

M0012766: Section V A of the 'Medicine of the Aboriginal Peoples in the British Commonwealth' exhibition

Publication/Creation

December 1952

Persistent URL

<https://wellcomecollection.org/works/qsgr888h>

License and attribution

You have permission to make copies of this work under a Creative Commons, Attribution license.

This licence permits unrestricted use, distribution, and reproduction in any medium, provided the original author and source are credited. See the Legal Code for further information.

Image source should be attributed as specified in the full catalogue record. If no source is given the image should be attributed to Wellcome Collection.

Wellcome Collection
183 Euston Road
London NW1 2BE UK
T +44 (0)20 7611 8722
E library@wellcomecollection.org
<https://wellcomecollection.org>

THE PRACTITIONER AND HIS EQUIPMENT

THE PRACTITIONER
The practitioner is a person who is skilled in the art of healing. He is often a member of a religious or magical order, and he uses his powers to cure the sick. He may use herbs, roots, and other natural materials to make medicines. He may also use spells and charms to drive away evil spirits. The practitioner is a very important figure in many cultures, and he is often consulted by the people when they are sick or in trouble.

