by age and by occupation. These tables will be on a 10 per cent sample basis.

The Fertility tables will give statistics derived from the questions on date of marriage and number of children which were put to women who had ever been married.

The Index of Place Names will give the location and the census population of places with defined boundaries.

Commentaries. These will be compiled and published as soon as time permits. They will be included in the same volume as the tables where this can be done without delay, but in other cases reports on the tables will be issued at a later date. In addition there will be an administrative report on the census as a whole, and a statistical report on census methodology.

Note

With regard to census information not presented in the published reports and tables referred to above, Section 4(2) of the Census Act, 1920, empowers the Registrar General, if he so thinks fit, at the request and cost of any local authority or person, to cause abstracts to be prepared containing any such statistical information, being information which is not contained in the census reports made by him, and which in his opinion it is reasonable for that authority or person to require, as can be derived from the census returns.

This provision is available to meet any special demand for census statistics of a greater degree of elaboration, whether in respect of subject matter or area, than those given in the official reports. In particular, provision has been made for the extraction during the processing of a selection of data for every ward in boroughs and urban districts and every civil parish in rural districts. This information is equivalent to the scale of publication for an area of under 50,000 population as regards data collected on a 100 per cent basis and a more restricted selection of basic figures obtained on a 10 per cent sample basis. More details will be supplied on request.

Census 1961, Housing Tables Part I

Buildings, Dwellings and Households

General Explanatory Notes

General Note

This is the first of three volumes which together comprise the main 1961 Census statistics on housing. The three volumes are:-

Housing Tables Part I Buildings, Dwellings and Households.

Housing Tables Part II Tenure and Household Arrangements.

Housing Tables Part III Local Housing Indices.

Housing Tables 1 to 15 appear in this part and contain information on dwellings, their size, the number of household spaces they contain and the type of building in which they are; private households according to the number of persons in them, the number of rooms they occupy, whether they share a dwelling or not and various indices of density of occupation derived from these characteristics. Certain comparisons with 1951 also appear.

Figures are given in full detail for England and Wales and in a more condensed form for regions, conurbations and urban/rural aggregates. Detailed figures for counties and local authority areas have already been published in the County Report series and are not repeated here.

Tables 1 and 4 have already been published as the Housing National Summary Tables but appear in their appropriate places in this volume.

The tabulations on the composition of private households which are based on the 10 per cent sample will be published as further volumes in the series of census publications (see "Programme of Census Reports and other census information" on page v).

DEFINITIONS

Building

The general definition of a building in the enumerator's instruction book read as follows:- "Every structure comprising one or more rooms or other spaces enclosed within external or party walls is to be regarded as a building".

This general description was amplified by a series of examples and exceptions:

Each house in a semi-detached pair or in a terrace or back-to-back group was a separate building.

A block of flats in which separate apartments were linked by passages or by balconies and staircases or lift-shafts was a single building.

A structure separate from, but subsidiary to, a main building and which was occupied (wholly or partly) by members of the same household as the main building (e.g. staff or other residents) was treated as part of the main building. A similar structure occupied only by a separate household or households was treated as a separate building. Other subsidiary structures such as a barn near to a farm house or a garage near to a private house, which were not used as living quarters, were not regarded as separate buildings.

A group of structures in a common enclosure forming a single factory or similar establishment and not used as living accommodation was treated as a single building.

Caravans, houseboats, barges, boats and other similar mobile structures were treated as buildings and included in the tables only if they were some person's usual residence on census night. Other mobile structures were not included in the tables.

Chalets, huts, shacks, tents, converted railway carriages and similar non-permanent structures were treated as buildings if they were some person's usual residence on census night. Otherwise they were treated as vacant buildings only if they had at least one of the following characteristics (which were concerned only with construction and not state of repair) -

- (a) the shorter main wall was (at a rough visual estimate) 15 ft. or more long, OR
- (b) the walls were of brick, stone and mortar, concrete, breeze blocks or similar materials (walls of wood, asbestos, corrugated iron, stones without mortar, lath or expanded metal and plaster or stonedash were not sufficient) OR
- (c) the roof was of ceramic (not asbestos) tiles, slate, thatch, shingles or concrete. Corrugated iron, roofing felt, tarpaulin, etc., were not sufficient.

If the vacant structures had none of these characteristics they were ignored by the enumerators as also were dilapidated buildings which were uninhabitable.

Standard pre-fabricated houses of the kind built after the last war were treated as permanent buildings.

A further note was given to the enumerators to help them to distinguish buildings with walls with lath and plaster or stonedash from those with brick walls rendered in the same way.

Type of Building

All permanent buildings were classified by the enumerator into one of four types:-

Non-residential

A building was classed as non-residential if it was not normally occupied by any person and no person passed census night there. The presence of non-residential watchmen, shift-workers etc., did not prevent a building being classified as non-residential.

Institutional

If the building was a residential establishment in which some form of communal feeding arrangements was provided, it was classified as institutional. Such establishments included, for example, hospitals, hotels, boarding houses, residential schools and colleges, prisons and remand homes, army camps and naval shore establishments.

Partly residential

If only part of a building (other than an institutional establishment) was used for residential purposes it was classified as partly residential. A factory, store or block of offices which contained a caretaker's flat would be so classified. In a building much of which was used for residential purposes, the presence of a shop or office would cause it to be classified as partly residential; but if the non-residential part was used as a surgery in a doctor's or dentist's house, as a study by an author or clergyman, or an insurance or other agency was operated from it by a member of the household, then the building would still be classified as wholly residential.

Wholly residential

Any building which was wholly used for residential purposes was so classified; see also the examples quoted under 'Partly residential'.

Dwelling

The general definition of a dwelling was "a building or part of a building which provides structurally separate living quarters".

A dwelling was normally a private dwelling house, flat or maisonette built as such, with a front door of its own. Where houses or other buildings had been adapted to provide residential accommodation in smaller units, these smaller units were regarded as dwellings if they were structurally separate i.e. if such a unit had a separate front door to the street and was self-contained (separated from the rest of the building by a wall or solid partition), it was counted as a dwelling. When access to such a unit was through part of the building, it was counted as a dwelling only if access to the main door was gained by means of a common staircase or landing. If it could only be reached through the quarters occupied or normally occupied by another household (including a hall) it was not counted as a dwelling. In order for such a unit to count as a dwelling it also had to be possible to move between its rooms internally without making use of the common staircase or landing. Normally there would only be one door of the unit opening on to the common internal part of the building (disregarding access to shop or office portions of the building).

A dwelling would usually have more than one living room in addition to kitchen and bathroom, but one-room flats were counted as dwellings if they met the conditions set out above, provided they had either a separate kitchenette, or a cooking stove in the room and a separate bathroom and water closet. Bed-sitting rooms (sometimes called one-room flatlets) were not counted as separate dwellings.

The whole of the quarters occupied or normally occupied by households (i.e. the household spaces) within any building had to be included on one or other of the dwellings within it. If the building was arranged in such a way that there was no reasonable way of dividing it into dwellings, the whole building was regarded as a single dwelling.

In a hotel, boarding house, hospital or other institution a private dwelling was identified only if it was occupied by a private household. Generally if such a dwelling was vacant or occupied by members of the institution not constituting a private household it was not counted but married quarters in defence establishments were usually counted as dwellings even if they were vacant. In an institution the provision for counting a unit as a dwelling only if it met certain conditions as to access was modified; private quarters were counted as a dwelling even though access was through the main institution, but not if access was through another private dwelling.

Dwellings have been classified into permanent and non-permanent dwellings. A non-permanent dwelling is a dwelling in a mobile or non-permanent structure of the type not counted as a building unless it was some person's usual residence on census night (see pages vii and viii). All other dwellings have been classified as permanent.

Comparison of definitions of "dwelling", 1951 and 1961.

In the 1951 Census the term dwelling included whole buildings or houses which were not sub-divided and also any structural sub-divisions where these latter were defined as "a portion of a house or building which has been structurally designed or adapted for use as a separate self-contained dwelling. Its distinctive feature is that it has a separate front door of its own, apart from the street door, if any, giving entrance to the house or building as a whole".

The instructions and examples given to enumerators in 1961 aimed in general at adding precision to the 1951 concept. The main specific changes were that normally a dwelling had to have more than one living room in addition to the kitchen and bathroom and the instruction that bed-sitting rooms and some one-room flatlets were not to count as separate dwellings.

In 1951 separate dwellings were not identified in hotels, boarding houses, hospitals or other institutions. This is in contrast to the 1961 practice (see above). A particular example of this is the treatment of married quarters in defence establishments. In 1961 married quarters which met the conditions of being structurally separate were usually classified as dwellings. In 1951 any married quarters which were located within the boundary of the defence establishment would not have been counted as dwellings. For further differences, see note on "Households with all members temporarily absent".

Room

The count of rooms was obtained by the enumerator by verbal enquiry from the household. A room was defined to the enumerator as follows:-

"A room is any covered space surrounded by walls, doors, or windows and used by the household for living, eating or sleeping. Rooms available for these purposes but not actually in use e.g. unfurnished spare bedrooms, should be included.

Landings, lobbies, recesses, closets and bathrooms should not be counted as rooms, nor should store rooms, offices, warehouses, shops or any other rooms used for non-domestic purposes.

A kitchen, kitchenette or scullery should be counted if meals are regularly eaten there, otherwise it should not".

Comparison of definition of "room", 1951 and 1961.

The general purport of the definition of room which was used at the 1951 Census was the same as in 1961. In 1961, however, there was a specific instruction that rooms available for living, eating or sleeping but not actually in use should be included. The comparable section of the instructions in 1951 was "All rooms in which the household live, eat or sleep, including the kitchen if so used, should be counted, but a scullery (or kitchenette), landing, lobby, closet, or bathroom should not normally be included". The lack of specific mention of unfurnished spare bedrooms, etc. may have led to their exclusion in 1951 and their inclusion in 1961. This may contribute to the small but widespread increases in the numbers of dwellings and household spaces with relatively large numbers of rooms.

Private Household

A private household was defined to the enumerator as follows:-

"A household comprises one person living alone or a group of persons living together, partaking of meals prepared together and benefiting from a common housekeeping.

A person or persons living but not boarding with a household in a house, flat, etc. should be treated as a separate household. But a person living with a household who usually has at least one main meal a day provided by that household while in residence is part of that household. (Breakfast counts as a meal for this purpose).

A household must have exclusive use of at least one room. If two people share one room and do not have exclusive use of at least one other room they should be treated as one household".

The rules for identifying a private household in a hotel, boarding house, hospital or other institution were in general the same as those given above except that a person or group was only treated as a private household if they were living in structurally separate quarters and either

- a family group doing much of their catering separately from the institution or
- a person or group who did not have any meals provided daily by the institution.

Comparison of definition of "household", 1951 and 1961.

The general purpose of the definition of a household which was used at the 1951 Census was the same as in 1961. In 1951 however it was not required that a household should have exclusive use of a room and a number of one-room dwellings are therefore shown in the tables as shared by more than one household. Also in 1951 private households which lived within the boundary of an institution were included as part of the population of the institution and not enumerated separately as they were in 1961.

Households sharing dwellings

Households which did not occupy the whole of a dwelling have been divided into two groups; those which had exclusive use of both a kitchen stove or range and a kitchen sink, and those households which did not have exclusive use of both facilities. The information to make this division was obtained by verbal enquiry by the enumerator who then made entries 'E' (exclusive use) or 'N' (not exclusive use) in the appropriate panel on the schedule.

Non-private Household

Non-private households are excluded from these tables.

"Non-private households" covers people who were enumerated in hotels, boarding houses and institutions or otherwise grouped in establishments with some functional purpose other than that of providing food or satisfying other domestic convenience. They include also people in defence establishments, ships at moorings or anchorage or on coastwise voyages, and a small miscellaneous element. A household classified by the enumerator as private was re-classified in the census office as non-private if the numbers of boarders or the number of inmates, patients or staff etc., was five or more. In 1951, in doubtful cases all households with under ten people were treated as private, where there were ten or more people in the group the household was treated as non-private if the number of boarders exceeded the number in the family of the head of the household. In 1961, if all the people who were enumerated in non-permanent structure (hut, chalet, etc.) or in a mobile structure (caravan, houseboat, etc.) gave a usual residence elsewhere they were all transferred to the residual "other population" group of non-private households. In some institutions there are private households having separate accommodation and catering, e.g. the medical superintendent of a hospital with his family, the headmaster of a school or a hotel manager. These have been excluded from the non-private households to which they are attached and included with other private households; their accommodation has been included in the private dwellings. In 1951 they were included in the non-private population.

Household Space

The household space is the quarters occupied or normally occupied by a private household. In a dwelling which is normally occupied by a number of households any vacant accommodation has usually been regarded as a single vacant household space, although a few household spaces which became vacant just before census date appear in the tables as separate vacant spaces in dwellings which already contain one vacant space.

Occupied and vacant dwellings

A permanent dwelling was regarded as "occupied" if one or more households were enumerated in the dwelling or at the time of the census were usually resident in the dwelling although not present on census night. A permanent dwelling was regarded as "vacant" if no household was enumerated there on census night and if it was not the usual residence of any household.

Households with all members temporarily absent

Whereas most tables of households are limited to those households with a member present at census, Tables 4, 5 and 6 give details for households with all members absent. These are households of which all members were temporarily absent at the time of the census. This represents a change from the practice at the 1951 Census when a household appeared in the tables only if at least one member of the household was present at the time of the census. This difference has consequences in the treatment of dwellings, etc. In 1951 a dwelling was occupied if a household was present at census; in 1961 a dwelling was treated as occupied either if a member of a household was present, or if a household was usual resident in the dwelling; conversely in 1951 a dwelling where no household was present was classified as "vacant"; for a dwelling to be classified as vacant in 1961 it was necessary for no one to be present at the census and also for no household to be usually resident in the dwelling.

Quality of Figures

In 1961 for the first time a post enumeration survey was taken in order to check the information collected at the census. A full description of the survey will be given in the general report on the census; in the explanatory notes to volumes of tables the post enumeration survey results will only be given where they give a warning of poor quality in figures appearing in the volume.

The items relevant to these tables which were checked in the post enumeration survey were the total count of the number of buildings and households. The post enumeration survey did not indicate any significant error in the total numbers of buildings and households.

Urban and Rural Aggregates

Urban and rural aggregates relate to groups of local authority areas by type (all those within conurbations, urban areas, rural districts) and, in the case of urban areas, by size of their resident population as estimated at Census Day (23rd April 1961). "Urban areas" include boroughs and urban districts as defined under the Local Government Acts, and rural districts are also as defined by those Acts.

Presentation Conventions

The symbol - indicates zero.

A blank indicates that a particular combination of line and column is impossible or would contain a derived figure such as a rate which has not been calculated.

The symbol O indicates less than one half of a unit but not zero.

Areas outside Conurbations
Urban areas outside Conurbations with populations of 100,000 or more 4-9
Urban areas outside Conurbations with populations of 50,000 and less than 100,000 12-7
Urban areas outside Conurbations with populations of less than 50,000 -8-8
Rural districts outside Conurbations -0-7

Conurbations	0.0
Areas outside Conurbations
Urban areas outside Conurbations with populations of 100,000 or more	4.8
Urban areas outside Conurbations with populations of 50,000 and less than 100,000	12.3
Urban areas outside Conurbations with populations of less than 50,000	6.9
Rural districts outside Conurbations	0.7

Notes: (1) For definitions of households and 'sharing', including change in definition between 1951 and 1961, see p. x.
(2) This table is restricted to households of which at least one member was present at Census.
(3) The figures in column 1 for conurbations and remainders of regions relate to conurbation boundaries in 1951.
(4) The 1951 and 1961 figures for West Yorkshire and Merseyside Conurbations and Remainders of East and West Ridings and North Western Regions relate to conurbation boundaries as at 1951.

*Figures for urban/rural aggregates relate to the classification of areas at the Census to which they relate. The numbers of households in 1951 according to the 1961 classification differ from those according to the 1951 classification by the following percentages:

Conurbations	0.0
Areas outside Conurbations	4.8
Urban areas outside Conurbations with populations of 100,000 or more	12.5
Urban areas outside Conurbations with populations of 50,000 and less than 100,000	6.9
Urban areas outside Conurbations with populations of less than 50,000	0.7
Rural districts outside Conurbations	0.7

Table 13 Private Households by Density of Occupation (persons per room): Percentage Distribution

England and Wales, Regions, Conurbations, Urban/Rural Aggregates

Notes: (1) For definitions of households, dwellings, rooms and 'sharing', see pp. viii, ix and x.
(2) This table is restricted to households of which at least one member was present at Census.
(3) Rates entered in col. 14 for areas affected by boundary changes since 1961 for which as a result only approximate figures can be given have been marked with an asterisk. Figures for urban/rural aggregates relate to classification of areas at the 1961 Census.
