The English acquisitions in Guinea and East-India ... With an account of the inhabitants of all these countries ... Likewise, a description of the isle of St. Helena ... / By Robert Burton.

Contributors

R. B., approximately 1632-approximately 1725

Publication/Creation

London: A. Bettesworth & J. Batley, 1728.

Persistent URL

https://wellcomecollection.org/works/aee9up2q

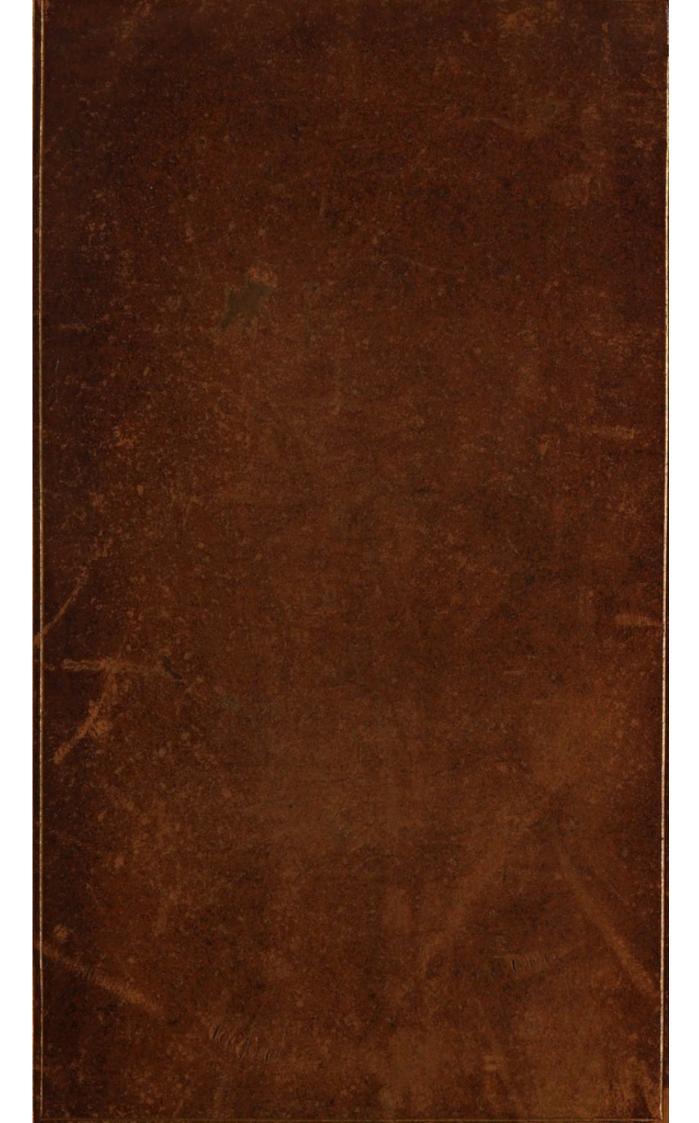

License and attribution

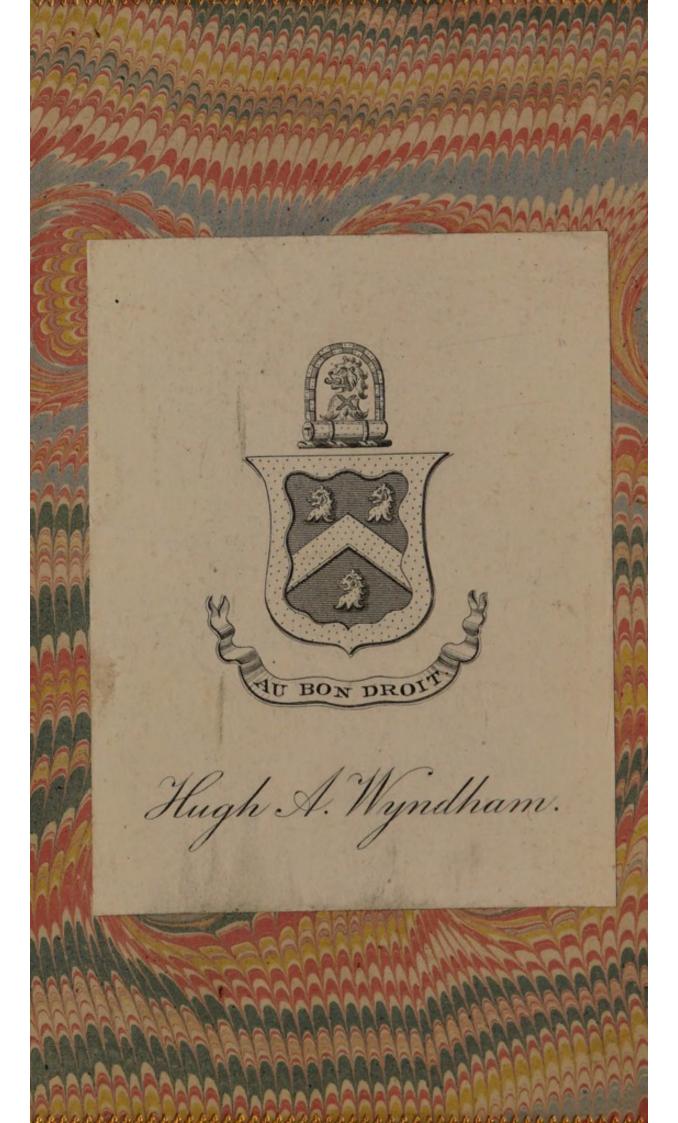

This work has been identified as being free of known restrictions under copyright law, including all related and neighbouring rights and is being made available under the Creative Commons, Public Domain Mark.

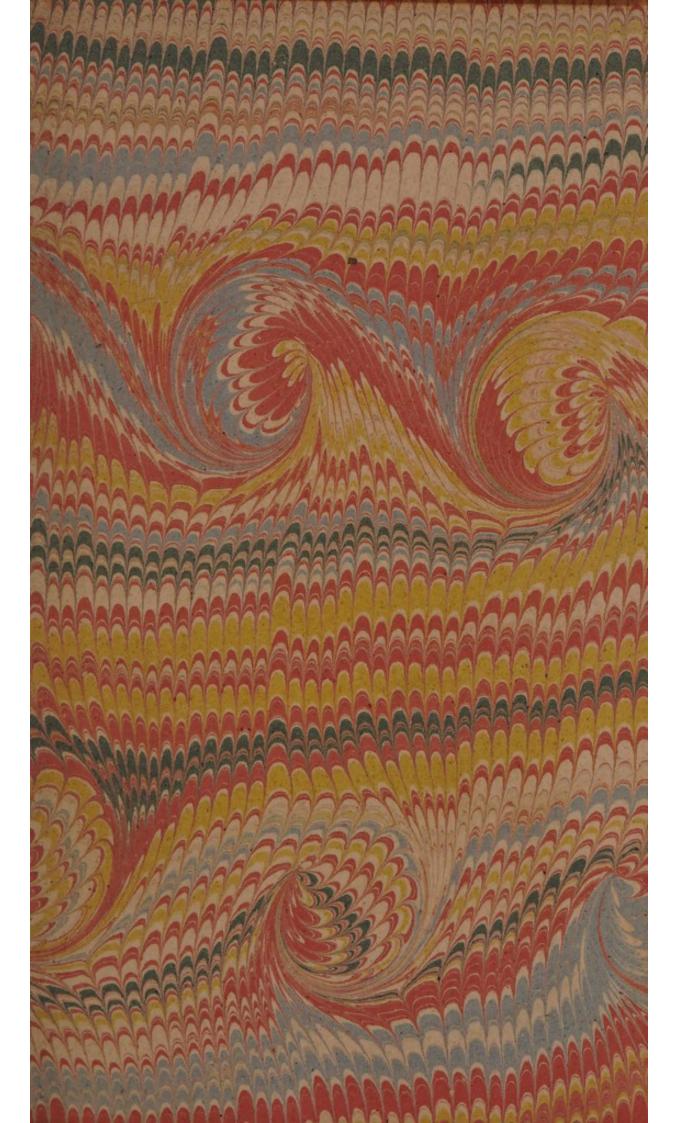

You can copy, modify, distribute and perform the work, even for commercial purposes, without asking permission.

Wellcome Collection 183 Euston Road London NW1 2BE UK T +44 (0)20 7611 8722 E library@wellcomecollection.org https://wellcomecollection.org

Crouch, N.
19.198/A

pajd

THE

English Acquisitions.

IN

GUINEA and EAST-INDIA

A

Guinea Monarch.

A Guinea Monarch.

THE 43866 ENGLISH ACQUISITIONS

GUINEA and EAST-INDIA.

Containing,

First, The several Forts and Castles of the Royal African Company, from Sally in South Barbary, to the Cape of Good-Hope, in Africa, viz.

the River of Gambo. Sterbrow, in York Island.

Fames Fort, in | Serra Leona, in | Fort Royal. Bence Island. Dickeys Cove. Winnebab. Commenda. Cape Coaft Caftle.

Amamabo. Acra.

Secondly, The Forts and Factories of the Honourable East-India Company in Persia, India, Sumatra, China, &c. Viz.

Spawbawn and | Pettipole. Gambroon, in The Coast of Perfia. Fort St. George. Carwar. Fort St. David. Callicut. Conimeere. Cudulour. Porte Novo. Midapollam. Merchlapatam. | Chustanests.

Coromnadel. Surrat. Bombay Island. Ballafore. Hugly.

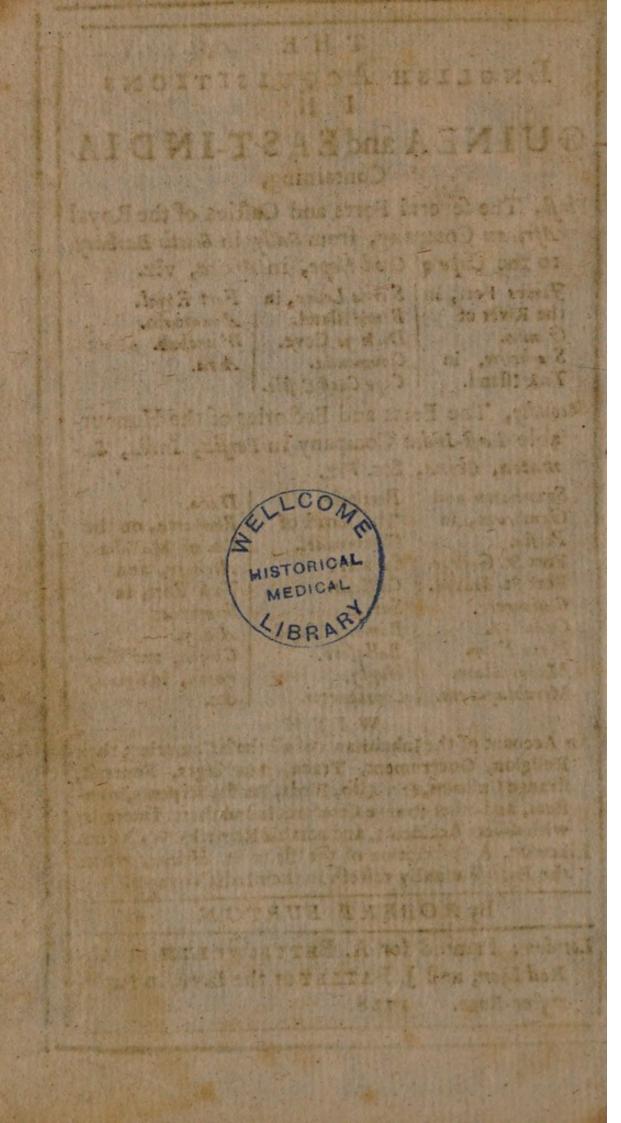

Daca. Rhajama, on the Co. of Mallabar. Atcheen, and York Fort, in Sumarra. Amoy Canton, and Tonqueen, in China,

WITH

An Account of the Inhabitants of all thefe Countries; their Religion, Government, Trade, Marriages, Funerals, strange Customs, &c. Also, Birds, Beafts, Serpents, Mon-Rers, and other strange Creatures found there. Intermixt with divers Accidents, and notable Remarks. With Cuts. Likewise, A Description of the Isle of St. Helena, where the English usually refresh in their India Voyages.

By ROBERT BURTON.

London: Printed for A. BETTESWORTH at the Red Lyon, and J. BATLEY at the Dove, in Paternoster-Row. 1728.

TOTHE

COLUMBIA SELECTION IN

READER.

Aving already endeavoured to inform my - Country-men of the Grandeur of the English Monarchy, by giving them an Account of the Kingdoms of England, Scotland and Ireland, and likewise of his Majesty's Dominions in America; the Acceptance they met with, bath encouraged me to discover to them what many have only heard of by Discourse, namely, the English Acquisitions in the two other Quarters of the World, Africa and Asia. In the first, the Royal African Company, being by their Charter from King Charles II. dated January 2. 1662. Incorporated, the Limits of their Trade were from Sally in South Barbary, to the Cape of Good Hope. In which large Traft of Land, they have erected several Eorts, Factories and Settlements, for securing their Commerce, which is very considerable in those Parts. In Asia, the English began their Discoveries just 100 Kears since, in 1600. under Sir James Lancaster, with four Ships only. And soon after the Industry of others had such Success, that the Merhants Trading thither, were likewise Incorpoated by Charter. This Honourable East-India company, by the prudent management of their A 3 Affairs,

To the Reader.

Affairs, settled Forts, and Factories, in twenty four several noted Places, of which our unkind Neighbours have deprived us of some, and others were deserted for Conveniency; the Names of those abandoned are as follows. Ormus and Jasques, in the Persian Gulf. Cambaja and Agra in the Great Mogul's Country. Armagon, Pattana, and Siam on the Coast of Coromandell, and Continent of Asia. Ticko, Janbo, Prianan on the Isle of Sumatra. Bantam, Jaccatra, and Japarra, on the Isle of Jara. Socodona and Bornermafa, on the Island Borneo. Macassar on the Isle of Celebs. Polleroon in the Isle of Banda. Firando in Japan, Amboina, Hitto, ana other Molucco Mands. So that now the Eng. lish possess only those mentioned in the Title Page. The Account of all those Places, with the Religion, Government and Manners of the Inhabitants, and the strange Creatures therein cannot but be diverting. I have also given brief Description of the Isle of St. Helena, and the wonderful Voyage from thence, of Don Do mingo Gonfales, the Little Spaniard, which in genious and well contrived Fancy would hav been lost if not bere retrieved. These, withma my other pleasant Relations therein, will I hop procure as fair Quarter for this, as those for merly published have met with, from the Friend

Robert Burton.

The Acquisitions of the Royal African Company in Guinea, and the several Forts and Castles belonging to them, from Sally in South Barbary, to the Cape of Good-Hope in Africa. With an Account of the Natives of those Countries, their Religion, Government, Trade, Wars, Marriages, Iuverals, and strange Custems. Also, the Birds, Beasts, Monsters, Serjents, &c. found there. Intermixt with divers Accidents, and notable Remarks.

HAT Track of Land called Guinea, in Africa, comprehends 700 Lesgues, from Cape Verd in 14 Dog. North Latitude, to Cape Gonfalvo in the first Degree of South Latitude. The Portugals were the first that ranged this. Shore, and having Intelligence of the Commodities, and the Manner of Trading, the Natives by fair Means and Force got footing on the Sea Coasts, building Forts, and placing Garrisons and Factories in several Places, and found fuch a Golden Trade, that they called some Coasts thereof by that Name. Thiswas an Inducement (as what will not Gold attract) to their further fearch all along unto the Gape of Good Hope, and thereby consequently to the East-Indies: The fair Quarter and Usage the Inhabitants received from the Portugals already fettled there, incouraged them to exchange their Commodities, which Trade according to the Custom of that Kingdom was maintained

tained by Factors, upon the King of Portugal's particular Account in every Port and Town, is if he intended the Profits of Merchandizing should defray his Charges of his Conquests and Garrisons, furnishing the Natives with Salt, Iron, Tin, Copper, Basons, Knives, Cloth, Linnen, and other European Goods, and receiving in Exchange, Cattle, Corn, Rice, and the like, but chiefly Gold in great abundance, both in Sand and melted Ingots, which gave Life and Briskness to the further Discovery of those Countries, and continuance of that Trade to this Day, though not so considerable as formerly.

The English and other Nations, desirous to share in this Rich Trade, in ashort time sailed thither; and because they had no Forts to protect their Persons and Goods from the Portugals, and Treachery of the Inhabitants, they were compelled to Anchor along the Coast, near the greatest Towns, and signifying to the Negres what Wares they had brought, by their plaufible Demeanor, they at length imboldned them to come aboard their Ships, and bring their Gold; the Manner of which Trade was very different from that of any other Country; For betimes in the Morning, the Wind being then generally off the Shore, and the Weather calm, the Natives came aboard in their Canoes and Scuts, to Traffick, some for themselves, and fome as Factors for others, carrying at their Girdles a Parfe, wherein were several small Clouts or Papers, containing the Gold belonging sometimes to ten several Men, which, though all of the same Weight and Goodness, yet they readily distinguished it; and having made their Bargains for Cloth, Linnen, or the like, at Noon they returned with the Seabrize again to the Shore; and beside the Agreement, these Factors had some small Things for themselves, in reward for their Brokage; but in process of Time, the Hollan. ders frequenting those Coasts, and being well acquaint ed with the Manner of the English Traffick, and com ing

ing into the same Places where the English Traded and were known, they soon spoiled this Golden Trade, by their sinister and indirect Dealing; for Anchoring with the English, whom they found to have a better Trade than themselves, they secretly bribed those Factors to carry their Passengers and Merchants aboard their own Ships, and not the English; obliging them to Trade only with the Dutch: Which Crast the English perceiving, used the same Arts to ingage the Factors to themselves, so that out-vying each other, these Brokers generally gained to themselves six or seven per Cent. to the vast prejudice of all Trade upon these Coasts, since this ill Custom must be kept up by all Succeeding European Merchants.

It was observed that many Negro Merchants who dwelt up in the Country, coming to buy Wares of the Dutch, with great Quantities of Gold, and divers Slaves, thirty or more, according to their Quality, to carry back the Goods they should purchase, and taking their Lodgings in the Houses of these Brokers, whom they acquainted with their full Commissions and Intentions, and to whom they delivered their Gold; these Factors would go aboard the Flemis Ships with . them to Trade and Barter, and if the Negro Merchants were not skilled in the Portugal Tongues, these Brokers would bid the Hollanders not to speak the Merifco Language to them, because they inhabited far within the Land, thereby giving the Dutch the Watch-word, that they meant to deceive their Countrymen, and afterward divide the Spoil, so that the knavish Factor connived at the Extravagant Prices of the Hollanders, to draw the more Gold from the Merchant, whom he likewise cheated, sometimes by putting some of his Gold into his Mouth, Ears or otherwise, which the Negro Merchant finding wanting in the Scale, adds to the Cheat himself, by blowing into the Christians Ballance to make it weight; the Bargain being finishd, and the Negro again landed, the Factor returns back

A 5

This way of proceeding was very detrimental to the English, and other Christians Trading on these Coasts, so that unless they connive with these Factors, their Voyage will be lost, and their Goods unfold.

In 1553, Thomas Windham, and Anthony Pintado a Portugal, in two English Ships, tradedalong these Coasts as far as Benin, where they presented themselves to the King who fate in a great Hall, the Walls whereof were made of Earth without Windows, the Roof of thin Boards, open in divers Places; his Nobles never look him in the Face, but sit with their Buttocks on the Ground, and their Hands before their Faces, not looking up till the King commands them; when they depart they go backward, turning their Faces still toward him. The next Year Captain John Lock failed into these Parts, to Trade for Gold and Elephants Teeth: And after him Captain Towerfon made several Voyagesthither, who at the River of St. Vincent, observed a kind of Pease growing on the Shore like Trees, with Stalks 27 Paces long: At Cape Tres Puntas, they made him swear by the Water of the Sea, that he would not hurt them, before they would Trade with him; Aban a Negro King treated them kindly with a Pot of Palm, or Coco-Wine, which they draw out of Trees.

The People are handsome and well proportioned, having nothing disagreeable in their Countenances, but the Blackness of their Complexion, some of them have flattish Noses, all little Ears; the People go all Naked till they are married, and then are cloathed from the Middle to the Knees; at the Marriage of their Daughters, they give half an Ounce of Gold to buy Wine for the Wedding; the Bride in the Presence of her Friends, swears to be true to her Husband, which the Man doth not; who have as many Wives as they can maintain, yet the first has this Preheminence, so that he can never take another but by her Permission but but because the Multitude of Wives and Children are counted the greatest honour and riches in that Country, they often perswade their Husbands to take more, and glory therein; the first Wife likewise has the Privilege to lie with her Husband three Nights fuccessively, whilst the rest must be contented only with one, so that they live very quietly together. A Merchant or Captain will have thirty or forty; the King of Benin had fix Hundred, wherewith he went in solemn. Procession every Year: The King of Fetu's Son had. fourteen Sons and twelve Daughters, and kept an hundred Slaves to wait upon them. At Cape Gonfalvo, they pink and colour their Bodies, and offer their Wives to Strangers; the King uses his own Daughters when grown up as Wives, and the Queens with the like incestuous Abomination make use of their own Sons.

ON THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERT

Their Women are unfaithful Discoverers of Nature's hidden Secrets, not being ashamed to be delivered publickly in the fight of Men, Boys and Girls. They Circumcife both Sexes; after Travel they will not accompany their Husbands in three Months; as foon as she is delivered, they give her a Drink made of Rice, Mays, Water, Wine, and Malaguett like our Pepper, after which she lies warm three or four Hours, and then rises, washes her self and Child, and so falls to her Work as before; next they give it a Name, usually of some Christian they are obliged to, then wrapping it in a kind of a Blanket or Skin, they lay it upon Rushes, where it continues above five Weeks, then the Mother ties it to a Board, and carries it on her Back, with the Legs under her Arm-pits, and the: Hands tied about her Neck, where it hangs all Days, and never comes off till it goes to Bed, and yet fewe or none prove Lame or Deformed, notwithstanding the shaking of their Bodies; they give them the Breast over their Shoulders, and this may be the Reason of the flatness of their Noses, by their knocking them coneinually.

ther, while she is Walking or at Work; for it is observed, that the Children of their Gentry, whose Mothers do not labour, nor carry their Infants about them, have very comely Noses; they wash and rub their Children every Morning with the Oil of Palms.

When they are feven or eight Years old, they hang a Net about their Necks, made of the Bark of a Tree, full of Fetiches or little Gods, to secure them from the Devil, who they believe else would carry them away; they hang their Hair full of Shells, and Coral about their Arms and Legs, with several Fetichoes of different Qualities, one being an Antidote against Vomiting, a second against dangerous Falls, a third prevents Bleeding, a fourth causes Sleep, a fifth secures them against wild Beasts, and the like, giving to each Fetisso a different Name: They foon learn to speak, go, and swim: When they are born, they are not black but red: About seven Years old they learn to spin Thred, make Nets, and go a Fishing with their Fathers, and feed as they do, picking up any nasty Thing in the Streets, which they eat with good Appetites: The Boys and Girls are naked, which makes them have no Sinfe of Shame or Modesty, they being neither reproved nor corrected by their Parents; they are excellent at Swimming even at this Age, fo that if their Canoo overfet at Sea, they are very little concerned, all of them fwimming, back again to the Place from whence they came, and confequently they can dive with great dexterity, and fetch up any Thing from the Bottom. About twelve their Fathers instruct them how to make a Canoo, and catch Fish. The Merchants bring their Sons acquainted with Europeans, and with the Mystery of Trade: At eighteen they begin to set up for themselves, two or three together hiring a House, and purchasing a Canoo; they then cover their Nudities, grow amorous, and their Fathers look out Wives for them: The Girls clean the Houses,

Houses, pick the Rice, beat the Mays, make the Bread, -clean the Kitchin, buy and fell at Market, make Baskets of Rushes and Matts, which they weave extream curiously, but their chief Care is to provide Meat and Drink for their Parents, fecure their Goods, and all other kinds of good Hufwifry; when grown up they are very lascivious, and boast of their Gallantries, especially with Strangers, whom they seem to affect above their own Men: They are very careful to keep their Teeth white, have Wit enough, but are very wanton with the Young Fellows stark naked, to please whom they wash, comb, and plair their Hair with great Curiofity; fome paint their Foreheads and Eyebrows red and white, and hang Pendants in their Ears; all love Ribbons, especially red; they have Necklaces of Coral, and Bracelets upon their Wrists, Arms and Legs; when they go abroad they wear a piece of Silk, Taffaty, or other Stuff, wrapt about from the Breast to the Mid-leg, and have always a great Bunch of Keys, though never a Coffer nor Trunk to open; the Virgins make it their whole Business to appear acceptable, especially to white Men, and are seldom barren before, though not very fruitful after Marriage.

For many Years the English frequenting these Coasts, made little Benefit thereby; for the Inhabitants, perceiving their Gold so earnestly desired by all Nations, set such a Rate thereon, and having been often beguiled, they grew more wary in their Bargaining, and to the Measure and Goodness of their Commodities; and though at first they knew no distinction of Christians, but thought the Portugals, and all other white Men, to be of the same Nation, yet they have since learned the particular Manners and Dealing of each Country, and have found the fairest Trade from the English, who are therefore most welcome to them, and speed best of any other Nation; especially since the Traders into these Parts were incorporated, by their Charter dated Jan. 20. 1662, and Intituled, The Company of Royal Adventurers of England Trading into Africa, or the Guinea Company; the Limits of their Trade being from Sally in South Barbary, to Cape de bona Esperanza, or the Cape of Good Hope, within which Limits all English Ships are prohibited to Trade, unless Authorized by them. The Commodities exported by the Royal Company to Africa are, Iron, Copper, Slesias, Sheets, Says, Perpetuana's, Cowries, Welch Plains, Manilloes, Boyfades, Chints, Romberges, Coral, Callicoes, Nicanies, Clouts, Amber, Powder, Muskets, Batteries of all forts, Buckshaws, Knives and Sheaths, Swords, Tallow, &c. For which they import from thence to England, Gold, Elephants Teeth, Hides, Malagueta, or Guinea Pepper, Red Wood, Ambergreece, with feveral other good Commodities, besides numbers of Negroes, for supplying the American Plantations, to their great Advantage.

The Royal African Company have erected the following Forts and Castles upon the Coast, for securing their Commerce.

On the North Part of Guinea.

I. James Fort in the River Gambia.

II. The Fort of Sierra Leona in Bence Island.

III. Sherbrow, in York Island.

On the South Part of Guineas.

IV. Dickeys Cove.

V. Commenda.

VI. Cape Coast Castle.

VII. Fort Royal.

VIII. Annamabo.

IX. Winnebab.

X. Asta.

the second to was her pour

I. James Fort.

His Fort was formerly secured with eight Pieces of Cannon, but was demolished by the French in the late War. It is now rebuilded much stronger, and hath Ninety Guns, and a Garrison of two Hundred and fifty Europeans, besides Negroes and Mulattees. The Government of this Place is reckoned worth about two Thousand Pounds a Year. It is situate near Cape Verde, so called from its continual Greenness, which makes it a delectable Place, being a Promontory which throws it self into the Sea, covered with green Trees, and causing a beautiful Prospect by Reason of their Evenness, seeming as if planted by a Line; the Natives have generally small Bellies, long Legs, broad Feet, long Toes, sharp Sight, quick Wits, are Envious, curiously Neat, Thieves, Letcherous, subject to the Pox, of which, as well as their Budenda, they are not the least ashamed, yet hold breaking Wind backward a great Incivility, and wondred at the Hollanders for offering such Contempt. They have Stomachs like Estridges, as appears by their strange and usual Repasts; when they go to Market they wash from Head to Foot, and put on other Cloaths; they buy only for one Day; their Bread is made by stamping their Millet as we do Spice in a wooden Dish, steeping it over Night with a little Maiz, and in the Morning laying it on a Stone, they grind it with another Stone, as Painters do their Colours, till it be Dough, which they then temper with fresh Water and Salt, and make Rolls thereof twice fo big as a Man's Fist, baking them a little on the Hearth, and then eat them. Their Viands are raw Flesh, handfuls of Corn, large draughts of Aqua Vita, Dogs, Cats, Bufflers, Elephants, though stinking like Carrion, and a Thousand Maggots crawling on them; they have little Birds like Bulfinches, which hang their Nests on the small ends of Branches of Trees for fear of Snakes; these they eat alive, Feathers and all. The Negroes say, that up in the Countrey, they eat dried Snakes, and the Guts of Dogs raw, which our Author hath feen; and a Boy who was left on Ship-board in pawn for Money, would privately kill the Hens, that he might eat the raw Guts; they likewise eat raw stinking Fish dried in the Sun, yes can dispence with Dainties when they have them; they make a kind of Ale with Mays and Water boiled together, and puting it into a Vessel as large as a Kilderkin, four or five place themselves round, and drink it off, each sending a little Pot full to his best beloved Wife; they lay their Hands upon the Head of him that drinks, and cry aloud thrice Taujosi. He must not drink off all, but leave a little to throw on the Ground to his Fetiffo, faying, I ous spouting out some on the Arms and Legs of their Fetiffoes, supposing that otherwise they should not drink in quiet; they are great Drinkers, and feed as unmannerly as Swine, fitting on the Ground, not fwallowing one Morfel after another, but tear their Meat to pieces, and throw it into their Mouths, which stand gaping to receive it; they are always hungry, and would eat all Day long; yea the Europeans have great Appetites while they are there; he that gets most, drinks most of their strong Liquors, for they lay up but little.

II. Sierra Leona.

demolished by the French in the late War. It is also rebuilt, and is secured by sixteen Guns, and thirty Europeans, besides Mulattoes and Blacks. An Engissiman dwelt a long Time in one of the Isles, having a fine House, and was well beloved, and protected by the Kings of that Country. In the first War with Holland, 1566, our Author being aboard a Dutch Man of War, this English Factor writ to them feveral times to come and Trade with them, and told him he might do it with fafety, and upon parole, the Englishman, called Abraham, came on board them in a Shallop, rowed by three Slaves, accompanied by a Hollander, and two others which belonged to him, and was kindly treated; but afterward the Captain, contrary to the Advice of the rest, treacherously made him a Prisoner, and the three Moors with him, to their great furprizal; and Jan. 1. 1667, their great Shallop was man'd out with thirty Men, and one Cannon to befiege his House, which was built of Brick and Freestone, defended with four great Guns, encompassed with a fine Wood of Palm Trees, which supplied him with Wine; on one Side were about twenty Cabines for the Natives, and on the other a Spring of good Water, it being the most beautiful Island upon the River.

them,

Being about to Land, they discovered 200 Moors got together about the House with Firelocks, and a greater Number farther up in the Woods, which obliged the Hollanders to make a show of going up higher, as being weaker, and so had more Occasion for the Wind, but the Negroes thought they had been gone to Bowre, and dispatched a Canoo, to give the King of Boulon the Alarum, which was purfued by the Enemy, who fired into their Boat, and at length took them; they were two young Slaves belonging to the Portugals, who lived with the English Factory, but would confess nothing of their Message. The Erglish in the House observing what passed, fired at them with their Cannon, and three of their Bullets fell within ten Faces of the Boat; the Hollanders got out of the reach of their Guns, and came to an Anchor to wait the Tide; and about an Hour after, two Moors belongling to one of the Neighbour Islands made up directly to them in a Canoo, and came within Pistol-shot, but would not be perswaded aboard; the Dutch firing on them, they fled, and stooping for Fear of their Fire, seemed no higher than Cats; the English in the interim played upon them, though they saw they were out of their reach, to shew the Natives they had undertaken their Defence, and desired their Friendship.

The Tide coming in, the Dutch retreated to their Ship, wherein they found several Moors and Portugals, and among them the King of Boulom's Son, called Bembo, about 35 Years old, well proportioned, and abating his Blackness, a handsome Man; he was a great Friend of Abraham's, the English Factor, and when he understood he was a Prisoner, interceded for his Ransom, and on Monday Noon came on board again with 100 Elephants Teeth, weighing nine hundred Pound, and two Civet Cats alive, upon the delivery whereof Abraham was dismiss, the Hollanders giving him a little Barrel of Strong Waters, a Roll of Tobacco, a Cheese and a Salvo of three Guns.

III. Sherbrow.

HIS Fort is situate in York River, sortified with 20 Guns, and a Gerrison of an Hundred and Fifty white Men, besides Mulattoes and Negroes. The Fort consists of two Palankeys, exceeding strongly built of Stone, and of a great height, in Form of an half Moon.

The Religion of the Natives (if we may so call it) is generally Paganism, they salute the New Moon with horrible Roarings and strange Gestures of Adoration; they offer their Sacrifices in the Woods, before great hollow Trees, wherein their Idols are placed; yet this they do rather out of Custom than Zeal, using neither Form nor Method in their Devotions, every one making a God after their own Fancy; some seeming to incline to Mahumatism, others to Judaism, and many of them are Roman Catholicks; yet divers assume that God who giveth all Things, and can do what he pleaseth, pleaseth, and causes Thunders, Lightning, Rain, and Wind, is Omnipotent, and needs neither praying to, nor to be fet forth in so mysterious a Way as that of the Trinity. They believe that when People die they go into another World, and will have Occasion for many of the same Things they use here, and therefore put part of their Houshold-stuff into the Grave with the dead Corps; and if they lose any Thing, imagine their Friends in the other World had need of it, and have taken it away.

They have no Letters nor Books, yet keep Tuefday for a Sabbath, forbearing then their Fishing and Husbandry, and the Palm Wine which is gotten that Day must not be fold, but is offered to the King, who bestows it on his Courtiers to drink at Night. On this Day, in the midst of the Market-place, they place a Table on four Pillars about three Yards high, whose flat Cover is made of Straw and Reeds woven together, upon which they place many Straw Rings, called Fetiffoes or Gods, and within them fet Wheat, Water and Oil for their God, whom they imagine devours it; their Priest they call Fetisfero, who every Festival Day placeth a Seat upon that Table, and sitting thereon, preacheth to the People, but what his Doctrine is, the Europeans cannot understand: After this the Women offer him their Infants, whom he besprinkles with Water, wherein a live Snake swims, wherewith he likewise besprinkles the Table, and then uttering certain Words very loud, and stroking the Children with some kind of Colours, as if giving them his Bleffing, he himfelf drinks of that Water, the People clapping their Hands, and crying, I ou, Iou, and he dismisseth this devout Assembly.

Many wear such Rings next their Bodies, to preferve them from the Mischiefs their angry God might inflict upon them, in Honour of whom they daub themfelves with a kind of Chalky Earth, which is their Morning Mattens; at their eating the first Bit, and the first Draught is consecrated to their Fetisso, wherewith they besprinkle it : If Fishermen have not a good. Draught, they present a piece of Gold to the Priest, to reconcile them to their frowning Saint, who with his Wives makes a kind of Procession through the Streets, smiting his Breast, and clapping his Hands with a mighty Noise, till he come to the Shore, where they cut down Boughs from certain Trees, and hang them on their Necks, playing on a Timbrel; then the Priest turns to his Wives, and expostulates with them, and throws Wheat and other Things into the Sea, as an Offering to appeale the Fetifice's Displeasure against the Fishermen: When the King Sacrifices to his Fetisso, he commands the Priest, or Fetissero, to enquire of a Tree, whereunto he ascribeth Divinity, what he will demand. The Priest comes to the Tree, and in a heap of Ashes there provided, sticks the Branch of a Tree, and drinking Water out of a Bafon, spouts it upon the Branch, and then daubeth his Face with the Ashes, after which the Devil out of the Tree gives answer to the King's Questions; the Nobility likewise adore feveral Trees, esteeming them Oracles, and they report the Devil sometimes appears to them like a black Dog, and otherwhile answers. them without any visible Apparition. Some worship a Bird called Pittoie, spotted and painted as it were with Stars, and refembleth the Voice of a Bull; to hear this Bird low in their Journey, is reckoned a good Omen, they faying, their Fetiffo promisses them. good Portune, and so they set a Vessel of Water and Wheat in the Place where they hear it : And as the Barth and Air yield them Deities, fo the Sea yields them cereain Fishes whom they canonize; upon this Account they never take the Tunny Fish; the Swordfill they eat, but drie the Sword on his Back, which is held in great Veneration: Yea, the Mountains are not without Honour, and if they did not pacifie their Anger by fetting daily Prefents of Meat and Drink thereon, Brows, and as their high Tops threaten to scale Heaven, would overwhelm the Earth, and destroy them all.

Neither has Nature alone this Privilege, but Art likewise is concerned in making Gods, composed sometimes of filthy Things, as of a piece of putrified Earth anointed with Suet, Greafe and Oil of Palms, with five or fix Parrot Feathers upright in the Middle, to which Morning and Night they pay their Devotions; when it Thunders, Rains hard, or the Wind blows strong, there is not one to be feen in the Streets, they crying, The Gods of the Whites are angry. The Devil is so dreadful to them, they tremble at naming him, and fay he beats them, and makes them do evil Things for their Fetisso, which every one carries about him, some are only the Ends of Horns filled with Dung, others as the Heads of some Creatures, and the like; which their Priests sell them at their own Price, and pretend they found them under the Fetiche Tree. When any one dies, they make a new Fet Jo, or Ring of Straw, and conjure it to keep company, and proect the dead in their Journey to the other World; they lay the Corps on a Matt upon the Ground, wrapt in Woollen, with a Stool covered with a Goat Skin inder the Head, the Body is then strowed with Ashes, he Arms laid by its Side, and the Eyes opened; this continues half a Day, the best beloved Wife sitting y the Husband (as the Husband doth by his first Wife) rying Aury, and wiping her Face with a Wisp of traw; other Women go round the House and Corps, inging and beating on Basons; the Eldest Morini or sentleman goes from House to House with a Bason, nto which every one puts the Value of twelve Pence Gold; with this they buy a Cow, with whose look the Fetissero or Priest appealeth the Fetiss. The riends and Kindred affembling, prepare a Hen, and ien seating themselves in a Corner of the dead Man's

House,

House, they place all his Fetissoes or Gods on a Row, the greatest in the midst, adorning them with Garlands of Pease and Beans, and then sprinkle them with the Blood of the Hen, and hang a Chain, or Garland of Herbs about their Necks; after this the Hen being boiled, the Women fet in the midst of his Fetissoes, and the Priest taking Water into his Mouth, amidst his Charms, spits it out on the Fetifies, and plucking the Herbs from his Neck, he makes a Ball of them, wherewith he besmears his Face; which Ball hereby is made a Fetissoe, and the Party deceased is now at Rest.

In the mean time the dearest of his Wives fills all the House with Mourning, the Neighbours and Friends assisting with Songs and Dances; at length they take up the Corps and carry it to the Grave, which is about four Foot deep, and covered with Stakes that nothing may fall therein; the Women come about the Sepulchre, and expostulate thus with him in a pitiful and lamenting Voice, Alas! why didft thou dye? Thou hadft fo much Wheat, so much Maiz, thou wast beloved of thy Family, and they had great care of thy Person, why wouldst thou dye? What have we deserved, wherein have we offended thee, what Discontent have we ever given thee, to oblige thee to leave us? If he be a Man, they add; Thou wert so valiant, so generous, thou hast overthrown so many Enemies, thou hast behaved thy self gallantly in so many Fights, who shall now defend us from our Adverfaries? Wherefore then would thou die? Others cry, He is dead, that brave Huntsman, that excellent Fisherman, that valiant Warrior, that great Destroyer of Portugals, that generous Defender of our Countrey, he is departed this World. Then they throw on a little Earth, but none can get into the Corps, for he hath with him his Houshold stuff, Armour, and whatsoever he used in his Life-time, and Wine too, if he loved it, to drink in the other World. Lastly, they cover the Sepuichre with a Roof, to defend all from Rain: If the King dies, greater Solemnity is used, yea, his Nobles thinking

ing so great a Personage ought to have Attendants, one offers to him a Servant, another a Wife, a third his Son or Daughter, even many of both Sexes to wait upon him, all whom are suddenly slain, and their bloody Carcaffes buried with him; yea, the King's Wives that loved him best, refuse not this last and everlasting Service, but are willing to die, that they may again live with him. The Heads of the Slain are fet upon Poles round about the Sepulchre; Meat, Drink, Cloaths, Arms, and other Utenfils, are buried with them; after the Funeral, they go to the Sea, and there use other Ceremonies, some washing, while others play on Basons and Instruments, where the Widow or Widower is laid backward on the Water, with divers Words of Complaint; at last they return back to the dead Man's House, where they drink themselves drunk, and wash away all further Sorrow. on he prefents to the

IV. Dickeys Cove.

HIS Fort hath ten Guns, very good Saker, and Minion It lies on the Southern Part of Guinea, and hath four Palankers strongly built of Lime and Scone; with a Garrison of thirty white Men, pesiles Blacks and Mulattoes. There is a Place called Cape Miserado by the Portugals, either because it is encompassed with Rocks that lie under Water, and would nevitably destroy any Vessel which should come nearer than half a League, or because the French who were formerly massacred here, cried out Misericorde, disericorde, Mercy, Mercy; besides, the Natives of this lace being very cruel, they have denominated the liver, and called it Duro, as being hard and faral to he Europeans. The Government of this Countrey is bfolute and unlimited Monarchy; fo that the King s the only and sole Judge in all Causes; and though e admit his Counsellors sometimes to give their Opiions, yet he follows his own fingle resolved Determinations;

minations; this absolute Power makes him-jealous of his Honour, of which he will not endure the least Diminution; his highest Pomp consists in sitting upon a Shield, whereby he signifies that he is the Protection and Defence of his Country, and the Manager of all Wars, pacifying civil Insurrections, and other weighty Matters belonging to him alone; his Title is Dondagh, which is as much as Monarch. When any Nobleman is disobedient, and will not appear upon Summons, he sends this Koredo or Shield, as if he would upbraidingly say, Be thou Lord thy felf, and bear the Burden of the Country. This peremptory Command by the Shield is fent by two Drummers, who when they come near the Offender's Habitation begin to beat their Drums, and so continue without ceafing till they have delivered the Shield, upon receipt whereof, he must speed to the Court without delay, carrying the Shield with him, which he presents to the King, begging Forgiveness for his Miscarriages, and fo taking up the Earth before the King, humbles himfelf.

Those that address to the King for any Favour, make their Way with presents of Ribbons, Elephants Teeth, or fuch Things, which he must deliver at the House of the King's chiefest Wife, who carries it to the King, requesting that the Person may be admitted into his Presence: If the King accept it, the Person hath leave to enter; otherwise if any Complaints be brought against him, he fends it back, yet so as the Presenter dares not receive and carry it away, but continues his Suits by Friends without Intermission; by whose frequent and trenewed Mediations, the King at last feeming a little pacified, remits his Severity, takes the Prefent, and calls for the Suppliant, who entring the Royal Presence, goes bowing all along toward the King, who fits on the Ground upon a Matt, leaning on a Stool, when he approaches within two Steps, he bows himself to the Earth, kneeling upon one Knee, with with his right Elbow on the Ground, and names the ing's Title, Dondagh, whereupon the King if pleased nswers, Namady, I thank you; if not he sits silent. If be a Person of Quality and his Subject, the King peraps causes a Mat to be spread on the Ground, upon hich sitting at some distance, he moves his Request; at if a Foreigner, who comes only to falute the King, is conducted to him without any further Ceremony, id receives an immediate dispatch: If the Person have ny Proposition, Petition, or Complaint to make, an terpreter is called, who coming with his Bow in s Hand, opens the whole Matter to the King, Sennce by Sentence, whereto according to the quality the Affair he receives an Answer, with Promise, if on Complaint; that when he had heard the other Parhe will forthwith give Judgment according to Right. If any Man come to thank the King for doing exemry Justice in a difficult Cause, after his Presents reved, he divests himself of all his Cloaths and Orments, saving a little Cloth to cover his Virilities, i so casts himself backward upon the Ground, and inntly turning again, rifes upon one Knee, takes up th with his Hand, and lays it upon his Head, then ning with one Elbow upon the Earth, he fays three es Dondagh, whoreupon the King answers sometimes mady, I thank you, and sometimes otherwise, as he iks fit: The first Address is usually performed in own House, in the Presence of his chiefest Wife; fuch as concern Justice, or the State of the Counhe hears in the Council House, in the Presence nis Lords. When some eminent Person sent from eighbour-King, desires Audience, one of the King's res goes with a Present, and tells him who sent it, reupon the Person appears before the King and takes Barth.

Vhen an Embassador sent from another Great Prince oaches the Borders, he gives notice of his coming; reupon he is ordered to remain in the next Town till

till all be made ready which is requifite in the King Town. There he' is received with great Triumph: which confift in excercifing with Bows, Arrows, Lar ces and Shields, as if they were fighting against End mies, with great Drummings and Songs of War; th Sport ended, the King retires to the Council-House where after a little stay, inquiry is made if the Kin may be saluted; having Permission, the Ambassado enters, and kneeling down with his Back to the King and his Bow in his Hand bent to the utmost, he alle fively implies, that he will fet himfelf to the utmo against his Enemies: Mean time the Ambassador's Fo lowers chant forth his Praises, as before the King's Se vants fung Elogiums to his Honour. These Encom ums they always begin with Polo, Polo Sammach, an then add, His Handy-work is not to be equalled by anoth Man, and then, I will flick as close as Pitch to him the opposes me. The Council-House is open on all Sides, wit great Attendance round about, where he receives th first Address; after which the Ambassador desires leav to relate his Embassy, but is put off till the next Da so retiring, he diverts himself till the appointed Tim in Feasts and Recreations. The Ambassador receiv an Answer by the King's directions from an Interpr ter, and then is shewed the Apartment for him and h Retinue, where the King's Slaves bring them Water wash, and the King's Women being neatly drest, Dishes set on their Heads, bring Rice and Flesh, aft which the King sends for his Welcome, Wine and ther Presents, as a Kettle, Bason, or the like. If ny European Merchant bring the King a Present, he invited to eat with him, but with no Black of wh Quality soever will he eat out of the same Dish, b fends their Meat to them by his Women.

Once a Year he makes a great Feast for the Conmon People, buying up for that Purpose all the Pali Wine, and Herds of Cattle, the Heads of which a painted and hung up in the King's Chamber, in Tel mo iony of his Bounty: He inviteth also his Neighbour lings, Captains and Gentlemen, and then prays and crifices to his Fetisso, which is the highest Tree in the own. The King comes little abroad; Morning and vening his Slaves blow Trumpets, made of Elenants Teeth, while his Wives anoint and wash his ody: He sits in State, holding in his Hand the ail of an Horse, to drive away Flies, adorned with ings of Gold on his Arms, Neck and Legs, and Co-I Beads, wherewith he fets off his Beard. The ing's Children must maintain themselves when of ge, the People not liking to maintain them idle; e King only bestows on them a Marriage-Gift and Slave; when he dies, his Eldest Brother succeeds the Throne, and enjoys his Rice, Fields, Slaves d Women. These People believe that the Almighwhom they call Kanuo, will punish all their Miseds, and reward well doers, and therefore when pressed, call for his Aid to do them Justice, continuly inculcating, That there shall a Time come, when all Men shall receive their deserts. They imagine that their iends after Death become Spirits, whom they call unnanen, and know all Transactions here below, ith whom therefore they hold familiar Colloquies, quainting them with all their Troubles and Adveries: When they go into the Woods to hunt Eleants, Buffles, or upon any other dangerous Enterze, they go first and offer to the Spirit of their deised Parents, either a Cow, Wine or Rice, which ey leave on the Grave; they suppose them to reside the Woods, to whom they address themselves with eat Complaints and Lamentations when in Affliction; iere likewise their most solemn Acts of Devotionperformed, where no Women nor Children are mitted to come; the King calls upon the Souls of Father and Mother in every Difficulty.

If a Woman be suspected of Adultery, the comining Husband desires she may be delivered up to gannanen, or the Spirits of his Ancestors, and bring her in the Evening before the Council, where calling the Spirits to her, she is blindfolded, admonished to forfake her evil Life, and not to go to any but he own Husband, and presently a great Noise or Murmu is raised, as if Spirits did appear, with some unintel ligible (though articulate) Sounds, which are inter preted aloud to the whole Congregation, with Threat nings, that if ever she commit the like Offence again The shall be punished according to her Demerits, and with her Paramour, be carried away by Jannanen, to whom yet none are delivered, but upon clear Evidence of their Guilt; to which end they have a Water o Curfing, or Divination, wherewith they extort the Truth in all doubtful Matters, compounded of Bark and Herbs boiled together, which when it is enough the Priest repeats secretly the Names of the suspected Persons, or other Matters to which the Witchcrast mus be applied, and then washes the Legs and Arms o those accused with fair Water; after this he puts hi Divining Staff, which is bruised and tufted at the End into the Pot, and drops, or presseth the Water out of it upon the Arm or Leg of the suspected Person, mut tering these Words over it, If he be guilty of this o that, then let this Water scald or burn him till the ver Skin come off. If the Party remain unhurt, they judg him Innocent, and proceed to the Trial of another, til they have discovered the Criminal, who being found the Executioner instantly leads him bound and blind fold into a Field or Wood, and placing him on hi Knees with his Head bowed down, he first runs his through the Body with a Scymetar, and then chor off his Head with an Ax, for they do not believe h is dead till his Head is off; the Carcass cut into for Quarters, after great Lamentations, they leave in th Field as a prey to the Beafts and Fowls, but the Frience take away the Head as a great Present, and boiling in a Kettle, drink up the Broth, hanging the Scull b the heir Fetisso or Idol. The like Trial is made of other of other of other of the samong the Blacks, so that every one had need be very careful to prevent Suspicion.

V. Commenda.

HIS Fort is four Square, strongly built of Stone: It hath 20 Guns, and 80 Europeans to lefend it, with many Negroes and Mulattoes.

Some time since Mendino the King of Monou died, whose Subjects and Favourites made strick Inquiry acfording to Custom, how he came by his End, but he narrowest of their Scrutinies not being able to nake any Discovery, they were forced to acquiesce, ret had such an inveterate hatred against Manimassab, is Brother, that they forced him to the Trial, which eeing no other Remedy, he underwent without any urt, as a remarkable Sign of his Innocence; wherespon he demanded to be restored to his former Honour and Credit, but instead thereof, the Tryers old him, The King in his Life time was our Common Pather, and fould not we after his Death endeavour to ind out what caused him to die, it were a great shame for us; we have examined and tried you, but it shall not emain so, we will lock farther into the Business, and nake the Southsayers acquainted with it; Manimassah, nad at these inhuman Usages, burst forth at last into bese Words; This same is not to be suffered from mine own subjects in my own Country, I will go under the Conduct f the Sptrits of my deceased Friends, and seek a Dwelling Place. In this manner leaving his Native Country, ie travelled into Gala, inhabited by a mean and simple People, and won so upon them by his endearing Behariour, that they unanimously befought him to be their Prince; to which he consented upon Condition, That they sould give bim some of their Plants and Venison for an Acknowledgment of their Subjection. This they rielded to, but such was their brutish Barbarism, that though B 3

30 The English Forts and Factories

though they owned him their Lord, they used him a their Companion, for being wholly unacquainted with Civility, when any of them brought him Wine, Ric or Flesh, they came again to him to require their Col libashes or Baskets, which unmannerly clownish Be haviour Manimassab so resented, that he withdrev from them, to require Affistance from Flanfire King o Felgia, whose Daughter he had married, to reduce the Galas to his Authority.

The King hearing the Request of his Son-in-Law lent him many Soldiers, under the Conduct of Floni kerry his General, who unexpectedly fell into Gala and subdued the People, settling Manimassab in an ab solute Dominion, who hath ever since continued their Prince, and taught them with Sorrow more respective Qualities; after this, Flonikerry returned to Folgia where he was received and welcomed with great Ap plause; and the King, willing to gratify him for his honest Performances, he according to Flonikerry's Petition, gave him leave to go and conquer, and fettle himself and his People in Caba Monte an adjacent Country, expressing his Kindness in saying, I shall do the desire of bis Heart. He with a considerable Force marching toward this Place, the Inhabitants being numerous and couragious, were not foon subdued, but at length tired with the continual Onsets of their Enemies, who shot poysoned Arrows, which made all Wounds though never so slight prove mortal, a fatal Invention unknown to these People, they went with their Hoods upon their Heads as usual to ask Favour, which Flonikerry, naturally inclined to Pity, easily granted, bidding them go lie down with their Faces upon the Ground, then coming out of his Fort he trod upon them with his Feet : he then made an Agreement with them, some Hens being killed in the Presence of them all, of whose Blood the Conquered swallowed a little, as a Token of Friendship. Afterward the Hens were boiled, and the Flesh eaten among them, only on the Coast of Guinea.

r if any Man after that time broke his Promise, to m were the Legs shown, who upon sight thereof on recanted for sear of the Punishment that would Flonikerry overjoyed at his Success; for assuring his ew Dominion, sought to win the Minds of the Vanuished to him, and to contract a firm League with ne Lords of his own Country. But scarce were the linds of the Nobility united, when Miminique, Son Manimassab, with a great Army of Gala's and thers, made War upon him, of whose Design his ather was not ignorant, having forgot the Kindness eceived from Flonikerry's Arms, in fetting him in his ew acquired Dominions. Flonikerry drew together is Forces, to whom the Nobles joining theirs, he ormed a confiderable Army; wherewith marching tovard the Enemy, they came to a Battle, wherein by he Multitude of their Enemies, they were at first put o a disorderly Retreat, which Flonikerry who was of n undaunted Spirit perceiving, digged with his Hand Hole in the Ground, and put his Knees in it, with Resolution either to die there, or to remain Conqueor; so after a long and sharp Contest, being even covered with Arrows, he was flain on the Spot. However his Men, to revenge their Prince's Death, rallied and gave a fresh Charge with such Fury, that they urned the Fortune of the Day, and became fole Maters of the Field.

The Death of Plonikerry was kept secret till they sent for his Brother Zillimanque to take his Charge, who accepting the same, pursued the Victory, and drew near the Enemies Camp, which he soon surprized, and gave as a Spoil to his Soldiers; after which he marched farther, the People all along yielding Subjection without Blows, whereby they soon became Matters of the whole Country, and gained the Reputation of a mighty People; after which he was poisoned, as was thought, leaving behind him feveral Sons who were young, and not capable of managing their Pathers Conquests. However, Flansire his eldest Son was admitted Successor, during whose Minority his Unkle Jemmab undertook the Government, but Flanfire growing to Years, took the Royal Authority into his own Hands, and to shew that he inherited as well his Father's Valour as Countries, resolves to inlarge his Bounds yet farther, and to that End marcht with his Forces over the River Galinas or Hens, taking all the adjacent Places as far as Sierra Leona, and placing Garrisons therein; having settled his new Conquests, he returned to his own Native Principality, where he spent a good Part of his Life in Peace and Quietness, when on a sudden there came News from Sierra Leona, that Kandaqualla his Governor was driven out thence, and forced to fly with all his People to the Islands of Bannaneo, not being able to withstand Falma of Dogo, who with a mighty Force invaded them; Flanfire startled at this Intelligence, and knowing nothing more necessary than Expedition, sent to the Lords his Substitutes, to raise an Army, and meet him at an appointed Randezvouz; but they having made a private Confederacy with Gamina, their Master Flansire's Brother, neglected and slighted his Commands. Flanfire ignorant of this Combination, leaving the Government of his Kingdom, Wives and Children to his treacherous Brother Gamina, marched with his eldest Son Flambore, the present King of Quoia, not doubting the Fidelity of his Provincials: He went first by Land to the River of Hens, and from thence in Canoos to the Isles of Bananes, to take with him his People who were driven from Sierra Leona, and fo bringing them back thither, he began a sharp War with Falma.

B 4

This Falma had been formerly in great Favour with the King of Dogo, or Hondo, but having debauched one of his Wives, the King was so offended, that not content it should as usual, be bought off with Gifts or slaves, he causes his Ears to be cut off, and banished aim his Presence; but length of time so wore out the King's Fury, that Falme was again admitted to Court, where he foon began to shew his Insolence, and at ength addrest the King in these Terms: Sir King, Conidering the Wickedness committed against you my Lord and Master, I am obliged to thank you for your gracious Sentence by which I am punished, whereby every one that looks upon me, derides and scorns me, and the rather because the Punishment is unusual, and the like Offence customarily bought off with Goods and Slaves: Now as you were ileased to punish me, so I desire the like Offence in others may be punished in the same Manner. It may happen that some of the King's Servants or Subjects may fall nto the same elapse, but if this Sentence be either denied, r not performed, I shall complain against my Lord the King, in the Ways and in the Woods, to the Jannanen and Belli, (that is, to all the Spirits and Demons). The King having heard this audacious Speech, notwithstanding this seeming Threat determined that the Punishment inflicted on him should not follow upon all :: But yet to pacifie him, he made him General of an Army to recover Sierra Leona out of the hands of Kandaqualla, who presided there for Flansire.

Slaves,

To repel this Invader, Flanfire (as we faid) coming to Sierra Leona with an Army, and making sharp War, at length by the help of some Europeans, he fell upon the Town of Falmahah, and with Axes cutting down the Tree-Wall, at last they forced an Entrance, and set the Houses on Fire, whose Fury soon encreased to an Impossibility of being quenched, whereupon Falma unable to resist, sled, whom young Flambora pursued, and though he mist him, yet got great Reputation, the People stiling him. The Pursuer of Falma. Flansire having conquered those Countries, and settled Kandaqualla, retreated with his Forces, intending to return to his Wise and Children; but on the Way he had notice, that his Brother Gamina had usurped his Kingdom, killed all his Sons he could meet with, taking his Wives for-himself, and had set up his Residence at a convenien Place near the River of Hens, to intercept and hinde his Brother's approach; this Rebellion of his Brother was attended with the Invalion of Manou, who dwell near Cape Miserado. They fell into his Country at Cap de Monto, where they burnt the Town, and led awa all they met with for Slaves. Flansire understandin these Mischiefs, marched toward the River Maqual bery with all speed, complaining to the Kanou and Fan names (that is, to God and the Angels) of his Distret in these Words, To you it is known, that my Father lef rightful Heir to his Kingdom, which falls to me by th Laws of the Land, seeing I was the Eldest: You likewis know that my Brother hath rebelled against me, and hat fet himself up to be Lord ; be you Judges hetween hin and me in this intended Fight, and if the Cause be unjus that be manages against me, let the Mischief fall upon bu own Head.

BS

Then he passed with all his Soldiers over the River where the Armies met, and his Brother with grea numbers of Men being slain, he obtained a complea Victory, but still kept the Field, to be ready against other appearing Rebels, his Son Flambore went with Squadron of Soldiers into the Woods to hunt Cive Cats, and being by his Sports got far into them, they discovered some of the Rebels busy in burying the dead Body of Camana the Usurper, who perceiving Flambore and his Followers, fled, imagining he had come to fearch them out, and left the Corps with three Slaves in Chains, whom they intended to hav dispatched at his Grave: Being by this Means assu red of Gamana's Death, when they least expected it they brought the three Slaves to Flansire, who ha ving understood how all Things stood in the Country, he fent them to their Fellow Rebels, to admonish them to come and ask his Pardon, and that he would forget their Misdeeds; which wrought the desired Effect, for the Rebels submitted, and received their Pardon, King Flanfire then marched to Cape Mife ndo, and reducing Monou, with great Slaughter and poil of the Country, retired home with his Forces. Jonou made a new Insurrection to revenge the Losses Falma, but was again totally subdued by Flansire's eople.

VI. Cape Coast Castle.

HIS Castle is a strong regular Fortification, consisting in four Bulwarks, seventy Guns, nd two hundred and fifty Men.

In the Principality of Anten near Tekorari, the Holinders built a Fort, which in 1664, was attacked y Sir Robert Holms in behalf of the Royal African Company, with 2 of the King's Men of War, fix Friats, and some other Ships, and by them with no great ifficulty won, but regained the next Year by Adniral De Ruyter, being at that time manned with ony four or five in health, and as many fick English-mer. laving in it feven Iron Guns, and fix or eight Pouners. Upon the retaking, the Guns being drawn off o the Ship, De Ruyter caused it, as not being tenaole, without many People and great Charges, to be plown up into the Air, and totally dismantled. In he mean time the Negroes of the Mine, plundered he Village of Tekerari, and laid it waste with Fire and Sword, out of Malice to the Blacks of that Place, exercifing great Cruelty upon the Prisoners, cutting off their Heads, wherewith they went dancing and eaping up and down, and at last carried them home n token of Victory; they were well armed accordng to the Country Fashion, some having Caps like Helmets, adorned with Feathers, and Horns of Beafts, and a Sword hanging on their Bellies, whereon intead of Handles, they put the Bones of Lions, Tygers, and other Beafts; their Faces are generally painted with Red and Yellow, which make a terrible fight? In the Kingdom of Fetu, the Hollanders have a Fort called Cape Corfo, strengthened with great Guns, and nanned with a strong Garrison of Slaves; but in-1664

36 The English Forts and Factories

1664, this with the Forts of Tekorari afore mentioned, Aaia, and Anemabo, were taken by Sir Robert Holms, for the Royal African Company, but when De Ruyter in 1665, with the Dutch Fleet, had forced the Englifb Fort Cormantyn, he spared neither diligence nor cost to regain Cape Corfo, then in the English Possession, and the rather because John Valkenberge, the Dutch Commander there, judged it dangerous that any Place in that Country should be left in the Hands of the English, alledging, that if during the Wars in Europe they were expelled thence, by confequence they might easily be kept out, whereas by the holding of this Place they had an Opportunity to fettle their Jurisdiction in the Country again, and in defiance of their Power might defend it against them: But finding the Natives fided with the Englift, threatning Fire and Sword, having also possessed themselves of a place where a Hundred Men might beat off a Thousand, it was judged not sensible, without great Danger, and the Design was laid aside.

VII. Fort Royal.

HIS Fort was demolished by the War, and is now repaired. It is very strong, all built of Stone, with sixteen Guns, and forty White Men, be-sides Blacks and Mulattoes.

In the Kingdom of Fantyn, the chief Town upon the Sea Coasts called Cormantyn, is the principal Place of Trade, situated upon a high Mountain; it is the most delightful Prospect upon the whole Coast. In 1665, Feb. 8. Birmantyn was attacked by the Dutch, the Manner thus: The Holland Fleet coming to Anchor Feb. 6. Westward of Cormantyn, the next Day they got four or five Hundred Canoos, with Negroes from the Castle Del Myne, with which well manned they departed from the Fleet, intending to land at Anemabo, but were upon their approach saluted by the Negroes of Cormantyn, who lay hehind the Clifts and Bushes, with Muskets, and Canon playing from the Fort, with such Fury that they were forced to retreat. This Enterprize was twice attempted, upon hopes of having the Negroes fide with them, but with out Success; however they came at last to a more strict Alliance with the Negroes, who for the fecurity of their Faith delivered feveral Hostages into their Hands; and the Design was to be executed with the first Opportunity; having pitcht upon a Time, at Night a Negroe called Antonio, came in a Canoo fent by the Inhabitants of Fantyn, declaring that the People about Anemabo and Adja could not be ready at the appointed Hour, but in the Morning they would not fail of their promised Assistance, adding, that early in the Morning, at the new cast up Fort of Adja, the Prince of Orange's Flag should be set up, upon which Sign the Dutch might Land with their whole Force. This concluded, the chief Commanders of the Fleet resolved the following Morning to make the Onfet, yet beforehand fent a Letter to the English Commander in Chief, requiring the Surrender of the Fort without Opposition: Accordingly at eight a Clock in the Morning, the Prince's Flag being raifed upon the new erected Fort of Adja, they launched through with much hazard near the fame Fort, and marched in order along the Shore with three Thousand Negroes, every one with a Linnen Cloth about his Neck to distinguish them from other Blacks, and came about Noon to Agemabo, drawing forth about a Musket shot Westward of Cormantyn, to a Hill planted with three Pieces of Ordnance, where they found frout Oppolition; but at length overpowered they fled, and then the Hollanders entred the Town, and fet it on Fire, the Flame and Smoke whereof fuddenly furprized the Garrison in the Castle, insomuch that as soon as they faw the Soldiers with scaling Ladders, hand Granadoes, and other Utenfils of War, under their Walts, they they took down the Red Flag from the Tower, and immediately as it were without a Stroke delivered it up. In this Castle were Soldiers out of the Castle of Myne, instantly put to secure it. To the subduing this Fort, the Hollanders were not a little animated by the Promise of Assistance from the Natives of Fantyn, which they purchased of them as we hinted before, for fifty two Bars of Gold, to the Value of two thousand five hundred Pounds English Money.

38 The English Forts and Factories

VIII. Annemabo.

HIS is a strong Fort built with Brick and Stone; the Walls are twenty four Foot high, it hath fourteen Guns, and thirty white Men, besides Natives, to guard it. This Fort lies half a Mile West from Cormaniyn, one half whereof is inhabited by the Fishermen of the Myne, and the other by those of Fanin; at Cannon shot distance, West from this, lies Adja, where the Dutch had a Fort taken by the English in 1664, and by them kept till the Attempt upon Cormantyn, when they blew it up with Gunpowder by Stratagem, for having laid an heap of Earth at the Myne, they intended when any came thereon with hopes of Plunder, to have blown them up by springing the Mine, but little harm was done; however the English in the mean time left the Place, and retreated to Cormantyn. Between Adja and Annemabo, lies a Town called Janasia, where the English have a Fort. The principal Places of Trade lying near the Sea, and frequented by the Whites, are Cormantyn and Ademabo, the former having been the chief Place of the English upon this Coast for some Years, where they got the best fort of Goods, and enjoyed most Friendship; for the support whereof, they built that Fort planted with forty two Pieces of Ordnance, and fortified with four Bulwarks. The King keeps his Residence in the Town of Fantyn, and extends his Jurisdiction about ten or twelve twelve Miles round, being able in time of War to bring eight or ten thousand Men into the Field.

IX. Winnebah.

HIS is is a regular Fortification strongly built of Stone. It hath 18 Guns, and 50 Europeans, besides Slaves, to defend it.

These Countries produce variety of Creatures, and among others, Tygers and Leopards, who bear great Enmity to each other, though generally the Tyger is the Conqueror, therefore when the Leopard is purfued by the Tyger, he with his Tail wipes out his Footsteps, that so he may not be traced. Some of the Ancients knowing the fierceness of the Tyger, attributed to him the Command of the Woods, but in these Parts, because he hurts no Man but only Beasts, they make the Leopard King of the Forest, for which ravening Temper they are hunted and killed by all Men, even for their own safety. When a Leopard is killed, they bring him dead to the King's Town, there to be cut up and eaten, being flea'd they present his Skin and Teeth to the King, and the People afsembled, eat the Flesh boiled as a Dainty, spending the remainder of the Day in Revelling and Dancing, as at their most solemn Festivals. There is likewife a monstrous Creature, which the Portugals call Salvage, that is, a Satyr; it hath a great Head, a heavy Body, fleshy and strong Arms, no Tail, and goes sometimes upright, and otherwhile upon all four like an Ape. The Blacks affirm it is of Human Race, but by the alteration and change of the Woods and Wilderness it is become half a Beast, they sustain themfelves in the Woods with Fruit and wild Honey, which they get out of Trees, and as they are numerous, so upon meeting they fight continually with each other. The Negroes relate strange Things of them, and aver for certain, that they not only overpower feeble feeble Women and Virgins, but dare also set upon armed Men. There is another strange Beast like a Crocodile, six or seven Foot long, very slender, the Tongue of an extraordinary Length; it is a Beast of Prey, and very strong, close set with gaudy Quills over the whole Body, wherewith it offends Men, and defends it self against other Creatures, for when the Leopard attempts to seize it, it converts into a round Ball, setting up the Points of its Quills, that no hold can be fixed, their Food is generally Pismires, which with their Tongues they lick up at a great distance.

Both on the Sea Coasts, and the upland Country, many Civet Cats are found; it more refembles a Wolf than a Gat, for it hath a long Head, small Nose, flat Mouth, and short Ears, Teeth like a Dog, the Body part white, part ashcolour'd, speckled with black Spots, the Legs and Feet of a middle Size, with black Hairs, having four Claws forward and one backward, with black short flat Nails, the Tail long, and Bushy, and speckled, hanging to the Ground; the Civet lies between the Privities and the Cods, and is taken from thence with a Spoon. The Giraffa or Camelopard, is a Beast not often seen, yet very tame, strangely compounded of a Libard, Hart, Buffle, and a Camel, and by reason of his long Legs before and shorter behind, is not able to graze without difficulty, but with his high Head, which he can stretch forth half a Pike's length in height, feeds on the Leaves and Boughs of Trees. The Camels in Africa are more hardy than in other Places, and will not only carry great Burthens, but travel fifty Days together without any Corn, only turn them out at Night to feed on Thistles, Boughs, and the like, and no less patient are they of Thirst, being able to endure fifteen Days without Drink. The Lions in cold Places are gentler, in hotter more fierce, and will not fly the approach of two hundred armed Horse42. The English Forts and Factories

Horsemen; in time of their coupling, eight or ten will follow one Female, with bloody Battles among themselves: They report that Lions spare those who kneel to them, and prey rather on Men than Women, and not at all on Infants, unless compelled by Hunger. The Africans believe he hath Understanding, and tell of a Getulian Woman, who lying at the Mercy of a Lion, befought him, that being so noble a Beast, he would not dishonour himself with so ignoble a Prey as a weak Woman, whereupon he went away and left her: His Tail feems to be his Scepter, whereby he expresseth his Passion; he shrinks at no Danger, unless the Covert of the Woods throud him from Witnesses, and then he will take the Benefit of Flight, which otherwise he seems to disdain. Menta, a Man of Syracuse, was encounter'd with a Lion, who instead of rending, fawned upon him, and with his dumb Eloquence seemed to implore his Aid, shewing his Foot, wherein Mentor perceived a Thorn to flick, which he pluck'd out. The like is reported by Gellius, of a fugitive Servant, who having performed the same kind Office to a Lion, was by him gratified for a long time, by giving him a daily Portion of his Prey: It happened afterward that this Man was taken, and presented to his Master, a Roman Senator, who exhibited Games to the People, wherein Slaves and condemned Persons were exposed to the Fury of Beafts, among whom he put this Servant, and by a wonderful Face this Lion was foon after taken, and brought to execute these horrid Spectacles. The Beafts running with violence to their bloody Encounter, suddainly this Lion stay'd, and taking a strict view of him fawn'd upon his Guest, and defended him from the Assaults of the other Peasts, whereupon at the Peoples Intercession, who understood the Passages from him, he was freed, and the Lion given him, who followed him with a String through the Streets, the Spectators crying, This is the

Man

Man who was the Lion's Physician: This is the Lion, who was this Man's Hoft.

The Hyana, is another strange Beast, which some have thought to be Male one Year, and Female another, it hath no Joint in the Neck, and fo stirs not his Head, but the whole Body at once; he is faid to imitate the Voice of Men, and having heard the Name of some of the Shepherds, will call him, and when he comes devour him: They fay his Eyes are of various Colours, and that his Shadow prevents the barking of a Dog: By ingendring with this Beaft, the Lioness brings forth a Corcuta of like Qualities with the Hyana, he hath one continued Tooth without division throughout his Mouth. The Lybard is not hurtful to Men, except they disturb him. The Dabu is said to be a soolish Creature, in shape like a Wolf, only his Legs and Feet are like a Man's; they that know his haunts, fing and fiddle before his Den, his Ears being fo captivated with the Mulick, that he is not aware his Legs are captivated with a Rope, whereby he is taken. The Zebra exceeds all Creatures in Beauty, refembling a fine Horse, but not so swift, with curious Party colours from Head to Tail, they live in great Herds, and when one is shot, the rest stand still, gazing till they fee three or four fall down before them.

The Rivers breed Water Elephants, as big as a large Horfe, but much thicker and rounder, feeming as if they were blown up; likewife Sea-Cats, and other monstrous Creatures. There are Fowls of divers kinds, as Eagles, Parrots, Cranes, and a Bird like a Thrush, by whose chirping they guess at their good or ill Fortune in their Journey. Crocodiles are so large that they will swallow an Ox whole; but above all the monstrous Serpents are remarkable, among which the most poisonous are of a Grass-green: Some are so curiously spotted with lively Colours as are scarce to be found in any other Creatures. The King of Benin, whom the Inabitants call King of Serbents, keeps commonly one in his Arms, which he strokes and fosters as it were a young Child, and so highly esteems, that none dare hurt it. The Negroes roast and eat some of them as great Dainties. Africa hath been famous in all Ages for prodigious Serpents and Monsters. One called Minia is so large, that it can fwallow a whole Deer without chewing, devouring Boars and other Beasts. It lurks for Prey within some Bush, which coming within reach it suddenly seizes, winding two or three times about the Body and Loins, till it falls down and dies, of which being glutted, he lies not able to stir, till his gorged Paunch has digested his Meal: Of this kind was that which Attilius Regulus, the Roman Consul in the first Punick War at the River Bagrada encountred, and planted his Engines and Artillery against it, whose Skin fent to Rome, was in length one hundred and 20 Foot; the Scales defended it from Darts or Arrows, and with the Breath it killed many, and eat divers Soldiers, till at last with a Stone out of an Engine this Destroyer was destroyed. Hear how the elegant Lucan, as eloquently translated describes it, when Julius Cafar, in pursuit of Cato into Africa, came to the Place which was formerly the Habitation of this dreadful Serpent, and had this Account given him by an African.

King

A dismal Cave, in which no chearing Light At all e'er peep'd; but sad and doleful Night A squalid filth and mouldiness had made; from whence exhaled Steams and Fumes invade The upper Air. Whilst Casar in amaze, Doth nearly view the Horror of the Place, His longing Thoughts an African thereby, Taught by Tradition) thus doth satisfie.

This Den, O Cafar! which for many a Year Hath empty stood, and freed the Land from Fear, A monstrous Serpent, by Heaven's Vengeance bred The Plague of Africk, once uninhabited. The Earth a greater Monster never bear, Not Hydra might with this dire Snake compare, Nor though the Sun mighty Fithon flew, Did ere the Sun a greater Serpent view. The feveral Snakes that out of Africk's flime Are bred, might all have been in him combin'd, An hundred Feet in length was his Extent; When he upon this side the River went With his long Neck stretch'd out, what ere he spy'd With ease he seized from the other Side. With Lions here he filled his hungry Maw, That came to drink the Streams of Bagrada; And fiercest Tygers all besmear'd with Blood, Of Cattle sain, became themselves his Food.

When first the Roman Armies failing o'er, And threatning Carthage on the Africk Shore, Were led by Regulus, whose tragick Fall Sadly renown'd the Spartan General, Here then this hideous Monster did remain; The Army marching on you spacious Plain, Three Roman Soldiers by ill Fate drew near To quench their fiery Thirst i'th' the River here, And tempted by these shady Trees, to shun A while the scorching Fury of the Sun, Entring the Wood, down to the Stream they stoops And in their Helmets take the Water up, When fuddenly furpriz'd with chilling Fear, A horrid histing through the Air they hear, And from the Den the Serpent's Head appears, At once amazing both their Eyes and Ears. What should they do? For help they could not call, The Serpent's histing loud had filled all The

on the Coast of Guinea. The Wood; nor Strength nor Hearts had they to fight, Nor scarce did any hope appear by Flight, Nor could their trembling Hands the Helmets hold, When streight the Serpent from his scaly fold, Shot forth and feized one, who calling on His Fellows Names, in vain, was swallowed down, And buried in the Monster's hungry Maw. His horrid Destiny when the others faw, They leapt into the Stream to fave their Lives, But that alas to them no fafety gives. For forth his long twin'd Neck the Serpent stretch'd, And swimming Havens in the River reach'd Who though too late, he strived to be drown'd n Bagrada, a Fate more cruel found. Marus at last, while Havens Death did stay The Monster's speed, had time to scape away, and to the amazed General relates The Serpent's Greatness, and his Fellows Fates. But ere his faltring Tongue had fully told The tragick Story, they from far behold, The scaly Monster rouling on the Sands n spacious Windings. Regulus commands, The Army strait their Piles and Spears prepare 'o charge and march against it as a War, and ready all their Battering Engines make hat strongest Walls and Bulwarks us'd to shake; The Trumpets then as to a Battle found; Which Noise the Serpent hearing, from the Ground, Vhere he in spacious Rings infolded lay, loft his Head advances to survey he Champion round, and to their Eyes appears, arge as the Dragon 'twixt the Heavenly Bears; ire from his threatning Eyes like Lightning shot, nd hellish Blasts exhal'd from his wide Throat. Vhle he advanc'd, you would suppose from far Moving Castle made offensive War. nd shooting forth, he in a Moment Hew pon far distant Faces; at whose view The 48 The English Forts and Factories The startling Horses could no more be held By Bits, but snorting slew about the Field, Whilst this dread Serpent sad Massacres makes Amongst the Men; some 'twixt his Jaws he takes And crushes there; some into the Air he slings Who falling die; and while his spacious Rings He doth unfold with Fury sweeping round The Sand, he beats whole Cohorts to the Ground. The Army now gave Ground, and 'gain retire, When Noble Regulus inflam'd with Ire To see this shame, cries out, O stand the Field, To Africk Monsters Shall Rome's Virtue yield? If so, I fingly will the Combate try, And explating Rome's Distonour die. Then all alone devoid of Fear he goes, And his strong Pile against the Serpent throws With skilful Aim, whom not in vain he struck; In his rough Forehead the steel'd Javelin stuck. The hideous Monster, whose long Age before Had ne're felt Steel, sent out a yelling Rore, And darting forth impatient of the Wound, With his long Tail he lasht the suffering Ground. A Shout the Soldiers raise, encourag d now, And altogether storms of Javelins throw, Some harmless lighting on his scaly Back, Such Noise as Hail on tiled Houses make, Some pierce his Breast, and softer Belly wound, Those Parts alone they penetrable found, Black Gore from thence distains the swarthy Sands. At last two Javelins sent from lucky Hands, In both his fiery threatning Eyes did light, Depriving him, though not of Strength, of Sight; Whose yet blind Rage draws many a Ruin on, Until at last a huge and massy Stone, Shot from a Bulwark battering Engine stroke His bowed Back with fuch great Force, it broke That many jointed Bone, nor then could he Lift as before his speckled Crest on high; But nother Stone dasht out his poisonous Brain; ne Sands discolour'd with black Filth appear, nd that so lately seared Serpent, there retch'd out at length, his dismal Life expires, is vast Extent the General admires.

Some parts of Africa produce Dragons of vast Bulk, w Motion, and their Stinging incurable; some are d to be as big as a Ram, with Wings, long Tail, d divers Rows of Teeth in his Mouth, his Scales feem inted with Blue and Green, and hath two Feet, and ds upon raw Flesh; another Serpent hath a Runin his Tail like a Bell, that makes a Noiseas he goes e the Rattle-Snake. There are a Multitude of deadly pents in those Countries, as the Carestes, which hath ittle Coronet of four Horns, whereby he allureth Birds to him, hiding all but his Head in the ids, and then devoureth them: The Jaculi, so calbecause they dart from Trees on such Creatures as s by. The Amphisbena hathtwo Heads, which caufit to crawl found. The Scytale is admirable for iety of Colours. The Dipfas kills those she stings th Thirst. The Hypanale causeth them to sleep to ath, as happened to Cleopatra Queen of Egypt. The norhois makes them bleed to Death. The Prester asions them to swell till they burst; and not to fon you with more Names of venomous Creatures, Basilisk is said to kill with her sight or hissing, as en and Solinus affirm, it is not half a Foot long, ing on the Head three pointles like a Crown or 10p's Mitre, it blasteth the Ground, Herbs and Trees, so infecteth the Air, that Birds flying over fall vn dead, it affrights all other Serpents with the ng, going upright from the Belly; if it kill any ng, that is also venomous to such as touch it, only Teasel kills it; the Bergamena bought the Carcass me at an incredible Price, which they hung up 111 in their Temple (that was curiously painted by pelles) in a Net of Gold, to preserve it from Bir or Spiders; Lemnius affirms, that from an Egg laid an old Cock after he is past treading of Hens, is preduced a Basilisk or Cockatrice. The various kinds Serpents in Africa, and the tremendous effects of the upon Mankind, are described by Lucan, lib. 9. relating the March of Cato's Army over the burning Sands Lybia.

HE venomous Asp appears with swelling He: Which in no Serpent is compaded more. In scaly Folds the great Hemorrhus lies Whose bite from all parts draws the flowing Blood The Pareas whose Way his Tail doth guide The greedy Prestor too, distending wide His venom foaming Mouth. The Seps whose bite Consumes the Bones, dissolves the Body quite. The Ballisk, whose his all Snakes do scare, (Hurtful before the Venom touch) who far All vulgar Serpents from his Sight commands, Reigning alone upon the emptyed Sands. You Dragons too, glistring in golden Pride, Who hurtless wander in all Lands beside. You, Africk mortal Snakes; Aloft you fly, Through th' Air on Wings, and follow speedily The Herds; your strokes the mightiest Bulls destroy Great Elephant's scape you not; for you all kill, Nor need you Poyfons help to work your Will.

This thirsty Way among these venom'd Snakes, Cato amidst his hardy Soldiers takes, Where many losses of his Men he found, And Deaths unlook'd for, from a little Wound.

A trodden Dipsas turning back his Head, Did sting young Aulus Enlign-bearer bred Of Tyrrhene Race, no Grief no Pain ensu'd, His Wound no Pity sound, no Danger shew'd, on the Coast of Guinea. it yet alas, did fiery Venom deep to his Marrow and scorch'd Entrails creep, hich quite drunk up all Moisture that should flow to his vital Parts, his Palate now ad Tongue is scorch'd and dry, no sweat could go his tir'd Joints, from's Eyes no Tears could flow. s place, nor his fad General's Command ould stay this thirsty Man; out of his Hand throws his Ensign, Water runs to have, hich the dry Venom in his Heart did crave. hough he in midst of Tanais did lie, dus or Rhodanus, he would be dry, drink the Streams wherever Nilus flows. e Soil adds to his Drought, the Worm doth lofe s Venoms Fame help'd by so hot a Land. digs and feeks each Vein in all the Sand. w to the Syrts he goes, and in his Mouth t-water takes, which could not quench his Drought, though it pleased; he did not kno w what kind Death he dy'd, nor his Disease could find, thinks it Thirst, and now full fain he would open all his Veins, and drink his Blood. Cato commands them (loath his Men should stay, know what Thirst was) streight to march away, a more woful Death before his Eye pear'd; a Seps on poor Sabellus Thigh ng by the Teeth, which he streight with his Hands t off, and with his Pile nail'd to the Sands. ittle Snake, but none more full than she horrid Death, the Flesh falls off that night : Wound did grow; the Bones are bared rounda hout the Body naked shows the Wound; Shanks fall off, Matter each Member fills, Knees are bar'd, his Groin black filth distils, every Muscle of his Thighs dissolves, Skin that all his natural Parts involves, iking lets fall his Bowels, nor doth all t should remain of a dead Body fall, The

B

The English Forts and Factories The cruel Venom eating all the Parts, All to a little poysonous filth converts. The Poyson breaks his Nerves, his Ribs doth part, Opens his hollow Breast, there shews his Heart, His Vitals all, yea all that Man composes, And his whole Nature, this foul Death discloses. His Head, Neck, Shoulders, and strong Arms do flor In venomous filth; not fooner melts the Snow By hot South Winds, nor Wax against the Sun. This is but small I speak; burnt Bodies run, Melted by Fire in filth; but what fire ere Dissolv'd the Bones? No Bones of his appear, Following their putrid Juice, they leave no fign Of this swift Death; the Palm is only thine, Of all the Africk Snakes; the Soul take they, But thou alone the Carcass tak'st away.

But lo a Death quite contrary to it, Marsian Nosidius, an hot Praster bit, Whose Face and Cheeks a sudden Firedid rost, His Flesh and Skin was stretch'd, his Shape was le His swelling Body is distended far, Past human Growth, and undistinguish'd are His Limbs; all parts the Poyfon doth confound, And he lies hid in his own Body drown'd; Nor can his Armor keep his fwoln growth in, Not more doth boyling Water rise within A brazen Caldron, nor are Sails more swell'd With Western Winds; no Limbs he now can wei A Globe deform'd he is, an Heap confus'd, Which ravening Beafts did scare, which Birds refus To which his Friends durst do no Obsequy, Nor touch; but from the growing Carcass flie. These Serpents vet present more horrid sights, A fierce Hemorrhus noble Tullus bites, A brave young Man that studied Cato's worth, And as in pouncing of a Picture, forth Thro rough every hole the pressed Saffron goes, from his every part red Poyson flows r Blood; his Tears were Blood, from every Pore. here Nature vented Moisture heretofore, s Mouth, his Nose flows Blood, his Sweat is red, s running Veins, all Parts are bloodied, nd his whole Body's but one Wound become-An Aspes sharp sting did Levus Heart benum, Pain he felt; surpriz'd with sudden Sleepe dy'd descending to the Stygian deep. On an old Stump a dartlike Snake did lie, hich as from thence her felf she nimbly threw rough Paulus Head, and wounded Temples flew. was not the Poyfon brought his Fate, the Blow self caus'd Death; to her compared slow y Stones from Slings, and not so swift as she om Parthian Bows do winged Arrows flee. What helpt it wretched Murrhus that he did Il a fierce Basilisk; the Poyson Ilid ong his Spear, and fastned on his Hand, hich he cut off, and then did safely stand, ith that Hands loss, viewing securely there e sad Example of his Death so near, &c.

Ostriches in Africa keep in great Companies, and ear afar off like Troops of Horsemen, putting a iculous Terror into the Caravans of Merchants, it ms to be a foolish Bird that forgetteth her Nest, leaveth her Eggs for the Sun and Sand to hatch, eateth any Thing, even the hardest Iron, and is I to be deaf. Another Bird bigger than a Crane, rs so high in the Air that his great Body is inviliyet from thence espieth his Prey, and falls down ectly upon it, he lives so long that all his Feathers away by Age, and then is fed by his young ones. ests or Grasboppers do here often renew the Egyp-Plague, coming in such vast Numbers that, like loud, they intercept the Sun, and having eaten the Fruits

34. The English Forts and Factories

Fruits and Leaves, they leave their Spawn behin who are worse than themselves, devouring the ve Barks of the naked Trees. Orofius fays, that one tin after they had done all this Mischief, they did wor by their deaths, for being carried by a strong Win into the Sea, and again cast up dead on the Shore, the putrified Carcases caused such a Pestilence, that Numidia only there died eight hundred Thousand, as on the Sea Coast near Utica and Carthage two hundre Thousand. In some Places they forced the People leave the Country, it being fo defert and destroy that they left nothing to sustain them, and look'd if it had snowed, by reason of the Trees witho Barks; the Fields of Maiz were as if trodden dow after a Tempest of Rain and Thunder; they lay bove two Yards thick upon the River's Bank. Int River Nilus, in the Time of Mauricius the Empero at the Place where Grand Cario now Standeth, a Giar like Monster was feen, from the bottom of his Bel upward he appeared like a Man, with Flaxen Hai frowning Countenance, and strong Limbs; after had continued in the view of Multitudes three Hour their came out of the Water another like a Woma with a comely Face, part of her black Hair hangit down, and part gathered into a Knot, her Face w fair, rosie Lips, Fingers and Breasts well compose the rest of her Body hid un ier Water; from Morning Sun-set they fed their greedy Eyes with this Spectacl which then funk down into the Water, and was nev feen more.

a control of whole server and room with the control of Capital and the Mary Sava clair.

y letter copy the Sun, that having cotton to you from about affects ass It or, and folia forms

strictly again the lives in Jone that the list Promise

Lawrey by Age, and then is fed by his your gones.

X. Acra.

HIS is a strong Fort creeted all of Stone, and confifts of 4 Palankers, 25 Guns, and 70 white en, besides Blacks.

Mr. Ogilby in his History of Africa, names several her Places belonging to the African Company, as Mae, Bomba, Cormantyn, Janasia, Eniacham, Rio, Nuno, o Grande, Serbro, Cestos, Achin, Auta, Ardra, Benin, ith old and new Calabar. But I am affured that thefe ne aforementioned, are all the Castles and Forts of hich they are posses'd at this time.

This Country (unknown to the Ancients) is prorly a part of Negro Land, and called Guinea from e Heat thereof. The Air is so extream hot and unholfom, especially to Strangers, many of whom live it a short time after their Arrival, that were it not r the Rains and coolness of the Nights, it would be together uninhabitable. It is governed by several vereigns, the Chief of whom is called, Emperor of sinea; to whom divers other Kings and Princes are bject. The Capital City is Adra. Next to him is e King of Benin, esteemed a powerful Prince, hang several large Territories subject to him. Upon e Death of her Husband, in the Kingdom of Benin, e Wife is absolutely subject to her own Son, (if she we any) and cannot be fold for a Slave without leave om the King.

A late Author gives the following List of the Forts, ictories and Places of Trade, wherein the Royal vican Company are concerned on the Coast of inea stool or orong only with but the Bearing of with his famill from

Hard that were left, and carry them on th

The Captivity and Deliverance of John Watts an Englishman, from Slavery under the King of the Buckamores, and the King of Calanach, near Old Mallabar in Guinea.

Aving met with the following Relation, I shall conclude the Account of Guinea therewith. In 1668, an English Ship bound for Guinea, sailing to Old Callabar, they entred a River called the Cross River into Pyrates-Island; after they had taken in their Negroes, and were ready to Sail, the Master called up the Boatswain and three Men more to look out the Copper Bars that were left, and carry them on Shore to sell; the Boatswain with his small Company desired they might have Arms, not believing they were so harmless a People as reported; they took with them three iree Musquets and a Pistol, and so rowed toward the hore, but their Match unhappily fell into the Water, ad the Ship being fallen down lower toward the a quite out of fight, and they ashamed to go back rithout dispatching their Business, John Watts went Shore to the first House he came at to light the fatch, but before he was twenty Rods from the Vater-side, he was siezed on by two Blacks, or raier Taguny Moors, and by them haled half a Mile up to the Country, and thrown with great Violence pon his Belly, and so compelled to lie till they stript m; and more Company coming, they were so eager r his poor Canvas Apparel, that some they tore off, thers they cut off, and with that feveral pieces of s Flesh to his intolerable Pain; with these Rags iey made little Aprons to cover their Privities, othing being very scarce there; the Boatswain seeg Watts carried away, refolved with his two Commions to venture their Lives to have him again; nd arming themselves they were suddainly beset with dozen Men in feveral Canoos, but they valiantly aintained their Boat three Hours; for after two or iree Musquets were discharged, they defended emselves with their Oars and Boat-hooks; the oatswain received a mortal Wound in his Groin, id fell down in the Boat, the other two adventured to the River, endeavouring by swimming to escape e Hands of these cruel Infidels; but the Negroes ith their swift Canoos soon overtook them, and ought them on Shore to the other. They took the oatswain out of the Boat, and instead of endeavourg to preserve what Life remained in him, one of them ith a keen Weapon instantly cut off his Head; and hile he was yet reeking in his Blood, they in a barrous Manner cut off Pieces of his Flesh from his attocks, Thighs, Arms and Shoulders, and broil'd em on the Coals, and with much Impatience eat it.

CF

before

58 The Captivity and Deliverance

before his Companions Faces, to their great astoniss ment.

About a Fortnight after, one of the Company fe fick; and instead of being his Physicians to cure hin they were his Butchers to murder him, cutting off h. Head, and broiling and eating his Flesh, rejoycin exceedingly at this rich Banquet. Ten Days after th other fell fick, whom they used in the very same man ner. Watts continued still in Health, though the Na tives daily expected fuch another Banquet, because i feems it is not their Custom to kill those that are well and fo refolved to fell him; his Master was free t Discourse, especially since he had before learned th Tata Language in the West-Indies, which is easily at tained, being comprehended in few Words, and al the Negroes speak it. He began to discourse his Ma ster of the Reason of their Cruelty, who told him h should be content, for if he were not fick, he should not have his Head cut off. In the Boat which the took, there was one Musket faved that was not dif charged, which his Master some time after brought to him to know the use of; Watts endeavoured to keep him in ignorance, but being threatned, at length wa forced to shoot it off; but the Negroes who expected some delightful Thing were frustrated, and at the sud den Noise and Flash of Fire, which they much dread ran from him affrighted, but hearing no more Noise came up again, and commanded him to do the like; "he told them he had no Powder which caused the Noise but this would not fatisfie these Barbarians, who were about to murder him for refusal, had not his Master prevented it; after in Discourse his Master told him. that the People were naturally civil, and simply honest, but if provoked full of Revenge, and that this Cruelty toward him and his Friends, was occasioned by the unhandsome carrying away some Natives, without their Beave, about a Year before, they resolving if any came a Shore, they should never go off alive; he had not een above seven Weeks in the Country, but his Maer presented him to the King, whose Name was Ejie, King of the Buckamores, who immediately gave im to his Daughter Onijah. When the King went broad, he attended him as his Page throughout the thole Circuit of his Dominions, which was not aove twelve Miles, yet boafting exceedingly of his ower and Strength, and glorying extreamly that he ad a White to attend him, whom he imployed to carwhis Bow and Arrows. At feveral Places remote om the Sea-side, some of the People would run aray from him for Fear, others fell down and feemd to worthip him, using those Actions they do to their iods. Their Progress was never so long, but they ould return home at Night, yet never without a ill Dose of the Creature.

During all the time Watts was a Slave, he never new him go abroad and come home fober. They rink the best Palm Wine, and another Liquor called enrore; the English-man knew how to humour this rofound Prince, and if any of the Natives abused him, pon his Complaint he had Redress; as once by striing with a Negroe his Arm was broke, which by rovidence more than Skill was fet again; after some Ionths, the King of Calanach called Mancha, hearing f this beautiful White, courted his Neighbour Prince , fell him, and at length he was fold for a Cow and Goat; this King was sober, free from Treacheries ad Mischiefs the other was subject to, and would oft aquire of him concerning his King and Country, and thether his Kingdoms were biggerthan his own, whose hole Dominions were not above twenty five Miles length, and fifteen in breadth; the Englishman told much as he thought convenient, keeping within the ounds of Modesty, yet relating as much as possible the Honour and Dignity of his Sovereign; first inrming him of the Greatness of one of his Kingdoms se several Shires and Counties it contained, with the number of its Cities, Towns and Castles, and th Strength of each, the infinite Inhabitants and Valou of his Subjects; one of these sufficiently amazed thi petty Governor, that he need mention no more of hi Majesty's Glory and Dignity; it put him into such a pro found Consternation, that he resolved to find out som to Way tender his Respects to this Mighty Prince, and could study none more convenient, than that if he coulfind a Passage he would let him go to England, to in form King Charles the II. of the great Favour an Respect he had for him; this did not a little rejoic our Englishman; he also told him, that he would fen Thim a Present, which should be two Cabareets o Goats, which they there value at a high rate, thi King having himself not above seventeen or eighteer He tells the King, that the King of England had man Thousand Subjects under the degree of Gentlemen who had a Thousand Sheep a piece, the Flesh o which they valued at a much higher rate than Goat:

the.

Though our Captive lived happily with this King yet his desires and hopes were still to return to his Na tive Country; at length he promised him, that the fir English Ship which came into the Road, should hav Liberty to release or purchase him; this much rejoice his Heart; now he thought every Day a Year, till h could hear of, or fee some English Ship arrived, Ol did he walk down to the Sea-side, earnestly expectin the Winds of Providence would blow some in thither which being observed by one Jaga the chiefest Wizar in those Parts, and much admired by the People (the they have a Multitude of others) this Man came t him one Day, and inquired why he went fo often t the Sea-shore, he told him, to fee if he could difee wer any English Vessel come in there, and knowing h was a Wizard, though not acquainted with his great Fame, nor willing to credit his Divinations, yet t please him, ask'd when he did believe there would on come in; Jaga instantly told him, That the fifteen

Day after, an English Ship would come into the Road. He then demanded whether that Ship should carry him away, he answered doubtfully, but said, he should be offered to the Master of the Ship, and if they did not agree, but he should come a Shore again, and not be fold, he would soon die of Grief. These fisteen Days feemed very long, many a Look did he cast on the Sea with an aching Heart, the fourteenth Day he went on a high Hill, but he could discover nothing; next Morning he went again two or three times, but faw none; about two or three Hours after, some of the Moors came running to the King, telling him there was a Canoo coming, so they call our Ships, at which our Englishmanrejoiced, hoping to be releast, yet durst not shew it for fear of Punishment or Death; for though he lived better now than with his first Master, yet his Service was far worse than the Slaves in Turkey, and their Diet worse than Dogs Meat. The Ship came in, and he runs to Jaga to know if it were an English Ship, who affured him it was, and so it happened; one Capt. Royden, being Commander, who hastned to dispatch his Business, took in his Negroes, and was ready to Sail, our Captive not hearing a Word what should become of him, the King never offering to fell him; this made him resolve to endeavour an Escape; he had prepared a Piece of Timber, and drawn it toward the Water-side, on which he intended to paddle to the Ship, which lay about a League off.

Just by the Sea-side as he was about to lanch his shoating Stick, he espied a great Alligator, which will devour a Man at a Mouthful, this alter'd his Mind, resolving rather to live with Insidels, than be accessary to his own Death; But next Day it pleased God to move the King's Heart to let him go, sending him in a Canoo placed between a Negroe's Legs, with others to guide this small Vessel, for sear he should leap over-board, and swim to the Ship. At a distance he haled her in English, to the great surprizal to those within

62 The Captivity and Deliverance, &c.

within her, the Negroes let him stand up and show himfelf to the Captain, to whom he gave an Account, how four were left there, and he only remained alive. It was some time before they bargained, though the Captain was resolved not to leave him behind. Several times the Negroes padled away with their Canoo, resolving not to part with him; but what with his Entreaties and Promises, he perswaded them to the Ship again, and at last they delivered him on board for forty five Copper and Iron Bars, about the bigness of a Man's Finger; when he came on board, his Hair was long, and his Skin tawny like a Mulatto, having gone naked all the time he was there, and usually anointed himself with Palm Oil. The Seamen charitably apparel'd him, and he arrived fafely in England; with a thankful Heart for so happy a Deliverance. And here I shall conclude the View of Guinea.

sin, and he runt to the an about the or or or an

Just to of box man always brought of the color of the land

penud ; one Cope A deal heing Known and ; butter

we to his open Death ; But was Bay it obtain Coulto

meres the Alegard or testing of fending bine in a control before a supply a supply of the control o

to good a this form! Vallet, for from bouldons in could be the will place of environment of the batted box in Legillia te the great daystanto re

the set that Very de the sufficient to another

A View of St. Helena, an Island in the Ethiopian Ocean, in Africa, now in Possession of the Honourable East-India Company, where their Ships usually refresh in their India Voyages.

With an Account of the Admirable Voyage of Domingo Gonfales, the Little Spaniard, to the World in the Moon, by the help of several Gansa's or Large Geese.

An ingenious Fancy, written by a late learned Bishop.

Before I come to relate the Acquisitions of the English in India, &c. I will make a halt at St. Heers, or Helena, which is now possess by the Honouable East-India Company. It is called the Sea-Inn, secause the English and other Nations stop there as a lace for watering and refreshment in their long loyages to India. It was formerly seized by the Interpretation, but retaken May 6th, 1673, by Captain Munay, with a Squadron of English Ships, and three rich interpretation of India Ships made Prizes in the Harbour; nee which the Company have fortisted and secured, against any suture Invasion of Dutch, Portuguese, or paniards. It was called Santa Helena by the Portuguese, who discovered it on St. Helen's Day, being

64 The Voyage of Domingo Gonsales

April the 2. There is no Island in the World so far distant from the Continent or main Land as this. It is about fixteen Leagues in Compass, in the Ethiopick Sea, in 16 Degrees of South Latitude, about 1500 Miles from the Cape of Good Hope, 360 from Angola in Africa, and 510 from Brasile in America. It lies high out of the Water, and surrounded on the Sea-Coasts with steep Rocks, having within many Clists, Mountains and Valleys, of which one is named Church-Valley, where behind a small Church they climb up to the Mountains. To the South is Apple Dale, so called from the abundance of Oranges, Lemons and Pomegranats, enough to furnish five or six Ships. On the West-side of the Church, Ships have good Anchorage close under the Shore to prevent the Winds, which blow fieresly from the adjacent high Mountains.

The Air seems temperate and healthful, so that sick Men brought a Shore there, in a short Time recover; yet the Heat in the Valleys is as intolerable as the Cold upon the Mountains; it commonly Rains there 5 or 6 times a Day, fothat the barrenness of the Hills is not occasioned for want of Water, of which it hath two or three good Springs for furnishing Ships with fresh Water; the Ground of its own accord brings forth wild Peafe and Beans, also whole Woods of Orange, Lemon, and Pomegranat Trees, all the Year long laden both with Bloffoms and Fruit, good Figs; abundance of Ebony and Rose Trees, Parsly, Mustardfeed, Purssain, Sorrel, and the like; the Woods and Mountains are full of Goats, large Rams, and wild Swine, but difficult to be taken. When the Portuquese discovered it, they found neither four-footed Beafts nor Fruit Trees, but only Fresh Water; they afterward planted Fruit Trees, which so increased fince, that all the Valleys stand full of them; Partridges, Pidgeons, Moor hens, and Peacocks breed here numeroufly, whereof a good Marks-man may foon provide a Dinner for his Friends. On the Cliff-Islands

on

to the World in the Moon.

on the South, are thousands of grey and black Mews, or Sea Pies, and white and coloured Birds, some with long, others with short Necks, who lay their Eggs on the Rocks, and suffer themselves to be taken with the Hand, gazing at the Surprizers, till they are knocked on the Head with Sticks.

From the Salt Water beating against the Clists, a Froth or Scum remains in some Places, which the neat of the Sun so purifies, that it becomes white and good Salt; some of the Mountains yield Bole Armoniack, and a fat Earth like Terra Lemnia. The Sea will answer the Pains of a patient Fisherman, who must use an Angle, not a Net, because of the soul Ground and beating of the Waves; the chief are Mackrel, Roach, Carp, but differing in Colour from hose among us; Eels as big as a Man's Arm, and well tasted Crabs, Lobsters, Oysters, and Mussels as good as English.

Fancy, called, The Man in the Moon, or a Discourse of a Voyage thither, by Domingo Gonsales is lay'd; writen by a learned Bishop, saith the ingenious Bishop vilkins, who calls it a pleasant and well contriv'd ancy, in his own Book intituled, A Discourse of the ew World, tending to prove that it is possible there may another habitable World in the Moon; wherein among ther curious Arguments, he affirms, that this hath een the direct Opinion of divers Ancient and some sodern Mathematicians, and may probably be deduced om the Tenets of others, neither does it contradict my Principle of Reason nor Faith; and that as their Vorld is our Moon, so our World is theirs.

Now this small Tract having so worthy a Person wouch for it, and many of our English Historians wing published for Truth, what is almost as improable as this, as Sr. John Mandavil in his Travels and thers, and this having what they are utterly destinited by Morgan Godwin LLD son of tute P. Godwin who describes a English Bishops. Nood tute of, that is, Invention mixed with Judgment; and was judged worthy to be Licenfed 50 Years ago, and not fince reprinted, whereby it would be interly loft. I have thought fit to republish the Substance thereof, wherein the Author fays he does not design to difcourfe his Readers into a belief of each particular Circumstance, but expects that his new Discovery of a new World may find little better Entertainment than Columbus had in his first discovery of America, though yet that poor espial betrayed so much Knowledge as hath fince increast to vast Improvements, and the then Unknown, is now found to be of as large Extent as all the other known World; that there should be Antipodes, was once thought as great a Paradox as now that the Moon should be habitable. But the knowledge of it may be referved for this our discovering Age, where in our Virtuofe can by their Telescopes gaze the Sur into Spors, and descry Mountains in the Moon. But this and much more must beleft to the Criticks, as well as the following Relation of our little Eye-witness, and great Discoverer, which you shall have in his own spanish Stile, and delivered with that Grandeur and Thirs of Glory, which is generally imputed to that Nation.

74th. U.I. p. 498

It is known to all the Countries of Andaluzia, that I Domingo Gonfales was born of a Noble Family in the renowned City of Sevil. My Father's Name being Therando Confales, near Kinfman on the Mother's fide to Don Pedro Sanches, the worthy Count of Almanera my Mother was the Daughter of the famous Lawyer Otho Perez de Sallaveda Governor of Barcellona, and Corrigidor of Biscay; I being the youngest of seventeer Children, was put to Schooled and deligned to the Church; but Heaven purpoling to use my Service in Matters of far another Nature, inspired me with spending some time in the Wars; it was at that time that Don Ferando, the renowned Duke D' Alva was fent into the low Countries in 1568. I then following the Current of my Defire, leaving the University of The Marie Mant a part of the and and and Salamanca, whither my Parents had fent me, without giving notice to any of my Friends, got through France o Antwerp, where I arrived in a mean Condition. For having fold my Books, Bedding, and other Things which yielded me about 30 Duckets, and borrowed co more of my Father's Friends, I bought a little Nag, where with I travelled more thriftily than usualy Young Gentlemen do, till arriving within a League of Antwerp, some of the cursed Gueses set upon me, and bereaved me of my Horse, Money, and all; so was forced through necessity to enter into the Serrice of Marshal Cossey, a French Nobleman, whom I erved in an honourable Employ, though mine Enenies to my Disgrace, affirm I was shis Horse-keepers Boy; but for that Matter, I refer my felf to Count Mansfield, and other Persons of Condition, who have often testified to many worthy Men, the very Truth of the Business, which indeed was this, Monsieur Cofey being about this time fent to the Duke D' Alva, Sovernor of the Low Countries, he understanding the Nobility of my Birth, and my late Misfortune, judgng it would be no small Honour to him to have a paniard of that Quality about him, furnished me vith a Horse, Arms, and whatever I wanted, using by Service, after I had learned French in writing his etters, because my Hand was very fair. In time of War if, upon necessity, I sometime dressed my own Iorse, I ought not to be reproach'd therewith, since I ount it the Part of a Gentleman to submit to the vilest Office for the Service of his Prince.

The first Expedition I was in, was when the Marnal my Friend met the Prince of Orange, making a load into France, and forced him to fly even to the Valls of Cambray; it was my good Fortune to defeat
Trooper, by killing his Horse with my Pistol, ho falling upon his Leg could not stir, but yielded
my Mercy; I knowing my own weakness of Body, nd seeing him a lusty tall Fellow, thought it the surest way to dispatch him, which having done, I plundered him of a Chain, Money, and other Things to the Value of 200 Ducats; this Money was no fooner in my Pockets, but I refumed the Remembrance of my Nobility, and taking my Audience of Leave from Monfieur Coffey, I instantly repaired to the Duke D' Alva's Court, where divers of my Kindred feeing my Pocket full of good Crowns, were ready enough to acknowledge me; by their means I was received into pay, and in time obtained Favour with the Duke, who would fometimes jest a little more severely at my Personage than I could well bear, for though I must acknowledge my Stature is fo little, as I think no Man living is less, yet fince it is the Work of Heaven, and not my ewn, he ought not to have upbraided a Gentleman therewith; and those glorious Things that have happened to me may evince, that wonderful Matters may be performed by very unlikely Bodies, if the Mind be good, and Fortune fecond our Endeavours.

Though the Duke's Jokes a little disgusted me, yet I endeavoured to conceal my Resentment, and accommodating my self to some other of his Humours, I was so far interested in his Favour, that at his going into spain, whither I attended him, by his Kindness and other Accidents, wherein by my Industry I was seldom wanting to my self, I was able to carry home 3000

Crowns in my Pocket.

At my Return, my Parents, who were extreamly disturbed at my Departure, received me with Joy, which was increased because they sound I had brought wherewith to maintain my self without being chargeable to them, or lessening the Portions of my Brothers and Sisters. But doubting I would spend it as lightly as I got it, they sollicited me to marry the Daughter of John Figueres a considerable Merchant of Lisbon, to which I complied, and putting my Marriage Money, and good Part of my own into the Hands of my Father, I lived like a Gentleman many Years very happily;

good

at length a Quarrel arising between me and Pedro Delgades, a Gentleman and Kinsman of mine, it grew so nigh, that when no Mediation of Friends could prevail, we two went along with our Swords into the Field, where it was my chance to kill him, though a Stout proper Man; but what I wanted in Strength I Supplied in Courage, and my Agility countervailed for nis Stature. This being acted in Carmona, I fled to Lisbon, thinking to conceal my self with some Friends of my Father-in-Law, till the Business might beaccomnodated. At which time, a famous Spanis Count coming from the West-Indies, published triumphant Declarations, of a great Victory he had obtained against the English near the Isle of Pines, whereas in reaity he got nothing at all in that Voyage but Blows, and a considerable Loss. It had been well if Vanity and Lying had been his only Crimes; his Covetoufiess had like to have been my utter Ruin, though since t hath proved the Occasion of Eternizing my Name I verily believe to all Posterity, and to the unspeakable Benefit of all Mortals for ever hereafter, at least if it lease Heaven that I return home safe to my Country, nd give perfect Instructions how these almost incredisle and impossible Acquirements may be imparted to he World. You shall then see Men slying in the Air rom one Place to another, you shall then be able to end Messages many hundred Miles in an Instant, and eceive Answers immediately, without the help of any reature upon Earth; you shall then presently impart our Mind to your Friend, though in the most remote nd obscure Place of a populous City, and a Multitude fother notable Experiments; but what exceeds all, ou shall then have the Discovery of a New World, nd abundance of rare and incredible Secrets of Natre, which the Philosophers of former Ages never so uch as dream'd of; But I must be cautious in publishig these wonderful Mysteries, till our Statesmen have insidered how they may consist with the Policy and good Government of our Country, and whether the Fathers of the Church may not judge the divulging them prejudicial to the Catholick Faith, which (by those Wonders I have seen above any mortal Man before me) I am instructed to advance without Respect to any temporal Advantage whatfoever.

But to proceed, this huffing Captain pretended much discontent for the Death of Delgades, who was indeed some kin to him; however he was willing to be quiet if I would give him a thousand Duckets; I had now, besides a Wife, two Sons, whom I was not willing to begger, only to fatisfie the avaritious Humor of this Boaster, and so was necessitated to take some other Courfe; I imbark'd in a stout Carrick bound for the East-Indies, carrying the Value of two Thousand Duckets to Trade with, leaving as much more for the support of my Wife and Children behind, whatever Misfortune might happen to me : In the Indies I thrived exceedingly, laying out my Stock in Diamonds, E. meralds and Pearls, which I bought at such easy Rates, that my Stock fafely arriving in Spain (as I understood it did) must needs yield ten for one. But having doubled Cape Bona Esperanza in my Way home, I fell dangeroufly fick, expecting nothing but Death, which had undoubtedly happened, but that we just then difcovered the bleffed Isle of St. Hellens, the only Paradice I believe on Earth, for healthfulness of Air, and fruitfulness of Soil, producing all necessaries for the Life of Man; it is about 16 Leagues in compass, and has no firm Land or Continent within 300 Leagues, nay, not so much as an Island within 100 Leagues of it; fo that it may feem a Miracle of Nature, that out of so: vast and tempestuous an Ocean, such a small Rock, or piece of Ground, should arise and discover it felf. On the South is a good Harbour, and near is divers small Houses built by the Portuguese to accommodate Strangers, with a pretty Chappel, handsomely beautified with a Tower, and Bell therein. Near is to the World in the Moon.

71 s a Stream of excellent fresh Water, divers handsome Walks planted on both sides, with Orange, Lemon, omegraint, Almond Trees, and the like, which bear Fruit all the Year; as do also divers others; there are tore of Garden Herbs, with Wheat, Peafe, Barley, nd most kind of Pulse; but it chiefly aboundeth with Cattle and Fowl, as Goats, Swine, Sheep, Partridges, vild Hens, Pheasants, Pidgeons, and wild Fowl beond Credit; but especially about February and March, re to be seen huge Flocks of a kind of wild Swans whereof I shall have Occasion to speak more herefter) who like our Cuckoes and Nightingals, go avay at a certain Season, and are no more seen that ear.

On this happy Island did they set me a Shore with Negroe to attend me, where I recovered my Health, nd continued a whole Year, folacing my felf for want f human Society, with Birds and brute Beafts; Diego y Black-moor was forced to live in a Cave at the Vest-end of the Isle, for had we dwelt together, ictuals would not have been so plenty with us; but ow if one succeeded well in Hunting or Fowling, ne other would find means to treat him, and if both ist we were fain to look out sharply; but this selom happened, since no Creature there fears a Man ore than a Goat or Cow, whereby I easily tamed vers kinds of Birds and Beafts by only muzling them, that till they came either to me or Diego they could ot feed; at first I much delighted in a kind of Paridges, and a tame Fox, whereof I made good use; for I had Occasion to confer with Diego, I would take e of them muzled and hungry, and tying a Note aut his Neck, beat him from me, whereupon he would eight away to Diego's Cave, and if he were not there, ould beat about till he found him; yet this conveyce being not without some Inconvenience, I peraded Diego, (who though a Fellow of good Parts, as content to be ruled by me) to remove to a Cape on the North-west Part of the Island, being though a League off, yet within fight of my House and Chappel, and so when the Weather was fair, we could by Signals declare our Minds each to other in an Instant, either by Night or Day, wherein we took much Pleafure. If in the Night I would fignifie any Thing to him, I set up a Light in the Bell Tower, which was a pretty large Room with a fair Window well glazed, and the Walls within plaister'd white, so that though the Light were but small, it made a great show; after this Light had stood half an Hour I co. vered it, and then if I saw any signal of Light again from my Companion, I knew he waited for my No. tice, and so by hiding and shewing my Light accord. ing to the Agreement betwixt us I certified him of what I pleased. In the Day I advertised him by Smoke

Dust, and other refined Ways.

After a while I grew weary of it as too painful, and again used my winged Messengers; upon the Shore, a bout the Mouth of our River, I found store of a kine of wild Swans feeding upon Prey, both of Fish and Birds, and which is more strange, having one Clay like an Eagle, and the other like a Swan. These Bird breeding here in infinite Numbers, I took thirty o forty of them young, and bred them up by hand fo Recreation; yet not without some thoughts of the Experiment which I after put in Practice. ing strong and able to continue a great Flight, I taugh them first to come at call afar off, not using any Noise but only shewing them a white Cloth; and here found it true what Plutarch affirms, That Creature which eat Flesh are more docible than others. 'Tis wor derful to think what Tricks I taught them ere the were a quarter old, amongst others I used them by de grees to fly with Burdens, wherein I found them ab beyond belief, and a white Sheet being display'd 1 them by Diego upon the fide of a Hill, they woul carry from me to him Bread, Flesh, or whatever pleasec eased, and upon the like Call come to me again. aving proceeded thus far, I consulted how to joyn number of them together, so as to carry a heavier eight, which if I could compass, I might enable, a an to be carried safely in the Air from one Place to other. I puzled my Wits extreamly with this nought, and upon Trial found that if many were put the bearing of one great Burthen, by reason it was possible all of them should rise together just at one stant, the first that rise finding himself stayed by a eight heavier than he could stir, would soon give er, and so the second, third, and all the rest. I conved at last a Way whereby each might rise with onhis own Proportion of Weight, I fastned about each nsa a little Pulley of Cork, and putting a String of just length through it, I fastned one End to a Block almost eight Pound weight, and tied a two Pound ight to the other End of the String, and then caufthe Signal to be erected, they all rose together, befour in Number, and carried away my Block to e Place appointed. This hitting fo luckily, I adtwo or three Birds more, and made Tryal of their rying a Lamb, whose Happiness I much envied, it he should be the first living Creature to partake of h an excellent Device.

tenfils

At length after divers Trials, I was surprized with a at longing to cause my self to be carried in the ne Manner, Diego my Moor was likewise possest th the same Desire, and had I not loved him well, I wanted his Service, I should have resented his bitious Thought; For I count it greater Honour to re been the first Flying Man, than to be another htune who first adventured to fail on the Sea. ming not to understand his Intention, I only told a that all my Gansas were not strong enough to ry him, being a Man though of no great Bulk, twice heavier than my felf; having prepared all cessaries, I one time placed my self and all my U-

The Voyage of Domingo Gonfales tenfils on the Top of a Rock at the River's Mou and putting my felf upon my Engine at full Sea, I car ed Diego to advance the Signal, whereupon my Bir 25 in Number, rose all at once, and carried me of luffily to the Rock on the other fide, being about quarrer of a League; I chose this Time and Place, I cause if any Thing had fallen out contrary to Expe tation, the worst that could happen was only falli into the Water, and being able to swim well, I he ed to receive little hurt in my Fall; when I was on fase over, O how did my Heart even swell with J and Admiration at my own Invention; how oft d I wish my felf in the midst of spain, that I might I the World with the Fame of my Glory and Renown Every Hour I had a longing Defire for the coming the India Fleet to take me home with them, whi then stayed three Months beyond their usual time; length they arrived, being three Carricks much We ther beaten, the Men sick and weak, and so we constrained to refresh themselves in our Island a who Month; the Admiral was called Alphonfo de Xima, valiant wife Man, defirous of Glory, and worthy of be ter Fortune than afterward befel him: To him I disc vered my Device of the Gansas, being satisfied that was impossible otherwise to perswade him to take many Birds into his Ship, who for the niceness of the Provision would be more troublesome than so ma Men; yet I adjured him by Oaths and Perswasions be secret in the Business, though I did not much dou it, affuring my felf he durst not impart the Experime to any before our King were acquainted therewith. had more Apprehension, lest Ambition and the D fire of gaining to himfelf the Honour of fo admir ble an Invention should tempt him to dispatch m However I was forced to run the Risque unless would venture the loss of my Birds, the like wher of for my purpose were not to be had in Christendor to the World in the Moon. for was I fure ever to bring up others to ferve my

It happened all these Doubts were causless, the Man believe was honest, but the Missortune we met with revented all these Thoughts. Thursday June 21. 599. we set sail for Spain, I having allowed me a onvenient Cabbin for my Birds, and Engine, which he Captain would have perswaded me to have lest chind, and it was a Wonder I did not, but my good ortune faved my Life, for after two Months Sail we net with an English Pleet, about 10 Leagues from the land of Teneriff, one of the C.maries, famous for a fill therein called Pico, which is feen at Sea above 00 Leagues off. We had aboard five times their Numer of Men, all in Health, and were well provided rith Ammunition; yet finding them resolved to fight, id knowing what infinite Riches we carried, concludit better if possible to escape, than by encountering Crew of desperate Fellows, to hazard not only our ives, which a Man of Courage does not value, but e Estates of many poor Merchants, who I am afraid ere undone by the Miscarriage of this Business. Our eet confisted of five Sail, that is, 3 Carricks, a Bark, da Caravel, who coming from St. Thomas Isle had an ill Hour overtaken us some Days before. The ighth had 3 Ships well provided, who no fooner spibut presently ingaged us, and changing their Course, deavoured to bring us under their Lee, which they ght eafily do as the Windthen stood, they being light mble Vessels, as English Ships generally are, ours avy, deep Laden, and four with the Sea. So our ptain resolved, wisely enough it may be, but neier valiantly nor fortunately, to fly, commanding us disperse our selves. The Caravel by too much haste I upon one of the Carricks, and bruised her so that e of the English easily fetch'd her up and entred her, Caravel finking before our Eyes. The Bark esca-I impurfued and, another of our Carrieks, after some D 2

Chase,

Chase was given over by the Enemy, who expecting sufficient Booty of us, and getting us between then sell upon us with much Fury; our Captain hereupo gave Direction to run a shore upon Teneriss, the Pos whereof we could not recover, saying, That he hope to save part of the Goods, and some of our Lives, and had rather the rest should be lest, than all fall into the Mercy of our Foes.

When I heard this Resolution, observing the Seat work high, and knowing all the Coast to be so full o Rocks and Shoals that it was impossible our Shi should come near the Land, unless broken into a Thou fand Pieces, I represented to the Captain the desperate ness of the Attempt, wishing him rather to try th Kindness of the Enemy, than throw away himself an so many brave Men; but he would by no Remonstrar ces be removed from his Resolution, therefore fine ing it high time to shift for my self, I lock'd up n little Casket of Jewels, which putting into my Sleeve I then betook me to my Ganfas, and having harnesse them to my Engine, and put my felf thereon, supposing as indeed it happened, that when the Ship mould fpli my Birds, though they wanted their Signal, yet fe saving their own Lives, which Nature hath taught a Creaturesto preferve, would make toward Land, which fell out according to my Expectation; the People the Ship wondred what I was doing, none being a quainted with the use of my Birds but the Captain Diego being in the other Ship which fled away u pursued: We were about half a League from Lan when our Carrick struck upon a Rock, and split pieces, upon which I let loofe the Reins to my Bird having first placed my felf upon the Top of the Decl and with the Shock they all arose, carrying me forti nately to the Land, of which you need not doubt by I was very joyful, though it was a miserable light behold my Friends and Acquaintance in that woff distress, of whom yet many escaped better than the expedie

xpected, for the English launching out their Cockoats, discovered more generous Tempers than we re pleased to allow them, taking Compassion of their alamity, and endeavouring with all diligence to fave em from the Fury of the Waves, though with much anger to themselves; among others they took up our aptain, who, as Father Pacio, fince told me, having ut himself with twelve others into the Cock-boat, ras forced to yield to one Captain Raymundo, who arried him and our Pilot along with them in their oyage to the East-Indies whither they were bound, ut it was their hard Fate by a breach of the Sea, near ape Buono Esperanca, to be swallowed of the mercies Waves, whose Rage they a while before had so ardly escaped; the rest, as I likewise heard, who vere about twenty fix Persons, they took into their hip, and fet them on Land at Cape Verde.

As for my felf being now ashore in an Island inhaited by Spaniards, I reckoned I was fafe, but found by felf mistaken, for it was my hap to pitch upon hat part of the Isle where the Pike begins to rise, which s inhabited by a favage People who live upon the des of that Hill, the Top whereof is for the most art covered with Snow, and formerly accounted, for s steepness, inaccessible either for Man or Beast, but nese Salvages scaring the Spaniards, keep as near the op as they can, never coming down into the fruitil Valleys, but to feek for Booty; a Crew of thefe Jut-laws happened to spie me soon after I landed, and hinking they had now a Prize, approached me with Il speed; I guest their design before they came withhalf a Mile, when perceiving them come down the lill directly toward me, with long Staves and other Veapons, I thought it necessary to secure my self from hose Villains, who out of hatred to us Spaniards, vould have cut me to Pieces: The Country was andy, but the Pike beginning to lift up it felf, I cfpid in the fide a white Cliff, which I hoped my Gan-

D 3

Tas

to the World in the Moon.

s would take for a Mark, and being put up, would ake all that Way, whereby I might be carried fo far at those barbarous Rascals should not overtake me, fore I got to some Spaniards House, or hid my felf, Il by the covert of the Night I might travel to Lama, the chief City of the Illand, three Miles off. So fettled my felf upon my Engine, and let loofe the eins to my Ganfas, who by good Fortune took all one ourse, though not just the Way I aimed at. But hat of that? O Reader! prick up thy Ears and prere thy self to hear the strangest Chance that ever ppened to any Mortal, and which I know thou ilt not have the Grace to believe till thou seeftthe like xperiment, which I doubt not but in a short Time ay be performed. My Ganfas like to many Horses at had gotten the Bit between their Teeth made not eir flight toward the Cliff I intended, though I wed y wonted means to direct the Leader of the Flock at way, but with might and main took up toward e Top of the Pike, and never stope till they came ere, a Place in vulgar Estimation (though singe Expementally contradicted) fifteen Miles in height. What nd of Place this was I would gladly relate, but that hasten to Matters of greater Importance; when I as fet down there, my poor Gansas fell to panting; owing, and gaping, for Breath as if they would have ed, fo I did not trouble them a while, forbearing draw them in, which they never use to endure ithout strugling, but little did I expect what followed. It was now the Season that these Birds take their ght away, as our Cuckoos and Swallows do in Spain ward Autumn, and as I afterward found, being mindful of eir usual Voyage, just when I began to settle my If to take them in, they with one consent rose up, nd having no other higher Place to make toward, to y unspeakable Fear and Amazement, struck bolt upght, and never left towring upward, still higher and gher, for the space as I guest of an Hour, after which I thought D 4

I thought they laboured less than before, till at lengt ah wonderful, they remainded immoveable, as stead ly as if they had fate upon fo many Perches: The Lin flacked, neither I, nor the Engine moved at all, b continued still, as having no manner of Weight. found then by Experience what no Philosopher ev dream'd of, namely, that those Things we call hea do not fall towardtheCenter of theEarth as their natur Place, but are drawn by a fecret property of the Glo of the Earth, or rather something within it, as t Load-stone draweth Iron, which is within the Cor pass of its attractive Beams. For though my Ganj could continue unmoved without being sustained any Thing but the Air, as easily and quietly as Fish in the Water, yet if they forced themselves n ver fo little, it is impossible to imagine with wh fwistness they were carried, either upward, downwa or fide ways; I must ingenuously confess my Horr and Amazement in this Place was fuch, that had I n been armed with a true Spanish Resolution, I should ce tainly have died for Fear.

The next Thing that disturb'd me was the swiftne of the Motion, which was so extraordinary that it a most stope my Breath: If I should liken it to an A row, out of a Bow, or a Stone thrown down from the Top of an high Tower, it would come vaftly short it; another Thing was exceeding troublesome to m that is the Illusion of Devils and wicked Spirits, wl at the first Day of my arrival came about me in gre numbers in the likeness of Men and Women, wo dring at me like fo many Birds about an Owl, as speaking several Languages which I understood no till at last I met with some that spoke good spani some Dutch, and others Italian, all which I understood and here I had only a touch of the Sun's absence on for a short time, having him ever after in my sigl Now though my Gamfas were entangled in my Line yet they easily feized upon divers kind of Flies ar

Bir

rds, especially Swallows and Cuckoos, whereof ere were multitudes even like Motes in the Sun, ough I never faw them eat any Thing at all. I was ach obliged to those, whether Men or Devils, I know ot, who among divers Discourses told me, if I would low their Directions, I fould not only be carried fafe me, but be assured to command at all times all the easures of that Place. To which Motion not daring give a flat denial, I desired time to consider, and ithal intreated them, (though I felt no Hunger at all, hich may seem strange) to help me to some Victus lest I should starve in my Journey; so they realy brought me very good Flesh and Fish of several rts, and well dreft, but that it was extream fresh witht any relish of Salt. Wine likewise I tasted of vers kinds, as good as any in Spain, and Beer no betr in all Antwerp. They advised me that while I had pportunity I should makemy Provisions; telling me that I the next Thursday they could help me to no more; which time they would find means to carry me back, d set me safe in Spain in any Place I would desire, ovided I would become one of their Fraternity, and ter into fuch Covenants as they had made to their iptain and Master, whom they would not name. I fwered them civilly, I faw little Reason to rejoice in b an Offer, desiring them to be mindful of me as Occan ferved; fo for that time I was rid of them, having It furnished my Pockets with as much Victuals as I uld thrust in, among which I would be fure to find Place for a finall Bottle of good Canary.

I shall now declare the Quality of the Place whereI was; the Clouds I perceived to be all under, beeen me and the Earth. The Stars, because it was ways Day, I saw at all times alike, not shining ight as we see in the Night upon Earth, but of a nitish Colour like the Moon with us in the Day
ne; those that were seen, which were not many, ewed far greater than with us, yea, as I guest no less

D 5

less than ten times bigger; as for the Moon, being then within two Days of the Change, she appeared o an huge and dreadful Greatness. It is not to be forgot, that no Stars appeared but on that Part of the Hemisphere next the Moon; and the nearer to her the larger they appeared; again whether I lay quiet and rested, or were carried in the Air, I perceived my felf to be always directly between the Moon and the Earth, whereby 'tis plain that my Ganfas took their Way directly toward the Moon, and that when we rested, as we did at first for many Hours, either we were infentibly carried round about the Globe of the Earth, though I perceived no fuch Motion, or elfe that according to the Opinion of Copernicus, the Earth is carried about, and turneth round perpetually from West to East, leaving to the Planets only that Motion which the Astronomers call Natural, and is not upor the Poles of the Equinoctial, commonly called the Poles of the World, but upon those of the Zodiack the Air in that Place I found without any Wind, and exceeding temperate, neither hot nor cold; where neither the Sun Beams had any Subject to reflect upon nor the Earth and Water so near to affect the Air with their natural Quality of Coldness. As for the Philosophers attributing Heat and Moisture to the Air, I always esteemed it a Fancy; Lastly, I remember that after my Departure from the Earth, I never felt ei ther hunger or thirst; whether the Purity of the Air. freed from the Vapours of the Earth and Water. might yield Nature sufficient Nourishment, or what else might be the Cause I cannot determine, but so I found it, though I was perfectly in Health both of Body and Mind, even above my usual Vigour.

Some Hours after the departure of that deviling Company, my Gansas began to bestir themselves, still directing their Course toward the Globe or Body of the Moon, making their Way with such incredible Swiftness, that I conceived that they advanced little is than fifty Leagues in an Hour, in which Passage observed three Things very Remarkable, one that e farther we went the less the Globe of the Earth peared to us, and that of the Moon much larger; ain, the Earth which I had ever in mine Eye, feemto mask it felf with a kind of brightness like anoer Moon, and as we discern certain Spots or Clouds it were in the Moon, fo did I then see the like in . e Earth; but whereas the Form of those Spots in the oon are always the fame, these on the Earth seemed: degrees to change every Hour; the Reason whereof. ms to be, that whereas the Earth according to his tural Motion (for fuch a Motion I am now fatisfied the th, according to the Opinion of Copennicus) turns and upon her own Axis every four and twenty Hours m West to East, I should at first see in the middle the Body of this new Star the Earth, a Spot like a ar with a Morsel bit out on one side, in some Hours hould observe this Spot move away toward the East; is no doubt was the main Land of Africa; then might perceive a great shining brightness in that Place hich continued about the same time, and was questiless the vast Atlantick Ocean; after this succeeded a or almost Oval, just as we see America described in our aps, then another immense Clearness representing are del Zur, or the South Sea; and laftly a number Spots like the Countries and Islands in the East Ines, fo that it seemed to me no other than a huge athematical Globe turned round leifurely before me, herein successively all the Countries of our Earthly orld were within twenty four Hours presented to view; and this was all the means I now had to mber the Days, and reckon the time.

lefs

I could now wish that Philosophers and Mathemaians would confess their own Blindness, who have herto made the World believe that the Earth had Motion, and to confirm it are forced to attribute to ery one of the celestial Bodies, two Motions directly contrary to each other, one from the East t the West, to be performed in twenty four Hours, wit an impetuous rapid Motion; the other from West t East in feveral Proportions; O incredible Supposition That those huge Bodies of the fixed Stars in the high est Orb, whereof they confess divers are above a Hundred times bigger than the whole Earth, shoul like fo many Nails in a Cart-Wheel be whirled abou in fo fhort a Time; whereas it is many Thousan Years, no less (say they) than thirty Thousand, before that Orb finishes his Course from West to East, which they call his natural Motion; now whereas they a low their natural Course from West to East, to eve ry one of them, therein they do well; the Moon per forms it in feven and twenty Days; the Sun, Vem and Mercury in a Year or thereabout, Mars in thre Years, Jupiter in twelve, and Saturn in thirty. Bu to attribute to these celestial Bodies contrary Mot ons at once, is an abfurd Conceit, and much more t imagine that the same Orb wherein the fixed Stars are whose natural Course takes up so many Thousands Years, should be turned about every twenty four Hour I will not go fo far as Copernicus, who makes the Su the Center of the Earth, and immoveable, neither wi I be positive in any Thing, only this I say, allow th Earth its Motion, which these Eyes of mine can test fy to be true, and all those Absurdities are removed every one having only his own fingle and proper Me tion.

rectly

But where am I? I promised an History, and a unawares turned Disputer. One Accident more besel neworth mention, that during my stay I saw a kind of redish Cloud coming toward me, and continual approaching nearer, which at last I perceived was on a huge swarm of Locusts. He that reads the Discours of learned Men concerning them, as John Leo of frica, and others, who relate that they are seen in the Air several Days before they fall on the Earth, an dds thereto this Experience of mine, will eafily conlude that they can come from no other Place than the Globe of the Moon. But now give me leave to go on quietly in my Journey for cleven or twelve Days, luring all which time I was carried directly toward he Globe or Body of the Moon, with such a violent whirling as is inexpressible, for I cannot imagine a Bullet out of a Cannon could make Way through the aporous and muddy Air near the Earth with half that elerity; which is the more strange, since my Ganjas noved their Wings but now and then, and fometimes or a quarter of an Hour not at all, only holding them tretch'd out, as we see Kites and Eagles sometimes lo for a short space; during which Pauses I suppose hey took their Naps, and times of sleeping, for other imes I could perceive they never had any; for my elf I was so fastned to my Engine that I durst slumper enough to serve my turn, which I took with as great ease as if I had lain on the best Down Bed in Spain.

How

After eleven Days Passage in this violent flight, I perceived we began to approach to another Earth (if I may fo call it) being the Globe or very Body of that Star which we call the Moon. The first difference I found between this and our Earth was, that it appeared in its natural Colours, as foon as ever I was free from the attraction of the Earth; whereas with us, a Thing a League or 2 from us puts on that deadly Colour of Blue. then perceived also that this World was the greatest part covered with a huge mighty Sea, those Parts only being dry Land which are to us somewhat darker than the rest of her Body, I mean, what the Country People call, The Man in the Moon, and that part which thines so bright, is another Ocean besprinkled with Islands, which for their smallness we cannot discern so far off; so that the Splendor which appears to us in the Night, is nothing but the Reflection of the Sun Beams returned to us out of the Water as from a Looking-glass.

How much this disagrees with what our Philosophers teach in their Schools is evident; but alas! How many of their Errors hath Time and Experience refuted in this our Age; and among other vain Conjectures, who hath not hitherto believed the upper Region of the Air to be very hot, as being next forsoth, to the natural Place of the Element of Fire; meer Vanities, Fancies and Dreams; for after I was once free from the attractive Beams of that tyranous Loadstone the Earth, I found the Air altogether serene, without Winds, Rain, Mists or Clouds, neither hot nor cold, but constantly pleasant, calm and comfortable till my arrival in that New World of the Moon; as for that Region of Fire our Philosophers talk of, I heard no News of it, mine Eyes have sufficiently informed me there's no fuch Thing.

The Earth had now by turning about shewed me all her Parts twelve times when I finished my Course; for when by my reckoning it seemed to be (as indeed it was) Tuesday Sept. 11.at which time the Moon being two Days old, was in the twentieth Degree of Libra, my Ganfas seemed by one consent to stay their Course, and rested for certain Hours, after which they took their flight, in less than an Hour set me on the Top of an high Hill in that Other World, where many wonderful Things were presented to my fight. For I obferved first, that though the Globe of the Earth appeared much greater there than the Moon doth to us, even three times bigger, yet all Things there were ten, twenty, yea, thirty times larger than ours; their Trees were thrice as high, and above five times broader and thicker; fo were their Herbs, Birds and Beafts, though I cannot well compare them to ours, because I found not any kind of Beaft or Bird there which any way resembled ours, except Swallows, Nightingals, Cuckoos, Woodcocks, Batts, and some kind of Wild-Fowl; and likewise such Birds as my Gansas; all which as I now perceived, spend their time in their abience

was

absence from us, in that World, neither do they difter in any Thing from ours, but are the very same kind.

No fooner was I upon the Ground, but I found my felf extream hungry; stepping then to the next Tree, I fastned my Engine and Gansas thereto, and in great haft fell to examining my Pockets for the Victuals I had referved there; but to my great Surprise and Vexation, instead of Partridges and Capons, which I thought I had hoarded there, I found nothing but a Medley of dry Leaves, Goats-hair, Sheep or Goats-dung, Moss, and the like; my Canary Wine was turned, and stunk like Horse-pis; oh the villany and cheats of these cursed Spirits, whose assistance if I had depended on, in what a Condition had I been! While I Rood musing at this strange Metamorphosis, on a sudden I heard my Ganfas fluttering behind me, and looking back I spied them falling greedily upon a Shrub within the reach of their Lines, whose Leaves they fed earnestly upon, whereas before I had never seen them eat any Green Thing whatever, so stepping to the Shrub, I put a Leaf to my Mouth, the Taste was so excellent that I cannot express it, and if I had not with differetion moderated my Appetite, I should have furfeited thereon, yet it happened to be a good Bait both for me and my Birds, when we had most need of Refreshment.

Scarce had we ended our Banquet when I saw my self surrounded with a strange kind of People both in Feature, Manners and Apparel; their Stature was very different, but they were generally twice as high as ours; their Shape and Countenance pleasant, and their Habit hardly to be described; for I never saw either Cloth, Silk, nor other Stuff, like that whereof their Cloaths were made; neither can I possibly relate their Cloaths were made; neither can I possibly relate their Colour, they being in a Manner all cloathed alike; it was neither Black, White, Yellow, Red nor Blue, nor any Colour composed of these; if you ask what was it then, I must tell you, it was a Colour never seen in our Earthly World, and so neither to be described nor conceived by us; for as it is hard to mak a Man born blind, understand the difference between Green and Blue, so neither can I decipher this Moon Colour, as having no Affinity with any I ever beheld; I can only say it was the most glorious and delightful that can be imagined, neither was any Thing more pleasant to me during my stay there.

Being surprized at the Appearance of these People fo fuddenly and in fuch Accourrements, I crossed my felf and cried out, Jesu Maria; no sooner was the Word Jesu pronounced, but young and old fell on their Knees (whereat I not a little rejoiced) holding up their Hands on high, and repeating certain Words which I understood not; and prefently rising again, one much taller than the rest came and kindly embraced me, and ordering as I perceived some of the rest to attend my Birds, he took me by the Hand, and led me to his Dwelling, down toward the Foot of the Hill, which was a Building fo great and beautiful, as nothing in our World is so comparable thereto; yet afterward I saw such as this seemed but a Cottage in respect of them; there was no Door about the House less than 30 Foot high, and twelve broad, the Rooms were 40 or 50 Foot in height, and answerable in Proportion; neither could they be much less, the Master thereof being full twenty eight high, and I suppose his Body would weigh twenty five or thirty of ours; after I had rested with him about one of our Days, he led me five Leagues off to the Palace of the Prince of the Country, the Stateliness whereof I have not now leisure to describe; this Prince was much taller than the former, and called (as near as I can by Letters declare it, for their Sounds are not perfect ly to be express'd by our Characters) Pylonas, which in their Language is First or Chief, if it doth not rather denote his Authority and Dignity, as being the principal rincipal Man in all those Parts; though yet their s one Supream Monarch amongst them, much greater f Stature than he, commanding over all that whole World, having under him twenty nine other Princes of great Power; and every one of these has twenty our inferior Governors, whereof this Pylonas was one. The first Ancestor of this great Monarch came out of he Earth, as they relate, and by marrying the Heiefs of that vast Monarchy obtaining the Government, eft it to his Posterity, who have enjoyed it ever ince, even forty Thousand Moons, which is 3077 lears, his Name was Idonozur; whose Heirs to this Day assume the same Name; he, they say, having continued thereabout four Hundred Moons, and beot divers Children, returned (though by what means hey know not) to the Earth again. I doubt they have their Fables as well as we, fince our Historians never mention any earthly Man to have been in that World before my felf, and much less to have returned again. I cannot therefore but condemn this Tradition as false and romantick, though I found Learning was in great esteem among them, and they seem to detest Lying and Falshood, which is there severely punished, and which may yield some Credit to their Historical Narrations. Many of them live wonderful long, even beyond belief, affirming to me that some survived thirty Thousand Moons, which is above a Thousand Years, so that the Ages of three or four Men might easily reach to the time of the first Idonozur; and this is generally noted, that the taller People are of Stature, the more excellent are their Endowments of Mind, and the longer time they live; for their Stature is very different, great Numbers not much exceeding ours, who feldom live above a Thousand Moons, which is fourscore of our Years; theie they account base unworthy Creatures, but one degree above brute Beasts, and imploy in mean and servile Offices, calling them Bastards, Counterfeits or Changlings; those whom they account rally thirty times, both in quantity of Body, and length of Life, proportionable to the quality of the Day in both Worlds, theirs containing almost thirty of our Days.

The Manner of our travel to the Palace of Fylonas, was more strange and incredible than any Thing we have related, for at our first setting forth there were delivered to each of us two Feather Fans, like those our Ladies in Spain cool themselves with in Summer; you must understand that the Globe of the Moon has likewife an attractive Power, yet so much weaker than the Earth, that if a Man do but spring upward with all his strength, as Dancers do in shewing their Tricks, he will be able to mount fifty or fixty Foot high; and being then above all Attraction from the Moon's Earth, he falls down no more, but by the help of these Fans as with Wings, they convey themselves in the Air in a short space (though not quite fo swift as Birds) whither they please. In two Hours time (as I could guess) by the help of these Fans we were carried through the Air those five Leagues, in all about fixty Persons. Being arrived at the Palace of Pylonas, after our Conductor had declared what manner of Present he had brought, I was called in to him by his Attendants; by the Stateliness of his Palace and the Reverence done him, I foon perceived his Greatness, and managed my Affairs in order to procure his Favour accordingly; and having, as you may remember, a certain little Box or Casker of Jewels, the remainder of those I brought from the East-Indies, before I was introduced I fecretly took them out of my Pocket, and chufing some of each fort. I made them ready to be presented as I should think convenient.

I found him sitting in a magnificent Chair of State, with his Wife or Queen on one Hand, and his Eldest Son on the other, one attended by a Troop of Ladies, and the other of young Men, and all along the side

of

the Room stood a great number of handsome Persoiges, whereof scarce one was lower of Stature than lonas, whose Age they report is now one and twenthousand Moons. At my Entrance I fell on my nees, and taking out my Jewels, I presented to the ing seven Stones of several forts, la Diamond, a uby, an Emerald, a Saphire, a Topaz, and an Opal, hich he accepted with Joy and Admiration. And en Ioffered the Queen and Prince some others, and demed to have bestowed divers more upon his Attendants, it Pylonas forbid them to accept any, supposing, as heard, they were all I had, which he would have e reserve for Idonozur his Sovereign; he then emaced me with much endearedness, and inquired diers Things by Signs, which I answered in the same anner to the best of my Skill; which not contenting m, he delivered me to the Guard of 100 of his Giits as I may well call them, firstly charging them at I should want nothing fit for me; that they mould ffer none of the Dewarf Linars, or little Moon Men, come near me. That I should be instructed in eir Language, and lastly, that they should by no. cans impart to me the knowledge of several Things him specified; what they were I could never unrstand. It may be you long to know what Pylonas quired of me; why what should it be but, whence came, how I arrived there, what was my Name and finess, with the like, to all which I answered as ar the Truth as possible.

Being dismist, I was provided with all Necessaries my Heart could wish, so that I seemed to be in a radise, the Pleasures whereof did not yet so transfit me, but I was much concerned with the thoughts my Wife and Children, and still retaining some ope that I might again return to them I tended my infas daily with much care; which yet had signified the, if other Men had not done more than I could; row the time came when of necessity all People of our Stature, and my self likewise must needs slee thirteen or fourteen whole Days together; for by secret and irrefistible Decree of Nature, when the Day begins to appear, and the Moon to be enligh ned by the Sun Beams, which is in the first Quarte of the Moon, all the People of our Stature inhabitin these Parts fall into a dead Sleep, and are not post bly to be wakened till the Sunfer, and is withdrawn for as Owls and Bats with us cannot endure the Ligh so at the first approach of Day we begin to be ame zed therewith, and fall into a Slumber, which grow by degrees into a dead Sleep till the Light be gon which is in fourteen or fifteen Days, that is, till th last Quarter. During the Sun's absence, there is twofold Light, one of the Sun, which I could not en dure to behold, and another of the Earth; now the of the Earth was at the height, for when the Moo is at the Change, then is the Earth a full Moon I them, and as the Moon increaseth with us, fo the Ligh of the Earth decreaseth with them. I found the Ligh though the Sun was absent, equal to that with us the Day, when the Sun is clouded; but toward th Quarter it daily diminisheth, yet leaving still a con perent Light, which feems very strange; though not I remarkable as what they there report, that in the other Hemisphere of the Moon, (contrary to that I fell upon where during half the Moon they fee not the Sun, an the Earth never appears to them) they have yet a kin of Light not unlike our Moon-light, which it seen the nearness of the Stars and other Planets that are a far less Distance than from us; affords them.

You must understand, that of the true Lunars, of Moon Men, there are three kinds, some a little talke than we, as perhaps ten or twelve Foot high, the can endure the Day of the Moon, when the Eart shines but little, but not the Beams of both, and smust then be laid asleep; others are twenty Foothigh or above, who can suffer all the Light both

ficult

e Earth and Sun. There are in a certain Island ne Mysteries whereof are carefully concealed) Men hose Stature is at least twenty seven Foot; if any her come a Land there in the Moons Day time, they stantly fall asleep; this is called Infula Martini, and th a particular Governour, who as they report is ty five Thousand Moons old, which makes five housand of our Years, his Name is said to be Hich, and he in a manner commands Idonozur himfelf, pecially in that Island, out of which he never reoves; there is another comes often thither, who ey say is not above half his Age, that is, about irty three thousand Moons, or two thousand six undred of our Years, and he orders all Things thro' e Globe of the Moon, in Matters of Religion, as folutely as the Pope doth in any part of Italy. I would in have feen this Man, but was not permitted to ome near him, his Name is Insozes.

Now let me settle my self to a long Nights sleep, which end my Attendants take charge of my Birds, repare my Lodging, and fignifie to me by Signs how must order my self. It was then about the middle f September, when I perceived the Air more clear an ordinary, and with the increase of the Light I egan to feel my felf first dull, and then heavy to sleep, hough I had not been lately disturbed of my Rest; at ength b delivered my felf into the Custody of this ifter of Death, whose Prisoner I was for almost a ortnight after, and then awaking, it is not to be beleved how brisk and vigorous I found the Faculties both f my Body and Mind; I then applied my felf to earning the Language, which is the same throughout Il the Regions of the Moon, yet not so wonderful, ince I believe all the Earth of Moon does not amount o the fortieth Part of our inhabited Earth, partly beaufe the Globe of the Moon is far less, and besides the sea or Ocean covers very nigh three Parts of four, whereas the Land and Sea in our World may be judgd of an equal Measure. Their Language is very difficult, fince it hath no affinity with any other I eve heard, and confills not so much of Words and Letter as Tunes and strange Sounds, which no Letters ca express, for there are few Words but fignifie fevera Things, and are distinguished only by their Sounds which are fung as it were in uttering; yea, many Word confift of Tunes and without Words; by occasion where of I find a Language may be framed, and eafily learn ed, as well by us, as any other in the World, only of Tunes, which is an Experiment worth fearthing af ter; notwithstanding these Disficulties, within two Months I attained to fuch knowledge therein that understood most Questions demanded of me, and with Signs and Words made reasonable thist to utter my Mind which Pylonas having notice of, he of times fent for me, and was pleased to inform me of several. Things my Guardians durst not disclose, though I must needs fay, I never found they abused me with an untruth, but it I asked a Question they were unwilling to resolve, they would shake their Heads, and with a Spanish shrug divert to some other Discourse.

After seven Months time, the great Idonozur making his Progress to a Place about two Hundred Leagues from the Palace of Pylonas, fent for me, yet would not admit me into his Prefence, but diffeoursed me through a Window, where I might hear him, and he hear and fee me at pleasure. I presented him with the remainder of my Jewels, which he thankfully accepted, faying he would require them with Gifts of a far more considerable Value. I stayed there above a quarter of a Moon, when I was again fent back to Pylonas, for if we had stayed a Day or two longer, the Sun would have overtaken us before we could have recovered our home. The Gifts he bestowed on me were such, that a Man would part with Mountains of Gold to purchase; they were all Stones, nine only in humber, of three forts, one called Poleastis, another Machrus, and the 3d Ebelus, of each fort three; the first were about the of an equal Meaning Their Languagents were dif-

he bigness of a Hazel-Nut, very like Jet, which anong many other incredible Vertues hath this propery, that being once put in the Fire they ever after etain their heat, though without any outward appeaance, till quenched with some fort of Liquor which to way endamages them, though heated and cooled herein a thousand Times; their Heat is so vehement hat it will make any Metal within the heat of it red ot, and being in a Chimney, will heat the Room as f a great Fire were kindled therein; Machrus is yet nore precious, in Colour like a Topaz, fo clear and esplendent, as though not above the bigness of a Bean, yet being placed in the Night, in the midst of large Church, it makes all as light as if an Hundred amps were hanged round; can any Man wish for nore useful Properties in a Stone than these? Yet ny Ebelus is fo excellent, that it may be much preerred before them, yea prized above all the Diamonds, aphires, Rubies, and Emeralds, that our World can fford. The Lunar Colour is so exceeding beautiful, hat a Man would travel a Thousand Leagues to behold t, the Shape is somewhat flat, of the breadth of a lece of Eight, and twice the thickness, one Side is of more Orient Colour than the other, which being lapt to a Man's bare Skin, takes away all the Weight and Ponderou ness of his Body, but turning he other Side, it adds Force to the attractive Beams f the Earth, either in this World or that, and makes hat Body half as heavy again; do you not wonder now why I should so over-prize this Stone? Before you see ne on Earth again, you will find I havereaf on to value his invaluable Jewel. I enquired whether they had ot any kind of Jem, or other means to make a Man nvisible, which I judged a Thing of admirable Use, nd could mention divers of our learned Men who had vritten to this Purpose; they answered, that if it vere possible, yet they were sure Heaven would not uffer it to be revealed to us Creatures subject to so many Imperfections, and which might be easily abused to ill purposes, and this was all I could get of them.

Now after it was known that Idonozur the great Monarch had done me this Honour, it is strange how much all respected me more than before; my Guardians, who had been hitherto cautious in relating any Thing of the Government of that World, grew now more open, so that from them and Pylonas together I understood many notable Particulars; as that in a Thousand Years there is found neither Thief nor Whore monger; for first there is no want of any Thing necessary for the use of Man, Food growing every where without Labour, of all forts that can be desired. As for Cloths, Houses, or whatever else : Man may be supposed to want, it is provided by their Superiors, though not without some Labour, but ye so easie as if they did it for pleasure; again, their Pe males are all absolute, Beanties, and by a secret dispofition of Nature, a Man there having once known ? Woman, never desires any other; Murther was nevel heard of amongst them, neither is it hardly possible to be committed, for there can be no Wound made bu what is curable; yea, they affured me, and for m part I believe it, that though a Man's Head be cut off vet if within three Moons it be joined to the Car cass again, and the Juice of a certain Herb there grow ing applied, it will be so consolidated as the wound ed Party shall be perfectly cured. But the chief Cauf of their good Government, is an excellent Disposition in the Nature of the People, so that all both old and young hate all manner of Vice, and live in fuch Love Peace and Amity, as it seems to be another Paradise though it is true likewise, that some are of a bette Disposition than others, which they discern immediate ly at their Birth; and because it is an inviolable Law amongst them, that none shall be put to Death, therefor perceiving by their Stature, or some other Signs, who are like to be of a wicked and debauched Humour, the

fenc

nd them, I know not by what Means, into the Earth, d change them for other Children, before they have ther Opportunity or Ability to do amiss among em; but first, they say, they are fain to keep them ere for some time, till the Air of the Earth alters eir Colour like ours. Their ordinary vent for them a certain high Hill on the North of America, whose ople, I am apt to believe, are wholly descended from em, both in regard of their Colour, and their conmual Use of Tobacco, which the Lunars or Moon m smoak, exceedingly, the Place abounding much ith Moisture, together with the Pleasure they take erein, and some other Respects too long to rehearse. metimes, though but seldom, they mistake their m, and fall upon Europe, Afia, or Africa. I reember some Years since, I read certain Stories tendto confirm what is related by these Lunars, and ecially one Chapter of Neubrigensis. Inigo Mondein his Description of Nova Granata, also Foseph fia de Carana, in his History of Mexico, if my Mery fail not, recount what will make my Report re credible; but I value not Testimonies. If you inquire how Justice is executed, alas! what ed is there of exemplary Punishment where no Ofces are committed; neither need they any Laws s, for there is no Contention, the Seeds whereof en they begin to sprout are by the Wisdom of the t Superior, pluckt up by the Roots. And as litwant is there of Inylicians, they never furfeit mselves; the Air is always pure and temperate, ther is there any Caufe of Sickness, I could never r of any that were distempered. But the time gned them by Nature being spent, they die withthe least Pain, or rather cease to live, as a Candle s to give light when what nourishes it is consu-1. I was once at the Departure of one of them, was much furprized that notwithstanding the py Life he lived, and the multitude of Friends and

Children

98 The Voyage of Domingo Gonfales Children he should forfake, yet as soon as he unde flood his End to approach, he prepared a great Fea and inviting all whom he effeemed, exhorts the to be merry and rejoice with him, fince the Tir was come he should now leave the counterfe Pleasures of that World, and be made partaker all true Joy and perfect Happiness; I did not much admire his own Constancy as the behaviour. his Friends; with us in the like Cafe all feem mourn, when many of them do oft but laugh in the Sleeves, or under a Vizard. But here all both your and old did, in my Conscience, not pretendedly be areally rejoyce thereat, and if any dissembled, it was only Grief for their own particular Loss. Being dea their Bodies putrify not, and so are not buried, bu kept in certain Rooms appointed to that purpose, 1 that most of them can shew their Ancestors Bodies us corrupt for many Generations; there is never any Rais Wind, or Change of Weather, never either Summe or Winter, but as it were a perpetual Spring, yield ing all Pleasure and Content, free from the least Trov ble or Annoyance; Omy Wife and Children wha wrong have you done me, to bereave me of the Hap piness of that Place! But it is no great Matter, fo by this Voyage I am fufficiently affured, that whe

It was the ninth of September that I began to all cend from the Pike of Teneriff, twelve Days I was upon my Voyage, and arrived in that Province of the Moon called Semiri, Sept. 21. May 12. we came to the Court of the great Idonozur, and returned back the 17th to the Palace of Pylonas, where I continued til March 1601. When I earnestly requested Pylonas as I had oft done before, to give me leave to depart though with hazard of my Life, back into the Earth again. He disswaded me, insisting on the Danger of the Voyage, the Misery of that Place from whence

I came

the Race of my mortal Life is run, I shall attain greater Happiness elsewhere.

came, and the abundant Happiness I now enjoyed, the Remembrance of my Wife and Children t-weighed all these Reasons, and to say the Truth, was so elated with a Desire of the Glory I. should chase at my Return, as methought I deserved not Name of a spaniard, if I would not hazard twenty es rather than lose the least Particle thereof. Ireed, I had so strong a Desire to see my Children, t I could not possibly live any longer without goto them; he then requested me to stay one Year ger, I told him I must needs depare now or never, Birds began to droop for want of their usual yage, three were already dead, and if a few more ed I was destitute of all possibility of Return. At length h much folliciting I prevailed, having first acquaintthe Great Idonozur with my Intentions, and perceivby the often baying of my Birds a great longing in them egone, I trimed up my Engine, and took my Leave of mas, and March 29. Three Days after waking from the Moon's Light, I fastned my self to my Engine, not etting to take the Jewels Idonozur had given me, the Virtues and Use whereof Pylonas had acquaintme at large, with a small Quantity of Victuals reof afterward I had great Occasion. A vast Mulle of People being present, and among them Pylonimself, after I had given them the last farewel, loofe the Reins to my Birds, who with much diness taking Wing, quickly carried me out of ; it happened to me as in my first Passage, for I er felt either hunger or thirst, till I sell upon a Mountain in China, about five Leagues from the and Mighty City of Pequin. This Voyage was rmed in less than nine Days, neither heard I any s of these Airy Men I met with in my ascending; ing stayed me in my Journey, whether because of arnest Desire of my Birds to return to the Earth, ig already missed their Season, or that the Attractithe Earth was fo much stronger than that of the Moon, and so made it easier, yet so it was, though had three Birds less than before. For the first eight Days my Birds slew before me, and I on the Engir was as it were drawn after, but the ninth Day, who I began to approach the Clouds, I perceived my se and Engine to sink toward the Earth, and go beforthem; I was then horribly asraid least my Birds un ble to bear our Weight, being so few, should be constrained to precipitate both me and themselves headlor to the Earth, and thought it very necessary to make use of my Stone Ebelus, which I clapt to my bare Sk within my Cloaths, and instantly I perceived my Birmade way with greater ease than before, as seening freed from a great Burthen, neither do I this they could possibly have let me down safely to the Earth without that help.

China is a Country so populous that I think there scarce a piece of Ground thrice a Man's length white is not carefully manured; I being yet in the Air, son of the Country People spying me came running l Troops, and seising me would needs carry me befo a Magistrate, and seeing no other Remedy I yields to them. But when I tried to go I found my felf light, that one Foot being on the Ground I had muc ado to fet down the other, which was by reason n Ebelus took all Weight away from my Body, therefo I pretended a Desire of performing the Necessities Nature; which being made known to them by Sign for they understood not a Word of any Language could speak, they permitted me to go aside among tew Bushes, assuring themselves it was impossible should Escape from them; being there, I remembre Pylonas his Directions about the Use of my Stone and knit them up, with a few remaining Jewels, in an Handkerchief, all except the least and worst Ebela which I found means to apply in fuch a Manner my Body, that but the half of it, side touched my Skin this done I drew toward my Guardians, till coming

nei

treatment

earthat they could not cross my Way, I shewed them a ir pair of Heels, that I might have time to hidemy Jews, which I knew they would have robbed me of, if ot prevented. Being thus lightned, I led them such a ance, that had they been all upon the Backs of fo ma-Race-Horfes they could never have overtaken me; directed my Course to a thick Wood, wherein I tred about a quarter of a League, and there finding fine Spring, which I took for my Mark, I thrust my wels into a Hole made by a Mole hard by. I then took my Victuals out of my Pocket, to which I now in all my Voyage I had not the least Appee, and refreshed my felf therewith, till the People ho pursued overtook me, into whose Hands I quily furrendred my felf; they led me to an inferior ficer, who understanding that I had escaped from ofe who first apprehended me, caused an Incloe of Boards to be made, wherein they put me, fo at only my Head was at liberty, and then carried upon the Shoulders of four Slaves, like some norious Malefactor, before a Person of great Authori-, who in their Language was called a Mandavin, and ided a League off the famous City of Pequin. ald not understand them, but found I was accused fomething with much vehemence; the Subflance this Accusation it seems was, that I was a Magician appeared by my being fo strangely carried in the Air, d that being a Stranger, as both my Language and bitdid declare, I contrary to the Laws of China had red the Kingdom without a Warrant, and probably no good Intent. The Mandarin heard them with great deal of Gravity, and being a Man of a quick prehension, and studious of Novelties, he told them. would take such Order as the Case required, and bold Attempt should not go unpunished; having mist them, he ordered his Servants I should be ot in a remote part of his vast Palace, be strictly urded, and kindly used; this I conjecture by my-

E 3

102 The Voyage of Domingo Gonsales

on was much better than I could expect, I lodged we eat well, was well attended, and could complain nothing but my restraint; thus continued I man Months, afflicted more with the Thoughts of my Gang than any Thing else, who I knew must be irrecovered.

rably loft, as indeed they were.

In this time by my own Industry, and the Assi ance of those who accompanied me, I learnt to speindifferently the Language of that Province (for a most every Province in China hath its proper Tongu whereat I perceived they were much pleased; at leng I was permitted to take the Air, and brought in the spacious Garden of that Palace, a Place of extr ordinary Pleasure and Delight, adorned with Her and Flowers of admirable sweetness and beauty, wi almost infinite variety of Fruits, European and other all composed with that rare Curiosity as even ravish my Senses, in the Contemplation of such delights Objects; I had not long recreated my felf here, who the Mandarin entred the Garden on that side I wi walking, of which having notice by his Servants, and th I ought to kneel to him (as usual reverence I found t ward great Officers) I did so, and humbly intreat his Favour toward a poor Stranger, who arrived these Parts not designedly, but by the secret dispos of the Heavens; he answered in a different La guage which I hear all the Mandarins use, and lil that of the Lunars, confisting chiefly of Tunes, while was interpreted by one of his Attendants, wishing n to be of good Comfort, since he intended no harm me. Next Day I was ordered to come before his and being conducted into a noble Dining Room exqu fitely painted, the Mandarin commanding all to avoid vouchfafed to confer with me in the vulgar Language inquiring into the State of my Country, the Power my Prince, and the Religion and Manners of the Per ple; wherein having fatisfied him, he asked me abou

Education, and what brought me into this remote buntry; I then declared to him the Adventures of Life, omitting what I thought convenient, and pecially forbearing to mention the Stones given me Idonezur.

The strangeness of my Story did much amaze him, d finding in all my Discourse nothing tending to agick, wherein he hoped by my Means to be inucted, he began to admire the Excellency of my Wit, plauding me for the happiest Man that this World ever v, and wishing me to repose my felf after my long rration, he for that time dismissed me. After which Mandarin took so much delight in me, that no y passed wherein he did not send for me; at length advised me to cloth my felf in the labit of that untry, which I willingly did, and gave me not ly the Liberty of his House, but took me also th him when he went to Pequin, whereby I had Optunity to learn the Disposition of the People, and Policy of the Country; neither did I by my Attenice on him, gain only the Knowledge of these ings, but the possibility likewise of being restored my native Soil, and to those dear Pledges which I ue above the World, even my Wife and Children; by often frequenting Pequin, I at length heard of ne Fathers of the Society of Jesus, who were bene famous for their extraordinary Favour with the ig, to whom they had presented some European Gifts, Clocks, Watches, Dials, and the like, which by m were counted exquisite Curiosities. To these by Mandarin's leave I repaired, and was welcomed them, they much wondring to fee a Lay Spaniard re, whither they had with fo much Difficulty obned Leave to arrive. There did I relate to Father stoja and others of the Society, the forementioned ventures, by whose Directions I put them in wrig, and sent this Story of my Fortunes to Macae, n thence to be conveyed to Spain as a Forerunner

E 4

104 A Journey to the Top

of my Return; and the Mandarin being indulgent to me, I came often to the Fathers, with whom I conful ed about many Secrets, and with them also laid the Foundation of my Return, the blessed Hour whereof do with Patience expect, that by enriching my Courtry with the Knowledge of these hidden Mysteries, may at last reap the Glory of my Fortunate Misson tunes.

RESPONSED A RESPONSE A RESPO

A Journey of several English Merchants from Oratava in Teneriss, one of the Canar Islands on the Coast of Africa, to the To of the Pike in that Island, with the Observations they made there.

Ention being made in the preceding Story of the Pike of Teneriff, it may be some diverso to insert the following little Journey performed be divers Englishmen a few Years since to the Top, who published the following Account thereof.

The Pike of Teneriff is thought not to have its equal in the World for height, its Top being so much a bove the Clouds, that in clear Weather it may b seen fixty Dutch Leagues at Sea.

It cannot be ascended but in July and August, lying all the other Months covered with Snow, though up on this and the near adjacent Islands none is to be seen; it requires three Days travel to come to the Top; the Merchants and other worthy Persons who undertook this Journey proceed thus; Having surnished our selves with a Guide, Servants, and Horses to carry our Wine and Provision, we set forth from Oratava, a Port Town in the Island of Teneriss, situate the North-Side, two Miles distant from the in Sea, and travelled from twelve at Night till ht in the Morning, by which time we got to the p of the first Mountain toward the Pico de Terraira; re under a very large and conspicuous Pine-Tree, took our Break fast, Dined, and refreshed ourselves two in the Afternoon. Then we passed through ny sandy Ways, over many lofty Mountains, but ed and bare, and not covered with Pine-Trees as first Nights Passage was; this exposed us to excesheat till we arrived at the Foot of the Pico, where found divers huge Stones, which feemed to have en from some upper part; about fix in the Evening began to ascend up the Pico, but were scarce adced a Mile, when the Way being no more passafor Horses, we lest them with our Servants. In ascent of one Mile, some of our Company grew y faint and fick, disordered by Fluxes, Vomitings, aguish Distempers, our Horses Hair standing up Briftles, and calling for fome of our Wine, carin small Barrels on an Horse, we found it so wonfully cold, we could not drink it till we had made re to warm it, notwithstanding the Air was very. n and moderate, but when the Sun was set, it beto blow with fuch Violence, and grew fo cold, taking up our Lodging among the hollow Rocks, were necessitated to keep Fires in the Mouths of n all Night.

and being come another Mile up, one of our apany failed, and was able to proceed no further; be began the black Rocks; the rest of us pursued our rney till we came to the Sugar Louf, where we beto travel again in a white Sand, being sitted with es, whose single Soles are made a Finger broader a the upper Leathers, to encounter this difficult Paster, having ascended as far as the black Rocks, which all stat like a plain Floor, we climbed within a

E 5

Mile

196 A Journey to the Top

Mile of the very Top of the Pico, and at last we : tained the Summit, where we found no fuch Smoak appeared a little below, but a continual Perspirati of a hot and fulphurous Vapour that made our Fac extreamly fore; all this Way we found no considerab alteration of the Air, and very little Wind, but on t Top it was so impetuous that we had much ado stand against it, whilst we drank King Charles 1 Health, and fired each of us a Gun. Here also w took our Dinner, but found that our strong Water had lost their Virtue, and were almost insipid, whi our Wine was more brisk and spirituous than before the Top on which we stood being not above a Yard broa is the Brink of a Pit called the Caldera, which w judged to be a Musket-shot over, and near foursco Yards deep, in Form of a Cone, hollow within lil a Kettle, and covered over with small loofe Stone mixed with Sulphur and Sand, from among which i fued divers Spiracles of Smoak and Heat, which bein stirred with any Thing, Puffs and makes a Noise, and so offensive, that we were even suffocated with the sudden rising of Vapours upon removing one of the Stones, which were so hot as not easily to be hand led; we descended not above four or five Yards in the Caldera or Caldron, because of the slipperiness un der Foot, and the Difficulty; but some have adventi red to the Bottom; other Matters observable we disco vered none, besides a clear fort of Sulphur which la like Salt upon the Stones; from this renowned Pil we could see the Grand Canaries sourteen Leagues d stant, Palma eighteen, and Gomera seven, which intel val of Sea seemed not much wider than the Thames a bout London. We discerned also the Herro, being di stant about twenty Leagues, and so to the utmost Li mits of the Sea much farther; as foon as the Sun ar peared, the Shadow of the Pico seemed to cover no only the whole Island and the Grand Canaries, bu the Sea to the very Horizon, where the Top of th gar Loaf or Pico visibly appeared to turn up, and It its shade into the Air it self, at which we were

Suga

ach furprized;

But the Sun was not far ascended, when the Clouds gan to rise so fast, as intercepted our Prospect both the Seiani the whole island, except the Tops only of fubjacent Mountains which feemed to pierce them rough; whether these Clouds do ever surmount the we cannot fay, but to fuch as are far below they em sometimes to hang over it, or rather wrap themives about it, constantly when the West Winds ow; this they call the Cap, and is an infalliable Progstick of ensuing Storms; 1 of our Company who made is Journey again two Years after, arriving at the Top the Pico before Day, and creeping under a great one to shroud himself from the cold Air, after a lit-: space found himself all wet, and perceived it to me from the perpetual trickling of the Water from e Rocks above him; many excellent and exuberant rings we found issuing from the Tops of most of the oer Mountains, gushing out in great Spouts almost as far the huge Pine-Tree we mentioned before; having id a while at the Top, we all descended the sandy ay till we came to the Foot of the Sugar Loaf, which ing steep even almost to a Perpendicular we foon fled, and here we met with a Cave about ten Yards ep, and fifteen broad, being in shape like an Oven, Cupola, having a Hole at the Top near eight Yards er; this we descended by a Rope that our Servants ld fast on the Top, while with the other End being fined about our Middles we fwung our felves, till ing over a Bank of Snow, we flid down, lighting on it; we were forced to fwing thus in the defcent, cause in the midst of the Bottom of this Cave, opfite to the Overture at the Top, is a round Pit of ater like a Well, the Surface whereof is about a ard lower, but as wide as the Mouth at Top, and out fix Pathom deep; we supposed this Water was,

108 A Journey to the Top, &c.

n ot a Spring, but dissolved Snow blown in, or Wat trickling through the Rocks; about the Sides of the Grott for some height there is Ice and Isicles hanging down to the Snow.

But being quickly weary of this excessive cold Plac and drawn up again, we continued our descent fro the Mountains, by the same Passage we went up th Day before, and so about five in the Evening arrive at Oratava, from whence we fet forth; our Face were so red and fore, that to cool them we wer torced to wash and bath them in Whites of Eggs; th whole height of the Pico in Perpendicular is vulgarl esteemed to be two Miles and a half. No Trees, Herb! por Shrubs did we find in all the Passage, but Pines and among the whiter Sands a kind of Broom, being a bufliy Plant; it is the Opinion of some ingeniou Persons who have lived twenty Years upon the Place that the whole Island being a Soil mightily impregna ted with Brimstone, did in former times take Fire and blow up all or near all at the same time; and that many Mountains of huge Stones calcined and burnt. which appear all over this Island, especially in the South-West Part of it, were cast up and raised out of the Bowels of the Earth at the time of that general Conflagration; and that the greatest Quantity of this Sulphur lying about the Center of this Island, raised up the Pico to that height at which it now is feen; which appears by the Situation of those Rocks that lie three or four Miles round the Bottom of the Pico, and in fuch order one above another almost to the Sugar Loaf as it is called, as is the whole Ground swelling and rising up together by the Ascension of the Brimstone, the Torrents and Rivers of it did with a sudden Eruption roll and tumble them down from the rest of the Rocks; especially to the South-West, where from the Top of the Pico, to the Sea-Coast, lie huge heaps of these burnt Rocks, one under another, and there still remain the very Tracts of the Brimstone Rivers, as they ran over this Quarter of the Island, which hath fo wasted the Ground, beyond recovery, that nothing can be made to grow there but Broom.

over

A View of the Bay of Souldania near the Cape of Good Hope, on the Coast of Atrica; where the Ships of the Honourable East-India Company used formerly to refresh in their India Voyages. With an Account of the Natives, Birds, and Beasts of that Country, now called Casaria, and Monopata; or the Country of the Hottentots. With some Accidents happening there.

divert once more to the Bay of Souldania, lying in thirty four Degrees and a half of South Latitude, about twelve Leagues short of the Cape of Good Hope, in a sweet Climate sull of fragrant Herbs, which the Soil produceth of it self, pleasing to the Sense; where the Honourable East-India Company's Ships used formerly to refresh, and arriving there very weak and seeble with that Sea Disease the Scurvey, have often sound very great Relief; and it is observable if any one be not too much overgone with this Malady, as soon as they come to enjoy the fresh Air on any Shore with fresh Water and fresh Victuals, they presently secover; but if the Scurvey has over much prevailed,

110 A View of Souldania

they instantly die as soon as they set their Foot on Shore. Here is a most delicious Brook of sweet Water, arising out of a mighty Hill hard by, called for its Form, The Table, near which is another Hill exceeding high like a Pyramid, and called by Europeans the Sugar-Loaf; here are great store of Cattle, as little Cows, called by the barbarous Inhabitants Boos, and Sheep which they call Baas, who bear a short course hairy Wooll, and feem to have been never shorn. These Boos and Baas as they term them, were formerly bought in great plenty for small Quantities of Kettle Brass, and Iron Hoops taken off our empty Casks, which for this long Voyage to the Indies are hooped with Iron. These Salvages had the Cattle we bought of them at very great Command, for with a Call they would prefently run to them, and when they had fold a Bullock to us for a little piece of Brass, if we did not prefently knock him down, they would by the same Call make the poor Creature break from us, and run to them again, and then there was no getting them, but by giving more Brass; thus they sell the same Beast two or three times, by the Covetousness and Deceit of this brutish People. Of all Metals they love Brass best, it may be for the rankness of the Smell, wearing great Rings thereof about their Arms, so that if you lay before them a Piece of Gold worth 40s. and a Piece of Brass worth Two pence, they will leave the Gold and take the Brass; on this Shore are excellent small Roots for Salads, and store of large fat Mullets.

This remote part of Africa is Mountainous, and over run with Lyons, Tygers, Wolves, and many other Beasts of Prey, which in the Night discover themselves by their Noise and Roaring; to the Teeth and Jaws of which cruel Creatures, the Natives here expose their old People, when they grow decripit and troublesome; laying them forth in some open Place in the Night, when the wild Beasts and Lions roar after their

at the Cape of Good Hope.

when some English Ships were there, and by his pitiiul Cries discovered by our Court of Guard ashore, by whom he was delivered from Death; and they asking Coree one of the Natives why they did so, he replied,
It was their Custom, when People had lived so long that they knew not what to do with them, thus to be rid of them; they saw in this Bay of Souldania many Whales, party-coloured Fowls and Ostriches; the Soil about the Bay seems good, but the Sun shines not upon a People more barbarous than those which possess it, being rather Beasts in the Skins of Men, than Men in the Skins of Beasts, for by their Ignorance, Habit, Language, Diet and other Things, they appear absolutely brutish.

For generally all People, as well Heathen as Christian, acknowledge the great God of Heaven and Earth, but they, as Coree told us, own no God at all; their Speech seems rather an inarticulate Noise than a Language, like the clucking of Hens, or gabling of Turkies, founding like the Word Hott-en-tot, from whence they are so called. As they walk about they make a strange confused Noise; if there be two, three, ten, twenty or more in Company, they walk in rank one after another, in small Paths they have made by going thus, as Cows do when they come home to the Pail; or as Wild Geese flying in Ranks, make a Noise, so these walking together gabble from the first to the last, as if all spake and none answered; their Habits are Sheep Skins undrest thonged together, which cover their Bodies to the Middle, with a little Flap tied before them, being naked downward; when it is cool they put the Woolley, and when hot the Fleshy side next their Body. Their Ornaments are Bullocks or Sheeps Guts full of Excrements about their Necks; and when we bought their Cattel, they would take their Skins, Guts, and Garbage, which plentifully furnished them with that stinking Attire; when when they are hungry they sit down, and shaking some of that silthy Pudding out of the Guts, bow down their Mouths to their Hands almost as low as their Knees, and like hungry Dogs gnaw and eat the raw Guts.

7 010 2

The Women are adorned, habited and dieted in the fame Manner, only they wear more about their lower Parts than the Men. They carry their fucking Infants under their Skins upon their Backs, and their Breasts hanging down like Bagpipes, they put them up with their Hands, that they may suck them over their Shoulders; both Sexes make Coverings for their Heads of Cow-dung, mingled with a little stinking Greafe, and besmear their Faces therewith; which makes their Company insufferable if they get the Wind of you; they eat rotten mouldy Biskets fit for nothing but the Dunghill, yea, they will devour what a hungry Dog in England would refuse. A Couple of them had found on the Shore a large piece of a dead Fish the Sea had cast up, which stunk intolerably; they made a little Fire with dry Cow-dung, warmed and then eat it, with as much Appetite as a hungry Man would feed upon a favoury. Dish; which makes one believe they have but three Senses, wanting both Smelling and Tasting. These Brutes devote themselves to Idleness, for they neither spin nor dig; they are streight and well limbed, though not very tall, their Faces are ill favoured, most of their Noses flat, have little or no Beard; the Hair on their Heads short, black and curled; their Skins very tawny; swift they are of Foot, and will throw Darts and shoot Arrows very dangeroully.

In 1615. an East India Ship returning thence, and arriving at this Harbour when she was ready to sail, having two of these Salvages aboard, the Commander resolved to bring them home with him, imagining that having learnt English here, they might discover something of their Country to us; these poor Wretch-

s thus carried away against their Wills were much issurbed; one of them meerly out of sullenness, tho' e was very well used, died soon after they put to ea; the other who called himself Coree, was rought to London, and kept six Months in Sir Thomas mith's House, Governor of the East-India Company, where he had good Diet, good Cloaths, good Lodging, and all other fitting Accommodations; one would ave thought that this Wretch might have conceived is present, compared with his former Condition, a Jeaven upon Earth.

But all these Things gave him no content, though o his good Entertainment he had Gallantry added, laving a Chain of bright Brafs, with Breaft, Back nd Head-piece of the same, and a Buckler all of Brass, his beloved Metal, yet all this did not now cleafe him, for never was any Man more weary of Il Usage, than he was of Courtesies; being evermore desirous of returning to his Country; for he would ie on the Ground, and cry out very often in broken English, Coree home go, Souldania go, kome go. Not long after he was turned home, and had no sooner set footing on his own Shore but he threw away his Cloaths, Linnen, with all his other Covering, and instantly got his Sheep Skins upon his Back, Guts about his Neck, and aperfumed Cap of Cow-dung on his Head, and so returned like a Dog to his Vomit, and a Swine to his wallowing in the Mire, without a Metaphor; after this Fellow was returned, the Natives were shy of us, for though they would come about us in great Companies when we arrived, yet three or four Days before they thought we would depart not one was to be feen, fearing we would have dealt with them as with Coree. But it had been well he had never feen England, for as he discovered nothing to us, so when he came home he told his Countrymen, that Brass was but a base and cheap Commodity in England; and we had never after such a free Exchange of our Brass and Iron for their

7 619 7 619 7 619 7 619 7 619 7 619 7 619 7

114 A View of Souldania.

their Cattle. I asked Coree who was their God; h lifting up his Hands answered in bad English, Englan

God, Great God; Souldania no God.

In 1614. Ten Englisemen being condemned to die at the Old Baily, London, had their Execution respited by the Intreaty of the East-India Merchants, upon Condition they should be all banished to this Place, that they might discover somewhat Advantageous to Trade One named Duffeld, was that Year redeemed from that fad Banishment by Sir Thomas Row, Ambassador to the Great Mogol, and afterward brought back to England by that Noble Gentleman, and being intrusted by him, this ingrateful Villain stole some of his Plate and ran away; another was likewise on the Voyage, but what became of him I know not. So that only 8 were here left with Ammunition and Victuals, and a small Boat to carry them to a little uninhabited Island, in the Mouth of the Bay of Souldania, as a Place of Retreat and Safety from the Natives on the Main: It is called Penguin Island, probably so named by some Welchman, Penguin signifying a white Head, there being many large Fowls with great Cole-black Bodies and white Heads, called Penguins.

The chief Person lest here was one Cross, who called himself Captain; he was one of the Yeomen of the Guard to King James the first; but having twice or thrice had his hand in the Blood of Men slain in Duels, and being now condemned with the rest, upon great Suit made he was banished hither with them; yet Divine Justice seemed to pursue him, for being a stout Man, and abusing the Natives, he was surprized by them, who shot his Body so full of Arrows, that he seemed all one Wound; the other seven recovered their Boat, and got off the Continent toward the Island without much damage; but the Water running high, as soon as they were ashore their Boat was split in Pieces; so they were forced to continue in that miserable Place, where neither Tree-grew, nor any at the Cape of Good Hope. 115 'hing else, to sustain their Lives, having no fresh Waer but what the Showers left in the Holes of the ocks; and so abounded with venomous Serpents, that : was dangerous treading in the long Grafs; they ad but a finall Quantity of dry Bisket, their Bellies vere hungry and their Sleep unfafe, so that nothing ould render their Condition more unhappy; and yet hese seven vile Wretches all lived to be made Examles of Divine Justice. For after they had continued n this desolate Place five or fix Months, and were all rown almost mad with Famine, an English Ship came nto that Road bound for England; four of these seven rowing impatient of an Hours flay there, immediatey after the Ship came in made a Float of the Ruins of heir split Boat, and with ravelled Boat-Ropes fastning s well as they could altogether, they got thereon, joizing it to the best advantage, hoping by the Beneit of their Oars, and strength of the Tide, which ran juick toward the Ship, to recover her; but it being oward Evening when they made this Attempt, and not being discovered by the Ship which rid a good way up in the Bay before they could come near her, he Tide returned and carried them back into the Sea,

Thing

The Day following the Ship sent a Boat to the Island, which took these three yet surviving into her, who save this Account of their Fellows Missortune; but notwithstanding all the Susserings of these Missortunes, yet they behaved themselves so lewdly in the Ship, that they were often put in the Bilbows; at length the Ship arriving in the Downs, she had not been at Anchor three Hours when these Villains got ashore, where they had not been above three Hours but they committed a Robbery, and a few Hours after all were apprehended for the Fast, and by the Lord Chief Justice's special Warrant, Executed as incorrigible Wretches upon their former Sentence, near Sandwich in Kent, where they committed the Crime. In where they all were cast away.

1615.

116 A View of Souldania

to be left in this Place; but hearing of the ill succe of their Predecessors, when the Ships were ready to depart and leave them on Shore, they all fell on the Knees with Tears in their Eyes before our Captain Joseph, befeeching him they might be hanged rather than left there; it was a sad sight to behold three Me in such a Condition as to esteem hanging a Mercy our Commander said he had no Commission to Execute them, but to leave them there, and so he murdo, and probably had done, but our fifth Ship the Savan staying a Day or two after, took these poor Me in.

Though the English East-India Company declined rai fing a Fort, or fetling a Colony at the Cape of Goo Hope, yet the Dutch have built a strong Fort there by the Sea-side, against the Harbour, where the Gover nor lives. And about 300 Paces distant, on the Wei of the Fort, is a small Dutch Town of about fixty Houses low, but well built with Stone Walls, from a Quar ry close by. The Country, for near 100 Miles up is pretty well settled with Farms, and yields good Crops of Wheat, Barley, Peafe, &c. to the industrious Dutch Families, and also to a considerable number of French Protestants; some of whom bless God that their King had banished them their Native Country, fince they are now fettled in a Land of Peace, Plenty and Security. There are great Quantities of Grapes, of which the French make excellent white Wine, of a pale yellow Colour, but sweet, pleasant and strong. There are also Cows, Goats, Hogs, Horses, and Sheep very large and fat. Ducks, Geefe, Hens and Turkeys are very numerous; so are Ostriches, who lay their Eggs in the Sand, one of which will very well suffice two Men. They have plenty of several forts of Fish; one not so hig as a Herring, of which they pickle great Quantities yearly, and fend them to Europe.

Qn

at the Cape of Good Hope. 117

the Moun-

On the Backfide of the Town towards the Mounains, the Dutch East-India Company have a large Mouse, nd a Garden three Miles long, encompassed with a righ Sone Wall, full of divers forts of Herbs, Flowrs, Roots and Fruits, with spacious Gravel Walks and Arbours; watered with a Brook which descends rom the Mountains, and being cut into many Channels is conveyed into all Parts of the Garden. This Water is afterward in Pipes carried into the Sea fo far hat a Long Boat may come under the Pipe, which is raised to some height, and by turning a Cock will fill all the Casks with fresh Water with the greatest Conveniency; and is the best Watering-Place in the World. The Hedges that make the Walks of this Garden are very thick, and nine or ten Foot high; they are kept neat even by continual pruning; they keep each fort of Fruit by themselves, as Apples, Pears, Pomegranets, and abundance of Quinces, all which thrive well. The Roots and Garden Herbs have also their distinct Places, hedged in apart, which makes the whole extream pleasant and beautiful. Great Numbers of Negro Slaves are continually weeding and working therein. All Strangers are allowed Liberty to walk there, but not to taste of the Fruit without

The Ditch that live in the Town get well by the Ships that touch there. When the Men come ashore to refresh themselves they must give three Shillings or a Dollar a Day for their Entertainment, though Bread and Flesh is as cheap here as in England. Besides they buy good penniworths of several Commodities from Seamen, which they sell again to the Country Farmers at a dear Rate; none of which live within 20 Miles of the Harbour. The high Tax that the Company lays upon Drink makes it very dear. There are but three Houses in the Town that sell strong Liquor; one where they sell only Wine, and you must buy no where else but by sealth, the Vintner

paying

The English Factories

paying a coliderable Price to the Company; fo that you may sometimes buy as much privately for 8 d. as you give 18 d. for there; but if the Person that fold it be known, he is ruined. There is another House for Beer, and Mum; and a third fells only Brandy and Tobacco. The Natives or Hottentots do likewife sell Beef and Mutton privately at an under Rate, which else must be bought only of the Company's Butchers, all others being prohibited buying of the Hottentots. And fo we leave the Cape of Good Hope.

民族外民族外民族外民族外条民族外民族列民族外

The Factories of the Honourable East-India Company in Persia. With an Account of the Religion, Government, and other notable Remarks in that Kingdom.

Also the Life and Doctrines of Mahomet

the Grand Impostor.

TAving cleared our Way, let us now fail merrily toward the Indies, doubling first the Cape of Good Hope, and then passing by Madagascar, called also St. Lawrence, one of the greatest Islands in the World, stored with all Manner of Provisions, but inhabited by a Barbarous and Heathenish People, yet stout, warlike and very numerous. Over against which on the Continent of Africa, are Zefala, and Mozambique, where the Portugals have got footing, and may be strongly supposed to be the Places whither Solomon sent his Navy of Ships built at Eziongebar, which stood on the Banks of the Red Sea, in Arabia the Happy, the Country of that famous Queen of the South, who hearing of his Wisdom and Renown, took her Journey in the Kingdom of Persia. 119

urney thence to visit the Court of King Solomon; om that Place Solomon fent his Ships for Gold and Silr, and Ivory, Coasting all along the African Shore, Art of Navigation being then unknown, and the ariner ficering without Chart or Compass, were cefficated to keep the Neighbouring Lands always fight, as doubtless they did, these Places being red with those rich Commodities above other Parts Africa.

The Portugals, Dutch and English, discovered these untries of India in the last Age, and have since tled themselves by Forts and Castles there; the rtugals first break the Ice, who in 1494. failing im Lisbon under Vosco de Gama, doubled the Cape of od Hope, and succeeded so well as to conquer and tify several Places in many Countries of Asia, and e Islands thereof. In 1593, the Dutch set out a Fleet m Amsterdam to India, wherein they used such extraornary dexterity with their Cannon Law and Steel Arguents, that they made themselves Masters of twenty the Forts and Castles, and of forty four or forty e Factories in a short time.

In 1600 the English began their Discoveries under t James Lancaster with four Ships, whose Endeaurs were fo bleft, and by the good Government of Honourable East India Company prospered so well, at they settled their Residence and Factories in twenfour several Places of note, as at Ormus and Fases, in the Entrance of the Persian Gulph, under Persian Monarch; at Cambaja, Surat, Agria, and oer Places in the Great Mogols Country; at Massapam, Armagon, Pettipoly, Pattana, Siam, and other aces on the Coast of Cormandel, and the Continent Asia; at Achin, Ticko, Jambo, Prianian, on the Isle Sumatra; at Bantam, Jacatra and Japarra on the and of Fava; at Socodana, and Beniermefa, on the and of Borneo; at Macassar, in the Isle of Gelebs; at leroon, on the Isle of Banda; at Firando in Japan; and and lastly, at Amboinio, Hitto, and other of the Moluc co's, which they quietly enjoyed, till our covetou Neighbours deprived us of some of them, and other were deserted on several Accounts.

120 I he English Factories, &c.

The Honourable Enft-India Company was incorpor rated in the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, and hath been confirmed, with divers Immunities added to their Char ter by all the succeeding Kings, so that now they have as ample Privileges as any Company whatfoe ver; and are found beneficial to the Nation by the great Trade they drive in importing fo many rich Commodities from India, Persia, and Arabia; they export from hence Pieces of Eight, Dollars, Broad Cloths. Perpetuanna's, Gun-powder, Elephants Teeth, Lead, Am. ber, Looking-Glasses, Sizars, Knives, Beads, Bracelets. Feathers, Coral, Quicksilver, Vermillion, Allom, Brim. stone, and many others; for which they Import all forts of Spices, Cotton Yarn, Callicoes, Pintadoes, Tamerinds, Sanders, Spikenard, Bezoar, Alloes, Mirrhe, Rubarb, Opium, Frankincense, Cassia, Borax, Calamus, Mirabolans, Green Ginger, Sugars, Sugar Candy, Campbire, Sandalwood, Benjamin, Musk, Civet, Ambergreese, Rice, Indico, Siks both Raw and Wrought, Salt Petre, Precious Stones of several forts, Pearl, Mother of Pearl, Gold, Silver, Christal, Cornelian Rings, Agats, Lacqure, Furrs, and Skins of Wild Beasts, Porcelane Copper, China Roots, Tea, Sanguis Braconis, China Wares of divers forts, with several other Commodities and Drugs.

THE THE

Ispahan, or Spawhawn, and Gambroon in the Kingdom of Persia.

Eligning to give some Account of Persia, wherein these Factories are settled, I shall begin with ban. This is the Capital City of all Persia, and the idence of the King, being in the Center of his oire, fituate in a great Plain, which extends three is, 15 or 20 Leagues, healthy and pleasant, beaud with stately Palaces, delicious Gardens, magcent Piazza's, and wealthy Bazars or Market-plaonly the Streets are narrow and dark, to prevent burning Rays of the Sun; and annoyed with Loads Ordure and Filth. In the Summer dusty, and in the nter dirty. In this City the East-India Company

e a Factory, as also at Buffora.

tambroon or Gomrow, is a City of great Commerce, rded with two Castles, wherein are planted 80 is Cannon. The Air is so hot and unwholsome, no stranger can live there above three or four nths in the Year, but retire to the Mountains two three Days Journey off. All Nations that Traffick n the Indian Seas, and the Land Caravans, carry amodities thither, and bring from thence Velvets. w Silk, and other Persian Goods. This City of abroon, where the English have a Factory, is raised n the Ruins of Ormus, as you will hear, which ng once the Staple of the Eastern World, and where we once had a famous Factory, I shall give some A count of it.

122 The English Factories

Ormus is an Island in the Persian Gulph, about 2 Miles in compass, Stony and full of Rocks, and in manner barren of all Necessaries, except Salt, wher with the very Rocks are covered, and of Salt Ster many Houses built; so destitute of all Things fitting for the Life of Man, that they had their Victuals, ye the Water they drank from the adjoining Countries the Summer fo hot, that the People rest in Caves of vered with Wood, and stand or sit in Water up to the Chin, and have Loopholes in their Houses to let in the Wind; yet in Regard of the Situation, it was one the richest Empires in the World, the Wealth of Perfe and India being brought thither, and conveyed hence by Water to the River Euphrates, and so by Boats, o on Camels Backs to Aleppo, Alexandria, Tripoly, an thence dispersed into all the Countries of the Me diterranean. Sea; the only City was of the same Nam with the Island, founded feven hundred Years ago by Makomet Danku, descended from the Kings of Sab in Arabia Fælix; who, with many Families of the Sa beans passed over the Streights into Carmenia, and th Isles adjoining, and liking the Situation of this Island built this City in it, which he called Ormus, or Armu zium, the Name of the Promontory wherein it lies it was seated at one End of the Isle, about two Mile in Compass; well built with a fair Market-Place, some Churches, and a well fortified Castle, furnished for Siege; by reason of its Wealth and resort of Merchants grown to such esteem that it gave Occasion to this Distich.

Si terrarum Orbis quaqua patet Annulus effet, Illius Ormulium Gemma Decusque foret.

Were all the World a Ring, this Isle alone Might of that Ring be thought to be the Stone.

was first under its own King, whose Dominion nded also to some part of the Continent on either , and over all the rest of the Islands within the ph; his Revenue was of no great yearly Value, till coming of the Portugals thither, by whom it was overed under the Conduct of Albuquerque, in 1509. having fortified some part of it for their own ence, made it the Staple of Trade for Indian Merdize, which so inrich'd the same, that the Reves of those Kings (though Vailals and Tributaries to Portugals) amounted to an hundred and forty thou-Seriffs yearly; in this flourishing State it stood 1622. when Abbas the Sultan of Persia having ived some Affronts from the Portuguese, or desirous remove the Trade from Ormus to some Port of his , gave Order to Emangoli Chan, the Duke of Shiras, esiege it with fifteen thousand Men; who de= ing of prevailing by his Land Forces only, ished himself with Ships and Cannon of some Eng-Merchants, to whom he promised many Things ch he never performed; for being once Master of City, he utterly destroyed it, removing the Canto Lar, the Wealth thereof to his own Treasury biras, and the Materials of the Houses to Gama ; the Portuguese and Christian Natives passing oto Muskat in Arabia Foelin; fince which, though English Captains that ventured in it were disapited of the Rewards they expected, yet so much our hath been given by the King of Perfice to the lift Nation, that the Agent who relides at Gambroon, s Custom of all Strangers who Traffick thither. and think to which the while, but, now allow you

the bear rection and are there were there the bear and the

Marie Andrews Company of the Control of

A service with the service of the se to the interior of the same and the same and the

The Religion of the Persians, with the Land Doctrines of Mahomet the Grand In postor.

Sophian Sect, and the Difference and Hatred to great between them and the Turks, though be own Mahomet for their Law-giver, that they absolutely irreconcileable. Now because this he rible Impostor has infatuated so great a Part of tworld with his blasphemous Dotages, I will here give a brief Account of his Life, and also of his Doctris as it is comprehended in his Holy Book, as they cit, or the Alcoran.

who was born after his Father's Death, at Jathrip, obscure Village of Arabia Fælix; but now become City called Medina Talnabi, or the Town of the Paphet, to which a Multitude of Mahometans go in Pigrimage every Year. His Mother named Hemina, wa perverse Jewess both by Birth and Religion, wildying when he was but two Years old, left him the Care of Unkle Abdal Mutalib, he, not able to give him any other Education than the Irreligion and Ign rance his Country afforded him, sold him at the Years of Age to the Ismaelites, after the barbaro Gustoms of the Arabians, who exposing him to sale the open Market, he was bought by one Abdal a weather Merchant; by him he was employed as a Slav of Mahomet the Impostor. 123 ill servile Offices, till observing his great Wit, and ess for better Services, he at last used him as his tor, fending him with his Camels and Loads of rchandize into Syria, Persia, Egypt, and other Places, erein he behaved himself with such dexterity that much increased his Master's Wealth, and his own. imation; of Person he is said to be low, and with-Scald-headed, but otherwise comely, and of good. pect; much troubled with the falling Sickness, sich Infirmity he made good use of afterward, afning those Fits were nothing but heavenly Raptures . which he conversed with the Angel Gabriel; he is ewise said to have been well skilled in Magick, by nich he taught a white Pidgeon to feed at his Ear, nich he declared was the Holy Ghost, by whom he is instructed in the Law he was to publish; but this t till afterwards; by Servery, comeliness of Person, d the great Knowledge he had in his Master's Busiis, he gained so far on the Affections of his Mistress, at upon the Death of Abdal she made him her Hus-

Possessed of all his Master's Wealth, he affected Ease, d being till then of no Religion, or at least a Pagan, began to hearken to Sergius a Nestorian Monk, who ing out of Syria for fear of Punishment (the Herefies Nestorius being newly both revived and censured) me into Arabia, where he found Entertainment in e House of Makomet; by his Perswasions, who und him a fit Instrument for the Devil to work on, began to entertain Thoughts of Hammering out a w Religion, which might unite all Parties in some onmon Principle, and bring the Christians, Jews ad Gentiles, into which the World was then divided, nder one Profession. Resolved on this, he retired to Cave not far from Mecca, as if he there attended on-Contemplation; Sergius in the mean time trumpetig in the Ears of the People both his Parts and Piety; who eing thus prepared to behold the Pageant, out comes the F 3

20 The Life and Doctvines

the principal Actor, with some Parts of his Alcon pleating enough to fenfual Minds, which he profel to have received from the Angel Gabriel; and findi that this edified to his Expectation, he next proclai ed Liberty to all Slaves and Servants, as a Thi commanded him by God, by whom the natural Lib ty of Mankind was most dearly tendred; which dre to him fuch a Rabble of unruly People, that withe Fear or Opposition he dispersed his Doctrines, reduci them at last to a Book, or Method. The Book this Religion he called the Alcoran, or Collection of Precep the Original whereof they feign is written on a T ble kept in Heaven, and the Copy brought to Mal met by the Angel Gabriel. A Book so highly revere ced by the Mahometans, that they write upon the C ver of it, Let none touch this but he that is clean. Th Body of it, as it now standeth, was composed by c man, the fourth Caliph or Governor, who feeing tl Saracens daily inclining to divers Herefies by reafe of some false Copies of Mahomet's Law, and that the Empire by the same Means was likely to fall into civ Discension, by the help of his Wife, who was Mah met's Daughter, he got a fight of all Mahomet's Paper which he reduced into four Volumes, and divided into 124 Chapters; commanding expresly upon Pain c Death, that that Book, and that only, should be re ceived as Canonical through his Dominions; the whole Body of it being only a Gloss and Exposition on eigh of the Commandments.

God, and one only God, and Mahomet is his Prophet. The hold Abraham to be the Friend of God, Moses the Men senger of God, and Christ the Breath of God, whom they deny to be conceived of the Holy Ghost, affirming that the Virgin Mary grew with Child of him by smelling to a Rose, and was delivered of him at he Breasts; they deny the Mystery of the Trinity, but punish such as speak against Christ, whose Religion of Mahomet the Impostor.

Was

is not, say they, taken away, but amended by Mako-. t, and whoever in his Pilgrimage to Mecca, doth t visite the Sepulchre of Christ either going or comg, is reputed not to have merited or bettered himf by his Journey.

2. Every Man must marry to encrease the Disciples of ahomet. Four Wives he allowes to every Man, and many Concubines as he will, between whom the usband makes no difference either in Affection or Aprel; but that the first Wife only enjoys his Sabbath y's Benevolence; the Women are not admitted while ive into their Churches, nor after Death into Parafe; and whereas in most other Countries, Fathers ves some Portions with their Daughters, the Mahoetans give Money for their Wives, which being ace paid, the Contract is Registred in the Cadies ook, and this is all their Formality of Marriage.

3. Every one must give of his Wealth to the Poor. Hence ome buy Slaves and set them free, others buy Birds nd let them fly; they use commonly to release irra oners and Bond-Slaves, to build Caves or Lodgings n the Ways for relief of Passengers; repair Bridges nd mend High ways; but their most ordinary Alms onlist in Sacrifices of Sheep and Oxen, which when he Solemnity is performed they distribute among the 'oor, to whom also on the first Day of every Year they re bound to give the Tythe, or tenth part of their rofits the Year past, so that there are scarce any Beggars among them.

4. Every one must make his Prayers five times a Day. When they pray they turn their Bodies towards Mecca, out their Faces sometimes one way, and sometimes mother, believing that Mahomet shall come behind them while at their Devotions. The first time is an Hour before Sun-rising, the second at Noon-Day, the third at three a Clock Afternoon, the fourth at Sunletting, the fifth and last before they go to Sleep; at all these Times the Cryers bawl in the Steeples (for

F 4

the-

128 The Life and Doctrines

the Turks and Saracens have no Bells) for the Peoto come to Church; and such as cannot, must, wh they hear the Voice of the Cryers, fall down in the Place where they are, do their Devotions, and kiss to Ground thrice.

4. Every one must keep a Lent one Month in a Year This Lent is called Ramazan, in which they support the Alcoran was given to Mahomet by the Angel G briel. This Fast is only in the Day-time, their La allowing them to be as Frolick in the Night as the please, so they abstain from Wine and Swines Fless which is prohibited in their Law at all times, but never so strictly abstained from as in Lent.

6. Be obedient to thy Parents. Which Law is moneglected of any in all the Alcoran, never any Chidren being generally so unnatural as the Turkish.

7. Thou shalt not kill. This they keep inviolate a mong themselves, but the poor Christians are sure to feel their Fury. And as if by this Law the actual medding of Blood only were prohibited, they hav invented Punishments for their Offenders worse that Death. As first the Strappado, which is hanging then by the Arms drawn backward, and then drawn up of high, and letting down again with a violent Swing which unjointeth all their Back and Arms. Secondly, They sometimes hoise up their Heels, and with a great Cudgel give them three or four hundred Blows on the Soles of their Feet. Thirdly, It is ordinary to draw them naked up to the Top of a Gibbet or Tower full of Hooks, and cutting the Ropes to let them fall down again, and by the Way they are caught by some of the Hooks, where they commonly hang till they die for Hunger.

8. Do unto others as thou wouldst be done unto thy self.
To those that keep these Laws he promiseth Paradise, a Place of all Delights, adorned with slowry Fields, watered with Chrystalline Rivers, beautisted with Trees of Gold, under whose cool shade they fhall

of Mahomet the Impostor. Il spend their Time with amorous Virgins, whose insions shall not be far distant. The Men shall neexceed the Age of thirty, nor the Women of fifn, and those to have their Virginities renewed as as lost. Friday he ordained to be their Sabbath, tly to distinguish his Followers from the Jews and istians, who solemnize the two Days ensuing; but ncipally because he was on that Day proclaimed ng or Emperor, and so accordingly created; Wine d Swines Flesh are the principal Things forbidden the Alcoran, from the last whereof they all unanioully refrain, but on the first they are so besotted, it when they come at it they feldom go home again led; insomuch that all the Wines in Constantinople ve been thrown about the Streets, and Death made e Penalty for any who shall presume to bring any ore into the City; Mahomet taught them, that every e should be faved by his own Religion, except ofe who revolt from the Alcoran to another Law; it so that under the Notion of Religion the means ly fuch as worship the one and only God, excludg thereby the Old Gentile Idolaters from the Hope Salvation. He likewise taught, that at the End of e World all Men who professed any such Religion ould go into Paradife, the Jews under the Banner Moses, the Christians under the Banner of Christ, and e Saracens under the Banner of Mahomet. They mpel no Man therefore to abjure the Faith wherein was born, but secretly commend and approve such are zealous in their own Religion, yet counting it a eat Honour to have daily new Profelites; they altre them with hopes of Freedom and Preferment, hich with many are too prevailing Motives to cause iem to renounce their Christian Profession; hence me infer, it is better for a Man that desires his Lierty, to live in these Countries than in some others, nce he is never molested if he meddle not with their aw, their Women or their Slaves.

Their r

Their Opinions of the End of the World are ver ridiculous, as that at the winding of an Horn, no all Flesh only, but the Angels themselves shall die that the Earth with and Earthquake shall be kneade together like a Lump of Dough; that a fecond Blast'c the same Horn shall after forty Days restore all again that Cain shall be the Captain or Ringleader of th Damned, who shall have the Faces of Dogs and Swine that they shall pass over the Bridge of Justice lade with their Sins in Satchels; that the greater Sinner shall fall into Hell, the lesser into Purgatory only with a thousand the like Fopperies, needless to relate which may be found in the Alcoran; a Thing fo ful of Tautologies, Incoherences, and gross Absurdities of so impure and carnal a Mixture, that whoever i. taken with it, must abandon his natural Reason, i Force, Ambition, or want of Christian Education do not induce him to imbrace it. For if we confider seriously the Causes of the deplorable Increase and long Continuance of this Religion, we shall find them ro be chiefly these. 1. The Greatness of the Victories obtained by the Saracens, who easily compelled the conquered Nations to receive their Law. 2. The great Zeal and Diligence of the Arabians themselves, who being a numerous People, and much given to Merchandize, have possessed themselves of all the Sea Coasts of Africk, from the Streights of Babel Mandel, almost to the Cape of Good Hope; of all the Islands in those Seas, and of many Factories and good Towns on the Coast of India, in all which they have settled their Religion also, as a Thing inseparable from their Nation. 3. A peremptory Restraint of all Disputations in any Point of Religion whatfoever. 4. The Suppressing Philosophy, and the Study of Human Sciences, the Light whereof might easily detect the grosness of their Superstitions. 5. The sensual Liberty allowed of having variety of Wives, and as many Concubines as they are able to keep. 6. The Promife rith which a Mind not illuminated with the Spirit of God, is generally more affected, than with the speculative Hope of a suture Happiness. 7. The sorbidding rinting and printed Books, whereby People might erceive the Truth and Purity of the Christian Faith, with the Falshood and Impurity of the Law of Marinet. Yet had not these last been sufficient to increase the Belief of such Absurdities, if the first had ot opened and prepared the Way.

For force of Arms was really the most prevailing rgument by which Mahomet himself confirmed, and is Successors since have propagated and dispersed his octrine; who being strengthened by that rascal Rable which reforted to him, he affaults Medina, preinding a Quarrel to the Fews, who had there a Syagogue. He was repulsed at first with loss of Men, ad a Wound in his Face, by which some of his Foreeeth were beaten out, and was there likely to have nded his new Religion, but recovered by his Soldiers or further Mischief. At the next Onset he prevailed, ne Battle being fought near a Place called Bedez, tuate betwixt Mecca and Medina, frequently menloned in the Alcoran. After which Fight he took he City, converting the Synagogue to a Temple for eir own Impieties; the News hereof so startled the lobility of Mecca, that they armed all their Powers gainst him, and succeeded so well in the Beginning f the War, that they drove him forcibly from their erritories, which yet not long after he subdued aain, and made his chief Residence at Mecca. From nat his Flight the Saracens compute their Years (as re from Christ's Nativity) which they call the Hegira, nd begins about the Year of our Lord 617. fo termd from an Arabick Word that fignifies, The Perfection rised about Religion. It happened about this time the aracens revolting from Heraclius the Eastern Empel or, joined themselves to Makomet, being exasperated. and to smule them with the Story of a Very

by Julian the Apostate, whom they served in his Wars against the Persians, for telling them upon demanding their Pay, That he had greater store of Steel than Gold. But they then wanted a Head to refort to. Now fer. ving Heraclius in the same War, they were used by his Officers in the same ill manner for asking their Pay, the Treasurer of the Army made them this churlish An-Iwer, There is scarce Money enough to pay the Roman and Grecian Soldiers, and why must these Dogs be so importunate for their Wages? Provoked herewith, and hearing the Fame of Mahomet, they joined him, who ftrengthned by them, and the coming in of the Refl of their Countrymen, he soon brought all Arabia under his Subjection; and having defeated the Emperor's Forces sent against him, he conquered some Parts of Syria and Egypt, and returning to Mecca there died frantick and diftempered, in the 70th Year of his Age, and 23d of his Impostures, of which he spent thirteen at Medina, and the rest at Mecca. His dead Body being kept four Days in Expectation of a Refurrection, which he promised to perform at the end of three, grown full of stench and putrefaction, was carried to Medina, and there interred. His Successors, out of wicked and worldly Policy, keeping up the Reputation of that Religion after his Decease, which they scorned and derided in his Life, calling themselves Caliphs, or Vicar Generals to him their Prophet.

Thus died Mahomet the Persian and Turkish Prophet, Haraclius being Emperor of Constantinople, Sardinion Bisho of Rome, Clotaire King of France, Viteric King of Spain, and Echald King of England, about 630 Years after our Saviour's Birth. He was, as himself confessed, altogether unlearned, and though naturally subtile and witty, yet often puzzled to invent Miracles to confirm the deluded Arabians in their vain Belief: For he continually preaching to them, that Godsent him to confirm his Law by Force of Arms, the People earnestly demanded some Sign of his Mission; so he was constrained to amuse them with the Story of a Voyage which he made to Heaven, to this essent: That

That the Angel Gabriel with 70 pair of Wings came to him by Night, as he was in Bed with his Wife, saying, That God had sent for him. He going down with this Angel, found at his Door an heterogeneous Beast, called Elborach, half Ass half Mule, but much swifter than either; for it would go as far at one Step as the most quick-sighted Man could see. This Beast (or Mabumetan) would not let Makomet mount him, unless he would first promise to pray for him, which the charitable Prophet did; and was then, in the twinkling of an Eye, brought by him to Ferusalem; where the Angel Gabriel tied the Beast with his Girdle to a Rock, and taking Mahomet on his Shoulders, carried him to Heaven Gate. They knockt, and the Porter understanding Mahomet to be there, instantly opened, and bid him welcome. In the first Heaven he saw Angels of divers and monstrous shapes; some composed of Fire and Snow, others of Fire alone, every one of a different Form. Among the rest, one with the Head of a Cock, whose Feet trod upon one Heaven, and his Head touch'd another; each Heaven being so far distant, that it was a Journey of 500 Years to pass from one to the other; and when this Cock crows, which it seems is his Language, all the Cocks upon the Earth crow likewise. This Angel conveyed him to another, he to a third, and so from one to another, till at length he came to the Heaven were God himself was, who courteoully received him, asking how his People did, and whether they received his Law. God then familiarly laid his Hand upon his Shoulder, which was so cold that it pierced the Marrow of his Back Bone. He was foon dismist, God telling him only how often in a Day his Disciples should make their Prayers, which were so many, that in his Return to the fourth Heaven, Moses met him, advising him to go back, and intreat God that fewer Prayers might serve his turn, fince his Followers were not able to fay fo many; fo at length the Number was reduced to five. He then went went back to his Elberach, which in a Moment brought him home to his House in Mecca, where he went to bed again to his Wife; she not once dreaming her Husband would leave Heaven for her Company, or imagining he had been there; all this he performed in the tenth part of a Night.

The Turks do still believe this romantick Story for Truth, but the Arabians at that Time, requiring him to ascend again to Heaven in their View, he unwilling to take fo long a Journey, only replied, praifed be God that I am a Man and an Apostle. On the Scal which he used was ingraven Mahomet the Messenger of God. He had several slights to deceive his Followers, performed either by Art or Witchcraft. Once an Ox brought to him a Chapter of the Alcoran upon his Horns in a full Assembly. Another time being at Dinner with one that was his pretended Friend, who yet deligned to poison him, and a Shoulder of Mutton being brought to Table, he pretended the Meat spoke, and forbid him to eat of it, the' none but himself heard it among a great Company; however he permitted one of his dearest Friends to eat of it, and die poisoned therewith. Other vain Miracles he published, as that the Trees bowed to him (though only shaken by a sudden Gust of Wind) the Wolves howled, and the Asses brayed to him, all in their several Languages defiring his Prayers, which he being a Prophet understanding as religiously performed. He often declared that God gave him Commission to fulfil. his own Desires in all Things, and in his Alcoran writes, that he thus spake to him, O Prophet! It is permitted thee to lye with all Women that are given thee, or which thou dost purchase; thy Aunts, or Kindred, and all other good Women that freely defire thy Company, and this is lawful for thee alone. Thus he pretended Religion for fulfilling his inordinate Lusts, in which it is said he equalled his Strength to that of forty Men.

The

The Day of his Death was no less prodigious than the Course of his Life, a Comet resembling a Sword appearing at high Noon, pointing from South to North, and continued in the sight of all for thirty Days together, which the Wise Men of that Age concluded to be a Presage of the satal Rising and Grandeur of the Arabian Empire. Hali was astonished at his Distemper, and the high Frenzy wherein he died, esteeming it no Divine Quality in a Prophet and a Redeemer (as he called himself) of so many People. He derided his Presumption, yet carefully concealed the Manner of his Death, being willing to promote his Law, that so he might inherit his Power and Empire.

For near 800 Years after his Decease, the Arabians, Saracens, Turks and Persians, continued in the Mahometan Faith without any Divisions. But in 1482. there happened this memorable Alteration of Religion and State in Persia.

Mahomet, the Lawgiver of the Saracens, by his last Will bequeathed to his Cosen Hali (who was also the Husband of his Daughter Fatime) all his Estate with the Title of Calipb; but Abubezar, Haumar and Ofman, three powerful Men of Arabia, and great Assistants to Mahomet, succeeded one another in that Dignity. After their Death Hali hoped to obtain the Government which had fo long been detained from him. Mnavius a valiant Soldier advanced himfelf, and to remove all future Pretensions, he slew Hali with his Son Offan, and eleven of Offan's Sons; but Musa Serefin the twelfth Son made his Escape; from this Musa one Guine Sophie derived his Pedegree in 1360. and confidering that there had been no Caliphs for many Years past, he began to contrive the reviving and establishing that Honourable Dignity in his own Family. He dying in the midst of his Projects, left the Prosecution of them to his Son Aider Soplie, who being a Man of great Industry, Sanctity and Power, and Strengthned with the Love and real Affection of his People, Offan

136 The Life and Doctrines

Usan Cassanes, Prince of the Armenians, gave him his Daughter to Wife. But Jacup, the Son and Successor of Usan, after his Father's Death, envying the Glory of Aider Sophie, and fearing his Power, caused him to be slain, and delivered his two Sons which he had by Jacup's Sister, named Ishmael and Solyman, to Amazor one of his Captains to secure them in Prison. Amazor being of a generous Temper, afforded them not only Liberty, but gave them ingenuous Education.

Afterward Ismael the eldest, a Gentleman of promissing Hopes, undertook to revenge the Death of his Father, which he likewise performed, slaving Jacup and his Son Elvan. After this Victory Imael being crowned King, or Sophie, or Shan of Persia, he altered the Form of Religion there, declaring Hali and himself to be the only true Successors of Mahomet the Prophet, and condemning Abubezer, Haumar and Ofman, with the Turks their Abettors and Followers, as Usurpers, Rebels, and Schismaticks; and ordered all Books to be burnt, and all Monuments to be defaced that mentioned any Thing in honour of those three Caliphs. This Difference in Religion hath created so mortal an Aversion in them to each other, that the Turks hold it more meritorious to kill one Persian than seventy Christians.

The City of Medina where Mahomet lies buried is in Arabia, three Days Journey from the Red Sea. His Tomb is inclosed within an Iron Gate, and covered with Green Velvet, which is every Year made new, and sent by the Grand Seignior; the old one being by the Priests cut into small Pieces, and sold at great Rates, as Reliques to the Pilgrims. In the Temple where this Tomb is placed, there are said to be 3000 Lamps of Gold and Silver, wherein is Balsam, and other rich Odours, Ointments and Oils, continually kept burning. They would impose it for a Miracle, that this Tomb should hang in the Air by means of Load-stones, but besides that there is no such Thing, for it stands on the Floor; were it true,

true, there were no such Wonder in it. For Democrates the Athenian, by order of Ptolomy King of Egypt, undertook to make the Statue of Arsinoe all of Iron, and to hang in the Air. And in the Temple of Serapis in Alexandria, there was an Iron Sun that hung in the Air by the Force of a Load-stone, being a rare piece of Workmanship.

The Turks make a Pilgrimage to this Tomb, and all true Musselmen are obliged once in their Lives, at East, to go thither. To this purpose I will relate the following Story, from a late Traveller into Turkey. A Makometan having, in obedience to a Religious Vow, undertaken this Journey, and being of the Opinion of the rest of his Fellow Travellers (or the Caravan, as it is called) that they should meet with Water at a certain Well or Cistern upon the Road, had made use of the best part of their Provision, as the rest had done, upon the Ceremony of the Abdest or Ablation, which is their washing themselves before their Devotions, for they wash the best part of the Head and Neck, their Arms up to the Elbows, their Poet, the End of the Priapus, and the Posterior Orifice. And for this Reason they never erect any Mosque, or Church, without planting Fountains round about it for they firmly believe, that their Prayers, out up without these Washings, and in a State of Impurity, would rather draw down the Wrath of Heaven upon them, than procure the Blessings of God. And indeed these severe Commands of Washing so often, are troublesome, as well to those that live in dry Places far from Water, as others in the Northern cold Climates; so that several Turks could wish heartily hat they might be permitted to change their Religion, which ties them to fo many inconvenient flabberings.

When these Pilgrims came to the Cistern where they noped to be supplied, they found the Water dried up by the heat of the Sun. They were extreamly concerned thereat, finding themselves in the midst of the lands, Deserts, and Heats of Arabia. They knew not what Courseto take in that Extremity of Drought which tormented them with Impatience; nor had many of them Money to buy Water of those who had been more provident, and indeed had not much to spare. Our poor Mahometan found himself reduced to endure a fcorching Drought, and ready to be buried alive in the stifling Clouds of Sand, which the Wind raises in that miserable Road, inspired him with more Execrations against Mahomet and his accursed Errors, than the most zealous of the Eastern Christians could have invented for him. He faid, He did not wish the Devil had taken Mahomet, for he did not believe him so unjust as to let that Imposfor escape his Claws, who being the only Cause of the Death of so many Millions of People as perished in going to his Tomb, justly deserved as many Deaths in Hell, as he had caused poor Creatures to suffer Torments in this infamous cruel Pilgrimage; but be wish'd with all his Heart, that Heaven had Thunderstruck from above, and that Hell had then swallowed in Flames the first Contrivers of that accursed Alcoran, and the unfortunate Propagators of the Larv of Manomet; or that he himself had been born a Christian.

Some Christians in the Company were much surprized to hear a Makometan thus blaspheine his own Religion; but they were told, that this Person was of a Sect who were neither Turks nor Christians, but a fort of Mahometan Hereticks.

When a Makometan has purified himself, he goes into the Church with his Eyes fixt upon the Ground, and baresoot. To which end the Eastern People have Shoes, or Slippers of Goats Skin, dyed Yellow, Red, Violet or Black, but none of them may wear them Green in the Turkish Dominions, this being the sacred Colour which Mahomet so much affected; only their Emirs wear a Green Bonnet, which they put on with great Reverence on their Heads, and is a Mark of their being allied to their great Prophet and Legislator.

But this is not regarded in Persia, as we may find by the following Story. Sha Abbas, the renowned King of Persia, was the most accomplished Prince in all the East. It happened that a Turkish Embassador one time at his Court, being much concerned to see Christians as well as Mahometans wearing Green Shoes and Trowses over all Persia, he in the Name of his Master, required the King to forbid his Subjects any longer to prophane a Colour, which all true Mahometans ought to have a greater Veneration for. That the King knew very well, that it being the Prophet's peculiar Colour, it did not become the happy Observers of his Law to cover any part of the Body therewith, but only the Head, or at least the more decent part of the Body above the Wast; it being an insupportable Contempt to trample under Foot a Colour so sacred, as his Subjects not only did, but also the Giaurs, or Christians, the Fews, and all other Infidels, and impure Nations in his Dominions. Sha Abbas perceived the Folly of this Discourse, and so resolved to make a Jest of it. He made shew of consenting to the Grand Seignior's Delire, and promised the Ambassador that he would take Order his Subjects should no longer prophane the Prophet's Colour, hoping the Grand Seignior would Issue out the same Orders over his Dominions. " For, faid the King, your Master be-66 holds every Day a greater Prophanation of that Colour, and yet lets it go unpunished. My Subjects only wear the Colour dead upon their Shoes and co Trowfes, but all the Beafts in Turkey dung without ce any Penalty upon the Grass, which is the living "Colour that Makomet lov'd. Therefore if he will or prohibit all the Beasts in his Empire from defiling the Green Grass with their Excrements, which they do continually, then will I take care that my Subce jects shall wear Green no longer. The Ambassador finding the Emperor did but deride his Folly, withdrew filently from the Presence, and left the Persians to their own Liberty.

140 The Life and Doctrines

This washing and cleanliness of the Mahometans, has occasioned the Building of several necessary Houses (which they call The Houses of Shame) for publick Conveniency, which they are kept very sweet, having a Cock to turn and take away all ill smells; so that you shall never see in all the East, the Walls of their Churches stained with Urine or Excrements, as in our parts of the World; nor is any one prejudiced in his Health, by retaining his natural Evacuations for want of Conveniency.

I never heard so many Invectives (faith a French Gentleman) as were uttered upon this Account by a Turk at Constantinop'e, who had travelled to Marseilles, and from thence to Paris. He being in France, used, according to the Custom of his Country, to eat great plenty of Fruits, Salads, and among the rest, Cucumbers half ripe, Stalks and all; a Diet enough to break a French Horses Belly, yet much admired by the Eastern People, whose Digestion tames it well enough. This Makometan said, he found it hotter in Paris, during the heat of Summer, than at Damasco in Syria, though it lies fifteen Degrees more to the South; fo, to cool himself, he resolved to eat a great Dish of Milk and Cucumbers, and so to walk about half a Mile off where he had Business. Returning back, the Motion of his Body, the coldness of the Cucumbers, and the heat of the Season, caused great Commotion in the Bowels of the Musselman, and would by no means be appealed. He searched about for an House of Easement, yet could discover nothing but open Shops and Throngs of People; he grew disconsolate, not knowing what Course to take. He cursed all the Streets of Paris, and wished himself at Damascus, where is a great Place walled in, containing 40 of these Necessary Houses. At last, in the height of his Trouble, he thus lamented his Misfortunes, "Were I now at Grand 66 Cairon ce Cairo, my Pains would find redress by only bowing " the Head, and crying according to Custom to Pas-" fengers, Pray Sir look another way; but here in " Paris, where there are more People than Stones in the Street, what shall a Man do in my forlorn Condition? But these sad Complaints little availed, for before he could get to his Lodgings, the Cucumbers forced their Way open at his Back-door, and made the disconsolate Syrian know that Milk and Cucumbers was not so sweet as Milk and Honey, yet he must endure the Smell as well as he made several others, as he passed in that stinking pickle to his Lodgings to cleanse himself. This Cleanliness of the Mahometans makes them call Christians filthy, unclean, and nasty Infidels, or Unbelievers.

And thus much for this Grand Impostor Mahomet, whom Heaven permitted to be a Scourge for punishing the Christians, who at that time had forfaken the Doctrines of the Gospel, and had embraced damnable Heresies. Let this excite us to bless the Goodness of God, who enjoy the glorious Light of his Truth; and to admire God's Judgments, who fuffers fo many large Kingdoms and Countries to be infatuated, deluded, and enflaved; and so many Millions of People to be abused by that false Prophet, and to believe his Lyes, Nonsense and Blasphemy. He belies God in making him the Author of his Alcoran, boasting that his Name is written upon the Throne of God, and that he is the greatest of the Prophets, having more Knowledge than all the Men and Angels in the World. He belies Jesus Christ, in saying he could not be God's Son, because God was never married, as if there were no other way of Generation but what is Carnal. He faith the Virgin Mary conceived Christ by the smell of a Rose, and that she was the Sister of Moses, confounding her with Miriam, though there were fo many Hundred Years between. He belieth the Holy Ghost, in affirming, that he inspired Mahomet to write his 142 The Life and Doctrines, &c.

Alcora-

Alcoran. He belieth the Scriptures, in faying they are corrupted by Christians, and that they worship many Gods, and give God a Companion, by affirming the Divinity of Christ Jesus. He belieth the Jews, in saying they make Eleazer a God. He belieth the Patriarchs, in faying that Noah, Abraham, Isaac and Facob, believed his Alcoran, though they lived fo many Thousand Years before he or his Alcoran had a Being. He belies the Apostles, in making them his Scholars, though they lived near fix Hundred Years before he faw the Light. By all which it appears, that the Compiler of this Alcoran, was not the God of Truth, but the Father of Lies; especially if we consider the ridiculous Stories found therein. He tells us, that he once divided the Moon, one half whereof fell into his Lap, the other half on the Ground, which he afterward joined again together; and perhaps in Memory of this lying Miracle, the Turks use yet the Half Moon-for their Arms, and on their Churches and Steeples. He tells of a great Army of Men and Angels raised by Solomon, which being much disturbed in their March by an Army of Flies, Solomon rebuked and routed them. He tells, that in Noah's Ark, a Hog was generated of Elephants Dung, and a Rat of the Hogs Dung, which knawing a Hole in the Ark, Noah was so affrighted, that he touch'd the Forehead of the Lion, out of whose Brains leaped a Car, that chased away the Rat. To conclude, In the Paradice which he promises his Followers, he allows Apartments therein to several Beasts, such as Abraham's Ram, Moses's Heifer, Solomon's Ant, the Queen of Sheba's Parrot, Esdras's Ass, Jonas's Whale, the seven Sleepers Dog, and Mahomet's Camel. Which sufficiently demonstrates the Author to be Ignorant, Impudent and Foolish.

The Government of the Kingdom of Persia.

HE Government of Persia is purely Tyranical; for the King has the sole Power of Life and Death over all his Subjects, independent from his Council, and without any Trials at Law. He can out to what Death he pleases the chief Lords of the (ingdom, no Man daring to dispute the Reason; nor s any Sovereign in the World more absolute han he. The King deceasing and leaving Male Issue behind him, the Eldest ascends the Throne, while his Brothers are kept in the Haram, or Castle, and their Eyes put out, and if the King have the least Jealoufy, hey are instantly put to Death, yea, the Children of he King's Brothers and Sisters likewise; formerly hey were not so rigorous, but only moved a red hot Iron o and fro before their Eyes; but Sha Sest perceiving that he poor unhappy Princes had some sight left, ordered heir Eyes to be digged out of their Heads; sha sesi's Iruelty spared not his Eldest Son Sha Abbas, the Heir f his Throne, ordering one of the Eunuchs to move n Iron before his Eyes, no Man knowing the Reaon; but the Eunuch compassionating the young Prince, loved an Iron, yet not red hot, before his Eyes, and eaching him to counterfeit Blindness, preserved his ight till his Father lay upon his Death-Bed, when eing very Penitent for having put out the Eyes of his Idest Son, to whom the Crown did of Right belong, ie Eunuch seeing the King so sadly afflicted, and ready to give up the Ghost, assured him that he would restore the Prince to his Sight, and brought him with pertect Eyes to his Bed-side, the sight of whom prolonged the King's Life till next Day, and gave him time to command all the Grandees of the Court to obey Sha Abbas his Eldest Son, as his lawful Successor.

144 The Government of the

There are several of these blind Princes at Ispahan, and I knew one particularly, faith my Author, a Person of excellent natural Parts; as blind as he is, he is a great Lover of Curiofities, and has built him a House at Ispahan worth seeing. He is overjoyed when he meets with any Rarities out of Europe, teeling them in his Hands, and causing his Eunuchs to tell him the Meaning of every Thing : He is a great Admirer of Clock-work and Watches; and to know what a Clock it is, has little points set up in the Dial-plate, and a half Hand which Points to the Hour; with certain Figures which he makes of foft Wax, and fets in order upon a Table, he will cast up an Account exactly. Several other good Qualities are eminent in him, and it is a miserable Spectacle that a Man should be reduced to that deplorable Condition only because he is of the Blood-Royal of Persia. This State is distinguished like most of those in Europe into three Bodies. First, That of the Sword, which answers to the Nobility, and consists of the King's Houshold, the Kans or Governors, and all the Soldiery. Second, That of the Gown, comprehending all those that belong to the Law and Courts of Justice. Third, Is composed of Merchants, Handicrafts-men, and Labourers.

Among other cunning Contrivances of Sha Abbasto know the true State of his Affairs without trusting too much to his Ministers, he oft went disguised into the City like an ordinary Man, under pretence of buying and selling, to discover whether salse Weights and Measures were used; so going one Evening in the Habit of a Country Man, to a Bakers to buy a Man of Bread.

Bread,

Fafer-

Iread, and thence to a Cooks to buy a Man of Roaftleat (a Man is fix Pound, fixteen Ounces to the ound) having bought his Bargains he returned to the ourt, where causing them to be weighed exactly, e found the Bread to want 57 Drams, and the Meat 3. Upon which he fell into a Rage against the Ofcers and the Governor of the Cicy (whose Belly he ad caused to be ripp'd up, but for the Intercession of his ords) reproaching them for their Negligence of the ablick Good, and of the Injustice of false Weights, ow sadly the Cheat fell upon poor Men, who having reat Families, and thinking to give them 800 Drams Bread, by that Fraud deprived them of 143, then urning to the Lords, he demanded what Justice ought be done to those People; none daring to open heir Mouths while he was in that Passion; he comlanded a great Oven to be made in the Market-place, and a Spit big and long enough to roast aMan, and the Iven to be heated all Night, and a Fire to be kindd near the Oven. Next Morning the King caused he Cook and Baker to be apprehended, and led quite arough the City, with two Men going before, proaiming to the People; We are going to put the Baker to a red bot Oven in the Piazza, to be baked alive, for lling Bread by false Weights; and the Cook is to be-roast-I alive, for having fold Meat by false Weights. Thus ese two Men served for an Example not only to 1 ahan but to all the Kingdom, every one dreading the vere Justice of Sha Abbas.

sha Abhas his Successor acted almost such another ece of Severity, for having made one Jafer-Kan, a cat Lord, who kept a magnificent Train, Gover-or of Asterabat; at first he was very mild, but at st began to exact such Sums from the People, that s Violences reached the King's Ear; who being one ay drinking with his Lords, and seeing the Masser his Musick in the Room, who was a merry Droll, and had always some pleasant News to tell the King, was pleased to ask him what the People said of

G

Jafer-Kan, adding that he had made him Governor o divers Provinces, and had never heard any Complain of him, but now he was accused of Tyranizing o ver the People. The Musick-Master being a mee Flatterer, and knowing that Jafer-Kan was extreamly beloved of the King, confidently averred, that the Go vernor was fallly accused, and that he had alway. knownhim apter to give than receive. There was presen an Agus lately returned from a Pilgrimage to Mecca him the King also asked what was his Opinion of Fafer Kan and his Government, being a Person long ac quainted with him; the Agis thinking to please the King, returned the same Answer. The King, who wa well informed of the Kan's Behaviour, turning to the Lords present, What think you, faid be, of these two Flat terers, that absolutely know the contrary to what the Speak. And commanded two of the Musick-Master' Feeth to be plucked out, and driven into the Head o the Agis, which had like to have cost him his Life being a very old Man; as for Jafer-Kan, he wa disgraced for a time, but his excellent Accomplish ments soon restored him again to Favour.

Murther is severely punished, nor will Money sav the Criminal; the Murtherer is carried before th Magistrate, he delivers him to the Parents or Kin dred of the Person Aain, who carry him to Execution and without Compassion torture him to Death. Governor of Shiras had a Favourite, who falling i love with a young Persian Gentleman, endeavoured t abuse his Body; one Day meeting upon the Road and lying under the same Tent, the Favourite abou Mid-night came to his Bed-fide, and after many Sol dicitations would have forced him; but being vio lently relisted, for madness to find himself disappoint and liable to be discovered, he stabbed the youn Gentleman to the Heart, and fled to the Mountains The Murther being divulged, the Mother, Widow and Sifter of the young Man repaired to the Gover

110

r for Justice, who willing to fave his Favourite, ered them Money, which they with scorn refusing, d threatning to complain to the King, he was conained to pursue his Favourite; at length he took d fent him to Ispahan, saying he would not judge of Affair, but refer it to the King. The Mother, Idow, and Sister followed the Murtherer to Ispahan, d demanded Justice with that Eagerness, that the' E King had an Inclination to fave the Favourite for : Governor's sake, he was forced to abandon him, d bid them pay themselves with his Blood. Immeitely he was carried to Execution, where the Wiw first stabb'd him to the Heart with aDagger, then Mother took her turn, and after that the Sifter, I then holding a Cup to receive his Blood, drank ery one a Cup full to quench the Thirst of their venge.

Extraordinary care is taken for fecuring the Highs ys, and Guards are set at convenient distances. the Caravan was one Day fetting out from Tauris Ispahan, a poor Fellow took an Occasion to rob a ak-bag, and fled cross the Fields not knowing the ay. The Merchant missing his Goods complained the Governor, who fent Order to the Guards rch strickly for him. The Thief being constrained forfake his Cloak-bag, and crofs the Fields for Wawas seized and carried to the Governor, and soon victed, for Thieves find no Mercy in Persia; only they variously put to Death, being sometimes tied to a nel's Tail by the Feet, and their Bellies ript open. etimes buried alive all but their Heads, and farto Death, in which Torment they will oft defire engers to cut off their Head, though it be a Kindforbidden by the Law. But the most cruel Pument is, when they set the Thief on Horse-back h his extended Arms fastned to a long Stick be-I, then larding him with lighted Candles, they a him to the very Bowels; we met two in this

GZ

Mifery

148 The English Factories in the Misery, who desired us to hasten their Deaths, which we durst not do, only we gave them a Pipe of Tobac co according to their Desire. One Day there was great Hubbub in a Bawdy-House, where the Woma had prostituted her own Daughter; the King bein informed of it, commanded the Mother to be throw head-long from a Tower, and the Daughter to I torn in pieces by his Dogs, which he keeps on pupose for such Chastisements.

The Forts and Factories of the Honourab East-India Company upon the Coasts Malabar, Coromandel, in the Bay Bengal, and in the Empire of the Gree Mogol, in India. With an Account the Religion, Government, Trade, Marriages, Funerals, strange Customs of the Natives. Intermixt with divers Account dents and notable Remarks.

Aving given some Account of Persia, let us ne advance to the Indies, wherein the Honourab Bast-India Company have these Forts and Factories.

or they let the Third on Horse

counter Mr is fallened as a long hi led

Fort St. George, Fort St. David, Comineer, Cuda'oor, I orto Novo, Madapollam Chuttanutti, Met. b! apatam, Pett polee, Carwar,

1 Callicut. Surat Bombay Island, Ballafore, Hugli, Daca, Rhajamal

Il on the Coasts of Cormandel, Malabar, and the Bay of Bengal.

Fort St. George.

HIS Fort is on the Coast of Coromandel, where the Honourable East-India Company have a actory. On November the 3d 1684. about nine at ight, there happened a violent Storm in this Place, hich continued till two next Morning. It untiled I the Houses in the Town, with such a ratling Noise, if some thousauds of Granadoes had been thrown them, and laid all their Gardens (of which they have any pleafant ones) as lovely as the smoothest Bowlg-Green, Trees of an ancient and prodigious Growth, me perhaps as ancient as Noah's Flood, were viontly torn up by the Roots, and their aged Trunks iven in pieces, the Noise of the crashing and fall of eir Boughs and Branches, seeming almost to equal at of a Tempest. But what is most surprizing was, at a strong Iron Bar which belonged to a Window, as by the extream Force of the Wind, fnapped into ree Pieces. Had this Hurricance continued two or ree Hours longer, it would certainly have levelled oth the Fort and Town; though strongly built d well fortified. Fort St. David, Comineer, Cudalor, rto Novo, Madapollam, Pettipolee and Carwar, are all

250 The English Factories in the

In all which the Eagline In all which the Eaglindia Company have Factories. It is reported that S. Thomas the Apostle wrought many Miracles in the Countries; and foretold the coming of white People thither. And that the Children of those that murthe ed him, have still one Leg bigger than another.

Callicut.

HIS is a Town on the Coast of Malabar, when the Portugals first settled themselves, and th English Merchants have a Factory. The Prince of Cal heut calls him Zamorin, a Prince of great Power; an not more black of Colour than treacherous in Dispo ficion. Many deformed Pagods are here worshipped but with this ordinary Evalion, that they adore not I dols, but the Deumoes they represent. The Duto General, who was Cook of the Ship, crown'd the present Prince with those Hands which had oftner ma maged a Ladle than a Sword. Malabar is a low Coun try, with a delightful Coast, and inhabited by a Peo ple that practice Pyracy. There is a certain Win which blowing there in Winter, so diffurbs the neigh bouring Sea, that it rowls the Sands to the Mouths o the adjoining Ports, fo that then the Water is no deep enough for the least Bark to enter. But in the Sum mer another contrary Wind, drives back the same Sand and makes the Port again Navigable. The great Num ber of Rivers in this Country render Horses useless especially for War. A Country for the most part o the Year green, and abounding with Cattle, Com Cotton, Pepper, Ginger, Callia, Cardamum, Rice Myrabolans Ananas Papas, Melons, Dates, Cocoes and other Fruit.

Surat

CONTROL REPRESENTATION OF THE PROPERTY OF THE

Surat .-

HIS Town is about 40 Days Journey from Agra, and drives as great a Trade as any City a Asia; though the Access to it be very dangerous. For ne River Tappy or Tindy, rising out of the Decan Mounins, glides through Brampore, and in Meander runs y the Walls of Surat; and after fifteen Miles wriging about, discharges it self into the Ocean, but is o shallow at the Mouth that it will hardly bear a lark of 70 or 80 Tons; fo that Ships are forced to plade at Swalley. Which is remarkable for the Mifhance of Capt. Woodcock, who at the taking of Ormus, eized a Frigate as a Prize, laden with near a Million f Ryals; but coming into Swalley Road the Ship funk, nd therewith all his golden Hopes vanished. The inglish East-India Company, and also the Dutch, have heir Presidents and Factories in this City, making it he greatest Mart in the Indies. Surat is secured with Castleof Stone, well stored with Cannon. The Houses re generally built of Sun-dried Bricks, which are vey large and lasting; they have flat Roofs, railed round bout to prevent falling. They have beautiful Gar-lens of Pomegranets, Melons, Figs and Lemons, nterlaced with Rivulets and Springs.

The English House for the Reception and Staple of heir Goods, is very Magnificent.

Baroche not far distant drives a great Trade in Cotons. The English have a very noble House here. Not ar from which, Tavernier writes, that of a dry Stick. a Mountebank in less than half an Hour, made a Tree grow five Foot high, which did bear Leaves and Flowers.

The

The History of Savagi the Indian Rebel.

HE Plundering of Surat by the famous Rebel Savagi, and other his Actions, deferve here to be inferted. This Raja, or Lord Savagi, was born at Bashaim, the Son of a Captain of the King of Visiapour, and being of a turbulent Spirit, rebelled in his Fathers Life-time; and putting himself in the Head of several Banditti, and other debauched young Men, he retired into the Mountains of Visiapour, and defended himself against all those that came to attack him. The King of Visiapour, thinking that his Father kept intelligence with him, caused him to be seized and imprifoned, where he died. Savigi was hereat fo incenfed against the King that he breathed nothing but Revenge, and in a short time plundered Visiapour his principal City, and with the Booty he took there, made himfelf so powerful as to be able to seize several Towns, as Rajapour, Sasigar, Crapaten, Daboul, and to form a little State thereabout. The King dying about that time, and the Queen's Endeavours to reduce him being unfuccessful, she accepted the Peace he proposed to her, That he should enjoy the Territories which he had subdued, and be tributary to the young King, and pay him half his Revenue.

However Savagi could not rest, but being a stout Man, vigilant, bold, and undertaking in the highest degree, he resolved to seize upon Cha hest-kan Governor of Decan, and Unkle to the Great Mogol, with all is Treasures, even in the midst of his Army, in the own of Aurence-Abad; and had effected his Design he had not been discovered too soon. For one Night eing accompanied with a Crew of resolute Fellows e got into the very Apartment of Cha-kest-kan; where he Governors Son, forward in his Father's Desence has killed, and he himself grievously wounded; Sa-agi in the mean time getting away without damage. It this Disappointment did not daunt him in the least, assume that he undertook another bold and dange-bus Enterprize in the Year 1664, which succeeded etter. He drew about 3000 chosen Men out of his trmy, with whom he took the Field without Noise; preading a Report by the way, that it was a Nobleman going to Court.

When he was near Surat, that famous and rich Port I the Indies, instead of Marching farther, as he made ne grand Provost of that Country, whom he met, beeve, he fell into that Town, cutting off the Arm and egs of the Inhabitants to make them discover their reasures, searching, digging, and loading away, or arning, what he could not carry away with him. He ontinued plundering 40 Days; so that none but the utob and English saved themselves, because they were a good Posture of Desence; especially the English, the having time to send for Assistance from some of neir Ships which lay near the Town, behaved themleves gallantly, and saved besides their own, several ther Houses near them.

A certain Jew of Constantinople, who had brought ubies of a great Value, to sell them to the Great Lgol, was thrice brought upon his Knees, and had the nife held up to cut his Throat, yet still persisted in his enial that hehad any, and so saved his Life and Jewels. At that time the K. of Ethiopia sent an Ambassador to se Great Mogol with several Presents, and among others, velve curious Horses, and a little Mule, the Skin of hich was speckled like that of a Tyger, so finely, so

G 5. variously

Mephants Teeth, so prodigiously large that a very frong Man could scarce lift one of them from the Ground. Lastly, the Horn of an Ox sull of Civet, half a Foot broad on the Top. They were no sooner arrived at Surat, but Savagi came and ransackt and burnt the Town, and their House among the rest, so that they could save nothing but their Letters. He emptied the Ox's Horn, and carried away the Horses and the Elephants Teeth. He durst not attack the Castle; but marchtoss without Opposition, loaden with Gold, Silver, Jewels, Silk, Stuss, fine Linnen, and other rich Merchandize, to the Value of three hundred thousand Founds English Money.

The Great Mogol fent an Army under Jeffeingue, w Besiege the principal Fortress of Savagi, who being expert in Matters of Treaty, he fo ordered the Bufiness that Savagi surrendered before it came to Extremiry; and afterwards joined with the Mogol against Wiftapour; the Mogol declaring him a Raja, taking him under his Protection, and making his Son a confidera ble Commander. Sometime after the Mogol intending W.r against Perfen, writ fuch obliging Letters to Sa wagi, extolling his Generofity, Ability and Conduct that he at lengthiresolved, upon the Faith of Jeffein gue, to come to the Mogol or Debli. A. Kinfwoman to the Magol being then at Court, having a great Influence upon him, perfuaded him to secure Savagi, who had murthered her Son, wounded her Husband, and do Anoyed Surat. So that one Evening Savagi faw his Pavillions beset with three or four Regiments of Sol diens. But he made shift to get away in the Night The Eldest Son of Jesseingue was suspected to have fur thered his Escape; but many faid that it was by the Consent of the Great Mogolf, fince he could no longe nerains him at County because of the great Spleen o the Women, against him, for having dipt his Hands in he Blood of their Kinsmen. After this Savagi seized in many strong Holds, mostly seated upon steep Mounains, the Mogol not being able to reduce him, and he sten ravages the Country from Goa to the very Gates of Surat.

He has likewise Ships at Sea, and in the Year 1683. Fifteen hundred of his Men in three Ships and four Crabbs, attackt an English East-India Ship, Capt. John Ride Commander, but were bravely repulsed with a great Slaughter, though those brave English Men had not the happiness long to enjoy the honour of that noble Action, their Ship being unfortunately cast away coming into the Channel, and all the Men but two ost. Savagi now acts as King, and secures himself in the Mountains, where the Mogol is not able to attack him.

cambaja is three Miles from the River Indus, and about three Miles in Compass, one of the neatest and best built Cities in all the East, and called the Indian Grand Cairo for its Greatness, Traffick and Fertility of Soil, and so populous as to contain an hundred and thirty thousand Families. Here they cut the Agats that come from other Countries, in several forts of Shapes, and in the Suburbs they make Indico. Here the East-India Company had a Factory: The Tides are so swith the Waves; but the Sea and the Trade is sallen away from it. Swalley is more South, and about a Mile from the Sea, but gives name to a large capacious Bay, where the Ships ride that Trade to Surate from which it is about ten Miles distant.

replied to selvine to delight

of the same was and same around

Malifaland

Maslipatan.

Assipatan, or Metchlapatam, is a great City, the Houses whereof are only Wood, built at a distance from each other. It stands by the Sea, and the Honourable East India Company have a Factory here. This being the most famous Road for Ships in the Bay of Bengal, from whence they fail to Pegu, Siam, Ormus, Sumatra, and other Places of Traffick. This City is in Golkenda, but the Great Mogol is fo much dreaded there, that his Commissioner is Master thereof, buying, felling, bringing in and fending abroad his Merchants Ships, none daring to contradict him in any Thing, nor to demand any Customs of him. Patania is a City South from Siam, and was governed many Years by a Queen. In 1612. Some English Men came hither with a Letter from Queen Elizabeth; and a Present from the Merchants, of 690 Rials of Eight. The Letter was carried in great State, being laid in a Bason of Gold, laid on an Elephant, adorn'd with little Flags, Lances, and Minstrils. They then obtained a Grant to Trade there, upon the same Conditions as the Hollanders, and there was an English Factory which is now removed.

siam is a Kingdom, the chiefest part lying between the Gulph of siam and Bengal; the Country is plentiful in Rice and Fruits. The Forests stored with Deer, Elephants, Tygers, Rhinoceroes and Apes. Here grew Store of large Bamboo Canes; under the Knots of them are Ants or Emmets Nests, as big as a Man's Head, where they preserve themselves during the Rains, which continue sour or sive Months. The King of Siam was accounted a very rich Prince, and filled

stiled himself King of Heaven and Earth, though he be tributary to the Kings of China. There were Idols in his Temples seven Foot high, all of massy Gold. When the King appeared, all the Doors and Windows of the Houses must be shut; all the People prostrating themselves on the Ground, not daring to look up. And because no Person was to be in a higher Place than the King, they within Doors were bound to keep their lowest Rooms; he would suffer no Barber to come near him, one of his Wives cutting his Hair for him. One part of his Magnificence confifts in his Train of 200 Elephants, among which one was white, which he valued fo highly as to flile himself King of the white Elephant. He passionately admires them, accounting them his Favourites, and the Ornaments of his Kingdom. If an Elephant died, he was buried with the same Funeral Pomp as a Nobleman. The English had a Factory formerly in this Kingdom, as well as at Armagon. As for Ballafore, Hugli, Chuttanetti, Daca, Rajamel, the present Honourable East-India Company have Factories in all those Places, of which little more can be faid than what has been Spoken of others. The man and the land of the land of

At the famous Port of Bombay Island, the English have built a strong Fort, and here they Coin both Silver, Copper and Tin, which passes among them.

brings dainy befores the with a land which equal

a cross who everence and flow her. I'm there was Invation was to Lar par the am of Supermand Herenhes, who by Policy and Peter hibdied them, and caught on the Ute of Wine, Oyl, and the Air of Archiopere. After this, made was nowded by Meserde and to some of the variety of the character of the contract of

Ministry to the state of the time where the deal of felves, and the Villages along the Coast.

භයවෙයවෙයවෙයවෙයවෙයවෙයවෙයවෙයවෙයවෙයව

The Empire and Government of the Great Mogol.

Aving given some Account of the Forts and Factories of the Honourable East-India Company, I shall subjoin a brief Relation of the Empire and Government of that Mighty Monarch.

The Name of India is now given to the Empire of the Great Mogol, and to the two Peninfirlas, one on this fide, and the other beyond Ganges; with the Iflands scattered in the Indian Sea; which are all comprehended under the general Name of the East-Indies; yea, some Authors take in all the Oriental Part of Asia. It is recorded, that the old Inhabitants consisted in 122 several Nations; originally descended from the Sons of Noah, before their Journey to the Valley of Shinaar, and their Attempt in building the Tower of Babel. That it was first invaded by the famous Queen Semiramis, with an Army of above 4 Millions, whom Staurobates an Indian King opposed with equal Forces, who overcame and flew her. That the next Invasion was by Bacchus the Son of Jupiter and Hercules, who by Policy and Force subdued them, and taught them the Use of Wine, Oyl, and the Art of Archirecture. After this, India was invaded by Alexander the Great; he vanquishing first Clophae Queen of Magaza, and then King Porus, both whom he took Prifoners; but restoring them again their Liberty and Kingdom, returned back to Babylon, where he died of Poytons Toyson. After this they lived in Peace under several Kings. In 1587, their Country being discovered by the Portugals, and after by the Dutch and English, they have had much Traffick with them.

This vast Empire comprehends the greatest Part of the Continent of Asia, wherein are contained 37 King-As for Remains of Antiquity, there are few or none, the Magols having ruined alltheancient Buildings, which according to the Ancients were 30 large Cities, and 3000 walled Towns and Castles, so strong as to be thought impregnable; which may not be improbable, if Noah first planted there, after his discent from Mount Ararat, not far distant from hence. Since fuch mighty Armies were raised in those Countries not many Years after, and the Land so well built and planted; to that when Alexander had overthrown King Porus, near the River Hydaspis, he said, he found greater Cities and more sumptuous Buildings in India than in all the World besides. Some of the Cities that end in Pore, as Meliapore, Fisiapore, and others, seem to retain the Memory of King Porus, as others in Scander the Name of Alexander.

The Dominions of the Great Mogol are larger than the Persians, and equal to the Grand Seignior's. His Strength lies in the Number of his Subjects, the Vastness of his Wealth, and the Extent of his Empire; his Revenue exceeding the Penfian and the Turks both put together. But the King of Persia exceeds him in Horse, Arms, and warlike People. His Revenue is reckoned to be about 7 Millions and an half, English Money. The Throne alone, wherein he gives Audience, is valued at near four Millions, being almost covered with Jewels, Pearls, and all kind of precious Stones of vast Value. The present Mogol derives his Original from Tamerlain the Stythian, who overcame all Afra, and took Bajazet the Ottoman Emperor Prisoner, putting him into an Iron Cage, against the Bars of which he beat out his Brains. When Tamerlain had taken him Prisoner, he was brought before him, who fixing his:

his Eyes upon him fell a laughing, Bajazet being highly offended, flexely faid to him, Laugh not at my Fortune Sir, but know it is God that disposes of Kingdoms and Empires, and the same may happen to you to morrow that has befaln me to day. To which Tan erlain replied, I know this as well as you, nor do I laugh at your Missortunes, but am thinking that certainly these Kingdoms and Empires are very contemptible Things in the Eyes of God, since he gives them to such inconsiderable Persons as we are, you are a deformed one eyed Man, and I a pitiful lame Creature.

The Mogol is the general Heir to all those to whom he gives Pensions; and his Will is a Law in the decision of his Subjects Assairs, and therefore they carry the Names of their Imployments, and not of the Lands which they enjoy. Now because of this barbarous though ancient Custom, in the late Mogol's Reign, one of the ancient Governors being very rich, and finding himself near Death, thinking upon this unreasonable Law, which often renders the Wife of a Nobleman and her Children poor and miserable in an Instant; he secretly distributed all his great Estate to indigent Gentlemen and poor Widows, filling his Trunks with old Iron, old Shoes, Rags and Bones, locking and fealing them close, saying, they were Goods belonging to the Mogol, before whom they were brought after his Death, and opened in his Prefence before his Lords, that all faw this fine Stuff; which so d scomposed the Mogol that he arose and went away in a great Fury. He is able to bring 100000 Horfe into the Field but the Foot are inconsiderable. Chab, Jehan, the Father of the present Emperor, left behind him about 500000 Livres, besides the rich Throne aforementioned. The present Emperor or Mogol is called Aureng-zeb, having usurp'd the Kingdom from his Father uponthis occasion. This great King having reigned 40 Years with much Clemency and Justice; in his declining Age fancied a young Lady of extraordinary Beauty

Beauty, not above thirteen Years old. And because he strength of Nature would not permit him to saisfy his Passion, he took certain Provocatives, which vere so hot that he fell into a Distemper which had almost killed him. This obliged him to shut himself ip in a strong Fortress, together with his Women, for wo or three Months; during this time he feldom apbeared to his People, and then at a great distance, which made them believe he was dead. He had four sons and two Daughters, whom he loved all alike, naking his Sons Governors or Vice-Roys of four of the principal Provinces in his Kingdom. During this false Report of his Death, Dara his Eldest Son conlinued with him; but foon after they raised Armies, and fought against one another; and after many Battles and much Bloodshed, Aurengzeb the third Son having destroyed his three Brethren, mounted the Throne, keeping his Father Prisoner. Sometime after he sent to his Father for some of his Jewels, that he might appear before his People with the same Magnificence his Predecessors had done. Chab Jehan taking his Request for an Affront, fell into such a Rage that he continued mad for fome Days, and had like to have died upon it; he called several times for a Mortar and Pestle, to beat all his Jewels to Powder, rather than his Son should have them; but Eegum skakeb his. Eldest Daughter throwing her self at his Feet, by Virthe of that criminal Power she had over him, as being both his Daughter and his Wife, kept him from it more out of design to preserve the Jewels for her self than her Brother, to whom she was a mortal Enemy; for this Reason, when Aurengzeb ascended the Throne, he had only one Jewel on his Bonnet, and asa Penance for fo many Crimes, he would not eat wheaten Bread, Flesh nor Fish, but fed upon Barley Bread, Herbs and sweet Meats; but Cha Jehan his Father dying in 1663. finding himself rid of an Object that reproached his Tyranny, he began to enjoy himfelf with

162 The Empire and Government

with more delight, receiving his Sister Begum into Favour, and calling her Cha Begum or Princess Queen; a Woman of excellent Accomplishments, and able to govern an Empire; and had her Father and Brothers taken her Counsel, Aurengzeb had never been King; he had another Sister called Rauchenara Begum, who always took his part, and fent him all the Gold and Silver she could procure when she heard he had taken Arms; in recompense whereof, he promised when he came to be King to give her the Title of Cha Begum, and that she should sit upon a Throne; all which he performed; and they lived lovingly together. This Princefshaving fecretly conveyed a handsome young Man into her Apartment, could not let him out so privately, after she had quite tired him, but the King had Notice thereof; the Princess to prevent the Shame ran to the King, and in a pretended Fright told him, there was a Man got into the Haram evento her very Chamber, who designed either to have kill'd or robb'd her; that such an Accident was never before known, and that it concerned the safety of his Royal Person, and he would do well to punish the Eunuchs who kept the Guard that Night. The King ran instantly with a great number of Eunuchs, fo that the poor young Man had no way to escape but by leaping out at a Window into the River that runs by the Palace Walls; a multitude of People ran out to feize him, the King commanding they should do him no harm, but carry him to the Officer of Justice; yet he happily escaped, and has not been fince heard of.

It is an ancient Custom among the Heathen Indians, that the Husband happening to die the Wife can never marry again; so when he is dead, she retires to bewail him, shaves her Hair, and laysaside all her Ornaments, taking off her Arms and Legs the Bracelets her Husband put on when he espoused her, in Token of her Submission, and being chained to him; and all her Life after she lives despised, yea worse than a Slave, in the House where she was formerly Mistress. This causes them rather to die with their Husbands than live in such Contempt, the Bramins or Priests persuading them, that after Death they shall meet him again in the other World with greater Advantage; yet can no Woman burn her self without Leave from the Governor of the Place, who being a Mahometan, and abhorring this execrable Custom of Self-murther, does often deny it. Some Women are so offended thereat, that they spend the rest of their Lives in Works of Charity. Some sit on the Road boiling Pulse in Water, and giving the Liquor to Travellers to drink; others hold Fire ready in their Hands to light their Tobacco; others make Vows to eat nothing but the indigested Grains which they find in Cow-dung. But when the Governor finds no Perfuasions will alter the Woman's Refolution, and perceives by a Sign from his Secretary that she has given him Money to that purpose, he in a furly Manner bids the Devil take her, and all her Kindred; immediatly the Mulick drikes up, and away they go to the House of the Deceased, with Drums beating and Flutes playing, in which Manner they accompany the Person to the Place appointed; all her Kindred and Friends come and congratulate her for the Happiness she is to enjoy in the other World, and the Honour their Family receives by this her generous Resolution. She then dresses her self as it going to be married, and is conducted in Triumph to the Place of Execution, with a loud Noise of Musical Instruments and Womens Voices, finging Songs in honour of the miferable Creature that is going to die. The Bramins exhort her to Courage and Constancy, and many European Spectatorsthink that these Priests give her some stupifying Liquor to take away the Fear of Death; for it is their Interest that these miserable Wretches should destroy themselves, their Bracelets about their Legs and Arms, Pendants, Rings, and Jewels, all belonging to them, who take "them them from among the Ashes when she is burnt; sometimes a little Hut of Reeds is erected on the Bank o a River, befineared with Oil and other Drugs. The Woman is placed in the middle in a leaning Posture, with her Head on a kind of a wooden Bolster, and resting her Back against a Pillar, to which the Bramin ties her about the Middle, lest she should run away upon feeling the Fire. In this Posture she holds the Body of her deceased Husband upon her Knees, chew. ing Betele about half an Hour. The Woman bis them fire the Hut, which is quickly done, her Kindred and Friends throwing Pots of Oil into it, to dispatch her. In some Places they only build a Pile of Wood, upon which the Woman is placed is on a Bed, with her Husband's Body laid cross her, then some bring her a Letter, others Piedes of Calicoe, Silver or Copper, desiring her to deliver them to their Mother, Brother, Kinsman or Friend, in the other World; when the has received all, the puts them between her Husband's Body and her own, tied up in a piece of Taffaty, and then calls to kindle the Pile, wherewith the is soon stifled; but there being scarcity of Wood in Bengal, the Bodies of these poor Wretches are many times only grilliaded and then cast into the River Garges to be devoured by Crocodiles.

164 The Empire and Government

The Magnanimity of many of those Women is admirable; the Raja of Velou having lost his City and Life in a Battle against the King of Visiapour's General, he was extreamly lamented, and eleven of his Wives resolved to be burnt at his Funeral. The General endeavoured to divert them by kind Usage, but finding Perswasions in vain, he ordered them to be shut up in a Room; the Women in a Rage told him, "That it was to no purpose to keep them Prisoners, for if they might not have Leave to do what they had "resolved, in 3 Hours there would not one of them be alive". He laughed at this Menace, but the Keeper of those Westen opening the Doors three Hours

her

Hours after, found them all stretched out dead upon the Place, without the least Mark of any outward Violence offered to them.

Two of the greatest Lords in India, came in 1642. to do Homage to Cha Jehan; they having offended the Grand Master of the Houshold, he told one of them one Day in the King's Presence " That they had not behaved themselves as became them toward so great " a Monarch". The Raja or Lord looking on himfelf as a great Prince, he and his Brother having brought with them a Train of sixteen thousand Horse, being netled at this bold Reproof of the Grand Mafler, drew out his Dagger, and slew him on the Place before the King; the Grand Master falling at the Feet of his own Brother, who stood just by him, he was going to revenge his Death, but was prevented by the Raja's Brother, who stabbed him likewise, and laid him athwart his Brother's Body; the King seeing these two Murthers, retired into his Apartment for Fear; but the Nobles and People presently fell upon the Raja's, and cut them to pieces; the King incensed at fuch an Attempt committed in his House and Presence, commanded the Bodies of the Raja's to be thrown into the River, which their Troops that they had left about Agra understanding, threatned to enter the City and pillage it; fo the King was advised to deliver them the Bodies of their Princes. When they were to be burned, thirteen Women belonging to the two Rajas came dancing, and got upon the Funeral Pile, holding one another by the Hands, and being stifled by the Smoak, fell altogether into the Fire; presently the Bramins threw in great heaps of Wood, Pots of Oil, and other combustible Matter to dispatch them. When I was at Paina, faith my Author, a handsome young Woman of about two and twenty, came to defire leave of the Governor to be burnt with the Body of her dead Husband; the Governor compassionating her Youth and Beauty, strove to ! Tuade her, but finding er resolute, asked her whether she understood what he Torment of Fire was, or had ever burnt her Finers? No, no, answered she, I do not fear Fire, and to let me know as much, send for a lighted Torch hither. The invernor abominating her Answer, in Passion bid her to the Devil. Some young Lords present desired he Governor to call for a Torch and try her; the Voman ran to meet it, and held her Hand in the lame without altering her Countenance, searing her trms up to the very Elbow, that her Flesh looked as broiled, whereupon the Governor commanded her ut of his light.

The Government of the great Mogol is (as we have uid) Arbitrary and Tyranical, measuring his Power y his Sword and Lance, and making his Will his aw, there being no Laws to regulate Governors in ne Administration of Justice, but what are written the Breasts of the King and his Substitutes; and fo ney often take the Liberty to punish the Offender raher than the Offence, Mens Persons more then their rimes; though they still pretend to proceed by Proofs, nd not Presumptions. In Matters of Consequence, the Togol himselfwill sit as Judge, and no Malefactors lie aove I Night in Prison, and many times not at all, for the Offender be apprehended early in the Morning, e is instantly brought before the Judge, by whom e is either acquitted or condemned; if it be Whipping, hat is executed usually with much severity in the lace of Justice; if condemned to die, he is presently arried from Sentence to Execution, commonly in the farket-place; which quick Judgment keeps the Peoe in such awe, that there are not many Executions. further and Theft they punish with Death, of what ind the Judge please to impose, some Malefactors beig hanged, others beheaded, some impaled upon sharp akes, a Death of extream Cruelty and Torture; some e torn to pieces by wild Beafts, some killed by Elelants, and others ftung to death by Serpents.

that fuffer by Elephants, who are trained up for Executions, are thus dealt withal; if the Beaft be commanded by his Rider to dispatch the poor trembling Offender presently, who lies prostrate before him, he with his broad round Foot at one stamp kills him; but if he be condemned so to die, as to feel himself die, the Elephant will break his Bones by degrees with his hard Trunk, as first his Legs, then his Thighs, after that the Bones in both his Arms, this done his wretched Spirit is left to breath its last, out of the midst of those broken Bones. In other Places some are Crucified or nailed to a Cross, others rather roasted than burnt to Death, for there is a Stake fet up, and a Fire made at a distance round about it; the condemned Person being naked, is so fastned to the Stake, that he may move round about it so long as he is able to stir, till his Flesh begins to blister; then he falls down, roaring till the Fire made about him takes away both his Voice and Life; the Reafon for fuch exquisite Torments, is, because they count it dishonourable for a Man to die by an Executioner, and fo Criminals are usually commanded to rip up their own Bellies, and those who will not are tormented in dying; hence these condemned Persons call for their Friends, eat and seem to be merry with them, and in the close of the Banquet being stript to the Middle, the wretched Self-murtherer strikes a sharp Knife into the bottom of his Belly, and rips himsel up; and if after this he can wipe his bloody Knife upon a white Paper or Napkin laid by him, he is rec koned to die with Honour, and is perfuaded he goes to Fakaman, or the God of War.

When I was in India, saith my Author, one was fentenced by the Mogol for killing his own Father, to die thus; a small Iron Chain was fastned to his Heel, and tyed to the hind Leg of a great Elephant, who drag'd him one whole remove of that King, being a bout ten Miles, so that all his Flesh was torn off his ones when we met him, and appeared rather a Skelen than a Body. Another having killed his Mother, e Emperor was at a stand to think of a Punishment equate to so horrible a Crime; but after a little pause, adjudged him to be stung to Death with Serpents: one of those Mountebanks who kept them to shew ricks to the People, brought two Serpents to do recution upon this wretched Man; whom he found ked (only a little Covering before) and trembling. hen having angred these venomous Creatures, he put ie to his Thigh, which presently twined it self aout that Part till it came near his Groin, and there t him till Blood followed; the other was fastd to the outside of the other Thigh twisting it round, d there bit him likewise; the Wretch kept upon s Feet a quarter of an Hour, before which the Sernts were taken from him, but complained extreamly a Fire that tormented all his Limbs, and his whole dy began to swell exceedingly, like Nafidius bit by Libian Serpent, called a Prester; and about half an our after, the Soul of that unnatural Monster lefe s groaning Carcass.

Bones

It happened a few Years before, Sir Thomas w was Ambassador in this Court in 1618, that a gler of Bengal, a Place famous for Witches, brought Ape before the Mogol, who loved Novelties, that I many strange Feats; the King to try his Skill cked a Ring off his Finger, and gave it one of his ys to hide, whom the Ape presently discovered; eral other Trials he made, wherein the Ape did his t to Admiration; at length this strange and unexted Fancy came into the King's Head; There are ny Disputes, said he, about that true Prophet which ild come into the World; we are for Mahomet, the sians magnifie Mortis Ally, the Hindoos or Heathers Il Bramon, Ram, and others; the Jews are for Moand the Christians for Christ, adding several others the number of twelve, who have all their several

H

Followers

Followers in that part of the World; he then cause them twelve Names to be written on twelve feve ral Scrolls, and put together to try if the Ape coul draw out the Name of the true Prophet; this done the Ape put his Paw in amongst them, and pulled ou the Name of Christ; the Mogol a second time cause these Names to be writ again in twelve other Scrol and Characters, and put together, when the Ape agai pluck'd forth the Name of Christ as before; Mahome Chan a great Favourite present, said it was an In posture of the Christians, though none were then there and defired to make a third Trial, which granted, h put but eleven of those Names together, reservin the Name of Christ in his Hand; the Ape searchin as before, pluck'd forth his empty Paw, and so twice or thrice together, the King demanding the Reason was answered, that happily the Thing he looked for was not there; the Ape was bid to fearch for it, wh putting out those eleven Names in a seeming Indigna tion rent them, then running to Mahomet Chan, caugh him by the Hand, where the Name of Christ was cor cealed, which he opened and held up to the King but did not tear it as the former. Upon which th Mogol took the Ape, and gave his Keeper a good Per fion to keep him near about him, calling him the vining Ape. And this was all which followed upo this admirable Event, except the great Wonder an Amazement of the People, the Truth whereof fait my Author, was confirmed to me by feveral Perfor of different Religions, who all agreed in the Stor and the feveral Circumstances thereof.

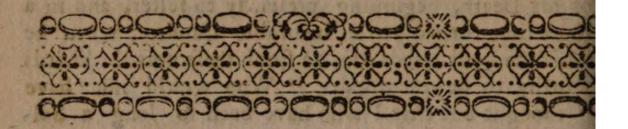

I cannot but relate a remarkable Example of a gro Flatterer, but a great Favourite of this King, note to be a great neglecter of God, believing it Religio enough to please the Mogol his Master, though a So dier of approved Valour. This Man on a time sittin in dalliance with one of his Women, she pluck'd Hair from his Breast about his Nipple in wantonnel vithout defigning any hurt. This little inconsiderable Vound, by an unparallel'd Fate, became the occasion f his Death, beginning presently to fester, and in a fort time turned to an incurable Canker; when he ound he must needs die, he speak these notable Words vorthy to be recorded. "Who would not have thought but that I who have been fo long a Soldier should have died in the Face of an Enemy, either by a Sword, Lance, Arrow, Bullet, or fuch Instrument of Death; but now, though too late, I am forced to confess, there is a great God above, whose Majesty I have ever despised, who needs no bigger Lance than an Hair to kill an Atheist, or a defpiser of his Divinity; and so desiring these his last Words might be told the King his Master, he died.

The Great Mogol, is a Prince of much Wealth and ower, having multitudes of Soldiers in constant Pay, and in his ordinary Removes, which are not usually pove ten Miles at once, hath such an infinite Numer of Men and other Creatures attending him, whose wink is Water, that in a little time, as it was said the mighty Host of Sennacherib, they are able to rink up Rivers.

Aurengzeb if he be alive, is above 100 Years of ge, and has lived in Tents several Years, the Son Savagi being still in Rebellion against him. In 599. Sir William Norris was sent Ambassador to the reat Mogol, and received with all the Honour imanable; he will endeavour to satisfy the Mogol, that e Pyrates as well English as other Nations who have one him very great damages, are brought to Justice hen taken, several of them having been already exerted in England.

172 The Travels of Thomas Coryat,

The Travels of Thomas Coryat.

shall conclude this Account of the Empire of the Great Mogol, with the Travels of Thomas Cory at, a Man in his Time sufficiently known. He for merly wrote a Book Intituled Coryat's Crudities hastily Globed up in five Months Travels in France, Savoy, I taly, Rhetia, Helbetia, or Switzerland, some Parts of High Germany, and the Netherlands, newly digested in the hungry Air of Odcomb in Somersetshire. Printern 1611.

If Coryat had lived, he designed to have writ his last Travels to, and out of East-India, for he resolved like another Ulysses, to have rambled up and down the World, at least ten Years to see Tartary, in all the vast Parts thereof, with as much as he could ochina, and after that to have visited the Court of Pressor Fohn in Ethiopia, who is there called by his own People Ho Biot, The King, with many other Places which if he had lived to perform and publish, migh have been of good use, since he was both a particula and faithful Relater of what he saw, ever disclaiming that bold Liberty of Travellers, in speaking and writing what they please of remote Parts, where they cannot be easily contradicted.

So believing him an honest Historian, I shall give fome Account of his Foot-steps and Flittings up an arrown, who while he lived being like a perpetual Mation, though dead ought not to be forgotten. In 12, he ship'd himself for Constantinople, where he ictly observed all Remarkables, and found much pect from Sir Paul Pindar, then Ambassador there, whose House he had free Access; here he viewed veral Parts of Greece, and in the Hellespont, and of ofe two Castles directly opposite to each other, cal-Sestos and Abidos, on the Banks of that narrow a, famous for the Story of Hero and Leander; he ich desired to see those seven Churches of Asia, nich lie now in Ruins, only Smyrrais still famous for ade, but not Religion; and Ephefus, with some o ers, retain their Names, though they have lost the ofession of their Faith with the rest. He saw the th People, but now with standing Corn; e very Ruins being almost gone to Ruin, there onremaining part of an exceeding great House, supled part of the famous Palace of Great King Pri-2. From Smyrna we went to Grand Cairo in Lg)p', ciently called Memphis, and observed the Remains the once famed Pyramids; returning thence to Aandria with another Englishmau, they passed by Sea Foppa, and met some going to Ferusalem, with whom ning, they travelled through a folitary rocky Way, l of Danger from the wild Arabs, who rob Trallers: Arriving at Ferufalem, they saw and heard wherewith Pilgrims are usually treated, of which a have a full Account in a small Book, called, Two urneys to Jerusalem, &c. Here our Traveller had Arms of Ferusalem made upon his left Arm; I on his right a fingle Cross, like that whereon our riour fuffered, on the Sidesof which were written, , Veritas, Vita, The Way, Truth and Life, and the Foot three Nails like those which fast-I our Saviour to it, done so artificially and indely by a black Powder, as if drawn by some accue Pencil upon Parchment. The poor Man would ch glory in beholding these Characters, applying the H 3 Words

174 The Travels of Thomas Coryat,

Words of St. Paul to himself, I bear in my Body the Marks of the Lord Jesus, Gal. vi. 17.

Hence they went to the Dead Sea, the River Fordan, Sidon, Alexandretta, Scanderoon and Aleppo, where he was kindly received by the English Conful, staying some time there for the Caravan, which consists of a mixt multitude from divers Parts, who travel together to prevent Theives and Murderers. With these setting forward they came to the City of Nineveb in Affyria, which in Jonah's Time was 3 Days Journey, but now fo mean and obscure, that Passengers cannot say, This is Ninevel, having lost its Name, and called now Mozel. From thence they journeyed to Babylon in Chaldea, upon the River Euphrates, once for its Magnitude called a Country, now much contracted, and named Bagdat; from hence tiey proceeded through both the Armenias, where our Traveller saw Mount Ararat, whereon the Ark rested after Noah's Flood. They went thence to Ispahan in Persia, and after that to Suspan where King Ahasuerus kept his Court in Esther's time; from thence to Candaber the first Province, North - East under the Great Mogol, and so to Labore the second City of this Empire, a Place of great Trade, Wealth and Delight, more temperate than any other of his great Cities; at length he arrived at Agra the Mogol's Metropolis; from Labore to Agra is 400 English Miles; the Country rich, even, and pleasant, the Road on both fides planted with great Trees, cloathed all the Year with Leaves, of exceeding benefit to Travellers in that hot Clime. It is called the Long Walk, full of Villages and Towns, convenient for fupply of Travellers.

At Agra our Traveller was kindly entertained by the English Factory, and there learned the Turkish, Arabim, Persian, and Indostan Tongues; which was very advantageous to him in his Travels through the Mogo"s Territories, he wearing the Habit, and speaking the Language of that Nation; he made an Oration to the Great Mogol in the Persian Tongue, bringing in

the

into the East-Indies.

e Story of the Queen of Sheba, I Kings 10. In which rts of the facred Scripture the Mahometans have me knowledge, and told the King, " That as the Queen of Sheba having heard of the Fame of King Solomon, came from far to visit him, and confessed that she had not been told half of what she now faw concerning the Wisdom, Greatness, Retinue and Riches of Solomon, so said our Orator, I had heard much of your Majesty before I had the honour of your fight, when I was very far off in my own Country, but what I now behold exceedingly furmounts all the Reports thereof. Intermixng other Flatteries therewith, which pleased the Mool, who gave him one hundred Roupies, being about welve Pounds ten Shillings in our Money, looking in him as a Dervise Prophet, or Pilgrim as he called im, who in that Country value not Money, which night be the Reason he did not reward him more liberally. He after got the vulgar Language; and a Woman belonging to the English Ambassador there, raving such freedom of Speech that she would rail from Morning to Night, Coryat one Day undertook her in her own Dialect, and by eight a Clock in the Morning so silenced her that she had not one Word more to speak.

At the four Corners of their Mosquets or Churches in this Country, there are high, round, small Turrets; into the Top of these their Priests ascend five times every Day, whence they proclaim aloud these Arabian Words; La alla, illa, Mahomet Resul-alla, that is, There is no God but one God, and Mahomet the Messenger from God. This is instead of Bells, which they use not in their Churches. One time Tom Coryat hearing a Priest thus crying, got upon a high Place directly opposite to him, and thus contradicted him, La alla illa illa, Hasaret Eesa Benalla, that is, No God but one God; and the Lord Christ the Son of God, and said that Mahomet was an Impostor; all this he uttered in their own Language, as loud as possible, in the Ears of many Makometans: H4

176 The Travels of Thomas Coryat, hometans present; but it may be questioned whether the Discretion of our Pilgrim were to be commended; for if this had been acted in many other Places of Afia, it would have cost him his Life, with as much Torture as Eruelty could have invented; but being here taken for a Madman, he was let alone, haply fince every one there has liberty to profess his own Religion freely, and may argue against theirs without danger; as Tom. Coryat did another time with a Moola; the Question was, Which of them was the Musselman or true Believer; after much heat on both Sides, Coryat made this learned Distinction, "That himself was the Or-" thodox Musselman or true Believer, and the Priest " the Pseudo Musselman, or false true Believer. He was a Man of a covering Eye, never fatisfied with feeing, as Solomon speaks, and took as much pleasure therein as others in enjoying great and rare Things; he had the Mastery of many hard Languages, besides Greek and Latin which he brought from England, and had he had Wisdom to manage them, as he had Skill to speak them, he had deserved more Fame in his Generation; but his Attainments made him ignorant of himfelf, being so ambitious of Praise that he would hear more than he could possibly deserve, yet had he not fallen into the fmart Hands of the Wits of those Times, he might have passed better.

On a time a Merchant who came from England, met Tom. Coryat travelling toward East-India, and told him that when he was in England, King James I. enquired after him, and when he had certified him of his meeting him, the King replied, Is that Focl yet living. Our Pilgrim was much concerned because the King spake no more nor better of him, saying, that Kings would speak of poor Men what they pleased; another time the English Ambassador gave him a Letter (with a Bill to receive 101.) to the Consul of Aleppo, wherein were these Words, "Sir, when you shall hand these Letters, I desire you to receive the Bearer of the

MI.

Mr. Thomas Coryat with Courtefy, for you shall find him a very honest poor Wretch, and further I must increat you to furnish him with ten Pounds, which shall be repaid, &c. Our Pilgrim liked the Gift well, but the Language much displeased him, saying, That my Lord Embassador had even spoiled his Courtesy in the Carriage thereof, fo that if he had been a very Fool indeed, he could have faid very little less of him than he did to call him honest poor Wretch, and to fay no more of him was to fay as much as nothing, and his Favour does rather trouble than please me; when I was at Venice, said he, a Person of Honour wrote thus on my behalf, to Sir Henry Wotten then Ambassador there; My Lord, good Wine needs no Bush, neither a worthy Man Letters commendatory, because whithersoever he goes he is his own Epistle; this, said e, was some Language on my behalf; at length his etter was phrased to his Mind, but he never lived to eceive his Money; a little before his Death he feemd apprehensive thereof, for swounding away once, pon his recovery he declared the occasion was for ear he should die in the way toward Surat, whether e intended to go and be buried in Obscurity, and one of his Friends know what became of him, he ravelling now (as he usually did) alone; upon which he Ambassador willed him to stay longer, which he hankfully refused, and presently turned his Face for urat, which was then about three hundred English Miles distant, and lived to come safe thither, where seing over-kindly treated by some English who gave im Sack which they had brought from England, he alling for it as foon as he heard of it, and crying Sack, ack, is there such a Thing as Sack, pray give me some ack, and drinking of it, though not immoderately (beng very temperate) it increased his Flux, that he had hen upon him, which caused him in a few Days after is tedious and troublesome. Travels, for he went most on Foot, to come at this Place to his Journey's end for here he overtook Death, Decemb. 1617. and was buried at Swalley, under a little Monument like those in our Church Yards.

178 The English Factories

HE HE HE HE E

The Factories of the Honourable East-India Company, in the Island of Sumtra.

Sumatra is accounted one of the largest Eastern To slands, in length about 700, and in breadth above 200, where the English have two very considerable Factories, named Achen and York Fort.

York Fort.

Six Kings command therein, the King of Acheen is best known to us. They have so well defended their Island, that the Europeans could never erect any Fort or Castle in it. There is a Mountain that casts forth like Mount Ætna. The Pepper here is better than that of Malabar, because the Land is more moist. They find Gold in Grains, and in little pieces after great Floods of Water. The Island Country is inhabited by Barbarians, who kill and eat the Bodies of their Enemies, being seasoned with Pepper and Salt. The City of Acheen is the best in the Island, lying half a League from the Sea upon a Plain, by the side of a very shallow River, upon the Bank thereof there is a Fortress built.

Our English first settled their Trade here in the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, whose Name was then samous for her Exploits against the Spaniards. The Queen's Letters to this King were received with great Pomps the K. entertained the Messenger with a Banquet, presented him with a Robe, and a Piece of Callicoe wrought with Gold, and gave his Passportsor the General's Security, for whom he sent six Elephants, with Drums, Trumpets, Streamers, and many Attendants: The chief Elephant was about 14 Foot high, having a small Castle like a Coach, covered with Velvet on his Back;

in the midst was a great Bason of Gold, with a rich Covering of Silk, wherein the Letter was put: The General was mounted on another Elephant, and being arrived, the Dishes wherein he was treated were of Gold, their Wine is of Rice, wherein the King drank to the General out of his Gallery, four Foot higher than where he sate; it was as strong as Aqua Vita; after the Feast some young Women danced and played upon the Musick, the King sent a Letter and a Present to the Queen, and upon parting asked if they had the Psalms of David, and caused them to sing one, which he and his Nobles seconded with a Psalm,

as he faid, for their Prosperity.

Another confiderable English Factory at Bantam, on the Isle of Fava Major, the chief City in the Island, at the Foot of a Mountain, whence issue three Rivers, two running by the Walls, and the other through the City, yet not deep enough to admit any Ships. The Houses are very mean, consisting of three chief Streets. The Natives are Heathens, and believe when they die their Souls enter into some Bird, Beaft or Fish, and fo eat neither Flesh nor Fish : Toward the South are many of the Turkift Religion, fome called Jaquins are desperate Villians, who having been at Mecca to vifit Mahomet his Tomb, run through the Streets and kill all they meet with their poisoned Daggers, thinking they do God and Mahomet good Service, and shall be saved thereby. If any of these mad Men are killed, their Followers bury them as Saints, erecting them a Tomb, which they visit, and bestow Alms upon the Keeper thereof. I remember, saith my Author, that in 1642, a Vessel of the Great Mogol's returned from Mecca to Surat, with a great Number of these Faquirs or Derviebes, and one of them was no fooner landed and had faid his Prayers, but he took his Dagger and fell among feveral Dutch Mariners unlading Goods upon the Shore, and before they were aware this desperate Wretch had wounded vounded seventeen of them, whereof thirteen died; t length the Sentinel shot him through the Body, so hat he fell down dead; the other Faquirs or Mabonetans upon the Place took up the Body and buried t, and fifteen Days erected him a fair Monument; every Year the English and Dutch pluck it down, but when they are gone the Faquirs rebuild and plant Banners over it, nay, some perform their Devotions at it. One time, faith my Author, my Brother and I, and a DutchSurgeon going along a narrow Way, having the Pales of a Garden on one Hand, one of these Rascals thrust his Pike between the Pales, thinking to have stabbed it into one of our Breasts; the Dutch Man being before, the Head of the Pike ran into his Breeches; we both laid hold on the Staff, while my Brother leaped over and ran the Faquir through; several Chineses came and gave my Brother Thanks for killing him: After which we waited on the King, who far from being displeased gave him a Girdle, for the King is glad when those Rogues are slain, counting them Desperadoes, and not fit to live. In 1682. the Eldest Son of the King of Bantam declared himself King, and by the Assistance of the Dutch took the City of Bantam, and the English Factory there, proclaiming the old King his Father a Rebel. About the same time an Ambassador came from the old King, to King Charles II. by whom he was kindly entertained, and having continued some time, returned again to his own Country.

At Socodona and Benjermafa in the Isle of Borneo, the English settled other Factories: It is as big as spain, incompassed with other smaller Islands, and hath a City of the same Name, sounded on Piles in the Salt Water, with sumptuous Buildings of Stone, covered with Cocoa Leaves. The People are more white than other Indians, of good Wits, and divided betwixt two Kings and two Religions, the King of Borneo and his Wife being Mahomitans, those of Lau still remaining in their ancient Gentelism. These believe the Sun and Moon are Man an Wise, and the Stars their Children, ascribing to them Divine Honours, to the Sun especially, whom they salute at his rising with great Reverence, repeating certain Verses; their publick Business being treated in the Night, the Counsellors of State ascend some Tree, viewing the Heavens till the Moon rise, and then go to the Senate House. Their Apparel is very thin, by Reason of the extream heat, being only a Shirt of Silk or Callicoe, which they wear more for Modesty than Warmth.

One of the Isles of Celebs is called Macassar, where the English likewise settled a Factory, being six hundred Miles from East to West, plentiful of all Necesfaries, in some part over-grown with Wood, in which fiery Flies make nightly fuch a Light as if every Twig or Bough werea Candle. In the midstafe high Mountains, out of which flow many Navigable Rivers. The Islanders poison their Arrows with the Juice of certain Trees in Borneo, fo as to work a swift or flow Death at pleasure; they think the King has only the secret Receipt to takeaway the Force of it, who boalts that he has the most effectual Poison in the World, which no Remedy can cure. One time an Englishman in heat of Blood, had killed one of the King of Macaffer's Subjects, and though the King had pardoned him, yet both English, Hollanders and Portugals, fearing if the Englishman should go unpunished, the Iflanders would revenge it upon some of them, besought the King to put him to Death, which with much ado being granted, the King unwilling to put him to a lingring Death, and defirous to shew the Effect of his Poison, resolved to dispatch the Criminal himself, so he took a long Trunk, and thot him exactly in the great Toe of the right Foot, the Place he particularly aimed at; two Surgeons, one an Englishman, the other an Hollander, provided on purpose, immediately cut off his Toe, but for all that the Poison had dispersed it felf felf so speedily that the Englishman died presently. All the Kings and Princes of the East use strong Poisons, and some Europeans having tried their Arrows by shooting at Squirrels, sell down dead as soon as they were touched.

KAN KAN KAN KAN KAN KAN KAN KAN KAN KAN

The English Factories in China.

H I S vast Kingdom was governed by Kings of their own for many Generations. But Zunchin the last Emperor, suffering the Eunuchs by Extortion to oppress the People, became odiuos to them. So that in 1640, they joined with two revolted Generals, one of whom named Ly, over-ran all the whole Empire in a short space, and was crowned King at Pequin. Zunchin, to prevent any Infult from the Rebels, hanged himself upon a Tree in the Garden, where his Empress had just before done the same. The Traytor Ly enjoyed his Usurpation but a short time, for the Cham of Tartary reckoning the former League of Peace with Zunchin, void by his Death without an Heir, he invaded China with mighty Forces, and made an absolute Conquest thereof, forcing the Tyrant to fly and hide himself, and most of the treacherous Chinels were cut off by the Tartars; the present Emperor of China and Tartary, is the Son of him who made this prodigious Conquest. The East-India Company have three Factories in this Kingdom, named Amoy, Canton and Tonqueen, from whence they bring great Quantities of Drugs, and several other Commodities.

A late Author gives the following List of the Forts;
Factories, and Places of Trade, wherein the Honourable East-India Company are concerned in Asia.

Bombay:

184 The English Factories, &c.
Bombay Castle and Island; and Dabul in Decan.

Trin.Watch,
Trinity Bass,
Porto Novo,
Fort St. David,
Cudaloor,
Conimere,
Manjeckpatam,
Arzapore,
Pettipolee, Messulpatam,
Madapollam,
Viccegaparam,
On the Coast of Cormandel.

Bengal,
Ballafore, Cassumbezar, Moulda,
Daca,
Chutta Nutta, Pattana,
In the Gulph of Bengal.

A Gra, Cambaja, Surat, Amadarud,
In the Empire of the Great Mogol.

Carwar, Gusurat,
Gusurat,
Camboja,
Batticullay
Duno Sattanam,
Tully Chery,
Beater,
Bringen,
On the Coast of Malabar.

Muscha, Mackulla,
Mackulla,
Shabare, Kifen, Durga, Doffare,
Aden,
In Arabia Fælix

I Spahan,

Bassora, In the Kingdom of Persia.

A Chem,
Indrapore,
Bengalis, Lambee,
Eyer Borma,
Eyer Dickets, Tryamong, Eppon,
Bamola, Selabar,
In the Isle of Sumatra.

PEque, Trinacore, Cudda,
On the MalayCoast.

Tunqueen,
Canton,
Emoy,
Hockfied,
In the Empire of China.

Siam, Gamboida, in the Kingdom of Siam.

Mindano, in the Isle of Mindano.

Borneo, in the Island of Borneo.

Judda, upon the Red Sea.

Macassar, in the Isle of Celebs. Now Expelled.

Bantam in Java, till expelled by the Dutab, 1682.

F I N I S.

A Catalogue of Books printed for A. Bettefworth at the Red-Lyon, and J. Batley at the Dove, in Pater-noster-row.

HISTORY.

I. I Ngland's Monarchs: Or, a Relation of the most remarkable Transactions frm Julius Cæar. Adorned with Poems, and the Picture of every Monarch from King Will. the Conqueror to this time. With a List of the Nobility, and the number of the Lords and Commons in both Houses of Parliament, and other useful Particulars. Price 1 s.

2. The History of the House of Orange: Or, a Relation of the magnanimous Atchievements of the renowned Predecessors of King Wil. III. and likewise of his own heroic Actions, till the late glorious Revolution. Together with the History of K. Wil. and Q. Mary, being an Account of the most remarkable Passes in their Reign. By R. B. price 1 s.

3. The History of the two late Kings, Charles II. and James II. and of the most observable Passages during their Reigns; and the secret French and Popish

Intrigues in those Times. price 1 s.

4. The History of Oliver Cromwel, Lord Protector, being an impartial Account of all the Battles, Sieges, &c. wherein he was engaged in England, Scotland and Ireland, and of his Civil Administration when he was in supreme Dignity, till his Death. Adorned with Pictures. By R. B. price 1 s.

5. The Wars in England, Scotland, and Ireland: Containing an Account of all the Battles, Sieges, and other remarkable Transactions from the Beginning of the Reign of King Charles I. 1675, to 1660. The Tryal of King Charles I. at large, and his last Speech. With Pictures of several Accidents. price I S.

Books printed for, and fold by,

6. Historical Remarks and Observations of the ancient and present State of London and Westminster, shewing the Foundation, Walls, Gates, Bridges, Churches, Rivers, Wards, Halls, Hospitals, Schools, Inns of Court, Charters, and Privileges thereof; with the most remarkable Accidents, as to Wars, Fires, Plagues, &c. for above 900 Years past. price 1 s.

7. Admirable Curiofities, Rarities and Wonders, in England, Scotland, and Ireland: Or, an Account of many remarkable Persons and Places, and of the Battles, Sieges, Earthquakes, Tempests, Inundations, Fires, Thunders, Murthers, and other Occurrences, for many hundred Years past; with the natural and artificial Rarities in every County, and several Pictures. price 1 s.

8. The History of the Kingdom of Scotland, containing an Account of all the Wars, &c. Revolutions and State - Intrigues, during the Reigns of 72 Kings and Qs. to this time. Intermixed with variety of Accidents and Events; and a List of the present Nobility of that Kingdom. Illustrated with Pictures. price 1 s.

9. The History of the Kingdom of Ireland, and of all the Battles, Sieges, and other memorable Passages during the late Wars, till its entire Reduction by K. William III. with a Relation of the ancient Inhabitants, and the Conquest of that Nation by K. Henry-II. The horrid Rebellion in 1641, and the Popish and arbitrary Defigns in the last Reigns. price 1 s.

Parts: Containing 1. An Account of the ancient Ks. and Princes of Britain and Wales, till the final Extinguishing of the Royal British Line. 2. Remarks upon the Lives of all the Princes of Wales of the Royal Families of England, from K. Edw. I. to this Time; particularly of Edw. the black Pr. of Wales, who with 30000 English defeated an Army of 100000 French at Cressey; and at Poicters, with 10000 beat 80000, and took John the French K. Prisoner. Also of Henry of Mon-

A Bettesworth and J. Batley.

Monmouth (afterward K. Henry V.) who with 13000 routed 90000 French, whose Son Henry VI. was crowned K. of France at Paris. 3. Remarks on the most memorable Persons, Places and Passages for many hundred Years past; with the Birth and Actions of Merlin the Welch Prophet; and the natural and artificial Rarities in every County. price 1 s.

11. The Unfortunate Court-Favourites of England, exemplified in some Remarks upon the Lives, Actions, and fatal Fall of divers Great Men, who have been Favourites to several English Ks. and Queens. Namely, 1. Pierce Gaveston, Favourite to K. Ed. H. 2. Hugh Spencer, the Father and Son, both Favourites to King Ed. II. 3. Roger Mortimer, Favourite to Q. Isabel, Mother to K. Edw. III. with their private Amours, &c. 4. H. Stafford Favourite to Crookback Richard, with that King's fecret Intrigues for usurping the Crown, and murthering his Nephews. Likewise the Character of Jane Shore, by Sir T. More who faw her. 5. Cardinal Woolfey: 6. Tho. L. Cromwel, both Favourites to K. Henry VIII. 7. Earl of Essex, Favourite to Q. Eliz. 8. D. of Bucks, Favourite to K. James I. and Charles I. 9. Earl of Strafford, Favourite to King Charles I. with all their Pictures. Price 1 s.

12. The English Empire in America: Or, a Prospect of his Majesty's Dominions in the W. Indies: Namely, Newfound-land, New-England, New-York, New-Jersey, Pensylvania, Maryland, Virginia, Carolina, Bermudas, Berbuda, Anguilla, Monserrat, Dominica, St. Vincent, Antego, Mevis or Nevis, St. Christophers, Barbadoes, and Jamaica; with an Account of their Difcovery, Situation and Product; the Religion and Manners of the Indians; with Pictures of the strange Fruits, Birds, Fishes, Insects, Serpents, and Monsters found in those Parts of the World. price I s.

13. Extraordinary Adventures, Revolutions and Events: Being an Account of divers stupendious Accidents, strange Deliverances, fignal Mutations, in the

Fortune:

Books printed for, and fold by,

Fortunes of several famous Men, and Changes of Government in many Countries. With other observable Passages in divers Kingdoms, States, and Provinces throughout the World: With Pictures. By R. B. price 1 s.

ved. Being a full Account of the Voyages, Adventures, and Atchievements of that renowned Commander: As, 1. His Voyage in 1572 to Nombre de Dios in the W. Indies, wherethey saw a Pile of Bars of Silver near 70 Foot long, 10 Foot broad, and 21 Foot high. 2. His incompassing the whole World in 1577, in 2 Years and 10 Months, gaining a vast Quantity of Gold and Silver. 3. His Voyage into America in 1585, and taking the Towns of St. Jago, St. Domingo, Carthagena, and St. Augustine. 4. His last Voyage into those Countries in 1595. With his Death and Burial. Revised, Corrected, Enlarged, and Beautified with Pictures. By R. B. price 1 s.

Account of the Travels of two English Pilgrims some Years since, and what Accidents besel them in their Journey to Jerusalem, Grand-Cairo, Alexandria, &c. 2. The Travels of 14 Englishmen in 1699; with the Antiquities, Monuments, and memorable Places mentioned in Scripture. Beautisted with Pictures. price 1 s.

three whereof were Gentiles; 1. Hector, Son of Priamus King of Troy. 2. Alexander the Great, King of Macedon. 3. Julius Cæsar, first Emperor of Rome. Three Jews. 4. Joshua, Capt. General of Israel. 5. David, King of Israel. 6. Judas Maccabeus, a valiant Jewish Commander against Antiochus. Three Christians, 7. Arthur, King of Britain. 8. Charles the Great, King of France, and Emperor of Germany. 9. Godfrey of Boloigne, King of Jerusalem. Being an Account of their Lives and Victories. With Poems, and the Picture of each Worthy. By R. B.

A. Bettesworth and J. Batley.

price I s.

illustrated in the Lives of nine famous Women. As

1. Deborah the Prophetess. 2. The valiant Judith.

3. Queen Esther. 4. The vertuous Susanna. 5. The chaste Lucretia. 6. Boadicia Queen of Britain, in the Reign of Nero, containing an Account of the Original Inhabitants of Britain. The History of Danaus and his fifty Daughters, who murthered their Husbands in one Night. Of the Valour of Boadicia, under whose Conduct the Britains slew 70000 Romans, with other remarkable Particulars. 7. Marianne, Wife of King Herod. 8. Clotilda, Queen of France. 9. Andegona, Princess of Spain. Adorned with Poems and Pictures. price 1 s.

18. Wonderful Prodigies of Judgment and Mercy, discovered in above 300 memorable Histories, containing t. Dreadful Judgments upon Atheists, Blasphemers, perjured Villains, &c. As of several forsworn Wretches carried away by the Devil, and how a horrid Blasphemer was turned into a black Dog, &c. 2. The miserable Ends of many Magicians, Witches, Conjurers, &c. with divers strange Apparitions, and Illusions of the Devil. 3. Remarkable Predictions and Prefages of approaching Death, and how the Event has been answerable. 4. The wicked Lives and weful Deaths of several Popes, 5. Admirable Deliverances from imminent Dangers, and deplorable Di-Aresses at Sea and Land. Lastly, Divine Goodness to Penitents, with the dying Thoughts of several famous Men, concerning a future State after this Life. Imbellished with pictures. price I s. ons and Passions of Mankind displayed, in near 300 notable Instances and Examples, discovering the transcendent Esses. 1. Of Love, Friendship and Gratitude. 2. Of Magnanimity, Courage and Fidelity.

3. Of

Books printed for, and fold by,

3. Of Chastity, Temperance and Humility. And on the contrary, the tremendous Consequences, 4. Of Hatred Revenge and Ingratitude. 5. Of Cowardice, Barbarity and Treachery. 6. Of Unchastity, Intemperance and Ambition. Imbellished with pictures. price 1 s.

Demons, Spectres, Witches, Apparitions, and other fupernatural Delusions and malicious Impostures of the Devil. Containing near 80 memorable Relations, Foreign and Domestick, Ancient and Modern. Collected from Authors of undoubted Verity. With a Preface against the Sadduces and Atheists of this Age, &c.

with pictures. price i s.

Parts: Containing, 1. Miracles of Nature and Art, in two Parts: Containing, 1. Miracles of Nature: Or, the wonderful Signs, and prodigious Aspects and Appearances in the Heaven, Earth, and Sea; with an Account of the most famous Comets, and other Prodigies from the Birth of Christ to this Time. 2. Miracles of Art, describing the most magnificent Buildings, and other curious Inventions in all Ages, with the seven Wonders of the World, and many other Structures and Rarities. Beautified with pictures. price 1 s.

Displaying the horrid Persecutions and Cruelties exercised upon Protestants for many 100 Years past to this Time, in Piedmont, France, Orange, Bohemia, Hungary, the Palatinate, Poland, Lithuania, Italy, Spain, Portugal, Holland, Flanders, Scotland, Ireland and England. Also God's Judgments upon Persecutors.

with pictures, price 1's.

Account of the most remarkable Earthquakes from the Creation to this Time. price 1 s.

· A. Bettefworth and J. Batley.

24. Memorable Accidents, and unheard of Transactions; containing an Account of several strange Events. Printed at Brussels in 1691, and dedicated to King William III. &c. published in English by R. B. price 1 s.

MISCELLANIES.

25. EXcellent Contemplations divine and moral, written by A. L. Capel, with some Account of his Life, his Letters to his Lady, and his last Speech. Also the Speech of D. Hamilton, and the Earl of Holland, who suffered with him. price 1 s.

26. Winter Evenings Entertainments, in two Parts. Containing, I. Ten pleasant Relations of many notable Accidents. 2. Fifty ingenious Riddles, with Explanations, Observations, and Morals upon each: Enlivened with about 60 pictures, for illustrating every Story and Riddle. Accommodated to chearful Coversation. price 1 s.

27. Æsops Fables in Prose and Verse, with pictures and proper Morals to every Fable, some very pertinent to the present Times. By R. B. price is.

DIVINITY.

Salvation: To which are added feveral other small Tracts, as, 1. Saving Faith discovered in three Heavenly Conferences between our blessed Saviour and 1. a Publican. 2. A Pharisee. 3. A Doubting Christian. The threefold State of a Christian: 1. By Nature, 2. By Grace. 3. In Glory. 3. The Scriptures Concord, compiled out of Words of Scripture, by way of Question and Answer, wherein there is the Sum of the Way to Salvation, and Spiritual Things compared with Spiritual. 4. The Character of a true Christian. 5. A brief Directory, for the great, necessary, and advantageous Duty of Self-Examination, whereby a serious Christian may every Day examine himself.

Books printed for, and fold by, &c.

himself. 6. A short Dialogue between a learned Divine and a Beggar. 7. Beams of the Spirit, or cordial Meditations, enlivening, enlightning, and gladding the Soul. 8. The feraphick Soul's Triumph in the Love of God, with short Remembrances and pious Thoughts. 9. History Improved, or Christian Applications of divers Remarkable Passages in History. 10. Holy Breathings in several Divine Poems upon divers Subjects and Scriptures. price Is.

29. The Divine Banquet: Or, Sacramental Devotions, confisting of Morning and Evening Prayers, Contemplations and Hymns for every Day in the Week, in order to a more solemn Preparation for the worthy receiving of the Holy Communion; representing the feveral Steps and Degrees of the Sorrows and Sufferings of our bleffed Saviour, till he gave up the Ghoft. With 8. curious Sculptures proper to several Parts and Graces. Imprimatur, Z. Isham, R. P. D. Hen. Epis. Lond. price 1 s.

30. Youth's Divine Pastime, in two Part, containing 75 remarkable Scripture Histories, turned into English Verse. With 75 Pictures proper to each Story; very delightful for the virtuous imploying the vacant Hours of young Persons, and preventing vicious Divertisements. With Scripture Hymns on divers Occasions.

price I s.

31. The Young Man's Calling: Or, the whole Duty of Youth, in a ferious and compassionate Address to all young Persons to remember their Creator in the Days of their Youth. Together with Remarks upon the Live of feveral excellent young Persons of both Sexes, Ancient as well as Modern, who have been famous for Virtue and Piety in their Generations. With 13 curious Pictures, illustrating the several Histories. price L. s. 6 d.

32. The Vanity of the Life of Man, represented in the seven several Stages thereof. price 6 d.

