“THE PIED PIPER.”

A scene in one of four masques written for Bournville players by Mr. John Drinkwater, the poet, and which were given in the summers 1911-1914.

The Piper is seen making his contract with the citizens of “Hamelin town in Brunswick” to rid them of the plague of rats.

SPORTS DAY.

The Men's Recreation Grounds, occupying 12 acres, were levelled and laid out in 1896. The Pavilion was the Firm's gift in commemoration of the Coronation of King Edward VII.
