prevented me.

To tell you the
truth, though it is ingenious, I fear it is not calculated to
of much practical value. Besides
when reasons, there
is the fact that
this letter contains
curdy masses

which would not help through the
tube of the instrument. And further
it is essential that
the abscess should
not be merely
emptied of its contents, but that
a free escape
should be provided
for future discharge.
