Marcus Minucius Felix His Octavius, or, A vindication of Christianity against paganism / translated by P. Lorrain gent.

Contributors

Minucius Felix, M. (Marcus) Perrot d'Ablancourt, Nicholas, 1606-1664.

Publication/Creation

London : Printed by J.M. for R. Royston, Bookseller to his most Sacred Majesty, 1682.

Persistent URL

https://wellcomecollection.org/works/tsbzgdpk

License and attribution

This work has been identified as being free of known restrictions under copyright law, including all related and neighbouring rights and is being made available under the Creative Commons, Public Domain Mark.

You can copy, modify, distribute and perform the work, even for commercial purposes, without asking permission.

Wellcome Collection 183 Euston Road London NW1 2BE UK T +44 (0)20 7611 8722 E library@wellcomecollection.org https://wellcomecollection.org

0 5 translated into English by P. Lorrain. [WITH DEDICATION "TO THE HONOUR-V £3 135. 6d. 488 PEPYS. Rites of Funeral, Ancient and Modern, in use through the known World ... THE TRANSLATOR WAS EMPLOYED BY PEPYS TO COPY MSS. AND TO CATALOGUE HIS BOOKS. 38044/A ABLE SAMUEL PEPYS ESQ."], 2 parts, sm. 8vo., calf by Riviere. 1683. Pp. 93-118. Funeral Rites of the Americans. Nom Roan

Marcus Minucius Felix HIS OCTAVIUS; OR, A Vindication OF CHRISTIANITY AGAINST Paganism. Translated by P. LORRAIN Gent. LONDON, Printed by J. M. for R. Royston, Bookfeller to His most Sacred Majesty, 1682. A

le

the.

tand

15

Hon

1.11

TO THE REVEREND JOHN TILLOTSON D.D. DEAN of CANTERBURY, and Chaplain in Ordinary to His MAJESTY.

REVEREND SIR,

WHEREAS other Dedications are grounded merely upon Respect and Honour, or upon the prospect of some Advantage to the Book, A 2 or

The Epistle

or Author; this is more immediately an Effect of Justice: fince it is by Your Encouragement that this Translation appears in Publick, You having been pleafed to peruse and approve it. Tet this, SIR, is not all I have to alledge for this Dedication: For whether I confider You as a Zealous Defender of our Christian Religion against Atheism; or of our Reformed Religion against the Romish Superstion, which is the old Paganism reviv'd and varnish'd

Dedicatory.

nish'd over; I cannot make a fitter Choice of a Patron, either for MINUCIUS FELIX, or my self, who am,

REVEREND SIR,

Your most oblig'd, and Most devoted Servant,

London, July 10.1682.

PAUL LORRAIN.

THE PREFACE.

THOUGH a Preface to fo fmall a Treatife as this is, may by fome be judged needlefs and fuperfluous, yet having reafon to believe, that the READER will not be unwilling to underftand fomething concerning the Book it felf, its Author, and the End of publifhing it in Englifh, I fhall endeavour, as briefly as may be, to give him all the fatisfaction I can.

AS for the Treatife it self (which contains a Conference or Dispute between a Heathen and a A 4 Christian,

20

dr

211 ner

am

Christian, in defence of their respective Religions) it has been al= ways accounted one of the most Eloquent and Curious Pieces, that Antiquity has transmitted to us; and in which fo many Excellen= cies shine forth, as it is hard to determine whether it be more eloquent or pithy; more florid or found and convincing. The Relations are fuccinct and clear; the Arguments strong and perswasive; the Allegations pertinent and delightful, and the Whole deck'd with so comely a grace, and such lively figures of Rhetorick, as makes it truly admirable. The Heathen enters the Lifts first, and alledges all that can be thought of, in favour of Pagan Idolatry, and all that the Hell-born Malice of thole ie:

12:

that

US;

en:

10

18-10

Re

the

ITE;

de-

Xd

ch

25

The

and ght

100

those times, had invented against the Christians, pressing it home with all the advantages that Art and Learning can afford. The Christian on the other fide, with a great deal of foundness and address, overthrows all his Reasonings in defence of Heathen Superstition; beats him with his own Weapon; demonstrates to the eye the palpable falseness of those Scandals rais'd against the Christi= ans, and afferts their Religion with fo much vigor and truth, and reprefents it so lively (as it was all beautiful in its primitive Purity and Simplicity) that it can't but greatly affect and delight the Devout READER, who must needs rejoyce to see the Natural amiableness and Charms of that Reli=

el

RE

AD

旧

112

21 det

La

lefs

TO

We

giv

bel

the

EA

Ed

14 m ħ

Religion, which (alas!) the Superstitious inventions and the unsuitable lives of its Professors have so miserably disguis'd. Besides all this, the Discourse contains such an immense variety of Instances and Histories of great Antiquity, fuited to the Dispute in hand, as makes the reading of it very pleafant and agreeable; infomuch, that I dare fay, that never more Matter was crouded into so small a Volume. But I should be too tedious, should I endeavour but to touch the Heads of those peculiar Excellencies it is adorned with; wherefore I shall break off here, and add a few words concerning the Author MINUCIUS FELIX, whom we find to have been a Roman Knight, and by Profeffion

Su.

etto-

have fides

fuch

(MII)

uity,

25

122:

Eh.

nore

112 t00

bat

-13

他;

iere,

en-

THS

12代

Pro-

ion

fession a Lawyer or Advocate, who were commonly call'd Orators: And as to the Reputation he was in, St JEROME's Testimony may fuffice for all, who calls him a Great Roman Orator. And indeed he who peruses the Book in Latin, shall find that he was no less. As touching the Parties introduc'd to maintain the Dispute, we have no further account to give of them, what they were, besides what's here express'd; though some suppose, that the CÆCILIUS here mentioned, was that Great CÆCILI-US, who was afterwards fo Famous amongst the Christians, and in remembrance of whom St CYPRIAN took the Name of CÆCILIANUS.

THE

THE End of my Translating this Great Orator, was chiefly that this rare and useful Piece might no longer walk up and down as a Stranger amongst us, but become of our familiar acquaint. ance, by appearing in an English Garb; though I can't but confess, that the hopes I conceiv'd that my Name might exempt it felf from common Oblivion, by being seen in the Title-Page with the Famous MINUCIUS FE-LIX, was no small inducement to me, to undertake this Labour. But besides all this, I thought this Treatife would be of special use in this Atheistical and Apostatizing Age, to represent to our unthinking Godless Crew, the unreasonableness of what they would at an

Dea

tin out

100

25 2

bein 2011-erved or in by with

FE.

neat

our ught ecial far-

1 would so fain make themselves and others believe, viz. That this Universe is an Effect of Chance, and not of Wifdom; and that the Glorious Fabrick of Heaven and Earth, had no Architect, but was at all adventures jumbled together into this Excellent Order, by a fortuitous Concourse of Atoms : An Opinion fo grofly contradictory to Senfe and Reason, that it cannot be admitted by any, but those who have shaken hands with their own Nature, and by their Vices and Debaucheries have degraded themselves beneath the Beasts that perish ; for they know and acknowledge their Masters and Benefactors: But these more Brutish than the Beasts, know neither their own, nor 1371

10, 2

177 %

1 DC

- CIT I

Auto

fuffic

THE

itit

1 00

COLLO

han

1 Aug

as therr

歌c

the

nor the World's Great Lord and Maker. Neither will it (as I hope) prove less seasonable in this dark night of Apostasie, to hold forth to our nominal Christians, but practical Heathens, the genuine Lustre and Brightness of that Holy Profession, which once fhone fo glorioufly in the Countenances and Lives of its Primitive Embracers, that it made all the World to be in love with, or to admire it; if by this means they might be brought to bethink themselves, and at length to return into the Way of Truth and Holiness, from whence they are gone aftray.

AS to this Translation, the READER may be pleas'd to take notice, that I have all along made great

and 31 nthis

hold

but nnine

that once

ans.

nine.

the

or to they think

1 12-

and 210 te

rate

nade

mean

great use of the French of Monsieur D'ABLANCOURT, lo worthily efteem'd by Ingenious Men; yet not without having an eye to, and continual comparing of it with the Original Latin; though I never thought it fitting to tye my self too superstitiously to the Authors Words, but deem'd it sufficient to express his Sense; which I have been very careful not to vary from in the least. For I conceiv'd it my duty where I could not attain his Graces and Ornaments, at least to speak his Mind; and to give the Substance of his Arguments, where my poor ability could not reach to clothe them in so rich a Dress. For all whch I challenge nothing but the READER's Acceptance, EHA and and where it needs, his Pardon; which might perhaps be an En= couragement to me, to attempt: for fomething further in the like kind hereafter.

FAREWEL ...

Marcus

60

Marcus Minucius Felix

600;

n En:

lêmpt

like

EL

HIS

OCTAVIUS;

OR, A

Vindication of CHRISTIANITY against PAGANISM.

"HEN I think of my dear Octavius, and reflect on those delightful minutes we have fpent together, I feel fuch a pleafure, as if I were still enjoying those happy days; so deep an impression has his Idea left in my Mind, since my Eyes have lost the sight of him. And indeed 'tis not without cause, that I am so fensibly affected with the loss of so Excellent and Holy a Person, as he was; B seeing

A Vindication of Christianity

feeing he always express'd fo great a love for me, that in our pastimes, as well as most weighty Affairs, we ever will'd and diflik'd the fame things, as if one heart had been divided between And as he had formerly been the us. intimate Friend of my youthful Loves, and Companion with me in my Errors, so when those clouds were dispell'd, and I came out of the darkness of Ignorance into the light of Truth, he did not disdain to accept of my company, though indeed (which was the more glorious for him) he far outwent me. I fay, as I was lately reflecting on all these things, I fixed my thoughts on that ferious and important Discourse which he entertain'd, in my prefence, with Cæcilius, whom by means thereof he brought from his vain Superstitions to the knowledge of the true Religion of JESUS CHRIST.

the with and for the

M

问

谊 det

the

De,

節

the

Sin

Ding

湘

IM

De

10 5

能作

OCTAVIUS was come to Rome, partly upon account of bufinels, chiefly, perhaps, to see me, for whose sake he made no difficulty of leaving his Family and Children in that tender age

against Paganifm.

at a

武器

部計

药前

WEED

the

OTES,

CTOTS,

all'd,

gnodid

剄,

DERE

t me,

00 all tim wille

ing,

an an I Range and Bank

影

age when they are the most lovely; I mean, by reason of their Innocence; when they begin to speak half words, and when their broken and faltring speech makes whatever they say extremely delightful. It is not to be express'd with what a joy I was transported at this unexpected felicity, of meeting so good a Friend, whom of a long time I had not seen.

WHEN the first motions of this joyful surprisal were a little over, after our being some days together, and telling one another our adventures, we determin'd to go to Oftia; the Baths there, near the Sea, being very good for me, to dry up my humors, and the Vacation of the Vintage affording me leifure for that retirement. It was at the time when the greatest heats of the Summer begin to abate, and the ripening Fruits give notice that the Harvest is at hand. Being arriv'd in this fair City, we went early in the morning to take a walk upon the Sea-Ihore, to enjoy the fresh air, which quickens the spirits, and imparts liveliness to B 2 the

AV indication of Christianity

the whole body, and where the Sands, in which the footsteps make so flight an impression, do not tire the Walker, but fuffer him without weariness to receive the benefit of a pleafant and healthful Recreation. As we were thus: walking on, Cæcilius who was in company with us, feeing an Image of Se-. rapis, as we pass'd by, did according; to the Superstition of the Vulgar, kilss his hand to it, in token of worship and reverence. Whereupon Octavius turning to me, faid; Brother Marcus, your do not like a good man to fuffer one, whom you daily converse with, to remain in fuch gross blindness, as to stumble at stones in broad day-light, which though they be fhap'd into fome figure, and are perfum'd and crown'd, yet still are nothing but stones. Indeed it concerns you, as well as him, not to let him go on in this Error.

101

GE!

200 biez

曲印

報問

1021

all

600

WITH this kind of discourse we pafs'd through the middle of the City. 120 and drew towards the Sea-fide, near a in wide and open place, where we faw to the waves gently beating the fhore: and

against Paganism.

with,

fett

alter,

1018

t ad

etens

n comof Sa

ording 1, kilis

pand

tin-

1, 1012

: 00c,

th, to 25 10

時間にしい ne ne

e City,

DEN A

RE LIT

brey and 5

and smoothly spreading the fand, as if they had been fitting it on purpole for a walk. And as the Sea is never quite calm, even when the winds are still, fo though the waves were neither high nor foaming, yet in great curles they came rowling towards the shore. Thus we delightfully wander'd by the Sea-fide, and beheld the waves coming and breaking themselves at our feet, and then returning to be fwallow'd up again in that vaft Element, and keeping along the edge of the gently bending fhore, with pleafant ftories we deceived the tediousness of our journey : For Octavius entertained us with a Difcourse of Navigation, in so pleafant a manner, that we could not grow weary either of walking, or hearing him. And that we might not go too far, we return'd back the fame way we came; and being arriv'd at a place where Veffels are dry-dock'd, we faw fome little Boys vying with one another at an exercise of making shells to graze, as it were, upon the water. The Sport is this: They gather small B 3 fhells

6 A Vindication of Christianity

IN

11, betw

tel

to ta

180

10 0

Let

ftor

ane

前日 gue

then

me

COT

for 21 tor

bette

and

Th

風 foir

807

Upp

Gud

shells on the shore, picking up such as are the most smooth and round; then stooping to the ground, with all their strength deliver them, so as they may but just raze the surface of the water; and he that makes them glide furthest, and gives the most bounds, does win the Whilft Octavius and my felf Game. were looking on these Children, Cæcilius taking no diversion in their sport, nor any notice of the activity of these Youths, kept aloof thoughtful and melancholick, shewing by his clouded countenance that he had fomething in his mind that troubled him, infomuch that it prompted me to accost him with this difcourfe. How now? What is become of that gay and charming temper, which you are wont to have even amidst your most serious Affairs? Whereupon he reply'd, I will not conceal from you, that Octavius has affronted and vex'd me to the heart; for it feems that he does blame you, only to offend me, and accuse you of negligence, only to expose me as an ignorant and blockifh Fellow. I am refoly'd

against Paganism.

12:25

國、國

may 御 hely

athe

y felf

tille

POR.

itite

200

酸田

CHO.

15th

iat là

ter-

33

and

000-trop

for E

110

10

in.

内臣

7

folv'd to feek my amends for this injury, and to have this matter discuss'd between us in good earnest. It's like he'l fee then, that it is a more eafy thing to talk of these matters with those of his own Party, than fairly and orderly to debate them with Learned Men. Let us go and fit down upon yonder ftones that jet out into the Sea, and fecure the Baths from the raging waves, where we may reft our felves, and argue the Cafe more at leifure. We went therefore and fate down, they placing me between them both, not out of complement or respect to my Quality, (for Friendship either finds or makes all equal) but as a Judge and Moderator of their dispute, that I might the better hear the reasons of both Parties, and keep the two Disputants asunder. Then Cacilius began thus: Brother Marcus, though you be already refolved about the Things which are now controverted between us, fince upon careful examination and tryal of both, you have left the Service of our Gods, and embraced Christianity; yet B 4 21

8 AV indication of Christianity

10

Of.

THE

()E

Fer

pab

(1)2)

the 歃

OE,

dent

ter

Th

Ha

ho

Cie

m tro

laby

bor

CR

62 int

to

at prefent your mind should be fo difposed, that you may hold the scales even, like an equal Judge inclining to neither Party; that fo your Sentence may rather appear to be the effect of the force of our Arguments, than of your own preconceiv'd Opinion. Therefore if you'l fit down as a Stranger, who has no acquaintance or interest on either side, it will be no hard task to demonstrate to you, that all the things of this World are uncertain and doubtful, and that the knowledge we have of 'em, is rather Opinion than Certainty; fo that I cannot but wonder when I fee fome Men fo lazy, as rather inconfiderately to yield to the first Opinion that prefents it felf, than to be at the pains to fearch things to the bottom. It is indeed a thing to be lamented (and which puts one into a paffion to think on't) to fee fome ignorant men, who have no manner of Learning, and do fcarce throughly understand any of the ordinary Mechanick Arts, boldly to decide the higheft and most important Matters in the World,

against Paganism.

dif.

16 B

Big to

LEBLE .

Stel.

2D of 100

25 2

10 30

2 10

that 127-

100-

EDID

it but 取着 ote

加

时间

010 2

re ig

iet of yu-

ally

World, which have exercis'd the Wits of the Philosophers of all Ages, and who after all, have never been able to come to a final determination of them. For Man's understanding is fo little capable of fuch transcendent knowledge, that we cannot apprehend even things that lye at our feet. And it feems to me a kind of impiety, to be fo curious, as to found the fecrets of Providence, and in our inquiries to reach after the heights of Heaven above, or to rifle the bowels of the Earth beneath. Happy therefore, and wife enough should we be, if according to the ancient Oracle of Wildom, we could but know our felves, and keep our mind from this vexatious and unprofitable labour, and confine it within the bounds of Reafon and its own mediocrity. And if notwithstanding our creeping on the ground, as we do, we cannot hinder our felves from attempting to mount up to the Heavens, and to foar above the Stars; let us not at least add this fecond Error to the former, and fill the World with vain Opinions

9
110 ofn

att

tol

DOU

000

068

W2

to an 10%

200 lon

lin

助 Lip(

tear

that

OI.

Sto

朝

the 17 lov

Wit

nions and Fancies, on purpole to affright men. For whether the Principles of Things be certain Seeds, which by a Natural propenfity have joyn'd and united themfelves together; or that the Members of all this spacious Universe, have meerly by Chance been fram'd and fettled in the orderly manner in which they now are; What reafon is there why men should fancy a God Creator of the World ? What, if we suppose the Fire to have kindled the Stars; and the matter whereof the Heavens are made, to have spread and fustain'd it felf; that the Earth was poifed by its own weight, and the Sea made out of the moisture which was drain'd from that heavy lump; What ground is there in all this for this Religion? for these Fears? What means all this Superstition? Pray what is Man, and all other Creatures in the World, but a mixture of Elements, which in a fhort time diffolve themfelves, and return into their first Being, without the help of an overfeer, workman, or difpofer of all these Changes? Thus by a conti-

0 2fa

Nic.

ille

用自

that

Uni-

Deen

Din.

124

順軍

-

del

itter

M

in

the 198

聖書書

加加

10 2

Įć.

the M.

110

continual confluence of the fiery parts of matter, of which the Celeftial Lights are made, we daily behold new Suns to fhine: And by a like caufe the Vapours and Exhalations of the Earth produce Clouds, which afterwards being condenfed, and by degrees carried upwards, do at last diffolve themselves into Rain, or elfe caufe bluftring Winds, ratling Hail, roaring Thunder, and dazling Lightning. Which is the reafon also why these Meteors do cafually and indifferently difcharge themfelves, fometimes on the top of a Hill, fometimes on a Tree, fometimes upon Temples and Confecrated places, fometimes upon Palaces, fometimes on fuch as fear God, and fometimes upon those that contemn him. Shall I speak of the variety and uncertainty of Storms and tempeftuous weather, wherein it is eafy to be observ'd, that without any choice or exception, all things here below are turn'd topfy-turvy? Don't we fee both good and bad involv'd in the felf fame fhipwrack, without any diffinction of Vice and Virtue;

- ett

feat

dent

W

Cha

ont

fore

100

We

101

Do

the

ber

AN IT IN THE WEIT

Re

Virtue; the guilty and innocent confum'd in one fire; and almost all confuledly perish in time of Plague, and in War the best many times are the first cut off? Nay, in time of Peace, Wickedness is not only upon equal terms with Virtue, but prefer'd and ador'd: So that when a man confidereth the prosperity of the Wicked, he is at a loss what to think of them, and does not know whether he has more reason to deteft their Crimes, or defire their happinefs. Now if the World were govern'd by a Divine Providence, and the authority of a wife and powerful Being, furely Phalaris and Dionyfius the Tyrant had never mounted a Throne; nor Rutilius and Camillus ever been banish'd, nor Socrates forc'd to take down the deadly draught. We fee here Trees loaden with Fruits, Fields well ftor'd with Corn, and Hills with Grapes, ready for Vintage, which promise a plentiful Harvest; and all on a fuddain, this may be utterly fpoil'd with rain, or deftroy'd by a tempest. Surely it must be own'd, that either 000.

1003-adia 18 fat

Wid.

terms

eid:

th the 21 2

does

200

TITI

職能

1, 201

perful

min

10 1

Re.

band.

We

ruis,

200

120g

WEL ;

utter-

bri

100 either Truth lyes deep buried, and the fecret springs and wheels of Providence are altogether unknown, or (which is the most probable) that Chance only governs the World without any Law or Order. And therefore fince either the viciffitudes and motions of Nature are uncertain, or we our felves certainly under the Dominion of Fortune, how much more reasonable and just is it to retain the Doctrine of our Anceftors, and adore the Gods which our Fathers have worfhipp'd, and in whofe Service we have been brought up from our infancy, than to go about to judge of Things fo far above our reach as the Deity is? And is it not better and fafer to believe our first Fore-fathers. who living in an Age of great fimplicity, and in the very infancy of the World, deferv'd to have their Gods either easie and propitious, or exercifing a gentle government like that of Kings? For indeed we fee all the Towns, Provinces and Kingdoms of the World have fome Religion or other, and peculiar Ceremonies, di

Ga

h mad Victoring

10.2

m

and

Gos

give

2000 mon fas

Those

m

this

Vere

the fil

金

THE

17 O

monies, each worshipping their own Country-Gods; as the Elensinians do Ceres; the Phrygians, Cybele; the Epidaurians, Alculapius; the Chaldeans, Bell; the Affyrians and Sydonians, Astarte; the Scythians, Diana; the Gauls, Mercurius; and the Romans, all of them together; which is the reason why their Power is so greatly encreas'd, and themfelves become Mafters of the whole World, having carried their Dominion almost beyond the course of the Sun, and the bounds of the Ocean: For by the Religion and Valour of their Arms; by guarding their City with the Service of the Gods, Numeries of Vestals, and other Chaft Votaries, with a vaft number of Priests and Ceremonies; by appealing their angry Gods, when other Nations would have Blasphemed them, and even at that time when Rome was fackt, and had nothing left her but the Capitol; by adventuring (in celebrating their Mysteries) to passunarm'd through the Camp of their Enemies, whom they altonished and daunted with the bold daringness

UND

n bo in the stand

tunds ligion fuard. other other ding

titos

ETEL

licky,

中

ing

的物质 daringness of their Zeal; by continuing still to worship their vanquished Gods, even at the very instant when their Enemies having taken their City, made 'em feel the infolence which their Victory prompted them to; by fearching for Deities throughout the World, to adore them and give them Temples at Rome; nay, befides all this, by erecting Altars to unknown Deities, and the Souls of departed Heroes; And in a word, by worshipping the Gods of all Nations, they are defervedly become the Masters of, and have given Laws to all Nations. Which Devotion of theirs hath ever been kept up amongst 'em, and encreased more and more in process of time: For age confers I don't know what of Sacrednefs upon Temples and Holy Things; infomuch as the more ancient and unknown their Original is, the more are they reverenced. It is not therefore without reason, I confess (though I may be mistaken) that our Fore-fathers did fo much betake themselves to Divination, by observing the flying and chattering of 前田

Serv

630

200 of Birds, and by confulting the entrails of Beafts; and did inftitute the Service of their Gods, and dedicate Temples to them. Do but look into the De Histories and Records of past times, an and you will find that all these Mysterious Ceremonies were ordain'd either Dt to return thanks to the Divine Bounthe ty, or to divert the stroak of his 0003 Wrath, or to appeale the fury of it. Bore Witness the Mother of the Gods, who at her coming into the City, made in known the Chastity of a Lady, and deliver'd Rome from the fears of her Enemies. Witness the Statues of those two Brothers on Horfe-back, which were erected in the fame place where: they fhew'd themfelves, when returning from the defeat of Perfes, with their: Horfes out of breath and all in a foame, brought the news of the Victory, the very fame day they had got it. Witness those Games which were set up anew, upon a Dream which an ordinary man had, that Jupiter was offended. Witnefs the Decii, who won the Battle by facrificing their lives for the Service

theit

190

Ten

io the ines

mite.

ether

DOT-

of his

of its

TO

mide

1. and

ofher

thole

which 前龍

他们.

their

OIN

Y. 18

W

tupa

ade

offer

mile

行他 errice

17

Service of their Country. In fine, witnefs Curtius, that noble Youth, who leapt on Horfe-back into that yawning Deep, which open'd it felf in the midst of Rome; and by devoting himself to appeale the Anger of the Gods, closed up that dreadful Abyss. And indeed the contempt of Divine Bodings hath occasion'd the presence of the Gods more often than we could have with'd for; which the River Allia (that unfortunate Name) fufficiently teacheth us, as well as the Battle of Claudius and Junius against the Carthaginians, which was not fo much a Fight, as a miserable Shipwrack. The Lake Thrafimenus hath feen its waters stain'd and fwoln with Roman Blood, because a Conful made light of the Verdict of the Augurs; as likewife at another time for some just imprecations which we flighted, we were made a Prey to the Parthians. But passing by things more remote, concerning the Birth of the Gods, and the Gifts and Prefents made to them ; and omitting also the relations of the Poets, and those Oracles

10

Di

200

Att

W

Wi

be,

ate

cles that have foretold things to come, left Antiquity should seem too fabulous, do but cast your Eyes upon these Temples, which at once are the City's Ornament and Defence, and you shall find them more August and Glorious, by reason of the Divinities which inhabit them, and are there ador'd, than by all the pomp of their Embellishments, or riches of their Gifts and Offerings. From thence it is that the Priests are inspir'd with the knowledge of future Events, and teach us how to prevent dangers to come. Here they are instructed to heal the fick, to give hope to the afflicted, fuccour to the needy, comfort to the unhappy, and ease to all our pains. And whillt we are taking our reft, we oft fee, hear, and acknowledge those very Gods, whom in the day-time we impioully deny, difown and forfwear. Since therefore it is agreed by all Nations, that there are Gods, though their Nature and Original be unknown, why should we suffer those bold and impudent men, who being puffed up with wee,

LITE

Te

in the set

017 10

ethey

5, 10

XII 10

12pp),

The

all,

idi y

OULY

Since

thing,

r Na-

耐 apr-

即

I don't know what impious wildom, endeavour to weaken and destroy a belief which is no lefs useful and comfortable, than it is ancient and venerable ? And though Theodorus the Cyrenian, or he that was before him (viz. Diagoras Melius) to whom Antiquity gave the Sirname of Atheist, have strove to overthrow this Opinion, that they might extinguish all manner of Religion and Reverence of the Gods, and diffolve the strongest bond of Humane Society; yet shall their counterfeit Wildom, never pass for Philosophy in the efteem and approbation of Wife and thinking Men. If the Athenians banish'd from their Country one Protagoras, because he rais'd disputes about the Gods (though he did it rather in a Philosophical and inquisitive, than profane way) and caus'd his Writings to be publickly burnt; Ihall we fuffer men (pray give me leave in the heat of discourse to speak out my mind freely) I fay, shall we suffer men of an unlawful, infamous and defperate Faction, without fear of punish-C 2 ment

021

IJ

the 28 fille

Spi

W

178 peri

Way

thre

lon

lect

200 appy

田族

(1);

ETRO

Int

01

200

In 開

W

ment to attempt against the Gods; and gathering together a company of filly and ignorant people, especially Women, who by reafon of the weaknefs and credulity of their Sex, are eafily deceiv'd and impos'd upon; train them up to a wicked Confederacy, or rather Conspiracy; into which they are not initiated by any holy Rites, but by impious Crimes practis'd in their Night-Conventicles, Solemn Fafts, and horrid and inhumane Feafts? Thefe are the people that fculk in the dark, and flee the light, who are mute in publick, and full of chat in their private Affemblies. They with horror and difdain look upon our Temples as polluted Graves; They spit at our Gods, deride our Ceremonies, and pity others, whilft themselves are most of all to be pitied. They flight the Dignities of Priesthood, and contemn the Sacred Purple, whilft themfelves have fcarce cloaths to cover their own nakedness; and out of a strange madnefs and unheard-of boldnefs, they make nothing of prefent torments, whilft 3141;

IT of

rit

merk.

ate

thin

10.1

they

Rites,

their

ad

Thefe

dark,

a pab

rivate

200

8 2

OII

and molt

t the itemi

feres iom

mi

胡

动

山

21 whilft they are ftrangely fearful of uncertain future miseries; Nay, the very fear of dying after Death makes them fearlefs of Death, fo powerful an afcendant groundlefs fears, and the falle hopes wherewith they flatter and comfort themselves, have got over their Spirits. And in the mean time, as Weeds fpring fastest, and ill habits daily encrease more and more; fo this pernicious and accurfed Sect every day waxing stronger and spreading it self throughout the World, it is but reafon that a timely care be taken for its total extirpation and suppression. By fecret figns and tokens they know one another, and their mutual love almost anticipates their knowledge. They make their Luft a part of their Religion; and fo much doth the foolifh and mad Superstition of these People glory in their crimes, that they promifcuoully call one another Brothers and Sifters, and by this feeming holy Compellation make filthy Inceft of that which otherwife were but fimple Fornication: Which Wickedness of theirs is so much nois'd 3 C

DI

前日

the 002

110

100

例的

Crit

fort

their 219

378

Whit

Dis

em

the

bot

Sile

颜

節

310

褫

NO

20

6

101 nois'd abroad in the World, that the truth thereof cannot well be queftion'd; no more than that other report which goes of them, viz. That by a mad Superstition they worship the Head of that vile Animal [an As]: Which indeed is a fort of Worship very fuitable to their Lives and Manners. They are also faid to pay a great veneration to the Privy parts of their Priests, as if they meant to adore the Genitals of their Ghostly Fathers. Now whether these Reports be true or false, I will not take upon me absolutely to determine. But their Nocturnal Ceremonies and conceal'd Devotions feem to be sufficient Arguments to perswade the truth of them; and they who tell us that they worship a Man who was crucified for his Villanies, and that the Wood of a Cross constitutes a great part of their Devotion, do worthily attribute to them Altars fuitable to their Crimes, by making them to adore what they deferve. Moreover the Ceremony they observe upon admitting any to their Religion is no lefs borrible

此他

Wit-

letort

bra

o the 101 ip re-

Will.

their

ethe

Now

脈 tely to

Ce.

stem

finate

otell

188 et the gteat

rth

10 10

10 2

EDTEL

nd-

の話

Tible

horrible than notorious. A Child cover'd all over with Paste (to conceal the Murther he is defigned for) is fet before the new Profelyte, who, by their command, strikes his knife many times into it, until the blood run down apace from all parts, which by them is as greedily fuckt up; and this common Crime is made the Pledge and Surety for their Silence and Secrecy. These are their Sacrifices, which are worfe than all Sacriledges. As to their Feafts, they are but too well known; concerning which our Cirthensian Orator tells us in his Speech, that on a certain day (folemnly appointed for that purpose) they affemble themfelves all together, both Men, Women, Children, Brothers, Sifters, and in a word, people of all Ages, Conditions and Sexes; and after they have eaten and drunk to excels, and that the heat of the Wine and Meats begins to kindle their blood and provoke their luft, they caft a morfel to a Dog, who is ty'd to a Candlestick, fo far out of his reach, that in striving to leap at it, he overthrows the Candleftick, .

調

Who

hole

bril

2100

But

BU

Gu

tion

the

this

Ver

Wo

Nat

ODe

100 ples

Dotr

18 6

the

de

the 20 flick, and puts out the Light. So that having thus rid themselves of the only Witness of their infamous actions, and taking boldness from shameless Darknefs, they confusedly mix themselves: together, as it happens; and therefore though it may chance fo, that they are not all Incestuous in deed, yet they are all of 'em fo in will and defign; fince the Sin acted by any one of them is not only confented to, but wish'd by the whole Company. Several other things of this nature there are, which I purposely omit, I having already produc'd but too many instances of their Errors. And indeed were there nothing elfe against them but that of their endeavouring to conceal fo much their Mysteries in obscurity, it would be an evident proof of the truth of all we fay, or at least of the greatest part thereof. For why do they fo industrioully strive to hide that which they worship? Men are not afraid to publish their honest actions; but such as are unjust they seek to cover with filence and privacy. Why have they

othet

E Cely

s and

Dat.

illing

refore

17 200

即說 fince

ibem ilbid

10.

an,

12 21-

11113

Were

n but 199 rity,

fthe

fthe

P 00

ethet

18.2.

iens;

COVE

記

they neither Altars nor Temples, nor any Images, at least which are known? Why don't they speak but in private holes and corners, whither they repair by stealth, if this their conceal'd Religion be not infamous and criminal? But pray, from whence, who, and where is this one only folitary and forfaken God of theirs, whom not one free Nation, no Kingdoms do worship, no not the Romans themfelves who have worfhipp'd all the Gods of the whole Univerfe? Among all the people in the World there is but that one miserable Nation of the Jews, who have ferved one God alone; and yet they did it too in a publick manner, with Temples, Altars, Rites and Sacrifices; and notwithstanding the power of this God is fo inconfiderable, that both himfelf and his People are now Captives to the Romans. But what strange and wonderful things don't they invent? They affert, That to this God, whom they neither fee, nor can demonstrate, men's Lives and Actions are particularly known; That he hears their words, fearcheth their their most fecret thoughts, and is prefent every where ; thereby making him troublesome, reftless and curious, even to impudence; for he hath a hand in, or at least a knowledge of every thing; He is prefent every where, and leaves nothing unpried into. But how can this be? How can he poffibly have an eye to every thing in particular, who has business in all places at once? Or how can he be fufficient for all, whilft he applies himfelf to every particular? Nor do they content themfelves with all this; but they threaten all the World, and the Starsthemfelves with an universal Conflagration; as if any thing could alter that Eternal Order, which Nature her felf has eftablifh'd; the Elements break their Alliance, or the Divine Harmony of the Spheres be diffolv'd, for to destroy this wonderful Fabrick, which contains and furrounds us. To these they add feveral other Old Wives Fables : They tell us, That after Death their ashes and dust shall rife again; and (by I don't know what ftrange kind of perfwafion pr.

200

5,6

had 深的

200

BOW

have uler,

133

2 plin

ter-

eaten

era

3I

10:

etz.

All.

the 曲 tais

id

日間の前面の

on) they stedfastly believe those Errors they have invented, and fancy themfelves already rifen and born again: Which is a double madnefs and folly, to believe that the Heavens and Stars which we leave as we found them, shall perish; and that Men, whom we fee hourly dye and have an End, as they have had a Beginning, shall for ever abide. And as if Dead Bodies being kept from the flames, fhould not by length and process of time be turn'd into dust and ashes, they will not burn their Dead, and blame us becaufe we burn ours. Do you think that it matters any thing, whether they be confum'd in the Earth or in the Sea, or devour'd by Fire or wild Beafts? For if Dead Bodies have any fenfe, any manner of Burial must needs be a torment to them; but if they have none, that way whereby they are foonest confum'd, is the best. Neverthelefs being prepoffeft with this ridiculous opinion, they promife themfelves (as the Godly Party) an everlafting happiness after this Life; and threaten threaten others (as being the Rebell for Rout) with torments that shall have: not no end. I have many things to fay The here, to prove them worfe than others; the but I will not take pains to make it out, fince I think it fufficiently done: who already. But were it granted that: they are as righteous as others, is it in not as a certain truth believ'd by most, That Destiny is the cause both of the good and evil, that we fee in the World ? Which is your judgment albrair fo. For as fome impute all humane: Port Actions to Fate and Fortune, so do prefe you to God. Which is in effect to fay, fion that you have not voluntarily embra-You ced this Sect, but God has Elected you the thereunto; So that thereby you make fuffe your God an unjust Judge, who does tote not punish the finful, but the unfor-101 tunate. Pray tell me, shall you rife are again without, or with a Body? and Wh shall that Body be the fame you have by end now, or another? If you fay without a Body: For my part I don't believe (as ftar there is either Life, Soul, or Senfe without a Body. And how with a Body? Ciffs

27

It

Rebel

hate to by theraj

ake it doce

the,

5,15 1

DOL

of the 501-1

道出

13978

io do

10 67

embra-

10704

THE

600 mtor

n tit

2.200

abate

the elier;

and the

Bietz

It cannot be your own ; for that is already wasted. Shall it be another? Then it will be a new body, and not the old one repair'd. Besides, so many Ages are past and gone; and yet who has ever been feen to rife and come to Life again, though but for a Imall time (as the Poets feign Protesilaus did) that we might have fome ground to believe this Paradox? Indeed thefe Stories are but Chimæras of a crack'd brain, and the vain comforts which Poets have invented and pleafantly express'd for their own and others diverfion. And thefe old Fablesnew vamp'd, your credulity entertains and applies them to your God. Why don't you fuffer the experience of things prefent to teach you, at least, how vain these your promifes and hopes of the future are? Poor wretches! You might learn what will be your Fate after Death, by the miseries of Life which you now endure. The most and the best of you (as you fay your felves) are ready to starve, being in want of all things neceffary for this mortal Life, and under great

E100

86)

100

Feal

Gud

Pri

taiti

000 un los

Jou

VOIL

TEB

AOI

Gray

Caa

billing

四;

000

Of TO

depri

of th lithe lore

ity he

Stare

great troubles and miferies; which God fuffers and takes no notice of; An evident proof, that he either will not, or can't afford you any relief; and by confequence is either impotent or unjust. Thou who flatterest thy felf with an immortality after this Life, art thou not fenfible of thy condition? Canst thou deny thy weakness, when thou trembleft at dangers, when thou burnest in a Feaver, when thou art rack'd with pain? Miserable delufion ! Not to own one's milery, even when one feels it ! But to leave these common Matters; behold there are executions, punishments and torments that await you, and croffes, not to be ador'd by you, but endur'd; with fires and flames, which you own your felves afraid of, whilft you foretel and threaten them to others. Where is that God that can raife the Dead, but not relieve the Living? Are not the Romans, without the affiftance of your God, become the Masters of the World, and of your felves too, whilft you in the mean time refrain from lawful pleasures,

Mich

10 91

和副

油的

VOtent

山山, ition?

When

thou

thou

det.

eren

thele

218 9

iat

101 10

益

TUOT

fand

ere is

, but

n the

your land,

ou il

TE,

pleasures, and entertain your fullen humour with troublesome fears and anxious thoughts? You are never feen at any publick Spectacles and Triumphs; nor do you ever frequent our solemn Feasts and Combats in honour of our Gods. You abhor the Meats which Priests have touch'd, and are afraid to tafte the Wine that hath been prefented on our Altars; So that it feems you stand in some awe of those very Gods, whom you deny. You wear no Garlands on your Heads, and referve your Ointments and Perfumes for the Dead; Nor do you fo much as adorn the Graves of your deceased Friends with Chaplets. You look pale and trembling, and are indeed real Objects of pity; but it must be of the pity of our Gods, for yours take no notice of you. Miserable Wretches! who deprive your felves of the enjoyments of this Life, and deceive your felves in the expectation of another. Therefore if you have any wildom or modefty left, give over gazing upon the Stars, and fearching into the Destiny of tre

All.

dete

捕

200

the

Igno

ltw

ETTER:

whol

defer

tobe

ing :

Opin

ath

it:

ed :

tino

Chati

that

Tith

ama

reaf

in 201

te

of the World; And think it enough to look to your own feet; especially for fuch tude and unlearned People as you are, who hardly understand matters of a Civil concernment, much less are able to discourse of Divine and Heavenly things. But if you have fuch an itch of Philosophizing, follow the Example of Socrates (you who think fo highly of your felves) that was the Prince of Wildom : All know the answer he was wont to make to those that ask'd him any Questions about Matters of DIVINITY. What's above us (laid he) does not concern us. For which he merited the Praise of extraordinary Wildom, from the mouth of the Oracle it felf; and he himfelf was sensible, that it was not for his knowing all things, that Apollo had pronounced him the Wifeft of all Greece ; but because he had learn't this one thing, That he knew nothing. This therefore is the greatest Wildom of all, for a Man to confess his own ignorance. Upon this bottom were founded the Opinions of Arcefilas, Carneades and feveral loigh

the.

amed

under.

incol,

i Di.

HYOU

s, fet

1100

that 1002

1 32

005 24

hees

W. S.

ofer

inter inter

y tis

o had

of all nit the

This

of 120.2

北

, the

retal

feveral other Philosphers of the Ancient Academy, who thought it fafelt not to determine any thing in Matters of any difficulty. And indeed this modelt and doubtful way of Philosophizing is the best, seeing it is wariness in the Ignorant, and wildom in the Learned. It was this, which gain'd fo much admiration and effeem to Simonides, whofe admirable flownefs and caution deferves to be propos'd as an Example to be imitated by all Posterity. For being ask'd of Hiero what his belief and opinion was concerning the Gods, he at first demanded a day to consider of it: The next day after being questioned about the fame thing, he defir'd two days more; the third time he crav'd as many more; and fo from that time forth he still doubled the number : At which the King standing amaz'd (not being able to guess the reafon of fo many delays) and prefling him to answer the Question without any further put-offs; The more (faid he) O King, that I study and meditate of the Thing you enquir'd of me, the more obscurg

33

61

gill

10 開

net

DIO

2000 que

and 150 who

Carr

and

fibh

con

Wit

b000

TEAT

thin

eshe

Ons

pro

100 beir

den

obscure it grows. Thus (methinks) we ought to leave such things as are intricate and uncertain, undetermin'd, and not boldly give our Verdict in a Matter, wherein the Wisest Men are at a great loss, and use to suspend their Judgments; nor be too forward to refolve and decide Controversies, whilst the ablest and most Learned are yet in doubtful deliberation about them; seeing this is the ready way either to destroy all manner of Religion, or to introduce the most fulfome Superstition and intolerable Slavery.

WHEN Cacilius had thus made an end, Well (faid he, with a finiling countenance; for the earneftnefs of his Difcourfe had appeas'd his Anger) what to all this fays our Ottavius of the Race Plautus speaks of, the chief of Bakers, and the meanest of Philosophers? Soft (faid I to him) you had better spare your braggs, and not begin your triumph till you have got the Victory; nor please your felf too much with the fine Speech you have made. Remember that Truth, and not Vain-glory, isi

We

m.

and

Mat.

ata

-st 0.

et in fee.

des to.

deza

ning es of

iger)

fthe

B

bettet

TOT

torri

由此

ころう

is the Thing we contend for. And indeed it is not your Discourse that gives me the greatest trouble (though I must confess that I was extreamly taken with it, because it was both very witty and graced with admirable variety) but I am forry to fee, that the probability of Things does change face, according to the abilities and eloquence of those that discourse them, and that the most evident truth often is obscur'd by the weakness of those who manage it. Men are apt to be carry'd away with an Eloquent Speech, and to affent to every thing that is plaufibly faid, and to be diverted from the confideration of what's treated of, without discerning Truth from Falfhood, or confidering that as a Paradox may sometimes be true, so a likely thing often is falle : And therefore the eafier they are to believe the affertions of others, the off'ner are they reprov'd and convinc'd by those who look nearer into the Matter: So that being nettled at last to fee themselves deceiv'd at every turn, they cast the blame 2

枷

th

011

10 pick

2000

com

beli

Keet

(NED

Di

VOU

202 elpe

Par

tit

refu

TOD

ber

but

bar

Com

on

1 ha

Tat

Rea

blame of their own rashness upon the doubtfulness and uncertainty of all things, and had rather condemn every thing and believe nothing at all, than concern themfelves in Matters that are fo doubtful, and lyable to miltake. Tis therefore our interest to have a care, left this fhould make us have an averfion for all manner of Discourse and Conferences, or (which is worfe) make us diftaft and hate the company of Men. For those who eafily believe any thing, finding themselves frequently deceiv'd, by perfons whom they before efteem'd honeft and good Men, fall into another extreme, which is, That they suspect all the World, and mistrust even those in whom they have reafon to repole the greatest confidence. Wherefore fince it is fo natural for every one to employ all their might in the vindication of their own Opinions, and fince also in fuch Disputes as these, the one has commonly more Truth on his fide, though obscure and unperceiv'd, and the other more Wit and Eloquence, even fo far as fometimes

1

are ic.

63

韵 ule

ij

De.

ŔD,

B

60

R,

P.

ht

1

32

012

37

times to perfwade things that are not; it is our Duty to ponder and confider of the Whole, with all the ftrictnefs and exactnefs imaginable, that we may pick out, approve and receive what's good in it, contenting our felves to commend what is wittily faid, without believing it.

YOU transgress the bounds, and keep not the measures of an equal Judg (reply'd Cacilius) by interrupting our Dispute with a Discourse that endeavours to weaken the strength, and take away the credit of what I have faid ; especially seeing Octavius has all the Particulars of my Reasoning whole and entire before him, and may answer and refute them, if he can: And for all your reflecting on my Discourse, if I be not mistaken, I have done nothing but what's for the interest of us both; having endeavour'd only to exhibite a Compendium of the Matters in Question between us, to the end that what I have deliver'd, might be examin'd, rather by the force and foundness of Reafon, than by any high and pompous Elo-D 2

Eloquence. And we ought not any more take off our attention from confidering the Things themfelves (as you well obferve) fince our Januarius is now preparing and raifing himfelf to take his turn, if we can but have the patience to hear him with filence.

Rop

212 they

and 0111 ofT

his ( realor

1837

1007 tro

that

VIDCE

31 10

but (

lot e heino

1900 tion t

Matt

ally

With

御 dom

tules.

I SHALL speak (faid Octavius) as much to the purpose as I can. But we must first endeavour to wipe off all injuries, calumnies and reflections, and to difpel those clouds with the light of Truth. To begin therefore, I must first of all tell you plainly, That you have express'd fo great an uncertainty about the things you spoke of, that I doubted whether you fail'd in point of Learning or Knowledge, or were blinded by Error. For sometimes you faid that you believ'd there were Gods; and fometimes again, that you did not know, what to believe of 'em; as if you had a defign by your ambiguous Expressions to avoid the dint of my Answer. But I can't think this of Cacilius; These crafty tricks are beneath the greatness of his Wit, and the fimplicity

御

con.

NO.

出书 fto

the 小台

in:

ñ.

dif.

the state host adi.

御献 ind

pet as if

ET fle

21

'n.

DUELN

niat

hat

tali

bleto

KDOW

and t

100mpt

200.01

21000

Botth

100mm herle

1227 2

inked

nghth

Cut a

of the

the cir

out bei

tation

Tetle.

tilly,

Witch

ing di

Hog Tu

1000

nowned Inventors of Arts and Sciences, were accounted but mean people, illiterate and poor, till their wildom made them Famous; So true it is, that the Rich who idolize their Treasures, make more account of their Gold, than of Heaven; whereas fuch poor Fellows as we, have always been the Searchers-out of Wildom and Teachers of it to others. Whereby we may plainly fee, that Wit and Wealth do not always go together; neither is it fo much the Effect of great Study and Industry, as an advantage of Nature. Men ought not therefore to quarrel, or be angry, when they fee others make it their business to inquire into the truth of Divine Mysteries, and declare the understanding they have of them; feeing we ought not to regard fo much the Authority or Quality of the Difputer, as the Weight and Truth of what is faid. The strength of Reason appears most clearly, when the Difcourse isstript of all external Ornaments and Flourishes, not painted and set off with an artificial Grace and Eloquence, tra

時か

that

Life,

ing.

H-

the.

的

間得

10

150

20

122

10

肥此 truth

the

ter

ach

Di

hol

tea

DE

rents

E

Th-

quence, but supported by Truth, which is the Rule of Right and Wrong. Not that I deny, for all that, what Cacilius has given himfelf fo much trouble to prove, viz. That Man ought to know himfelf, what he is, from whence, and for what end; Whether he be compounded of the Elements, or made up of Atoms; or rather fram'd, fafhion'd, and animated by GOD himfelf. But this we cannot refolve without inquiring into the nature of the Universe, seeing both these things have so near a relation, and are fo straitly linked to one another, that we cannot rightly apprehend what Man is, without a diligent enquiry into the nature of the Deity; nor be able to manage the civil Affairs of this World, without being acquainted with the conftitution of this great City of the Univerfe. And indeed it being this efpecially, that makes us differ from Brutes, that whereas they are continually ftooping downwards to the ground, looking no higher than their Food ; we on the contrary, who have our Faces rais'd upwards upwards to behold Heaven, and are site endued with the use of Speech and the Reafon, which teaches us to acknowledge GOD, to perceive and imitate Him; we cannot without guilt thut: our Eyes against this clear Light, which continually glares upon our Senfes ; item it being the highest kind of Sacriledge: More to feek that on Earth, which is not to be found but in Heaven. And to fpeak the truth, one must be blind and he to fenfelefs, to fancy all this great and and admirable Fabrick of the World, to have: Mon been form'd by a fortuitous concourse of blind, fenfelefs, and unthinking; Atoms, rather than by the unfearchable Wildom and immense Power of a God. For what can be more plain, evident or confpicuous (whether we lift up our Eyes to Heaven, or cast them down to the Earth) than that there is an inconceivably-powerful and wife Spirit, which does infpire, influence, move, cherifh, and conduct whole Nature, and every part of it ?? Do but behold the Heavens; Let youn thoughts out into the valtness of their Extension ::

110

ind

10%-

Cutate Churt Rhich

elles

age

10:10

1.10

and i ad

3780

3130

intra

(111)·

1011

pin,

STI 1

ch

世

1200

itter

nta

of it?

1108

the

43

Extension; consider the swiftness of their courfe; view them by night, when they sparkle, and are all bespangl'd with Stars; or by day, when they are all bright and resplendent from the Sun; and you will eafily difcern the wonderful and Divine skill of the Supream Governour in the ordering and poizing of all thefe. Again, confider how the Sun by his course through the Zodiack measures out the Year, and diftinguishes its Seafons, as the Moon does the Months by her increase and decreafe. What shall I fay of this continual viciffitude of Light and Darknefs, which affords us the agreeable and neceffary enterchange of Labour and Reft? But I must leave the further discourse of the Stars to the Astrologers, whole proper bulinels it is to inquire into their Virtues and influences, and who teach us, which of them rule the Winds, and inform the wary Mariner in the Art of Navigation; and which of them determine the time for Plowing and Reaping, and are the perpetual Almanack of the laborious Hufbandman.

bandman. From all which it is und niably evident, that these Wonde: could never have been created, frami and disposid in that excellent Orden in without the perfect Wildom of the Supream Artift; feeing we cannot 11 much as know or understand them willy without a great fagacity of mind am reason. What shall we fay of the el jo exact Disposal of Time and Season wherein we do not know which we well are to admire most, their Constancy of old a their Variety? How loudly do they proceeding claim their Divine Author, and Will Om Director! The Spring is not more pleasure fant by its fair Days and Flowers, that den the heat of Summer is useful and account vantagious to ripen the Fruits of the Earth; and the liberal Plenty of And the tumn is not more joyful, than the week min and frost of Winter is needful. Which which Order might eafily be disturbed, if interim were not difpenfed by the fteady Hand hours of Power and Wildom. Oh! the Work ders of Providence ! which has allay the nipping frosts of Winter, and Mon fcorching heats of Summer, with the intern intervening temperature of the Spring merand Autumn; and that with fuch exain Anefs, that the change of these extreams of heat and cold, is fo far from being difintolerable, that it is even easie and midelightful, giving us the pleasure of wariety, and yet fliding gently and infenidealibly from one extremity to another. Caft your eye upon the Sea, and to your amazement you shall fee how the woofe Banks of Sand give a check to its proud and raging Waves. Confider the wonderful ebbings and flowings of he Ocean; Behold the Springs whole waters flow continually; View the Rivers which purfue their uninterruptd d courfe without ceasing, and ever the eturning to that vaft Deep, which the Center of their Emanation : Take prospect of those vast Woods and we orrefts, which deck and grace the ace of the Earth; they are all fed from and yet the Earth is never whet lefs. What shall I fay of that pleaadunt and useful disposal of the steepness f Mountains, the rifings of Hills, the heaft extension of Plains? Or what shall

45

I
I fay of fuch numberless numbers a Creatures, who are (each of them) for a me verally furnish'd with their peculia me Weapons of defence ; some are arme me with horns, others fenced with teething fome ftrengthined with hoofs, other and fharp'ned and edged with claws ; fom the appointed with ftings and fpurs, other lone defended with a prickly and unacceffi other. ble skin; whilft others again fecument themfelves by the lightness of the preval heels, or fwiftness of their wings; No Like) ture having bestow'd on every one (Wond them either strength or cunning for well their own defence ? But above all, the inet perfection and beauty of the Shape of the Man, proclaims and owns GOD to have line been the Artift that fram'd it. His un portion right Stature, his rais'd Countenance with in the upper part whereof the eyes at the posted as on a Watch-tower, and when here all the other Senfes have their fever Stations and Quarters allotted them the as in a Castle or Citadel. We should which never have done in going about the treat in particular of all these Wood las ders: There is not one part in Maa that which its o

(m) fe

ania

armet

tat

other

; lone

Chien

acti

fean

tei

s. Na

0900 ing for alt

MARE O

tohw

品卯

BORNE

TRAT

dinter

fertiz

dem

eboul

host ti is Wor

191 stic

47

which is not ornamental and graceful, as well as neceffary : And what is yet more admirable is, That the fame Figure which is common to us all, is diverfified by fuch an infinite variety of Features in each of us, that as there is a likeness in all, so there is in every one fomething that makes him unlike to another. Belides, how wonderful is the manner of our Birth? How ftrong and prevalent the defire of begetting our Like? Upon whom can you father these Wonders but upon GOD alone, who fwells the breafts with milk, against the time the Infant breaks his Prifon, and comes to breath the free and open Air, fuiting their nice tenderness with a proportionate delicate nourishment? Nor do's this bountiful GOD content himfelf to take a general care of the Universe, but provides also for each part of it. What Great Britain wants of the heat of the Sun, is made up by the warm Vapours which arife from the Sea that furrounds it. The overflowing of the River Nilus serves Egypt instead of Rain. Euphrates makes Melopotamia fruitful, and the

the River Indus is faid both to fow and water those Eastern Parts. If perchance you should come into a house, and there find all the Rooms richly furnished, beautified and adorned, would you not without the least hefitancy conclude, That there is fome Lord and Owner of it, who is far better than all this rich and glorious Furniture; for likewife in this stately Palace of the World, when you take a view of Head ven and Earth, and that Providencee Order and Law, which dispenseth and directs all things in them, doubt, if you can, that there is a Lord and Father on this great Family, whole Glory fam transcends that of the Sun, Moon and Stars, and who is more beautiful than the most lovely part of it. But per haps, fince there is no doubt whethe: there be a Providence or not, you may think it a Queftion whether there bo but one or many, that have a hand in the administration of this Celestial Go vernment, it will not be a hard matt ter to fix this your incertainty, if you sue will but attentively confider the King dom domsof the Earth, which are but fo ma-ny Copies of the One Heavenly Ori-ginal Empire. When did ever a Mo-narch either admit of a Partner in his Soveraignty, in full truft and confi-dence, or lay him afide without blood? I omit fpeaking of the Perfians, who refer'd the choice of their Prince to the neighing of an Horfe; and pur-pofely pafs-by that old Story of the Theban Brothers. All the World knows what diffenfion there arofe between two Twins, which of them fhould be King over a Company of Shepherds, and their poor Cottages. The Wars of Cæfar and Pompey have fpread domsof the Earth, which are but so maof Cæfar and Pompey have in a difference of Cæfar and Pompey have in a difference of the whole World, and the Fortune of fo vaft an Empire was two fo nearly ally'd, as Father and Sonin-Law: You may from these instances eafily judge of the reft. The Bees can fuffer no more than one King; Flocks follow one Leader, and every Herd has its own Ruler : And can you imagine the Supreme Power of Heaven to be divided, and that the Soveraign-F

ty

49

ty of that only true and Divine Mosting narchy is fhared amongst many? Esper 0 cially when you confider, that GOL all the Father of all things, has neither mil Beginning nor End; and as he give im Beginning to all other things, fo at him Eternity and perpetuity of Being tt whi himfelf. Who before this World was who made, was a World to Himfelf ; who de by his Word commanded all things in hap to Being, governs them by his Wil ile dom, and perfects them by his Powee Wor He cannot be seen, because he is mon mil bright and glorious than our fight car hat endure to behold : Neither can He H mo comprehended, being greater than out minds, infinite, immense and only known to Himfelf; what He is indeed in our breafts are too narrow to conceived the and we can never form a worthy not on of Him, but when we own Hi Ineftimable and Incomprehenfible. Ma I fpeak what I think: Whofoever fancing he knows the Greatness of GOD, h already leffen'd it; and therefore 11 who would not leffen it, must not pr tend to know it. Neither do the enqui

neichen

egine

lo an

ing to ild was 行前

23 in

Wif

Poner

SEUT

就自 attebe

136 00

i cel-

plit

TENE

N BOL

The

eille finit

D, bi

not rite

enquire after his Name; His Name is GOD. 'Tis then we stand in need of Names, when we are to divide a multitude into particulars, by their diftinguishing Titles, and proper appellations. But GOD being alone and by himfelf, the Name of GOD must wholly belong to Him, and to none else: For if I call Him Father, you'l be apt to think Him an Earthly One; if I call Him King, you'l fancy Him a Worldly Prince; if I call Him Lord, you'l apprehend Him Mortal. Abftract but these additions of Names from our groß imagination, and you'l fee Him in his own Brightness and Glory. Besides, in this I have the general affent of all Men, concurring with me. Mind the Common-people; When they lift up their hands to Heaven, whom have they in their mouths but GOD? Their ordinary Saying is, GOD is great, GOD is true ; and ever and anon [If it pleafes GOD: ] Which Words, though they contain the Confession of a Christian, yet are as well the Voice of Nature in the Common People. E 2 Yea

SI

Yea those who will have Jupiter to be the Soveraign of the Universe, do only mistake in the Name; but agree with the us in the Thing it felf, That there in but One only Power. The Poets alfo verle in their Verses celebrate One Fathen and both of the Gods and Men; and fay That the Minds and Thoughts of Men PPA . are such as GOD every day put! into them. And what shall we fay on Virgil? Does not he speak yet more clearly and more near to Truth, when he faith, That in the beginning there was a Spirit, which inwardly cheristee and foster'd both Heaven and Earth and that all the Parts of them were actu ated by a Mind infused throughout the Whole; and that from thence, Men and all other Creatures derive their Original! The same Prince of Poets calls in ano ther place this Mind and Spirit GODas where he faith, that GOD is diffu sed throughout the vast Extent of the Earth and Seas, and of the high Heaven and that from Him, Men and Beasts Rain and Lightning do proceed. And what do we fay elfe, but that GOL ii is an Eternal Mind, Reason and Spirit? Let us take a view, if you please, of the Opinions of Philosophers, and you will find that though they feem diverse, yet they all agree in this Matter. And omitting those rude and primitive Men, who by their Sayings purchased the Name of Sages; Thales the Milestan, who was before them all, and who first maintain'd any Dispute concerning Celestial Things, held that Water was the Original Matter of all things, and that GOD was that Mind, or Understanding Spirit, who fram'd them out of it : Which is certainly a more profound and fublime Account concerning the Water, and its actuating Spirit, than could proceed from the understanding of Man, without the affistance of Divine Revelation. Thus you plainly fee that the Opinion of the first of Philosophers, does entirely concur with ours. After him Anaximenes and Diogenes Apolloniates make God to be Air, but Immenfe and Infinite, and in afcribing these perfections to the Divinity, they also confent with E us.

53

in und

us. Anaxagoras was of opinion, that: GOD was an Infinite Spirit, containing and moving all things. Pytha ... goras calls Him a Mind penetrating all things and diffus'd through the Univerfe, taking care of, and giving Life: to all the Creatures therein. Zenophanes affirms, That GOD is an Animated Infinity, or a Spirit joyn'd with Infinite Matter. Antisthenes declar'd, That there were feveral Gods, belonging to feveral Countries; but that there was but One Principal and So- withe veraign amongst them all, who wass GOD by Nature. Speusppus was off opinion that GOD was nothing elfe but a Natural Power, quick'ning and gue governing all things. Yea, and does not Democritus himfelf (though he was the first Inventor of Atoms) often call Nature, which is the Former of all with Ideas and Understanding, GOD; Strato calls Him Nature; And even ala Epicurus, who either believed that the there were no Gods; or if there were; that they were idle, and without whith any concern about the things of this MG World ;; 217

the Con.

the と書

Uni

山谷

Leng

施

醋

から、

-

19-

015 the of the state o

55

World ; yet fets Nature above them. As for Aristotle, though he seem sometimes divided in his thoughts, about this Matter; yet he politively afferts One Soveraign Power: For fometimes he faith, That an Understanding Spirit is GOD; fometimes, that the World is GOD; and then again, he will have GOD to govern the World. Heraclides of Pontus afferts GOD to be a Divine Spirit, but with some incertainty 5 For fometimes he attributes the Supremacy to the Divine Spirit, and fometimes to the World it felf. Theophrastus, Zeno, Chrysippus and Cleanthes do likewife vary in their Opinions; Yet all of them at last agree in One Providence, which Superintends the Whole. For Cleanthes fometimes affirms GOD to be a Spirit ; sometimes, that He is an Æthereal Fire; but most frequently calls Him, Reason. His Master Zeno holds a Natural and Eternal Law, and sometimes Fire, and sometimes Reason, to be the first Cause of all things. He also evidently reproves and convinceth the common Error about the Gods, by thewing that Juno is nothing E 4 nothing but the Air, Jupiter Heaven, Neptune the Sea, and Vulcan the Fire; And that many of their other dost Gods are but the Elements drefs'd up GUL in other Names. Chrysippus is much and of the fame Opinion; for with him, and fometimes a Divine Power and a Rational Nature is GOD, and at other they times the World, and a fatal Neceffi- tank ty; and imitates Zeno in his interpreting the Fables of the Gods, which are add found in Homer, Hefiod, and Orpheuss the In like manner Diogenes the Babyloni- and an was us'd in his Discourses to declare: who That Jupiter's Brain being with child inon and deliver'd of Minerva, and other share like Stories, were not an account of an the true Original of their Gods, but of did some other things couch'd under those them Fables. Xenophon the Disciple of So- form crates, holds, That the shape of the Har true GOD cannot be seen, and confequently is not to be fearcht after. Aristo of the Isle of Chios, fays, That he is altogether incomprehensible :: none Both which Philosophers, had doubt .- who less a right sense of the Divine Majesty, poin

Hez.

in the

Char

Sdup

men

8101,

het.

other ecelij-

-5102

aare

1213.

white-

ectore,

did alit

une of

but of tole

f.St.

file

000 afer.

That

57

in that they despair'd of ever fully understanding Him. As for Plato, he does more openly and clearly speak of GOD, and does less miltake, both as to the Name and the Thing it felf; and his Discourses might have been accounted altogether Heavenly, but that they are here and there blemish'd and tainted with his Politicks. In his Timaus he calls GOD by his Own Name, and declares Him to be the Father of this Universe, the Creator of the Soul, and the Architect of Heaven and Earth; who by reason of his superlative and. incomprehenfible Power and Majefty, is hard to be found, and when found, cannot poffibly be express'd and declar'd : Which are, in a manner, the very fame things which we fay; for we also know GQD, and own Him to be the Parent of the World; but unless we be demanded, we do not fpeak publickly of Him.

THUS I have rehears'd the Opinions of almost all the Philosophers, whose glory it is, that they have all pointed at One and the same GOD, though pen it

it b never 0000 fell o

nora:

defin

ferre

they "

DY O

tende

Was (

ind

of th

Famo

and v

VEDICO

Art

the ]

gave peale

though under various Names; infomuch as it would make a Man think, either that our Christians now are Philosophers, or that the ancient Philo-Sophers were Christians. Now if it be granted that Providence rules the World, and is govern'd by the Will and Counfel of the One only GOD; then ought not we to fuffer our felves to be impos'd upon with the filly Fables of Antiquity, which are both repugnant to Reafon, and condemn'd by the Philosophers of ancient Times. Our Fathers indeed were fo credulous, as to believe things altogether monstrous and inconfistant, as a Scylla with feveral Bodies, a Chimara with many shapes, an Hydra that receiv'd a new life from his happy Wounds, and Centaures, which were Horfe and Man united and growing together. In thort, they very readily believ'd whatever any one was pleas'd to feign or fancy; as Men's being metamorphos'd into Birds; Beafts into Men, and again Men into Flowers and Trees ; with fo many other fabulous things, which

be 响和

Dj

18-

199

NOT

CET .

ad

200

In

101

18 which, had they ever been, would happen still; but because they cannot be, are hereby fufficiently demonstrated never to have been. Their Opinions concerning the Gods were likewife full of inconfiderate credulity and ignorant fimplicity; for by giving Religious Worship to their Kings, and defiring by Pictures and Statues to preferve their memory, after their Death, they at last made a Religious Ceremony of that which at first was only intended to comfort themselves for the lofs of them. For before the World was open'd by Commerce and Trade, and that Nations had mixt their Customs and Ceremonies together, every one of them ador'd their first Founder, or Famous Leader, or fome Queen Chaft, and valiant above her Sex ; or an Inventor of fome useful and neceffary Art or Calling; as confidering that the Memory of fuch Renowned Perfons, well-deferved to be preferv'd by them; fince by this means they at once gave a reward to the Virtue of the Deceased, and an example to Posterity. Read

59 then

Med

her,

lo fa

make

Secre

Were

make and a fider inem Serap

ligiou find i

Deat

ings (

陶町

bald

Reks

Wor

Piels

Read the Writings of Wife-men, and particularly of the Stoicks, and you will acknowledge with me, that Men have been worship'd as Gods, either: for their good Deeds, or their Dignity. Euhemerus gives us an exact account of their Birth, Countries and Names, as also the feveral Places where: they were buryed; particularly he instanceth in Jupiter call'd Dictaus, from the Mountain Dicte in Candia, where he was nurs'd; and Apollo nam'd Delphicus, from the City Delphos in Phocis, a Province of Greece; and Is, who had the Sirname of Pharia, from the Island Pharos in Egypt; and Ceres, who was styl'd Eleusina, from the City Eleusis in Achaia, where she was more particularly worship'd. Prodicus tells us, that they were reckon'd among the Gods, who by rambling through the World, were the first Inventors of Husbandry, and by this means became useful to Mankind. And Perseus difcourfeth much at the fame rate; adding, that it was from this ground, that the Names of the Inventors were beftow'd

甜

i fon i Man either Dig az and there

te intere Di-

Pha. Hia, from Ceres,

City

sore tells

ough ough ors of came r dilr dilr dil-

花 flow'd upon the things invented by them, as appears by that Comical Expreffion [Without Ceres and Bacchus, Venus is a cold ] Which in other terms is no more than this, That without good Meat and Drink Luft languisheth. Alexander the Great in a famous Treatife which he writes to his Mother, tells her, That the dread of his Power had fo far wrought upon a Prieft, as to make him discover to him this great Secret and Mystery, that the Gods were but Men. In which Discourse he makes Vulcan the first of all the Gods, and after him the Race of Jupiter. Confider the Story of Iss, and the scatter'd members and empty Tomb of thy Serapis or Ofiris; and laftly, their Religious Rites and Mysteries, and you'l find them made up of the difmal Events, Deaths, Funerals, Mourning and Wailings of these caitive Gods Is in company of the Dog's-Head-Idol, and her bald Priests, mourns for, laments and feeks her loft Son, and her miferable Worshippers beat their breasts, to exprefs and imitate the forrow of this unhappy happy Mother ; and foon after you feel If's by and by overjoy'd for having ha found her Little-One; her Priests are merry, and the Dog's fnout triumphi for the feat he has done in finding him Thus they fail not punctually every year to lofe what they have found Mate and then to find again what they have the loft. Now I pray you, what can bee made more ridiculous, than to bewail that which we worthip, or to worthip that the which we bewail? And yet fuch fopperies as thefe, which formerly were my the Religion of the Egyptians, are now aby (forfooth) become the Devotions offering the Romans. Ceres with lighted torchess and in her hands, and Serpents twifting law about them, feeks her Daughter Proserpina, full of languishing care and trouble, who having ftray'd too far, was stoln away and ravish'd by Pluto ... we This is the fum and fubstance of the Eleusinian Mysteries: And the Rites de used in the Worship of Jupiter, are not del les ridiculous. He is fuckled by an here She-goat, for want of a better Nurle, his and the poor Infant is stoln away from his sting

61

御祀 langhs

glin,

etery

y have an be othat

1.607-

Rite

e tow

to al

ontes

ifting

Pro

and etar,

Phil.

ofthe

Ria

TED

by a

60

63

his Father, for fear he should devour him; the Corybantes in the mean while foundly plying their Cymbals, to drown the cryes of the Bantling, from coming to the ears of his more than inhumane Father. I am afham'd to relate the Account they give of Cybele, how the gelded Atys, and made him an Eunuch-God, becaufe fhe could not tempt him to commit Adultery with her, who was old and ugly, having been the Mother of fo many Gods. And therefore, answerably to this Story, her Priefts voluntarily geld themselves, to the end they might be capable of that Dignity. I leave you to judge, whether these be not real miferies, rather than Religious Mysteries. Come we now to speak of the goodly form, meen and accoutrements of your Gods ; than which, what can be more fhameful and ridiculous? Vulcan is a limping crazy God. Apollo, though he has liv'd fo many Ages, is still a beardless Boy; whereas his Son Æsculapius has a fair and comely Beard. Neptune's Eyes are blue; Minerva's ha a

NI IS.

that

aur I

born nd C

fine

ignor

Work

Studie

In the

bareb judice

auch

Home

(TOWN)

Wealth

his Po

amoci

bh

of Mer

toget

and b himto

coe 7

of the

to bin

Minerva's gray; Juno has Ox-Eyes; Pan's Feet are garnish'd with claws; Saturn's are charg'd with fetters, and Mercury's fledg'd with Wings. Janus has two faces, as if he would go backward and forward at once. Diana the Huntress has her Garments tuck'd up to her thighs; but She at Ephefus, is in a manner made up all of paps: As the is the Goddels of Hell, they give her three Heads, and good store of Arms and Hands. Yea, your Jupiter himself sometimes has a Beard of much gravity, and at other_times has a Chin as bare as my hand. When he has the Sirname of Hammon, he wears horns; when that of Capitolinus, he is arm'd with Thunder-bolts; when that of Latiaris, he is all befmear'd with blood; and when that of Feretrius, he is very still and quiet. And not to go over the many feveral Jupiters, there being as many Monsters of him, as there are Names. Erigone hangs her felf; and the Merit of Self-murther hath advanc'd her to shine a perpetual Virgin among the Stars. Caftor and Pollux

州的

2074

tit

taus

10CK+

the 110

, BIA

1 lbe

橋

of inter-

mech

12 2

en he reas

heis

the rit

tus,

to go there

here

(H; hab

Vir

Pr.

65

lux dye and live by turns. He sculapius is struck down with a Thunderbolt, that with the greater Ceremony he may rife up a God: And Hercules must burn himself upon Mount Oeta, to get rid of his Humanity. These are the fine Stories, which we learn from our ignorant Fore-fathers; and, what is worfe, make them the fubject of our Studies, and a great piece of Learning. In these the Poets excel all others, and have by their Authority done vaft prejudice to the Truth; So that Plato was much in the right, when he banish'd Homer (that renown'd, celebrated and crown'd Poet) out of his Commonwealth. For it is he chiefly, who in his Poem of the Trojan Wars, has made a mock of the Gods, by mingling them fo familiarly in the actions and affairs of Men. He brings them in fighting together; He wounds Venus; He fetters and binds Mars, wounds him and puts him to flight : He make Briareus to refcue Jupiter out of the hands of the rest of the Gods, when they were confpiring to bind him to his good behaviour; and and reprefents him lamenting the death of his Son Sarpedon, as not being able to prevent it. He describes him embracing his Juno with more heat, than he us'd to do his belov'd Mistress, being inflam'd with Venus's Girdle. Hercules is made a Scavenger, and cleanfeth (4) Stables. Apollo turns Cow-herd to Ad! matter metus. Neptune binds himfelf as a Day. labourer to Laomedon, to build up the Walls of Troy, and is fo unhappy with al, as not to be paid for his drudgery, and Æneas's Armour, and Jupiter's Thunk der-bolt are both hammer'd out upon one and the fame Anvil; as if Heaven in o and its Thunders had not been long before Jupiter was born in Crete; or as billion if the Cyclopfes could have made those with affrighting flashes, which Jupiter him man felf could not choose but be afraid of him What shall I fay of Mars and Venus being caught in the very Fact of Adult ing tery; or of Jupiter's abominable filthi nels with Ganymedes, whom he tram hole flated into Heaven? All which Fables is the were invented on purpose to authorized apply the faults and vices of Men. And iil is with those and fuch like pleafing Fictions and Lyes, that the Minds of Youth are corrupted; and being inmie still'd into them in their tender years, grow up with them to Manhood; So that (which is to be lamented) in their while very old Age their Minds continue 11. tainted with these sottish Fancies; And iby. yet the truth of these Matters, is most phe plain and evident to those who will take the pains to enquire into it. All the Antient Writers (whether Greek or Roman) do unanimoully affert, that Saturn, the first of the goodly Generation of Gods, was but a Man. This, Nepos and Crassus do affirm in their History; and Thallus and Diodorus re-Infe late the fame thing, viz. That this Saturn for fear of falling into his Son's hands, fled out of Greece into Italy, where Janus receiv'd him into his house; and being a Grecian, full of ingenuity, and instructed in Arts and Sciences, taught those barbarous people several things; as the forming of the Letters of the Alphabet; coining of Money, and making F

11

67

Ima

making diverse forts of useful Instrument ments: He call'd the Country Latium and as if he had faid, an Hiding-place, be caufe he had found there a fafe retreat to hide and conceal himfelf from the new O attempts of his Son; and to the encoded he might have his Memory preferv'dl trou he call'd the City from his own Name Saturnia; as Janus call'd the City buill Gran upon the Hill Janniculus, by that Namee and to refcue his own from oblivion. You the fee then plainly, that Saturn was a Mani with for he was fain to flee and hide him felf; and was the Father, as well as the Son, of a Man. And whereas they callide him the Son of Heaven and Earth, ii was only becaufe his Original and Pa rentage were unknown to the Italians as we are wont to fay of those that come unexpectedly upon us, that the are dropt from the Skies; and of fucil whole birth is mean and obfcure, that they are the Sons of the Earth. As for Jupiter, he Reign'd in Crete, after hi had banish'd his Father from that ] fland; there he begot Children, and therr there he was buried : And at this very day they fhew the Cave which bears his Name, and point you to the Grave where he was interred; yea, and the very Ceremonies they use in his Wor-thip, declare him to have been a Man. It would be to no purpose to infift on particulars, and to recount his whole Genealogy : It is enough that we have prov'd the Father was Mortal, to con-vince that the fame Quality was conweigh'd to all his Posterity; except you suppose that they became Gods after their Death ; as by the Perjury of Proculus, Romulus was rank'd among the Number of the Gods; or as Juba, by the unanimous confent and defire of the Africans, was made a God; and as other Kings were Deifi'd by their Subjects, not because they really believ'd them to be Gods, but to give them a more honourable discharge from their Soveraignty. Belides, this extravagant Honour is confer'd upon them against their Wills; they defire to continue Men as they are, and are afraid of being Deify'd ; and though old.

69

Elit

e, that hila

that H

3, 20

也能

old, are not at all ambitious of that Glory. Wherefore we are not to lool or a for Gods among those that dye, be cause the Gods are Immortal; nor a mong those who are born, becault they are likewife obnoxious to Death That only deferves the Name of a Deith plece which hath neither Beginning nor Enco Infine For if Gods were ever born, why an of th they not fo still, except you will fay, of th that now Jupiter is too old, and Jum paft Child-bearing; or that they an of the humour of Minerva, who chol are m to be an old Maid, rather than a Mc they ther? Or indeed have not those prec tended Deities ceased to procreate lini1 becaufe Men have ceafed to believe and fuch Stories? Moreover, if the Goed tore could beget Children, and those Chillin dren must needs be Immortal, w should already have had more Good Gill than Men; So that by this time the at, Heaven's would not contain them of & nor the Air hold them, nor the Earth and bear the vast increase of them. Lee Nor us therefore make no difficulty to al one firm them to have been Men, of wholl is Birtt okok

re, be

0012-eczule

Dezth 2 Deity

or Eod. Iby are Il Gay. Il Juno Ity are

o chole 1 a Mo 1 a M

Birt

Birth and Death we are fo fully affur'd. Neither need any be far to feek for a reason why the common people, notwithstanding all this, do adore and worship these Confecrated Images; their foolifh Minds being decoy'd and allur'd by the Curiofity of those Masterpieces of Art, their Eyes dazled with the lustre of the Gold, and the brightness of the Silver, and polish'd whiteness of the Ivory. But if any body will take time to confider how these Figures are made, and with what Infruments they are carv'd and fram'd, he will blush at his standing in awe of a Material, that has been fo abus'd, cut and mangled by the Work-man, before he could make a God of it. For if this God be of Wood, it may be it is the remnant of a funeral Pile, or Gallows; which they under-prop, cut, plane and make fmooth. If it be of Silver or Brafs, it may poffibly be made of an old Kettle, or fomething worfe; (as it hath often happen'd to one of the Kings of Egypt) and then it is molten, beaten, hammer'd and fafhion'd F 4

71 hild

the heads

wipe protei

made

And

that before corfid

thers

credit

a wee whiel

Veren

Hitte

fano

a Di

are culot

piry the S

fhion'd on an Anvil; and if of Stone, hew'd, wrought and polifh'd (it may be) by fome debauch'd and wicked Fellow. Yet is not the God, in the least, sensible of all these tortures and indignities, offer'd to him at his Birth, no more than he is afterwards of the Honour, which accrues to him by your Confecration and Worship; except you will fay, that this Stone, Wood or Silver is not yet a God. But pray when is it, that the Divinity of it commences? Behold! it is melted, fashion'd and grav'd; but it is not a God. yet: It is folder'd, put together and set up; yet still it is no God : At last it is adorn'd, confecrated and worfhip'd; and then at last with much adoe it is a God, when it hath pleas'd vain Man thus to dedicate it. But how much more truly do the most contemptible of Animals and Infects, judge your Gods ! The Mice, Swallows and Kites know very well, that they have no fense at all ; they tread and pearch upon them, and were they not driven away by you, they would build any data

Willy

and and inth,

ille

THE

ith

(12P)

-930

fa

Gid

200

the

WOF-

13.05

bas

But

molt

lits

int.

槛 read

胡

build their Nefts in their very Mouths; the Spiders cover their faces with their Cobwebs, and make use of their heads to fasten their threads at. You wipe, cleanse and brush them, and protect the Gods, which your felveshave made, and yet pretend to fear them. And all this while you don't confider that GOD must be known by you, before you can worthip Him, and inconfiderately comply with your Fathers Opinions, and choose rather to follow others in their Errors, than credit your own Judgments; and in a word, know not what that is for which you have fuch an awe and reverence. Thus by hallowing of Gold. and Silver, you have confectated Avarice ; thus your vain Images come to be stamp'd with the imaginary shape of a Deity; thus the Roman Superstition had its rife, and that vaft number of Rites and Ceremonies, wherein there are fo many which are filly and ridiculous, and fo many which deferve pity and compation. Some run about the Streets stark naked in the sharpest cold

73

加

free

Em

1b.

CITU

fee

Crae

folk

for

the

ilb

Wer

But

Sop

Vaf

and pitch

TOT

Piet

We

fron nin

cold of Winter; others wear foolscaps, and carry about antick fhields in their hands; others lance their own skins, and lead their blind Gods a begging about the streets. They have fome Temples which they may not visit but once a year, and others which none may ever enter but the Priests alone: Again, they have fome that are fhut up from Women, and others prohibited to Men. They have fome Ceremonies, at which a Slave is not permitted to affift, without a great crime. Some of your Statues may not be crown'd but by the hands of a Woman, who hath known but one Man; others again, only by fuch as have had to do with many; and with great devotion you fearch for the most lewd and common Harlot that is: to be found, to officiate at your Holythings. What shall we fay of those, who shed their own blood for a Drink-Offering, and by wounding themfelves, think to procure the favour of the Gods. Were it not better for them. to be Prophane, than to be thus Religious ??

iookielks

om beg.

have

DOL

bot

bild

men,

They

Slave

out a tatoes

hands

o but

och as mith

the Hols.

era

them

Relie

in ?

75

gions? And do not they also offend GOD, instead of appealing Him, who from a strange Superstition geld themfelves; fince if GOD delighted in Eunuchs, he could have made them fo, without the affiftance of Man's cruelty? But indeed, who does not fee that they are poor distracted and crack-brain'd men, who act these follies; which have nothing to plead for them, but the multitude of those who are engag'd in the fame Error; as if because this madness is Epidemical, it were therefore lawful and just too? But you object, that this, which I call Superstition, has given the Romans fo valt an Empire; founded it at first, and afterwards rais'd it to that high pitch; they having been always, rather more famous for their Religion and Piety, than for Prowels and Valour. Well may they boaft of the remarkable instances of their Virtue and Justice, from the very Cradle and first beginnings of their Empire! Was it not their Crimes that affociated them at first, and their Cruelty afterwards, that till

Call

Max

the

Ten

the

that lage

ter o

Pleci

thol

God

for

You

2000

Ing o

Une

Dyh

Philes

there

that that made them dreadful to their Neighbours, and laid the first Foundation of their Government? For their Country being a Sanctuary and Place of Refuge for all forts of Criminals, a great number of Thieves, Traitors, Murtherers, Sacrilegious and Inceftuous perfons were foon gather'd together; and to the end, that he who was their great Captain-General, might excel them all in Villany, as he did in Dignity, he kill'd his own Brother. These were the auspicious beginnings of this Holy City. Soon after, contrary to the Law of Nature, they steal away Maids already promised, yea betrothed, and Married Women too, from their own Husbands, and force and abufe them; and defend their Crime by warring against their Fathers-in-law, and fhedding the blood of their neareft Allies: Than which, what can be thought of more prodigious, more barbarous and as, they prefum'd, fafe in the confidence of their wickedness? Their next work is, to drive their Neighbours out of their own Countries 3 di.

Rit

ACE

3,2

ots, eltu-

のないない nings atta-

fel abe.

fina

da-eby

218,

古

77 tries; to destroy their Cities, rob their Churches, and defile their Altars; carry them into Captivity, and enrich themfelves by Crimes, and the spoils and ruine of others. These were the Maxims and Practice both of Romulus and his Succeffors; So that whatever they have, possels, and worship, is all the purchase of bold Robbery. Their Temples are built and adorn'd with the spoils they have taken in War, that is, with the ruine of Cities, pillage of Gods and Temples, and flaughter of their Priests. What an infolent piece of mockery is this, to establish those Religious Rites, you have so horribly prophan'd, and to worship those Gods, who were once your Captives? For to pay Adoration to that which you have taken in War, is not fo much a confecrating of Deities, as an hallowing of Sacriledge. Indeed all the Triumphs of the Romans were but fo many horrid Impieties, and all their Trophies, fo many Sacriledges. It is not therefore the Religion of the Romans, that has made them fo great, as the impunity

210 2

thek

enlarg

quili

it wo Mars

Grete.

1001 2

and

and t

of Eq

againf

DIADV

World

willin

at Ro

the S

即初 for the

the m

Entred

reft e

crimit

the co

asfor

their

Tem

impunity of their Villanies. For how can it be thought, that those Gods should favour them in their Wars, against whom they took Arms; and which they did not worthip, till they had first led them in Triumph? Befides, what could those Gods do for the Romans, who had not been able to do any thing against them, either in defence of themselves, or their people? For as for their own Country-Gods, they are well known what they were. Romulus, Picus, Tiberinus, Consus, Pilumnus and Picunnus, were all Worshipful Roman Gods; And befides these, Tatius was the first that made and worthipp'd Cloacina (with reverence be it spoken) for a Goddess. Hostilius built Temples to Fear and Paleness; and foon after, I don't know who rear'd an Altar to the Goddess Ague. In these Superstitions was Rome nurs'd up, and taught to worship Diseases and Indispotions of health! And those two prostitute Harlots, Flora and Acca Laurentia, whom they rank among their Divinities, may very well be reckon'd alfo

In.

JU.S

ad

ail

和朝 they exercise the function of Pimps and Panders, and defign and contrive But W Adulteries : Neither does Luft and Dehu, TI bauchery abound fo much in the puband W lick Stews, as in their Vestries and Cells. and lo But befides, were there not other great W28 10 dihon Empires and States flourishing before these Superstitions were invented, or ens fe fo much as thought-of? As the Afyet be Syrians, Medes and Persians, Greciof th ans and Egyptians; though they had And th no Pontifs, nor that rabble of Arvales Lagari and Salii, Vestals and Augurs; nor no Africa Chickens religioufly penn'd up, havels from whole feeding, or refuling their querou Meat, all measures were taken, and the former greatest Affairs of state determin'd. But: Pale let's come now to those Auguries and I have Divinations by the flight or chattering; here of Birds, which the Romans fo religioully observ'd, and the neglect or contempt of which (as you took notice) which has prov'd as fatal, as the heeding of mind the same has been fortunate. Was it: Inf because the most folemn dancing of the Barley peckt by the Chickens, was nott waited for, that the Armies of Clodins, Junius ine.

南

De

peb.

Cells

great elore

c, (1

e di

had 1943

01 10

EP,

ther

dite

i.But rail

ang

dig-

1003 otize)

THE IL

ofthe

BR

Junius and Flaminius were defeated ? But what shall we fay then of Regnlus, who religiously observ'd all these, and yet was taken by the Enemy? and fo did Mancinus, and for all that, was forced to furrender himfelf upon dishonourable terms. Paulus's Chickens fed heartily at the Battel of Canna, yet he perish'd, and the greatest part of the Commonwealth with him. And though Cæsar made flight of the Auguries that forbad him to go into Africa before Winter, yet had he a fuccefsful Voyage, and return'd Conqueror; fo that his contempt of these fopperies did but seem to favour his Paffage and Victory. Now as to the Oracles, how many things might not I have to fay concerning them? Amphiaraus after his death foretells future events to others, who when alive could not forefee the treachery of his Wife against him, for a Bracelet of Gold. Tirefias the blindman prophefies things. to come, and yet is not aware of what is present. Ennius in behalf of Pyrthus counterfeits the Answers of Apollo, feeing ated,

to al

FOUR

akai

fine 1

TRIPRO

in no others

thenk

their o

Religio

Spirits

Demn

the Pl

putes;

to San

Wars

whole

took or fitten

朝他 help t

制作

Teler

001, 0

都 約

feeing he was become speechles; whofe wary and ambiguous Oracle was filenc'd as foon as Men began to be more wife and lefs credulous. Thus Demosthenes was not afraid to accuse the She-Priests of Apollo of giving such answers as Philip would have her, being well acquainted with those Holy jugglings. But what? Will you then deny that Oracles and Auguries ever hit the truth? Well, fuppose we grant it: Pray what will it avail to the Credit of Oracles, if among fo many lies one true word has, at a venture, been delivered; or that Chance has, fometimes, imitated Design. But give me leave to go back to the Spring, from whence these Errors flow, and discover the Deep, from which fuch groß darkneffes do iffue forth. There are certain impure and vagrant Spirits, who being loaden with Earthly pollutions and defires have funk themfelves down to this lower Orbe, from their Original Station: and those miserable wretches having thus loft the Natural advantages wherewith they were created,

fuch 1

tant .

e me 1

1172

ETC.

ated, and having given up themfelves to all manner of Vices, they endea-W23 vour to comfort themselves under this la calamity, by bringing others into the fame milery; for as they have corrule rupted themselves, so do they delight in nothing more than to corrupt How others; and as they have separated themfelves from GOD, fo do they then and their utmost endeavours by false ways, Religions and Superstition, to keep Mankind eftranged from Him. Thefe Spirits, the Poets acknowledge to be 7. 125 ben Damons; concerning whole Nature the Philosophers maintain feveral Difputes; and they were very well known to Socrates, who had one of them always attending him, according to whole intimations, he either undernel took or declin'd all business. The Magicians also are very well acquainted with this fort of Spirits, by whole help they do all those strange Feats, and Juggling tricks, by which they make us believe, we fee that which is not, or not to fee, that which really is and in a word atchieve to our G 2

great

82

great amazement all those extraordinary and aftonishing Wonders that are subt spoken of. Nevertheless Hoftanes, mill who was the Chiefest of all these Ma- Smith, gicians, both in word and deed, gives inby GOD the Honour due to Him, and him fays that the Angels are his Ministerss rady and Meffengers, who adore Him with him fear and trembling; To which he adds, and by that the Demons are Earthly and Va-a Aut gabond Spirits, that hate Mankind. adm And Plato, who found it a hard matter to know GOD, did not find itt Tende fo, to know them. He speaks both the En of Dæmons and Angels, and in his Dialogue call'd the BANQUET, he loss endeavours to explain the Nature of general the former; faying, That they are off man a Middle substance between Mortall eine o and Immortal, that is, between a Body first and Spirit; being made of a mixture of Terrestrial grosness, and Celestial purity. By which means they have how an easie access to us, to stir up our defires, and by conveighing themselves the into our hearts; to affect our Senfes, raise our Passions, and kindle in our lash Souls

85 against Paganism. 0114. Souls the flames of Luft. These Demons then, who are mix'd and impure Spirits, as we have plainly demonstraand ted by the Authority of Wifemen, Phiad losophers, and Plato himself, lurk priwately in those Statues and Images, which are confectated unto them; and by their Enthusias get so great an Authority over the minds of men, as of prefent Deities; and this, by infpiring their Prophets, dwelling in their Temples; by animating and acting the Entrails of Beafts; by directing the flying of Birds, determining of Lots, and uttering Oracles, which are mot generally obscure, and mixt with amon bundance of lyes; for they both deand ceive others, and are deceiv'd them-But felves; who as they do not know the Truth fully, fo they oft conceal, and will not confess that which they do know, because it tends to their own the fhame and confusion. Thus they make it their business to depress, and fink us downwards from Heaven to Earth, and to estrange us from GOD, by immerfing us into Matter; They trouble G 2

Hori trouble and disquiet our life, moles us with Dreams; and this by the adl Matt vantage they have, as Spirits, to com 200 vey themselves into our Bodies; where they counterfeit Diseases, terrifie oui felre Minds, distort our Members, thereby whe to oblige us to adore them; and that 300 after they are glutted with the reaking steam of Altars, and the blood of flain 山 Beasts, by undoing their own Charms all t the honour of Healing might be attrii buted to them. They are these very bein Spirits, which act those raging man clare folks, whom you fee running along th 由印 ftreets, and who are every whit a then they much Prophets, as those who give am fwers in your Temples; for they both delp foame, rage, and are whirl'd about a WILL like : Indeed they are Damons which Goas poffess the one, as well as the other 沒加 with this only difference, that the object 218 of their madness does vary. From th 218 ( fame also proceed all those delution Nam they you even now rehears'd, as that o Jupiter's commanding in a Dream that $0d his Games should be reftor'd; the app 1630 pearance of Castor and Pollux, or RICE Horles be ad-o con-where he our hereby id that anne le ver

r both

87

Horseback, and that of a Ship being tow'd along by the girdle of a Roman Matron. The most now adays, and among them many of your own Party, know very well, that the Devils themfelves do oft confess all these things, when by the torture of our Words, and the Fire of our Prayers, they are driven out and disposses'd. Then it is that Saturn, Serapis and Jupiter with all the Crew of Gods you worship, being overcome with anguish, do declare plainly what they are; nor have they the power by lying, to conceal their own shame (as you may be sure they fain would) though some of their deluded Adorers be present. Sure you will credit the testimony of your own Gods, when they witness the Truth against themselves, and confess they are Devils. For when those Wretches are conjur'd to come forth by the Name of the True and Only GOD, they tremble and quake within the Bodies they have poffefs'd, and either leap forth prefently, or vanish by degrees, according as the Faith of the Pati-G 4

ad

lievo

flers,

Fealt

國,

CODE

WEIG

With

of an belide

TEWAT

been

Index

imply

Dina

Verb

Whic

glory

that I thele

when

Par

ledg

ash

read

We

tort

Patient, and Grace of the Ghoffly, Phyfician are ftronger or weaker; So that they dread the nearness of those Christians, whom at a distance, by your means, they trouble and disturb in their Assemblies; and to that end infinuate themselves into the hearts of the fimple and ignorant, and there fow the feeds of hatred against our Religion: For nothing is more natural, than to hate those whom we dread, and give all the trouble we can, to those of whom we ftand in awe. So they preposses and prejudice the hearts of men against us, that they begin to hate us, before they know us; left knowing us, without this prejudice, they might defire to imitate, or at least not be able to condemn us. Now how unjust it is to pass a Judgment upon things which one knows not, as you do in condemning us, you may take warning from us, who do fo heartily repent for having committed the fame fault; for we were once as you are, and had the fame Sentiments, being involv'd in the fame blindnefs

130 infe

, by 加加 end

tsot

Dere

Re-

iral,

and thole

they

tot

n to kelt

dice,

leaft

017

Deot

1, 23

四町

0 10

itted

2 85

山山

89

and stupidity of Error, when we believ'd that the Christans worthip'd Monsters, devour'd Children, defil'd their Feafts with Incefts; without confidering, that though fuch things were commonly reported, yet they never were prov'd, and that none all this while has ever confess'd the least tittle of any one of these Crimes, though besides the assurance of Pardon, the reward of fuch a difcovery might have been a great temptation thereunto. Indeed to be a Christian, is so far from implying any thing that is evil or criminal, that they who are convict, never blush at it, nor fear the punishment which attends it: No, you fee them glory in it, and troubled at nothing but that they were fo no fooner. Neverthelefs we our felves, at the fame time when we undertook the Defence of Parricides, and perfons guilty of Sacriledges and Inceft, would not fo much as hear the Plea that Christians were ready to make for themfelves, whom we sometimes made endure a cruel torture, not out of hatred, but pity, forlooth, ples

hort

War

This

poli

200

M

WO

FOU

foo

the liet

go D

10 年, 南

山山

to the W G G

forfooth, that by constraining them through the greatness of torments to renounce their Religion, we might fave their lives. Oh ! perverse Inquifition, to make use of the Rack, not to force the fufferer to declare the Truth, but to deny it. Now if it fo happened that any one, lefs constant, being overcome with the pains of those tortures, did renounce his Religion, he was received into favour, as if by fuch an abjuration, he had made atonement for all the Crimes, which are commonly charg'd upon them. By which you may plainly fee, that we formerly were of the fame mind and perfuafion with you, doing the very fame things as you do now. But indeed, had you been govern'd by Reason, and not by the inftigation of Evil Spirits, your business would have been to have urg'd the Christians not to renounce their Religion; but to confess their Incests, Whoredoms, impious Ceremonies, and their Sacrificing of Infants; which are the fabulous Stories wherewith the fame Damons have fill'd the filly people's sto igin not the to hole he ach

101-rou enly

ad

378

91

ple's Minds, to make them deteft and abhor us. But no wonder if all these horrid lyes and Fictions do vanish away before the appearance of Truth, which those Monsters fo much oppose, making it their business to spread and foment false reports. From these alfo that Fable had its rife, That we worship an Asse's Head. But, I pray you, who can be conceiv'd fo much a fool, to worship such a thing; or rather, who is fo much a fool as to believe we do it, except those who are guilty of as extravagant and impious Devotions themfelves? For indeed it is you make both Affes and Stables Holy, by having confecrated your Goddess Hippona, and given her the Charge over them; and when you celebrate the solemn Rites of your Goddess Is, you, with a great deal of Ceremony, adorn that Animal: Yea, you pay Adoration to the heads of Oxen and Rams; fo that you Worship the fame Beafts, which you Sacrifice. Some of your Gods are made up of a mixt shape of Goats and Men, and others of them have

with

(21)

WhO

ofth

horri thole

them

15 20

WI

lo fa

thy ad

the b

Ih

the b

any itbe

For

Cha

Mea

been

Proof

As to

World

Crof

how hipp

0110 have the Heads half of Dogs and half of Lyons. Don't you with the Egytians worship and feed an Ox under the Name of Apis? Neither do you difavow the worship of their other goodly Deities; as Serpents, Crocodiles, and other Beasts, Birds and Fishes; so that it is accounted Capital, to kill any one of these Gods. Are there not a great many amongst you, who with the Egyptians, stand as much in awe of the biting sharpness of an Onion, as of their Goddess Isis, and are as much afraid of the noise of breaking wind backward, as of their God Serapis? As for such as accuse us of adoring the privy Parts of our Priests, they do but charge us with their own Villanies; for fuch filthy Devotions are very fuitable to those debauched and lewd people, among whom 'tis but too common for both Sexes, to prostitute all their Members, and who give the name of Courtefie and kindness to the most extravagant Obscenity and Lasciviousnes; who envy the liberty of Strumpets, and commit fuch unnatural filthinefs with

庙

the

il.

dy

10.

11

00:

21

E.

tie.

of 12 ind

ìl à

the n!

翁 tt.

39+

01 el

·3.

余

93

with one another, as no modest Tongue can express, or Pen set down; and who fooner grow weary, than afham'd of their impudent lasciviousness. Oh horrible lewdness! They willingly fuffer those things to be committed upon themselves, which neither tender age is able to bear, nor the baseft of flaves will yield to. As for our part, we are fo far from being guilty of fuch filthithy actions, that we do even blush at the bare recital of them; and indeed, I should think my felf to transgress the bounds of Civility, should I infift any longer upon this Matter, though it be in order to defend our Religion. For really you accuse us, who are Chaft and Modeft, of fuch Crimes, as we could not have believed there had been fuch, had there not been the proofs of them from among your felves. As to that which you fay, that we worship a wicked Person and his Cross, you are greatly miltaken; for how could he have deferv'd to be worshipp'd, had he been an Evil-doer; or to be believ'd a GOD, had he been only hip (

Empér

them,

to 200

Geals,

ter, l

Standa

Crolle

your figure

Man

IsTiatu

29 IN 1

tow'd

pravs

te for

So th

both adin

edin

Praver

NO

Mar

blood

itiatio

Who

the b

only Earthly? He is furely very milerable, who reposes all his confidence in a mortal man, fince all hopes of his help dye with him. The Egyptians indeed are guilty of this folly, who chuse a Man for the Object of their Worfhip, whom they pray unto; confult upon all occasions, and to whom they offer Sacrifice. But all this while, whether he will or no, he that is a God to others, is but a Man to himfelf, and though he may deceive others, he cannot deceive his own Conscience. Upon Kings and great Persons alfo bafe flattery has beftow'd the Title of Gods; whereas it had been enough to have paid them their due honours; though to fpeak the truth, Honour is properly due only to those who are eminently deferving, as Love is to excellently good Men. Thus they invoke thefe Divine Powers, they pray before their Images, implore the help of their Genii, that is, their Demons, and hold it a lefs Crime for a Man to be perjur'd when he fwears by Jupiter, than when he swears by the Emil.

18

is -

LOH I

RE

10;

10

2

he 12 ene a

01- 1

1053 I

Tio

dee 1

076

DES 1

17

tie

700

Emperor's Genius. We neither worship Crosses, nor wish to be nail'd to them. You your felves are more likely to adore them, who worship Wooden Gods, that are made of the fame Matter. And what are your Banners and Standards, but gilt and beautified Croffes? Nay, the very Trophies of your Victories do not only bear the figure of a Crofs, but of a Crucified Man. Indeed the Sign of the Crofs is naturally reprefented in many things, as in a Ship, when under Sail, or when row'd with Oars; also when a Man prays to GOD with his hands ftretched forth, he makes the fame Figure; So that the Figure of the Crofs, has both a ground in Natural Reason, and in your Religion, as being formed in the most Solemn action of it, Prayer.

NOW I would fain meet with that Man, that fays, or believes, that the blood of a murther'd Infant, is the initiating Ceremony of our Religion. First, who could have the heart to fhed the blood of a young Innocent, that

13

95 burte

ath

新院

Ano

0:21

Rel

gorg

的問題

柳秋

Con

that dito

then

bloc

Wor

ling

they

Am

計方 fedy

For

eithe aith

man

6FB

PIOI

Yeah

is but newly born? Surely none can imagine or believe fuch a Crime, but he who can commit it. 'Tis you that expose your Children, new-born, to wild Beafts and Birds, and strangle them at their coming into the World: Nay, there are fome among you, who by taking Potions, to caufe abortion, destroy them in the Womb, and are guilty of their death, even before they are born. Which cruelty you have learned of your Gods; For Saturn was not contented to expose his own Children, but devour'd them himfelf: Upon which account they were us'd in fome parts of Africa to offer him fuch little Infants, whom they prevented from crying, by ftopping their mouths with kiffes, that they might not facrifice fad and mournful Victims to their Gods. It was also a Custom among the Scythians, to facrifice Strangers that lodg'd with them; which a King of Egypt alfo practis'd. The Gauls facrificed humane, or rather inhumane, Offerings to Mercury. The Roman Priefts have upon fome occafions overwhelm'd and buryed

011 but

4.10

ngle vid:

who tito,

date

的

20-

$ 202

ditty

Loca

lote

linle

frozi

mil

elad

Jula

So:

ngid

der ngsto

EEP

2

97

Buried a Grecian Man and Woman, as likewife a Man and Woman of Gaul, alive: And at this day the folemn Worship paid to Jupiter Latiaris, is cutting of a Man's throat ; which, indeed, very well becomes Saturn's Son, thus to gorge himfelf with the blood of a Criminal. From whence, I suppose, it was, that Catiline learn'd to ratifie his Confpiracy with humane blood; and that Bellona does still oblige those to drink a draught of it, who confecrate themselves to her service. With which bloody Medicine, a thousand times worfe than the Difease, the Falling-ficknefs is also cured. Nor are they much less barbarous, who from the Amphitheatre take and eat wild Beafts, all befmear'd with blood, and newly fed with the flesh and entrails of Men. For our part, it is not lawful for us, either to see or hear of Murthers committed; and fo much do we abhor Humane blood, that we eat not even that of Beafts. As for our inceftuous and promiscuous Feasts, it is a Calumny invented at a confultation of Devils, on purpole H

feig

not i

their

to let

of u

Wit

Oll

but Sc

time

如山

Per t gtavi

lation

OUT

every among defi

Withou

far fro lome

pleafu

and stort

Wede

that 1

the per purpole toobscure the glory of our Chaftity, and deter Men from our Religion, before they had try'd it, by the horror of so great a Crime; and what your Orator Fronto has faid concerning it, is rather an Invective than an Evidence. But, really, it's your felves, that are guilty of Incests, and not we. The Persians marry their own Mothers; the Egyptians and the Athenians, their Sifters. Your Stories and Tragedies, wherein you take fo much delight, boaft of Incefts; and fo you worthip. Gods, who have committed Incest with their own Mothers, Daughters, and Sifters. 'Tis therefore no wonder that that Vice is fo frequent and fashionable amongst you, fince your very Gods are your encouraging Examples and Complices. And indeed, it is no strange thing, if oft at unawares you commit Inceft, by your whoring indifferently every where, and by exposing your Children to the mercy of others; fo that it cannot well be supposed, but that you sometimes light upon them. Thus you see that whilst you accuse us of feign'd

101

MOI

001

I.

教化

515

The

en;

1eir

£1,

熱師酒

and

hat

ble nd.

ize

ę.

j.I

hit

tit

99 feign'd Incefts, you are guilty of real ones your selves. But Christians are not wont to make an outward fhew of their Chastity; but enshrine it in their Minds, and do not study fo much to feem chaft, as to be really fo. All of us have either one only wedded Wife, or no Woman at all. As for our Feasts, they are not only Chast, but Sober; for we do not spend our time in over-charging our stomachs with Meat and Drink; but we temper the joys of our Feasts with the gravity and feriousness of our Converfation. And as we are thus Chaft in our Affemblies, fo are we no lefs fuch every where elfe. There are many amongst us, who keep themselves undefil'd and holy in an unmarried state, without boafting of it; and we are for far from being inceftuous perfons, that some of us are even asham'd of lawful pleasures. As for what concerns Honors, it doth not follow, that because we decline your Purple and Dignities; that therefore we are of the dregs of the people; nor are we to be accoun-H 2 ted

the o

Patric

NOUT

Relati

201102 we by

Tow

form

living

Templ

this w

by Hi

Or fa

Palaci

Glan

Batto

Chan

dedica

Tis Al

for his

Sacrifi

tures

Woo

had ;

to the

Hand

gratit

ted Factious, if we all aspiring after the fame felicity keep company with one another, and all meet together as peaceably as we behave our felves fingly and alone. Nor ought we to be accus'd for prating in corners, if you be either asham'd or afraid to hear us in publick. And if our Number daily increases, it is not our Crime, but our Commendation; an excellent courfe of life, is not only apt to engage those who are enter'd into it to perfevere and continue in it, but to invite and allure others to it. We do not know one another by any marks we have on our bodies, as you fancy; but by our modelty and innocency. That we love one another fo entirely, as you are troubled to fee it, is, because we know not how to hate. And that we call one another Brethren, which you envy us for, is, becaufe we have all One and the same Father, one and the fame Faith, and one and the fame Hope. But for your part, you do not owne one another; you rage with envy and hatred against one another ; and the

against Paganism. 101 the only fign of your Brotherhood is Parricide, and your frequent imbruing your hands in the blood of your nearest Relations. But you suppose, that we conceal That which we worship, because we have neither Temples nor Altars. To what purpose should we make any form or representation of GOD, whole living Image, Man himfelf is? Or what Temple should we raise to Him, since this whole World, which was made by Him, is not able to contain Him? Or shall we Mortals, who live in great Palaces, confine the Incomprehenfible Glory of HIS MAJESTY, to the narrow compais of some Temple or Chappel? Were it not much better to dedicate our Mind for the place of his Abode; and confectate our Heart for his Altar ? Shall we offer to GOD Sacrifices and Oblations of fuch Creatures, as he has made for our use? Would not this look indeed as if we had a mind to reject his Bounty, and to throw back his Gifts into his own Hands; which speaks the greatest ingratitude, especially fince the only ac-H 3 ceptable

and the

脑

均益

SY

- 22-

用的

15 m

的

0E

ale

title

531:

ili.

UN .

103

101

記

107

17

188

100 eal

21

198

100

h en

御

the

feen

fee G drivel

11 1101

althi viliple

and thoo

fix ou

them.

thou fight

andis

thou

hidef

fide thy neithe

Soul.

fpeak

Bitt

beino

all,

tical

How

how

When

ceptable Offering to him, is a good Mind and a pure Heart, with a fincere Confeience. So that he that lives innocently, prays to GOD acceptably; he that deals justly, prefents Him with an Offering of a sweet favour; he who abstains from fraud, doth most effectually propitiate and atone the Deity; and he that refcues a Man that is in danger of his life, does kill the fatteft Sacrifice. These are our Sacrifices 5 these are our Mysteries; and with us, he is most Devout and Religious, who is most Just. But you wonder, that we neither can fhew to others the GOD whom we Worship, nor see him our felves. Does this feem strange to you? Why, for this very reafon we do most affuredly believe Him to be GOD, becaufe we can perceive Him, but cannot see Him. For his omnipotent Virtue and Power is always prefent before our eyes, in the Works which he has made, and in the whole course of Nature; when it thunders, when it lightens, when it is fair; all his works proclaim Him: Let it not therefore leem

题

15.

1

道

0%

BL.

and .

2P

8.

the

heis

20

5111

ODI

110

1683 polt

D.

(20-int

be.

he

eof

FE

orks

fare

10

103

feem strange to you, that you do not fee GOD. All things are mov'd and driven by the Wind, and yet you fee it not; And the Sun it felf, that makes all things to be feen, is in a manner invisible, by reason of its superlative and dazling brightnefs; infomuch as should we gaze long, and stedfastly fix our eyes on it, it would blind them, and put them out. And canft thou think thy felf able to bear the fight of his Glory, who made the Sun, and is the Fountain of all Light, when thou art afraid of his Lightnings, and hideft thy felf from his Thunder ? Befides, wouldst thou fee GOD with thy Eyes of flefh, when thou canft neither fee nor take hold of thine own Soul, by which thou doft live and speak? But perhaps you will fay, GOD is ignorant of what we do, and He being in Heaven, can neither confider all, nor take knowledge of every particular perfon and his concernments. How greatly are you miltaken? For how can He be far from any of us, when all things in Heaven and Earth, H4 and

Copp

初的

but th

World

we be ered

noth

ped

Altars

加兴

Ignora

OF DO

limes

latter

Oll G

Cently

isthe

they

Thole

Imal

poor,

a ftate

illant

Unaro

017871

CODI

thio

and in the immense space beyond them, are full of Him, and known to Him. He is not only with us, but within us; And as the Sun, though fixed in the Heavens, yet diffuses it self through the whole Universe, is present every where, and mingles its light with every thing, without staining its brightness; so with much more reason, can nothing be hid from, or fecret to GOD, the Author and Beholder of all things; the Darkness hides not from Him, for He is there also; nor the thoughts of Men, which are the truer Darkness of the two. We live not only under His Governance, but, as I may fay, with Him. Neither ought we to presume upon our great Numbers, as supposing that one may eafily escape unfeen among fo vast a Multitude; For though we may feem to our felves a great many, yet are we but a few with respect to We, indeed, divide and di-GOD. stinguish the Earth into Countries and Nations; but to GOD this whole World is but one House. Kings cannot acquaint themselves with the State and Con-

3

1E

the 論

Hit,

戰

ing,

ić

ČĘ,

El.

12.

12

76

W.

80

at 1

1g

57

d.

dé

ot

Concerns of their own Kingdoms, without the Eyes of many Ministers; but the MONARCH of the whole World needs none to inform Him; we being not only under his Eye, but even in his Bosom. You fay, it avail'd nothing to the Jews, that they worshipped One Only GOD, with Temples, Altars, and a valt Number of Ceremonies; but in this you mistake through ignorance, if either not remembring, or not knowing the Hiftory of former times, you take notice only of fome latter Events: For whilft they ador'd our GOD holily, religiously and innocently. (I fay Our GOD, for the fame is the GOD of the whole World) whilft they obey'd his Just Commands and wholesome Laws, they became of a fmall Number, a mighty Nation; of poor, they were made rich, and from a state of Slavery, arriv'd to a most puislant Monarchy: A few of them, and unarm'd, put to flight great Armies and overthrew them, the Elements at God's command fighting for them. Look into their own Writings, or if it like you

ber

have 8

noun

380 12

for fo

that al

lpent.

take

Wileo

the ru

flagrat

Plato.

Work

flood fon'd

It Wa

might

that

Dir d

IS BOT

Work

hi o

let th

15:1

but t

this

Prop

you better, into those of the Romans; read what Josephus and Antonius Julianus (not to mention those Historians that were before them) write of that People, and you'l find, that their Sins drew down Calamities upon them, and whatever Evils befell them, were long before prophesied would overtake 'em, in case they should still continue in their Rebellion: So that indeed they forsook GOD, before they were forsaken of Him, and were not (as you impiously fay) taken Captives with their GOD, but given up by Him, as deferters of his Discipline and Law.

AS to what concerns the general Conflagration of the Univerfe, it is a vulgar Error, to think it a thing difficult or impoffible that the World fhould all on the fudden be fet on fire, and confum'd by that means. There is no man doubts, but that which has a Beginning must have an End, and that that which is made, must finally perifh; That the Heavens themfelves, and all things therein contain'd, as they je.

谢

011.

lite

山

10.

efell

fet bey

1

DD,

and

KED

iven

era

ER T

tri,

ER

M

nd

107

they had a Beginning, must likewife have an End; and that ceafing to be nourifh'd by the exhalations of fresh and falt-waters, they will be inflam'd; for so the Stoicks stedfastly believe, that all the moisture of Nature being fpent, the whole World will prefently take fire : And the Epicureans are likewife of the fame Opinion, as touching the ruin of the Universe, and the Conflagration of the Elements. As for Plato, he faith, That some parts of the World are at times drown'd with floods and inundations, others confum'd by fire; and though he faid that it was made fo at the first, as that it might continue for ever ; yet he adds, that GOD, Who is the Maker of it, may deftroy it when He pleafes. Which is not at all to be wonder'd at, that a Workman can, and may take to pieces his own Work. So that herein you fee the Philosophers do fully agree with us; not that we do follow their steps, but they have taken fome fhadow of this Truth out of the predictions of our Prophets, and have fourbish'd and drefs'd

terd

11 15 1

thing

that to

Rady

EVELY

dull

GOI

titto d

0108 ated i

Witho

GOL

emen

ther d

DV DA

Bodie

Culton

the be and y

Whole

and P

Un;

the St

again

Iture

they

dress'd it up after their own way. Thus also the most renown'd amongst them, first Pythagoras, and especially Plato, have deliver'd down to us, though very much corrupted and maimed, the Doctrine of another Life after this; for they affert, That the Souls of Men after the diffolution of their bodies, do perpetually remain, and are continually paffing into new Bodies; and perverting the Truth still more, they add, That the Souls of Men do return into the bodies of Beafts and Birds; an Opinion which does more beseem a Mountebank or Juggler, than a grave Philosopher. But it is enough for us, that your Wisemen themselves do in some fort agree with us. And who is fo much a fool, as todeny, that He who at first made Man, can as eafily reftore and renew him? For as he is nothing after Death, fo neither was he any thing before Life; And therefore why fhould we think it strange, that he who at the beginning was made of nothing, fhould of nothing (as to us) be repair'd and recover'd

歌

left |

書

13 細か lie tre

10 C

and

Bo-1

are,

100

and 5101

111 ngh

16

101

hat

61.

25

109

ver'd to a new Life; especially since it is much more difficult to create a thing which never was, than to reftore that to its former Being, which has already been? Or do you believe, that every thing which disappears to our dull fight, does perish in the fight of GOD? Whether the Body moulder into dust, or be diffolv'd into water, or be reduc'd to ashes, or be attenuated into Steam and Air, it is only withdrawn out of our fight, but to GOD it is preferv'd in the feveral Elements into which it is chang'd. Neither do we fear, as you fancy, that any manner of prejudice comes to our Bodies by Burial; only we observe the Custom of interring Dead Bodies, as the best. Do but look about you, and you'l fee how, to our comfort, whole Nature is a lively Pourtraicture and Representation of our Resurrection. The Sun rifes and fets, and fo do the Stars; Flowers dye and spring up again; Trees renew their green Vefture every year; and Seeds, unless they dye and putrifie in the Earth, do not oftrue

riesof

it is the

the but for as h

both f

lo doe

as bein

out en

Pire do

and rep

them at thing, thing, the without cano's

thers t

Wafting

nal pent diminuti

tor ever without

GOD

that kno

ed men

lan den

DOUS C

ed La

not return to a new life. And why may not our Bodies, like Trees in Winter, hide and preferve their life and vigour, under a seeming withering and deadness? Indeed, you cannot expect to see this in the depth of Winter, but must stay till that great Spring comes, which shall make our Bodies to flourish and live again. Nor am I ignorant that there are very many, who being fensible of their own demerits, do rather with, than believe, that they shall not be after Death ; chufing of the two, rather utterly to be extinguish'd, than to be reftor'd to life again, only to be punish'd; which Errour encreases daily, by reason of the extreme licentiousness of the Age, and the long forbearance of GOD, whole Judgments the flower they are, by fo much the more justly and heavily are they laid on at laft. And yet Men are told both by the Writings of Wisemen and Poets, that there is a Stygian Lake, and an ever-burning River, prepar'd for the Eternal punishment of the Wicked, according to the Oracles of 111 of true Prophets, as well as the discoveries of the Damons themselves. Hence it is the Poets make Jupiter to swear by the burning Rivers, and dark Deep; for as he forelees the torments defign'd both for himself and his worshippers, fo does he fear and tremble at them, as being without measure, and without end. For in wonderful wife this Fire does both consume our Bodies and repair them, devour and nourish them at once; like the flashes of Lightning, which blaft and kill the body without confuming it; or those Vulcano's of Ætna and Vesuvius, and others that burn continually, without wasting or going out. Thus this inferanal penal Fire is strangely fed, without diminution of its Fewel, and preys In for ever upon the Bodies of the Damn'd is without wasting them. Now, that GOD doth defervedly punish them hat know him not, impious and wickd id men, none but prophane Wretches It is force it is force a lefs heimous Crime, not to know the Father and Lord of all things, than to provoke

dB

his

m

and

US,

紀( even

lo he ofo

Matt

tot f trent

PROP

the

Lar

voke and affront Him. And although the Ignorance of GOD, is enough to make Men lyable to punifhment, ass the true Knowledge of Him, doth a --vail for their Pardon and Indemnity 55 yet if we Christians be compar'dl with you, notwithstanding that upon fome of us our Discipline hath less ef-fect, we shall be found much the Bet -ter Men. For you forbid Adulteries, and commit them; whereas we are: known as Men, to our Wives alone .. You content your felves only to pu-ofo nish the outward Ad; whereas with us the very Thought of Evil is a Crime .. You are afraid that other men should be conficious of your faults, but we: Onh stand in awe even of our own Con--If W fciences, becaufe we cannot fly nor hide Dall our felves from them. The Prifons are crouded with numbers of your own,, but you find not one Christian there, except he be either a Confessor, or ani conf Apostate? Neither let any think to com-fort himself with this, That all Hu--2 10 he mane Actions are subject to unavoid-able Fate and Destiny: For though upon upon efs ef

e Bet-

eries, e ate

alone

0 po

Crime back

a fr

Con

能

162

OF

iter

012

den I B. IIZ

we attribute some Events to Chance, yet it is undeniably certain, that the Mind of Man is free in the choice of his Actions, which are therefore only punishable and not his Condition. What is Fate, but what GOD has spoken and decreed concerning every one of us, who being able to forefee the Matter of His own Decrees, fuits them to every ones deferts and circumstances; so he punishes in us, not the Destiny of our Nativity, but the ill disposition of our Minds? But no more of this Matter for the prefent; which if it be not fufficient, we may have occasion to treat of it more amply another time. Only let me observe to you now, that if we are poor (which you are continually upbraiding to us) this is not a reproach, but an Honor to us; for as the Mind is apt to grow diffolute by Luxury and Excess, fo is it many times confirm'd in Virtue, by Frugality and a mean Estate. And yet how can he be poor who lacks nothing, who covets nothing that others have, and who is rich towards GOD? He indeed is rather got

也

10-11

nih

Tage

1165, aret

being

Bodie

deca

Fano

With

confe

cond

US, OT

彩旗 molt

Bat

make

tion

Our

tion

rather poor, who having much, ftill covets more: And to speak my mind freely, no man is fo poor by Fortune, as we are all by Nature. The Birds have no Patrimony to live upon, and the Cattel upon a thousand hills are provided for only from day to day 5 and we live upon these who have nothing certain to live upon, for they are all made for us, and we posses them all, if we covet them not. Therefore as he that travels on the road, is most easie when he carries least about him; fo in this journey of life he is happiest who being eas'd by Poverty, doth not go fighing under the weight and burthen of Riches, which if we thought needful for us, we might lawfully beg them of GOD, who, no doubt, would not deny us fomething of that ALL which is His: But we chufe rather to despife riches, than pof-Our most earnest Wishes less them. are for Innocence; our most fervent Prayers for Patience; we had much rather live well and vertuoully with a little, than prodigally and luxurioufly with 115 with a great Estate. When we undergo the troubles of this Life, and fuffer the infirmities of our Nature, we don't fo much account them pains and punishments, as a warfare in which we are engaged : For we find that our courage gains strength from our infirmities, and that calamities and afflictions are the usual Discipline of Vertue; it being certain that the vigour of our Bodies, as well as our Minds, is apt to decay for want of exercise. Thus all those great Men, whom you magnifie as fuch Examples of Vertue, became Famous no other way, but by the miferies and calamities they were exercis'd withall. Neither is it therefore a good consequence from our seeming forlorn condition, to fay that GOD neglects us, or is unable to relieve us; He who is the great Governour of all, and the most compassionate Lover of his Own. But He proves us by adversities ; He makes tryal of our temper and disposition by dangers and fufferings; He fifts our most hidden thoughts and inclinations; and to discover the bent of our wills 1 2 10.

A)

TJ,

57

T.

10

ng

We

of.

he has en ou

Honor

brave F

SUS

shand

hetn

tive:

be mile

NOUT fe

fuch a

their (

cula W

upon ti

to dea

byan

offic etes I

ny are

Out the have e right 1

confin

with or

Eltres .

But wh

Matina

wills to the utmost, He calls us to fuffer death for Him, being well affured that nothing can perish in his hands, and miscarry under his care. In short, as men try Gold by fire, fo does he refine us by afflictions. And indeed how delightful a Spectacle must it be to GOD, to see a Christian couragioufly encountring his pains, and undauntedly preparing himfelf for all manner of threats, punishments and torments; to fee him boldly look Death and the Executioner of it in the face, and without the least alteration, to throw himfelf into the devouring flames; to fee him affert his liberty against Kings and Princes, and to yield to none but GOD, whole He is; in a word, like a Conqueror, to triumph over his Judg; for he is really victorious, who has obtained what he strives for?Where is the Souldier that would not boldly provoke and challenge dangers in the prefence of his General, knowing that none but fuch as give good proof of themselves, shall be rewarded? And yet a General cannot give what he f.

1.

is is

SIE

, 10

and finit

100-

and

1:20

nr.

eath

are,

to 72

117

he has not; I mean, he cannot lengthen our days, though he may bellow Honors upon us for our Courage and brave Exploits. But the Souldier of 7 E-SUS CHRIST is fo far from being abandon'd, even in Death it felf, that he triumphs over it, and leads it Captive: So that though he may feem to be miserable, yet he cannot be fo. You your felves exalt, even to the Skies, fuch as have couragioully fuffer'd for their Country: Witness Mutius Scavola, who being mistaken in his attempt upon the King, had certainly been put to death by his Enemies, had he not, by a most undaunted courage, burnt off his own right hand before their eyes, upon the Altar. And how many are there amongst us, who without the least shreaking or crying out, have endur'd, not only to have their right hands, but their whole bodies confum'd to ashes, when they might with one word have deliver'd themfelves from those extreme tortures? But why do I compare our Men with Mutius and Aquilius and Regulus? Our fince
118 A Vindication of Christianity

THE C

many

10 01

ed W

alon

true

ltant

right

lome

Part

Cault

218 0

FOUR

luter

0120 tinteo

are

Virt

Tenca

2000 athe

Colon

Mod

200

Our very Women and Children make flight of croffes and tortures, are unconcern'd at the fight of wild and ravenous Beafts; and in a word, by a Patience divinely inspir'd, make a mock of torment in all its frightful shapes. And yet so miserably blind are you, as not to confider that there are none who will either endure torments without caufe, or can be fo courageous under them, without a fupernatural and Divine Affistance. But this is that which perhaps deceives you, That you fee those who know not GOD to abound in Riches, flourifh in Honor and excel in Power and Dignity. Poor Wretches! They are lifted up on high, that they may have the greater fall; They are Beafts fatten'd for Sacrifice, and fo many Victims crown'd before their Slaughter; fo that one would think, feeing their lewd Lives, that they are fet upon Thrones, only to abuse their Power, and to fin with more licentioufnefs. Befides, without the knowledge of GOD there can be no folid Felicity, ince 119 fince all the things of this World are like a Dream, which vanishes before we can lay hold of it. Kings feel as many fears in themfelves, as they caufe in others, and though they are guarded with a great retinue, yet they are alone in dangers. You are rich (it's true) but it is not well to trust inconstant Fortune. Besides, if things be rightly confider'd, fo much Luggage, for fo short a Journey is more cumberfome than uleful. You glory in your Purple and Dignities; but without caufe, fince Scarlet and rich Vestments are but a pitiful Ornament to you, if your Souls be tainted with Sin and polluted with Vice. You pretend to be of a great Family and of Noble Parentage: But don't you know that we are all Equal by our Birth, and that Virtue only ought to make the difference among Men. It is therefore with good reason that Christians, who aim at being efteem'd only upon the account of their Virtuous Manners and Modest Behaviours, despise your Shews and Pomps, and fly from them as delightful 1 1

are

ave

120 AV indication of Christianity

Winet

Altars

anath

afertin

nothin

which vet w proph

thoug

Demon

ted, or ligion.

But

havea

we gat

whate

elteen

grancy

them 1

then

about

Will ex

landso

on that the No

det par

think

lightful Inticers and Corrupters of men; and with the fame reafon alfo they abstain from your Religious Worship and Ceremonies, as well knowing what was their Beginning and Original. For who can but abhor to hear and fee those confused Contests and Shouts of the Multitude at your Chariot-races? What fober Mind is not aftonish'd to fee the Art of killing Men, publickly profess'd in your Gladiators' Games? And for your Theaters, as the madnefs there is no lefs, fo they exceed in all manner of infamous lewdness and filthinefs; where a bold and fhamelefs Actor reprefents or relates Adulteries, and the lascivious Jester by making Love, incites to Luft and Lafcivioufness; where they dishonor your Gods by afcribing fighs and hatred, and Whoredoms, the Paffions and the Vices of men to them. With feigned griefs they draw real tears from your eyes; fo that you can lament perfonated Murthers, and take delight in true ones. If we abhor the remainders of your Sacrifices, and of the -Wine Wine that has been prefented upon your Altars, this is not to be interpreted as an acknowledgment of our fear, but an afferting of our just liberty. For though nothing can corrupt the Gifts of GOD, which Nature has produc'd for our ufe, yet we willingly abstain from those prophane Oblations, lest we might be thought either to acknowledge the Demons, to whom they are confecrated, or to be assained of our own Religion.

Thj .

10-

間

10 kt

of

62

to

But how come you to fancy that we have an Antipathy to Flowers? Don't we gather the Lilly and the Rofe, and whatever the Spring affords, and is esteem'd either for its beauty or fragrancy? We both ftrew them, and tye them up into Nofe-gays, and make them into Garlands, which we hang about our necks. But I hope you will excuse us, if we don't wear Garlands on our Heads, and are of opinion that Flowers ought to be fmelt by the Nofe, and not by the hair or hinder part of the Head. Neither do we think it neceffary to crown the Dead with

122 A Vindication of Christianity

200 P

Then

crutis

conte

2017 him

conn

Part

beca

102;

ger

for c

Phil

been

PEPS,

quer

gam

deam

Ourf

the

Il

ine

11 00

they

TRIVE

filt

film.

with Garlands; but wonder at you for doing of it. For what good can Flowers do them, if they have no fenfe? Or if they have any, why do you expose them to the funeral flames? Befides, if they be happy, they do not need them; and if they be milerable, Flowers will be but a fmall comfort to them. As for us, we celebrate the Funerals of our Dead Friends with the fame Modefty and Composedness that appears in our whole Life. We don't crown them with Garlands that fade away, they being crown'd with fuch as are made of immortal and never-dying Flowers, by the hand of GOD himself. We are moderate in our defires, being affur'd of the Bounty of our good GOD; and freed from all fear, by the certain hopes of a future Felicity; and animated to do and fuffer for Him, by the Faith of his Glorious pre-Infomuch as we fence with us : have not only a Happinels in reversion at the refurrection of the Just; but are happy already in the contemplation and

104

Cm

1(2)

13

Be-

DQL |

iale,

tto

the nels

We

ants

md

Mat

the 統

2.

D;

(fl.

02.

点

018

扉

123 and prospect of our future Bleffedness, Therefore let that Athenian Droll, Socrates, enjoy the comfort of his own confession, that he knows nothing, and glory in the deceitful Teftimony given him by the Oracle, upon that account; Let Arcesilas and Carneades, Pyrrho, and the rest of the Academicks be continually deliberating and doubting; Let Simonides for ever ask a longer day for the giving his Answer; for our part we do not value those Philosophers, whom we know to have been Tyrants, Corrupters, and Adulterers, and who were never more Eloquent, than when they declaim'd against their own Vices. We don't endeavour to make a shew of Wisdom in our Garb, but to have it fhine forth in the disposition of our Minds and Manners. Wedon't talk of great things, but live and do them. In fhort, we make it our glory to have attain'd that which they fo earneftly fought for, but could never find. Why are we fo unthankful to God? Why do we envy our felves our own happiness, that it fhould fhould be our lot to fee the Divine Truth come to its full ripenefs in our days? Let us enjoy this great Bleffing and advantage of being in the right, and having the Truth on our fide, with that temper and modesty which becomes us. Let Superstition be control'd; let all impiety be purg'd away, and let the true Religion be preferv'd and continue for ever.

124 AV indication of Christianity

DYI

WOto

heart

1000

Fours

ION; I

Victor

terol

umph

fore,

Que

andb

I agri

rity a prope

Verth

(not i

ful for

Idefin

Difeo

tillto

fetting

more

difcul

W

utter

WHEN Octavius had thus ended his Discourse, we remain'd a good while in a kind of amazement, looking earneftly upon one another, without speaking one word. For my part I was almost transported with admiration, that he had both by Arguments, and Examples, and the Authority of Testimonies, which his reading furnish'd him withall, adorn'd fo good a Caufe, and fo clearly made out those things which are more eafily felt than exprest; being most of all pleas'd to see that he had both fought and foil'd them at their own Weapons, and clearly demonstrated, that Truth is not only easie, but hath many favourable advantages on its fide, We Whilft I was thus filently muling with my felf, Cacilius breaks out into these words; I congratulate Octavius most heartily, and my own happiness also, upon this occasion : Neither do I expect your Sentence; We are both Conquerors; nor am I unjust in challenging the Victory; for if Octavius has had the better of me, I at the same time do triumph over my own Errors. Therefore, as to what concerns the main Question, I both own a Providence, and believe in GOD; and for the reft, I agree with you touching the fincerity and truth of your, or (to speak more properly) Our RELIGION. Nevertheless there remain some few things (not in opposition to Truth, but needful for my fuller information) of which I defire we may entertain some further Discourse. But we will put off this till to morrow (the Sun being now near fetting) that at our leifure, and with more convenience we may throughly discuss this whole Matter.

WHEN Cacilius had thus freely utter'd his Mind, As for me (faid I) I am am overjoy'd upon the account of use all, and in particular, that Octavius has done me fo great a pleafure by his Victory, as to deliver me from the envy of judging between my Friends. Neverthelefs I fhall not launch forth into the Praifes of Octavius, becaufe I am fenfible that I can never give him the Commendations he deferves. Befides, the Teftimony of a man, and of one only, is too little: The Great GOD is his Reward, who has infpir'd him with fo perfwafive a Speech, and enabled him to overcome.

212

125

126 A Vindication of Christianity, &c.

THUS we all departed joyfully, Cacilius, becaufe he had believ'd; Octavius, becaufe he had overcome; and my felf, both for the Faith of the One; and Victory of the Other.

Rend may 202, 603

