T O

My much Honoured,

and no less truly beloved Friend,

Edw. Benlowes,

ESQUIRE.

My dear Friend,

YOU have put the Theorboe into my hand, and I have played; You gave the Musician the first encouragement; the Musick returneth a you for Patronage. Had it been a light Air, no doubt but it had taken the most and among them the worst; but being a Grave strain, my hopes are, that it will please the best, and among them you. Toyish Aires please trivial Ears; they kiss the Fancy, and betray it. They cry, Hail, first; and after,

Crucifie ; Let Dorrs delight to immerd themselves in dung, whilst Eagles scorn so poor a Game as Flies. Sir, you have Art and Candour ; let the one judge, let the other excuse,

Your most affectionate

Friend,

FRA. QUARLES.

TO THE READER.

AN Embleme is but a silent Parable:
Let not the tender eye check, to see the allusion to our blessed Saviour figured in these Types. In Holy Scripture he is sometimes called a Sower;
sometimes a Fisher; sometimes a Physician: And why not presented so as well to the eye as to the ear? Before the knowledge of Letters God was known by Hieroglyphicks. And indeed what are the Heavens, the Earth, nay, every Creature, but Hieroglyphicks and Emblemes of his Glory? I have no more to say, I wish thee as much pleasure in the Reading, as
I had in writing. Farewel READER.

B*T* Fathers back'd, by Holy Writ led on:
Thou shew'st away to Heav'n by Helicon,
The Muses Font is consecrate by Thee,
And Poesie, baptiz'd Divinity:
Blest soul that here embark'st: thou sail'st apace,
'Tis hard to say, mov'd more by Wit or Grace,
Each Muse so plies her Oar: But O, the Sail
Is fill'd from Heaven with a Diviner Gale:
When Poets prove Divines, why should not I
Approve in Verse this divine Poetry?

Let this suffice to licence thee the Press:
I must no more; nor could the Truth say less.

The INVOCATION.

Rowze thee, my Soul; and drein thee from the dregs
 Of vulgar thoughts: Screw up the hightned pegs
 Of thy sublime Theorboe four notes higher,
 And higher yet, that so, the shrill-mouth'd Quire
 Of swift-wing'd Seraphims may come and joyn,
 And make thy Consort more than half divine.
 Invoke no Muse; Let Heav'n be thine Apollo;
 And let his sacred Influences hallow
 Thy high-bred strains. Let his full beams inspire
 Thy ravished brains with more heroick fire:
 Snatch thee a Quill from the spread Eagles wing,
 And, like the morning Lark, mount up and sing:
 Cast off these dangling plummets, that so clog
 Thy lab'ring heart, which gropes in this dark fog
 Of dungeon earth; let flesh and blood forbear
 To stop thy flight, till this base world appear
 A thin blue Landskip: Let thy pinions soar
 So high a pitch, that men may seem no more
 Than Pismires crawling on this Mole-hill earth,
 Thy ear untroubled with their Frantick mirth;
 Let not the frailty of thy flesh disturb
 Thy new-concluded peace; Let Reason curb
 Thy hot mouth'd Passion; and let heav'n's fire season
 The fresh conceits of thy corrected Reason.
 Disdain to warm thee at lusts smoaky fires,
 Scorn, Scorn to feed on thy old bloat desires:
 Come, come my Soul, hoise up thy higher sails,
 The wind blows fair; Shall we still creep like Snails,
That

That glide their ways with their own Native slimes;
 No, we must fly like Eagles, and our Rhimes
 Must mount to Heav'n, and reach th' Olympick Ear;
 Our Heav'n-blown fire must seek no other Sphear.

Thou great Theanthropos, that giv'st and ground'st
 Thy gifts in dust, and from our dunghil crown'st
 Reflecting honour, taking by retail,
 What thou hast giv'n in gross, from lapsed, frail,
 And sinful man: That drink'st full draughts, wherein Thy Childrens leprous fingers, scurf'd with sin,
 Have padled; Cleanse, O cleanse my crafty Soul
 From secret crimes, and let my thoughts controul
 My thoughts: O, teach me stoutly to deny
 My self, that I may be no longer I:
 Enrich my Fancy, clarifie my thoughts,
 Refine my dross; O, wink at human faults;
 And through the slender Conduct of my Quill
 Convey thy Carrant, whose clear streams may fill
 The hearts of men with love, their tongues with praise:
 Crown me with Glory, take who list the Bayes.

J A M. I. 14.

Every man is tempted, when he is drawn away by his own lust and enticed.

Serpent.Eve.

Serp. NO eat? Not taste? Not touch? Not cast an eye
Upon the fruit of this fair Tree? And why?
Why eat'st thou not what Heav'n ordain'd for food?
Or can'st thou think that bad which Heav'n called Good?
Why was it made if not to be enjoy'd?
Neglect of favours makes a favour void:
Blessings unus'd, pervert into a Wast,
As well as Surfeits; Woman, Do but tast:
See how the laden boughs make silent suit
To be enjoy'd; look how their bending fruit
Meet thee half-way: Observe but how they crouch
To kiss thy hand; Coy woman, Do but touch:
Mark what a pure vermilion blush has dy'd
Their swelling cheeks, and how for shame they hide
Their pallsie heads to see themselves stand by Neglected: Woman, Do but cast an eye.
What bounteous Heav'n ordain'd for use, refuse not;
Come, pull and eat: Y' abuse the thing ye use not.

Eve. Wisest of Beasts, our great Creator did
Reserve this Tree and this alone forbid;
The rest are freely ours, which doubtless are
As pleasing to the tast; to th' eye as fair:
But touching this his strict commands are such,
'Tis death to tast, no less than death to touch.

Serp. Pish; Death's a table: Did not Heav'n inspire
Your equal Elements with living Fire:

Blown

Blown from the spring of life? Is not that breath
 Immortal? Come; ye are as free from death
 As he that made ye. Can the flames expire
 Which he has kindled? Can ye quench his fire?
 Did not the great Creatours voice proclaim What'ere he made (from the blue spangled frame
 To the poor leaf that trembles) very good?
 Blest he not both the Feeder and the Food?
 Tell, tell me then, what danger can accrue
 From such blest Food, to such half gods as you?
 Curb needless fears, and let no fond conceit
 Abuse your freedom; Woman take and eat.

Eve. 'Tis true, we are immortal; death is yet
 Unborn, and till Rebellion make it debt,
 Undue; I know the fruit is good, until Presumptuous disobedience make it ill.

The lips that open to this Fruit's a Portal
 To let in death and make immortal mortal.

Serp. You cannot die; come Woman, taste, and fear not:

Eve. Shall Eve transgress? I dare not, O I dare not.

Serp. Afraid? Why draw'st thou back thy tim'rous arm?
 Harm only falls on such as fear a harm.

Heav'n knows and fears the virtue of this Tree:

'Twill make ye perfect Gods as well as He.

Stretch forth thy hand, and let thy fondness never Fear death: Do, pull, and eat, and live for ever.

Eve. 'Tis but an Apple; and it is as good
 To do as to desire. Fruit's made for food:
 I'll pull, and taste, and tempt my Adam too
 To know the secrets of this Dainty. Serp. Do.

S. BERN. in ser.

It is the Devils part to suggest ; Ours, not to consent. As oft as we resist him, so often we overcome him ; as often as we overcome him, so often we bring joy to the Angels, and glory to God ; who proposeth us, that we may contend, and assisteth us, that we may conquer.

Lament, lament; Look, look, what thou hast done :
Lament the world's, Lament thy own estate :
Look, look, by doing how thou art undone ;
Lament thy fall, lament thy change of State :
Thy faith is broken, and thy freedom gone,
See, See too soon, what thou lament'st too late.
O thou that wert so many men, nay, all
Abridg'd in one, how has thy desp'rate fall
Destroy'd thy unborn seed, destroy'd thy self withal?

Exorious Adam, whom thy Maker made
Equal to Angels that excel in pow'r,
What hast thou done? O why hast thou obey'd
Thy own destruction? Like a new-cropt flower,
How does the glory of thy beauty fade!
How are thy fortunes blasted in an hour!
How art thou cow'd that hast the pow'r to quell
The spite of new fal'n Angels, baffle Hell,
And vie with those that stood, and vanquish those that fell.

 A base Adulteress, whose false births do fill
 The earth with Monsters, Monsters that do rome
 And rage about, and make a trade to kill:

 Wrath takes revenge, and Avarice a pawn;
 Pale Envy pines, Pride swells, and Sloth begins to yawn

The Air that wisper'd, now begins to rore;
 And blustering Boreas blows the boyling Tide;
 The white mouth'd Water now usurps the shore,
 And scorns the pow'r of her tridental guide;
 The fire now burns, that did but warm before,
 And rules her Ruler with resistless Pride:
 Fire, Water, Earth, and Air, that first were made
 To be subdu'd, see how they now invade; (obey'd
 They rule whom once they serv'd, command where once

 Thy glory, now's become thy shame, thy wonder;

 That late was musick, now affrights like thunder:

S. AUGUST. lib. I. de lib. arbit.

It is a most just punishment, that man should lose that freedom, which man could not use, yet had power to keep, if he would; and that he who had knowledge to do, what was right, and did not, should be deprived of the knowledge of what was right; & that he who would not do righteously, when he had the power, should lose the power to do it, when he had the Will.

HUGO de anima.

They are justly punished that abuse lawful things, but they are most justly punished, that use unlawful things: Thus Lucifer fell from Heaven: Thus Adam lost his Paradise.

A Las fond Child,
How are thy thoughts beguil'd
To hope for honey from a nest of wasps?
Thou may'st as well
Go seek for ease in Hell,
Or sprightly Nectar from the mouths of asps.

The world's a hive,
From whence thou can'st derive
No good, but what thy souls vexation brings:
Put case thou meet
Some petti-petti-sweet,
Each drop is guarded with a thousand stings.

Why dost thou make
These murm'ring troops forsake
The safe protection of their waxen homes?
Their hive contains
No sweet that's worth thy pains;
There's nothing here, alas, but empty combs.

For trash and toys,
And grief ingen'dring joys,

B 3

What

What torment seems too sharp for flesh and blood!

What bitter pills,
Compos'd of real Ills,
Men swallow down to purchase one false good!

The dainties here,
Are least what they appear;
Though sweet in hopes, yet in fruition sowre;
The fruit that's yellow,
Is found not always mellow;
The fairest Tulip's not the sweetest flower.

Fond youth give ore,
And vex thy soul no more
In seeking what were better far unfound;
Alas! Thy gains
Are only present pains
To gather Scorpions for a future wound.

What's earth? Or in it,
That longer than a minute,
Can lend a free delight that can endure?
O who would droil,
Or delve in such a soil,
Where gain's uncertain and the pain is sure:

S. AUGUST.

Sweetness in temporal matters is deceitful; It is a labour & a perpetual fear; it is a dangerous pleasure, whose beginning is without providence, and whose end is not without repentance.

HUGO.

Luxury is an enticing pleasure, a bastard mirth, which hath honey in her mouth, gall in her heart, and a sting in her tail.

EPIG. 3.

What, Cupid, are thy shafts already made?
And seeking honey, to set up thy trade
True Embleme of thy sweets! Thy Bees do bring Honey in their mouths, but in their tails a sting.

PSALM 62. 9.

To be laid in the balance, it is altogether lighter than vanity.

PUt in another weight : 'Tis yet too light :
And yet, fond Cupid, put another in ;
And yet another : Still there's under weight :
Put in another hundred : Put again ;
Add world to world ; then heap a thousand more
To that, then to renew thy wasted store,
Take up more worlds on trust, to draw thy balance lower.

Put in the flesh with all her loads of pleasure ;
Put in great Mammon's endless inventory ;
Put in the ponderous acts of Mighty Cæsar :
Put in the greater weight of Sweden's glory ;
Add Scipio's gauntlet, put in Plato's gown :
Put Circe's charms, put in the triple crown.
Thy balance will not draw ; thy balance will not down.

Lord what a world is this, which day and night,
Men seek with so much toil, with so much trouble ?
Which weigh'd in equal scales is found so light,
So poorly overbalanc'd with a bubble ?
Good God ! that frantick mortals should destroy
Their higher hopes, and place their idle joy
Upon such airy trash, upon so light a toy !

Thou

Thou holy Imposture, how hast thou befool'd
 The tribe of Man with counterfeit desire!
 How has the breath of thy false bellows cool'd
 Heav'n's free born flame, and kindled bastard fire!
 How hast thou vented dross instead of treasure,
 And cheated men with thy false weights and measure,
 Proclaiming bad for good; & gilding death with pleasure!

The world's a crafty Strumpet most affecting,
 And closely following those that most reject her;
 But seeming careless, nicely disrespecting
 And coyly flying those that most affect her:
 If thou be free, she's strange, if strange she's free;
 Flee, and she follows; follow and she'll flee:
 Than she there's none more coy, there's none more fond (than she.

O what a Crocodilian world is this,
 Compos'd of treacheries, and insnaring wiles!
 She cloathes destruction in a formal kifs,
 And lodges death in her deceitful smiles;
 She hugs the soul she hates; and there does prove
 The veryest tyrant, where she vows to love,
 And is a Serpent most, when most she seems a Dove.

Thrice happy he, whose nobler thoughts despise
 To make an object of so easie gains;
 Thrice happy he, who scorns so poor a price
 Should be the crown of his heroick pains:
 Thrice happy he, that ne'er was born to try
 Her frowns or smiles: or being born, did lie
 In his sad nurses arms an hour, or two, and die.

S. AUGUST. lib. Confess.

O you that dote upon this world, for What victory do ye fight? Your hopes can be crowned with no greater reward, than the world can give; and what is the world but a brittle thing full of dangers, wherein we travel from lesser to greater perils? O let all her vain, light, momentary glory, perish with her self, and let us be conversant with more eternal things. Alas this world is miserable; life is short, and death is sure.

EPIG. 4.

My soul, what's lighter, than a feather? Wind.
Than wind? The fire. And what, than fire? The mind.
What's lighter than the mind? A thought. Than thought?
This bubble world. What, than this bubble? Nought.

I Cor. 7. 31.

The fashion of this World passeth away.

Gone are those golden days, wherein
 Pale Conscience started not at ugly sin :
 When good old Saturn's peaceful Throne
 Was unfurped by his beardless Son :
 When jealous Ops ne'er fear'd th' abuse
 Of her chaste bed, or breach of nuptial Truce :
 When just Astræa pois'd her Scales
 In mortal hearts, whose absence earth bewails,
 When froth-born Venus and her brat,
 With all that spurious brood Young Jove begat,
 In horrid shapes were yet unknown ;
 Those Halcyon days, that golden age is gone.
 There was no Client then to wait
 The leisure of this long tail'd Advocate ;
 The Talion Law was in request,
 And Chanc'ry Courts were kept in ev'ry breast :
 Abused Statutes had no Tenters,
 And men could deal secure without Indentures :
 There was no peeping hole to clear
 The wittals eye from his incarnate fear ;
 There were no lustful Cinders then
 To broil the Carbonado'd hearts of men :
 The rosie cheeks did then proclaim
 A shame of Guilt, but not a guilt of shame :
 There was no whining soul to start
 At Cupid's twang, or curse his flaming dart ;
 The Boy had then but callow wings,
 And fell Erinnys Scorpions had no stings :

The better-acted world did move
 Upon the fixed poles of truth and Love.
 Love essenc'd in the hearts of men!
 Then Reason rul'd, there was no passion then;
 Till Lust and rage began to enter,
 Love the Circumference was, and Love the Center;
 Until the wanton days of Jove
 The simple world was all compos'd of Love;
 But Jove grew fleshly, false, unjust;
 Inferiour beauty fill'd his veins with lust:
 And Cucquean Juno's fury hurl'd
 Fierce balls of rape into th' incestuous world:
Astrea fled, and love return'd
 From earth, earth boyl'd with lust, with rage it burn'd,
 And ever since the world hath been Kept going with the scourge of Lust and Splen.

S. AMBROS.

S. A M B R O S.

Lust is a sharp spur to vice, which always putteth the affections into a false gallop.

H U G O.

Lust is an immoderate wantonness of the flesh, a sweet poyson, a cruel pestilence; a pernicious poyson, which weakneth the body of Man, and effeminateth the strength of an heroick mind.

S. A U G U S T.

Envy is the hatred of anothers felicity: in respect of Superiours, because they are not equal to them; in respect of Inferiours, lest he should be equal to them; in respect of equals, because they are equal to them: Through envy proceeded the fall of the world, and death of Christ.

E P I G. 5:

What, Cupid, must the world be lash'd so soon?
 But made at morning and be whipt at noon?
 'Tis like the wagg, that plays with Venus Doves,
 The more 'tis lash'd, the more perverse it proves.

VI.

In cruce tuta quies

What Cupid, must the world befall'd to loon?
 The made at morning and be what at noon?
 'Tis like the war, that plays with News Doves,
 The more 'er laid, the more perverts it grows.

VI.

ECCLES. 2. 17.

All is vanity and vexation of Spirit.

I

How is the anxious soul of man befool'd
 In his desire,
 That thinks an Hectick fever may be cool'd
 In flames of fire?
 Or hopes to rake full heaps of burnish'd gold
 From nasty mire?
 A whining Lover may as well request
 A scornful breast
 To melt in gentle tears, as woe the world for rest.

Let wit, and all her studied plots effect
 The best they can;
 Let smiling Fortune prosper and perfect
 What wit began,
 Let earth advise with both, and so project
 A happy man;
 Let wit or fawning Fortune vie their best;
 He may be blest
 With all that earth can give; but earth can give no rest.

Whose gold is double with a careful hand,
 His cares are double,

The Pleasure, Honour, Wealth of Sea and Land
 Bring but a trouble ;
 The World it self, and all the Worlds command,
 Is but a bubble.
 The strong desires of mans insatiate breast
 May stand posselt
 Of all that Earth can give ; but earth can give no rest

The World's a seeming Par'dise, but her own
 And man's tormentor ;
 Appearing fix'd, yet but a rolling stone
 Without a tenter ;
 It is a vast Circumference, where none
 Can find a Center.
 Of more than Earth, can Earth make none posselt ;
 And he that least
 Regards this restless World, shall in this World find rest

True rest consists not in the oft revying
 Of worldly dross ;
 Earth's miry purchase is not worth the buying ;
 Her gain is loss ;
 Her rest but giddy toil, if not relying
 Upon her cross.
 How worldlings droil for trouble ! That fond breast
 That is possess'd
 Of Earth without a cross, has Earth without a rest.

C A S S. in Pf.

The Cross is the invincible sanctuary of the humble : The dejection of the proud, the victory of Christ, the destruction of the devil, the confirmation of the faithful, the death of the unbeliever, the life of the just.

D A M A S C E N.

The Cross of Christ is the key of Paradise; the weak mans staff; the Converts convoy; the upright Mans perfection; the soul and bodies health; the prevention of all evil, and the procurer of all good.

Be sober, be vigilant, because your Adversary the Devil as a roaring Lion walketh about, seeking whom he may devour.

I

WHY dost thou suffer rustful sloth to creep,
 Dull Cyprian Lad, into thy wanton brows?
 Is this a time to pay thine Idle Vows
 At Morpheus shrine? Is this a time to sleep
 Thy brains in wasteful slumbers? up and rouze
 Thy leaden Spirit: Is this a time to sleep?
 Adjourn thy sanguine dreams, awake, arise,
 Call in thy thoughts; and let them all advise,
 Had'st thou, as many heads, as thou hast wounded eyes.

Look, Look, what horrid furies do await Thy flatt'ring slumbers! If thy drowzy head
 But chance to nod, thou fall'st into a bed
 Of sulph'rous flames, whose torments want a date.
 Fond boy, be wise, let not thy thoughts be fed
 With Phrygian wisdom; fools are wise too late:
 Beware betimes, and let thy reason sever
 Those gates which passion clos'd; wake now or never
 For if thou nod'st thou fall'st, and falling fall'st for ever.

Mark, how the ready hands of death prepare :

His bow is bent, and he hath notch'd his dart ;
 He aims, he levels at thy slumb'ring heart :
 The wound is posting, O be wise, beware.
 What ? has the voice of danger lost the art
 To raise the spirit of neglected care ?

Well, sleep thy fill, and take thy soft repofes ;
 But know withal, sweet tafts have fowre closes ;
 And he repents in thorns, that fleeps in beds of rofes.

Yet, fluggard, wake, and gull thy Soul no more
 With Earth's false pleasure, and the worlds delight,
 Whose fruit is fair, and pleasing to the fight,
 But fowre in taft, false as the putrid core :

Thy flaring glafs is gems at her half light,
 She makes thee feeming rich, but truly poor :
 She boasts a kernel and beftows a fhell ;
 Performs an inch of her fair promis'd ell :
 Her words proteft a Heaven ; her works produce an hell,

O thou the fountain of whose better part,
 Is earth'd and gravell'd up with vain desire :

That daily wallow'ft in the flefhly mire
 And bafe pollution of a luftful heart,
 That feel'ft no paffion, but in wanton fire,
 And own'ft no torment but in Cupid's dart ;

Behold thy type : Thou fitt'ft upon this ball
 Of earth, feecure, while Death that flings at all,
 Stands arm'd to ftrike thee down, where flames attend (thy fall,

THe world's a popular disease, that reigns
 Within the froward heart and frantick brains
 Of poor distemper'd mortals, oft arising
 From ill digestion, through th' unequal poisoning
 Of ill-weigh'd Elements, whose light directs
 Malignant humours to malign effects :
 One raves and labours with a boyling liver ;
 Reads hair by handfuls, cursing Cupid's quiver :
 Another with a bloody flux of oaths
 Vows deep revenge : one dotes : the other loaths :
 One frisks and sings, and cries a flagon more
 To drench dry cares, and make the Welkin rore :
 Another droops : the Sun-shine makes him sad ;
 Heav'n cannot please : One's mop'd ; the t'other's mad ;
 One hugs his gold ; another lets it fly :
 He knowing not for whom ; nor t'other why.
 One spends his day in plots, his night in play ;
 Another sleeps and slugs both night and day :
 One laughs at this thing ; t'other cries for that :
 But neither one nor t'other knows for what.
 Wonder of wonders ! What we ought t'evite
 As our disease, we hug as our delight :
 'Tis held a symptom of approaching danger,
 When disacquainted Sense becomes a Stranger,
 And takes no knowledge of an old disease ;
 But when a noisom grief begins to please

The unresisting sense, it is a fear
That death has parly'd, and compounded there:
As when the dreadful Thund'ers awful hand
Pours forth a Vial on th' infected land,
At first th'affrighted Mortals quake and fear;
And every noise is thought the Thunderer:
But when the frequent soul-departing Bell
Has pav'd their ears with her familiar knell,
It is reputed but a nine days wonder,
They neither fear the Thund'rer nor his Thunder.
So when the world (a worse disease) began
To smart for sin, poor new created Man
Could seek for shelter, and his gen'rous Son
Knew by his wages what his hands had done:
But bold-fac'd Mortals in our blusshless times
Can sing and smile, and make a sport of crimes,
Transgress of custom, and rebel in ease,
We false joy'd fools can triumph in disease,
And (as the careless Pilgrim, being bit
By the Tarantula, begins a fit
Of life-concluding laughter) waste our breath
In lavish pleasure, till we laugh to death.

H U G O de anima.

What profit is there in vain-glory, momentany mirth, the world's power, the flesh's pleasure, full riches, noble descent, and great desires? Where is their laughter? where is their mirth? Where their insolence? their arrogance? From how much joy to how much sadness! After how much mirth, how much misery! From how great glory are they fallen, to how great torments! What hath fallen to them, may befall thee, because thou art a man: Thou art of earth; thou livest of earth! thou shalt return to earth. Death expecteth thee every where: Be wise therefore, and expect death every where.

E P I G. 8.

What ails the fool to laugh? Does something please
 His vain conceit? Or is't a meer disease?
 Fool, giggle on, and waste thy wanton breath;
 Thy morning laughter breeds an ev'ning death.

 And what's our only grief's our only cure:

JOHN 8. 44.

Ye are of your father the Devil, and the lusts of your father you will do.

Here's your right ground: wag gently o'er this black:
'Tis a short cast; y'are quickly at the jack.
Rub, rub an inch or two: Two crowns to one
On this bowl's side: Blow wind, 'tis fairly thrown:
The next bowl's worse that comes; come bowl away:
Mammon, you know the ground untutor'd, play:
Your last was gone, a yard of strength well spar'd,
Had touch'd the block; your hand is still too hard.
Brave pastime, Readers, to consume that day,
Which without pastime flies too swift away!
See how they labour; as if day and night
Were both too short to serve their loose delight?
See how their curv'd bodies wreath, and skrew
Such antick shapes as Proteus never knew:
One raps an oath, another deals a curse;
He never better bowl'd; this never worse:
One rubs his itchless elbow, shrugs and laughs,
The t'other bends his beetle brows, and chafes:
Sometimes they whoop, sometimes their Stygian cries
Send their black Santo's to the blushing skies:
Thus mingling humours in a mad confusion,
They make bad Premises, and worse conclusion:
But where's a Palm that Fortunes hand allows
To bless the Victors honourable brows?
Come, Reader, come; I'll light thine eye the way
To view the prize, the while the Gamesters play:

Close by the jack, behold, jill fortune stands
To wave the game; see in her partial hands
The glorious garland's held in open show,
To cheer the Lads, and crown the conqu'rors brow.
The world's the jack; the gamesters that contend,
Are Cupid, Mammon: that judicious Fiend,
That gives the ground, is Satan: And the bowls
Are sinful Thoughts; the Prize, a crown for Fools.
Who breaths that bowls not? What bold tongue can say
Without a blush, he has not bowl'd to day?
It is the trade of man, and every sinner
Has plaid his rubbers: Every Soul's a winner.
The vulgar Proverb's crost, he Hardly can
Be a good Bowler and an honest man.
Good God! turn thou my Brazil thoughts anew;
New sole my bowls, and make their biafs true.
I'll cease to game, till fairer ground be given,
Nor wish to win, until the mark be Heaven.

O Whither will this mad brain world at last
Be driv'n? Where will her restless wheels arrive?
Why hurries on her ill-match'd pair so fast?

O whither means her furious groom to drive?
What, will her rambling fits be never past?

For ever ranging? Never once retrieve?

Will Earth's perpetual progress ne'er expire?

The privilege of rest, where they retire

To quench their burning fetlocks, and go sleep

Their flaming nostrils in the western deep,
And fresh their tired souls with strength-restoring sleep.

 So I have seen an unblown virgin fed
 With sugar'd words so full, that she is led
 A fair attended Bride to a false Bankrupts bed.

WHat, never fill'd? Be thy lips skrew'd so fast (thee;
To th'earths full breast? for shame, for shame unseize
Thou tak'st a surfeit where thou should'st but tast,
And mak'st too much not half enough to please thee.
Ah, fool, forbear; thou swallowest at one breath
Both food and poison down; thou draw'st both milk and

The ub'rous breasts, when fairly drawn, repast
The thriving infant with her milky flood,
But being o'erstrain'd, return at last
Unwholsom gulps compos'd of wind and blood.
A mod'rate use does both repast and please;
Who strains beyond a mean draws in and gulps disease.

But, O that mean whose good the least abuse
Makes bad, is too too hard to be directed:
Can thorns bring grapes or Crabs a pleasing juice?
There's nothing wholsom, where the whole's infected.
Unseize thy lips: Earths milk's a rip'ned core,
That drops from her disease, that matters from her sore.

Think'st thou that paunch, that burlies out thy coat,
Is thriving fat; or flesh, that seems so brawny?
Thy paunch is dropsied and thy cheeks are bloat;
Thy lips are white, and thy complexion tawny;

Thy

Thy skin's a bladder blown with watry tumours;
Thy flesh a trembling bog, a quagmire full of humours.

And thou whose thriveless hands, are ever straining
Earths fluent breasts into an empty sieve,
That always hast, yet always art complaining,
And whin'st for more than earth has power to give;
Whose treasure flows and flees away as fast;
That ever hast, and hast, yet hast not what thou hast.

Go chuse a substance, Fool, that will remain
Within the limits of thy leaking measure;
Or else go seek an urn that will retain
The liquid body of thy slipp'ry treasure:
Alas, how poorly are thy labours crown'd?
Thy liquor's never sweet, nor yet thy vessel sound.

What less, than Fool is man to prog and plot,
And lavish out the cream of all his care,
To gain poor seeming goods, which being got,
Make firm possession but a thorow fare;
Or, if they stay, they furrow thoughts the deeper;
And being kept with care, they lose their careful keeper.

S. G R E G. Hom. 3. secund. parte Ezech.

If we give more to the flesh than we ought, we nourish an enemy; if we give not to her necessity what we ought, we destroy a Citizen: The flesh is to be satisfied so far as suffices to our good; whosoever alloweth so much to her as to make her proud, knoweth not how to be satisfied: To be satisfied is a great art; lest by the satiety of the flesh we break forth into the iniquity of her folly.

JOHN 3. 19.

Men love darkness rather than light, because their deeds are evil.

Lord, when we leave the world and come to Thee,
How dull, how slug are we!
How backward! How preposterous is the motion
Of our ungain devotion!
Our thoughts are Milstones, and our souls are lead,
And our desires are dead:
Our vows are fairly promis'd, faintly paid;
Or broken or not made:
Our better work (if any good) attends
Upon our private ends:
In whose performance one poor worldly scoff
Foils us or beats us off.
If thy sharp scourge find out some secret fault,
We grumble or revolt,
And if thy gentle hand forbear, we stray,
Or idly lose the way.
Is the road fair? we loyter: clogg'd with mire?
We stick or else retire:
A lamb appears a Lion; and we fear;
Each bush we see's a bear.
When our dull souls direct our thoughts to thee,
As slow as snails are we:
But at earth we dart our wing'd desire,
We burn, we burn like fire.
Like a; the am'rous needle joys to bend
To her magnetick friend:

Or as the greedy Lovers eye-balls fly
At his fair Mistrifs eye :
So, so we cling to earth? we fly and puff,
Yet fly not fast enough.
If pleasure beckon with her balmy hand,
Her beck's a strong command :
If honour calls us with a courtly breath,
An hour's delay is death :
If profits golden finger'd charms enveigles,
We clip more swift than Eagles :
Let Auster weep, or blustering Boreas rore
Till eyes or lungs be sore :
Let Neptune swell until his dropsey sides
Burst into broken tides :
Nor threatning Rocks, nor Winds, nor Waves, nor Fire,
Can curb our fierce desire ;
Nor Fire, nor Rocks, can stop our furious minds,
Nor Waves, nor Winds :
How fast and fearless do our footsteps flee!
The light-foot Roe-buck's not so swift as we.

Lighten mine eyes, O Lord, lest I sleep the sleep of death.

Will't ne'er be morning? Will that promis'd light
Ne'er break, and clear those clouds of night?
Sweet Phosphor, bring the day,
whose conqu'ring ray
May chase these fogs; Sweet Phosphor; bring the day.
How long! How long shall these benighted eyes
Languish in shades, like feeble flies
Expecting Spring? How long shall darkness foil
The face of earth, and thus beguile
Our souls of sprightful action? When, when will day
Begin to dawn, whose new born ray
May gild the weather-cocks of our devotion,
And give our unshou'd souls new motion?
Sweet Phosphor, bring the day.
Thy light will fray
These horrid mists? Sweet Phosphor bring the day.

Let those have night that flyly love t'immure
Their cloyster'd crimes, and sin secure;
Let those have night that blush to let men know
The baseness they ne'er blush to do;
Let those have night that love to have a nap
And loil in Ignorance's lap;
Let those whose eyes, like Owls, abhor the light,
Let those have night that love the night:

Sweet Phosphor bring the day;
 How sad delay
 Afflicts dull hopes? Sweet Phosphor bring the day.

Alas! my light in vain expecting eyes
 Can find no objects, but what rise
 From this poor mortal blaze, a dying spark
 Of Vulcan's forge, whose flames are dark,
 A dangerous, dull blue burning light,
 As melancholy as the night:
 Here's all the Suns that glister in the Sphere
 Of earth: Ah me! What comfort's here?

Sweet Phosphor bring the day;
 Haste, haste away
 Heav'n's loyt'ring lamp; Sweet Phosphor, bring the day.

Blow, Ignorance: O thou, whose idle knee
 Rocks earth into a Lethargy,
 And with thy footy fingers hast bedight
 The worlds fair cheeks, blow, blow thy spight;
 Since thou hast puffed our greater Taper; do
 Puff on, and out the lesser too:
 If e're that breath-exiled flame return,
 Thou hast not blown, as it will burn:

Sweet Phosphor, bring the day:
 Light will repay
 The wrongs of night: Sweet Phosphor, bring the day.

*There is no end of all his labour, neither is

O How our wid'ned arms can over-stretch
Their own dimensions! How our hands can reach
Beyond their distance! How our yielding breast
Can shrink to be more full, and full possesst
Of this inferiour Orb? How earth refin'd
Can cling to fordid earth! How kind to kind!
We gape, we grasp, we gripe, add store to store;
Enough requires too much; too much craves more.
We charge our souls so sore beyond their stint,
That we recoil or burst: the busie Mint
Of our laborious thoughts is ever going,
And coyning new desires; desires not knowing
Where next to pitch, but like the boundless Ocean
Gain, and gain ground, and grow more strong by motion.
The pale-fac'd Lady of the black ey'd night
First tips her horned brows with easie light,
Whose curious train of spangled Nymphs attire
Her next nights glory with increasng fire;
Each Ev'ning adds more lustre, and adorns
The growing beauty of her grasping horns:
She sucks and draws her brother's golden store,
Until her gluttred orb can suck no more,
Ev'n so the Vulture of insatiate minds
Still wants, and wanting seeks, and seeking finds
New fewel to increase her rav'nous fire,
The grave is sooner cloy'd than mens desire:
We cross the Seas, and midst her waves we burn,
Transporting lifes, perchance that ne'er return;

We sack, we ranfack to the utmost sands
 Of native kingdoms, and of foreign lands;
 We travel Sea and Soil, we pry, we proul,
 We progress, and we prog from pole to pole;
 We spend our mid-day sweat, our midnight oyl,
 We tire the night in thought, the day in toil:
 We make Art servile, and the Trade gentile,
 (Yet both corrupted with ingenious guile)
 To compass earth, and with her empty store
 To fill our arms, and grasp one handful more;
 Thus seeking rest, our labours never cease,
 But as our years, our hot desires increase:
 Thus we, poor little Worlds! with blood and sweat
 In vain attempt to comprehend the great;
 Thus, in our gain become we gainful losers,
 And what's enclos'd, encloses the enclosers,

WHat? nets and quiver too? What need there all
 These sly devices to betray poor men?
 Die they not fast enough when thousands fall
 Before thy dart? What need these engines then?
 Attend they not, and answer to thy call,
 Like nightly coveys where thou list and when?
 What needs a stratagem where strength can sway?
 Or what needs strength compel, where none gainsay?
 Or what needs stratagem or strength, where hearts obey?

Husband thy flights: It is but vain to waste
 Honey on those that will be catch'd with gall;
 Thou canst not, ah! thou canst not bid so fast
 As men obey: Thou art more slow to call
 Than they to come; thou canst not make such hast
 To strike, as they being struck make hast to fall.
 Go save thy nets for that rebellious heart
 That scorn's thy pow'r, and has obtained the art
 To avoid thy flying shaft, to quench thy fiery dart.

HOSEA 13. 3.

They shall be as the chaff that is driven with a whirlwind out of the floor, and as the smoke out of the Chimney.

FLint-hearted Stoicks, you, whose marble eyes
Contemn a wrinkle, and whose souls despise
To follow nature's too affected fashion,
Or travel in the Regent walk of Passion;
Whose rigid hearts disdain to shrink at fears,
Or play at fast and loose, with smiles and tears;
Come burst your spleens with laughter to behold
A new found vanity, which days of old
Ne'er knew: a vanity, that has beset
The world, and made more slaves than Mahomet;
That has condemn'd us to the servile yoke
Of slavery, and made us slaves to smoke.
But stay; why tax I thus our modern times,
For new-born follies, and for new-born crimes?
Are we sole guilty, and the first age free?
No, they were smok'd and slav'd as well as we: (sure
What's sweet-lipt Honours blast, but smoke? What's trea-
But very smoke? And what more smoke than pleasure?
Alas! they're all but shadows, fumes and blasts,
That vanishes, this fades, the other wastes.
The restless Merchant, he that loves to steep
His brains in wealth, and lays his soul to sleep
In bags of Bullion, sees th' immortal crown,
And fain would mount, but Ingots keep him down:
He brags to day, perchance, and begs to morrow:
He lent but now, wants credit now to borrow;

Blow winds the treasure's gone, the merchant's broke;
 A slave to silver's but a slave to smoke.
 Behold the Glory-vying child of fame,
 That from deep wounds suck such an honour'd name,
 That thinks no purchase worth the stile of good,
 But what is sold for sweat, and seal'd with blood;
 That for a point, a blast of empty breath,
 Undaunted gazes in the face of death;
 Whose dear bought bubble, fill'd with vain renown,
 Breaks with a phillip, or a Gen'ral's frown:
 His stroke-got Honour, staggers with a stroke;
 A slave to honour, is a slave to smoke.
 And that fond fool who wastes his idle days
 In loose delights, and sports about the blaze
 Of Cupid's Candle; he that daily spies
 Twin babies in his Mistris's Gemini's,
 Whereto his sad devotion does impart
 The sweet burnt offering of a bleeding heart:
 See, how his wings are sing'd in Cyprian fire,
 Whose flames consume with youth, in age expire:
 The World's a bubble, all the pleasures in it,
 Like morning vapours vanish in a minute:
 The vapours vanish, and the bubble's broke;
 A slave to pleasure, is a slave to smoke.
 Now, Stoick, cease thy laughter, and repast
 Thy pickled cheeks with tears, and weep as fast.

Believe her not, her glasse diffuses
False portraitures: thou canst espie
No true reflection: She abuses
Her mis-inform'd beholders eye;
Her Chrystal's falsly steel'd: it scatters
Deceitful beams. Believe her not, she flatters.

This flaring mirrour represents
No right proportion, view or feature:
Her very looks are complements;
They make thee fairer, goodlier, greater,
The skilful gloss of her reflection
But paints the Context of thy course complexion.

Nay, wert thou statur'd but a span,
Such as the long-bill'd troops defi'd,

Of all deformities that are
 Within the volume of thy face,
 She'd lend thee favour should out-move
 The Troy-bane Helen, or the Queen of Love.

Were thy consum'd estate as poor
 As Laz'rus or afflicted Job's:
 She'll change thy wants to seeming store,
 And turn thy rags to purple robes;
 She'll make thy hide-bound flank appear
 As plump as theirs that feast it all the year.

Look off, let not thy Opticks be
 Abus'd: thou seest not what thou should'st:
 Thy self's the object thou should'st see,
 But 'tis thy shadow thou behold'st:
 And shadows thrive the more in stature,
 The nearer we approach the light of nature.

Where Heav'ns bright beams look more direct,
 The shadow shrinks as they grow stronger.
 But when they glance their fair aspect,
 The bold-fac'd shade grows larger, longer:
 And when their lamp begins to fall,
 Th'increasing shadows lengthen most of all.

The soul that seeks the noon of grace,
 Shrinks in, but swells if grace retreat,
 As heav'n lifts up, or veils his face,
 Our self-esteems grow less or great.
 The least is greatest, and who shall Appear the greatest, are the least of all.

HUGO lib. de anima.

In vain he lifteth up the eye of his heart to behold his God; who is not first rightly advised to behold himself: First, thou must see the visible things of thy self, before thou canst be prepared to know the invisible things of God; for if thou canst not apprehend the things within thee, thou canst not comprehend the things above thee: the best looking glass, wherein to see thy God, is perfectly to see thy self.

THe world's a Floor, whose swelling heaps retain
The mingled wages of the Ploughmans toil;
The world's a heap, whose yet unwinnow'd grain
Is lodg'd with chaff and buried in her soil;
All things are mixt, the useful with the vain;
The good with bad, the noble with the vile;
The world's an Ark, wherein things pure and gross
Present their lossful gain, and gainful loss,
Where ev'ry dram of gold contains a pound of dross.

This furnish'd Ark presents the greedy view
With all that earth can give, or Heav'n can add;
Here lasting joys; here pleasures hourly new,
And hourly fading, may be wish'd and had:

Here maist thou open wide the two leav'd door
Of all thy wishes, to receive that store
Which being empty most, does overflow the more.

Come

Come then my soul, approach this royal Burse,
 And see what wares our great Exchange retains;
 Come, come; here's that shall make a firm divorce
 Betwixt thy wants and thee, if want complains;
 No need to sit in council with thy purse,
 Here's nothing good shall cost more price than pains:
 But O my soul take heed, if thou rely Upon thy faithless Opticks thou wilt buy
 Too blind a bargain: Know, fools only trade by th' eye.

The worldly wisdom of the foolish man
 Is like a sieve, that does alone retain
 The grosser substance of the worthless bran:
 But thou, my soul, let thy brave thoughts disdain
 So coarse a purchase, O be thou a fan
 To purge the chaff and keep the winnow'd grain:
 Make clean thy thoughts, and dress thy mixt desires
 Thou art Heav'n's tasker; and thy God requires,
 The Purest of thy flour, as well as of thy fires.

Let grace conduct thee to the paths of peace,
 And wisdom bless the souls unblemish'd ways,
 No matter then, how short or long's the lease,
 Whose date determines thy self-numbred days:
 No need to care, for wealth's or fame's increase,
 Nor Mars his Palm, nor high Apollo's Bays.
 Lord, if thy gracious bounty please to fill
 The floor of my desires, and teach me skill
 To dress and chuse the corn, take those the chaff that will.

 Come bus and friends, my lamb; whish lullaby,
 What ails my babe? What ails my babe to cry?
 Peace, peace my dear; alas thy early years
 Had never faults to merit half these tears;

 Thy fathers image in her babies eye:
 Husband these guilty drops against thee rage
 Of harder fortunes, and the gripes of age;
 Thine eye's not ripe for tears: Whish lullaby;
 What ails my babe, me sweet fac'd babe to cry?
 Look, look, what's here! A dainty golden thing;
 See how the dancing bells turn round and ring
 To please my bantling! Here's a knack will breed

 His leaden buskings, and presents his eye
 With antick trifles, which th' indulgent earth
 Makes proper objects of mans childish mirth.
 These be the coyn that pass, the sweets that please;
 There's nothing good, there's nothing great but these:
 These be the pipes that base born minds dance after,
 And turn immod'rate tears to lavish laughter;
 Whilst Heav'nly raptures pass without regard;
 Their strings are harsh and their high strains unheard;
 The ploughmans whistle or the trivial flute
 Find more respect than great Apollo's lute:
 We'll look to Heav'n, and trust to higher joys;
 Let swine love husks, and children whine for toys.

*Narrow is the way that leadeth unto life,
and few there be that find it.*

O Repost'rous fool, thou troul'st amifs;
 Thou err'st; that's not the way, 'tis this:
 Thy hopes instructed by thine eye,
 Make thee appear more near than I;
 My floor is not so flat, so fine,
 And has more obvious rubs than thine:
 'Tis true my way is hard and strait,
 And leads me through a thorny gate:
 Whose rankling pricks are sharp and fell;
 The Common way to Heav'n's by hell:
 'Tis true; thy path is short and fair,
 And free from rubs: Ah, fool, beware,
 The saf'st road's not always ev'n;
 The way to Hell's a seeming Heav'n:
 Think'st thou the Crown of Glory's had
 With idle ease, fond Cyprian lad?
 Think'st thou, that mirth, and vain delights,
 High feed, and shadow-shortning nights,
 Soft knees, full bags and beds of down,
 Are proper prologues to a Crown?
 Or canst thou hope to come and view,
 Like prosperous Cæsar, and subdue?
 The bond slave Usurer will trudge,
 In spite of Gouts will turn a drudge,
 And serve his soul-condemning purse,
 To increase it with the widows curse:

And shall the crown of glory stand
Not worth the waving of an hand?
The fleshly wanton to obtain
His minute-lust, will count it gain
To lose his freedom, his estate,
Upon so dear, so sweet a rate;
Shall pleasures thus be priz'd, and must
Heav'n's Palm be cheaper than a lust?
The true-bred spark, to hoise his name
Upon the waxen wings of fame,
Will fight undaunted in a flood
That's rais'd with brackish drops and blood
And shall the promis'd crown of life
Be thought a toy, not worth a strife?
An easie good brings easie gains;
But things of price are bought with pains:
The pleasing way is not the right:
He that would conquer Heav'n must fight.

Is there no good, than which there's nothing higher,
To bless my full desire
With joys that never change; with joys that ne'er expire?

I wanted wealth; and at my dear request,
Earth lent a quick supply;
I wanted mirth to charm my sullen breast;
And who more brisk than I?
I wanted fame to glorifie the rest;
My fame flew eagle-high;
My joy not fully ripe, but all decay'd;
Wealth vanish'd like a shade,
My mirth began to flag, my fame began to fade.

The worlds an Ocean hurried to and fro
with ev'ry blast of passion:

Her lustful streams, when either ebb or flow,
 Are tides of mans vexation :
 They alter daily, and they daily grow
 The worse by alteration :
 The earth's a cask full run'd, yet wanting measure ;
 Her precious wine is pleasure ;
 Her yest is honours puff; her lees are worldly treasure.

My trust is in the Cross : let beauty flag
 Her loose, her wanton sail ;
 Let count'nance-guildin' honour cease to brag
 In courtly terms, and vail ;
 Let ditch-bred wealth henceforth forget to wag
 Her base, though golden tail ;
 False beauties conquest, is but real loss,
 And wealth but golden dross ;
 Best honours but a blast : my trust is in the Cross.

My trust is in the cross : There lies my rest :
 My fast, my sole delight :
 Let cold-mouth'd Boreas, or the hot mouth'd East
 Blow till they burst with spight ;
 Let earth and Hell conspire their worst, their best,
 And joyn their twisted might ;
 Let showrs of thunder-bolts dart down and wound me
 And troops of fiends surround me,
 All this may well confront ; all this shall ne'er confound (me.

S. AUGUST.

Christ's Cross is the Chriscross of all our happines: It delivers us from all blindness of error, and enriches our darkness with light; it restoreth the troubled soul to rest; It bringeth strangers to Gods acquaintance: It maketh remote foreigners near neighbours; it cutteth off discord; concludeth a league of everlasting peace; and is the bounteous author of all good.

PROV. 26. 11.

As a dog returneth to his vomit, so a fool returneth to his folly.

O I am wounded! and my wounds do smart
Beyond my patience or great Chiron's art;
I yield, I yield the day, the Palm is thine;
Thy bow's more true; thy shaft's more fierce than mine.
Hold, hold, O hold thy conqu'ring hand. What need
To send more darts? the first has done the deed:
Oft have we struggled, when our equal arms
Shot equal shafts, inflicted equal harms;
But this exceeds, and with her flaming head,
Twy-fork'd with death, has struck my conscience dead:
But must I die? Ah me! if that were all,
Then, then I'd stroke my bleeding wounds, and call
This dart a cordial, and with joy endure
These harsh ingredients, where my grief's my cure,
But something whispers in my dying ear,
There is an after-day; which day I fear.

The slender debt to Nature's quickly paid,
Discharg'd perchance with greater ease than made;
But if that pale-fac'd Sergeant make arrest,
Ten thousand actions would (whereof the least
Is more than all this lower world can bail)
Be entred, and condemn me to the Jail
Of Stygian darkness, bound in red hot chains,
And grip'd with tortures worse than Titian pains.
Farewel my vain, farewell my loose delights;
Farewel my rambling days, my rev'ling nights;

'Twas you betay'd me first, and when ye found
 My soul advantage, gave my soul the wound :
 Farewel my bullion gods, whose soveraign looks
 So often catch'd me with their golden hooks :
 Go seek another slave; ye must all go;
 I cannot serve my God and Bullion too.
 Farewell false honour; you whose airy wings
 Did mount my soul above the thrones of Kings;
 Then flatter'd me, took pet and in disdain,
 Nipt my green buds; then kick'd me down again :
 Farewell my bow; farewell my Cyprian Quiver;
 Farewel dear world, farewell dear world for ever.
 O, but this most delicious world, how sweet
 Her pleasures relish! Ah! How jump't they meet
 The grasping soul, and with their sprightly fire,
 Revive and raise, and rowze the wrapt desire :
 For ever? O, to part so long? what? never Meet more? another year, and then for ever;
 Too quick resolves do resolution wrong;
 What, part so soon, to be divorc'd so long?
 Things to be done are long to be debated;
 Heav'n is not decay'd. Repentance is not dated.

SO, now the Soul's sublim'd ; her lower desires
Are recalcin'd in heaven's well temp'ed fires :
The heart restor'd and purg'd from droffie nature,
Now finds the freedom of a new-born creature :
Lives another life, it breaths new breath ;
Neither fears nor feels the sting of death :
Like as the idle vagrant (having none)
That boldly 'dopts each house he views, his own ;
Takes ev'ry purse his chequer ; and at pleasure,
Talks forth and taxes all the world like Cæsar ;
At length by virtue of a just command,
His fides are lent to a severer hand ;
Whereon his Pass, not fully understood,
Taxed in a manuscript of blood ;
Thus past from town to town ; until he come
Fore repentant to his native home :
Then so the rambling heart, that idly roves
From crimes to sin, and uncontrol'd removes
From lust to lust, when wanton flesh invites
From old-worn pleasures to new choice delights,
At length corrected by the filial rod
His offended (but his gracious God)
And lash'd from sins to sighs ; and by degrees,
From sighs to vows, from vows to bended knees ;
From bended knees to a true pensive brest ;
From thence to torments not by tongue exprest,

Returns; (and from his sinful self exil'd)
 Finds a glad father, he a welcome child:
 O then it lives; O then it lives involv'd
 In secret raptures; pants to be dissolv'd:
 The royal Off-spring of a second Birth
 Sets ope to Heav'n, and shuts the door to earth:
 If love-sick Jove commanded clouds should hap
 To rain such show'rs as quickned Danae's lap:
 Or Dogs (far kinder than their purple master)
 Should lick his sores, he laughs, nor weeps the faster.
 If earth (Heav'n's rival) dart her idle ray;
 To Heav'n, 'tis wax, and to the world, 'tis clay:
 If earth present delights, it scorns to draw,
 But like the jet unrub'd, disdains that straw
 No hope deceives it, and no doubt divides it;
 No grief disturbs it; and no error guides it;
 No guilt condemns it, and no folly shames it;
 No sloth besots it; and no lust enthralls it;
 No scorn afflicts it, and no passion galls it:
 It is a cark'net of immortal life;
 An Ark of peace; the lists of sacred strife;
 A purer piece of endless transitory;
 A shrine of Grace, a little throne of Glory:
 A Heav'n born Off-spring of a new-born birth;
 An earthly Heav'n; an ounce of Heav'nly earth.

The Entertainment.

ALL you whose better thoughts are newly born,
 And (rebaptiz'd with holy fire) can scorn
 The worlds base trash, whose necks disdain to bear
 Th' imperious yoke of Satan; whose chaste ear
 No wanton Songs of Syrens can surprize
 With false delight; whose more than Eagle-eyes
 Can view the glorious flames of gold, and gaze
 On glitt'ring beams of honour, and not daze;
 Whose souls can spurn at pleasure, and deny
 The loose suggestions of the flesh, draw nigh:
 And you whose am'rous, whose select desires
 Would feel the warmth of those transcendent fires,
 Which (like the rising Sun) put out the light
 Of Venus star, and turn her day to night;
 You that would love, and have your passions crown'd
 With greater happiness, than can be found
 In your own wishes; you that would affect
 Where neither scorn, nor guile, nor disrespect
 Shall wound your tortur'd souls; that would enjoy,
 Where neither want can pinch, nor fulness cloy,
 Nor double doubt afflict, nor baser fear
 Unflames your courage in pursuit, draw near,
 Shake hands with earth, and let your soul respect
 Her joys no further, than her joys reflect Upon her makers glory; if thou swim
 In wealth see him in all; see all in him:

Sink'st thou in want, and is thy small cruise spent?
 See him in want: enjoy him in content:
 Conceiv'st him lodg'd in Crofs, or lost in Pain?
 In Pray'r and Patience find him out again:
 Make Heav'n thy Mistrifs, let no change remove
 Thy loyal heart, be fond, be sick of love:
 What if he stop his ear, or knit his brow?
 At length he'll be as fond, as sick as thou:
 Dart up thy soul in groans: Thy secret groan
 Shall pierce his ear, shall pierce his ear alone:
 Dart up thy soul in vows: Thy sacred vow
 Shall find him out, where Heav'n alone shall know:
 Dart up thy soul in sighs: Thy whisp'ring sigh
 Shall rouze his ears, and fear no listner nigh:
 Send up thy groans, thy sighs, thy closet-vow;
 There's none, there's none shall know but Heav'n and thou
 Groans fresh'd with vows, and vows made salt with tears,
 Unscale his eyes, and scale his conquer'd ears:
 Shoot up the bosome-shafts of thy desire,
 Feather'd with faith, and double-fork'd with fire.
 And they will hit: Fear not, where Heav'n bids come:
 Heav'n's never deaf, but when man's heart is dumb.

Êsay. 26

I.

ISAIAH 26. 6.

My Soul hath desired thee in the night.

Good God? what horrid darknes doth surround
 My groping soul! how are my senses bound
 In utter shades: and muffled from the light,
 Lurk in the bosom of eternal night!
 The bold-fac'd Lamp of Heav'n can set and rise;
 And with his morning glory fill the eyes
 Of gazing mortals; his victorious ray
 Can chase the shadows and restore the day:
 Nights bashful Empress, though she often wain,
 As oft repents her darknes, primes again;
 And with her circling horns doth re-embrace
 Her brothers wealth, and orbs her silver face.
 But ah, my Sun deep swallow'd in his fall,
 Is set and cannot shine, nor rise at all:
 My bankrupt wain can beg nor borrow light;
 Alas, my darknes is perpetual night,
 Falls have their risings, wainings have their primes,
 And desp'rate sorrows wait their better times:
 Ebbs have their Floods, and Autumns have their Springs:
 All States have changes hurried with the swings
 Of Chance and Time, still riding to and fro:
 Terrestrial bodies, and celestial too.
 How often have I vainly grop'd about,
 With length'ned arms to find a passage out,
 That I might catch those beams mine eye desires,
 And bathe my soul in those celestial fires?
 Like as the haggard, cloistered in her mew,
 To scowre her downy robes, and to renew

Her broken flags, preparing t'overlook
The tim'rous Mallard at the sliding brook,
Jets oft from perch to perch; from stock to ground,
From ground to window, thus surveying round
Her Dovebefeather'd Prison, till at length
(Calling her noble birth to mind, and strength Whereto her wing was born) her ragged beak
Nipps off her jangling jesses, strives to break
Her gingling fetters, and begins to bate
At ev'ry glimpse, and darts at ev'ry grate:
Ev'n so my weary soul, that long has bin
An inmate in this Tenement of sin,
Lock'd up by cloud-brow'd Error, which invites
My cloist'ed thoughts to feed on black delights,
Now scorns her shadows, and begins to dart
Her wing'd desires at thee, that only art
The Sun she seeks, whose rising beams can fright
These dusky-clouds that make so dark a night:
Shine forth great Glory, shine; that I may see
Both how to loath my self, and honour Thee:
But if my weakness force thee to deny
Thy flames, yet lend the twilight of thine eye:
If I must want those Beams; I wish, yet grant,
That I, at least, may wish those Beams, I want.

S. AUGUST. Soliloqu. cap. 33.

There was a great dark cloud of vanity before mine eyes, so that I could not see the Sun of Justice & the Light of Truth: I being the son of darkness, was involved in darkness: I loved my darkness, because I knew not thy light: I was blind, and loved my blindness, and did walk from darkness to darkness: But Lord thou art my God, who hast led me from darkness and the shadow of death; hast called me into this glorious light, and behold, I see.

EPIG. I.

My soul, cheer up; what if the night be long,
Heav'n finds an ear when finners find a tongue;
Thy tears are morning show'rs: Heav'n bid me say,
When Peter's cock begins to crow, 'tis day.

II.

O Lord thou knowest my foolishnesse and my Sinns are not hid from thee Ps: 69. 5.

II.

P S A L M 69. 3.

O Lord, thou knowest my foolishness, and my sins are not hid from thee.

Seest thou this tulsom Ideot? in what measure
He seems transported with the antick pleasure
Of childish baubles? Canst thou but admire
The empty fulness of his vain desire?
Canst thou conceive such poor delights as these
Can fill th' infatiate soul of man, or please
The fond aspect of his deluded eye?
Reader, such very fools are thou and I:
False puffs of honour; the deceitful streams
Of wealth; the idle, vain and empty dreams
Of pleasure, are our traffick, and ensnare
Our souls the threefold subject of our care;
We toil for trash, we barter solid joys
For aery trifles, sell our Heav'n for toys:
We knatch at barly grains, whilst pearls stand by Despis'd; such very fools are thou and I.
Aim'st thou at honour? Does not th' Ideot shake it
In his left hand? Fond man, step forth and take it:
Or would'st thou wealth? see now the fool presents thee
With a full basket, if such wealth contents thee:
Would'st thou take pleasure? if the fool unstride
His prancing Stallion, thou maist up and ride:
Fond man, such is the pleasure, wealth, and honour
The earth affords such fools, as dote upon her;
Such is the game whereat earth's Ideots flie;
Such Ideots, ah! such fools are thou and I:

Had rebel man's fool-hardiness extended
No farther than himself, and there had ended,
It had been just; but thus enrag'd to fly
Upon the eternal eyes of Majesty,
And drag the Son of Glory from the breast
Of his indulgent Father; to arrest
His great and sacred Person: in disgrace
To spit and spawl upon his Sun-bright-face;
To taunt him with base terms, and being bound
To scourge his soft, his trembling sides; to wound
His head with thorns; his heart with humane fears;
His hands with nails, and his pale flank with spears:
And then to paddle in the purer stream
Of his spilt blood, is more, than most extreme:
Great builder of Mankind, canst thou propound
All this to thy bright eyes, and not confound
Thy handy work? O! Canst thou chuse but see,
That mad'st the tye? Can ought be hid from thee?
Thou seest our persons, Lord and not our guilt;
Thou seest not, what thou maist but what thou wilt:
The hand that form'd us is inforc'd to be
A Screen set up betwixt thy work and thee:
Look, look upon that Hand, and thou shalt spie
An open wound, a through-fare for thine eye;
Or if that wound be clos'd, that passage be
Deny'd between thy gracious eye and me,
Yet view the Scar; that scar will countermand
Thy wrath: O read my fortune in thy hand.

S. CHRYS. Hom. 4. Joan.

Fools seem to abound in wealth, when they want all things; they seem to enjoy happiness, when indeed they are only most miserable; neither do they understand that they are deluded by their fancy, till they be delivered from their folly.

S. GREG. in Mor.

By so much the more are we inwardly foolish, by how much we strive to seem outwardly wise.

EPIG. 2.

Soul.

Jesus.

Soul. AH, Son of David, help: Jesus. What sinful cry
Implores the Son of David? Soul. It is I.

Jesus. Who art thou? Soul. Oh a deeply wounded breast
That's heavy laden and would fain have rest.

Jesus. I have no scraps, and dogs must not be fed
Like household children, with the children's bread.

Soul. True, Lord; yet tolerate a hungry whelp
To lick their crumbs: O Son of David, help.

Jesus. Poor Soul, what ail'st thou? Soul. O I burn, I fry,
I cannot rest, I know not where to fly

To find some ease; I turn'd my blubber'd face
From man to man; I rowl from place to place

To avoid my tortures, to obtain relief,
But still am dogg'd and haunted with my grief:

My mid-night torments call the sluggish light
And when the morning's come, they woo the night.

Jesus. Surcease thy tears, and speak thy free desires. (fires.
So. Quench, quench my flames, & swage those scorching

Jesus. Canst thou believe, my hand can cure thy grief?
Soul. Lord, I believe; Lord, help my unbelief.

Jesus. Hold forth thine arm and let my fingers try
Thy pulse; where chiefly doth thy torment lie?

Soul. From head to foot; it reigns in ev'ry part,
But plays the self-law'd tyrant in my heart.

Jes. Canst thou digest? Canst relish wholsom food?
How stands thy tast? Soul. To nothing that is good:
All sinful trash, and earths unsav'ry stuff
I can digest, and relish well enough.

Jesus. Is not thy blood as cold as hot, by turns?

Soul. Cold to what's good; to what is bad it burns.

Jesus. How old's thy grief? Soul. I took it at the fall
With eating fruit. Jes. 'Tis Epidemical:

Thy blood's infected, and th' infection sprung

From a bad liver: 'Tis a fever strong

And full of death, unless, with present speed,

A vein be opened: thou must die, or bleed.

Soul. O I am faint and spent: that lance that shall Let forth my blood, lets forth my life withal:

My soul wants cordials, and has greater need

Of blood, than (being spent so far) to bleed:

I faint already, if I bleed, I dye.

Jes. 'Tis either thou must bleed, sick soul, or I:
My blood's a cordial. He that sucks my veins,

Shall cleanse his own, and conquer greater pains

Than these: cheer up; this precious blood of mine

Shall cure thy grief; my heart shall bleed for thine.

Believe and view me with a faithful eye,

Thy soul shall neither languish, bleed nor die.

S. AUGUST. lib. 10. Confess.

Lord, be merciful unto me : Ah me : Behold, I hide not my wounds : Thou art a Physician, and I am sick ; Thou art merciful, and I am miserable.

S. GREG. in Pastoral.

O Wisdom, with how sweet an art doth thy wine and oyl restore health to my healthless soul ! How powerfully merciful, how mercifully powerful art thou ! Powerful for me, merciful to me !

EPIG. 3.

Canst thou be sick, and such a Doctor by ?
 Thou canst not live, unless thy Doctor die !
 Strange kind of grief, that finds no med'cine good
 To 'swage her pains, but the Physicians blood !

Look upon my affliction, and misery and forgive me all my Sinns

IV.

P S A L. 25. 18.

Look upon my affliction and my pain, and forgive all my sins.

BOth work and strokes? Both, lash and labour too?
 What more could Edom, or proud Ashur do?
 Stripes, after Stripes; and blows succeeding blows?
 Lord, has thy scourge no mercy, and my woes
 No end? My pains no ease? No intermission?
 Is this the state? Is this the sad condition
 Of those that trust thee? will thy goodness please
 T' allow no other favours? None but these?
 Will not the Rhet'rick of my torments move?
 Are these the symptoms, these the signs of love?
 Is't not enough, enough that I fulfil
 The toylsome task of thy laborious will?
 May not this labour expiate and purge
 My sin without the addition of a scourge?
 Look on my cloudy brow, how fast it rains
 Sad showers of sweat, the fruits of fruitless pains:
 Behold these ridges; see what purple furrows
 Thy plow has made; O think upon those sorrows
 That once were thine; wilt thou not be woo'd
 To mercy by the charms of sweat and blood?
 Canst thou forget that drowsie mount wherein
 Thy dull Disciples sleep, was not my sin
 There punish'd in my soul? did not this brow
 Then sweat in thine? Were not those drops enow?
 Remember Golgotha, where that spring tide
 O'erflow'd thy sovereign Sacramental side:

There was no sin, there was no guilt in Thee,
That caus'd those pains; thou sweat'st, thou bledst for me.
Was there not blood enough, when one small drop
Had pow'r to ransom thousand worlds, and stop
The mouth of Justice? Lord, I bled before
In thy deep wounds; can Justice challenge more?
Or dost thou vainly labour to hedge in Thy losses from my sides? My blood is thin,
And thy free bounty scorns such easie thrift;
No, no, thy blood came not as love but gift.
But must I ever grind? And must I earn
Nothing but stripes? O wilt thou disaltern
The rest thou gav'st? Hast thou perus'd the curse
Thou laid'st on Adam's fall, and made it worse?
Canst thou repent of mercy? Heav'n thought good
Lost man should feed in sweat; not work in blood:
Why dost thou wound th' already wounded breast?
Ah me! my life is but a pain at best:
I am but dying dust: my day's a span;
What pleasure tak'st thou in the blood of man?
Spare, spare thy scourge, and be not so austere:
Send fewer stroaks, or lend more strength to bear.

S. BERN. Hom. 81. in Cant.

Miserable man! Who shall deliver me from the reproach of this shameful bondage? I am a miserable man, but a free man; free, because a man; miserable, because a servant: In regard of my bondage, miserable, in regard of my will, inexcusable: For my will, that was free, beslaved it self to sin, by assenting to sin; for he that committeth sin, is the servant to sin.

EPIG. 4.

Tax not thy God: Thine own defaults did urge
 This two-fold punishment; the mill, the scourge.
 Thy sin's the author of thy self-tormenting:
 Thou grind'st for sinning; scourg'd for not repenting.

*Remember I beseech thee, that thou hast made

THUS from the bosome of the new made earth
 Poor man was delv'd and had his unborn birth;
 The same the stuff, the self same hand doth trim
 The plant that fades, the beast that dies, and him:
 One was their fire, one was their common mother,
 Plants are his sisters, and the beast his brother,
 The elder too; beasts draw the self-same breath,
 Wax old alike, and die the self-same death:
 Plants grow as he, with fairer robes array'd:
 Alike they flourish, and alike they fade:
 The beast in sense exceeds him and in growth,
 The three-ag'd Oak doth thrice exceed them both:
 Why look'st thou then so big, thou little span
 Of earth? what art thou more in being man?
 I, but thy great Creator did inspire
 My chosen earth, with thy diviner fire
 Of reason; gave me judgment and a will:
 That, to know good; this, to choose good from ill:
 He puts the reigns of pow'r in my free hand,
 And jurisdiction over Sea and Land,
 He gave me art to lengthen out my span
 Of life, and made me all, in being man:
 I but thy passion has committed treason
 Against the sacred person of thy reason:
 Thy judgment is corrupt, perverse thy will;
 That knows no good, and this makes choice of ill:

The greater height sends down the deeper fall;
And good declin'd turns bad, turns worst of all.
Say then proud inch of living earth, what can
Thy greatness claim the more in being man?
O but my soul transcends the pitch of nature,
Born up by th' Image of her high Creatour;
Out-braves the life of reason, and bears down
Her waxen wings, kicks off her brazen crown.
My heart's a living Temple t'entertain
The King of Glory, and his glorious train:
How can I mend my title then? where can
Ambition find a higher stile than man?
Ah, but that Image is defac'd and soil'd;
Her Temple's raz'd, her Altars all defil'd;
Her vessels are polluted and distain'd
With loathed lust, her ornaments prophan'd;
Her oil-forfaken lamps, and hallow'd tapours
Put out; her incense breaths unfav'ry vapours:
Why swell'st thou then so big, thou little span
Of earth? what art thou more in being man?
Eternal Potter, whose blest hands did lay
My course foundation from a sod of clay,
Thou know'st my slender vessel's apt to leak;
Thou know'st my brittle temper's prone to break;
Are my bones brazil, or my flesh of oak!
O, mend what thou hast made, what I have broke:
Look, look with gentle eyes, and in thy day
Of vengeance, Lord, remember I am clay.

S. AUGUST.

S. AUGUST. Soliloq. 32.

Shall I ask, who made me? It was thou that madest me, without whom nothing was made: Thou art my maker, and I thy work. I thank thee, my Lord God, by whom I live, and by whom all things subsist, because thou madest me: I thank thee, O my Potter, because thy hands have made me, because thy hands have formed me.

EPIG. 5.

*Why swell'st thou, man, puffed up with fame and purse?
Th'art better earth, but born to dig the worse:
Thou cam'st from earth, thou must return,
And art but earth cast from the womb to th'urn.*

VI.

What shall I do vnto thee, o thou preserver of men why hast thou set mee as a marke against thee. Iob. 7. 20

VI.

J O B 7. 20.

*I have sinned : What shall I do unto thee,
O thou preserver of Men? Why dost thou set me as a mark against thee?*

Lord, I have done; and Lord, I have misdome;
'Tis folly to contest, to strive with one
That is too strong; 'tis folly to assail
Or prove an arm, that will, that must prevail.
I've done, I've done; these trembling hands have thrown
Their daring weapons down: The day's thine own:
Forbear to strike where thou hast won the field.
The palm is thine: I yield, I yield.
These treach'rous hands that were so vainly bold
To try a thriveless combat, and to hold
Self-wounding weapons up, are now extended
For mercy from thy hand; that knee that bended
Upon her guardless guard doth now repent
Upon his naked floor; See both are bent,
And sue for pity: O my ragged wound
Is deep and desp'rate, it is drench'd and drown'd
In blood and briny tears: It doth begin
To stink without, and putrifie within.
Let that victorious hand that now appears
Just in my blood, prove gracious to my tears:
Thou great preserver of presumptuous man,
What shall I do? what satisfaction can
Poor dust and ashes make? O if that blood
That yet remains unshed, were half as good
As blood of oxen, if my death might be
An offering to atone my God and me,

I would disdain injurious life, and stand
A suiter to be wounded from thy hand.
But may thy wrongs be measur'd by the span
Of life? or balanc'd with the blood of man?
No, no, eternal sin expects for guerdon,
Eternal penance, or eternal pardon:
Lay down thy weapons, turn thy wrath away,
And pardon him that hath no price to pay;
Enlarge that soul, which base presumption binds;
Thy justice cannot loose what mercy finds:
O thou that wilt not bruise the broken reed,
Rub not my sores, nor prick the wounds that bleed.
Lord, if the peevish infant fights and flies,
With unpar'd weapons, at his mothers eyes,
Her frowns (half mix'd with smiles) may chance to shew
An angry love-trick on his arm, or so;
Where if the Babe but make a lip and cry,
Her heart begins to melt, and by and by
She coaks his dewy cheeks; her babe she blisses,
And choaks her language with a thousand kisses;
I am that child; Lo, here I prostrate lie,
Pleading for mercy; I repent and cry
For gracious pardon: let thy gentle ears
Hear that in words, what mothers judge in tears:
See not my frailties, Lord, but through my fear,
And look on ev'ry trespass through a tear:
Then calm thy anger, and appear more mild;
Remember, th'art a Father, I a child.

S. BERN. Ser. 21. in Cant.

Miserable man! Who shall deliver me from the reproach of this shameful bondage? I am a miserable man, but a free man: Free, because like to God; miserable, because against God: O keeper of mankind, why hast thou set me as a mark against thee? Thou hast set me, because thou hast not hindered me: It is just that thy enemy should be my enemy, and that he who repugneth thee, should repugn me. I who am against thee, am against my self.

EPIG. 6.

But form'd, and fight? But born, and then rebel?
How small a blast will make a bubble swell?
But dare the floor affront the hand that laid it?
So apt is dust to fly in's face that made it.

VII.

Wherefore hidest thou thy face, &
holdest mee for thine Enemy. Job: 13. 24

L. F. 2

VII.

JOB 13. 24.

Wherefore hidest thou thy face, and holdest me for thine enemy?

WHY dost thou shade thy lovely face? O why
Does that eclipsing hand so long deny
The Sun-shine of my soul-enli'ving eye?

Without that Light, what light remains in me?
Thou art my Life, my Way, my Light, in Thee
I live, I move, and by thy beams I see.

Thou art my Life, If thou but turn away,
My life's a thousand deaths: Thou art my Way:
Without thee, Lord, I travel not, but stray.

My Light thou art; without thy glorious sight,
Mine eyes are darkned with perpetual night.
My God, thou art my Way, my Life, my Light.

Thou art my Way; I wander, if thou flie:
Thou art my Light; if hid how blind am I?
Thou art my Life; if thou withdraw, I die.

Mine eyes are blind and dark; I cannot see;
To whom or whither should my darknes flee,
But to the Light? And who's that Light but Thee?

My path is lost; my wandring steps do stray;
I cannot safely go, nor safely stay;
Whom should I seek but Thee, my Path, my Way?

O, I am dead : To whom shall I, poor I,
Repair ? To whom shall my sad ashes fly
But Life ? And where is Life but in thine eye ?

And yet thou turn'st away thy face, and fly'st me ;
And yet I sue for grace, and thou deny'st me ;
Speak, art thou angry, Lord, or only try'st me ?

Unscreen those heavenly lamps, or tell me why
Thou shad'st thy face ? perhaps thou think'st no eye
Can view those flames and not drop down and die.

If that be all, shine forth and draw thee nigher ;
Let me behold and die, for my desire
Is, Phoenix like, to perish in that fire.

Death conquer'd, Lazarus was redeem'd by thee ;
If I am dead, Lord, set death's prisoner free ;
Am I more spent, or stink I worse than he ?

If my pufft life be out, give leave to tine
My shameless snuff at that bright Lamp of thine ;
O what's thy Light the less for lightning mine ?

If I have lost my Path, Great Shepherd, say,
Shall I still wander in a doubtful way ?
Lord, shall a Lamb of Isra'els sheep-fold stray ?

Thou art my Pilgrims Path, the blind man's Eye ;
The dead man's Life : on thee my hopes rely ;
If thou remove, I erre ; I grope ; I die.

Disclose thy Sun beams ; close thy wings and stay ;
See, see how I am blind, and dead, and stray,
O thou that art my Light, my Life, my Way.

S. AUGUST. Soliloq. cap. 1.

Why dost thou hide thy face? Happily thou wilt say, none can see thy face and live: Ah Lord, let me die, that I may see thee; let me see thee, that I may die: I would not live, but die; that I may see Christ, I desire death; that I may live with Christ, I despise life.

A N S E L M. Med. cap. 5.

O excellent hiding, which is become my perfection! My God thou hidest thy treasure, to kindle my desire: Thou hidest thy pearl, to inflame the seeker; thou delay'st to give, that thou may'st teach me to importune; seem'st not to hear, to make me persevere.

Jer. 9. 1.

J E R. 9. 1.

O that my head were waters, and mine eyes a fountain of tears, that I may weep day and night.

O That mine eyes were Springs, and could transform
Their drops to seas? My sighs into a storm
Of Zeal, and sacred violence, wherein
This lab'ring vessel laden with her sin,
Might suffer sudden shipwrack, and be split
Upon that Rock, where my drench'd soul may sit Orewhelm'd with plenteous passion? O and there
Drop, Drop, into an everlasting tear!
Ah me! That ev'ry sliding vein that wanders
Through this vast Isle, did work her wild Meanders
In brackish tears instead of blood, and swell
This flesh with holy Dropsies, from whose Well,
Made warm with sighs, may fume my wasting breath,
Whilst I dissolve in steams, and reek to death!
These narrow sluces of my dribling eyes
Are much too streight for those quick springs that rise
And hourly fill my Temples to the top;
I cannot shed for ev'ry sin a drop;
Great builder of mankind, why hast thou sent,
Such swelling floods, and made so small a vent?
O that this flesh had been compos'd of snow,
Instead of earth; and bones of ice, that so,

Feeling the fervor of my sin; and loathing
The fire I feel, I might be thaw'd to nothing!
O thou that didst, with hopeful joy, entomb
Me thrice three Moons in thy laborious womb,
And then with joyful pain, brought'st forth a Son,
What worth thy labour has thy labour done?
What was there? Ah! What was there in my birth
That could deserve the easiest smile of mirth?
A man was born: Alas, and what's a man?
A scuttle full of dust, a measur'd span
Of flitting time; a furnish'd Pack, whose wares
Are sullen griefs, and soul tormenting Cares:
A vale of tears, a vessel tunn'd with breath,
By sickness broacht, to be drawn out by death:
A hapless helpless thing; that born does cry
To feed, that feeds to live, that lives to die.
Great God and Man, whose eye spent drops so often
For me that cannot weep enough; O soften
These marble brains, and strike this flinty rock;
Or, if the musick of thy Peter's Cock
Will more prevail, fill, fill my hearkning ears
With that sweet sound, that I may melt in tears!
I cannot weep until thou broach mine eye;
Or give me vent, or else I burst, and die.

S. AMBROS. in Psal. 118.

He that commits sins to be wept for, cannot weep for sins committed: And being himself most lamentable hath no tears to lament his offences.

PSALM 18. 5.

*The sorrows of hell compassed me about, and

IS not this Type well cut in ev'ry part
Full of rich cunning? Fil'd with Zeuxian Art?
Are not the Hunters, and their Stygian Hounds
Limm'd full to th' life? Didst ever hear the sounds
Of musick, and the lip-dividing breaths
Of the strong winded Horn, Recheats, and deaths,
Done more exact? Th' infernal Nimrods hollow?
The lawless purlieus? And the Game they follow?
The hidden Engines, and the snares that lie
So undiscover'd, so obscure to th' eye?
The new drawn net, and her intangled Prey?
And him that closes it? Beholder, say,
Is't not well done? seems not an em'lous strife
Betwixt the rare cut picture and the life?
These purlieu men are Devils? and the hounds,
(Those quick-nos'd Cannibals, that scour the grounds)
Temptations and the Game, the Fiends pursue,
Are humane souls, which still they have in view;
Whose fury if they chance to scape, by flying
The skilful Hunter plants his net close lying
On th' unsuspected earth, baited with treasure,
Ambitious honour, and self wasting pleasure:
Where, if the soul but stoop, death stands prepar'd
To draw the net, and drown the Souls ensnar'd.

Poor soul! how art thou hurried to and fro?
Where canst thou safely stay? where safely go?
If stay; these hot-mouth'd Hounds are apt to tear thee:
If go; the snares enclose, the nets ensnare thee:
What good in this bad world has pow'r t'invite thee
A willing Guest? wherein can earth delight thee?
Her pleasures are but itch: Her wealth, but Cares:
A world of Dangers, and a world of snares:
The close pursuers busie hands do plant
Snares in thy substance; Snares attend thy want;
Snares in thy credit; Snares in thy disgrace;
Snares in thy high estate; Snares in thy base;
Snares tuck thy bed; and Snares surround thy board;
Snares watch thy thoughts; and Snares attach thy word;
Snares in thy quiet; Snares in thy commotion;
Snares in thy diet; Snares in thy devotion;
Snares lurk in thy resolves, Snares in thy doubt,
Snares lie within thy heart, and Snares without,
Snares are above thy head, and Snares beneath,
Snares in thy sickness, Snares are in thy death:
O, if these purlieus be so full of danger,
Great God of hearts, the worlds sole sov'raign Ranger,
Preserve thy Deer, and let my soul be blest
In thy safe Forest, where I seek for rest:
Then let the Hell-hounds roar, I fear no ill,
Rouze me they may, but have no pow'r to kill.

[S. AMBROS. lib. 4. in cap. 4. in Luc.

The reward of honours, the height of power, the delicacy of diet, and the beauty of an harlot are the snares of the Devil.

S. AMBROS. de bono mortis.

Whilst thou seekest pleasures, thou runnest into snares, for the eye of the harlot, is the snare of the Adulterer.

EPIG. 9.

Enter not into judgment with thy servant for no man living shall be justified in thy sight

P S A L M 143. 2.

*Enter not into judgment with thy servant,
for in thy sight shall no man living be justified.*

Jesus.Justice.Sinner.

Jes. BRing forth the pris'ner, Justice. Ju. Thy commands
Are done, Just Judge: See here the pris'ner stands.

Jes. What has the pris'ner done? Say; what's the cause
Of his commitment? Just. He hath broke the laws
Of his too gracious God; conspir'd the death
Of that great Majesty that gave him breath,
And heaps transgression, Lord, upon transgression.

Jes. How know'st thou this? Ju. Ev'n by his own confes-
His sins are crying; and they cry'd aloud! (sion:
They cry'd to heav'n, they cry'd to heav'n for blood.

Jes. What say'st thou sinner? hast thou ought to plead,
That sentence should not pass? hold up thy head,
And shew thy brazen, thy rebellious face.

Sin. Ah me! I dare not: I'm too vile and base
To tread upon the earth, much more, to lift
Mine eyes to heav'n; I need no other shift
Than mine own conscience; Lord, I must confess,
I am no more than dust, and no whit less
Than my indictment stiles me; Ah, if thou
Search too severe, with too severe a brow,
What flesh can stand? I have transgress't thy laws;
My merits plead thy vengeance; not my cause:

Just.

Just. Lord, shall I strike the blow? Jes. Hold, Justice, Sinner, speak on; what hast thou more to say? (stay:

Sin. Vile as I am, and of my self abhorr'd,
I am thy handy-work, thy creature, Lord,
Stampt with thy glorious Image, and at first
Most like to thee, though now a poor accurst,
Convicted Caitiff, and degen'rous creature,
Here trembling at thy bar. Just. Thy fault's the greater.
Lord, shall I strike the blow? Jes. Hold, Justice, stay:
Speak sinner; hast thou nothing more to say?

Sin. Nothing but Mercy, Mercy, Lord; my state
Is miserably poor and desperate;
I quite renounce my self, the world, and flee
From Lord to Jesus; from thy self to thee.

Just. Cease thy vain hopes; my angry God has vow'd;
Abused mercy must have blood for blood:
Shall I yet strike the blow? Jes. Stay, Justice, hold;
My bowels yearn, my fainting blood grows cold,
To view the trembling wretch? Methinks, I spie
My father's Image in the pris'ners eye.

Just. I cannot hold. Jes. Then turn thy thirsty blade
Into my sides, let there the wound be made:
Chear up, dear soul; redeem thy life with mine:
My soul shall smart, my heart shall bleed for thine.

Sin. O groundless deeps! O love beyond degree!
Th' offended dies, to set th' offender free.

S. AUGUST.

Lord, If I have done that, for which thou mayest damn me; thou hast not lost that whereby thou mayest save me: Remember not, sweet Jesus, thy justice against the sinner, but thy benignity towards thy Creature: Remember not to proceed against a guilty soul, but remember thy mercy towards a miserable wretch: forget the insolence of the provoker, and behold the misery of the invoker; for what is Jesus but a Saviour?

ANSELM.

Have respect to what thy son hath done for me, and forget what my sins have done against thee: My flesh hath provoked thee to vengeance; let the flesh of Christ move thee to mercy: It is much that my rebellions have deserved; but it is more that my Redeemer hath merited.

EPIG. 10.

THe world's a Sea; my flesh a Ship that's mann'd
With lab'ring Thoughts, and steer'd by Reasons hand:
My Heart's the Sea-mans Card, whereby she sails;
My loose Affections are the greater Sails:
The top sail is my Fancy, and the Gusts
That fill these wanton sheets, are worldly Lusts.
Ray'r is the Cable, at whose end appears
The Anchor Hope, ne'er slip'd but in our fears:
My will's th' unconstant Pilot, that commands
The stagg'ring Keel; my Sins are like the Sands:
Repentance is the Bucket, and mine Eye
The Pump, unus'd (but in extreames) and dry:
My conscience is the Plummet that doth press
The deeps, but seldom cries, O fathom less:
Smooth Calm's security; the Gulf, despair;
My Freights's Corruption, and this Life's my Fare:
My Soul's the Passenger, confus'dly driven
From fear to fright; her landing Port is Heaven.
My Seas are stormy, and my Ship doth leak;
My Sailers rude; my Steers-man faint and weak:
My Canvass torn, it flaps from side to side;
My Cable's crackt, my Anchor's slightly ty'd;
My Pilot's craz'd; my shipwrack-Sands are cloak'd;
My Bucket's broken, and my Pump is choak'd;
My Calm's deceitful; and my Gulf too near;
My Wares are slubber'd, and my Fate's too dear:
My Plummet's light, it cannot sink nor found;
Shall my Rock-bethreatned Soul be drown'd?

Lord, still the Seas, and shield my Ship from harm;
 Instruct my Sailours, guide my Steersmans arm:
 Touch thou my Compass, and renew my Sails,
 Send stiffer courage or send milder gales;
 Make strong my Cable, bind my Anchor faster;
 Direct my Pilot, and be thou his Master;
 Object the Sands to my more serious view,
 Make sound my Bucket, bore my Pump anew:
 New cast my plummet, make it apt to try
 Where the Rocks lurk, and where the Quick-sands lie;
 Guard thou the Gulf with love, my Calms with Care;
 Cleanse thou my fraught; accept my slender Fare;
 Refresh the Sea-sick passenger; cut short
 His Voyage; land him in his wished Port:
 Thou, Thou, whom winds and stormy seas obey,
 That through the deep gav'st grumbling Isr'el way,
 Say to my soul be fate, and then mine eye
 Shall scorn grim death, although grim death stand by
 O thou whose strength-reviving Arm did cherish
 Thy sinking Peter, at the point to perish,
 Reach forth thy hand, or bid me tread the wave,
 I'll come, I'll come: The voice that calls will save.

In these false coasts ; O keep aloof ; there's danger ;
Cast forth thy plummet ; see a rock appears ;
Thy ship wants sea-room ; make it with thy tears.

O that thou wouldst protect me in the

XII.

JOB 14. 13.

O that thou wouldst hide me in the grave, that thou wouldst keep me in secret until thy wrath be past!

○ Whither shall I flie; what path untrod
Shall I seek out to scape the flaming rod
Of my offended, of my angry God?

Where shall I sojourn? What kind sea will hide
My head from thunder? Where shall I abide,
Until his flames be quench'd or laid aside?

What, if my feet should take their hasty flight,
And seek protection in the shades of night?
Alas, no shades can blind the God of Light.

What, if my soul should take the wings of day,
And find some desert? If she springs away,
The wings of vengeance clip as fast as they.

What if some solid rock should entertain
My frightened soul? Can solid rocks restrain
The stroke of Justice and not cleave in twain?

Nor Sea, nor Shade, nor Shield, nor Rock, nor Cave,
Nor silent Desarts, nor the sullen Grave,
What flame-ey'd fury means to smite, can save.

The Seas will part, Graves open, Rocks will split;
The Shield will cleave; the frightened Shadows flit;
Where Justice aims, her fiery darts must hit.

No, no if stern-brow'd vengeance means to thunder,
 There is no place above, beneath, nor under,
 So close, but will unlock, or rive in sunder.

'Tis vain to flee ; 'tis neither here nor there
 Can scape that hand, until that hand forbear ;
 Ah me! Where is he not, that's every where?

'Tis vanity to flee ; till gentle mercy shew
 Her better eye, the farther off we go,
 The swing of Justice deals the mightier blow.

Th' ingenuous child, corrected, doth not flie
 His angry mother's hand, but clings more nigh,
 And quenches with his tears her flaming eye.

Shadows are faithless, and the rocks are false ;
 No trust in brass, no trust in marble walls ;
 Poor cots are even as safe as Princes halls.

Great God, there is no safety here below ;
 Thou art my Fortrefs thou that seem'st my foe,
 'Tis thou that strik'st the stroke must guard the blow.

Thou art my God ; by thee I fall or stand ;
 Thy grace hath giv'n me courage to withstand
 All tortures, but my conscience and thy hand.

I know thy Justice is thy self; I know,
 Just God, thy very self is Mercy too;
 If not to thee, where? Whither should I go?

Then work thy will? If passion bid me flee,
 My reason shall obey ; my wings shall be
 Stretcht out no further than from thee to thee.

S. AUGUST. in Psal. 33.

Whither flie I ? To what place can I safely flie ? To what mountain ? To what den ? To what strong house ? What Castle shall I hold ? What walls shall hold me ? Whithersoever I go, my self followeth me : For whatsoever thou fliest, O man, thou maist, but thy own conscience : Wheresoever, O Lord, I go, I find thee ; if angry, a Revenger ; if appeased, a Redcemer : What way have I, but to flie from thee to thee : That thou maist avoid thy God, address to thy Lord.

EPIG. 12.

Hath vengeance found thee ? Can thy fears command
 No rocks to shield thee from her thund'ring hand ?
 Know'st thou not where to scape ? I'll tell thee where ;
 My soul make clean thy conscience, hide thee there.

*Are not my days few? Cease then, and let

My Glas is half unspent; Forbear t'arrest
My thriftless day too soon: my poor request
Is that my glas may run but out the rest.

My time-devoured minutes will be done
Without thy help; see, see how swift they run:
Cut not my thred before my thred be spun.

The gain's not great I purchase by this stay;
What loss sustain'st thou by so small delay,
To whom ten thousand years are but a day?

My following eye can hardly make a shift
To count my winged hours; they fly so swift,
They scarce deserve the bounteous name of gift.

The secret wheels of hurrying Time do give
So short a warning, and so fast they drive,
That I am dead before I seem to live.

And what's a Life? a weary Pilgrimage,
Whose glory in one day doth fill the stage
With Child-hood, Man-hood, and decrepit Age.

And what's a Life? the flourishing array
Of the proud Summer meadow, which to day
Wears her green plush, and is to morrow hay.

And what's a Life? A blast sustain'd with cloathing,
Maintain'd with food, retain'd with vile self-loathing,
Then weary of it self, again to nothing.

Read on this dial, how the shades devour
My short-liv'd winters day; hour eats up hour;
Alas, the total's but from eight to four.

Behold these Lilies (which thy hands have made
Fair copies of my life, and open laid
To view) how soon they droop, how soon they fade!

Shade not that dial, night will blind too soon;
My non-ag'd day already points to noon;
How simple is my suit! how small my boon!

Nor do I beg this slender inch, to while
The time away, or safely to beguile
My thoughts with joy; here's nothing worth a smile.

No, no: 'tis not to please my wanton ears
With frantick mirth, I beg but hours, nor years:
And what thou giv'st me, I will give to tears.

Draw not that soul which would be rather led!
That Seed has yet not broke my serpents head;
O shall I die before my sins are dead?

Behold these raggs; am I a fitting guest
To taste the dainties of thy royal feast,
With hands and face unwash'd, ungirt, unblest?

First, let the Jordan streams (that find supplies
From the deep fountain of my heart) arise,
And cleanse my spots, and clear my leprous eyes.

I have a world of sins to be lamented;
I have a sea of tears that must be vented:
O spare till then; and then I die contented.

S. AUGUST. lib. de Civit. Dei, Cap. 10.

The time wherein we live, is taken from the space of our life; and what remaineth, is daily made less and less, insomuch that the time of our life is nothing but a passage to death.

S. GREG. lib. 9. cap. 44. in Job.

As moderate afflictions bring tears, so immoderate take away tears; insomuch that sorrow becometh no sorrow, which swallowing up the mind of the afflicted, taketh away the sense of the affliction.

EPIG. 13.

Fear'st thou to go, when such an Arm invites thee?
 Dread'st thou thy loads of sin? or what affrights thee?
 If thou begin to fear, thy fear begins:
 Fool, can he bear thee hence, and not thy sins?

DEUT. 32. 29.

O that men were wise, and that they understood this, that they would consider their latter end.

Flesh.Spirit.

Fl. WHat means my sisters eye so oft to pass
Through the long entry of that Optick glass?
Tell me; what secret virtue doth invite
Thy wrinkled eye to such unknown delight?

Sp. It helps the sight, makes things remote appear
In perfect view; It draws the objects near.

Fl. What sense-delighting objects dost thou spie?
What doth that glass present before thine eye?

Sp. I see thy foe, my reconciled friend,
Grim Death, even standing at the Glasses end:
His left hand holds a branch of Palm; his right
Holds forth a two-edg'd sword. Fl. A proper fight.
And is this all? Doth thy Prospective please
Th' abused fancie with no shapes but these?

Sp. Yes, I behold the dark'ned Sun bereav'n
Of all his light, the battlements of Heav'n
Swelt'ring in flames; the Angel-guarded Son
Of glory on his high Tribunal-Throne;
I see a Brimstone Sea of boyling fire,
And Fiends, with knotted whips of flaming wire,
Tort'ring poor souls, that gnash their teeth in vain,
And gnaw their flame-tormented tongues for pain.
Look, sister, how the queazy-stomach'd Graves
Vomit their dead, and how the purple waves

Scall'd their consumeless bodies, strongly cursing
All wombs for bearing, and all paps for nursing.

F! Can thy distemper'd fancy take delight
In view of tortures? these are shows t'affright:
Look in this glafs triangular; look here,
Here's that will ravish eyes. Sp. What seeft thou there

F! The world in colours; colours that distain
The cheeks of Proteus, or the filken train
Of Flora's Nymphs; such various sorts of hew,
As Sun-confronting Iris never knew:
Here, if thou pleate to beautifie a town,
Thou maist; or with a hand, turn't upside down;
Here maist thou scant or widen by the measure
Of thine own will; make short or long at pleasure:
Here maist thou tire thy fancy, and advise
With shows more apt to please more curious eyes.

Sp. Ah fool! that dot'st on vain, on present toys,
And disrespect'st those true; those future joys!
How strongly are thy thoughts befool'd, alas,
To dote on goods that perish with thy glafs!
Nay, vanish with the turning of a hand
Were they but painted colours it might stand
With painted reason that they might devote thee;
But things that have no being to besot thee?
Foresight of future torments is the way
To baulk those ills which present joys bewray.
As thou hast fool'd thy self, so now come hither,
Break that fond glafs, and let's be wise together.

S. BONAVENT. de contemptu seculi.

O that men would be wise, understand, and foresee. Be wise, to know three things: The multitude of those that are to be damned: the few number of those that are to be saved; and the vanity of transitory things: Understand three things, the multitude of sins, the omission of good things, and the loss of time: Foresee three things, the danger of death, the last judgment, and eternal punishment.

XV.

PSALM 30. 10.

My life is spent with grief, and my years with sighing.

WHat sullen Star rul'd my untimely birth,
That would not lend my days one hour of Mirth?
How oft have these bare knees been bent to gain
The slender alms of one poor smile in vain?
How often, tir'd with the fastidious light,
Have my faint lips implor'd the shades of night?
How often have my nightly torments pray'd
For lingring twilight, glutted with the shade?
Day worse than night, night worse than day appears,
In fears I spend my nights, my days in tears:
I moan unpity'd, groan without relief,
There is no end nor measure of my grief.
The smiling flow'r salutes the day; it grows
Untouch'd with care; it neither spins nor sows:
O that my tedious life were like this flow'r,
Or freed from grief, or finish'd with an hour:
Why was I born? Why was I born a man?
And why proportion'd by so large a span;
Or why suspended by the common lot,
And being born to die why die I not?
Ah me! Why is my sorrow-wasted breath
Deny'd the easie privilege of death?
The branded slave that tugs the weary oar,
Obtains the Sabbath of a welcome shore?
His ransom'd stripes are heal'd, his native soil
Sweetens the mem'ry of his foreign toil:

But ah! my sorrows are not half so blest;
My labour finds no point, my pains no rest:
I barter sighs for tears, and tears for groans,
Still vainly rolling Sisyphæan stones.
Thou just observer of our flying hours,
That with thy Adamantine fangs, devours
The brazen monuments of renowned Kings,
Doth thy glass stand? Or be thy moulting wings
Unapt to flie? If not, why dost thou spare
A willing breast; a breast that stands so fair?
A dying breast, that hath but only breath
To beg a wound, and strength to crave a death?
O that the pleased Heav'ns would once dissolve
These fleshly fetters, that so fast involve
My hamper'd soul; then would my soul be blest
From all those ills, and wrap her thoughts in rest:
Till then, my days are months, my months are year^s,
My years are ages to be spent in tears:
My grief's entailed upon my wastful breath,
Which no recov'ry can cut off but death,
Breath drawn in cottages, past out in thorns,
Begins, continues, and concludes in groans.

INNOCENT.

INNOCENT. de vilitate condit. humanæ.

O who will give mine eyes a fountain of tears, that I may bewail my miserable ingress of mans condition; the sinful progress of mans conversation, the damnable egress in mans dissolution? I will consider with tears, whereof man was made, what man doth, and what man is to do: Alas, he is formed of earth, conceived in sin, born to punishment: He doth evil things which are not lawful; he doth filthy things, which are not decent; He doth vain things, which are not expedient.

I see another Law in my members warring against the Law of my mind, and bringing me into captivity to the Law of sin.

I

O How my will is hurried to and fro,
And how my unresolv'd resolves do vary!
I know not where to fix, sometimes I go
This way, then that, and then the quite contrary:
I like, dislike; lament for what I could not;
I do, undo; yet still do what I would not.
And at the self same instant will the thing I would not.

Thus are my weather beaten thoughts oppress'd
With th' earth-bred winds of my prodigious will;
Thus am I hourly tost from East to West
Upon the rowling streams of good and ill:
Thus am I driven upon these slipp'ry suds
From real ill to false apparent goods:
My life's a troubled sea, compos'd of ebbs and floods,

The curious Penman, having trimm'd his page
With the dead language of his dabled quill,
Lets fall a heedless drop, then in a rage
Cashes the fruits of his unlucky skill;
Ev'n so my pregnant soul in th' Infant bud
Of her best thoughts shows down a cole black flood
Of unadvised ills, and cancels all her good.

Sometimes a sudden flash of sacred heat
 Warms my chill soul, and sets my thoughts in frame;
 But soon that fire is shouldred from her seat
 By lustful Cupid's much inferiour flame.
 I feel two flames, and yet no flame entire;
 Thus are the mungrel thoughts of mixt desire,
 Consum'd between that heav'nly and this earthly fire.

Sometimes my trash-disdaining thoughts out-passe
 The common period of terrene conceit;
 O then methinks I scorn the thing I was,
 Whilst I stand ravish'd at my new estate:
 But when th' Icarian wings of my desire
 Feel but the warmth of their own native fire,
 O then they melt and plunge within their wonted mire.

I know the nature of my wav'ring mind;
 I know the frailty of my fleshly will:
 My Passion's Eagle-ey'd; my judgment blind;
 I know what's good, but yet make choice of ill.
 When th' Ostrich wings of my desires shall be
 So dull, they cannot mount the least degree,
 Yet grant my soul desire, but of desiring thee.

S. BERN.

S. BERN. Med. 9.

My heart is a vain heart, a vagabond and instable heart; while it is led by its own judgment, and wanting Divine counsel cannot subsist in it self; and whilst it divers ways seeketh rest, findeth none, but remaineth miserable through labour, and void of peace: it agreeth not with it self; it dissenteth from it self; it altereth resolutions, changeth the judgment, frameth new thoughts, pulleth down the old, and buildeth them up again: It willeth and willeth not; and never remaineth in the same state.

S. AUGUST. de verb. Apost.

PSALM 119. 5.

O that my ways were directed to keep thy Statutes !

I

THUS I, the object of the worlds disdain,
With Pilgrim pace surround the weary earth :
I only relish what the world counts vain ;
Her mirth's my grief, her sullen grief my mirth ;
Her light my darkness ; and her truth my errour.
Her freedom is my Gaol ; and her delight my terrour.

Fond earth ! proportion not my seeming love
To my long stay ; let not my thoughts deceive thee ;
Thou art my prison, and my home's above ;
My life's a preparation but to leave thee :
Like one that seeks a door, I walk about thee :
With thee I cannot live ; I cannot live without thee.

The world's a lab'rinth, whose anfractuons ways
Are all compos'd of rubs and crook'd Meanders :
No resting here ; He's hurried back that stays
A thought ; and he that goes unguided wanders :
Her way is dark, her path untrod, unev'n ;
So hard's the way from earth ; so hard's the way to Heaven.

This gyring lab'rinth is betrench'd about
On either hand with streams of sulph'rous fire,
Streams closely sliding, erring in and out,
But seeming pleasant to the fond descrier ;
Where if his footsteps trust their own invention,
He falls without redress, and sinks without dimension.
Where

Where shall I seek a Guide? where shall I meet
 Some lucky hand to lead my trembling paces?
 What trusty Lanthorn will direct my feet
 To scape the danger of these dang'rous places?
 What hopes have I to pass without a Guide;
 Where one gets safely through, a thousand fall beside.

An unrequested Star did gently slide
 Before the Wise-men to a greater Light;
 Back-sliding Isr'el found a double Guide;
 A Pillar and a Cloud; by Day, by Night:
 Yet in my desp'rate dangers which be far
 More great than theirs, I have no Pillar, Cloud, nor Star.

O that the pinions of a clipping Dove
 Would cut my passage through the empty Air;
 Mine eyes being seal'd, how would I mount above
 The reach of danger and forgotten care!
 My backward eyes should ne'er commit that fault,
 Whose lasting guilt should build a monument of Salt.

Great God that art the flowing Spring of Light,
 Enrich mine eyes with thy refulgent Ray:
 Thou art my Path; direct my steps aright;
 I have no other Light no other Way:
 I'll trust my God, and him alone pursue;
 His Law shall be my Path; his Heavenly Light my Clue.

S. AUGUST

S. AUGUST. Soliloq. cap. 4.

O Lord; who art the Light, the Way, the Truth, the Life; in whom there is no darkness, error, vanity nor death: the Light, without which there is darkness; the Way, without which there is wandring; the truth, without which there is error; the life, without which there is death: Say, Lord, let there be light, and I shall see Light, and eschew darkness; I shall see the way, and avoid wandring; I shall see the truth, and shun error; I shall see Life, and escape Death: Illuminate, O illuminate my blind Soul, which sitteth in darkness, and the shadow of death; and direct my feet in the way of peace.

WHen e're the old Enchange of profit rings
Her silver Saints-bell of uncertain gains,
My Merchant-soul can stretch both legs and wings,
How I can run, and take unwearied pains!
The charms of profit are so strong, that I
Who wanted legs to go find wings to flie.

If time-beguiling pleasure but advance
Her lustful trump, and blow her bold alarms
O how my sportful soul can frisk and dance,
And hug that Syren in her twined arms!
The sprightly voice of sinew-strengthening pleasure
Can lend my bed-rid Soul both legs and leisure.

If blazing honour chance to fill my veins
With flat'ring warmth, and flash of Courtly fire,
My soul can take a pleasure in her pains:
My lofty strutting steps disdain to tire;
My antick knees can turn upon the hinges
Of Complement, and scrue a thousand cringes.

But when I come to Thee, my God, that art
The royal Mine of everlasting treasure,
The real honour of my better part,
And living fountain of eternal pleasure,
How nerveless are my limbs! how faint and slow!
I have no wings to flie nor legs to go.

So when the streams of swift-foot Rhene convey
 Her upland riches to the Belgick shore,
 The idle vessel slides the wat'ry lay,
 Without the blast or tug, of wind, or oar:
 Her slipp'ry keel divides the silver foam
 With ease; So facile is the way from home.

But when the home-bound vessel turns her sails
 Against the breast of the resisting stream,
 O then she flugs; nor sail, nor oar prevails;
 The stream is sturdy, and her Tide's extream:
 Each stroke is loss, and every tug is vain:
 A Boat-lengths purchase is a league of pain.

Great all in all that art my rest, my home;
 My way is tedious and my steps are slow:
 Reach forth thy helpful hand, or bid me come;
 I am thy child, O teach thy child to go:
 Conjoyn thy sweet commands to my desire,
 And I will venture, though I fall or tire.

S. AUGUST. Ser. 15. de Verb. Apost.

Be always displeas'd at what thou art, if thou desirest to attain to what thou art not : for where thou hast pleas'd thy self, there thou abidest. But if thou sayest, I have enough, thou perishest : Always add, always walk, always proceed ; neither stand still, nor go back, nor deviate : He that standeth still proceedeth not ; He goeth back that continueth not ; He deviateth, that revolteth ; He goeth better that creepeth in his way, than he that runneth out of his way.

L Et others boast of luck, and go their ways
With their fair game; know vengeance seldom plays
To be too forward, but doth wisely frame
Her backward Tables for an after-game:
She gives thee leave to venture many a blot;
And, for her own advantage, hits thee not;
But when her pointed Tables are made fair,
That she be ready for thee, then beware;
Then, if a necessary blot be set,
She hits thee; wins the Game; perchance the set:
If prosp'rous chance make thy casting high,
Be wisely temp'rate; cast a serious eye
On after-dangers, and keep back thy game;
Too forward seed-times make thy harvest lame.
If left-hand Fortune give thee left-hand chances
Be wisely patient; let not envious glances
Repine to view thy gamesters heap so fair;
The hindmost hound takes oft the doubling Hare.
The Worlds great Dice are false; sometimes they go
Extreamly high, sometimes extreamly low:
Of all her gamesters he that plays the least,
Lives most at ease, plays most secure and best:
The way to win, is to play fair, and swear
Thy self a servant to the Crown of fear:

Fear is the primer of a Gamesters skill :
 Who fears not Bad stands most unarm'd to Ill.
 The Ill that's wisely fear'd, is half withstood ;
 And fear of Bad is the best foyl to Good.
 True Fear's th' Elixir, which in days of old
 Turn'd Leaden Crosses into Crowns of Gold :
 The Worlds the Tables; Stakes, Eternal life ;
 The Gamesters, Heav'n and I; Unequal strife!
 My Fortunes are my Dice, whereby I frame
 My indisposed Life : This Life's the Game ;
 My sins are sev'ral Blots ; the Lookers on
 Are Angels ; and in death the Game is done.
 Lord, I'm a Bungler, and my Game doth grow
 Still more and more unshap'd ; my Dice run low :
 The Stakes are great ; my careless Blots are many :
 And yet thou passest by and hit'st not any :
 Thou art too strong ; and I have none to guide me
 With the least jog ; the lookers on deride me :
 It is a Conquest undeserving Thee,
 To win a stake from such a Worm as me :
 I have no more to lose ; If we persever,
 'Tis lost : and that once lost I'm lost for ever.
 Lord, wink at faults, and be not too severe,
 And I will ply my Game with greater fear ;
 O give me Fear, ere Fear has past her date :
 Whose blot being hit, then fears, fears then too late.

S. BERN. Ser. 54. in Cant.

There is nothing so effectual to obtain Grace, to retain Grace, and to regain Grace, as always to be found before God not otherwise, but to fear: Happy art thou if thy heart be replenished with three fears; a fear for received Grace, a greater fear for lost Grace, a greatest fear to recover Grace.

Great King, thy sent for Vashti will not come;
O let the oyl o'th' blessed Virgins womb
Cleanse my poor Esther; look, O look upon her
With gracious eyes; and let thy Beam of honour
So scour her captive stains, that she may prove
An holy Object of thy Heavenly love:

Anoint her with the Spiknard of thy graces,
Then try the sweetnes of her chaste embraces:
Make her the partner of thy nuptial bed,
And set thy Royal crown upon her head;
If then ambitious Haman chance to spend
His spleen on Mordecai, that scorns to bend
The wilful stifness of his stubborn knee,
Or basely crouch to any Lord but thee;
If weeping Esther should prefer a groan
Before the high tribunal Throne,
Hold forth thy Golden scepter, and afford
The gentle audience of a gracious Lord:
And let thy Royal Esther be possesst
Of half thy Kingdom, at her dear request:
Curb lustful Haman; him that would disgrace,
Nay, ravish thy fair Queen before thy face:
And as proud Haman was himself ensnar'd
On that self-gibbet that himself prepar'd;
So nail my lust, both punishment and guilt,
On that dear Cross that mine own lusts have built.

S. BERN.

O blessed Contemplation ! The death of vices, and the life of virtues ! Thee the Law and the Prophets admire : Who ever attained perfection, if not by thee ! O blessed Solitude, the Magazine of Celestial Treasure ! by thee things earthly, and transitory, are changed into Heavenly, and Eternal.

S. BERN. in Ep.

Happy is that house, and blessed is that Congregation, where Martha still complaineth of Mary.

EPIG. 7.

*Mechanick soul, thou must not only do
With Martha, but with Mary, ponder too :
Happy's that house where these fair sisters vary,
But most, when Martha's reconcil'd to Mary.*

Draw me we will run after thee because of the savour of thy good Oyntments.

Cant: 1: 3.

VIII.

CANTICLES I. 3.

Draw me ; we will follow after thee by the savour of thy good Oyntments.

THus, like a lump of the corrupted Mass,
I lie secure, long lost before I was:
And like a block, beneath whose burthen lies
That undiscover'd worm that never dies,
I have no will to rouze, I have no power to rise.

Can stinking Laz'rus compound or strive
With deaths entangling fetters, and revive?
Or can the water-buried Axe implore
A hand to raise it, or it self restore,
And from her sandy deeps approach the dry-foot shore?

So hard's the task for sinful flesh and blood
To lend the smallest step to what is good.
My God, I cannot move the least degree!
Ah! If but only those that active be,
None should thy glory see, none should thy glory see.

But if the Potter please t'inform the clay:
Or some strong hand remove the block away:
Their lowly fortunes soon are mounted higher;
That proves a vessel, which before was mire;
And this being hewn, may serve for better use than fire.

And if that life-restoring voice command
 Dead Laz'rus forth; or that great Prophets hand
 Should charm the fullen waters, and begin
 To beckon or to dart a stick but in,
 Dead Laz'rus must revive, and th' Axe must float again.

Lord, as I am, I have no pow'r at all
 To hear thy voice, or Echo to thy call;
 The gloomy Clouds of mine own guilt benight me;
 Thy glorious beams, not dainty sweets invite me;
 They neither can direct; nor these at all delight me.

See how my fin-bemangled body lies,
 Not having pow'r to will, nor will to rise!
 Shine home upon thy Creature, and inspire
 My lifeless Will with thy regen'rate fire;
 The first degree to do, is only to desire.

Give me the power to Will, the Will to do;
 O raise me up, and I will strive to go:
 Draw me, O'draw me with thy trebble twist,
 That have no pow'r but meerly to resist;
 O lend me strength to do, and then command thy list!

My Soul's a Clock, whose wheels (for want of use
 And winding up, being subject to the abuse
 Of eating rust) wants vigour to fulfil
 Her twelve hours task, and shew her makers skill,
 But idly sleeps unmov'd, and standeth vainly still.

Great God, it is thy work, and therefore good,
 If thou be pleas'd to cleanse it with thy blood,
 And wind it up with thy soul-moving keys,
 Her busie wheels shall serve thee all her days; (praise
 Her hand shall point thy pow'r, her hammer strike thy

S. BERN. Serm. 21. in Cant.

Let us run, let us run but in the savour of thy Ointment, not in the confidence of our merits, nor in the greatness of our strength: We trust to run, but in the multitude of thy mercies, for though we run and are willing, it is not in him that willeth, nor in him that runneth, but in God that sheweth mercy. O let thy mercy return, and we will run: Thou like a Gyant, runnest by thy own power; we, unless thy Ointment breath upon us, cannot run.

EPIG. 8.

Look not, my Watch, being once repair'd to stand
 Expecting motion from thy Maker's hand.
 H'as wound thee up, and cleans'd thy Cogs with blood:
 If now thy wheels stand still thou art not good.

O that thou wert as my Brother, that Sucked the Brests of my Mother. Cant: 8

IX.

CANTICLES 8. 1.

O that thou wert as my Brother, that sucked the breasts of my mother; when I should find thee without, I would kiss thee.

I

Come, come, my blessed Infant, and immure ~~the~~
Within the temple of my sacred arms;
Secure mine arms, mine arms shall then secure thee
From Herod's fury, or the High-Priests harms:
Or if thy danger'd life sustain a loss,
My folded arms shall turn thy dying cross.

But ah; what savage Tyrant can behold
The beauty of so sweet a face as this is,
And not himself be by himself controul'd,
And change his fury to a thousand kisses?
One smile of thine is worth more Mines of treasure
Than there be Myriads in the days of Cesar.

O had the Tetrarch, as he knew thy birth,
So known thy stock, he had not thought to paddle
In thy dear blood; but prostrate on the earth
Had veil'd his Crown before thy Royal Cradle,
And laid the Scepter of his glory down,
And begg'd a Heavenly for an Earthly Crown.

Illustrious Babe! How is thy handmaid grac'd
 With a rich armful! How dost thou decline
 Thy Majesty, that wert so late embrac'd
 In thy great Fathers arms, and now in mine!
 How humbly gracious art thou, to refresh
 Me with thy Spirit, and assume my flesh!

But must the treason of a traitour's Hail
 Abuse the sweetness of these ruby lips?
 Shall marble hearted cruelty assail
 These Alabaster sides with knotted whips?
 And must these smiling Roses entertain
 The blows of scorn, and flurts of base disdain?

Ah! Must these dainty little springs that twine
 So fast about thy neck, be pierc'd and torn
 With ragged nails? And must these brows resign
 Their Crown of Glory for a Crown of thorn?
 Ah, must the blessed infant taste the pain
 Of deaths injurious pangs; nay worse, be slain?

Sweet Babe! At what dear rates do wretched I
 Commit a sin! Lord, ev'ry sin's a dart;
 And ev'ry trespass lets a javelin flie;
 And ev'ry javelin wounds thy bleeding heart:
 Pardon, sweet Babe, what I have done amiss;
 And seal that granted pardon with a kiss.

S. BONAVENT. Soliloqu. Cap. 1.

O sweet Jesu, I knew not that thy kisses were so sweet, nor thy society so delectable, nor thy attraction so virtuous: For when I love thee, I am clean; when I touch thee, I am chaste; when I receive thee, I am a Virgin: O most sweet Jesu, thy embraces defile not, but cleanse; thy attraction polluteth not, but sanctifieth: O Jesu the fountain of universal sweetness, pardon me that I believed so late, that so much sweetness is in thy embraces.

EPIG. 9.

My burthen's greatest: Let not Atlas boast:
 Impartial Reader, judge which bears the most:
 He bears but Heav'n, my folded arms sustain
 Heav'n's maker, whom Heav'n's Heav'n cannot contain.

By night on my bed I sought him whom my

Cant: 3:1.

CANTICLES 3. 1.

*In my bed by night I sought him that my soul
loveth ; I sought him, but I found him not.*

THe learned Cynick having lost the way
To honest men, did in the height of day,
By Taper-light divide his steps about
The peopled streets to find this dainty out ;
But fail'd : The Cynick search'd not where he ought,
The thing he sought for, was not where he sought.
The Wise-mens task seem'd harder to be done,
The Wise-men did by Star-light seek the Sun,
And found : The Wise-men search'd it were they ought
The thing they hop'd to find was were they sought.
One seeks his wishes where he should ; but then
Perchance he seeks not as he should, nor when.
Another searches when he should ; but there
He fails ; not seeking as he should, nor where.
Whose soul desires the good it wants, and would Obtain, must seek Where, As, and When he should.
How often have my wild affections led
My wasted soul to this my widow'd bed
To seek my lover, whom my soul desires?
(I speak not, Cupid, of thy wanton fires :
Thy fires are all but dying sparks to mine ;
My flames are full of Heav'n, and all Divine)
How often have I sought this bed by night,
To find that greater by this lesser light?

How oft have my unwitness'd groans lamented
Thy dearest absence! Ah, how often vented
The bitter tempests of despairing breath,
And tost my soul upon the waves of death!
How often has my melting heart made choice
Of silent tears (tears louder than a voice)
To plead my grief, and wooe thy absent ear!
And yet thou wilt not come, thou wilt not hear.
O is thy wonted love become so cold!
Or do mine eyes not seek thee where they should!
Why do I seek thee, if thou art not here?
Or find thee not, if thou art ev'ry where?
I see my errour, it is not strange I could not Find out my love; I sought him where I should not.
Thou art not found in downy beds of ease;
Alas, thy musick strikes on harder keys:
Nor art thou found by that false feeble light
Of Natures candle, our Egyptian night
Is more than common darkness; nor can we Expect a morning but what breaks from thee.
Well may my empty bed bewail thy loss,
When thou art lodg'd upon thy shameful cross:
If thou refuse to share a bed with me,
We'll never part, I'll share a cross with thee.

ANSELM. in Protolog. 1.

Lord, if thou art not present, where shall I seek thee absent? If every where, why do I not see thee present? Thou dwellest in light inaccessible; and where is that inaccessible light? Or how shall I have access to light inaccessible? I beseech thee, Lord, teach me to seek thee, and shew thy self to the seeker; because I can neither seek thee, unless thou teach me, or find thee, unless thou shew thy self to me: Let me seek thee, in desiring thee, and desire thee in seeking thee: Let me find thee in loving thee, and love thee in finding thee.

EPIG. 10.

Where shouldst thou seek for rest, but in thy bed?
 But now thy rest is gone, thy rest is fled:
 'Tis vain to seek him there: My soul be wise;
 To ask thy sins, they'll tell thee where he lies.

O How my disappointed soul's perplext!
How restless thoughts swarm in my troubled breast!
How vainly pleas'd with hopes, then crossly vext
With fears! And how betwixt them both distress!
What place is left unransack'd? Oh, where next
Shall I go seek the Author of my rest?
Of what blest'd Angel shall my lips enquire
The undiscover'd way to that entire
And everlasting solace of my hearts desire?

Look how the stricken Heart that wounded flies
O'er hills and dales and seeks the lower grounds
For running streams, the whilst his weeping eyes
Beg silent mercy from the following Hounds;
At length, embost, he droops, drops down, and lies
Beneath the burthen of his bleeding wounds:
Ev'n so my gasping soul, dissolv'd in tears,
Doth search for thee, my God, whose deafned ears,
Leave me th'unransom'd Pris'ner to my panick fears.

Where have my busie eyes not pry'd? O where,
 Of whom hath not my thred-bare tongue demanded
 I search'd this glorious City; he's not here:
 I sought the Country; she stands empty handed;
 I search'd the Court; he is a stranger there:
 I ask'd the land; he's shipp'd: the sea; he's landed
 I climb'd the air, my thoughts began t'aspire;
 But ah! the wings of my too bold desire,
 Soaring too near the Sun, where findg'd with sacred fire

I mov'd the Merchants ear; alas, but he Knew neither what I said, nor what to say:
 I ask'd the Lawyer, he demands a fee,
 And then demurs me with a vain delay:
 I ask'd the Schoolman, his advice was free,
 But scor'd me out too intricate a way:
 I ask'd the Watch-man (best of all the four)
 Whose gentle answer could resolve no more;
 But that he lately left him at the Temple door.

Thus having sought, and made my great inquest
 In ev'ry place, and search'd in ev'ry ear:
 I threw me on my bed; but ah! my rest
 Was poison'd with th'extremes of grief and fear,
 Where looking down into my troubled breast,
 The Magazine of wounds, I found him there:
 Let others hunt, and shew their sportful Art;
 I wish to catch the Hare before she start,
 As Poachers use to do; Heav'ns Form's a troubled he

Christ is not in the market, nor in the streets : For Christ is Peace, in the market are strifes : Christ is Justice, in the market is iniquity : Christ is a Labourer, in the market is idleness : Christ is Charity, in the market is slander : Christ is Faith, in the market is fraud. Let us not therefore seek Christ, where we cannot find Christ.

WHat secret corner? what unwonted way
Has scap'd the ransack of my rambling thought?
The Fox by night, nor the dull Owl by day,
Have never search'd those places I have sought.
Whilst they lamented, absence taught my breast
The ready road to grief, without request;
My day had neither comfort, nor my night had rest.

How hath my unregarded language vented
The sad tautologies of lavish passion;
How often have I languish'd unlamented!
How oft have I complain'd, without compassion!
I ask'd the City-watch, but some deny'd me
The common street, whilst others would misguide me,
Some would debar me; some, divert me; some, deride me.

Mark how the Widow'd Turtle, having lost
The faithful Partner of her loyal heart,
Stretches her feeble wings from coast to coast,
Haunts ev'ry path; thinks every shade doth part
Her absent Love, and her; at length unsped,
She re-betakes her to her lonely bed,
And there bewails her everlasting Widow-head.

O R I G. Hom. 10. in divers.

O most holy Lord, and sweetest Master, how good art thou to those that are of upright heart, and humble spirit! O how blessed are they that seek thee with a simple heart! How happy that trust in thee! It is a most certain truth, that thou lovest all that love thee, and never forsakest those that trust in thee: For behold thy Love simply sought thee, and undoubtedly found thee: She trusted in thee, and is not forsaken of thee, but hath obtained more by thee, than she expected from thee.

The longer I was in finding whom I sought, the more earnestly I held him being found.

E P I G. 12.

New sins will lose, what old repentance gains.

 Psal: 72: 28*

PSALM 72. 28.

It is good for me to draw near to God, I have put my trust in the Lord God.

WHere is that Good, which wise-men please to call
The chiefeſt? Doth there any ſuch befall
Within mans reach? or is there ſuch a Good at all?

If ſuch there be, it neither muſt expire,
Nor change; than which there can be nothing higher:
Such good muſt be the utter point of man's deſire.

It is the Mark, to which all hearts muſt tend;
Can be deſired for no other end,
Than for it ſelf, on which all other Goods depend.

What may this Excellent be? doth it ſubſiſt
A real Eſſence clouded in the miſt
Of curious Art, or clear to ev'ry eye that liſt?

Or is't a tart Idea, to procure
An edge, and keep the practick ſoul in ure,
Like that dear Chymick duſt, or puzzling Quadrature?

Where ſhall I ſeek this? Where ſhall I find
This Cath'lick pleaſure, whoſe extremes may bind
My thoughts? and fill the gulf of my infatiate mind?

Lies it in Treafure? In full heaps untold?
Doth gouty Mammon's griping hand infold
This ſacred Saint in ſacred ſhrines of ſov'reign gold?

No, no she lies not there; wealth often sours
 In keeping; makes us hers, in seeming ours;
 She slides from heaven indeed, but not in Danae's showers.

Lives she in honour? no. The Royal Crown
 Builds up a creature, and then batters down:
 Kings raise thee with a smile, and raze thee with a frown.

In pleasure? no. Pleasure begins in rage;
 Acts the fools part on earth's uncertain stage;
 Begins the play in youth, and Epilogues in age.

These, these are bastard goods; the best of these Torment the soul with pleasing it, and please,
 Like water's gulp'd in fevers with deceitful ease.

Earth's flatt'ring dainties are but sweet distresses:
 Mole-hills perform the mountains she professes,
 Alas, can earth confer more good than earth possesses?

Mount, mount, my soul, and let my thoughts cashier
 Earth's vain delights, and make the full carier
 At Heav'ns eternal joys; stop, stop, thy Courser there.

There shall thy soul possess uncareful treasure,
 There shalt thou swim in never fading pleasure:
 And blaze in honour far above the frowns of Cæsar.

Lord, if my hope dare let her anchor fall
 On thee, the chiefest Good, no need to call
 For earths inferiour trash; Thou, thou art All in All.

CANTICLES 2. 3.

*I sat under his shadow with great delight,
and his fruit was sweet to my taste.*

I

Look how the sheep, whose rambling steps do stray
From the safe blessing of her Shepherds eyes,
Eft soon becomes the unprotected prey
To the wing'd Squadron of beleagring flies;
Where sweltered with the scorching beams of day,
She frisks from bush to brake, and wildly flies away
From her own self, ev'n of her self afraid;
She shrouds her troubled brows in ev'ry glade,
And craves the mercy of the soft removing shade.

Ev'n so my wandring soul, that hath digrest
From her great Shepherd, is the hourly prey
Of all my sins. These vultures in my breast
Gripe my Promethean heart; both night and day
I hunt from place to place, but find no rest;
I know not where to go, nor where to stay:
The eye of vengeance burns, her flames invade
My swelt'ring soul: My soul hath oft assay'd,
Yet she can find no shroud, but can she feel no shade?

I fought the shades of Mirth, to wear away
 My slow pac'd hours of foul-consuming grief;
 I search'd the shades of sleep, to ease my day
 Of griping sorrows with a nights reprieve.
 I fought the shades of death; thought there t'allay
 My final torments with a full relief:
 But mirth, nor sleep, nor death, can hide my hours
 In the false shades of their deceitful bow'rs;
 The first distracts, the next disturbs, the last devours.

Where shall I turn? To whom shall I apply me?
 Are there no streams where a faint Soul may wade?
 Thy God-head, Jesus, are the flames that fry me;
 Hath thy All-glorious Deity never a shade,
 Where I may sit and vengeance never eye me,
 Where I might sit refresh'd or unafraid?
 Is there no comfort? Is there no refection?
 Is there no cover that will give protection
 T' a fainting soul, the subject of thy wraths reflection?

Look up, my soul, advance the lowly stature
 Of thy sad thoughts; advance thy humble eye:
 See, here's a shadow found: The humane nature
 Is made th'Umbella to the Deity,
 To catch the Sun-beams of thy just Creator:
 Beneath this covert thou maist safely lie:
 Permit thine eyes to climb this fruitful tree,
 As quick Zacheus did, and thou shalt see
 A cloud of dying flesh betwixt those beams and thee.

GUIL. in cap. 2. Cant.

Who can endure the fierce rays of the Sun of Justice? Who shall not be consumed by his beams? Therefore the Sun of Justice took flesh, that, through the conjunction of that Sun and his humane body a shadow may be made.

XV.

PSALM 137. 4.

How shall we sing a song of the Lord in a strange Land?

URge me no more : this airy mirth belongs
To better times : these times are not for songs.
The sprightly twang of the melodious Lute
Agrees not with my voice : and both unsute
My untun'd fortunes : the affected measure
Of strains, that are constrain'd, afford no pleasure.
Musick's the Child of Mirth ; where griefs assail
The Troubled soul, both voice, and fingers fail :
Let such as ravel out their lavish days,
In honourable riot ; that can raise
Dejected hearts, and conjure up a sp'rit
Of madness by the Magick of delight ;
Let those of Cupid's Hospital, that lie
Impatient Patients to a smiling eye,
That cannot rest, until vain hope beguile
Their flatter'd torment with a wanton smile :
Let such redeem their peace, and salve the wrongs,
Of froward Fortune with their frolick songs :
My grief, my grief's too great for smiling eyes
To cure, or counter-charms to exercise.
The Ravens dismal croaks, the midnight howls
Of empty Wolves mixt with the screech of Owls,
The nine sad knolls of a dull passing Bell,
With the loud language of a nightly knell,

And

And horrid out-cries of revenged crimes,
Join'd in a medley's musick for these times;
These are no times to touch the merry string
Of Orpheus; no, these are no times to sing.
Can hide-bound Pris'ners, that have spent their souls,
And famish'd bodies in the noisome holes
Of hell black dungeons, apt their rougher throats,
Grown hoarse with begging alms, to warble notes?
Can the sad Pilgrim, that hath lost his way
In the vast desert; there condemn'd a prey
To the wild subject, or his savage King,
Rouze up his palse smitten spirits, and sing?
Can I a Pilgrim, and a Pris'ner too,
(Alas) where I am neither known, nor know
Ought but my torments, an unransom'd stranger
In this strange climate, in a land of danger?
O, can my voice be pleasant or my hand,
Thus made a Pris'ner to a forein land?
How can my musick relish in your ears,
That cannot speak for sobs, nor sing for tears?
Ah, if my voice could, Orpheus-like, unspel
My poor Eurydice, my soul, from Hell
Of earth's misconstru'd Heaven, O then my breast
Should warble airs, whose rhapsodies should feast
The ears of Seraphims, and entertain
Heav'ns highest Deity with their lofty strain,
A strain well drench'd in the true Thespian Well,
Till then, earths Semiquaver, mirth, farewell.

S. AUGUST. Med. cap. 33.

O infinitely happy are those heavenly virtues which are able to praise thee in holiness and purity, with excessive sweetness, and unutterable exultation! From thence they praise thee, from whence they rejoice, because they continually see for what they rejoice, for what they praise thee: But we press'd down with this burthen of flesh, far removed from thy countenance in this pilgrimage, and blown up with worldly vanities, cannot worthily praise thee: We praise thee by faith; not face to face, but those Angelical spirits praise thee face to face, and not by faith.

EPIG. 15.

Did I refuse to sing? said I these times
Were not for songs? nor musick for these climes?
It was my errour: are not groans and tears
Harmonious raptures in th'Almighty's ears?

 Is scorch'd with flames, and how my soul is pin'd;
 Tell him, O tell him, how I lie oppress'd
 With the full torments of a troubled mind;
 O tell him, tell him, that he loves in jest,
 But I in earnest; tell him he's unkind:
 But if a discontented frown appears
 Upon his angry brow, accost his ears
 With soft and fewer words, and act the rest in tears.

O tell him, that his cruelties deprive
 My soul of peace, while peace in vain she seeks;
 Tell him, those damask roses that did strive
 With white, both fade upon my fallow cheeks;
 Tell him, no token doth proclaim I live,
 But tears, and sighs, and sobs, and sudden shrieks;
 Thus if your piercing words should chance to bore
 His hearkning ear, and move a sigh, give o'er
 To speak; and tell him, Tell him, that I could no more.

If your elegious breath should hap to rouse
 A happy tear, close harb'ring in his eye,
 Then urge his plighted faith, the sacred vows,
 Which neither I can break, nor he deny;
 Bewail the torment of his loyal spouse,
 That for his sake would make a sport to die:
 O blessed virgins, how my passion tires
 Beneath the burthen of her fond desires!
 Heav'n never shot such flames, earth never felt such fires

S. AUGUST. Med. cap. 40.

*What shall I say? What shall I do? Whither shall I go?
Where shall I seek him? Or when shall I find him? Whom shall I ask? Who will tell my beloved that I am sick of Love?*

GULIEL. in cap. 5. Cant.

I live, but not I: it is my beloved that liveth in me: I love my self, not with my own love, but with the love of my beloved that loveth me: I love not my self in my self, but my self in him, and him in me.

EPIG. 1.

*Grieve not (my soul) nor let thy love wax faint,
Weep'st thou to lose the cause of thy complaint?
He'll come; Love ne'er was bound to times nor laws.
Till then thy tears complain without a cause.*

Stay me with Flowers; Comfort mee with Apples, for I am sick of lone Cant: 2. 5.

II.

CANTICLES 2. 5.

Stay me with flowers, and comfort me with apples, for I am sick with love.

I

O Tyrant love! how doth thy sov'reign pow'r
Subject poor souls to thy imperious thrall!
They say thy cup's compos'd of sweet and sowre
They say, thy diet's honey mixt with gall;
How comes it then to pass, these lips of ours
Still trade in bitter; tast no sweet at all?
O tyrant love! Shall our perpetual toil
Ne'er find a Sabbath to refresh a while
Our drooping souls? Art thou all frowns, and ne'er a smile?

You blessed Maids of honour that frequent
The royal courts of our renown'd Jehove,
With flow'rs restore my spirits faint and spent;
O fetch me apples from Loves fruitful grove,
To cool my palate, and renew my scent,
For I am sick, for I am sick of love:
These will revive my dry, my wasted pow'rs,
And they will sweeten my unsav'ry hours;
Refresh me then with fruit, and comfort me with flow'rs.

R 3

O bring me apples to assuage that fire,
 Which Aetna-like inflames my flaming breast;
 Nor is it every apple I desire,
 Nor that which pleases every palate best:
 'Tis not the lasting Deuzan I require,
 Nor yet the red cheek'd Queening I request:
 Nor that which first beshrew'd the name of wife,
 Nor that whose beauty caus'd the golden strife;
 No, no, bring me an apple from the tree of life.

Virgins, tuck up your silken laps, and fill ye
 With the fair wealth of Flora's Magazine;
 The purple violet and the pale-fac'd lily:
 The pancy and the organ colombine;
 The flowring thyme, the gilt-bowl daffadily;
 The lowly pink, the lotty eglantine:
 The blushing rose, the queen of flowers, and best
 Of Flora's beauty; but above the rest,
 Let Jesse's sovereign flower perfume my qualming breast.

Haste, Virgins, haste, for I lie weak and faint,
 Beneath the pangs of love; why stand ye mute,
 As if your silence neither car'd to grant;
 Nor yet your language to deny my suit;
 No key can lock the door of my complaint,
 Until I smell this flower, or taste that fruit?
 Go, Virgins, seek this tree, and search that bowr;
 O, how my soul shall bless that happy hour,
 That brings to me such fruit, that brings me such a flower.

G I S T E N. in cap. 2. Cant. Expof. 3.

O happy sickness, where the infirmity is not to death, but to life, that God maybe glorified by it! O Happy fever, that proceedeth not from a consuming, but a calcining fire! O Happy distemper, wherein the soul relisheth no earthly things, but only savoureth devine nourishment!

S. B E R N. Serm. 51. in Cant.

By flowers, understand faith; by fruit, good works: As the flower or blossom is before the fruit, so is faith before good works: So neither is the fruit without the flower, nor good works without faith.

E P I G. 2.

Why apples, O my soul? Can they remove
The pains of grief, or ease the flames of love?
It was that fruit which gave the first offence;
That sent him hither; that remov'd him hence.

III.

My beloved is mine and I am his, hee see:
 deth among the Lillies. Cant: 2. 16.

III.

CANTICLES 2. 16.

My beloved is mine, and I am his; He feedeth among the lilies.

EV'n like two little bank-dividing brooks
That wash the pebbles with their wanton streams,
And having rang'd and search'd a thousand nooks,
Meet both at length in silver-breasted Thames,
Where in a greater current they conjoyn:
So I my best beloveds am, so he is mine.

Ev'n so we met; and after long pursuit,
Ev'n so we join'd, we both became entire;
No need for either to renew a suit,
For I was flax and he was flames of fire.
Our firm united souls did more than twine;
So I my best-beloved's am; so he is mine.

If all those glitt'ring Monarchs that command
The servile quarters of this earthly ball,
Should render, in exchange, their shares of land,
I would not change my fortunes for them all:
Their wealth is but a counter to my coyn;
The world's but theirs; but my beloved's mine.

Nay more; if the fair Thespian Ladies all
 Should heap together their diviner treasure,
 That treasure should be deem'd a price too small
 To buy a minutes lease of half my pleasure;
 'Tis not the sacred wealth of all the nine
 Can buy my heart from him, or his from being mine.

Nor Time, nor Place, nor Chance, nor Death can bow
 My least desires unto the least remove;
 He's firmly mine by oath; I his by vow;
 He's mine by faith; and I am his by love;
 He's mine by water; I am his by wine;
 Thus I my best-beloved's am; thus he is mine.

He is mine Altar; I, his holy Place;
 I am his guest; and he my living food;
 I'm his by penitence; he mine by grace;
 I'm his by purchase; he is mine by blood;
 He's my supporting elm: and I his vine:
 Thus I my best-beloved's am; thus he is mine.

He gives me wealth, I give him all my vows:
 I give him songs; he gives me length of days:
 With wreaths of grace he crowns my conqu'ring brows:
 And I his Temples with a crown of Praise,
 Which he accepts an ev'rlasting sign,
 That I my best-beloveds am; that he is mine.

S. AUGUST. Manu. cap. 24.

O my soul stamp't with the image of thy God, love him of whom thou art so much beloved: bend to him that boweth to thee, seek him that seeketh thee: Love the lover, by whose love thou art prevented, begin the cause of thy love: Be careful with those that are careful, want with those that want; be clean with the clean, and holy with the holy: Choose this friend above all friends, who when all are taken away, remaineth only faithful to thee: In the day of thy burial, when all leave thee, he will not deceive thee, but defend thee from the roaring Lions prepared for their prey.

I am my beloved's, & his Desire is towards mee, Cant: 7.10. "260

IV.

CANTICLES 7. 10.

I am my Beloveds, and his desire is towards me.

Like to the Artick needle, that doth guide
The wandring shade by his magnetick pow'r,
And leaves his silken Gnomon to decide
The question of the controverted hour,
First franticks up and down, from side to side
And restless beats his crystal'd Iv'ry case,
With vain impatience; jets from place to place,
And seeks the bosom of his frozen bride,
At length he slackes his motion, and doth rest
His trembling point at his bright Poles beloved breast.

Ev'n so my soul, being hurried here and there,
By ev'ry object that presents delight,
Fain would be settled, but she knows not where;
She likes at morning what she loaths at night:
She bows to honour; then she lends an ear
To that sweer swan-like voice of dying pleasure,
Then tumbles in the scatter'd heaps of treasure;
Now flatter'd with false hope; now foyl'd with fear:
Thus finding all the worlds delight to be
But empty toys, good God, she points alone to thee.

But

But hath the virtued steel a power to move?
 Or can the untouch'd needle point aright;
 Or can my wandring thoughts forbear to rove,
 Unguided by the vertue of thy sp'rit?
 O hath my leaden soul the art t' improve
 Her wasted talent, and unrais'd, aspire
 In this sad moulting time of her desire?
 Not first belov'd have I the power to love;
 I cannot stir, but as thou please to move me,
 Nor can my heart return thee love, until thou love me.

The still commandress of the silent night
 Borrows her beams from her bright brothers eye;
 His fair aspect fills her sharp horns with light,
 If he withdraw her flames are quench'd and die:
 Ev'n so the beams of her enlightning sp'rit
 Infus'd and shot into my dark desire,
 Inflame my thoughts and fill my soul with fire,
 That I am ravish'd with a new delight;
 But if thou shroud thy face, my glory fades,
 And I remain a Nothing, all compos'd of shades.

Eternal God! O thou that only art
 The sacred Fountain of eternal light,
 And blessed Load-stone of my better part,
 O thou my hearts desire, my souls delight,
 Reflect my soul, and touch my heart,
 And then my heart shall prize no good above thee:
 And then my soul shall know thee; knowing, love thee
 And then my trembling thoughts shall never start
 From thy commands, or swerve the least degree
 Or once presume to move, but as they move in thee.

S. AUGUST. Med. cap. 25.

If Man can love man with so entire affection, that the one can scarce brook the others absence; if a bride can be joined to her bride-groom with so great an ardency of mind, that for the extremity of love she can enjoy no rest, nor suffer his absence without great anxiety, with what affection, with what fervency ought the soul whom thou hast espoused by faith and compassion, to love thee her true God, and glorious bride-groom?

EPIG. 4.

My soul, thy love is dear: 'Twas thought a good
And easie pen'worth of thy Saviours blood:
But be not proud; All matters rightly scann'd,
'Twas over-bought: 'Twas sold at second hand.

V.

My Soule melted, when my beloved spake. Cant: 5. 6. 264
 with Simson's soul

V.

CANTICLES 5. 6.

My Soul melted whil'st my Beloved spake.

Lord, has the feeble voice of flesh and blood
 The power to work thine ears into a flood
 Of melted mercy? or the strength t'unlock
 The gates of Heav'n, and to dissolve a rock
 Of marble clouds into a morning show'r?
 Or hath the breath of whining dust the pow'r
 To stop or snatch a falling Thunder-bolt
 From thy fierce hand, and make thy hand revolt
 From resolute confusion, and instead
 Of vials, pour full blessings on our head?
 Or shall the wants of famish'd Ravens cry,
 And move thy mercy to a quick supply?
 Or shall the silent suits of drooping flow'rs,
 Woo thee for drops, and be refresh'd with show'rs?
 Alas, what marvel then, great God, what wonder
 If thy hell-rouzing voice, that splits in sunder
 The brazen portals of eternal death;
 What number if that life restoring breath
 Which dragg'd me from the internal shades of night,
 Should melt my ravish'd soul with o'er-delight?
 O can my frozen gutters choose but run,
 That feel the warmth of such a glorious Sun?
 Methinks his language like a flaming arrow
 Doth pierce my bones, and melts their wounded marrow.

Thy flames, O Cupid (though the joyful heart
 Feels neither tang of griet, nor fears the smart
 Of jealous doubts, but drunk with full desires)
 Are torments, weigh'd with these celestial fires;
 Pleasures that ravish in so high a measure,
 That O I languish in excess of pleasure:
 What ravish'd heart that feels these melting joys,
 Would not despise and loath the treach'rous toys
 Of dunghil earth? What soul would not be proud
 Of wry-mouth'd scorns, the worst that flesh and blood
 Had rancour to devise? Who would not bear
 The world's derision with a thankful ear?
 What palate would refuse full bowls of spight,
 To gain a minutes taste of such delight?
 Great spring of light, in whom there is no shade
 But what my interposed sins have made.
 Whose marrow-melting fires admit no screen
 But what my own rebellions put between
 Their precious flames and my obdurate ear?
 Disperse this plague-distilling cloud, and clear
 My mungy soul into a glorious day:
 Transplant this screen, remove this bar away,
 Then, then my fluent soul shall feel the fires
 Of thy sweet voice, and my dissolv'd desires
 Shall turn a sov'reign balsam, to make whole
 Those wounds my sins inflicted on thy soul.

S. AUGUST

S. AUGUST. Soliloq. cap. 34.

What fire is this that so warmeth my heart? What light is this that so enlightneth my soul? O fire, that always burneth, and never goes out, kindle me: O light, which ever shinest, and art never darkned, illuminate me: O that I had my heat from thee, most holy fire! How sweetly dost thou burn? How secretly dost thou shine? How desiredly dost thou inflame me!

BONAVENT. Stim. amoris, cap. 8.

It maketh God man, and man God; things temporal, eternal; mortal, immortal; it maketh an enemy, a friend; a servant, a son; vile things, glorious; cold hearts, fiery; and hard things, liquid.

EPIG. 5.

*My soul, thy gold is true, but full of dross;
Thy Saviours breath refines thee with some loss:
His gentle furnace makes thee pure as true;
Thou must be melted e'er th'art cast anew.*

F. H. v. Houe Sculp:

VI.

PSALM 73. 25.

Whom have I in Heaven but thee? and what desire I on earth in respect of thee?

I Love (and have some cause to love) the earth:
She is my Makers creature; therefore good:
She is my Mother, for she gave me birth;
She is my tender Nurse; she gives me food;
But what's a Creature, Lord, compar'd with thee?
Or what's my Mother, or my Nurse to me?

I love the Air, her dainty sweets refresh
My drooping soul, and to new sweets invite me;
Her shrill-mouth'd Choire sustain me with their flesh,
And with their Polyphonian notes delight me:
But what's the Air, or all the sweets, that she
Can bless my soul withal, compar'd to thee?

I love the Sea: She is my fellow-Creature,
My careful purveyour; she provides me store:
She walls me round; she makes my diet greater;
She wafts my treasure from a foreign shore:
But, Lord of Oceans, when compar'd with thee,
What is the Ocean, or her wealth to me?

To heav'n's high city I direct my journey,
 Whose spangled suburbs entertain mine eye;
 Mine eye, by contemplations great Attorney,
 Transcends the crystal pavement of the skie:
 But what is Heav'n, great God, compar'd to Thee?
 Without thy presence Heav'n's no Heav'n to me.

Without thy presence Earth gives no refection;
 Without thy presence Sea affords no treasure;
 Without thy presence Air's a rank infection;
 Without thy presence Heav'n it self's no pleasure;
 If not possess'd, if not enjoy'd in thee,
 What's Earth, or Sea, or Air, or Heav'n to me?

The highest honour that the world can boast,
 Are subjects far too low for my desire;
 The brightest beams of glory are (at most)
 But dying sparkles of thy living fire:
 The proudest flames that earth can kindle, be
 But nightly Gloc-worms if compar'd to thee.

Without thy presence, Wealth are bags of cares;
 Wisdom, but folly; Joy, disquiet sadness:
 Friendship is treason, and Delights are snares;
 Pleasures but pain, and Mirth but pleasing madness:
 Without thee, Lord, things be not what they be,
 Nor have their being, when compar'd with thee.

In having all things, and not thee, what have I?
 Not having thee, what have my labours got?
 Let me enjoy but thee what farther crave I?
 And having thee alone, what have I not?
 I wish nor Sea, nor Land; nor would I be Possess'd of Heav'n, Heav'n unpossess'd of thee.

BONAVENT. Soliloqu. Cap. 1.

Alas ! My God, now I understand (but blush to confess) that the beauty of thy Creatures hath deceived mine eyes, and I have not observed that thou art more amiable than all the Creatures; to which thou hast communicated but one drop of thy inestimable beauty: For who hath adorned the Heavens with stars? Who hath stored the air with fowl, the waters with fish, the earth with plants and flowers? But what are all these but a small spark of divine beauty.

S. CHRYS. Hom. 5. in Ep. ad Rom.

In having nothing I have all things, because I have Christ. Having therefore all things in him, I seek no other reward; for he is the universal reward.

EPIG. 6.

Who would not throw his better thoughts about him,
And scorn this dross within him; that without him?
Cast up (my soul) thy clearer eye; Behold,
If thou be fully melted, there's the mold.

*Woe is me, that I remain in Mesheck, and

IS Natures course dissolv'd? doth times glafs stand?
Or hath some frolick heart set back the hand
Of Fates perpetual Clock? Will't never strike?
Is crazy Time grown lazy, faint or sick,
With very Age? Or hath that great Pair-royal
Of Adamantine sisters late made trial
Of some new trade? Shall mortal hearts grow old
In sorrow? shall my weary arms infold,
And under-prop my panting sides for ever?
Is there no charitable hand will sever
My well-spun thred, that my imprison'd soul
May be deliver'd from this dull dark hole
Of dungeon flesh? O shall I, shall I never
Be ransom'd, but remain a slave for ever?
It is the lot of man but once to die,
But e'er that death, how many deaths have I?
What humane madness makes the world afraid
To entertain heav'ns joys, because convey'd
By th' hand of death? Will nakedness refuse
Rich change of Robes, because the man's not spruce
That brought them? Or will poverty send back
Full bags of gold, because the bringer's black?
Life is a bubble, blown with whining breaths,
Fill'd with the torment of a thousand deaths;

Which

Which being prick'd by death (while death deprives
 One life) presents the soul a thousand lives :
 O frantick mortal, how hath earth bewitch'd
 Thy bedlam soul, which hath so fondly pitch'd
 Upon her false delights! Delights that cease
 Before enjoyment finds a time to please :
 Her fickle joys breed doubtful fears ; her fears
 Bring hopeful griefs; her griefs weep fearful tears!
 Tears coyn deceitful hopes; hopes careful doubt,
 And surly passion justles passion out :
 To day we pamper with a full repast
 Of lavish mirth, at night we weep as fast :
 To night we swim in wealth, and lend; to morrow,
 We sink in want, and find no friend to borrow.
 In what a climate doth my soul reside ?
 Where pale-fac'd murder, the first born of pride,
 Sets up her kingdom in the very smiles,
 And plighted faiths of men like Crocodiles !
 A land, where each embroyd' red sattin word
 Is lin'd with fraud; where Mars his lawless sword
 Exiles Astræa's balance; where that hand
 Now slays his brother, that new sow'd his land;
 O that my days of bondage would expire
 In this lewd soyl! Lord, how my soul's on fire
 To be dissolv'd, that I might once obtain
 Those long'd for joys, long'd for so oft in vain!
 If Moses-like I may not live possesst
 Of his fair land; Lord, let me see't at least,

S. A U G U S T. Soliloqu. cap. 12.

My life is a frail life; a corruptible life; a life, which the more it increaseth, the more it decreaseth: The farther it goeth, the nearer it cometh to death. A deceitful life, and like a shadow full of the snares of death: Now I rejoyce, now I languish, now I flourish, now infirm, now I live, and straight I die; now I seem happy, always miserable; now I laugh, now I weep: Thus all things are subject to mutability, that nothing continueth an hour in one estate: O joy above joy, exceeding all joy without which there is no joy, when shall I enter into thee, that I may see my God that dwelleth in thee?

O wretched Man that I am who shall deliver me from the body of this death?

Ro. vii. 24.

VIII.

R O M. 7. 24.

O wretched man that I am! who shall deliver me from the body of this death?

BEhold thy darling, which thy lustful care
 Pampers, for which thy restless thoughts prepare
 Such early cares; for whom thy bubbling brow
 So often sweats, and bankrupt eyes do owe
 Such midnight scores to nature, for whose sake
 Base earth is fainted, the infernal lake
 Unfear'd, the Crown of glory poorly rated:
 Thy God neglected, and thy brother hated;
 Behold thy darling, whom thy soul affects
 So dearly; whom thy fond indulgence decks
 And puppets up in soft, in silken weeds:
 Behold the darling, whom thy fondness feeds
 With far-fetch'd delicates, the dear bought gains
 Of ill-spent time, the price of half my pains:
 Behold thy darling, who, when clad by thee,
 Derides thy nakedness! and when most free,
 Proclaims her lover slave; and being fed
 Most full, then striketh' indulgent feeder dead.
 What mean'st thou thus, my poor deluded soul,
 To love so fondly? Can the burning coal
 Of thy affection last without the fuel
 Of counter-love; Is thy compeer so cruel,
 And thou so kind, to love unlov'd again?
 Canst thou sow favours, and thus reap disdain?

Remember,

Remember, O remember thou art born
 Of royal blood; remember thou art sworn
 A Maid of Honour in the Court of Heaven;
 Remember what a costly price was given
 To ransom thee from slav'ry thou wert in:
 And wilt thou now, my soul, turn slave again?
 The Son and Heir to Heav'n's Tri-une J E H O V E
 Would fain become a suter for thy love,
 And offers for thy dow'r his fathers Throne,
 To sit for Seraphims to gaze upon;
 He'll give thee Honour, Pleasure, Wealth, and Things
 Transcending far the Majesty of Kings:
 And wilt thou prostrate to the odious charms
 Of this base scullion? Shall his hollow arms
 Hug thy soft sides? Shall these course hands untie
 The sacred Zone of thy virginity?
 For shame degen'rous soul, let thy desire
 Be quickned up with more heroick fire?
 Be wisely proud, let thy ambitious eye
 Read nobler objects; let thy thoughts despise
 Such am'rous baseness; let thy soul disdain
 Th'ignoble profers of so base a swaine;
 Or if thy vows be past, and Hymens bands
 Have ceremonied your unequal hands,
 Annul, at least avoid, thy lawless act
 With insufficiency, or precontract:
 Or if the act be good, yet maist thou plead
 A second freedom; or the flesh is dead.

NAZIANZ. Orat. 16.

How I am joyn'd to this body I know not; which when it is healthful, provoketh me to war, and being damaged by war, affecteth me with grief; which I both love as a fellow servant, and hate as an utter enemy: It is a pleasant foe, and a perfidious friend. O strange conjunction and alienation: What I fear I embrace, and what I love I am afraid of? before I make war, I am reconciled; before I enjoy peace I am at variance.

PHILIPPIANS I. 23.

I am in a straight between two : having a desire to be dissolved, and to be with Christ.

I

WHat meant our careful parents so to wear,
And lavish out their ill extended hours,
To purchase for us large possessions here,
Which (though unpurchas'd) are too truly ours?
What meant they, ah, what meant they to endure
Such loads of needless labour to procure
And make that thing our own which was our own too sure?

What mean these liv'ries and possessive keys?
What mean these bargains, and these needless sales?
What need these jealous, these suspicious ways
Of law-devis'd, and law-dissolv'd entails?
No need to sweat for gold, wherewith to buy
States of high-priz'd land; no need to tie
Earth to their heirs, were they but clogg'd with earth as I.

were their souls but clogg'd with earth, as I,
They would not purchase with so salt an itch,
They would not take of alms, what now they buy;
Nor call him happy, whom the world counts rich;
They would not take such pains, project and prog,
To charge their shoulders with so great a log:
Who hath the greater lands, hath but the greater clog.

I cannot do an act which earth disdain;
 I cannot think a thought which earth corrupts not;
 I cannot speak a word which earth profanes not;
 I cannot make a vow earth interprets not:
 If I but offer up an early groan,
 Or spread my wings to Heaven's long-long'd for throne
 She darkens my complaints, and draggs my offering down

Ev'n like the hawk, (whose keepers wary hands
 Have made a pris'ner to her wethering stock)
 Forgetting quite the pow'r of her fast bands,
 Makes a rank bate from her forsaken block,
 But her too faithful leash doth soon retain,
 Her broken flight, attempted oft in vain;
 It gives her loins a twitch, and tugs her back again.

So, when my soul directs her better eye
 To Heav'n's bright Palace (where my treasure lies)
 I spread my willing wings, but cannot fly,
 Earth hales me down, I cannot, cannot rise:
 When I but strive to mount the least degree,
 Earth gives a jerk, and foils me on my knee;
 Lord, how my soul is rack'd betwixt the world and thee

Great God, I spread my feeble wings in vain;
 In vain I offer my extended hands:
 I cannot mount till thou unlink my chains:
 I cannot come till thou release my bands:
 Which if thou please to break, and then supply
 My wings with spirit, th' Eagle shall not flie
 A pitch that's half so fair, nor half so swift as I.

BONAVENT. Soliloq. Cap. i.

Ab sweet Jesus, pierce the marrow of my soul with the healthful shafts of thy love, that it may truly burn and melt and languish with the only desire of thee; that it may desire to be dissolved, and to be with thee: Let it hunger alone for the bread of life: Let it thirst after thee, the spring and fountain of eternal light, the stream of true pleasure: let it always, desire thee, seek thee, and find thee, and sweetly rest in thee.

P S A L. 142. 7.

Bring my soul out of prison, that I may praise thy Name.

MY Soul is like a Bird, my flesh the cage,
Wherein she wears her weary pilgrimage
Of hours, as few as evil, daily fed
With sacred Wine, and Sacramental Bread;
The keys that lock her in and let her out,
Are Birth and Death; 'twixt both she hops about
From perch to perch, from sense to reason; then
From higher reason down to sense again:
From sense she climbs to Faith; where for a season
She sits and sings; then down again to reason:
From reason back to faith, and streight from thence
She rudely flutters to the perch of sense:
From sense to hope; then hops from hope to doubt,
From doubt to dull despair; there seeks about
For desp'rate freedom, and at ev'ry grate,
She wildly thrusts, and begs th' untimely date
Of th' unexpired thraldom, to release
Th' afflicted captive, that can find no peace.
Thus am I coop'd within this fleshly cage
I wear my youth, and wast my weary age,
Spending that breath which was ordain'd to chaunt
Heav'n's praises forth, in sighs, and sad complaint:
Whilst happier birds can spread their nimble wing
From shrubs to Cedars, and there chirp and sing.

In choice of raptures, harmonious story
Of mans Redemption, and his Makers glory:
You glorious Martyrs, you illustrious stoops,
That once were cloyster'd in your fleshly coops
As fast as I, what rhet'rick had your tongues?
What dextrous Art had your Elegiac songs?
What Paul-like pow'r had your admir'd devotion?
What shackle-breaking faith infus'd such motion
To your strong prayer, that could obtain the boon
To be enlarg'd; to be uncag'd so soon?
What I, poor I, can sing my daily tears,
Grown old in bondage, and can find no ears:
You great partakers of eternal glory,
That with your Heav'n-prevailing Oratory,
Releas'd your souls from your terrestrial cage,
Permit the passion of my holy rage
To recommend my sorrows, dearly known
To you, in days of old, and once your own.
To your best thoughts, (but oh't doth not besit ye
To move your pray'rs; you love joy not pity:)
Great Lord of souls to whom should pris'ners fly;
But thee? Thou hadst a cage as well as I;
And for my sake, thy pleasure was to know
The sorrows that it brought, and felt'st them too:
O set me free, and I will spend those days,
Which now I waste in begging, in thy praise.

A N S E L M. in Protolog. cap. 1.

O miserable condition of mankind, that has lost that for which he was created! Alas, what hath he lost? And what hath he found? He hath lost happiness for which he was made, and found misery for which he was not made: What is gone? And what is left? That thing is gone, without which he is unhappy. That thing is left by which he is miserable: O wretched men! From whence are we expelled? To what are we impelled? Whence are we thrown? And whither are we hurried? From our home into banishment; from the sight of God into our own blindness; from the pleasure of immortality to the bitterness of death: Miserable change! From how great a good, to how great an evil? Ah me, what have I enterprised? What have I done? Whither did I go? Whither am I come?

EPI G. 10.

*Paul's midnight voice prevail'd; his musicks thunder
Unhing'd the prison-doors, split bolts in funder:
And sitt'st thou here, and hang'st the feeble wing?
And whin'st to be enlarg'd? Soul, learn to sing.*

*As the Hart panteth after the waterbrooks
So panteth my soule after thee O Lord.*

PSALM 24. 2.

As the Heart panteth after the water-brooks, so panteth my soul after thee, O God.

HOW shall my tongue express that hallow'd fire
Which Heav'n hath kindled in my ravish'd heart?
What muse shall I invoke, that will inspire
My lowly quill to act a lofty part!
What Art shall I devise t' express desire,
Too intricate to be express'd by Art!
Let all the Nine be silent; I refuse
Their aid in this high task, for they abuse
The flames of love too much: Assist me, David's Muse.

Not as the thirsty soil desires soft show'rs
To quicken and refresh her Embryon grain;
Nor as the drooping crests of fading flow'rs
Requests the bounty of a morning rain,
Do I desire my God: These in few hours,
Re-wish what late their wishes did obtain,
But as the swift-foot hart doth wounded fly
To th' much desired streams, even so do I
Pant after thee, my God, whom I must find, or die.

Before

Before a pack of deep mouth'd lusts I flee ;
 O, they have singled out my panting heart,
 And wanton Cupid, sitting in a tree,
 Hath pierc'd my bosom with a flaming dart ;
 My soul being spent, for refuge seeks to thee,
 But cannot find where thou my refuge art :
 Like as the swift-foot Hart doth wounded fly
 To the desired streams, ev'n so do I
 Pant after thee, my God, whom I must find, or die.

At length by flight, I over-went the pack ;
 Thou drew'st the wanton dart from out my wound ;
 The blood that follow'd, left a purple track,
 Which brought a Serpent, but in shape a Hound ;
 We strove, he bit me ; but thou brak'st his back,
 I left him grov'ling on th' envenom'd ground ;
 But as the Serpent bitten Hart doth fly
 To the long-long'd for streams, ev'n so did I
 Pant after thee, my God, whom I must find, or die.

If Lust should chase my soul, made swift by fright,
 Thou art the stream, whereto my soul is bound :
 Or if a Jav'lin wound my sides in flight,
 Thou art the Balsam that must cure my wound :
 If poison chance r' infest my soul in fight,
 Thou art the Treacle that must make me sound :
 Ev'n as the wounded Hart, embost, doth fly
 To th' streams extreamly long'd for, so do I
 Pant after thee, my God, whom I must find, or die.

S. CYRIL. lib. 5. in Joh. cap. 10.

O precious water, which quencheth the noysome thirst of this world, scoureth all the stains of sinners, that watereth the earth of our souls with heavenly showers, and bringeth back the thirsty heart of man to his only God!

S. AUGUST. Soliloq. 35.

O fountain of life, and vein of living waters, when shall I leave this forsaken, impassible, and dry earth, and taste the waters of thy sweetness, that I may behold thy virtue and thy glory, and slack my thirst with the streams of thy mercy; Lord, I thirst: Thou art the spring of life, satisfie me; I thirst Lord, I thirst after thee the living God!

EPIG. II.

*The arrow smitten Hart, deep wounded, flies
To th' springs with water in his weeping eyes:
Heav'n is thy spring: if Satans fiery dart
Pierce thy faint sides: Do so, my wounded Heart.*

When shall I come and appeare before the Lord. Ps: 42: 2.

XII.

PSALM 42. 2.

When shall I come and appear before God ?

WHat is my foul the better to be tin'd
 With holy fire? What boots it to be coyn'd
 With Heaven's own stamp? What vantage can there be
 To souls of Heav'n-descended pedigree,
 More than to beasts that grovel? Are not they Fed by th' Almighty's hand? And ev'ry day,
 Fill'd with his blessings too? Do they not see
 God in his Creatures, as direct as we?
 Do they not taste thee? Hear thee? Nay, what sense
 Is not partaker of thine Excellence?
 What more do we? Alas, what serves our reason,
 But, like dark-lanterns, to accomplish treason
 With greater closeness? It affords no light,
 Brings thee no nearer to our pur-blind sight:
 No pleasure rises up the least degree,
 Great God, but in the clearer-view of thee:
 What priv'lege more than sense hath reason then?
 What vantage is it to be born a man?
 How often hath my patience built, dear Lord,
 Vain towers of hope upon thy gracious Word?
 How often hath thy Hope-reviving Grace
 Woo'd my suspicious eyes to seek thy face?
 How often have I sought thee? O how long
 Hath expectation taught my perfect tongue
 Repeated pray'rs, yet pray'rs could ne'r obtain;
 In vain I seek thee, and I beg in vain:

If it be high presumption to behold
Thy face, why didst thou make mine eyes so bold
To seek it? If that object, be too bright
For mans aspect, why did thy lips invite
Mine eye t' expect it? If it might be seen,
Why is this envious curtain drawn between
My darkn'd eye and it? O tell me, why
Thou dost command the thing thou dost deny?
Why dost thou give me so unpriz'd a treasure;
And then deny'st my greedy soul the pleasure
To view my gift? Alas, that gift is void,
And is no gift, that may not be enjoy'd:
If those refulgent beams of Heavens great light
Guild not the day, what is the day but night?
The drowzy shepherd sleeps, flowers droop and fade;
The birds are sullen and the beast is sad:
But if bright Titan dart his golden ray,
And, with his riches glorifie the day,
The jolly shepherd pipes; flowers freshly spring;
The beasts grow gamesome, and the birds they sing;
Thou art my Sun, great God: O when shall I
View the full beams of thy Meridian eye?
Draw, draw this fleshly curtain, that denies
The gracious presence of thy glorious eyes;
Or give me faith; and by the eye of grace,
I shall behold thee, though not face to face.

S. AUGUST. in Psal. 39.

Who created all things is better than all things; who beautified all things is more beautiful than all things: Who made strength is stronger than all things: Who made great things is greater than all things: Whatsoever thou lovest, he is that to thee: Learn to love the workman in his work, the Creator in his creature: Let not that which was made by him possess thee, lest thou lose him by whom thy self was made.

S. AUGUST. Med. cap. 37.

O thou most sweet, most gracious, most amiable, most fair, when shall I see thee? When shall I be satisfied with thy beauty? When wilt thou lead me from this dark dungeon, that I may confess thy name.

EPIG. 12.

*How art thou shaded in this veil of night,
Behind thy curtain flesh? Thou see'st no light,
But what thy pride doth challenge as her own;
Thy flesh is high: Soul take this curtain down.*

No day of freedom: must I ever grind?
O that I had the pinions of a Dove,
That I might quit my bands and soar above,
And pour my just complaints before the great Jehove!

How happy are the Doves, that have the pow'r
When e'er they please, to spread their airy wings!
Or cloud-dividing Eagles that can towre
Above the scent of these inferiour things!
How happy is the Lark, that ev'ry hour

 To catch a blast, or own a smile from Cæsar!

 How I would soar and sing, and hate the love
 Of transitory toys, and feed on joys above!

 Which change removes not, and which chance prevents;
 There should I find that everlasting treasure,
 Which force deprives not, fortune disaugments not;
 There should I find that everlasting Cæsar,

 How I would climb the skies, and hate the love
 Of transitory toys, and joy in things above!

 Or blast our blooming names, as here they do;
 No liver-scalding lust shall there incense
 Our boiling veins. There is no Cupid's bow;

 Of Doves, and I shall have their pinions too:

 How I would quit this earth, and soar above
 And Heav'ns blest kingdom find, with Heav'ns blest King

S. AUGUST. in Psal. 138.

What wings should I desire, but the two precepts of love, on which the Law, and the Prophets depend! O if I could obtain these wings, I could fly from thy face to thy face, from the face of thy Justice, to the face of thy Mercy: Let us find those wings by love, which we have lost by lust.

S. AUGUST. in Psal. 76.

Let us cast off whatsoever hindreth, entangleth, or burdeneth our flight, until we attain that which satisfieth; beyond which, nothing is; beneath which, all things are; of which all things are:

PSALM 84. 1.

How amiable are thy tabernacles, O God of Hosts!

ANcient of days to whom all times are Now,
 Before whose Glory Seraphims do bow
 Their blushing cheeks, and veil their blemish'd faces,
 That, uncontain'd, at once doth fill all places;
 How glorious, O how far beyond the height
 Of puz'led quils, or the obtuse conceit
 Of flesh and blood, or the too flat reports
 Of mortal tongues are thy expresseless courts:
 Whose glory to paint forth with greater Art,
 Ravish my fancy, and inspire my heart;
 Excuse my bold attempt, and pardon me
 For shewing sense, what Faith alone should see.
 Ten thousand millions, and ten thousand more
 Of Angel-measured leagues, from th' Eastern shore
 Of dungeon-earth his glorious palace stands,
 Before whose pearly gates ten thousand bands
 Of armed Angels wait to entertain
 Those purged souls, for which the Lamb was slain;
 Whose guiltless death and voluntary yielding
 Of whose given life, gave the brave court her building;
 The luke-warm blood of this dear Lamb being spilt;
 To rubies turn'd whereof her posts were built;
 And what dropp'd down in a kind gelid gore,
 Did turn rich Sapphires, and did pave her floor:

The brighter flames, that from his eye-balls ray'd,
 Grew Chrysoltes, whereof her walls were made :
 The milder glances sparkled on the ground,
 And groundfil'd every door with Diamond ;
 But dying, darted upwards, and did fix
 A battlement of purest Sardonyx.
 Her streets with burnish'd gold are paved round,
 Stars lie like pebbles scatt'ed on the ground :
 Pearl mixt with Onyx, and the Jasper stone,
 Made gravell'd cause-ways to be trampled on.
 There shines no Sun by day no Moon by night,
 The Palace glory is, the Palace light :
 There is no time to measure motion by,
 There time is swallow'd with Eternity :
 Wry-mouth'd Disdain, and corner-hunting Lust,
 And twy-fac'd Fraud, and beetle-brow'd Distrust.
 Soul-boyling Rage, and trouble-state Sedition,
 And giddy Doubt, and goggle-ey'd Suspicion,
 And lumpish Sorrow, and degen'rous Fear
 Are banish'd thence, and Death's a stranger there :
 But simple Love, and sempiternal Joys
 Whose sweetness neither gluts nor fulness cloy ;
 Where face to face our ravish'd eye shall see
 Great E L O H I M, that glorious One in Three,
 And Three in One, and seeing him shall bless him,
 And blessing, love him, and in love possess him,
 Here stay my soul and ravish in relation :
 The words being spent, spend now in contemplation.

S. GREG. in Pfal. 7. pœnitent.

Sweet Jesus, the Word of the Father, the brightness of paternal glory, whom Angels de'ight to view, teach me to do thy will; that led by thy good Spirit, I may come to that blessed City, where day is eternal, where there is certain security, and secure eternity, and eternal peace, and peaceful happiness, and happy sweetness, and sweet pleasure; where thou, O God, with the Father and the holy Spirit livest and reignest world without end.

CANTICLES 8. 14.

Make haste, my Beloved, and be like the Roe, or the young Hart upon the mountains of Spices.

GO, gentle tyrant, go; thy flames do pierce
My soul too deep; thy flames are too too fierce;
My marrow melts, my fainting spirits fry
I' th' torrid Zone of thy Meridian eye:
Away, away, thy sweets are too perfuming:
Turn, turn thy face, thy fires are too consuming:
Hast hence, and let thy winged steps out-go
The frighted Roe-buck, and this flying Roe.
But wilt thou leave me then? O thou that art
Life of my soul, soul of my dying heart,
Without the sweet aspect of whose fair eyes,
My soul doth languish, and her solace dies?
Art thou so easily woo'd? so apt to hear
The frantick language of my foolish fear?
Leave, leave me not, nor turn thy beauty from me;
Look, look upon me, though thine eyes o'ercome me.
O how they wound! But how my wounds content me!
How sweetly these delightful pains torment me!
How I am tortur'd in excessive measure
Of pleasing cruelties, too cruel measure!
Turn, turn away, remove thy scorching beams;
I languish with these bitter-sweet extremes:

Haste then, and let thy winged steps out-go
 The flying Roe-buck, and his frightened Roe.
 Turn back, my dear; O let my ravish'd eye
 Once more behold thy face before thou fly;
 What, shall we part without a mutual kiss?
 O who can leave so sweet a face as this?
 Look full upon me; for my soul desires
 To turn a holy Martyr in those fires:

O leave me not, nor turn thy beauty from me;
 Look, look upon me, though thy flames o'ercome me,
 If thou becloud the Sun-shine of thy eye,
 I freeze to death; and if it shine, I fry;
 Which like a fever, that my soul hath got,
 Makes me to burn too cold, or freeze too hot:
 Alas, I cannot bear so sweet a smart,
 Nor canst thou be less glorious than thou art.

Haste then, and let thy winged steps out-go
 The frightened Roe-buck, and this flying Roe,
 But go not far beyond the reach of breath;
 Too large a distance makes another death:
 My youth is in her spring? Autumnal vows
 Will make me riper for so sweet a Spouse;
 When after-times have burnish'd my desire,
 I'll shoot thee flames for flames, and fire for fire.

O leave me not, nor turn thy beauty from me;
 Look, look upon me, though thy flames o'ercome me.

The FAREWELL.

REV. 2. 10.

Be thou faithful unto Death, and I will give thee the Crown of Life.

BE faithful, Lord, what's that?
 Believe: 'tis easie to believe; but what?
 That he whom thy hard heart hath wounded,
 And whom thy scorn hath spit upon,
 Hath paid thy fine and hath compounded
 For these foul deeds thy hands have done:
 Believe, that he whose gentle palms
 Thy needle-pointed sins have nail'd
 Hath born thy slavish load (of alms)
 And made supply where thou hast fail'd,
 Did ever mis'ry find so strange relief?
 It is a love too strange for mans belief.

Believe that he whose side
 Thy crimes have pierc'd with their rebellions, dy'd
 To save thy guilty soul from dying
 Ten thousand horrid deaths, from whence
 There was no scape, there was no flying,
 But through his dearest bloods expence:
 Believe, this dying friend requires
 No other thanks for all his pain,
 But ev'n the truth of weak desires,
 And for his love, but love again:
 Did ever mis'ry find so true a friend?
 'Tis a love too vast to comprehend.

With floods of tears baptize
 And drench these dry, these unregen'rate eyes;

Lord,

Lord, whet my dull, my blunt belief,
 And break this fleshly rock in sunder,
 That from this heart, this hell of grief,
 May spring a Heav'n of love and wonder:
 O if thy mercies will remove
 And melt this lead from my belief,
 My grief will then refine my love,
 My love will then refresh my grief,
 Then weep mine eyes as he hath bled; vouchsafe
 To drop for every drop an Epitaph.

But is the crown of Glory
 The wages of a lamentable story?
 Or can so great a purchase rise
 From a salt humour? Can mine eyes
 Run fast enough t' obtain this prize?
 If so, Lord, who's so mad to die?
 Thy tears are trifles; thou must do:
 Alas I cannot then endeavour:
 I will! But will a tug or two
 Suffice the turn? Thou must persevere:
 I'll strive till death; and shall my feeble strife
 Be crown'd? I'll crown it with a crown of life.

But is there such a dearth
 That thou must buy, what is thy due by birth?
 He whom thy hands did form of dust
 And give him breath upon condition;
 To love his great Creatour; must
 He now be thine by composition?
 Art thou a gracious God and mild,
 Or head-strong man rebellious rather?
 O, man's a base rebellious child,
 And thou a very gracious Father:
 The gift is thine; we strive, thou crown'st our strife;
 Thou giv'st us Faith: and Faith a crown of life.

I Present these Tapurs to burn under the safe protection of your Honourable Name;
where, I presume, they stand secure from the Damps of Ignorance, and Blasts of Censure.

The Epistle Dedicatory.

It is a small part of that abundant service which my thankful heart oweth your incomparable goodness. Be pleased to honour it with your noble Acceptance, which shall be nothing but what your own esteem shall make it.

IF you are satisfied with my Emblems, I here set before you a second Service. It is an Ægyptian Dish, dress'd on the English Fashion: They, at their Feasts, used to present a Death's-Head at their Second Course: This will serve for both. You need not fear a Surfeit: Here is but little, and that light of Digestion: If it but please your Palate, I question not your Stomach: Fall to, and much good may it do you.

Sine Lumine mane

PSALM I. 5:

*Behold I was shapen in iniquity, and in sin
did my Mother conceive me.*

MAN is man's A. B. C. There is none that can Read God aright, unless he first spell Man:
Man is the stairs, whereby his knowledge climbs
To his Creatour, though it oftentimes
Stumbles for want of light, and sometimes trips
For want of careful heed; and sometimes slips
Through unadvised haste; and when at length
His weary steps have reach'd the top, his strength
Oft falls to stand; his giddy brains turn round,
And Phaeton-like, falls headlong to the ground:
These stairs are often dark, and full of danger
To him, whom want of practice makes a stranger
To this blind way, the Lamp of nature lends
But a false light, and lights to her own ends.
These be the ways to Heaven, these paths require
A light that springs from that Diviner fire,
Whose human soul-enlightning Sun-beams dart
Through the bright crannies of the immortal part.
And here, thou great Original of Light,
Whose error-chasing beams do unbenight
The very soul of darkness, and untwist
The clouds of ignorance, do thou assist
My feeble quill; reflect thy sacred rayes
Upon these lines, that they may light the ways
That lead to thee; so guide my heart, my hand,
That I may do what others understand.
Let my heart practise what my hand shall write;
Till then, I am a Taper wanting light.

This golden Precept, Know thy self, come down
 From Heaven's high Court: It was an Art unknown
 To flesh and blood. The men of Nature took Great journies in it: Their dim eyes did look
 But through the mist, like Pilgrims they did spend
 Their idle steps, but knew no journies end.
 The way to know thy self, is first to cast
 Thy frail Beginning, Progress, and thy Last:
 This is the sum of Man; But now return
 And view this Tapour standing in this Urn.
 Behold her substance sordid and impure,
 Useless and vain, and (wanting light) obscure:
 'Tis put a span at longest, nor can last
 Beyond that span; ordain'd and made to wast:
 Ev'n such was Man (before his soul gave light
 To this vile substance) a meer child of night;
 Ere he had life, estated in his Urn,
 And markt for death; by nature, born to burn:
 Thus liveless, lightless, worthless first began
 That glorious, that presumptuous thing call'd Man.

S. AUGUST.

Consider, O man, what thou wert before thy birth, and what thou art from thy birth to thy death, and what thou shalt be after death: Thou wert made of an impure substance, cloathed and nourished in thy mothers blood.

EPIG. I.

Forbear, fond Tapour: What thou seek'st, is fire:
Thy own destruction's lodg'd in thy desire.
Thy wants are far more safe than their supply:
He that begins to live, begins to die.

2. AUGUST

Consider, O man, what thou wert before thy birth, and what thou art from thy birth to thy death, and what thou shalt be after death: Thou wert made of an igneous substance, clothed

Forbear, fond Tabor: What thou wert, is this: Thy own destruction's lodged in thy breast. Thy wants are far more late than their supply: He that begins to live, begins to die.

G E N. 2. 3.

And God said, Let there be Light; and there was Light.

I

THis flame-expecting Tapour hath at length
 Received fire, and now begins to burn:
 It hath no vigour yet, it hath no strength;
 Apt to be puft and quencht at every turn:
 It was a gracious hand that thus endow'd
 This snuff with flame: But mark this hand doth shroud
 It self from mortal eyes, and folds it in a cloud.

Thus man begins to live. An unknown flame
 Quickens his finisht Organs, now possess
 With motion; and which motion doth proclaim
 An active soul, though in a feeble breast:
 But how, and when infus'd ask not my pen;
 Here flies a cloud before the eyes of men:
 I cannot tell thee how, nor canst thou tell me when.

Was it a parcel of Celestial fire
 Infus'd by Heav'n into this fleshly mould?
 Or was it (think you) made a soul entire?
 Then, Was it new created? Or of old?
 Or is't a propagated Spark, rak'd out
 From Natures embers? While we go about
 By reason to resolve, the more we raise a doubt.

If

If it be part of that celestial Flame,
 It must be ev'n as pure, as free from spot
 As that eternal Fountain whence it came :
 If pure and spotless, then whence came the blot?
 It self being pure could not it self defile;
 Nor hath unactive matter pow'r to soil
 Her pure and active form, as Jars corrupt their Oil.

Or if it were created, tell me when?
 If in the first six days, where kept till now?
 Or if thy soul were new created, then
 Heav'n did not all, at first, he had to do :
 Six days, expired all creation ceast ;
 All kinds, ev'n from the greatest to the least,
 Were finisht and compleat before the day of rest.

But why should Man, the Lord of Creatures, want
 That privilege which Plants and Beasts obtain?
 Beasts bring forth Beasts, the Plant a perfect Plant;
 And ev'ry like brings forth her like again ;
 Shall Fowls and Fishes, Beasts and Plants convey Life to their issue, and Man less than they?
 Shall these get living souls, and Man dead lumps of clay?

Must human souls be generated then?
 My water ebbs ; behold, a Rock is nigh :
 If Nature's work produce the souls of men,
 Man's soul is mortal : All that's born must die.
 What shall we then conclude? What sun-shine will Disperse this gloomy cloud? Till then, be still,
 My vainly striving thoughts; lie down, my puzzled quill.

Our life is but a pilgrimage of blasts,
 And every blast brings forth a fear;
 And every fear, a death;
 The more it lengthens, ah, the more it wastes:
 Were, were we to continue here
 The days of long liv'd Seth,
 Our sorrows would renew, as we renew our breath.

Toft to and fro, our frighted thoughts are driv'n
 With every puff, with every tide
 Of life-consuming care;
 Our peaceful flame, that would point up to Heav'n
 Is still disturb'd, and turn'd aside;
 And every blast of air
 Commits such waste in man as man cannot repair.

The Post
Of swift-foot Time
Hath now at length begun
The Kalends of our middle stage :
The number'd steps that we have gone, do show
The number of those steps we are to go :
The buds and blossoms of our age
Are blown, decay'd, and gone
And all our prime
Is lost:
And what we boast too much, we have least cause to boast.

Ah me !
There is no rest :
Our Time is always fleeing ;
What rein can curb our head-strong hours ;
They post away : They pass we know not how :
Our Now is gone, before we can say Now :

 And now those steril brains
 That cannot show,
 Nor bear
 Some fruits, shall never wear Apollo's sacred Bow.

 And surfeit uses

 Full feed and flowing cups of wine
 Conjure the fancy, forcing up a spirit
 By th' easie Magick of debauch'd delight;

 To th' borders of the Western road;
 Fierce Phlegon, with his fellow steeds,
 Now puffs and pants, and blows and bleeds,
 And froths and fumes, remembering still
 Their lashes up th' Olympick hill,
 Which having conquer'd, now disdain,
 The whip, and champ the frothy rein,
 And with a full carier they bend
 Their paces to their journies end:
 Our blazing Tapour now hath lost
 Her better half, Nature hath crost
 Her forenoon book, and clear'd that score,
 But scarce gives trust for so much more:
 And now their generous sap forsakes
 Her seir-grown twig: A breath ev'n shakes
 The down ripe fruit; fruit soon divorc'd
 From her dear branch, untouch'd, unforc'd.
 Now Sanguin Venus doth begin
 To draw her wanton colours in,
 And flees neglected in disgrace,
 Whil'st Mars supplies her luke-warm place:
 Blood turns to choler: What this age
 Loses in strength it finds in rage:
 That rich enamel, which of old,
 Damask'd the downy cheek, and told,

A harmless guilt, unask'd, is new Worn off from the audacious brow;
 Luxurious dalliance, midnight revels,
 Loose riot, and those venial evils
 Which inconsiderate youth of late
 Could plead, now want an Advocate:
 And what appear'd in former times
 Whisp'ring as faults, now roar as crimes;
 And now all ye whose lips were wont
 To drench their Coral in the font
 Of fork'd Parnassus; you that be
 The sons of Phœbus, and can flee
 On wings of fancy to display
 The flag of high invention, stay,
 Repose your quills; your veins grow sowre,
 Tempt not your Salt beyond her power;
 If your pall'd fancies but decline,
 Censure will strike at every line
 And wound your names, the popular ear
 Weighs what you are, not what you were:
 Thus hackney like, we tire our age,
 Spur-gall'd with change from stage to stage.

Seest thou the daily light of the greater World? When attained to the highest pitch of Meridian glory, it stayeth not, but by the same degrees, it ascended, it descendeth. And is the light of the lesser world more permanent? Continuance is the child of Eternity, not of Time.

EPIG. 13.

To the young man.

Young man, rejoyce; and let thy rising days
 Cheer thy glad heart: Think'st thou these uphill ways
 Lead to deaths dungeon? No, but know withal,
 A rising is but a Prologue to a fall.

Invidiosa Senectus. 374

JOHN 12. 35.

Yet a little while is the light with you.

THe day grows old, the low pitch lamp hath made
 No less than treble shade,
 And the descending damp doth now prepare
 T' uncurl bright Titan's hair;
 Whose Western wardrobe now begins t' unfold
 Her purples, fring'd with gold,
 To cloath his evening glory, when th' alarms
 Of rest shall call to rest in restless Thetis arms.

Nature now calls to supper, to refresh
 The spirits of all flesh;
 The toying plowman drives his thirsty teams,
 To taste the slipp'ry streams:
 The droiling swine-herd knocks away, and feasts
 His hungry whining guests:
 The box-bill Ouzle, and the dapled Thrush
 Like hungry rivals meet at their beloved bush.

And now the cold Autumnal dews are seen
 To cob-web every green;
 And by the low-shorn Rowins doth appear
 The fast-declining year:
 The sapless branches doff their summer suits,
 And wain their winter fruits;
 And stormy blasts have forc'd the quaking trees
 To wrap Their trembling limbs in suits of mossy freeze.

Our

Our wasted Tapour now hath brought her light
 To the next door to night;
 Her sprightless flames grown with great snuff, doth turn
 Sad as her neighb'ring Urn:
 Her slender inch, that yet unspent remains,
 Lights but to further pains,
 And in a silent language bids her guest
 Prepare his weary limbs to take Eternal rest.

Now careful age hath pitch'd her painful plough
 Upon the furrow'd brow;
 And snowy blasts of discontented care
 Have blanch'd the falling hair:
 Suspicious envy mixt with jealous spight
 Disturbs his weary night:
 He threatens youth with age; and now alas,
 He owns not what he is, but vaunts the man he was.

Gray hairs, pursue thy days, and let thy past
 Read Lectures to thy last:
 Those hasty wings that hurry'd them away
 Will give these days no day:
 The constant wheels of Nature scorn to tire
 Until her works expire:
 That blast that nipt thy youth, will ruin thee; (tree.
 That hand that shook the branch will quickly strike the

Gray hairs are honourable, when the behaviour suits with gray hairs: But when an ancient man hath childish manners, he becometh more ridiculous than a child.

P S A L M 90. 10.

The days of our years are threescore years and ten.

SO have I seen th' illustrious Prince of Light
Rising in glory from his Crocean bed,
And trampling down the horrid shades of night,
Advancing more and more his conqu'ring head,
Pause first, decline, at length begin to shroud
His fainting brows within a cole-black cloud.

So have I seen a well-built Castle stand
Upon the tip-toes of a lofty hill,
Whose active pow'r commands both sea and land,
And curbs the pride of the beleag'ers will:
At length her ag'd foundation fails her trust,
And lays her tott'ring ruins in the dust.

So have I seen the blazing Tapsur shoot
Her golden head into the feeble air,
Whose shadow-gilding ray spread round about,
Makes the foul face of black-brow'd darkness fair;
Till at the length her wasting glory fades,
And leaves the night to her inveterate shades.

Ev'n so this little world of living Clay,
The pride of Nature, glorified by Art,
Whom Earth adores, and all her Hosts obey
Ally'd to Heav'n by his Diviner part,
Triumphs a while, then droops, and then decays,
And worn by age, death cancels all his days.

That

That glorious Sun, that whilom shone so bright,
 Is now ev'n ravish'd from our darkned eyes:
 That sturdy Castle, mann'd with so much might,
 Lies now a Mon'ment of her own disguise:
 That blazing Tapour, that disdain'd the puff
 Of troubled Air, scarce owns the name of snuff.

Poor bed-rid Man! Where is that glory now,
 Thy Youth so vaunted? Where that Majesty
 Which sat enthron'd upon thy manly brow?
 Where, where that braving arm? That daring eye?
 Those buxom tunes? Those Bacchanalian tones;
 Those swelling veins? Those marrow flaming bones

Thy drooping glory's blurr'd, and prostrate lies
 Grov'ling in dust; and frightful horrou, now,
 Sharpens the glaunces of thy gashful eyes;
 Whilst fear perplexes thy distracted brow:
 The panting breast vents all her breath by groans,
 And death enerves thy marrow-wasted bones.

Thus Man that's born of woman can remain
 But a short time: His days are full of sorrow;
 His life's a penance and his death's a pain;
 Springs like a flow'r to day, and fades to morrow;
 His breath's a bubble, and his day's a span:
 'Tis glorious misery to be born a Man.
